Kissinger To Visit Mideast

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP)—Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger hurriedly scheduled his trip to the Mideast this weekend to head off a big Egyptian attack on Israeli forces on the Suez Canal, a Beirut newspaper close to the Syrian government reported today.

The report in Al Shark said Kissinger had planned to return to the Middle East after Jan. 16.

"But Washington received classified information that Egypt is on the brink of waging a major offensive against Israeli forces on the west bank of the Suez Canal, so Kissinger decided to come to the area Friday," the report continued.

The paper said reliable Arab diplomats in Cairo told its correspondent President Anwar Sadat decided to resort to military action because Israel was stalling at the Geneva talks on disengagement of forces on the Suez front.

Love Takes Cement Job

NEW YORK (AP)—John A. Love, who resigned as President Nixon's energy adviser when William E. Simon was named to head the newly created Federal Energy Office, is now employed by a cement company.

Love, a former governor of Colorado, was named senior vice president of Ideal Basic Industries, Inc., on Wednesday.

Ideal headquartered in Denver, produces potash and Portland cement.

Mexicans Arrest 3

GUADALAJARA, Mexico (AP)—Mexican authorities say they have arrested three Communist guerrillas, including one who admitted participating in the kidnaping last October of the honorary British consul in Guadalajara. The Jalisco state attorney said Jose de Jesus Ramirez Meza, 24, told the police a Guadalajara lawyer and his wife, also a lawyer, planned the simultaneous kidnaping of consul Anthony Duncan Williams, a Mexican citizen, and of Fernando Aranguren, local industrialist. Williams was released unharmed, but Aranguren was killed. The police issued arrest warrants for the lawyer and his wife.

Cambodians Drop Napalm

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP)—Cambodian air force fighters dropped napalm today on Khmer Rouge insurgents threatening Phnom Penh's airport. Front-line field commanders called in the prop-driven F28s to drop the flaming chemical on a series of villages five to seven miles northwest of the city and less than two miles north of the airport.

Chinese Expell Staffer

NEW YORK (AP)—A member of the United States diplomatic staff in Peking is being forced to leave China because he killed a Chinese girl in an automobile accident, the American Broadcasting Corp. reported today.

Steve Bell, ABC's correspondent in Hong Kong, said the diplomat is Nicholas Platt, 37, political officer of the U.S. liaison mission in the Chinese capital.

The report said Platt's car hit a young Chinese girl Nov. 25 as he was driving his visiting parents to the Great Wall. The American commanded a truck to take the girl to a hospital, but she died.

There was no determination that Platt was at fault, the report continued, but the Chinese government informed the U.S. mission that any diplomat involved in a fatality while driving was expected to leave the country.

Sweden Rations Gas Second Day Today

LONDON (AP)—Sweden is rationing gasoline for the second day today, and Norway and the Netherlands will have rationing this month.

British motorists have been issued ration coupons just in case. In Switzerland, Italy and Austria there are unofficial rumblings about rationing next month if the oil situation doesn't improve.

But most West European governments apparently hope that conservation measures will keep the ration books away. These include 50-mile speed limits. There is also an unofficial restriction on driving; gasoline prices have risen as much as 18 cents due to the Arab oil embargo and now run as high as $1.28 a gallon.

Here is a country-by-country picture of gasoline-short Western Europe:

Sweden—Drivers have coupons for just over 28 gallons to last them the seven weeks until March 1. What happens after that depends on the supply situation. Local rationing boards from 800,000 Swedes who claim driving is essential for their jobs.

Netherlands—Rationing begins Saturday and each car will be given 4 gallons a week. Supplementary rations will be issued for business use, allowed on the basis of 1973-mileage less 25 per cent. The government, fearful of a black market in coupons, says the transfer of coupons from one private car to another will not be prohibited.

Norway—A complicated four-tier system of rationing starts Jan. 25 and lasts six weeks. The basic ration is 20 gallons for drivers in the non-essential groups, but essential services and cars deemed "of some importance to society" get more. A ban on Sunday driving, started three weeks ago, continues until rationing starts.

Britain—The government was Europe's first to distribute gasoline ration books, and by mid-December everyone had drawn their allocations. Industry Minister Tom Boardman said this week it is "very unlikely rationing will be imposed this month" but added, "I am not prepared to comment further than January."

London: Most Civilized City In World?

LONDON (AP)—"And some call this the most civilized city in the world," sneered George, the barman at Waterloo Station.

He was looking out at a mob of commuters storming the gates of the 5:42 to Guildford, already an hour late.

They stamped across the great vaulted terminal like a nightmare backfield in motion at some super Super Bowl Game, then reversed their field when the train caller rasped out an alternate choice: "The train now standing on platform 13 is the 1705 to Exeter ... four coaches only."

Two helmeted bobbies cut off the surging crowd by clanging the gates shut. A rejected banker-type came to a boil under his bowler and uttered a rare obscenity at a passing trainman, reflecting the growing hostility of the passengers against the month-old go-slow of the Locomotive Engineers' Union.

Wednesday only 45 of the 375 commuter trains scheduled by Southern Railway, which serves the stockbroker belt, ran because of the wage dispute.

"We're only working three days a week because of the power cuts and it takes me nearly that long to get up and back from Chertsey," Bowler Hat told the barman. "By the time I get home, the telly's gone off."

George indulged in London's latest conversational fad by matching him woe for woe: "Took me three hours last night and I work for the bleeding railroad. There wasn't a coachman in the cab or some such nonsense, so the driver wouldn't take the train out."

Behind the city's — and the nation's — woes are labor disputes. The most important is the refusal of miners' to work overtime until they get pay hikes. This has cut down on Britain's supply of coal on which it depends for most of its energy.

But cut in coal production is compounded by the locomotive men's go-slow, which has hit delivery of coal. All this led to the government putting the nation on a three-day work week to conserve energy.

But all over London, people were coping as much as they were complaining, daring to go to the theater in spite of the threat of bombs by Irish terrorists, shopping by gaslight in the great post-Christmas sales and running out in the street to see what they had bought.

With steel production down by half because of the energy crisis, Britain's big automotive industry faced massive layoffs, but pickpockets on the crowded railroad platforms and shoplifters in the darkened stores never had it so good.

"They're stealing us blind here," confided Katy Loughran from the depths of a King's Road boutique. "It's so dark, the closed circuit TV can't see a thing."

Minister Edward Heath that burns for a week.

Flourishing ran rampant because no one—judge, defense attorney or prosecutor—knew for sure whether the state sentence could be served concurrently with his federal time.

Florida Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin last November said a state court has no legal authority to order a concurrent sentence for a federal prisoner or a prisoner of another state."

"I think he's right," Williams frankly confessed, saying the only solution he can see is to sentence Blackburn, but turn him over to the custody of the sheriff and hope something can be worked out.

"I guess I'll let somebody who is brighter than I am figure out where the legislature has failed," Williams said.

Blackburn Draws State Jail Term; Confusion Reigns Over Jurisdiction

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Seminole Circuit Court Judge Volie Williams today punted a legal football high into the air, sentencing convicted gambler Harlan Blackburn to a six-month to 10-year state prison sentence, then frankly confessing he did not know how state and federal authorities will settle jurisdiction.

Confusion ran rampant because no one—judge, defense attorney or prosecutor—knew for sure whether the state sentence could be served concurrently with his federal time.

The staggering legal hassle broke wide open after a three-man, three-woman jury Thursday found Blackburn guilty of aiding and abetting a man already acquitted in a June, 1971 attempt on gambler Clyde Lee.

The jury, ordered by Williams to first consider the guilt of acquitted Tampa resident Sam Cagnina before it ruled on Blackburn's guilt, took four hours to reach its verdict.

The judicial problem dissolved into nothing as Williams, defense attorney Cheney Mason and prosecutors today attempted to untangle the state and federal morass they had been plunged into by the decision.

Florida Atty. Gen. Robert Shevin last November said a state court has no legal authority to order a concurrent sentence for a federal prisoner or a prisoner of another state."

"I think he's right," Williams frankly confessed, saying the only solution he can see is to sentence Blackburn, but turn him over to the custody of the sheriff and hope something can be worked out.

