Dewey Lashes At 'Prophets Of Gloom' In U.S.

Seek To Lead Nation To Totalitarianism He Says Ending Tour

By Edward W. Bates
HAMILTON, N.Y., Aug. 31.—Governor Thomas E. Dewey, in dressing a large gathering of central New York business and professional men, farmers and political leaders here recently, cited the accomplishments of his administration and its peace-time preparedness as a challenge to "the prophets of gloom and doom."
 Identifying the prophets of gloom and doom as those who seek to lead the nation into a form of totalitarianism, he said they "want us to forget the things we fought for in this State." He said the "sacred individual freedom to government control to government control of everything."
 "We must not, we can not and we shall not surrender to their totalitarian ideas," Mr. Dewey said. "Having won freedom, we are going to keep it."
 "New York State," he said, "is the best prepared state in the Union to go ahead and achieve stability in these years that move ahead of us. Our state stands as a living monument to the institutions for which this war was fought."
 Mr. Dewey's appearance here was the climax of a five-day inspection tour in which he covered more than 1,000 miles.
 Mr. Dewey told his audience that there was now in the United States "the greatest volume of unfilled needs in the history of the world, and at the same time the greatest skills in history."
 "All we need," he went on, "is the will to go ahead and make good a system of government which will give them an adequate reward and freedom if they do it."
 "We need a government which, by its approach to our economic system will reward the business of making goods and making jobs, and make it possible for us to achieve what is clearly ahead of us the greatest production era in the history of the world."
 "We need a friendly atmosphere in our society. We need a willingness on the part of business, labor, agriculture and government, an every element of society, to work together, and a willingness on the part of everyone—business, labor and agriculture—to produce to the maximum because we cannot enjoy the future ahead of us unless we produce vastly more than we ever have before. We cannot achieve the high standard of wages and income which are clearly ahead of us unless we produce the goods to sell."
 "Lastly, government must insure a fair deal for every element of society, and see to it that that any government can, that monopoly is prevented and that every man has his own opportunity in a free society."
 The Governor recited the major accomplishments of his administration as follows:
 Saving of the largest surplus $325,000,000 in the state's history; reorganization of the tax structure to encourage attainment of new business in New York State; adoption of a workable merit-rating plan in unemployment insurance and preservation of the unemployment insurance fund; enactment of an anti-discrimination law; establishment of a $220,000,000 low cost housing program; adoption of an $840,000,000 highway construction program; a friendly attitude toward both labor and industry; creation of a commerce department to aid business, and establishment of an agricultural research program designed to bring the state's farmers to a new height of prosperity.
 "If men will use the resources we have," Mr. Dewey said, "New York State is ready for business in the post-war period. The state has done its part."

Legion Head's Proposal on Politics Hit

Membership Of Twenty Million Seen As Sufficient To Dominate The Country

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—(AP)—A proposal by National Commander Edward N. Scheiberling that the American Legion engage in all-out political activity brought sharp repercussions last night from rival veterans' groups.

Millard W. Rice, national service director of the Disabled American Veterans, said that Scheiberling's recommendation would lead support to mounting fears that strongly entrenched veterans' organizations, with a potential membership of 20,000,000 might wield enough political power to dominate the country.

Rice said he had heard such fears expressed even by veterans, and added that "if the Legion, as a bloc, went into partisan politics it would be veering close to Fascism." He said further that he was confident the suggestion "would be repudiated by the Legion rank and file."

Scheiberling, who will be re-elected at the Legion national convention in Chicago this fall, told a press conference last week that it was time the Legion dropped the sham of non-partisanship and went out to remove congressmen and others whose views the Legion holds dangerous. He said the ban on politics, written into the Legion's charter by Congress, can easily be circumvented if it can not be eliminated. "The charter," he observed, "says the Legion can't support a candidate, but it does not say we can not oppose one."

In a subsequent interview, he told the United States Legion that he had failed miserably after World War I to put over a defense program "that might have forestalled World War II." He said he would like to see more than 5,000,000 and pointed out that the Legion will be a great political power for political good.

His proposal was received with mingled views even within the Legion. Other officials emphasized that he is not authorized to speak for the Legion except under mandate from a national convention. And there is no support for the proposal in Veterans of Foreign Wars and the disabled American Veterans which hold second and third place among veterans' organizations. Their charters also ban partisan politics.

