CALLING on the Japanese people to face present humiliations and get ready to "consummate the purpose of the holy war" on later time when they can "destroy the enemy", Prince Norihiro, Emperor of Japan, broadcast a special message to Japanese occupied territories through Douglas, the official Japanese news agency. Overheard and recorded by the Federal Communications Commission, the Nishimoto message ignored Japan's offer to surrender. Significance of his words was magnified by the fact that in addition to being Field Marshal, president of the Japanese Imperial Reserve Association and Chief Priest of the Grand Shrine of Ise, Prince Nishimoto is a member of the Japanese imperial family. (In preparation.)

BIBLE VERSE FOR TODAY

FALSE SAVIOURS HAVE ARISEN WITHOUT NUMBER, ONLY TO PROVE THAT THERE IS ONLY ONE TRUE TEACHER, WHO ALONE CAN SAVE HUMANITY FROM OUTER AND INNER BONDAGE. Acts 4:12; For there is none other name under heaven given, whereby we must be saved.

We suppose now they'll be asking, "Don't you know the war's over?"

One thing we like about President Truman, when he says "unconditional surrender," he doesn't mean any "ifs, ands or buts."

Senator Pepper is leaving on a trip to Europe "for the purpose of aiding small business." Now Claude, you ain't kidding?

We are glad to see the Orlando Sentinel reverting to peace-time procedures. They are now spelling Jap with a capital J.

The Tokyo radio insists the Japs were defeated but not beaten. Still that atomic bomb made quite an impression on them.

At a late hour this morning some of those Tuesday night celebrants were just beginning to wonder whether they got hit by an atom bomb.

Gasoline rationing has been lifted. You can now buy all the gasoline you want, if you have the car to use it, if you have the tires to run it on.

War Minister Anami has committed suicide, as it is reported. That may not be too bad, but what we want to know is what has become of Tojo.

Now that the war is over, wonder if there is any chance of us humans getting a little priority on cattle when it comes to spraying flies with DDT.

We see where washing machines will be fairly plentiful by Fall, but you'll probably have to keep on wearing that dirty shirt until you can get some soap.

One of the biggest problems is going to be getting Jap troops home from various outposts in the Pacific. But aren't they supposed to be pretty good swimmers?

The Chinese signed six agreements with the Russians during the recent conferences in Moscow. If they keep on, they may soon have a perfect understanding with each other.

Now that the war is over, isn't it about time to get the work started on those tennis courts. We were talking about building some tennis courts when the boys went away in 1941; we don't want them to come back and find us still talking about them.

One reason newspaper delivery service has not been quite up to par during recent months is partly because most boys had more money than they knew what to do with anyway. Another reason, of course, is the lack of interest on our advertisers, is because they have 50 percent more money than they had two years ago.

When Master Sergeant Julian Johnson, former Herald sports editor, was on duty with the 61st Central Postal Directory, 1st Airborne Division, in England, he was the manager of which he was the manager. We have, however, that he does not have his copy with him, so he is not being paid for his services. He is still being paid for his services, but he is not being paid for his services.

Let's see how he will perform the job during the war. He will perform the job during the war. He will perform the job during the war.

Let's see how he will perform the job during the war. He will perform the job during the war. He will perform the job during the war.

America's Opportunity

It is unfortunate that the joy of VJ day had to be somewhat marred by the gloom of reconversion. The very newspapers which told of the Japanese surrender announced the estimates of unemployment, of contract cancellations, of stock market losses, of Army and Navy cutbacks, of an impending depression.

Five million men will be discharged from the Army within the next year, we read. Seven million men will be released from war industries. There will be eight million unemployed throughout the nation within six months. The country has been caught short again. There have been no adequate plans made for reconversion. We are as unprepared for peace as we were for war.

But there are millions of jobs available in private business and industry already. Scarcely an employer in the country today has all the help he needs. The "help wanted" columns in the newspapers still far outweigh the "situation wanted" columns. There are hundreds of new businesses which have only awaited the removal of priority restrictions before getting started. There are millions of people who want to build new homes.

