A record field of 158 amateur and pros, representing the middle West and East as well as Florida, awarded over the Mayfair Inn Seminoles Country Club yesterday to compete in the fourth annual

Bill Fleming, Mighty Mel Mayfair Seminoles Pro-Am tournament

Three local golfers, Dr. Harold Plug, Jim Spencer, and C. E. Phillips, were among the 12 winners who completed for top places with scores under par, 67's.

Seminole High School Coach Bill Fleming carded a 61 to tie with three other linkers, including National Buffon of the Mayfair Inn, for second place.

"Mighty Mel" Fleischer, 16-year-old Seminole High School senior, and Comdr. E. R. Pearson of the Sanford Naval Auxiliary Air Station wound up in an eight-way tie for third place honors with 65's.

In the Pro-Am competition, Wes Berner, DeLand, Mel Ashton, Orlando, Andrew Bellini, Daytona and Pug Allen, DeLand, all tied for first place with 64's.

Yesterday's Pro-Am, which more than doubled last year's field of 70 entries, marked the opening of the Fourth Annual Mayfair Inn Seminoles Country Club Men's Amateur Invitational Golf tournament.

The invitational commences today with the first round of qualifying matches to be followed with another day of qualifying play on Tuesday. Tuesday evening has been designated as "Open House" at the Seminoles Club. A chicken barbecue will be served.

Wednesday morning the actual match play eliminations will begin in all flights. Elimination matches will be played each weekday until Sunday's final.

SPORTS ROUNDUP

By Alan Mauer

BIG LITTLE GUY - - - - -
TUCSON, Ariz. — The most urgent and important job of coaching being done in any baseball camp this spring has been allotted to Tony Cuculich of the Cleveland Indians staff. The American League pennant could well be won by the little coach's success or failure.

Tony has been asked to do between now and the season's start is to teach Ray Boone how to play shortstop properly, and in so doing provide the game's greatest pitching staff with the sort of support it needs to beat out the Yankees instead of finishing second.

Tony has thrown himself into the task with much energy and enthusiasm and believes he will succeed. He has been asked to do between now and the season's start is to teach Ray Boone how to play shortstop properly, and in so doing provide the game's greatest pitching staff with the sort of support it needs to beat out the Yankees instead of finishing second.

What we know now is that Boone has a strange little habit of fluffing his hands just before a ground ball reaches him, and at the same time lifting his head a trifle. The result has been that too many balls either have gone under his glove or have been bled just enough for us to miss an important double play.

It is his habit to look right at the ball. Even if the ball takes a bad hop, I'm telling him, it's better to get hit on top of the head than in the face.

"I never saw a player work harder. I'm knocking balls at him until I'm worn out, and then he's saying out there for an hour or two some days working on it with other players. I believe he's going to master it, and if he does our biggest problem is over."

Boone's coach, Ed Egan, did a fine job of shortstopping for the Indians in their thrilling stretch drive after the Yanks last autumn, but he was not in the lineup when Boone came back and take over the post on a regular basis because he potentially is a far better hitter than Strickland. Three has kept the Red and Blue in the thick of the fight for the Ivy League championship.

Dukes, who displayed tremendous improvement on the court this season, voted by a year ago, led in the voting by a majority. On the basis of five points for a first team vote and two for a second team vote he received a total of 281 points, including 131 first team ballots.

O'Brien, who makes up for his lack of height with terrific leg spring, got 302 points. Houbregs followed with 350, then Gold with 380 and Beck with 391.

The Southeastern Conference, Big Seven, Big Ten and Southern conferences earned places on a second team with the selection of Bob Pettit, Louisiana State; Don Schlund, Indiana; Dick Knostman, Kansas State; Frank Selvy, Furman; and Paul Ebert, Ohio State.

Pettit, a junior who led LSU to the Southeastern Conference crown missed several games in January because of illness. Nevertheless, he finished sixth in the balloting with 213 points. Schlund, a sophomore who helped Indiana to the title in the Big Ten, received 215 points. Knostman got 224, Selvy 199 and Ebert 141.

