Marine dies in accident

TWENTYNINE PALMS, Calif. — A serviceman stationed at the Marine Corps air base east of San Diego was struck by a fragment from an artillery shell and killed, a military spokesman said Thursday.

The 21-year-old Marine, a private first class whose name was withheld, was part of a unit firing 8-inch guns at barrels 500 yards away Wednesday when a first-size fragment hurled back from the impact point and struck him, the spokesman said.

Gunman opens fire at studio

LOS ANGELES — The suspect in a triple slaying in New Mexico walked up to a guard shack at Universal Studios Thursday and opened fire for no apparent reason, killing one of the two unarmed guards inside and critically wounding the other, sheriff's deputies said.

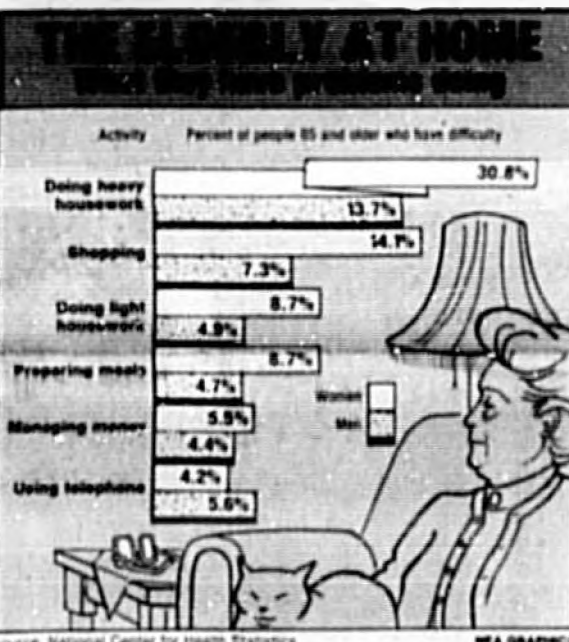

The gunman, identified as Nathan Trupp, 42, was critically wounded during a running gun battle with a sheriff's deputy who arrived as Trupp was running away. Deputy Hal Grant said. The deputy was not hit.

Investigators said they had no idea why the man opened fire about 5:40 p.m. on the security guard station outside the main employee gate.

Atlantis rumbles to life

Shuttle launch goes off without a hitch

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The space shuttle Atlantis triumphantly thundered toward orbit Friday on a weather-delayed military flight to place a high-technology Pentagon satellite in orbit to spy on the Soviet Union.

With veteran shuttle skipper Robert "Hoot" Gibson and co-pilot Guy Gardner at the controls, Atlantis' three hydrogen-fueled main engines thundered to life at 9:31 a.m. EST after a secret countdown that was marred by minor technical problems and concern about upper-altitude wind shear.

The shuttle's 14-story redesigned solid-fuel boosters ignited with a flash 6.6 seconds after main engine ignition and Atlantis majestically climbed away from launch pad 39B, leaving a churning cloud of dirty brown exhaust in its wake as it knifed through a clear sky and streaked toward space.

As the orbiter cleared its launch gantry, the nozzles at the base of each booster swiveled on computer command, rolling the ship about its vertical axis and lining the ship up on a trajectory thought to allow it — and its $530 million spy satellite payload — to fly over 80 percent of the Soviet Union.

The 4.5-million-pound spaceplane, a spectacular sight as it arced northeast on a course paralleling the East Coast, apparently experienced no problems as it knifed through a region of scissoring like wind shear 28,000 feet up that had concerned NASA managers before the launch.

About two minutes and five seconds after blastoff, Atlantis' two rebuilt solid fuel boosters, their fuel exhausted, were kicked away from the climbing spaceship, which continued on its way on the power of its three main engines.

It was a booster failure that doomed Challenger Jan. 28, 1986, but the rockets used by Atlantis See Shuttle, Page 5A

Forty apply for Lake Mary post

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE

LAKE MARY — The city has received more than 40 applications for the position of City Manager, officials said Thursday night. The deadline to apply was Wednesday.

City commissioners approved the processing of the applications through International Association of City Managers (IACMA). The IACMA offers an assessment service to cities free of charge, according to Director of Public Safety Charles Lauderdale, acting city manager.

The IACMA will select the top five candidates for the $35,000-$45,000 a year position. Lauderdale said the commission could add the names of people they believe are qualified.

The commissioners will receive the IACMA results by Christmas, Lauderdale said.

Lauderdale has been acting city manager since Aug. 22 when former City Manager Robert Norris left to take a job in Neptune Beach.

In another matter, the commissioners approved a change in its check signing procedures. Two staff signatures are now required on all employee checks. The city clerk See Apply, Page 5A

Buried barrels could hold toxic materials

LONGWOOD — The Department of Environmental Regulation has issued a hazardous waste complaint warning to the city.

Approximately nine barrels, some containing unknown substances were discovered buried behind the Longwood public works department. As a result, DER and Longwood city officials were to meet today with the Chemical Conservation Corporation of Orlando, a hazardous waste and transportation disposal company.

Richard Tedder, section manager/hazardous waste of the Orlando DER, said Thursday that DER will meet with city officials and the Chemical Conservation Corporation of Orlando to "talk about the strategy for drum removal." "We don't know what's in those drums," Tedder said.

After removal, the contents will be checked by DER to see whether they contain toxic materials.

An anonymous caller on Oct. 26 lodged a complaint to DER about the barrels, according to Tedder. Two days later, DER went to Longwood to investigate. An inspector discovered through talking with Charles A. Hassler, director of the Public Works Department, that nine drums had been buried. One 55-gallon See Barrels, Page 5A

Second District commission candidates differ on issues

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The two candidates for the Second District city commission seat agree that the city should provide more recreational facilities for young people and foster economic development in the 13th Street area, but don't agree on much else.

Bob Thomas Jr. is being challenged in his bid to retain his Second District city commission seat by Storm Richards, a professional planner with an Orlando engineering firm.

The municipal election is Tuesday. The second district includes the area west of Highway 17-92 between W. 25th Street and a northern border consisting of Seventh and Eighth Street and the SCX Railroad right of way.

Thomas, the first black to serve on the city commission, is proud of his accomplishments over the past four years, including initiating the proposal to form a Human Rights Advisory Commission and a clean-up week. He wants the city to move forward on the WINS (Westside Improvement Neighborhood Strategy) program and to more aggressively recruit industries that pay good wages.

Richards' background in planning is evident in his criticism of the present city government.

He said the city's chief problem is the recently adopted comprehensive plan, which he contends is not specific enough to address the city's problems and possible solutions. He also said the financial feasibility of projects should be compiled by the city staff, not by a consulting firm.

Richards, a Sanford native, said the WINS project plan is "window dressing" that lacks specific goals. "The plan is not specific enough to make improvements in the area," he said. "A strong economic development effort is needed in the 13th Street area through grants the city can apply for."

Richards also noted the drainage needs of the district, and again criticized the city's comprehensive plan for not prioritizing the drainage problems on the city's west side.

Thomas says the city should move forward on implementation of the WINS program, a plan put together by a consultant group to upgrade the Goldsboro area through the use of both public money a commitment from private lending institutions to offer low interest development loans. The commission has not made a final decision on the program after and has raised questions about specifics of its financing. Thomas says implementing the project would not only improve the Goldsboro neighborhood. See Candidates, Page 5A

Palm Bay sniper trial to be moved

TITUSVILLE — The trial of William Cruse, a 61-year-old retired librarian accused of gunning down six people during a 1987 rampage in Palm Bay, must be moved from the Space Coast to ensure an impartial jury, a judge ruled Thursday.

Brevard County Circuit Judge Gil Goshorn granted a motion for a change of trial site by Cruse's public defender Marlene Alva. The trial is now scheduled to start the week of March 6 in Bartow, about 40 miles east of Tampa in rural Polk County.

Cruse is charged with six counts of first-degree murder — including the slayings of two rookie policemen — 28 counts of attempted first-degree murder and two counts of kidnapping hostages April 23, 1987.

The massacre began at Cruse's house and continued about a mile away at two shopping plazas. He allegedly holed up for hours in a supermarket and surrendered only after police bombed him with tear gas.

The case received extensive publicity around the country, and it was considered unlikely an impartial jury could have been seated anywhere near Palm Bay.

Assistant State Attorney Chris White said the prosecution had no objection to moving the trial.

Rosier acquitted on all charges

ST PETERSBURG — A jury deliberated just over three hours Thursday before acquitting Fort Myers pathologist Dr. Peter Rosier of all charges in the 1986 death of his terminally ill, cancer-stricken wife.

Rosier broke down crying as the jury verdict was read acquitting him of first-degree murder, attempted first-degree murder and conspiracy to commit first-degree murder.

After being declared a free man, the weeping Rosier appeared dazed as he hugged his attorney, his children and other family members.

Rosier, 45, who was chief pathologist at Lee Memorial Hospital, had been charged with killing Patricia Rosier, 43, in January 1986, despite testimony from her stepfather that he killed her.

He was accused of helping his wife try to commit suicide by arranging for the overdose of Seconal she took, giving her an injection of morphine when she continued to breathe, then manipulating his wife's stepfather, Vincent Deiman, and his sons Farrell Deiman and Russell Deiman, into finally killing her.

Thousands attend funeral for slain cops

HOLLYWOOD — Several thousand police officers, their cars clogging the quiet streets near a church, snapped to attention Thursday at the start of a funeral for two Metro-Dade County officers slain while on duty this week.

An estimated 2,000 to 3,000 officers from as far away as New York City, and representing nearly every Florida community, attended services for officers David Strzalkowski, 34, and Richard Boles, 41.

Both men died early Monday morning when they tried to subdue a man in a trailer park, Charles Street, a recently released convict, is charged with their deaths and a variety of other charges.

The Rev. Norbert Dorsey, auxiliary bishop for the Archdiocese of Miami, led the service, which filled the Nativity Catholic Church in Hollywood to capacity, forcing hundreds to follow the service on outdoor loudspeakers.

"We are here to express our deepest sorrow on the loss of these two men," Dorsey said. "If God had seen what happened on television this week... I believe he would have felt a revulsion at what has happened again in our community."

"We have contributed to a society that has gone berserk," Dorsey said. "God, empower us to change the institutions of our societies to give life instead of causing death."

Outside the church, already decorated with the family nativity scenes for the Christmas holiday, mourners hummed along with the hymns being sung inside the church.

Ancient whale fossils found

MULBERRY — Free-lance paleontologist Frank Garcia and volunteers worked in a 30-foot-deep trench of a phosphate mine pit Thursday, excavating fossils from a whale that may date back more than 9 million years.

Garcia said he believes he will recover the entire skeleton by Saturday.

He was searching the IMC Fertilizer Inc. mine near the Hillsborough-Polk county line Sunday when he spotted two whale vertebrae sticking out from the soil.

He said he began uncovering the fossils, expecting to find five or six at the most, but soon uncovered 21 vertebrae, the rib cage and the skull base of a whale he estimated to have died some 9 million to 15 million years ago.

Although the skull had not been uncovered, Garcia said Wednesday that portion of the skeleton could be as much as 5 feet long.

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Florida nursing homes above average

By WENDY BENJAMINSON
United Press International

Florida nursing homes provide better service than nursing homes nationwide, said a survey released Thursday, but conditions at homes in several Deep South states, especially Mississippi, fell far below the national average.

The consumer guide to nursing homes that treat Medicare and Medicaid patients, released by the Health Care Financing Administration, showed Florida nursing homes had a higher failure rate in only four out of 32 categories.

In critical categories, however, such as the care of bed sores, catheters, administration of proper drugs and mental and physical abuse, Florida compared favorably with homes in other states.

In those categories, the study said: —0.6 percent of Florida nursing homes failed to prevent mental and physical abuse. In Mississippi, the figure was 13.8 percent. Nationally, the figure was 1.8 percent.

—10.3 percent of Florida nursing homes failed to care for bed sores properly. In Mississippi, the figure was 42 percent, compared with 11.1 percent nationally.

"That's just criminal," said Kathy Gardner, staff director for the House Select Committee on Aging, noting patients get bed sores only when they are unable to move in their beds and no one turns them over. "Bed sores never need to happen if there is minimal care available."

—In Florida, 9.3 percent of nursing homes failed to provide proper urinary catheter care. In Mississippi, 30.4 percent of homes failed to do so. Nationally, the figure was 17.6 percent.

—22.1 percent of Florida nursing homes failed to administer drugs properly, including giving a patient someone else's drugs or storing them incorrectly. In Mississippi, 30.4 percent of homes gave drugs improperly, while the figure nationally was 29 percent.

Florida fell below the national average in four categories: in helping residents control incontinence, in providing services to meet social and emotional needs, in providing meaningful activities, including religious activities, and in sanitary storage and preparation of food, the report said.

Claude Hendon, a program specialist with the state Long-term Care Ombudsman Council, which represents patients, said about the study: "It's a good attempt to provide public information. However, we have concerns."

"The information is outdated. All surveys provide a picture of the care that's provided in the facility at one point in time. Therefore, consumers would not want to depend solely on that. We recommend that they visit the facility they are considering."

He said most of the problems in nursing homes stem from lack of staff. Custodial care of residents also needs to be improved, Hendon said.

He said HCFA officials must rewrite regulations to implement the 1987 federal nursing home reform law. "The study may be taking manpower away from that effort."

Hendon did say, though, that problems cited in the study may have been corrected, but never noted.

"Florida does have better regulations and the regulators are more effective, from what I've heard from around the country," he said.

"We think that the study is flawed," said Cathy Weatberry, assistant director of the Florida Health Care Association, which represents 450 of the state's 530 nursing homes. "Much of it is dated — most of it is over a year old. The data are subjective judgments of 3,000 surveyors from 50 different states."

She said consumers should not rely on a single document when choosing a nursing home.

"We just think that this data is unnecessarily alarming," she said.

In other Southern states, Tennessee, Virginia, Maryland, and North Carolina had slightly better ratings than the national average. West Virginia, Georgia, South Carolina and Alabama had slightly lower ratings than the national figures.

Florida may do better than other states because it has an "extensive network" of ombudsmen who check regularly on nursing homes, has more nursing homes per capita than many other states, and a higher awareness of the elderly's needs, Gardner said.

Martinez forms environmental commission

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Gov. Bob Martinez announced Thursday he was forming a 27-member commission to deal with Florida's environmental problems and appointed GOP environmental activist Nathaniel Reed to head the group.

"Protecting Florida's environment for the future has to be our highest priority," Martinez said. "We can't afford to let it be diminished because we failed to properly care for it."

Reed, of Hobe Sound, attended the news conference in which the formation of the Commission on the Future of Florida's Environment was announced and said he was pleased to head the panel.

He said he would not have accepted the appointment if he thought the commission was being formed primarily for political purposes.

Reed was a member of President-elect George Bush's environmental advisory committee, but resigned after announcing he could not support GOP Senate candidate Connie Mack because of Mack's environmental record.

Martinez said the commission will make a comprehensive study of Florida's environment, with particular emphasis on how to deal with threats to the state's natural resources.

The commission is due to file a report containing recommendations for action with Martinez by Feb. 1.

Federal Judge George Young approved the sale of the three-story castle and its surrounding 79 acres in Seminole County to neighbor J. Huxley Walters, head of Walters Development.

"My intention is to build a high-quality residential subdivision," Walters said after the sale Wednesday. "Ultimately the castle will have to go."

Judge Young said he would review the sale Jan. 10 and decide whether to refund the $50,000 deposit of Triad Investment Properties Inc., which defaulted two months ago on a $2.1 million bid for the castle. The court-appointed receiver could also sue Triad for the $300,000 difference between the two bids.

Turner's wealth from Kosco cosmetics and motivation classes was estimated at $300 million in the late 1960s. He now claims to have nothing left after years of legal battles with the government and 1,000 investors in 30 states.

He was convicted last year in Phoenix, Ariz., and sentenced to seven years in prison for bilking about $1.5 million from investors in 1979 and 1980.

The Internal Revenue Service foreclosed on the castle to recover part of the $9.5 million Turner owes in back taxes and penalties.

Walters said new homes near the castle consume about 5,000 square feet and sell for about $800,000. He plans to build comparable homes on the Turner property.

He called the castle "a gaudy attempt by someone trying to build a monument to himself" and said neighbors consider the building an eyesore.

The vacant property has been vandalized and vacant the last few years. Turner's eldest son, Terry, has lived in an apartment next to the stables and acted as a sort of caretaker. Walters said the son will have to leave when the sale is closed in about 30 days.

Rancho Rajneesh to be sold

United Press International

PORTLAND, Ore. — A 64,000-acre Oregon cattle ranch that was once a mecca for followers of free-love guru Bhagwan Shree Rajneesh will be sold at a sheriff's auction Friday to pay off mortgage and tax liens.

