Nelly Short, who lives on Wilbur Avenue in Lake Mary says children on their way to school need sidewalks along her street. Her section of Wilbur Avenue was one of five areas turned down during Thursday night by the City Commission.

Due to an editing error, it was incorrectly stated in a picture caption on Page 1 that her street would get a sidewalk.

Due to an error at the Seminole County school district office, it was mistakenly reported that Lake Mary Elementary School principal Beverly Perrault had been nominated as principal of Heathrow Elementary School in Lake Mary and that Mike Townsley, principal of Sterling Park Elementary School in Casselberry had been nominated to take the reins at Partin Elementary School when the new schools open in November.

Instead, Townsley hopes to be approved as the principal at Heathrow and Perrault hopes to move to Partin.

Both nominations are subject to approval by the school board when they meet on Tuesday evening at 7 p.m.

The school board meets at the district headquarters at 1211 Mellonville Ave. in Sanford.

Zoo opposes incinerator

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Central Florida Zoological Society is opposed to the medical waste incinerator that could be built within one-quarter mile of their zoo on U.S. Highway 17-92 near the St. Johns River.

"The Central Florida Zoological Society opposes the application for a medical waste incinerator amendment to the Rands Yard Industrial Center planned unit development because the society has received inadequate information and had insufficient time to determine whether the project will have a negative effect upon the community, our visitors and our animal collection," said zoo director Ed Posie in a prepared statement.

Posie said he and zoo staff met with developer Sid Vihlen and proposal spokesman Randy Morris Thursday. While the pair responded to many of their questions, Posie said he and the society are still concerned about the impact of the proposed incinerator on the zoo. Posie said he was still concerned the 50 ton-per-day-output facility may not be operated at full efficiency.

Vihlen has proposed to build the incinerator in his industrial park located in east Lake Monroe, a small farming community west of Sanford. Seminole County commissioners will consider the proposal at their March 26 meeting, which begins at 7 p.m.

One of the investors in the $9 million Vihlen proposal, Fred Bonham, is president of Orlando Resource Recovery Inc. ORRI sought to build a 100-ton medical waste incinerator similar in design to Vihlen's in Orange County twice, but withdrew the proposals amid objections.

There is already one 20-ton medical incinerator in Orange County and a second, 27-ton facility has been approved. State and Orange County studies suggest all of central Florida will produce

GOP committee to investigate Democrat links

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The Seminole County Republican Executive Committee will investigate rumors that committeemen worked to promote the Democratic campaigns of Lawton Chiles and Larry Furlong.

Under state and local Republican Party rules, working to promote political campaigns of non-Republican candidates is grounds for removal from the executive committee. The executive committee is the local organization that elects delegates to state and national conventions.

County chairman Mike Saporito told committee members Thursday night he had received numerous telephone calls of people claiming to know of fellow committee members who worked for the Chiles' gubernatorial campaign or the Furlong county commission campaign. Saporito announced he would appoint a committee to investigate the claims, members in attendance said.

According to Sanford Police, he apparently decided to try to put the money to work earning interest in a checking account at the SunBank on S. Orlando Drive in Sanford.

Delbeke, 43, of 725 Creekwater Terrace Apt. 103 in Lake Mary, was arrested on Friday and charged with grand theft and scheming to defraud.

On Jan. 15 of this year, five months after he began renting the post office box, Delbeke allegedly went to the bank and opened an account in the name of DLM Research Labs. He allegedly

Three river boats once plied St. Johns

WAY BACK WHEN

JULIAN STENSTROM

Got a call from a young lady wanting to know what I knew about the old river boats that operated on the St. Johns. It took some research but I believe I have the names of most of them, and perhaps some information about some of them.

There was, of course, the big three of my childhood and teen years in Sanford. They were the "City of Sanford," the "Osceola" and the "City of Jacksonville." All carried freight and passengers between Sanford and Jacksonville for the Clyde Line and later the St. Johns River Line. The "City of Jacksonville" was the first of the river boats to have electric lights. It was built in 1882.

There was a ferry, the "Alma May," that would transport passengers across Lake Monroe to Enterprise. The fare each way was 50 cents. It was operated by Robert L.

Allen. There was also the "S.V. White," a paddle wheeler that once carried passengers and freight across Lake Monroe between Sanford and Enterprise.

There was the "Frederick DeBary," that sailed out of Blue Spring. It was built in 1881, later burned, was rebuilt and remained in service until it was retired in 1925. This vessel was perhaps a SANFORD — On Saturday, Stella "Kate" Calloway drove away with her second Seminole County school bus Rodeo championship in as many years.

Calloway, who represented Seminole County at the state championships last year earned 518 points in the 11 event competition. A perfect score is 535.

"She is a very good driver," said Jerry Klein, director of the district transportation department.

Calloway will lead a team which includes herself and the five runners up from Saturday's contest to the state competition at Mid Florida Tech in Orlando on April 26 and 27.

The other members of the district championship team are Elaine Hellman, who earned 503 points, Debi Burkhardt, who earned 487 points, Joan Williams, who earned 481 points, Carol Reider, who earned 480 points and Judy Templeton, who earned 475 points.

"We're looking forward to doing well at the contest this year," Klein said. Last year the team, led by Calloway, came within

Investigation ordered in MIG arrival

MIAMI — A top official of the joint U.S.-Canadian air defense command ordered a full investigation into the apparently undetected arrival in Key West of a Soviet-built MIG flown by a defecting Cuban pilot.

No U.S. planes were scrambled when the MIG arrived Wednesday from Cuba, and the jet fighter was not spotted by the tower at the Key West Naval Air Station until it was circling the field attempting to land.

Maj. Gen. Ian Patrick, of the Canadian Forces, who directs combat operations for NORAD, ordered formation of an investigating board to probe the incident, said Maj. Thomas Niemann, spokesman for agency's headquarters in Colorado.

Friday's order followed two days of informal reviews, he said, adding he did not know when the final report will be ready.

Man charged in vehicular homicide

RIVIERA BEACH — A man celebrating his 21st birthday plowed his car into a retiree who was checking a flat tire on his camper along Interstate 95, police said.

Brendan Murphy's car struck and killed Albert Eick Jr., 85, of Durham, Conn., whose camper was parked on the northbound shoulder Thursday. Florida Highway Patrol trooper Bob Borman said Friday.

Eick was carried on the windshield of Murphy's car for about 35 feet before his body fell onto the center lane, and the car continued north about 800 feet, police said.

Witches stir up brouhaha

PORT ST. LUCIE — The opening of a witchcraft store at a shopping center has stirred a little witches brouhaha among neighboring store owners.

"We don't like them," said Joe Parker, a barber located a few doors down from The Dragon's Lair at the Grimes Plaza 2 shopping center. "We think they ought to be selling Bibles over there."

The center's owner was surprised to learn that the store opening next week was run by a witch.

"They're officially listed as a gift shop," shopping center owner James Grimes said Thursday.

But Ygraine Osbourn, owner of The Dragon's Lair, says contrary to popular notion, witches are "just boring nice folk" and no cause for alarm. She is the leader of a coven of witches that has moved to Port St. Lucie from Jensen Beach.

Chiles budget 'tough to sell'

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The annual budget battle begins in earnest this week in the Florida Legislature, and Gov. Lawton Chiles is finding many of his proposals tough to sell.

A sharp increase in assessments on hospitals, a steep tuition hike that would be diverted to fund social services and the governor's so-called "right-aligning" program to slim down government all find few friends on the Capitol's fourth floor.

But Chiles remains undaunted and is convinced that his big November victory gives him leverage in his first term.

"For the first time, I've sort of got the reins in my hand," said the three-term former U.S. senator. "People want to see us try something different."

House Speaker T.K. Wetherell, D-Daytona

Beach, said Chiles will find it rough going as appropriations committees in both chambers begin serious work this week on a $28.8 billion spending plan and deal with a shortfall of some $1.6 billion to keep services operating.

"If they can generate a lot of support, we'll do it. But so far they've (lawmakers) been running up and saying, 'don't do it,'" Wetherell said.

Shipwreck estimated at $4.8 million

By Associated Press

TAMPA — Gold bars, silver coins and other artifacts recovered from a 17th century Spanish shipwreck off Key West have been appraised at nearly $4.8 million.

Seahawk Deep Ocean Technology released a report Friday by an independent appraiser who inspected 28 gold bars, more than 728 silver coins, 3,000 pearls, 44 clay olive jars and other items the company raised from the galleon's 1,500-foot-deep grave.

Chamber welcomes McDonald's

Lottery success has neighbors scrambling

By Associated Press

TALLAHASSEE — Nearly 10 percent of Florida's lottery tickets were sold to out-of-state players in the past three years, and some neighboring states are planning their own lotteries to keep that cash at home.

"We're tired of seeing all that Georgia money go to educate Florida children," said Bill Stephens, spokesman for Georgia Gov. Zell Miller.

Georgians were the top out-of-state spenders on the Florida lottery, with their $178 million accounting for 3 percent of all sales. Georgia will vote in November 1992 on establishing its own lottery, and passage could mean the games will be running by summer 1993.

But Florida's lock on the regional lottery craze might be broken as early as this summer when Louisiana gets its lottery going, said Michael Carr, newly appointed director of the Louisiana lottery.

Louisianans chipped in about $17 million of the $578 million worth of Florida tickets going to out-of-state players, and Carr said it's his job to keep that money in his state.

Spring breakers reminiscent of 'raising all manners of hell'

By RON WORD
Associated Press Writer

DAYTONA BEACH — The year was 1978. Beau Halton was a senior at Northeastern University in Boston, enjoying spring break at Button's, a popular Fort Lauderdale nightclub, when the wet nightgown contest began.

"The first couple of women came out and these guys would pour water on them," he recalls. "They were wearing a nightgown and it was cut right to the tops of the legs and it was pretty racy. Then women started coming out and just yanking it off and they were naked on stage."

"I remember being amazed. I turned to the guy next to me and said, 'These aren't professional strippers, these are college girls and they are taking all their clothes off on stage.'"

"It sort of opened up my eyes. I had never been to that type of thing before. I felt after that I understood Fort Lauderdale and spring break. The rest of my vacation was all downhill."

Halton is 36 years old now, an editor in Jacksonville, a mature adult. But for him and for so many of those who have come to Florida through the years, spring break replays itself again and again in memories: Ogling girls or boys on the beach. Drinking to excess. Raising all manner of hell.

Years later, a simple question — "What did you do on spring break?" — can bring blushes and Cheshire cat grins to the faces of people who are now parents or grandparents. And sudden reticence.

"My parents don't know I did that and I don't want them reading about it," goes a typical response.