Clarence Francis, of Little Rio Grande (Ohio) college who zoomed to national prominence by setting an individual single game scoring mark of 118 points in January, surprisingly received 130 points. This put him on the third team along with Bob Leonard, Indiana; Jim Dredar, Illinois; Larry Hennessy, Villanova; and Bob Speight, North Carolina State.

UMATTILLA (Special)—Lyman High School's scrappy Greyhound quintet wound up their regular basketball season with a 67-50 loss to the stronger Umattilla five, here last Friday night.

Gordon Helms led the Hounds with 14 points to give him 34 in the last two games, a 7-2 point season total. Bobby Driskill was second with 11, boosting his last two-game total to 26 and Lyman's season mark to 19 games.

The Hounds trailed throughout the contest from the first minute. Helms poured in 18 markers while Green and Caldwell bucketed 12 each for the winners.

Coach Jim Payne's Greyhounds ended the season with a 6-8 Central Florida Conference and a 7-12 season mark in 19 games.

KENDALL WINS
JENSEN BEACH (Special)—Warren Kendall, Jensen Beach, won the Men's Inclusive shooting class with 463 points in the two-day Florida field archery meet ending here Sunday.

Charles Mackie, Bradenton, accumulated 382 points to win the Men's Free Style, Mrs. Joyce May, Miami, shot 24 to win the Women's Inclusive.

A spring splurge last week vaulted LSU's Bob Pettit into the average scoring lead for the first time since early season. Pettit's rampage, coupled with his own below-par scoring, dropped Jarvis from first to third place. Morocco held second Pettit racked up 36 points against Mississippi State and 29 against Ole Miss to pull his average to 23.7. Jarvis got only 11 in his last three games and dropped to a 22.2 average. Morocco hit for 30 against Mississippi State and 38 against Tennessee to climb to a 23.3 average.

Auburn completed its season Saturday night with a revenge victory over arch rival Alabama, 78-73; Tulane tripped Mississippi State, 69-52, to clinch second place; and Mississippi State and 38 against Tennessee to climb to a 23.3 average.

Then, if Mississippi's Robert (Cub) Jag is only 27 points behind Morris, so Zippy could use a few insurance goals to protect his record. Jag has shown on two occasions this season that he can collect 30 points in one game if Morocco flat and Jarvis get hot, theorgia, acc could have his record tied out before it ever got into books. That's not likely, however. Morocco has 360 points, Jag's 533. Hagan's mark was 540.

The Georgia-Florida game, one of the 61 three this week, is important standing-wise to both teams. A victory for Georgia would mean the Bulldogs would not have to suffer in the cellar alone. It could give them a 4-9 SEC record, the same as Georgia Tech. A victory for Florida would permit U-Gators to retain undivided possession of third place, a berth they will have to share with Tennessee if Georgia wins.

Two other games this week will put SEC basketball in hotbaths until next season. Louisiana State and Tennessee, both of whom have helped the 10 on 6's to their fourth straight pennant.

Rizzuto says he is in the best shape of his life and believes that he can play a full schedule, just as he did last year.

MULLOY WINS
MIAMI (Special)—Miami's Gardner Mulloy won the men's singles tennis tournament Sunday with a straight set victory over Tony Vincent, 7-5, 6-2, 6-4. It was the tenth straight tournament triumph this winter by the veteran Mulloy.

Bobby Adams of the Cincinnati Reds led the National League third basemen in assists (328) and total chances (524) for 1952.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS

That is a fine wish, granted to few. But if we have a great tract of land, we must be sure to have it. That we may lead a quiet and tranquil life in all goodliness and grace. — Tim 2:2

Former President Hoover predicted a fishing trip as the first way to get out of an attack of the flu. That's not what we've been trying to tell those folks up north for the past 90 years.

