Surviving January, fraught with depression, suicide

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — In January, doesn't come easy to many people, especially to those who have a history of depression or mental illness.

• The Sanford County sheriff's department says it has a 25 percent increase in calls for mental health services in less than a week.

• The daily obituary notices published this January are double, sometimes triple the norm.

• Psychologists and physicians say there is an increased number of people requesting help in January.

• Calls to the 24-hour Central Florida Helpline (740-3472) have increased in length. Some last as long as two hours. The Well Gate Crisis Center (425-2624) also has been very busy this month.

In January, the Community Health Center (CHC) and Central Florida Helpline (Dial 740-3472) are just a few of the agencies that are providing help to those who need it.

The 10 years of the Central Florida Helpline volunteers have trained to take calls from 10 a.m. to 10 p.m. on a desperately low 24-hour hotline-based service which has been functioning since 1988.

Most of our callers come at night, and the helpline is there to help them.

When you call, our staff will listen to your problem and help you find a solution. We are here for you. The helpline is available 24 hours a day.

with a counselor.

Many crises begin during the holidays and intensify in January, says Dr. Susan Sult, a Sanford psychologist who urges those who have severe problems to seek immediate help.

The new year is a major struggle for those with a history of depression and a goal for almost everyone, Sult said. The holidays themselves are a

Smile is prerequisite for doing jobs they do

It's not just a job, it's a calling. For many people, a smile is a prerequisite for doing their jobs. Whether they are cashiers, broadcasters, clowns, or hospital auxiliary volunteers, a smile is often the first step in providing service to others.

By RUSS WHITE
Herald Staff Writer

Volunteers, with you, could we together. You are the heart of our community. We are proud of you and the work you do. We are proud of you and the work you do.

When you smile, you are saying, "I am here for you. I am here for you. I am here for you." A smile is a powerful tool that can make a difference in someone's day.

As the population swells and millions of visitors invade, there are more "Smiling Faces Wanted" signs and more jobs requiring employees who are willing to work at being pleasant. In other words, being nice really pays.

Applicants for jobs are often asked to smile for the camera. But in real life, a smile is often a prerequisite for doing a job. Whether they are cashiers, broadcasters, clowns, or hospital auxiliary volunteers, a smile is often the first step in providing service to others.

There are lots to be done and done with a smile. Here are some of those in Central Florida who manage to keep working and smiling.

KIM FOSSELIUS Cashier, TOYS 'R' US

Kim's duties as a cashier at Toys 'R' US require a smile as big as that of Geoffrey the giraffe, the company's fun mascot. Somehow Kim keeps her smile as she pacifies crying babies and eases the shopping woes for every mom and dad.

At 22, Fosselius works at the toy store by day and attends Seminole Community College by night. She wants to teach, preferably science or math.

A graduate of Seminole High School, Fosselius attends First Baptist Church of Sanford and is active with fourth and fifth graders who enjoy puppetry.

"I enjoy seeing kids smile," she said. "It See Smile, Page 3A"

Sanford celebrates life of Dr. King

Pastor Ronald Merthie

By MARVA HAWKINS
Herald Columnist

The city of Sanford Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., 1997 Celebration Committee invites the citizens of Seminole County to the celebration in honor of Dr. Martin Luther King's birthday. Come to recognize and celebrate the accomplishments and memory of one of the great men of our history.

The 1997 National Theme of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. Day speaks for itself: "Help Somebody! Every American Can Make a Difference."

The celebration events start Saturday, Jan. 18, at 6:30 p.m. with the MLK Commemorative Banquet to be held at the Sanford Civic Center. Willie James Gilchrist, superintendent of schools in Halifax County, North Carolina, will be the keynote speaker of the evening.

A Sanford native, Gilchrist is the son of Willie and the late Essie Gilchrist. He received his early education at Midway Elementary and attended public schools in Rochester, New York. He earned a bachelor's degree in Health and Physical Education at Elizabeth City State University in North Carolina. He earned his master's degree in administration from Brockport State University of New York and also received an advanced de-Sportswriters Jeff Berlinicke and Kellie Werner argue over the Gators and the Noles.

She said...

The Florida Gators have not even been National Champions for a week and I am already tired of hearing comments like "Tainted title" and "There is no true national champion this year."

Arguments against the Gators seem to hinge on three points: the Gators' schedule, their loss to FSU during the regular season, and the fact that there were four other teams with only one loss.

I understand that schedules are a factor when determining ranking. I also understand that the Gators are in the SEC and that this conference isn't exactly raked with top-20 teams. However, teams such as Auburn, Alabama, Tennessee, and LSU (not to mention Florida) are consistently ranked. Georgia, although not a powerhouse in recent years, has a very strong history. And when Arkansas joined the conference, it was believed that they would be a team to be reckoned with.

If you look at other conferences, say, for example, the ACC, you won't exactly find a slew of top-20 contenders either. Why do you think Florida State joined that conference?

It must have been to have the chance to face national powerhouses like Maryland and Wake Forest.

My point is that a team has to play a certain number of games in their conference and should not be blamed because some of the other programs are not up to par. Especially when you have a team like the Gators who have been in the conference for years.

On the other hand, the three games that are played out of conference are picked by the college. Two of the Gators' three are push-overs and the third is FSU. Someone could argue that we have one extra pushover since everyone plays

He said...

There he is again. I'm so mad that, if I wore one of those stupid looking visors, I'd throw it.

Why can't I turn on a television or open a newspaper without seeing the Evil (which can be rearranged to spell "vile") Genius Steve Spurrier holding the national championship trophy that he doesn't deserve?

Actually, no one deserves it. Let me preface this diatribe by saying I am not a Gator Hater or a Seminole with tomahawk elbow. Actually, I am a University of Maryland fan which may explain some of my frustration.

I guess I should also add that I think the idea of a college playoff is a bad one once the Rose Bowl decides to join the bowl alliance party.

My problem is the Gators and their obnoxious fans have this idea that they are somehow the best team in college football.

Like Ohio State, Arizona State, Florida State, and Brigham Young, they each had one loss.

Why was Florida able to play a mulligan after losing to Florida State when everyone else had to play theirs from the rough?

Don't get me wrong - Florida is a great team and Danny Wuerffel is a class act. So are one or two of their other players.

But the bottom line is Florida lost to Florida State when the game counted. Doesn't that mean anything or do we just forget the regular season? Wuerffel looked like a hashmark at Doak Campbell Stadium after being beaten up because his coach was too stubborn to make the proper offensive adjustments and Spurrier whined enough to make sure the Gators got another shot.

Can you imagine a coach compiling a tape then showing it to the national media of what he deemed to be late hits? If the Gators make a season highlight film, perhaps Oliver Stone should be the director.

Even more annoying, they got their shot despite a weak sched-

Making some class-y wedding plans

By JENNIFER EDWARDS
Herald Staff Writer

Having the perfect wedding without spending thousands of dollars or stressing over trivial details is simple.

Just ask Yvonne Grey, senior executive secretary at Seminole Community College's Open Campus.

Or, better yet, take her class.

A wedding coordinator for the past ten years, Grey will instruct a five-week course.

"Planning Your Wedding," through BCC's Education Department, beginning Jan. 15.

During the weekly classes, she will give brides-to-be tips on how to make their wedding day stress-free and elegantly simple.

"Less is more. You don't have to spend a whole bunch of money to have a beautiful wedding. There are 'secrets'," she said. "When you go over $10,000, you're going overboard."

Grey said she has secrets for brides wanting the wedding of their dreams without the nightmare price tag.

These 'secrets' include providing a schedule for engaged couples to follow. She said the first step to planning a wedding is planning a budget, which is surprisingly determined by the little things such as what time of year a couple intends to marry. An outdoor wedding during Florida's rainy season is not an economical idea.

A wedding budget should be determined on the person and style of the engaged couple. Grey said she plans to have each student write a profile and educational background to help guide them down the right aisle.

She will have professional florist and caterers come to class to explain different options and flower preferences.

Causing in on talented relatives is another path to take. Utilizing aunts who love to bake or sisters who make good cakes will cut costs.

"A bride is beautiful when she is simple."

Want to cut your flower costs from 40 to 50 percent? Choosing fresh, in-season blooms will do just that, as opposed to the ever-popular silk arrangements.

Most importantly, have fun. "No stiffness," Grey advised. "Have a good time and plan a wedding and reception your family and friends will enjoy. Keep them in mind when you make your plans."

Prospective brides can take advantage of Grey's experience and wisdom by registering for her wedding course. "Planning Your Wedding" is being offered through the Community Education Department at BCC beginning Wednesday, Jan. 15.

