Paddling Called Ineffective

By DIANE PETRYK
 Herald Staff Writer

Paddling students as punishment for bad behavior in school may increase the chance those students will become more aggressive and possibly violent as adults, two University of Central Florida psychologists said Friday.

Dr. Sandra Guest, UCF assistant professor of psychology, and Dr. Richard Tucker, chairman of the UCF psychology department, said research has shown violence begets violence.

"When adults hit a child, they're teaching that child that hitting is the way to solve problems," added Orlando psychologist Dr. Jill Thompson.

"Studies have shown physical punishment is not an effective form of punishment," Guest said. "The more physical it is, the more aggressive the child will become. It does not stop the child from repeating the behavior. The child simply becomes more aggressive."

When informed that an average of one in nine Seminole County schools students was hit by an administrator or teacher in the 1978-79 school year, Guest replied: "Wow."

"That seems awfully high," she said, "but I suppose it reverts back to the old philosophy 'spare the rod and spoil the child.'"

Guest said the damage done by corporal punishment in the schools is usually not physical, but mental.

"The damage is more that it's degrading, and that in turn means more anger and resentment at the system, more aggressive behavior. Literature on behavior modification shows this," she said.

Tucker agreed that physical punishment increases aggressive behavior.

"In child abuse studies, one thing seems constant: child abusers were abused themselves as children," he said.

But Tucker said he would not say there is no place for corporal punishment.

"You have to look at what it's doing to behavior," he said. "If it's decreasing bad behavior and allows teachers to work with kids and reinforce appropriate behavior, perhaps it's justifiable."

"But if it's not decreasing (undesired) behavior, or if it's generating other bad behavior, such as truancy, tardiness or sickness, then it shouldn't be used."

Children learn most productively with positive reinforcement, Tucker said.

If negative reinforcement is all that is used, he said, you're teaching the child that the way to deal with problems is with physical force.

Although the (research) literature shows variable effects of physical punishment, most studies indicate there are more reasons not to use it than to use it.

"It can be effective, but it can also generate escape and avoidance behavior," he said.

Thompson said the corporal punishment administered in schools is degrading and embarrassing to children raised in homes where physical punishment is not administered.

And it could recreate feelings of abuse among children who are victims of abuse at home, she said, reinforcing a pattern.

"I've seen instances where children from homes where corporal punishment is applied won't respond to anything but corporal punishment," she said. "They keep pushing and testing until it's applied."

But, Thompson said, while she could accept a spanking as appropriate for a younger child, the negative spin-offs of corporal punishment for older children are numerous.

"In some cases corporal punishment may be effective, but it's not the most effective."

Guest recommends putting the child alone in a room as an alternative to corporal punishment.

"The young children hate that worse than a spanking," she said. "And it is very effective with older children also. They have time alone, with nothing to do. With no looks or anything they become quickly bored."

"The child then makes the decision himself to go back and behave," she said.

Seminole County School Board member Pat Telson said she agrees that spanking can be appropriate for young children.

"I'm talking about 'mother swats.' There's some love that goes with that," she said. "And it's to stress to the child that he shouldn't do something for his own safety."

"This type of punishment should be swift and administered when the child does the act. Not something done three days later or something to have daddy do when he gets home."

As for in school, Mrs. Telson said she wonders about the psychological value of corporal punishment.

"There might be more constructive ways," she said. "Like writing an essay or having the students work in the school yard."

But she was quick to add that there are so many things the schools are prohibited from doing, it would be a question for the school board attorney.

She emphasized that the school must maintain control of the student body for the safety of all the students.

"Punishment should be an individual thing," she said. "Because all children don't respond the same to the same punishment."

In Seminole schools, she pointed out, parents have the option of stipulating that their children may not be paddled.

In a recent paddling incident that involved four boys at the Sanford Middle School, parents of three of the boys said they did not know that.

"Parents should know they have that option," Mrs. Telson said. "The more knowledgeable the parents are the better the system runs," she said.

He discovered that the average student there first used a drug other than alcohol at age 10. Some started using drugs when they were 8.

Fritch asked at what age the students there used a drug other than alcohol on a regular basis (at least one time per week for a month).

Slightly before their 11th birthday many had used something on a regular basis," Fritch said.

Almost all said they had experimented with marijuana, speed and hallucinogens.

Eleven out of 14 said they had experimented with tranquilizers and narcotics.

Nine said they had used amphetamines.