As early as 1961, the Halifax Area Ministerial Alliance in Daytona Beach branded a "twist" dance contest sponsored by the Peppermint Lounge as immoral. A year later, New York World Telegram columnist Inez Robb termed Daytona Beach's spring break a "national scandal."

But for all of spring break's sun, suds and sin, there is room for innocence, too. Some who have come to the beach in search of hedonism have come away with no more than a sunburn.

But they still remember.

"I guess you could say we were more talk that action," said Dave Kittross, 35, who left the icy campus of Penn State for three spring breaks at Fort Lauderdale in the mid-70s.

The plan was to "go down to meet women. ... A wild weekend. It really didn't work out that way."

New gasoline pocket discovered in Geneva

By J. MARK BANFIELD
Herald Staff Writer

GENEVA — The state has discovered a new pocket of gasoline under the Geneva Grocery and has pumped more than 100 gallons from the groundwater table during the last week, a state environmental official said Thursday.

Although state Department of Environmental Regulation officials thought six months ago they had removed most or all of the 850 gallons that rushed into the ground during the night of June 18, 1990, they discovered more gasoline last month and began pumping to remove it from the ground.

No drinking water wells have been contaminated by the spill, county health officials said. John Cochrane, director of the Seminole County Public Health Unit, said monthly well tests have all shown wellwater in the area is safe, he said. Tests are conducted on wells extending from Geneva Grocery in a northeasterly direction, Cochrane said.

A total of 430 gallons has been pumped from the ground beneath the small grocery on Avenue C, said Rebecca Lockenbach, DER project manager for the cleanup. But how much more remains in the ground remains a mystery, she said.

"We're not sure what the estimate is," Lockenbach said. "We don't know how much is left. It's kind of open-ended as to the time-frame of when we'll be done."

And the cost of the cleanup may reach $500,000 or more. A total of $342,885 has either been spent or committed for the cleanup so far, state officials said.

The news that 850 gallons of fuel disappeared from a refined tank last year rocked this community which depends on the "Geneva Bubble" for its drinking water. Completely surrounded by undrinkable saltwater, the bubble is the community's sole source of water.

To folks here, the idea that the bubble could become contaminated forcing water lines to be extended to the quiet area with housing developments in town was a contemptible idea.

The Fort Pierce tank relining company, Alan Chemical, removed the rusting tank from the ground June 20 and excavated much of the clay emitting strong gasoline odors from underneath the tank.

Pumps were installed to draw the gasoline out of the ground where it had spread in a northerly and easterly direction. Lockenbach said the pumps were run for 43 days until late September when no "free product" gasoline was coming up from where it floated atop the groundwater table.

IRA status

To remain economically competitive, the United States needs to increase its savings rate, which is now among the lowest in the industrialized world. An increase in domestic savings would spur investment in job-creating enterprises and make this country less dependent on foreign capital, thereby promoting lower interest rates.

President Bush and Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Texas, chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, have offered similar proposals to increase personal savings. Mr. Bush proposes a new family savings plan that would generate tax-free interest and allow penalty-free withdrawals for emergencies. He also proposes penalty-free withdrawals from Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs) for first-time home buyers.

Sen. Bentsen, together with Sen. William Roth, R-Del., is sponsoring a more ambitious proposal — backed by 70 senators — to restore fully deductible IRAs for all workers. All workers could make tax-deductible IRA contributions of up to $2,000 annually, and they could make penalty-free withdrawals before retirement to pay for a first home, catastrophic medical expenses or a college education.

Deductible IRAs were made available to all workers in 1981. Four years later, 16 million couples and individuals claimed IRA contributions totaling $38.2 billion. But in 1986, tax-deductible contributions to IRAs were restricted to those without employer-sponsored pension plans or with annual incomes of less than $50,000 for couples or $35,000 for singles. Consequently, savings plummeted.

Sen. Bentsen did not offer a calculation of the cost to the federal government of the IRA plan. But if any tax break can survive scrutiny in these austere times, it ought to be one to increase savings.

American consumers put only 4 cents of every dollar aside as savings. That compares with 16 cents in Japan and 13 cents in Germany. The decline in personal and business savings, together with chronic federal deficits, has deprived the economy of low-cost capital to finance improvements in manufacturing and productivity, and has led to massive foreign borrowing.

The short-term loss of federal tax revenues due to IRAs must be weighed against budget savings in other areas. For example, if an IRA helped families afford their first homes, this would reduce reliance on federal housing programs. Dependence on government health programs and student loans would likewise decrease if Americans were allowed to use their own income saved in IRAs for major medical and education expenses.

Studies confirm that most of the money that went into IRAs in the early 1980s was in fact new savings. An analysis by the National Bureau of Economic Research found that 50 percent of deposits to IRAs came from new sources; another 30 percent was generated by the attractiveness of tax deductibility; and only 20 percent was shifted from existing savings.

Investment is a key to America's economic future. Yet the United States has suffered from a decline in savings and investment. Low savings translate into lower levels of investment, higher interest rates and slow growth in living standards. To help reverse this alarming trend, President Bush and Congress should find a way to bring the IRA out of retirement.

There's a latent fury in our midst

The latent fury in our midst surfaced in Los Angeles, California March 3, 1991. Hatred like a volcano erupted and engulfed Rodney King. Over a dozen police, a veritable gang, were present to observe or participate in breaking 25-year-old King's skull in nine places. Ostensibly the police were arresting him for a traffic violation.

George Holliday, a white amateur photographer, recorded the incident for posterity. The fact that Holliday was at that place at that time might be attributable to divine intervention. It is a credit to Holliday that he shared the irrefutable evidence of man's inhumanity to man with the nation and the world.

Until that incident Americans had been basking in the success of Operation "Desert Storm." We were proud of the superb manner in which our troops had performed. We were aware of the fact that a disproportionate number of blacks and Hispanics were engaged in the war in the Gulf. Historically, blacks have always served their country with pride and valor. Yet the American dilemma continues to be the treatment afforded many blacks on the homefront. After each conflict African-Americans return to face the existing realities of inequities in every aspect of their daily lives.

Psychologists and sociologists have pondered the evolution of racism in America. They concur that it has become institutionalized. Psychologists have concluded that prejudice is learned. Sociologists contend that collective behavior, in a gang, is much different from individual behavior. The presence of numbers of people acts as a catalyst to ignite a fuse of rage that seems to spread until the rage is spent and the victim of the gang activity is conclusively subdued.

SEMIHOLE OPINION

The Attorney General of the United States, Richard Thornburgh, expressed alarm over the numerous reports of police brutality nationwide. He has promised to launch an investigation. This appears to be an encouraging first step. However action in that area will speak louder than words. Often appointing a committee or promising an investigation is simply a tactic used to diffuse a volatile situation.

Incidents like the one in Los Angeles is a challenge to America's worldwide credibility as an advocate of human rights. Preserving the rights of its citizens at home must be a paramount priority. Twelve percent of its population cannot continue to be subjected to random racial violence dependent upon the white person or persons he or she happens to encounter particularly when these persons have sworn to uphold the law.

Dating from slavery in the American colonies during the 17th century, African Americans have been treated with disdain relative to their physical safety, civil rights and personal dignity. Justification for this treatment has usually revolved around some projected inferiority.

In 1970, Dr. James P. Comer, Associate Dean of Yale University, suggested that subtleties advanced proposing to prove blacks as significantly less than other members of the human family should be analyzed. "It is not responsible science to make assumptions about the meaning of black and white differences. Since the scientist does not know the black experience or fully understand or take into account the implications of the experiential differences. Few researchers have made systematic appraisal of the impact of inequitable and traumatic social policy." In 1991, this statement continues to have validity.

The latent fury in our midst must be brought into the light and examined carefully. It is a malignancy America needs to exorcise.

Do not ask how to find ol' Joe

NEW YORK — I don't know the man's real name, but he calls himself Joe Homeless. He is reportedly a middle-aged, formerly middle-class individual who has taken to living door-to-door because of circumstances he believes could happen to anyone. He is also an author who writes movingly about his vagabond existence, and, at present, he is said to be attempting to publish a book.

I learned about him from a Manhattan friend, who called recently to say that he had read an article the street person had written for The New York Times. The friend said the piece lacked polish, but the point of view was utterly convincing, and he suggested I come to the city and find Joe Homeless for an interview.

Good idea. I made arrangements to stop during a motor trip to New England. I meant to do some homework before arriving, to get particulars on the man, but time did not allow it. Therefore, I drove into Manhattan on a Sunday a.m., without any notion of where to find one homeless fellow among 8 million residents.

Sunday in New York. Those who think Gotham never closes have not been here during a chilly morning on the Sabbath. No one parades on Fifth Avenue. Only the pigeons give their regards to Broadway. I tried to contact usual sources for directions, but everything was shuttered, uptown, downtown and all around town.

Even the homeless shelters are sealed at Sunday breakfast. But there are a few exceptions. So I went to a West Side refuge, near the Port Authority bus terminal, and whereas the man on duty did not know Joe Homeless, he gave me a list of telephone numbers for some of the other groups that give assistance to street people.

Dwelling Place, for example. And the Salvation Army. And Holy Apostles Church. Our Lady of Guadalupe Church, and St. Francis of Assisi. I called a dozen of the groups, from Harlem to the Bowery, all to no avail. No one had so much as heard of Joe Homeless nor could they offer any ideas as to how to track him down.

Then at noon, as the chilly weather turned to rain, I got lucky. I thought. Several men lounging near the Port Authority phone booths overheard my calls, and one of them offered his services. He said he had known Joe Homeless for some months, and, if I would spring for a sackful of donuts, he would lead me to him. I got spudnuts and rubber necks, and we drove to the Seventh Day Adventist shelter on 45th Street. The guide said his name was Charles, but provided no further family details. He wore a large knit cap, different colored shoes, and what I took to be an Army greatcoat. He ate the frosting only and threw the donuts away.

Charles said he had been living on the streets for most of five years. And he took some pride in thinking there was a logical reason. "I used to have an apartment in Chelsea," he explained, "but, you know, if you don't have an apartment, you don't have rent, and you don't have to steal for the rent and go to jail."

When we got to the Seventh Day Adventist shelter, Joe Homeless was not there. We then went to St. Peter's Episcopal, and he wasn't at that kitchen either. We made two more stops, the latter back at the Port Authority, where we came up empty twice again — and, shrugging, Charles asked for a croissant sandwich.

He stayed in the car while I made the purchase from a vendor. Afterward, I saw Charles stuff something into his knit cap, and walk off. I thought quickly about my camera. It was on the back floor of the car. How could I have been so dumb? "Hold it!" I cried out. "Doggone you," or words to that effect. "Stop thief!"