The class is $40 and will run for five weeks, from 7 to 9 p.m. Individual advice is given on planning your guest lists, invitations, bridal attire, etiquette, reception plans, decorations and keeping within a budget.

Finding Sanford from the airport

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — The city of Sanford may hope to get better recognition soon at the Orlando-Sanford Airport. A sign, "Welcome to Sanford, Historic Waterfront Gateway," has been proposed to be constructed in a location at the airport to be readily visible to incoming visitors, especially the large number of British tourists.

City Manager Bill Simmons is scheduled to ask approval for the sign during Monday's City Commission work session. Early last week, he requested Airport Authority Director Steve Cooke to bring it up before the Airport Authority at this past Tuesday morning's meeting.

The request was approved with no hesitation by the Authority.

The sign is to be constructed at the southwest side of Red Cleveland Boulevard, near the exit from the Dollar Rent-A-Car lot. It is to be front-lighted.

A reader board at the bottom, which depicts various activities in the city, such as dates for the Golden Age Games in November or other events, is to be changed on a regular basis.

With the request already having been approved by the Airport Authority, the City Commission is expected to give their seal of approval.

The matter is scheduled for consideration during the work session meeting of the city commission Monday, beginning at 4 p.m.

Should a formal vote be required, it will be carried forward to the regular commission meeting beginning at 7 p.m.

Looking back at Sanford Kiwanis Club

The Sanford Kiwanis Club was chartered in 1921 and recently celebrated its 75th anniversary. This civic club has done much good in the area during its long history, so I thought an example of their activities was in order.

Not long ago I came across my father's (Martin Stinecipher) handwritten notes for a presentation at a 1971 Kiwanis meeting. He had been president of the club in 1952, and each past president had been asked to present the highlights of his year during several consecutive meetings. Looking at the date, this was probably in observance of the club's 50th birthday.

My father was a very active Kiwanian, as attested by his 37 years of perfect attendance. I recall that everytime we went on a trip, he would find Kiwanis Clubs where he could make up meetings or would make them up later at clubs near Sanford.

Before he became president, he served a couple of years as secretary, which meant preparing and mailing a weekly bulletin. I remember helping him fold, address and stamp them. Later, he would substitute for Ralph Smith, who served as secretary for many years in about 1951.

According to his notes, Martin Stinecipher joined Kiwanis on March 18, 1931, when A.C. Fort was president. His membership only lasted a short while, though, as he was hit by the depression and had to drop out June 29, 1932. He stated that back then the members paid $12.50 per quarter, which covered both dues and meals. Many members got behind and fell by the wayside during the depression. The club learned from this experience that the best plan was to collect every week.

He was reinstated as a member on January 31, 1945, when

GRACE M. STINECIPHER

Dr. Luther Does was president. He became chairman of the attendance committee, and that was the year the club started keeping strict attendance and giving out attendance tabs.

In 1952, there were 11 divisions in the Florida District with 6400 members. In 1971, there were 20 divisions and 12,430 members.

The Sanford club was in the Fifth Division in 1952 and consisted of 13 clubs. In Florida that year, there were 98 clubs; in 1971, they had increased to 211.

Other officers of the Sanford Club in 1952 were Vice President Earl Higginbotham, Second Vice President Douglas Stenstrom, Immediate past president Joel Field, Treasurer Pop Campbell, Financial Secretary Oscar Harrison and Secretary Ralph Smith.

Their weekly meeting place was in the old Yacht Club building on the lakefront which had already been torn down several years before in 1971.

The club began the year 1952 with 78 members which increased to 79 by the end of the year. Eighteen of those members were still on the roster in 1971. Attendance was over 80-percent for 10 months out of 18 and averaged 92.44-percent for the year.

Kiwanians always have been known for their work with children. Under Boys and Girls Work in 1952, The Sanford Club donated $54.00 to the Seminole High Celery Crate, the teenage club, and also sponsored a booth on Sadie Hawkins Day at the school with the proceeds going to the Celery Crate. A donation of $75.00 was made towards expenses of the Seminole High May Day Ball.

The club continued to sponsor a Boy Scout Troop and helped with an auction which raised $356 for scout work.

A xylophone was purchased and donated to the SHS Band and was presented to Bandmaster Ernie Cowley. Mr. Cowley became a member of Kiwanis soon afterwards, sponsored by Martin Stinecipher, and was the 1971 Kiwanis president.

The club's Under Privileged Children's Fund got a boost from a benefit football game between Sanford and Tavares which raised $1353.00. Also, a minstrel show brought in $489.00. The money was spent for dental and medical expenses for several children, milk funds, a stretcher and pad for the hospital, and a donation to the Methodist Children's Home.

The highlight under Public and Business Affairs was the club's organization of a joint dinner meeting, inviting all civic clubs, to honor Lt. General Joseph C. Hutchinson upon his retirement as Commanding Officer of the Florida-Georgia National Guard. General Hutchinson was a prominent Sanford resident and a member of the Sanford Kiwanis Club. Ten civic clubs participated in the grand affair.

The club cooperated that year with the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants Association in staging DeBary Day in Sanford. They also donated $50.00 to Willard Connelly, local Sanford Herald reporter, who had done an outstanding job of reporting on

TCI gets a short stay

By NICK PFEIFAU

LAKE MARY — "What you are saying," said City Commissioner Gary Brender, "is that you are not going to do anything, you can't afford to do anything, and you are not going to say anything."

Brender's comments were directed to Jeff Walker, general manager of TCI of Central Florida. Walker appeared before the commission Thursday night to ask for a one-year extension of the TCI cable contract.

The present contract for the cable service in the city does not expire until Sept. 13, 1997.

Walker explained that TCI was working on plans for the national level, and a number of changes being planned. He said he could not, at the present time, reveal any specifics about plans for expansion or investment which may have specifically involved service to the Lake Mary community.

Walker said, and it was agreed upon by City Attorney Donna McIntosh, that TCI had not been in violation of its original contract agreement with the city. Walker suggested that, in itself, should be reason for granting the extension.

School construction project costlier

By VICKI DEBORGHAN
Herald Senior Staff Writer

SANFORD — The price of learning has increased about $1.4 million at Goldboro Elementary School.

A construction project which got under way at the school, located on 20th Street in Sanford, before the decision to implement a magnet school program in Sanford's elementary schools, was supposed to cost $7,119,615 to complete. But with the new requirements for the magnet school program, the school improvements will cost close to $8.5 million to complete.

The original plans, approved in February of 1986, called for replacing the 40-year-old classroom buildings, the media center and the cafeteria/multipurpose room with more modern structures. Site drainage and parking improvements were included as part of the original plan and the classroom building plans called for a two story facility.

They also included designs for improving the 16th Street side of the campus to provide pedestrian access, recreational space and a "community identity."

When the school was built in the 1950s, it originally faced 16th Street and was the focal point of the African American community on that street. A quarter century later when the school was renovated for the first time, the main entrance was moved to the 20th Street side of the campus which faces a different neighborhood and the focus of the other community was altered.

Now, the recent agreement between the U.S. Department of Justice and the Seminole County School Board to turn Goldboro into the county's magnet school for mathematics, science and technology has made the project more complex.

The new campus will have to include two mathematics skills labs, a science lab and four computer skills labs.

Those labs will require an additional 10,000 square feet of space, a change that will increase the project cost to $8.5 million. The money for the additional work will be figured into the 1987-88 budget. Diane Kramer, executive director of facilities, said in a memo to the board.

The board will have to vote on Tuesday to approve the changes to the plan. They meet that afternoon at 3:30 p.m. at the Educational Support Center, 400 E. Lake Mary Boulevard, Sanford.

Smiles don't come much richer than those of Lake Mary resident Lee Corso, a former football coach who lights up the TV screen with his spirited college football reports for ESPN.

Corso, 60, retains the boyish enthusiasm he had as the star quarterback for Florida State in the late 1950's.

As a coach he made the game fun for his players at Louisville, Indiana and Northern Illinois.

In perpetual motion today not only at ESPN but as Director of Business Development for Dixon Ticonderoga Company in Lake Mary, Corso exudes warmth and a keen sense of humor. He is in constant demand as a motivational speaker.

"Society wants to associate intensity with strength and humor with weakness," Corso said. "It's quite the opposite. I truly believe a person's smile is a freedom of expression within."

As a sales motivator, Corso says, "I can't tell anyone how to sell, but I can tell them how not to sell - a sour puss will lose every time. Gloom and doom are out. People have troubles of their own. They don't need more."

MIRIAM and VALERIE Dance School Proprietors

One of Valerie Rye Weld's favorite Broadway songs is the cheerful "You're Never Fully Dressed Without a Smile," from Annie.