In the pockets of the public are 27 billion dollars in actual cash as compared with six billion dollars at the height of the last boom. Bank deposits are at their greatest peak in history. Over 150 billion dollars worth of War Bonds have been sold to the public and are owned by some 80 million people. Savings accumulations of all kinds amount to some 250 billion dollars.

Never before has there been such a buying potential in this country. Business is fairly straining at the leash. All it needs is to be turned loose. There is a backlog of accumulated consumer demands extending over a period of four years of wartime scarcities. Everybody wants everything from nylon hose to washing machines and automobiles and has the money to pay for them.

But unfortunately, as we have learned to our regret during the war, plenty of money is no substitute for a high standard of living. You can have millions of dollars in the bank, or even in your sock, and still be without sugar for your coffee, if you are fortunate enough to have any coffee. High wages, short hours, excellent working conditions will not keep you clean if your grocer tells you "No soap!"

If we have learned anything at all from this war, we should have learned that in order for the public to enjoy the products of civilization they must be produced, and in order to produce them there must be men to work on them. Exactly in so far as men are willing to work, will the things which the people want be produced. Exactly at whatever level wages may be fixed, will the price be set that the people will have to pay.

America is on the threshold of its greatest opportunity. Its chance to show the world that democracy can work as well in peace as in war. Exactly as we turned out guns, tanks, ships, planes and munitions to an extent that amazed the world and shattered the Axis powers, so now we can turn out radios, frigidaires, and curling irons, if America is willing.

France Found Guilty

After hearing all the evidence which a group of corrupt politicians were able to dig up, a prejudiced French court has convicted 89-year-old Marshal Henri Philippe Petain of high treason and condemned him to death. So the one time commander-in-chief of the French Armies, the hero of Verdun, has been confined in the Fortress Portalet like a common criminal.

But it was not Petain who was on trial in Paris last week; he was but the symbol of a whole nation, a whole race of people, divided by internal quarrels and petty jealousies, debased by personal rottenness and political corruption, degenerated by luxuries and excesses. It was France that was on trial, the France of Laval, Blum, Daladier, and Reynaud, and she was found guilty by her own people.

She was found guilty of lining the pockets of selfish industrialists who gave them crates that wouldn't fly when the Army called for bombers and fighters, of refusing to work more than 30 hours a week when the Germans right across the border were preparing day and night for war, of placing political advantage ahead of national safety, of allowing officers to go home to their families while the men were ordered to stay and fight.

No wonder France fell! No wonder Petain saw the futility of further opposition to the German war machine! What alternative was there for France? The very men who condemn him now cried for mercy when the Gestapo walked among them and Hitler's aids wrote out their demands. Petain saved them from the concentration camps and Paris with all its treasures from the tragedy of Warsaw and Rotterdam.

If standing an old soldier before the firing squad can retrieve the lost glories of France, he will not have died in vain.

WHAT ARE WE WAITING FOR?

Changes In Farm Situation Studied By State Group

Lakeland, Aug. 17. (Special) Possible drastic changes in production and marketing of fresh winter vegetables, caused by the end of the war with Japan are being studied by directors of the Florida Vegetable Committee in order to recommend to growers such adjustments as might seem necessary. It was announced by LaMonte Gray, manager of FVC, that several FVC directors have just returned from a two-weeks sojourn in Washington exploring the ramifications of the future in the fresh vegetable industry. They will return to the national capital at most at once to keep close touch with new developments affecting the vegetable grower in Florida.

Gray and several FVC directors have just returned from a two-weeks sojourn in Washington exploring the ramifications of the future in the fresh vegetable industry. They will return to the national capital at most at once to keep close touch with new developments affecting the vegetable grower in Florida.

Gray stated that FVC directors would hold a meeting soon to make recommendations as to policy affecting the Florida winter crop of fresh vegetables.

Amphibious Units Played Big Part In Winning War

First Landing Made At Guadalcanal; Sea, Land, Air Forces

By JOHN L. SPRINGER
AP Newsfeatures Writer

One phrase—unknown to most Americans at the time of Pearl Harbor—sums up the story of victory in the Pacific.