Tommy is present in Florida in unprecedented numbers, says Harold C. Gable, executive vice president of the State Chamber of Commerce. Tommy is also present in Sanford in large numbers, but there could be more as many of these were accommodations for them.

Senator Russell says extremists in the Democratic Party, "self styled liberals," are threatening it with disaster. Unless they quit trying to lead the South out of the party, he believes, they will suffer the most disastrous defeat in American political history. Incidentally, we saw how Senator Russell as well as Senator Holland and Senator McCarty reacted to the White House conference to hear General Van Fleet's report on Korea.

Senator Duff says he thinks Senator Russell will eventually fall victim to the "what usually happens to despots. Herd than to keep someone in the field of battle is the difficulty of maintaining control of one's mind. Rome fell not so much because of the barbarian invasions as because of the moral domination within. Napoleon was defeated at Waterloo, but before he had been defeated by Napoleon had fallen.

There is a danger, says a Harvard scientist. Oh, there is no such thing as a free lunch, of course. But that's just what makes them so dangerous. It's like a person who thinks he has cancer. He may not have it, and so far that's all right. But if he does have it, and he doesn't know it, he'll die. He'll die either himself or somebody else. There are so many people during the past few years who have seen these flying saucers which don't exist, that one is forced to the conclusion that either the Harvard scientists are nuts, or a lot of the rest of us are.

The American people are spending more money these days on more different things than ever before in their history. But the nation's medical schools are facing a ten million dollar deficit this year because of the need for more medical graduates, the necessity for maintaining high educational standards, and insufficient funds. The people cry for doctors services at lower cost, and the quickest way to accomplish that is by training more doctors. But you cannot do that if the medical schools do not have more funds. The National Fund for Medical Education is launching a nation-wide drive to restore the medical schools to a sound financial basis.

Just how short-sighted people can become even when dealing with their own interests is shown by the insistence of the dairy farmers that government price supports be continued. The government is now buying about half of all the butter produced in the United States and putting it in storage where it will probably spoil, just to take it off the market and keep the price up. The result is that most people have quit buying butter which commands a fancy price of 75 cents a pound and are buying also for 25 cents a pound. What is more, they are getting to like oleo and cultivating a taste for it so that when the price of butter comes down to a reasonable level, if it ever does, they will go on buying oleo just the same. And the dairy farmers, meanwhile, are allowing the government to price them right out of the market.

Necessary Evil

The United States Court of Appeals has ruled that radio and television coverage of baseball games should not be changed to the status of the national pastime from a sport to a business. Two plaintiffs before the Court had contended that baseball was a business and that the reserve clause in baseball contracts, which binds a player to one club for life or until he is given a release, violates the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

At first glance the reserve clause seems unfair. A player who signs a contract is signing away his right to play with any other club. He can be traded, sold or given his release at the pleasure of the club which holds his contract. He is restricted from selling his services where he can get the most return for them.

But the reserve clause is absolutely necessary to organized baseball. Without it clubs with the best financial backing would soon be able to sign all the best players and competition would be eliminated. Even with the reserve clause many pennant races are decided by the owners' pocketbooks.

It is hard to see how organized baseball could survive if the reserve clause were ever ruled illegal. The presence of reserve clauses in contracts, however, fixes a responsibility on the club owners. They must see that players are treated fairly and that the clause is not abused.

Lady Spurned

Women have achieved a measure of social and political equality with men but they are still lingering traces of the days when it was believed that woman's place was in the home. A woman Vice-President of a bank was barred from attending a meeting of bankers held in New York City's Union League Club. The Club has a rule which forbids the admission of women. Instead of wading the rule and allowing her to attend she was given a written report of the proceedings.

The Union League Club should not be judged too harshly. There is nothing unconstitutional or discriminatory about setting up a male sanctuary where men can relax and talk man talk. But it does seem that the banking group holding the meeting should have decided on a meeting place which would be open to women who had a right to attend.