Connecticut General Life Insurance Co. brought a foreclosure action to collect $4 million in mortgage payments plus interest owed by the Rajneesh Investment Corp. Wasco and Jefferson counties also have tax liens totaling approximately $1 million.

The sale on the steps of the Wasco County Courthouse in The Dalles will sever one of the two main branches of Oregon and Rajneesh, an advocate of freedom and the self-proclaimed "guru of the rich" who maintained a fleet of 90 Rolls Royces when he lived on what he called Rancho Rajneesh 110 miles southeast of Portland.

Rajneesh stayed in Oregon for 4½ stormy years, during which he and his followers fought constantly with their neighbors and state and local government officials over establishment of a commune on the ranch.

He was deported from the United States in November of 1985 after he pleaded guilty to immigration fraud. He now lives in an ashram in Pune, India.

Several of his followers, including his personal secretary, Ma Anand Sheela, went to jail for a variety of crimes committed while the group lived in Oregon, including arson and attempted murder.

Sheela pleaded guilty to masterminding a biological warfare attack in which more than 700 residents of Wasco County were poisoned by the release of salmonella bacteria at the salad bars of several restaurants. She was also accused of poisoning county officials who came to inspect the ranch and plotting to assassinate the U.S. Attorney for Oregon.

The guru's followers purchased the ranch on the John Day River for $5.7 million in July of 1981 and told local authorities they wanted to establish a farming commune. But within a year they ran afoul of zoning and land-use laws by building a town with housing for 3,500 permanent residents plus centers for the guru's meditation school.

The community had its own air strip, sewage system, hotel, shopping mall, truck farms and an outdoor crematorium for Hindu-style funerals.

More than 15,000 of his followers flocked to the ranch for summer festivals and Rajneesh was often seen speeding across eastern Oregon highways in one of his Rolls Royces with armed guards following him in a chase car.

During their battles with local government officials, the Rajneeshes also based in hundreds of homeless people in an effort to control local elections. When state officials refused to register the new residents, they were bused to Portland and dumped in the city's skid road area.

SHS students to lay sod for park, committee assignments announced

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The next step in building the children's playground on Park Avenue between Eighth and Ninth streets will take place Saturday.

Martha Yancey, co-chairman of the committee planning the park, said a group of Seminole High School students and other volunteers on that day will lay sod that was purchased by the city.

Yancey said anyone else interested in helping to lay the sod may contact her, or co-chairman Judy Wimblish, or go to the park Saturday.

About 35 to 40 people attended a public meeting Tuesday night where the park concept was explained, and chairmen of several committees were chosen.

The park, a Scenic Improvement Board project approved by the city commission last spring, will be built mainly with donated money and volunteer labor. Robert S. Leathers, nationally known park designer, will come to Sanford in April to view the site, and then talk to children. Based on their ideas, he will design the playground equipment, which will be constructed out of wood by a volunteer force from throughout the community next fall.

Named to head subcommittees to plan and construct the park were:

- Jerry Weldon will organize a meeting with school children next spring.
- Loren Williams of Eureka Designs will handle advertising and design graphics for the committee's promotional materials.
- Les Ownes is in charge of getting needed materials donated for the park.
- Audrey Williams will head the fund raising effort.
- Danny Lee will coordinate the purchase of materials.
- Glenn Doman will handle assembling tools needed by the volunteer workforce to build the park furnishings.
- Kathy Krossnoeff will be in charge of assembling the volunteer workforce.
- Beverly Huffman will be in charge of food for the volunteer workforce during construction.
- Martha Crouser is in charge of caring for children of the volunteer workers.

The committee will meet again in January.

U.S., Vietnam to establish center for Amerasian children

United Press International

BANGKOK, Thailand — Vietnam and the United States have agreed to set up a processing center in Vietnam to speed the emigration of children fathered by Americans during the Vietnam War, a Vietnamese report said Friday.

A Vietnamese News Agency dispatch received in Bangkok said U.S. and Vietnamese officials meeting in Hanoi last week agreed to set up the center.

Vietnamese Foreign Ministry spokeswoman Ho Thi Lan was quoted by the agency as saying the officials "agreed to quickly solve technical problems (of procedures and air transportation) which are hindering the implementation of the program."

Some of the children suffer from discrimination because of their parentage.

Win-win choice in mayor's race

The headline in the Sanford Herald boldly proclaimed: Mayor's race heats up. And so it has as two highly motivated, experienced government leaders vie for the post in Sanford.

Betty Smith, seeking re-election as the city's mayor, is being challenged by John Morris, who has served the past eight years as a member of Sanford's planning and zoning board, and nine and one-half years as a city commissioner during the 1970s.

Both present strong credentials to the electorate and both have reasonable agendas with attainable goals for the city, if elected.

The differences between the two seem to fall in the area of style, not substance.

Both have a lot to offer.

Justifiably, Mayor Smith cites her successful efforts in enhancing the image of the city and in the progress made in improving relations among all people in Sanford. The successes of the city's beautification programs are evident. The mayor has reported visiting 51 churches and all of the schools located in Sanford during her term. She has also served as the city's representative on various intergovernmental bodies.

Mr. Morris takes exception to the many hours of time spent by Mayor Smith on the various boards and in the other activities contending that the time would be better spent on more specific city business.

Both candidates see the greatest problems of the next four years as falling in the areas of solid waste disposal, and water and sewage.

Mr. Morris is very critical of the city's handling of the sewer problems in the time following the loss of the Yankee Lake property to the county. He also criticizes the city's purchase of the property near Geneva to be used to spray effluent.

Mayor Smith contends that the purchase of the 2,200 acres near Geneva actually saved the city money since it preserved an $11 million federal grant. She cites the progress made in coping with the many problems posed by the federal government's edict to the city to stop discharging into the St. Johns River and to secure another site.

Mayor Smith has grown in the office of mayor. She has demonstrated her ability to efficiently conduct meetings, lead her colleagues in effecting a responsible consensus, and to represent the city in the multitudinous functions requiring the presence of the mayor. Her quiet, no-nonsense methods of governance have been effective.

Mr. Morris has a remarkably broad background in government service and is finely tuned to the needs of today, and the mistakes of days gone by. He has a strong sense of governmental responsibility and is familiar with the fiscal needs and requirements of Sanford.

This presents the citizens of Sanford with a win-win situation. Whichever candidate wins, the Herald will applaud the choice of the voters.

Give North and Poindexter pardons

No one who knows President Reagan doubts for a moment that the question of whether, and when, to pardon Oliver North and John Poindexter is very much on his mind just now.

Clearly Mr. Reagan had hoped that the trial might end, with acquittals of North and Poindexter, before he leaves office on Jan. 20, and thus spare him any need to pardon them. But it now appears that the trial will only be getting under way in January, so if the two men are by any chance convicted the question of whether to pardon them will end up in the lap of President Bush.

Of course, Mr. Reagan may already have obtained Mr. Bush's assurance that, in that case, pardons will be forthcoming. But in all fairness, the whole problem is an outgrowth of Mr. Reagan's administration, not Mr. Bush's. There will undoubtedly be loud protests from the usual sources if these two defendants are pardoned, and Mr. Reagan would seem both morally obliged and, as the outgoing president, far better positioned to take the heat.

On its merits, the case for pardons seems to me overwhelming.

I'm not talking here only of North and Poindexter. Their co-defendants Richard Secord and Albert Hakim, may be equally innocent, but their involvement in the affair was essentially that of businessmen. As such, they were entitled to make a legitimate profit, but the case against them amounts to a charge that they made much more. Whether this is true will presumably come out in their trials, and should determine the desirability of pardons for them.)

The Iran/contra imbroglio essentially broke down into two separate episodes: the sale of arms to Iran, and the furnishing of military aid to the Nicaraguan contras — events related only by the fact that profits from the former paid for the latter.

President Reagan was fully aware of the arms sale, and whatever North and Poindexter had to do with it was done on his authority; no criticism can attach to them.

Events related only by the fact that profits from the former paid for the latter.

The provision of military aid to the contras was something else again: Congress, under at least some of the successive Boland amendments, had prohibited this — though it signally failed to provide any criminal penalty for violating the prohibition.

The gaudy congressional inquiry into the whole affair was essentially an effort by the congressional Democrats to prove that Mr. Reagan knew about the aid — something he consistently and strenuously denied. There is no doubt whatever that impeachment would have followed if such proof had been found, but the air went out of the investigation's tires when none was.

But, in that case, what was all the hullabaloo about? Somebody had to walk the plank for something, if the whole congressional inquiry wasn't to be exposed as the political snipe hunt it was.

So special prosecutor Lawrence Walsh, with 25 lawyers to help him and $8 million to spend, stitched together a theory that, while what North and Poindexter did without Mr. Reagan's knowledge might not be illegal (or at any rate might entail no penalty), they could be prosecuted under the general anti-conspiracy statutes for conspiring to do it.

Use Real Life Test each time

BOSTON—In the premiere of the TV series "Baby Boom," there was a wonderful moment when the single working mother of the 1980s met the '50s mothers of her dreams. Literally.

The star of the show, J.C., fell into bed after another hard day, failing to achieve a perfect score as a mother, worker and a woman. From deep in her subconscious she conjured up none other than June Cleaver and Margaret Anderson. But this time, the flawless mother of the Beaver and the perfect wife for father who knows best let her in on a little secret.

Margaret: "J.C., you know we were just actresses playing parts." June: "We reported to work and they tied aprons on us." Margaret: "In real life we were working mothers putting in a 12-hour day."

In this refreshing encounter, June Cleaver and Margaret Anderson were played by the actresses from the original show, Barbara Billingsley and Jane Wyatt. It was reassuring to discover in a non-fiction moment in this fictional meeting that even Barbara Billingsley felt inferior to June Cleaver: "I was forever comparing myself to the character I was playing and I always came up short...."

But the most crucial part of these confessions was embodied in three little words: "in real life." This presented in its most pristine form my favorite test on the images about women that have floated up and around for all these decades. I call it the Real Life Test.

I was first inspired to apply the Real Life Test long after June and Margaret were in reruns. It was back in the '70s when Phyllis Schlafly was extolling housewifery as the only virtuous role for women. But what was she in Real Life? A lawyer and political activist.

Then there was the woman who published a particularly judgmental book about how she had quit work—and others should follow—to stay home with her children. In Real Life, the woman had become a writer.

In the early '80s, there were all those superwoman stories about top executives who led seamless lives balancing home and office, without ever wearing pantyhose with runs stopped by nail polish. In Real Life, they had housekeepers and gobs of money.

Now, I find myself using the Real Life Test to judge the next generation of ads that have incorporated a late '80s fantasies of working motherhood.

One is the United Airlines ad that opens with a young mother dropping her child at day care and flying to a meeting in Chicago. While her child plays happily, she works with no more than a casual glance at her watch. After a calm flight home, she picks the girl up right on time. Courtesy of United.

The other is a Macintosh computer ad that shows a very pregnant woman talking about her plans to be back working one week after her baby is born. "Do you think you can run a $10 million business from the nursery?" a friend asks. She answers, "No, I think I can run it from the den." The computer makes it possible.

I don't know much about the stars of these ads, except that in Real Life the women are both actresses. But the test comes in handy anyway.

After all, in Real Life, we all know women who travel for work have more backup childcare plans than generals had for the invasion of Normandy. In Real Life, I have sat next to a mother of a waiting child when our plane was number 23 for takeoff out of O'Hare, and watched her hands began to sweat.

I also know enough about Real Life to envision the baby formula dripping onto the Macintosh keyboard. I certainly know about trying to concentrate on work with a newborn in the next room.

There is a somewhat more honest tilt to the '80s. Shows like "Baby Boom" are about stress and the well-dressed single mother trying to hold it all together. (Although in a Real Life role reversal, the star Kate Jackson doesn't have any children.)

But there is still a notion running like a theme song through these decades that somebody (else) is doing it perfectly. In the Fifties, June Cleaver and Margaret Anderson were perfect mothers because they had the right temperament. In the '80s, the women in these ads lead perfect lives because they have the right technology.

In real Real Life, there is no perfection. So the best, most enduring line of all came from the Fifties mom, June Cleaver, to her Eighties counterpart: "Aren't you being a little hard on yourself?"

Swap talks on for Pollards, hostages

WASHINGTON — American traitor Jonathan Jay Pollard and his wife may be released from a U.S. prison and sent to Israel in a three-way trade that could mean freedom for one or more of the American hostages in Lebanon.

U.S. intelligence sources tell us that the White House and State Department are engineering the swap, which may also involve a top Soviet spy who has been secretly imprisoned in Israel for five years.

Here is how the complicated trade would work: The United States would send Pollard and his wife, Anne Henderson Pollard, to Israel. Israel would release a captured Soviet spy to the Soviet Union. As the last link in the chain, the Soviet Union would lean on Syria and Iran to negotiate the release of one or more American hostages being held by terrorists. Syria and the Soviet Union are allies, and Syria controls Lebanon.

The Soviets are desperate enough for the release of their spy, Marcus Klingberg, to consider pulling some strings for U.S. hostages. Klingberg is believed to have entered Israel as a Jewish "immigrant," and then penetrated Israeli military intelligence for the Soviet Union. His career as a spy ended in 1983 when he was arrested by Israeli counterintelligence. Klingberg's coup in penetrating the inner workings of Israeli intelligence and his arrest have been kept a secret from the Israeli people and the world.

Pollard, an American citizen, is serving a life prison term in the United States for spying on the United States for Israel from 1984 to 1985. His wife is serving a five-year term as an accessory.

The Israeli government, embarrassed that it was caught spying on the United States, claimed that Pollard was part of a renegade operation. Israel has consistently denied any interest in having Pollard released. But our sources say Israeli officials have been working behind the scenes to get Pollard out. The Justice Department, which has jurisdiction over Pollard, has refused to consider a swap, so the Israelis turned to the State Department and White House to try to cut a deal.

Two experts in the art of spy-swapping have been recruited to make the arrangements — East Berlin lawyer Wolfgang Vogel and an American rabbi in New York, Vogel was an intermediary in the 1986 trade that freed Jewish dissident Anatoly Shcharansky.

Mrs. Pollard's father, public relations executive Bernard Henderson, has led the public campaign in the United States for the release of the Pollards and has made much of the fact that Mrs. Pollard is suffering from a stomach disorder.

If the three-way swap is carried out, it is likely that only the Pollards' side of the triangle will be acknowledged publicly. The United States could easily explain the release of Mrs. Pollard as a humanitarian gesture. The release of Jonathan Pollard would be harder to finesse. It would be the first time a U.S.-born citizen and traitor was turned over to another country.

Pollard gave the Israelis more than 1,000 classified documents, and more than 800 of those were "top secret." His revelations included intelligence about Syrian and Iraqi chemical weapons, Palestine Liberation Organization radar systems and Libyan air defenses. In spite of their protestations that Pollard was a loose cannon, the Israelis have returned only 163 of the documents he gave them.

The release of a Soviet spy from Israel as part of the trade would probably be hushed up, as would any connection to a trade, with Klingberg being a prime prospect.

Stocks open lower

United Press International

NEW YORK — Prices opened lower Friday in moderate trading of New York Stock Exchange issues following the release of employment figures for November that showed a higher-than-expected increase in new jobs.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which fell 12.63 Thursday, was off 7.47 to 2094.41 shortly after the market opened.

Declines led advances 707-197 among the 1,289 issues crossing the New York Stock Exchange tape. Early turnover amounted to about 7,600,000 shares.

Before the market opened, the government reported that the civilian unemployment rate rose 0.1 percent last month but the economy still created a whopping 463,000 new payroll jobs in November.

The jobless rate was 5.4 percent last month compared with 5.3 percent in October, the report said. Total employment in non-farm payroll jobs rose to 107.4 million with total civilian employment rising to 116 million.

Dollar higher on employment news

United Press International

The dollar moved sharply higher in active trading in New York Friday following a Labor Department report on the nation's employment picture.

The Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics reported the civilian unemployment rate rose 0.1 percent to 5.4 percent in November.

Most analysts were looking for civilian unemployment to stay about the same as the 5.3 percent rate reported last month for October.

Traders in New York called the employment report very bullish for the dollar.

In earlier trading in Tokyo, the dollar held steady against the Japanese yen in thin trading, closing 0.07 yen higher at 121.64 yen.

Dealers said market players sat on the sidelines, waiting for the release of U.S. unemployment data for November.

In Europe before the report was announced, the dollar opened in Frankfurt at 1.733 West German marks up from 1.731 marks on Thursday.

The dollar opened in Zurich at 1.452 Swiss francs, up from 1.45, in Paris at 5.9225 French francs, up from 5.9137 and in Brussels at 36.53 Belgian francs, up from 36.44.

The London morning gold fixing was $423.80, up 55 cents from Thursday's close.

Mitchell, Bush agree: attack deficit

United Press International

WASHINGTON — President-elect George Bush told new Senate Democratic leader George Mitchell Thursday he agreed with Democratic wishes that he take the lead in attacking the deficit, but the two men avoided the troublesome budget issues of taxes and defense spending.

