Plane lands safely after fire

CHICAGO — A compression failure sparked a fire in a rear engine of a Midway Airlines DC-9 jetliner Monday night, forcing the pilot to return to the airport, officials said.

None of the 50 passengers and five crew members aboard Flight 224 bound for Kansas City was injured, said Midway spokeswoman Sandra Allen. All those aboard left normally and an emergency exit plan was not necessary, she added.

The plane was in the air only a few minutes when the pilot reported a loss of power in the jetliner's number one engine, Allen said.

Soviet pair defect to Alaska

LITTLE DIOMEDE ISLAND, Alaska — Two members of a Soviet delegation sent to a tiny Eskimo island to sign a historic request that Moscow and Washington open the border have defected and will be flown to Anchorage as soon as the weather breaks, officials said.

In what may be the first case of Soviets crossing the Bering Strait seeking asylum in the United States, officials of the U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service in Anchorage said the pair were staying at a National Guard building.

Officials refused to identify the pair, but United Press International learned that they were believed to be Alexander Y. Gankin and A.V. Tkachenko, named as newspaper correspondents on the list of Soviet members of the delegation.

Hospital patient shot in face

ATLANTA — An 18-year-old patient recovering from a gunshot wound was shot in the face by a visitor Monday night in the second shooting at Grady Memorial Hospital in eight months.

The victim, identified as Charlie L. Douglas, was struck in the face by a .38-caliber bullet that lodged in the lower rear of his skull, said hospital administrator John Heator.

Douglas was reported in critical but stable condition Tuesday.

Heator said the gunman fled after the shooting in a stairwell near the ninth floor pediatrics ward. A police search was underway Tuesday.

Heator's spokeswoman Beverly D. Hester said Douglas was lured into the stairwell by a male visitor who had sought directions to his room at the nurses' station.

Lake Mary sweeps twinbill

Lake Mary's Lady Rams combined for 31 hits in two games to take a doubleheader from DeLand, 14-7 and 5-3, Monday afternoon at DeLand High School.

Lake Mary improved to 14-9 and will host Daytona Beach Mainland in the opening round of the district tournament Wednesday at 4:15. The Lady Bulldogs fell to 6-10 overall and will take on Spruce Creek on the road in the opening round of the district tournament.

"We came out and really stroked the ball," Lake Mary coach Karen Nolen said. "We strung hits together well and came up with the hits when we had runners in scoring position."

Appointees will replace Wynn, Ball and Frazier

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city commission last night appointed three new commissioners to the controversial, five-member Housing Authority.

The unanimous appointments are: Shirley Allen, a Seminole County schools special education employee; Wain Cummings, a county building inspector and a former housing authority commissioner; and Jim Valerino, an attorney with offices in Winter Park. They replace Chairman Alexander Wynn and commissioners Bob Ball Sr. and Robert Frazier Jr., all of whose terms expire on May 20.

Ball had said he did not want to be reappointed. In a letter to Mayor Bettye Smith, Ball wrote, "It has become apparent to me that I cannot continue to serve as a Commissioner and suffer the sacrifices to both personal dignity and to my business."

Ball said he had "been made to suffer demeaning and degrading attacks" from local newspapers.

Ball told the mayor that the authority commission worked at a "slow pace," giving as an example the move toward professional management.

In February Ball proposed turning the directorship of the authority to a professional team. The commission unanimously approved the proposal in March, and began advertising for management firms this month.

"They will either jump in too fast without sufficient ground work to merit a sound program or take too long," Ball said in the letter.

Ball's resignation comes at the end of his term as a commissioner. Typically, commissioners are not reappointed, according to Linda Williams, acting executive director of the authority. She said yesterday she had researched at least as far as SANFORD — Commissioner Whitely Eckstein called it a "visionary" concept that would include 17 gateways into Sanford.

Commissioner A.A. McClanahan called it "a gateway to Heathrow."

At that standstill, discussion among Sanford City Commission members last night on the $3.7 million Lake Mary Boulevard gateway beautification concept was set aside until a May work session.

"We've got two entranceways to the city of Sanford that mean more to the city...." McClanahan said, referring to U.S. 17-92 and State Road 46.

"If we're going to spend local money, then I'm going to vote to spend it on something that benefits the city of Sanford more than Lake Mary Boulevard," he said. "I'm not interested in

Donated land may be site of two new schools

By VICKI DeSORMIER

SANFORD — The Seminole County School Board will discuss a proposal to build an elementary and middle school on land donated by the Heathrow Land and Development Corporation. The board meets tonight at 7 p.m. in Sanford.

"This is part of the voluntary impact fee paid to the county by developers," said Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation.

The land, located on Markham

Woods Road in Heathrow, is nearly 50 acres and includes 40 buildable acres.

Elementary schools are required to be built on a minimum of 15 acres, while middle schools can be constructed on no less than 20 acres.

"The state surveyors give us the approximate location of where we need the schools and we work with the developers," Wells said.

A previous site, less than half a mile from this one, was suggested by the developer, but then rejected because the proposed beltway would run through the middle school site. Homeowners, according to a memo written to Superintendent Robert Hughes by Wells, had "expressed some concern to the developer over the proposed location."

The new site, referred to as The Pinery by Heathrow, will take care of the developer's planned unit development commitments, according to Wells.

Wells said the land must be developed by the school board within five years or it would be returned to Heathrow.

He said there would be no trouble accomplishing that goal. "We'll use that land within the next three to five years," Wells said.

A recent educational plant survey suggested twenty elementary schools and five middle schools will need to be built in the county within the next two decades. The Pinery site will accommodate two of those facilities.

According to Wells, the site is a good one and he recommends the board approve it.

Members of the systems development fee advisory board have asked the Sanford Commission to meet jointly with the fee committee and the recreation task force to answer that question.

Tuesday the fee advisory board called for the meeting after discussion that a recommended increase in recreation impact fees is too high. The members asked that the recreation task force, which began meeting last month to recommend to the city recreational programming and facilities, attend the meeting to offer suggestions on what funds may be

Freedom possible for convicted killer

Father may have been convicted of murder on perjured testimony

United Press International

ARCADIA, Fla. — A man convicted of murdering his daughter with a lunch of poisoned rice and beans that also killed his six other children has spent the last 21 years in jail for a crime that even the state of Florida says he may not have committed.

Although the witness who could free James Richardson is no longer considered fit to testify, a special state investigation has determined that he was convicted with the help of perjured testimony.

The 53-year-old former fruit picker was a condemned man until the Supreme Court struck down the death penalty in 1972, and has spent most of his adult life at Tomoka federal penitentiary in Daytona Beach. A groundswell of support for him began late last year and he had hoped to be free by Christmas.

That didn't happen, but DeSoto County Circuit Judge Clifton Kelly scheduled a hearing Tuesday where Richardson's lawyers hoped he could be released.

"I will be very disappointed if he doesn't get out of jail immediately," said lawyer Mark Lane, who along with Ellis Rubin represents Richardson. "Here we have the state for two weeks saying he should not have been convicted and at the same time the state is keeping him in jail."

Richardson was moved Sunday night from Tomoka to the county jail in Arcadia, Lane said. Richardson already had decided what he would do first if he is freed.

"He has already asked my wife to buy some flowers and he will go directly to the graves of his children and place the flowers on the graves," Lane said. "Then he will go back to Daytona with us, where we have reservations at a restaurant. He said he has been thinking about shrimp for 21 years."

Richardson was convicted and condemned to death for the Oct. 25, 1967, murder of his oldest daughter, Betty Jean Bryant, one of his seven children who died after eating a lunch of rice and beans poisoned with the deadly herbicide parathion.

Richardson's motive for killing his children, prosecutors said, was to collect on a $1,000 insurance policy he had taken out on each child.

His death sentence was commuted to life in prison when the Supreme Court outlawed capital punishment in 1972.

NASA technology aids toilet-seat maker

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss. — America's space technology is helping a small north Mississippi company mass produce hydraulic toilet-seat lifts to benefit thousands of elderly and arthritic patients.

An agreement between Medical Concepts Inc. of Calhoun City and NASA's John C. Stennis Space Center will create an additional 900 new jobs during the next year, officials said Monday.

Medical Concepts already produces a three-wheel electrical scooter for the infirmed, but ran into hydraulics problems with their original lift concept. Although the seat lowers and raises just as the recliner chair, its design had to incorporate water hydraulics which would be tied into the regular toilet water supply.

Wendell Blount, president and chief executive officer, contacted NASA's Technology Utilization office at Stennis.

With the assistance of Methodist Rehabilitation Center in Jackson, engineers from Severdrup Technology, Inc. came up with an innovative hydraulics system which is cheaper to produce than existing commercial systems of the same capacity.

Health care planning should begin early

MIAMI — Financial assistance from employers for health care may be a thing of the past in the next century and Americans should begin their long-term health planning before the age of 50, according to survey released Tuesday.

The mail survey was compiled from the results of 536 health care actuaries, statisticians who calculate premiums for insurance companies, who previewed the outlook of long-term health care in the year 2000. The results were released at a "Forecast 2000" seminar at the Inter-Continental Hotel in Miami.

"One-third of the respondents believe long-term care expenses in the year 2000 will be paid by individuals and 42 percent believe this care will take place in personal residences," the report said.

"Only 23 percent thought that private long-term care insurance would pay most of the cost. Sixty percent did not believe employers would pre-fund such care as a standard employee benefit," it said.

Bill: Test elderly drivers every two years

TALLAHASSEE — A House committee approved Monday a bill that would require Florida drivers more than 80 years old to take vision, hearing and written tests every two years.

Members of the House Highway Safety and Construction Committee passed the bill 14-to-2 after a section requiring over-80 drivers to take a road test was removed. The bill, which would affect some 182,000 drivers, now goes to the House Finance and Tax Committee for consideration.

Supporters of the bill (HB 288) said it would get off the road drivers whose skills have deteriorated to the point where they are unsafe behind the wheel. They noted that drivers' licenses are good for six years, during which time an elderly person's driving abilities can decline significantly.

"This bill is not designed to do anything but get unsafe drivers off the road," said bill sponsor Rep. Marian Lewis, R-North Palm Beach.

Critics said they would accept the mandatory vision, hearing and written tests every two years, but said it was unfair to require elderly drivers to submit to more stringent renewal requirements, including a road test.

