Spencer to be executed

RICHMOND, Vo. - Timothy Spencer's killing spree - two months in which he broke into the homes of four women and raped and killed them - made him notorious as the city's "Southside Strangler,

But it was Spencer's prosecution, not his crimes, that logged him a spot in criminal history. In 1988, he was the country's first capital murder suspect prosecuted using DNA evidence. On Wednesday, barring last-minute delays. Spencer will be the first to be put to death based on that genetic link.

"There is absolutely no doubt as to Spencer's guilt," says state prosecutor Donald D. Curry.

Average gas price up

LOS ANGELES - The price of gasoline rose 1.43 cents a gallon at the nation's pumps during the past two weeks, the Lundberg Survey said

The overall retail average - which includes all grades, self-and full-service - was 112.96 cents a gallon on Friday, said industry analyst Trilby Lundberg.

That rise represented a faster rate of increase than reported in the two prior surveys. But, Lundberg said, there are likely to be modest increases or a leveling off in the near future.

A rise in the price of crude oil by about $1.50 a barrel since late March was the determining factor in the gasoline price rise, she said.

SANFORD - A number of improvements will be discussed during this evening's regular Sanford City Commission meeting. They include the Civic Center courtyard, McKibbin Park, and a new sidewalk near Seminole High School.

The revitalization of the courtyard at the Civic Center are being suggested by the Scenic Improvement Board, following discussion of the matter at the April 6 meeting.

Called a "sprice-up", the project proposals include removal of some existing concrete paved areas, planting of trees, shrubs and flowers, placement of a serpentine concrete walkway, plente tables and grills, and an open lawn area for special events.

The SIB has suggested financing of the project be allocated from the budget of the SIB/Grounds 87,258

The consideration of fencing at McKibbin Park is the result of a petition signed by 20 residents near the park located off W. 25th Street, between Marshall and Hartwell Avenues. The petition is dated Feb. 23. in a statement submitted with the petition, resident Carol Wheaton explained, "We feel this will greatly reduce the theft and vandalism problems we are now experiencing in this area.' A study of the petition however, has indicated that of the 26 signatures, 14 properties are represented, with only five of them within the Incorporated city limits.

The cost estimated by the city staff for the fencing of approximately 800 feet, has been listed as slightly over $3,000. Grounds Maintenance Coordinator Howard Jeffries has reported the funds for such a project See 'Spruce-up', Page 5A

OVIEDO - Burdines, Dillard and Gayfers will lead up to 150 stores at a proposed new mall in Oveldo Crossing near here, a senior official with the developer confirmed this morning.

Bruce Alexander, senior vice president for new business development for The Rouse Co., said one or two other department stores may be located at the but no agreements have been

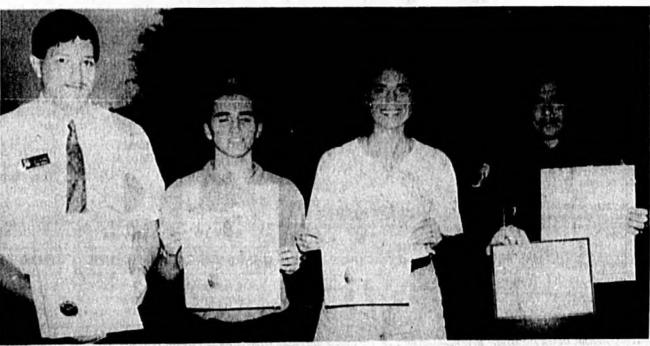

The center will be an estimated 1 million square feet in size and contain approximately 150 stores and restaurants and will employee up to 2,000 people, said Alexander, Formal announcement of Rouse's plans will be in 60 to 90 days, said Alexander.

Rouse developed such showplace centers as Harborplace in Baltimore and Buyside Marketplace in Miami.

The mall could become the third Burdines location in Seminole County. A Burdines will be located at Sanford's Seminole Towne Center, now under construction, along with the existing store at Altamonte Mall. A Dillard will also be located at the Sanford mall. A Gayfers is located at Altamonte Mall.

The mall site is owned by A. Duda and Sons. Duda's land development company, Vierra Co., converted 500 acres of pastureland into the massive Oveido Crossing retail and industrial center near Oviedo. The center is located northwest of the intersection of the Central Florida GreeneWay and Red Bug Lake Road.

inmates movies include sex, violent fare

TALLAHASSEE - When imprisoned murderers, thieves, rapists and burglars get to watch movies, bills for the rented videos indicate state prison officials are lax in screening out sex

For example, at Union Correctional Institution in Raiford, which houses part of Florida's death row, inmates recently viewed "Murder in-Law," billed as the mother of all horror movies. The Tampa Tribune reported Sunday.

Also on the playbill was "Blown Away," portraying a 17-year-old sex kitten murderess, and "One False Move," which opens with a drug gang's execution-style slayings.

At Brevard Correctional Institution, set aside for teen-age inmates, inmates got to watch "Basic Instinct," and "The Good Son," about a serial killer, as well as the cerebral "Age of Innocence '

"This is the most obvious spot to start to curb violence," said Carole Lieberman, a California psychiatrist who testified before Congress on media violence.

Griffin doesn't know who shot Gunn

MOBILE, Ala. - The man serving a life sentence for the murder of an Alabama abortion doctor outside a Florida clinic says he does not know who shot David Gunn.