Emerging from a breakfast meeting in Bush's vice presidential office, the pair — who will be main political adversaries next year — were cordial. Nonetheless, the Republican Bush acknowledged that he expects some difficult times with the Democrat-led Congress once he succeeds President Reagan in January.

"I'm not naive about it, nor is he. There will be different approaches on some of these major problems facing this country," said Bush, adding, however, that he was confident he and Mitchell could work together.

Mitchell agreed there would be squabbles, but said he hoped they would be minimal. "We both recognize that we will from time to time differ, but we hope to do so in a cooperative spirit," the Maine Democrat said.

Mitchell was selected earlier this week by Senate Democrats to be their leader next session and the Thursday meeting with Bush was the first opportunity the two men had to discuss the budget deficit, which they both agree is the most critical problem facing the country.

"I heard Senator Mitchell say very clearly [that I] should take the lead on the budget deficit question," Bush told reporters after the discussion. "I assured Senator Mitchell that is exactly what I intend to do."

House Speaker Jim Wright, D-Texas, also has said Bush must take charge on the budget and Democrats in Congress insist they will not begin negotiations until his administration moves first.

Senate Finance Committee Chairman Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, the defeated Democratic vice presidential candidate, echoed that tenor on NBC's "Today" show Thursday, saying his party is willing to discuss tough fiscal matters with Bush but only if Bush determines the priorities from his point of view.

"That's part of the price of leadership, the job of the presidency, and I think he'll fulfill that," Bentsen said. Bush must present "something that's major and forthright, that sets the course, impresses investors in this country and foreign investors, helps stabilize the dollar and brings interest rates down, to make us more competitive on an international standpoint."

Bush agreed Thursday it is his duty to take the initiative but stressed he has not yet put together his entire economic team and is not sure whether his proposal will be new or merely an amended version of President Reagan's plan.

Mitchell seemed satisfied with the pace, noting Bush was "moving with dispatch to assemble his team and get organized" and insisting Democrats were "heartened by the quality of appointments" Bush had made.

However, while Bush and Mitchell were friendly when it came to discussing the process, they did not discuss the budget specifics that are sure to spark battles next year, such as new taxes or defense spending.

Candidates

but would also provide jobs for city residents.

Thomas said the city's chief problem is the prevalence of drug dealing and drug use, especially among young people. He said the police department must continue to harass drug dealers as they have along 13th Street.

He also said more employment opportunities for young people would help steer them away from drugs. "We need to aggressively recruit businesses and industries which pay a decent wage — one that can support a family," Thomas said. Many young people see drug dealing as the only way to make money in this community, according to him.

Both candidates support establishing recreation facilities for young people.

Richards said the city commission should investigate the financial feasibility of having neighborhood recreation facilities. He suggested negotiating with the school board for the use of school facilities for recreation programs.

Thomas, who works for the Seminole County School District, said, "I'm surprised that more young people don't get into trouble because there is nothing for them to do but hang out in parking lots."

He supports establishment of youth recreation programs in the neighborhoods where young people are. "It may cost money, but the city can make no better investment in its future than to help its young people," he said.

He also noted that the city's youth advisory committee has consistently named a swimming pool as its top priority for youth. "Kids grow up in Sanford without learning to swim," he said, and he promises to keep fighting for a public swimming pool for the community.

Thomas also supports the efforts being made to improve the city's sewage system, and has urged action on the project to meet the Department of Environmental Quality's deadline to stop dumping effluent in Lake Monroe.

Richards questions whether the city considered all the options for solving the sewage problem. He says the project is too important to have been left to one consulting firm to solve, and says the city should have obtained a "second opinion" from another consulting firm.

Richards also opposes the city's proposal to donate land to the Federal Bureau of Prisons for a prison. He questions whether Sanford would benefit from a prison, and says construction of a prison would lead to development of land along Highway 46 east of the city, which the city is not prepared to serve.

Thomas has supported the proposal, saying it could provide good paying jobs for Sanford citizens.

must co-sign the checks and distribute them after they have been completed by the finance department. The mayor used to also sign the checks after commission meetings. This change in procedure begins today.

Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce First Vice President Larry Lucas gave an update on the recycle center which is set to open the first week of December. Construction is expected to begin today, according to Lucas.

The recycle center will be adjacent to the 7-Eleven convenience store at the Shoppes of Lake Mary on Country Club Road near Lake Mary City Hall.

It will be open 24 hours a day for Lake Mary residents to drop off waste paper, aluminum cans, clear and colored glass and plastic. The center will have a cedar fence enclosure and residents can enter from either side to drop off the materials into four roll-away containers provided by Western Waste Industries Inc., according to Lucas.

The recycle center was approved by the commissioners in September and site approval by the Shoppes of Lake Mary owners was made in early November.

"This three-month pilot program should be very effective and we will know in three months whether we need another recycle center," Lucas said.

"This is not a modest program. It's made the county take rise and look at the law and the implications of the law," Commissioner Randy Morris said.

Recycling will soon be the law in Florida. Each county will be expected to initiate a recycling program by July 1, 1989.

The Lake Mary recycle center is the combined effort of Lucas, Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce, Robert Hyres of Western Waste Industries and Rod Stroupe, Lake Mary director of public works.

Profits made from the center will go to a special Chamber of Commerce charity fund for the Lake Mary area.

restaurants in the Tampa-St. Petersburg area, said the restaurant will be located in the 6,000-square-foot area formerly occupied by the Coast to Coast hardware store.

The restaurant will be called Gregory's and will be open for lunch and dinner seven days a week. It will feature a center oyster bar and a kitchen visible to patrons, dining areas on different levels, and will specialize in seafood, steak and chops, Clyde said.

Commissioners also recommended a conditional use permit to serve beer and wine for Frank Aranza, who plans to move his San Antonio Rose restaurant from its present location on French Avenue to the shopping center just around the corner from the planned Gregory's restaurant.

Aranza said the new location for his Mexican restaurant will seat 76 people compared to the 46 that can be seated in his present location. The restaurant will be located in the south wing of the shopping center near the corner where the two wings meet.

Also receiving a recommendation for city commission approval was the rezoning of 38.8 acres in the east part of Sanford for the New Tribes Mission retirement center. The mission's present retirement center is located near Oviedo and is in the pathway of the planned Seminole County Expressway. The commission recommended rezoning the land from single family residence district to Planned Unit Development.

the commissioners the park will be developed in three phases over about 15 years. The first phase will involve construction of buildings to replace those now in Oviedo, including 10 single family homes, a duplex, a building housing a chapel, motel rooms and a lounge, and a parking area for recreational vehicles.

The retirement center will be located on land south of Celery Avenue about a quarter mile east of Mellonville Avenue. Taube said the development will include three ponds about 10-to-12 feet deep.

He said the mission is awaiting an offer from the Expressway Authority to purchase its land at Oviedo, and expects the offer to be made within a month. He said the Expressway Authority will purchase the land and allow the mission to use it for one year. If an agreement on price is reached by January, Taube said the mission plans to move the retirement center to Sanford in January of 1990.

The commission also recomended approval of the preliminary plat for Lindsey Estates, a duplex development in the west part of Sanford, and a site plan for an addition to Victory Temple of God church.

The duplex development is planned by Bruce E. White and his father, Harold, on land south of Paola Road and east of Oregon Avenue. The location is just west of Mayfair Meadows housing development.

White told the commissioners that the 13-duplex development will be built in phases over the next three years. Next year streets and utilities will be put in and four duplexes will be built. He said he and his father will manage the units, which will be two-bedroom and will rent for $415 per month.

Also approved was a site plan for the church located at the corner of Sixth Street and Pine Avenue. The church plans to build an addition and increase its parking lots, which are on land next to the church and across the street on property not presently owned by the church.

Housing sales rise

WASHINGTON — Robust sales in the Northeast, Midwest and the West helped push up sales of new single-family homes 3.5 percent in October, the steepest rise since June, the government said Friday.

Sales were at an annual rate of 733,000 in October, the highest level since a rate of 738,000 in February 1987, according to the Commerce Department's Census Bureau. The 3.5 percent increase in October was the fastest increase in sales of new, one-family homes since a 6.4 percent jump in June, and followed a revised decline of 1.4 percent in September and a revised 2.1 percent hike in August.

All figures were adjusted for seasonal variations.

Sales were strongest in October in the Northeast, up 14.6 from September to an annual rate of 110,000. Sales rose 8.1 percent to a rate of 107,000 in the Midwest and increased 5.1 percent to an annual rate of 266,000 in the West, the department said.

Barrels

drum was ruptured and had leaked yellow road striping paint onto the soil.

Hassler said yesterday afternoon that he assumes any blame for the barrels. He said that on Oct. 23, a Sunday, he instructed some employees to bury approximately nine barrels behind the public works department building.

"I had given instructions to bury the empty barrels and wasn't explicit. It's nobody's fault but mine," he Thursday.

In a written memorandum yesterday from Hassler, he stated several of the drums had been on site for more than three and one-half years and some for more than eight years. They had been obtained from Stark, Fla., a governmental disposal site. Local disposal sites, he stated, would not accept the drums because their original contents were unknown.

"I saw no major problem in having empty drums buried on site," Hassler wrote.

City Administrator Gene DeMarie said he was aware of the problem. He said Hassler told him that he ordered burial of the barrels because they had been "hanging around for several years" and weren't accepted at a sanitary landfill because they weren't labeled.

"It was bad judgment on his part, but at the same time, it was a mistake," DeMarie said.

Tedder said city officials were cooperative with DER.

They indicated a willingness to remove the drums and started to pull them out on Oct. 30," Tedder said.

City workers removed one drum containing the yellow paint. Another drum ruptured, releasing an unknown liquid, officials said.

After that, Tedder said DER again met with Hassler on Nov. 1 and advised them to cover the site with plastic to keep it as much in its original condition as possible. A warning notice was issued for Longwood to get an environmental consultant to supervise and execute the removal of the drums.

After consultation, between DER and Chemical Conservation Corporation the drums will be removed.

"We are just going to take the drums out of the ground and put them into extra thick steel recovery drums," Chemical Conservation's sales manager Pat Sullivan said. A time is not yet set for the barrel removal, according to Tedder.

After the contents are tested by DER, Sullivan said they will be taken to a disposal site, probably in Michigan, where they will be treated and disposed of properly.

Sullivan estimated the cost to Longwood for removing the barrels at "a couple of thousand dollars."

Tedder said that if the contents are found to be toxic, DER will decide what further action to take at that time. The city could be fined for not properly disposing the barrels, a violation against state and federal regulations, officials said.

apparently worked flawlessly. A complete assessment of how the redesigned O-ring joints performed will not be known until after the rockets are recovered at sea and inspected.

"All reported go," said Brian Welch in mission control in Houston as the ship was more than 100 miles to the northeast.

The astronauts made the climb to orbit in public silence because of Air Force security restrictions that forced NASA to treat the flight as a top-secret mission.

The launch came a day behind schedule because of high-altitude wind shear that forced NASA to delay the countdown Thursday.

Had Atlantis been launched then, its broad delta wings could have been subjected to higher aerodynamic forces than they were designed to withstand. The concern before launch Friday was that wind shear conditions at 28,000 feet would put excessive forces on Atlantis's tail fin.

But it was clear sailing Friday, despite the weather worries and minor problems loading fuel into the shuttle's big external tank that apparently delayed the countdown about 50 minutes.

One dead, two injured in pier fire

MORRO BAY, Calif. — The biggest fire in the city's history engulfed a wooden pier and more than a dozen boats Thursday, killing one person and injuring two others, officials said.

The spectacular blaze was reported at about 6:15 a.m. in the scenic coastal village 200 miles north of Los Angeles, and engulfed the entire City T Pier and all its boat moorings in the first 10 minutes, police Sgt. Norman Smyth said.

An unidentified man was found dead in one of the 12 to 15 boats damaged by the fire, and an elderly man and woman who jumped from their burning boat to escape the flames were pulled out of the water by rescue crews.

After nearly drowning, Naomi Griffith, 78, was in critical condition at Sierra Vista Hospital in San Luis Obispo, a hospital spokeswoman said. Her companion, Henry Pederson, 70, was under observation for chest pains and in stable condition.

City Manager Gary Napper said the cause of the fire had not been determined. He estimated the total damage would approach $1 million.

New Orleans police search for arsonist

NEW ORLEANS — Police searched for a man witnesses saw running from one of seven suspected arson fires, one of which burned nine houses in a central New Orleans neighborhood Thursday night.

Two people were slightly injured, authorities said. The first fire started about 7 p.m. and quickly grew to seven alarms as it spread to nine houses in a single block, a fire department dispatcher said. The fire, which authorities believe was deliberately set, caused heavy damage.

Within minutes, six one-alarm fires broke out in other structures in a 12-block radius of the first fire. All were considered suspicious in nature due to their proximity to the first blaze.

Most of the houses were vacant, but a passerby rescued two elderly women from one burning home, authorities said.

Two or three witnesses reportedly saw a man setting one of the fires and tried to apprehend him for police, but the man got away.

Pennell is sole suspect in killings

WILMINGTON, Del. — An electrician charged in one of four "corridor killings" is the sole suspect in all four slayings and a suspected fifth death in which the body has not been recovered, a newspaper reported Thursday.

The Wilmington News-Journal quoted unidentified sources who said that Steven Pennell, 31, of Glasgow Pines Trailer Court, is believed responsible for all five disappearances of women since November 1987.

Pennell was arrested Tuesday night and is being held without bail in solitary confinement for his own protection at Gander Hill Prison, said his lawyer, Eugene Maurer Jr.

Radioactive material missing at hospital

BOSTON — The Brigham and Women's Hospital lost a container of potentially dangerous radioactive material used in medical diagnosis, prompting a warning to the public Thursday.

The cylinder of gadolinium-153 is clearly and repeatedly marked with warnings and poses no danger if unopened, officials said. But the material could cause serious radiation burns if someone were exposed to it, they said.

Officials had no idea whether the material was stolen or simply misplaced and was still somewhere in the hospital, she said. The material has no significant resale value or use other than for medical diagnostics, she said.

The missing material is being investigated by the Nuclear Regulatory Commission, the hospital, state officials and Boston police, she said.

Diplomat indicted for money laundering

PHILADELPHIA — A Yugoslavian diplomat who allegedly used his position to illegally funnel U.S. currency back to his homeland was among five people indicted Thursday in a $1.5 million money laundering scheme.

The investigation, dubbed "Operation Flying Kite," was a sting operation conducted by the U.S. Customs Service and the Internal Revenue Service.

Officials said the defendants had believed the money they received from undercover agents was coming from organized crime figures who wanted to use the money for the illegal export of high technology and weapons.

Authorities said two of those indicted were arrested Thursday at Philadelphia International Airport, where they were waiting for undercover customs agents to deliver $2 million to be illegally taken out of the country.

The arrests of the three other alleged co-conspirators, including Bahrudin Bijedic, 52, counsel-general to Yugoslavia, who is based in Chicago, were also expected Thursday.

In addition to the five defendants, also indicted was the LIS Bank of New York, Inc., a subsidiary of a Yugoslavian bank.

Garcia pleads innocent in Wedtech case

NEW YORK — Rep. Robert Garcia, D-N.Y., and his wife pleaded innocent Thursday to charges they extorted more than $250,000 in bribes in the Wedtech scandal that ended the career of another veteran House Democrat, Mario Biaggi.

"Not guilty," Garcia, 55, said firmly, echoing the defiance of Biaggi before his trial began earlier this year.

Moments later, Garcia's wife, Jane Lee, 48, entered a similar plea before U.S. Magistrate Nina Gershon.

Outside the court, Garcia insisted the indictment would not stop him from fully representing the impoverished South Bronx district where he was born and raised.

A third defendant named in the seven-count indictment handed up last month, Ralph Vallone, 41, a San Juan, Puerto Rico, lawyer, did not appear for the arraignment because his lawyer said he was ill and unable to make the trip.

Puente appears in court

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — Accused killer Dorothea Montalvo Puente, whose boarding house yard concealed seven bodies in shallow graves, publicly signed papers Thursday permitting her to stay away from some courtroom sessions.

The frail, bespectacled and white-haired Puente, 59, looked mostly at the floor during a brief session in Sacramento Municipal Court.

Apparently reluctant to appear in courtrooms jammed with members of the news media, she signed papers stating she was not required to attend court hearings where witnesses would not be testifying against her. It was her second courtroom appearance since her arrest at a Los Angeles motel Nov. 16.

Puente's lawyers, Kevin Clymo and Peter Vlautin of the county public defender's office, submitted motions asking to review coroner's evidence in the case, including audio tapes made of comments from physicians who performed autopsies on the seven bodies.

The bodies were unearthed over a period of four days beginning Nov. 11 after a social worker reported a tenant at the F Street boarding house managed by Puente was missing although his Social Security checks continued to be cashed.

