NASA Warned Of Booster Seals Danger

By William Harwood
UPI Science Writer

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI) — Documents that reportedly show NASA knew of potentially dangerous problems with shuttle rocket boosters before the fatal launch of Challenger prompted a presidential review board to call a closed meeting today.

The space agency, which has had little or nothing to say about its internal investigation of history's worst space disaster, refused comment Sunday on a report in The New York Times listing agency documents that chart a history of trouble with crucial seals between fuel segments of the solid rocket boosters.

The newspaper cited a memorandum from a NASA analyst last July that said flight safety was "being compromised by potential failure of the seals." The analyst also said: "Failure during launch would certainly be catastrophic."

Although there was no public comment, NASA officials privately acknowledged discovering the "erosion" of booster seals, most of it minor, after many shuttle flights.

Challenger's external fuel tank exploded Jan. 28, blowing the shuttle apart and killing its seven-member crew, after an apparent rupture at or near a seal between the bottom two of the four fuel segments that made up the ship's right-side solid rocket booster.

Flame escaping from the booster's side may have heated the external tank enough to raise internal pressure to the rupture point, setting off a titanic explosion about a minute and 13 seconds after liftoff.

Navy divers stood by today to resume searching for shuttle wreckage on the ocean floor where one of the two solid rocket boosters is thought to be resting. NASA believes Challenger's right-side booster has been located in 1,100 feet of water about 40 miles east of the cape.

Former Secretary of State William Rogers, chairman of the presidential panel investigating the Challenger disaster, Sunday responded to the Times report by asking NASA for all its documents relating to solid rocket booster seals.

A closed-door session was scheduled for late today with a public meeting planned for Tuesday. NASA issued a statement late Sunday that promised an agency spokesman would be present Tuesday to answer questions.

Casselberry Fire Damages Dwellings; 7 Families Flee

Arson was the cause of a fire that damaged two apartments early today at the Sundance Apartments in Casselberry, forcing seven families to flee, according to an investigator for Seminole County. There were no reports of injury.

Ray Pippin, fire investigator, said the 1 a.m. fire at 1400 Ash Circle completely destroyed two apartment units and damaged others. He declined to give out further information saying it might jeopardize his investigation. There is a suspect, he said.

Six of the other apartments in the eight-apartment complex were occupied at the time and were damaged by smoke and water, Pippin said. Red Cross personnel were helping to relocate those families, he said. Ten people living in five of the units have been or will be relocated to other empty units in the apartment area, said a Red Cross official. Tenants of two other apartment have not been reached and the other apartment was empty.

Casselberry Fire Department sent three engines and a rescue unit to the scene. The county sent a pumper, two firefighters and a battalion chief. They left around 2:30 a.m.

Damage estimates were not available.

Pippin said the fire started in an unoccupied ground-floor apartment and burned its way through the roof of the occupied apartment above. The manager of the complex was not available as he was inspecting the damage.

Dollar Lower As Gold Prices Rise

LONDON (UPI) — The U.S. dollar was lower against major world currencies Monday. The value of gold moved higher.

In Tokyo, the dollar fell to its lowest in more than seven years against the Japanese yen, closing at 189.90 yen, down from Friday's closing rate of 190.85 yen, its lowest level since Nov. 14, 1978 when it finished at 188.70 yen.

After opening in line with a weekend decline in New York, the dollar came under selling pressure by traders and banks.

In Frankfurt, the dollar opened at 2.3965 German marks against a previous close of 2.3972 and in Zurich, the dollar opened at 2.0203 Swiss francs against 2.0335 at the close on Friday.

The Dollar started trading in London at $1.4050 to the pound against $1.4022 on Friday and in Paris, the dollar opened at 7.34 French francs against 7.348.

Gold opened $4.50 an ounce higher in London at $341 against $336.50 and in Zurich, gold opened $2 higher at $340 against $338.

The morning fixing in London was $340.50, up $4 from Friday's close.

Living Memorial

Tom Westhelle, chairman of Idyllwild Elementary School's Local School Advisory Committee, plants one of seven Laurel Oak trees Friday as part of the school's living memorial to the seven space shuttle Challenger astronauts who died Jan. 28. Chris Depew, center an 11-year-old student, and principal Paul Murphy, right lend support as Westhelle replaces soil around the base of the tree. A permanent memorial is planned to be built in front of the school near the trees, planted in a triangle pointing towards Cape Canaveral.

City To Weigh Paulucci Suit

Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

Certain allegations contained in former Yankee Lake owner Jenio Paulucci's $28 million dollar lawsuit against the City of Sanford, its five commissioners and its manager have apparently been supported by the Seminole-Brevard Circuit judge who dismissed the city's condemnation effort last week.

Judge Thomas Waddell Jr. ruled that Sanford's attempt to obtain Yankee Lake was sanctioned during a meeting which violated the city charter.

City Attorney William Colbert said today he will "probably" seek dismissal of the Paulucci suit and if the motion is denied, submit a formal response in defense of its allegations. Colbert will discuss the matter with the city commission tonight.

Colbert, however, said he will not discuss condemnation at tonight's meeting. City counsel, he said, "is not quite ready" to make a presentation to the commission.

Waddell gave the opinion that Sanford staff failed to adhere to the city charter regulation which calls for all commissioners to receive written notification 24 hours prior to a special meeting.

The same assertion is contained in the multi-million dollar suit filed a week before the dismissal by attorneys representing Paulucci's Heathrow Utilities and Heathrow Land and Development Corporation.

The lawsuit, however, takes the issue a step further by claiming that "despite the (condemnation resolution's) unlawful and improper passage," the city proceeded with an effort that "wrongfully and maliciously interfered" with obligations Seminole County assumed when contracting with Paulucci to purchase Yankee Lake.

For its alleged "interference," Paulucci is trying to hold Sanford liable for $15 million in punitive damages and $13 million in actual damages.

Options "still being explored" by the attorneys include correcting the faults Waddell cited when dismissing the suit, or appealing his decision, Colbert said.

Also, in light of the positive tone displayed during Thursday's meeting with the county, "We could reach an agreement to resolve the matter

'The city certainly has reason to be nervous.'

—Mack Cleveland

without further litigation," Colbert said.

Both governments hope to utilize the land for their wastewater management programs and said they will follow up Thursday's meeting with continued discussions in an attempt to achieve this.

According to Paulucci attorney Mack Cleveland, if the county and the city "resolved their dispute, I would think that would create a possibility for everything to be resolved."

"I don't want mislead anyone," he said. "The decision is entirely up to my client and his interests have got to be protected."

Cleveland also said because matters are currently unresolved, "The city certainly has reason to be nervous."

He applied the statement not only to the $28 million claim the city will defend against, but also the possibility that Paulucci will level charges of state Government in the Sunshine Law violations against four city commissioners.

The commissioners traveled together to and from the Melbourne condemnation hearing and, according to the Herald reporter who accompanied them, discussed the suit during the return trip. They have all been subpoenaed to recount their conversations to Paulucci attorneys on Tuesday.

Colbert told commissioners that the presence of a media representative would prevent accusations of Sunshine Law violations.

"We're not so sure," Cleveland said. "We'll inquire as to what they discussed and use their depositions to determine what the consequences will be," he said.

According to Cleveland the city also faces a $28 million consequence for launching a condemnation effort that hampered Seminole County's ability to follow through on the "obligations" it assumed when contracting for the purchase of Yankee Lake.

Sanford Man Charged In Bank Robbery

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

A Sanford man was being held in the Pinellas County jail today on a charge of bank robbery following a heist that ended with a dog bite to the suspect's backside in St. Petersburg Friday.

The man was caught after a high speed car chase which ended when K-9 police officers rammed their vehicles into the robber's fleeing Nissan. During an ensuing fight with the officers, the man was dragged to the ground with the help of a police dog that clamped onto the suspect's posterior, according to a police report.

Being held today on $32,050 bond was Charles D. Jackson, 26, of 1308 Dixie Way. He was charged with armed robbery, fleeing and eluding a law enforcement officer, one count of aggravated battery with a motor vehicle and resisting arrest with violence, said police spokesman George Pinckey.

According to a police report, a man entered the First Florida Bank around 2:30 p.m. and handed the teller a noted demanding money. The note also implied that the man had a gun though bank employees did not see any weapon.

About 15 minutes after the man left the bank with an undisclosed amount of money, a patrolman spotted him driving, the report said. The officer gave chase but was forced out of the pursuit when the Nissan rammed his patrol car. The other officers then pursued the man and stopped his car by ramming it. During the arrest, the man reportedly fought with the officers.

No weapon was found. According to published reports, Jackson works for the Orlando Sentinel.

Scandal-Rife Tally Goes To Philippine Parliament

MANILA, Philippines (UPI) — Thousands of chanting Corazon Aquino supporters jammed the galleries of Parliament today as lawmakers began a bid to unravel conflicting results of the scandal-tainted presidential election.

More than three days after the polls closed, President Ferdinand Marcos and Aquino, wife of slain opposition leader Benigno Aquino, were neck-and-neck in unofficial tabulations.

A White House-appointed observer team issued a damning report on the voting and ballot-counting today before returning to Washington to turn over its findings to President Reagan.

"The word clean is absolutely foreign and obviously not appropriate to what we have observed," said Sen. Richard Lugar, R-Ind., Senate Foreign Relations Committee Chairman and head of the White House observer group.

The early presidential election Friday was marred by charges of vote-buying, intimidation, ballot theft, unexplained counting delays and a tabulation scandal. At least 73 people died in election-day violence.

In the most dramatic protest against alleged fraud by Marcos, 30 employees of the government vote-counting center walked off their job late Sunday, charging there had been massive falsification of results to favor Marcos.

Marcos, interviewed on ABC's "Good Morning America," said, "We have the evidence in our legal department showing that it's the other way around — that it's the opposition that's been buying" votes and cheating.

"We have (film) clips, we have pictures, and we have sworn statements on the this matter," Marcos said. "Now, what kind of evidence do they have?"

The Parliament, where members of Marcos' New Society Movement ruling party heavily outnumber the opposition, is charged with unraveling results of the election and determining a winner.

The 3,000 clapping and cheering Aquino supporters vastly outnumbered pro-government forces in the galleries of the nation's parliament — the Batasang Pambansa — shouting down attempts to raise cheers for Marcos.

"Cory, Cory," the spectators chanted until Speaker Nicano Yriquez warned them to "keep your cool" or he would close the gallery.

Another 500 demonstrators milled around in the Parliament lobby and thousands more waited on the lawns outside for the lawmakers to begin their work and end the suspense of the inconclusive unofficial tabulations.

An independent watchdog group, the National Citizens Committee for Free Elections, or Namfrel, said Aquino led with 53 percent of the votes after 52 percent of the nation's 86,036 precincts had been counted.

But the government Commission on Elections, Comelec, showed Marcos leading with 3,056,236, or 51 percent of the votes, against 2,903,348 for Aquino. Comelec had a much smaller number of votes tallied than Namfrel.

The Comelec count resumed today after being halted by a walkout of 30

Woman Gets 2nd Jarvik Pump After Human Heart Fails

TUCSON, Ariz. (UPI) — A 40-year-old mother of three became the first person to have two artificial heart implants when her new human heart suddenly failed and surgeons were forced to put in a second mechanical pump. Bernadette Chayrez was listed in critical condition following the second implant Sunday, but a hospital spokeswoman said all vital signs were stable. Doctors at University Medical Center said they implanted the second mini-Jarvik pump because of the sudden failure of the human heart that Chayrez received Friday. The human heart replaced her first artificial pump, which was implanted last Monday. Chayrez, a Phoenix assembly worker, is the first person ever to receive two artificial hearts. Her natural heart was destroyed by a viral infection. Chayrez' new human heart failed Sunday morning and she was rushed into surgery for the second time since she received the transplant, hospital spokeswoman Nina Trasoff said.

TV In Senate: Boon Or Chaos?

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The son of Huey Long, the Louisiana Kingfish whose radio broadcasts held audiences spellbound, is leading the fight against televising Senate proceedings, in what could be considered an ironic twist of history. During the still-inconclusive debate last week on the knotty issue, Sen. Russell Long, D-La., recalled how his father had used radio broadcasts effectively a half century ago. Upon going on the air, the Kingfish often would instruct his listeners to "call all your friends and tell them to tune in" for what invariably turned out to be a stemwinder. Although some of his Senate colleagues affectionately refer to the son of the Kingfish as "the bard of the Bayous," Russell Long is not tempted by the prospect of displaying his own speaking skills on the Senate floor before cameras. Long, retiring this year after 37 years in the Senate, agrees with J. Bennett Johnston, the other Democratic senator from Louisiana, who calls Senate video "an opiate." That "powerful elixir," Johnston told his colleagues, "could well lead to absolute chaos" on the floor as they competed for the camera's eye. Proponents of Senate TV, including Republican leader Robert Dole of Kansas and Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia, say the Senate is ready for television if it can agree on rule changes to accommodate the cameras. Debate on the issue is expected to resume Feb. 17 when the Senate returns from a recess.

Another Look At Reagan Budget

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan's budget is being touted as the great spending slasher — the blueprint for a shrinking government, but some vast inconsistencies appear when one peruses the 700-plus page document. For instance, Reagan wrote of his reluctance to "attack the family budget" with taxes, but he proposed an increase in the White House's household budget. He decided to axe small business loans, but requested more money for processing an anticipated increase in business and personal bankruptcies this year. Money for the Corporation for Public Broadcasting, the umbrella group for commercial-free National Public Radio, was slashed by $84 million, with the justification that more money was "incompatible with the urgent need to reduce federal spending." However, the budget for the Voice of America, the government-run radio that brings commercial-free news and information to listeners in Eastern European countries, got a $4 million increase. With perhaps the strangest logic, the budget proposes an increase in the amount allotted members of Congress for mileage at a time when gasoline prices are falling and many lawmakers are looking to a gasoline or oil tax as a way to raise revenue on the theory that most ordinary people won't notice.