Eight said they had used barbiturates, but less than half the group had tried PCP or Angel Dust.

HILL JUMPERS FLYING HIGH

Hills are such a rare phenomenon in Florida that whenever kids happen across one, even if it is only a pile of red clay used for the infield of Sunland Estate's ball field, they naturally make up a few games in honor of the occasion. Kevin Burket, 10, and Andy Griffiths, 10, tried out the hill by hurling themselves from its towering 4-foot height.

Principals Seeing Less Pot In Schools

Despite U. S. government warnings that American youths are smoking marijuana at earlier ages, Seminole County middle school principals say they are seeing less marijuana and drug abuse in school than they did several years ago.

A 48-page report, "Marijuana and Health 1980," prepared by the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare, showed that marijuana smoking "now often begins at a much earlier age and is more likely to be frequent rather than experimental use" in comparison with 1970.

Seminole County principals attribute the apparent local decrease to a crackdown at the schools that began about three years ago, greater parental involvement and educational efforts.

But some principals were careful to add that because less marijuana is seen on school grounds doesn't mean youngsters aren't using it elsewhere.

The federal report said 8 percent of children ages 12 and 13 have had some experience with marijuana, an increase from 5 percent in 1970.

"The peak in Seminole County was about three years ago," said Fred Dudley, principal of Milwee Middle School. "We had good remedies. Immediate suspension, calling in law enforcement officials, and prosecuting if the marijuana was over a certain weight."

"These severe actions at the middle school level emphasized we weren't going to tolerate it. Now we're reaping the benefits of that attitude."

Salvatore Manfre, principal of Rock Lake Middle School, Curtis Hughes, principal of Tuska Middle School and Bobby Rainey, principal of Jackson Heights Middle School, all said they have seen less marijuana use recently than several years ago.

Only Ted Barker, principal of Lakeview Middle School, said he thought the incidence of marijuana use in school was up.

"We've had more cases this year than we've ever had at the middle school," Barker said. "The youngest was an 8th grader."

"We used to never have marijuana in the middle schools," he added.

But Hughes said: "We fought the problem a few years ago and now we don't seem to have a problem."

"Only twice this year did I encounter what I thought was marijuana. If it were really a problem we should encounter it much more often than that."

And Hughes said a question remains: "Has the elimination of the problem in schools made kids take it elsewhere so we can't find out about it?"

He said he does not have the answer. Kids who just don't care seem to be the problem today, he said.

"If you don't have one problem surfacing, there are always others to take its place," he said.

But Charles Fritch, new executive director of the Grove Counseling Center, said kids who don't care may just be a reflection of parents who don't care.

Lack of quality parenting, he said, is the root of a lot of problems kids face today, drugs included.

The Grove Counseling Center is a drug treatment and educational facility. Students in whom drug problems present themselves at school are often placed there.

Recently, Fritch said he surveyed about 14 students who attend the Grove drug care unit.

He discovered that the average student there first used a drug other than alcohol at age 10. Some started using drugs when they were 8.

Graham To Announce Plans For 'Little England'

By United Press International
 An English group hopes replicas of Stonehenge, a medieval castle and jousting matches will rival the fantasies of Disney World as a tourist draw and have a major impact on the economy of Central Florida.

Plans for "Little England," a huge tourist attraction reproducing English history from the Stone Age to modern time on 1,300 acres of northwest Osceola County, will be announced Monday by Gov. Bob Graham and other top state officials.

Plans filed last month with the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council show the English developers — a group called Little England Inc. — plan a theme park comparable in size to Disney World, a golf course, 500 luxury homes and extensive commercial areas including a shopping center, retailing English goods.

Its projected tourist-drawing power would be more than 9 million a year by completion in the late 1980s, planning council official William Platter said Friday from Winter Park. It would employ more than 10,000 people.

By comparison, Disney World currently attracts about 11 million people a year, Platter said.

Attractions will include replicas of Stonehenge, a castle, a 15th Century English village and a seaside resort and jousting matches, the plans show.

Plans call for the first phase — about half of the project — to be open in 1983, drawing an anticipated $ to 6 million tourists a year.

The group, which already has received zoning changes on the farmland acreage from Osceola County, plans to begin construction late this year of a "preview center" and a replica of Big Ben along Interstate 4, Platter said.

"There's been a lot of skepticism about tourist attractions in the Orlando area because so many have been announced but never built," Platter said. "I think this one is going to happen."