"If we are going to do it for the elderly then we should do it for all of us," said Rep. Willie Logan, D-Opalocka. "They may need to renew their license every other year, and that's fine, but they should go through no more than I would have to go through when I renew my license every six years."

Buffalo owner to sell after mishap

MIAMI — The owner of south Florida's most notorious herd of buffalo will sell the animals so residents can once again have a home where the buffalo don't roam, his lawyer said.

Opera-locks doctor Arnold Oper decided to sell his herd of about 80 animals after some of the buffalo took a stroll Saturday night on Florida's turnpike, causing two accidents.

"This was just the final straw," Oper's lawyer Ron Lowy told The Miami Herald.

The buffalo have tied up traffic on south Florida roads a number of times since Oper bought the herd in 1984.

No one was seriously injured in Saturday's two mishaps, although one car was damaged beyond repair and the seven buffalo that went walking on the turnpike were injured and had to be killed.

Greg Hintz was driving southbound Saturday evening just north of the Dade County line when he spotted four buffalo. "You know, they didn't have any taillights. I swerved to the left and hit the lead buffalo," he said. "It was so big, at first I thought it was an elephant."

Hintz and his passengers were unhurt, but the car sustained about $2,000 in damage.

Study: State broke lottery promise

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — State lawmakers have used lottery profits to supplant tax support for the schools, in violation of a promise made to the voters in 1986, a study released Monday showed.

Advocates of the lottery promised the money would be used for "educational enhancements" above and beyond ongoing efforts to pump more tax money into the school system. That promise was contained in the legislation establishing the lottery three years ago.

But the study released by the Florida Chamber of Commerce shows that although education funding from state and local taxes grew each year since 1981, the percentage of the annual increases has been tapering off amid inflation and expanding enrollment.

Faced with a growing demand for other state services and a relatively narrow tax base, lawmakers began dipping into lottery profits to supplant tax support for basic education programs, the study concludes.

"We're concerned that Florida taxpayers have the perception that the lottery is solving our education funding problems," said Ted Oranger, a vice president for the chamber, during a news conference. "The potential impact of that kind of misinformation could be disastrous for our state."

Granger said the chamber's interest is in having a well-educated work force. He said the school system would be vulnerable if lottery profits dropped, which has happened within five years in most states with lotteries.

Commissioner of Education Betty Castor said it is getting harder to persuade voters to approve local school bonding referendums because they believe the lottery is solving the schools' money woes.

She estimated up to 70 percent of the lottery proceeds have been diverted to supplant tax funding for schools, rather than for improvements above existing spending trends for computers, drop out prevention and other enhancements promised an electorate that overwhelmingly endorsed the lottery in the 1986 referendum.

"We're struggling to keep even (financially)," Castor said.

The study measured increases in state and local per-pupil funding between 1981 and 1988.

Policy shift slows flow of refugees

United Press International

MIAMI — Fewer Nicaraguan refugees are arriving in south Florida because of a 2-month-old change in federal immigration policy, local relief workers and immigration officials said.

Those who do arrive have fewer chances of escaping poverty because of those changes, relief workers said.

The influx of refugees from Central America into south Florida peaked at about 600 people during one week in January, but the flow has slowed considerably since Feb. 21, when the policy shift went into effect.

Perry Rivkind, district director of U.S. Immigration and Naturalization Service, estimated that only 100 or so refugees currently are arriving per week, down from an average of 300 refugees a week last summer.

The flow of refugees into the United States across the Rio Grande also has slowed, but those who now attempt the crossing from Mexico seek to avoid capture rather than surrender to the INS, The Miami Herald reported Monday.

INS agents have begun to detain refugees near the Mexican border, and the agency has instituted a more rigorous review process of applications. The agency also stopped its policy of automatically granting work permits to refugees waiting for their cases to be reviewed.

Rivkind said the INS is issuing work permits to only about 20 percent of asylum applicants locally. Since most applicants eventually are rejected, a majority of refugees are denied work permits, and so have no legal means of supporting themselves.

"Chalibba' Mendiola, who runs a private shelter that was shut down late last year because of overcrowding, said many Nicaraguans are deciding not to come to the United States because they know they will not get a work permit.

Senate committee approves 'junk fax' ban

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — A Senate committee approved Monday a bill that would reduce the amount of unsolicited "junk" material sent to facsimile machine owners.

The bill would let businesses, professionals and others who receive unwanted fax solicitations file complaints with state prosecutors, who could seek civil penalties of up to $500 for each unwanted transmission and injunctive relief.

It was approved by the Senate Committee on Economic, Professional and Utility Regulation with virtually no debate.

"It is an attempt to keep up with technology," Sen. Fred Dudley, R-Fort Myers, a sponsor of the bill, told reporters.

He called the measure a "first generation junk fax bill," predicting tougher and broader measures as society learns to live with the evolving information revolution and as less than scrupulous people try to turn a fast buck off technology.

Business owners from across the state have complained about outsiders acquiring their fax machine numbers and sending them sales catalogs, restaurant and deli menus and other unwanted materials, often during non-business hours.

Recipients of fax transmissions pay paper and other costs for the messages.

Five senators each filed different legislation to attack the problem, apparently not realizing how broad the concern ran, Dudley said. The committee rolled all the bills into one piece of legislation, which was passed Monday.

"People walk into their offices in the morning and find reams of documents on their floor.

At launch pad 39B Tuesday, technicians worked through the opening stages of the countdown, clearing the way for loading supercold liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen aboard Atlantis Wednesday to power the ship's electricity-producing fuel cells. The shuttle will be fueled for launch early Friday.

Magellan, made up mostly of spare parts left over from earlier space missions, is equipped with a single science instrument: a complex radar system.

Shuttle countdown begins

UPI report

CAPE CANAVERAL — Countdown clocks began ticking at the Kennedy Space Center Tuesday for the launch of the shuttle Atlantis Friday on a high-priority flight to send a robot mapping probe to Venus.

NASA test director Terry Willingham issued a "call to stations" at 8 a.m. to formally start the second shuttle countdown of 1989, a carefully orchestrated procedure featuring more than 35 hours of built-in "hold" time to give technicians a chance to handle any problems that might crop up.

Atlantis's five-member crew — commander David Walker, 44, co-pilot Ronald Grabe, 43, Mary Cleave, 42, Mark Lee, 38, and Norman Thagard, 45 — planned to fly to the Kennedy Space Center from Houston later Tuesday.

The countdown is scheduled to hit zero at 2:24 p.m. Friday when Atlantis is to take off on the 29th shuttle flight, the fourth since the 1985 Challenger disaster and the second of at least five missions planned for this year.

The goal of the flight is the deployment of a costly spacecraft named Magellan, the first U.S. interplanetary probe to be launched in 11 years and the first built for deployment from a space shuttle.

Williams loses suit against SHA

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

I still respect the justice system. I don't believe truth prevails, but I can live with it.

—Former SHA acting director Linda Williams

SANFORD — The Sanford Housing Authority did not discriminate against its acting executive director when it replaced her with a man, a U.S. District Court of Appeals judge ruled last week.

"Although the district court noted that direct evidence of discriminatory intent was presented at the trial...the only credible evidence...was circumstantial in nature," read the judgment from the U.S. District Court of Appeals Eleventh Circuit.

A federal district court earlier had denied the case on merit. Linda Williams then appealed that decision.

In 1982 SHA hired Elliott

Smith to take the directorship from Williams, who had been interim director for 15 months. Williams again took the interim seat when the authority commission fired Smith in September, and will remain in that seat until a professional management team is selected to run the authority.

Williams said yesterday she felt the challenge was important, even if she failed. "I still respect the justice system. I don't believe truth prevails, but I can live with it."

"The consistency of the...ballots showed that three of the (five) Commissioners, the necessary majority, would not have voted to promote Williams, even in the absence of the assumed discriminatory motivation," the judgment read.

Williams and authority Finance Officer Judy Weekley offered as evidence statements made by commissioners during authority meetings.

"Throughout the whole time I was interim, I received no other reason not to promote me except that I am a woman," Williams said.

The judgment also said two commissioners voted not to promote Williams because they thought she was "too closely connected with a prior, problematic administration and that a third believed that SHA's nepotism policy precluded her from voting to promote Williams."

Williams, who has been with SHA for 17 years, said she is not related to anyone who has served on the board. She called the nepotism concerns "an excuse for them not to promote me."

James Sweeting III, attorney for the housing authority, said he would be assessing costs of the case and asking the authority commission if it wants to recover legal fees. That decision would have to be made within 30 days, he said.

Prisoner sentenced to 17 years for killing inmate

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A federal prisoner accused of killing a fellow prisoner while being housed in the Seminole County Jail last December was sentenced to 17 years in prison.

Charles Wesley O'Berry, 20, will serve the sentence in a federal prison, where he is to begin serving 10 years to life on a drug charge.

O'Berry pleaded no contest in March to killing James Otto Hingle, 22, of Orlando, in a fight over a poker game in the jail about midnight Dec. 14.

Circuit Court Judge C. Vernon Mize also ordered O'Berry to pay $5,500 for Hingle's funeral expenses and for work done by the U.S. Marshal's Service in connection with the case.

The argument over the poker game occurred in the section of the jail where federal prisoners are housed, just at the time lights were extinguished for the night.

Sheriff's deputies said Hingle's head was apparently pounded on the floor of the cell. Jail nurses administered oxygen until paramedics arrived and transported Hingle to the hospital. Sheriff John Polk said the man was brain dead when removed from the jail. He died at Orlando Regional Medical Center on Dec. 16 after doctors disconnected his life-support system.

He had been accused of driving a getaway car during a bank robbery in Winter Park last May. He had pleaded guilty to being an accessory to bank robbery and was to testify against a co-defendant.

O'Berry received the federal prison sentence in February after pleading guilty to possession of cocaine with intent to distribute.

HRS contempt case to be decided next month

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Seminole County jury will decide next month whether the district director of the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services is guilty of contempt of court.

Last month, Circuit Judge Leonard Wood ordered HRS District Director Paul Snead to appear at a hearing to show why he should not be held in contempt for not moving a 17-year-old girl out of the Sanford Crisis Center, as the judge had ordered.

Two weeks ago HRS attorneys asked that Wood remove himself as the presiding judge at the contempt hearing, saying the judge may be called as a witness at the hearing.

Judge Wood decided Friday not to hear the case himself, but also ordered that the May 23 hearing should be before a jury. Snead, of Orlando, could receive up to a year in jail if a jury finds him guilty, his maximum sentence would be six months in jail.