The incident provoked little real bitterness or comment, however. This is an indication that things have improved as far as women's rights are concerned. There was a time when such an incident would have drawn down a line of indignant pickets on the Union League Club, all equipped with signs protesting man's inhumanity to woman. Today equality of the sexes is taken for granted even though there are instances of discrimination.

Thanks, Judge

It is always pleasant to meet a man who has a kind word for this down-trodden generation, and when the man is a jurist as eminent as Judge John C. Knox, one feels doubly grateful. Judge Knox was speaking specifically of young people when he told the Legal Aid Society that the moral shortcomings of today "differ little from those of which our own generation, when it was young, was also guilty." He emphasized, of course, that there was cause for concern in the transgressions which beset our society, but he also seemed to be reminding his listeners that, after all, such things are by no means inventions of the 1950's.

As philosophical reflections go, this may not be a very startling one in an era that hears daily denunciations of its morals, manners and machinations. We have been told so often that the world is going straight to perdition, to use the technical word, that by sheer force of repetition we have become convinced of it. So rapidly has the world been traveling in this direction that we should almost be there now, and yet Judge Knox has struck his head out of the window and urged that the severity hasn't changed very much. Perhaps we haven't been speeding downhill as fast as we thought.

At any rate, it's good to be reminded that some one has probably passed by the same place before. That doesn't mean that there isn't work to be done of course or that the rule always has to be such a lumpy one. It's just that there's no sense losing our bearings. That seems to be what the judge had in mind, and we're glad he mentioned it.—New York Herald Tribune.

Poor Miami! Sewer Trouble Again

Patron our smugness, but we feel a little sorry for Miami even if it twice Miami's size and four times as costly. Miami, aptly named the Magic City, is a place where impossible dreams have a way of turning into sudden, incredible reality.

For years Miami has dreamed of a master sewer system. The dream progressed to surveys, blueprints and financing schemes but one thing or another kept popping up to postpone the tantalizing day of fulfillment.

After World War II, Tampa suddenly succeeded in drawing its plans, sell its bonds and build a $12,000,000 sewer system while Miami still struggled mightily to make its dream into reality. A few days ago the Miami City Commission got to the point of signing a contract to float $27,000,000 worth of bonds for sewer disposal. This looked like the final hardening of the dream into happy reality.

But no. A hurricane of criticism almost blew the roof off City Hall and culminated in a taxpayer's suit to kill the whole deal. Miami's two newspapers and many of its citizens didn't like the fact that a three-man majority of the city commission negotiated the bond contract without competitive bidding and they were burned up by the fact that under its terms Miami was stuck with an interest rate of 8.7 per cent as compared with an average of 5 per cent for

NEW 'LAMP OF LEARNING'

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower summed up his dilemma about ending the Korean War with a statement made during the presidential campaign and another to a news conference at the end of his Korean trip in 1952. In the campaign he said: "The first task of a new administration is to bring the Korean War to an early and honorable close." That was his expressed ambition in the campaign.

To the news conference he said he had "no panacea" for ending the war and he spoke of the "grave risk of enlarging the war." That was his appraisal after looking over Korea.

So his problem is how to finish the war without taking the chance of going so far that Russia might come in to help Communist China, thus starting World War III. That was also former President Truman's unadvised opinion.

If Eisenhower by this time has worked out any bold plans for ending the war without the "risk of enlarging" it, they have not been made public.

But the dilemma and the two statements provide a background for whatever happens this week when a foremost authority on Korea, Gen. James A. Van Fleet, comes here to give any idea he may have on how to win the war.

Van Fleet, soon to be off and coming home to retire after command of the American Eighth Army in Korea 23 months, is a longtime friend of Eisenhower. They were West Point classmates. Van Fleet made headlines several weeks ago when, about to leave Asia, he said that "certainly" the Eighth Army could make a successful offensive against the Communists in Korea.

The military deadlock in Korea, he said, was "of our choosing and not imposed by the enemy." Congressional ears picked up a man with a solution? Congressional committees got ready to question him when he returned.