T-4 John Stapler With 31st Division

WITH THE 31st DIVISION ON MINDAIO (Special)—When his Commanding Officer asked for a volunteer to accompany casualties out on a plane, T-4 John B. Stapler, of the 31st Division, jumped at the chance. Little did he know what was in store for him. In fact, he didn't know it was better he didn't know the situation.

In answer to an urgent request to try to save the lives of two badly wounded men, a C-47 on a "bullet bomber" mission landed on a strip of pasture on Cub planes were using.

Credited with bringing down 26 Jap planes, Boyington disappeared over Rabaul, New Britain (U.S. Navy Soundphoto International).

Congress Plans Hot Oratory For Wednesday Meet

Big Job Is To Ease Country Into Peace Time Way Of Life

WASHINGTON, Sept. 3.—An official call went out today for the reconvening Wednesday of a Congress already storing up plenty of hot oratory and trouble for the Administration.

The big job of course, will be to remodel old laws and enact new ones to ease the country into a peacetime way of life. Eventually Congress may get around to lowering taxes, perhaps on next year's incomes, which always is a popular procedure with both the legislators and the people.

But in the more immediate picture—and here's where trouble for the Administration comes in—there is the question of compensation for idle war workers, assuring opportunities for jobs, continuing the draft, giving veterans back their old jobs and determining who gets fired.

Other unfinished business also coming up are disposal of left-over war supplies, consolidation or abolishing some Government agencies in the interests of economy and efficiency, merging the Army and Navy under one command.

President Truman wants action on most of these, and Congress will hear from him again Wednesday or Thursday.

Cities Ready To Take Over Army Fields

More Than 179 Million Dollars Spent In Florida On 50 Military Air Bases

TAMPA, Sept. 3.—With the war over and military flying adding to a peacetime standard, Florida's cities yesterday were making plans for development of the airports and air fields which almost certainly will be turned back for civilian use within the next few months.

Only seven of the Florida cities answering The Tampa Tribune's query gave actual figures for aviation development plans, but programs of these seven cities alone totaled nearly $4,000,000. Jacksonville, Miami and Tallahassee each reported a million-dollar development program already under way. Orlando is going to spend $346,000; Panama City, $300,000; Sebring, $175,000; Tampa, $88,000; and Sarasota, $50,000.

The more than 50 military air bases and fields in Florida represent a huge investment. The Army alone poured $129,000,000 into construction and upkeep of its 48 bases and training fields in the state during the war.

In addition, the Navy has maintained 10 bases and stations and the Coast Guard has two. Some of these, of course, will be maintained by the services in peacetime as part of the national Caribbean protection, but the majority will revert to civilian ownership as soon as the Army and War Departments take over them, and decide what its near-term program will be.

Even now there is almost no place in the state where a high-flying plane cannot make an emergency landing. Besides the more than 20 airports of all kinds, civilian and military in Florida, there are dozens of cleared landing strips for emergency use.

That in peacetime years Florida is destined to have one of the finest networks of airports in the nation because of the Army's system of pilot training in the state during the war, Florida, like other southern states, was one of the nation's largest aviation training areas because of its year-round mild climate. Besides the same reason is likely to become a mecca for civilian fliers in years to come.

T Sgt. James Kelsey To Receive Discharge

POPE FIELD, N.C., Sept. 3.—(Special) Tech Sgt. James E. Kelsey, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Kelsey, of Ormeau, Fla., has left this base of the First Troop Cavalry Command for the separation center at Fort Bragg, N.C. for final processing and honorable discharge from the Army. His wife, Mrs. Paula Celestial Kelsey, of Belle Glade.

Sgt. Kelsey, who entered active service in May 1942, saw service in Australia and New Guinea. He wears the Air Medal with Oak Leaf Cluster and the Southwest Pacific theater ribbon with two campaign stars. He was engaged in farming before entering service.

Yamashita, "The Tiger Of Malaya", Is Docile As Cat As He Lays Down Arms

BAGUIO, Sept. 3. (AP)—The last 40,000 Japanese in the Philippines were surrendered at a five minute ceremony today by the now docile "Tiger of Malaya," General Tomoyuki Yamashita, to Lt. Gen. Jonathan M. Wainwright, hero of Bataan and Corregidor.

General Wainwright flew here from Japan, where he witnessed the general surrender ceremony about the USS Missouri. The surrender was delayed three days awaiting the arrival of General Wainwright. Yamashita and his staff were later taken in chains as prisoners of war and conveyed to the new Bilidid prison.

Surrounded Japan stopped of all the Japanese troops under the general's military rule for the first time in her long and painful history.