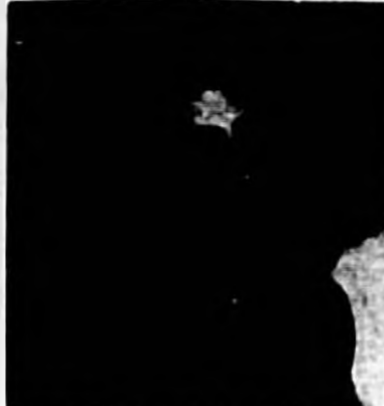

Students at Miriam and Valerie's School of Dance Arts on Elm Avenue in Sanford are constantly reminded by both Valerie and her sister, Miriam Rye Doktor how important it is to wear a constant smile.

"It's your heart that's showing in each smile," Miriam said.

Valerie said there are actually two kinds of smiles that dancers must understand - the mask and the real.

"Our new students sometimes need to use the mask as an expression that 'I'm fine, don't worry about me,' just in case they are nervous when they first perform before their parents and friends.

"Once, they're over the initial fright or whatever and they have confidence, that's when the real smile takes over."

Teaching for 32 years, Valerie and Miriam have classic real smiles to share with the world.

"It's a gift we want to share," Miriam said.

DOUG BURNHAM Seymore the Clown

Soon after he ministered to a Christian children's group by telling the story of a clown named Seymore who was lost but found religion, electric service repairman Doug Burnham decided to become "Seymore."

For the past eight years, he has entertained both old and young as a Christian clown.

"The whole idea is to make everyone smile," said Burnham, 40. "A smile can be so infectious. If you can smile, you feel better and make others feel better, too. Suddenly, they are having themselves a better day."

Even when he's not in clown makeup, Burnham practices what he preaches at Mac's Electric Service in Sanford.

Burnham's grandfather, J. E. McAlexander had worked 13 years at the store when he took ownership in 1944. It's been a family business ever since, Burnham said and it's most important to not only give good service but soothe the feelings of customers when something has gone wrong.

"My brother, Wayne and I want everyone who comes to us to walk away with a smile. We enjoy talking to them, asking about their families and being good neighbors. If they come in with a complaint, we do our best to get them feeling good.

"Often, all it takes is a smiling face," he said.

ELEANOR WINDLE Hospital Volunteer

A former Wall Street secretary, Eleanor Windle is pleased to be a Central Floridian in her retirement years, and eager to serve the community as a hospital auxiliary volunteer at Columbia Medical Center Sanford.

Chances are you've seen Windle greeting people and driving the hospital's trolley - giving folks a lift to or from their cars.

"I meet the most pleasant and most appreciative people," said Windle, one of two women driving the trolley. She usually serves on Thursday afternoons from 1 to 5 p.m.

"I've had a wonderful life," Windle said. "And my volunteer work is a way of giving back to others. What I do helps accumulate hours for RSVP."

"I've found out that for every smile I give, there's one - and usually more - in return."

DANIELLE ZEOLLA Chanel Beauty Analyste

Danielle Zeolla's job - Chanel Beauty Analyste - is an exotic way of saying she gives good face.

Danielle, 22, does makeovers, advises on skin care and sells Chanel beauty products at Dillard's at Seminole Towne Center. It's important for her to look good and make her customers feel and look good.

"Our face is all Chanel," Zeolla said. "Well, almost all Chanel...the smile is our own. It's important we smile and make our customers smile. The women who come to us want to feel and look the best they can. We want their visit to be an enjoyable experience."

Bright, perky, knowledgeable, Zeolla personifies the look and attitude that is Chanel.

"Chanel is a trend-setter," said Zeolla, who is a psychology major also studying public relations at the University of Central Florida. "I love the job and the product. I listen carefully to what my clients want. Listening and communicating are the keys.

"What's it take to smile and be nice? I like to think it comes naturally."

JIM DYNES Eatery Owner

Been to the Big Dip lately? If so, you're probably acquainted with Jim Dynes, jovial proprietor, sandwich maker, dishwasher and greeter at the Ice Cream and Eatery at 2439 S. French Ave.

A dead-ringer for comedian Buddy Hackett, 54-year-old Dynes is a friendly Hoosier who has come to Sanford from Indianapolis, Ind.

"Our customers want good food and good service," Dynes said. "I knew an eatery owner in Michigan who knew almost everyone who came in his place, and he would call them by name when they came in and again when they left."

"When I got into this business (Dynes used to be a mechanical engineer) I was determined to be like Wynn Schuler, the guy who loved to be with people. I feel the same way he did. We want everyone to think they're right at home at The Big Dip."

"We've got ourselves some long days, and a lot of people to serve," Dynes said. "But we're never too tired or too busy to have a smile on our faces. It's part of the menu."

stressful time... many people simply expect too much."

The three recent Seminole County suicides raise obvious questions - What could anyone have done to prevent these deaths? What can be learned from each of the cases?

Investigations have begun into the following:

• On Jan. 4, a 32-year-old man was reportedly found hanged in an office at Midway Commerce Park, on CR-427 near Sanford.

• On Jan. 6, a 44-year-old man was found dead in his truck, parked in the driveway of his home in Chuluota. Deputies said there was a PVC pipe running from the truck's exhaust to the window of the vehicle.

• On Jan. 8, a 36-year-old woman was found dead in the bedroom of her home on Citrus Street near Sanford. According to relatives, the woman had been threatening to overdose herself on prescription medications.

The Sheriff's office and other law enforcement agencies don't enter the picture until the worst has already happened. Preventing tragedies is up to each and everyone who knows someone who is hurting. Every ounce of kindness and care can be life-saving.

"When family and friends begin to notice changes - someone who is usually loud becoming very quiet or a quiet person becoming loud - it is best they gently ask, 'What's going on?'" Rita said. "Sudden, often dramatic changes are a sign someone is depressed," Rita said. "Some people completely withdraw from their best friends and family. 'No, I can't go to lunch or do this,' they'll say. Others - even children - will start giving away things that meant a lot to them."

Living in Central Florida, Rita said, gives the depressed a certain advantage that can help them feel good about life. "Fortunately, we've got the outdoors and plenty of sunshine. Just going outside, sitting down and listening to the birds and thinking about one's blessings is a big help. So is a nice walk."

And sometimes the best help can come from within oneself.

The key to good living says Ruth Hamilton of Sanford, is to have "a deep-within trust...an inner spirit...call it whatever you want but call on it now."

Hamilton said most people would really be surprised if they met each challenge - each new year with optimism instead of doubt. "Too many people don't even have a blueprint for their lives," she said.

Hamilton's self-forecast for 1987 is rosy: "I can't tell you how excited I am. This is going to be a great year." Ruth Hamilton, optimist, is 88-years-old.

"Personally, I love January," she said.

The rules are different

It's about time we settled some questions here in Florida. Is bingo to be considered gambling? If it is, shouldn't it come under the same rules as the state lottery? After all, the lottery is, without a doubt, gambling.

But because people tell us some of the money from the lottery is going to our school system, we are supposed to believe it is OK.

In Panama City this past week, five bingo hall owners were arrested for violating the state gambling laws. Know what they did? They finished their evening bingo events with a "winner-take-all" game.

Until they knew how many people would be in the game, there was, naturally, no way to know how much money would be in the prize.

That's where officials say they were wrong. The law says there must be a definite amount of prize money announced before the game even begins.

Don't we start the weekly state lottery before we know how much we may win?

The halls also were accused of violating another provision of the law that allows only three $250 prizes in a single night and limits others to $50. Does the state law have a limit on the weekly lottery? Nope!

The Florida lottery has been approved and given the blessing of the legislature. Yet, people throughout the state continue to object to it. The state is fighting any thought of setting up casinos or gaming riverboats, but they sanction the lottery.

This is clearly a case where it's only legal if they (the state) is involved in gambling. If we do it, it's a criminal offense, even if we just want to play bingo for a few dollars.

The Florida lottery is just one example of the double-talk when it comes to obeying laws.

A law is a law. If the state can do it, we should be able to. If we are not allowed to do it, the state shouldn't.

And we still wait for proof that the lottery is beneficial to our state school system. They say it is, but has anyone given us real proof?

The justice system

The courts think that a P.R. blitz will make them appear superior to pond scum. Their real problem is that lawyers, not the public, are the brokers who own, trade, buy and sell the entire judicial system, for their profit. Much better to remove the arcane and nonsensical 'rules' created by lawyers to keep the court system out of the hands of the public--and closed to reason and intelligence. Judges (super-lawyers) now are only present to enforce the rules, and to rule against non-lawyers, and lawyers only to manipulate the rules and evade the law, for money. Justice, and the function of juries, is ignored.