"I've been trying to find out for a year, and I'm still trying to find out," Michael Griffin told the Mobile Press Register in a telephone interview for Sunday editions. "I'm trying to find out why I've been railroaded.

Griffin, a former chemical worker, was convicted of killing Gunn, a Eufania doctor, last month by a Pensacola, Fia., jury, Griffin's sentence for the March 10, 1993, killing requires him to serve at least 25 years in prison. He is imprisoned at the Baker Correctional Institution near Olustee, Fla.

Gunn was shot in the back as he arrived for work behind the Pensacola, Fla., clinic as an abortion protest went on in front. Griffin claims evidence was altered and fabricated. He said he has written to U.S. Attorney General Janet Reno to tell her about it. Griffin said he wants to know why police and prosecutors were so eager to convict him.

"That's one of the things I'm trying to find out," he says. "To find out that, I have to find out the truth about what actually happened March 10. I have to take it in that order. I can speculate a lot, but I choose not to do that. ... There are so many lies at this point, I can't even speculate.'

Leaders want credit where credit is due

GAINESVILLE - As the state makes a plantation museum of Alachua County's Haile Homestead, black leaders want to make sure credit is given where credit is due.

"For many whites, the word 'plantation' doesn't have the same connotations as it does for us blacks." Santa Fe Community College researcher Sherry Dupree told The Gatuesville Sun for a story Sunday.

To some, what's known as the "Florida Cracker" house amid the pines eight miles southwest of Gainesville is a treasure trove of relies from Alachua County's pastoral past, and a symbol of 1860s architecture.

"We see it as slave labor. Building an empire for another group, and another group reaping the benefits from their toils,"

If it's going to be restored, that's fine. But it really must focus on the information concerning slavery," she said.

The 1994 Legislature appropriated $188,000 for the restoration. The grant will be used as a match to lure private donations for a project likely to exceed $400,000.

Behind scenes meeting decided fate of Senate bills

By Associated Procs

TALLAHASSEE - It was good news for jat-alat and bad news for dog tracks when Senate leaders met behind the scenes to draw up a must-pass list for the last day of the 1994 Legislature.

"It was rule by minority," Senate Dean and Commerce Chairman W.D. Childers, D-Pensacola, told the Tallahassee Democrat for a story in Sunday's editions.

The meeting was held, with the blessing of Senate President Pat Thomas, D-Quiney, in the office of Sen. Jim Scott, R-Fort Lauderdale, whose Broward County district includes Dania Jai-Alai, one of Florida's busiest frontons

Four other Republicans were present: Senate President Pro Tempore Ander Crenshaw and Sen. Bill Bankhead, both of Jacksonville; Sen. Toni Jennings of Orlando and Sen. John McKay of Brandenton. Rules Chairman George Kirkpatrick, D. Gainesville, also attended.

Meeting without notifying other lawmakers and the public violated Senate rules - and, apparently, the state's government-in-the-sunshine law.

Thomas argued that he had to seek approval from Republicans because he was dealing with a Senate split 20-20 along

At that late point in the session, at least two-thirds of the senators' votes were needed to bring bills to the floor.

Thomas said he instructed Kirkpatrick and Sen. Robert Wexler, D-Boca Raton, to meet with Scott and Bankhead to "reach an informal agreement" on what bills to take up on the final day.

"You've got to have some concurrence for the Senate to enact any of them," Thomas

As a result, jai-alai got a sizeable tax break approved April 15. Dog racing didn't. Childers, left to deal with trate dog-track owners, said the meeting broke Senate

"They pulled the jai-alai bill out. Yet they screwed the dog breeders and race tracks."

"I don't want to characterize it as a gathering." Scott said. "There's nothing unusual about this. This was very open and orderly.

"I admire Scott for the way he did it," Childers said. "It was slick."

Scott denied having any special interest in - or knowledge of - the Jal-alai bill, but he acknowledged he had asked Childers to give It special treatment in the Commerce Committee. Childers didn't.

The House had sent the Senate two bills, one to cut taxes on jai-alai wagering and the other to do the same at dog tracks. Childers said it was a package deal.

The jai-alai tax would drop from 7.1 percent to 5 percent, which a House analysis said would cost the state $2.1 million a year in revenue.

Childers said he will ask Gov, Lawton Chiles to include the dog-track tax-cut proposal in a special session later this year on health care. Chiles hasn't indicated whether he'll sign the jai-alai tax cut into

Donation ban brings pre-session surge

TALLAHASSEE - When House members barred campaign donations during the two-month legislative session, maybe it was predictable they'd rake in big contributions the day before it started.

"Isn't that a coincidence?" Rep. Jim King, R-Jacksonville, told The Florida Times-Union for a story Sunday.

King received $18,190 in campaign donations on Feb. 7. the day before the session. according to reports filed with the Division of Elections.