The Japanese troops in the Philippines were ordered to lay down their arms at 10:00 A. M. Saturday. The Japanese troops in the Philippines were ordered to lay down their arms at 10:00 A. M. Saturday.

General Wainwright, who was in the Philippines during the war, was the first American to meet Yamashita. The two men talked for some time before the surrender ceremony.

Yamashita, who was known as "The Tiger of Malaya" for his role in the fall of Bataan, was captured in the Philippines. He was taken to the United States and held in custody.

"JIT is no cure-all," says the Tampa Tribune... it will get rid of mosquitoes, we'll take some.

Labor Day

This is a really hopeful and forward-looking Labor Day. Workers may turn their minds to a future of peace and construction.

Aggressors make defensive war necessary and right. But in the affairs of war itself there is no hope for workers. They seem, for a time, to be prospering, because they are making things and being paid well for it.

The whole world, aggressors and defenders alike, has lost by these wars. It will take a long time to rebuild the shattered homes and lives.

War makes a bad world. Peace may make a good one. Shall we, then, go on into domestic labor wars? Or shall we go into reasoning and constructive peace?

Surely, if we could succeed in such great matters with labor, management, government sitting about tables outside our borders we can make peace among ourselves...

Dangerous Jalopies

"Pull over to the right." This familiar order is going to be heard oftener from now on. At least 35 states have passed laws this year stiffening the driving laws.

With gasoline unrationed and the 35-mile limit lifted, there will be more and more accidents, especially as a lot of creaking jalopies will be on the road.

Just to show what can be done, for years Massachusetts has required every driver to take out insurance before he can get a license.

Holding Down Prices

In the matter of price levels, Administrator Chester Bowles follows John May's famous ballad of Jim Bludso's struggle for victory on the Erie Canal.

Nobody at Washington can do the whole job of holding prices steady. A little intelligent cooperation around the country, from time to time, will put more butter in the pantry...

Very truly yours, Claude Pepper

By Senator Claude Pepper... I have just received the latest figures on Florida's war contracts from the War Production Board.

We can all spare that billion and a half dollars. Yet now that the war with Japan is over, war production will stop as soon as contracts can be canceled.

But we cannot maintain high profits and wages and full employment, just by doing nothing. We cannot afford to sit and wait.

In many ways the reconversion program is going full speed ahead. The War Production Board's Office of War Mobilization and Reconversion...

But we have to set our sights higher than they've ever been set before in peacetime.

Third, we urge the passage of Senate Bill 1274, which Senator Bilgore and I introduced with four other Senators.

Fourth, we propose that the U. S. Employment Service be authorized to handle the job of placing the unemployed and keep them out of the hands of job-racketeers.

Fifth, we urge that wage controls be relaxed as soon as possible, so that workers, can through free collective bargaining raise their wages to offset the loss in pay they will suffer when overtime is done away with.

Sixth, a continuous and stable transportation to veterans and war workers and their families who are forced to travel to take jobs or to return to their homes.

Finally, we strongly support the Murray Bill, Employment Bill, which makes the right of every American to a job at fair wages a part of our national policy.

This is a minimum program for reconversion. It provides opportunities for business, industry and agriculture to get ready for full peacetime production at a profit.

peacetime standards. It is a program I am going to fight for in the Senate. From my recent talks with the President, I know it is a program he will fight for too.

I make my appointments to West Point and Annapolis as a result of competitive examinations, giving the appointment to the two men making the highest grades.

A few weeks ago 109 of our fine young men from Florida took my examinations. Quite a few of my boys have been graduated and have distinguished themselves in our military and naval operations throughout the world.

Some of them went into the Marine Corps, and are serving with pride and commendable credit in that branch. Others are on board our Naval vessels, and the graduates of West Point are taking active part in Army operations.

I am certainly proud of my West Point and Annapolis boys, and some day Florida and the Nation will be proud of them when they are our generals and our admirals.