Police have said they suspect Puente of killing elderly or disabled tenants for their government assistance checks. She was convicted in 1982 of drugging and robbing bar patrons and has served time in state and federal prisons on charges of forgery.

Drug probe nets more than 200 arrests

United Press International

WASHINGTON — U.S. and Italian authorities, ending a three-year undercover investigation of drug-trafficking in pizza parlors, Thursday lodged charges against more than 200 people — including dozens tied to the Sicilian Mafia — and made scores of arrests.

In simultaneous raids, teams of FBI, U.S. Customs Service and Drug Enforcement Administration agents also seized large caches of drugs, the FBI said.

FBI Director William Sessions said arrest warrants were served in eight American cities and nine Italian locations against a total of 75 people in the United States and 133 in Italy. By 3 p.m. EST, officials said, 59 suspects had been arrested in Buffalo, Baltimore, Miami, New York, Philadelphia, San Francisco, Newark, N.J., and Rockford, Ill.

Another 22 arrests were made in Italy, where at least 37 arrest warrants were issued.

Federal law enforcement sources and Italian authorities said the operation dovetailed with an earlier investigation that led to nationwide arrests linked to the sale of heroin in U.S. pizza parlors. That inquiry uncovered a ring of Sicilian housewives who acted as flying drug couriers carrying heroin to the United States.

Among restaurants raided early Thursday was the Cafe Giardino (Garden Cafe) in Brooklyn, the alleged headquarters for a faction of the Gambino family involved in drug trafficking, loan sharking and gambling, according to James Fox, assistant director-in-charge of the FBI's New York office.

Fox said when agents entered the cafe at 1:45 a.m., the show had just ended and the audience was applauding.

"Some of the individuals arrested made some attempt to escape," Fox said. "An agent went to the microphone and said, in effect, 'Many of you have had your last dance. You are under arrest.' ... Many of those who were not arrested were not sure what was going on or that it was part of the entertainment or a gag."

Among those arrested were Francesco Gambino, 47, formerly of Torretta, Sicily, and Giuseppe Gambino, 42, of Brooklyn, both key figures in the Gambino organization that runs pizza parlors and fast food restaurants.

Gambino family members arrested for mob activities

United Press International

NEW YORK — Sixteen accused members of the Gambino crime family were charged Thursday with running a murderous extortion, loansharking and gambling ring in the first Mafia indictment under the state's new racketeering law.

John Gottl, the reputed boss of the nation's most powerful organized crime family, was named as an indicted co-conspirator in the case for allegedly authorizing their activities on Manhattan's fashionable East Side.

"They had a franchise from John Gottl to control that area," said District Attorney Robert Morgenthau, who announced three separate indictments against the crew.

"If we could have indicted Gottl today, we would have," said Morgenthau, who explained that investigators had been unable to get enough information to indict the reputed boss, who has escaped conviction under federal racketeering laws in the past.

In what Morgenthau called an exhaustive investigation, detectives made extensive use of wiretapping and bugging devices to gather information on the group's operations, which allegedly included murder, extortion, coercion, grand larceny and loansharking.

Seven reputed members of the crew were indicted under the state's Organized Crime Control Act, which is modeled after the federal racketeering statutes that allow prosecutors to bring charges against defendants for a pattern of criminal activity.

Two members of the group were indicted for second-degree murder, while several others were charged with crimes ranging from illegal gambling to drug dealing.

Morgenthau also filed a separate civil suit to freeze and recover more than $12 million in earnings of the crime crew.

The reputed mobsters, allegedly led by Ernest Grillo Jr., 32, of Staten Island, were accused of taking control of several apartments on the East Side by threatening the building owners and their children with violence and vandalizing the properties.

Using "his reputation in the neighborhood as a gangster," Grillo and his associates took over an apartment, a nearby gas station, and a store front by assaulting or vowing to beat up their owners.

Jobless rate edges up; more than 463,000 jobs created in November

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The civilian unemployment rate rose 0.1 percent last month but the economy still created a whopping 463,000 new payroll jobs in November, mostly in services, manufacturing and construction, the government said Friday.

The jobless rate was 5.4 percent last month compared with 5.3 percent in October, according to the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics. Total employment in non-farm payroll jobs rose to 107.4 million with total civilian employment, as measured by the department's household survey, rising to 116 million.

The employment-to-population ratio increased 0.2 percentage point last month to a record 62.6 percent, the department said.

All figures were adjusted for seasonal variations.

The increase in the number of payroll jobs was expected to cause some concern among analysts, who expected an increase of less than 300,000. Rapid growth, they said, could reflect an economy that is expanding at an inflationary pace. Consequently, the Federal Reserve Board, which sets credit conditions, could be tempted to force up interest rates as a way to fight inflation.

Unemployment showed little or no significant change among the nation's major demographic groups in November. Last month, 6.6 million people were looking for jobs.

Adult men and adult women joblessness was 4.8 percent, a slight rise from October, the department said. Unemployment among teenagers fell 1 percentage point to 13.9 percent. The jobless rate was 4.6 percent for whites, 11.2 percent for blacks and 8.1 percent for Hispanics.

The service-producing sector added 345,000 jobs last month following slower growth in recent months. Services industries, especially health and business services, led the way with 195,000 of the new jobs. Other gains were registered in transportation and public utilities and wholesale trade, the department said.

Factory employment rose sharply for the second straight month, ending a late summer decline, with 70,000 new jobs. In the past year, 425,000 factory jobs have been added to the economy with gains in machinery accounting for more than a quarter of the increase.

Following four months of sluggish activity, construction employment jumped 55,000 in November, the department said.

The average workweek for production or non-supervisory workers dropped 0.2 hour last month to 34.7 hours. In manufacturing, both the workweek and overtime were unchanged from historically high levels of 41.2 hours in the week and 4 hours of overtime.

The index of weekly hours of workers on non-farm payrolls was 127, compared with a base of 100 in 1977. That was essentially unchanged from October.

Average hourly earnings of private production or non-supervisory workers declined 0.7 percent, reflecting a smaller workweek.

Before seasonal adjustment, average hourly earnings in November was $9.45.

RJR Nabisco board 'hellbent' against management takeover

United Press International

NEW YORK — Kohlberg Kravis Roberts & Co. won a vitriolic $25 billion bidding contest for RJR Nabisco Inc. because the food and tobacco giant's board was "hellbent" on keeping a management group from controlling the company, a source close to the negotiations said Thursday.

After dramatic dealmaking that ended late Wednesday, RJR Nabisco's board entered into a record merger agreement worth $109 a share, or $25.07 billion, with buyout specialists Kohlberg Kravis despite receiving a bid from the management group that the board called "substantially equivalent."

Kohlberg Kravis, which also owns Beatrice Foods, said it would complete the transaction taking Atlanta-based RJR Nabisco private by mid-January.

To help finance the largest corporate takeover in history, a spokeswoman said the leveraged buyout firm plans to sell some of RJR Nabisco's famous brand names, which include Camel, Winston and Salem cigarettes, Ritz and Triscuit crackers, Oreo cookies, and Baby Ruth. Butterfinger and Lifesavers candies.

The stock of RJR Nabisco, the nation's 19th largest industrial company with 1987 revenues of $15.8 billion, was the most active on the floor of the New York Stock Exchange in mid-afternoon trading, down by 62.5 cents to $92.375 a share.

The RJR Nabisco board did not say why Kohlberg Kravis walked away with RJR Nabisco instead of the management group, but it could come down to emotions.

"Our bid was higher," said a source within the management group comprising RJR Nabisco senior managers, Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc. and Salomon Brothers Inc.

"But the board was hellbent and determined not to let (RJR Nabisco President F. Ross Johnson) get a hold of it."

Published reports said the final bid by the management group led by Johnson was worth at least $25.42 billion, several million more than the winning proposal that is nearly twice the size of the previous record takeover of Gulf Oil Corp. by Chevron Corp. in 1984.

U.S. tourists stabbed in Anguilla

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico — Two American tourists found dead on the British Caribbean colony of Anguilla were stabbed to death and authorities promised a "full investigation," a U.S. diplomat said Thursday.

Anguillian authorities have requested Scotland Yard police experts and a pathologist from Barbados to aid their inquiry into the deaths of Martha Alsop, 38, and Susan Galvin, 40, both psychotherapists from Watertown, Mass.

U.S. mayor's wife dies in train crash

LIMA, Peru — The wife of the mayor of Jersey City, N.J., died Thursday in a train crash that also killed the wife of a Peruvian mayor and left seven people injured. Authorities said they feared sabotage caused the wreck.

Anna Cucchi, the wife of Jersey City Mayor Anthony Cucchi, died when a single motorized wagon carrying tourists who had gone to see Incan ruins jumped its tracks outside the city of Cuzco, 350 miles southeast of Lima, the government-run National Train Company said in a statement.

JERUSALEM — Unidentified armed "aggressors" hijacked a Soviet domestic airliner Friday and Soviet officials allowed the plane to take off for Israel with five hostages aboard, aviation officials in Tel Aviv and Cyprus said.

Salinas assumes Mexican presidency

United Press International

MEXICO CITY — Carlos Salinas de Gortari took the oath of office Thursday to become Mexico's 61st president with the opposition denouncing his government as illegitimate and the nation's second largest party boycotting the ceremony in protest.

Salinas, 40, won the July 6 presidential elections amid charges of fraud and with the smallest majority since the ruling Institutional Revolutionary Party, or PRI, came to power 59 years ago. A six-year economic crisis and growing restlessness over the PRI's long rule led to his poor showing.

After taking the oath, Salinas gave a speech conciliatory toward the opposition, but adopted a tough line toward Western banks that hold much of Mexico's $104 billion foreign debt, the payment of which has hindered growth this decade.

"It is unacceptable and unsustainable to transfer to the exterior 5 percent of our gross domestic product," Salinas said, in reference to the $9.2 billion that Mexico pays in interest and other fees on its foreign debt.

"I will avoid confrontation, but I am convinced that the interests of the Mexicans come before the interests of the creditors. The priority is no longer to pay, but to grow," Salinas said, to the widest applause he received in his address.

Mexico is mired in its worst economic slump in the past 60 years, with real wages having fallen 50 percent in six years and unemployment reaching 20 percent, with another 20 to 30 percent of the labor force underemployed.

Carlos Salinas de Gortari

The National Democratic Front, or FDN, a leftist coalition headed by ruling party defector Cuauhtemoc Cardenas, won more than 30 percent of the presidential vote in the election, the most ever by an opposition party.

Before Salinas arrived, all 139 members of the FDN walked out of the Congress. The 101 members of the conservative National Action Party, or PAN, stayed and pledged to support Salinas's policies that it agrees with, though denouncing the alleged voting fraud.

Abel Vicensio Tovar, secretary general of PAN, branded Salinas as an "illegitimate" president because of the alleged fraud.

The two main opposition groups, with 240 seats in the 500-member Chamber of Deputies, won the right for the first time to speak to the nation on television and radio in the Legislative Palace.

Cyclone death total reaches 716

United Press International

DHAKA, Bangladesh — Fierce winds and rain Thursday stymied search operations for thousands of people feared missing after the most powerful cyclone in a century battered much of Bangladesh and parts of eastern India, claiming at least 716 lives, officials said.

In the eastern Indian city of Calcutta, shipping officials said the Indian navy rescued 17 crew members of the Singapore-based M.V. Punori, but reported two sailors still were missing from the container ship that sank during Tuesday night's storm.

Two other ships, the East German Neubrandung and the Greek registered M.P. Golden Condor, both reported they were safe after initially being listed as missing, officials said.

President Hussain Muhammad Ershad arrived by helicopter in the city of Khulna and was driven to nearby affected areas before supervising relief efforts from Khulna.

Argentine coast guard, army soldiers mutiny

United Press International

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina — A coast guard unit mutinied Thursday but simultaneous revolts at two army bases were headed off by loyalist officers, the Defense Ministry and military sources said.

Military sources said that in addition to an uprising in the coast guard's Albatross Squadron — an anti-smuggling task force based in the Buenos Aires suburb of Olivos — conspirators tried to simultaneously convince troops to rebel at the 601st Communications Battalion in City Bell, 35 miles south of Buenos Aires, and in the army's 3rd Regiment in La Tablada, 10 miles southwest of the capital.

President Raul Alfonsin was out of the country Thursday, attending the inauguration of Mexican President Carlos Salinas de Gortari.

A Defense Ministry communiqué, without giving details, said late Thursday that there were "instances of indiscipline" in the La Tablada and City Bell units that were "brought under control immediately."

It said an investigation was being conducted to "determine responsibilities."

Earlier, the Defense Ministry acknowledged there had been a coast guard mutiny. It said the mutiny began when "approximately 45 troops of the Albatross Squadron ... abandoned their base (without leave) in three vehicles, carrying arms."

Military sources said a subsequent count placed the number of rebels at around 50.

The sources said the coast guardsmen, led by Deputy Prefect Raul Horacio Ramon de Agastizabal, tied up a duty officer and evacuated the Olivos Marine Prefecture base shortly after midnight in three trucks, carrying their weapons.

At the two restive army units, troops were disgruntled over poor pay and rumors that they could not cash their November paychecks. But loyalist officers, after discovering that conspirators were trying to persuade soldiers to join an insurrection, convinced the troops to remain loyal to Alfonsin, military sources said.

"We don't believe the events were related to economic motives," a military source said. "We believe the theme (of the rebellions) was ideological and political."

The source said, however, that the national treasury made deposits Thursday to ensure that military personnel could cash their checks.

The source said the rebels in the army units have not been fully identified but are believed to be followers of Lt. Col Aldo Rico, a rightist who is demanding that all public criticism of the armed forces cease.

The source said the army was investigating unconfirmed reports that Capt. Jorge Rafael Videla, son of a former president with the same name, was involved in the La Tablada disturbance.

The senior Videla, an ex-army commander, is now serving a life prison sentence for mass murder of political prisoners committed during his presidency from 1976 to 1981.

Report: Some nursing homes mishandle food, medicine

United Press International

WASHINGTON — About 43 percent of the 15,000 nursing homes that care for Medicare and Medicaid patients mishandled food, while 29 percent improperly dispensed medicine, a government "report card" on nursing homes said Thursday.

Medicare Administrator William Roper said the government's first consumer guide on nursing homes "shows a significant problem that needs to be dealt with across the country" and insisted "our continuing commitment is to assist all the parties in dealing with those problems."

But Roper added, "Nursing homes are better than ever before."

Among key highlights of the report were:

- 42.8 percent of the nation's 10,000 skilled care nursing homes failed to meet a standard requiring that food be refrigerated, stored, prepared and served under sanitary conditions.

- The more than 5,000 homes that provide only intermediate care reported a similar percentage in this area.

- 29 percent of the skilled nursing homes failed to meet the requirement on proper administration of drugs according to the written orders of the attending physician.

White House blocks use of secrets in Iran-Contra case

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The White House, disclosing an action that could jeopardize any Iran-Contra trial, has permanently blocked release of documents containing "state secrets of the highest order," spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Thursday.

Fitzwater said a decision on whether the criminal case against ex-White House aide Oliver North goes forward rests with U.S. District Judge Gerhard Gesell.

The White House spokesman disclosed that the decision to block public disclosure of certain categories of information was made unanimously in July by the secretaries of state and defense, the CIA director, the head of the National Security Agency and the national security adviser.

President Reagan had no role in the irrevocable decision, Fitzwater said.

Last week, Gesell sternly warned the White House to move quickly and determine what classified material could be released at trial.

However, the prosecutor has accused North of flooding the court with requests for material.

Police chief ordered to pay raid damages

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — In a verdict believed to be the first of its kind, a jury ordered Police Chief Daryl Gates to pay $170,014 in damages Thursday for directing a raid in which members of a family were injured.

Following three days of testimony, the U.S. District Court jury assessed $170,000 in punitive damages and $14 in compensatory damages against Gates in the 1986 raid on the east Los Angeles home of Jessie Larez, whose nose was broken. The panel also awarded $7 in compensatory damages against the city.

After a two-week trial, the same six-man jury ordered Oct. 31 that the six officers who participated in the raid pay $90,503 to Larez, his wife and five children.

In a prepared statement, Gates said the verdict "begs for review by a higher court" and calls into question "the integrity of the whole system of justice at the federal level."

Mayor Tom Bradley said the verdict would be appealed.

Marion Yagman, who tried the case with her partner and husband, Stephen Yagman, called the verdict "fantastic."

"It's time it happened," she said. "I hope it sends a message to the city and to Gates that this isn't the kind of behavior that is going to be tolerated on its police force."

Lawyers on both sides said they believed the verdict represented the first time in the nation that an active police chief in a major city had been held liable for damages in a civil rights case for acts of excessive force committed by his officers.

Los Angeles police executed a search warrant June 13, 1986, on the Larezes home to look for a gun used in a gang killing, but found no gun. During the search, however, officers broke Larez's nose, yanked his daughter to the floor by her hair, roughed up other family members and smashed many household possessions.