"This is a major tourist attraction, a mammoth addition to Central Florida," said Commerce Department spokeswoman Ann Newman in Tallahassee.

Initial capital investment is expected to be around $500 million and is being put up, in part, by several British merchant banks, a source said.

Graham and such top state officials as Commerce Secretary Sid Levin, Senate President Phil Lewis and House Speaker Hyatt Brown will announce the plans at a press conference near Orlando Monday.

Though the wraps have been kept on the project, several state agencies have been familiar with the project for weeks. That includes the Department of Environmental Regulation, which would have to approve such aspects as sewage and solid waste disposal. A spokesman for DEIR said the group may have little problem gaining approval.

Gasoline Prices Starting To Drop

By United Press International
 American consumers who are struggling to make ends meet in a time of rising prices and tight credit policies have at least one consolation: gasoline prices are dropping by up to three cents a gallon in some cities.

Also, several major banks Friday lowered the prime lending rate they charge their best corporate customers a half-point to 19 1/2 percent, giving consumers some hope of lower interest rates ahead.

Gasoline analyst Dan Lundberg of Los Angeles said, "In city after city, the higher volume stations and the private-brand chains, which are trying to hang onto their traditional volumes, are cutting retail prices by one, two and even three cents a gallon."

"This price-cutting by stations which have a relatively small share of the overall U.S. market has produced the beginning of an apparent decline in retail gasoline prices."

Industry observers attributed the price respite to record high gasoline stocks, a sharp drop in motorist demand, and growing pressure on dealers to reduce profit margins.

The prime lending rate retreat was disorderly: while the big bank majority moved to 19 1/2 percent, No. 2 ranked Citibank made a smaller reduction to 19 3/4 percent and many smaller banks retained the 20 percent rate first adopted two weeks ago.

BIG BRUSH FIRE
 A brush fire burned through about 40 acres of woods threatening a factory and a few homes Friday afternoon in Deltona sending up a cloud of smoke visible across Lake Monroe in Sanford. Deltona and DeBary Volunteer firefighters aided by Forestry Service tractors took several hours to extinguish the blaze.

Outstanding Runners-Up

By DORIS DIETRICH
Outselves Editor
 All secretaries are outstanding — period. Or why would their bosses hire them in the first place?

In The Herald's quest for outstanding secretaries, the response was outstanding — beyond our imagination.

There were many handwritten letters nominating a favorite secretary, and there were many scrawled out letters from employers.

The following are our "outstanding" runners-up: Brenda Echols, secretary to Val Colbert Accountant. "A good secretary cannot be paid what she's worth. I have such a secretary." Signed, Val Colbert.

Mary Jo Cochran, Administrative Secretary. "My secretary is not only a secretary, but a great humanitarian. Most people could not cope with this job." Signed, Michael W. Broderick, Executive Director.

Irene Carraway, Seminole County Port Authority. "I cannot imagine a more deserving recipient... to be also considered is her gracious and pleasant personality, greeting and dealing with clients and tenants." Signed, Dennis K. Dolger, Administrator.

Aarolyn (Mrs. R.E.) Trus, Cockman Cowlers. "She is near 80 years old. She is very talented, very bright, very honest, very prompt, very secretive." Signed, H.L. Cockman.

Trinket Reubert, J. & B. Enterprises Inc. "...she has to contend with six of the most demanding male bosses in the world... and deal with the grumbling, sour attitudes of six different males... Aside from pampering the bosses, she has to great and converse with company customers, some of which are not the nicest people in the world." Signed with six illegible signatures.

Marie Lewis, Pine Crest Elementary School. "Mrs. Lewis is a true professional who has knowledge of the entire school program, knows all areas of office procedure and performs her duties in a superb efficient way." Signed, Carmen Gager, Principal.

Dotty Ramsay, Lake Mary Elementary School. "Our school secretary can't be topped. She is positively the greatest! And her personality is terrific. Her job is many and she handles them all like a pro." Signed, Nancee Lowery, fifth grade teacher.

Carolyn Pickles, University of Florida's Agriculture Research Center, Sanford. "Mrs. Pickles manages to discharge her myriad of duties cheerfully, promptly and efficiently. She is a friend, confidant, diplomat and secretary to nine Ph.D.s." Signed J.F. Darby and submitted by all nine bosses.