USS MISSOURI, Tokyo Bay, Sept. 3, AP)—Japan surrendered formally and unconditionally to the Allies yesterday, restoring peace to a war-ravaged world.
The solemn ceremony, marking the first defeat in Japan's 2,500-year-old semi-legendary history, took place aboard this mighty battleship with 12 signatures which required only a few minutes' effort in the articles of surrender.
Surrounded by the mighty of the United States Navy and Army, and under the eyes of the American and British commanders they so ruthlessly defeated in the Philippines and Malaya, the Japanese representatives quietly made the marks on paper which ended the bloody Pacific conflict.
That horrible war, which had entered its eighth year in China had raged for nearly three years and nine months for the United States and Great Britain, was finally and officially at an end with complete American victory for the Allies.

may continue to absorb all available production through next year's growing seasons. That, however, is a matter which should be watched closely, and planned for carefully.
"The State Committee on Agricultural Production Adjustment, of which Dr. C. V. Noble, Extension Economist, Gainesville, is chairman, made its report to the National Goals Committee recently. In this report the suggested acreage for Florida commercial vegetables for 1945-46 were included. No vegetable goals will be set for 1945-46. It has been announced, though the report, prepared prior to Japan's capitulation, does suggest a general increase in acreage—namely in plantings of beans, lettuce and potatoes."
Commenting on conditions in areas served by particular units in the State Farmers Markets the importance of aid given system, Director Wilson stressed strawberry producers by the Florida State Plant Board, through distribution of "mole crickets poison bait." The report from the heavy-producing Plant City area has noted the availability of this aid for the sixth consecutive year.
"Good cattle sales have been reported by market managers at Plant City and Arcadia," said Director Wilson. "Crop conditions at Pompano look a lot better than in mid-August. Wauchole reports indicate very near a normal crop in this area this fall. Similar conditions exist in most other truck growing sections, according to the latest available reports. The problem of labor is still a major problem, and in some communities it promises to be a serious problem, particularly at harvest time."

Balkan Nations Seen Swinging To Democracy

Diplomats Optimistic As Kremlin Cancels Support In Bulgaria

LONDON, Sept. 3. (Special)—British diplomatic sources were cautiously optimistic this week that the allegedly totalitarian governments in south-eastern Europe will gradually yield to Anglo-American diplomatic pressure and make way for more representative administrations.

This optimism was based on the Russian withdrawal of support from Bulgaria in the face of the American and British protests against Bulgarian election plans. The next step, it was said, depends on the attitude American takes to recent American proposals regarding a possible three-power reply to the appeal of King Michael of Romania to the three major Allies for help in organizing a more democratic government in Bucharest.

So far, apparently, Russia has not given any firm indication of its attitude toward King Michael's appeal, which was made after Dr. Peter Groz, Romania's Premier, rejected the monarch's demand that he resign. However, the Russian action in agreeing to the American and British demand for postponement of the Bulgarian elections is regarded as a hopeful sign that Moscow will take a similar line toward the Romanian situation.

Meanwhile, the three-power Allied Control Commission in Sofia is studying the Bulgarian election laws with a view to making recommendations for their improvement. Additionally, it was understood, efforts are being made to outline a scheme for making reasonably sure that the election campaigns are carried out without fear or intimidation.

Both London and Washington have made abundantly clear their opposition to the "totalitarian" regimes, including that of Yugoslavia. They are more optimistic, it was said in well-informed quarters, about securing improvement in Romania, and later in Hungary, than in Yugoslavia, where the situation is complicated by the fact that Yugoslavia is an Allied country and Premier Josip Broz (Marshal Tito) is as much an Anglo-American as a Russian product. Diplomatic pressure is much more difficult to exert in an Allied country, where there is no Allied Control Commission, than in an enemy country, it was pointed out.

Of 500 bird species in New Guinea, only 75 have reached the Solomon.

Food production in the United States was 32 per cent greater in 1943 and 37 per cent greater in 1944 than in the prewar years.

Steel Company Jobs 60% Over Pre-War Level

Bethlehem's Post-War Total Is 160,000; Layoffs Continue

NEW YORK CITY, Sept. 3. (AP)—An estimate reported on post-war employment in one major industry was made this week by E. G. Grace, President of the Bethlehem Steel Company, who announced that Bethlehem is expected to stand at 160,000 men above the company's pre-war peak.

Mr. Grace estimated the company's post-war employment at 160,000, as compared with the 95,700 pre-war level of 1919, and last month's war-time peak of 170,000. He has a net gain of 64,300 men since the war's end, but a net loss of 10,000 since the company's peak in 1944.

Other plants producing steel for the war effort are also being closed, and the company is expected to lose 10,000 men in the next few months.

In the New York city, Bethlehem will continue to employ about 17,000 workers in at least three of its four plants which have long-term construction programs yet to be completed according to Mr. Grace.