"I guess I'll let somebody who is brighter than I am figure out where the legislature has failed," Williams said.

Blackburn drew a state jail term of six months to 10 years, but the judge said he did not know how to handle the concurrent sentence with Blackburn's federal term.

Williams said he would like to see the state and federal courts work out a solution, but he said he would have to let the legislature decide.

Shock, Disbelief, Anger Mark Blackburn's Reaction To Jury

By CHRIS NELSON
Herald Staff Writer

Harlan A. Blackburn, an aging convicted felon, sat in Courtroom B of the Seminole County Courthouse staring intently at the passage of the jury through which the jury was about to emerge Thursday evening, the end of the fourth day of his trial.

Awaiting the verdict for nearly four hours, Blackburn and his family, in the company of ever-present U.S. marshals, chatted confidentially amongst themselves and with anyone who wanted a few words with the man once reputed to be Central Florida's chief of crime.

"It was a high risk defense," Blackburn told The Herald, "no question about that. I felt I had to take the witness stand because there were some things I thought the jury would like to know."

"Under normal circumstances I wouldn't have done it," Blackburn explained during the rambling, 90 minutes Wednesday during which he candidly admitted two women witnesses against him were telling the truth as they understood it — but were just a mite mixed up.

"If I were on that jury, I would want to hear what the defendant had to say — especially with the troop of (state's witnesses) they (the prosecution) had, the circus atmosphere and all."

"I felt the jury would feel I was trying to hide something if I didn't get up and testify — but"

Blackburn's reaction to the jury verdict was one of shock, disbelief and anger. He said he felt the jury was being misled by the prosecution.

To End Energy Crisis President Asks Global Cooperation

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Nixon administration has proposed unprecedented diplomatic cooperation to solve an unprecedented global energy problem and says the world's prosperity and stability is at stake.

President Nixon in a letter to oil-producing nations, released Thursday, said the world stands at a crossroads between cooperation and "increasing political and economic conflict."

In another letter, inviting the industrial, oil-consuming nations to a meeting Feb. 11 in Washington, Nixon said this would be "a first and essential step toward the establishment of a new arrangement for international energy and related economic matters."

Nixon said a further meeting between both consumer and producer nations would be held within 90 days after the Feb. 11 meeting.

Elaborating on the plans in a new conference, Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger said still another meeting would be planned in between, bringing together both the industrialized and developing oil-consuming nations.

The planned series of international conferences, Kissinger said, is unprecedented in diplomatic history — but so is the worldwide energy problem.

Kissinger said the Arab oil embargo cut off oil supplies to the United States and the Netherlands, to bring indirect pressure on Israel, was "becoming increasingly inappropriate," but was not the basic cause of the world's energy problem.

That was caused, he said, by two factors — excessive energy demand and drastically increased oil prices recently imposed by a number of foreign producers.

The price increases, he said, would hit especially hard at underdeveloped nations using oil as they try to build up their economies.

All of the foreign aid given to these countries, Kissinger said, was cancelled "in one afternoon's decision by the price increase that has been imposed on these countries."

He said the new oil bill could reach $20 billion and the developing nations could not pay it.

Kissinger said the United States could go it alone, developing its own energy resources and making separate deals with oil-producing nations. But competition for oil through such tactics as export controls would damage the economies of other countries and, eventually, the entire world economy, he said.

He said the United States rejected that approach and urged international cooperation.

In the long run — 10 to 15 years — the United States will become self-sufficient in energy and may even have a surplus.

When it does, Kissinger said, it may share its energy with others.

Invited to the Feb. 11 meeting in Washington were the foreign ministers of Canada, Japan, West Germany, France, Italy, the Netherlands, Norway and Britain.

These eight countries plus the United States account for 75 to 80 per cent of the world's petroleum consumption, Kissinger pointed out.

He said the series of meetings to begin in February would aim at developing "a series of agreements or understandings" on sharing energy technology, analyzing energy demand and conserving energy resources.

To such additional problems as the fate of the developing nations and the impact of energy problems on the international balance of payments, Kissinger said, "we frankly haven't even the beginning of an answer."

Blackburn's reaction to the jury verdict was one of shock, disbelief and anger. He said he felt the jury was being misled by the prosecution.

Union Men Arrested

By BOB LLOYD
City Editor

Two Orlando union officials today surrendered to sheriff's investigators at Sanford on arson and conspiracy charges in connection with a Sept. 19 fire at Air-Flow Designs, Casselberry, that destroyed 26 trucks.

William K. Beck, 55, of 5605 Cortez Drive, business manager of Orlando plumbers local 803, and Daniel J. Evans, 26, of 311 Hillcrest St., Altamonte Springs, a union employee, were held at county jail on $5,000 bond each.

Direct information filed Thursday by State Atty. Abbott Herring's office charge Beck and Evans with third degree arson and conspiracy to commit a felony (arson) in the Air-Flow fire.

Three Orlando men previously arrested on arson charges in the Air-Flow fire were reported today still being held with their families in protective custody by area law enforcement officials.

Authorities would not comment but sources said five adults and six children are under guard at an undisclosed motel. Cost of detaining the 11 reportedly is costing Seminole County at least $500 a week.

Arthur Ray Brundon, 17, Killee Mullins, 34, and Benjamin Haines Jr., 39, all of Orlando have pleaded no contest in circuit court of Sanford to arson charges and pre-sentence investigations have been ordered.

Assistant State Atty. Claude Van Hook told Circuit Court Judge Volie Williams Jr. when Mullins and Haines entered their pleas Jan. 4, that the three suspects had been in protective custody at their own requests.

Van Hook cited "some fear of the union" as basis of the men's request for protection.

Brundon pleaded no contest to arson charges in the case Jan. 7. Williams had refused to accept the Brundon plea when Mullins and Haines pleaded the weeks before because Brundon's father in Dayton, Ohio, hadn't been notified.

Haines told investigators after his Nov. 14 arrest that he was a member of Orlando plumbers local 803. Officials at that time refused to comment on a possible link with the Air-Flow fire.

However, Air-Flow co-owner Robert Cousineau has told police his air-conditioning firm has had trouble with the union.

Nov. 6, an unexploded six-stick dynamite bomb was found in the front yard of Cousineau's home by his 16-year-old daughter, causing speculation the attempted bombing may have been linked with the Air-Flow fire.

After the bomb was found Cousineau offered a $12,500 reward for information leading to the arrest and conviction of persons responsible for the truck arson or the bombing. Police declined to specify if the arrests of Brundon, Mullins, and Haines resulted from such a tip, saying, "that's Cousineau's business."

Cousineau refused to talk to reporters.

In Longwood Government Williamson Wants Changes

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

LONGWOOD—Sweeping changes in the city government were recommended in rapid succession by Council Chairman E.E. Williamson before a limited audience Thursday night including repeal of the ordinances giving Mayor Eugene Jaques administrative authority and a $10,000 annual salary.

At the end of a one-hour work session, Williamson, earlier in the evening, unanimously elected council chairman, urged council members to consider over the weekend for action.

Weather
Yesterday's high 81 low this morning 63. Partly cloudy and continued warm through Saturday. Chance of showers on Sunday. Highs mostly in the lower 80s today and upper 70s to low 80s Saturday. Lows tonight mostly mid 60s.

Williamson said the city could save money and that one man, apparently Utility Chief Ralph Fisher, could do the combined job. Fisher has been employed by the city for nine years.

Responsibilities and duties of city superintendent were split in mid-1973. Leibenberger has also been under fire recently for insisting his crew could not install drainage pipe.

Williamson also said he will be asking City Atty. Joe Davis to outline procedures for naming a citizen's advisory and budget committee and to eliminate the city court under Article V of the Florida Constitution.

He said his intention is to return the administration of city departments to the city council as it was handled in the past.

Councilman B.H. Ferrell urged that the new councilman give a month's consideration to the proposals.

During the special meeting, Williamson appointed new councilman Donald Schreiner, considered Williamson's protegee, vice chairman.