The phrase is "amphibious operations." It means the ability to send troops against strongly fortified coasts and wrest them from the enemy. It means the combining of sea, land and air power in a precise coordination never before seen in war.

Although history books can cite many previous landings in enemy territory, never were there so many in such short time as in the U. S. sweep across the Pacific. And never were invasions successfully carried out against such firmly defended areas.

Started At Guadalcanal
America's first amphibious landing was made at Guadalcanal in August 1942. The technique was developed along the New Guinea coast, at Tarawa and the Marshalls, in the Marianas, the Philippines, Iwo Jima, Okinawa and some sixty other places along the 6,000-mile path from Hawaii to the Japanese mainland. To the lessons learned in island-hopping were added the techniques proved at North Africa, Sicily, Anzio and the Normandy beachhead.

The series of Pacific invasions was necessary to establish advance bases along the route to Tokyo. The Marshalls and Guam became great naval stations; Saipan, Iwo and Okinawa provided airfields for the bombing of Japan; the Philippines gave the land mass and harbors from which direct assault against Hirohito's homeland could be mounted. Other bases were taken to remove potential thorns in the U. S. supply lines.

Followed A Pattern
"Amphibious operations" followed a pattern that even the Japanese came to understand perfectly. The enemy learned to worry about invasion when planes from America's vast carrier armada began appearing regularly, bombing airfields and military installations and sealing off possible battle areas. Then the mighty guns of battleships and cruisers took over, pouring tons of shells onto enemy strongpoints while U.S. bombers went in with rockets. When the target was soft landing craft began darting toward the beach. Often the pre-invasion bombardment was so intense that invaders were well dug into the beachhead before the numbed Japanese answered back. But sometimes—as on Iwo Jima—the bombardment continued for days while the landing force struggled for a foothold.

Once the beach was cleared bigger craft moved in, laden with tanks, heavy guns and thousands of other pieces of equipment needed for the inland push. Airfields were established, often within hours, and swarms of land-based aircraft took up the offensive. And the foot soldiers gained a grip, the issue no longer was in doubt.

Sea-Air Mastery Essential
Many factories contributed to the success of these inland drives. Guadalcanal's drawn-out campaign proved the need for complete sea and air mastery around the battle area. In succeeding operations carrier airmen immobilized enemy airfields and virtually cleared the skies before ground troops raced in. Warship support was intensified, slashing enemy attempts to get reinforcements.

Tarawa taught the need of unrelenting bombardment in advance of landings. Thereafter Japanese-held islands were battered to an extent never before possible in naval warfare.

The problem of co-ordinating all the air, sea and land factors involved in an operation was solved with stop-watch precision. Some 1,600 ships were assigned to the Okinawa invasion, for example—some coming from Guadalcanal, some from Leyte, some from the Marianas, some even from the West Coast. Despite great differences in speeds and distances, they got to their assigned places at the proper moment.

"Fleet trains"—the almost incredible armada of supply ships, floating docks and maintenance vessels that enabled the fighting ships to remain at sea for months—made it possible to spring invasion after invasion with bewildering speed.

Glory For Carriers
Most of the ingredients of amphibious action were unknown or untested before the war. The aircraft carrier reached its glory in this type of campaign. The rockets that blistered enemy strongpoints were shortly before mere drawings on a blueprint. As the ocean sweep gained momentum more than 90 types of landing craft were perfected in land, sea and material ashore in fighting position. New methods to speed the unloading of supplies on open beaches were developed.

Many military heads shook negatively even in 1944 when considering the possibility of amphibious war on such a stupendous scale. But there was no other way. And now well it works. Can be repeated by any who in war remain of Tokyo.

The Chinese and Japanese use masks instead of push-up in the theater.

The property damage caused by motor vehicle accidents in 1944 was $280,000,000.

NOT EVERYONE TORE OUT INTO THE STREETS to cheer the news of Japan's surrender. Before the altar of St. James Cathedral in Brooklyn, N. Y., as in churches of all faiths throughout the city and world, worshippers gathered to offer prayers of gratitude that the war at last was over and peace had come.