His report on the outlook for a large section of the steel industry was interrupted by announcements of further layoffs in other war plants in the metropolitan area and by the announcement that the Federal Reserve Board has estimated that the jobs of between 122,000 and 157,000 Federal employees in the 2nd Civil Service Region, comprising New York and New Jersey, probably would be terminated within the next eighteen months. But in the case of Federal employees, it was explained, the picture may not be so dark as the figures would seem to indicate, because about 83,000 persons would leave their jobs during that period in the course of normal turnover, and others most certainly will be hired for other jobs after undergoing re-examinations.

The peak employment in the 2nd Civil Service Region was reached last April, when 382,000 persons were on the lists. About 203,000 of these were employed in greater New York.

Official agencies and trade organizations in the northern New Jersey area estimated that about 30,000 more workers were laid off there yesterday. These layoffs were distributed over a large number of plants, and none was of mass proportions.

The War Man-Power Commission's New York regional office reported that by 4 P. M. its twenty offices in the city had 15,720 applicants for jobs, as against 16,990 the previous Monday.

The complete compilation of figures on the results of referrals to jobs, cancellations of job orders and openings listed will be announced today.

In New Jersey, the War Man-Power Commission disclosed that 74,215 initial claims for unemployment benefits had been filed in the state since the Japanese capitulation.

WATCH OUT FOR FOOTBALL'S JUMP PASS!

By RANDALL W. BLAKE

AP Newsfeatures
LINCOLN, NEB. Now that the college can pass from any where behind the line of scrimmage there'll be stronger running attacks to mow 'em down—and look out for that jump pass! That's the way George (Bob) Clark, college and professional coach who is picking up the reins at Nebraska, views that rule change.

"The most effective thing about the rule permitting passing (hand to hand or over the line of scrimmage) from anywhere behind the line is to develop stronger running attacks," says Clark.

In development of the jump pass, Clark believes the surface has only been scratched, even so far as the professionals go. He picks from the colleges, having coached the professional Detroit and Brooklyn clubs.

"Now that the colleges have the opportunity to develop passing any place back of the line, I think the jump pass will increase in percentage of all passes thrown from the three to five percent of past years to 25 per cent within the next two years."

"And it must be remembered that the jump pass can be made by a man who is definitely not a good passer. Therefore, a big, experienced, and who has had only the threat of a lunge is given the added weapon of a pass."

Clark believes the professionals lagged in development of the jump pass because of some fears about it and those high school coaches who have had the opportunity to use it have been too busy with other school work to give much time to the ground work needed for fuller use.

Yet, he adds, the high school coaches have done about all that has been done to develop the play and the professionals have taken their cue from the persistence of the high school mentors.

"The college coaches, being highly specialized, will take advantage of the opportunity offered to improve this type of passing," Clark observes, adding that he anticipates using it at Nebraska to advantage.

Experience has shown the play can be used by quarterbacks standing close behind the line, and by off-tackle runners or a "fake smash, as well as by plunging or set plays.

Right smart ends play a part in the picture for the future use of the play for they must be able to break fast and get to a given end in a hurry in case of the fake. Clark thinks the most effective use of the play in the future will be made by professional players, though the "linebacker" type of player is being developed as being "no ability to pass."

Old Battlefield Is Now France's Lean Breadbasket

By ROBERT WILSON
AP Newsfeatures

PARIS — North Africa, the battlefield where three years ago American troops handed the first body blow to the German Army, now is France's empty bread basket.

The colonial possession where Roosevelt, Churchill and Stalin held a dramatic meeting, and where Eisenhower first took the Wehrmacht's measure, has now been turned wholly back to France.

Before the war North Africa poured wheat, fruits and phosphate across the Mediterranean into metropolitan France, but now it eagerly accepts what wheat and sugar France can spare. Colonial officials are grim about the conditions.

The olives that drone over North Africa's wastes are mostly French now, but still remaining are a few U. S. and British troops, chiefly Air Transport Command personnel at Casablanca, Oran and Algiers, for the area remains a link in Allied communications.

All ports are under French naval control.

Deadly Drought
The worst drought in 50 years has aggravated food shortages. Black markets are rife. Arab workers, earning an average of two dollars a day, pay a dollar a pound for wheat flour on which the ceiling price is six cents. Meat is as good as rationed now. The total shortage is dire. The British have sent some, but

The French say it is of such poor quality it has ruined locomotives and power stations. The United States has sent some tractors to meet the critical shortage of farm implements.

The French have taken full control over civilian travel, requiring visas. Ten thousand automobiles are licensed, as compared with 90,000 ten years ago.

All kinds of heavy industrial equipment is sorely needed. Algeria, planning a 100-mile pipe-line to feed water into Oran, has ordered $1,000,000 worth of cement manufacturing equipment. A big Algerian wire cable factory used by American signal corpsmen during the Tunisian, Italian and Southern France campaigns, was closed for lack of ingots.