Williamson's committee appointments included Ferrell and Schreiner, budget and finance; Councilman B.L. Helms and Ferrell, buildings, parks, grounds and cemetery; Councilman June Lorman and Helms, public service (streets, lights, water and sewer) and Schreiner and Mrs. Lorman, police and fire departments.

How About That? Since rocketing off from the Cape less than two months ago, those three astronauts have grown over one inch and reduced their waist lines.

No, I'm not joking. According to official reports they are in good health otherwise.

(Can't you just see how this could expand it into the biggest industry in the U.S.? All of us "little guys" wanting to grow (without those silly high-heeled shoes), and the girls wanting to shed dress size or two as we all orbit up and in, or something like that.)

Don't be surprised the next time you have the occasion of calling in a telegram and at the end when the operator asks where it is to be billed and you say Sanford, look out. "Sanford? Where's that?"

I got even with her and said that I hadn't ever heard of Bridgeton, either. (That's where she said she was working for Western Union and accepting all of the telephoned telegrams.)

Not bad, eh? You send a wire from Florida to New York, and it's detoured through the answering service in Bridgeton, Missouri.

THOUGHT FOR TODAY: Patriotism is the last refuge of a scoundrel—Samuel Johnson, English scholar, 1709-1784.

Pastors Corner Running The Race

By LEO F. KING First United Methodist

Life is ever likened to a race. The race is set before us, measured and staked out by the rules of the game of life.

In our race of life we need God at the starting. "Let us lay aside every weight, and the sin which doth so easily beset us, and let us run with patience..."

We need God also in the steady pace of life. "Let us run with kind of patience that was in Christ. He said: "We must work the works of Him who sent us while it is still day..."

Let us lay aside every weight and the sin which clings so closely and let us run with perseverance the race that is set before us, looking unto Jesus the author and perfecter of our faith."

Understanding God's will for our lives may be a problem, but undertaking His will is our privilege. We are to make full commitment to Him if we are to be victors in this new year God has given us.

Faithful Undaunted By Gasless Sundays

By NICK FAIRO Associated Press Writer

They are the nation's faithful and church leaders say they are flocking to worship services despite gasless Sundays.

At the onset of the energy crisis, some religious leaders feared parishioners would not use costly fuel to go to church.

But an Associated Press sampling of churches in 17 states showed attendance had not been adversely affected in most areas surveyed.

"Since we had gasless Sunday, our attendance has been better," said Rev. Carl Wiediger, pastor of St. John's Lutheran Church in New Britain, Conn.

The Rev. E. D. Robertson of St. Luke's United Methodist Church in Jacksonville, Mo., said figures show a steady rise in attendance since Dec. 2 over the same period last year.

The Rev. Raymond Balcomb, pastor of the First Methodist Church of Portland, Ore., says he's seen no marked change in attendance but is watching closely.

A decrease in attendance was reported in the Maryland suburbs of Washington, D.C.

Local Pastors View Situation

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Church Editor

Local churches report that although "gasless" Sundays have not affected attendance appreciably, rising cost of gasoline, heating oil and electricity have become a concern.

Several reported the time change back to Daylight Savings Time last Sunday hurt attendance particularly in early services.

Making Of The Bible--3 Writing Bible Process Of Centuries

By GEORGE W. CORNELL AP Religion Writer

In the freight of their post-hair tents at night, families recounted their ancestral lore. At watering places along caravan trails, men recalled the epics of generations past.

Just when the telling commenced, no one knows exactly. Just when the misty, primeval stories of the world's origin and of humankind's entry into it began passing by word-of-mouth down the corridors of time remains wrapped in mystery.

It was an extraordinary tale that would never cease to be told. It was the collective memory of an ancient Israelite. Preserved orally at first, it was the beginning of the Bible.

Love Loaf Program Offered To Churches

A new program called the "Love Loaf" has been developed for churches and individuals by World Vision International to enable them to further assist people in crisis areas of the world with food and medicine.

When the program is conducted through a church, Moreshead said, the loaves are given to each family and kept in the home for three months. At that time, loaves are brought to the church, usually at a special service, and broken open by a representative of each family.

Legislation Pending

Campaign Reform To Be Big Issue

WASHINGTON (AP)—Campaign reform is an issue Congress will be facing this year: first at the Capitol, then at the polls. Legislation to control political fund raising and limit campaign spending is on House and Senate agendas. New reform proposals are likely by spring, all in response to the Watergate scandals.

At the same time, political ethics and financing loom as significant issues in the coming congressional election campaign. Public opinion surveys show declining confidence in government. One poll, commissioned by a Senate committee, said that situation has reached crisis proportions.

This comes in a year that will see most House members, and some senators, run for reelection. So in acting on campaign finance bills, they will be dealing with measures likely to affect immediately their own political activities.

So far, the pace of reform has been slow, despite the pressures created by Watergate. The Senate passed a stringent campaign finance bill six months ago and sent it to the House, where it has been in committee ever since. No House action is due before mid-March.

Another measure, to switch from the traditional system of collecting political contributions to one of government-financed federal election campaigns passed the Senate but was rebuffed in the House.

The Nixon administration opposed that plan and a scaled-down version which would have covered presidential campaigns beginning in 1976 was scuttled by a late-session filibuster.

The Senate Rules Committee has promised to come up with a new public finance bill by Feb. 21, but prospects for enactment are uncertain.

The key bill in 1974 is likely to be the final version of the one the Senate passed in July of 1973. It would limit campaign spending to the equivalent of 10 cents for each eligible voter in primaries and 15 cents in general elections.

Those ceilings would cover congressional as well as presidential campaigns.

In addition, the Senate bill would limit contributions so that an individual could give no more than $3,000 to the campaign of a candidate for federal office. An additional $3,000 could be given to the candidate's primary campaign.

Nobody could give more than $25,000 in any year to all candidates for federal office.

Watergate Strategy

Information Limited To Prosecutors

WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Nixon agreed to turn over tapes and documents to the special Watergate prosecutor, it was with the understanding that the prosecutor would give none of the material to congressional committees probing Watergate.

Federal court rules of procedure prohibit giving grand jury evidence to anyone, even a congressional committee, without a court order. But of greater concern to the White House is the possibility that prosecutors might decide not to submit to a grand jury. Such material might be of great interest to the Senate Watergate committee or the impeachment inquiry now underway within the House Judiciary committee.

The White House was determined to prevent either congressional group from obtaining from the prosecutors material the President was determined to withhold.

That understanding was the basis of the White House statement Tuesday night that the prosecutors and grand jury would respect the confidentiality of the ITT and milk fund documents.

Special Watergate prosecutor Leon Jaworski declined to comment on the understanding.

A spokesman read a statement drafted by Jaworski which said, "As a matter of fact, this office has not identified any particular requests it has made of the White House for any kind of documents. Accordingly, no comment at variance with that policy would be appropriate."

John Dear, chief counsel for the House impeachment inquiry, told newsmen Monday he had met twice with Jaworski in an effort to obtain access to material developed by the special prosecutor's staff.

Dear acknowledged there were legal problems involved in material covered by grand jury secrecy rules. He said no agreement had been reached with Jaworski.

Stuck Again

Readers Suffer Postal Rate Hikes

COPIES NEWS

Benjamin Franklin, mindful of the dependence of the people of a fledgling nation on the printed word for education and information, two centuries ago established a policy of low postal rates for periodicals.

And Congress since 1782 has maintained its benevolent view of the publishing industry as a stimulant to the circulation and exchange of new ideas.

But in 1970, in response to public complaints of poor service, Congress passed the Postal Reorganization Act, assuming that businesslike methods would bring new efficiency and corresponding economy to the mail delivery service.

The legislation required that within five years of its effective date — by July 6, 1976 — each class of mail should pay its own way.

The optimism of 1970 has been proved invalid.

Postal service has not improved. Costs have gone up. The public has been asked to share the increased cost burden through higher rates for letters.

But few Americans are aware of the more startling demands made of the publishers of national magazines. Second-class rates under which 30,000 publications operate have risen 57 per cent in three years.

They will be hiked again by an estimated 127 per cent by the 1976 deadline.