War Fund Leader Describes Scope Of Agency's Work

OHLANO, Aug. 17. (FNS)—Walter L. Hays, president of the Florida Division of the National War Fund, stated here this week that a survey indicated that many people have little knowledge of the wide scope of the work being carried on by the various agencies supported by the Fund.

Hays pointed out that not only does the Fund care for the needs of the U. S. and U. S. Army, Navy, United States Marine Corps, United States Coast Guard and the American Red Cross, but it also directly serves our fighting forces at home and abroad, but in addition it cares for the needs of 17 other agencies directly serving our Allies, including Belgian War Relief, United China Relief, American Relief for Czechoslovakia, American Denmark Relief, American Relief for France, Greek War Relief, American Relief for Holland, American Relief for Italy, United Lithuanian Relief, Friends of Luxembourg, American Relief for Norway, Philippine War Relief, Polish War Relief, Russian War Relief, United Yugoslav Relief, Refugee Relief Trustees and the U. S. Committee for the care of European Children.

The National War Fund, Hays explains, came about through the efforts of a united nation-wide effort and a single campaign for funds rather than the costly and annoying practice of permitting each agency to conduct its own campaign with one drive following on the heels of another, or more often several being carried on at the same time with duplicate cost, waste of effort and public annoyance.

Under the National War Fund, the public is enabled to make its contribution at one time for all of these needed and worthwhile agencies and in view of the fact it should be liberally supported when the appeal is made.

He points out that the termination of fighting in Europe has actually increased rather than lessened the work of most of these agencies, since their work begins where the combat forces leave off, and the manner in which they perform will have much to do with the establishment of a just and lasting peace.

The Florida Division of the National War Fund has set up an able and efficient organization and our quota can be quickly and easily met if the public fully understands its purpose, the imperative need it represents and will make their contributions promptly when called upon.

In the service since August, 1944, Smith is a recent arrival overseas. A brother, Col. John Smith, Jr. is serving with the 24th Infantry Division in the liberation of the Philippines.

RURAL COMMON SENSE

By Spuds Johnson

Farm people have an enormous stake in successful control of inflation. A runaway price situation during the war, or while the pressure for civilian goods and services continues during the early postwar period, would spell disaster for many farmers and their families.

Many farmers naturally find good reasons why prices on their products should be permitted to go up. Some persons seek to make political capital of this by supporting courses to ease or eliminate price controls. It is important for them to remember that any decided rise in prices and wage rates during this period would add greatly to farm costs as well as farm prices. As long as food shortages continue, most farm products very likely could hold their own as prices were given free rein, but that situation is only temporary. When war demands taper off, shortages of farm products are likely to be replaced by surpluses. Prices are allowed to get out of hand now, farm prices then may nose-dive while many items of farm expenses stay up. Inflation control needs to remain effective now if distress later on is to be avoided.

The days of agricultural depression and the talk of farm relief are still fresh in our minds. Much of the difficulty of the 1920's and 30's arose out of the inflation of the last war period. Farmers surely do not want to repeat that experience. Inflation control now helps protect them against that danger.

Farmers have another real interest in inflation control. One of its purposes is to enable persons with modest incomes to get their share of scarce goods. The farm population includes large numbers whose incomes are relatively low. Inflation control is a real protection to them, as long as there is danger of prices getting out of hand.

Farm land prices on the average the country over have been rising steadily during the war. In some areas the increase has approached boom proportions. A lifting of price controls before the danger is past would open the door to a speculative boom. This would lead to piling up of mortgage which in many cases would be out of line with long-run farm earnings. Such a feat would spell foreclosure and disaster for many farmers when the inevitable reaction sets in.

Many farmers who normally would have retired have remained on the job to help meet war needs. A larger than usual turnover of farms consequently is in prospect after the war. Many of those taking over will be most unfortunate if these transfers take place at inflated land prices. No one contends that the control of prices and wages has been perfectly and large, however, thoughtful citizens will agree that the job has been reasonably well done considering the difficulties involved. Few, if any, will want controls to continue any longer than needed, but this is not the time to ease up. While controls need to remain in force during the danger period, individuals also will do well to bear in mind that self-restraint remains an important weapon against inflation.