There followed the requisite Dirty Harry chase. Charles raced through the Port Authority to Ninth Avenue — he had good speed for a man wearing waders — and he continued down 41st Street, in and out of a liling station, over a trestle, under a trestle, along a dispirited series of warehouses, and around to a parking lot.

I caught him in the parking lot. I grabbed his greatcoat and we tumbled in the rain, sliding into a red Chrysler. He was terrified. I was righteously disheveled. Surely, we looked like the fools we were. I took the knit cap, and let Charles go, and found that it was stuffed with Washington and Philadelphia newspapers.

I soon discovered that my camera was still on the back floor of the automobile. Charles had only stolen the papers. I couldn't understand why — the camera has real value — until a cop said the street man may not have seen the Nikon, or, perhaps: "He might have just thought it was OK to take the newspapers to sell."

I left for New Hampshire after that. I got out of town with a torn jacket, a croissant sandwich and a red face. And I never found Joe Homeless, more's the pity.

I got out of town with a torn jacket, a croissant sandwich and a red face.

The press fulfills democracy's role

WASHINGTON — Children learn from their history books about the Greek's nasty habit of killing the bearers of bad news. Those messengers probably should have lied to save their necks. Today's mass media messengers don't face death, as such, so they continue to make bad news their stock in trade. And the Greek tradition of killing the messenger has become a metaphor for contemporary media criticism.

The Persian Gulf War has brought plenty of occasions to remember the Greek system of disseminating information. It's now press bashing dressed up in the clothing of patriotism.

The public has blamed the press for showing too many pieces of Iraqi rubble, too many injured Iraqi civilians, too many dead Iraqi soldiers. Many newspaper readers caught up in the justifiable enthusiasm about the performance of American troops in the war, see the grim side of the story as somehow anti-American, anti-Bush, anti-team spirit at a time when the team is pulling together with pride. Still smarting from the pain of the Vietnam experience, some in the Pentagon will go to their deaths blaming the media for the failure of that war. In reality, the information coming to the American public about the Vietnam War was too little and too late. The public should have seen earlier the futility of the strategy that drove the war at half speed with the drivers sitting in the White House instead of in the combat zone. Incredibly, Americans did not even have a true picture of how many of their own were dying in Vietnam.

The press is not perfect. For the most part, its faults lie in errors of fact. And frequently, there are differences in interpretation. But it should not be a crime in the eyes of the public to gather those facts, interpret them with the best tools available and disseminate them to the public. The public's job is to weigh the information with some sophistication. A democracy assumes that it's people will not expect to be spoon fed. They are entitled, no, they are obligated, to make their own interpretations of what they read and see.

The offspring of the Greek tradition today includes the conservative Media Research Center and its chairman L. Brent Bozell III. He tried to bully Ted Turner into recalling CNN correspondent Peter Arnett from Baghdad. Said Bozell of Arnett, "He is more of a propagandist for Saddam Hussein than a reporter for CNN."

Arnett wasn't a propagandist, but he was working under Iraqi censorship, which was probably more severe than the censorship being imposed by the Pentagon. Sometimes you take what you can get. And Arnett went overboard to remind his viewers of what they were getting. He repeatedly said his reports were being censored and that there were many subjects about which he was not allowed to speak. Short of craving that caveat in stone and mailing it to every Nielsen ratings household, there was not much more Arnett could do but shut up, and that's the worst option of all.

Through Arnett, Americans saw Saddam Hussein the liar, the manipulator, the choreographer. They also saw real suffering among the people of Baghdad who were paying the price of war. That was important for a war that came dangerously close to looking like there was no downside, no price to be paid.

To question the military is not to condemn it, but to make sure that we as a nation have control of it. America is not made great only by its military might and patriotism. What makes America superior is its people's ability to control their government and monitor its every move.

It should not be a crime in the public's eye to gather the facts.

forerunner to the cruise lines of today. The "DeBary" once took vacationers "up" the St. Johns as far "south" as Puzze Lake.

A riverboat named the "Volusia" was built in 1882 but burned at Jacksonville in 1887.

A gent named H.T. Baya operated a number of vessels under the flag of "The Baya Line." They were the "Magnolia," the "Sylvan Glen" and the "Paattime." These craft carried passengers and even the U.S. Mail. Just south of Jacksonville at a stop called Tocol, connections were made with a railroad serving Gainesville and Ocala. Farther south these boats connected with DeBary steamers to Enterprise and Sanford.

Other river boats were the "Lillie," the "Caloosa," the "Hancock" and the "Darlington." However, I can't tell you anything specific about them.

But I can tell you an interesting fact I uncovered. Tug boats once pushed or pulled as many as five barges at a time loaded with new Fords and Chevrolets destined for auto dealers in Palatka, DeLand and Sanford, as late as 1927.

Most of us old timers remember when the Winn Lovett Grocery firm in Jacksonville once shipped food staples to a distribution warehouse situated over the waters of Lake Monroe in downtown Sanford. And, of course, we recall the tugs that brought gasoline barges up river to Sanford to replenish the huge tanks that once existed on the lakefront where an apartment complex is now located.

It was particularly interesting to find out how folks with horses, wagons, autos and trucks crossed the St. Johns before bridges were built. Hand-operated cable ferries were used. But I still can't find out how they operated. If you have any idea please let us know.

One more minor discovery: I have always referred to the attraction west of Orange City as Blue Springs. It isn't Blue Springs. It's officially "Blue Spring" — singular.

five points of taking first place at the state contest which was held in Lakeland.

In order to qualify as participants, school bus drivers must have an excellent driving record and not have any traffic citations of any kind within the last 12 months.

There were 40 drivers who participated in this year's contest.

The drivers are judged on their ability to perform well on an obstacle course which includes rail road crossings, backing into a narrow stall, driving through a serpentine course and driving into a space with diminishing clearance.

They are also judged on their ability to get students safely on to the bus and to inspect the bus for problems prior to starting off on a trip.

Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for transportation who was also on hand to cheer the drivers on said he was equally impressed with the drivers' abilities.

"Imagine maneuvering a 40-foot long school bus through a course where, at times, you only have a two-inch clearance," he said.

The Seminole County school bus drivers have distinguished themselves each of the seven years that they have participated in the Road-e-contests.

a maximum of 20 tons per day of medical waste by the year 2000. Vihlen said competition should only be the concern of himself and his fellow investors, which includes a medical waste transport company.

Vihlen said the facility will serve hospitals, physicians, veterinarians and other producers of potentially biologically harmful waste throughout central Florida. Such waste may include used plastic syringes from a hospital or human blood from a funeral parlor or animal blood from a vet's office. It is waste that cannot be discarded in a garbage dump unless it has first been decontaminated.

Poole said a small stream runs from the incinerator site through the zoo and is the favorite cooling-off spot for the zoo hippopotamus.

"If there were a problem, that animal could be impacted directly, presuming there was some risk," Poole said.

Poole said the zoo primates — monkeys and other apes — could be susceptible to the same breathing problems as humans should the facility release harmful materials to the air.

"We're neophytes in this area," Poole said. "If there were more time, perhaps we could have more of our concerns resolved."

Incineration is considered to be the most effective way of eliminating the biological risk posed by waste that has been exposed to bacteria and disease. The bulk is reduced to an ash which if found to contain harmful elements such as mercury must be buried in a special dump for hazardous waste. Otherwise, it can be buried in a regular dump or even used for road-bed material.

Currently, medical waste incinerators are regulated by the state, but not federal government. The U.S. Environmental Protection Agency is reviewing pollution standards for the facilities, but the regulations may not be imposed until Sept. 1993, said Jim Eddinger, an environmental engineer with the EPA emission standards division in North Carolina.

Allegedly using the name of Greg W. Edwards, Delbeke presented bank officials with documentation that showed him to be the president, secretary and treasurer of the company, according to police.

He allegedly showed bank officials a certificate of incorporation and other documents from the Department of State, which included a corporate document number and the names and addresses of the lawyers who allegedly represented the company.

Those names and addresses later proved to be false.

On Jan. 25, he reportedly withdrew $1,050 in cash from the account.

On Feb. 15, he allegedly made a deposit of $11,108 into the account. On March 1, another $424.42 was reportedly added by Delbeke. Both those deposits were in the form of checks made out to DLM Research.

After depositing money on March 1, he allegedly withdrew $11,125 from the account. He reportedly took $9,850 in cash and $1,275 in the form of a cashiers check.

According to bank officials, he allegedly returned to the bank ten minutes later to cash the cashiers check.

Records show that on March 5, Delbeke returned to the bank and deposited a $12,569.30 check that was made out to the company.

According to the arrest report, bank officials were began to suspect that the account might be fraudulent. It is unclear from the report who gave them the tip.

Bank officials were not available for comment on Saturday.

A police investigation showed that DLM Research Labs, formerly of Lake Mary, had rented the post office box currently used by Delbeke Support could not be reached, but vice chairman Theresa Stelling said the board is working to bring warring party factions together. She said dispelling the rumors would help to get the committee working towards more positive goals.

Furlong agreed with Stelling.

"There are better things they could spend their time on than this," Furlong said Friday. "I think what it is is some disgruntled Republicans are trying to figure out how a Democrat can win on a 60-40 split."

Some committee members have suggested county commissioner Bob Sturm quietly worked to support Furlong's successful campaign against Republican incumbent Sandra Glenn. Furlong denied Sturm participated in his campaign in any way.

"Absolutely, categorically, no," Furlong responded. "Not as far as I know anything about it did Bob work on my campaign. We met on the campaign trail and that was it."

Hussein shuffles Iraqi government

Bush dismisses reported change

Compiled From Wire Reports

Saddam Hussein shuffled his Cabinet Saturday amid a nationwide rebellion against his rule, but kept in place his hard-line ministers of interior and defense to direct a crackdown on dissent.

The government shakeup followed claims by Kurdish and Shiite Muslim rebels that rioting in the north and south had intensified and spread to the capital, Baghdad.

A presidential decree signed by Saddam installed a new 24-member Cabinet, a week after the beleaguered president promised his nation democratic reforms after nearly 12 years of autocratic rule.

President Bush on Saturday dismissed the announced changes in Iraq's government, saying "Saddam Hussein still appears to be calling the shots."

The president told reporters, "There are some interesting cabinet shifts, but nothing that appears to depart from support for Saddam Hussein's policies," in the changes Baghdad announced earlier Saturday.

Bush spoke with Turkish President Turgut Ozal at his side after the two returned to the White House from the presidential retreat at Camp David, Md., where they held talks earlier about peace efforts in the postwar Middle East.