Sheriff: 'Spotless' Home Site Of International Porn Operation

BROOKSVILLE (UPI) — A white, concrete-block house in the quiet retirement community of Spring Hill west of Brooksville housed an international pornography filming and distribution center, law enforcement officials said. Hernando County Sheriff's Lt. Roland Hazard said a Friday afternoon raid on the house yielded thousands of dollars worth of high-quality video equipment and hundreds of pornographic films, photographs and magazines. Held in Hernando County jail Sunday in lieu of $1 million bond each on felony pornography charges were Joseph Karl DeRuyter, 39, and Dushch VanDenBerg, 34, both of the Netherlands. Hernando Circuit Judge L.R. Huffstetter upheld the $1 million bonds Saturday. Friday's raid, which was disclosed in a Saturday news conference, was carried out by sheriff's deputies, a U.S. Postal inspector and agents of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement and the U.S. Customs Service. Officials said the raid climaxed an investigation that began Jan. 3, 1985, and said they believe the operation is deeper than uncovered so far. "This is just scratching the surface as far as what it's going to lead to," said Sheriff Tom Mylander.

Eastern Pilots Told To Sit Tight

MIAMI (UPI) — The Air Line Pilots Association told its members to "sit tight and expect nothing" from negotiations that are to begin next week with financially beleaguered Eastern Airlines. "Your affirmative vote on the strike ballot is still the only tool we have to ensure that unreasonable wages and, perhaps just as importantly — working conditions — are not imposed on us unilaterally by management," a recorded message at ALPA's Miami communications center said Sunday. The National Mediation Board announced last week that informal negotiations between the union and the airline would resume Tuesday in Washington.

Pilot Greeted With Champagne Shower

Kittinger Sets Turbojet Flight Record

Joe Kittinger, record-setting Orlando aviator, notched his newest record Sunday in a 870 mile flight from Philadelphia to Orlando in 2 hours and 39 minutes. The retired air force colonel made the flight in a Piper Cheyenne 400 LS with Renald Davenport, a market manager for Piper, as co-pilot. It was the second record breaking flight of the week-end for Davenport, and the third for the Piper Cheyenne. Davenport flew from Burbank, California to New York City on Saturday with Retired Air Force General Chuck Yeager in a record-breaking 5 hours, 24 minutes, 3 seconds eclipsing the former record by more than an hour. The previous record for the 2,457-mile trip was 6 hours, 28 seconds, set in a Cessna Conquest last year. Terri Jones, 23 year-old wife of Nautilus equipment and sports medicine owner Arthur Jones, piloted a Cheyenne from Los Angeles to Jacksonville to establish a record for that flight segment. Mrs. Jones' flew a route 300 miles shorter than Yeager. Kittinger, vice president for flight operations for Rosie O'Grady's Flying Circus, the first solo balloonist to cross the

Joe Kittinger

Atlantic, was met at Orlando Executive Airport by more than 100 well-wishes, well armed with Champagne to celebrate the occasion.

Kittinger has previously announced plans to make an around-the-world, solo balloon trip. The trip will establish a record for that type of flight. He also holds the world's parachute jump record with a fall of more than 100,000 feet. Yeager was helped on his coast-to-coast flight by the Jet Stream which aided in obtaining a 518 mph ground speed. Kittinger fought headwinds during his flight south and averaged 322 mph. Yeager beat an existing record while Kittinger and Jones established records. The Piper Cheyenne 400 LS is a turboprop jet.

29 Dead In Train Wreck

EDMONTON, Alberta (UPI) — A carload of grain saved Perry Warniski's life. Warniski, 21, was traveling with friends on a nine-car transcontinental passenger train when it collided head-on with a 114-car freight train and exploded in a ball of fire. At least 29 people were killed. "I looked out the window and I said to my buddies 'Oh my God, there is another train on our track,'" said Warniski, one of 93 people who survived the wreck Saturday. "Then I saw a fireball and I was on fire. My hair was on fire. Grain started pouring on top of us and put the fire out. The people sitting across from us didn't make it. They were all trapped." The two trains were both traveling at about 45 mph when the crash occurred on an open stretch of line near Hinton, Alberta, 170 miles west of Edmonton. The trains' fuel tanks burst into flame on impact. Authorities Sunday listed 29 people missing and presumed dead — citing uncertainty about the number of people aboard the passenger train — cautioned that the death toll could rise. "There is a possibility, depending on retrieval of the bodies at the scene, we may never get a final body count," said Dan Carmichael, vice president of VIA Rail, operator of the passenger train. Most of the 93 survivors suffered minor injuries. Three were seriously injured. Search teams freed the first two bodies from the mangled and smoldering wreckage Sunday. Most of the other bodies were buried under freight cars and debris in the fire-gutted front coach of the passenger train. Officials said it could take a week to recover them.

Prime Minister Brian Mulroney promised to conduct a high-level public inquiry into the accident. Railway officials said Sunday evidence indicated human error was probably to blame for the collision. The passenger train left Vancouver Friday for Winnipeg, Toronto and Montreal. The freight was carrying grain, sulfur and pipe. The wreck occurred near a switch that merged a double-track into one. "The freight train should not have been on the single track section," said Ross Walker, a vice president of Canadian National Railways, owner and operator of both the track and the freight train. Walker said a computerized signal system, situated about 2.7 miles ahead of the switch, should have warned the freight train to be prepared to stop. "There is nothing wrong with the track. Nothing wrong with any of the equipment on the trains. The passenger train was on time and there was nothing untoward in its operation," Walker said. "... I don't rule out malfunction of the signal system — the possibility still exists — but we haven't found anything." The engineer and signalman of the freight train were killed, making the investigation more difficult. Of the seven crewmen aboard the passenger train, only the assistant conductor and flagman survived. Walker said the train crews could have seen the trains were on a collision course a half mile before the impact but added: "It was a matter of speed and weight. When they saw each other it was far beyond the time when they could bring those two trains to a stop."

Duvalier Sets Up Housekeeping; French Villagers Fume

300 Reported Killed Near Haiti Capital

PORT-AU-PRINCE, Haiti (UPI) — The army began rounding up former President Jean-Claude Duvalier's secret police as government and religious leaders appealed for an end to mob violence that claimed at least 300 lives since Duvalier fled into exile. A 2 p.m. to 6 a.m. curfew remained in effect for a third straight day today in a campaign to keep vigilante mobs off the streets. The government canceled annual Mardi Gras celebrations scheduled to begin Sunday. Government and religious leaders appealed for restraint. "We must not repay evil with evil," the Rev. Charles Benoit told about 3,000 people at a mass at the Port-au-Prince Cathedral Sunday. The government also appealed for an end to the violence and deployed the army to protect former secret police agents from vengeance-seeking mobs. But angry Haitians pillaged the house of former Information Minister Adrien Raymond Sunday. No official casualty figures have been released but morgue officials told a Canadian journalist Sunday at least 300 people had been killed in the Port-au-Prince area alone since Duvalier fled the country early Friday. The victims were shot or beaten or died in traffic accidents, morgue officials said. Among the dead were at least 10 members of the Tontons Macoutes, the feared militia formed by Duvalier's father, Francois, after he assumed power 28 years ago, officials said. Jean-Claude Duvalier used the Tontons Macoutes — Haitian creole for "bogymen" — to maintain his dictatorial reign, which ended Friday when Duvalier fled to France. Rioters destroyed statues of the Duvalier family, broke into the grave of Francois Duvalier and paraded his coffin through the streets. Opposition leader Gregoire Eugene of the Social Christian Party said Sunday the six-man military-civilian government that replaced Duvalier had ordered the army to round up and disarm the Tontons. "Most of them are underground now," he said. "(But) the people know exactly where the Tontons Macoutes are living so it is very easy to find them." Western diplomats believe there are about 14,000 Tontons. But some Haitians say there are 30,000. "Our proud Haiti, so sadly abused, must in the name of human rights rise above the debate and the passion of the moment so that poor people of all sorts can once again have hope," government spokesman Lax Valles said. In Talloires, France, Duvalier, oblivious to a village campaign to evict him, set up housekeeping in opulent style as officials sought a nation willing to provide him permanent asylum. The 34-year-old Haitian ruler, his wife, Michele, and 22 family members and friends were lodged at the Hotel d'Abbaye, a restored 16th-century monastery on picturesque Anney Lake in the French Alps. Duvalier rented the entire hotel. Jean Nicolet, a local business consultant in the tiny, snow-blanketed town of 900 people some 340 miles southeast of Paris, braved frigid temperatures Sunday to go door-to-door with a petition demanding Duvalier's ouster. He quickly collected about 50 signatures. "No one has turned us down yet. Not one person has refused," he said. The petition said Duvalier's presence in the alpine village "dishonors our community." Nicolet said he would present the signatures Tuesday at a meeting of the municipal council. Talloires Mayor Joseph Burdevron said he supported the effort to oust Duvalier.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A winter storm spread snow and sleet from the Rockies across the Southern Plains and into the Ohio Valley today, snarling traffic in northern Texas, while bitter cold settled into the Midwest. The storm stranded more than 2,500 travelers early today in eastern New Mexico, and six people were killed Sunday night when three cars collided on icy roads near Wichita, Kan. The six were killed when a southbound tractor-trailer rig went into a skid on the Kansas Turnpike, sliding across the median and into the path of two northbound cars. The wreck forced the closure of the freeway's northbound lanes for almost three hours. The National Weather Service reported four inches of snow on the ground at Wichita early today, with light snow between Wichita and the Oklahoma border making driving conditions hazardous. AREA READINGS (9 a.m.): temperature: 69; overnight low: 62; Sunday's high: 77; barometric pressure: 30.01; relative humidity: 93 percent; winds: South at 12 mph; rain: 00 inch; sunrise: 7:07 a.m., sunset: 6:13 p.m.

Migrant Worker Reports Beating; Informant Scuttles Drug Deal

A migrant worker based near Apopka told Seminole County sheriff's deputies he was beaten Thursday by his foreman and two other men after he said he didn't want to work. The injured man was found outside a Sanford church at about 7 a.m. Friday.

George Cismeros, 33, of a migrant camp near Apopka, had a 4-inch gash on his forehead and additional injuries to his head. His torso was covered with blood, when two men enroute to work found him at the Second Shiloh Missionary Baptist Church on Airport Boulevard, a sheriff's report said.

When deputies and rescue workers arrived, Cismeros told them he had met with his foreman and two other men in a bar near his jobsite to pick up his pay at about 10 p.m. Thursday. The foreman reportedly became angry when Cismeros said he didn't want to work that day.

When he left the bar Cismeros was followed to the parking lot and beaten, then thrown into a pickup truck and driven to Sanford to be dumped. He was treated at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford.

LEWD TO COP

A 31-year-old Winter Park man who allegedly committed a lewd act in front of an undercover Seminole County sheriff's deputy in the restroom of a Fern Park store has been charged with committing a lewd and lascivious act.

A second man who allegedly physically assaulted the same officer in the same restroom at Zayre's on State Road 436, has been charged with simple assault and battery.

In the second case the arrest was made at 7:28 a.m. Friday and Bruce Eugene Weaver, 36, of 1076 Crystal Bowl Circle, Casselberry, was charged and released on $500 bond.

In the first incident Wesley K. Shewmake, 31, of 6534-A Roble Drive, was charged at 5:55 p.m. Friday and released on $100 bond.

DRUGS & DETECTORS

Altamonte Springs police with help from a confidential informant charged a Longwood man in connection with alleged dealing in marijuana and stolen radar detectors.

The man reportedly made a deal with the confidential informant to provide one pound of pot for about $1,000 and also allegedly sold him a stolen radar detector for $275.

When the suspect and the informant returned to Altamonte Springs after a run to Orlando to reportedly pick up pot at about 4 p.m. Friday the suspect's vehicle was stopped by police and searched on Interstate 4 just south of State Road 436, a police report said.

Police reported finding about two pounds of pot in the man's possession. A search warrant was executed at the suspect's home and stolen electronics gear reportedly recovered, the report said.

Brian Craig Gabos, 20, of 110 Sweetwater Blvd. N., Longwood, has been charged with possession of over 20 grams of marijuana with intent to deliver, three counts of dealing in stolen property and possession of less than 20 grams of pot, which was reportedly found in his home. He has been released on bond.

DUI ARRESTS

The following persons have been arrested in Seminole County on a charge of driving under the influence:

—Wayne Stewart Joyce, 49, of 351 Pacer Court, Sanford, was arrested at 2:10 a.m. Saturday after his car was seen weaving on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford.

—Richard W. Hanes, 30, of 1023 Wolf Trail, Casselberry, at 1:54 a.m. after his car was in an accident on U.S. Highway 17-92 and State Road 434, Longwood. He allegedly ran from the scene but was caught nearby and charged with leaving the scene and careless driving.

—Stephen Jeffrey Mattingly, 21, of Eustis, at 5:57 p.m. Friday on Seminola Boulevard at Winter Park Drive, Casselberry, after his car was in an accident. He was also charged with leaving the scene and careless driving.

—Matthew Lawrence, 27, of 2071 Brisson Ave., Sanford, at 11:35 p.m. Friday after his car was seen weaving on Third Street at Oak Avenue in Sanford. He was also charged with possession of a small packet of marijuana and with resisting arrest after allegedly becoming violent with Sanford police. —Edward Donald Denton, 24, no address listed, at 12:22 a.m. Saturday, after he was found passed out in his running vehicle on Lake View Drive.

BURGLARIES & THEFTS

Grady Sonny Poe, 48, of P.O. Box 95, Lake Jem, reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies a woman he picked up on Eighth Street in Sanford Saturday stole his car.

The theft reportedly occurred after the woman allegedly pointed out a cocaine dealer to Poe on 13th Street. Poe told deputies he bought $20 worth of cocaine and gave it to the woman who agreed to go home with him, a sheriff's report said.

Poe stopped to buy cigarettes at the Waffle House on State Road 46 west of Sanford, and when he made the buy and went back outside he discovered the woman and his 1973 Ford worth $500 were missing, the report said.

Laraine Cheryl Weiss, 41, of Orlando, a dealer at Flea World, on U.S. Highway 17-92 south of Sanford, reported to sheriff's deputies two radio-cassette players with a total value of about $330 were stolen from her business between Feb. 2 and Friday.

About $500 worth of fishing gear belonging to Kathy Yvonne Jones, 32, of 630 Montgomery Road, Altamonte Springs, was stolen from Public Storage, 2620 State Road 436, Winter Park between Feb. 5 and Friday, a sheriff's report said.

Stromberg Executives To Lead United Way

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

For the first time, two people from the same company will hold the top positions in the Seminole County United Way campaign.

John Knapp, president of the Seminole United Way Board of Directors, announced that Al Stimac and Joseph W. Vaccaro of Stromberg Carlson, Lake Mary, will head up the 1988 drive.

The United Way raises funds for selected charities.

Stimac, the firm's manufacturing manager, has been named chairman. Vaccaro, director of Employee Relations and Site Services, is the deputy campaign chairman and is scheduled to be chairman of the 1987 United Way campaign.

