

Jones Increases County Scoring Lead To 341 Points

15-Year-Old Oviedo Star Will Try For 400 In Tourney; Driskill Has 208

Johnny Jones, 15-year-old Oviedo cage phenomenon, wound up the regular basketball season by leading all other Seminole County high school scorers handily with 341 points, or 133 more than his nearest rival, Lyman's Bobby Driskill, who netted 208 tallies.

Jones, the left one-handed pushing shot artist who will be 16 years-old Monday, scored a grand slam by leading all county prep pointmakers in every category, including field goals, 141, free throws, 59, and average, 18.9.

Driskill, also a sophomore wonder for the Lyman Greyhounds, played in fewer games, 17, than Jones to roll up the second highest total in the county with 208 points on the second best average, 12.3, and next high bucket count of 90.

Both stars will be taking their scoring leads into next Wednesday's state group tournament at Wierdale. Jones' red-hot Lions will enter the important state championship district tourney with an amazing 15-game winning streak. The Oviedo boys concluded the regular season with the top county win-loss record of 16-2.

Senior forward Charlie Shaw of Lyman is third third league scorer in Seminole County with 160 points, though fifth on the basis of average points per game with only 8.7.

Sanford's Junior Metts, having played in only 13 games, is the fourth ranking point producer with 129 markers, second in free throws to Jones with 57 and third in average points per game with 9.9.

Giant Harvey Joe Slanton, Oviedo, rounds out the Top Five with 111 tallies in 17 contests for a ninth high average of 6.5. Sanford's departed G. D. Clark is the third best scorer on the game percentage basis with 9.5.

There are eight county scorers with 100 or more points. Both Sanford and Lyman boast of three each while Oviedo claims only two. Besides Driskill and Shaw, Jimmy Newman is also over the century figure for Lyman. For Sanford, Metts, Clark and Joe C. C. have attained the coveted circle while Slanton and Jones are the two lone Oviedo representatives over the 100 mark.

 GAYLE TALBOT

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP)—Young pitchers who come to the big leagues sporting brilliant minor league records and yet have to be sent back down perhaps two or three times before they finally find under the main tent are in most cases victims of the "diminishing strike zone," says Frank Schlenker, pitching coach of the New York Giants.

Like the average fan, we had been under the impression for many years that the strike zone was a fairly stable article extending from the armpits down to the knees and taking in the width of the plate. This, says Schlenker, is true only in theory, and it takes some pitchers longer than it does others to find it out.

The difference in ball and strike umpiring between the low minors and the big leagues is tremendous," he explained, "it gives us one of our biggest headaches. Yet we understand why it must be that way and are by no means critical of the minor league umpires. We know why they must call a game much more loosely than it is called in the majors, where we expect something close to perfection.

"A young pitcher in the lowest minors expects to get a strike on anything across the shoulders or the knees. The umpire has to give it to him or too many games would develop into farces. The fans don't come out to see bases on balls, and the umpires know it.

"We try to prepare him the best we can in the short time we have, but even so the chances are that he will come back to the bench after the first inning and complain that the umpire is calling balls on what he always was given strikes before. All we can do is remind him again that he's throwing in a small target now.

"A few of them catch on quickly, but mainly they don't. Every season you'll see a dozen or more big winners come up from the minors, apparently set to help their parent clubs, but by cutting-down date they are back where the umpires are kinder to them.

"It is not only the pitchers who suffer from the difference in umpiring even in the highest minors. Knowing that a high curve across his shoulders more than likely will be called a strike anyway, the batter gets in the habit of swinging at it.

"This isn't too bad in the minors,

Richards Of White Sox Makes Tommy Byrne His No. 1 Project

By BEN OLAN
 Associated Press Sports Writer
 Manager Paul Richards of the Chicago White Sox, the past president of Pitchers Anonymous, has tabbed control pitcher Tommy Byrne as his No. 1 project for 1953.

Richards, who did an effective job of converting Sam Rice and Joe Doherty into front line hurlers, is going about the business of correcting some of the Sox's old-fashioned mound fads at the White Sox camp at El Centro, Calif. If he succeeds, Byrne may well work the Chgox to their first American League pennant since 1919.

"I've had daily sessions with Richards since we began training here yesterday. "We're trying to work out some of the delivery he's slip a sander into his repertoire."