"I would simply say that Saddam Hussein appears to still be calling the shots," Bush told reporters. "As I have said before, normal relations with the United States cannot be effected with Saddam Hussein calling the shots, still in power."

Bush said he had received mixed reports on the Shiite Muslim rebellion in the south of Iraq.

"Apparently the rebels are still fighting hard," despite Saddam's claims to have put down the rebellion, Bush said. "I think it's fair to say there is enormous consternation and turmoil in Iraq today and we are playing no part in that, but it shows I think, great unrest with the rule of Saddam Hussein."

He said it would be "difficult to estimate" Saddam's ability to

Most IRS managers say agency is fair

By JIM LUTHER
AP Tax Writer

WASHINGTON — The managers who run the IRS view the tax agency as incorruptible, efficient and — above all — fair. The most common ethical lapse they see among fellow employees is the snatching of government supplies for personal use.

Seven percent of those officials, who oversee processing and auditing of tax returns, believe Internal Revenue Service power is used at least occasionally to punish or intimidate; 51 percent said it's never done.

More than half say the IRS should back off hard-line enforcement efforts and emphasize "customer service."

By large margins, they consider themselves more honest than lawyers, journalists, members of Congress or appointed officials. And only 5 percent think taxpayers are really bad.

The Josephson Institute of Ethics surveyed 1,500 top IRS managers across the country to see what they think about the agency, how they view their roles and what they consider to be ethical behavior.

IRS Commissioner Fred T. Goldberg Jr. ordered the survey in January as part of a campaign to heighten his 120,000 employees' ethics awareness. He acted after a House panel probed several cases of misconduct among senior managers and after critics offered mounds of evidence of cavalier treatment of taxpayers.

Sixty percent of the managers said the criticism is valid enough to warrant a thorough cleanup effort.

One of the most vocal critics, the National Coalition of IRS Whistleblowers, got the jump on the agency and made the survey public last week.

"Top IRS officials ... clearly have shown once again that they are not about to effectively deal with the widespread dishonesty and corruption within the agency — and it appears to be the worst at the top," said Paul DesFosses, president of the coalition.

DesFosses, who put in 19 years with the IRS, found much to criticize in the report stay in power, which he characterized as "difficult for him."

However, he said the United States plans to stay out of Iraq's internal problems and urged other countries to do the same.

"I think it would be better if everybody stayed out and let the Iraqi people decide what they want to do ... that's what we plan to do."

Bush turned aside a question on the U.S. preference on a government to replace Saddam Hussein.

"What we're looking for is stability. We're not looking for disorder. We're looking for somebody that is going to lead that country in the ways of peace," Bush said. "I don't think it would be appropriate for the United States ... to comment on whether it would be a government controlled by one element or the other."

In the Iraqi government shakeup, Saddam gave up the job of prime minister but remains as president, as head of the ruling Iraqi branch of the Arab Socialist Baath Party and as chairman of the Revolutionary Command Council, which effectively runs the country.

He appointed Saadoun Hammadi, a member of the nation's Shiite Muslim majority, as prime minister. Saddam had held that post since he became president in July 1979.

Tariq Aziz, a Christian, lost his post as foreign minister, but stayed on as a deputy prime minister.

Another senior member of the ruling Arab Baath Socialist Party, Mohammed Hamza al-Zubaidi, also was named a deputy prime minister, according to the decree, released by the official Iraqi News Agency.

Hammadi is a native of Karbala, a storm center of the Shiite Muslim unrest in the south. He is regarded as an advocate of political reform and pressed for compromise with Iran before the war with the neighboring country ended in 1988.

His appointment to the post appeared to be an attempt to appease the Shites, who make up 55 percent of Iraq's 17 million people and are waging a revolt in southern Iraq.

Among the 10 ministers who kept their posts were Interior Minister Ali Hasan al-Majid, a cousin of Saddam; Defense Minister Saadi Tuma Abbas, and Saddam's son-in-law Hussein Kamel Hassan, minister of military industrialization and industry and acting oil minister.

Al-Majid is known as the "butcher of the Kurds" because he ordered the attack on the Kurdish town of Halabjah in March 1988 in which thousands of people reportedly died from chemical-weapons attacks.

Abbas, the defense minister, is the former commander of the Republican Guard, which had been the backbone of loyalist forces trying to crush rebellions against the government.

Bush the liberator wins Kuwaiti hearts, praises

By EDITH M. LEDERER
Associated Press Writer

KUWAIT CITY — Women want to marry him or name their children after him. Men call him boss or father. His name is on the lips of children.

George Bush, the liberator, has won Kuwaiti hearts.

When Kuwait's emir, Sheik Jaber Al-Ahmed Al-Sabah, returned home after seven months in exile, only about 5,000 Kuwaitis showed up to welcome him.

But Kuwaitis predict tens of thousands will turn out to cheer Bush when he makes a planned visit to the emirate. The White House says he wants to come soon, but no date has been set.

"If Bush comes, we will put him as emir," said Amal Al-Najjar, 30, a math teacher who printed an underground newspaper at her home and organized trips to Baghdad for Kuwaiti families to visit their loved ones.

"We used to have a saying, 'God, Land and the Emir.' Now people say, 'God, Land and Bush,' because even all the children know who got Kuwait free — Mr. Bush."

Petition presented in Lake Mary

By NICK PFEIFER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — A petition containing the signatures of 527 Lake Mary residents was submitted to the City Commission last Thursday night that would call for a public referendum prohibiting the city from agreeing to any expenditure item that could not be paid for within one year, without a prior public referendum vote on each extension.

The petition was presented late in the commission meeting, by Sheila Sawyer, representing the people who had signed it. The matter is similar to one passed in the city of Longwood last year by a 3 to 2 vote of that commission.

Lake Mary Mayor Randy Morris said such a referendum would cause a number of problems for the city in making large scale or long term purchases. "What will happen if we have something that might take five years to pay for if we have to include a phrase saying,

"per citizen approval", each time," he said.

Morris said a similar matter was discussed several months ago, though no petition was turned in at that time. "When it first came up," Morris said, "all five of us (the Commission) were against it."

The petition, according to Morris, will now be turned over to the city staff who will first have to justify the fact that all signers are verified to be registered voters within the City, then several legal documents must be written.

"After we've finished all of the paper work," Morris said, "it will then be up to the Commission to decide whether the proposal will be placed on a special ballot, or wait until the next general election, which is not scheduled until November."

The Mayor said he did not know at this time, how long it will take the city staff to handle all of the required work needed and return the petition to the City Commission.

Orlando-bound jet declares emergency

Associated Press

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — A Midway Airlines DC-9 carrying 110 passengers depressurized, forcing the pilot to dive 17,000 feet before making an unscheduled landing here.

Flight 776 from Chicago to Orlando, Fla., landed without incident Friday at Nashville. There were no reports of injuries.

The jet lost cabin pressure about 7:50 p.m. CST, causing oxygen masks to drop and forcing the pilot to dive from 31,000 feet to 14,000 feet, Midway Airlines spokeswoman Sandra Allen said.

"It happened about an hour into the flight," Allen said. "At 14,000 feet, the plane began to regain cabin pressure."

SANFORD — Seminole County will hold its kindergarten spring registration on April 16, 17 and 18 and April 23, 24 and 25.

This pre-registration is designed for parents of children who will be attending Seminole County schools as kindergarten or first grade students for the first time in the fall of 1991.

Parents should call the school where their youngster is zoned to attend classes to find which day they should register. Registration at all schools will be held from 7 a.m. to 3 p.m.

In order to attend kindergarten a student must be five years old on or before Sept. 1, 1991. In order to register for the first grade, a student must be six years old on or before Sept. 1, 1991 and must have successfully completed kindergarten.

Parents should bring proof of the child's age, residency and immunization record. A copy of the child's physical examination record, if available, should also be brought to the registration.

Golnik takes a first

LONGWOOD — Ben Golnik, an eighth grader at Milwee Middle School, 1725 County Road 427 in Longwood, won first place at the Seminole County Science Fair recently.

Golnik, who did research into the behavior of fire ants, took first place at the event last year as well.

Last year he also took third place honors at the state science fair contest.

His project included a research paper which included information gathered from many experts in the field and a plaster mold of a fire ant mound made in his backyard.

Lakeview teachers attend class

SANFORD — Vera DeLoach, a sixth grade math teacher at Lakeview Middle School, 21 Lakeview Dr. in Sanford and Beverly James, who teaches life sciences to seventh graders at that school, have been selected to attend the Academy for Teachers of Science and Mathematics which will be held at the University of Tennessee this summer.

Lake Mary students keep up busy pace

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary High School students grew increasingly busy this past week as they prepared for this week's quarterly exams, the impending spring break and the busy months that are ahead.

Student government announced that elections for SGA positions for the 1991-92 school year will be held the second week in May. Current president Katie Gilliam is encouraging all underclassmen hopefuls to attend the upcoming Monday meetings and to learn more about the responsibilities associated with being a member of the student government association.

The Lake Mary High School chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk is currently selling bumper stickers and promoting celebrating Spring Break with moderation. The club has invited all members of the LMHS student body to attend a Central Florida SADD coalition candlelight vigil commemorating all teenagers of Central Florida who have lost their lives in recent alcohol-related automobile accidents.

The vigil will be on Wednesday, March 27, at 7:30 p.m. at the Winter Park Civic Center.

Interact is participating in the Lake Mary Rotary Club's "Helper Day," in which students will be auctioned off to Rotarians and serve as the Rotarians' personal helpers for a day, doing such work as washing cars, household chores and office work.

The Rotary Club is offering two $500 scholarships to Lake Mary High School students. One is for an Interact member and the other is for any Lake Mary student. Community service will be given special consideration.

Getting ready for the Seminole High prom

SANFORD — If that perfect dress has not been found or that coordinating tux not chosen and reserved, it is time for Seminole High School 11th and 12th graders to get on the ball.

The junior class officers have set Saturday, April 20 as the date for the school's junior-senior prom.

The grand event will take place at the Orlando Marriott Hotel on International Drive starting at 8 p.m. and ending at midnight.

Tina Brown, junior class president, announced the time and date late last month so students would have enough to prepare themselves.

Even though seniors and juniors have had a month to get things together, most of them are still spending a great deal of their time searching the malls and boutiques for just the right gown or that perfect pair of shoes. While girls had to go to shops to see the latest in evening wear fashions, boys only had to attend school where stylish young men modeled tuxedos from Saccos and Plaza Tux.

The tuxedos they saw were elements of this year's designer styles.