Look and Life magazines, faced with probable increases in mailing costs of millions of dollars annually, quietly went out of business in 1971.

The Reader's Digest and its monthly circulation of 18 million persists in the current issue that its bill for postage in 1976 will rise to $16 million from the present level of $7 million.

"Will Congress kill the magazine industry?" the editors ask their readers.

Conceding that their own healthy publication will survive, they see the spiraling postal rates as a death sentence for least robust magazines.

The scheduled increases in postal rates combined with inescapable boosts in the costs of paper and printing, if passed along to subscribers, would create, in the words of a spokesman for Time magazine, "a magazine industry for the affluent only."

The Cost of Living Council, in ordering delays in postal rate boosts scheduled for Jan. 1, has given Congress a chance to reassess its mandate to the Postal Service.

The federal rate subsidy to publishers in 1973 amounted to $190 million — about the same support given to rice farmers.

The level should be maintained for the benefit of readers who look to the national magazines to supplement their communications media as sources of mental stimulation.

revelations from inevitably filtering back to the Russian public, among whom exist thousands of survivors of Stalin-era terror longing for some kind of justice, and how to punish Solzhenitsyn without arousing an outcry in the outside world and causing repercussions that could adversely affect the U.S.-Soviet detente.

It is — again to speak in wholly inadequate terms — reminiscent of the Pentagon Papers affair in this country. While the Nixon administration had nothing to do with the initial involvement in Vietnam and the papers held little that reflected on it and much that was already on the public record, it fell it necessary to attempt to squelch their publication in the interests of "national security," and, in so doing took extra-legal steps that proved much more disastrous than the publication itself.

There, of course, the comparison ends. The present Soviet leaders are the direct heirs of one of the most vicious tyrannies the world has ever seen, a tyranny which fed on its own children and, in a generation, consumed millions of people to death, torture or brutal imprisonment.

Even though it may have abolished some of the worst aspects of that tyranny, for the Kremlin now to permit its victims to come forward and tell the whole story, to permit trials of the officials involved, some of whom still hold positions of authority, would be to shake the Soviet Union to its very foundations.

U.S. Oil Combine Pushed

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON—Locked in the files of Aramco, intended for the eyes only of its top executives, is evidence that the giant U.S. oil combine encouraged Saudi Arabia to increase oil prices. According to the secret paperwork, Aramco calculated that a price increase would boost its "rate of return." So the company, fearing nationalization of its Saudi oil works "well before 1980," and wishing to squeeze out more profits before the takeover, pressed quietly for higher prices.

The cost of crude has shot up 470 per cent over the past year. This has caused economic shock waves throughout the industrial world and could precipitate a worldwide depression.

The Aramco documents show that the corporate controllers were uneasy over the size of the increase and, belatedly, began to worry about the world reaction.

Likely, too, the Persian Gulf countries would have raised prices without any behind-the-scenes encouragement from Aramco. Still, the company deserves a measure of blame for the Great Price Squeeze.

Aramco, known more formally as the Arabian-American Oil Company, is a consortium of four U.S. corporations—Exxon, Amoco, Mobil and Texaco. Together, they own the fabulously rich oil fields in Saudi Arabia.

As surely as oil is the lifeblood of the West, the Saudi development is the jugular vein.

We have now been given a peek behind the corporate curtain, which for years has concealed the Saudi oil story. We happen to believe that the truth about the oil crisis is a journalistic challenge every bit as important as Watergate. Not only the press but the government itself has had to depend upon the oil companies for information about the dimensions of the crisis.

Now, we have developed our own sources inside Aramco who have access to its most secret files. Admittedly, they have been able to give us only a limited view into the backrooms of the great oil consortium. Many of the documents are also highly technical and, therefore, difficult for laymen to understand.

To protect our sources, we have agreed not to quote directly from the documents. We read carefully selected excerpts to an Aramco spokesman, who disputed the contents. "A lot of people within the company write memos," he said. "This doesn't mean everything that is written is correct."

Nevertheless, the confidential memos, supported by tables giving the "rate of return" at various price levels, show that the company early last year was quietly agitating for higher prices.

The documents also show that the company later became alarmed over the greed of the oil producers. In fairness, the press for extortionary prices came more from Saudi Arabia's neighbors than from the Saudis.

Aramco sent a delegation, headed by George Piercey, a senior Exxon vice president, to urge Saudi Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani last fall to hold down the price demands. "We were trying," an Aramco spokesman told us, quite accurately, "to keep prices from going crazy."

But Aramco's only concern, judging from the documents, was to prevent political repercussions in the West. Earlier, the company had helped to stimulate a price increase.

The production costs for a 42-gallon barrel of Saudi oil averages only a trifling 12 cents. In contrast, the posted price finally hit $11.65 a barrel on January 1. This is a fictitious price, which the oil nations use to calculate taxes and royalties. The actual price for a barrel of crude, upon arrival in America, is closer to nine dollars.

Aramco's confidential price-and-profit tables are based on complex calculations. But they can be reduced to this simplicity: The company winds up with a percentage of the price rise. Therefore, the higher the prices, the higher are Aramco's profits.

One reason for this is that the company can charge off the royalties and taxes it pays to Saudi Arabia, dollar for dollar, against its U.S. taxes. This lovely loophole leaves the four members of the consortium with a U.S. tax debt next to nothing.

In 1973, Exxon, with a 6.5 per cent tax rate, paid the most. Mobil paid only 1.3 per cent; Standard of California, 2.95; and Texaco, 1.7. Other U.S. corporations pay around 50 per cent.

Now, Saudi Arabia has increased Aramco's tax benefits by raising the royalties from about three dollars to seven dollars per barrel.

The confidential tables also indicate that Aramco gets a pay-back from Saudi Arabia for its technical help in developing new industries, such as salt production. The tables aren't clear, but it appears that the proportion of the pay-back increases as the price of oil goes up.

In short, the secret documents reveal that the four Aramco partners are making a profit off the price increase. Only their customers are hurting.

Footnote: The documents show that Aramco is changing its economic base. Because the Saudis are expected to take over the oil at the well-head, the company is preparing to take its profits from refining and marketing. In the past, it has been the other way around.

Florida News Briefs

Askew: Taxes Unfair
HOLLYWOOD, Fla. (AP) — Gov. Reubin Askew says it would be unfair to compound the economic problems faced by Floridians by adding new state spending and taxes.

"If we are asking the citizens of this state to slow down and cut back and give up certain things, state government has every obligation to share the shortages and taste the austerity as well," Askew said Thursday night.

Askew, who has told state agency chiefs last week he wants a "bare bones budget" this year, said Florida's government "appears to be in good shape for what looks like an uncertain economic future."

Drugs Seized
FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — An estimated $500,000 worth of uncultured heroin and about $13,500 worth of cocaine was confiscated from a Fort Lauderdale home Thursday and three persons arrested.

Plantation police and Broward County deputies seized the drugs and 20 stolen television sets and stereo units, seven rifles, one shotgun and two revolvers, deputies said.

Arrested were Frank Devoe, 37, and Pamela Hickland, 20, both of Fort Lauderdale; and Andrea Weisz, 19, of Hollywood. They were charged with possession of heroin, cocaine and stolen property, deputies said.

Doctor Murdered
MIAMI (AP) — The bound and gagged body of a young Spanish doctor, described as "an absolutely first-class human being" by a fellow physician, has been found by police.

After a plea for blood for Kelly was issued last September, thousands of airmen and civilians from Homestead Air Force Base traveled to Miami to make donations.

Pettigrew Seeks Senate Seat In Good-Government Campaign

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — State Sen. Richard Pettigrew, D-Miami, nearly four hours late to his U.S. Senate campaign kickoff, is running on a good-government appeal he hopes will ring timely with voters inundated by the Watergate scandals.

Pettigrew appeared Thursday before the golden seal adorning the state Senate chamber in a carefully orchestrated announcement for the Senate seat held by Sen. Edward Gurney, R-Fla.

Secretary of State Richard Stone and Rep. Bill Gunter, D-Fla., are expected to enter the Senate race next week.

Burlin Young of Miami, former Florida Bar president, announced Wednesday.

