Little Parable
For Mothers

BY TEMPLE BAILEY

The young mother set her foot on the path of life. Is the way long? And the Guide said: "Yes and the way is hard. And you will be old before you reach the end of it. But the end will be better than the beginning."

But the young mother was happy, and she could not believe that anything could be better than these years. So she played with her children and gathered flowers along the way for them, and bathed with them in the clear streams; and the sun shone on them, and life was good, and the young mother cried, "Nothing will ever be lovelier than this."

Then night came, and storm, and covered them with her manly children shook with fear and cold, and the Mother drew them close and covered them with her mantle, and the children said, "O Mother, we are not afraid for you are near, and no harm can come." And the Mother said, "This is better than the brightness of the day for I have taught my children courage."

And the morning came and there was a hill ahead, and the children climbed and drew weary, and the Mother was weary, but at all times she said to the children, "A little patience and we are there." So the children climbed and when they reached the top, they said, "We could not have done it without you, Mother." And the Mother when she lay down that night, looked up at the stars and said, "This is the better day than the first, for my children have learned fortitude in the face of hardship. Yesterday I gave them courage. Today I gave them strength."

And the next day came strange clouds which darkened the earth, clouds of war and hate and evil and the children groped and stumbled, and the Mother said, "Look up, lift your eyes to the light." And the children looked and saw above the clouds an Everlasting Glory, and it guided them and brought them beyond the darkness. And that night the Mother said, "This is the best day of all, for I have shown my children GOD."

And the days went on, and the weeks and the months, and the years and the Mother grew old, and she was little and bent. But her children were tall and strong, and walked with courage. And when the way was hard they helped their Mother; and when the way was rough they lifted her, for she was light as a feather, and at last they came to a hill, and beyond the hill they could see a shining road and golden gates flung wide.

And the Mother said, "I have reached the end of my journey. And now I know that the end is better than the beginning, for my children can walk alone, and their children after them." And the children said, "You will always walk with us, Mother, even when you have gone through the gates." And they stood and watched her as she went on alone, and the gates closed after her. And they said, "We can't see her, but she is with us still. A Mother like ours is more than a memory. She is a Living Presence."

New Tennis Rules

The least touched rules for playing a game must be those relating to scoring. It is inconceivable that the baseball scoring system will ever be altered. The relative values of touchdowns, and field goals in football have been readjusted from time to time, but no move for a change has been made for years.

This conservatism makes all the more remarkable the innovation in tennis scoring introduced recently by Jack March, promoter of professional matches.

Traditionally, as all followers of the game know, the first point made counts 15, the second brings the total up to 30, and the third to 40. The fourth ends the game, provided the loser is at least two points behind. There are also minor modifications, and some special terminology, as "love" for a blank score.

In a recent tennis tournament March took over the rules of table tennis, where a game is 21 points. The serve changes with every five points, and not as under the old system, with each game. Also each server has but one try for a point. The traditional arrangement gives him two, allowing him to experiment on the first try with a difficult serve that may or may not come off.

March attributes the increased attendance at his tournament to these scoring changes. This may be doubted. Addicts are familiar with the present system, and those not acquainted with the game do not find the scoring rules much of a barrier. It will be interesting to see if the innovation takes.

Suburbanites Kings Of Frontier

NEW YORK (AP) — The Davy Crockett of this generation are the suburbanites.

They are the kings of a new frontier—the housing developments springing up like maddest dandelions all over the American city.

These suburban settlers face more perils than ever confronted the original Davy Crockett. All he had to worry about were Indians, bears and hoboes. His trusty rifle proved to be useless enough to deal with them.

Your new suburbanite, on the other hand, is confronted by all kinds of open and hidden monstrosities—such as rising taxes, increasing consumer prices, speeding cars, crime, pollution, and that greatest danger of all, the fix-it yourself man.

Let me explain that last point further:

One of these modern-day Davy Crocketts, a friend whom we'll call Donald Halfacre, moved to the suburbs several years ago and ever since he has been asking me:

"Why don't you get wise, pull out of the city and buy a house out my way?"

"Frankly, I don't have the courage," I have told him. "Every suburbanite has its form of cowardice, and I'm a machine gun coward. Life is too risky in the suburbs."

"I don't get you," says Donald. "Well, everything I know who he knows a suburbanite buys a house that is either half-finished or begins to fall apart the day he moves in." I tell him: "He finds he can't afford to live in the place himself. He may not have driven a nail for 20 years, but immediately he becomes a carpenter, a plumber, a painter, an electrician and a

No Dukedom For Him

The days are long past when a title of nobility was the most prized British possession. Sir Winston Churchill refused a dukedom because acceptance would have excluded him from the House of Commons.

He is following precedent. William E. Gladstone, the foremost British 19th century statesman, declined an earldom when he withdrew from politics. He may well have remembered that William Pitt the elder, the champion of American rights before and during the Revolution, was known as "The Great Commoner" and lost much popularity when he became the Earl of Chatham.

A dukedom would have put Churchill into the House of Lords, a place for public men who want to take it easy. No one would ever accuse Churchill of being that.

Crime On Parole

Parole boards and systems of probation have too long been under fruitless attack. That there are frequent instances of parolees committing crimes, that "repeaters" have records of probation and parole almost as long as their records of offenses display a need for major overhauling in this department of law enforcement.

Parole and probation boards serve both society and the prison inmate. They must decide whether the prisoner's release will menace society or whether the offender stands a better chance of rehabilitation within a community.

This decision, never a simple one, is hampered by many restrictions. The parole and probation boards are rarely made up of specialists, but are usually composed of people with little or no knowledge of criminal psychology. Many boards are subject to partisan political control and all boards are subject to the economic fact that it costs the state a good deal more to jail a man than it does to free him.

Two surveys recently conducted in New Jersey find that these complexities are compounded by confusion. They reveal that there is little standardization even among counties in regard to the systems of probation used.

From both a practical and an administrative angle these boards face confusions and hazards that would be crippling to the average business man. Yet it is the average business man, his wife and family that face the results of these gross faults. The mounting crime figures might be decreased considerably if more attention were given to this too long neglected area of social protection.

JAMES MARLOW

Red China May Pull Fast Switch

WASHINGTON (AP)—What will the United States position be if Red China plays nice, maybe agrees to a cease-fire around Formosa, and then wants to get into the United Nations?

American opposition to U. N. membership for them might change. One stumbling block to Red China's admittance—although not necessarily the final one—would be removed if the veto power of the Security Council on new members was ended.

Henry Cabot Lodge, Jr., American ambassador to the U. N., this week suggested dropping the veto power on new members held by the Big Five powers on the Security Council—the United States, Russia, Britain, France, Nationalist China.

Under the present U. N. Charter, admittance of a new member hinges around what happens in the Security Council.

Seven of the 11 members—including all the Big Five—must vote yes. A veto by any of the Big Five can block a nation from membership.

Under Lodge's proposal, eliminating the veto, neither the United States nor Nationalist China could keep out Red China if any seven of the remaining Security Council members voted yes.

It's possible that, with removal of the veto, Red China still couldn't get seven votes that would let her in. Russia has proposed U. N. Membership for Red China several times, but there were never seven votes for admittance, making a veto unnecessary.

The veto to block membership for 14 other non-Communist nations. Lodge made it plain, in testimony to a Senate Foreign Relations subcommittee, that he was speaking as an individual and was not expressing the views of the Eisenhower administration.

Up to this time the State Department hasn't taken a position on changes in the charter. Its attitude seems to be now let's go carefully about this sort of thing. It may be waiting, before taking a stand, to find out what American public opinion is.

So, although Lodge said he was

Some Dietary Rules For Nursing Mothers

By MARGARET H. DUNN, M.D.

MANY mothers fail to nurse their babies because they believe they don't have enough milk.

In the vast majority of cases, this isn't true. Most of you new mothers can have enough milk to supply that lovable little tyke if you just follow a few simple rules.

Most important of all, you must have a desire to nurse your baby. Your diet, of course, is important, too. It should be appetizing, wholesome and nutritious.

It must include milk, butter, eggs, fruits, vegetables, meat and whole-grain cereals.

You can eat any ordinary food that agrees with you and doesn't upset your baby. Now don't overeat. Practice moderation. Liquids are also necessary. Drink about six glasses a day. Some mothers mistakenly believe that drinking beer will increase the amount of breast milk.

Take It Easy
The birth of your baby probably has left you in a weakened condition. So, take it easy.

If you're nervous, upset, over-tired or overworked, you may quickly lose your breast milk. Don't have too many visitors and don't begin your household chores or other activities until you are strong enough to do so. You'll probably have regained your strength by the time your baby is six weeks old.

You should be relieved of as much work as possible, especially during the first few weeks. Get your mother, mother-in-law, or somebody else you can trust in to help you. Get eight to ten hours sleep each night, a nap each day. You should also have plenty of fresh air and moderate exercise. I suggest you go out for short walks as quickly as your condition permits.

Insure Adequate Supply
To insure an adequate milk supply, you must empty your breasts at each feeding. During the early days of life many babies are not strong enough to empty them completely. Unless the breasts are emptied, you defeat nature's way of producing milk.

Thus, you may have to empty your breasts by hand. This is usually begun after they are no longer swollen or tender.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
Q. R. A.: I am 75 and seem to lose my balance frequently when I stand up after having been seated for a while. Is this a sign of something serious?

A. Answer: Staggering or loss of balance may be due to a number of conditions such as disturbance in the inner ear, or a nervous system disorder. Sometimes conditions affecting the blood may cause staggering. A careful study should be made by your doctor.