Byrne, obtained from the St. Louis Cardinals, is being trained because the next pitcher might be right across the middle and he can pick it off. The average minor league club doesn't have more than one or two pitchers with good control. But it's different when this batter brings up his 350 average and begins trying to hit men who can throw a dozen straight balls into a spot the size of a catcher's mitt.

"He is immediately spotted for what we call a 'bad hitter,' and he'll very seldom get anything except a bad ball to hit at. He can't break himself of swinging at them."

Another pitcher, Joe Coleman, was the big news in the White Sox's camp at West Palm Beach, Fla.

Coleman, hampered by a shoulder ailment the past couple of seasons, reported he was in good shape and ready to help Bobby Shantz, Harry Byrd, Alex Kellner and the rest of Jimmy Dykes' mound corps.

"My shoulder seldom bothers me," he said. "And besides I've learned how to pitch."

Coleman won 14 games in 1948 and 13 the following year. He pitched, without much success, for Ottawa and Savannah in 1952. Outfielder Archie Wilson of the Boston Red Sox became the first JACKSONVILLE (AP)—Jacksonville Navy spoiled the late season run of the Florida State basketball team by taking an 81-79 victory Thursday night. Jim Oler led FSU with 15 points.

U-F TANKERS WIN
 ATLANTA (AP)—University of Florida swimmers took first place in eight out of 10 events Thursday to defeat Georgia Tech, 35-29. Florida's 200-yard medley relay team turned in the best performance, winning in 3:03.8.

Another medical case was reported by the Cincinnati Reds at Tampa. First sacker, Ted Kluszewski, out for some time last year with an ankle injury was spiked on the right hand. His injury is not serious, however.

Preacher Roe, Brooklyn's veteran southpaw pitching ace, worked batting practice for the first time and announced his arm is in fine shape. Arm trouble handicapped the Preacher last year.

Keith Little, 23-year-old rookie infielder, walloped five over the fence in the Detroit Tigers' battling drill. Manager Freddie Hutchinson also was impressed by the long-range hitting of catcher Matt Batts.

In the last 18 seasons San Jose State's football teams have won 131 games, tied 14 and lost 40.

TODAY'S HIGHLIGHTS

Forced unwilling services is slavery, but love justifies service. Through love, he serves us one to another.—1st Cor. 13:7.

More than 1,200,000 shares of U. S. Steel Corporation are owned in the southeast, more than 480,000 in Florida. There was a time when most big businesses were owned by New Yorkers, or at least by people living in the east. This is no longer so.

According to the Orlando Business Barometer, real estate sales in that area increased from $5,529,000 in January, 1952 to $7,317,000 in January, 1953. That's an increase of 33 percent over last year, and a rate of sales which is maintained throughout the year would amount to $98,000,000 in a year.

More than 73,000 persons were arrested for traffic violations by the State Highway Patrol during the past two years, as compared with only 36,000 during the previous two year period. We don't know whether this reflects merely increased activity on the part of the Patrol, or increased recklessness and contempt for the law on the part of motorists. Perhaps it is a little of both.

The annual Red Cross drive begins today and continues throughout the month of March. The quota this year is a little more than last year because of the increased needs of the armed forces and the increasing assistance being given by the Red Cross in the fight against polio. Both of these are certainly most worthy causes, and considered along with all the other activities of the Red Cross, surely as urgent now as ever, suggest a larger donation this year than usual.

The job of being governor of Florida is a man killer. Scarcely had Governor McCarty been in office two months than he is struck down by a heart attack due, his physicians say, to overwork. It is cheerful news from the bedside that his condition is not serious and that he will soon be able to return to his desk. But it is worth recalling that like Governor McCarty, Governor Warren suffered a similar collapse early in his administration. Both men were in the prime of life, and if they could not take it, who could? It might be well for the Governor and the Legislature to consider ways and means of lightening the duties of the governor.

This is Save Your Vision Week, says a letter we received in the mail this morning. "Please write us an editorial showing how important it is to protect your vision." It is also National Advertised Brands Week, and next week is National 4-H Club Week and National Smile Week. Mar. 8 is Farm Day, Mar. 10 is the anniversary of the establishment of the Salvation Army in this country, also the anniversary of the invention of the telephone, Mar. 12 is Girl Scouts birthday, Mar. 13 inaugurates Clean Up Week, is the birthday of the Canfield Girls, and is also income tax day. Outside of that there isn't much doing.