Stimac, 33, a native of Yugoslavia, came to the United States in 1969 at age 16, and joined Stromberg Carlson in 1970. He lives in Winter Springs with his wife, Judy, and their three children, Alfredo, 12, Angel, 8, and Michelle, 3.

He has worked in the United Way campaign at Stromberg Carlson for the past several years and last year he also was a volunteer in the major industry division. He said he is proud of the way employees and the firm have supported the United Way, particularly the fact that last year, with fewer employees, they pledged more than ever.

"I believe in the community, it helped me many years ago when I needed help and I feel I should do something in return," Stimac said. "We all have to do something for the community, we can't just sit back and wait for someone else to do it. When you see places like SWOP (Seminole Work Opportunity Program) you know it is worthwhile."

He said the goal for this year's campaign has not yet been set.

Vaccaro is a native of Rochester, N.Y. and in July he will celebrate his 30th anniversary with the firm. He and his wife, Betty, are residents of Deltona. They are parents of two grown children, Barbara Westmiller and Joseph.

Knapp said, "We are extremely pleased to have this Stromberg team lead our campaign this year. Both the employees and the corporation have been strong supporters of our campaigns and our community. Stromberg Carlson management has been enthusiastic over the role that their people will be playing in the forthcoming campaign."

"We are extremely fortunate," Knapp continued, "to start the campaign organization early and to have Al and Joe heading a group of volunteers that I feel will have a record breaking campaign. This will not be an easy year, none of them are, but they are a little less difficult if we start early and develop a large, strong team. They have the ability to do just that and as a result, 1988 will be outstanding for our Seminole County United Way."

Deadline Nears For Scholarship Program

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Education Committee will coordinate a scholarship program for high school seniors at Seminole and Lake Mary high schools for the third consecutive year.

The "Business and Education: Partners for Success Scholarship Program" provides scholarships sponsored by leading area businesses, civic and professional organizations, and other interested citizens, according to school spokesman Karen Coleman. The deadline for sponsoring a scholarship is Feb. 12.

Last year's sponsors contributed more than $14,000 which provided 26 scholarships of $250 to $1,000 each.

Scholarship sponsors in 1988 included the program's founders Rich-United Corp. and CODISCO as well as Schilke Enterprises; HARCAR Aluminum; Sun Bank; Stenstrom, McIntosh, Julian, Colbert, & Whitgham; Peat, Marwick, Mitchell & Company; Cavalier Inn; Shoemaker Construction; and the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Two memorial scholarships were presented, the John S. Krider Memorial Scholarship and the Randall Chase Memorial Scholarship.

Businesses, civic organizations, and individuals interested in sponsoring one or more scholarships for this year's program can contact Jack Horner at the Chamber of Commerce, 322-2212, or Mrs. Coleman at the school board office, 322-1252. The sponsorship drive will continue through Feb. 12.

Scholarship packets with an application form are available in the guidance offices at the two high schools and at the Chamber of Commerce office, 400 East First Street, Sanford.

To be eligible for a scholarship, the applicant must receive a diploma from one of the two high schools and must use the scholarship at a Florida college. It is the intent of the Scholarship Selection Committee to consider candidates with career plans from a broad spectrum of post high school educational pursuits.

The deadline for application is Feb. 17. They should be sent to: Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, P.O. Drawer CC, Sanford, Fla., 32772-0860.

The scholarships will be presented to this year's recipients at the Chamber's annual banquet in March.

Sanford Burn Victim Dies

An 80-year-old Sanford man died at Orlando Regional Medical Center Saturday, the result of burns he suffered in a cooking accident last month.

Lowry Hugh Wynne, 623 Second Street, was making coffee on a gas stove at about 3 a.m. Jan. 28, when flames from the burner apparently ignited his robe, a fire department spokesman reported. The spokesman said Wynne suffered second and third degree burns over 60 percent of his body. He was taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford, then transferred to Orlando Regional Medical Center, where he died.

Wynne's wife Eva received second and third degree burns of her fingers and arms while attempting to put out the fire, according to a family member. She was treated and released in the emergency room of the Central Florida Regional Hospital, according to reports.

The fire was limited only to Wynne's robe, and there was no damage to the house.

Mega Amounts Mean Very Little

There's something about an era of $200 billion annual deficits that has left the general public with no sense of degrees of magnitude. What's $40 billion? Why, that's just the size of the error in the White House's last estimate of this year's deficit. That it's also an amount of money it would take 1.6 million years for the average American family to earn (at $25,000 a year) — that it's the amount of money 32,000 families will earn (at this rate) over their entire working lives — is hard to reconcile with the glib talk about $40 billion forecasting errors and $50 billion budget cuts. So hardly anybody does.

We have become, instead, a nation that bandies about multimillion-dollar liability awards and multibillion-dollar junk bond issues as if they were peanuts — or, worse yet, as if they were indistinguishable. And it's no doubt out of that utter lack of comprehension of the true size of things that a jury in Texas decided last November that Texaco owed Pennzoil $10.5 billion plus interest for undercutting a buy-out agreement Pennzoil had with Getty Oil Co. Texaco outbid Pennzoil and bought Getty itself, which the jury decided was a breach of ethics for which Texaco ought to pay.

The decision itself was questionable enough, but $10.5 billion? Texaco is big — huge, in fact — but neither it nor the damage it did to Pennzoil was that big. The truth is, if Texaco had had to post a $12 billion bond, as the Texas courts required, before it was allowed to appeal the jury's decision, that probably would have driven the company into bankruptcy before the appeal process ever got started. And that, in turn, would have had consequences for the entire national economy, none of which, one can fairly assume, was considered by the Texas jury or the Texas courts.

The real-world consequences were considered, however, by Charles Brieant, the federal judge in New York to whom Texaco took the case next. Last week, Brieant declared, with a sense of proportion and practicality at other levels, that the $10.5 billion penalty was, in a word, "absurd." Requiring the posting of a $12 billion bond to appeal that decision, Brieant ruled, was the same as denying Texaco the right to appeal.

Pennzoil, basking in the largesse of the Texas jury, had tried to argue before Judge Brieant, a federal judge, couldn't overrule the Texas courts as to the size of the bond that must be posted to make an appeal within the Texas court system. Why, Pennzoil's lawyer asked, was Brieant assuming that Pennzoil and the Texas courts would behave so unreasonably as to require federal intervention? What size bond, Judge Brieant asked in return, would Pennzoil settle for? Nothing but the full $12 billion, the Pennzoil attorney answered. So Brieant ruled accordingly.

In doing so, he struck more than a blow for Texaco, a company whose own giantism makes it hard to cast as an underdog. Brieant struck a blow for numerical realism, and that is, indeed, a cause in need of defenders. The difference between the $1 billion that Judge Brieant thought was probably the maximum Texaco could fairly be held to owe Pennzoil — and the $10.5 billion that the jury awarded — was no mere factor of 10. The difference was an amount of money it would take the average American family 380,000 years to earn.

Politics And Ideology Often In Collision

By Arnold Bawlsiak
UPI Senior Editor

WASHINGTON (UPI) — In the sense that politics is called the art of the possible, ideology might be regarded as the expectation of perfection.

The difference between the two was never better illustrated than by two incidents at the recent Conservative Political Action Conference.

Rep. Jack Kemp, R-N.Y., an unannounced 1988 contender for the Republican presidential nomination, arrived during a seminar in which the panel was taking questions from the audience.

Chants of "We want Kemp!" and "Kemp in '88!" interrupted the proceedings, and when the tumult died down, a man standing at a microphone waiting to ask a question observed, "I might be for Kemp in '88 if he hadn't voted for the Martin Luther King holiday."

Out of earshot, Kemp didn't have to offer the political explanation for his vote: that he represents a Buffalo district with a substantial black population that might have tried to make him ex-Rep. Kemp had he voted otherwise.

Later, a member of the audience excoriated Senate Republican leader Bob Dole, for supporting the Genocide Treaty. The Kansas Republican, another possible 1988 contender, responded that he was with President Reagan on the treaty, but he got some hoots and catcalls anyway.

Both Kemp and Dole get high marks in most indexes of conservative voting, but both were found wanting by some at the conservative gathering because they were not purer than ivory soap.

It should be noted that the rudest incident of ideological puritanism witnessed by this writer was at a convention of the liberal Americans for Democratic Action in 1978.

The ADA had asked the Democratic presidential hopefuls to speak, but Jimmy Carter, unable to appear at the appointed time, showed up at a cocktail party a day early. When he tried to greet the delegates, an ADA leader began shouting, "Sit down! Sit down! You aren't welcome here!"

Apparently the ADA bigshot's objection was that Carter was a Southern moderate who dared contest Northern liberals for the Democratic nomination.

Some politicians simply dismiss the conflict between ideology and politics. When chided for changing their minds on issues, the conservative Republican senator Everett McKinley Dirksen would declare, "Foolish consistency is the bugaboo of small minds," and the liberal Democratic representative Emanuel Celler would intone, "Consistency is like a stagnant pool. It breeds vipers in the mind."

But that does not go to the question of whether every issue should be given equal weight in judging a politician.

In the case of Kemp and Dole, both of whom make hundreds of public decisions every year, it stretches credulity to believe that their positions on the King holiday and the Genocide Treaty should be pivotal in deciding whether they are acceptable conservatives or Republicans.

It has been said ideological activists are valuable as the yeast in the bread of politics, forcing fearful candidates and officeholders to take stands on issues they would rather avoid.

Campaign To Cut Spending

WASHINGTON — Memo to the White House high command:

The Reagan administration, under the Gramm-Rudman-Hollings law, possesses a unique opportunity to significantly cut a fat and bloated federal bureaucracy and bring runaway spending under control.

But the administration is in danger of losing this window of opportunity this year, and for many years to come, if it fails to mount a campaign to convince Congress that the 1984 Reagan landslide sent Washington this simple message that cannot be ignored: Bring government spending down to a level that the economy and the American people can afford without raising taxes.

Here are the steps that should be taken immediately by the White House, Congress and the American people:

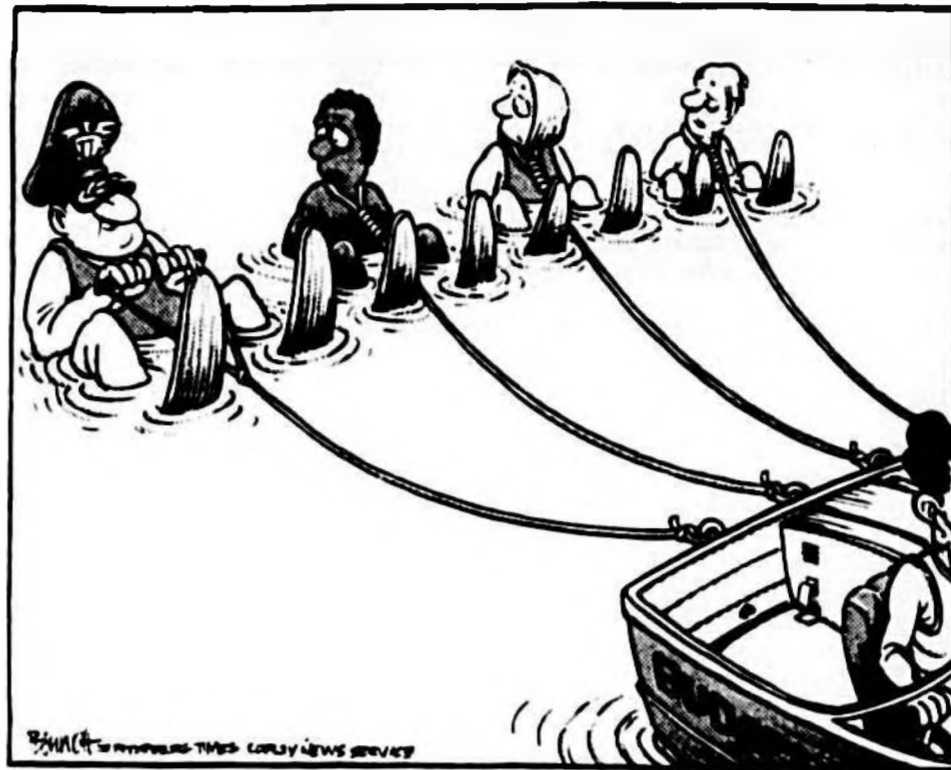

1. Mount a highly coordinated campaign — bringing together a diverse number of interest groups both large and small — to exert an unprecedented and unyielding lobbying effort on Congress.

Its chief message — to eliminate wasteful, inessential, ineffective and low-priority programs and expenditures — should be delivered to lawmakers repeatedly and through a variety of methods until a budget is enacted to cut the fiscal 1987 deficit down to $144 billion as required under Gramm-Rudman.

Among other things, a bipartisan National Coalition to Cut the Deficit should be organized by leaders in business, labor and the professions and a sophisticated, computerized, grassroots lobbying strategy should be drawn up and implemented.

The coalition should bring together the major interest groups in Washington and around the country, including the U.S. Chamber of Commerce, the National Association of Manufacturers, the National Tax Limitation Committee, the National Taxpayers Union, the Association of Realtors, the American Farm Bureau Federation, the Association of Homebuilders, the National Federation of Independent Business, the Teamsters and every other public-interest and civic group concerned with bringing deficit spending under control.

The coalition should, among other things, organize its members at the grassroots level into congressional district teams, which would personally lobby each House and Senate member — seeking commitments to achieve Gramm-Rudman's deficit targets.

DON GRAFF

Aliens Act May Fall

"Seldom has a bill exhibited the distrust evidenced here for citizens and aliens alike."

Such were Harry Truman's sentiments when the McCarran-Walter Immigration and Nationality Act of 1952 landed on his desk. He vetoed it.

His, however, was a minority opinion. Congress passed the bill over the veto; it became and remains the law of the land.

A Massachusetts representative is trying to change that. Democrat Barney Frank has introduced legislation that would rewrite McCarran-Walter's rules for admitting foreigners to this country. He hopes to relax the restrictions that have barred controversial would-be visitors from the United States, distressing a generation of American civil libertarians.

Frank's proposals stop far short of throwing the door wide open. Any society, he says, has a right to protect itself against outsiders who are a clear danger to it — known terrorists, for an obvious example, and those who pose health threats. His bill would do that.

What it would not permit is denying people admission solely because they have political or philosophical views that might be unpopular in this country.