HRS had placed the girl in the Crisis Center in February after she was determined to be suicidal. The center is intended for crisis intervention and is not a treatment center. Judge Wood ordered the girl to be removed to a place where she could receive psychiatric treatment, but she remained at the Crisis Center for about 40 days.

At a March 21 hearing, an HRS attorney said the agency did not have the money to pay for the girl's hospitalization in a treatment center.

The juvenile was removed from the Crisis Center a few days after the March hearing.

POLICE BRIEFS

Man and girl arrested in burglary

LAKE MARY — Lake Mary police issued a description of two suspects seen at the scene of a burglary to Lake Mary Beauty Salon, 192 W. Country Club Road Sunday.

The suspects were located by Sanford police at Groveview Villas, Lake Mary Boulevard. The 16-year-old girl and William Craig Dingeman, 20, of 119 E. Wilbur Ave. Lake Mary, have been charged with burglary in the case. Police said $3,000 in property was stolen from the business. Some items were recovered. Police said the girl is related to the victim. The arrests were made at 11:45 p.m. Sunday at the Lake Mary police station by Lake Mary police.

Suspect kept from swallowing cocaine

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who made a traffic stop on North Street, rural Altamonte Springs, grabbed the driver by the throat to keep him from swallowing crack cocaine.

The deputy said while he was questioning Richard Chris Ache, 32, of 2852 Monterey E., Winter Park, Ache began spitting white material out of his mouth. Ache reportedly said it was part of his false tooth. He refused to open his mouth and the deputy grabbed him by the throat to keep him from swallowing what the deputy suspected was crack cocaine.

A piece of cocaine which Ache had spat out was recovered off the bumper of his car, a sheriff's report said. Ache is charged with possession of cocaine and driving with a suspended license.

The arrest was made at 4:37 p.m. Sunday. Bond is $2,000.

Deputy kicked, woman charged

APOPKA — A Seminole County sheriff's deputy who prevented a woman from hitting another person during a dispute at her house said the woman kicked him instead.

That brought a charge of battery on a policeman against Alma Nelly Suero, 26, of 1217 Gay Drive, Apopka. She was arrested at home at 10:40 p.m. Saturday. Bond is $1,000.

Sexual abuse cases investigated

SANFORD — In two separate cases, Seminole County sheriff's deputies report probes of allegations of sexual abuse of three Seminole County children.

In one case a 37-year-old man has been accused of fondling a 9-year-old Oviedo girl at her house last weekend.

In the other case, a 15-year-old girl is accused of assaulting a 2-year-old boy and a 6-year-old girl when she babysat for them Dec. 8 in Longwood.

In both cases, adults reported the allegations to sheriff's deputies Monday.

Odometer fraud alleged

By SUSAN LODEN

LONGWOOD — A Longwood mechanic has been charged with odometer fraud after an undercover Florida Highway Patrol special investigation.

Phillip Ray Robinson, 35, was arrested late Monday afternoon in Longwood, the home base of his Phil's Mobile Auto Repair in Nursery Road, a traveling car care service.

FHP Lt. Randy Harper said Robinson is accused of rolling back odometers on cars. He performed the act on three cases at the request of undercover FHP agents. He charged fees ranging from $25 to $50 per car, Harper said.

The roll back on the mileage reading on a vehicle increases its value by $500 to $2,000, Harper said. It also puts unsafe cars on the road because, Harper said, if the car is sold the new owner assumes the car has already been driven for about 38,000 miles and in reasonably good mechanical condition. In reality it has probably been driven more than 100,000 miles, and may have defective breaks and other mechanical flaws.

The FHP, in conjunction with the Florida State Attorney, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the Division of Motor Vehicles, is focusing attention on this crime, which Harper said is rampant in the state.

A conviction for this third degree felony may bring up to a $5,000 fine and or up to five years in prison, he said.

Similar investigations are being conducted by this FHP task force through out the state, Harper said. Other arrests are expected.

Longwood candidates' forum set

By SANDRA BOUCHAHINE
Herald staff writer

LONGWOOD — An open forum from 1 to 4 p.m. April 29 will give residents an opportunity to meet the candidates running in the May 9 special election.

The election is to fill the District 3 commission seat left vacant Feb. 27 when commissioners voted to remove Carol Odom for allegedly violating the city charter.

The candidates, Perry E. Faulkner, 44, 1046 First Place, and Jeffrey R. Morton, 41, 872 Buckshaw Place, will discuss issues dealing with infrastructure, transportation, taxes and sewage.

The forum was organized by Faulkner who served as commissioner for one term from 1985 to 1988. He ran for the same seat last November in a three-way race with Odom against Lynette Dennis. He is general manager of Orlando Radial Tire Inc., Orlando.

Morton, who is a newcomer to the political scene, is the former owner of Red Baron Restaurant on Highway 434 in the Plaza del Sol shopping center. He is preparing to start a construction company.

Meanwhile, Odom has sued the city, Mayor Hank Hardy and Commissioners Ted Poelking and Richard Bullington in U.S. District Court, Orlando, for "compensatory and punitive" damages for the emotional blow she suffered as a result of the commissioners' action. Her attorney, Michael A. Kramer said Friday he is still waiting for the city's answer to the law suit.

Faustian bargain

Given the nation's insatiable appetite for televised sports, it was inevitable that private entrepreneurs would exploit the commercial possibilities of high school athletics.

Last month, a national cable network announced a five-year contract with the National Federation of State High School Athletic Associations to telecast a weekly package of prep sporting events, mostly football and basketball games. A $3 million, three-year contract for California high schools was recently negotiated that will permit corporations to place their names and logos on various tournaments and events. The New York Public High School Association, meanwhile, is about to conclude a similar $1.5 million deal.

Can a high-powered national tournament for prep teams — and the big money to be generated therefrom — be far behind? The answer to that question seems fairly obvious, as to the pitfalls.

One only has to look at the problems plaguing big-time college sports to understand the potential for abuse. How many colleges are currently on probation for bribing young athletes to play for them? How many college coaches are prostituting themselves and their schools to recruit blue-chip prospects? How many college professors are being pressured to pad the grades of student athletes to keep them eligible? How many former college coaches are looking for jobs because their teams either failed to have winning seasons or were not invited to post-season bowl games or tournaments? And how many college presidents are feeling the heat from alumni because of losing teams?

The corruption of college sports is traceable in large part to greed. As the money increases, so does the pressure to win at all costs.

What is to prevent the same thing from happening to high school sports?

We put that question to several prep coaches, including Morgan Wooten, the legendary basketball mentor of Delmatha High School in Hyattsville, Md. Although Coach Wooten has no problem with a national tournament, he is concerned nonetheless about the money monster. He worries that the process could get out of hand unless the profit motive is removed.

Al Schaffer tends to agree. Prior to becoming San Diego Ramona High School's basketball coach two years ago, he coached Michigan prep for 31 years and in 1987 was inducted into the Michigan Basketball Coaches Hall of Fame. Although Coach Schaffer is for promoting high school basketball in Southern California, he insists that athletics should be a part of the learning experience, not an end in itself.

We agree. Which bring us back to the lessons that high schools should be learning from commercialization of intercollegiate sports. If that experience can teach the preps anything, it is that they should be especially wary of television networks and other self-serving interests bearing gifts.

Jim Wright should leave the House

During the national agony over whether President Richard M. Nixon should be impeached, the debate boiled down to two issues: (1.) Were there constitutional grounds for impeachment? (2.) Had Nixon's offenses so violated the integrity of his office that he no longer deserved the people's support?

Nixon resolved both questions by resigning. Speaker of the House James C. Wright Jr. should do the same.

Wright, D-Texas, a man from the state whose frontier spirit defines ethics by whether or not you get caught, has unquestionably debauched the House of Representatives by his unethical dealings. But most House members disagree, and many of them conduct their offices with the same callous contempt for ethics. To show how much they genuflect to Wright's political morals, they voted him the most respected member of the House in a U.S. News & World Report survey.

But what do we conclude about the level of a nation's morals when Wright, its speaker of the House, Pete Rose, one of its most popular and respected baseball heroes, and Oliver North, a former Marine hero and National Security Council aide, are simultaneously under investigation?

Of the three, Wright is by far the most despicable scalawag. He savaged a public trust that he had been elected to uphold. Condemning Wright for his alleged transgressions is easy, but as the righteous Republican Wall Street Journal editorialized, the real culprit is a "system" that encourages pork-barrel politics and subverts accountability.

What the Journal really means by this is that 99 percent of the House incumbents, an overwhelming majority of them Democrats, are re-elected. If the majority were Republican, I have a feeling the Journal wouldn't be crying in its editorial beer.

Nonetheless, the Journal's point about the arrogance of no accountability is well taken. Instead of congressional members being held to some mythical standard of accountability, they govern themselves by the three congressional "don'ts": (1.) Don't get caught. (2.) Don't fail to cover your anatomy. (3.) Don't embarrass your colleagues.

The reason that Wright definitely will not be re-elected speaker in 1990 is because he violated all three "don'ts." That was the rationale for a vote 22 years ago when the House excluded Rep. Adam Clayton Powell Jr.

Powell was accused of having violated a rule of the House that regulated House employees. The rule provided no penalty, but Powell was excluded anyway in a vote fueled more by racial hysteria than congressional probity.

In recalling that sorry episode, I don't come into court with clean hands. I was Powell's special assistant at the time. But in this instance, comparisons are not odious. Powell was formally accused of one House violation. The 66-year-old Wright is accused of 69 violations.

Read the Ethics Committee report's list of indictments that spell out Wright's contumacious bullying and manipulation of the system to line his pockets and those of his friends. It's impossible to conclude he should remain as speaker.

Jim Wright: The rut to ruin

WASHINGTON — In "Reflections of a Public Man," the exercise in vanity publishing which now is causing him such problems, House Speaker Jim Wright (D-Texas) includes a bit from one of the hundreds of graduation speeches he has given over the years. He advised the members of this class that "everyone who has ever traveled the road of life has followed certain rules," so they ought to "choose your rut carefully. You will be in it for the next 20 to 30 or 40 years."

Applying that fatuous sentiment to Wright's own career, you could say that he has traveled a path to power that has landed many others in the mud. Texas does that to its politicians.

We have seen the pattern before. Not just in the recent Senate nomination fight over former Sen. John Tower of Texas, but also with other prominent Texans who crashed just when their careers seemed to be soaring.