Rumors of dissonance on the County hospital board are disquieting to those who really want to see a hospital built here as soon as possible. However, conscientious anyone may be with respect to policies followed or methods employed, or plans and specifications, nothing is more important as that we get the job done. We have been building for 23 years over whether it should be a City hospital, or a County hospital or a Fish hospital, and whether it should be 40 beds or 50 beds, over whether it should be on one story or two stories. The fact has come to us that we should build it regardless, and the will of the majority should prevail. Everyone has a right to his own opinion, but we can't have it so long as we have the majority.

Teachers And Beauty

Mrs. Nell Owens, 20, of Dallas, Texas, has been named the prettiest school teacher in the United States in a recent contest. Since she won she has received a great deal of public attention. Her picture has appeared on the cover of a national magazine, she has made frequent television appearances and has been interviewed over the radio. Throughout it all she has retained a dignity and graciousness which match her beauty and do credit to her profession.

The contest itself, however, pricks our memory to recall the prettiest teacher of our own school days. Beauty of the kind that attracts attention and wins contests has always been as plentiful among school teachers as it has been among women in any other profession. There has been a tendency in recent years to characterize the school mums of yesterday as prim in manner and severe in appearance. This is as untrue as most generalizations.

Through the mist of memory the face of the teacher most of us remember comes back but dimly. If there were imperfections in the structure of her face time seems to have erased or softened them. Perhaps contest judges would not find her beautiful but we remember the warmth of a smile that helped the self-conscious youngster to stammer an answer, the patience of her manner, the dedication to her task that marked her whole life.

Strangely enough we do not remember her name nor can we recall the color of her hair and eyes. Perhaps we were too young to observe such details or it may be that children can sense and see the beautiful without needing to define it. Her box lunches may never have brought the highest bid from the young men at the church social. But a life as well as a face may be beautiful.

New Cabinet Post

When Smith wants a government health department established, Jones a department of education, while Brown prefers a department devoted to social welfare, there is one way to please them all. Give each what he wants. That may be in President Eisenhower's policy in regard to his proposed plan to make the Federal Security Agency a cabinet position.

This idea has encountered remonstrance from educators, who have long desired a federal department of education. There has also been a demand for a national Health Department. Fearing, perhaps, that to create three new cabinet positions at once would make that body unwieldy, the proposal now is to create a Department of Health, Education and Welfare. Its head will be Mrs. Oveta Culp Hobby of Texas, the present Administrator of the Federal Security Bureau and head of the WAC during the last war.

European countries have long ranked health, welfare and education on a par with commerce and agriculture, and included them all in their cabinets. These posts will gain in prestige by being raised on an equality with other departments. The only doubt will be whether, as most cabinet posts are political, these will not be politically administered also. It will be up to President Eisenhower and his successors to see that this does not happen.

No Seizure Of Iran

The United States should occupy Southern Iran, in the opinion of J. Hives Childs, our former ambassador to Ethiopia, now a private citizen living in France. His diplomatic service of 29 years was largely spent in the Near East, so he has had the opportunity to know something about the region. His view is that Iran is falling into arrears, that the money we are spending there is pure waste, that the Russians will conquer the whole country unless we salvage the southern part by getting there first.

This would be a desperate step indeed. It would recall to most of us the division of the country between Russia, China and Great Britain from 1907 to World War I, which W. Morgan Shuster, the American adviser to the Shah, denounced in his book, "The Strangling of Persia." The aim would be to keep Iran's oil out of Russian hands, but that would not make it seem better to the Asians. Only as a last resort should seizure of any part of Iran be attempted, and then it should be made plain that it is only for the time being.

The State Department has disavowed Child's views, which it says represent only himself. Publication of his indiscreet suggestion has already done harm.

Sanford Forum

Mr. Holland Dean, Editor
Sanford Herald
Sanford, Florida

Dear Mr. Dean:

Once many years ago five men were riding down a country road in a Model T Ford. The driver became stuck in a patch of soft sand and would not budge. The men jumped out and began working as to the best way to get the car out. They could not agree. One began pushing backwards vigorously on the front of the car. Another began pushing just as vigorously forwards from the back. Another began gathering sticks to put under the wheels. Another ran off looking for a farmhouse where he could borrow a shovel to dig the car out. The fifth, deciding nothing was any use, went to sleep under a tree.