"It gives some categories of exclusion," Frank says, "but it limits them and defines them so that it would not impinge on people's rights to come here and disagree with the position of the American government."

This isn't the first assault in Congress on McCarran-Walter. In 1972, then Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., succeeded in modifying a key provision. The law's restrictions applying to writers in particular were to be waived unless the State Department specifically certified that admitting the individual would be prejudicial to national security.

The intent of the McGovern amendment was to keep out only the truly dangerous, but that is not how the waiver procedure has been used. It has merely added an extra step to the process, not ended arbitrary exclusions.

Frank thinks his measure has a good chance of finally accomplishing that. He has 75 cosponsors in the House. Support is growing, he says, and there is interest in the Senate.

It might appear from recent developments that George Shultz would be among the supporters. The secretary of state made pointed reference to McCarran-Walter in addressing the recent gathering in New York of PEN, the international association of writers.

Shultz acknowledged that the law was a sore point — and, in fact, in the past had been employed to keep out some of the very people he was addressing. But not, he said, because of their abstract beliefs.

"It has never been the approved policy of the United States," he assured his audience, "to deny visas merely because the applicant wants to say that he disapproves of the United States or one of its policies."

But visas have been and will continue to be denied "to people who aim to undermine our system through their actions, who are likely to engage in proscribed intelligence activities, or who raise funds or otherwise assist our enemies."

Frank has no quarrel with any of that. But there's still a problem. The Shultz explanation of the theory doesn't fit the policy as applied in practice.

Bluebirds Making a Comeback

By Charles Taylor

PINE MOUNTAIN, Ga. (UPI) — Bluebirds, those emissaries of happiness noted for their songs and bright plumage, are making a comeback in parts of the eastern United States after 40 years of declining numbers and vanishing habitats.

Luann Craighton, a naturalist at the Callaway Gardens resort, said bluebirds are increasing in numbers now. She credited renewed interest in providing suitable nesting places for their return.

"We have loads of bluebirds," Craighton said. "People coming to Callaway say 'Gosh, look at all your bluebirds.' They notice that."

The reason bluebirds abound in the gently rolling pastures that surround Callaway Gardens, a privately-owned recreation and conservation facility of 2,500 acres 80 miles south of Atlanta is that for a generation they have been encouraged to remain there and raise their young.

The birds began to disappear in some areas in the 1930s because of a shortage of suitable nesting sites.

Craighton said counts going back to 1972 bear out the certainty the numbers of bluebirds are increasing. The same is true, she said, in other areas of the United States and Canada where garden clubs and wildlife groups are sponsoring Bluebird Trails — the name for bluebird conservation efforts.

A Bluebird Trail in Canada stretches more than 1,500 miles, said Craighton. In addition, the Audubon Society has a project called Bluebirds Across America, designed to provide nest boxes for the birds.

About 160 people signed up for Bluebird Day recently at Callaway Gardens, an annual affair that gives the public an opportunity to learn more about one of the nation's more popular songbirds.

Participants each year learn how to make bluebird nest boxes — the key to the bird's survival. The boxes go up before mid-February to accommodate the birds' mating season.

Bluebirds nest in cavities, such as inside a dead tree or a hollow wooden fence post. They also will nest in man-made boxes built according to specific dimensions.

The key dimension is the entrance hole. It must be only 1 1/2 inches in diameter — no more, no less.

"If the hole is bigger, starlings and sparrows, who are more aggressive than the bluebird, will take over," said Craighton.

Soviet Radar Could Detect Stealth

By Jack Anderson
And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON — The truth about the Stealth bomber program is being hidden from Congress and the American people, but the plane itself won't be able to hide from Soviet radar systems that have been in place for years.

This is the whispered word from defense experts who are familiar with the progress of the super-secret bomber.

Being invisible to Soviet radar, of course, is the whole point of the Stealth bomber. If it can't fool the Soviets, it will rank as the costliest mistake in military history — not only because of its estimated $80 billion price tag, but because of the catastrophe that would result if the United States depends on Stealth to do what it can't do.

We've already reported the complaints of knowledgeable critics about various technical aspects of Stealth: its dangerous lack of speed and maneuverability, its lack of stability in flight and its suicidally short range. Some members of Congress are also upset at the "trust us" policy of utter secrecy the Pentagon has used to push through its Stealth budgets.

But these complaints are dwarfed by what our sources say is Stealth's fatal flaw: namely, that older Soviet radar systems, in place for decades and still functional, can pick up incoming Stealth bombers in plenty of time to send interceptors to meet them. And because of Stealth's agonizingly slow speed, the planes would be sitting ducks for Soviet jet fighters.

Here's what the experts have told our associate Donald Goldberg about Stealth and Soviet radar:

Stealth was designed to reflect very little of the short-band radar waves emitted by the sophisticated "phased-array" radars developed in recent years. This is achieved by a combination of absorbent materials and airframe structure. There are no wing flaps or tails for stabilizers, and the engines are tucked inside the fuselage, so, from head-on, there is very little surface area to bounce back radar waves.

One problem with this is that Stealth bombers would probably be flying over the Arctic on their low-level path to Soviet targets. This means that radars looking down from satellites or high-flying AWACS-type planes would have little trouble spotting the lumbering Stealth bombers against the empty landscape of the polar icecap.

Even worse, our sources say, is that old-fashioned long-wave radar systems will be able to pick up Stealth bombers from any angle and from long distances. And the Soviets still have a variety of these radars, 25 or more years old, deployed and in use.

"The Russians never throw anything away," explained one intelligence source.

For example, one Soviet early-warning radar, introduced in 1959 and nicknamed "Tall King" by the Pentagon, was designed for use against high-performance, high-altitude aircraft. But our sources say its low frequency will allow it to detect the low, slow Stealth bombers easily.

"Tall King is the primary Soviet early-warning radar and it is deployed widely, with heaviest concentrations around the periphery of the U.S.S.R.," according to a secret Defense Intelligence Agency report. "It is found in all other Eurasian communist countries except Albania and the Peoples Republic of China, and additionally in Cuba, Egypt, Syria and Libya."

Even older Soviet radar systems, such as "Tall Pine" and "Pine Strut," developed shortly after World War II, can also pick up Stealth bombers at a distance, our sources say. These antique radars would be able to triangulate the incoming bombers' whereabouts within a 10-mile area, experts say.

And once Stealth bombers are detected, they'll be unable to outrun or evade Soviet pursuit planes.

Abernethy's Long Kicks Make Short Work For Lyman

By Chris Flister
Herald Sports Writer

Karen Abernethy is not exactly your average sweeperback. The All-State defensive wizard is also capable of creating some offensive magic for Lyman's Lady Greyhounds.

Saturday night, along with her usual strong game on the defensive side, the talented junior set up three goals with long kicks off dead ball plays as the Lady Greyhounds rolled past Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, 4-0, in the District 3 Tournament title game before 301 fans at Lyman High.

The Lady Greyhounds, 20-0 this season and winners of 44 consecutive games, continue their quest for a second straight state title Tuesday night at 7 in the Region 2 playoff at Vero Beach. Lake Brantley concluded an excellent season with a record of 19-4-1 with all four losses to Lyman.

Lyman, which outshot Brantley, 20-4, scored two goals in each half and it was Abernethy that assisted on the first three.

"They were all beautiful kicks from Karen (Abernethy)," said senior Dawn Boyesen, who was on the receiving end of two Abernethy assists. "That's something that we work on in practice, we take turns running through on the long balls. And Karen put the ball in perfect position for me to score."

Before Lyman got on the board though, it was Lake Brantley that put on the offensive pressure early. With 15 minutes gone in the game, the Lady Patriots had their best chance to score turned away on a spectacular save by goalkeeper Kim Mitchell.

Pam Anderson unloaded a long shot from about 40 yards out that took a wicked bounce over Mitchell's head. The ball bounded toward the goal but Mitchell turned and lunged on it before it went in.

Soccer

"Kim (Mitchell) did an outstanding job saving that ball," Lyman coach Tom Barnes said. "If that ball goes in, it might have been a different game."

After Anderson's near goal, it was a defensive struggle most of the first half that was dominated by Brantley's Anderson and Reenie Deaver and the Lyman trio of Abernethy, Maye Belle Bryant and Laura Russell.

The Lady Greyhounds then turned up the offensive heat in the late going and erupted for two goals in the last 10:45 of the first half.

The first goal came on an Abernethy kick off a dead ball from the defensive end. Abernethy served it about 20 yards in front of the goal where Boyesen ran up and knocked it in for a 1-0 lead.

Almost an instant replay of the first goal came with 7:04 left in the half when Abernethy served another long ball in front of the cage where senior Sheila Mandy broke through and booted it in to give the Lady Greyhounds a 2-0 lead that stood up at halftime.

Lyman kept the offensive pressure on in the early going of the second half but Brantley's defense and goalkeeper Karen Brown turned the Lady Greyhounds away on a number of good chances.

With 16:55 left, Lyman took a commanding 3-0 lead and again it was Abernethy that set up the score. On another dead ball play from the defensive end, Abernethy drilled a ball downfield and Boyesen broke free from the defense, controlled the ball, got the keeper to commit, and popped it in.

"Those were beautiful balls by Karen (Abernethy)," Barnes said. "We do work on that in practice, but the girls made the decisions on the field tonight. A lot of times the girls, being on the field and in the flow of the game, can make just as good decisions as the coaches."

Lyman put the finishing touches on with 11:56 left to play when senior Alyson Barnes launched a corner kick that glanced off Brown's hands and into the box to make the final 4-0.

Brantley tried valiantly to get something on the board but Lyman's stubborn defense wouldn't let it happen.

"Our fullbacks (Bryant and Russell) did an outstanding job tonight," Barnes said. "Brantley was without one of their scorers (Julie DeRusso) but they have other people who are just as dangerous and our defense did a good job marking them."

Brooks Or Roberts? SCC's Skullduggery Confuses Lake City

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Sometimes a little skullduggery can go a long way.

With just seven seconds remaining in Saturday night's Seminole Community College-Lake City Community College basketball game it appeared, Efreem Brooks, SCC's freshman guard, was fouled after grabbing the ball during a mad scramble.

The situation bordered on chaotic. Five or six players were clutching for ball. SCC held a one-point lead and possession would probably ensure a victory while Lake City desperately wanted one more shot at victory.

Brooks, it appeared, finally gained control but before he could take two dribbles, he was fouled by Lake City's Leon Tillman.

Or was he? Brooks looked at teammate Tony Roberts. Roberts looked at Brooks. They exchanged a knowing glance. Roberts, who shoots his free throws 9.4 percentage points better than Brooks, then stepped up to the foul line for the one-and-one.

He made the first and missed the second. One "given" foul and Carmen Anderson's desperation 40-footer later, the Raiders walked off with a much-needed 85-83 Mid-Florida Conference victory over the Timberwolves before 311 fans at the SCC Health Center.

The victory improved SCC to 23-6 overall and 9-3 in the conference. Lake City fell to 12-7 and 7-5. Florida Junior whipped Santa Fe, 102-92, to improve to 10-2 and maintain its one-game edge. Daytona Beach, using 19 points from Darryl Merthle and 15 from Willie Mitchell, held off St. John's River, 80-76.

Two games remain. Daytona hosts Florida Junior and Seminole entertains St. John's River Wednesday. Florida Junior hosts St. John's River Saturday while Seminole goes to Valencia and Daytona is home for Lake City. SCC needs to win both of its games and hope FJC loses one to force a two-way or three-way tie for the conference title, which would force a playoff. The conference winner gets an automatic berth to the state tournament.

"St. John's is as tough as anybody," SCC coach Bill Payne said after the game. "I'm not looking for anything but one game at a time."

Basketball

Lake City tried to throw a wrench into that strategy Saturday but the Raiders received strong efforts from Roberts, Brooks, Vance Hall, Carl Poellnitz and Greg "Slim" Johnson to pull out the victory.

Brooks said he wasn't reluctant to turn the pressure free throws over to Roberts. "I haven't been shooting my free throws very well the last couple of games," Brooks, a freshman product from Lake Howell High, said. "Tony had really improved his and besides the referees were confused, too."

Along with Lake City coach Tony Johnson. "There ain't nothing you can do about it now," Johnson said when informed of the switch. "But I wish I would have known then."

Payne pleaded innocence. "I kept asking (assistant) Dean (Smith), 'whose at the line?'" he said not too convincingly.