Pettigrew, 43, focused on the "overriding question facing us all—how can we restore public confidence in the political process?"

He attacked "failures of leadership." While we have demanded impeccable honesty in key leadership posts, we have found moral neutrality and worse.

The former House speaker, who has served 10 years in the legislature, outlined this program to restore public confidence to the state government.

—Refusing to attend secret congressional committee meetings unless national security issues were involved.

—Requiring every member of Congress and the President to disclose annual net worth statements and income tax returns.

—Adopting tough conflict of interest laws "to prevent special interest groups from infiltrating and manipulating public regulatory agencies which are supposed to be regulating them."

—Imposing strict controls on lobbyists which would prohibit them from giving trips and other rewards to congressmen.

—Enacting tough laws to eliminate the greening of congressional and presidential campaigns by special interests. He said campaigns should be financed with public funds.

Disney Cuts Back Employees

ORLANDO, Fla. (AP) — Walt Disney World, a major Florida tourist attraction, says it is reducing its workforce by 1,700 because of declining attendance in the energy crisis and normal post-holiday cut-backs.

Disney officials said Thursday that by the end of the week 700 full-time employees will be laid off. Another 1,000, mostly college students hired for a few weeks during the Christmas season, also have been let go.

Between Dec. 15 and Jan. 6 attendance fell off 8.9 per cent at the sprawling, 500-million-acre center, the spokesman said.

Cutbacks, decreased attendance throughout the magic kingdom park and hotel complex, include understaffing for some of the legendary Disney characters.

"We will have changes in some of our average-sized characters like Pluto, but certainly not in the small-sized Mickey and Minnie Mouse characters," the Disney official said.

Tom Graves, head of entertainment, said the layoffs would affect only character backups. Instead of having perhaps three employees to portray a certain character, there might be just two. Also, he said, actors would be taking turns at posing as different characters.

Life Battle Ends
MIAMI (AP) — Six-year-old Kelly Jo Capachione, whose battle for life attracted donations of money and blood from hundreds of Floridians, has died of leukemia.

Mrs. Anthony Capachione of Fort Lauderdale said her daughter died Thursday at Variety Children's Hospital in Miami.

After a plea for blood for Kelly was issued last September, thousands of airmen and civilians from Homestead Air Force Base traveled to Miami to make donations.

Jax Crash Kills Indiana Officials
JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — The director of Indiana's Department of Commerce and three other prominent Indianapolis men have been killed and two injured in the crash of a six-engine jetliner, the plane carrying Jacksonville International Airport police say.

Officers said killed in the Thursday crash were Robert C. Morris, 38, the commerce director and Indiana's energy chief; Charles D. Greene, an attorney and the plane's pilot; his brother, William R. Greene, captain of the homicide division of the Indianapolis police force; and attorney John F. Wolf, who piloted in a 1971 led to be elected mayor of Indianapolis. Reported in critical condition early today were Kent S. Arvin and Ronald S. Lieber, both Indianapolis attorneys.

The crash, which police said ended a pleasure trip for the six, came as Charles Greene tried to make an emergency landing in a dairy pasture but crashed into a heavy wooden cow feeding trough.

"That trough killed them," said an investigating policeman. "If he hadn't hit that trough, he could have made it."

A spokesman for the Federal Aviation Administration said that shortly after the Beechcraft Queen Air took off, the pilot told the tower that one of his engines was sputtering and that the plane was in a nosedown position.

The FAA said the aircraft is registered to Interstate Auto and Airway Parts Co. of Indianapolis.

PSC Delays Ad Decision

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP) — He never consulted the body's third member and his only Republican, Paula Hawkins, who was seated to his right.

"I'll just mean another delay," said Mrs. Hawkins. She voted back in September to change the rule but the other two commissioners decided their hearings were needed.

Gas and electric companies testified last month and five telephone companies presented their arguments Thursday. The proposal, which would forbid the utilities to include advertising costs in their charges to customers, was first proposed on Sept. 12, 1973.

It gained new life last July when the PSC staff said that with the energy shortage, it might not be good to have utilities encouraging their customers to use energy.

The telephone companies apparently are coming because they put into evidence news articles of statements and speeches by the commissioners supporting the proposed rule.

Regents Appoint Marston UF Prexy

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — The state Board of Regents today unanimously approved the appointment of Dr. Robert O. Marston as president of the University of Florida.

Marston, who will be 50 next month, has served as dean of the University of Mississippi Medical School, director of the National Institute of Health and is currently Scholar in Residence at the University of Virginia.

The board called him "a celebrated surgeon, gifted administrator and a delightful gentleman."

The board also appointed Dr. E. T. York of Gainesville to be chancellor-designate to replace Robert Mautz, who will retire in 1975.

Criser, the incoming chairman of the regents, recommended York's appointment be made effective this summer. "Though it is one and a half years away, it's my opinion the board should take action on a successor," Criser told the nine-member board.

 To Russia a terrible justice is due

A scandal like Watergate could never happen in the Soviet Union — happen and be exposed to an indignant public, that is.

For one thing, it requires rival political parties. An independent judiciary and legislative branch and a long tradition of adherence to the rule of law are essential ingredients. Not least of all, it demands a free and alert press. None of these things have the Russian people ever enjoyed, either under the czars or the commissars.

The Kremlin might well wish that a "Watergate" was all that it had to contend with, however. A scandal of such monumental dimensions that the word is a pitifully inadequate label, a scandal long festering beneath the surface of Soviet life, has broken into the open with the publication in Paris of a new book by Nobel laureate Alexander I. Solzhenitsyn. It makes Watergate look like a harmless cabal among kindergarten teachers.

The revelations and indictments contained in Solzhenitsyn's "The Gulag Archipelago, 1918-1956," go beyond those he has already written about in his other, more fictional books based on his 11 years' experience as a political prisoner and exile, such as "One Day in the Life of Ivan Denisovich."

In his new book, which may be his crowning life's work, Solzhenitsyn names real names of those involved, both as victims and as authorities, in the Gulag — Joseph Stalin's labor camp network.

The Kremlin faces a double dilemma. How to prevent the Community Support Is Needed

The Little Red School House needs $2,000 fast. "The money is urgently needed to finish paying for three mobile units and related services necessary to open even a skeleton program at the school's new location," said Christine Jones, school director.

Mrs. Jones added that people from all areas of Seminole County have already responded with cash, pledges, and stock, totaling $12,000. "A nice contribution even came from Orange County." But more, much more, must quickly accrue in the depleted coffers of the Seminole County Association for Retarded Children. Only after the total reaches to $20,000 can the school staff assure the parents of continued help for their children.

Pledges may be telephoned to any of the following SCAR officers: Christine Jones-331-3211, Dennis Dolger-331-4411, John Morris-322-4396, and Willie Dixon-322-4211. The deadline for moving is only weeks away. A lease with the United First Methodist Church in Casselberry has expired. The school's new site — land adjacent to and owned by Elder Springs Baptist Church near Five Points — is ready and waiting for the portable units to be housed in classrooms and offices. Arrangements have been made to dig septic tanks and run power and telephone lines.

An order for two mobile units, 12 feet by 70 feet, has been placed. The order for the third unit is mandatory to put sufficient roof over the heads of all who will participate in the curricular program. "Now we are hoping that the people will respond to this urgent plea for funds," Mrs. Jones said. She noted that all portable units can eventually be moved to a permanent site. She stressed that while the school's operating funds of $187,000 come from governmental sources, there is no provision for capital outlay for buildings. Therefore, it is mandatory that the portable units be funded through private donations.

Mrs. Jones suggested that it is right and proper for all the people of the county to support the school. The children are transported from all areas of the county in school vehicles — approximately 40 per cent coming from Sanford area, 40 per cent from Ovidio area, and 20 per cent from Altamonte Springs and other areas.

The school, which is open all year, provides 6 hours of daily training in language development, physical development, and practical arts. An instructional staff of 16 (13 having college degrees) permits a favorable pupil-teacher ratio in meeting the individual needs of each child. Mrs. Jones says the stimulation afforded by such training helps the child to reach his maximum intellectual potential as well as to cope early with any handicaps in his physical development.