SANFORD MANAGER DAN KEITH

Keith Takes Lead In League Batting With .514 Record

Sanford's Dan Keith, not satisfied with his four departmental batting honors of last week, climbed over I. Rodriguez of Cocoa, to grab the batting lead of the Florida State League with an average of .514, comprised of 38 safeties in 74 times at bat.

Rodriguez slipped to a new low, 431 to place third this week behind runner-up "Red" Roberts of West Palm Beach who checks in with a neat .474 mark.

Keith repeated again this week as the runs scored top man with 35; base hit fore-runner of the league with 38; total base lead-man with 84; and finally, in into double figures in 2-base hits, showing a distinct advantage in that department, with 12.

Terry Terrell, another fine Sanford hitter, continues to head the pack in rbi's, and added 7 more the past week to rank first in that important column. Terrell has 24 rbi's. Cocoa's Chuck Greenhill, notched one more 4-ply swat to break away from a deadlock with I. Rodriguez to become sole possessor of that laurel with 5.

Four players are tied for the 3-base lead with 3 apiece. Orlando's Dave Drapp, this week is knotted at 7-all with D. Cook of Sanford for the stolen base high-mark, each having 7.

On the mound, Gaspar Del Monte of Cocoa continues to sparkle, this week adding 2 additional wins to his perfect record to now display a 5 and 0 mark for his efforts to date. According to How News Bureau figures, Smith of Daytona Beach has fanned the most batters, 59, while Howard Kaplan of Sanford has issued the most walks, 31.

A few highlights of the week: Terrell continues to hit in every game, and has run his hitting streak to 20 games. Teammate Keith shows a 12 game streak. Keith further distinguished himself by clouting 4 doubles in a single game vs. WFB on April 26. Perry "Red" Roberts, of WFB, belted 2 grand-slam homers in the space of 5 days vs. Cocoa and Gainesville.

Sanford Edges Gainesville; Lakeland Scalps Cocoa, 7-2

To look at the Cocoa Indians' six-game losing streak you wouldn't think that this was the team that won 10 of its first 11 in the Florida State League. Of the next dozen after those, Cocoa has taken only two. The Lakeland Pilots scalped the Indians 7-2 last night. Orlando's CBs, off to the same kind of winning start as Cocoa and still in first place, were slowed down when St. Petersburg used the big inning technique and beat them 14-8. The CBs were able to keep their three-game margin over second-place West Palm Beach when Daytona Beach nipped the Seminoles 3-2. Sanford gained an 11-10 decision over Gainesville in 10 innings.

Trailing 8-6 going into the ninth inning, St. Petersburg combined six hits and four walks off Leo Simand and Alex Gordy for eight runs and victory, disappointing an Orlando crowd of 805.

Less than 300 turned out at Lakeland to see the Pilots pile another defeat on Cocoa. Henrique Hernandez scattered eight hits and helped himself with a double and two singles. Tom Niehaus, the league's home run leader in 1933, hit his first of this year for Lakeland.

Daytona Beach pitcher Ivory Smith cut West Palm Beach off with four hits, three of them by Dave Cortright. Both the Seminoles' runs were unearned but the West Palm Beach crowd of 1,039 was treated to a comparatively fast game compared to the way they have been running this season. It took only 2 hours and 17 minutes.

A wild pitch by Norm Hughes gave Sanford victory over Gainesville after singles by Ron Schmitt and Terry Terrell sandwiched around a walk had loaded the bases in the 10th.

Mrs. H. A. Appleby Is Elected Officer At Orlando Meet

For many years Sanford has felt the need of a high-class, down-town restaurant where tasty home-cooking would be served in a cool, home-like atmosphere at moderate prices, has been the thought behind the leasing of the former Eddie's Restaurant by Mrs. Harold Appleby, who for some time has owned and personally managed the first Mrs. Appleby's restaurant in the Florida State Bank building.

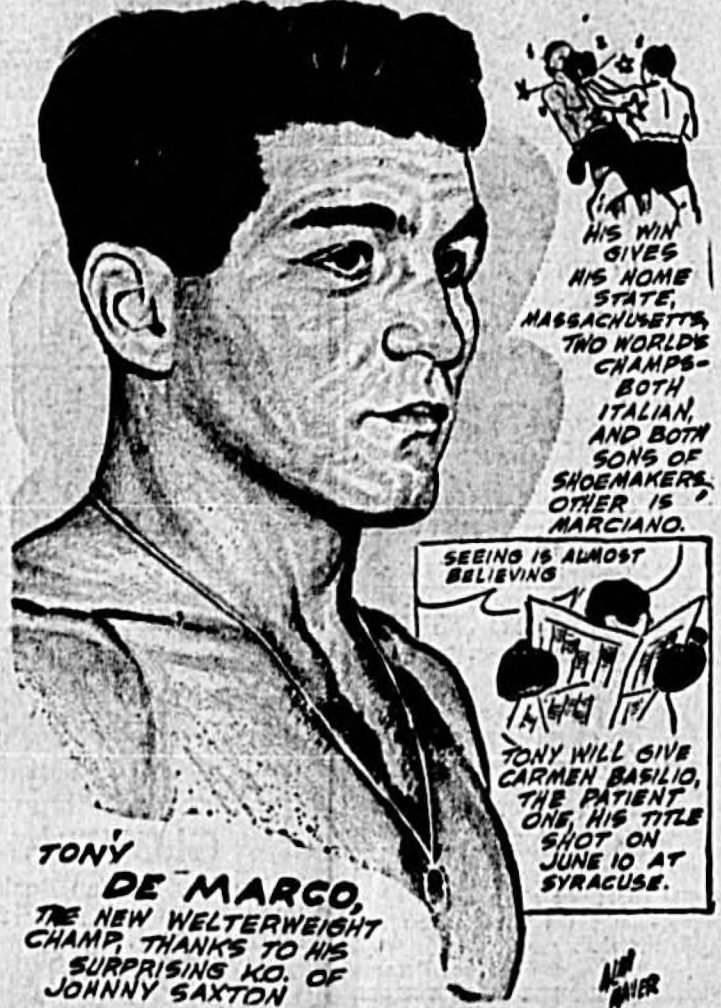

Suiting action to the thought, "Miss Lucille," as she is known to hundreds of her patrons whom she considers her personal guests, leased the well known eating establishment in the Valdes Hotel from Mrs. Eddie Langlois, and has undertaken a complete renovating of the premises. All new modern kitchen equipment has been installed, new chairs and stools and new drapes placed in the dining room and a complete air conditioning unit is to be installed during this week-end.

Mrs. Appleby, in honor of Mother's Day Sunday, is featuring a super-special menu during the day. Reservations may be made by phoning 2871 at the restaurant in the Valdes Hotel.

Kentucky Derby Slated Tomorrow

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP) — The first running of the $125,000-added Kentucky Derby tomorrow will go to the horse able to carry his speed over the mile and one-quarter of Churchill Downs' oval in close to 2 minutes and 2 seconds.

That was the consensus of the trainers of the hand-picked field of 3-year-old colts as the names of the horses were dropped into the entry box this morning. A field of 10 was expected for this richest of all derbies.

Although it'll be the smallest field since Citation beat five rivals in 1948, the value will gross $132,500, with the winner earning a net of $108,400 if as many as 10 parade to the post for the start at 4:30 p.m. Eastern Standard Time.

Radio and television descriptive of America's glamor race by CBS is scheduled from 4:15 to 4:45. Answers to the question of how