Lyndon Johnson, the former President; John B. Connally, the former governor; Ben Barnes, the former lieutenant governor — what is it about these men and their state? What is the falling they share with Jim Wright?

Their common fault is overreaching. Seeking more power than it is healthy for one man to hold, or seeking to enhance and insulate their power with the comfort of leveraged economic security.

I do not offer any judgment on the specifics of the House Ethics Committee's report on the Speaker. But it is clear to anyone who knows Texas that Wright has come face to face — as others have done before him — with the contradictions between the political standards of his home state and those the nation aspires to embrace and enforce at this moment.

Such rapid rise-and-fall patterns are not unique to Texas politics, but they have a special character there. The ground rules are different.

Texas not only spawns people of immense political talent, it grooms them at an incredibly early age. Wright was one of those precocious operatives, a decorated Army Air Force vet and member of the Texas legislature at age 23, mayor of his home city at 26, a member of Congress at 31.

Like many others, he achieved real political power before he ever had the opportunity to secure a financial base for himself or the wealth that would provide economic security for his family. Like them, Wright was motivated not by money but by power — and yet he had the same debts and the same material desires as his contemporaries. Many of them were as successful in extracting wealth from the expansive Texas environment as Wright and his breed were in extracting power.

That they would meet and do business was almost inevitable, given the Texas climate. A select few were spared the moral dilemmas of the situation because they had secured their wealth and their social position as a family inheritance before they entered the political world. George Bush and James A. Baker III were in that lucky position.

But for the poor boys like Johnson, Connally, Barnes and Wright or an impecunious preacher's son/academic like Tower, it was never quite so uncomplicated. Back in 1972, Neal R. Peirce, writing in "The Megastates of America," described the commonplace transaction by which emerging Texas politicians were assisted in achieving an economic status less embarrassingly modest than their political standing would seem to deserve.

"If an establishment politician appears on the scene without prior wealth," Peirce wrote, "steps are taken to see that he says a poor boy no longer, apparently with little concern that his independence might be undermined in the process. A favorite way to do this is to sell the man stock in an up-and-coming local corporation. One of the establishment's banks is lined up to lend the man money to buy the stock, with the securities themselves as sole collateral."

The process is aided by two conditions more prevalent in the Lone Star State than elsewhere. As Peirce wrote, "The political life of Texas is directed by a single monied establishment. There is no other state of the Union where the control is so direct, unambiguous and commonly accepted." And within that political/economic establishment, "manipulation of government for direct personal gain is simply not regarded as very immoral."

That is why, Peirce wrote, "Texas' monied establishment has its Achilles heel — ethics. There is not even in theory a line between private interest and public responsibility, as the establishment sees it."

Jim Wright is a product of that culture. The Texas system has ruined more brilliant political figures than larger states like California and New York have been capable of producing in the postwar period.

He has travelled a path to power that has landed many others in the mud.

Arafat says intifada really started in '86

TUNIS, Tunisia — The hundreds of Palestinians who have died in the bloody "intifada" chose martyrdom, according to Yasser Arafat. For them, it is better to die with stones in their hands in a land they call home than to be massacred in a foreign refugee camp.

In Arafat's mind, the intifada, or uprising, in the Israeli-occupied West Bank and Gaza Strip, did not start 16 months ago, as it is popularly reckoned. According to Arafat, it started in 1986 when Palestinians responded to his call for demonstrations to protest repeated attacks on Palestinians in refugee camps in Lebanon. The demonstrations were hardly worth a spot on the evening news. But now the intifada makes continuous headlines and the Palestinians are no longer dismissed as troublemakers. Suddenly, they look like martyrs.

Arafat gives no indication that their rock-throwing protest will end until Israeli troops are withdrawn.

We interviewed the chairman of the Palestine Liberation Organization recently under tight security. It was 2:30 a.m. in Tunis, and Arafat was wrapping up his business day.

Since December 1987, the world has focused on the uprising in the occupied territories, but Arafat's memory goes back to massacres of Palestinians in Beirut refugee camps beginning in 1982 when the PLO was trying to maintain a stronghold in Lebanon. "Unbelievable," he said. "It is a tragedy. So we are fed up being treated as rats, only good for sniping."

The PLO rallied its supporters to demonstrate against those attacks. The demonstrations, which Arafat said cost 39 Palestinian lives in the first part of 1987, went generally unnoticed until the wide scale rock throwing began on the West Bank in December 1987. Israeli soldiers responded with bullets and beatings.

Arafat says the press has only picked up on "this last wave" of demonstrations because "it is the longest, the most organized and involves the whole of the occupied territories."

Just as the date the intifada began is disputed by Arafat, so is the list of the dead. Israel has acknowledged a little more than 400 killed on the Palestinian side. Arafat says he has the names of 871 dead.

The Israelis may not have reported those deaths because the Palestinians themselves kept the names secret. If a Palestinian dies in a hospital, the death is reported. If he or she limps home and dies, Palestinian families hide the truth. They fear reprisals from Israelis who have been known to bulldoze the homes of suspected protesters.

Arafat's figures are also inflated with the names of elderly Palestinians who die, not of a bullet, but of a heart attack brought on by a protest. For the Palestinians, those are martyrs too.

Arafat also keeps the names of 32,000 who he says have been injured during the intifada — an estimated 5,500 of them suffering disabling injuries such as loss of limbs.

Arafat knows the intifada has stirred American sympathies too, including those of some American Jews normally devoted to Israel. "The American people need to understand why our masses — our children and our women — are continuing these 16 months in this last wave of the intifada. They are in need of freedom, to be free and not be slaves in their own land," he said. "We are not slaves. We are human beings."

For the Palestinians, those are martyrs too.

United Press International
NEW YORK — Prices opened higher Tuesday in moderately active trading of New York Stock Exchange issues.
The Dow Jones Industrial average, which fell 6.78 Monday, was up 10.44 to 2413.12 shortly after the market opened.
Advances led declines 508-281 among the 1,368 issues crossing the NYSE tape. Early turnover amounted to about 13,416,000 shares.
Before the market opened, the government said durable goods orders rose 0.8 percent in March, below Wall Street forecasts of a 1.4 percent rise.

Stock prices fell Monday in moderate trading, depressed by profit taking following the market's rally last week to closing levels not seen since the Oct. 19, 1987, crash.

Analysts said profit taking and players' concerns about the durable goods data and a report due out Wednesday on the first-quarter gross national product weighed on the market.

Dollar opens lower

United Press International
The dollar was lower against key foreign currencies Tuesday in early New York trading following what analysts termed a weak government report on the nation's durable goods. Gold was mostly higher.
The Commerce Department reported new orders for manufactured durable goods rose 0.8 percent or $1 billion in March, after falling a revised 3.6 percent in February.
February durable goods had been reported down 3.3 percent.
Durable goods are big ticket items, designed to last several years.
Most analysts had expected durable goods to rise 1.4 percent.

Market watchers in New York noted trading was light as most players awaited Wednesday's report on the nation's gross national product.
In earlier trading in Tokyo, the dollar eased slightly against the Japanese yen helped by Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita's decision to step down amid the widening political scandal.
The dollar closed at 131.17 off 0.21 yen from 131.38 yen Monday.
The dollar selling was accelerated by speculation that the Bank of Japan may raise the official discount rate, the dealers said.

WASHINGTON — Sales of aircraft pushed up new orders for manufactured durable goods 0.8 percent or $1 billion in March, the Commerce Department said Tuesday.
Orders for durable goods declined 2.8 percent last month when excluding transportation orders and dipped 1.2 percent when excluding orders by the Defense Department.
Durable goods are big ticket items, designed to last several years.
The overall increase in March followed declines of 3.6 percent in February and 2.8 percent in January, the department said. Durable orders last month totaled $124.9 billion.
Transportation orders jumped 10.4 percent to $36.8 billion with the huge increase in aircraft orders offsetting a decline in motor vehicles. Non-electrical machinery orders rose 1.4 percent to $22.1 billion, the department said.

Orders for electrical machinery fell 6.7 percent to $18.3 billion with more than half the decrease in communications equipment. Orders for primary metals fell 3.8 percent to $12.1 billion with both the steel and non-ferrous sectors showing declines, the department said.

Home sales drop in March

United Press International
WASHINGTON — Higher mortgage interest rates slowed existing-home sales for the third straight month in March and forced first-time purchasers out of the market, the National Association of Realtors said Tuesday.
Existing homes were sold at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 3.33 million in March, a 4.3 percent drop from 3.48 million in February, which in turn represented a 2 percent fall from January's 3.55 million, the association said.
The March rate was the lowest since the 3.32 million for February 1988, and down 1.5 percent from March 1988. In the first quarter of this year, existing-home sales were at an annual rate of 3.45 million, an 8.4 percent plunge from 3.77 million in the last quarter of 1988.

Entry-level buyers with modest incomes are the most affected by the higher interest rates, noted NAR President Ira Gribbin.
"First-time buyers are simply locked out of the market by unaffordable financing," Gribbin said. "Generally, when rates are up, they are the first to leave the market, and the last able to get back in."

The Federal Reserve Board has been tightening credit and nudging interest rates up to cool off the economy and stem inflation. Last week, the Commerce Department reported that new-home sales plummeted in March for the second consecutive month as higher interest rates slashed demand.
The national median price for existing homes in March was $93,100, up 4.7 percent from March 1988, according to the NAR. Last month's price was $1,200 higher than February's median of $91,900, a 1.3 percent gain.
The median is the middle reading in a statistical series arranged by magnitude.

creating a gateway to Heathrow."
Mayor Bettye Smith and Commissioners Bob Thomas and Lon Howell voiced reservations about Sanford's proposed $898,000 contribution to the joint project with Seminole County and Lake Mary.
Smith said cost estimates for Sanford's portion of the project needed to be more certain before the commission voted on the interlocal agreement.
"There seems to be some confusion about the money," Smith said. "I know there is with me."
"If we're going to spend money, we need to look to our youth," Thomas said, recommending greater city funding of recreation programming and facilities instead of funding beautification.
Howell said he supported the concept, but wants more concrete figures for Sanford's part and a guarantee that Seminole County will help with beautification for 17-92 and State Road 48.