When eventually the four workers became home, the car was deeper in the sand than ever. They sat down by the sleeper to rest. While there they began discussing the problem calmly. Soon the sleeper woke up, and they all agreed upon a plan. One got in the car and took the wheel. The other four began pushing together frontwards from the rear. In a few minutes they were rolling on to their destination.

Sanford Industries, Inc. can be somewhat likened to the Model T. If enough Sanford citizens will give freely of their money, their time, their energy and their brains in a concerted and coordinated effort, nothing can stop this company from accomplishing much for Sanford and Seminole County.

Sanford is fortunate to have a dynamo in Ralph Cowan to spark the organization of Sanford Industries, Inc. Sanford is fortunate that so many able and public-spirited men have already given so much of their time to the organization. But a few persons working alone cannot possibly do all that needs to be done. It will take many hands pushing together in the same direction to make Sanford Industries, Inc. roll.

Very truly yours,
George H. Williams Jr.

GREEN PASTURES

THE WORLD TODAY

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — President Eisenhower seems to be taking the long view in his four year job of getting along with Congress. He patient. If he had begun to throw his weight around, it would be understandable.

He won his election overwhelmingly. He followed Republicans squeaked through to a majority in Congress and it couldn't be much slimmer. Undoubtedly he pulled enough of them along to give them the majority.

His reaction to the humps already given him by Republicans has been restrained. But, despite more of the humps so far has been of major importance. So he hasn't had much reason to mount his high horse.

McCarthy's investigation of the State Department's Voice of America, while persistent, hasn't pulled the rug down so far.

And the insistence by Rep. (R-N.Y.) chairman of the powerful House Ways and Means Committee on a tax cut in the face of Eisenhower's wanting to go slow has been a headache but can't be final unless both houses approve.

In handling Congress carefully the ideal result for Eisenhower would be to have a majority with him—thus surrounding any one who jumped the traces—on the final showdown vote on any issue.

Through patience with a majority, Eisenhower may have a majority in Congress today. The President might win him over to the majority against some other major item tomorrow.

Eisenhower's problem will be to let Congress go as far as it wishes, so long as he gets what he thinks necessary and so long as it doesn't step too far over the line separating the White House from the Capitol.

His test will be in knowing where to draw the line.

A venturesome member of Congress who pushes Eisenhower too far may be prepared to encounter, in the end, a lurch either way.

The former general didn't get where he is with a feather duster.

Decides the good of the country, Eisenhower has more than just his success in the presidency at stake. Most men have moved up to the White House as the climax to a lifetime and they work to make it a successful climax.

Eisenhower already had it. He maxed his life with one of the most successful military careers. He could have stopped there without any doubts about his place in history.

Now he has time to think about it. Tarnish from failure in the present, however, would rub off on the military luster.

He'd hardly sit back meekly while a member of Congress attempted, deliberately or not, to spread the tarnish.

If the time comes for him to draw the line on Congress or a member of Congress a decision may be forced on him by an event not yet even thought of.

At the moment McCarthy is mentioned as the one who, through his investigative tactics with the executive branch, may force Eisenhower into a showdown.

In answering questions about McCarthy's investigation both Mr. Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles have been bland and pleasant. It may be significant that both, nevertheless, in guarded language refrained from giving the Wisconsin senator a blank check.

Congressman Herlong Reports

By SEN. HERLONG

While the Committee on Agriculture doesn't have legislative jurisdiction, we are now considering recommendations to the Interstate Commerce Committee to see if we can't get some help from them on the question of "Spot-bidding" and "back-hauls" for trucks which transport our perishable goods to the market centers.

This is very important to Florida producers of agricultural products. If these trucks have to come back to Florida empty, transportation rates charged to our farmers will naturally be higher. There is too large a spread now between what the producer gets and what the consumer pays.

Replies to our questionnaire are literally pouring in. We are grateful for your interest and help. Results are being tabulated and will be published in about two weeks.