Proceed At Your Own Risk

By WOODSON T. ALLEN

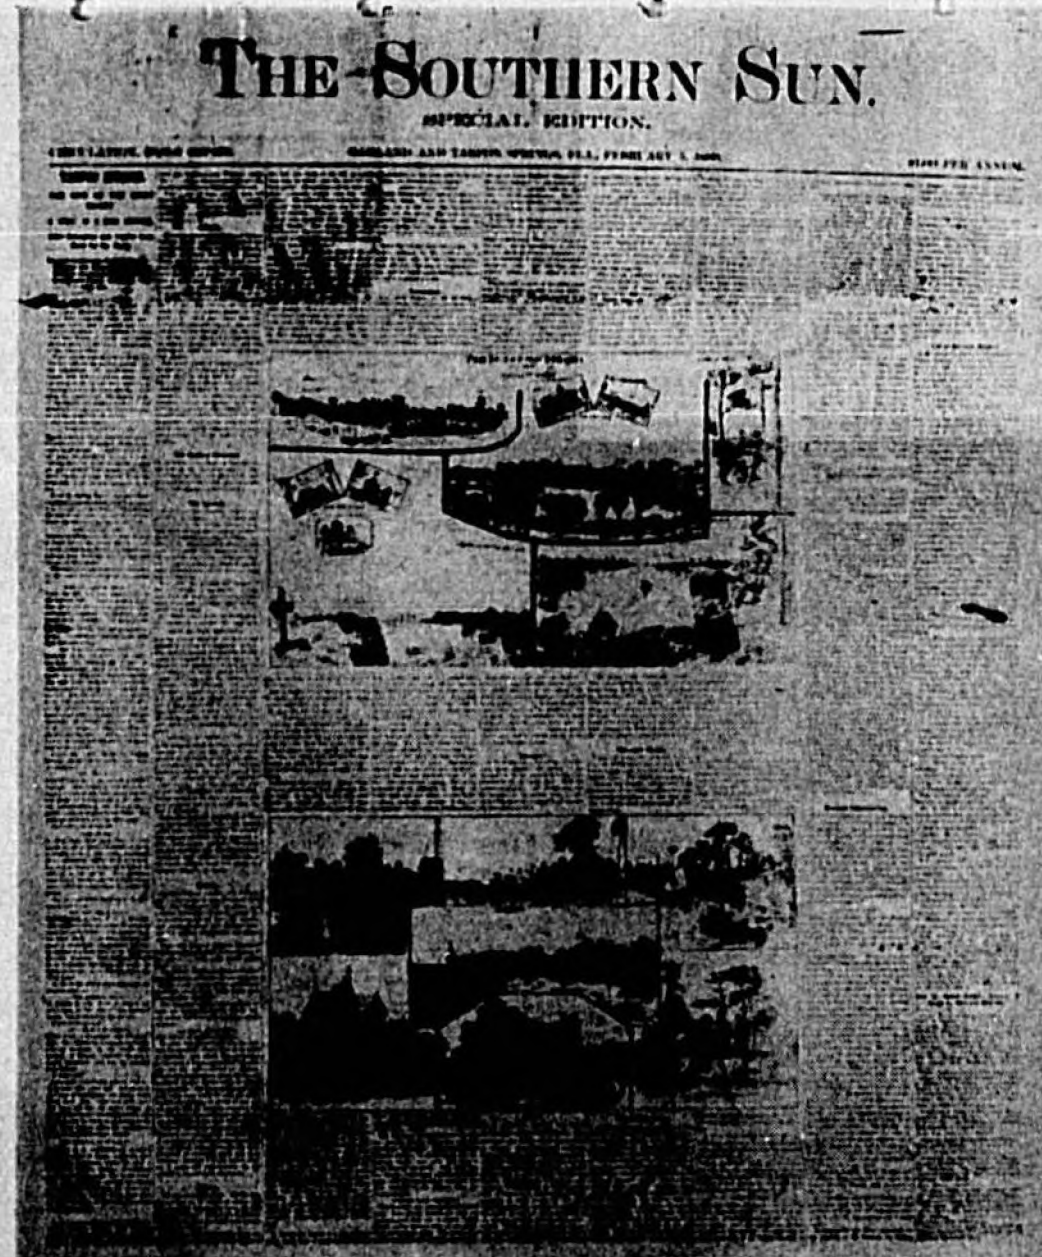

Do waitresses ignore you? Do you sit, in famished agony, while the later arrivals are served with heaping, steaming, platefuls of pot-roast and new potatoes? Then, when a furtive peek at the clock proves that your lunch-hour has all but passed away, do you tremulously plead for a glass of milk and a doughnut? YOU CAN PUT ALL OF THIS BEHIND YOU. You, too, can be a MAN OF FORCE. DON'T CAPITULATE. DON'T DOMINATE. DON'T COMPLY: COMMAND.

The secret of this new power? It's all explained in the booklet from the Foundation for Dynamic Living. These folks will send, without payment or obligation on my part, a sample first lesson of Principles of Positive Perception and Possessive Participation. And if the coupon is returned within 24 hours, they'll also send, free, a copy of "Mind, Matter, and Masuma" by Dr. L. Trombone Honeybucket, A. B. C., D. E. F., R. F. D. Priced at $6.00 in the Publisher's Edition, this is the work which has won such wide critical acclaim: "—unique in its field" (Detroit Plain Dealer); "—unique in ANY field" (Cleveland Free Press); "—quite boosting the competitors" (All Florida Magazine).

The principles have been proved in actual use, too. The announcement gives some testimonials, showing how others have brought the glow of success to their drab lives. Conley of Connecticut says, "After studying your free lesson, I got the wrong suitcase from a redcap. Boy, am I pleased!" Lewis of Louisiana reports, "When my wife's mother heard the news, she moved in. She loves to be dominated." George (D.) of Georgia, voted "aye." Willoughby of Ohio made $38.70 the first day he used the POSITIVE APPROACH in selling girdles; more than enough to replace the spectacles which he smashed in a scuffle.

I hope the lessons come before I have my next interview with the editor. The firm, dominant touch—

Do any of our readers remember the Southern Sun? The paper pictured above was published in 1888 and, according to the masthead, its source was both Oakland and Tarpon Springs. Our knowledge of Florida puts Oakland in Orange County at Lake Apopka, while Tarpon Springs is many miles removed in Pinellas County on Florida's west coast. Was there an Oakland near Tarpon Springs in the 1880's? This old newspaper was given All Florida Magazine by J. R. Testament, a Columbus, Ohio, visitor who found the newspaper but couldn't find Oakland.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

IT IS A GOOD STORY

"Now that the 'Steamboats in The Moonlight' story has been concluded I want to tell you how much I enjoyed every word of it. My only regret is that it has been concluded. Surely there are Floridians of all ages who have found something in the story which struck a familiar chord in their memory. And it has been enlightening to all who are interested in the early beginnings of our fine state.

Please give us more of this educational and entertaining type of material.

IRVING WATKINS,
Fort Myers.

YOU'D ENJOY THE BELLS

I read the article, "Belling Towers," by Blanche Evelyn McKnight in your Winter number of All Florida Magazine with a great deal of enjoyment. I hope I may at some time have an opportunity of hearing these wonderful bells at Bell Tower played by the world's greatest carillonist, Anton Brown.

Thank you for this detailed and exceptionally well written account of these bells which was, I am sure, of great interest to all Florida people as well as to those who visit our state.

WILLIAM DAVIS BURNETT,
Tulsa.

A JUSTLY DESERVED BOUGHT

"Wood Chalk College" (Apr. 17), is one of the most interesting stories I've read in a long time. It's wonderful what is being done to put back into their place of usefulness people who have been struck by illness which cut so long ago should have remained there forever.

Why should they be pitied? That should be reserved for those of us who find and while over party things that happen to us instead of having backbone enough to "count our blessings" and let it go at that.

More power to those who, forgetful of handicaps, plug ahead and make their mark in life — and to those instructors and others who do so much to make this possible.

I. C. CONN,
Gainesville.

APPRECIATION FOR "OLD SCOUT"

Now that's a story! I refer to "The Old Scout" (Apr. 24).

Many Floridians—and others—appreciate your bringing to mind the many interesting things connected with "Dad" McHenry's baseball career.

His name is really legendary in baseball and Florida is full of his admirers.

CARL VIAL,
Naples.

Looking Over

All Florida

Our recipe editor is happy. Since announcement that May 15 would see the start of All Florida's recipe contest, our readers have responded with enthusiasm. But, too, our recipe editor has her problems. Some of the recipes are not strictly All Florida. For example, one delightfully luscious sounding corned beef and cabbage recipe might be a borderline case. We grant that both beef and cabbage are Florida products—but so, too, are they the products of almost every other state. We'll have to let the recipe editor decide on that one, but keep them coming and win that $5 prize for the best each week, or pick up a dollar if your recipe is printed.

OUR COVER

The secret of baseball's tremendous popularity as a national pastime is depicted on this week's cover. Successful professional baseball leagues—from the Bush to the Majors—draw their players and fans from adults who first learned the game on the sandlots of every city and hamlet throughout the United States. And baseball arguments among fans and players alike, are outward evidence of the inner, avid interest in the game.

Photographer Trent Rogers posed two Gainesville players of the Dixie Little League for the cover shot. Actually, Catcher Howard Crown and "Umpire" Bobby Nelson (an infielder) are 12-year-old teammates of the North Central Baptist nine.

Why Not Have a SAFE Summer?

By MELVIN M. BALL

This summer, half of the people in the United States will seek their recreation in and on the water. Most likely you will be among the millions to swim at one of the many bathing beaches, out-of-door pools, surf beaches and the "ole" swimming holes throughout the country.

If you have no knowledge of water safety, your visit to your favorite swimming spot might possibly turn into tragedy. Annually, 7,000 people drown in the United States. The main reason for these drownings is that the majority of the swimmers were not water-wise. Those swimmers had no knowledge of water conditions and water hazards.

At the University of Florida, students in classes in lifesaving and waterfront leadership are given training in personal safety for themselves and fellow swimmers. These classes are voluntary. The students are among the thousands of people in the country learning everyday the importance of knowing how to swim, and the safety features of swimming.

You, too, can be among those who are waterwise, if you follow these simple water safety tips.

1. If you are a novice swimmer, try to confine your activities to an area in which you can quickly and easily reach safety if anything goes wrong. Do not try to over-estimate your ability in the water by swimming out too far.

2. Try not to swim alone, or in unknown waters.

3. If you are a non-swimmer, try to confine your bathing to shallow areas so there can be no possibility of being carried out to deep water.

4. Limit your swimming to areas that are under constant and alert supervision.

5. The safest hours to swim are the last two hours of the morning and the last two hours in the afternoon. The main reason for this is that by this time your morning and noon meals are fully digested.