"What do we do if we pass this and the (one-penny gas) tax doesn't pass?" Howell asked.
A one-penny gas tax has been recommended by the Lake Mary Boulevard corridor study committee.
Eckstein, who represents Sanford on the corridor study committee, said, "If the penny gas tax passes, there would be more or less 17 gateways," including State Road 48, County Road 46-A and Rinehart Road.
"I wish we wouldn't close our minds to this," Eckstein said. "...We need to be visionary."

back as 1971 and found no commissioner reappointed by the city.
Ball said his refusal to serve another term is a reflection of the city's difficulty in finding people to serve on the authority commission. City Commissioner A.A. McClanahan resigned from the housing authority chairmanship in 1988 after six months on the board, Ball pointed out.
Teri Buratti and Alberta Detreville will remain on the commission.
A tenant group last week asked Detreville to step down.
Housing authority commissioners are appointed by the city commission to serve four-year terms.

needed.
No date has been set for the joint meeting.
The city has in place a $150 impact fee or 600-square foot dedication for each residential dwelling unit. Based on two approaches, consultants for the city have suggested increasing the fee to $411 or $602.
Parks and Recreation Director Jim Jernigan said he supports an increase in the existing recreation impact fee, "but we're not advocating the high side."
Members of the fee committee have expressed concern that recreation may not be one of the city's top priorities, said city planner and board advisor Jay Marder.
Bob McKee, systems development fee committee member, said, "Since only a small portion (of the recreation budget) can be paid for with impact fees, that leaves a pretty big bullet for the city to bite."

"We just want to know what the city will commit to," McKee said.
Impact fees, charged to builders of new development, may only be used to expand services to accommodate growth — not for improving the level of service to the existing population.
One of the projects under consideration by both advisory boards is a community center proposed for the south Pinecrest area. While the city comprehensive plan calls for such a complex, Marder said the committee needs to know how high the center ranks in city priorities because only a portion is eligible for impact fee funding. The estimated cost for the project is $250,000.
Trying to determine what deficiencies the Sanford department may suffer, the recreation task force has been comparing the Sanford recreation department to those in Altamonte Springs and Winter Park.

Altamonte Springs has a recreation impact fee based on a formula of where a house is built and its size. Bill James of the Altamonte Springs recreation department said the fee for a three-bedroom house could range from $440 to $760.
Winter Park has no recreation impact fee.
"Sanford needs dollars, not land," James said. Land dedications are typically unuseable parcels, he said, so "they become more of a liability than an asset."
James said another critical source of funding is the local business community. "It's how you get out and deal or don't deal with businesspeople that determines success," he said.
Altamonte Springs recreation received more than $250,000 in donations and 20,000 volunteer hours last year, James said.

Some other comparisons between the three cities are:
• While Sanford budgets $1.04 million for recreation, the other cities each spend nearly twice that, according to budget information from those cities compiled by Sanford's recreation department. Altamonte Springs spends $2.7 million and Winter Park spends $2.5 million.
• Sanford has 10 regular full-time employees. Altamonte Springs has 41 and Winter Park has 18.
• Sanford has 145 acres of parkland, appraised at more than $8.9 million. Altamonte Springs has 152 acres and Winter Park has 148.1 acres of parks, plus a community center and 84 mini-parks.
• Altamonte Springs operates a public swimming pool and one therapeutic pool. Winter Park operates a public lake swimming area. Sanford filled in its two public pools in the late 1980s when they became too costly to operate, Jernigan said.
• Sanford operates two youth recreation centers, Westside Center and the temporary youth center in city hall. Winter Park has three community recreation centers. Altamonte Springs does not have a recreation community center.
• While Sanford and Winter Park each have 19 tennis courts, Winter Park has only five courts free to the public. Sanford has no fees to use tennis facilities. All eight tennis courts in Altamonte require a $1 per-hour fee for each person.
• Sanford has 15 basketball courts. Altamonte Springs has six courts and Winter Park has an indoor gymnasium and two outdoor courts.
Jernigan said the differences in programming and facilities reflect different tax bases and economies.
"We feel the two important issues involved are appropriate funding of facility development and appropriate funding of staffing for those facilities," Jernigan said. "Once you have those, quality is automatic."

HOLY WEEK SERVICES
Starting on Wednesday, April 26th, through Sunday, April 30th, St. John's Orthodox Church will be celebrating the ancient rite of Holy Week, ending on April 30th, Easter Sunday. Everyone is invited to join us in worship and fellowship as we relive the last few days of Jesus Christ.
APRIL 26th HOLY WEDNESDAY 6:00 P.M.
On this day the Priest prepares what is known as Unction Oil which is used throughout the year for the anointing of the sick and the healing of both their soul and body.
APRIL 27th HOLY THURSDAY 6:00 P.M.
Just as Jesus Himself had washed the feet of His disciples, so also on this day the Priest imitates Christ by the washing of the feet of his parishioners. This is followed by the commemoration of the Last Supper by the Priest breaking bread, and distributing it to the people along with a cup of wine. Then follows the Twelve Gospel Readings.
APRIL 28th HOLY FRIDAY 6:00 P.M.
On this day (also known as Great Lamentations or Good Friday), the day of the crucifixion of our Lord God and Saviour, Jesus Christ, is a very solemn one. The Body of Christ is removed from the Cross and is wrapped in a burial sheet. Then His Body is carried around the outside of the Church followed by the people bearing candles. His Body is then brought back into the Church where it is then laid to rest in a tomb composed of flowers.
APRIL 29th HOLY SATURDAY 6:00 P.M.
Services start at nine o'clock with the reading from the book of Acts by the congregation present and everyone is invited to share in the reading if they so desire. It is during this time that confessions will be heard. At 11:00 P.M. the Vesper Service is started. After Vespers the Church is darkened until 12:00 midnight when once again the church is illuminated with the light of Christ for the Holy Resurrection Service, and the Divine Liturgy.
APRIL 30th 12 NOON HOLY SUNDAY
Following the Easter Service a Agape Feast will be held in the Church social hall. Everyone is asked to bring a covered dish and join others in the joy of this Easter Season.

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Panel probes Wright oil well deal

SAN ANTONIO — Members of the House ethics committee are looking into the sale of a dry oil well that produced a considerable profit for the blind trust of Speaker Jim Wright. Committee members Monday night refused to comment on a closed-door interview with L.R. Brammer, president of the Shreveport, La., engineering firm that oversaw testing and production at the Orange County well. The House panel has said San Antonio entrepreneur Doug Jaffe sold a 4 percent stake in the well for $9,120 to Malligco, the investment company controlled by Wright and a friend, George Mallick of Fort Worth, Texas. On the same day, a company controlled by a West German business partner of Jaffe, Friedemann Striegel, bought the same interest in the well for about $440,000, despite tests showing the well was virtually dry. The deal produced a profit of more than $340,000 for Wright's blind trust. Wright has said he did not know anything about the deal, since it involved his blind trust.

CIA station chief indicted again

WASHINGTON — A federal grand jury indicted former CIA Costa Rican station chief Joseph Fernandez for the second time on charges that he lied to obstruct investigations of the Iran-Contra scandal. An earlier, five-count indictment against Fernandez was dismissed at the request of prosecutors last fall after a federal judge in Washington complained that the case should have been brought in suburban north Virginia, where he allegedly committed most of the crimes. The new four-count indictment, returned Monday in Alexandria, Va., similarly alleged that Fernandez lied to the CIA's inspector general's office and to the Tower Commission about secret U.S. efforts to arm the Nicaraguan Contra rebels during a ban on such aid. It charges him with two counts of obstruction of a proceeding and two counts of making false statements to conceal his role, and that of White House aide Oliver North. The charges carry a combined maximum penalty of 20 years in prison and $1 million in fines.

Retirement fund depleted by 2048

WASHINGTON — Retirement benefits paid by the Social Security Administration will be depleted by 2048, about two years earlier than originally projected, a government report showed. The 1989 annual report of the Social Security Board of Trustees noted that funds in Social Security's Old Age and Survivors Insurance and Disability Insurance Trust Funds would accumulate rapidly in ratio to the amount paid out until 2014, when the fund ratio is estimated to decline until the funds are exhausted in 2048. Officials offered no explanation for the two-year difference in last year's report, which projected an empty fund by 2048. In a related report, the Board of Trustees for Medicare's Hospital Insurance Trust Fund pointed out "with concern the rapid growth in the cost of the program, although the program is now financially sound." "Growth rates have been so rapid that outlays of the program have nearly doubled in the past five years. For the same time period, the program grew 32 percent faster than the economy as a whole. This growth rate shows no sign of abating despite recent efforts to control the cost of the program," the report said.

Ozone depletors named

WASHINGTON — The EPA believes two unregulated chemical cleaners, methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride, probably are major contributors to ozone depletion and controls on them may be necessary, officials confirmed. The officials confirmed Monday the Environmental Protection Agency last week warned industry against using the two chemicals, saying new scientific evidence indicates they play a larger role than previously believed in erosion of the Earth's protective ozone layer, which screens out harmful radiation. "The analyses show they contribute to the problem in a way that is probably unacceptable," John Hoffman, director of the EPA's global change division, said in a phone interview. Hoffman's remarks followed a low-profile EPA announcement run in the April 17 Federal Register in which the agency served notice on industry that methyl chloroform and carbon tetrachloride may be added to the list of ozone-depleting chemicals regulated by international treaty.