So, for all its glitz and glitter, we can't help feeling a little sorry for Miami. There's no shame in sewers, but they're mighty handy for a growing city.

Government Proclaims Easter Seal Month

DAYTONA BEACH (Special)—Helping dependent crippled children now so that they will become independent, productive citizens in the future is one of the basic precepts of good citizenship, Governor Dan T. McCarthy declared today in a proclamation designating Mar. 5, Apr. 5 as Easter Seal Month in Florida.

Issued from the executive offices in Tallahassee, the Governor said in his annual proclamation, "It is not only an American heritage and responsibility, but a basic precept of good citizenship and privilege of the people of this state to help our crippled children have happy, more useful lives and the opportunity of becoming self-sustaining adults."

In issuing his proclamation, Governor McCarthy urged that residents in Florida give greater support than ever in this year's Easter Seal campaign in order to meet rising costs in providing vital services for the more and more crippled children who desperately need them.

the war—for instance perhaps bombing the Chinese Manchurian base—Eisenhower already has expressed concern about an enlargement.

After he got into the White House Eisenhower had more reason to be concerned about doing anything which might bring on World War III. He got a fast and worried reaction from America's allies when he announced weeks ago he would neutralize the American fleet at Formosa.

That reaction was clear evidence to him and his military planners that the Allies were jittery about any move which might bring Russia down on their necks in retaliation.

When Gen. Douglas MacArthur made persistent public demands for about war on the Chinese Communists in the spring of 1951, President Truman sacked him. MacArthur returned and gave his views to Congress.

But there was a difference between his return and that of Van Fleet. The Truman administration was too cold to MacArthur. There was no conference between him and Truman. To Van Fleet the Eisenhower administration seems warm indeed.

Van Fleet was not criticizing at least it didn't seem he was his commander-in-chief and old comrade-in-arms. Eisenhower, the Korean stalemate began under Truman, not Eisenhower.

Van Fleet was critical of the Truman regime during the presidential campaign. He wrote his wife a letter, which she turned over to candidate Eisenhower, complaining he wasn't being allowed to build up Korean forces fast enough. In his statement to an Eighth Army offensive "certainly" could succeed, Van Fleet seemed to be expressing a personal viewpoint. If an offensive means widening

Three Young Sisters Die Of Heater Fumes

EL CERRITO, Calif. (AP)—Three young sisters died of fumes from an unvented heater yesterday while the eldest consulted a medical encyclopedia, apparently in an effort to find out what was making them ill.

The bodies were found on a sofa by their father, Harold W. Fowler, 33, a carpenter. Dead were Wanda, 9, Sandra, 12, and Linda, 13.

Six volumes of a family encyclopedia were opened before Linda, whose body was sprawled between those of her sisters. The girls had been preparing for school.

Fowler told officers he lit the living room gas heater before he left for work. When the girls arose they closed all the windows.

It was just a matter of time, he said, before the unventilated heater consumed all the oxygen in the house.

Sunspots Black Out Trans-Pacific Radio

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Sunspots blacked out virtually all trans-Pacific radio communication yesterday and today.

Severe atmospheric disturbances were reported between San Francisco and such points as Tokyo, Hong Kong, Taipei and Manila. Radio Corporation of America reported "everything down, coming and going." Press Wireless said it was making no contact due to "unusually subnormal conditions." Mackay Radio said "nothing is moving either way."

The Associated Press listening post in nearby San Leandro had the same trouble. It usually receives and transmits to the AP San Francisco bureau a stream of news stories and messages from the Orient. Today only a few of the thousands of words filed were audible.

The Wright brothers' first airplane was launched to pieces after its fourth flight and although it never flew again, it was rebuilt and after being exhibited in England for many years is now in the Smithsonian Institution in Washington, D. C.