7. Most important, if you plan to go into or on the water, try to learn how to swim.

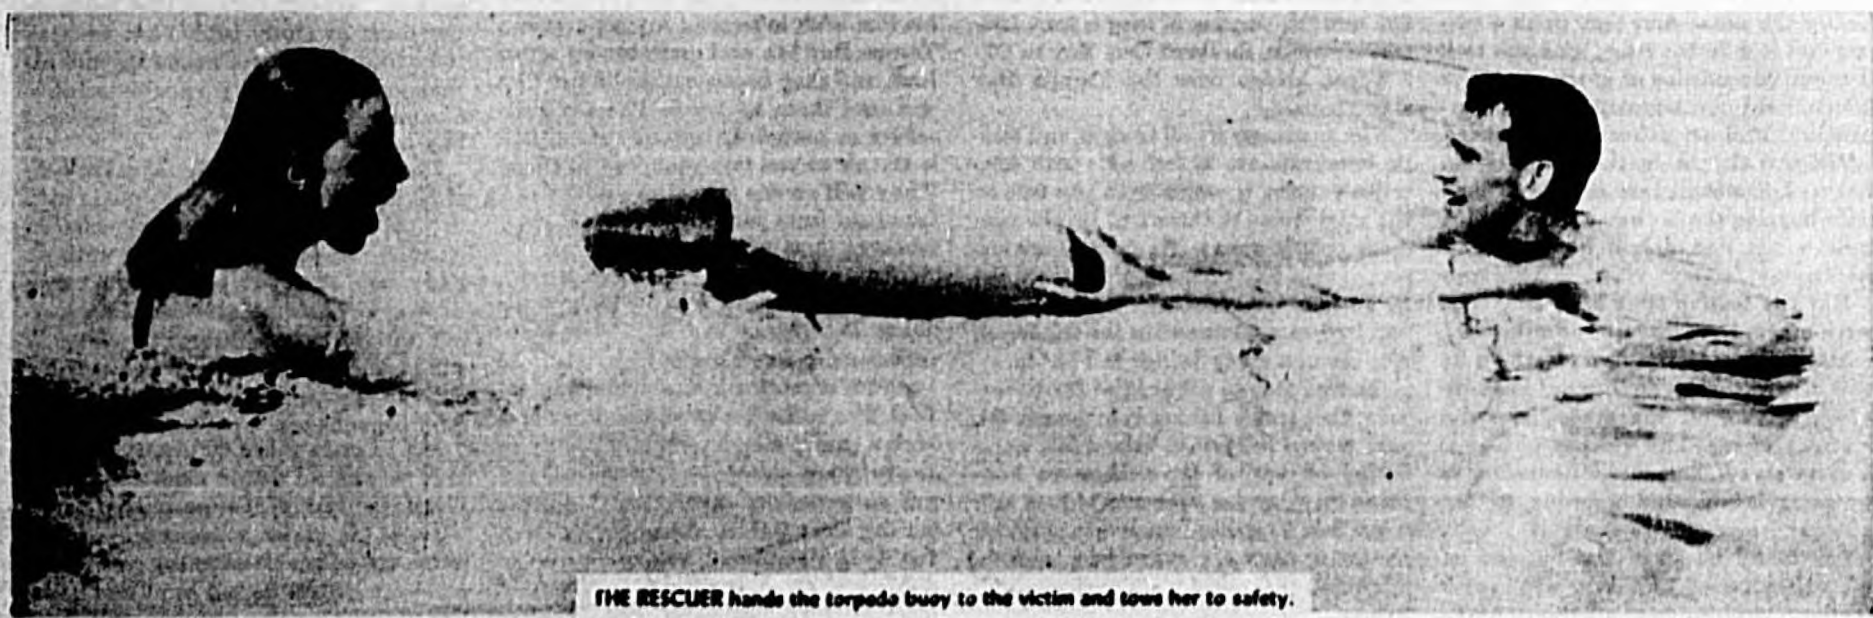

The students in the classes of lifesaving at University of Florida are taught the right procedure in using rescue equipment. Such equipment as ring buoys, which are light casting buoys. These buoys can be thrown to persons in trouble near the shore or the side of a swimming pool. Over 80 per cent of drownings occur within 10 feet of safety, mainly because no assistance was given to the drowning persons. Torpedo buoys, made of balsa wood or metal, can be used to tow one or more victims to safety. Heaving lines are used when the drowning person is farther off-shore.

If you try to remember these seven water-safety tips and put them into practice, you will have the relief of knowing that if something should happen to you or to a fellow swimmer, you will know just what to do to help until aid can be summoned.

If you have the ability to meet an emergency with rapid and clear understanding of the situation at hand, it will make for a safer and happier summer.

Become water-wise, and keep drowning from becoming America's number one accident killer.

THE RESCUER hands the torpedo buoy to the victim and tows her to safety.

By GEORGE THURKAUF

NAMES catalogue a scene, a place, a street, a body of water, a state, or whatever is designated. Names are very important in setting the object apart, and planting it in the memory with meaning.

In the Bible we get the phrase that "a good name is rather to be chosen than great riches." But in this connection the name Sunshine Skyway is meant to characterize the eternal sunshine that our west coast is blessed with in the St. Petersburg area.

Sunshine Skyway is without question, the most beautiful and most important development in the history of Florida's West Coast. It reaches mile after mile across Lower Tampa Bay to provide a vehicular route between Pinellas and Manatee counties. With a total length of slightly over 15 miles, this project is the longest crossing of its kind in the world.

A nation grows, people become acquainted, and democracy is given its genuine test, as roads spread out and pioneer. Roads make and unite a nation. And, as easy transportation is made available, the beauties of the outdoors are newly appreciated, interest in people is enhanced, and the health of all is uplifted. Good roads are a wonderful asset.

Every area of beauty that these eyes of ours survey when traveling across Sunshine Skyway, belongs temporarily to us. It's our feast and our possession. We should make the most of it and glory in its thrill, becoming owners, and share in the phenomena in nature so poetic and soul-stirring as God's clouds. Never has there been a day when they were exactly the same. And they paint a picture that is different every time you look at them. Mountains of glory are these clouds, bold and beautiful beyond expression, and at other times spread across the sky in feathery formation that look like some rare tapestry. Then again hugging the horizon and extending their wings like a hen hovering her chicks.

But the festive time of clouds is at early morn, Sunrise, and at sundown, Sunset—when the sun feeds to them its feast of colors. Then do they outdo themselves, singing all the praise, and the doxology of joy. The whisper of God is in every cloud. They are stimulating to the imagination, and quieting to the spirit, and medicine to the soul.

Too many boast of the number of miles they travel in a day, with not a single remembrance of all the richness of nature that beckoned to them all along the Sunshine Skyway. Wealth thrown wantonly out of the window.

Sunshine Skyway was beautifully planned. It is not enough to make the road itself smooth and straight. Winding roads are the most attractive, even though they take up more space in miles. Long straight roads encourage too great speed and encourage accidents.

Sunshine Skyway joins Pinellas and Manatee counties on Florida's West Coast, crosses Tampa Bay from Maximo Point in the city of St. Petersburg to its southern terminus at U. S. Highway 541, about four miles north of Bradenton.

The 15-mile project includes an 11 mile water crossing; a two mile crossing of Terra Ceia Island; a one-half mile crossing of Terra Ceia Bay; and a one and one-half miles of approach road on the mainland. Structurally the crossing is divided into 11 sections. Six sections are paved embankments, or causeways,

As you ride smoothly over the inland approach of Sunshine Skyway on the St. Petersburg side going south, you see the toll gates. The toll collectors are pretty girls, dressed in a military uniform, highly trained, courteous, and ready to answer any questions pertaining to the Skyway, with official road maps and information to assist and aid you on your journey. The toll for a pleasure car is $1.75 and it varies up to $5.00 for large trucks. Motorcycles, bicycles, and motor scooters are 50 cents. Pedestrians, too, are 50 cents. You can stop anywhere along the causeways to picnic or fish, and in a very short while the state will provide cabanas, restrooms, and sandy beaches for bathing. Also open fireplaces to cook hotdogs, hamburgers, coffee, or what have you and enjoy a real picnic and outing.

As you ride smoothly along keep your eyes open for Florida's wild life or water fowl, you see flocks of ducks flying in lands spotting Tampa Bay. Then we have the hell diver in the duck family, which I call the jet bird, as its speed is unbelievable. The Pelicans also fly in V formation. I've nick-named them the heavy bombers. There is an abundance of water fowl in the air at all times, as you cross Sunshine Skyway.

Then we approach the main span, which is the longest overwater crossing and is 22,373 feet between abutments, which is a distance almost four and one-half miles long. It provides a ship channel clearance of 800 feet horizontally and a minimum vertical clearance of 141.5 feet above mean low water.

This main span with approach grade of five per cent gives you the impression of a roller coaster or scenic railway, and as you climb to the top of this span, look again at the clouds. They tell, in their voiceless language of worlds above and far beyond man's imagination. Silent castles in the blue. Streams of vapory ribbons that bind the sky. The hearing ear can always detect a language from them.

Then as you start down the grade, you are again reminded of that roller coaster, which added to the thrills of the beauties of nature gives a pleasant sensation, which you will enjoy many times over as your memory reflects back on this memorial journey that brought you in closer contact with the ever-living God.

As you continue and cross the remainder of Sunshine Skyway let me leave this one thought with you to pass on to your friends and relatives as a souvenir. We keep a word dictionary on our desk, or study table that we may refer to it for correct meanings and expressions. Wouldn't it be wonderful to compile a dictionary of our personal blessings!

In this dictionary we could make note of all the blessings that accumulate each day of our lives, so that as the years accumulate we could keep adding until we had a good sized volume. We could then be reminded of what a blessing is life itself, with all its experiences, for certainly our blessings far outnumber everything else, no matter what our station in life or circumstances.

But to make this a dictionary of blessings we should define each one of our blessings, and make comments upon them, so as to be impressed by them. Too many of our blessings pass unnoticed and unrecorded. So tell to all the beauties of Sunshine Skyway.

Although All Florida Magazine recently published a story concerning the construction and opening of the Sunshine Skyway, we felt the accompanying article, written by a gatekeeper on the Skyway, offers an interesting and different word picture of one of Florida's newest and most modern wonders. Mr. Thurkauf sees in this colossus of stone and steel something more than a means of transportation, he visualizes it as a roadway back to nature and God.

ranging individually from about 3,700 feet to 20,000 feet long, with a combined length of a little more than 10 miles. The embankment sections alternate with five bridges, varying in length from 336-foot structure in Terra Ceia Bay to 22,373-foot bridge over the Tampa Bay ship channel.

The roadways on all bridges and trestle structures are 28 feet wide with sidewalks varying in width from two feet on the steel spans to three feet on the concrete trestle spans. While it is not expected that any pedestrian will walk the 15 miles of this crossing, sidewalks are required to accommodate the fishermen who festoon every bridge in Florida.