Rep. Willye Dennis, D. Jacksonville, reported $5,960 that day, more than half the total of her three-month report. Rep. Joe Arnall, R-Jacksonville, reported $5,300 on the eve of the

Way Back When

By 1912 the thriving city of Sanford was being served by two banks. One was the First National and the other was the Peoples Bank / Trust Company of Sanford, headed by M. M. Smith, the man who owned the home at the southeast corner of Eighth and Elm which at one time was used as a hospital or clinic by Drs. Davis Foster and J.T. Denton for surgical operations. The Peoples Bank, founded about 1908, was on the southeast corner of First Street and Magnolla Avenue. Alter the collapse of the Seminole County Bank in 1927 and the closing of the First National Bank July 12, 1929, the Atlantic National Bank of Jacksonville opened the Sanford Atlantic National Bank in this building. Later the Sanford Atlantic Bank the southeast corner of First and Park, now known as the First Union Bank. When the Sanford Atlantic Bank was established branch banking was allowed in Florida so each banking facility had to have its own staff of officers and a board of directors. The bank building, shown above, was enlarged and became the site of one of the Winn-Lovett Grocery Company's Piggly-Wiggly stores, II was managed for a long time by Marko Galibreath. The building next door to this particular structure became well known as the Mather Furniture Company under a manager named Charlie Luke.

TV reports show citizens fighting crime in own neighborhoods

By Associated Press

ORLANDO - Everyone agrees there's too much crime and violence on television. The problem is that, like the weather, nobody seems to do anything about it.

But now, an Orlando-based TV production company is stepping forward with good news on crime: real-life success stories about people who are actively helping to reduce violence in their communities.

The videotaped reports are being used with local TV news shows across the country.

The syndicated series by Ivanhoe Communications inc. focuses on tactics and techniques to combat neighborhood crime. The two-minute reports feature innovative programs carried out by ordinary citizens angry about the robberies. shootings and drug trafficking in their midst.

One recent report focused on Philadelphia, where citizens fed up with the Ivy Hill Bar - a gathering place for drug dealers, pimps and dopers - got together and formed a "nutsance task force.

'What happened was this community rose upand, with the help of the district attorney's office. closed this bar down in less than a year." task force director David Castro says as the cameras show the neighborhood involved.

Castro, community leader Jim Adams and other team members quietly gathered evidence about what was happening at the bar. This allowed a court to assess the impact of the activities on the society around it, resulting in an order to close it and demolish it.

Ironically, the site of the Ivy Hill Bar is being taken over by a church.

That report illustrates the idea behind the series, said Marjorie Bekaert Thomas, Ivanhoe's chief executive officer.

'The news segments are about actionable, transferable events that can be used by other communities around the country," she said. "That's what we want to do - educate people about what they can do in their own neighborhoods."

The series is the creation of Ivanhoe President Bette BonFleur, a former television reporter who does much of the research and production

"I thought the time was right because people are fed up with seeing the body bag of crime stories on TV newscasts," Ms. BonFleur said. The nightly parade of police cases on television

"also terribly alarmist because it's not representative of what's really happening out there," she said.

Recent viewer polis reflect the same criticism, and many news directors agree with the findings. Ivanhoe's "Crackdown on Crime" series gives TV stations "a way to balance all the blood and guts that's so prevalent in all of our newscasts today," said Bob Jordan, news director of KCBS in Los Angeles.

One of the Ivanhoe reports tells about volunteers in Miami forming a Parent Patrol to keep Ivanhoe has been producing and syndicating TV news series on various subjects for 12 years. Similar series on medical breakthroughs and innovations in education are reaching 75 million TV households a week, according to calculations by the Neilsen ratings company.

The crime series began airing in late March in 42 television markets that have a total of 26 million viewing households.

HAVANA, Cuba - President Fidel Castro mingled over canapes with men who once tried to overthrow him

The cordial gathering late Sunday at Castro's official residence on the Plaza of the Revolution capped a conference designed to improve relations between exiles and the Cubangovernment.

It included former members of organizations that once mounted attacks against the Communist island, along with longtime supporters of closer U.S.-Cuban ties.

Officials insisted the meeting was meant to begin healing the rift between Cubans, not to seek dollars from Cubans abroad nor divide Cuban-Americans. Extle-

About 225 exiles, more than 150 from the United States. attended the three-day conference, the first meeting since 1978 between exiled Cubans, who have bitterly opposed Castro's government for 35 years, and Cuban officials.

Asked what he would have done in a meeting with Castro 20 years ago. Luis Tornes, a veteran of the failed Bay of Pigs invasion grinned.

"Why don't you ask what he would have done 20 years ago? He would have killed me," said Tornes, 70, who noted it was his first face-to-face meeting with Castro.

Rafael Huguet, who fought alongside Castro against the dictatorship of Fulgencio Batista - Cubans without power for much of the government's turn to Soviet support said: "In general everything is a positive step."

The officials excoriated hardline anti-Castro factions in Havana and encouraged exiles to invest, although the U.S. embargo blocks people in the United States from investing.

"There could be much opening, but in reality, our relations with the emigres face very important obstacles, such as the U.S. blockade," said Carlos Lage, Cuba's chief economic Cuba is trying to save its socialist system with reforms following the collapse of aid from the former Soviet bloc. Under last year's reforms, 150,000 Cubans have opened small private businesses or applied to do so, Lage said.

Earlier, Foreign Minister Roberto Robaina said Cuba would drop a ban on return visits by recent legal emigres and would allow a few children of emigrants to attend Cuban universities.

He promised to establish a department for emigrant allairs. Officials also said Cuba's parliament may soon discuss changing Cuban citizenship laws that prohibit dual citizen-

CLEARWATER - Former state prosecutor and former U.S. attorney Robert Merkle has been found innocent of a misdemeanor battery charge after one of the longest misdemeanor proceedings in Pinellas county his-

The six-member panel deliberated just two hours before declaring Merkle, 49, innocent of the charge for allegedly slugging George Gusler after a traffic altereation in Largo last sum-

The verdict Saturday came at the end of a 12-day trial spread out over three weeks.