Mildred S. Bishop, First United Methodist Church. "During this quarter of a century, she has served with nine ministers and three associate ministers. Mrs. Bishop is a loyal and dedicated worker in our church, fondly regarded, not only for her excellent work, but for the fine spirit which pervades all that she does." Signed, Leo T. King and Brette Sangrad.

Linda Gardner, Clark Dietz Engineers. "She is not only his Girl Friday, but every day of the week. She is tactful, sincere, direct and objective in dealing with clients and co-workers." Signed, Phyllis and B.C. (Cal) Conklin.

Mary Shelley, Harold Hall Realty. "She is the merriest person in our office. It is hoped that Mary, the most accommodating, sincere, trustworthy and friendly person that I have ever had the pleasure to be associated with, may gain some recognition from this

In the 22 years she has been there, the firm has added several partners and has stated in McIntosh's letter, S. Joseph Davis, Jr. left the firm last year to become a circuit judge.

In addition to her secretarial duties at the law firm, Mrs. Butler is also the office administrative manager and director of personnel.

She and her husband, Gordon, live at 1606 S. Magnolia Ave., in Sanford with their pet dachshund and reading "her favorite pastime," she said.

Finding time for herself is not often easy since she is involved with many outside activities. She is the assistant treasurer of her church, the Church of God of Prophecy, and she also teaches Sunday School for the 1 to 6-year-olds.

Mrs. Butler is also a director and assistant treasurer for the Walter A. Routh Jr. Missionary Association. Sponsored by individuals and churches, Routh is presently doing missionary work in the Philippines, having been previously in Vietnam.

Helping Seminole Community College improve its secretarial course is another activity involving Mrs. Butler as she is a member of the legal secretaries advisory committee at the college.

"I wish there were more hours in the day," she said. The people at the law firm are one reason Mrs. Butler has stayed there for more than 20 years. "The people I work with are really fantastic, the staff and members of the law firm," she said. "The environment where you work is very important and they are really terrific. They are great people to work for. They work with you."

In And Around Lake Mary Have 'Night At Races' With Rotarians

Planning to go out on-the-town Saturday, April 19? The right place to have a good time will be the Mayfair Country Club where the Lake Mary Rotary Club will have its "night at the races" party.

A yearly fund-raising event and the sixth so far, the Rotarians have worked hard to make this one successful, especially when the proceeds will go to benefit several local organizations.

Don't forget, cocktails will be served at 6:30 p.m., dinner will follow at 7:30 and the entertainment will start at 8:15.

Tickets are $12.50 per person which includes dinner. Also there will be door prizes and an auction. So plan to be there.

Representing the Lake Mary Woman's Club at the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs (FFWC) State Convention next week will be President DeLores Lash, First Vice President Betty Lindmeier and Arts and Crafts Chairman Virginia Francisco. They will attend the arts and crafts show and luncheon Wednesday.

The entries for the club are a tablecloth made by the members and Gwenne Butler's cardinal beadwork. Both entries have already been awarded two blue ribbons — one during the club's annual arts show and the other one at the District VII annual arts show.

During the luncheon and Sewing Contest Awards, a special showing will be made by Mrs. Betsy Jane Rubis. She will model her beautiful wedding gown made by her mother, Mrs. Phyllis Hugenstein, a club member.

This gown, Phyllis' own creation, also won a blue ribbon at the District VII Arts Show in the "family sewing" category.

UDC Observes Memorial Day 'Planting' To Honor Mayor

Since Florida's Southern Memorial Day falls on Saturday, April 26, the Norman de Vere Howard Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy (UDC) has chosen April 24 to honor the Honorable Lee P. Moore, Mayor of the City of Sanford, by planting a Magnolia tree in Fort Mellon Park.

The mayor's mother, Mrs. Lois Taylor, is one of the chapter's beloved members. The ceremony will begin at 1 p.m. with Mrs. Virginia Hastings, chapter president, presiding.

Engagements

When the curtain rises Sunday night at 7:30 p.m. at the Sanford Civic Center, patrons can expect a super production staged by Ballet Guild of Sanford/Seminole.

And that's "The Gospel Truth!"

Elsa Caskey (no relation to the writer of "The Gospel Truth," Mildred M. Caskey), has done a superb job of correlating a musical score featuring old-time gospel favorites, lively folk tunes and original compositions.

Bob McGuire, bass guitarist and choral director at Seminole High School, Crossin High and Seminole Community College, is joined by Tim Aiken, acoustical guitarist, with Elsa at the piano to form the instrumental ensemble.

