Two Men Sought For Kidnap, Rape

Two men wearing stocking masks forced two girls, ages 14 and 15, at gunpoint Tuesday night into their car, parked on Orlando's Washington Street, then drove them into Seminole County onto Lake Emma Road, been received from these resiwhere one of the men raped the older girl, according to Seminole County Det. Sgt. Johnny Wright. The younger girl managed to escape, Wright said, while the 15-year-old was being assaulted. She ran to Lake Mary Boulevard, stopped a trol officer, added, "Physical passing motorist and alerted her parents, who, examination shows large in turn called authorities.

After the rape, the second girl was returned to Orlando, where she also contacted police and related

Since the rape occurred in Seminole County, Wright said the sheriff's office was notified and would work with Orange County authorities in the investigation. In another incident involving Orange County individuals, Wright stated two Orlando men have been arrested on assault with intent to commit murder and robbery charges after a man was beaten in Altamonte Springs, tied up and carried in a car trunk to Orange County and then stabbed three times. Wright advised that Dwight Jordan, 18, of 510 Thank goodness for Roget's Comstock Road, Winter Park, and Alonzo Heard, 22,

The United Nations has bee an abiding interest of Kaufman and he has received a Christopher Award for his work on the UNICEF books of children's poems, prayers, legends and SODES.

The Kaufman series includes a book on how to give a wine and cheese tasting party, and for that one the author did not make up any international laughed, "so my wife and I in vited all of our friends to the ed six hours and we ran through about 25 pounds of cheese. We wound up serving just crackers and coffee."

The meal I had with Bill, his attractive wife and son was devoted to flaming various dishes with French cognec. It was a lively affair featuring specialties such as homemade pate made from liverwurst, cream and a dollop of cognac and chicken l'estragon flamed in brandy. Topped off with a flambe of stuffed figs in cream, it was a good way to drown any initiative one might have for the rest of the day!

If you want to treat your guests to something different, try Kaufman's Poulet Saute a l'Estragon: 2 broiler chickens cut in traffic in and out of Florida during fall and winter months. Traffic patterns begin developing in October when warm weather seekers migrate south. A migration in reverse begins when the vegetable harvest starts in South Florida. Both traveler and fresh vegetables meet on Florida's expressways and byways.

The first month of the increased harvesting, October, offers varying weather conditions almost everywhere to make the debut of Florida vegetables on the markets a welcome occasion. October brings warm and cold days; and Florida produce can accommodate the calorie-counting dieter or the heavy eater in each type of weather

A crispy cool salad will garnish the menu on a warm October day. The cool days can have a touch of warmth added with a good variety of vegetables in a soup For the colder days, a delicious stew of meat and vegetables will provide much of the energy the body will need to keep going. Beginning with the warmer October day the menu could be a 'cold cuts 'meal. Whet the

The Sanford field laboratory of Florida's marine research program may be phased out along with the entire project within four-six weeks, it was reported today by Associated Press out of Tallahassee. The local lab, at the Florida Power & Light Company plant on the St. Johns River, has completed a lengthy study of shad spawning and juvenile life and was about to launch into a further two-year study of the shad, tied in with a similar study of sturgeon on the West Coast, Roy Williams and Curtis Myhree are biologists with the Sanford

AP quoted Ed Joyce, director of a state marine laboratory at St. Petersburg, that what was once regarded as one of the best state-supported marine research programs in the nation only has from four to six weeks to keep from going broke.

Already five of the Marine Science and Technology Bureau's 50 research employes have been given pink slips, and field laboratories at Crystal River, Fort Walton Beach and Key West shut down because of the economic pinch, said Joyce.

He said the royalties are a 'diminishing source of the bureau's unusual method of funding. It derives nothing from general state revenues, but must rely 100 per cent on federal funds and royalties paid to the state from the dredging of oyster shells used in

He sai dthe royalties are a 'diminishing source of revenue" especially since one major firm in the business recently moved out of Florida.

"Of course, since the federal funds are matching funds, when we lose state money we lose federal money as well," said Joyce.