Beginning in October, 1972, 273 Seminole County Children have been given psychological screening at the school. Of this number, 144 have been admitted to the program. Retarded children from birth to age 13 are accepted if they qualify. Children of school age are accepted in the event the public school system has no suitable program for them and excludes them for such a reason.

Dowell Quits As Police Chief; Jaques Resigns City Post

LONGWOOD—Mayor Eugene Jaques announced his resignation as the city's administrative officer Thursday night "effective immediately," said Police Chief Wesley Dowell has also resigned effective Jan. 31.

City Atty. Joe Davis was not available for comment today on whether Jaques under an ordinance adopted last April can resign as administrator.

The ordinance states, "The mayor shall be the chief executive and administrative officer of the city."

Jaques verbal resignation was submitted, immediately after Council Chairman E.E. Williamson Thursday night recommended council action at Monday night's meeting, to repeal the administrator ordinance and Jaques' salary.

Jaques said he intends to continue as mayor for the balance of his term this year and may run for re-election in December.

Dowell said today he resigned "for personal reasons" and has plans he is not at liberty to reveal at this time.

"The December election did influence my decision," he said, adding this was not the reason he was leaving the chief's post he has held for the past year.

Dowell was with the police department a little more than five years, working his way up through the ranks. Prior to becoming a fulltime officer, he was a member of the city's police reserve.

Dowell is a personal friend of both Bill Klosky and Dick Crenshaw, who were defeated in last month's election by June Lormann and Don Schreiner, named police commissioners by Williamson Thursday night.

Jaques was given administrative powers in an ordinance adopted by the city council last April and his $5,000 salary as administrator was approved to $10,000 in September.

Dowell said he will recommend a replacement, Police Lt. John Govorukh, who also resigned to accept the Winter Springs police chief position and will be sworn in by Mayor Roy McClain at 4 this afternoon.

Police said the bandit escaped in a dark green small car.

The robber told the clerk to put her hands on her head, deputies said. He then turned to the people in the store and said, "Don't anybody move or I'll kill somebody," officers said.

The gunman cleaned out the cash drawer, called the clerk by her name and said "come with me," police reported.

The gunman headed the girl to the produce room where the assistant manager approached the pair. The robber called him by name and ordered him to come to the produce room also, police said.

Reaching the back room, the bandit, with a bag of money in hand, fled out the back door and jumped into a car, deputies said.

Sanford phased out its city court a year ago to aid the county in gaining a second county judge.

Longwood this year anticipates some $79,357 in fines and forfeitures from the court which normally handles 450 cases monthly in weekly sessions at 5:30 on Tuesdays in the council chamber at city hall.

Williamson has asked that city court begin procedures to be outlined by City Atty. Joe Davis Monday night in phasing out the city court system.

Layer Tells PTA Rezoning Reasons

By JANE CASSELBERRY Herald Staff Writer

A beleaguered superintendent of Seminole County schools faced a large audience of upset parents and students at Lyman High School auditorium Thursday night. W.P. (Bud) Layer remained unruffled as he fielded angry questions on the controversial new school zoning for high school students in South Seminole.

Speaking at the Lyman Parent-Teacher-Student Association meeting, Layer passed the blame for school problems on to other city and county officials.

"Put the pressure on those who issue building permits," he said. "A planned program of rezoning should have been scheduled until November and that money would have already budgeted for this year and next year."

Students spoke emotionally about the effect of being continually changed from school to school and especially the disruptive effect of being moved the last years of high school.

Student Body President Jim Philpitt expressed the fear Lyman might lose its Class A standing and go down in caliber as a result of losing so many students.

Layer said he thought next year's seniors in the areas affected would be allowed to stay at Lyman, but would probably have to provide "their own transportation."

Final decision will be made by the school board Jan. 23 when it meets at Lyman. Principal Carlton Henley suggested seats would be at a premium at that time.

Layer rejected suggestions that the money for the new facility might better be used to expand the three existing high schools, saying construction of the Lake Howell school was approved specifically by the taxpayers in the March 13, 1973 referendum.

growth must be established by county and city governments before we can solve school problems. I am not against growth, but we cannot afford the type of growth experienced in the last three years in the next three years," he said.

Proposed rezoning would reshuffle students from Lyman as well as Lake Brantley with Lyman students west of I-792 being switched to Ovidio High School. These students would be on double sessions next year at Ovidio.

Layer told the group groundbreaking for the $3 million Lake Howell facility will be held in February with completion scheduled in time for school opening in September, 1975.

Parents objected to the fact distance of Lyman will be based over 10 miles to attend Ovidio High, questioning the logic of this action in light of the current energy crisis.

Layer rejected suggestions that the money for the new facility might better be used to expand the three existing high schools, saying construction of the Lake Howell school was approved specifically by the taxpayers in the March 13, 1973 referendum.

Layer would be morally and legally wrong for the disrupting effect of being moved the last years of high school at this time," he stated.

He added that any changes would require a school survey and the next one is scheduled until November and that money would have already budgeted for this year and next year.

Hubby passes honesty, flunks common sense

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for 10 years and have two children. My life is my husband, home and family, but I know that my husband isn't as turned on sexually with me as he should be. I have to make all the advances.

Lately, he shocked me by telling me that when we make love, he has fantasies about Sylvia—the girl he went with all thru college. He says that's the only thing that turns him on. I feel hurt knowing he has to think of another girl to get something out of making love to me.

I've never had sex with anyone except my husband and I wouldn't want to have. I feel somehow that he is being "disloyal" to me, if not in actuality, in his thoughts. I also feel if Sylvia were to become available, he would have an affair with her.

Sometimes I wish he weren't so honest. I am so confused, I need someone to explain this whole thing to me. Please try.

DEAR NOT: Almost everyone has fantasies. They are an important part of lovemaking. But it's unkind and unwise to disclose fantasies which are hurtful. Your husband may rate an "A" in honesty, but he flunks "common sense."

DEAR ABBY: I am 21 and my husband is 36. We've been married for two years and have a 3-month-old boy. When the baby was only a month old I had trouble with my nerves, so Children's Service took him from us. They still have him, and I'm still being treated for my nerves.

I hate to say this, but I'm afraid if the baby comes back it is going to interfere with our life. Every time we want to go somewhere we have to worry about getting a baby sitter, and baby sitters don't come cheap.

Besides, we just bought a new mobile home, and the expense of this plus caring for the baby just don't fit our budget.

Maybe I'm not ready to settle down yet. I feel terrible telling you all this, but you said, "if you have a problem, you'll feel better if you get it off your chest," so I did. Can you help me?

DEAR FEELS: Don't make any decisions now. When you have finished with your treatment, you may feel entirely different. God bless you.

Cook Efficiently To Save Energy
NEW YORK (AP) — How can the American woman help conserve fuel energy these days when preparing a meal?

Combine vegetables in a large pan, rather than having three separate pots boiling away on the stove. Experts say the amount of time spent at the range can be reduced, fuel bills lowered and energy saved at the same time.

Boiled one-container dishes who prepare meals for visitors are often less expensive and more beautiful, the chefs added. A bit of ham with onions puts all points together. A cold buffet once a week, or a salad made of leftovers such as cubed meat and cold vegetables can also save time and energy.

Make larger quantities at one time and freeze the remainder for another meal, the experts added. The chefs said proper utensils are essential, such as pans that can be put to multiple uses.

W. Springs Asks Ruling On Lawsuit

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

WINTER SPRINGS—City council Wednesday night for the second time in three days unanimously requested an attorney general opinion — this time on whether Councilman Irene Van Eppel, a principal in a lawsuit against the city, can vote on any matter related to Florida Land Co.'s development of the Terraces.

Mrs. Van Eppel's court action contends the city improperly reduced lot size requirements for Florida Land in violation of deed restrictions.

Wednesday night she voted against a motion approving a replat and engineering drawings for the Terraces, sections 7 and 10, unit 2, insisting the company ignored the city council by beginning site drainage work before plans were formally approved by the board.