Bradley asked the city attorney to file an immediate appeal of the decision, which he said had "far-reaching ramifications for law enforcement administrators and public officials at all levels of city government."

"If the jury's findings are allowed to be upheld, the result could have a chilling effect on the administration of justice and public safety in the city of Los Angeles," Bradley said in a prepared statement.

Lawyers said the city would be liable for the $21 in compensatory damages against Gates and the city. But it was unclear who would have to pay the $170,000 in punitive damages.

The Yagmans contend Gates should pay the $170,000 out of his own pocket and they said they would reject the check if it was issued by the city.

They said the issue has never been decided by an appeals court. But Stephen Yagman is scheduled to argue the issue before the U.S. 9th Circuit Court of Appeals Dec. 8 in a case in which a jury awarded $10,500 against former Newport Beach Police Chief Charles Gross. The award stemmed from excessive force used by Gross's officers when he was police chief.

The Yagmans asked the jury to hold Gates liable for punitive damages because he sets a "lawless, cocky" tone for his officers. In a rare court appearance Tuesday, Gates denied those allegations.

Nicholls fuels LA Kings

Wayne Gretzky had five assists for the Los Angeles Kings Thursday night — and was virtually ignored.

The reason was Bernie Nicholls, who put on an even more impressive show at the Forum. The 27-year-old center collected two goals and six assists to set three club records and fuel a 9-3 rout of the Toronto Maple Leafs.

Nicholls, who assisted on each of Los Angeles' first four goals, registered eight points to better the team record of six he shared with seven others. His six assists topped the previous franchise mark of five.

Nicholls also netted his league-best 30th goal, reaching that plateau in just 26 games — another club record. He leads the NHL with 53 points.

In other games, Minnesota downed Boston 4-1, Montreal tied Philadelphia 2-2, Detroit whipped Quebec 7-3, St. Louis trounced the Islanders 8-0, and Calgary spanked the Rangers 6-3.

Phils turn attention to Schmidt

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Phillies, spurned in their contract offer to free-agent shortstop Scott Fletcher, next turn their attention to re-signing star slugger Mike Schmidt.

Schmidt, who underwent rotator cuff surgery and missed the last six weeks of the season, became a free agent in October and rejected the Phillies' first offer.

Philadelphia General Manager Lee Thomas has said the Phillies do not plan to offer contract arbitration to Schmidt, who hit only 12 home runs last season. That means Philadelphia must sign Schmidt by Dec. 7 or they cannot re-sign him until May.

Thomas said Phillies President Bill Giles will meet this weekend with Schmidt's representative, Arthur Rosenberg, in an attempt to resolve the situation before next week's winter meetings in Atlanta.

NBC to broadcast '92 Olympics

NEW YORK — NBC Thursday won the U.S. broadcast rights to the 1992 Barcelona Olympics with a bid of $401 million, the most money ever paid to show an event on television.

The outcome means NBC, which televised the 1988 Seoul Games, will have the rights to its second straight Summer Olympics. CBS, which will televise the 1992 Winter Olympics in Albertville, France, was the anticipated favorite for Barcelona.

The high-stakes corporate poker game settled the biggest financial question facing the Spanish organizers and is certain to shape future maneuverings of the networks.

"It'll affect a lot things we'll be doing for the next hundred years," NBC President Bob Wright said. "We couldn't be happier."

Lions make tracks to sectional

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

Excitement and Oviedo football have gone hand in hand so far in 1988 and tonight should be no different as Titusville's Terriers roll into town for the Class 4A-2 Section playoff.

Kickoff is 8 p.m. and the Lions are hoping to draw their biggest crowd of the season. Oviedo comes in with a 9-2 record and advanced to the section by defeating Land O' Lakes, 24-6, in the Region 4 playoff. Titusville, also 9-2, advanced with a 19-0 rout of Daytona Beach Seabreeze in Region 3.

The winner of tonight's section contest advances to the Class 4A State Semifinals next Friday against the Section 1 winner, Niceville or Jacksonville Raines.

"I expect a very tough game against Titusville," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "They're a very excellent coach in Al Werneke and I'm sure he'll have them prepared as well as possible."

Werneke returns to Titusville after a four-year hiatus in which he coached Gainesville Buchholz to a 32-12 record and two district titles. In his previous stint at Titusville, Werneke guided the Terriers to Class 3A state titles in 1982 and '83.

"The response was very positive when I came back," Werneke said. "It's nice to know that I was still welcome. We had some tough times at first this season, but the kids have a real good attitude and are really believing in themselves."

Believing is something Oviedo has been doing all year. The Lions were considered a contender in District 4A-7, but nobody picked them to finish the regular season at 8-2, including seven victories in a row. Oviedo also tied for its first ever Seminole Athletic Conference title.

The Lions have had key performances on every aspect of the team. On offense, Frank Diaz has run for over 1,000 yards while Matt Blanton has had good success throwing the ball while Chad Duncan led a talented receiving corps. The offensive line has also had a tremendous season led by seniors Scott Tyrone, Sam Hughes and Mike Lee.

Defensively, the line has held its own led by John Knutson, Jon Black and Chris Taber. The linebacking corps is one of the best around with Willie Pauldo, Barry Coleman, Kevin Gutch and Stan Merrell. Hector D. Diaz and Duncan lead a solid secondary unit.

The kicking game has also been a big plus for the Lions with placekicker Eric Dullmeyer coming through on several occasions along with punter Karl Gaim.

Titusville has also had a well-balanced season. The Terriers are led on offense by Dexter Deese who has run for over 1,300 yards and 10 touchdowns. The most versatile player on the offense is running back Lamar Campbell who has over 700 yards rushing with six TDs and 280 yards receiving with four TDs. Campbell has also run a punt 70 yards for a touchdown and returned a kickoff 68 yards for another TD.

Quarterback Mark Lallanc, a transfer from Titusville Astronaut, has been a key player for the Terriers as it enabled Campbell to move from QB to running back. Lallanc has passed for nearly 800 yards with five touchdowns.

The linebackers are the strength of the Titusville defense and the Terriers have three good ones in Chris Griffin, Chris White and Billy Day. Senior Derrick Mills leads the linemen as he had 13 sacks this season.

The Titusville kicking game is also solid as

'Noles upend Jones

By DEAN SMITH
 Herald correspondent

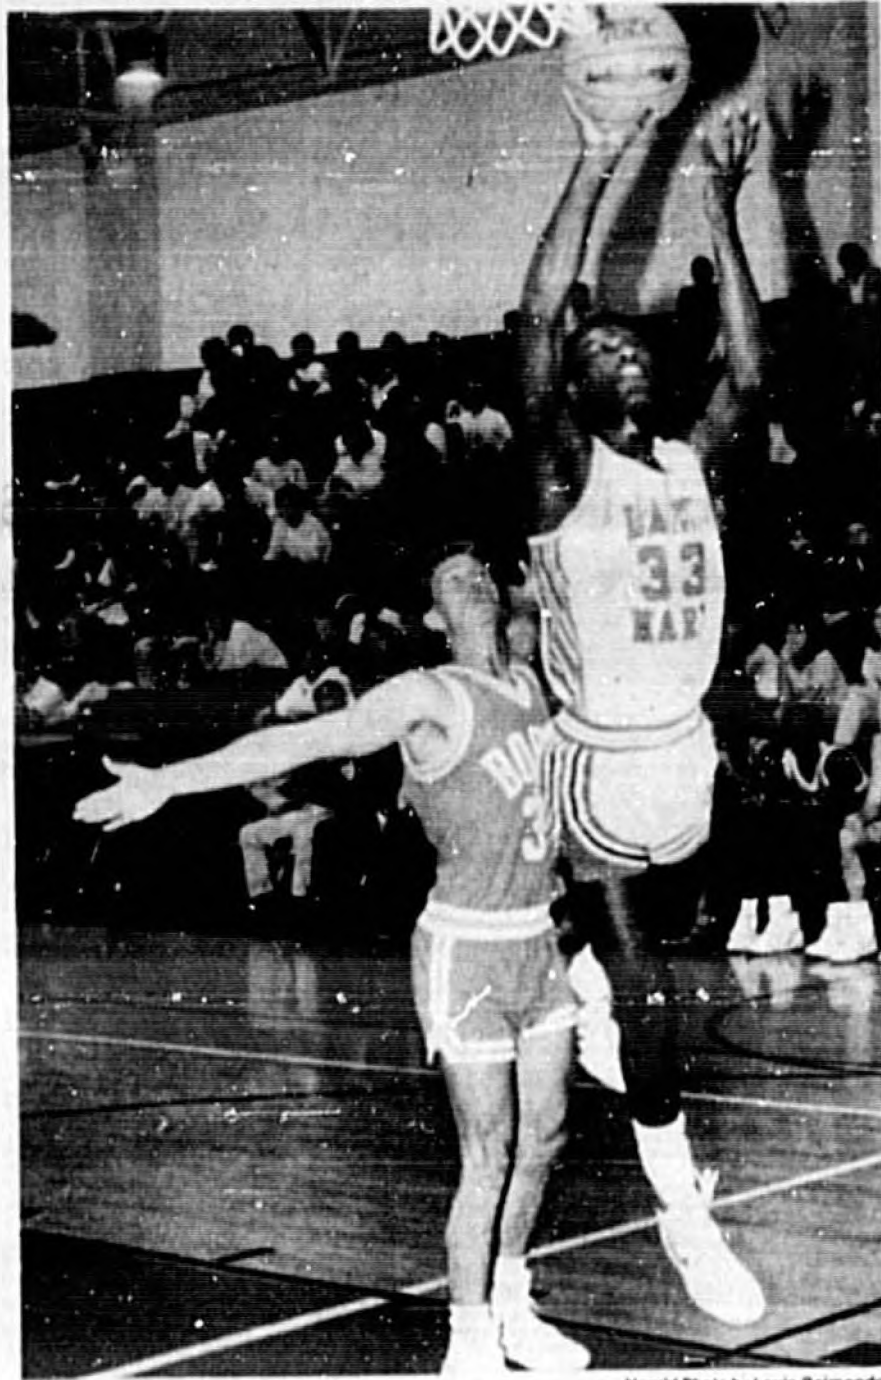

WINTER PARK — The Fighting Seminoles of Seminole High School, with Bernard Eaddy scoring 19 points, bounced back from Wednesday night's loss to Oak Ridge with a 75-70 victory over the Tigers of Jones High School to advance to the fifth place game of the Rotary Tip-Off Classic at Winter Park High School.

The fifth place game is scheduled for Saturday at 5:30 p.m. with the Seminoles taking on the winner of Friday night's game between Daytona Beach Seabreeze and Titusville Astronaut.

"This was a good win," said Seminole coach Greg Robinson. "Jones has a good team and after playing against the NBA (Oak Ridge) last night and getting shellshocked I thought we played well. We needed this."

The game got off to a good start for Seminole when center Robert Moore tapped the opening loss to Eaddy who fed Von Eric Small for a layup. Small was fouled on the play and converted the free throw to give Seminole a 3-0 lead after only four seconds of play. The teams traded baskets and turnovers the rest of the period with Seminole holding an 18-17 lead. Both teams were a little sloppy as Seminole turned the ball over nine times and Jones ten. Small had five points and Earl Williams four to lead Seminole. Tyrone Perry had five and Eddie Coleman four to lead the Tigers.

Lake Mary's Bernard Mitchell drives inside Boone's B.G. Westerfield for two of his 27 points Thursday night. Mitchell's effort was overshadowed by Boone's Iven Jones, who poured in 31 points in the Braves' 82-71 victory.

Boone rocks Rams

By CHRIS FISTER
 Herald sports editor

LAKE MARY — Any team would be happy to be scoring 71 points a game. Of course, if you don't play defense, you're going to get your clock cleaned anyway.

Orlando Boone, a team known for its deliberate style in the past, took advantage of a shaky Lake Mary press defense and ran the last break well all night as the Braves blazed to an 82-71 victory over the Rams in the season opener for both teams Thursday before 381 fans at Lake Mary High.

"Lake Mary has a good ballclub, but their press defense was not working for them," Boone coach Wayne Rickman said. "We were able to get a number of breakaways off the press and that enabled us to pull away in the second half."

The blame can't go solely on the Rams' defense, however. A lot of the credit for Boone's triumph has to go to sensational sophomore Iven Jones. The 6-3 forward was a thorn in the Rams' side all night as he poured in 31 points and grabbed 10 rebounds.

"He's a very hard worker and has a good attitude for the game," Rickman said of Jones. "He's definitely going to be a good one."

Lonnie Jackson added 14 points for the Braves while Charlie Bouton and Larry Holt tossed in 12 apiece.

For the Rams, Bernard Mitchell had a solid game with 27 points and nine rebounds and Mike Merthe

'Canes plan to pressure BYU

United Press International

MIAMI — The Miami Hurricanes plan to thwart the high-powered Brigham Young offense by turning up the heat on Cougar quarterback Sean Covey.

Second-ranked Miami, 9-1, will meet Brigham Young, 8-3, in the Orange Bowl Saturday night in a matchup of the two premier aerial attacks in the country.

But the Hurricane defenders believe the BYU offense can be stopped by pressuring Covey, a junior who has completed 167 of 302 passes for 2,548 yards, 13 touchdowns and eight interceptions.

"The whole defense is playing real good now," said Miami freshman safety Charles Pharms. "The defensive line is playing real good and I think they'll help us out by putting a lot of pressure on their quarterback."

"From what I've seen on film, he (Covey) doesn't like pressure. He seems to fold up under pressure."

Pharms went on to add that he would like to see Miami hold the Cougars to under 200 yards passing and under 10 points.

Soccer season kicks off

Oviedo's Tim Waisanen (No. 4) pushes forward while Seminole's Nick Kanlaya moves in to defend during action in Thursday's season-opening match at Seminole High. The Lions, district champions a year ago, came away with a 2-0 victory. For details of the match, see Page 3B.

Hornets top 76ers, 109-107

United Press International

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The Charlotte Hornets needed a play call against a star player to wind up with their first-ever winning streak.

Kelly Tripucka scored a layup off an inbounds play with four seconds left and Charles Barkley was whistled for charging as time expired Thursday night, giving the Hornets a 109-107 victory.

It was the second consecutive win for Charlotte, which defeated Miami on Tuesday night.

It appeared as if Barkley, who had a game-high 31 points, would have a chance to win the game at the free-throw line. Barkley drove the lane for an apparent game-tying layup as time expired, colliding with three Hornets along the way. But Barkley was called for charging and the basket was waved off.

"That was a bad call," Barkley said. "You know it and I know it. You don't make a call like that. If you do, you definitely don't call a charge."

Charlotte coach Dick Harter disagreed.

"We played the middle tough and earned the call," Harter said. "When you hold your ground in the middle against a 270-pound driver, you have to get the call to make it a good game."

The Hornets led by as many as 23 points at one stage of the game, but squandered it as Philadelphia took a six-point lead with just over three minutes remaining. However, the Hornets got big plays down the stretch from Tripucka and rookie Rex Chapman to win.

"It takes big plays to win and that's what we did," Tripucka said. "We played hard the whole game and deserved to win. We've had some fourth-quarter blues, but we've learned how to win the close games now."

The win was Charlotte's first against an Eastern Conference team. The Hornets' previous wins have come against San Antonio, the Los Angeles Clippers and Miami.

Kareem has bruised knee

United Press International

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Los Angeles Lakers did not practice Thursday and is not expected to play Friday night against the Utah Jazz.

Abdul-Jabbar suffered a bruised right knee in a collision with teammate A.C. Green Monday night at Philadelphia. The center experienced swelling and was unable to play Wednesday night in a 110-106 victory over the Seattle SuperSonics.

Abdul-Jabbar, 41, will visit team doctor Robert Kerlan Friday to determine when he can resume workouts.

"We finished out in style, because we were embarrassed to let a 23-point lead go," said Hornets guard Robert Reid, who had 16 points.

Charlotte scored the first 10 points of the second half to take a 69-46 lead with 9:30 left in the third quarter. But Barkley and Ron Anderson, who had 30 points, led the 76ers on a 33-12 scoring spree the remainder of the period to pull within 81-79.

Philadelphia surged ahead 104-98 with 3:35 left in the game, but Chapman, who finished with 19 points, scored two straight jumpers to pull Charlotte within 104-102 with 2:35 remaining.

Tripucka gave the Hornets the lead for good on a three-point play with 1:29 left.

Michael Holton had 11 of his career-high 15 assists in the first quarter to help the Hornets take a 35-23 lead at the end of the period. Charlotte extended its margin to 21 when Robert Reid's layup made the score 53-32 with 6:11 left until halftime. Charlotte led 59-44 at the half.

Defense lifts Cavs over Bucks

United Press International

The Cleveland Cavaliers' league-leading defense was good enough Thursday night to let them get away with a cold shooting performance.