As the prom draws closer and closer and the bills continue to rise, seniors must remember that they still have to set aside cash for Grad Nite at Walt Disney World.

The Disney affair will take place on Saturday, May 11. It will begin at 11 p.m. and wrap up by 5 a.m.

Tickets are available at $30 in the Seminole High School bookkeeper's office.

The deadline to purchase Grad Night tickets is Wednesday March 27. Students should keep in mind that only seniors are allowed to attend.

Cataract questions addressed

By ALFRED S. JOLSON, M.D.
Ophthalmology

This article answers many questions commonly asked about cataracts.

●What are cataracts?
The normal transparent lens located in the pupillary opening behind the colored iris becomes less transparent as we age. Over the years, tiny opacities accumulate within the lens and block or scatter light from focusing on the retina (the photographic plate of the eye) which reduces vision.

●How do I know if I have cataracts?

Since the accumulation of these lenticular opacities is a life long process, persons in their 60s may notice a reduction in their vision that cannot be improved with glasses. If you notice your vision has reduced or that you see better in reduced light than bright daylight you need to have an eye examination

Medical office managers hold dinner, lecture

SANFORD — The Medical Office Managers Association will hold its next meeting on Tuesday at Central Florida Regional Hospital with Barbara Harrison from In Home Medical speaking on "Medicare Prescription Forms and Regulations."

Dinner will be provided by In Home Medical at 6 p.m. with the speaker beginning at 6:30 p.m. Please R.S.V.P. to Judy at Dr. Yogendra's office, 321-2197.

Impotents Anonymous meeting announced

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — "How Vascular Problems Affect Impotence" is the topic of the next Impotents Anonymous meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the Chalos Conference Center at Florida Hospital, 601 E. Altamonte Drive.

-Dr. A.S. Jolson

"If you notice your vision has reduced or that you see better in reduced light than bright daylight you need to have an eye examination."

by a medical eye physician, an ophthalmologist.

●When do I consider having cataract surgery?

Because we all accumulate tiny opacities within our lenses over the years, we all develop mild cataractous changes. It is when these opacities become dense enough to block vision that surgical removal of the cataract becomes advisable. During this premature cataract stage, prescription eye glasses and a strong reading light will improve the vision most of the time.

Consider removal of an advanced cataract when your vision becomes impaired to the point that you cannot comfortably perform your daily activities and your glasses will not improve your vision.

For example, to maintain your drivers license you need to have a corrected vision better than 20/70. If your best corrected vision is worse than 20/70 because of cataracts you may consider having cataract surgery if you want to continue driving.

●What can be done if I have cataracts?

Cataract removal is an outpatient surgical procedure that permits you to return home shortly after the surgery. There is very little discomfort during the procedure or afterwards. A general anesthetic is not necessary. At the time of surgery an Intraocular lens implant is usually put into the eye to replace the removed cataract. The results of these lens implants are excellent because vision generally returns to normal. With an Intraocular lens implant thick cataract glasses and cataract contact lenses are unnecessary.

Dr. A.S. Jolson practices ophthalmology at 1830 Greenwich Ave., Winter Park and also in Altamonte Springs.

The health column is provided as a community service by the Seminole County Medical Society. Inquiries may be directed to the medical society.

A SPINE OUT OF BALANCE

If you're feeling out of sorts, with a vague discomfort in your back, your spine may be out of balance.

Your spine serves a vital function in many ways. The spine and nervous system attached to it, in fact, have a direct effect on many of the functions of your body. It's important to keep the spine in proper balance.

The spine is connected to a foundation made up of your pelvis and legs. If this foundation is well-balanced and working normally, it helps to keep your spine in balance, otherwise it can cause pain and discomfort.

For example, if a house's foundation is crooked or unsteady, it will distort the walls. You'll see cracks in the plaster. Doors won't fit properly. Windows may not open. You can repair the cracked plaster and trim the doors and windows to fit again. But how long will these "cover-ups" last? Your body also needs a good foundation. If your spine is out of balance, seek the treatment you need to put it right again.

IN BRIEF

TENNIS

Seles outlasts Sabatini

KEY BISCAYNE — Monica Seles overcame six set points in one game, then squandered four match points before beating Gabriela Sabatini in the women's final of the International Players Championships Saturday.

The top-ranked Seles won 6-3, 7-5, snapping Sabatini's 15-match winning streak.

The tense final game went to deuce six times. Seles made errors on two match points, and Sabatini hit winners on two others.

Finally, at advantage-out, Sabatini floated a backhand long, and the weary Seles was the tournament champion for the second year in a row.

While the women's tournament came down to a battle of the No. 2 and 3 seeds, the men's draw has produced plenty of upsets and unexpected finalists. Unseeded David Wheaton and No. 13 Jim Courier, former high school classmates and products of the same tennis academy in Bradenton will meet for the title Sunday.

NCAA TOURNAMENT

Jayhawks won't go away

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — Kansas took the comeback trail to Indianapolis.

The Jayhawks overcame two double-digit deficits and took command midway through the second half on Saturday to beat Arkansas 93-81 in the Southeast Regional final. It earned them their ninth trip to the Final Four and first since they won the national championship in 1988.

Last time, Danny Manning was the hero for Kansas. This time, junior Alonzo Jamison was the top scorer with a career-high 26, but as usual it was a team effort for the Jayhawks (26-7).

The loss ended Arkansas' bid for consecutive trips to the Final Four. Last year, the Razorbacks lost to Duke in the national semifinals.

UNLV rolls into Final Four

SEATTLE — The Shark attack is back with a vengeance.

Larry Johnson started a UNLV feeding frenzy in the second half Saturday that gobbled up Seton Hall, led to a 77-65 victory and put the defending champion Runnin' Rebels back in the Final Four.

Johnson, who finished with 30 points, pumped in 3-pointers to open and close UNLV's 14-0 surge after halftime, which turned a three-point lead into a 53-36 runaway.

Coach Jerry Tarkanian worried about his players' intensity before this game. But Tark the Shark enjoyed this show against Seton Hall. The Rebels looked as good as they have all season as they ran their winning streak to 45 and boosted their season record to 34-0.

AUTO RACING

Brown claims Spring 200 pole

BARBERVILLE — Defending NASCAR Busch Grand National Series champion Chuck Bown of Portland, Ore., won the pole starting position Saturday night for the $94,528 Spring 200 Busch Series race Sunday at the half-mile Volusia County Speedway.

Bown, driving a Pontiac, broke a 19-race pole drought when he turned a lap in 16.970 seconds, an average speed of 106.069 mph. His last pole was at the Volusia County race last July.

Robert Pressley of Asheville, N.C., will be on the outside of the front row for the race, which is scheduled to begin at 2:15 p.m.

Hill favored at Gatornationals?

GAINESVILLE — Eddie Hill enters Sunday's 22nd Annual National Hot Rod Association Gatornationals as the No. 1 qualifier in the Top Fuel division. But the 55-year-old Texan refuses to call himself a favorite in the final eliminations.

Qualifying to establish the 16-car final elimination fields in the Top Fuel, Funny Car, and Pro Stock division was held at Gainesville Raceway Saturday.

The finals are scheduled to begin Sunday at 11 a.m. After last Friday's qualifying session, the popular event was rained out and moved to this weekend.

Hill set a new track record last Friday when he blistered down the quarter-mile at an elapsed time on 4.920 seconds. Hill's qualifying time held up Saturday, but Kenny Bernstein surprised everybody when he posted the fastest run of the day (4.949) seconds.

In the Pro Stock division, defending world champion Darrell Alderman had the quickest time.

Stanley Evans, sliding into third during a steal attempt earlier in the game, drew a bases-loaded walk to score Charles Whitener with the tying run Saturday in the Seminole Community College Raiders' win over Lake City.

Raiders rally by Lake City

Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Jason Sandberg went 3-for-4 with two doubles and four RBI and Dacks Rodriguez went 2-for-4 with a home run and three RBI to lead Seminole Community College to a 12-8 victory over Lake City Community College Saturday.

Blane Barroso also was 2-for-4 with two doubles and three runs scored for the Raiders, 8-15 and 4-9 in the North Central Conference.

SCC led 6-0 before the Timberwolves erupted for eight runs in the top of the sixth. After cutting the lead to 8-7 with a run in the sixth, the Raiders sent 10 men to the plate during a five-run eighth.

Ralph Luciani led it off with a single. An out later, Barroso was hit with a pitch. Charles Whitener, running for Luciani, and Barroso advanced on a wild pitch before Rodriguez was intentionally walked with two outs to load the bases.

Stanley Evans followed with a walk that forced in Whitener with the tying run. Joseph Gollinski singled in Barroso before Sandberg was hit by a pitch, forcing in Rodriguez. Rich Knizner then singled in Evans and Gollinski.

Joseph Samaco pitched the final 3 1/2 innings, allowing only two singles and striking out two, to earn his second victory of the season.

"It was a wild and wooly game," said SCC Coach Jack Pantellas. "But I knew that we would come back."

On Friday afternoon at Raider Field, SCC lost 11-7 to the Indian River Community College Pioneers.

Trailing 11-2 in the ninth inning, the Raiders mounted a valiant comeback.

With one out, Scott Cursi walked, Jack Niles singled and Barroso walked to load the bases. Chad Epperson then singled in Tim Velez (running for Cursi) and Niles. Rodriguez followed with a walk to again load the bases before Evans singled, scoring Barroso.

Whitener then hit into a force play that scored Epperson. Rodriguez came in on a wild pitch, cutting the margin to 11-7. But SCC could get no closer as Damon Brush struck out to end the game.

Ram boys, Lion girls net titles

By TONY DeBORMIER
Herald Sports Editor

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — On paper, the Oviedo High School girls and Lake Mary boys were supposed to win the Seminole Athletic Conference tennis championships this year.

"On Friday, they made it a probability a reality on the courts at Sanlando Park, winning all but one individual championship on their way to claiming their respective team titles. Both the Lions and Rams scored 20 team points, one shy of the maximum.

"It was a very good tournament," said Oviedo Coach Don Gustafson, who watched his team win its third consecutive conference championship. "It couldn't have been much better."

Leading the Lions were the Kotskos and Wise sisters. The four each won singles' titles, then combined (sister with sister) to win the two doubles' titles.

Tracy Kotskos defeated Lake Mary's Lori Junker 6-0, 6-1 in the finals at No. 1 singles. Jenni Wise beat Lake Mary's Kim Diehl 6-2, 6-1 at No. 2 singles. Jill Wise topped Lake Brantley's Krista Grimm 6-3, 6-0 for the No. 3 singles title and Kristina Kotskos knocked off Lake Mary's Jenn Wheeler 6-4, 6-3 in the No. 4 singles final.