We must insist that the jury is the important part of the judicial system, not lawyers. Expand the jury pool to include the entire adult community, and let jurors be examined by a neutral referee only as to the minimum questions of statutory eligibility and irrevocable bias. By what unholy writ do we allow 'rules' and the slickest lawyer's approval to override the authority of a trial by one's peers?

Force the judge/referees to enforce the law: when a lawyer's action is illegal, stop it at once and tell the jury, in plain English, why it is not allowed. And judges must stop telling juries that only what the fallible judge tells them is the law. Read the law to the jury, and say, "This is what I think it means, but you are the final judge." When read aloud in open court, then will stupid, gobbledygook 'laws' soon cease to exist.

Before they talk, all lawyers must be sworn, under the penalties of perjury, just as everyone else is sworn. The 'rule' that lawyers are 'officers of the court' and above such considerations is absurd. Lawyers testify at every hearing in the hope that juries will receive what they say as evidence: through questions, argument, insinuation, statements, characterization, without regard for truth.

Take away the power of lawyer groups, formed by lawyers, to judge other lawyers (friends). Seat grand juries to hear credible charges against lawyers, including judges.

We need as many standing juries--grand, to investigate, and petit, to try--as necessary to regulate the courts, resolve all questions of sentence reduction, parole, new trials or clemency. Remove lawyers and other politicians from the jobs, by rights and duties, belonging to the people. This will require more citizens' involvement in the process, and is well worth it. It is the duty of citizenship to discharge jury duty, and removing the bias of the 'rules' will go far to ameliorate the minor inconvenience of serving.

I wish we would admit our blemishes

Hypocrisy is defined as the false assumption of an appearance of virtue. Hypocrites pretend to be what they are not, and advance beliefs, that they, in fact, do not hold. They are not genuine. Hypocrisy in government is not new. Politicians were advancing mutually inconsistent themes and engaging in double talk a thousand years before King Herod sent the three wise men to locate Jesus and report back to his location so that he could be properly honored. Fortunately for the infant Jesus, he was favored with divine intervention. I am unsure that we 1997 years later shall be as fortunate.

As I watch our elected representatives in the United States House of Representatives engage in gymnastics to prop up Newt Gingrich and prevent his descent to the back bench of American party politics, the word hypocrisy comes easy. My distaste for the present machinations of the congressional body politic stems not from any partisan ill will toward Mr. Gingrich.

I have no patience for the Democratic faithful who invoke the memory of former speaker of the House of Representatives Jim Wright, and more particularly Mr. Gingrich's relentless, partisan and successful assault on Mr. Wright. An assault, which ultimately drove Mr. Wright, Gingrich's Democratic predecessor, not only from the speakership, but from Congress as a whole.

While some may take delight in reminding Mr. Gingrich, and his minions, of the principal

Seminole Opinion

that one reaps what one sows, I do not share their joy. As some political opportunist welcome the fact that the focus on Mr. Gingrich deflects attention from the president, and his fund-raising activities, I see no advantage in his predicament. The entire episode and the spin that the supporters of Mr. Gingrich are attempting to put on his behavior just makes me sick.

No one has ever asked me, but would it not be particularly refreshing if Mr. Gingrich, just stood up and said hey I lied and I cheated. Perhaps such a bold move would usher in a period of honesty in government. Just imagine congressmen and senators lining up saying, "I didn't mean what I said during the election, I was just trying to get elected," or admitting that you can not raise revenue by cutting taxes.

Such a movement would be electrifying and charge the country with a new vigor. Doctors, lawyers, businessmen, advertisers and cabbies all would be busy trying to out-honest one another. Parents would come home early. Bob Dole would wake up and recognize the place he imagined in his acceptance speech and the poor would have something to eat, or at least be secure in the realization that no one gave a damn. Talk about bold leadership--talk about revolution! Mr. Gingrich would be an icon.

However, Mr. Gingrich appears to be about to fumble yet another opportunity. Instead of providing leadership, he has chosen to remain silent and hide behind his congressional colleagues' skirts. The genius has pled ignorance, and the lawmaker blames the law for his failures. Such disingenuousness is worthy of Pinocchio.

It is said that the first step toward curing a problem is to admit that it exist. We have a real problem in this country when we are compelled by the necessity of convenience to always attempt to save face. From the president the person behind the counter at the local 7-11, it is impossible for us to admit that we could make a mistake. It is not Mr. Gingrich's fault that we demand purity in character our elected officials, our athletes, and everyone but ourselves, no dalliance, no slip is tolerated and nothing is forgiven.

Unfortunately, we live in the period of Judges, where our leaders will have blemishes. I just wish we would realize that we would be better off to simply admit it.

THE NIGHTMAYOR

Who knows what lurks in the midst of Sanford's matter....THE NIGHTMAYOR knows....and THE NIGHTMAYOR knows....you want to know, too.

One Monday gone by, THE NIGHTMAYOR visited the by-gones, and come one, of the city of Sanford. This was done at a meeting, called "THE WORK SESSION". This meeting takes place in the City Manager's auditorium room. The City Commission, with City Staff, meets, greets and deletes city business.....business that affects you.....like an audition for, and in anticipation of, the Official City Commission Meeting.

"THE WORK SESSION" begins around 4:00 o'clock in the afternoon.....tucked away upstairs in City Hall.....during prime time working hours, the room is small; the chairs are uncomfortable; and, you sit with the Commissioners' backs to your face. The atmosphere is 'indignifying'. This posturing is suffered by city support staff as well as by you, the tax paying public. Most of you can't be there because of the time of day, and don't even know this event takes place. In fact, it is pretty clear to THE NIGHTMAYOR that your participation in these meetings has not been encouraged at all.....Nor have many of you manifested much of an interest, at all, in wanting to be there.....HMMM.

For twelve long years, now the City Commission has thus auditioned for the Official Meeting of the City Commission. It takes place the same day, at 7:00 p.m.....downstairs.....in the open chambers appropriately ordained for official city business, with plenty of room, comfortable chairs.....and the Commission faces you, eye to eye, with dignity and with respect.....during prime time television.

In "THE WORK SESSION".....upstairs.....no official business can be enacted. To be official, business must wait for the.....downstairs.....session of the REGULAR official MEETING of the City Commission. This is as it should be, nevertheless, the entire downstairs agenda is quietly reviewed.....upstairs.....discussed and fussed with until there is a consensus to take it.....downstairs.....so it can be made official. Downstairs (in the official meeting), the script goes like this: "Item Number Four on the agenda; Gentlemen, we discussed this upstairs, do I hear a motion?" From a drowsy Commissioner comes, "Move on Item Number Four." "Discussion??? (they already did that upstairs so there is little or no official discussion.....downstairs). And so it goes. Now, you won't have any idea about the monumental decision that was just made on your behalf, because it was discussed in its entirety.....upstairs.....in the unofficial meeting.....at prime time work time.....and you can't be there.

THE NIGHTMAYOR sincerely believes work sessions should be restricted to just that, a session to work over technical and complicated items not yet ready to go to the official business meeting. THE NIGHTMAYOR doesn't understand why all interesting and important exchanges of information concerning the

SARA JACOBSON

WALKS AND TALKS
SEES AND SEETHES
LIERKS AND WORKS
Phone 323-0197

issues take place in this preview meeting. THE NIGHTMAYOR believes that there should be only one meeting for discussing City business. It should be.....downstairs at prime time your time.....and you should be there. You are the taxpayer in this city.....you have a right to know what decisions are being made and how they are being made.....Is it also your responsibility to know?.....HMMM.

A good example of the wrong kind of business being conducted in a work session took place in "THE WORK SESSION" held on December 23.....upstairs.....without this business ever being introduced officially.....downstairs.....First, some background information.

In her last column, THE NIGHTMAYOR, shared with you the disclosure of abandoned reality on the part of one of Sanford's people-in-a-position-to-judge-over-you. You remember the tidbit about Helen Stairs who succumbed to temptation and tried to avoid City rules by refusing to pull a building permit for work she was doing on her own property? At the December 23 work session.....upstairs.... Commissioner Lion Howell roared; and, the December 28 edition of the Herald quoted the lion as roaring, "I have a problem with the activities of Helen Stairs.....she has apparently broken a city law." He was quoted further as saying, "The City should do something regarding this matter." A lengthy discussion ensued during which most of the members of the Commission submitted comments.....upstairs. Staff was asked for input on the subject. The results of the discussion was an official hearing.....heard unofficially.....that Stairs step up to the podium at the next WORK SESSION (or did they mean the next Official Meeting of the City Commission.....HMMM) to plead her case. THE NIGHTMAYOR is wondering how any unofficial decision can be made.....with the intent to have it excluded from the official meeting.....and from the general public. What was missing from the Herald's article was Howell's most important opening statement: "I've got something I want to discuss, and I don't want to do it.....downstairs.....so, I would like to do it now.".....upstairs.....grrrr.