Too Late To Classify

By RUSSELL KAY

A dramatic presentation of facts and figures in the New York Journal-American recently showed that America's standard of living far surpasses that of four other countries on both sides of the Iron Curtain—Russia, England, France and Italy.

In each of these countries a worker's buying power was computed in terms of wages and prices in his country. The information was carefully compiled by correspondents stationed in the capital cities of each country.

We may grieve about the high cost of living, but compared to the rest of the world the American worker is so much better off that he is in a class by himself. The American wage earner lives better and receives more for his money than anywhere else in the world. With their wages, Americans buy more and better food than citizens of Russia, England or Italy.

The average bus driver in the United States works an average of 25 minutes to pay for a pound of butter. In England a worker must stay on the job 48 minutes to earn the same amount of buying power. In France, 1 hour and 54 minutes. In Italy 2 hours and 36 minutes. But in Russia, which would have the world believe, it takes 30 minutes to earn enough money to buy a pound of butter.

For a pound of coffee, an American auto mechanic works 23 minutes, an Englishman 1 hour and 30 minutes, a Frenchman 1 hour and 42 minutes and an Italian 5 hours.

In Mr. Stalin's workers' paradise a Russian auto mechanic must labor 17 hours and 36 minutes to earn enough money to buy a pound of coffee if he can find one to buy, about 40 times as long as an American.

The same ratio applies to just about everything else, clothes, shoes and shelter, and while the buying power of other workers is far less than ours, the quality of the goods or services they buy with their money is much poorer than the American product.

Less electrical power and fewer mechanical tools make it impossible to have a high level of production in Russia, or a high standard of living. While in America about 75 kilowatts of electricity, power and energy, is available for each worker, the Russian factory workers have only a tiny fraction of this amount. Electricity is available to only a few Russian homes, the Russian correspondent reports.

In this country, the constant demand for more power is being met by the nation's electric power industry. Here in Florida, for example, the Florida Power & Light Company plans to expand and enlarge its statewide facilities during the next nine years with investments of $1 billion dollars. This this one company will be capable of pouring into the state 1,165,000 kilowatts of vital electricity power by Jan. 1, 1962 to be used in building bigger industries and better homes.

No electric refrigerator can be bought by Russian workers, yet you find them in most American workers' homes today. The few Russians who can afford a radio can purchase a battery set for the equivalent of about two months' work. However, the quality of the average Russian battery set is so poor that such sets, because of inefficient manufacturing methods and inferior material and workmanship, wear out quickly and seldom give any satisfaction to the owner.

Many Difficulties Met By Makers Of Protested Movie

EL PASO, Tex. (AP)—The leading lady is under arrest. Angry citizens chase their cameramen from the street. Heated attacks are made from the floor of congress. The House Un-American Activities Committee and the FBI are watching.

And steps are already being taken to prevent showing of the film. But a group of moviemakers who have been accused of Communist connections are still grinding away, trying to finish before anything else happens.

Honora Revueles, 42-year-old Mexican actress playing the female lead, is held by the immigration service on a charge of illegally entering the country. Immigration service hearings have been postponed until Saturday to allow her attorney to seek a writ of habeas corpus from a federal judge.

Some 100 citizens of Central, N. M., who participated in the film were planned for shooting, yesterday ran out of a town a camera crew preparing to take street scenes. They were told to get out now or get out later without your cameras. We mean business.

In Hollywood, the Screen Actors Guild turned down a request for support in the case from the Mexican Actors Guild.

A mass demonstration of members of the International Union of Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers was narrowly averted here last night.

Ben Margolis, attorney for Miss Revueles, addressed a public meeting after close of the deportation hearings. He said his client would be unable to make a scheduled hearing because the U. S. immigration service has threatened to throw her in jail if she does.

Joseph Minton, district immigration director, said he confirmed the statement.

"This woman is under arrest," Minton said. "I've shown her every consideration in the world in light of her cultural background and accomplishments. She has been free to eat and shop anywhere in the city."