The Kotskos and Wise sisters were all seeded No. 1 in their respective divisions.

Kotskos and Kotskos then went on to beat the top-seeded duo of Junker and Diehl 6-2, 7-6 for the No. 1 doubles championship. The Wise twins, who were the top seeds, beat Lyman's Heather Huddleston and Angie Evans 6-0, 6-1 in the No. 2 doubles finals.

claim was at No. 5 singles, where Lake Mary's Yvonne Carrioco defeated Oviedo's Christina Neufeld 6-0, 6-2 in the finals.

Following Oviedo in the team standings were Lake Mary (13), Lyman (6), Lake Brantley (4), DeLand (3), Lake Howell (2) and Seminole (1).

It was much the same in the boys' half of the tournament, the Lake Mary boys rolling through the championship round in what was largely a dual meet with the Lake Brantley Patriots.

Trailing the Rams in the final team standings were Lake Brantley (12), Lyman (9), Lake Howell (5), DeLand (2), Oviedo (1) and Seminole (0).

Winning singles titles for the Rams were Jason Appel, Jason White, Jack Whigham and Jake

Hudick's two-hitter lifts Rams

By PHIL SMITH

LAKE MARY — Dave Hudick hurled a two-hit shutout to lead the Lake Mary Rams to a 7-0 victory over the Lake Weir Hurricanes Friday evening at Ruus Field.

"We played real good ball to night," said Lake Mary Coach Allen Tuttle. "The kids enjoyed themselves out there and that's the way it's suppose to be."

The Rams, 8-6, broke out on top in the bottom of the third inning. After Chris Barfield led off with an infield single, Chris Hancy bunted for a hit and reached second when the pitcher fielded the bunt and threw to an uncovered first base.

T. J. Hamilton followed with a bloop double down the right field line scoring Barfield and Hancy. Neil James then singled in Hamilton and took second on the throw home.

Then, with one out, Mike Merthie reached on an infield single advancing James to third. But the throw to first went wild, allowing James to score and give the Rams a 4-0 lead.

Meanwhile, Hudick (2-0) cruised along, striking out nine batters without a walk and not allowing a runner past second base.

"Everything was working for me, all four pitches (fastball, curve, change-up, split-finger)," said Hudick. "After I was given a lead to work with, I just threw strikes and let the defense do their job."

Lake Mary added three insurance runs in the sixth inning.

The Rams will try to stay on the winning track when they host Lyman Wednesday at 7 p.m.

Scutero, Johnson blank Seminoles for Silver Hawks

By BILL KERNS
Herald Correspondent

SANFORD — Lake Howell's Brian Scutero and Andrae Johnson combined on a six-hitter to blank Seminole 2-0 in a Seminole Athletic Conference baseball game played Friday afternoon at Seminole Field.

With the win, Lake Howell (10-3 overall) improves to 6-2 in the conference.

Robby Morgan of Seminole and Scutero of Lake Howell hooked in a classic pitchers' duel as the game moved to the sixth inning 0-0.

"Robby Morgan and the Lake Howell pitchers all pitched real good games," said Seminole head coach Mike Powers. "Both teams played excellent defense."

Lake Howell broke the ice with the game's only two runs in the top of the sixth inning. After Mervyl Melendez doubled, Bob Coleman laid down a bunt single. One out later, Bob Andino was intentionally walked to load the bases. Eric Weiner then bounced a double down the left field line to score Melendez and Coleman.

Lake Howell Coach Birtio Benjamin was not satisfied with only two runs in the inning or for the game.

"We're not hitting the baseball well," said Benjamin. "We're making it hard on the pitchers, and we need to find a way to score more runs. For example, in the sixth inning with the bases loaded, we did score two runs, but we should score more runs in that situation."

In the bottom of the sixth inning, Jeremy Chumat singled with one out for Seminole. Matt Freeman's bullet to the middle then nailed Scutero in his pitching arm, forcing him to leave with a deep bruise.

Johnson relieved Scutero and walked Scott Ferguson to load the bases before getting the final two outs of the inning.

Seminole threatened again in the seventh inning, loading the bases on walks to David Eckstein and Chumat and a single by Rick Eckstein, but failed to score as Johnson picked up his first save of the season.

For Morgan, who gave up six hits, struck out three and did not walk a batter, the game presented a tired scenario of pitching well but receiving no offensive support.

"Robby (Morgan) has had tough luck," said Powers. "He's pitching well and is one of our best pitchers, but he's got to have some help. It's the same as it's been all year. We've got to score some runs and get some hits."

Seminole, 6-10 and 0-8 in the SAC, will host DeLand Wednesday at 3:30. Lake Howell returns home to play Seabreeze Monday at 3:30.

To appreciate what Baltimore shortstop Cal Ripken accomplished last season in big league baseball, consider this fact... Many players have made more errors in one week than Ripken made all year — and Ripken played in every game for Baltimore last season... Ripken made only 3 errors all year, finishing with the highest fielding average ever by a shortstop (.998) for a full season in major league history.

Only one player in the history of basketball has ever been named the Most Outstanding Player in the NCAA tournament 3 straight years — as a sophomore, junior and senior... That record is held by Kareem Abdul-Jabbar who was voted Most Outstanding Player of the NCAA tournaments of 1987, 1988 and 1989.

Now that Buffalo has been to the Super Bowl, there are only 9 teams in the National Football League who've NEVER played in a Super Bowl... Those 9 are... Atlanta, Cleveland, Detroit, Houston, New Orleans, Phoenix, San Diego, Seattle and Tampa Bay.

ORLANDO — A federal grand jury here has indicted a former Martin Marietta Corp. engineer, charging him with using inside information to bilk the company's Orlando division of almost $67,000.

Siemens Stromberg looks to bright future

By BOB PFEFFER
Herald Staff Writer

LAKE MARY — Plans have been announced by Siemens Stromberg-Carlson to launch a new marketing and technology strategy that will become the guiding factor of the entire company into the 21st century.

The plan is called Vision O-N-E, with the initials standing for "Optimized Network Evolution."

Jane Felton, Public Relations spokesperson at the Lake Mary facility said the project will involve the entire Siemens Stromberg-Carlson organization, home based in Boca Raton, with manufacturing and other functional groups in Albuquerque, N.M. and Phoenix, Arizona, in addition to the Lake Mary plant. The company is the third-largest equipment supplier to the U.S. public telecommunications network.

Felton said, "This is part of an ongoing structure. It involves all of our facilities and will keep Siemens Stromberg-Carlson progressing into the next century."

Company executives say Vision O-N-E comes in response to new business realities confronting public telephone companies. The aim is to provide such carrier networks with not only advanced, multimedia, high-speed data opportunities, but to do so without suffering from the high of updating their entire network of equipment.

Volker Jung, the corporate president said, "We're not telling customers to blindly upgrade their networks, we're helping them manage their short and long term profitability."

Senior vice president of Marketing and Business Development, Van Cullena, explained the title of the program. "Every investment the exchange carrier makes should meet two criteria," he said. "First, it should deliver a marketable application that promises immediate revenue return or cost reductions. Second, it should add technology that will endure into the future. That's what we mean by Optimized Network Evolution."

In addition to the telecommunications products, Siemens Stromberg-Carlson designs, develops and manufactures a complete line of digital voice and data switching.

ORLANDO — Two real estate brokerages have joined forces in metropolitan Orlando in an attempt to dominate the area's market for existing home sales, executives of the companies said.

Keyes Florida Inc., with four Orlando area offices, and Real Estate One Inc., with four Orlando offices and one in New Smyrna Beach, have combined operations to create Real Estate One-Keyes Inc., executives said.

The new company will have about 225 sales associates and will be one of the largest residential brokerages operating in metro Orlando.

The new company will have six locations: Lake Mary, Longwood, Orlando, Maitland, Casselberry, and New Smyrna Beach.

Ted Pappas, chairman of The Keyes Co., based in Miami, and Richard Elsea, president of Real Estate One Inc., based in Farmington Hills, Mich., said the new company hopes to garner as much as 20 percent of the market. Existing home sales in Orlando last year exceeded $1.1 billion.

No one company has ever been able to dominate the Orlando market to that degree, Pappas and Elsea said.

Southeast Bank executives win golden 'chutes

Associated Press

Struggling Southeast Banking Corp., which eliminated its payout to common and preferred shareholders this year, is giving generous "golden parachutes" to its recently departed executives.

According to Southeast's proxy statement released Tuesday, the Miami banking company is paying its retired chairman Charles Zwick $41,667 a month for the next 30 months — a total of $1.25 million.

Zwick retired in January when the bank's biggest stockholder, Alfonso Fajul Jr., took over as chairman of the Southeast's executive committee. Zwick had a four-year employment contract that ended in 1983. Last year, his salary was $485,000, or about $40,000 a month.

Southeast, which lost $200 million in 1990, eliminated dividends on its common and preferred stocks this year to help boost the bank's capital. But the bank is obligated to honor its employment contracts. Southeast spokeswoman Ida Roberts said.

DISTINCTIONS

Paul Osborne (l) and Brent Carl
Rotarian honored

Rotary brother Scott Wyse called Paul Osborne a "baby Rotarian" Thursday when Osborne was honored for his contributions to the Lake Mary club.

An unfazed Osborne shot back, "He joined the club about two weeks before me. I guess that makes him a full-fledged big boy."

Rotary President Brent Carl presented Osborne with a ballpoint pen and a certificate for one year of active service as chairman of all environmental issues, including the Rinehart Road cleanup. Osborne is also chairman of the Rotary National Convention Committee.

LAKE MARY — The bodybuilder is a titled contender, taking second place in the heavyweight division of the Seminole Classic last year.

When not pumping iron, the five-foot nine-inch 170-pound powerhouse dons a Florida Highway Patrol uniform, cruising the roads in a marked car.

And the state trooper wears lipstick and lace edged leotards.

Lake Mary resident Shelly Friend, 25, has been training about a year for a schedule she says will include more competition. For the Seminole Classic, she says she dieted down to 137 pounds so muscle definition was more distinct.

"Rick had me on a very strict high protein diet. I ate chicken and egg whites for three weeks. The last two days I ate a 25-pound bag of chicken. At least he let me put Tabasco sauce on it," she says.

She resumed her normal eating habits after the competition.

"I gained it all back in two days," she sighs.

Rick is Friend's husband and personal trainer, who has trained over 40 state and local champions in the 13 years he has been in the bodybuilding business. Owner of Gold's Gym in Lake Mary, he is also a titled bodybuilder, placing sixth in Michigan's state competition.

