SANFORD - So what's a city to do in such dry, dangerous summer - forget the fireworks on the 4th of July at Fort Mellon Park?

Main Street President Bob Parsell said Monday. We understand the need for caution but we 're going to have fireworks.

"Absolutely not," Sanford

Fortunately, we shoot over the water on Lake Monroe."

Parsell said that as many as 30,000 are expected to attend the event, which begins with entertainment and refreshments at 5 p.m. and concludes with the fireworks at 9:30 p.m.

"Hopefully, it's going to rain between now and the 4th." Sanford Mayor Larry Dale said. Whatever the case, the city will provide emergency personnel - firefighters and police - too smart for someone to light for the event. Everything will be done to insure safety. We'll take no chances.

*Because of the drought there. will be an extra need for caution this year," said Seminole. County Safety Director Ken Roberts, There's adequate supervision at events such as the one in Sanford but it's the indiscriminate users of fireworks that concern us. It wouldn't be a Roman candle and point it at the woods.

Roberts said parents should advise youngsters to be very careful, and that everyone use common sense with any fireworks they set off on July 4th.

On Monday, the Seminole County firelighters responded to yet another brush fire in the Geneva area, "Until there is rain, we'll respond to each call with a task force," Roberts said, "Every fire is dangerous."

Many local governments are being advised to limit controlled burns and discourage the use of fireworks because of the tinderbox conditions. Temperatures continue to rise with little or no rain. Melbourne recorded 100 degrees on Monday and Daytona Beach reached

If you own an automobile, and most people do, there is some good news from Tallahassee this week. State Treasurer and Insurance Commissioner Bill Nelson has told several of the state's major automobile insurers, "Cut your rates."

The 4 companies are Alistate insurance Company, Nationwide Mutual Fire Insurance Company, Colonial Insurance Company of Wisconsin, and Progressive Consumers Insurance Company.

The move comes on the heels of the announcement that the state's largest insurer, State Farm Mutual, will give refunds in 35 states. For the 2.1 million Florida policy holders, this is expected to amount to a refund of an average of $30.

As for the 4 companies now joining in the rate cuts. Allstate has agreed to cut rates by 5 percent and give an extra 3.75 percent refund to its 1.1 million customers. Nationwide will decrease rates on 291,000 policies by 5.2 percent and by 8 percent for the 30,000 policy holders of its mib-sidiary, Colonial Insurance of Wisconsin. Progressive will cut rates by 7.7 percent for its 151,000 policy holders.

Nelson said his directives and last week's other event signal that automobile rates for the vast majority of Florida drivers are falling dramatically for the second consecutive year. Among the factors are the state's ongoing fight against insurance fraud and its crackdowns on both uninsured and drunk drivers. Insurers and regulators also say that overall claims are Please See Insurance, Page 3A

Hectic schedules delayed the Blackburns' lessons for a year but with the cooperation of a take Mary scular shop, the family was able to complete certification together.

"William is crazy about diving now," stated his dad. "I know what we're going to be doing now in our spare time."

William's best friend, Zach Callier, along with his mom. Jolian were also doing their "check-out dive" at West Palm Beach. The Blackburns called the Calliers before they enrolled in the scuba course so they could all take lessons together. The Calliers are also from Heathrow.

disease problems and can

How much: The

Watering your lawn is often necessary in Florida's hot climate. In our State. rainfall averages 60 inches per year, but half the amount falls from June through September, often in sporadic large rainstorms. Another factor & that Florida's sandy so do not hold much water.

Thus, to water your lawn water is needed, how much should be applied, and how water is to be delivered.