Iowa victims' families consoled

United Press International

NORFOLK, Va. — President Bush stopped to offer personal condolences to the families who lost loved ones aboard the USS Iowa, and by the time he was at his next stop on a cross-country trip, the Navy was offering its most revealing glimpses yet into the battleship tragedy. "Tough day down there," Bush said after Air Force One was aloft Monday. "It was so moving." By Monday afternoon, Capt. Fred Moosally of the Iowa and a survivor of Wednesday's explosion were offering new insights into the blast inside a mammoth steel gun turret. "In my opinion it was a freak accident," said gunners mate Kendall Trullit, 21, of Tampa, Fla. "I don't see a likelihood of it ever happening again." Trullit worked in the magazine at the bottom of the turret, where two safety walls protected sailors from the explosion. Moosally said the blast that killed 47 sailors occurred while the center gun was being loaded with 550 pounds of powder. The right and left guns were loaded and Moosally was turning to tell the supervising admiral to watch his best crew at work when the accident occurred. At the memorial, Moosally said no sailor aboard the vessel will forget the crewmen of Turret No. 2. "They were the life, the spirit and the soul of our ship." Bush, making the first stop in a four-state trip, said he had been comforted by the sight of the Iowa steaming alongside while he was a combat aviator during World War II. He said he understood what it was like to stare at the empty bunk of a lost mate. Bush said the 47 sailors who died "came to the Navy as strangers, served the as shipmates and friends, and left the Navy as brothers in eternity. They proudly served on a great battleship, the USS Iowa." At the memorial service, 47 symbolic roses lined the podium in front of Bush and a huge U.S. flag served as a backdrop. The 30-minute service included mournful processions by the Atlantic Fleet band before Bush and his wife, Barbara, passed among the grieving relatives. In what later proved to be a mild embarrassment to the White House, the Bushes were led away by a military escort before covering all the rows of relatives, informed they had met all the immediate family members present as planned. White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater later termed the incident an unfortunate mistake and said Bush "clearly saw these people were distressed and certainly would have liked to console them all." The Navy said 371 relatives of the victims attended the non-denominational service, including 181 wives, children, parents or siblings. The aircraft hanger held 3,000 seats and many more sailors stood along the sides. It was the first time in his 3-month-old presidency that Bush had to lead a nation in mourning. Bush wiped back tears while paying tribute to "the men behind the guns." During the service, Bush told the widows. "You have always been strong for the sake of love. You must be heroically strong now. ... As for the children of the lost, throughout your lives you must never forget your father was America's pride. "This world is a more peaceful place because of the USS Iowa. So never forget that your friends died for the cause of peace and freedom." Bush promised the Navy would find the reason for the explosion that occurred during routine maneuvers last week off the coast of Puerto Rico. Members of the investigative team led by Rear Adm. Richard Milligan were aboard the ship while Bush was making his remarks, a Navy spokesman said. The investigators are looking at mechanical failure or human error. The Navy is so wary of errant sparks igniting the powder bags that sailors do not wear metal while inside the turrets.

Quayle praises Reagan

United Press International

LOS ANGELES — Vice President Dan Quayle, before leaving Monday on a trip to Australia and Southeast Asia, paid homage to Ronald Reagan and pointed to the Soviet withdrawal from Afghanistan as a key success of the former president. During a 7-hour stopover in Los Angeles before flying to Australia, Indonesia, Singapore and Thailand, Quayle and his wife Marilyn visited Ronald and Nancy Reagan for a few minutes in Reagan's office in a high-rise office building. Quayle presented Reagan with an American flag that had flown over the American Embassy in Afghanistan prior to the 1979 Soviet invasion, then hoisted again last year to mark the Soviet withdrawal. "I can't think of anything more appropriate than to give you this flag," Quayle said to the former chief executive. During his brief stay, Quayle addressed members of Southern California's Samoan community and later spoke to a group of conservative Republicans, in which he again sang Reagan's praises and pointed to the importance of the former president's support of Afghan rebels who fought Soviet troops. He portrayed the Soviet withdrawal in Afghanistan as a watershed event. "I believe the defeat of Soviet forces in Afghanistan is having a profound impact on the evolution of the Soviet political system," Quayle said in prepared remarks.

Exxon's claims questioned

United Press International

VALDEZ, Alaska — Scientists and state officials dismissed as ludicrous Exxon's claims that at least two-thirds of its 10.1 million-gallon oil spill is either gone or has been rendered harmless by man and nature. Bill Lamoreaux, Alaska's on-site spill coordinator, said Exxon's statements made at a Monday press briefing were extremely optimistic at best. "They figure 35 percent of the oil will evaporate naturally," he said. "I've looked at Prudhoe Bay spill surveys, and none of them report evaporation at anywhere near that level. We've got oil sloshing from here to Kodiak Island (100 miles away). The idea that 70 percent is gone or harmless is ludicrous." But Terry Koonce, an Exxon senior vice president, said at a rain-soaked news conference overlooking Valdez Bay that "we're way ahead of schedule." "We're recovering about 3,000 barrels per day and are rapidly clearing the sound." The remarks appeared to contradict eyewitness accounts since the tanker Exxon Valdez ran aground in Prince William Sound March 24, creating the largest spill in U.S. history. "Exxon has pledged to clear more than 300 miles of shoreline, but we've only seen a few hundred feet cleared in four weeks of activity," said Dennis Kelso, the state's top environmental officer. "I don't mean to bash Exxon, but the record just doesn't support the claim." Exxon's press briefing, the first in more than a week, coincided with the arrival of the USS Juneau, a Navy troop carrier contracted by Exxon to provide offshore staging areas and shelter for cleanup crews. The ship carries nine landing craft and berths 840 passengers. Sen. Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, toured the area Monday and added to the criticism that Exxon's mobilization was a month too late. He also said the oil giant should pay for an inspection program designed to minimize damage to Alaska's $3 billion-a-year seafood business and make sure no contaminated products reach market. "The important thing is that oil has not saturated into the water column used by salmon, our luxury product," Stevens said. "That means salmon should not be contaminated in any way. But getting that message to the lower 48 (states) is another matter." He said Exxon cannot afford to wait for wind and water to dispose of the oil. "God didn't put it there, man did," he said. "And man had damn well better pick it up." Winds of 35 knots and 18-foot seas stalled the cleanup Monday. Surface skimming operations were suspended and cleanup crews confined their efforts to sheltered coves and inlets near the spill site.

Chinese protesters get donations

BEIJING — College students in their second week of protest took their campaign for democracy directly to average Chinese Tuesday in street-corner appeals, winning unusual displays of support and mounting donations from crowds of Beijing workers.

A citywide boycott of classes continued for a second day on major campuses and students again rallied on several, with increasingly sharp criticism of senior Chinese leaders, including Deng Xiaoping.

"Give me liberty or give me death," read a small cloth banner scrawled in English on the campus of Beijing University.

No major demonstrations were reported on the ninth day of student unrest triggered by the April 15 death of former leader Hu Yaobang. The protests led to the biggest anti-government rallies in Beijing in more than a decade, smaller protests in five Chinese cities and rioting in the central cities of Xian and Changsha.

Soviet Central Committee meets

MOSCOW — The Communist Party Central Committee opened a one-day session today that Western diplomats said could result in a purge of senior officials rejected by voters in a recent parliamentary election.

The official Tass news agency said the meeting, presided over by Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, opened at 10 a.m. (2 a.m. EDT).

"The participants at the plenum are considering some questions of the work of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union Central Committee and local party organizations," Tass said. "A report on the subject is being made by General Secretary ... Mikhail Gorbachev."

Tass said the plenum was expected to "complete its work" in one day, but gave no further details of what was on the agenda.

Western diplomats said they expected a purge of senior party officials who were rejected by voters during last month's elections for members of a new parliamentary body, the Congress of People's Deputies.

"The election has really been a shock to the party apparat," a Western diplomat said Monday. "I think that Mikhail Gorbachev has to fire someone from the Politburo for his democratization to be credible."

Israeli tourists smash windows

JERUSALEM — Israeli tourists whose buses were stoned rampaged with Jewish settlers through the West Bank city of Hebron, smashing the windows of Arab cars and shops, military and Palestinian sources said.

Elsewhere Monday in the occupied territories, Israeli soldiers shot and killed a Palestinian suspect who tried to escape. In the Gaza Strip, at least 13 people were wounded by army gunfire in scattered clashes, Palestinian sources said.

The incident in Hebron, 20 miles south of Jerusalem, began at about noon when three buses of Israelis were stoned in the center of the city, an army spokesman said. The Israelis were on their way to the Tomb of the Patriarchs, where tradition holds Abraham was buried. The site is holy to Jews and Moslems.

The Israelis left their buses and were joined by West Bank Jewish settlers. Palestinian sources said about 200 Israelis threw stones, smashing the windows of about 20 shops and 30 cars.

During the rampage, Arab residents climbed to their roofs and began shouting "God is Great."

Aquino to talk about U.S. bases

MANILA, Philippines — President Corason Aquino said Tuesday she expects to begin talks later this year with U.S. officials on the future of strategic American military bases operated under a lease that expires in 1991.

"I think we all know that by September 1990 we have to give notice to the American government whether they still can continue keeping their facilities here or not," Aquino told reporters.

"So it is but logical to assume that we will be talking before that time and based on these talks we will come to a decision on what the fate of the bases will be."

"Yes, I think that it is safe to assume that by the end of this year, talks will be started," Aquino said.

Aquino skirted a question on whether the beginning of the talks would coincide with her planned second visit to the United States. She also clarified that President Bush invited her personally to visit Washington at a "mutually acceptable date" yet to be arranged.

Aquino visited Washington in October 1986 following the popularly backed military revolt in February of that year which drove 20-year ruler Ferdinand Marcos into exile in Hawaii.

The Philippines is home to Clark Air Base, Subic Bay Naval Base and four smaller facilities under a 1947 treaty expiring in 1991. Clark and Subic are the oldest and largest U.S. overseas installations and are regarded as vital in projecting American military might in Asia and the Western Pacific.

Korean gets death for plane bombing

SEOUL, South Korea — A confessed North Korean agent was sentenced to death Tuesday by a Seoul court for her role in the 1987 bombing of a Korean Air jetliner that disappeared over Southeast Asia with 115 people on board.

Kim Hyon-hui, 27, who said she carried out the bombing on orders from the son of North Korean leader Kim Il-sung, wept as she was given the maximum sentence by the same three-judge panel that earlier convicted her of murder, destruction of an aircraft and violation of Korea's National Security Law.

But Kim is unlikely to face execution, official sources said. President Roh Tae-woo is expected eventually to grant her a special pardon because of her potential as a first-hand witness to North Korean atrocities, the sources said.

"Under the spirit of the Montreal Convention anyone who attacks a civil airliner must face the capital punishment," Seoul District Criminal Court Presiding Judge Chung Sang-hak said in imposing the sentence.

From United Press International reports

Takehita resigns over scandal

United Press International

TOKYO — Prime Minister Noboru Takehita said Tuesday he will resign to preserve democracy and restore trust in Japanese politics following the country's worst political scandal in recent history.

"I decided to resign in the hope that public confidence in politics will be restored, but this must ultimately be decided by the people," Takehita said at an 11:30 a.m. news conference at his official residence.

"The scandal has posed a serious threat to parliamentary democracy," Takehita said. "I deeply apologize to the people for this."

Takehita said he and his Cabinet will resign after approval of the 1989 budget by the Diet, Japan's Parliament, which is expected in May.