During the trial, Merkle made an issue of Gusier's troubled past, which includes 13 felony convictions, along with stints in mental hospitals.

Merkle, now a Clearwater lawyer, has said he acted in self-defense because he thought Gusler was reaching for a gun under the front scat of his car. But authorities investigating the Aug. 27 incident later found only a car phone under Gusier's scat.

"We feel Robert Merkle was fully justified in his actions in defense of his family and himself," the jury wrote on its verdict form.

Merkle mouthed the words "thank you" to the jury, hugged his attorneys, then kissed his wife Angela.

He then blasted the prosecutors who charged him in the

"I think it's a tragedy that a husband and father was charged with a crime for defending his family," said Merkle. "The intent of the prosecution was to destroy me, and it failed. "There's been a very grave

So you're zipping along First Street in your car, thinking about and salivating over the tasty lunch you're about to consume.

Or you're creeping through downtown, parking space by parking space, hoping to find one in front of the antique shop you

Gosh, it's true, isn't it? The parking spaces are always on the other side of the street from the side you're on, and by the time you circle the block, they're taken.

Are you tempted to make a U-turn, crossing in front of oncoming traffic, to capture that Don't do it! For it could prove to be the costlicst pay-to-park you've ever known: worse than 24 hours in a New York City parking garage; much worse than a week in covered parking at the Orlando Airport. Currently, the infraction falls under the state's Uniform Traffic Code and carries a $74 fine as a moving violation.

Police Chief Ralph Russell says he thinks "$74 may be a bit steep for someone coming into downtown Sanford to do some shopping or as a visitor." Why, that's cab fare to shop downtown Orlando and back again. You can leave the car at home. Or plane fare to shop Miami.

A bit steep is right. Russell has suggested the city commission drop the fine to $25, the same as for parking along a yellow curb, in a loading zone or on a sidewalk or crosswalk.

We suggest warnings be issued before the police start slapping costly tickets on patrons of our downtown. Shoppers need to be made aware of the safety issue when making an illegal U-turn, and repeat offenders should be fined when observed breaking the law. If responsible merchants remember to park away from the storefronts, freeing spaces for patrons, and if drivers understand it is unsafe to zip in front of an oncoming car to park, few tickets will have to be issued.

Thanks for support

On behalf of the Sanford Kiwanis Club, I wanted to thank Vicki DeSormier for the excellent newspaper coverage of our annual Kiwanis fundraiser, Pancake Day, April 9 at the Sanford Civic Center, Phil Gunster, president elect and head of this year's event, thinks we might equal what we raised last year. We fed over 1,300 that Saturday. Shortly we will know the final figures as soon as all moneys, from stlent auction items and left-over produce, are turned into our project fund.

Our afternoon attendance was off because of other events happening at the same time. Next year it will be held on March 25 and we might have more of our northern visitors attending.

As you know, organizing Pancake Day takes a lot of planning, promotion and help to be effective. However the ultimate success depends, not only on the participating Kiwanians, but the substantial community support we receive. This fact makes us mindful of our responsibility to our community and encourages us to do as much as possible and reciprocate to our various community needs.

Thanks again for your support. It is greatly appreciated.

Impresario put civil rights in jazz

Recently, Verve Records presented a Carnegle que man I have ever known, went into Jazz to Hall concert celebrating the 50th anniversary of Norman Granz's career in music. Granz created the Jazz at the Philharmonic tours; a series of record companies that never abandoned jazz, no matter what the trends were; and, starting long ago, he absolutely refused to play to segregated

Black musicians used to have a store of war stories about the risks to body and spirit when they were booked in the South and, for that matter, other parts of the country, including New England. Managers, booking agents and promoters had no interest in changing local mores so long as the money came in.

In many places on tour, black musicians, after working segregated clubs and dances, were barred from white hotels. And often, to get something to eat, they had to commission a white man to buy sandwiches for the band.

Richard Boyer, in a 1944 New Yorker profile of Duke Ellington, told of a policeman in Jim Crow St. Louis greeting Ellington enthusiastically, and saying: "If you'd been a white man, Duke, you'd have been a great musician." With his customary regal manner. Duke, smiling, coolly answered. "I guess things would have been different if I'd been a white man."

Granz's shows included a lot of jousting among the players — what used to be called "cutting contests." Because of the anticipated excitement, JATP attracted large audiences. Road to free press is rocky

There is an old Zen saying: "After ecstasy, the laundry." It accurately describes the current state of play in nations that were once part of the Soviet empire or the Soviet Union

The collapse of communism created a short-lived burst of cuphoria inside those lands and out. It has been followed by the sour realization that liberty is not a dispensation from on high. Failed economies and durable Communist apparatchiks have conspired to bring the future of free institutions into

This was brought home anew the other day at a conference for young Journalists from the former Communist nations, which was held at American University in Washington, D.C. Its central theme was the search for ways to convince their governments that press freedom is an asset rather than a threat.

That will not be an easy task, but what I tried to say to them is something that I believe is important for us to remember as well. Press freedom was not a matter of immaculate conception in the United States. It took decades to wring partial reality out of the high-flown absolutes of the Bill of Rights. For much of that time, the press was directly involved in the political process, not as detached observers but as sweaty, committed partisans. The press in the old Marxist-Leninist lands cannot avoid the same evolutionary

To say that things are not going well in many of those countries, and going very badly in some, would be an understatement. Broadcast media, television in particular, are dominated by state-run stations and networks. Devices ranging from crude to sophisticated are used to whip the newly freed newspapers into line or put them out of business.