THE NIGHTMAYOR went to the.....downstairs.....meeting. It is true! The subject was never discussed.

THE NIGHTMAYOR attended the First Meeting of the New City Commission. The Old Mayor and the Old Commissioners stepped down in humble glory (oxymoron, this), and the Regular Mayor, with the New Commissioners, stepped up with modest enthusiasm (oxymoron, this, too. No?)

Economic incentives

We have heard a great deal about what is good about economic incentives and those same people also have admitted that these programs have not always worked well. There have been some successes, but not enough to justify the concept or the fundamental constitutional question. The truth is that several states have raised the white flag, asking for a truce.

At some point, someone (government), somewhere was desperate enough to try and improve the economy, and this was the solution. It is like a pyramid scheme. It is good if you are one of the first, but not so good once it is spread all over the country. Just like a pyramid scheme, the sooner we stop it the better off we are going to be.

In my mind, there also is a much more fundamental question that needs to be asked, and I am sure some day, someone, somewhere, is going to challenge this practice in the courts. Are economic incentives and the practice, which has, for the most part, been restricted to those chosen few, Constitutional? What gives any government the right to decide who is going to benefit from these incentives and who is not? The argument made is that everyone else is doing it so therefore we have to, does not make it right. An argument easily can be made that the whole idea is a bad one, and if this bad idea (concept) was not practiced, the entire country would be better off.

Please tell me, in good conscience, how do we decide who is going to get these incentives? What about the new companies right here in our own backyard (who, by the way, have been paying taxes) that have a promising future and, in the long run, will stay and provide more jobs? The truth is we cannot defend the process. It is discriminative and public funds are being used to help a few chosen, private and corporate businesses.

If we want to create an economic incentive program, let's do it in our own backyard with our own entrepreneurs, not with dollars. Let's use various other cooperative measures between government and local businesses.

We know that small business creates the largest number of jobs. We should be doing everything we can to inspire those who wish to create their own business by cutting every unnecessary obstacle that would either hinder, or possibly put a strain on their efforts to do so and to be successful.

Simply put, cut taxes, license fees, corporate fees, do away with unnecessary regulations, and streamline procedural processes that remain, so that those who want to start a business have a fair chance to do so in a reasonable amount of time and with cooperation in the form of less restrictive government intervention.

This was a response to the Sunday, Jan. 5, column regarding public schools:
"The future of our nation will be a direct result of our ability within our communities to offer creative efforts to all of those who already live within our communities, or wish to become a part of our communities, by offering them a cooperative their weekly meetings for many years until he became ill.

 A donation was made towards an automobile which was a gift to retiring Seminole County School Superintendent, T.W. Lawton, after 36 years of service. Mr. Lawton was a past president of the club.

Harold Kastner, a member of the Agriculture Committee, traveled to Europe where he observed different types of agriculture in use there. He reported on this upon his return and several articles on his trip appeared in the Sanford Herald.

According to Mr. Stinecpher, the biggest thrill of the year came when the Sanford Club received Honorable Mention for the Florida District Achievement Award. They were proud of this accomplishment, as it only was the second time in the Sanford Club's history that it had placed.

Mr. Stinecpher stated that 1992 was a good year because the members made it so, with sincere cooperation all the way.

Of course, this is only the highlights of one year's accomplishments by the Sanford Kiwanis Club. Multiply this by 75 years, and you can imagine what an impact this club has had in the Sanford area. Congratulations, Sanford Kiwanis Club!

I would like to challenge each civic club in Sanford to write a history of your club, using your yearly reports, minutes, special programs, etc. You all have done outstanding things for the Sanford area, and this would be a valuable addition to the history of Sanford!

 one for Homecoming. My answer to that is that the SEC has a championship game and that counts as a win or, as in the case of the team that plays the Gators, a loss in regular season. That should make up for one blister on the schedule.

As for the loss to Florida State during the regular season, what can I say? FSU did succeed in "uprooting Doak Campbell field with Danny Wuerffel's facemask" as one Seminole fan put it. We were outplayed by a very good team. They took over the number one ranking and the Gators fell to third.

Then things started going the Gators' way.

Suddenly, there was a rematch at the Sugar Bowl.

As much as the Gators needed to play FSU again to keep their hopes for a National Title alive, the Bowl Coalition decided that there would be a rematch-not Steve Spurrier. And certainly not Bobby Bowden, who never hid the fact that he feared playing the Gators for a second time. And Spurrier's complaining about obvious late hits on the part of the Seminole defensive line had nothing to do with the Gator's being invited to the Sugar Bowl. Their ranking did.

This brings up a very interesting point.

Everyone seems quick to point out that the Gators shouldn't have been blessed with another shot at FSU. That is the system in College football. Until we go to a playoff system where season records determine who goes to the play-offs and the number one team is determined on the field instead of by a chosen few who seem to use no rhyme or reason, this is the only way that National titles are won.

With Arizona State locked into the Rose Bowl, which is not part of the alliance, and Florida State already chosen for the Sugar Bowl, the number three team in the country was next in line. We just happened to get a shot at the Seminoles. Don't fault the Gators. Place the blame where it belongs-with the Bowl Coalition.

Finally, yes, there were four other teams with only one loss. So why should any of them deserve it more than the Gators who beat the number-one ranked team? And just to answer one critic, there has to be a number one. Let's not get out of control with this thing. If any one of those other teams had beaten the Seminoles, I would say they deserved to be National Champions. But they didn't. The Gators did. So let it go.

College football fans are very emotional and they take their teams to heart. Some of us just happen to like teams that win a few games and that is an obvious bone of contention with a few. As long as the college system remains the way it is, anyone whose team is not number one will just have to live with it. And those whose teams never come close should pick another team to like.

The Gators are the National Champions and deserve to have their day in the sun. Next year, when another team is deemed number one, I just hope that the losers are a little more gracious.

Until then, the Gators are on top and all the whining in the world isn't going to change that.

But then, again, Spurrier has a rather high opinion of himself. "God had certainly smiled on the Gators this season," he said after the Sugar Bowl.

Don't you hate it when people try to speak of themselves in the second person?

 Commissioner Sheila Sawyer said she was concerned about the cost and the service provided by TCI. "I have a friend who lives in a community near here," she said. "She gets many more channels than we have in Lake Mary, and she pays considerably less per month."

Following Walker's opening remarks, Commissioner George Durycia responded. "My impression from what you say is that TCI doesn't really know what it wants to do in regard to Lake Mary."

Commissioner Thom Greene said with the contract not expiring until September of this year, a year's extension would almost amount to two years before any changes could be made. "I'm concerned with putting this off for two more years," he said. "I would feel better if we make it a six month extension. In that way it will give TCI time to show us they are going to do something, and give the city time to hear from the citizens about the service they receive."

"We can have the staff proceed with working up an ordinance to extend this for six more months," said Mayor David Meador. "And the city manager can immediately begin negotiations for the future with TCI."

"It will take 18 to 36 months to go through this formal process," Walker responded. "That's one of the reasons we need a full year's extension." The commission however, remained firm in the six-month decision, and it was suggested the staff, in addition to getting into discussions with TCI, might begin negotiations with other cable providers who may possibly be interested in serving Lake Mary.

 Sure everyone will say Florida State played in the ACC, not traditionally a football conference. Well, there were four ACC teams that participated in bowl games, the Gators, plus Miami, another bowl team, on the Seminoles' schedule.

Yes, Miami, while Florida was busy opening its season against Georgia Southern and Southwestern Louisiana.

What was Sanford Middle School already booked those weekends?

And don't give me all that garbage about the SEC being such a competitive conference. For every Tennessee or Alabama, there is a Kentucky or Vanderbilt!

Besides, if everyone had participated in the bowl alliance, the Gators never would have gotten a shot at the title; it would have been Florida State against Arizona State.

That would have been more fair. Arizona State beat then-number one Nebraska convincingly while the Seminoles beat Florida during their scheduled game. Ohio State routed better opponents all season than those on the Gators' "schedule" and BYU broke the NCAA record for wins in a season with 14.

In no way has Florida proven it has any more reason to be national champion than any of the other four teams.

That's not to say any of those teams stood out over any others as claimants to the crown which brings up my original point.