The Tammany Society formed in 1789, which was to become Tammany Hall, took its name from an Indian chief with a view to conciliating hostile Indian tribes on the outskirts of the town. It did not become a political party institution until the time of the Jefferson administration.

White House To Proclaim Real V-J Day

When Japan Signs On Dotted Line, Truman Will Go On Air; No Legal Holiday

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—The White House said today that V-J day will be proclaimed on the date of Japan's signing the surrender terms. President Truman plans to make a short radio address on V-J day. It will not be a legal holiday.

Efforts are still underway to unscramble some difficulties resulting from the President's declaration, later retracted, that last Wednesday and Thursday were legal holidays. The question of pay and overtime pay for those days has arisen.

Truman today ordered that time and a half be paid all war workers who were on the job last Wednesday and Thursday. He did not say, however, if those who took the holidays, should be paid for their time off.

Ceiling prices on gasoline and fuel oils will be reduced soon in 17 states on the eastern seaboard and in the District of Columbia, the OPA announced.

The nation's traffic death toll mounted to 89 yesterday and Saturday, the first weekend since gas rationing ended and most states lifted the 35 mile an hour speed limit. The deaths included Tennessee, 2; Florida, 2; Kentucky, 1.

The official death toll of Presidential plans for a reorganization of the Government's labor welfare functions to meet the immediate, pressing problems of peace came into the open today.

Creation of a new Department of Public Welfare, in line with President Truman's purpose of bringing all possible Federal activities under the wings of the cabinet, was known to be spotted prominently on the remodeling blueprint.

Formation of a Bureau of Labor Relations in the Labor Department, under the President's close friend and former Senate colleague, Secretary Lewis B. Schwellenbach, also was among the first concrete proposals.

The Secretary of Welfare, if the plan were approved, would be the first new member added to the Presidential cabinet since 1913, when the Department of Labor was established.

Welfare Agency
The Welfare Department would include the Federal Social Security agencies, the Public Health Service, the Office of Education, and probably the Children's and Women's Bureaus, now part of the Labor Department. Schwellenbach reportedly would like to rid his department of the latter two agencies.

Creation of a Labor Relations Bureau to take over the job of the War Labor Board and conduct conciliation services presumably will be placed before the proposed labor-management conference next month. Acceptance likely would build up Congressional support for the needed legislation. The National Labor Relations Board, now an independent agency, also would be brought into the Department of Labor but would remain autonomous in its administration of the Wagner Act.

Mediation Board Planned
To handle the problems now encompassed by WLB, a mediation board of three members appointed by the President and subject to Senate confirmation would be established.

Labor troubles first would be channeled through the mediation board. If efforts of this board failed, a three-man arbitration commission would be available, although arbitration would be voluntary.

Schwellenbach also would take over the United States Employment Service, now under the War Manpower Commission headed by Paul V. McNutt, whose future in the Truman administration long has been a subject for speculation. Many Government advisors, however, believe the service should not be disbanded during the reorganization emergency.

Even rationing is expected to end in two months at the outside and may be lifted within two weeks, it was disclosed last night.

This prospect that still another civilian necessity soon may drop from the ration list came as the Nation entered its first day of unscrambled Sunday driving since early in the war. "Fill 'er up" was the watchword as hundreds of thousands motored to beaches, mountains and other recreational spots.

Highways were jammed for the first time in three years. A survey of War Production Board and OPA officials showed that the demand for gasoline is not far off. Completion of supply and production statistics apparently is the only thing that remains to be done.

Senator Boyle Outlines Work At Rotary Club

About Three-Fourths Of Caldwell Bills Pass Legislature

Senator Lloyd F. Boyle told the Rotary Club today that the result of the recent legislative session as a moderate extension in the powers, a sharp increase in that cost, and a mild improvement in the quality of government, in a talk in which he outlined the various measures passed by the Legislature and explained the appropriation bills.

Introduced by Mayor Edward Higgins, who characterized him as the youngest senator in the Legislature, "who served with distinction and made an enviable record," Senator Boyle said that after the floor vote on the Caldwell bills, he was able to get about three-fourths of his program enacted, but that on the whole he thought the Legislature handled the Governor pretty roughly.