Ron Harper scored 28 points and Brad Daugherty sank 2 free throws with five seconds left, leading Cleveland to a 90-86 victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

The Cavaliers made only 33 of 84 shots (39 percent) from the field but held Milwaukee to 45 second-half points — including 13 in the third quarter — to improve to 9-3. Cleveland came into the game ranked first in the NBA defensively, allowing only 98.4 points per game.

"I thought our defense was excellent down the stretch," Cleveland Coach Lenny Wilkins said. "We made some really big plays and we hit the big shots."

The Bucks were plagued by 7 fourth-quarter turnovers, including 2 in the final 1:44 that Cleveland converted for 5 points.

"We made too many mental mistakes at the end of the game," Milwaukee's Ricky Pierce said. "We dropped the ball off our foot and threw the ball out of bounds and it was just one of those things."

Harper was fouled while driving and sank 2 free throws with 13 seconds left to give Cleveland a 97-94 lead. Milwaukee's Sidney Moncrief then missed a driving shot before Daugherty hit both free throws to put the game out of reach.

"We weren't hitting our outside shots in the third and fourth quarters," Harper said. "We had to go to the hole. If we can get into the paint, we can try to make something happen and we did."

Pierce sank a 3-point basket with 29 seconds left to give the Cavaliers a 93-90 lead.

"There's no point in taking a 20-footer if you can take a 23-footer," Milwaukee Coach Del Harris said. "Price is the kind of guy who is going to take a layup or a 15-footer but he's not going to take something longer unless it's a 3-pointer."

Jack Sikma hit 2 free throws for the Bucks, but Price made 2 free throws to give Cleveland a 95-92 lead with 16 seconds remaining. Jay Humphries followed with a 20-foot baseline jumper to pull Milwaukee within 95-94.

The victory snapped an eight-game losing streak for the Cavaliers in Milwaukee dating to Dec. 13, 1985.

Mitchell, Camino selected runners of year

Lyman leads boys squad

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

It was a banner season for Seminole County boys cross country as three teams finished in the top seven along with the individual champion and runner coming from this county.

Lyman finished second to powerful Leto in the class 4A state finals. Lyman dominated the area with its two front runners, Teddy Mitchell and Nick Radkewich, who placed first and second at the state meet.

Mitchell, who went undefeated in his junior year for the Greyhounds, is the Sanford Herald's runner of the year. Mitchell turned in the state's best time of 14:38 during a midseason race at Lyman High School before running a 14:56 at the state meet to record the fastest time of the day there.

Radkewich, a senior, was equally impressive as only a handful of runners were able to overcome him, and that was in the early part of the season. Radkewich came on during the big meets to help Lyman win the Seminole Athletic Conference, the Postal Run and the District and Regional Titles.

Seminole's Jason Kaiser was another runner that came on strong late. Kaiser finished first in the regional meet with a personal best time of 15:24. Kaiser then finished 12th in the Class 3A state meet.

Lake Howell's Kavan Howell turned in a brilliant performance in his last two races to earn a spot on the first team as he placed fourth in the regional run before taking 13th at the state meet and led his team to a seventh place finish in the meet. Howell, a senior, turned in a season best time of 15:39 at Oviedo during midseason.

Lake Brantley junior Darin Tugman was probably one of the most consistent runners of the year as he was constantly in the top ten of every race. Tugman finished 17th at the state meet and led the Patriots to a sixth place finish in the meet.

Kevin Padgett, Lyman's talented sophomore worked hard during the off season and came back to be one of the area's top runners. Padgett turned in a strong midseason and helped the Greyhounds streak and came up with a strong performance in the state meet to help his team finish second.

Lake Howell's Jason Springhart rounded out the first team as he came on strong after a midseason injury and helped pace the Silver Hawks to a seventh place finish at the state meet. Springhart turned in a 15:42 clocking just before his injury and came back down steadily after returning to the Lake Howell lineup.

Leading the second team are Seminole's Dalvin Davis who turned in strong performances at the District and Regional meets before coming up with an injury in the state meet. Lake Howell placed David Burson and Brandon Lowenthal as they played major roles in the Silver Hawks efforts this season. Lyman's Darran Marshall and James Flint also made the second team as they both came up with solid season's for the Greyhounds. Lake Mary sophomore sensation Bob Robertson also made the squad with Lake Brantley's Andy Ogilvie, who turned in a strong late season for the Patriots rounding out the top runners in Seminole County.

Lake Brantley paces girls

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole County girls cross country was in the spotlight all season long with three teams being ranked in the top ten all season long.

Lake Brantley was the only team to reach the state finals, though, as Lake Mary and Lake Howell were hurt by injuries to key runners during the later stages of the season.

Heather Camino, a senior at Lake Brantley, put together a string of four consecutive individual victories and placed 12th at the state meet to aid her team to a third place finish to become the Sanford Herald's female runner of the year. The Lady Patriots were just two points shy of a state title and tied for second with the decision going down to the third runner and backing them to third.

Lake Mary's Melisha Abbasnejad, a senior, was next as she finished 15th in the state meet and put together a strong second half season to lead the Lady Rams over the last two months of the year.

Brantley sophomore Joyce Tullis, who ran with Camino for much of the year, was next.

Camino dropped off just a bit at the end of the season but was still a major part in the Lady Patriots' six titles this season. Brantley won the District and Regional titles along with four regular season titles.

Lake Howell's fantastic freshman Monica Compton was next as she put together a brilliant season for the Lady Silver Hawks. Compton finished in the top ten in every meet in her first year of running and can be one of the best to ever run in the successful Lake Howell program.

Lake Mary junior Allison Snell, who was sidelined with a stress fracture at midseason, was next on the list. When Snell was healthy she was always in the top five and was the county leader in every race until her injury. Lake Mary was ranked sixth in state before Snell went out.

Lake Howell placed another freshman on the first team in Natalie Newberry. Newberry came up with a late season surge when the Lady Silver Hawks needed her most. Newberry turned in her best performance at the Regional meet and ran a season best time of 12:47.

Lyman, Brantley fight to 1-1 tie

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald sports writer

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Like an unstoppable force, Lyman's polished offense swept into Lake Brantley's Tom Storey Field and met an immovable object in the Patriots' hard working defense. The result: a 1-1 tie.

Predictably, the tie was viewed in a different light by the opposing coaches.

"I'm very, very pleased," said Patriot coach Jim Brody, whose team was a definite under dog going into the season-opening match for both teams. "I didn't know if we were ready to start with this match."

"This should give our young players a lot of confidence. And everybody contributed."

Ray Sandidge, coach of Lyman's Greyhounds, didn't share Brody's enthusiasm.

"We probably should have won this game," he said. "But that's soccer."

The contest was interesting clash of styles and skill levels; the only common denominator was the work rate, which was very high on both sides. Lyman would do a nice of building and creating an offense, only to be thwarted by Lake Brantley's tough but effective defense.

"That's been our style of play since I've been here," said Sandidge of the Greyhounds' effective and entertaining offense. "I believe in strong possession of the ball and leave as little to luck as possible."

Eventually, maybe the Patriots will be as skilled as a team. The individual skills seem to be there, but because of the overall youth of this year's Lake Brantley team, there's a lack of cohesiveness. So Brody has his team working hard, especially on defense.

"I'm very strong on defense to begin with," said Brody. "We have to start from there."

Against Lyman on Thursday night, it worked very well. The Greyhounds carried most of the play, putting together several runs of nice touches. But when it counted most, around the net, Lake Brantley's defense confounded Lyman.

"They played good, solid defense," said Sandidge. "They made a lot of good plays, especially around the top of the penalty box."

With 7:38 gone in the first half, the Greyhounds took the one and only lead of the game. Bernard Harden, Lyman's star midfielder, played a perfect through ball to Erik Leiben on a run down the right side. A quick poke and Leiben got the ball past Patriot "keeper" Kirk K'affer inside the left post.

"We started off kind of rattled," said Brody. "They were supposed to put as away and all that. They scored a great goal, but we were able to come back and score a goal.

"After that, it was a 50-50 game."

Lake Brantley's goal was created by some poor play by Lyman in front of its goal. After two Greyhound defenders miscommunicated on a play, the ball was knocked around in front of the Lyman net. A nicksick on a clear attempt went right to Prince Sharma, who ricocheted it off another player past Kelly

Walden, Lyman's All State goalie, at 25:25.

"We had some miscommunication on defense," said Sandidge. "Kelly was in position to make the save before it bounced off a player. He was still able to get a hand to it, but he couldn't keep it out."

Both teams return to action on Saturday, Lyman opening its home schedule with a match against Oviedo while Lake Brantley hosts Dr. Phillips.

Oviedo outlasts Seminole, 2-0

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

SANFORD — Jeff Derose powered in two goals to lead the Oviedo Lions to a tough 2-0 victory over a much-improved Seminole High squad Thursday night before 101 fans at Seminole High School.

Oviedo improved to 1-0 with the victory and will return to action against Lyman this Saturday. Seminole fell to 0-1 and will play Lake Mary on Tuesday.

"It was a strange game," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoaki said. "They (Seminole) were doing some different things on defense, which he had to try, and took us out of our rhythm. I give Seminole a lot of credit, they played a real tough game."

Oviedo, who has dominated the Tribe for the past three seasons, looked as though it would rip them again as Derose drilled a 25-yard shot nine minutes into the game.

Seminole then shutdown the Lions offense for the remainder of the half and put together a couple of scoring runs. The Tribe's best scoring chance in the opening half came when Geordie Davidson took a Chuck Roll pass on the right wing and dribbled past two defenders. Davidson then unloaded a long shot that sailed wide of the goal.

"That was the best I've seen a Seminole team play since I've been the coach," Seminole mentor Carlos Merlino said. "We did some different things on defense and we were able to mess them up a little. We had them on the ropes for awhile, once they got that second goal, though, they picked up the momentum."

The teams battled it out the entire half with Oviedo getting several scoring opportunities in the final minutes of the first 40 minutes of play. Derek Bates and Rob Mills both came up with scoring chances with Bates, playing sweeper, ripping a pair of shots that just went over the Seminole net. Mills, the middle striker, was consistently getting open in the middle but was frustrated by the pesky Seminole defense.

"I think that's the hardest I've had a team play and I'm really proud of their efforts," Merlino said. "Most of the time when we play Oviedo its over in just a couple minutes, we were in the game most of the night. I think we gained some confidence with tonight's game."

Merlino praised the play of Davidson and Roll along with center Collin Forde and keeper Sean Sundvall. Sundvall came up with save after save and was a big reason the game stayed close. Merlino also cited the play of midfielders Jimmy Reynold and Javier Falcon who played a major part in the trick defense.

Lake Howell blanks DeLand

DELAND — Lake Howell used a strong team performance and scored three goals in the second half to upend the DeLand Bulldogs, 4-0, Thursday night in Seminole Athletic Conference action at Spec Ma. in Stadium.

Riad Saidi opened the scoring with a 10-yard shot off a Ron Jenkins assist five minutes into the game to give the Silver Hawks the lead for good. Lake Howell returns to action Saturday in its home opener against Deltona. Junior varsity action begins at 12 noon with the varsity match at 2.

Chris Davis opened the second half with a goal off an assist from Kevin Rafferty with 33 minutes left to play. Chris Dzubian was then served a ball by Kavan Howell and put it in the cage to up the lead to 3-0. Jenkins closed out the scoring on a goal off a Terry Miller assist.

"DeLand has a bunch of scrappy kids and it's always tough to play over there," Lake Howell coach Bill Stevens said. "I'm happy with the win, though, and am real pleased with our effort."

The Hawks also got a strong defensive effort led by Jason Trefonas and Greg Davis.

After its meeting with Deltona on Saturday, Lake Howell gets its first big test of the season Tuesday as it plays at Lyman.

Matt Worthington has converted 8 of 10 field goals (including kicks of 47, 45 and 43 yards) and 32 of 35 extra points.

"I'm expecting a very tough, hard-fought game," Werneke said. "Oviedo has a very talented team and I'm sure they'll have a lot of people there. We'll have to control the ball on offense and stay mentally in the game at all times."

Raiders hope to keep up momentum

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Seminole Community College men's basketball team, fresh off a Mid-Florida Conference win over defending champion Florida Community College, looks to keep the momentum going Friday night when it hosts the Falcons of Florida College (Tampa). The Raiders then travel to Winter Haven Saturday night to take on the top-ranked Vikings of Polk Community College. Both games are scheduled to start at 7:30 p.m.

This will be the Raiders' second meeting with both schools as they own a 74-69 win over Florida College and dropped a 77-72 decision to Polk.

In Seminole's victory over the Falcons sophomore forward Terrell Barnes led the way with 27 points, including 16 in the second half, and also grabbed a team high 12 rebounds. Lyman graduate Robert Thomas was the only other Raider in double figures with 11 points and added five assists. Point guard William "Wimpy" Woods added nine points and a team high nine assists. Forward Richard Brown picked up nine points and eight assists while Vincent Emerson added eight points.

For the Falcons it was Rick Barnes, no relation to Terrell, leading the scoring with 23 points, also in double figures were forwards Shawn Byers and Ken Washington with 12 points each. Guard Wayne Baxley grabbed a game high 15 rebounds. Also on the Florida College roster is former DeLand player Ed Miller.

In Saturday night's game the Raider's will be taking on the team that was voted number one in the state in the most recent Florida Coaches poll. In the loss to the Vikings Barnes again was the leading scorer and rebounder with 18 points and nine rebounds. Also in double figures was Thomas with 14 and Woods and Brown with 12 each.

For the tree tall Vikings Orlando Evans graduate Reggie Shields led the scoring parade with 21. Also in doubles was 6'9" Lorenzo Williams with 16. 6'7" Larry Patrick with 12.

SCC's Robert Thomas drives on FCC-Jacksonville's Jack Skipper in Wednesday's action. The Raiders return to the court tonight at 7:30 at home vs. Florida College.

Lake Howell rips Grenadiers, 61-43

By CHUCK BURGESS
Herald correspondent

CASSELBERRY — The Lake Howell Silver Hawks used good play in the second and fourth periods and overcame a lethargic start to bomb the Colonial Grenadiers, 61-43, in boys' prep basketball action Thursday night at Lake Howell High in front of 401 fans.

Leading the way for the Silver Hawks was Cortez Graves who poured in 12 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Graves also had three steals on the night to pace the defense for the Hawks. Steve Johnson was the only other Silver Hawk in double figures with his 10 points.

The Grenadiers started tickling the twine right off the bat as Rich Konopka hit his first two shots for a 4-0 lead. Lake Howell's Joe Scutero got the Silver Hawks on the board with a jumper and Johnson pulled the Silver Hawks to within 5-4 before a fast paced Colonial 9-0 spurt.

The Silver Hawks battled back late in the period with the scoring of Johnson, who had eight of his 10 points in the first period. Johnson sank a 17-foot, 17-10, Johnson sank a 12-footer at the buzzer to bring the Hawks to within five.

After the sluggish start, the Silver Hawks started to assert themselves on the boards as Graves and Thomas Demps each controlled the glass for the rest of the night. Demps ended the night with eight rebounds and four blocked shots.

Down 17-16, the Silver Hawks' Tye Eastham thought it was time to put on a little three-pointer show as he sank two in a row from the 3-point stripe for a five point lead. After the 3-point field goal spark, the Silver Hawks never looked back. Everything was falling for them in the late going. Ahead 28-23, Joan Kohn dribbled around two defenders and put up an "in your face" three-pointer that hit nothing but net as the halftime buzzer sounded.

The third period sent both teams to their huddles scratching their heads as both teams combined for 15 points with Lake Howell outscoring the Grenadiers 8-7. Graves scored 4 of his 12 points in the third quarter, but Colonial's Wendell Crawford, who had a game high 17 points, matched Graves' every move with four of his own.

Coming down the homestretch in the fourth period, the Silver Hawks once again got a spark and flexed some offensive muscle by outscoring the hapless Grenadiers 22-13 to seal their first victory in as many tries.

In the junior varsity game, it was the Lake Howell Silver Hawks once again defeating the Grenadiers. Fred Engle and Paul Thompson combined for 36 points in the Silver Hawks' 59-38 win.

Engle led the Hawks' attack with 21 points and Thompson added 15 in the win.

Lady Lions slip past Edgewater, 61-59

From staff reports

Oviedo High sophomore Betsy Hughes turned in a superb all-around performance Thursday night as she tossed in 12 points, grabbed 11 rebounds, made five steals and dished out four assists in the Lady Lions' 61-59 victory over Orlando Edgewater's Lady Eagles.

The Lady Lions ran their record to 2-0 on the season while Edgewater slipped to 1-3.

Bridget Jenerette led three Oviedo players in double figures with a game-high 17 points while Suzanne Hughes added 13 points and five blocked shots. Candy Clary contributed six points for the Lady Lions. Joey Paugh led Edgewater with 10 points.