There was no national champion. Or you can say there were five national champions.

There was no team that clearly stood above all others as the best team in college football.

And there's nothing wrong with that.

Let everyone celebrate their title from Tucson to Tallahassee. Starting in 1998, everyone will belong to the alliance so we will be able to determine the true champion without the absurdity of a playoff system which would render the regular season meaningless and encourage teams like Florida to look for yet another Division 12 school to add to their Turtleneck of the Month schedule.

By the way, one more thing:

Steve Spurrier is an annoying whiner. He spent an entire month crying because Wuerffel spent so much time on his back in Tallahassee last month.

The real reason Wuerffel was down so much is because he was on his knees praying that Spurrier would be smart enough to put in the shotgun sooner.

 business/government relationship and their children a sound educational system. That is the kind of incentive that we should and could offer.

"A creative business atmosphere can be more productive and more profitable than tax incentives that benefit a few."

I must admit, I was shocked at the response to this column. The vast majority of readers agreed entirely. However, they felt I had not said enough.

First, let me explain something. I do not want to knock the public schools out. I just wanted to catch them with a fairly good left hook so they may get mad enough to work on the problems. They know they exist and by this time, I would imagine they realize there will be choices-possibly many choices.

That does not mean that the public school could not be one of the better ones. It is up to the public school to make that happen. Like so many problems, this is an accumulation of many years of simply not facing up to reality. It certainly has not been caused by those now serving in the public school system.

They are caught in the trap, the system, but they can turn it around. It is the system, and an attitude problem. How many times have you heard the expression, "change your attitude?" Why? Because a change in attitude can create positive results.

Alas and alack....the New Commission has popped THE NIGHTMAYOR's bubble. They remanded their first order of business .....upstairs (oh! the pain) to THE WORK SESSION. This was the issue concerning Mayor Dale's request for an office and a full-time Administrative Assistant. Commissioner Eckstein proposed, "Mayor, you are our leader. I will support anything you want." (Wow!) But, as the discussion ensued and the possible costs were brought up, he suggested that this discussion be whisked away.....upstairs.....to a work session. The others agreed. Why, oh why, couldn't they have agreed to just bring it back the next Regular Meeting instructing the City Manager to bring all pertinent data? This way, you could be there, too....and hear everything. We are counting on the New Team.....pray, oh pray, they won't be afraid to make changes.

Ho-Hum...it is time for THE NIGHTMAYOR to bid adieu, to you, to you, and you.

Say goodnight.....good nightmayor.

The Four C's: The key to buying a diamond engagement ring

For The Best In Diamonds

A DIAMOND ENGAGEMENT RING is a symbol of love and romance. No two diamonds are alike, so when selecting a diamond, consumers should visit a reputable jeweler whom they know and trust.

The diamond engagement ring has been a symbol of love and romance since 1477 when Archduke Maximilian of Austria gave Mary of Burgundy a gold ring set with a diamond as a token of his love. Today, the tradition of the diamond engagement ring continues. According to a new consumer survey, 70 percent of all brides-to-be receive one.

A diamond is an expression of individuality. Just as love is unique, no two diamonds are alike. Each diamond has its own personality and sparkle. Therefore, when purchasing a diamond engagement ring, it is important to become an informed consumer.

A little knowledge can go a long way to help unearth the best-quality diamond within a budget. Understanding diamonds requires knowledge of the four C's: cut, color, clarity and carat weight. These four variables are key to answering the elusive question as to why two diamonds of equal size may not be of equal value.

• Cut — Although diamonds can be cut in several shapes, like oval, marquise, pear or round, it is the quality of the cut that gives the stone its brilliant sparkle. Light is reflected best when all of the facets are perfectly proportioned.

A totally colorless diamond best allows white light to pass effortlessly through it and be dispersed as rainbows of color.

• Clarity — The term "clarity" refers to a diamond's lack of naturally occurring inclusions, often called "nature's fingerprints," most of which are not visible to the naked eye. The fewer the inclusions, the more valuable the diamond.

• Carat — Carat refers to the weight of the stone. There are 100 points in a carat. Therefore, a diamond of 50 points weighs one-half of a carat. Deciding how much to spend on a diamond engagement ring is very personal and obviously depends on income. Most people find the two months' salary guideline to be helpful in determining how much to spend. Most importantly, choose the finest-quality diamond affordable, because a diamond engagement ring is a unique symbol of commitment that will be treasured for many years.

To find out how to get the best diamond, consumers should visit a reputable jeweler whom they know and trust. The diamond engagement ring is an investment in a couple's future and, like love, can grow more precious with time.

Gator headed for NFL

GAINESVILLE — Florida receiver Roider Anthony plans to forego his senior year to enter the NFL draft.

Anthony, who led the nation with 18 touchdown catches, is projected to be a mid-to-late first-round pick. He made 72 catches for 1,293 yards this year and set an NCAA record with touchdown catches in 11 straight games.

He joins teammate Ike Hilliard, who announced earlier this week he was turning pro.

ELSEWHERE

Avery to Red Sox

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox signed free agent pitcher Steve Avery to a one-year contract, hoping he can rebound from a tibial cage injury and lead a staff that lost Roger Clemens.

Avery, 26, was 7-10 with a 4.47 ERA last season. His lifetime record in seven seasons is 72-62, all with Atlanta.

Avery, MVP in the 1991 NLCS, walked Wade Boggs with the bases loaded in the 10th inning of Game 4 in last season's World Series, forcing in the go-ahead run in an 8-6 Yankees win.

LAKE MARY — At the end of the third quarter it looked like Seminole was going to pull off the upset and remain undefeated in the Seminole Athletic Conference and Lake Mary's chances at a conference title was going to slip through its fingers with a second straight home loss.

But the Rams of first-year head coach Mike Gaudreau got the offense in gear in the final eight minutes to outscore Arrow Force V 25-12 and pull out a 67-56 SAC victory Friday night.

Lake Mary (11-3 overall, 4-1 in the SAC) held a 14-13 lead after one period, but Lake Mary (7-10, 2-1 SAC) used a 17-12 second quarter scoring advantage to build a 30-26 lead at intermission.

The Rams chipped two points off the Arrow Force V lead in the third quarter to set the stage for the big fourth period.

Rollins bound Matt Townsley led Lake Mary with a game-high 24 points while junior Ben Kersent-brock scored 14 points.

The Rams (ranked No. 5 in Class 6A) coming off the big victory over Seminole on Thursday night, turned the ball over 25 times, but got the ball inside to Lauren Bradley enough to handle the Bulldogs (ranked No. 7 in Class 4A).

Bradley scored a game-high 18 points to lead Lake Mary.

Takara Solomon led Lavares (13-4), which turned the ball over 36 times, with 12 points.

What's Up in the NFL 1996...The Championships

Fellow football fans, we have arrived. The National Football Conference as well as their counterparts from the American Football Conference will today determine who their representatives will be for the Super Bowl in New Orleans on Sunday, January 26th.

In the N.F.C. the upstart Carolina Panthers travel to the frozen tundra to take on the All-Class Green Bay Packers. In the other conference, the Jacksonville Jaguars on their self-proclaimed "Mission from God," make the trip to New England where Bill Parcells and the Patriots eagerly await the opportunity to return to the Super Bowl for the first time since 1985.

Let's talk about last week for a minute. Is it possible that I have once again amazed even myself?

Many of you felt that I was backed into a corner in finding a LOCK OF THE WEEK, because of the short slate of games. Instead, I calmly released the CAROLINA PANTHERS as my POST SEASON LOCK OF THE YEAR. As three point underdogs against last year's Super Bowl champions, many of you thought I was crazy.

However, as usual, I have once again displayed an uncanny ability to find the diamond in the rough. Not only did the Panthers cover, they controlled the entire game on both sides of the ball.

Of the letters and calls I have received since, the best came from a man and his wife that have been having financial difficulties.

It reads in part, "With the weather getting cold again, we would like to thank you for helping us make the money needed to pay our power bill. YOUR LOCK OF THE WEEK has also given me the opportunity to stay out of the work force for another week. With warm thoughts (and bodies), we would again like to thank you."

Folks, the Herald could not pay me enough money to give the feeling of satisfaction letters like that give me. While I'm not sure I agree with the idea of avoiding work with my LOCK selections, that is not for me to decide. My job is to give you, the reader, the power. It is your duty to decide how to use that power.

Let's talk about today's games. NEW ENGLAND (-7) VS. JACKSONVILLE One word that needs to be considered here is WEATHER.

Most feel that if the forecasts of freezing temperatures are correct, the Patriots will be at a clear advantage. I do not.