He stressed that Friend's diet is a dangerous one if not closely supervised.

"It's down to a science. You almost have to be living with someone to get it right," he cautions.

Rick says he looks for "symmetrics and good genetics" when assessing a woman's ability to develop her body to competition status.

"That means everything is equally distributed. When a woman stands up straight, nothing overshadows anything else," he says.

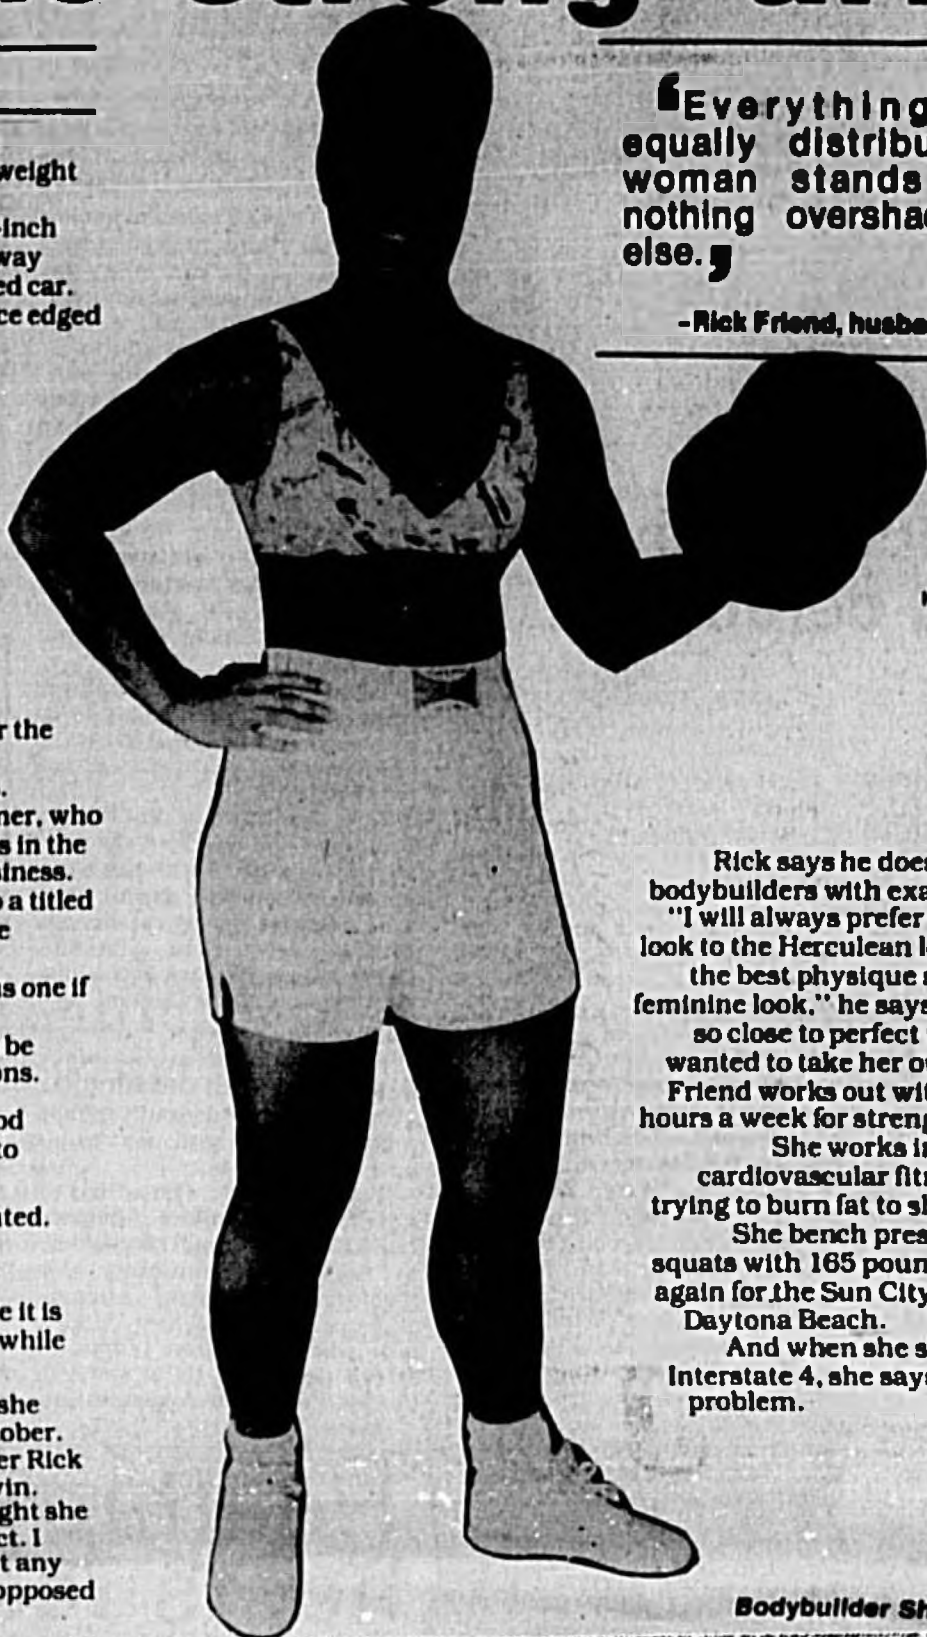

Friend says she met Rick at the gym, where it is customary for one person to spot for another while working with the free weights.

"I spotted him and knew he was for me," she jokingly says of the man she married last October.

Friend became interested in competition after Rick assured her that with hard work, she could win. "When Shelly originally asked me if I thought she could compete, I thought she would be perfect. I think she will go to the top naturally, without any supplements or steroids, which I am totally opposed to," Rick says.

Everything should be equally distributed. When a woman stands up straight, nothing overshadows anything else.

Bodybuilder Shelly Friend

Rick says he does not care for women bodybuilders with exaggerated muscles.

"I will always prefer the feminine, strong look to the Herculean look. Shelly will have the best physique she can and keep the feminine look," he says. "I thought she was so close to perfect when I met her I also wanted to take her out," he confides.

Friend works out with weights about five hours a week for strength and muscle tone.

She works in aerobics classes for cardiovascular fitness and when she is trying to burn fat to shed a few pounds.

She bench presses 120 pounds. She squats with 165 pounds. She is in training again for the Sun City Classic to be held in Daytona Beach.

And when she stops a lawbreaker on Interstate 4, she says she has never had a problem.

Man digs deep to transplant big trees

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

SANFORD — Dennis Eppard is fond of digging up trees. Big trees. Giant trees.

"I can move an earthball that's 84 inches in diameter," the Sanford man proudly said.

Eppard doesn't always dig in the dirt with a shovel. He scoops trees as large as 30 feet tall out of the earth, including roots sometimes as deep as six feet, with specialized equipment he uses in his business, Eppard Tree Farms.

"The machine I use gets a considerable amount of everything that's needed," Eppard said.

He said not many giant tree movers can be seen maneuvering around town.

"To my knowledge, it's the only one in Seminole County," he said.

Eppard said he has moved thousands of big trees over the last 20 years. He said moving trees on busy highways is as tricky as moving houses.

"You have to watch out for power lines and traffic, and you have to pull in the large limbs to clear obstacles on the side of the road," he explained.

Eppard said tree limbs can span 20 feet. They are pruned before the move.

His most harrowing adventure on the road occurred while moving a tree from the T.G. Lee Dairy Farm near Orlando International Airport, to the other side of Orlando.

"Well, I had to go through a tollbooth," he chuckled and said.

Although he said his crew is very careful in heavily wooded areas, mishaps do happen.

"One of my operatres was digging one day and got bit by a big bull snake. It scared him more than hurt him. We try to be careful," he said.

Eppard said he stays busy for one very good reason.

"If you want a big tree, this is easier than waiting for it to grow," he said.

He said people often take trees for moving houses.

Spring is bustin' out all over

Fashions usher in season

The Sanford Garden Club kicked off the spring season with a card party and fashion show on March 14. It was a swing into spring event as nearly 100 members and guests played a variety of card games, munched on lunch, and viewed spring fashions on parade from the collection at Ro-Jay in Sanford.

The card party was a fundraiser to send two youths to Wekiva Youth Camp this summer. Selected to attend the camp are: Natalie Clauck and Michael Tishken.

Also, the fund-raiser supports SEEK, Save the Earth's Environment through Knowledge. Two youths who will attend this program at the Marine Science Station, Crystal River, this summer are: Kristie Stankiewicz and Donald Chu.

Tables of card buffs played bridge, canasta, pinocle, trivial pursuit and other card games. A chicken salad plate was served to the patrons.

Sara Jacobson, of Ro-Jay, coordinated and narrated the fashion show. The fashion spectrum ran the gamut from very casual to very dressy. Models were: Sara Albritton, Betty Akers, Barbara Bradshaw, Ann Brisson, Mary Childers, Mae Grier, Mary Prokosch and Jo Stankiewicz.

A meeting with dream girl
Brent Adamson finally got to meet his dream girl, next to his wife, Patty, that is.

It all started when Brent's father, W.E. "Duke" Adamson bid $300 on "Lunch on the Set" at Seminole Community College's recent Dream Auction. Duke was the highest bidder, but when the time came to attend the event, he was scheduled for a business meeting in Phoenix. Would Brent and Patty like to attend in place of Dear old Dad? Not too much arm-twisting was necessary. Man, was that fun! Brent exclaimed excitedly.

The bottom line is that Dan Aykroyd, star of My Girl, which was partly filmed in Sanford recently, hosted the luncheon. It seems the auction committee contacted him about making a contribution to the luncheon, and he came up with the luncheon.

Brent is so impressed with Dan, and feels he has made a friend for life. Dan loves Florida, meeting and associating with new people and being a part of the community where he is on location. The two fellows discussed their heritage and when Brent found out Dan is Canadian and owns a $1 million log mansion in the wilds of Ontario, he dubbed Dan as a "Canadian Cowboy," which Dan really seemed to enjoy.

After Dan took Brent and Patty on tour of the set, located in Orlando, they met Jamie Lee Curtis and Brent said he spent about 30 minutes with her. "She is very nice," he said. He admitted she has been his dream girl for a long time.

After the tour, Dan took them to his trailer for a steak lunch. To put it mildly, Brent and Patty really received the red carpet treatment. All of the people on the set wondered who the visiting VIPs were.

It was a good day — a great day. "To think he would give us five hours of his day just blew my mind," Brent said.

Ballet awards presented

Those who missed Who Shot Diddy? last weekend really missed a treat. The show was just great and should go on tour according to some of the patrons who attended.