The chorus members, all students at Crooms, are: Caryn Clause, Trichel Tauxk, Monica Kelley, Tracy Borawski, Chris Rufo, Sheila Brown, Sheryl Jones, Tony Youngblood.

Guest vocalists are Mary Aiken, Pam Hardy, Don Wheeler and Debra Ann. Even if you don't like ballet, everyone should be real thrilled with this production.

Admission is $2, adults, and $1.50 children under 12. Three awards will be presented to the dancers during the evening.

'Mrs. Wonderful' Strongly Objects To X-Rated Film

DEAR ABBY: I'm an older college of 30 years who has read your column ever since you started, and now I have a problem maybe you can help me with.

I've been married for over 55 years to a wonderful woman, but the last few years we have had one slight discord.

I have been sending away for some X-rated movies, which I enjoy watching privately at home a couple of times a month. Occasionally I get a new one so I can see some different faces.

The wife objects strongly to this; it's about the only thing we ever argue about.

I have some good qualities. I run my own business, help her with the housework, don't drink or smoke and keep myself clean.

When I was younger I had a few mild flings with a couple of ladies, but that's all ancient history now.

Don't you think I'm entitled to look at these films occasionally without having a hassle about it?

...THE HOPE OF OUR COMMUNITY, OUR NATION! THE CHURCH... Illustration of a church building.

ONE INCH, ONE LIFE, ONE PLAN

Our instructions read 36 inches. But one of the sides of our "do-it-yourself" bookcase measured only 35 inches.

"Why not just shorten the other side by an inch?" suggested my son, John. We did and ended up having to cut an inch off the back. It would have been better if we corrected rather than simply revised the plans.

Like the bookcase, our lives have a plan drafted by God. We often fall short, and rather than correct ourselves, we downgrade our other dimensions — our standards and aspirations. Thus, we fool ourselves into believing that we still measure up. The result is a life half-lived, filled with doubt, worry and often, regret.

Read of God's plan for you in the Bible; consult with him in His Church. You have everything to gain.

Church Of True Holiness Jonestown, Only Nobody Killed

By IONTRIDE DURIHAM, N.C. (NEA) — No one ever knew where Bishop Robert A. Carr was ordained, or entitled, but for a scattered flock of his devoted followers it didn't matter. He was a charismatic, and it was easy to believe him when he promised to lead God's abundant grace on them all.

The festival is open to the public and there will be a fellowship hour after the service. St. Luke's is located on Highway 406 at Red Bug Road.

Retired people. Reportedly, he felt members of this sort were easiest to control. Once in, the recruits were expected to establish the church as the central interest of their lives.

The 'Much More' Of God

God is not just enough, but more than enough! The Scripture speaks of Him being able to do far above what we're able to think or even ask. It is just like God to be "much more." Romans 5 is known as the "much more" chapter. In Romans 5:9 God has "much more" in justification.

Sin may be deep, but His blood cleanses deep and complete. Even though modern man has lost sight of the tragedy of sin, this does not eradicate the reality of sin. Sin is like a rattlesnake in a child's play-yard. Many feel the guilt of sin, but fail to know what to do with their sin. Remember, God has "much more" in justification.

He is also "much more" in grace (verse 15) God provides saving grace and soaring grace. Paul, with his thorn in the flesh, God responded with grace. "My grace shall enable for every need," says our wonderful Father.

How His strength changes a sunset to sunrise. Samuel Lutherford said, "Christ, all the seasons of the year, is dropping sweetness into the hearts of men, but not his old raven, loyally and running-out dish, even when I am at the well, can bring little away. Nothing but grace will make tight and fast our leaking, rilly vessels."

The Father is a God of all seasons, ready always to ready His people for all seasons.

He has "much more" of righteousness (verse 17). Righteousness is being rightly related to the deity of life. As God wants your life to be totally right with Him, so know of the "much more" of abounding.

"Where sin abounded, grace did much more abound" (verse 20) Think of abounding in binding days: These times perhaps seek to correct you, yet God enables His people to abound. Oh, to know the bottomless reservoir of our Heavenly Father's provisions. Summer streams may freeze, and winds go dry, but not God's provision for you. There's "much more"; so don't be satisfied with "much less."

He has "much more" of righteousness (verse 17). Righteousness is being rightly related to the deity of life. As God wants your life to be totally right with Him, so know of the "much more" of abounding.