While the Jaguars are certainly a warm weather team, their style of play does not require it. Brunell can scramble in rain, sleet or snow, and he has been the driving force in Jacksonville's success.

The real word that needs to be discussed is COACHING.

Bill Parcells has turned the Patriots around in a relatively short period of time. He has about the same amount of talent as the Jaguars, but in the mental department he is far superior to his southern rival. I love the spirit of the young Jacksonville team as much as the next, but this is the playoffs, and in the playoffs emotion has to take a back seat.

Would I this game? Give up the seven points? If I had to, yes, but I don't have to. This is what the boys in Vegas refer to as a no-value game, which means the line doesn't provide a "backdoor opportunity" to make money. This should be one of the more competitive games of the year, so do not miss a minute of it! Patriots 27, Jaguars 28.

GREEN BAY (-18) VS. CAROLINA

The winner of this game will probably with the Super Bowl as well.

I was surprised that the line was this big after Carolina thumped the Dallas Cowboys last week. The oddsmakers must have figured out what I knew three weeks ago, the Cowboys were not a very good team.

The Panthers looked good, but not good enough to beat the Packers at Green Bay. Brett Favre, painkillers or not, is one of the premier players in the N.F.L. He may not have the natural talent of some of the other quarterbacks in the league, but he has no fear.

I'm not talking about the kind of fear referred to in those stupid "NO FEAR" tee-shirts you see kids wearing. Favre has completely erased from his mind the belief that he can be permanently injured. This belief, although a mistake, puts him at a great advantage over opposing defenses and in this case, the Carolina Panthers.

Look for Favre and Company to give Skatties a late Christmas present as they roll to victory. Packers 24, Panthers 10.

Each week I issue what I consider to be the best pick against the spread in the schedule. This is the game that after research and contemplation I feel most confident about releasing as my patented (on three continents) LOCK OF THE WEEK.

On the heels of last week's giant upset selection, I'm feeling good, but not good enough to mislead you. The GREEN BAY PACKERS (-18) are the THREE STAR (as opposed to a FIVE STAR) selection as the LOCK OF THE WEEK.

Take some small action to take the wife and kids out for a nice dinner, but don't "let it ride," if you know what I mean. The mark of a good bettor is knowing when to lay low and when to strike. I'll be striking hard on January 26th, the Super Bowl. You have two weeks to find a bank suitable for all the money we'll win.

Good luck this week, hope to see you soon.

LIONS MAUL HORNETS

HAINES CITY — The road proved to be no problem for Oviedo Friday as the Lions outscored Haines City in every quarter to win 71-52.

Oviedo (14-5) got 19 points from freshman Mary Lou Johnston, 12 points from Lindsay Wynegar and 10 points from Kelly Brock.

LUTHER'S WOES CONTINUE

ORLANDO — With its offense going into the deep freeze at a bad time, Luther saw its losing streak go to 10 games with losses Thursday and Friday.

It was not a good week for the Crusaders (8-12) to forget where the hoop was as they played state ranked Ocala-St. Johns and Orlando-First Academy (No. 1 in Class A) as well as Class 6A teams Lake Howell and Boone and tough The Master's Academy in the past eight days.

Maj-Britt Michaelson led Luther with 12 points in a 54-27 setback to First Academy on Thursday night, and Monica Braun tallied 16 points in a 62-32 defeat at the hands of The Master's Academy Friday night.

The Crusaders did get some good news as Paulette Colon netted 23 points and Rachel Retzler added 11 assists as the junior varsity won 41-38.

Hunter Education Rules have changed

A new law, which took effect on January 1, 1975 to pass a hunter education course before they can by a hunting license.

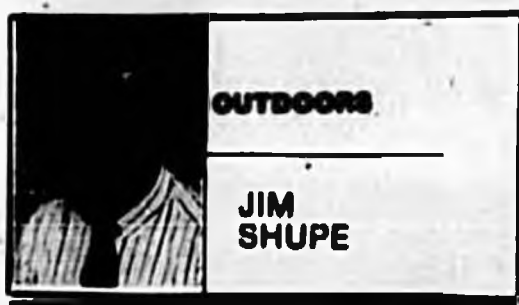

Previously, the law required anyone born on or after June 1, 1975 to pass a hunter education course before he or she could hunt in Florida.

Captain Ed Tyer, hunter education administrator for the Game and Fresh Water Fish Commission, said previous wording of the law effectively discouraged young people from taking up hunting, even under conditions where they were exempt from license requirements.

Tyer said the new wording will enable parents and other adults to take young people on hunting trips before they are required to pass the course and before they are old enough to need a hunting license.

However, Florida laws prohibit anyone under the age of 16 from possessing a gun, unless he is under adult supervision.

FISHING FORECAST

The predicted cold front this weekend could really put a damper on fishing plans. It's almost always possible to find some lee shoreline in the river, and soaking wild shiners would be a good bet for big bass action.

Look for floating mats of hyacinths in 3-6 feet of water, and fish the shiners close to this cover. Local lakes and the Wekiva River will also feature good bass fishing.

Big winter flounder are the main attraction at Sebastian Inlet. Anglers bouncing finger mullet along the bottom are connecting with flatfish to 12 pounds. Snook, redfish, jack crevalle, ladyfish and a few snapper are also hitting.

Captain Jack at Port Canaveral reports that offshore action has been good with cobia, dolphin and wahoo. Bottom fishing has also been hot. If it gets blown out this weekend, look for plenty of sheepshead and flounder to be biting inside the Port. Trout and rede are scattered on the flats of the Banana and Indian rivers.

Huge sheepshead are taking fiddler crabs and live shrimp at the tip of the north jetty at Ponce Inlet. Also expect drum, redfish and swarms of small bluefish. Trout and rede are rated as good in Mosquito Lagoons.

Hobbyist of the Week

Crafter challenges 'different things'

By Susan Wimmer
Herald Staff Writer

CASSELBERRY - From ceramics, to cross stitch, cake decorating, wreaths and decorative items, Beth Malloy has either tried it or plans to. Her numerous hobbies keep her busy when not caring for her two children, Alex and Sarah.

For six to seven years now Malloy sneaks spare time when her children are napping to taking advantage of their short trips to see grandma. This two-year Casseberry resident yet Sanford native, loves relaxing with her crafts.

Her initial interests in crafts began with ceramics. "My mom used to own a ceramic shop," she said. "I was really into ceramics."

Admitting many of her ceramic projects have been gifts to family and friends, she added that she has made everything from horse faces and statues, dogs, haunted castles for Halloween, and several banks for her son like "the old lady in the shoe."

She mentioned that "six years ago while still working at a bank" her "Christmas ornaments" were sought after by many co-workers. "My best was a snowflake with a Christ-head in the middle," said Malloy. "I also made a ballerina. One of my favorites was a nautical coaster set with a seagull on top a pier pole. You could lift the seagull up where the rope is and there was a coaster set. I used to fire them at my mom's ceramic shop."

Cake decorating is among another of Malloy's hobbies. "I make my own homemade icing," she said. "It's a recipe passed down from my mom. I get decorating tips from Wilton cake decorating."

A doll, Ninja Turtle, Power Ranger, Superman, Garfield and baseball glove are among the many cases she has created. Malloy cited that she has found a cake store that rents cake pans for a small price and minimal deposit.

Cross stitching is an art introduced to her by a former co-worker. "One year I gave my sister a quilt. I want them to say when I grow up I want to be like daddy or mommy and I will paint each to the appropriate job."

Malloy concluded by saying, "I just want to try whatever craft comes around. I like to make all kinds of different things."

usually do kits. I have one pattern that I bought separately. I like to use 14 countaida cloth.

Christmas wreaths, straw wreaths from craft stores, have become another favorite to celebrate the holiday season. "I made one that was spray painted white," she said. "I decorated it with lace, ribbons and potpourri."

The latest in her craft craze, Malloy now uses decorative paints. "I started getting into painting t-shirts," she said. "I did a big sister-little sister shirt. I've done a lot of the baby ones. I buy fabric and use stitch-witchery or heat and bond and line them with paint. Sometimes I use iron-on."

Ones are decorated with ribbons, lace and other decorative items. She added, "I like to make the collars out of lace with hand-sewn pearls. I usually hand sew a charm on too. I make all of them as if I'm making each one for my daughter. I hand sew so they're more secure and I know they're safe. I plan to make mother-daughter and father-son t-shirts. I want them to say when I grow up I want to be like daddy or mommy and I will paint each to the appropriate job."

Malloy concluded by saying, "I just want to try whatever craft comes around. I like to make all kinds of different things."