Masayoshi Ito, 75, a leading member of the ruling party and former foreign minister, is reported to be the leading candidate to replace Takehita.

Ito, who said Monday he did not want the job because of his failing health, said Tuesday he is not in a position to answer the question of whether he will serve.

Takehita declined to comment on his successor, saying the matter must be decided through the Liberal Democratic Party.

Business leaders welcomed the resignation as a sign that the nearly year-old bribery scandal may soon come to an end. Prices on the Tokyo Stock Exchange shot up.

But Takehita's political opponents said his resignation would not bring an end to the scandal and pledged to continue the investigation.

The Takehita resignation seemed to catch the Bush administration off guard. "Don't know anything about it," President Bush told reporters upon arriving in San Jose, Calif.

White House press secretary Marlin Fitzwater added. "Whatever the situation ... we would not expect (the U.S.-Japanese) relationship to change in any substantive way."

Political analysts in Tokyo said the resignation is not likely to bring a change in Japan's foreign policy and may lead to more stability in foreign affairs if it enhances the ruling party's power.

Takehita said he would go ahead with his planned nine-day trip to five Asian nations scheduled to begin Saturday.

The scandal, the worst to hit Japan since the end of World War II, toppled Takehita's 18-month-old government and threatened the ruling Liberal Democratic Party's three decades of leadership in the Diet.

In recent weeks Takehita had lost support within the party as members feared Takehita's involvement in the scandal would spell disaster in the polls in an upper house election in July.

The resignation is likely to boost the ruling party's chances in the election in which half of the 252 seats in the upper house will be contested, political analysts said.

"The pressure will be softened," said Yoichi Mausuoe, a political science professor at Tokyo University. "The LDP will lose less seats in the upper house election than they were anticipating."

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Deer's dinger revives Brewers

Rob Deer felt an obligation to the struggling Brewers, and handled his duties with enough power to give Milwaukee a last-gasp victory.

Deer slammed a dramatic two-run homer with two out in the bottom of the ninth inning, giving the Brewers a 5-4 come-from-behind victory over the Minnesota Twins.

"In this situation, when we're not playing good, it has to take something from someone to hopefully pick us up," said Deer, who struck out three times and popped up in his first four at bats. "I had to do something to get us back."

The victory was especially sweet for the Brewers, who had lost two games over the weekend to Detroit.

Elsewhere in the American League, New York nipped Cleveland 6-3, Detroit blanked Seattle 1-0, California edged Baltimore 3-2 and Oakland squeaked by Toronto 5-4.

NBA PLAYOFFS

Abdul-Jabbar begins last stand

The Los Angeles Lakers begin a final sendoff to Kareem Abdul-Jabbar Thursday night when the defending champions face the Portland Trail Blazers in one of four games on the NBA playoff schedule that night.

Los Angeles has shown its age this season and struggled at times. The Lakers can bank on their vast postseason experience, a commodity that should never be discounted come playoff time, but their struggles this season show a team that has lost some of its competitive fire. They face a team that qualified for the playoffs on the last day of the season.

In other games Thursday, it's Philadelphia at New York, Milwaukee at Atlanta, and Golden State at Utah. All opening-round series are best-of-five.

On Friday night the other eight teams begin. The Detroit Pistons, who took the Lakers to Game 7 in the finals last year, open against the Boston Celtics. Detroit improved on last season, finishing with the best record in the NBA at 63-19.

NHL PLAYOFFS

Calgary sweeps Los Angeles

INGLEWOOD, Calif. — After struggling against Vancouver in the first round of the playoffs, the Calgary Flames received a welcome break in the Smythe Division final. They met the Los Angeles Kings.

Sparked by Wayne Gretzky, the Kings were formidable this year, but they had little success against the Flames. That trend continued into the playoffs, with Joe Mullen once again leading the way for Calgary.

The American-born right wing scored twice Monday night to help the Flames complete a four-game sweep of Los Angeles and advance to the Stanley Cup semifinals with a 5-3 victory.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Concentration key for Padres

ATLANTA — Walt Terrell, who combined with Mark Davis for a seven-hit, 5-2 win over Atlanta, said the San Diego Padres kept their minds on the game and played well defensively even if they didn't perform well at the plate.

"A lot of guys played very well," Terrell said, "and if they didn't hit well, they played defense well. That shows they kept their minds on the game."

Carmelo Martinez, who hit a key homer, said the Padres "can play a lot better than we played tonight."

"We haven't been hitting very good and our pitchers have been the one taking care of everything."

Terrell, 2-2, surrendered six hits over seven innings and Davis earned his ninth save with one-hit relief over the final two innings.

In the only other National League game it was: Philadelphia 8, Houston 4.

Rams lead All-SAC

From staff reports

Whenever an all-anything team is named, the team leaders of the organization naming the team are generally well represented.

And so it is this year with the All Seminole Athletic Conference baseball team. Lake Mary High School, this year's co-champions, placed four on the first team while Lyman, the other co-champion, and second place Lake Brantley each had three named to the first team.

Leading the squad are pitchers Alex Birle of Lake Mary, Jody Spelman of Oviedo and Lyman's Jim Lucas, Birle and Spelman led Seminole County with 84 strikeouts apiece.

At catcher is James Joyce of Seminole. Completing the infield is Jim Morse of Lake Brantley at first, Lake Mary's Scott Conklin at second, Lake Brantley's Jason Varitek at third and Kevin Wainscott of Lyman at shortstop.

In the outfield are Chris Radcliff of Lyman, Aaron Iatarola of Lake Mary and Eddie Zaremba of Lake Brantley. The designated hitter is Lake Mary's Derek Wolfe.

This year's second team is dominated by three players from Oviedo: pitcher Greg Twigg, third baseman Greg Hughes and outfielder Micah Kinnaird.

Seminole's Ron Cox and Shane Stuffed of Lake Mary complete the outfield with Steve Mize of DeLand getting the nod at designated hitter.

This year's honorable mention honorees are,

by position, are:

Pitcher — Brian Cole, DeLand; Chuck Lamb, Lyman; Matt Fair and Mark Gabrovic, Lake Brantley; Bobby Moose, Lake Howell; Andy Anson, Lake Mary.

Catcher — Kevin Twigg, Oviedo; Jerry Thurston, Lake Brantley; Joey Vodek, DeLand; Chad Dunbar, Lake Mary; Andy Spolski, Lyman.

First base — Bubba Corsi, Seminole; Joe Difrancesco, Lake Mary.

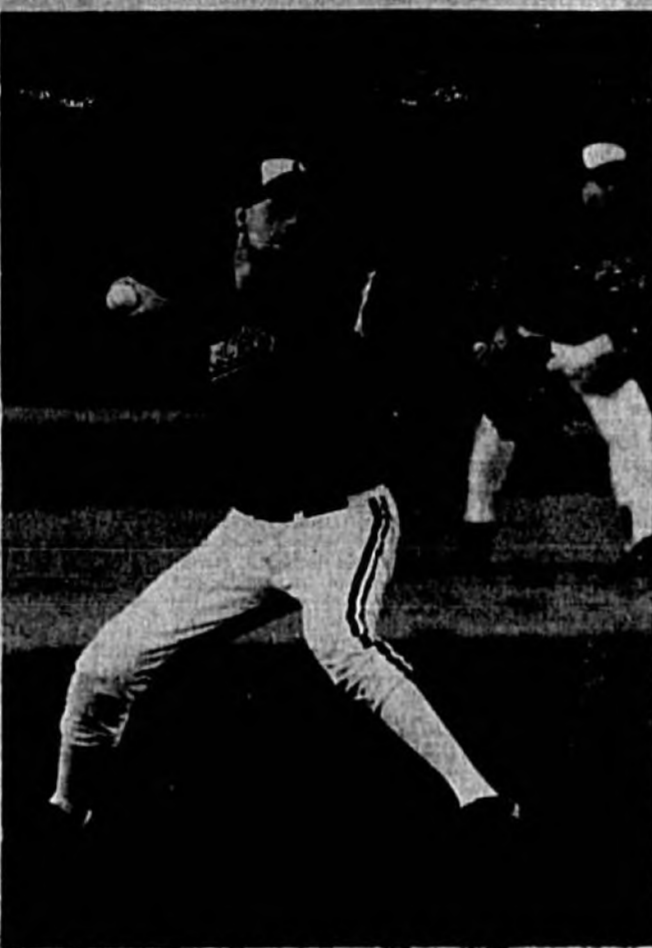

Second base — Luis Guevera, Lake Howell; Jeff Jackson, Lyman.

Third base — Neil James, Lake Mary.

Shortstop — Jason Sewell, Lake Mary; Kevin Wright, DeLand.

Designated hitter — Bubba Fore, Oviedo.

Two of the three pitchers on this year's All Seminole Athletic Conference first team will be in action this evening as the district tournaments begin. ## 4A-9: Role of favorite divided

By TONY DeSORMIER
Herald sports editor

Just who the favorite is in this year's 4A-District 9 baseball tournament depends basically on who you ask. If you ask, for example, Coach Bob McCullough of top-seeded Lyman, you'll get this answer:

"Certainly, picking up (left-handed pitcher) Heath Greenlee (a transfer from Winter Park) is a pretty good boost," said McCullough. "Personally, I think the pitching can help us. But I still think that, man for man, Lake Mary has the best team."

So you put the question to Lake Mary coach Allen Tuttle, whose team is seeded second and will play DeLand at 7 p.m. today at Stetson University's Conrad Park, and you get another answer.

"Lyman is in the driver's seat, especially with their new left-hander," said Tuttle, adding later, "I feel like there are a lot of even clubs in this tourney. You have to have good pitching, good defense and timely hitting."

The first step toward deciding this debate will be taken this afternoon at 2 p.m. when Lake Howell goes up against Mainland at Conrad Park. At 4 p.m., Lake Brantley meets Spruce Creek followed by Lake Mary playing DeLand at 7 p.m.

Lake Mary figures to have a cakewalk over the Bulldogs of DeLand. But Tuttle refuses to take anyone lightly, even a team like DeLand that was 0-20 against district opponents.

"Playing a team like that scares me," said Tuttle. "They don't have anything to lose. You never know when they're going to put something together. We beat them 5-2 earlier this year, so they're not that bad."

3A-6: Tribe, Lions look to advance

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole and Oviedo will be looking to pull together and come up with strong pitching and timely hitting when they begin action in the district 3A-6 tonight at the Astro's Training Complex in Kissimmee.