Watching their governments revert to type, journalists in the former bloc nations wonder what can be done - by them and by us. Their worries about press freedom mirror the larger concern in each country about the durability of freedom in all of its manifestations.

It follows that this is no time for anyone to give up or relax the effort within and the pressure from without. No less obviously, there are going to be losses in the years immediately ahead. It is always easier to crack eggs than make omelets. But American history provides at least a measure of reassurance about the possibilities inherent in the effort, as well as a reminder that our own road to a vigorous free press was long and rocky. The first American newspaper. Public Occurrences, was suppressed by authorities of the crown in 1690. John Adams and his Federalist supporters in Congress imposed the Allen and Sedition Acts on Republican journals and spokesmen in the late 1790s less than 10 years after the adoption of the Bill of Rights anti-red hysteria after World War I all but silenced left-wing opinion in some states

In my own section of the country, the Deep South, freedom of the press was long available. almost exclusively to those who use it to uncritically support white supremacy. Tolerance of journalistic independence stopped dead at the race line.

Nor is everything perfect even in the United States of today. The great American cartoonist Garry Trudeau made a sharp editorial point during the Persian Gulf War with the following fictional exchange in "Doonesbury" between a journalist and a military officer. What lessons had the military learned from their interventions in Grenada and Panama? the reporter asked the officer. "We don't have to tell you anything and you can't do squat," came the reply. Any other lessons? he was asked. "Sure, but that's classified." This is not to pretend that the differences between the press and government in this country are akin to those, let us say, in Romania, Bulgaria or Kazakhstan. They are not.

Press freedom

conception in

was not a matter of

But that would have been less easy to assert 100 years ago in many parts of the United States, while press freedom is further advanced in some of the Warsaw Pact states today than it was in some sections of America a half century ago.

Furthermore, powerful as the state is in many of those nations and weak as the press remains, something more powerful than both is at work on the side of expanded liberty. There is no longer such a thing as national borders when it comes to the flow of news and information. The communications revolution has leapfrogged them in the form of faxes. cassettes, satellites and computers.

Of no less importance, no nation-state which insists on functioning as a closed society can hope to improve its economy. Information rather than industrial production is the lifeblood of the contemporary world economy. and there is no way for a nation to pick and choose its way along the information highway without allowing its citizens to do the same.

Much hinges on U.S.-China relations

WASHINGTON - President Clinton probably never met former Sen. George Aiken. R-Vt., but he's preparing to practice what Aiken preached about ending the Vietnam War: "Just declare victory and get out.

According to Democratic insiders, Clinton may apply this advice to avoid a crists with China. Key Democrats predict that Clinton will renew Most Favored Nation status even though the case for it is dubious at best.

Clinton is pinned between his rictoria and the Chinese record on human rights. He chample oned human rights during the presi-dential campaign. but now, as commander-in-chief, he may need China to help defuse the North Korean crisis. In this sense, MFN is another metaphor for an administration beset by mixed messages and miscalculations.

The administration understands that this is not a great box to be in." one Democratic senator told us. "But on the other hand, human rights is serious, and China has not yet gone the distance."

We're trying to help (Clinton) find his way out of this corner," said one Senate Democratic strategist. "The trouble with this MFN issue is it's great politics (during a campaign) but lousy policy.

Clinton has until June 3 to certify that China has improved human rights, and thus is entitled to lower trade tariffs. But China remains a brutal and ruthless police state that runs a gulag-like prison system.

Whether foreign policy is rooted in economics or ethics is at the core of a bitter struggle within the administration over MFN. Secretary of State Lloyd Bentsen. Commerce Secretary Ron Brown and National Economic Council chairman Robert Rubin are opposed to the linkage of trade and human rights. They've been feuding with the State Department for being too doctrinaire on forcing human rights.

Assistant U.S. Secretary of State Winston Lord and White House national security adviser Tony Lake like linkage. But they are on the defensive for believing that Beijing could be brow-beaten into human rights compliance — and that the rights-crusading took precedence over $41 billion in bilateral

Rubin is said to be the most miffed over MFN. Sources say Rubin has bucked some administration briefers who urged him to show solidarity on MFN during his Sunday morning talk-show appearances

After spending most of the last year sounding critical of China's human rights record, Secretary of State Warren Christopher has muted his rhetoric in recent weeks as the deadline nears. During a closed-door meeting earlier this month with members of the Senate Finance Committee, Christopher was uncharacteristically noncommittal on MFN, refusing to evaluate China's progress on human rights.

China would be infinitely simpler for the well-intentioned Christopher If it weren't for North Korca's nuclear ambitions, which perhaps only the Chinese can help contain. The Chinese alone seem to have a channel of communication to the paranoid and unpredictable leadership of that country - and perhaps the needed leverage to ensure they don't become a wholesaler in weapons of mass destruction. Balancing these strategic questions with human rights is the clusive

Chinese dissident reunited with wife

By MIKE MOKRZYCKI Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK - Freed by China after more than four years of political imprisonment, Tiananmen Square democracy movement leader Wang Juntao came to the United States to get healthy and to speak about his Wang, 35, was freed Saturday as Beijing seeks to curry continued favorable trading status with the United States.