Politically Calm
The French expect no political or racial disturbances and the tranquility of the recent elections.

The Moslems still have caches of arms and ammunition picked up during the Tunisian campaign. Some Europeans fear reprisals, remembering that the koran, by which Moslems live, says "you shall consider Christians and Jews your enemies."

But the French feel that if everyone gets enough to eat there will be no trouble.

The American game of football originated, with variations, in ancient Greece and Rome.

Should you be tempted to buy medicine solely upon the recommendation of friends or advertising claims, ask a well known and trusted druggist if he can vouch for it.

It is not likely that he will advise any medication without your first seeing your physician. The more serious your malady appears to be, the less chance there is of your druggist recommending self-medication.

Too many people have worsened simple cases by taking medicines unsuited to the particular case. Each case is its own problem, to be treated as such by the physician.

And since he is naturally concerned in the efficacy of his prescription, follow his advice in choosing a druggist to fill it.

carrier Enterprise, greatest fighting ship in the United States Navy was not with the fleet when it moved up to support the occupation of Japan this week. Veteran of every major battle of the Pacific war except the Coral Sea, destroyer of 311 Japanese ships, the "Big E" was knocked out of the war by a Kamikaze hit May 14. She returned to the United States under her own power and has been undergoing repairs at Bremerton, Wash., since June 7. Her casualties were light, fourteen killed, thirty-four wounded.

When hit, the Enterprise was Marc A. Mitscher, he having the flagship of Vice-Admiral battle damage, suffered off Okinawa May 11, made her inoperative. The carrier force, with the flag aboard the Enterprise, moved from Okinawa to Kyushu and was operating sixty miles off the coast of the southernmost island, and 100 miles west of Tokyo when the ship was hit.

This reporter participated in the action aboard the carrier Hornet, flagship of Rear Admiral Jocko Clark, and saw the "Big E" get it. Subsequently, we joined her and returned to the United States by way of Ulithi and Pearl Harbor.

Our force attacked the Kyushu airfields with much interference from the special attack units off the coast of May 13. After dark the Japanese became active and kept us at quarters all night by dropping flares and firing rockets. The next morning, after our carriers had launched the dawn strike, the Kamikazes attacked in force. After a few preliminary passes twenty kamikazes came at once out of the southwest.

Our force was spread over miles of ocean and the Enterprise, as seen from the bridge of

Even though all our food habits aren't over and out for some time, a lot of us are trying to eat a little better. These are the menus that are most popular with our friends of an afternoon and just relax and talk, or play a bit of bridge, or whatever is our idea of fun.

Perhaps you and your friends are all weathered of your faces and don't eat sweets in the afternoon, or even for dessert. But even the most diet-conscious lady can't resist a little something sweet almost sure to give you a sense of refreshment and a little bit of cheer.

Lemon Cheese Cake
Topping: butter or margarine, 1/2 cup; sugar, 1/2 cup; cinnamon, 1/4 teaspoon; creamed cottage cheese, 1/2 cup; eggs, 2, separated; 1/4 cup sugar; 1/2 cup flour; 1/2 cup raisins; 1/2 cup lemon juice; 1/2 cup lemon rind.

Blend ingredients for topping and spread a little more than half an inch of well greased baking pan with butter. Beat egg whites stiff and add to the mixture. Beat egg yolks with rest of sugar and beat until thick and lemon colored. Add the cottage cheese mixture. Spoon carefully over mixture in pan. Sprinkle rest of mixture over top. Bake in moderate (350 degree) oven for 45 minutes. Turn off heat and let cake cool in oven, 15 minutes. Remove from pan. Serve warm or cold. This is a thick, thick cake.

Job Wilkins loses the wanderlust

Job Wilkins was always a good one for traveling. Two weeks a year he used to cover more ground than a Pullman conductor. I used to come back from vacations tattered and tired. But the war has changed all that. Gasoline shortages—and saving space on trains for servicemen—has got Job spending his vacations home... and liking it.

Never knew staying home could be such fun, says Job. "Outdoor barbecues, sitting around and chatting with the kids and family, relaxing in the morning with a glass of cold beer," says Job. "I've discovered what millions of other Americans have learned through the war. Whether your choice is beer or bettermark... horseshoes or checkers... a quiet look on a bit of friendly conversation... there's no place like home... where you gamble the most and get treated the best!"