She also questioned the legality of the development company closing a lane of the city street while the work was being done. City Atty. Tom Freeman agreed that no one can close a street or part of it.

Freeman said although no action has been taken by the court in Mrs. Van Eppel's lawsuit, it is still pending in the court.

Council approved a policy land developers to delay all site work until formal city approval is given.

City Eyes PUDs

A closer eye to requests for zoning changes in annexed areas should be given in the future, Freeman said. Charles Kelley, zoning board chairman, noted more than 50 per cent of the city's land now is zoned for planned unit development (PUD) and Freeman said developers "hide" apartment development behind PUD zoning.

A true PUD, Freeman said, is one with a mixture of housing types. Noting the city would find it difficult to defend in court if 75 per cent of its territory were in apartment development, the attorney said nevertheless there is no legislative or judicial requirement setting percentages of various zonings.

But Freeman said, council ordered a letter sent to Clayton Realty informing that additional information is necessary before a petition for annexation of the northwest corner of Red Bug and Tusawnee roads can be considered.

A zoning board member said no proof was given that the parcel is contiguous, noting Clayton representative said the land adjoins the Hattaway property which has not been annexed.

Planning Council

Piland urged the board to give serious consideration to becoming planning council members, pointing out city representatives to have voting rights at the ECFRC annual meeting may have membership applications submitted by Monday. No action was taken. He also recommended that the city retain its membership in the CALAO Council of Local Governments, an organization of five of Seminole's seven cities.

Piland said planning council membership would cost Winter Springs $2,500 initiation fee and $1,000 annual dues.

Blackburn Draws State Jail Term

Mason immediately filed motions for delaying the judgment, a new trial, and an appeal, with Williams denying the first, agreeing to hear pleas for a new trial next week, and asking the appeal motion be delayed until the new trial question is settled.

In a dramatic plea for judicial leniency prior to the open court appearance, Blackburn personally explained to Williams details of his 22-year federal gambling conviction, and said he will be technically eligible for parole in November of this year.

Saying he would never have pleaded guilty in the complicated, multi-county consolidated federal charges if he had known the present trial would be held, Blackburn said the federal judge sentencing him did not intend he should spend the rest of his life in jail.

"I thought I was clearing up all my debts to society when I made that plea," Blackburn told Williams.

Federal Judge Gerald Tjoflat called Blackburn the "master of his own destiny," and said he would be allowed to return to society if he rehabilitated himself, Blackburn explained.

"I would hate to have done well enough for parole in the federal system . . . only to swap penitentiaries," Blackburn told the closed door pre-sentencing conference.

The week-long trial came to an end at 5:15 p.m., Thursday when the jury returned its required unanimous verdict.

The jury found Blackburn guilty of assault with intent to commit murder after hearing Blackburn's ex-girlfriend, and his former bookmaker, the him with Cagnina.

The star witness in the third trial involving the same participants was Lee — who told the jury he was shot on March 19, 1971, and again in a Seminole County phone booth June 11, 1971 by Cagnina.

The crucial link in the state's case was provided by Beverly Matthews, Blackburn's ex-girlfriend, and Laura Mae Adcock, Lee's sister, who each testified Blackburn indicated he hired Cagnina.

Wednesday, Blackburn stunned the court by taking the stand and apparently contradicting his attorney's efforts to discredit the woman's testimony, saying both told the truth as they understood it.

Blackburn said he did not believe the March 19 attempt was true, but that he had been on the phone with Lee June 11.

BLACKBURN (DARK SUIT), CHATS WITH OFFICIALS . . . Solemn after jury ruled he was guilty (Herald Photo by Cindy Flanders)

Blackburn Angered By His Guilty Verdict

"I didn't get any pleasure out of it, I can tell you!" Blackburn ended what most present Wednesday considered to be a masterful performance by stepping from the witness stand, then quickly turning to Circuit Judge Yoite Williams and asking "Am I excused, Your Honor?"

"Yes," Williams replied, as he had to all other witnesses. "But I can't go home, though, can I?" Blackburn asked with a broad smile on his face as Williams, the jury, and spectators in the crowded courtroom broke into laughter.

The perhaps calculated good spirits were displayed all week by Blackburn, who earlier convulsed his defense attorney and a U.S. Marshal while walking down the hall for a drink of water with a hoarse, stage-whispered, "Is this when I run for it?"

But all was not a joking matter for the man who faces the prospect of spending the rest of his life behind bars — a life which has seen him face charges of one sort or another for nearly 30 years.

President Truman "began" Blackburn's lifetime struggle against the courts by pardoning him for cattle rustling in late 1949's, and a succession of lawyers managed to keep him one step ahead of the law until the past few years, when the determination of Orlando Osceola State Atty. Bob Egan resulted in a 22-year gambling conviction.

Thursday, Blackburn ran through the state's case and his defense with little attempt at humor, explaining to the Herald why he said some things, and what he thought about others.

Fully aware of the state's burden of proof, Blackburn outlined the steps the closed jury was even then taking, first deciding that despite the findings of a Titusville jury last month, Sam Cagnina shot Clyde Lee, and that Blackburn hired Cagnina.

The prosecution this time claimed new evidence in the form of previously withheld telephone logs, but Blackburn ridiculed the state, telling his family "tell you what, I'll call the governor — just dial his number, get it on the record — I won't have to talk to him. Boy, I could get any politician hung up evidence like that."

On Lee's testimony, Blackburn repeated his charge Lee lied about a March 19 shooting incident allegedly set up by Blackburn.

"I just got caught in the middle of a domestic squabble between Clyde and his people, that's all. I'm like the policeman who goes to answer a family fight and end up getting clubbed."

Also disputed, but not violently, was the testimony of his former girlfriend, Beverly Matthews, and Lee's sister, Laura Mae Adcock.

"Hell, I couldn't go up on the stand and call them liars, and anyway, 'lies' are often just a difference of opinion sometimes. I knew the wrongs they were saying were things, and I felt I had to testify so the jury would feel some 'reasonable doubt' over their testimony."

He repeated his sarcastic reference to the state's witnesses as a "traveling road show," noting the trials in Jacksonville, Tampa, and Titusville prior to this week's effort in Sanford.

"I'll tell you, if they want to pay me $500 a month and a free (Willie Box, Blackburn's former bookmaker) and a chief prosecution witness making him with Cagnina and the attempted murder weapon! I'll go anywhere to say anything!"

"I don't know anything about anybody, of course, but they (the prosecution) have got good teachers," Blackburn said with a rueful laugh.

At 5:15 p.m. the jury returned.

Guilty, so say we all, declared each member of the three-man, three-woman jury after an individual poll was demanded by Cheney Mason, the court-appointed special public defender who spent seven months preparing Blackburn's defense against charges he hired Cagnina to shoot Lee.

Blackburn's face twitched violently, but he remained otherwise motionless, the smile and air of detached amusement he had for the past days gone, as were his hopes of early parole on his 22-year federal gambling conviction.

Mason, his hopes for immediate fame as the areas' ace defense attorney shattered for the time being, hung his head in his hands, his young wife's shock mirrored on the faces of Blackburn's wife and daughters, sitting behind the defense table.

About Herring, seated across the aisle at the prosecution table, smiled quietly as his chief investigator, Jack Fulenwider, leaned over a desk and whispered "Congratulations, you've just proven Cagnina shot Lee."

Herring nodded, some of the bitterness of the loss of Cagnina's trial in Titusville for the moment, even though Cagnina will not be tried again because of the constitutional protection against double jeopardy.

Blackburn Angered By His Guilty Verdict

"I didn't get any pleasure out of it, I can tell you!" Blackburn ended what most present Wednesday considered to be a masterful performance by stepping from the witness stand, then quickly turning to Circuit Judge Yoite Williams and asking "Am I excused, Your Honor?"

"Yes," Williams replied, as he had to all other witnesses. "But I can't go home, though, can I?" Blackburn asked with a broad smile on his face as Williams, the jury, and spectators in the crowded courtroom broke into laughter.

The perhaps calculated good spirits were displayed all week by Blackburn, who earlier convulsed his defense attorney and a U.S. Marshal while walking down the hall for a drink of water with a hoarse, stage-whispered, "Is this when I run for it?"