"Anyone else facing the charge she does would be in one of two places—jail or detention quarters. She's not going to make any propaganda speeches."

Some union members present at the meeting shouted for a march on Miss Revueles' hotel room for a mass demonstration, but were restrained by Margolis, who told them they'd "only make things worse."

Margolis, during the hearing, accused the immigration service of participating in a conspiracy to keep his client from working on the film. He charged the hearing was "a witch-hunt."

All of those so far named in connection with the movie have been linked with left-wing activities.

Miss Revueles last summer attended the Soviet sponsored International Film Festival in East Berlin.

Producer of the film is the mine-mill union, which lost its CIO affiliation because President Truman refused to say they weren't Communists.

Bomb Blast Fails In Effort On Life Of Dictator Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP)—A powerful bomb planted in a luggage check-room in the Buenos Aires railway station exploded yesterday a few minutes before President Juan Peron returned by special train from his state visit to Chile.

Peron's car was halted about 100 yards from the station by the explosion, which ripped a big hole in the checkroom wall and shattered windshields of cars parked outside.

The only casualty reported was a boy who suffered facial cuts. A few persons nearby fainted and received first aid treatment.

Police took about 10 employees of the checkroom for questioning. The railways and all parts of the station are owned and operated by the government and the clerks are government employees.

The checkroom is just off the main concourse of the President Peron Station, Buenos Aires. Largest depot where thousands of commuters pour through in the rush hours.

On a normal day the blast would have caused a major disaster. However, the station yesterday had been cleared of all but officials for Peron's arrival and the big concourse was almost empty.

Outside thousands of excited Peronistas parked Plaza Branciana and adjoining streets to welcome the president. They did not know that anything unusual had happened.

In his address to the welcoming throng, Peron made no reference to the explosion.

He called on other Latin American nations to join in the new Argentine-Chilean alliance to wipe out trade and economic barriers. A treaty to this end was signed by Peron and Chilean President Carlos Ibanez Del Campo Feb. 21.

Escapee Of 32 Years Ago Is Given Parole

TRENTON, N. J. (AP)—The New Jersey parole board today announced it has granted a man who escaped from prison more than 32 years ago and was never captured.

The board said it was granting a parole to Frank Puckett of New York City, who escaped from a New Jersey prison camp in 1920 and has since lived a respectable life as superintendent of an apartment house.

Puckett, now 78 years old, is currently in a New York City jail awaiting action on an extradition warrant from New Jersey on the old escape. The parole board's action means that even if he is returned to New Jersey he will be released on parole.

Puckett was sentenced to six to nine years in 1917 on a larceny charge. He escaped after serving three years. A law passed after he had escaped made him, as a first offender who had served a third of his maximum sentence, eligible for parole.

Tongue Lashing Is Given Probe Group By Former Teacher

WASHINGTON (AP)—All the sharpness of a woman's tongue was turned on the Senate Internal Security subcommittee today by a trim former New York high school teacher accused of organizing a Communist underground in the schools.

Tim D. Ludins, a tiny gold and white hat perched squarely on her head, carefully and loudly spelled out her name when she was called to the witness chair and then fumed.

"And I want to say right here and now that I am shocked and indignant at the treatment this committee has given me."

Miss Ludins protested that the Senate investigators had made her out to be some "mysterious" woman, known only as Tim, and she demanded to know why she had resorted to such "cloak and dagger" tactics.

"I want my name known to the press, she went on, denying that she was a mystery woman. "You've assailed my name and blackened my character," she appalled angrily.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), the subcommittee chairman, kept banging on his desk and trying to get his voice above hers. He shouted that she should make any questions and "not make any voluntary statements." He ordered her tongue-lashing stricken from the record.

The subcommittee is searching for "organized subversion" in the nation's schools and colleges. A self-designated former Communist party organizer testified last October that "Tim" was active in setting up a Communist underground school teachers in 1940.

Miss Ludins refused to say whether she is now a member of the Communist party. She likewise refused to answer when asked whether she ever had attended secret meetings of the Communist party.