Our usual Easter recess will be from Good Friday until Monday, April 13. We have invited the Congressional baseball teams to spend this recess with us in Daytona Beach. Our problem now is that everyone in Congress wants to try out for the team. Members from all over the country have come to me asking to be included on the roster. The nation-wide publicity Daytona Beach has received has already made the excursion more than justified. It is interesting to observe the green eyes of the California Members who wish they had thought of it first. Members will pay their own way down and back, but will be the guests of the Chamber of Commerce while in Daytona Beach. We expect some thirty or more Members to make the trip. There will be no following of the Members while they are on the trip. Influence as a Florida Senator, the "World's Most Famous Beach" and the unexcelled hospitality of the people there will have upon them. I'm getting honest just thinking about it. There is no doubt that the Members who take the trip will return to Washington with a friendly feeling for our Congressional District.

Fox Terrier Found Swimming In Ocean

WEST PALM BEACH — A Suffolk ambers off Palm Beach spotted something different Sunday. Smashed from the Gulf Stream about a mile and a half offshore was a small black and white fox terrier.

The dog was plucked from the sea off the Seminole Golf Club about 10 miles north of Palm Beach.

The "catch" was made by the charter fishing boat Black Jack, captained by Rudy Steinhauser. Steinhauser and mate Dick Lema said they at first thought they had sighted a tiny black seal. When they got alongside they were amazed to find a dog so far at sea swimming for its life. They believe it fell from a passing ship.

The genuine sea dog is resting here, none the worse for wear because of its experience.

A Narrow Escape

By BESS PATTERSON

The following article appeared in the New York Herald Tribune on Feb. 24th of this year. It was written by Al Johnson. A Tribune report since the boy concerned is that of one of our families I thought the local paper might care to copy it.

ABRAHAM C. RIKER, U.S.S. ORISKANY, Force 77 welcomed the sun and clearing skies after the worst storm of the Korean winter.

For four days carrier planes had been grounded due to extraordinary high winds, being conditions, blinding snow and sea-sickness, a fog that seemed to boil up, and a warmer sea of Japan.

Since April 1952, Lt. Herbert has captained more than 3,000 planes from the Oriskany. Only once before has a bride broken.

The unusual hero of the tale is Teresa Groves, mother of this pilot, who is one of the best adjusted people I have ever met. She spends her time in her lovely home and around her garden, but her only going through all this after having had her husband go through so much during the more than 30 years of their married life she lived on that she knew her husband was a sea-faring man when she married him and has never quarreled with his career and she would not want her son to take after any one else but his father.

Capt. Groves had the first Excaltor shot out from under him in the last war and young Norman was wounded in action twice, so she trusts they will come through to the end of their lives at sea as they have up to now.

Even as the operations resumed, air temperatures were down around degrees and the sea temperature was 38 degrees.

These are pertinent facts to a United States Navy pilot, who might be forced to ditch his plane at sea.

If he cannot get into his raft, his immediate exit will guarantee him only a few minutes of life in the open water. It is given only 8 to 10 minutes to live.

Behind the weather hazards, the storm's 10 to 20-knot winds had set the sea to roaring wildly, ripping hundreds of Communist coastal mines, which now threatened the Task Force.

The most fascinating operation was a series of landings on the sea. During operations and one two catapults alternately. Lt. Edward D. Herbert, Lt. J. J. catapult officer, brought the fighters. And each landing takes the perfectly timed and coordinated efforts of Lt. Herbert's pilot, ten men on the flight deck and six in the catapult crew below deck.

From a landing start with its engine rick, a catapulted plane attains a speed of more than 100 knots in a 100 or 200 feet. And thereby gains a take-off.

It was a 100-foot take-off. Lt. Groves, pilot of the plane, was ready to take off. With a quick downward sweep of his arm, Lt. Herbert pointed his light wand at the deck. It was a signal to fire the catapult.

Lt. Groves plane leaped forward, but halfway through the process, the hook, which catches the aircraft to the catapult, broke. There was Groves going 40 to 45 knots with only 100 feet of deck in front of him before his plane went off the low and drop into the sea for 200 to a stranger and recovered waters. Lt. Groves had one second the weapon.

The Negro then led officers through the Southside, retracing the steps in the cell. He said he threw the pistol he used to shoot Raines in the Arlington River but officers later discovered he sold it for $10 to a stranger and recovered his assault.

JACKSONVILLE — Groves Turbin, 28-year-old escaped Alabama convict, drew a life sentence today for robbing E. E. Raines, a well-known car salesman, who left paralyzed in a Southside woods after shooting him.