Mobley promoted

Former Sanfordite Sherwood A. Mobley was recently promoted to the position of Music Personnel / Operation Manager.

Mobley has been working as principal timpanist, a part-time position, since September 1991. After five years with the Greenville (SC) Symphony Orchestra, Mobley was offered his new position in October of last year by Executive Director Dr. Olin Sansbury. Mobley's new position will be full-time employment by increasing the number of musical services. He will perform as timpanist and also take on the responsibilities of music personnel operations manager.

As timpanist, Mobley will play all rehearsals, performances, educational outreach programs and any other musical services scheduled by the Greenville Symphony Orchestra. As music personnel-operations manager, he will be responsible for making sure all musicians that are needed for various programs have been contracted and have all of their necessary information concerning performances.

Mobley says he works with a roster of approximately 120 musicians, using 40 to 95 individuals for each concert. He will provide information to the executive director and the music director (Maestro David Pollitt) relative to planning future sessions. Mobley also will submit payment request for services rendered by musicians, among other administrative duties.

Mobley is a 1974 graduate of Seminole High School and went on to study the music field at Boston Conservatory, where he received his Bachelor of Arts Degree. He earned his Masters Degree from The New England Conservatory of Music in Boston, Massachusetts.

Mobley and wife Deborah Paden Mobley will be moving to Greenville in the spring. He is the son of Mrs. Freddie Muller Mobley of Sanford.

Congratulations and much success in your new endeavor!

Quilters get ready for 'Olde Lake Mary Days'

They still have more than two months to go, but members of the Lake Mary Quilters are getting ready for Olde Lake Mary Days. The seniors who meet every Tuesday from 9 a.m. to noon at the Frank Evans Center have completed their Canadian Maple Leaf quilt and are working on a Pennsylvania Dutch quilt. Both quilts will be raffled off at Olde Lake Mary

MARY ROWELL

Days. The quilters have also been working on some items to sell at the festival. They will have quilted pillows and quilted throws. If you are a quilter and would like to give them a hand, stop by the Frank Evans Center any Tuesday morning and join in the fun.

Mother Goose Time

Would you like someone else to read your child a few bedtime stories? Someone with a very large selection of books? The Northwest branch of the Seminole County library at Lake Mary now offers Mother Goose Time every Wednesday evening from 7 to 7:30 p.m. The storyline is specifically geared to babies 9 to 18 months old. Children this age may not always understand everything that is said, but they really enjoy listening to stories. The library is located on Greenwood Boulevard between Greenwood Middle School and Lake Mary High School.

Supplies needed

During the year, the Lake Mary Seniors do several projects for RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) and other community organizations. The seniors need supplies for these projects. Currently they need used shoes, men's women's (no high heels) and children's, clean, used pantyhose (even if they have runs), books, magazines, scrap ribbon, bindings, felt, blankets, and bed pads. If you can donate any of these items, just drop them by the Frank Evans Center any day of the week before noon or call 324-3060 to arrange a drop off time.

Entrepreneurs target Latinos with pre-paid calling card

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

Sometimes, the hardest part about starting a new business is deciding which market to target. When the business is home based, this may prove to be even more of a problem.

Not so for a group of local entrepreneurs.

Prepaid calling cards are the wave of the future. People travel extensively now and families are rarely all found in the same state. Add to that the fact that people are trying to watch their spending and stay away from unexpected bills, and prepaid calling cards have become a useful commodity.

Five area business men and women have grouped together to start a home based business that markets the prepaid cards. Each of these people has full time jobs and wanted to find something that didn't require a lot of their time or money to produce an extra income.

Phil Jackson, who manages a Lake Mary paint store, explained how the business works.

"This home based business is one where you only have to invest a couple of hours maybe three nights a week and most of the work is done over the phone."

"What's unique about this organization," added Margaret Torres, "is that there is so much support. You can put someone on a three way call with yourself and a representative from the company and the rep will help all they can."

One of the newest members of the organization is Fred Muniz. He is a chemist by day, and his company is relocating. He felt that he wanted to try and start his own business.

He said, "The more I learned about this company, the more I saw that this was a legitimate way for me to earn an extra income for now and build toward something of my own. It was the right opportunity at the right time and with the right investment."

Actually a multi-level marketing program, this company differs from the others in that the time and monetary investment is not large, you are not required to solicit everyone you come in contact with to join and it is on a binary pay plan.

A binary pay plan is one where you do not need to wait forever to start making an income. As soon as you have shared the opportunity with only two people, the paychecks start coming.

All you have to do to get people interested. Isidoro Torres said, "I ask people if they want to eliminate their monthly long distance phone bill and at the same time make money. What could be easier?"

What makes this group of business people unique, though, is the market that they are targeting. They have realized that the Latino market is omitted by most businesses and believe that this group would benefit greatly from the opportunity.

Eddie Marrero explained why the Latino market is being targeted.

The Spanish population is growing so much in Central Florida that not a lot of businesses are paying any attention to them. They are very hard workers by nature and should welcome an opportunity to earn an extra income. Most of us are bilingual and therefore we can talk to them in Spanish if they have a harder time with English and they appreciate that. We just feel that this is a fantastic opportunity for them and for us."

With prepaid everything taking a large hold on the market and with this group of hard-working entrepreneurs, this home based business is sure to be a success.

Torres (from left), Margaret Torres, Phil Jackson, Eddie Marrero, Corey Fallings and Fred Muniz. The group will target the Latino market.

Jazzercise: Healthy and fun, too

By KELLIE WERNER
Herald Staff Writer

Just because there isn't a huge gym within the Sanford city limits, don't think there isn't a place to go and stay in shape. More than that, it's hard to believe that staying in shape can be so much fun.

Sanford Jazzercise is owned and operated by Nancy Walsh, a graduate of Seminole High School. After attending college in Jacksonville, Fla., Nancy and her husband, Jerry, moved back to Sanford.

While in Jacksonville, Nancy attended a jazzercise class with one of her friends and the rest is history. Six years later, Nancy teaches 10 classes a week.

A year ago, Nancy decided to become an instructor and began a rigorous four month

Lois Gebben instructed by Nancy Walsh, in the Big Lots shopping center, Jazzercise program to become certified.

Teaching her first class on June 22, 1990, was the result of over five years of jazzercise, four months of studying, and lots of dreaming. Six months later and in her best shape ever, Nancy teaches an average of 18 people per class.

"The best part about being an instructor is my students. They make it all worthwhile."

Jazzercise offers the same health benefits as other fat burning activities.

Nancy explained, "Jazzercise is fun - it's not repetitive. It's the only thing I've been able to stick with and I see my students sticking with it also. There are levels for everyone and that means no competition. And there are no model types here. We all encourage each other and have a great time. It's like a sorority."

Tawana Metts said she keeps coming to the classes because, "I love the center, I love the instructor, and I love the people. They have all become my friends."

Pam Smith, who attends Nancy's classes regularly also, added, "Even if you don't lose a ton of weight, it's so much fun that you keep coming back. I've been to aerobics and the whole nine yards. But I've stuck with Jazzercise for 10 years now because it's more personable and fun."

But the members of Sanford Jazzercise have lost weight...a lot of weight.

One of the best success stories is Peggy Marlette. A school teacher and mother, Peggy started attending jazzercise classes to try and get into shape. Six months later, Peggy is 45 pounds lighter and feels better than she has in years.

"Jazzercise saved my life," Peggy said. "I feel 100 times better, I look 50 times better, I have more energy, and I sleep better at night. This has done wonders for my self esteem and there is so much positive support and feedback here. I saw a sign on the highway that led me to Jazzercise. It truly was a sign. Nancy is such a great motivator - you can't help but succeed."

Nancy can motivate so well because she's been there.

In August, 1995, Nancy weighed 170 pounds. In 10 months she has lost over 50 pounds. This only makes her more understanding of what her students are going through and able to offer real advice that truly helps.

In addition to instructing jazzercise classes, offering personal training and keeping herself in great shape, Nancy is the mother of two children. Her husband, Jerry, is the pastor of Seminole Community Church and she sings during services, and helps with the office work.

Nancy joked, "I used to be Jerry's full time secretary. But now I'm so busy that he's mine."

Adding to the family business is Nancy's mother-in-law who cares for the children during classes. For only one dollar per class, moms can bring their kids, know they are being well cared for, and not have to worry about finding a baby sitter.

Nancy said, "When I started jazzercise, it was the best hour of my day. I got to do something for myself, have a lot of fun, and my kids had a great time, too."

Classes are available in the morning or in the evening and accommodate every fitness level. If a little help is needed with those New Year's resolutions, jazzercise may be a fun way to get it.