It might be mentioned that community effort has kept the shows performed by Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole alive for these 23 years. Everybody gets into the act. On top of parents and interested art buffs rolling up their sleeves behind the scenes, each dancer is required to procure sponsors. Looking at the program is all that's necessary to see the hundreds of sponsors listed.

Annually, the dancer with the most sponsors is awarded the Walter Rye Silver Slipper Scholarship Award in honor of the father of the artistic directors and choreographers, Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld. Valerie announced that Tiffany Twyman was the recipient of the

Heathrow club hosts reception for membership

The membership committee and the Board of Directors of the Heathrow Women's Club have been very busy lately, according to Joanne Lucas, membership chairman for the club.

A membership reception was held at the home of club president, Marianne Bassile. Coffee, tea and assorted pastries were offered, furnished by the board and club members.

A lithe Joanne reported she was tempted by the pastry tray and did succumb. "The pastries were fabulous," she said.

Thirty-seven guests and potential members enjoyed the pleasant evening, making new friends as well as meeting with neighbors and other members of the Heathrow community.

The club was formed four years ago to help bond the then-new community. Its purpose is to combine friendship, harmony and good will through the interaction of its membership.

Joanne said the agenda of the club is designed to facilitate group and personal development through a diversity of civic, cultural and educational programs.

Something savory will be in the air on April 8 when the Heathrow Women's Club hosts Delores McCrory of McCrory Sunny Hill Nursery, at the Orient IV Restaurant in the Shoppes of Heathrow. Delores will be revealing the "Magic of Herbs" to members and guests.

Julie Harrington and Bob Hoekstra, front, presented a parenting program to the Heathrow Women's Club recently. Back row: Marianne Bassile, president; Dottie Jaworski, treasurer, and Judie Marks, from the Missing Children's Billboard Campaign.

This special presentation will be open to non-members by reservation only.

Seniors to celebrate

Lake Mary Seniors will gather Tuesday, March 26, at 158 N. Country Club Road, to celebrate their second birthday. At 10:30 a.m., the Casselberry Kitchen Band and a sing-a-long will start the birthday celebration.

At 11:15 a.m. as a special guest, Seminole County's new sheriff, Don Eslinger, will discuss current programs pertaining to his office.

A birthday party of fun and prizes, a finger food luncheon and a decorated birthday cake will complete the day's activities.

The growth of Lake Mary Seniors is ongoing according to Alta Ombres. A second day of activities has been added to the schedule.

Line dancing and bridge is held on Fridays, with watercolor painting, lap quilting and more bridge on Tuesdays.

The first and third Mondays include a workshop to prepare articles for the 1991 Christmas store. Materials and patterns are furnished. Alta said the need is great.

A horseshoe court provided by the City of Lake Mary will be available, also.

All seniors are welcome. Call 322-1438 for more information.

Paul Osborne, Lake Mary Rotary Club chairman of the Rinehart Road cleanup crew, wishes to remind Rotarians that April 13 is the next cleanup date scheduled.

Stuffed waitress needed to hear truth

DEAR ABBY: My wife and I were having lunch recently in a nice restaurant in Annapolis, Md., when we noticed a young couple having lunch at a table nearby. The young man got up and left the table after affectionately saying goodbye to the young lady. As he left, he put a few dollar bills and some change on the table. His companion remained at the table to take a few more sips of her coffee, then she picked up the tip money and walked out! (I had seen the man pay the check, so I know he left the money for the waitress.)

My wife was very angry with what she had witnessed and asked me to tell the waitress. I refused. We had an argument about this, but I didn't want to get involved.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

It's been two months, and my wife is still angry with me. Was I wrong?

PERPLEXED

DEAR PERPLEXED: Yes. To witness an injustice and ignore it because one doesn't want to get involved is morally wrong. (To ignore something is to condone it.)

Your wife had good reason to be angry with you. You should have told the waitress. But since you refused, your wife should have. One person in a family who doesn't want to get involved is bad enough. But two? Shame on both of you.

DEAR ABBY: Please, please, please put an end to what I have come to know as "elevator rudeness!"

It seems every morning for years I have been bowled over by rude people pushing to get on an elevator — before I can even get off! To make matters worse, I usually have an armload of something — hot coffee, files, a briefcase or sack lunch.

Let me outline the scenario: The car stops, the door opens, and before I or my fellow passengers can exit, some rude person barges right in, and throws me off balance due to my high heels and an armload of stuff.

Abby, don't people know the unwritten law of elevator etiquette? When the car stops, polite people stand to one side and wait for the car to empty before charging into the elevator and pushing their floor buttons.

So simple, yet my shin is still healing from the other day. A delivery man wheeled his bread cart into me. Please comment!

I'LL TAKE THE STAIRS IN EVANSVILLE, IND.

DEAR I'LL: I think you said it very well. Courteous people allow elevator passengers to get out before they barge in. And people with delivery carts should use the service elevators.

Cocaine harms unborn child in many ways

DEAR MARY: A friend of mine found out she's pregnant last month. She isn't upset about having a baby, but she's still doing cocaine pretty often. I told her I heard somewhere that babies could be born addicted to drugs and she might get in trouble, but she says that what she does is her business and the stuff can't get to the baby through her. Who's right?

DRUG COUNSELOR

MARY BALK

THE BABY'S FRIEND: You are absolutely right in what you told the baby's mother. Thank you for standing up for the baby's right to be drug-free. Cocaine flows easily from the mother's bloodstream through the placenta to the baby, and may remain in the fetus longer than it does in the mother because the baby's liver can't get rid of it.

Cocaine can harm an unborn child in many ways including spontaneous abortion, fetal stroke causing irreversible brain damage or stillbirth delivery.

Cocaine babies are unable to respond to human beings normally. Their distress is obvious, but they can't be calmed because they are extremely sensitive to even the mildest environmental stimulation. They are hard to care for because they cannot rest or be comforted, and don't respond positively to caregivers. Your pregnant friend is guilty of abusing her unborn child each time she uses cocaine. She can be held criminally liable if her child is born affected by her drug use.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY March 24, 1991

The year ahead could be one of exceptional promise, especially in areas where you can utilize your imagination and creativity. You could also be quite lucky in situations that have political overtones.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Be alert for a new venture that could suddenly develop at this time. Initially, it may appear rather risky, but upon investigation, it should prove sound. Aries, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for Aries' Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A situation that has caused you anxiety looks like it will be concluded successfully. More importantly, perhaps, is the fact that it may be a harbinger of something more promising.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Some outside influences you didn't expect could eclipse your present plans. Instead of ushering in counterproductive circumstances, they could focus on benefits you've overlooked.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You've entered a cycle that could be very fortunate where your financial interests are concerned. Luck and reality are in harmony and big opportunities may result.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Personal ambitions have an excellent chance for success at this time. Even though others may be involved in your affairs, the destiny of developments lies largely in your hands.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It looks like Lady Luck may take over the management of your timing in important arrangements today. She should be able to put you in the right spot at the right time.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) An alliance you've recently entered could have greater significance for you and your counterpart than either of you may realize. The developments look promising.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If things haven't been going too well for you lately regarding finances or your career, don't despair. Constructive trends should now start overriding undesirable circumstances.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Enterprising ideas you conceive today should be vigorously pursued. You could be on to something very worthwhile, so don't treat these perceptions indifferently.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) The time is right to take positive measures to change that thing you've been wanting to change. If your blueprint is ready, start building your new future.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You could be luckier than usual at this time in working out beneficial and enduring agreements. The secret to your success is waiting for the other guy what it is you want for yourself.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) This is an extremely promising period for you, materially and in the furthering of your worldly ambitions. Establish meaningful objectives and take positive measures to achieve them. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.

By Bernice Bede Osol YOUR BIRTHDAY March 25, 1991

Success is more likely for you in the year ahead than it has been for the past two years. You'll have the opportunity to apply lessons you've learned from painful experiences.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) A friend may discuss a disturbing issue with you today that is a bitter pill to swallow. However, later, upon review, you're likely to agree that the comments were for your own good.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be persistent and consistent in pursuing your objectives today. Events may cast shadows on your horizons, but they'll only be temporary obstructions to your progress.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You might have to contend with a complicated development today, but if you base your reaction on a past similar experience, you should be able to resolve it readily.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) In a business dealing today, don't be reticent about insisting upon your own terms. With a little haggling, you should be able to get what you want.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You and your mate might be required to make a crucial and difficult decision today. Firmness on your behalf will be required, because your counterpart may will under pressure.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Before making a costly investment in a new piece of equipment, make certain that you cannot repair or adapt what you have. Ingenuity could save you money.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) A meeting that starts out in a light vein might turn out to be very serious today, when you and an old friend discover you can collaborate on a joint interest vital to you both.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) A family problem that has been a thorn in the flesh for the past few weeks looks like it is about to dissipate. It will be replaced by influences more conducive to success.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Take time today to review plans which, up until now, have appeared to be unworkable. You may acquire a new perspective that will enable you to clarify goals more effectively.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your financial prospects continue to look encouraging, provided you use your initiative and common sense to exploit your opportunities. Be realistic in determining what you hope to get.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Something might develop today that could slow down your progress on an important, personal undertaking. However, if you have enough determination to press on, you'll make it.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you want something you loaned out returned, even though it may be a trifle awkward for you, you may have to express your wishes with a demand today.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

One of the most satisfying techniques in bridge is the perfect safety play: a line of play that is guaranteed to succeed regardless of the distribution of the opponents' cards.

This hand was played at the rubber-bridge table many years ago by Life Master No. 23, the late Edward Hymes, Jr. Incidentally, he won his first national title, the 1935 Fall Open Pairs, in partnership with my father.

In the modern style, the South hand would be opened two clubs, artificial and forcing. But in the 1940s the game-forcing two-bid was still in the ascendancy. Sitting North was Helen Sobel, one of the greatest players of all time. She held what almost all players claim to be their average rubber-bridge hand, but she had the discipline to respond to the forcing bid.

West led a spade to declarer's singleton ace. Declarer's king of hearts lost to the other singleton ace, and back came a spade. Rather than ruff immediately, Hymes discarded his diamond loser. However, he had to trump the third spade.

Now, if trumps were originally 3-2, he could cash the heart queen. If the jack didn't fall, he could play off minor-suit winners, losing only one more trump trick. But if trumps were originally 4-1, he would lose control. To play safe, Hymes led the heart eight, not the queen.

West was able to win with the jack, but if he led a fourth spade, it would be ruffed with dummy's nine of hearts. Hymes showed his cards and claimed his contract. (C)1991, NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.