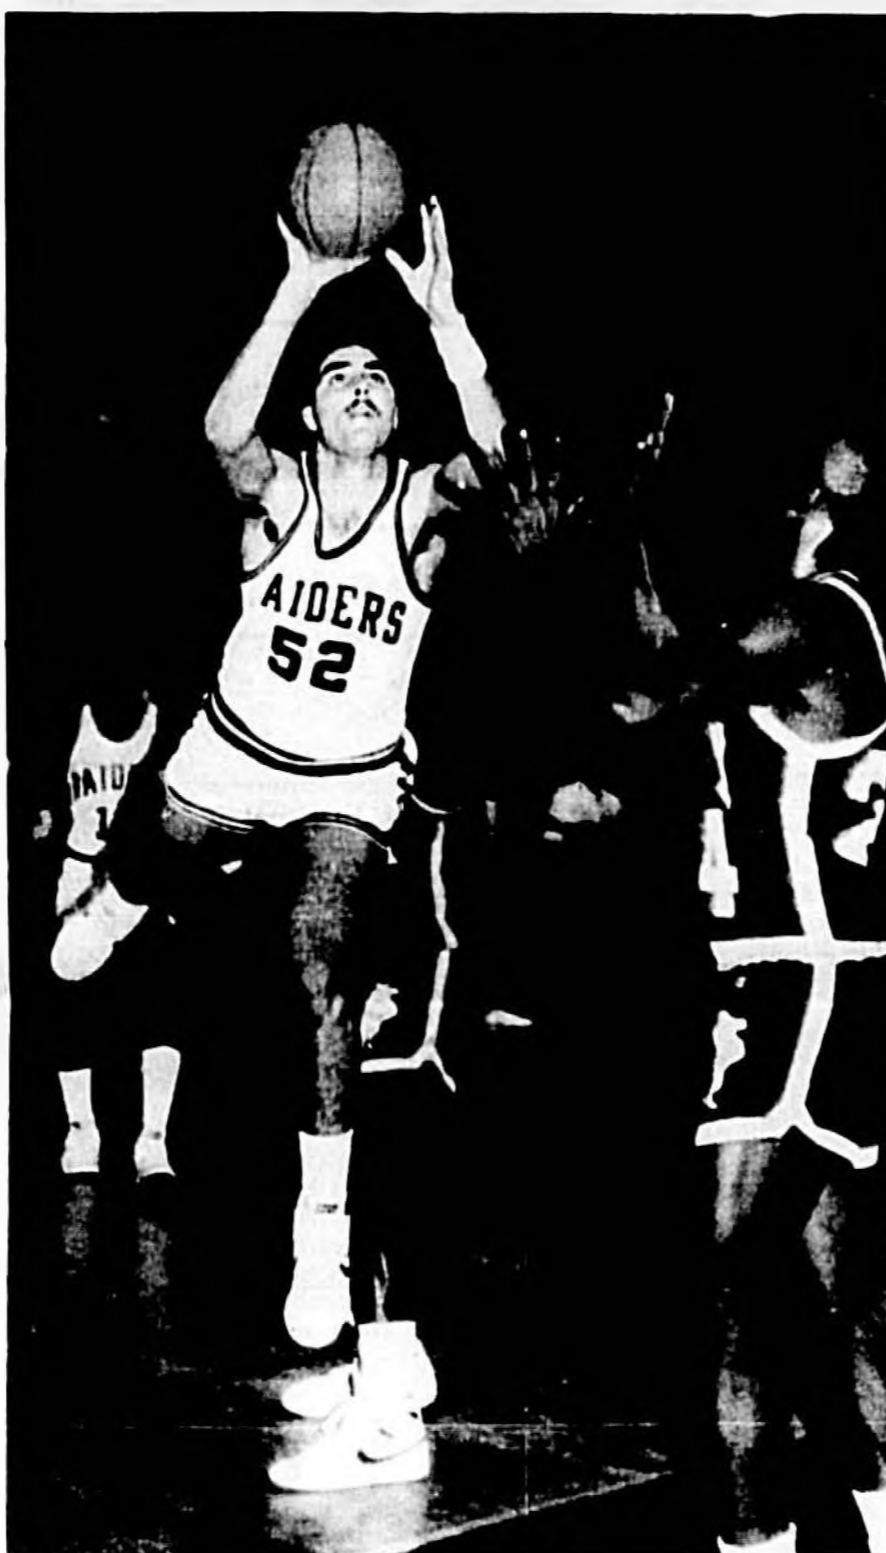

Roberts, though, said he just followed the official's instructions. "The ref said, '24, go to the line,'" Roberts explained. "So, I just walked up to the line."

Coincidentally, Roberts and Hall combined for 22 points in the first 20 minutes to give the Raiders a 46-42 lead at intermission. Willie Jones, who finished with 28 points, threw in half in the first half for Lake City.

A Poellnitz jumper five minutes into the second half extended the lead to 56-50. Poellnitz finished with 10 points. Lake City, though, came back to outscore SCC, 10-2, and take a 62-60 lead.

The Timberwolves jumped ahead by four at one point but built the SCC edge to 76-73 with 4:36 to go when Brooks and Roberts canned jumpers. Lake City pulled ahead, 77-76, but Brooks hit a jumper, forced two turnovers and Hall converted two free throws with 2:30 left to give the Raiders the lead for good.

"I guess I just needed the pressure on me," Johnson, not known for his prowess at the foul line, said about his two free throws. "On the block, I was just at the right place at the right time."

Lake City turned it over twice in the next nine seconds until Tillman fouled Brooks, er, Roberts. Roberts, who finished with 21 points, made the first and after he missed the second, Brooks alertly fouled Anderson.

Lake City was not yet in the bonus, so it got the ball 65 feet away with just 40 seconds left. Anderson forced a 40-footer with one second left but it wasn't close and the Raiders rejoiced.

With a sly grin.

Thomas, Webb Show Bigger Isn't Better In Texas Turnaround

DALLAS (UPI) — In Texas, the land of limosines, oil wells and 10-gallon hats, bigger is usually better. That, however, was not the case during the NBA's All-Star Weekend.

One day after 5-foot-7 Spud Webb dazzled the Reunion Arena crowd in the Slam-Dunk Championship, 6-1 Isiah Thomas turned in another performance that was anything but pint-sized.

The Detroit playmaker collected 30 points and 10 assists and took command down the stretch Sunday to ignite the East to a 139-132 triumph over the West in the 36th annual All-Star Game. The glittering effort earned Thomas the second Most Valuable Player trophy of his five-year All-Star career.

"To be singled out as the best basketball player of the day when all the great players are on the same court, it's unreal," said Thomas, who hit 11-of-19 shots from the floor, 8-of-9 from the line and added 5 steals.

"Then for it to happen twice, it's something you can't understand. It's very emotional."

Thomas, 24, had 12 points in the final period to become only the fifth multiple MVP winner. He received the contest's top honor at the 1984 game in Denver.

"Pound for pound, he's probably the best athlete in the world," said Philadelphia's Julius Erving. "They talk about Sugar Ray Robinson and Sugar Ray Leonard and fighters like that. But Isiah is a fighter."

You would not have thought so by looking at Thomas' boyish smile throughout the game. But maybe that's the idea.

In the second quarter, Thomas grinned at his close friend, the Lakers' Magic Johnson, while bringing the ball upcourt. When Johnson returned the smile, Thomas whizzed past for a layup.

Later in the period, he tumbled to the court and drew a charging foul on Johnson. Thomas then was playfully shoved in the back by the Los Angeles guard.

"It was great to be on the court with Isiah," said Johnson. "But we were on separate sides and both of us wanted to win badly."

The West led 130-125 with three minutes left, but Thomas capped an 8-0 run with 4 foul shots that resulted in a 3-point edge with 1:49 left.

"He had to work on Magic at one end and look for the open man and take shots at the other," said Boston's K.C. Jones, who coached the East. "He's a small pack of dynamite."

Two free throws by Johnson got the West within a point with 69 seconds remaining, but Buck Williams of New Jersey scored off an offensive rebound for a 135-132 lead with 56 seconds to go.

The contest was all but over when Johnson misfired on a 3-point field goal attempt.

Boston's Larry Bird added 23 points and 7 steals for the East, Moses Malone of the 76ers had 16 points and 13 rebounds and Kevin McHale of the Celtics came off the bench for 10 rebounds and 4 blocked shots in just 20 minutes.

Kareem Abdul-Jabbar of the Lakers, playing in a record 15th NBA All-Star game, had 21 points and set a new standard for career All-Star field goals (96). Teammates James Worthy had 20 points and Johnson collected 15 assists — though he also had 9 turnovers. Ralph Sampson of Houston added 16 points.

The victory, before a sellout crowd of 16,573, was the sixth in the last seven games for the East. On Sunday, the winners owned a 32-16 advantage at the free-throw line.

ERVING: ONE MORE TIME

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — Veteran Julius Erving of the Philadelphia 76ers plans to play at least one more NBA season.

The Sixers' captain, in his 15th year, considered retiring at the end of this season, but recently told team owner Harold Katz he wants to play again next year.

Erving, who played for the East in the All-Star Game in Dallas Sunday, will turn 36 on Feb. 22, and his current contract, which pays him about $1.5 million per year, expires at the end of this season.

Erving said he will meet with Katz after the All-Star Game to open negotiations on a new contract.

Veteran Richard Petty, right, leads the rest of the cars coming out of the pits for a practice run prior to the Busch Clash

Sunday. Petty and the rest couldn't check Dale Earnhardt who ran away with the 50-mile, 20-lap race. He won $75,000.

Earnhardt Is Class Of Clash

DAYTONA BEACH — Dale Earnhardt led 15 of 20 laps Sunday before putting his Wrangler Jeans Chevrolet into the winner's circle and pocketing $75,000 while winning the Busch Clash at the Daytona International Speedway.

Earnhardt, who also won the 1980 Clash, averaged 195.865 miles per hour.

"We didn't run our new car in the Clash, but went with the same car we ran at Talladega last year," said Earnhardt. "We tested the new ones and kept coming back to this one. The more we practiced with it, the more we know this was the right choice. My car was superior in the turns and that showed how well we were prepared."

During the last five laps he said he wasn't sure that Bill

Auto Racing

Elliott was showing all he had and what he could do. "I did give some thought on letting him past and then making a last lap move, but I quickly decided not to do that," Earnhardt said. "I knew I had an advantage in turns one and two and that Bill was having trouble getting through turn three."

Elliott, who finished second, said his wild guess wasn't good enough concerning his cornering strategy. "We made a wild guess at the suspension settings under the car this morning and we turned out pretty close — but that wasn't good enough," he said. "I couldn't hold Dale in the corners, but we were pretty strong down the straights. Those last four laps, I'd turn the wheel and the car would still wash up the race track in the turns."

The only caution in the race came when Geoff Bodine spun during the fifth lap. "Wow, I'm still shaking," Bodine exclaimed. "I was trying to move up and stick in there behind Earnhardt and then the car just got loose. I tried to save it and nearly hit Earnhardt."

In other action, Grant Adcox won the 23rd annual 200 Permatex Supercar Series race in a wreck-marred event. Close to half the field was taken out in wrecks as there was seven caution flags for 31 laps.

Mark Gibson, a local driver that runs at New Smyrna Speedway, ran a great race and stayed out of trouble all day to finish in eighth place.

Ferrell Tabs Sheffield For Tonight's Opener

By Sam Cook
Herald Sports Editor

Brian Sheffield, who needs to be Seminole High School's baseball ace in more ways than one if coach Mike Ferrell's second-year team is to be successful, will open on the mound tonight against West Orange in the Orlando Evans Hot Stove Invitational Tournament at Evans High School. First pitch is 7:30 p.m.

The tournament admission is $1.50 per game. A $10 pass can be purchased to cover tournament games.

Sheffield, a three-year starter, is one of just two seniors in tonight's lineup and Ferrell is looking for the talented senior to lead the way with his arm and bat. When not on the mound, Sheffield will play shortstop or first base.

"We have a year's experience at every position except first base," Ferrell said. "But we still have a lot of younger players playing."

The Seminoles were 10-15 last year and Ferrell said he expects an improvement from that record. "We're not necessarily outstanding at a lot of places," he said. "But we're not weak anywhere either."

The infield will have sophomore Ron Blake at first base, senior Dave Rape at second, sophomore Jeff Blake at shortstop and talented junior Gary Derr at third base.

Jeff Blake and uncle Ron both swing strong sticks. They were both standouts in the Sanford Recreation youth leagues and Ferrell said he is counting on them to do well despite their lean experience at the varsity level.

Derr moved into the lineup last year as a sophomore and is a proven performer. Rape has sure hands at second, excellent speed and is a good bunter.

The outfield is young and fast. Junior Alonzo Gainey will handle left, speedy freshman Willie

Brian Sheffield

Mike Ferrell

Grayson will patrol center and returning junior Joey Corsi is penciled in for right.

Junior Roy Jensen, who split his time between catching and first base last year, will handle Sheffield's knuckleball offerings behind the plate.

The outfield depth comes from junior David Rowland, junior Jimmy Orioles, senior Craig Dixon, sophomore David Houghton and senior Greg Pond. Pond is returning from Frostproof, where he moved after his eighth grade year. He was a top player in the Sanford youth leagues, too. Noy Rivers is the backup in the infield.

Ferrell said he expects solid help from the Turner brothers — catcher Troy and outfielder/pitcher Tracy — once the wrestling season concludes.

Ferrell's biggest question mark is his mound staff where righthanders Jeff Blake and junior Jim Lyons join Sheffield as starters for assistant Mike Powers, Mike Edwards, a junior righthander, also joins the staff after basketball.

Seminole plays Winter Park Tuesday (7:30 p.m.), Oak Ridge Wednesday (4 p.m.) and Evans Thursday (7:30 p.m.). It will also play another game Saturday at Apopka High School when the Hot Stove and the Apopka Rotary Tournament merge for the final day.

Schmit Earns Mound Nod Against Howell

By Chris Pieter
Herald Sports Writer

Lake Mary's Rams may have lost a lot of punch from their powerful hitting lineup of a year ago, but they still figure to deliver plenty of knockout blows in the 1986 season.

With three of its top pitchers and a veteran starting infield bolstered by the transfer of third baseman Mike Pinckes, Lake Mary will be the favorite in the Seminole Athletic Conference and District 4A-9.

The Rams open the season today at 4:30 in the Apopka Rotary Tournament as they go up against Lake Howell at Lake Mary High. Lake Mary's second game of the six-game, round-robin tournament will be Wednesday at 4 at home against Spruce Creek. Other teams in the tourney include host Apopka, Orlando Edgewater and DeLand.

Coach Allen Tuttle said he will go with senior Mike Schmit on the mound in the opener against Lake Howell. Tuttle also said Schmit will attend Florida State University of a baseball scholarship this fall.

With Schmit on the mound, Ryan Lisle will start at catcher, Neal Harris will be at first base, Shane Letterio at second, Anthony Laszalc at shortstop and Mike Pinckes at third base. The outfield consists of T.J. Sutton in left, Brett Mollie in center and Kelly Hysell in right.

Others who will see action in the outfield include Matt Messina, Billy Jenkins, Mike Smith and Doug Bandy.

The pitching staff includes Schmit, the number one hurler the past two years, along with Laszalc as the number two starter. Harris, Steve Shakar and Sean Flaherty will also do some work on the mound. Shakar is the lone southpaw on the Lake Mary staff.

"The starting pitching is pretty well set with

Allen Tuttle

Mike Schmit

Mike (Schmit), Anthony (Laszalc) and Neal (Harris)," Tuttle said. "But Shakar and Flaherty both looked good on the mound over the summer and we'll use them too."

Offensively, Lake Mary lost a lot of firepower from last year's 29-victory team with the graduation of Rod "C.J." Metz, Scott Underwood, Kevin Hill, Don Grayson and Ron Natherson. But the Rams are still stockpiled with a number of good hitters.

"I don't think we'll be as strong offensively as last year," Tuttle said. "But that would be pretty tough to repeat. But we're still pretty strong compared to other teams."

Defensively, all of Lake Mary's infielders are returning starters. The only infielder from last year that graduated was third baseman Hill but Pinckes started at the hot corner for Lake Brantley the latter part of last season and should fit in nicely, according to Tuttle.

"Defensively we'll be better than last year," Tuttle said. "Lisle is still a little tender behind the plate and we may have to take easy on him the first couple of weeks but he'll be ready. With only four seniors, we've got a pretty young team but we're still pretty experienced. Schmit, Letterio, Laszalc and Lisle have all played since they were freshmen."