MAINLAND RIPS RAMS

Kristi Austell and Segena Mackeroy combined for 46 points as Mainland's Lady Blues rolled to a 67-50 victory over Lake Mary's Lady Rams Thursday at Daytona Beach.

It was the season opener for Mainland which is considered the favorite in District 4A-9 this season. Lake Mary dropped to 1-3. The Lady Rams open play in the Seminole Athletic Conference Tuesday at home against DeLand.

Austell, one of the top players in the area this year, poured in 30 points to lead Mainland while Mackeroy hit 16. Amy Kuvach had a good night for Lake Mary with 18 points while Wilketha Harris added nine and Tara Jackson and Anita Mitchell contributed seven apiece.

Daunic, Wildcats outgun Seabreeze

By JIM RICKENBACKER
Herald correspondent

WINTER PARK — Senior guard Willy Daunic showed why Vanderbilt University signed him early, scoring 24 points and corraling eight rebounds Thursday night to propel Winter Park past Daytona Beach Seabreeze, 69-63, and into tonight's semifinals of The Tip Off Classic at Winter Park High School.

Daunic popped a pair of three-pointers at the game's outset, connected a crucial three-pointer midway through the last period and capped off the 'Cats season opener with two free throws to seal the Sandcrabs' fate before 501 fans.

Along the way he dished out a dozen assists, many coming at critical times. And his supporting cast came up with enough clutch plays to ensure victory.

Danny Rubin, a 6-foot-6 senior center, ripped down nine rebounds and nailed 8-of-13 field goals, scoring eight of his 16 points in a first-period offensive that ended with the Wildcats leading, 22-6. Juniors' Dan Ostergard and Andre Ringkvist, who finished with a total of 21 points, scored 11 points between them in the fourth period.

Clay Hair, just nine days removed from quarterbacking the football team, was credited with seven rebounds and three assists.

"We never lost our lead and boy that gives me confidence," said Winter Park Coach Kerry Patrick. "We played well under pressure and came out on top, and that's all you can ask for on a team that has only two returning starters (Daunic and Rubin).

"They got us into their game in the second period and that hurt us. And we panicked a couple of times when they pressed us."

Seabreeze, with its only returnee Kelvin Hughes sitting out the season opener for disciplinary reasons, experienced jitters in the beginning before bouncing back in the second period behind sophomore Pepper Johnson and a tenacious man-to-man defense.

Trailing 30-15 with 3:08 left in the second period, Johnson went

Johnson, who scored 13 of his game-high 24 in the second quarter, started the second half with a field goal and added another shot in traffic minutes later to narrow the gap to 39-37. Daunic scored the next four points and the 'Cats could get no closer than four the rest of the way.

Johnson's free throw sliced the deficit to 57-52 with 4:15 remaining in the game, but Daunic followed with his final three-pointer to curtail the threat.

"We've got nothing to be ashamed of. We dug ourselves in too deep of a hole," said Seabreeze Coach Joe Piggote, Jr.

Brantley bombs Phillips

By DAVID GORCORAN
Herald correspondent

ORLANDO — Lake Brantley's Patriots began their 1982-83 season on a winning note, defeating the Dr. Phillips Panthers, 58-49, Thursday night before 251 fans at the Panthers' gym.

"I was pleased with getting the win tonight, especially since most of the other schools in the county (Seminole) had the advantage of playing in a pre-season jamboree," said Patriots head coach Steve Jucker. "But we still need to work on several things, like being more physical on defense and handling the press better."

There wasn't much doubt on the outcome, as the Patriots have much more experience than the Panthers, although the scrappy Panthers did have their moments. The real story of the game was Lake Brantley's talented frontcourt trio of center Bo Pamplin and forwards Jeff Engle and Trey White. The trio totally intimidated the Panthers.

"All three played a strong game tonight," according to Jucker. "And they are expected to provide the leadership for the team this season since all three are seniors. They definitely showed the leadership tonight."

Pamplin scored a team high 18 points, as well as pulling down 10 rebounds and blocking 3 shots. White tossed in 14 points and Engle scored seven as the three teamed up to dominate the inside play.

And afterwards, all three talked about themselves and the team.

"The whole team played well tonight," said Pamplin. "We were very physical, and I like to bang the boards and play a power game towards the basket. We started the season on the right foot tonight, and we will get better as the season goes along. Plus, we have a good bench, and that keeps all three of us fresh, especially towards the fourth quarter."

White and Engle also echoed what Pamplin said as White felt "we play well together as a unit. And that's because we've been together since our freshman year at Brantley. We just know what the other two can do on the court."

Other Patriots had solid efforts with Matt Tunney scoring nine points and Kevin Hinshaw six. Dr. Phillips was led by Tyrone Taylor who scored a team high 13 points.

In junior varsity action, the Panthers won it by the score of 71-41, with Sam Brown of the Panthers the game's high scorer with 19 points and Brad Rigby of Lake Brantley leading the team with 12 points.

The Patriots play their next game tonight at home against Kissimmee Gateway at 8 p.m., with the JV game starting at 6:15 p.m.

Lyman frosh victorious

Saul Henik sank two free throws with eight seconds left to give the Lyman Greyhounds a 52-51 victory over the Lake Brantley Patriots in freshman basketball action Thursday at Lake Brantley.

After Henik's free throws put the 'Hounds in the lead, Brantley had a one and one situation with one second left but could not convert.

Jason Goodpaster and Donnie Hazler led the way for Lyman with 13 points apiece. The Greyhounds rallied from a 28-17 halftime deficit.

Robert Seymour led Lake Brantley with 15 points and Jeff Kleinman tossed in 11.

"We threw the ball away too much," said Robinson, one of our objectives is to not throw the ball away against pressure, but we forced them into some turnovers too."

Seminole turned on the defensive pressure in the second quarter and outscored Jones 22-12 and take a 40-29 lead into the locker room. Seminole held the Tigers to 4 of 12 shooting in the period and forced eight turnovers. Moore had six points to lead the Seminoles.

Seminole continued to play well in the third period as Eaddy scored seven points and dished off two assists. But eight points by Coleman kept Jones close and Seminole led 62-49 entering the fourth quarter.

"We hung in there and played a very good second and third quarter," said Robinson. "But when you are young you want to get into the flow of the game and forget about team play. We played very good defense in spurts, but then would stand around waiting for someone else to do something at other times. We have a long way to go but we are getting better."

Seminole scored six points, all by Eaddy, in the first minute of the fourth quarter to take a 68-51 lead. But Jones refused to quit and started to mount a comeback. The Tigers out scored the Seminoles 12-0 over the next 2:10 to close the score to 68-63. Derrick Johnson scored eight of the twelve. But Seminole came back to life and held Jones scoreless for the next 3:03 and a free throw by Eaddy and baskets by Moore and Larry Allan pushed the lead back out to ten at 73-63 with 1:47 left and the game was over for all intents and purposes.

For the game, in addition to Eaddy, the Seminoles also placed Moore, 13 points, and Small, 12 points, in double figure scoring. Earl Williams chipped in with nine. Eaddy led in assists with five and also grabbed six rebounds. Small and Moore led in rebounds with nine each.

For Jones it was Coleman leading the way with a game high 22 points. Also in double figures was Derrick Johnson with 14. Colonel Robbins led in assists with six and Johnson led in rebounds with ten.

Coach Robinson summed up the game by saying, "We got real sloppy at the end. I was disappointed with the way we handled the pressure at the end and the execution of our delay game. But when you are as young as we are it's good to get a win under our belts against a team as respected as Jones."

Lake Mary's Chris Davidson goes up for a jumper Thursday night vs. Boone. The Rams dropped their season opener to the Braves, 82-71.

Boone

pumped in 17 points. Lake Mary, though, hopes to get some production on the inside from 6-5 center Chris Davidson in the future. On Thursday night, Davidson did not score and had just five rebounds.

Despite a sloppy first quarter, in which they committed 10 turnovers, Boone was able to take a 16-12 lead. Jones broke up a 10-10 tie with a three point play, then hit a driving bank shot to make it 16-10 before Mitchell sank a jumper in the last few seconds to pull the Rams within four.

The Rams battled back to tie it at 20-20 early in the second quarter on a pair of free throws by George "Air" Gordon. Mitchell then tipped in a missed shot to give Lake Mary the lead. Boone would regain the advantage, though, late in the quarter and went on to take a 34-28 halftime lead.

The third quarter is when the Braves made their big move. Jackson opened the half with a three-point shot and Hut's layup off the fast break gave Boone a 31-28 lead.

Boone would up the lead to 20 points, 53-33, with 2:22 left in the quarter when Jones grabbed an offensive rebound and stuck in the followup. Jones went on to score five more points in the quarter as Boone took a 60-39 lead into the final eight minutes.

The fourth quarter saw the Rams go to their desperation press and Boone continually broke it. The Braves maintained the 20 point lead until the late going when Rickman emptied his bench. Lake Mary made the score a bit more respectable by outscoring the Braves, 10-2, in the last two minutes.

Lake Mary will look for its first win on the road Friday as it goes to Fort Pierce.

In Thursday's junior varsity action, Boone outscored Lake Mary 16-12 in the fourth quarter and pulled out a 44-42 victory. Chad Crumitt had 16 points for the Braves and Allan Casals tossed in 15. Matt McDonald's 12 points led Lake Mary with Jon Roche contributing 10, Dale Whitman nine and Scott Davidson seven.

Joseph roasted by friends, family

The roasting of and toasting to a man who faithfully has served his country, family, friends and community occurred Sunday at the Elks Home in Sanford.

The honoree, Johnny W. "Baby" Joseph, began his patriotic journey upon graduation from Crooms Academy Class of '46. After a few months in New York, he decided to pursue a career in the Army.

The guy became a full-time, well-rounded soldier and had the great privilege of traveling to such places as Texas, Kansas, South Carolina, North Carolina, Georgia, Germany and Japan. He also had the distinguished honor of being an honor guard while stationed in Washington, D.C.

After serving his country for 20 years, he returned to Sanford and told Army stories to the guys at the Metz Shoe Shop in Sanford. Johnny decided to attend Mid-Florida Tech in Orlando, and after completing the course in printing, he pursued a career in printing on the Orange County School Board staff.

It won't be the same for Johnny. No more alarm clocks, no 1-4 traffic tie-ups, no rushed lunches, and, yes, no more "Hut 2, 3, 4."

The roast and toast was an evening of old tales and special events as his old classmate and friend Rufus Brooks served as toastmaster. Music of the evening was performed by Evelyn Clark at the console and one of his favorite nieces, Gina M. Joseph of Atlanta, who sang a special selection to "Uncle Johnny." Words of meditation and prayer was given by Margaret Deater. The welcome and occasion was presented by his old buddy Willie Metz.

Reflections on Johnny's life also were given by the Sunday School Class that he teaches on Sunday at Providence Missionary Baptist Church, Lake Monroe. A gift presentation was made by Eddie Wright Jr. Another of his old classmates and hometown friends, Royce Walden of the Orange County School Board remembered Johnny's working days in the Orange County School System, where he got to know and was loved by those he worked with. Memories of his days as a student and classmate was brought to mind by James "Button" Wilson, as he told of their school days at dear ol' Crooms Academy.

Cynthia Brown roasted Johnny in song and poetry as she paid honor to him as a Christian, worker and community man. His old Army buddy Russell Boston of Oviedo brought back to memory the years Johnny and he spent in the Army, and oh, what tales can be told! The Rev. James Hagin, pastor of the honoree, spoke of Johnny's dedication, devotion and leadership in the church.

His brother Benny Joseph and the Joseph family gave words of reflection on the family life of Johnny. The great experiences shared together as a family will remain always in the minds and hearts of all the family members, especially his sister Kathryn Joseph Alexander and all the nieces, nephews, cousins, and children who shared in this evening of memories and reflection for a jolly, joyous guy called Johnny "Baby" Joseph.

Sharing the evening also were Johnny's daughter Maria Joseph and granddaughter Andrea Torres of New York City, and daughter Bobbie Mitchell and grandson Tadarly Worship of Daytona Beach. A plaque of appreciation was presented to the honoree on behalf of the family, by his daughter Maria.

Crooms Academy Class reunion committee for the classes of 1932 to 1949 will meet Saturday, Dec. 3, at 6 p.m. at Trinity United Methodist Church, in complete plans for the Class Reunion to be held Dec. 27-29. Burke or Earl E. Minnett.

The Wilson Ensemble will be in celebration of their 11th annual anniversary, Saturday, Dec. 3, at 7 p.m. at First Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church, 700 Elm Ave. Guest choirs and musical groups will be in concert. Mary Liggins Debose will be musician.

Crooms Academy Classic Years 1950-59 committee will not hold its regular meeting at the Elks Home, on East Seventh Street. All meetings will be cancelled until the month of January. Richard Evans is chairman.

The St. Paul Gospel Chorus will recognize its 29th anniversary with a workshop celebration on Saturday, Dec. 10, from 8:30 a.m. to 4 p.m. at St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church, 813 Pine Ave., Sanford. A concert will follow at 7:30 p.m., featuring the Workshop Mass Choir, local musicians, choirs, ensembles and soloists.

Theme for the workshop will be "Gospel Music: Yesterday, Today and Tomorrow," with the theme song "Look Where You Brought Me From."

Special guest musical director will be William Crimm of Rochester, N.Y.

Crimm, a graduate of the Eastman School of Music, Rochester, N.Y., has appeared in musical productions throughout the United States and Europe, and has recorded an album. Even Florida's cold can harm plants

With winter fast approaching, it's time to give some thought to protecting tropical and subtropical plants from cold damage due to low temperatures, frost or a hard freeze. With proper cultural practices and several protective steps, damage from low temperatures can be reduced.

Nutrition is very important for increasing a plant's resistance to cold injury. A plant that is supplied with all elements essential for growth will survive lower temperatures and recover faster from cold injury than plants not receiving proper fertilization.

Plants in Florida landscapes can be fertilized four times per year. Landscape plants in Central Florida should be fertilized in late winter, spring, mid-summer and early fall. One to 1 1/2 pounds of 6-6-6 or 8-8-8 or 1/2 pound of 12-4-8 or 16-4-8 should be applied per 100 square feet of planting area for the first three applications per year. A decrease in the amount of fertilizer applied in the fall is necessary because plant nutrient consumption declines during the colder season.

Late summer or early fall pruning should be avoided. Pruning alters the plant's hormonal balance, resulting in a flush of growth that is very susceptible to cold injury.

Healthy plants are more resistant to cold than plants weakened by disease, insect or nematode damage. Routine inspection of pests and implementation of necessary control measures may determine the fate of a plant during a freeze.

Tender plants in containers can be protected from freeze damage by putting them in a garage or on a porch. If it is not possible to move them indoors, protect root systems by pushing the containers together and applying a mulch over the containers.

Windbreaks can minimize cold injury by reducing wind speed and conserving heat in an area. Evergreen plants make excellent windbreaks that can be effectively placed so that an area stays warmer than it would if it were in the open.

Covering materials such as cloth, polyethylene plastic and paper can be used to reduce frost injury. Covers that extend to the ground and are not in contact with plant foliage can lessen cold injury by reducing radiant heat loss from the plant and the ground. Foliage in contact with the cover is often injured because of heat transfer from the foliage to the colder cover. A light bulb under a cover is a simple method of providing heat to ornamental plants when the temperature drops below freezing. One should remove the plastic covers during a sunny day to prevent heat damage to the plant.

Sprinkler systems also have been used for cold protection. A constant flow of water over the plant may be of value, however, if the supply of water is stopped or is not supplied fast enough, ice can build up to the point where its weight breaks the branches of the plant. Sprinkling must begin as freezing temperatures are reached and continue until thawing is completed. This method is usually not suitable for homeowners, since large quantities of water are needed and most irrigation systems are inadequate.

To summarize, a good healthy plant is the best insurance against cold damage. A healthy plant means a proper fertilization and watering program are used. Use windbreaks or protective coverings for the entire plant or at least for the main stem when a cold snap is anticipated. If all fails and the plant freezes, replace it with a more cold tolerant species or grow that favorite ornamental as a pot plant so it can be moved indoors those few cold days we have in Florida.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Caution was required for playing today's slam. Declarer had to set up dummy's side-suit without allowing West to score a cheap trump trick. After North had jump-supported hearts, South cue-bid first the ace of clubs and then the spade ace. North, who had key cards in every suit, sleepily bid six hearts.

West led a trump. Declarer won the king in his hand and cashed the ace of clubs. Next came the ace of spades, followed by a trump to dummy. West was still left with a trump, but declarer could not afford to draw the last trump before trying to ruff out the club suit. If clubs did not split, he needed the extra trump entry to dummy, without giving West a trump trick.

Teeth-grinders ought to visit their dentist

DEAR DR. GOTT We are caring for my husband, 42, who suffered a subarachnoid hemorrhage, aneurysm, mini-strokes, blood clots and pneumonia. He's in tough shape but cheerful and happy to be home. What can we do to help him from grinding his teeth? I think it's due to muscle spasm.