Tampa Bay is a Paradise for fishermen. Salt water fishing is in season the year around in Florida. Inland salt water fishing off any of the bridges on Sunshine Skyway for various kinds of salt water fish, as spotted weak fish, speckled sea trout, tarpon, channel bass, redfish, mackerel, sheepshead and various other species.

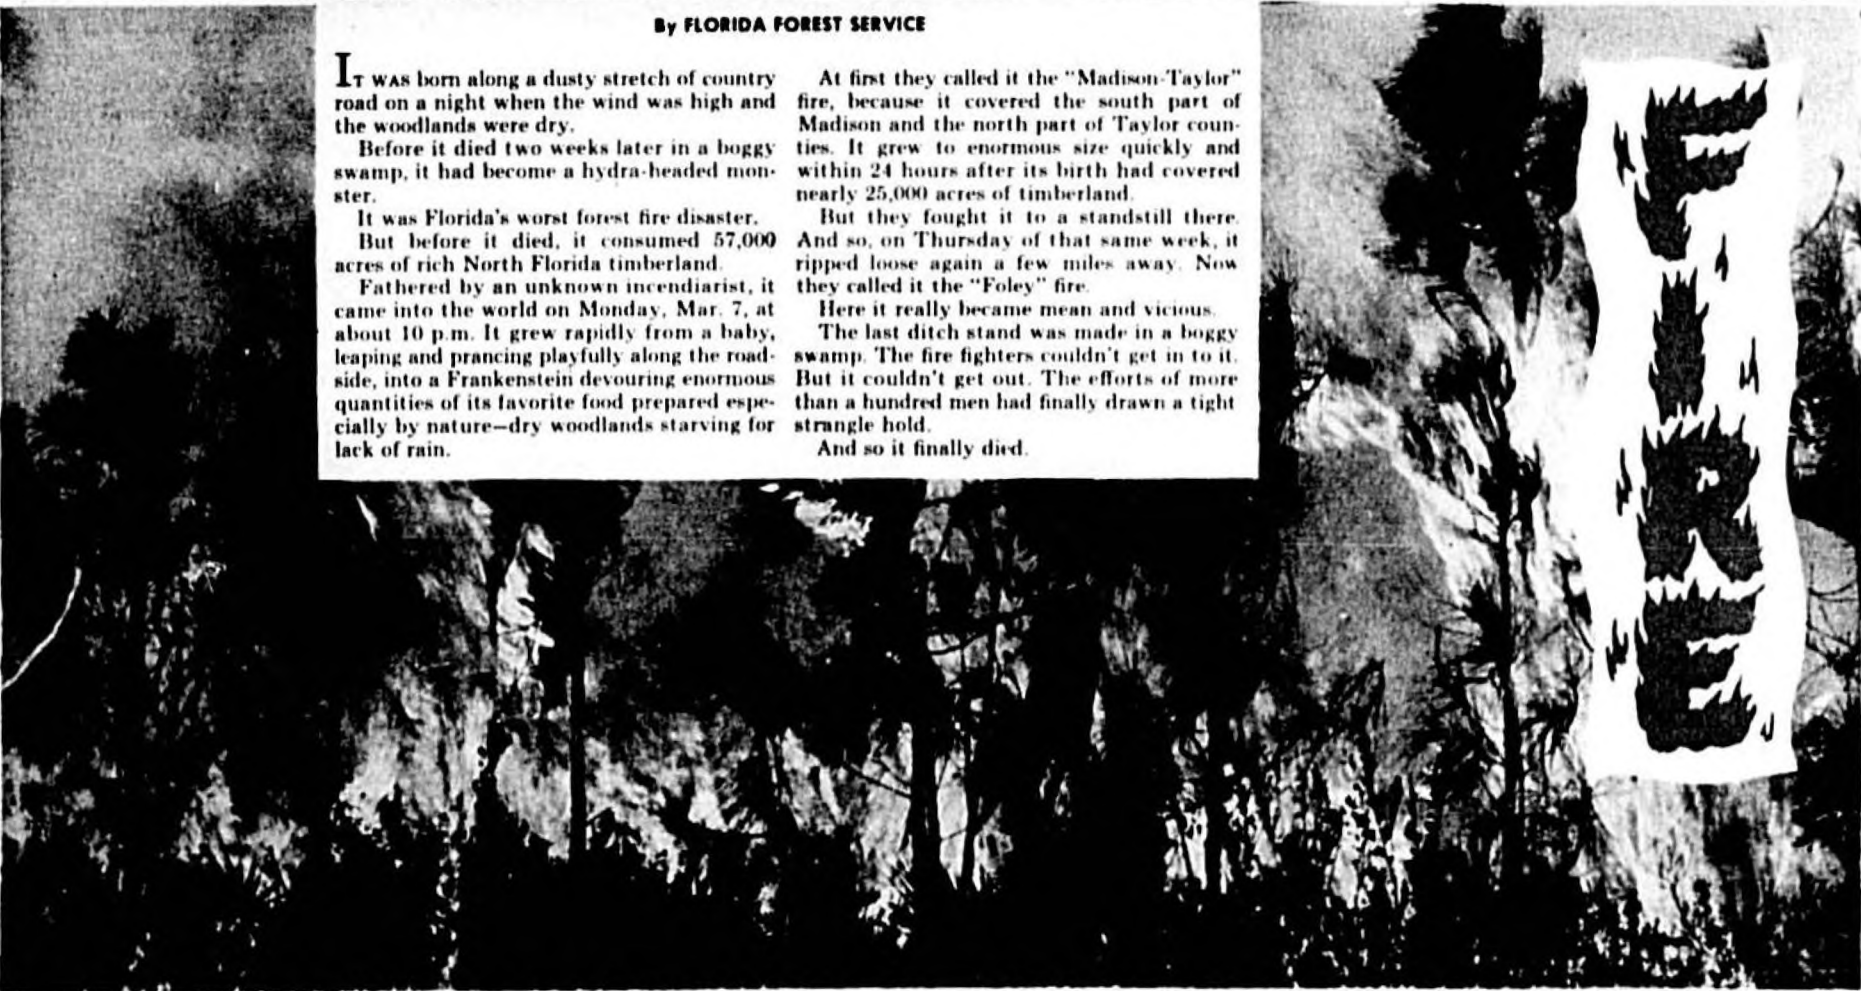

their V formation, the well known Pelican. Watch him dive from various heights, like a plummet out of the sky, when he is feeding. Why he doesn't break his fool neck is beyond my conception. Tampa Bay is a sanctuary for all water fowl, and they become quite tame. You can feed them by hand. The sea gulls sailing so gracefully, actually stand still in the air as you toss your food to them. They will sweep gracefully down and take food from your fingertips, not even touching them, your fingers.

There are various types of water fowl, as the long legged heron. They wade along the shores and sandbars, with their long, pointed beaks feeding on the bounties of marine life, which is so plentiful. The writer has often wondered how such a gawky long legged bird can fly so easily. They sweep, swerve, spiral, and sail so gracefully with their long legs trailing like a tail on an aeroplane. They, too, fly in V formation in large flocks like ducks and geese. Believe it or not, they roost in trees on the many uninhabited is-

FOREST

By FLORIDA FOREST SERVICE

It was born along a dusty stretch of country road on a night when the wind was high and the woodlands were dry.

Before it died two weeks later in a boggy swamp, it had become a hydra-headed monster.

It was Florida's worst forest fire disaster. But before it died, it consumed 57,000 acres of rich North Florida timberland.

Fathered by an unknown incendiary, it came into the world on Monday, Mar. 7, at about 10 p.m. It grew rapidly from a baby, leaping and prancing playfully along the roadside, into a Frankenstein devouring enormous quantities of its favorite food prepared especially by nature—dry woodlands starving for lack of rain.

At first they called it the "Madison-Taylor" fire, because it covered the south part of Madison and the north part of Taylor counties. It grew to enormous size quickly and within 24 hours after its birth had covered nearly 25,000 acres of timberland.

But they fought it to a standstill there. And so, on Thursday of that same week, it ripped loose again a few miles away. Now they called it the "Foley" fire.