But all was not a joking matter for the man who faces the prospect of spending the rest of his life behind bars — a life which has seen him face charges of one sort or another for nearly 30 years.

President Truman "began" Blackburn's lifetime struggle against the courts by pardoning him for cattle rustling in late 1949's, and a succession of lawyers managed to keep him one step ahead of the law until the past few years, when the determination of Orlando Osceola State Atty. Bob Egan resulted in a 22-year gambling conviction.

Thursday, Blackburn ran through the state's case and his defense with little attempt at humor, explaining to the Herald why he said some things, and what he thought about others.

Fully aware of the state's burden of proof, Blackburn outlined the steps the closed jury was even then taking, first deciding that despite the findings of a Titusville jury last month, Sam Cagnina shot Clyde Lee, and that Blackburn hired Cagnina.

The prosecution this time claimed new evidence in the form of previously withheld telephone logs, but Blackburn ridiculed the state, telling his family "tell you what, I'll call the governor — just dial his number, get it on the record — I won't have to talk to him. Boy, I could get any politician hung up evidence like that."

Steelworkers Push For More Pay

WASHINGTON (AP) — Leaders of the United Steelworkers union indicate they will disregard government guidelines and seek major wage increases to offset inflation in upcoming steel industry contract talks.

Bargaining with the nation's 10 largest steel producers begins Jan. 30, and USW President I.W. Abel said he regards a 3 per cent guaranteed annual wage increase as only an opener.

Mason, anger at the jury's verdict, hopes for immediate fame as the areas' ace defense attorney shattered for the time being, hung his head in his hands, his young wife's shock mirrored on the faces of Blackburn's wife and daughters, sitting behind the defense table.

The current contract covering 206,000 steelworkers runs out Aug. 1. But last year, the USW signed an "Experimental Negotiating Agreement" with the steel industry giving up its right to a national strike in return for arbitration on unresolved issues and a 3 per cent guaranteed annual wage increase. The agreement is intended to prevent the stockpiling of steel and the resulting layoffs of thousands of steelworkers that marked past negotiations.

National News Briefs

Man Kills Self, Witnesses

DOVER, Del. (AP) — A man who police say murdered four persons in a shooting spree across this state was systematically killing witnesses against him in a drug case, a state official said. Ronald W. Hoffer, 30, was to face a probation hearing Friday in a drug-related case which could have ended in a prison sentence. He also died in the spree of violence Thursday, and police said they believed he had shot himself in the head after his car spun out of control at the end of a high-speed police chase.

Skylab In Ninth Week

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts today began their ninth week in orbit, approaching a space endurance record. They got a green light to become history's longest space travelers when officials on Thursday said they were "go" for at least seven more days. At 9:19 p.m. EDT Monday, Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson will pass the mark of 59 days, 11 hours and 9 minutes, set last September by the Skylab 2 crew. The officials see no reason why the Skylab 3 crew can't complete the full 84-day mission, but for the last four weeks they want to make go-ahead decisions a week at a time.

Jury Calls Kent Victims

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A federal grand jury probing the 1970 Kent State University shootings has called students who were wounded in the confrontation to the witness stand. Donald S. MacKenzie, 25, who was shot in the neck as he ran from National Guardsmen, appeared before the panel Thursday and said he was told to return today, "I don't want to talk about it," was all MacKenzie would say to newsmen following Thursday's session. Two other students wounded in the May 4, 1970, shootings told newsmen they were subpoenaed to testify and were told to come back today. They were John R. Cleary, 22, of Scotia, N.Y., and Alan Canfara.

Bread Cost 'Expanding'

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department says rising middleman costs, not record farm prices for wheat, have accounted for most bread price increases since the 1972 wheat sale to Russia. The department said the increase between July 1972 and last November was seven cents to an average cost of 31.5 cents per one-pound loaf.

Controls May Expire

WASHINGTON (AP) — The director of the Cost of Living Council says the Nixon administration probably will decide within the next few years whether it will ask Congress for authority to continue wage and price controls beyond April. George T. Dunlop told The Associated Press that there is a question whether public opinion and congressional sentiment will permit ending the controls.

Crosby Satisfactory

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Singer Bing Crosby, in satisfactory condition at a hospital here, is suffering from pneumonia that has caused an abscess in his left lung, his doctor says.

'Hee Haw' Star Acquitted

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Junior Samples, star of the TV's "Hee Haw" show, has been acquitted of battery charges brought by a woman who claimed she was hit while trying to introduce a friend to Samples.

Peace Eludes North Ireland; Faulkner Repudiated by Party

BELFAST, Northern Ireland (AP) — Britain's program for peace in Northern Ireland has run into another setback less than two weeks after it seemed to start getting off the ground.

Brian Faulkner, the Protestant chief of Ulster's first Protestant-Roman Catholic coalition government, has been repudiated by a small majority of the leaders of his Unionist party. He is going to the rank and file for support, a move that could split the Protestant faction that ruled the province for 50 years.

Ratification of the agreement for a Council of Ireland bringing the North and the Irish Republic together for very limited cooperation is likely to be postponed.

Faulkner, 52, quit Monday as leader of the Unionists after the party council voted 457 to 374 against the Council of Ireland. The outcome was a victory for hardliners who oppose sharing power with the Catholics.

Faulkner moved into new offices on Belfast's bomb-battered Fleet Street and said he would build a new political base among the moderate members of the party. He vowed to remain at the head of the new coalition government, known as the Northern Irish Executive, which began operating Jan. 1.

Faulkner kept the support of 18 of his original 20 Unionist supporters in the new provincial Assembly, which resumes sessions Jan. 22. With the support of 27 members of the Catholic-Socialist Democratic and Labor party and the non-sectarian Alliance party, the coalition will have a majority of 14 seats over 32 other Unionists.

WHAT ENERGY CRISIS?

Hints Negotiation Ford Enters Tape Fight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vice President Gerald R. Ford says the White House may be willing to release some of the 500 tapes and documents demanded by the Senate Watergate Committee.

In an interview, he said he received support for his proposal for complete efforts in a telephone conversation with White House Chief of Staff Alexander M. Haig Jr.

"They're willing to sit down and negotiate, as I understand it," Ford said. He said the White House has given its support to the compromise proposal he made last weekend.

Committee Chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C., has said he is willing to compromise on the subpoenaed tapes and documents.

Ford said he thinks the White House is willing to "release tapes and other material on a selected basis where the information falls within the jurisdiction of that committee."

On other subjects in the 40-minute interview, Ford said: —He called for early action on measures to curb windfall profits by energy-related industries, set up an energy research program and establish a permanent energy agency.

—He believes "there are some areas where the President will achieve, including a Middle East breakthrough, that will make him by September a very helpful campaigner" for Republicans.

—He has made no change in his announced intention not to be a 1976 presidential candidate but, when asked about the impact of continued high ratings in polls, said "We'll analyze the situation as we go along."

—He plans to follow President Nixon's example and take a commercial flight on a speaking trip to Columbus, Ohio, and Florida later this month.

—His role in supervising Nixon's administration domestic activities may be defined more clearly after a meeting next week with outgoing White House aide Melvin R. Laird and top officials on the President's Domestic Council.

Ford's statement of White House willingness to negotiate with the Senate Watergate Committee on release of some of the tapes and documents it subpoenaed last month went beyond statements from presidential aides with Nixon in California.

After Ford suggested Sunday that a compromise was possible if there was "some refinement of the committee's demand, White House aides first indicated the vice president was speaking for himself.

Later, however, deputy press secretary Gerald L. Warren indicated that compromise was possible if the committee scaled down its demands, though some presidential aides have continued to take a hard line on

Now we are four. Our family has assumed a new dimension. Molly has a brother, and we have a son.

There is new richness and happiness in our lives, but there is also new responsibility. Sure, we'll need to keep that 'roof over the head,' but there's much more to being a parent than that.

No — not alone. But you have the strongest ally in history to help you: the Church. In case you haven't noticed, the Church has been keeping pace with change.

Why not start next Sunday—and bring yourself up to date?