DEAR READER Patients with severe nervous system disorders, such as strokes, may tend to grind their teeth, particularly at night. This activity is difficult to treat because it is usually due to unconscious jaw movements, not muscle spasm. Therefore, anti-spasmodics and muscle relaxing drugs are of little benefit.

I think that your husband could be aided by using a bite plate. Such a device can be supplied by your dentist. It's essentially a fitted plastic mouth guard that prevents patients from unwittingly grinding their teeth when they clench their jaws.

DEAR DR. GOTT Three orthopedic specialists, four water-bed salespeople, my best friend and I all disagree over whether water beds are safe or harmful for a person with back problems. Two bedrooms remain empty until we read your answer.

DEAR READER I hope you're not sleeping on the floor while awaiting my answer.

As you've discovered, there is no clear-cut consensus among experts about whether water beds are helpful or harmful to people with back problems. (With all due respect, I discount your friend's testimonial and that of salespeople, who surely want to sell you water beds.)

Some people with chronic back pain find water beds a godsend; others can't stand them. I think you will have to make up your own mind. Or, rather, let your back make up your mind. Ask a friend to let you sleep for a couple of nights on his (or her) water bed. Then make your decision.

MEDICINE

As a general rule, patients with backache tend to be more comfortable sleeping on a firm mattress that gives plenty of support. However, for you, a water bed might be therapeutic. Try one before you buy one.

DEAR DR. GOTT My husband takes medicine for congestive heart failure. He coughs really deep until he vomits, then he's clear for 10 minutes. His doctor doesn't seem concerned. Am I right to worry?

DEAR READER Persistent cough is often a sign of congestive heart failure, the buildup of fluid in the lungs that results from ineffective heart-pumping action. I think that you are right to worry.

Your husband may need a change in medication or dosage schedule. Also, the doctor should make sure that he does not have a lung condition, such as bronchitis causing the cough.

If the doctor isn't helping your husband with this problem, request a referral for a second opinion.

For more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Medical Specialists." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

Telemarketing can be pain in the ear

DEAR ABBY: I have been working for a marketing research firm for the past two months, telephoning homes around the country to get opinions from consumers regarding which products and services they use. The only bad part of my job is the abuse I have to take from some of the rude people I encounter.

I very politely introduce myself, then state that I want only a few minutes of their time to get some information about products they use daily. I explain (if they let me get that far) that I am not selling anything. I am just gathering information. Abby, you would not believe some of the language I have heard before they hang up on me!

Please ask your readers to be a little more courteous and to cooperate with callers from market research firms. And if they are too busy to answer a few questions, all they have to do is say so.

MINNESOTAN

DEAR MINNESOTAN: There is no excuse for rudeness, but I believe that the telephone is in the home for the convenience of the person who pays for it. Market researchers should find another way to gather information. Some people sleep at odd hours; others may be ill and don't want to be disturbed; and there are many who resent the intrusion. Read on for a consumer's view.

DEAR ABBY: Of all the nuisances to plague us over the years, telemarketing is at the top of the list. It differs from direct mail. When you get unsolicited mail, you can toss it out or put it aside to read when you feel like it; you can even get your name removed from the mailing list. But what do you do about phone calls? Forget unlisted numbers—now the marketers use computers that simply dial numbers, one after the other.

Telemarketing is a blatant invasion of privacy. Your town can legislate against solicitors coming to your door—but not your home. Think of how many baths, naps, nights (or days) sleep, family dinners, lovemaking sessions and funeral receptions have been interrupted. And how many sick, disabled and elderly people have been inconvenienced by a ringing telephone. (We won't even go into how many gullible people have been bamboozled on the phone.)

The public also should be made aware that once people buy or give on the basis of a phone solicitation, their names are sold to other telephone solicitors as "hot prospects." I urge anyone who is fed up with this home invasion to take action. When one of these calls comes in, ask for the name and address of the organization (commercial or non-profit) involved, then tell them that you will buy nothing sold on the phone, and will support no charity that solicits in this manner. Then follow it up with a letter, so they will know you mean business.

When enough people stop buying or giving, these intrusive phone calls will stop paying off and come to a halt.

MRS. M.H., CHALFANT, PA.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My sister's son committed suicide a few months ago. Although my sister and I live far apart in distance, we are extremely close. His birthday would have been this week, and I could decide on whether to send her and her husband a nice card, call them, or just not mention it for fear of upsetting them.

My thoughts were: What if they were coping quite well? Wouldn't a card or call from me just stir up more emotion? The boy was like a son to me and they know it.

BEREAVING, TOO

DEAR BEREAVING: Since it's been only a few months, even if they're "coping," they are still grieving. A brief note, "Thinking of you with love," would say it all.

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps I can enlighten you as to the reason that 27-year-old man informed his mother that he and his girlfriend of two years were getting married, but he did not want her present at the ceremony. He informed her that they wanted to be alone. The mother signed herself "Crushed."

If "Crushed" has been strongly opposed to couples living together without marriage, the son might have felt that it would be a kindness to his mother simply to pretend that they were getting married to help her accept the young woman with whom he planned to live.

That happened to me, so please don't print my name.

HOROSCOPE

By Bernice Bede Oool
YOUR BIRTHDAY
December 3, 1988

People you know socially could be extremely helpful in the year ahead in improving your financial position. There are indications that something rather grand could develop through one or more of your contacts.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Activities with friends or other outside interests are apt to be accentuated today. Have fun and enjoy yourself, but try to do so as economically as possible. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3423.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your behavior will be closely scrutinized by others today, so be mindful of your demeanor. One or two observers might be hoping you'll do something that will provide fodder for gossip.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) It could prove unwise today to try to sell others on something you're not completely sold on yourself. If you make a pitch, you'd better believe in your product.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Move cautiously today if you are asked to help someone resolve a problem. This person's complications should be handled one step at a time.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You may find today that few of your associates can be handled similarly. Size up each individual separately, then act accordingly.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) This can be a productive day for you, provided you don't let your tasks or assignments overlap one another. For best results, you will have to be methodical and orderly.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Be on guard today, so that you won't be drawn into uncomfortable developments initiated by a companion or an associate. Once immersed, you could be made to look like the author of the events.

CANCER (June 21-July 21) You won't be graded on what you start today, you'll only be graded on what you finish. Be persistent and follow through or else you could have a bad report card.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) It may be extremely difficult for you to "feels up" to your mistakes in front of others today. Unfortunately, if you fail to do so, it could take some of the luster off your image.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your material circumstances could swing in either direction today. If you're prudent and practical, the results could be profitable. If you're not, get out the red ink.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) It's best not to take things for granted today where your self-interests are concerned. Situations could take unexpected turns for the worse.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Usually you're a good judge of character, but today you might place your faith in incompetent individuals. Be extremely careful to whom you delegate critical assignments.

Gabrielle gloated to Max that Michael made her CEO of Max's former hotel. Chris agreed to give Viki a chance to be her mother. A mysterious man came to "take Gilbert home."

T.J. reminded Jeffrey of their old plot to relieve Kelly of her money. Augusta told Bunny the pills she took from her aunt's grave are aphrodisiacs taken from some Mayan ruins. While watching a video of Julia, Michael realized she used sign language to tell him her location. The rapist escaped after slightly wounding Michael, who rescued Julia. Julia and Michael had sex for the first time. Cruz and Boswell didn't catch the rapist. Zack also chased the rapist. Later Zack told Diane that he saw the rapist's face "Sammy" argued with his Mason personality, who is still in love with Julia.

THE YOUNG AND THE RESTLESS: Steven was shot by a drug addict, Richard Stanley, who refused to let Steven put his mother, Phyllis, in a mental hospital. Ashley and the rest of the Abbott family stood vigil over Steven, who died after he came out of a coma long enough to tell Ashley that he loved her and that he wanted her to go on with her life. Richard was arrested by the police. Leona's death almost relieved the tension of Steven's death, because she realized that she didn't get the chance to tell Victor that she wrote Victor's unauthorized biography. St. Petersburg Bishop to retire

Bishop Larkin cites health reasons for early retirement

United Press International

ST. PETERSBURG — Bishop W. Thomas Larkin, a college friend of Pope John Paul II, will retire as head of the Roman Catholic Diocese of St. Petersburg as soon as a successor is ordained, probably in late May or early June.

Larkin, 65, announced his retirement plans Tuesday citing his health. He said his doctor had advised him to slow down, but did not elaborate on the nature of the health problem.

"When I began my tenure as bishop, I fully intended to remain until the mandatory re-irement age (75)," Larkin said. "However, although man proposes, God disposes. During the past year my health has not been the best and I was advised to slow down."

"This was not an easy decision to make, but it was made in light of what I thought was best for the diocese," he said. "This is one of the fastest growing areas of the country. In my physical condition I do not feel that I can give the time and energy that will be required to lead the diocese during the next decade."

The five-county diocese serves 71 parishes and about 300,000 Catholics.

Larkin said after he steps down as bishop, he will remain active in the diocese, but at a more leisurely pace.

"Once you reach the age of 65, things started breaking down," Larkin said. "The doctor tells me that because of the stress of the position that it would be much better for me to retire from my administrative responsibilities. And, that way I think, I would be able to continue longer in my pastoral ministry."

Larkin is only the second bishop of the St. Petersburg Diocese. He was ordained a bishop in 1979 and succeeded Bishop Charles B. McLaughlin.

Larkin, one of six bishops in Florida, made his announcement while standing in front of a large portrait of Pope John Paul II, his college classmate in Rome from 1947 to 1949.

Archbishop Pio Laghi, the Apostolic Pro Nuncio headquartered in Washington, D.C., will coordinate the search for Larkin's successor.

Larkin will consult with priests, nuns, brothers and lay members of the diocese before forwarding their recommendations for a successor to Laghi, and recommendations also will be submitted by the bishops of Florida and a special selection committee of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops. Laghi then will forward those recommendations, along with his own, to the Congregation of Bishops in Rome.

The congregation will submit three names to the pope, who will make the decision.

Passage chosen for prayer week for Christian unity

United Press International

Roman Catholics and Protestants have chosen a passage from the apostle Paul's letter to the Romans for this year's observance of the week of prayer for Christian unity.

The observance, held each year in mid-January, will be marked Jan. 18-25 and be based on the theme, "building community — one body in Christ."

In a joint statement marking the week, Archbishop John May of St. Louis, president of the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and the Rev. Patricia McClurg, president of the National Council of Churches, praised progress that has been made in the effort to bring Christian churches together.

"As the dialogue expands and churches deepen relationships through shared service we are increasingly aware of our identity as the body of Christ and the community of his disciples," the two said.

The two said the choice of the theme from the New Testament letter written by Paul point up both the similarities and differences between the church now and the fledgling group of Christians at the time of Paul.

"While the present differences and divisions among us are not those Paul faced, his message applies no less to our contemporary situation."

"In the new ecumenical era we are in the process of making the quest for renewed Christian unity part of the life of each church and every Christian," they said. "It is at the local level of church life that the quest becomes most real through the sharing of our individual and corporate spiritual gifts."

Indeed, it is the aim of the Week of Prayer, put together by the Graymoor Ecumenical Institute, to bring the sense of the quest for Christian unity down to the local level. Most official ecumenical work generally takes place among theologians and involves the arcane although important questions of doctrinal division.

The 40-page resource booklet, prepared for local congregations, includes a sample homily for King's birthday as well as a sampling of quotations.

Soviet Jews experience governmental leniency

United Press International

MOSCOW — In Moscow, Yuli Khazorovsky, who has tried for 18 years to leave for Israel, scurries around organizing three Soviet-sanctioned Jewish cultural centers.

In Samarkand, Uzbeki Jews form a cooperative to teach Hebrew.

In Riga, a Jewish hospital for the aged is planned, in addition a newspaper on Jewish affairs and in Vilnius a Jewish museum.

From the Baltic republics to Central Asia to the Soviet capital, a new deal is in the offing for the Soviet Union's 1.8 million Jews.

Although the necessary legislation is still being worked out, the new deal in effect will offer two clear choices — emigrate under eased rules or remain with opportunities for Jewish cultural and religious expression.

Organized Jewish expression has been banned since Josef Stalin closed virtually all Jewish cultural institutions in the late 1940s. Teaching Hebrew was barred after the Communists took power in 1917, banned as a religious language.

But this year alone:

• Jewish activists in Latvia have asked authorities for permission to set up a charity hospital for elderly religious Jews that will serve kosher food. They also want a school to teach Hebrew.

• Jewish cultural leaders in Estonia are planning a twice-monthly newspaper on Jewish affairs to be published in Estonian and Russian.

• Lithuania's Council of Ministers already has given permission for a Jewish Museum in Vilnius.

"Something is happening," said Michael Chlenov, 48, a Jewish activist for 20 years, who wants to remain in Russia and build a Jewish life. "We are Chlenov, who taught Hebrew to Soviet dissident Anatoly Shecharansky, has watched more than 250,000 Soviet Jews emigrate since 1967. So far this year, 14,228 Jews have been allowed to emigrate, the highest number in eight years. Almost all have gone to the United States, not Israel.

But Chlenov, now on the governing board of a Jewish cultural center, said the new approach is a realization by Soviet officials and Soviet Jewry activists that emigration is not the panacea once thought to be. "The old approach relied exclusively on emigration," Chlenov said. "Now it has been recognized that emigration as such cannot solve the Jewish problem in the Soviet Union."

Chlenov says because they realize most Russian Jews will remain in the Soviet Union, Soviet officials are ready to ease emigration restrictions.

Soviet and Jewish sources say new rules will not require that Soviet Jews be invited by an Israeli relative but will let them apply directly to the United States or Western countries.

"That's where they are going anyhow," said Chlenov, who has been invited to a World Conference on Soviet Jewry in Jerusalem to explain his views.

The Soviet about-face on emigration will throw the ball to the Americans and Western nations.

Methodist Bishops fall short on AIDS knowledge

Is anybody watching over the morals of today's youth?

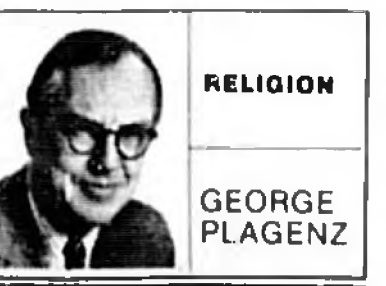

A distinguished graduate of a leading Eastern university said in his alumni magazine recently that he is "upset by the appointment of some eager, modern woman as a 'health specialist' at the university."

He went on to say, "It seems that the modern routine is to promote 'safe sex.' Hasn't anybody heard of abstinence? Let's promote a little of that instead of worrying whether they have enough condom machines in the dormitories." (Some colleges dispense condoms in the school colors.)

This man went to college when institutions of higher learning acted "in loco parentis" — in place of a parent — exercising supervision over the morals and behavior of their students.

Is it as a result of the abandonment of this responsibility that nearly one in 300 college students is reportedly infected with the AIDS virus — a figure called "disappointingly high" by an AIDS official at the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta?

The churches have done no better than the colleges in setting down firm guidelines regarding acceptable sexual behavior, especially as it pertains to homosexual activity. No one has spoken less clearly on the subject than the Council of

GEORGE PLAGENZ

Bishops of the United Methodist Church.

In a position paper on AIDS they say, "We, the Council of Bishops, say as clearly as we can to our brothers and sisters that Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome is not a sin, as many claim."

No one I know of says AIDS is a sin. AIDS is a disease. Diseases are not sins. If there are indeed those who claim AIDS is a sin, I would guess what they mean is that AIDS, when it is contracted sexually by homosexuals, is a "result of sin," a "consequence of sin," or, as some may go so far as to say, a "punishment for sin." The sin in question here would presumably refer to homosexual behavior.

If AIDS is not a sin (and it takes no bold declaration by a council of bishops to establish that), do the bishops consider AIDS in some cases to be a result of (consequence of, punishment for) sin? Do they think homosexual behavior is a sin?

Or not? Do they want us to know what they think?

I wrote to Bishop Woodie W. White of the Illinois Area who, I was given to understand, was "the chief author of the statement," asking for clarification. But all he said in reply was, "I would not dare attempt to interpret what each of the bishops had in mind when they signed it."

But what did the chief author of the statement have in mind when he wrote it? Couldn't Bishop White have answered that? And shouldn't a statement on such a vital issue of our times addressed to the church membership at large to be so clear that all of the bishops would have the same thing "in mind" when they assented to it? Otherwise, what would be the point of making a joint statement?

A second statement in the bishops' AIDS paper which gives the careful reader pause follows directly the one we have been discussing. It says, "(AIDS) is a virus!" With or without the exclamation point, that sentence is inaccurate. AIDS is not a virus. It is a disease caused by a virus.

Would the bishops care to rewrite their position paper so that all who read it may understand?