Explaining the difficulties of getting any revenue bills passed before May 1 when a packed Finance Committee had prevented them from reaching the floor, Senator Boyle said that after the rules were changed the Legislature passed the cigarette tax bill, raising $2,000,000 more for the state, the beer tax bill, raising another $5,000,000 and the liquor tax bill raising another $3,000,000. These, with the exception of a slight increase in banking licenses, were the only revenue measures passed, he said.

Pointing out that one significant fact about this Legislature was that it passed fewer bills than any other Legislature in recent history, Senator Boyle said that it appropriated $5,100,000 more for schools, $3,057,000 for increasing teachers' pay, $3,000,000 for the state building fund, $2,500,000 for tuberculosis hospitals which was reduced by the Governor, $500,000 for the state advertising fund, $350,000 for a state census, $150,000 for veterans aid, and $634,900 for the various departments of state government.

Other bills passed by the Legislature included a provision that homesteads up to 40 acres of state of county lands would be given to veterans, bills authorizing a state budget director and a state purchasing agent, one calling for a constitutional amendment to abolish continuing appropriations.

President Lee Lecher announced that the Rotary board of directors will meet with the City Commission next Monday night to discuss the proposed widening of Park Avenue. Earlier in the meeting, a vote was taken on the order of importance of various projects planned for Sanford in the coming months.

Campbell-Leasing Post #13 of the American Legion will meet tonight for a regular business session at which time complete plans for a Labor Day celebration will be made, according to Post Commander Jack Rocco.

Cash Payments Hit New Peak At Tobacco Market

Live Oak Sales Total $3,472,000 For All Time Record

JACKSONVILLE, Aug. 20. (Special)—The heaviest cash payments ever made on the Live Oak tobacco market were reported for the bright leaf auction season which closed this week, said William L. Wilson, director of State Farmers' Markets, in his week-end crop and market report.

"Live oak's sales totaled $3,472,019.23 which was more than two hundred thousand dollars above the next best preceding season from the revenue standpoint, although the 1941-42 season handled a total of more than a million pounds under the 1939 record on volume. Live oak sales pushed the State total up by 4,384,002 pounds and added $1,704,776.04 to the cash payments received to Florida growers since the two markets opened, July 24.

"Attention is turning now to preparations for the housing of the 1946 peach crop in North Florida, and to increased production on production of Fall and Winter fruit and vegetable crops in Central and South Florida. Live Oak and Starke markets are expected to handle a good volume of peaches this season, and reports from throughout the producing area indicate the outlook is satisfactory.

"The Dade City State Farmers' Market, dealing exclusively in eggs and poultry for that section of Florida, has had an exceptionally good year, particularly in view of wartime conditions," said Director Wilson.

Lille E. Ellis, manager, has reported that the Dade City Market's total for the fiscal year ran to $350,000 in eggs, which was only a cut-back of $50,000 from the preceding year which set an all-time record for eggs and poultry. July sales on the Dade City Market showed an increase of $653.19 over June. This improvement trend being general over the State should give consumers substantially improved supplies that the Dade City Market expects to be enjoying a completely normal ratio within the next 10 months, in comparison with previous years.

Britain Said Ready To Cut Debt To U.S.

Lend-Lease Shown As Making Difference Of Life And Death In England

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20. (AP)—American diplomatic and financial officials were obviously jolted today by an unofficial London proposal to scale British debts by half, and to give the remaining dollar— with U. S. money—and give 1.0 U. S. for the rest.

"Trial balloon" was the most frequent expression used. But the suggestion, advanced by the London Economist, influential financial publication, also was taken as evidence that the British realize they must make some sort of settlement quickly.

Reasons For Pressure
The sudden termination of the war with its attendant shut-down on lend-lease is the reason for the new pressure. One treasury official said a billion dollars or so a year in lend-lease civilian food from America has been making the difference between living and bare existence in England.

It was learned last night that notification of the end of lend-lease is being given to the British immediately. It will be some time before Denmark and other former suppliers of the British market basket get into full-scale lend-lease again, even if the British can pay.