The Tribe will open against co-host Kissimmee Osceola at 7:30 with Oviedo taking on Edgewater at the same time. The complex has three separate fields and two games will be at 4:30 with the other two set for a 7:30 start.

"I feel like the competition we've faced this year will benefit us," Oviedo coach Mike Ferrell said. "We'll have to play our game, though, we have to get good pitching and play solid defense and put some runs on the board."

Edgewater beat the Lions, 3-1, in the teams' only confrontation this season and Ferrell would like to even the score tonight. The game was played in the Edgewater kickoff tournament at the beginning of the season.

"We played that game early and the season and both teams have improved quite a bit since then," Ferrell said. "We're hoping to get our bats going this game. We have to come out and be aggressive."

The Lions will look for pitchers Jody Spelman and Gregg Twigg to carry them in the tourney with Micah Kinnaird and B.J. Calapa adding relief.

Lady Hawks prepare with another win

From staff reports

ORLANDO — Lake Howell pounded out 13 hits, six for extra bases, and hammered host Dr. Phillips 13-2 Monday afternoon in prep softball action at Dr. Phillips High School.

The Lady Silver Hawks improved to 16-5 overall and will return to action at home against Lyman on Wednesday in the opening round of the district tournament. The Lady Panthers fell to 7-11 on the season.

"This was just a team up for the week's events," Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano said. "I'm glad we had a game instead of practice."

Lake Howell put the game away early as it plated seven runs in the top of the first inning. Missy Martinez led the rally off with a single followed by a fielders choice by Marie Peters with both runners being safe. Leslie Barton then singled followed by a Julie Barton double that scored two runs. Christy Dees then reached on an a fielders choice that scored a run. Kristy York followed with a single and an RBI before Val Monico reached on an error that scored a run.

Windy Van Horne then ripped a triple to left center to bring in two more runs before Diann Lowe hit into a fielders choice that scored Van Horne and gave the Lady Silver Hawks a 7-0 lead.

Renee Sanville singled in two runs and doubled in two more for the Lake Mary softball team in their doubleheader sweep of DeLand on Monday.

Lake Mary sweeps SAC doubleheader

From staff reports

Lake Mary's Lady Rams combined for 31 hits in two games to take a doubleheader from DeLand, 14-7 and 5-3, Monday afternoon at DeLand High School.

Lake Mary improved to 14-9 and will host Daytona Beach Mainland in the opening round of the district tournament Wednesday at 4:15. The Lady Bulldogs fell to 6-10 overall and will take on Spruce Creek on the road in the opening round of the district tournament.

"We came out and really stroked the ball," Lake Mary coach Karen Nolen said. "We strung hits together well and came up with the hits when we had runners in scoring position."

Lake Mary opened the scoring in game one with two runs in the top of the first with Heather Golden leading off with a single and advancing to third on a double by Paula Songer. Renee Sanville then reached on an error to score both runners.

DeLand came up with a run in the bottom half of the inning and took a 3-2 lead in the bottom of the second when it scored two more runs.

Lake Mary reclaimed the lead in the top of the fourth inning as it plated three runs. Dena Morash led off with a single before Tara Calvin connected on a base hit. Suzanne Dubouillet then singled before Robyn Williams stroked a run scoring single. Terry Peters then singled to score another run before Heather Golden singled in the final run of the game.

The Lady Rams added four runs in the sixth as Dubouillet led off and reached on an error. Williams followed with a base hit before a sacrifice brought in the second run of the inning. Sanville then doubled to bring in the final two runs and gave Lake Mary a 10-3 lead.

Lake Mary added four more runs in the top of the seventh before surrendering four in the bottom half of the frame allowing DeLand to cut the lead to the final margin.

"We had a defensive breakdown in the final inning," Nolen said. "We just didn't continue playing as hard as we were and gave up some runs because of it."

Seminole Veterinary Hospital warns of mixing cats and aspirin

Seminole Veterinary Hospital is a full-service hospital for your pet located on 25th Street, east of the Winn-Dixie on Airport Boulevard.

They can provide the latest in animal medical, surgical and dental care as well as boarding in their newly expanded facility.

The doctors there want to remind you that the medicines that work for you may be poisonous to your pet, especially cats.

Acetaminophen, found in products such as Tylenol and Sinutab, changes a cat's red blood cells ability to carry oxygen. The results can be fatal, causing cyanosis or suffocation. Lesser damage in the form of anemia and liver damage is also possible.

Dogs and especially cats can suffer toxic effects from the ingestion of aspirin. The animals cannot metabolize the drug in the same way a human can. Because it will remain in the system for long periods of time, the aspirin can cause bleeding and ulceration of the stomach and intestines. Such severe bleeding may put an animal at risk for his life.

Antibiotics are prescribed for pets at different dosages and intervals for animals than they are for people and great care must be taken when giving your medicine to a pet.

Come to Seminole Veterinary Hospital and discuss medicine, dosages and possible hazards to your pet with a doctor there. Call them at 322-8465 to set up an appointment for your pet and you.

Computers map Alaska oil spill

United Press International

VALDEZ, Alaska - A small chopper lands on the cobbled shore of Seal Island and Erich Gundlach hops to the ground holding a laptop computer above his head to keep it dry.

Gundlach, a Rhode Island software developer, is running a visual check of the oil-contaminated beach to see if it matches coordinates on his computer map.

He does this every day. Accuracy is important. The mapping system he helped create has become an invaluable tool for scientists, journalists and cleanup crews grappling with the nation's worst oil spill.

But like the bumble bee engineers said couldn't fly, Gundlach's maps, cooked up using ordinary desktops and off-the-shelf software, weren't supposed to work.

"Everybody laughed at what we were trying to do," said Gundlach's partner, Marshal Kendzior, a biologist turned programmer for the state of Alaska. "We were using ordinary store-bought stuff and the computers didn't even match.

"Our software was intended to lay out city

Cat scratch disease is usually harmless

DEAR DR. GOTT: What are the symptoms of cat scratch fever? Sometimes when I play with our cat, she will scratch me. This is occasionally followed by a cold and diarrhea. Is this from our cat or another source?
DEAR READER: The cold and diarrhea come from another source.

Your daughter seems to know something is wrong, yet she may be afraid or unwilling to be seen by a professional. I suggest that you seek the services of a psychiatrist in your community, or look for help from another doctor who is familiar with mood disorders. Your family doctor, a community social service agency,

MEDICINE

Cat scratch disease is a harmless infection caused by a break in the skin from a cat scratch. The ailment is characterized by a pimple at the site of the scratch, followed by painfully swollen lymph glands near the pimple. If the scratch is on the hand or arm, the glands in the armpit may swell; if the pimple is on the leg, the glands in the groin may become uncomfortable. Fever, headache and malaise (feeling ill) may accompany the disease, which usually subsides within a few weeks. The antibiotic tetracycline may aid recovery. Rarely, patients may develop complications of cat scratch disease including encephalitis (brain infection) and osteomyelitis (bone infection).
To my knowledge, diarrhea and cold symptoms are unrelated to cat scratches.

DEAR DR. GOTT: My 32-year-old daughter is a manic depressive. Three to four times a year she finds herself unable to cope. She just wants to "run away." Please don't tell me to talk to our family doctor. She just isn't any help. I need guidance.

DEAR READER: Manic depression, now known as bi-polar mood disorder, consists of cyclic emotional swings of excitement and euphoria alternating with depression. The condition probably has a biochemical basis and is easily treated with medicine, such as lithium, under medical supervision. The problem is getting patients to take the medicine; during the euphoric phase, they think they don't need it and during the depressed period, they don't care.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
South needed very little from North to have a play for slam. Of course he remembered a very good rule: If you need specific cards from partner to make your contract at a very high level, he won't have them. South hoped that just maybe North would have a black ace and perhaps the K-Q, K-J-10 or Q-J-10 of diamonds. It was probably a lot to hope for, but that was his excuse for bidding the slam.
Since the slam should be set, East-West did well not to bid six spades as a sacrifice. They also did well not to double, since they proceeded to misdefend.
West led the king of clubs, and East unhesitatingly signaled encouragement with the six-spot. West blithely continued with the ace of clubs. That made 12 tricks a cakewalk for declarer. He ruffed the second club and ran all his trumps, keeping dummy's remaining 10 of clubs as a threat card against East, who had to keep the queen. Unfortunately, to keep that club queen, East had to discard diamonds, and declarer eventually took the 12th trick with his lowly five of diamonds.

The right defense is tricky. A low club at trick two would not work, since a double squeeze would then develop, with West needing to save the club ace and East having to hold diamonds. As a result, neither defender could guard spades. But the spade queen played at trick two would cover all the bases. No doubt much perspiration would be produced as declarer played out his hearts, but the ultimate result would favor the defense.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
April 26, 1989
Lots of moving around could be in the year ahead for you. You might make a change of residence and you are also likely to do more traveling than usual.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Have faith in yourself and your abilities today, because it will not only serve to motivate you, it will also provide inspiration for people with whom you'll be involved. Taurus, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Don't accept conditions today that are not to your advantage. You have the wherewithal to make positive changes if you really set your mind to doing so.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) In partnership arrangements today your ally or counterpart might be able to do things more effectively than you. You'll still be a team even if you have to play second fiddle.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're not likely to be happy today if your hands and mind aren't productively engaged in some meaningful endeavor. Focus on things that can further your ambitious interests.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You'll be well received by others today and good things could happen for you through your social involvements. If you can't be near the folks you love, love the folks you're near.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Several loosely structured matters of importance can be tightened up today or concluded to your satisfaction. You already know what these priorities are, so get moving on them early.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) This could be one of those days when you'll feel restless if you don't have a lot of things to do. Don't be afraid to take on two or even three projects simultaneously.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Don't collect guilt today if your thoughts are centered on personal gain. Everybody gets a turn and this could be your day to come out ahead.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Your better qualities will be very evident to others today and when you make the scene, things should start happening. You'll innately know how to pump pep into the proceedings.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Occasionally we're fortunate enough to have everything fall into place without too much effort. This could be true for you today both careerwise and financially.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're planning something social today, be sure to include a sensitive, old friend. This person will appreciate being remembered and could also turn out to be a big plus at your happening.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) In competitive developments today you are likely to be a shade or two better than those who compete against you. If or when you win, do so in a gracious, unpretentious manner.