Colonial Pins Rams — Oviedo Qualifies 2

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

All good things must finally come to an end.

The previously undefeated Lake Mary Rams found that out Saturday in their 36-33 loss to the eighth-ranked Colonial Grenadiers in prep wrestling at Orlando's Colonial High School.

The Rams' loss to the Grenadiers, their first of the season, left a bitter taste in their mouths as they fell to an 11-1 record. It is only the second dual meet setback in three years.

The Rams will try and redeem themselves Wednesday when two Jacksonville teams come to Lake Mary. The Rams will host Jacksonville Wolfson and Jacksonville Forrest in a tri-match which begins at 6:30 p.m.

"I'm heartbroken and really disappointed," Ram coach Doug Peters said. "I guess we went to the well one too many times and finally came out on the short end of the stick."

The Rams split the first four matches with the Grenadiers with both Craig Johnson at 109 and Rob Richards at 123 winning their respective matches.

Johnson shut out Paul Hastings, 7-0, and Richards dominated James Decker with an impressive 15-8 decision.

"Everything went the way I thought it would go," Peters said of his strategy. "I expected Craig (Johnson) and Rob (Richards) to take their matches, but I didn't think they'd do it in the fashion that they did."

After the first four matches, the Rams fell behind 9-6 until the ever-reliable Matt Broberg stepped onto the mat. Broberg, at 130, was at his prime as he disposed of Matt Massari with a quick pin at 1:26.

"Matt is getting better with every match," Peters said of the 15-1 Broberg. "I really expected him to win too. He's very consistent and a big team leader."

Broberg's pin sparked senior Tom Olson to victory in the next match. Olson took a 14-7 decision at 136 to put the Rams up, 15-9.

That set the stage for the pivotal match of the night. Previously undefeated Bill Richards' battle with another unbeaten, Robby Smith, at 142.

Wrestling

Trailing, 8-7, with less than 10 seconds remaining in the match, Richards let his opponent go in order to attempt a two-point takedown. Smith, however, turned the tables on Richards, rolled him and pinned with four seconds left in the match.

"That was the match that turned things around for them (Colonial)," Peters said. "I felt really bad for Bill (Richards). He's a real competitor and he'll be back when tournament time rolls around this week."

After the Broberg match, Scott Ross at 149 had a pin in 1:36 to keep the Ram lead. However, from that point on, the Grenadiers won three straight matches to take a nine-point lead going into the final three matches. Giving it everything that they had left, the Rams managed to win two, but the Grenadiers ensured the win when Mike Dubray stuck Sanford's Aubronnee Martin in 3:36 at heavyweight.

Paul Owen at 220 had one of the two wins with a pin in 3:59 and super heavyweight Troy Jackson had the other with a pin in 3:34.

"I hate losing," Peters said in frustration. "But if it makes us a better team, than it was worth it. It's tough to lose when you're so used to winning, but that's all a part of athletics."

DEZEGO, VELA REGION-BOUND
In the 3A District Wrestling Championship Meet this past weekend in Leesburg, the Oviedo Lions had two grapplers advance to next weekend's Region II Championships in Auburndale.

Shawn Dezego and Charlie Vela each placed in the consolation round of the district meet. Dezego finished third in his weight class and Vela placed automatically by finishing fourth. The top four finishes in each weight category advance to the next round.

Dezego, at 101, won the consolation round by pinning his opponent in 5:32. Using a half to a cradle, Dezego disposed of his Leesburg foe after leading for two rounds, 11-4.

"Shawn (Dezego) did a great job this weekend," 12th year Lion grappling coach John Horn said. "He looked awfully good in the consolations and wound up with a big pin."

The only other Lion to advance to the Regional meet next weekend was 130-pound Charlie Vela. Vela lost both of his matches, but there was only four competitors vying for spots.

"I thought Charlie (Vela) could have done a lot better," Horn said. "He just had an off meet. He's lucky to go automatically."

Horn and the Lions had anticipated taking more wrestlers to the Regions, but that hope was destroyed after the district performance.

"I wanted to take at least six wrestlers to the Regions," Horn said. "It didn't work out that way though. Overall we didn't wrestle well enough to take anyone, but we ended up with two going."

Boxing's Aim Is To Inflict Pain

Boxing as a sport can be broken down into two realisms: professional and amateur.

The differences in the two levels of competition do not only exist in boxing ability but in rules, equipment and basic objective of the game. It is this divergence between the two types of boxing that marks where the arguments concerning boxing arise.

"Boxing is unique in that its aim is to inflict injury, where in other sports injuries are incidental," says a report by the Physician and Sports Medicine. This is true in the case of professional boxing, where the objective is to knock out the opponent, as opposed to amateur boxing that is based on scored punches. A knock out punch and a well placed jab are equal in rank in amateur boxing.

Several differences exist between amateur and professional boxing.

For instance, all amateur boxing comes under the jurisdiction of a single governing body — the United States of America Amateur Boxing Federation.

Unfortunately, no such unified body exists in the professional boxing world, that covers eligibility, sanctioning representation and rules of competition. Professional boxing is run by individual state organizations that have different laws.

Key in the argument of safety, the general philosophy of the two sports differs. Amateur boxing follows a system of scoring points, with no regard for the force of the blow or the effect which it creates. A blow that renders another boxer knocked down is equal in points to a regular blow. Professional boxing does, however, give added points to a blow with greater impact and effect. The objective of professional boxing is the knockout, and it is a rare occasion when a boxer who causes a knockdown will lose a round.

EQUIPMENT DRAWS CONTROVERSY

Equipment is also a source of controversy, for it is the equipment, or lack of it, that many physicians say will injure the boxer. Amateur boxing demands the boxer wear a mouthpiece at all times and headguards, mandatory in international competition.

If any injury occurs, the referee stops the fight to consult the fight doctor's opinion, and at his own discretion, can cancel the match for medical reasons. Also, if the fight is stopped because of extensive blows to the head, the boxer cannot return to the ring, or practice for 90 days, and must be certified by a physician before he may fight again.

Colin Kemp
SPORTS MEDICINE

Professional boxing prohibits the use of headgear, and has no nationwide rule on the mouthpiece. Some states allow the referee to consult the physician, but he may not suspend a round at his own discretion.

The rule concerning head injuries and a 90-day suspension is enforced in some states in professional boxing, but unfortunately, since pro boxing lacks a national agency, a boxer can fight and be knocked out in one state, and return to the ring in another state.

REPORTED: 335 BOXING DEATHS

Between 1945 and 1984, 335 deaths as a result of boxing were reported. Proponents of the sport contend that this number is quite low in comparison to other sports.

Unfortunately, evidence exists to prove that the detrimental effects of repeated blows to the head has left many boxers severely impaired or in the process of doing so.

The most serious effect of boxing is called encephalopathy, or the "Punch Drunk Syndrome (PDS)." PDS concerns the brain's inability to transmit signals to the nerves. This results in symptoms such as unsteady gait, hand tremors, nodding of the head, speech hesitancy, and mental confusion. It is not known why, but the symptoms seem to progress after the boxer has retired, then stabilize.

Dr. Max Novich, a fight doctor and long-time proponent of the sport contends that a great deal of the punch drunk cases to the stereotype of boxers in the fifties. "They drank and had syphilis, which causes poor balance, and people thought they were just hit in the head too much," he said. "Now that syphilis isn't around you don't see too many punch drunks."

PDS: REPEATED BLOWS TO HEAD

Punch Drunk Syndrome is caused by the repeated sub-concussive blows to the head. Sub-concussive blows to the head are just below the magnitude of a concussion and are caused by the general law of physics and inertia.

The knockout occurs in one to four percent of all matches. A study by A. Underhansheidt documented in the Physician and Sports Medicine concluded that the intensity of impact and time were less significant factors in boxing.

Impacts of lesser intensity at short intervals were found to be more harmful than stronger impacts at long intervals. Therefore, it is not the knockout punch that is detrimental to the brain as much as the consistent blows per bout.

Underhansheidt also found that the force of the punch transmitted by the skull depends on the nature of acceleration.

It has been found that blows to the chin and anterior temporal (forehead) region produce the most knockouts.

One study, however, concluded that knock-out occurs because of head movement that excessively stimulates the vestibular mechanism, responsible for balance.

Doctor Peter Lambert, M.D. of the University of California School of Medicine in San Diego, concluded that blows to the head cause the brain to move in the skull, tearing blood vessels and nerve fibers.

Arguello Kayos Costello

RENO, Nev. (UPI) — At this stage of his career, Alexis Arguello feels the sting of punches days after the bout.

The former three-time champion shook off age and the anger generated by a preflight controversy Sunday to knock out former WBC super lightweight champion Bill Costello with a straight right hand in the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round bout.

Arguello was angered before the fight even started when Costello's manager, Mike Jones, questioned the way Arguello's hands were wrapped. Jones protested what he thought was too much tape under the gauze covering the former three-time champ's hands. The Nevada Boxing Commission officials agreed with the protest and Arguello was forced to rewrap.

Johnson, Latimer Join Hall

Dave Johnson, son of New York Mets' manager Davey Johnson, left, and Alice Mitchell, mother of former Lyman High School standout Al Latimer, stood in for their famous father and son Saturday at the Seminole County Sports Hall of Fame induction ceremonies at Seminole Community College. Johnson was in St. Petersburg for a pre-spring training meeting while Latimer, an accountant for an insurance company in Detroit, couldn't attend because of a new job. Both Johnson, a 19-year-old senior at Lake Howell High School, and Mitchell, an Altamonte Springs resident, expressed regrets from the inductees but over 301 fans enjoyed the ceremony and the SCC's exciting victory over Santa Fe. Johnson and Latimer join Red Barber, Tim Raines, Joe Sterling, Emma Spencer, Buddy Lake, Mary Rose, Larry Castle and the late Leonard "Whitey" McLucas in the 4-year-old hall. Sterling, Spencer and Castle were on hands for Saturday's ceremony.

Steele Expects Real, Real Tough One Tonight Against Lake Mary

The Seminole Athletic Conference returns to action tonight with three pivotal games involving the six county girls' teams.

Seminole travels to Lake Mary. Lyman journeys to Lake Brantley and Oviedo hosts Lake Howell.

Coach Bill Moore's Lake Mary Lady Rams lead the pack with a 6-0 mark. A victory tonight can clinch a tie for the SAC title. Seminole, 4-3, would be eliminated while the loser of the Lake Brantley-Lyman game, both of whom are 4-3, would also be eliminated.

"It's going to be a real, real tough game because they (Lake Mary) always get fired up to play us," Steele said. "But I don't care. Let them bring it on because we're coming to play some basketball."

Seminole lost a controversial game at home the last time the two teams met. A steal and basket by Catherine "Kitty" Anderson was taken away when it was ruled Lake Mary had called timeout. The score would have given Seminole a one-point lead.

Anderson, who poured in 26 points in a win over Oviedo Saturday, will go head-to-head with Lake Mary's 6-3 Teri Whyte. Seminole's Temika Alexander and freshman Adrian Hillsman, Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson and Yolanda Robinson complete the starting five.

Tonya Lawson, Karen DeShetler, Cynthia Patterson and Anquetette Whack join Whyte for Lake Mary.

Indoor: Gilbert Upsets Edberg

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — Sixth-seeded Brad Gilbert defeated defending champion Stefan Edberg 7-5, 7-6 Sunday to win a $315,000 indoor tennis tournament.

Gilbert, defeated No. 1 seed Jimmy Connors in the quarterfinals, will receive $45,000 for first place. Gilbert is from Piedmont, Cal.

In the first set, Gilbert broke Sweden's Edberg at 5-4 and again in the deciding game of the set. Edberg, seeded second, had broken Gilbert in the fifth game to go up 3-2.

"I was really guessing forehand throughout the match," said Gilbert. "He started missing some first serves and I was getting a good crack at the ball," said the winner.

Gilbert defeated John Sadri, Marty Davis, Connors, Anders Jarryd and Edberg in earlier games, while Edberg topped Mike Leach, Peter Lundgren, Johan Kriek and qualifier Mikael Pernfors.

Pernfors, a two-time All-America at Georgia and Seminole Community College, took the first set against Edberg but dropped the last two to fall 4-6, 7-5, 6-1.

Moore's 20 More Than Enough

Robert Moore was more than enough Thursday night. Moore poured in 20 points as McLain Pierce bombarded Pamar, 63-17, in Sanford Recreation Department Intermediate League basketball at the Salvation Army Gym.

McLain Pierce ran its record to 3-0 for season. Pamar is 1-2. Moore scored 10 points in the second quarter as McLain Pierce erased a 7-6 first-quarter deficit and took a commanding 21-13 at halftime.

Lewis Bittle and Jonathan Parker each tallied 10 points for McLain Pierce while Jessie Nightingale had seven, Henry June and Samuel Ayres chipped in four apiece while Bernard Jamison had three and Alonzo Brundidge tossed in two.

Pete Teemer led Pamar with eight points and Mike Newman had four. Frank Mitchell and Mike Burke had two each while Erskine Howard added a free throw.

Seniors: Owens Finds Treasure

FORT PIERCE (UPI) — Leading wire-to-wire, Charlie Owens carded a final round three-under-par 69 to win the Treasure Coast Classic at TPC Monte Carlo.

Owens notched his first Senior PGA Tour win with a three-round 54-hole 202, 14 under par. Following Owens were Don January and Lee Elder who each finished at 205, 11 under for the three-day event.

January trailed Owens by just one shot going to the 18th hole, but put his drive into the lake forcing him to take a double bogey. Owens parred the 18th.

The best round of the day belonged to Elder who shot an 8-under-par 64. On the front nine, Elder had six consecutive birdies beginning on the first hole.

Miller Highlights Barker's Day

Bobby Miller rapped a pair of homers and drove in five runs as the University of Central Florida outslugged the Florida Institute of Technology, 8-6, in the Knights' college baseball home opener Sunday.

UCF coach Jay Bergman honored ex-Knight Tim Barker by retiring his uniform (No. 18) and presenting Barker with a plaque. Barker, who played two years at Seminole Community College, set NCAA records for stolen bases (104) and hits (142) last year. He then signed with the Montreal Expos.

In junior college baseball Saturday, coach Jack Pantellas' SCC Raiders were rained out of their home opener against Florida College. It will be played today at 3 p.m.