Raines, who spent five days and nights in the woods before cattle rangers found him, lay on a stretcher in Criminal Court today and pointed out the Negro who shot him in the back.

Judge William Harvey accepted Turbin's guilty plea to armed robbery, an assault with intent to murder charges. He withheld sentence on the assault count.

Ethel Louise Vining Weds Mr. Meredith

Owen Ethel Louise Vining and Miss Ethel Meredith were united in marriage on Feb. 14 at 2:30 p. m. at the Congregational Church with Dr. J. B. Root officiating at the double ring ceremony. Lovely decorations in the church were of red and white gladioli, white anemones and palms.

Prior to the wedding a program of nuptial music was played by Miss Helen Witte, organist; and Miss Margaret Von Herboldt, soloist, singing "Hereafter" and "I Love You Truly". The traditional wedding marches were used.

The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, P. W. Smart of Willwood and wore a beautiful ballroom-length gown of white imported Chantilly lace. The dress was fashioned with a sweetheart neckline and full circular skirt with a panel in the front from the waist to hemline. She carried orchids, in shades of lavender and purple, surrounded with lily of the valley.

Miss Marlin Gehow as maid-of-honor was the maid of honor and Mrs. Rosemary Cullum served as bridesmaid. Miss Gehow wore a gown of ice blue tulle and Miss Cullum's of yellow, both fashioned similarly to the bride's. They both carried Colonial nosegays of Geranium Daisies.

Holland Koshinski performed the duties of best man and Vernon Life those of usher. They are both stationed at the Sanford Naval Air Station.

Following the wedding a reception was held at the home of the bride at 2505 West First Street. Belle de Holland roses and baby's breath were used in decorating the room. The bride's table was overlaid with a white linen and center cloth. In the center were red and white camellias; and at one end was a three tiered wedding cake. Punch was served from a crystal bowl at the other end.

Mrs. Meredith graduated from Seminole High School with the Class of 1918 and is now employed in the Commercial Department of the Southern Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Meredith is a graduate of Liberty High School in Liberty, N. Y. and is stationed with VJ-62 at the Sanford Naval Air Station. Mr. and Mrs. Meredith are, at present, making their home with the bride's sister, Miss Ethel Louise Vining on West First Street.

These Women

By CATHY LOWEY AP News-features Writer

A bird-watcher and chess player of my acquaintance, a gentleman who also occasionally dips into philosophy and bookkeeping, recently pointed me to an exception for greater happiness in life.

"What this country needs," he declared stoutly, "is a lower standard of living. Too many people work too hard at jobs they don't like—and get other members of the family in the act, too. To support autos, television sets, dishwashing machines, private schools, Florida vacations and other things that they can do without. If they didn't they would have more time to enjoy things they might like better."

The trouble with the prescription is its source—a fellow who obviously is perfectly contented with the simple life. He has ticked off an examples of things to do without a number of things in which he personally hasn't much interest and he presumes that too many people work too hard at jobs they don't like.

As a gent who apparently likes to walk and enjoys nature, I think anyone could get along with an automobile. Personally, I'd like to see him strolling back from the super market with the usual groceries in his arms and see if he still takes the same pleasure in carrying the cross-bagged limousine at nesting time.

It would be hard to convince me that millions of television sets could be diverted from the entertainment of "I Love Lucy" and "Braggart" for the silent, cerebral joys of the chessboard or even Chinese checkers or anagrams.

As far as an electric dishwashing machine is concerned, I'd be even more likely to let him see the note before he spent it on my eager hands. Speaking personally, it would be a pleasure to work too hard at a job I didn't like if the result was escape from the tedious job of dish washing. Or does my respondent think that washing and drying dishes is converted into an even more tedious job by the machine? For kids are something that adults must wait. Father, children and maybe grandpa, then a shell collector or even if he were suffering from a mild form of arthritis.

I don't think most people like their jobs, and certainly not hard by overwork at anything, one bathos. Finally, we might just as well face the paradox of American life: our yardstick of success remains pretty much a function of money. We do a lot of talking about matters of the intellect, the spirit and the soul, but a man's position still is usually gauged by how far ahead he has gotten in his field.

McCarty Illness May Bring Change As To Successor

JACKSONVILLE — Illness in Tallahassee of Gov. Dan McKarty may lead to a change in the state constitution that would give Gov. McCarty a lieutenant governor.