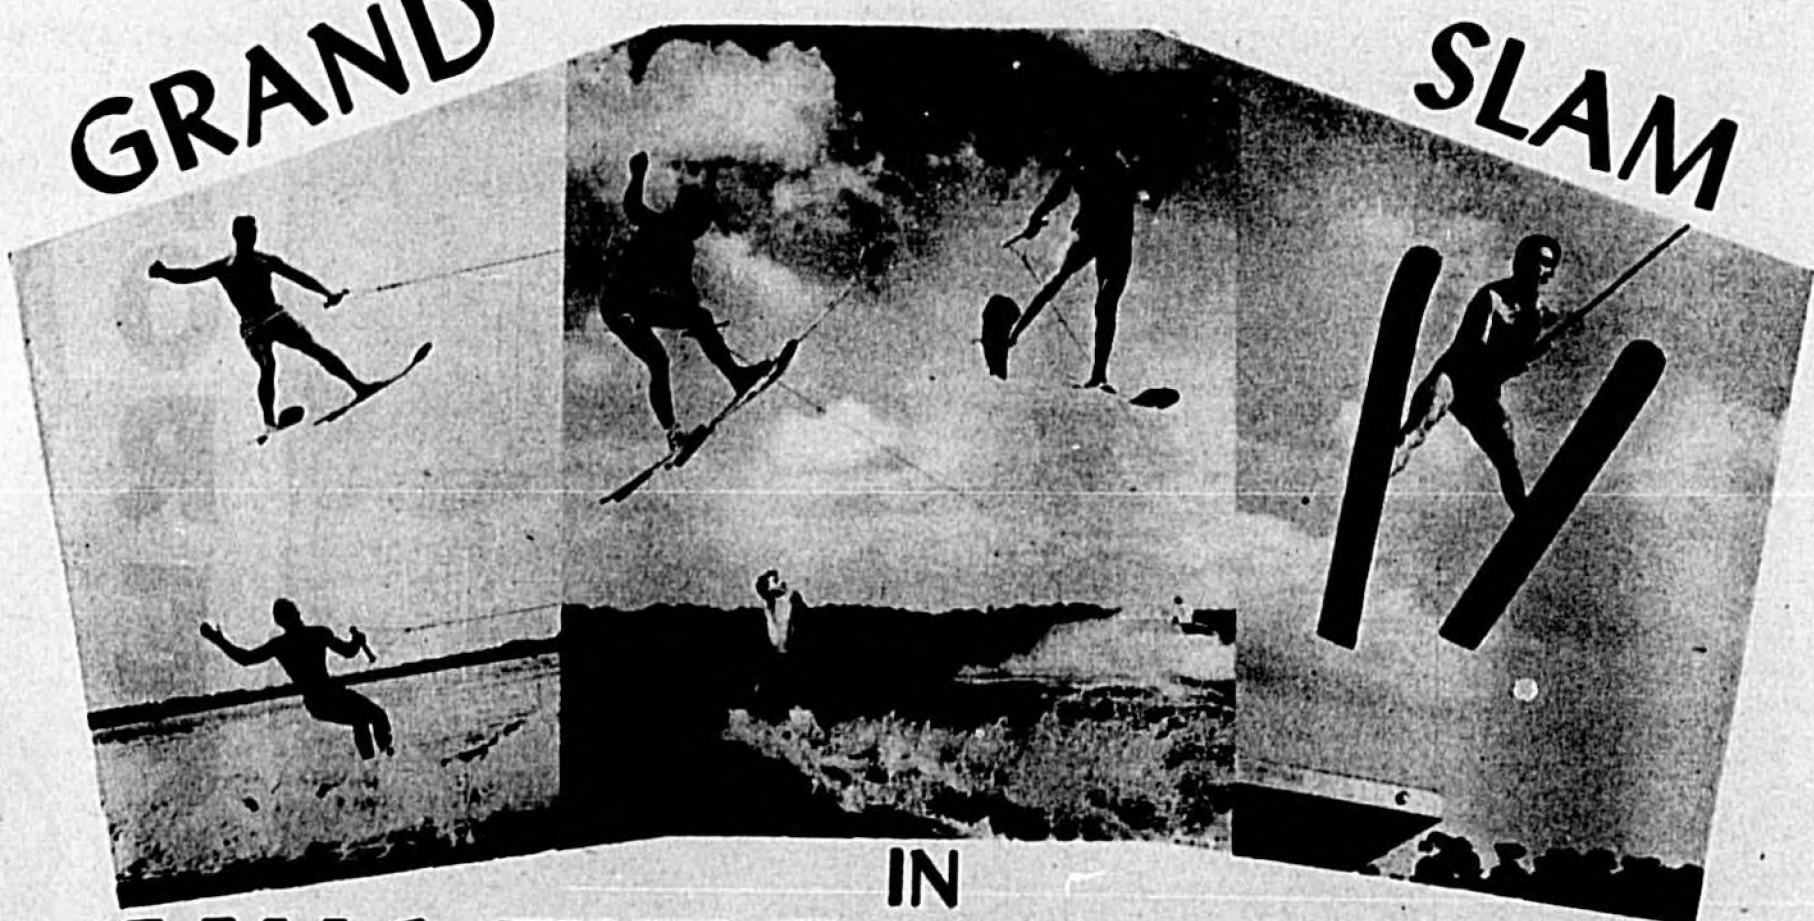

Here it really became mean and vicious.

The last ditch stand was made in a boggy swamp. The fire fighters couldn't get in to it. But it couldn't get out. The efforts of more than a hundred men had finally drawn a tight strangle hold.

And so it finally died.

WATER SKIING

By GENE GORDON

ALL four of the reigning U. S. National Champions in water skiing, winners of the National titles last summer in Laconia, N. H., are in for serious challenge when Florida grabs the spotlight of the nation in four big tournaments this summer, all under sanction of the American Water Ski Association.

While both Cypress Gardens and Lakeland have long been noted as water ski tournament centers, with increased interest in the sport, the tournaments will cover nearly every section of the state with the addition of the lower East Coast area and the panhandle Gulf Coast section. For the heavily populated summer tourist region, it will be the first water ski tournament ever held there.

One of the finest tournament courses in the world has been constructed to draw an entry list of over 100 competitors, with many thousands of interested spectators on hand to see the stars in action.

By ANDY ANDERSON

THERE's one place in Florida—a place unique, even, in the world—where just about everybody can find something to interest him or her.

That may sound like taking in too much territory but are you interested in music? Jewelry? Costumes? Mechanical contraptions? Buttons? Paintings? Sculpture? Wood carvings? Toys? China? Pottery? Furniture?

Or any of a thousand other things?

Then if you have a couple days to spare so that you can see it all, the Lightner Museum of Hobbies at St. Augustine is the place.

The museum is governed by a board of trustees—including the mayor of St. Augustine—and was established by Otto C. Lightner, newspaperman and publisher of the national magazine "Hobbies."

He was a native of Kansas and died in 1950 but the museum he set up in the old Alcazar Hotel is perhaps the most fascinating memorial a man ever left.

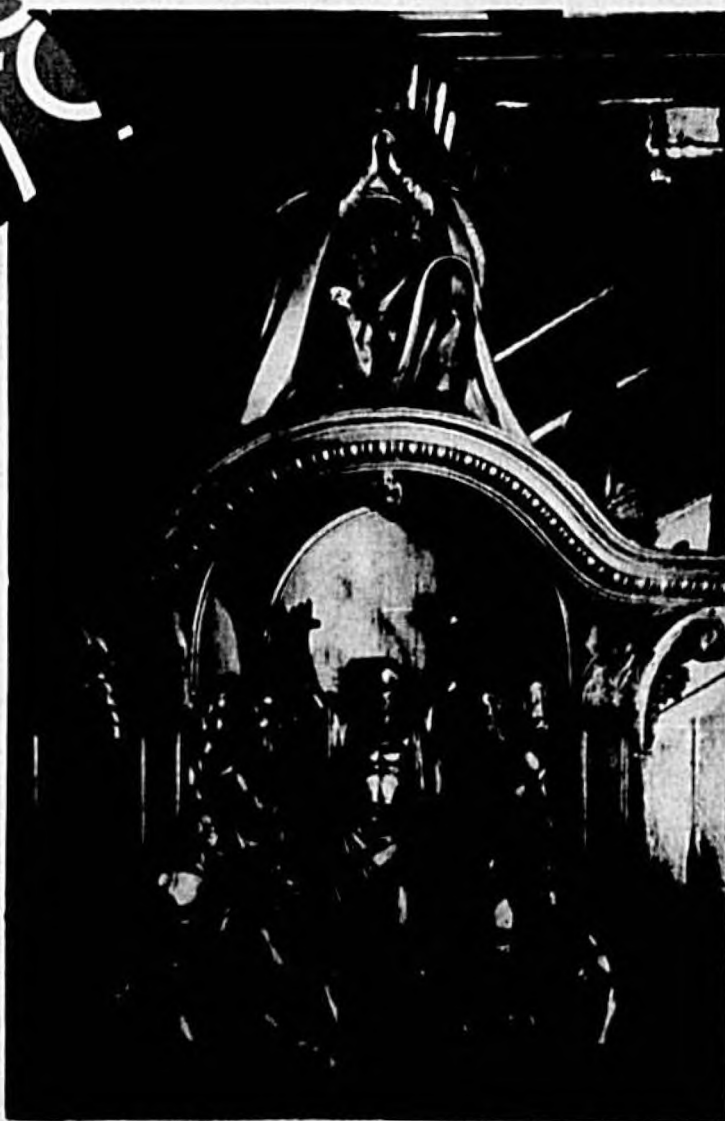

The Alcazar was the second luxurious hotel built in St. Augustine by Henry M. Flagler who developed Florida's East Coast all the way to Key West. It is a mixture of Spanish Renaissance with Moorish accents. It was built in 1889, cost over a million dollars and was one of the first buildings in the United States to be constructed of poured concrete.

It originally had 300 rooms and was extremely elaborate. But the depression closed it in 1930 and it remained shut until Lightner bought it in 1947. He moved his museum from Chicago and gave it to the City of St. Augustine.