Ministry Needs Help

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Religion Editor Dr. Bill Simmer, founder and president of the Good News Mission, is calling for a ministry in Orange and Seminole County jails, spoke Friday night at an outreach dinner in Altamonte Springs.

Good News Mission, founded in 1961, has had a jail ministry here for 10 years. The Rev. James Bryan said jail chaplains here will be sent to the headquarters in Fairfax, Va. to be director of chaplains for the national organization.

Simmer needs its own full-time chaplain, said Simmer. He explained that the Florida work has never been entirely self-supporting and the national organization has had to draw from its general fund to finance the central Florida ministry.

"We are attempting to enlist new support from local churches and individuals," he said, "in order to support another chaplain here."

Good News Mission receives government funds and depends on donations from churches and individuals in the 10 counties since the work began here Jordan pointed the population of the Orange County Jail has risen from a few prisoners to 900 prisoners and the Seminole facility is overcrowded.

He also has been asked to start a ministry in Putnam County. "We are the largest supplier of prison chaplains by a private agency in the United States," Simmer said. "We probably train 25 percent of the chaplains serving in correctional institutions in the country."

Simmer said he started the first work release program in jails in Virginia, as well as the first library, study program and halfway house and no government funds were used in the program.

Each January a school for jail and prison chaplains is held at the Good News headquarters in Virginia.

Grady Is Guest Speaker

The Rev. Zedeckiah L. Grady, pastor of the historic Morris Brown Church, African Methodist Episcopal, in Charleston, S.C., and a candidate for bishop in his denomination this year, will be guest speaker Sunday at 3 p.m. at the St. James A.M.E. Church, Ninth Street and Cypress Avenue. A former resident of Sanford, Grady has initiated a radio broadcast of the Sunday service, erected an educational building, organized a nursery-nursery, and a million dollar housing project for low income families.

Also participating in the service will be the Morris Brown church choir and ushers.

As a candidate for bishop, he says his aims and objectives are to implement new skills and techniques for evangelism, to affirm the values of individuals, to strengthen their roles in the church and to use every available source to have models of lay and ministerial training within the range of the church.

Since his pastorate at Morris Brown, Grady has organized a nursery-nursery, and a million dollar housing project for low income families.

'Fragile--Handle With Care'

Newspaper stories are not usually marked, "Fragile—Handle With Care."

This, however, is such a story. It is like a piece of Belek china. When you hold it up to the sunlight you know you are holding something priceless and rare.

"Don't drop it," you say instinctively. I hope the author who writes the headline on this story does not use the word "eucenualism." The children in the story probably don't know what it means. That indeed is one of the things which gives the story its beauty.

Nor are these children aware that they have done anything exceptional. And that quality of innocence shines through too. Started when the seventh graders at Ascension Catholic School in a lower middle-class section of Cleveland were discussing Operation Rice Bowl, the Catholic Church's annual Lenten collection for the poor.

Their homeroom teacher, Dorothy Judson, a Presbyterian, told them what it is like to be a poor child. She knows. She grew up in a Presbyterian orphanage in Lynchburg, Va. There were no baskets full of candy at Easter. Christmas was bleak, by a child's standards.

"Was you happy?" one pupil asked. "I wish I had had a mother and father to love," she replied, "but my teachers taught me to love God."

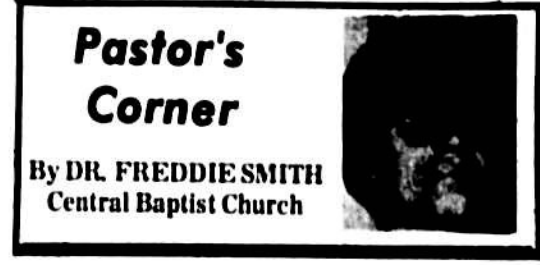

"Why don't we take a collection for Mrs. Judson's orphanage?" another pupil suggested. Then, the class decided, would be a good idea. Mrs. Judson offered to match their donations penny for penny.

So the 27 pupils, who had already contributed $30 of their own money for Operation Rice Bowl, dug deeper into their sometimes-patched jeans. A big box, with the word OPERATION on it, was put on Mrs. Judson's desk.

Over the next couple of weeks, the pupils came up with $55. That was before the snowball fight.

Thirteen of the boys in Mrs. Judson's homeroom were caught throwing snowballs in the schoolyard. That cost them their bowling privilege for the next week.