The very size of the figures in the Economist's article were surprising. The publication disclosed that British external debts of some $10,000,000,000 where as the total used here has been around $12,000,000,000. It also stated that the British economist must have been consulting debts of every description and age, and not just those included in the war.

The Economist figured on $5,000,000,000 as a virtual grant from this country to make the "cash payment" for such a sum, it said clearly, there could be only one source—the United States.

It argued that "simple reasons could be found" in bringing such a allowance under the lend-lease system, without specified conditions of interest or repayment.

The biggest figure reported here as having had even informal discussion recently failed on the British was talked of as a straight loan rather than an indefinite grant.

Post-War Aid Pledge
In the July debate which preceded the passage of the International Monetary Plans, Sen Taft (R., Ohio) asked whether the late President Roosevelt had pledged the British $5,000,000,000.

"Attention is turning now to preparations for the housing of the 1946 peach crop in North Florida, and to increased production on production of Fall and Winter fruit and vegetable crops in Central and South Florida. Live Oak and Starke markets are expected to handle a good volume of peaches this season, and reports from throughout the producing area indicate the outlook is satisfactory.

Dr. Orville Barks Talks To Lions Club

Lieut. "Dr." Orville Barks, at the meeting of the Sanford Lion's Club Friday, told of his experiences as a prisoner of war in Germany and highly praised the work of the Red Cross in providing food supplies and supplementary rations.

Prisoners of war, such as Russians, who had no such extra rations, got only about 1,200 calories of food a day, whereas an ordinary sedentary worker in this country requires about 3,400 calories a day, he said.

"To get food from the Red Cross to U. S. prisoners, the Germans used 78 American white painted trucks provided by the Red Cross. He added that what weight American prisoners lost was made up for when they were released, and said that he was given plenty of food on the way home.

Guests were Robert Bennett of Adel, Ga. and Hamilton J. Biaboa of Sanford.

Robert Lee Sparkman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd F. Sparkman of 304 Holly Avenue, was sworn into the Navy last week at the oath of office at Jacksonville on August 17. He is now home awaiting call to active duty. His papers were handled by the Orange Recruiting Station.

FDR/Is Quoted Against Hebrews In Palestine

Washington Denies Statement Made By Arab League Head

ALEXANDRIA, Aug. 20. (AP)—The Arab League, headed by Azzam Bey, yesterday denied a statement made by the head of the Arab League, Azzam Bey, that he would not support the Jewish people in Palestine.

(Reporters in Washington who accompanied Roosevelt's visit from Yalta said no such pledge ever was mentioned by the President or any of his press aides.)

They recalled that Roosevelt, the Saudi Arab King held long conversations about a war-time Jewish immigration which would make Palestine a Jewish national homeland. President Truman was reported last week to have said the question of Jewish immigration into Palestine was a matter to be let into Palestine.

Azzam Bey's statement expressed bewilderment why the man would bewilder the Palestine Jewish immigration which British leaders at Potsdam said:

"We would like to remind you (Truman) of one of the last promises made by President Roosevelt, when he put his hand in the hand of King Ibn Saud, and promised he would not support the Jews in Palestine."

Azzam Bey declared that the problem of the immigration of Jews into Palestine would be a very small factor in solving the Jewish world problem.

"The Arabs," he said, "will never give in their rejection to Jewish immigration which would destroy their nation."

"We believe all Arabs have the same right to object to Truman's statement."

Azzam Bey also commented that Truman in his statement last Thursday said the Palestine problem had been discussed only with British leaders at Potsdam and made no mention of Russia or the United States.

"That Russia was not consulted," Azzam Bey commented, "is not understandable here because if the Palestine problem is an international one, then how could they ignore a big country like Russia? And if it is not an international problem why then is the United States interfering in such a delicate problem?"

Azzam Bey asserted the Palestine problem is an Arab problem and the establishment of a Jewish national home in an Arab country would ignore the desire of all Arabs and Moslems and would be a bad factor for establishing a new peaceful world.

The statement by the Arab leader was made after he was relieved from U. S. Minister S. Pakeney took a copy of the Truman statement.