He flew to Kennedy International Airport and was reunited Saturday with his wife, Hou Xiaotian.

Wang and his supporters had repeatedly requested his release on medical grounds. He has heart trouble and chronic hepatitis B, a serious liver allment that his wife says he contracted in prison soon after his 1989 arrest.

Hou (pronounced hoo), 31, also spent several months in jail for the 1989 Tiananmen Square protests, then waged a public campaign in China for her husband's release. That landed her back in police detention several times.

In September she left China and came to Columbia University, where she is a visiting scholar of human rights. She also traveled widely to lobby for her husband's freedom. Among those who had written to Chinese leaders on her behalf, she said, was former President Nixon, who died Friday.

On Saturday, China's Justice Ministry said Wang was freed on ball because of his illness.

"I feel just like a winner finishing a long-distance race." Hou said by telephone. "When you cross the finish line you are happy and exhausted."

She said her husband would see a doctor today, then travel to Washington to speak to a conference on Chinese affairs on

Beijing's decision to free Wang was widely interpreted as an attempt to show President Clinton that China deserves continued most-favored-nation trading status with the United

Clinton has threatened to revoke that status, which ensures low tariffs for Chinese imports, unless China improves its human rights record. Clinton must act by June 3.

OAKLAND, Calif. - They are older, grayer. They no longer seek power in the barrel of a gun, and most left the organization long ago.

But one thing has not changed in the nearly 30 years since they arose from the mean streets of Oakland: The men and women who once led the Black Panthers still believe in the bringing "All Power to All People."

And though many former Panther leaders aren't interested in reviving the militant party of the past - the Panthers are now just a service organization in Oakland - they lament that the social work they began remains unfinished. "I'm frustrated many times and find it very depressing that there seems not to be any real voice for the underclass," said former Panthers chief of staff David Hilliard, 51. "The only thing people seem to get together around for today is a rock concert. ... "It's not 50-year-old revolutionaries and ex-Panthers who bring about change. It's youth who bring about change.

But the old Panthers try. Bobby Seale, who co-founded the group with Huey P. Newton in 1966, lectures 40 times a year and has established a nonprofit organization in Philadelphia to teach youth how to organize communities.

Elaine Brown hopes to build a school in South Central Los Angeles, to teach poor kids to be enterprising human beings who will have something to do other than hope and wait for someone else to change the world."

"I have a personal interest in them because I was them. I know what that feels like when the world doesn't care whether you live or die tomorrow," she said in a telephone interview from her home in Paris. Brown grew up in Philadelphia, where her

The Panthers, Brown said, "gave me a sense of my value as a human being." She was with the Panthers for several years and served as the party's leader while Newton was in exile in Cuba.

"The only difference is we believed in the right to In all, 28 party members and 14 police officers died in various Panther-police

Magic win, O'Neal 'loses'

ORLANDO - Shaquille O'Neal's 32 points weren't enough to overcome late-charging David Robinson for the NBA scoring title as the Orlando Magic beat the New Jersey Nets 120-91.

O'Neal, who ended the season with a 29.35 average to Robinson's 29.79, could only shake his head when teammates told him late in the first half that Robinson exploded for 71 points in the Spurs' 112-97 victory over the Clippers. Rebinson's point total, which made him the fourth NHA player to score more than 70 points. meant O'Neal had to score 68 to overtake him.

The point race overshadowed Nick Anderson's 24 points and Dennis Scott's 20 in the Magic's team-record 50th victory.

TAMPA - Call them lucky or a team that simply was in the right place at the right time. It didn't matter to the Tampa Bay Buccancers on Sunday. They got a potential franchise quarterback and a highly regarded running back who could sell some fickets, too, in the first two rounds of the NFL draft.

The Bucs took Fresno State quarterback Trent Differ with the sixth overall pick, then grabbed Errict Rhett, Florida's career rushing leader. early in the second round.

Diller was rated as one of the top two quarterbacks in the draft after throwing for 7,631 yards and 53 touchdowns in three seasons at Fresno State.

Rhett ran for 4.163 yards, breaking Emmitt Smith's career record, and caught 153 passes for another 1,230 yards at Florida.

Dolphin deals net three picks

DAVIE - With two trades and three picks, the Miami Dolphins were busy in the first two rounds of the NFL draft.

The net result was an intriguing but risky top choice, and a pair of second-round selections projected to challenge for starting jobs.

Miami's first pick was 6-foot-4, 325-pound defensive tackle Tim Bowens, who played only one season and nine games at Mississippl.

In the second round, Miami took outside linebacker Aubrey Beavers and Notre Dame center Tim Ruddy. Both have a 50-50 chance to start this fall. Miami began the day with the 16th choice but traded it to Green Bay for two picks - the 20th and the 89th (a third-round selection).

Shula then dealt with Arizona to obtain Ruddy with the final pick of the second round.

Raiders close out campaign with a win

From Staff Reports

SANFORD - While Seminole Community College may not be going to the state baseball tournament, the Raiders have shown that they can play with anyone. Central Florida Community College's Patriots were the victims Saturday, as the Raiders concluded their season (maybe) with an 8-5 Mid-Florida Conference victory over the Patriots at Raider Field. The reason for the "maybe" is that the Raiders' game with Santa Fe Community College last Thursday was rained out. If the game has any bearing on the outcome of the conference race, it will have to be made up.