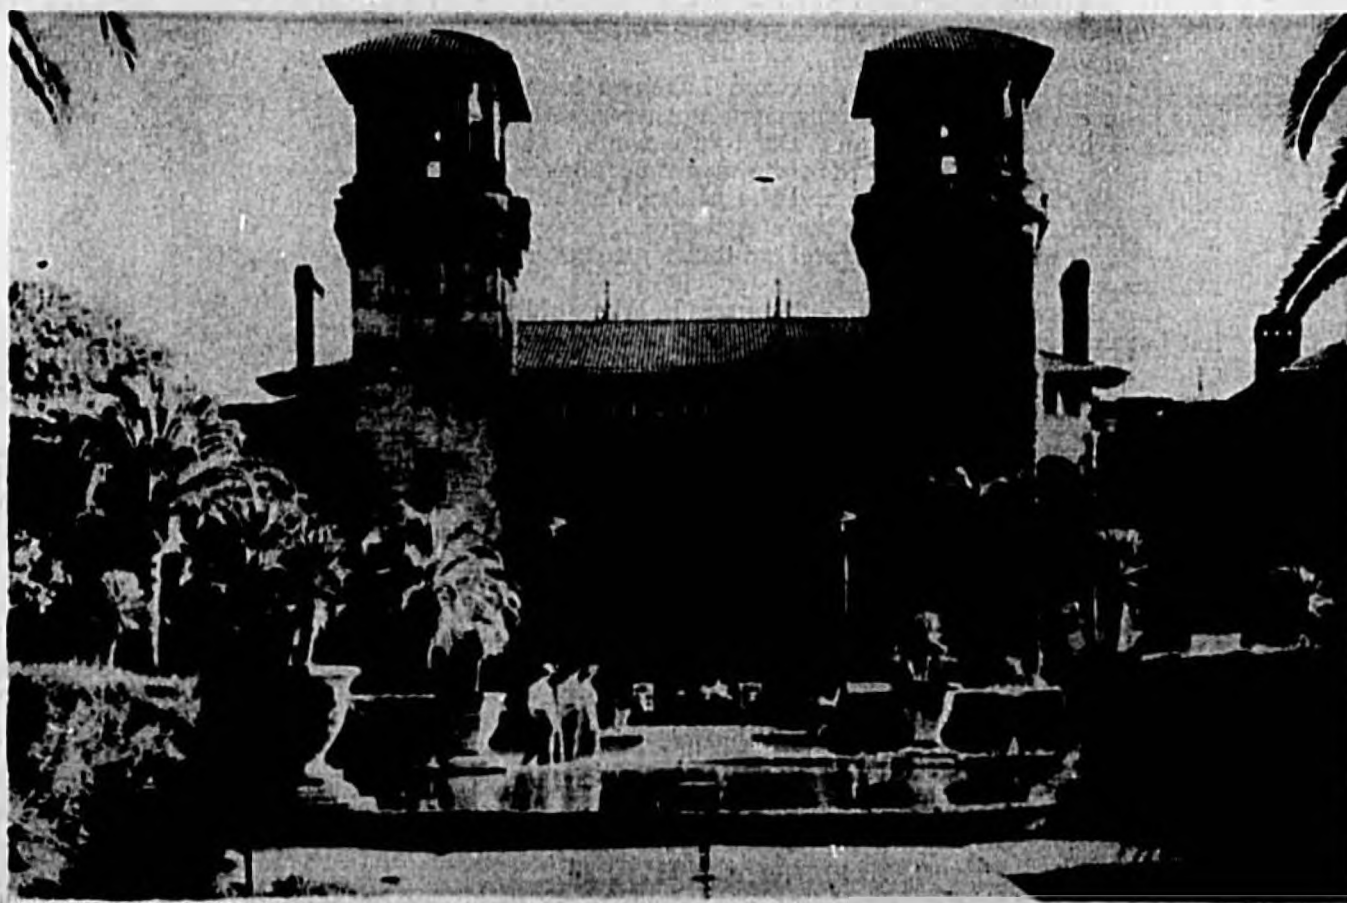

There are now 30-odd rooms and 22,000 square feet of floor space given to exhibits. It takes so long to see everything that visitors are given 24-hour tickets. And this isn't long enough to see and study everything.

Cecil Zinkan, who has charge of the museum, explains

THIS IS one of the many heroic wood carvings with which the Lightner Museum is filled.

A FRONT view of the famous Alcazar Hotel at St. Augustine which houses the Lightner collection.

PAGE 8—An Florida Magazine

HAND CARVED from English oak, this gigantic "Dick Whittington" clock is one of the museum's masterpieces.

ONE OF the most famous collections of cut glass in the world is contained here in the Lightner Crystal Room.

Need A Speakeasy Card, Or Some Wooden Nickels? Just Go To St. Augustine that it's impossible to say how much the exhibits are worth. Most of them are, of course, impossible to replace. Some may seem trivial, such as the collections of buttons, watch fobs and ribbons from various conventions.

But some of the sculpture, paintings, china, carved furniture, carved ivory, porcelain, ancient phonographs and player pianos can be seen only in the Lightner Museum.

There is a quilt made by Mrs. Abraham Lincoln; a collection of wooden nickels; various kinds of shawls, hats and aprons; hand decorated cuspidors; speak easy cards from prohibition days; a collection of just about every kind of bell there is; Western branding irons; early American toys.

The music collection is one of the most fascinating of all the exhibits. There is a large collection of old musical instruments and the mechanical ones still play just as well as the day they were made.

One collection shows the evolution of the phonograph. There is an old time electric barroom piano. The Violin Virtuoso plays two violins and a piano from a perforated paper roll. There is the Regina music box half a century old which uses 26 inch steel records.

And there is a German rathskeller band instrument, over 100 years old.

The group of sculptured statuettes ranks next in size to the one in the Metropolitan Museum. They were created in America between 1860 and 1890 by John Rogers and portray the sentimental and humorous life of folk in that era.

The chandeliers are among the most intricate and beautiful in the world. Among them is one made in France for Emperor Maximilian of Mexico.

The exhibits come from all over the world. Lightner was a great traveler, and was always on the watch for something that interested him—and which he thought would interest others. The results of his collections—and donations of others—appeals to every age group and every type of personality.

A PRETTY model tries on the replica of a crown made for Empress Josephine. The dress was made for a prominent Chicago woman in 1880.

A REGULAR "paradise" for youngsters is the Lightner collection of dolls, gathered from every part of the world.

REMORSE AND worry shows plainly on the face of Orville T. Waldron during his murder trial.

PART II

IN the dark hours of the night of July 8, 1954, a car moved slowly and quietly along the street in front of the home of Lt. Col. and Mrs. William A. Covington in West Palm Beach.

The lone occupant of the car was Orville T. Waldron, 31-year-old part Iroquois Indian, former U. S. Marine, and former common-law husband of Mrs. Covington. In his pocket he carried a .38 calibre pistol, with which he was about to become a murderer.

Earlier in the evening the Covingtons had entertained friends, but now at a late hour the house was in darkness, its occupants asleep and oblivious of the terror that was about to strike.

Waldron had arrived in West Palm Beach earlier that day, having driven from Fairfield, Calif., where he vowed that he would go to Florida to kill Colonel Covington for having "stolen the love" of his Sue, Waldron's pet name for his sweetheart. They had lived under common law for nearly six years before she came to West Palm Beach as the bride of the 46-year-old colonel, stationed at Palm Beach International Air Force Base. The stunning blonde, 31, and the colonel, had been married only six weeks.

DEATH FLIPS A COIN

By P. O. GORDON

Stopping the car in the shadows, Waldron got out and looked about. Seeing a car parked in the car porte, he rightly assumed that Colonel Covington was at home. Walking stealthily up to the front door, he found the screen door latched, but the main door, open. He returned to the car and obtained a large hunting knife. Going back to the house, Waldron slit the screen, reached inside and unlatched the hook.

MOVING cautiously as he entered the house, Waldron felt about in the darkness but found nobody there.

The night was hot, and he heard a fan running in another room. Silently making his way toward the room from which the whirl of the fan came, Waldron moved his fingers along the inside wall until they touched the light switch button.

He turned on the lights and found the couple in bed, asleep.

Taking his pistol from his pocket, the enraged man stood there looking down upon the man he was to murder and the woman who had cast aside his (Waldron's) love for that of another man. As he told of this incident in the tragic affair later, Waldron said:

"At a glance I recognized them and nudged him, and said, 'wake up.' He raised up and I thought I saw his hand go back toward the pillow. Then I seemed to black out. He (Covington) said something, but I don't know what it was."

Suddenly the night air was shattered by the echoes of pistol shots—first two in swift succession, then three more.

With five bullets in his chest, Colonel Covington slumped backward and died.

It was all over in a matter of seconds, but when the first shots were fired, Mrs. Covington leaped from the bed, saw her lover standing there with the smoking gun in his hand, and shouted:

"What have you done?"

Later, on the witness stand, Waldron was unable to recall the exact words he used in replying to Mrs. Covington, but said he told her in effect: "I've killed him."

"Now you've ruined everything," Mrs. Covington told him as she threw a wrap about her and ran into the hall where she almost fainted. Hearing the death groans of his victim, Waldron returned to the bedroom, picked up the empty cartridge shells, and then followed Mrs. Covington into the other room.

WHEN Waldron told Mrs. Covington that the only thing left for him to do was to kill himself, she replied, "Well, don't do it here," as she hurried from the house to summon help.

Leaving the murder scene, Waldron started walking around the house as if in a daze, and made no attempt to flee in his car. In a few minutes police arrived and rushed Waldron off to jail.

He was indicted by the Grand Jury and charged with first degree murder. With the shadow of the electric chair haunting him, Waldron decided to fight for his life by pleading not guilty because of insanity. But medical examination failed to substantiate this claim.

In early November, Waldron went on trial in Circuit Court in West Palm Beach. After a little more than three hours of deliberation on the second day of the trial, the jury returned a verdict of second degree murder, saving him from death in the electric chair.

The lesser verdict carried a possible sentence of 20 years to life, and Waldron drew the maximum sentence—a life in State Prison at Ralford.

But before sentencing Waldron, the presiding judge told him: "I consider this case to be one of cold-blooded murder. You came here from California and killed this man in his own home, where he was with his own wife." The state attorney also disagreed with the milder verdict.

However, a life sentence may not be as severe as it may appear, attorneys said, pointing out that judging from past records, Waldron will not complete a life term, and that it is entirely possible he may be released after serving even less than 10 years. A legislative act of 1941, they pointed out, makes a prisoner "eligible for consideration of parole" after he has served a mere six months of his term, excepting persons sentenced to 18 months or less. The six months' minimum, it is said, was set to give consideration to those where a miscarriage of justice has occurred.