When to water: The most efficient way to water a lawn is to apply water only when it begins to show signs of stress from lack of water. The signs of water stress are, bluishgray areas in the lawn, footprints or tire tracks that remain in the grass long after being made, many leaf blades folded in half, and when a soil sample from the rootsone feels dry. Watering immediately when the lawn first shows signs of stress is the most economical way to water; delay can cause permanent damage. Add-on devices are available for some sprinkler systems to automatically determine when to water. Electronic moisture sensing units or tensiometers allow automatic sprinkler systems to operate only when soil water is getting low. These devices eliminate overwatering, a situpresent in the sell, the water holding capacity of the sell and drainage characteristics. Florida's sandy noils typically hold I inch of water in the top 13 inches of soil. If the roots are in the top 12 taches of soil and the soil is dry, then 3/4 to 1 inch of water for 465 to 620 gallons of water) to required to wet the area thoroughly. As a general rule, turfgrasses require no more than 0.3 inches of water per day or 0.4 inches of water per day under extreme summer conditions and 0.05 inches of water per day during the winter when grasses are not actively growing. Your irrigation system should deliver 3/4 inches of water when the turfgrass shows water deficiency. Typically, two waterings per week under normal conditions, three waterings per week in the summer and, once every 10 to 14 days in the winter. If rainfall occurs, irrigation should be suspended according to the rainfall amounts.

Applying water: Water should never be applied at a faster rate than it can be absorbed by the soil. If the sprinklers apply too much water, it runs off, and is wasted.

Light, frequent watering is inefficient and encourages shallow root systems. Excessive ation that often leads to irrigation, keeps the root system saturated with water displacing oxygen from around the roots, a condition harmful to the grasses. The best time for lawn irrigation is early in the morning hours. Watering during the day can waste water by excessive evaporation and during very hot periods can scald the lawn. Watering late in the afternoon will increase the time that leaves remain wet,

Dr. Brenedette Hardy-Blake , the principal at Crooms Academy in Sanford, testified that Barnes performed his du-ties at the school in an "exceptional" and "outstanding" manner and 'beyond the call of duty." She said he was a great asset to the school, the best resource officer ever at the school.

Another of the charges against Barnes was that he falled to report to the Educa-

A miracle as statue survives

The Geneva fire has been declared under control since 8 p.m. Monday evening, June 8, Seminole County Fire Department is still responding to small flare ups and will remain on a heightened state of alert until the current dangerously dry conditions have ended.

As was the case in the afternoon of the tornadoes, the destruction seemed to indiscriminately jump from place to place. There are areas completely surrounded by burned out remains, yet some are completely untouched. Much of this is due to the tremendous effort of firefighters during the blaze. One site, however, is truly remarkable. I will not give the actual physical location due to the fact that it is on private property and the owners have enough work to do without dealing with sightseers.

Antidst the charred debris of 2 houses a number of cars. trucks, shed and equipment. stands a statue. There is not a tree or blade of grass unburned on all the acreage of this farm except a circle 2° around the base of the statue. She stands between 2 trees which are black and charred from the ground up. The glass flower vase on the ground in front of the statue hes shattered and melted on the ground. The area directly behind the statue is covered with the bodies of rabbits, chickens, pigs, and other pets caught in the fire.

I am not an overly religious person and was not raised as a Catholic, yet the site of the statue of the Virgin Mary was intraculous. The statue is just a standard lawn statue of the Virgin Mary, approximately 2-1/2 feet tall. She is all white with a blue patoted shell enveloping her from behind, and she is completely surrounded by acres of pure destruction. She stands untouched, not a mark can be seen on the

As I stated earlier, I am not a religious person, but the sight of this cannot help but give you pause to reflect. Maybe her presence on the scene helped ensure that no lives were lost. Len Berube

Symbolic call to arms

This letter is a symbolic call to arms. We the people of Sanford and surrounding areas must defend the lands and waterfronts that so desperately need to be protected now and for future generations. Development of the lakefront and land adjacent to Ft. Mellon Park would establish a precedent that could lead to more reckless assault and pollution of the waterways by others.

How can any responsible citizen with foresight allow this to happen? Let us help the city to grow but not at the expense of the citizenry.