The idea was born and given approval at a meeting of the State Democratic Executive Committee here Saturday.

At the meeting, former State Sen. Frank A. Uphurch, St. Augustine, injected the motion, and the group voted to sponsor it.

Uphurch called attention to the governor's illness and the possible battle of succession should McCarty's illness become critical.

"I believe this situation points up as never before the need to overhaul our state constitution and provide for succession by an official selected statewide," Uphurch said.

Under the present constitution, the successor to the governor is the president of the state senate who would become acting governor if the state's chief executive is forced to the sidelines. His term of office would extend only until the next general election.

Sen. Wallace E. Sturges, Ocala, is the present president of the Senate but his term expires on April 7 when the 1953 Legislature convenes. Sen. Charles Johns, St. Augustine, will become president in Miami when the session opens. Johns said that if he is ever called on to fill out the term of McCarty he would feel obligated to carry on McCarty's policies and with an amendment to the constitution.

A constitutional amendment would have to be passed and voted on at a state-wide election to create the office of lieutenant governor.

"Voice" Director

New York Saturday — James F. Thompson, facilities manager for the "Voice," testified in New York that two men he thought were rejected for posts in the agency for security reasons are now holding "high positions" under the U. S. high commissioner for Germany.

He named them as Ed Scheider and Theodore Kaplan. He said they were among four men who applied for "Voice" jobs in the first part of 1951 and in 1951. He said three of the men came to New York for security tests, and when they did not report for work he "assumed" they were rejected for security reasons. Only one of the four reported for work, he said, and he was not Scheider or Kaplan.

The salary of the vice president in the early days of the republic was only $5,000 a year, he pointed out. Now it is $30,000 with an expense account of $10,000.

Some vice presidents, he admitted, have been men of real ability who far outshined their chiefs. Among these he mentioned John C. Hawley, of Kentucky, who was vice president at 35, the youngest in the nation's history, and Allen Dulles, the oldest, who was described as one of the finest statesmen and most loved men in the country.

Visitors introduced by Charles Morrison included Henry Penn of Boston, Mass.; Howard Chadwick of Ft. Pierce, S. F. D. Harris of Salem, Ohio; Fred Saywell of Hudson, O.; Bennett French of Randolph, Mass.; Aaron Bellhoff of Albany, N. Constable

Seminole County for approximately twenty years, and I think I know what my duties are. The new Sheriff has evidently not read all of the statutes in Florida because I am authorized by statute to request anyone to assist me in apprehending any persons for breach of the peace or otherwise, and if the person refuses to go with me, he is guilty of a misdemeanor and subject to imprisonment for a period of one month.

"I requested Mr. Wansley to go with me and assist me in making the arrest, and went to his house and got him, and asked him to go with me and he did so at my request which I am authorized to do as a matter of law.

"Mr. Wansley has committed no crime, and I think our newly elected Sheriff will sooner or later find that I have authority to do exactly what I did.

"I regret that the new Sheriff is probably dissatisfied that I did not call him or his new deputies to assist me.

"I note also that the Sheriff reports that his deputies told him that Mr. Wansley was at the dog-track last Saturday night parading around with a gun, badge and handcuffs and bragging about the arrest he was going to make. I was with Mr. Wansley on Saturday night and we were at the dog-track about ten minutes. Mr. Wansley did not have a badge, nor did he have handcuffs. He had the gun because he was assisting me at my request, and I requested him to bring his gun with him.

"I am a Constable and duly elected arresting officer, and I do not have to know to the Sheriff, and I desire him to know that now."

Iran

Iran Party and smashed furniture and windows—but generally today's demonstrations were in support of the premier.

Replacing the weekend cry of "death to the Shah," the mass outpouring of pro-Mossadeq demonstrators around the Parliament building today screamed "Death to Mossadeq!" the same battle cry which has helped avert previous threats to the premier's hold on the government reins.

The attack on Mossadeq's home and the subsequent demonstrations erupted after an announcement that Shah Mohammed Reza Pahlavi, with whom the premier has been on the outs lately was about to leave the country. At the demonstration, the ruler said he had planned to go only for his health but was canceling the trip.