Anyhow, Waldron is in State Prison at Ralford, and is likely to remain there for some considerable time.

But what about his sweetheart, his former common-law wife, the widow of the man he murdered?

After almost six years of continuous life with Waldron, ending with the brutal murder of her husband, and after trying hours in court and questioning by officers, Mrs. Covington left Florida to return to her home in New Mexico.

FRIDAY

Are You A

Triakadekaphobe?

History Explodes Theory That Friday 13th Is A Day 'Black And A Catwalk Wide'

By DICK LA COSTE

GATHER 'round, you triakadekaphobes! Prepare for the next Friday the 13th. The date: May 13, 1955.

There's only one Friday the 13th in 1955. There was but one also in 1954—Aug. 13. In 1953, superstitious people really had a field day. There were three Fridays the 13th during that year.

Why should you worry about a Friday the 13th?

No particular reason. If you're not superstitious, you won't. But U. S. businessmen, not a particularly superstitious group, worry about it every year. The reason is that they stand to lose, as they have in the past, approximately $250,000,000 in lost time and other results of superstition.

What is the origin of the superstition that Friday the 13th is unlucky?

RESEARCH reveals that the superstition dates back to the time of Christ. Specifically, to the last days before His crucifixion.

Most of us will recall that there were 13 persons present at the Last Supper. Christ's crucifixion came on a Friday.

Ever since that day, Friday and the number 13 have been linked together and considered unlucky.

Dictionaries define superstitions, such as worry over Friday the 13th, as products of "an irrational, abject attitude of mind." If true, U. S. men and women in that category total millions. Big business executives can be included.

Many first class hotels, for instance, have no 13th floor. Some airlines have eliminated seat No. 13 on their planes. A few top-flight executives stay away from their offices on that date.

Some time ago, when the Aquitania was scheduled to sail on a Friday the 13th, the Cunard Line received so many complaints it postponed the sailing day. Cost: thousands of dollars.

The Friday the 13th superstition even has had official sanction. Recently, the city fathers of French Lick, Ind., decreed that black cats must wear bells on that date to warn superstitious citizens.

But Friday the 13th is not all black and a catwalk wide.

Our U. S. history books are studded with momentous and lucky happenings on that date.

Gen. George Washington assumed command of the American Army on Friday the 13th. The first election to be held in North America was held on Friday the 13th.

More?

Georgia was settled on Friday the 13th. Arkansas got its state constitution on that day, and White House construction began on that day.

Didn't we start as 13 colonies? Didn't France become our ally in the Revolution on the 13th? Doesn't our national motto, "E Pluribus Unum," have 13 letters?

Lastly, didn't we adopt a great seal with 13 stars, 13 stripes, 13 arrows, 13 clouds, 13 letters, 13 laurel leaves, 13 berries, and an eagle with 13 feathers in each wing?

Particular interest in Florida lies in the Senior Men's Division, which always has some of the hottest competition of any event. West Palm Beach has always had the edge, with Dr. Thomas E. Daly, 42, Southeastern Tricks champion, John D. Miller, 37, Eastern Tricks Champion, and Henry Holmes, 42, Dixie Tricks Champion. Up against them will be Pappy Howell of Panama City, who was third in the U. S. Nationals, and Tom Moore of radio's "Florida Calling" fame, who finished fourth in the Dixie Jumping event.

The Southeastern Regional Tournament will be held on Lake Worth at Riviera Beach Causeway, where seating arrangements are being made for 3000 spectators. The Palm Beaches have many junior skiers who are coming up fast in the world of competition. Many civic clubs of the towns of Riviera, West Palm Beach and Palm Beach are cooperating to make this one of the real entertainment features of the early summer season.

Fred Wiley of Fort Lauderdale, who is the official boat driver for the American Water Ski Association, will drive at the Southeastern, the Southern, and the National Tournaments.

Water skiing and Florida are synonymous on the picture pages of the magazines and newspapers of the nation, but today Florida will have to work hard to maintain her superiority, for on every river, bay, lake and ocean side over the nation, skiers are cutting white wakes back of outboards and runabouts.

As one sports writer predicted, some day there will be special ski trains roll down to Florida during the winter time, just for water skiing, as there are now ski trains that pull out of the big cities to go hundreds of miles for snow skiing.

Many resort centers, such as Sun Valley, Lake Placid and others, have become famous for just one thing—snow skiing—and it only has a short season, while in Florida, water skiing can be enjoyed the year round.

A new Board of Adjustments and Appeals, which will be the group to give City Building Inspector John Gillon the go-ahead signal on his slum cleanup campaign, will be appointed at tonight's City Commission meeting.

Nominated at the last meeting of the Commission were Lowell Oiler, F. B. Ashdown, W. A. Kratzert, E. C. Harper, J. H. Crapps, Roy Wall, and J. E. Terwilliger Jr. Five will be appointed to serve on the board.

In other action tonight, the Commission will name a successor to Clarence Redding, whose Housing Commission term expires May 20.

The Commission will also discuss the water and sewer program with consulting engineer Robert Angus. Other discussion will center around the need to increase the deposit on utility services and a petition to fill in the pond at 24th St. and Summerlin Ave.

The proposed right-of-way plat across the well field site land will also be viewed for road purposes. The meeting will begin at 8 o'clock.

April Phone Calls Break 1954 Record

Southern Bell officials announced today that "the company completed more telephone calls for the people of the South in April, despite the strike and despite attempts to disrupt the service, than in any previous April."

At the same time, spokesmen said that the total number of employees at work passed 2,000 on Friday.

Figures released today disclosed that 15,682,000 long distance calls were completed in nine states in April this year against 15,317,000 in April 1954, previous high April, or 345,000 more, local calls danced in April this year against 30,000,000 per day for the nine states. This compares with a total of 25,500,000 for the same period last year, officials said.

More employees were on the job during the eighth week of the strike and more calls were completed than in any week since the walkout started, spokesmen stated. More employees returned this week than any week. Normal service was provided this week, to all but a relatively small part of the 4,600,000 telephones, 4,000,000 of which are dial-operated.

The company invites employees who have not yet returned to "join those who feel and take seriously their responsibility to provide this essential public service and are now on the job doing so. These returning are being welcomed and, of course, are being treated fairly and impartially. There is no truth in the union's implication that those who return to work to lose their jobs. The union has never fired an employee and it never will," a spokesman related.

Scientist Declares Excessive Secrecy Causes Paralysis

CHICAGO (AP)—An atomic scientist-author charged today that "excessive" government secrecy caused "a year of paralysis" in civil defense preparations to meet the new peril of deadly radioactive dust.

Dr. Ralph E. Lapp said the Atomic Energy Commission waited until nearly a year after the March 1, 1954 Bikini H-bomb test before revealing "some facts" about its radioactive fall-out to the American people.

Declaring the knowledge could have been "of life and death importance" had nuclear war broken out, Lapp called for a "massive review" of America's atomic secrecy policy so civil defense planners will have more than "half-facts or unofficial information" upon which to build plans. He made the statements in the Bulletin of the atomic scientists.

57-Day Walkout To End Neutral Referee To Hear Issues

WASHINGTON (AP)—An agreement was reached today calling for an end to the stormy 57-day Louisville & Nashville Railroad strike at 6 a. m. EST Wednesday.

The union representatives and management negotiators were in separate rooms. Government mediators shuffled back and forth for signatures to a series of documents that called for ending the strike and submitting unsettled issues to arbitration.

Two Men Arrested After Friday Raid On Moonshine Still

Two men were arrested after Sheriff's deputies raided a moonshine still three miles west of Altamonte Springs Friday afternoon.

Chief Deputy O. G. Owen said the still was one of the largest ever found in Seminole County and estimated 150 gallons of illegal liquor could be brewed a day.

Owen said Russell S. Chaudoin Jr., a Lake County resident, is out under $1,000 bond on a charge of operating a still. Charged with possession of moonshine was Edgar Chaudoin, Forest City. Bond was expected to be posted for him today.

The officers drained and destroyed 20 gallons of fermenting mash and smashed almost 50 one-gallon and five-gallon jugs of the finished product. The still, two 55-gallon metal drums welded together, was pierced with an axe and otherwise put out of commission.

About 150 miles north of Spring Lake Road (State Road 436), the still was in a dry creek bed and rigged with a benzene pressure burner and a cooling coil containing about 60 feet of one-inch copper coil.

Deputy Andy E. Evans, who, with Deputy M. R. McGlelland, assisted Owen in the raid, said each five-gallon jug represented about nine dollars lost in tax money. At that rate, if the still operated fully for a day, the tax loss would be $450.

Peace Officer Homer Sewell, in whose district the still was located, also was with the officers when the outfit was destroyed and remarked that the still appeared to have been there for two or three months.

Owen said the raid came about after an anonymous tip that moonshiners were operating in that vicinity.

Reaction Mixed On National Park Service Proposal

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A National Park Service proposal for comprising the Everglades National Park boundaries drew a mixed reaction from Florida legislators and state officials today. No immediate agreement was reached.

The park service proposal, reviewed through U. S. Sen. Holland (D-Fla.) was that the federal government remove the maximum boundaries of the park substantially in exchange for concessions of state-owned lands in Collier and Monroe counties to form a western gateway and inland water route.

Gov. Collins and some legislators from Dade and Collier counties urged an immediate acceptance on the ground that it was the best compromise available, and the federal government could not buy the land as now if so desired.

Other legislators and some Collier residents urged that negotiations with the federal government be continued in an effort to bring further concessions.