"My first teaching job was at St. Timothy's," she recalls. "They needed a math teacher. I told them I wasn't Catholic—I was Presbyterian. But this dear nun put her arm around me and said, 'With a twinkling eye, said, 'Honey, we're desperate. We'll take anybody. Even a Presbyterian.'"

DOONESBURY

AND AS I SAID BEFORE, WHEN IT COMES TO CUTTING THE BUDGET, I DON'T HEAR THE OTHER CONSIDERATIONS. I'M TALKING IN GENERALITIES, BUT GENERALITIES, THE AMERICAN PEOPLE RESERVE BETTER.

CONGRESSMAN ANDERSON, PERHAPS YOU COULD TELL US AN GREATER DETAIL WHAT CUTS YOU WOULD MAKE?

I'LL DO BETTER THAN THAT. I'LL TELL YOU WHAT CUTS I WOULD MAKE THAT WOULD AFFECT PEOPLE RIGHT HERE IN CALIFORNIA.

FIRST, I WOULD CUT BACK ON SOCIAL SECURITY INCREASES. A MOVE THAT WOULD TAKE MONEY OUT OF THE POCKETS OF OVER 250,000 ELDERLY JUST IN ORANGE COUNTY. I REALIZE THIS ISN'T A POPULAR DECISION.

THEN I WOULD ELIMINATE SEVERAL WASTEFUL DEFENSE CONTRACTS. A CUT WHICH WOULD SEPARATE THE JOBS OF NEARLY 1,000 LOS ANGELES WORKERS. THE CLOSING OF THE ANAHEIM TELEPHONE PLANT ALONE WOULD COST 800 JOBS.

CONGRESSMAN, COULD YOU BE A LITTLE BIT MORE SPECIFIC? MR. NEWTON, I'D BEGGIN' TO THINK YOU'RE A LITTLE BIT MORE SPECIFIC.

GUESS, ANNOY THESE AND WOULD BE LAD OFF ARE MR. J. HOOTON OF SHERMAN OAKS. MR. NEWTON, I'D BEGGIN' TO THINK YOU'RE A LITTLE BIT MORE SPECIFIC.

Heloise

DEAR HELOISE:
My husband and I are fond of fresh mushrooms, but I hate to clean them at the last minute for use in salads and other recipes. Thought I had the problem solved while vacationing when I saw some handy little mushroom brushes. But I hesitated to buy one as the cost seemed too high. I'm glad I didn't because one night I prepared a spinach salad with fresh mushrooms and just happened to grab a new piece of nylon net to clean the mushrooms. It did a good job.

So, I made my own small version of your net pompon and it worked so well I made several of them. Just don't scrub too hard when cleaning the mushrooms.

Very simply, just gather a 2 by 26-inch piece of nylon net with a strong thread. Attach to a plastic curtain ring (for your middle finger to go through) using the same thread you gathered the net with.

Now, I can clean a pound of mushrooms or just a few very quickly.

Evelynne

Great! Try these little scrubbers when cleaning carrots, potatoes or radishes — the list is almost endless as

BAG IT
DEAR HELOISE:
I've organized my dressing room (actually a large walk-in closet with only a dresser in it) by hanging a shoe bag with many pockets on the wall. The little pockets are great for holding nail polish, hair clips and everything else that would end up cluttering the top of my dresser.

Laura Brunner

WINDOW WASH
DEAR HELOISE:
Clean windows with the windshield solvent you use for your car. I dilute it half and half with water and put it in a spray bottle. Be careful if you use it on mirrors with wood frames (any water on wood is bad). But it's great and very economical.

Joan Smith

DEAR READER:
This is your column. If you'd like to share a hint, ask a question or make a suggestion, write me care of this newspaper.

Hugs, Heloise

Just for Kids

A LICKETY SPLIT SUGGESTION
DEAR HELOISE:
If you don't like to lick the glue on stamps and envelopes, here's what I do. I do the opposite. Instead of licking the stamp I lick the envelope corner and instead of licking the glue on the envelope, I lick the part where the flap has to be glued on. Sure tastes better.

Pam

'PICK' 'EM UP ON A BULLETIN BOARD
DEAR HELOISE:
If you need tacks to put up your schedule or posters on your bulletin board and are out of tacks, I have just the thing for you. Don't go to the store, just use a toothpick broken in two. Then put a colorful bead on the broken end. It's very attractive.