Going into the weekend Central Florida, Santa Fe and Lake City were fighting for the runner-up spot, and a place in the state tournament, in the M-FC behind champion Florida Community College at Jacksonville. SCC (20-24, 11-12 M-FC) used one of its biggest

Anonymous' Greyhounds get chance in spotlight

Quietly, almost anonymously, the Lyman High School girls' softball team has enjoyed one of the finest seasons of the 1993-94 school year. In fact, the only team that could claim to have had a better one would be the state champion Lymnn girls' soccer team.

What have the softball-playing Greyhounds done? Nothing but win. Going into this week's 5A-District 4 tournament. Lyman has lost just once and that was in the seventh inning of the championship game in the Kissimme-Osceola tournament over spring break.

How can a team that's 13-1 be anonymous?

To begin with, the Greyhounds have played most of their games in the afternoon, when only schoolmates and parents with coopcrative professional schedules can get there. They've played only a handful of games at night. Also, what makes the Greyhounds

special isn't something that jumps out at you in one game, but becomes apparent after watching

SPORTS TONY

DeSORMIER them play several games: they don't do anything to defeat themselves and, as a result, are never out of a

None of this comes as a suprise to Coach Christy Tibbitts.

"We're going to be good," she sald when asked to appraise her team's prospects during a conversation prior to the Lyman-Lake Mary wrestling match on Jan. 26. "think we're going to be very good."

It was easy to dismiss her projection as typical preseason optimism (high school softball teams had been practicing all of nine days at the time), but three months later, it

Lyman's success in this, Seminole

County's first season of high school fastpitch softball, is one of those pleasantly ironic stories that keep this job from being predictable. While not anti-fastpitch, Tibbitts said last March (when the state legislature was debating the bill that would mandate the change from slowpitch to fastpitch softball for public high schools) that she prefered slowpitch, largely because that's what she played as a student at Lake Howell.

"But if they tell us to play fastpitch, we'll play fastpitch,' Tibbitts said then. "We should be competitive either way."

This week, the Greyhounds will attempt to add the 5A-District 4 championship to their trophy case. As the No. I seed in the tournament, Lyman will host a first-round game at 4 p.m. Wednesday. The semifinals and champtonship game will be played Thursday and Friday, respectively, at the Lake Mary Sports Complex.

While they're strongly favored to win the district tournament, the Greyhounds must deal with the single-elimination format of the postscason play (unlike football, boys' and girls' basketball, and baseball, only the district champion advances in softball) while wearing the target created by their 18-1 record.

Also, there's an adage in sports that it's difficult to beat a good team three times in a row. So far, Lyman has won both of its games with Lake Brantley, Spruce Creek, Lake Mary, and Oyledo, all of whom are or have shown the ability to be good teams at one time or another.

By the same token, the Greyhounds have been the county's best team all season long. And they've done it with a style of play - constant effort, mistake-free defense, and aggressiveness on offense - that has defled slumps.

Barring upsets, the Greyhounds get to shake that cloak of anonymity this week. And even if they should stumble, it won't tarnish what's been a remarkable season.

Beta Sigma Phi sorority marks 63rd anniversary

On April 30, the five Sanford Chapters of Beta Sigma Phi. together with 12,500 chapters of 250,000 members throughout the world, will celebrate their Founder's Day. The first BSP chapter was started in SAnford

Founder's Day honors Walter W. Ross, a man who, during the Depression, saw a need among the young women he met in his work as a traveling encyclopedia salesman. He believed they needed more in their lives than work, responsibility and hardship, and decided to devote his life to providing them with a social and cultural outlet.

His efforts brought seven young women in Abilene, Kan. together in 1931 to form that sort of organization. Beta Sigma Pht met their needs, and continues to meet the needs of hundreds of thousands of women today. This April 30, Walter Ross will be remembered by this, the largest Greek letter sorority in the world.

Throughout the 63 years of its history, the members of Beta Sigma Phi have enjoyed programs for cultural studies and numerous social events. They devote much of their time and effort to service, and recently raised over $250,000 for sorority sisters who suffered losses due to Hurricanes Andrew and Iniki, and to flooding in the midwestern United States. Basic to Beta Sigma Pht. however, are the socials for its members. One of the most important is Founder's Day which the Sanford chapters will observe on April 30 at Deltona Inn with the executive board of BSP City Cpuncil serving as host. President Pat Johnson will serve as the emcee. Pat Provau has been selected for the honor of presenting the special message from the International Executive Council of Beta Sigma Pht.

The president of each Sanford chapter will present Woman of the Year and other awards during the celebration.

Roses: The 'Queen of Flowers' Special care required, but they're worth it

Where did the rose originate? We cannot be really sure, but it can be traced back to the ancient Chinese, North African and West Asian civilizations. The rose is one of the oldest flowers in cultivation and has been grown for over 5,000 years.

Over 4,000 songs have been written exalting roses and it has been mentioned in poetic works since civilization began. The rose has inspired fashion, interior design and other works of art. Before the beauty of this flower was really appreciated, it was valued as a food. Roses have been pickled and boiled; made into jams, jellies, cakes and candies; and in Victorian days, rose petals were botted to obtain rose water and perfume.

Roses are grown in all of the 50 states and even though they require special care in Florida, their magnificent beauty makes all the work very worthwhile.