Those crowds included many supporters of Mossadeq's political party, the high Muslim priest and Ayatollah Seyyed Abolghasem Kashani, but by today the premier's supporters had taken over most of the continuing demonstrations.

Most schools were closed today and an estimated 4,000 or 5,000 students marched through the city, carrying huge pictures of the premier and screaming slogans supporting him.

Big Little Guy - - - - - By Alan Mauer

BOBBY SHANTZ, OF THE PHILADELPHIA ATHLETICS, IS ONE OF THE SMALLEST PITCHERS IN THE CLUB'S HISTORY BUT THEIR BIGGEST IN THE SALARY DEPARTMENT THANKS TO A $50,000-PER-PICTURE CONTRACT FOR THE NEXT TWO YEARS.

IN A GAME AGAINST WASHINGTON IN THE LAST WEEK OF THE 1952 SEASON A BUMP IN HIS LEFT ARM WAS BROKEN BY A PITCHER. HE'S BEEN TRYING THE ARM OUT THIS WINTER AND FEELS IT'S OKAY.

What we know now is that Hooper has a strange little habit of fluttering his hands just before a ground ball reaches him, and at the same time lifting his head a trifle. The result has been that too many balls either have gone under his glove or have been bobbled just enough for us to miss an important double play.

It is hard to see him get his hands right down on the ground and keep them there, and at the same time get his head down as low as he can, looking right at the ball. Even if the ball takes a bad hop, I'm telling him, it's better to get hit on top of the head than in the face.

"I never saw a player work harder. I'm knocking balls at him until I'm worn out, and then he's saying out there for an hour or two some days working on it with other players. I believe he's going to master it, and if he does our biggest problem is over."

Hooper's manager, Eddie Rickey, did a fine job of shortstopping for the Indians in their thrilling stretch drive after the Yanks last autumn, and he has done a fine job of managing the team since he took over the post on a regular basis because he potentially is a far better hitter than Strickland. Three has kept the Red and Blue in the thick of the fight for the Ivy League championship.

Dukes, who displayed tremendous improvement on the court this season, voted by a year-ago, led in the voting by a majority. On the basis of five points for a first team vote and two for a second team vote he received a total of 281 points, including 131 first team ballots.

O'Brien, who makes up for his lack of height with terrific leg spring, got 302 points. Hooper, followed with 350, then Gold with 380 and Beck with 301.

The Southeastern Conference, Big Seven, Big Ten and Southern conferences earned places on a second team with the selection of Bob Pettit, Louisiana State; Don Schlund, Indiana; Dick Knostman, Kansas State; Frank Selvy, Curtain, and Paul Ebert, Ohio State.

Pettit, a junior who led LSU to the Southeastern Conference crown missed several games in January because of illness. Nevertheless, he finished sixth in the balloting with 313 points. Schlund, a sophomore who helped Indiana to the title in the Big Ten, received 275 points. Knostman got 224, Selvy 199 and Ebert 141.

Clarence Francis, of Little Big Brooks (Ohio) college who zoomed to national prominence by setting an individual single game scoring mark of 118 points in January, surprisingly received 120 points. This put him on the third team along with Bob Leonard, Indiana; Jim Dredar, Illinois; Larry Hennessy,
Villanova; and Bob Speight, North Carolina State.

ROLLING STARS BASEBALL
WINTER PARK (Special)—Rollins College starts baseball practice today with most of the players returning from last year's District NCAA tournament team. The Tars will open against Tampa here March 17. The rest of the schedule is not complete.

Sports Roundup

TUCSON, Ariz.—The most important job of coaching being done in any baseball camp this spring has been alluded to by Tony Cuculich of the Cleveland Indians staff. The American League pennant could well rest on the little coach's success or failure.

Tony has been asked to do between now and the season's start is to teach Ray Boone how to play shortstop properly, and in so doing provide the game's greatest pitching staff with the sort of support it needs to beat out the Yankees instead of finishing second.

Boone has thrown himself into the task with much energy and enthusiasm and believes he will succeed. Though he concedes it is a challenge to teach some of the simplest fundamentals of fielding to an established big leaguer who is starting his fifth full season with the Indians.

"The strange thing is," he said,
"that it has taken this long to discover the reason the boy has been erratic on ground balls and has failed to improve in starting the double play. We would have won the pennant last year two years ago with just a little better shortstop-ping."

What we know now is that Boone has a strange little habit