Grand Jury Probes "Reign Of Terror" In Central Florida

MIAMI (AP)—A federal grand jury is investigating "a reign of terror" involving numerous acts of violence in the central part of the state, the Miami Herald reported today.

Dave Kraslow, who wrote the story, said he talked with several grand jury witnesses, including admitted members of the Ku Klux Klan.

The incidents, he wrote, included beatings of both whites and Negroes, deaths in some cases resulting from such beatings, and the dynamiting of an Orlando store.

Kraslow said the jury is inquiring into the activities of KKK Klans, Klans in Orlando, Apopka and Winter Garden.

The names and Emory S. Akerman, special assistants to the attorney general who has been directing the jury's investigation, declined comment.

The jury, which convened last October, has been probing the dynamite deaths of Negro leader Harry T. Moore and his wife at Miami and the bombings of attempted bombings of a Negro housing center and religious centers in the Miami area.

Eight witnesses have been subpoenaed for Wednesday. The Herald identified them as Emmett M. Hart, Marion E. Wade, T. J. McVann, Phillip J. Higgins, Walter Goding and Fred Helmer, all of Apopka; and Albert E. Hayes and Teddy L. Smith, Plymouth.

It was believed that all the incidents the jury has under investigation cover a three or four-year period, the Herald said. "Brooms and Akerman refused to indicate how long the intensive probe, which began last Oct. 6, would continue."

Altamonte Votes For Paving Contract

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS (Special)—The Altamonte Springs council last night voted 8 to 0 to approve a contract to finance paving work at 6 per cent and 100 per cent interest.

An old state law fixed the rate at 8 per cent for property owners. It was said, and the council voted to give the contractor the entire interest.

The paving around Lake Florida and on Penn Avenue will be paid for over a two-year period, with $4,000 to be paid when work is under way and $1,000 at the end of another 30 days, the motion stated.

Civilian Outbacks To Hit Third Army Area

ATLANTA (AP)—Budget economies directed by the Department of Defense will result in civilian personnel outbacks throughout the seven states of the Third Army area during 1955.

Ed Gen. A. H. Bolling of the Third Army disclosed today that the budget for civilian personnel for the fiscal year beginning July 1 has been reduced by more than four million dollars.

To reach the reduced salary level, Bolling explained, cuts of more than one million dollars must be made immediately.

As a result, personnel layoffs are expected in the next two weeks at Army stations throughout Alabama, Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, the Carolinas and Tennessee.

St. Louis Assigns 13 Players To Sanford Cardinals

Players Are 21 Or Younger; Parise, Imbra Are Sought By Rock Hill Club

Sanford's new Cardinals begin to materialize from a paper franchise in a roster of 13 young players with today's announcement by the Rock Hill Club.

The 13 players were assigned to the local club through Frank Galt, club owner of 23 young players with today's announcement by the Rock Hill Club.

The new players are all youngsters and with no previous baseball experience. However, each player has a standard high school, junior league, or amateur record.

The 13 youngsters were all thoroughly inspected by St. Louis scouts and found to be of average to good quality.

Included in the group are five pitchers, three catchers, three outfielders, a shortstop, and two infielders. Only a first baseman, assigned to Sanford, however, most of the youngsters are left-handed.

Parise, Jim Imbra, made at the Albany, Ga., farm club training camp, appearing on the St. Louis club list on April 15.

Most of the 13 players assigned to Sanford are expected to arrive in the next few days.

PAUL HERBER, a left-handed hitting outfielder, was born Oct. 4, 1911, in Chicago, Ill.

PAUL CHERRET, a left-handed pitcher, was born July 10, 1914, in Chicago, Ill.

JAMES DYKMAN, a right-handed pitcher, was born Oct. 10, 1913, in Chicago, Ill.

HOWIE HUNT, a shortstop, was born Oct. 6, 1914, in Chicago, Ill.