In Florida the rose is an evergreen shrub which grows and blooms all year in the southern part of the state and at least nine months in northern Florida. Each year plants produce from five to seven flushes of bloom and a few flowers between cycles.

Rose culture is slightly different in Florida than in other regions. Plants grow larger here and must be given plenty of room.

Winter protection is not necessary but anchoring taller varieties to reduce wind injury is recommended. Roses shold be planted in an open location where they will receive direct sunlight for at least six hours during the day. Roses perform better if planted in beds separate from other shrubs and flowers; this arrangement will help to reduce plant competition. Choose a garden site with good drainage and supply adequate water and nutrients. If drainage is a problem, raised beds can often remedy the situation. Organic amendments like compost, leafmold, peat and mulches will increase water and nutrient holding capacities in sandy soils.

Most rose plants sold have been grafted on one of the following rootstocks: Fortuniana. Dr. Huey or Multiflora. The Fortuniana types are longest lived, grow larger, more vigorous, produce more flowers and are usually recmmended for Florida. Other everblooming varieties on other root systems can be grown successfully but do not produce as high quality plants as the varieties on Rosa Fortuniana rootstock.

In Florida roses are high maintenance plants. They need irrigation, fertilization, mulching, pruning and pest control.

Two diseases - black spot and powdery mildew - can be limiting factors in rose production. Weekly fungicide sprays may be necessary. Mites are the major insect pests but other pests include caterpillars, scales, aphids and thrips. Rose pests can be effectively controlled if general recommendations are followed - buy plants free of diseases and insects, keep plants free of dead leaves and disease or insect infested canes, and follow a regular spray program to prevent severe damage from diseases and/or

If you are not already growing roses, give them a chancel Rose growing is not that difficult if you purchase plants suited to our climate (rootstock should be Fortuniana) and you grow them under the proper conditions. Plant a rose and you'll soon realize why it is called "The Queen of

Church plate is for collecting money

DEAR ABBY: You really bombed with your advice to Caroline Dell about making change from the offering plate at

Good grief. Abby, when people know they are going to church they should come prepared with money for the offering. If they really did forget, rather than making change, they should bring a little extra the following

DEAR ABBY: Thank you for the many columns you have written concerning bicycle safety. Please continue to stress the importance of wearing a helmet.

Here in California, starting Jan. 1, 1994, all children under 18 are required by law to wear an approved safety helmet when riding a bicycle on public streets or trails. In 1995, violators will be fined.

Finding health care without insurance

DEAR DR. GOTT: I'm a 57-year-old female trapped in an 80-year-old body because I can't find a doctor to help. I have constant pain or stones and can feel them moving around in my body. I have no insurance, am disabled, and can't work, I really don't want to die but cannot stand much more pain.

DEAR READER: Without further information about your general state of health, I can't guess at the cause of your symptoms. However, I am sure you can obtain the help you seek by being examined in the diagnostic clinic at a teaching

Although you may have difficulty finding a private physiclan, most hospitals flarge or small) do have provisions and resources to help patients who are uninsured and cannot pay. Check with your community hospital (where state or local assistance may be available) or go to a teachtrig hospital in your geographic are u.

To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Insuring Your Good Health" and "Manag-ing Chronic Patir." Other readers who would like copies should send $2 plus a long, selfaddressed, stamped envelope to P.O. Box 2433, New York, NY 10163. Be sure to mention the

DEAR DR. GO'TT: I've experienced muscle tightness and spasms of my neck and back for over 10 years. I've used chtropractic massage, exercises and acupuncture with temporary relief. A neurologist has meon nortriptyline 25 mg to be taken at bedtime. Do you have any information on the treatment of neck and back pain with anti-depressunts?

DEAR READER: For unknown reasons, anti-depressants, such as nortriptyline, often help patients with chronic pain. Stick with your neurologist's suggestion and see if your muscle spasms improve. If not, the doctor may choose to give you specific muscle-relaxing medication (Flexeril, Robaxin and others). To give you more information, I am sending you a free copy of my Health Report "Managing Chronic Pain."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Aider

There should be no need to state the obvious, but we often do. At the edge of the Sinai desert, with sand and stones stretching as far as the eye can see, there is a sign an nouncing 'Free Parking.'

In today's deal, I would point out that the six-heart contract appears to depend on the spade finesse working. But that is too obvious. One would like to make the contract even if the finesse is losing. But you knew that already. How did the neclarer attack the play after West had led the club queen?

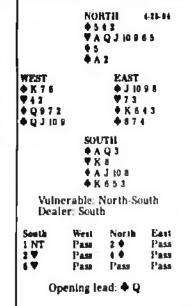

North's sequence, a transfer bid of two diamonds followed by a splinter jump to four diamonds, showed a sham-try with at least six liearts and at most one diamond. South bid what he thought he could i nake. Declarer won the opening lead with dummy's club ace, cashed the heart ace, played a club to his king and ruffed a club high in the dummy. After a trump back to his king had removed the opponents' langs, declarer ruffed his last club in the dummy.

I know you've seen the key play coming for some time, but to dot the I's and cross the Us. declarer called for dummy diamond and, after East played low, finessed his 10.

West won with the queen but was endplayed. He had to concede three side-suit tricks, either two spades and one diamond on a spade return into declarer's A-Q tenace, or one spade and two diamonds on a diamond return into declarer's A-J tenace. The transfer bid did its job. If

North declares six hearts, East obviously leads the spade jack. killing the contract.