PGA: Tway Picks Up First Check

LA JOLLA, Calif. (UPI) — The 16th hole was pivotal for Bernhard Langer at the Andy Williams Open Sunday. He birdied the par-3 to force a sudden death playoff with Bob Tway, then allowed victory to slip away on the same green.

Langer missed a 6-foot putt for par on 16 that would have forced the playoff to a third hole.

Tway, however, buried the winner from two feet away and collected his first PGA winners check since enlisting out of Oklahoma State University two years ago.

"I probably moved my body a bit," Langer said about his ill-fated putt.

LPGA: Sheehan Maintains Lead

SARASOTA (UPI) — Patty Sheehan carried a two-stroke lead into the final round of the $200,000 Sarasota Classic today, seeking to win a wire-to-wire victory and become the first to win the 11-year-old LPGA tourney twice.

Sheehan had a 54-hole total of 208 and faced the challenge of Juli Inkster and Stephanie Farwig, both at 210.

Sheehan had a third-round 1-under-par 71 Sunday, while Farwig had 72 and Inkster bolted into contention with a personal career low of 8-under-par 64, one off the course record.

Seminoles Are Off To Flying Start

Indoor: Martin Wins 880, Long Jump — Outdoor: Brown Snares 60

Track/Field

A number of Seminole County track athletes tuned up for the upcoming season with outstanding performances Saturday at a pair of meets.

At the University of Florida Indoor Meet, Seminole High's Showanda Martin won a pair of events and the Lady Tribe also claimed first in the mile relay. Dorchelle Webster and Michelle Pearson also turned in top-notch performances for the Lady 'Noles while Tonya Lawson and Oneyke Berry led the way for Lake Mary's Lady Rams.

At the Hi-Y Games at Showlater Field in Winter Park, Seminole High's Louis Brown turned in one of the top times ever in the 60-yard dash in a meet that was cut short due to inclement weather.

Martin, a sophomore at Seminole High, took first place in her specialty, the 800 meters with a time of 2:23.7. Her top time for that distance was a 2:09 run over the summer in Junior Olympic competition.

Martin also claimed first place in the long jump, an event that was dominated by Seminole County athletes. Martin's winning leap was a 17-1 1/4. Lake Mary's Lawson was fourth in the long jump at 16-7 1/4 while Berry was fifth (16-1 1/4) and Seminole's Webster sixth (16-1 1/4). Webster also took second place in the 400 meter dash with a time of 62.0.

Seminole's mile relay team blazed to a first place time of 4:11.9 to outdistance the second place team, Walton, Ga., by nearly seven seconds. Webster, also a sophomore, ran the first leg and Martin the anchor leg.

Pearson, a newcomer to the Tribe squad, performed well in her debut as she sailed to second place in the 55 meter dash with a time of 7.73. Lake Mary's Tonya McCrae was seventh at 8.03. Pearson also took fourth place in the 300 meter dash with a 45.1 clocking.

In the shot put, Seminole's Diane Mitchell was fourth (31-7 3/4) and Adriane Smith fifth (31-4 1/2).

Lake Mary's Berry took fifth place in the 55 meter hurdles at 9.96 and Lady Ram Jodie McCurdy was seventh at 10.01.

Lake Mary also came away with seventh place finishes in the mile and two mile relays. Lawson and McCurdy ran outstanding legs in the mile relay while Jennifer Caputo, Tabatha Gano and Nikl Hays ran well on the two mile relay.

Lake Mary's boys team had some excellent performances at the indoor meet from sprinter Jeff Pommier along with distance runners Ken Rohr and Eric Petersen.

At the Hi-Y Games Saturday, Seminole's Brown soared to a time of 6.1 in the 60 yard dash to win the event by over two seconds over teammate Pat Davis who turned in a not-too-shabby 6.38. Dwayne Willis was fifth at 6.6.

Seminole also came away with first place in the two mile relay with the team of

Ken Brauman

Louis Brown

Maurice Roberts (2:09.8 split), Rufaro Matipano (2:15.2), Alan Seward (2:07.4) and anchor Billy Penick (2:01.8).

"What there was of it (the meet) was excellent," Seminole coach Ken Brauman said. "There were many good performances for so early in the season. We hated to see the rest of the meet rained out, though, because we have so many new and young athletes and we need to find out what they can do in competition."

In the girls portion of the Hi-Y Games, Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks took second in the two mile relay (10:46.6) and Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots were third (11:10.3).

Seminole's boys and girls will open the season at home in a quadrangular meet with Lyman, Winter Park and Lake Brantley Tuesday at 4 p.m.

Anderson's 26 Points Drub Lady Lions

By Chuck Burgess
Special to the Herald

Basketball

Like all great athletes, Catherine "Kitty" Anderson comes ready to play in the big games — and even the not so big games.

Saturday was no exception for Anderson who poured in a game-high 26 points in the Lady Seminoles 66-30 steamroll over the Lady Lions of Oviedo in high school girls basketball action at Oviedo.

The win advanced the Lady Seminoles to 14-7 overall and 5-3 in the SAC and dropped the Lady Lions to 6-16 overall and 0-6 in the SAC. The Lady Seminoles face the conference-leading Lake Mary Lady Rams in a tough SAC scrappers delight tonight at Lake Mary. Junior varsity tipoff is 6 p.m.

Anderson, who has scored 24-plus points in the past six games and is second in scoring in the county behind Lyman's Kim Forsyth, showed the Lady Lions she can play defense too as she banged the boards for a game high 14 rebounds. Anderson also dished out five assists and had six steals.

"Kitty (Anderson) has been coming to play some basketball these past couple of weeks," Lady Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "She's been playing very poised and gets the job done when things get hectic on the court."

Things didn't get too hectic for the Lady Seminoles win over the Lady Lions. The Lady Tribe took it to the Ladies from Oviedo early with a 36-22 halftime lead and only allowed the Lady Lions to score eight second-half points.

"We really came on in the early going and looked even better in the second half," Steele said. "Kitty did the job in the first half and Kim (Johnson) did it in the second."

Steele couldn't have written the scene better. Anderson went to the bucket early for 20 of her points in the first two periods and Kim "Big Wheel" Johnson took it to the Lady Lions in the second with 12 of her 16 points.

"Kim looked great around the bucket Saturday night," Steele said. "She did all the things she should have in the second half. The third period she just got hot and couldn't cool down until the game was over."

The Lady Lions were never close as the Lady Seminoles took a 22-12 first period lead. Adrian Hillsman did most of her 10-point shooting in that span of time to spark Anderson's scoring frenzy.

"Those three girls (Anderson, Johnson and Hillsman) all complement each other," Steele said. "They're like a machine. They work well together."

Even though the game against the Lady Lions wasn't a key Seminole Athletic Conference affair, the game with the Lady Rams this Monday will be. The Lady Rams can clinch the SAC Championship title with a win over the Lady Seminoles and the Lady Tribe must win to stay in

Bishop Moore Nips Brantley

The Lake Brantley Patriots squandered a five-point halftime lead to succumb to the Bishop Moore Hornets, 56-54, in boys high school basketball Saturday at Orlando's Bishop Moore High.

Despite putting three players in double figures, the Patriots dropped their season record to 8-11 and remain at 2-5 in the Seminole Athletic Conference. The Patriots have a rough week as they host the Lyman Greyhounds this Tuesday and travel to Lake Mary to play the Rams on Friday.

With the score tied at 50 apiece and a little under two minutes left in the game, the Patriots and the Hornets started fouling each other. The Patriots went to the line to shoot the one and one, but missed and the Hornets pushed the ball up the court to go ahead by two.

"In the late going we can never hit our free throws," Brantley coach Steve Jucker said. "We've lost more games because of our free throw the race for the SAC crown.

IN BRIEF

Mandela's Wife Confident Husband Will Be Freed Soon

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) — Winnie Mandela visited her husband, jailed African National Congress leader Nelson Mandela, for the third time in a week and said it was "obvious" the government planned to free him. "They have to release him. They only question they face is when," she told reporters after the visit. But spokesman Tom Sebina said at the ANC's headquarters in Lusaka, Zambia, "this talk of his imminent release is rumor."

Mandela, 67, has served 23 years of a life sentence for sabotage. He has rejected government offers of release into exile or in return for repudiation of his organization's 26-year sabotage campaign against white rule in South Africa.

Recently, President Pieter W. Botha suggested Mandela might be freed on humanitarian grounds. Foreign Minister Roelof "Pik" Botha said Thursday that international negotiations for his release were in an advanced stage.

Mrs. Mandela said she had no official confirmation her husband's release was imminent, but said "It is obvious that they are working along the lines of releasing him."

In Pretoria, police said three black officers were hacked and shot to death Sunday when they investigated reports of intertribal fighting among about 500 Zulu clansmen at Umbumbulu, near Durban.

Salvador Protesters Greet Carter

SAN SALVADOR, El Salvador (UPI) — Security forces at the U.S. ambassador's residence threw tear gas at a crowd of some 200 right-wing demonstrators protesting the arrival of former President Jimmy Carter.

Carter and his wife Rosalyn arrived from Managua, Nicaragua, amid extremely tight security about 9 p.m. Sunday and were taken directly from the airplane to a waiting helicopter, which transported them to the residence of U.S. Ambassador Edwin G. Corr.

The protesters, organized by the Women's Front for Peace and Justice and other rightist groups, blame Carter for El Salvador's continuing civil war.

When Carter was president in 1976-80, he pushed the Salvadoran government to improve its abysmal human rights record and to implement land reform and other measures. Jose Napoleon Duarte was named to a reformist junta supported by Carter and the United States in March 1980. He then went on to win national elections and took office as constitutional president June 1, 1984.

A National Police spokesman confirmed security personnel threw a tear gas canister into the crowd as it pressed against the residence gates at about 6 p.m., prior to Carter's arrival.

"The crowd was pressing against the (residence) gate, maybe thinking of entering the grounds, and clearly they had to do something," the officer said. He denied that anyone was hurt in the incident.

Protesters said nine people were slightly injured and that they were demonstrating "peacefully" when the canister was thrown.

474 Mafia Suspects Go On Trial

PALERMO, Sicily (UPI) — The trial of 474 alleged Mafiosi facing charges ranging from extortion to murder opened today with hundreds of police standing guard at a specially built $18 million "bunker" courtroom and major defendants held in special cages.

A total of 750 para-military national police stood guard and, using airport-style metal detectors, checked everyone entering the 1,000-person capacity courtroom for the largest trial in the history of the Sicilian Mafia.

The Palermo trial, which will hear charges in 97 slayings, is linked to the "Pizza Connection" narcotics trial in New York through two key witnesses — Mafia informers Tommaso Buscetta, 57, and Salvatore Contorno, 39, who broke the code of silence the Mafia calls "omertà."

The two witnesses were to appear after the court finishes dealing with procedural matters, judicial sources said.

Of the 474 defendants named in an 8,636-page indictment, 119 were at large and being tried in absentia, 208 were in prison, 35 were under house arrest and 112 were free on their own recognizance.

Priest Supports Walesa In Trial

GDANSK, Poland (UPI) — A pro-Solidarity priest says Lech Walesa's Nobel Peace Prize cannot protect him at his trial this week for challenging election turnout figures, but a union newspaper says he will emerge stronger from his persecution as a "political enemy."

"The Nobel Peace Prize cannot protect a man from (government) lawlessness," Henryk Jankowski told 3,000 worshippers Sunday in St. Brygidy Church in Gdansk, in a reference to the trial.

Walesa, who founded the Solidarity trade union movement, was awarded the peace prize three years ago.

Walesa is due to go on trial Tuesday on slander charges for challenging the official voter turnout figures for parliamentary elections last October. He said 60 percent of the voters turned out, while government officials said 79 percent voted.

If convicted in the Gdansk provincial court trial, Walesa faces up to two years in prison. An underground Solidarity newspaper in Gdansk said the trial "will bring big political capital to Walesa."

Spy Swap Appears Imminent

BERLIN (UPI) — The Bild newspaper said Soviet dissident Anatoly Sheharansky would be flown to East Berlin today in preparation for an East-West spy swap and has been promised that his 77-year-old mother can follow him later.

Jewish "refusenik" Sheharansky is the best-known figure in the prisoner swap, expected to occur Tuesday at the Glienicke Bridge, which links the Potsdam area of East Germany and the American sector of West Berlin.

In a report quoting "Kremlin sources," the mass circulation daily Bild said Sheharansky would be brought to the East German capital today. It said his mother, Ida Milgrom, would remain in the Soviet Union but that Sheharansky was promised she would be freed later.

computer operators who charged that the figures they were tabulating were not being reflected on the main counting board.

At Namfrel, where there was no break in tabulation, tallies showed Aquino ahead with 5,864,099 votes, or 53 percent, against 5,156,685 votes, or 47 percent, for Marcos.

Marcos repeatedly has stressed that the parliament, not Comelec or Namfrel, will determine the victor. His ruling KBL party has a two-thirds majority in the parliament.

The 68-year-old president said the two unofficial counts should also continue so their results could be compared with the

Americans Want U.S. To Do More To Fight Terrorism

NEW YORK (UPI) — A majority of Americans feel their government is doing too little to fight international terrorism but would not support military action, a new poll released Sunday shows.

The New York Times-CBS News poll, published Sunday in the newspaper, indicated 55 percent of those surveyed believe the United States could be doing more to protect Americans against the threat of international terrorism. Thirty-eight percent said the U.S. government was doing enough.

The poll said women, blacks, less educated people and those who disapprove of President Reagan's performance made up most of those who are unhappy with the government's reactions to terrorism.

Seventy-nine percent of those surveyed said Western Europe should be doing more against terrorism, while 11 percent thought they were doing enough.

But there was no consensus about how to combat terrorism. While most of those surveyed believe foreign governments back terrorists, they did not back military action against either the attackers or the governments helping them.

Only 31 percent of Americans said they thought terrorism should be fought with military force if innocent people might be killed.

The poll found that 49 percent felt it would make matters worse if the United States took military action against terrorists every time an attack affected Americans, while just 40 percent said it would reduce terrorism.

Forty-six percent of those surveyed also said it would make things worse if the United States used military force.

official tally.

Parliamentary officials said they expected an official winner to be declared within 15 days.

The U.S. observer delegation issued a statement today saying, "We have witnessed and heard disturbing reports of efforts to undermine the integrity of (the election) both during the voting and vote counting process."

"Even within the last 24 hours, serious charges have been made in regard to the tabulation system," it said, referring to the walkout by Comelec computer operators.

Earlier, Sen. John Kerry, D-Mass., called the operators' charges "the most damning comment I've heard."