Ft. Mellon Park now provides recreation for families and children in a beautiful, natural setting, not to mention a home for wildlife. A hotel and conference center in the heart of this area would destroy the very uniqueness which the developers find attractive. If this conference center and hotel are placed here where would the young people go to play ball, to fish, or to just sit in a swing and dream? Where would families gather? Take a look at other areas that have become blighted by the impact of inappropriate development. Here in Sanford we have an opportunity to make a difference, to preserve the heart of Sanford. Would you see this taken away?

Go and check out our new professional sports team

SANFORD _ in a metropolitan area not known for supporting professional sports. Seminole County has a chance now to prove

You won't find a harder working, but small organization, as the Orlando Surge, the new professional roller hockey team that will be playing its home games at the InLine Skate Center in Longwood. Not only do they need support, but it may be the first professional team to call Seminole County its home.

The best part about the Surge is that it is a local team, made up of local guys, trying to fit into the local community. Try getting close with anyone on the Orlando Magic. Typically, the players get to the Orlando Arena, park their cars in barricaded areas, walk with an escort inside a private entrance and leave the same way. How many of you can say you've shaken hands with Penny. Horace or anyone else on the Magic?

And that's no knock on the Magic. Penny and the rest know they'd be mobbed and never get to their cars alive. That's what comes with playing in a major sport with major amounts of money involved. It's all about celebrity.

That's not the case with the Surge. Team members know they'll probably never make it to the NIIL or even the high minors in hockey, so they're pretty much tickled to be receiving a paycheck for playing their favor-

If you were among the nearly 800 people at Saturday's home opener, a 14-6 romp over the South Carolina Fire Ants, you saw a bunch of hungry guys making $500 per week that didn't mind sticking around after the game to sign autographs and shake hands. None of them were in a hurry to go meet their agents for drinks.

In fact, the players seemed almost eager to talk to the fans, many of them kids, who attended. It was as if the players felt as if they were part of the crowd, not just the night's entertainment.

The game itself is as exciting as the game they play on ice. Goals are much easier to come by with faster-paced play and, for bet-ter (or some would say, for worse), there was no fighting. Only five penalties were called all night - two on South Carolina - and there weren't the dozens of play stoppages associated with the NHL game.

Roller hockey has been here before and just two years ago, the Orlando Jackals folded after one year, playing before empty seats at the Orlando Arena. Even when the Jackals drew a few thousand fans, it still looked empty as the cheering bounced off the cavernous walls.

At Longwood Saturday, it was different. The crowd nearly filled the place and the excitement was there and it was returned by the players after the game.

One game does not a franchise make. The Surge is home again Wednesday against Tampa and they'll be lucky to draw so well on a weeknight, but after the game, if your kids want autographs and the chance to meet a real professional athlete, it makes sense to stop by and check out Seminole County's first professional sports team.

Last Second Shot: When MJ took that final shot Sunday night, with the game and the series on the line, was there ever any doubt?

Moyer takes reins of GFC Fisheries Division

SANFORD _ The Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission (GFC) has a new fisheries rish Commission (GPC) has a new hancries director. Ed Moyer, regional director of the Panama City office, assumed the post in Tallahasses on May 15.

Moyer replaced Dr. Jerome V. Shireman who held the fisheries post since August 1995. Shireman retired from the GFC on March 27.

The new fisheries director said he hopes to increase fishing opportunities for anglers and try to make fishing a family-oriented activity.

"I'd like to open more fishing areas that are convenient to families throughout the state so they can spend more time fishing," he said. "In addition, I want to continue Dr. Shireman's efforts in providing quality and trophy fishing opportunities for our traditional anglers.

Moyer began his career with the GFC in 1973 as a fish management specialist in Eustis. He spent most of his time with the GFC in Riesimmes holding numerous positions. Most recently he was involved in the regional lake restoration program which oversew major drawdowns of lakes Jackson, Riesimmee and East and West Tohopekaliga. He graduated from the University of Florida in 1967 with a bachelor of science degree in microbiology. In 1975, he studied zoology at Florida Southern University in Lakeland. Moyer is a certified fisheries scientist and a member of the Florida Aquatic Plant Management Society.

Moyer and his wife, Jane, has two sons,
Matthew, 23, and Michael, 19.