Kerry said he did not see how a winner could be declared under the circumstances and called for an immediate investigation.

Congress has threatened to cut America's $300 million aid to the Philippines if the vote is found to be fraudulent.

The walkout by official computer tabulators further delayed the already slow election results. Opposition leaders said the snail's-pace vote tally was a ploy to give Marcos loyalists time to tamper with the ballots.

"We just felt we had to do something," said one of the defecting Comelec computer operators. He said Aquino voters were being held back to make it appear Marcos was winning.

"We are scared and we don't know what to do next," he said as his colleagues, several of them weeping, took refuge in nearby Baclaran Catholic Church.

Aquino claimed victory shortly after the polls closed Friday but Marcos called her claim "presumptuous." He maintained Sunday he would win another six-year presidential term by 700,000 to 1 million votes.

A 44-member international observer panel from 19 nations released its report Sunday saying it had witnessed "many instances of vote-buying, attempts at intimidation, snatching of ballot boxes and tampered election returns."

The Times reported that agency documents showed top shuttle managers knew of problems with seals around the shuttle booster fuel segments last year and that internal memos were circulated as late as December expressing concern about possible failures.

During assembly, or "stacking," of the boosters at the Kennedy Space Center, the lower rim of the upper fuel casing is set in a groove that runs around the top of the section underneath. The two are joined by 177 steel pins.

Two synthetic rubber O-rings that run around the interior of the joint form a primary and secondary seal to keep the burning propellant on the inside of the casing from escaping through the joint.

FmHA Changes Income Limits For Home Loans

The Farmers Home Administration (FmHA), the government's lending agency for rural America, has recently changed the income limits for eligibility for home loans. These new income limits are based on the number of persons in the family. The income limits and method of calculation are based on HUD limits as mandated by Congress in the Housing Amendments of 1983.

L. James Cherry, Jr., State Director for FmHA, states the new income limits will benefit those persons with several members in the household. New deductions will also allow elderly families to deduct certain medical expenses and receive a $400 extra deduction. Cherry states the procedure will make loan funds available to those with the greatest housing need.

The income limits are used to determine eligibility for Rural Housing loans and to provide subsidy for those who cannot afford to pay the full interest rate. The current interest rate on Rural Housing loans is 10 1/2 percent. However, for eligible borrowers, the interest subsidy reduces effective interest rates to as low as 1 percent.

During Fiscal Year 1985, FmHA obligated 1,585 Rural Housing loans for $58.7 million to very-low and low-income residents of Florida.

The income limits vary from county to county. Local FmHA Supervisor James E. Merrick advises that the FmHA income limit for a family of four is now $22,800 in Seminole county and $22,250 in Brevard county.

In Seminole county these types of loans are only available in the rural areas of the county west of I-4 and around the communities of Geneva, Oviedo, Chulotoa and Chula Vista. Loans can be made to purchase existing homes, or bare lots that are high and dry and located on county maintained roads. He said, "This program is not for everyone but it does serve those who need housing in outlying communities and are willing to search for the right kind of property."

...Suit

Although the county executed cash settlement for the property, its contract with Paulucci also calls for the phase-out of his Heathrow community's sewage plant.

As a result of Sanford's "wanton, willful and malicious" condemnation effort, the county "has been prevented and frustrated from performing its obligations under the Yankee Lake contract," the suit contends.

The $28 million in restitution is being sought for the alleged "reckless disregard" Sanford displayed for the Heathrow community's "legal and beneficial rights."

Parents Should Step Between Daughter, Abusive Boyfriend

DEAR ABBY: I am compelled to respond to "Worried Mom," who learned that her 17-year-old daughter had been hiding the fact that her boyfriend of 2½ years had been beating her up.

Our daughter, Denise, was buried at the tender age of 24 because she, too, would not listen to our pleas to break up with an abusive boyfriend. Unfortunately, she married him.

We tried many times to get her to leave him because we feared one day he would kill her—hoping and praying all the while that we were wrong. Well, we were not wrong.

In August 1980, he beat her to death. She had been so badly beaten, we were not even allowed to view her body.

"Worried Mom," please take Abby's advice, and forbid your daughter to continue seeing this abusive character unless he gets counseling and corrects his abusive behavior. And see that your daughter gets counseling, too.

Abby, perhaps you can mention Parents of Murdered Children, the support group that has helped my husband and me to survive this terrible tragedy. It was founded by Bob and Charlotte Hüllinger of Cincinnati in 1978 after their daughter,

Dear Abby

19-year-old Lisa, was murdered. COMPASSIONATE MOTHER, LOUISVILLE, KY.

DEAR MOTHER: I'm glad you wrote. I phoned Charlotte Hüllinger and learned that Parents of Murdered Children now has 46 chapters in the United States; chapters also are in England and Australia.

She said: "Most parents of murdered children have told us that after their child was murdered, their friends deserted them. It's a universal phenomenon that friends and neighbors want nothing to do with these parents out of fear, and denial that the tragedy had ever happened and could happen to them. They rationalize that the parents are in some way 'guilty'—that it would not have happened had they taken better care of their kids who were in the wrong place at the wrong time."

"We have a support network of 250 contact people all over the United States who will take telephone calls and answer letters. We want parents of murdered children to know that they are not alone. There is enormous comfort in being able to discuss our grief and anger with other parents who have survived that terrible experience. We have monthly meetings and put out a newsletter containing pertinent information.

"We are having a convention in Cincinnati, Aug. 22-24, 1986. Anyone desiring information about us may write to our national headquarters: Parents of Murdered Children, 1739 Bella Vista, Cincinnati, Ohio 45237.

"Please send a long, self-addressed, stamped (39 cents) envelope for a personal reply plus five pieces of literature."

"Our telephone, manned by compassionate members, is (513) 721-LOVE (or 5683).

"We are a non-profit organization and will talk to any parents who need our support."

Problems? Write to Abby. For a personal, unpublished reply, send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Abby, P.O. Box 38923, Hollywood, Calif. 90038. All correspondence is confidential.

In And Around Longwood Spring Wanderlust Tours Set To Visit Real Florida

A series of bus trips that will explore back roads, nature preserves, waterways and charming towns that most tourists never see has been announced by Florida Conservation Foundation, a non-profit educational group based in Winter Park.

"Wanderlust Tours," started three years ago, have been expanded due to their popularity according to Bill Partington, director of the Foundation. Reservations are now being taken for tours lasting three to four days in South and North Florida. The tours are planned and led by guides who know where some of Florida's most interesting natural features can be easily seen, and includes places not usually open to the public.

A three-day trip to South Florida's Big Cypress, Lake Okechobee, and mangrove-lined bays of the Everglades is set to leave on March 7. This tour was given three times in 1985 due to its popularity. Participants will visit Florida's largest uncut cypress swamp as well as the smallest post office, and stay in handsome old hotels that have served presidents and celebrities.

A four-day trip to North Florida's Big Bend country starting April 3 will visit some of Florida's most beautiful woodlands, rivers, and beaches where several endangered species live, with an overnight stay at Wakulla Springs. One of the guides on this trip is Dr. Andre Clewell, author of many publications on the vegetation and ecology of the area.

For more information, write or call Florida Conservation, 1203 Orange Avenue, Winter Park, FL 32789 (305/644-5377).

The Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club's Feb. 10 meeting will be held at the First Baptist Church of Sweetwater, 9:30 a.m. Jane Smith of Flores de Papel, Inc. will give a demonstration on making crepe paper flowers.

Following the monthly meeting members will meet at the gazebo on the corner of Welkva Springs Road and Miami Springs Drive for the Arbor Day program. Seminole County Commissioner Sandra Glenn will be the speaker and Everett Huskey will dedicate the tree. Please come and be a part of our community celebration. The time will be approximately 12:15.

beginning at 10:45 a.m., at the club.

Guest speaker will be Wilma Paulauskas who will present a program on Floral Design.

Longwood Elementary School celebrated Arbor Day last month in several ways. On that morning, Kelly Jonda, a fifth grader, read a brief history of Arbor Day over the school's public address system. Then, later in the day, Mary Kristoff, Lula Jones, and 5 students per grade plus Exceptional Education Students planted 6 laural oaks in the front parking lot. These trees will afford shade and nice landscaping for the campus.

To finalize the Arbor Day activities, Mike Martin, County Forester, arrived at the school and assisted with the planting of another laural oak along with first grade students. This tree was planted near the first grade ramp. Miss Walker, a first grade teacher, accompanied the children on a guitar as all sang "Kuckabara Tree."

West Lake Hospital's series of seminars on aging continue with Tuesday night's 7 p.m. segment on the psychological aspects of aging. Dr. Marianna LaRue, Senior Adult Psychiatry Director, will present this session.

Feb. 18's program will be entitled, "Retirement, the Work Goes On." Paul Wilson, certified gerontologist, Chris Kupka, social worker and Judy Coughlin, activity therapist, will conduct this final session in the series.

The seminar is free to the public and will be held at the hospital at 589 West 434 in Longwood.

Avid reader? Join the book lovers at the "LOVE to Read Book Sale" at the Maitland Public Library on Valentine's Day. The library is located at 501 South Maitland Ave. Call 647-7700 for hours and details.

Sessions on active parenting are being offered to the parents of Sabal Point Elementary students beginning on Feb. 11 and continuing successive Tuesday mornings through March 18.

Discovery Day At Lake Mary

Pankhurst, a service organization open to all women 18 years of age and over, will meet at Steak and Ale, SR 436, Altamonte Springs, on Feb. 13 at 6:30 p.m. Members are asked to note the change of time and location. Reservations for the Feb. dinner meeting are due to Wanda Abel, 695-2020, by Feb. 12. Women interested in membership are cordially invited to attend.

Pankhurst each year provides scholarships towards future education to area high school senior girls. Discovery Day, a full day of small group sessions on career choices, self-image, etc. will be held March 1 at Lake Mary High School. All female high school seniors are urged to attend. For more information on Discovery Day, call Betty Stanley, 678-3392.

Surgery Not Linked To The Libido Loss

DEAR DR. GOTT — I had a hysterectomy two years ago because of fibroid tumors. The doctors also removed two healthy ovaries and my appendix. Since then, I've had no interest in sex. Even though I wasn't that sex-crazy before, now I can't stand my husband's touch. I am taking Premarin 0.125. What can I do, outside of divorce?

DEAR READER — The problem you describe is, unfortunately, all too common. Let's deal with the surgical aspects first. You had what is technically called a hystosalpingo-oophorectomy. This means that the organs which are required for conception were removed. (Your appendectomy was incidental — a wise procedure, to your surgeon's credit, because you no longer have an appendix that can become inflamed and possibly require another operation.) You were left with the remainder of your reproductive tract. Sexual fulfillment does not require either a uterus or ovaries. Therefore, your surgery — although extensive — played absolutely no role in your present lack of sexual interest. When faced with hysterectomy, many women fear the loss of sexual urge. This fears is groundless, for if the surgery is properly performed, it will in no way alter a woman's desire or ability. Women who experience post-hysterectomy loss of libido are usually responding to psychological factors.

You appear to be motivated to get to the root of your sexual dysfunction. I think you could be helped by some professional counseling in working through your aversion to sex. A sex therapist might be useful; you could find one by making inquiries at your local hospital. Also, many psychiatrists and psychologists may enable you to identify the fears, apprehensions, anxieties or anger that may be preventing you from obtaining sexual enjoyment.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I'm 10 years old. I get fever blisters constantly. Do you know what I could do to get rid of them for good?

DEAR READER — I'm sorry to tell you that there is no cure for fever blisters or cold sores. However, a new product called Zovirax may help lessen the severity of your attacks. Ask your parents to take you to your doctor and ask him or her what can be done.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I would really like to know if it is sanitary to take communion from the common cup. Some say no and others say that the wine sterilizes the cup.

DEAR READER — The wine does not sterilize the cup. I understand that some churches are re-examining their policies in regard to common-cup communion. The public-health aspects of this form of communion need to be objectively addressed.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby
The premier bridge publication in the United States since the 1930s is The Bridge World (39 West 94th St., New York, NY 10025). One of the monthly features, "Challenge the Champs," is reprinted in a series of books. Just published is Book 5, a collection of eight 10-deal bidding matches between pairs of experts. Today's deal, from this feature, is interesting in that no pair of experts reached the good contract of six clubs.
Of course there are seven-card trump suits available in the red suits as well, but clubs is clearly superior. Do you see why? If you arrive in a slam contract in either red suit, the 4-2 trump split will almost surely cook your goose. But in six clubs, despite the fact that both hearts and diamonds split badly and the opponents' trumps are 4-2, the small slam comes rolling in. Declarer can succeed because East must guard both red suits. When the defense starts with two rounds of spades, declarer ruffs and draws trumps. When the last trump is played, poor East is squeezed — he cannot protect both hearts and diamonds — and declarer must come to his 12th trick in whichever red suit East chooses to unguard.

Why was South willing to believe partner had three aces, which are needed to provide a good play for six clubs? With more of his strength in the spade suit, North would have bid no-trump earlier in the auction.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring... provided you remember to win with grace.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) More can be achieved today by functioning as the power behind the throne rather than the front person. Let others take the bows while you reap the rewards.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Greater pleasure will be derived from quiet activities than from those rollicking with excitement. Avoid the hot spots.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your subtle assertiveness will be very effective today. It will enable you to take command of situations without stirring everyone up.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Try to allocate some time today to pursuits that enrich the mind. It behooves you now to exercise your brain, rather than flexing your muscles.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You have a special knack today for being able to sort out complications for others that they can't unravel themselves. Use it where needed.
YOUR BIRTHDAY FEBRUARY 11, 1986
A powerful and influential friend will be of great assistance to you in the year ahead in helping to better your lot in life. He will work behind the scenes on your behalf.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Financial dealings are likely to work out more advantageously for you today than they will tomorrow. Don't let grass grow under your feet where money is concerned. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Astro-Graph Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Being No. 1 might be trifle more important to you today than usual. This is well and good.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Partnership arrangements will be the ones that will prove to be the most productive for you today. If a teammate is required, find one.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your feelings of self-worth will be enormously enhanced today, not by serving your own interests, but by being helpful to people who need you.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In social settings today, the greater buzz of activity will be centered around you. You have a magnetism about you that others will find hard to resist.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're not apt to have much peace of mind today if you haven't properly fulfilled your family obligations. Put home first and outside interests last.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A change of scene today will do much to refurbish your outlook and spirits. Go somewhere different where you can participate in a new diversion.
