Mrs. Rockefeller Loses Second Breast To Cancer

NEW YORK (AP) — Happy Rockefeller underwent surgery today to have her right breast removed, only five weeks after losing her cancerous left breast in a similar operation.

A hospital spokesman said the surgical team began the operation at 8:23 a.m.

Shortly after she entered Memorial Hospital on Sunday her husband, Vice President-designate Nelson A. Rockefeller, said at a news conference that her frame of mind was "pretty good."

"She has total confidence in the nurses, doctors and the whole atmosphere in this hospital," Rockefeller said.

The former governor of New York added that his own frame of mind "is to thank God that weeks, other physicians were consulted about alternatives to surgery, including radiation therapy and drug treatment.

But Urban's position held, and when Mrs. Rockefeller asked a week ago about the biopsy results he told her dramatic cancer cells were found. Urban told her the cells might not move about the body for years, but should be removed.

Rockefeller said that when his wife accompanied him last week to hearings in Washington on his confirmation as vice president, she knew she would enter the hospital for the second operation.

"I can't tell you how very much I admire her courage," he said.

In the first operation, Mrs. Rockefeller's left breast and the lymph nodes were removed in a radical mastectomy. Most of the chest muscle was left intact. When asked if today's operation would go as far, Rockefeller said "I assume it would be less than the one several weeks ago."

However, a hospital spokesman said there would be no medical comment until after the operation. "There are too many things to evaluate for the medical discussion now," said the spokesman.

A Rockefeller family spokesman, Hugh Morrow, said that "Happy wants her husband to go on with his political career. Nelson will have no change in his political plans."

CALNO Blocked On Appointments To County Expressway Authority

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

The CALNO Council of Local Governments announced plan to appoint two representatives to the new Seminole County Expressway Authority may be a lost cause.

Although County Commissioner Dick Williams, the county's delegate to CALNO, advised members to study the bill to determine the method of appointment required, CALNO representatives at a recent meeting scheduled action on the two appointments for the December meeting.

Although County Commissioner Dick Williams, the county's delegate to CALNO, advised members to study the bill to determine the method of appointment required, CALNO representatives at a recent meeting scheduled action on the two appointments for the December meeting.

Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd, CALNO Chairman, said at the time that the authority was to be composed of five members with three appointed by the county, and two by CALNO.

The special law Chapter 74-375—adopted during this year's session of the legislature calls for a seven-member board, five of whom must be county commissioners.

Although it was said at the CALNO meeting that action on the municipal appointments had to be taken before Dec. 30, the new law permits the county to name the municipal appointees unless some word is received from the cities by Nov. 30.

The legislation states further that in the event two-thirds authority does not designate CALNO as the organization with authority to make the appointments.

Body Site Search Turns Up 2 Rings

Investigators said today a wedding ring and an engagement ring found in underbrush may help them identify the decomposed remains of a woman found Sunday afternoon near the Interstate Mall, 14 and SR 406, Altamonte Springs.

Altamonte Springs police and sheriff's investigators found the rings this morning while sifting through the eight-foot-high weeds on an embankment where a teenager found the body while riding his minibus.

Sheriff John Polk and Altamonte Police Chief Justus East said the body, believed to have been lying in the brush for 10 days to three weeks, is that of a woman but initial search of the area showed no signs of a violent struggle. The body was partially clad, officers said.

Sources said the woman may have been the victim of a sex crime but officials refused to comment or speculate on the possibility.

The site of the body find was roped off and placed under guard Sunday night as investigators waited for morning light to begin their intensive search for evidence that may lead to the identity of the woman. The site is west of Hattaway Drive and southeast of the Interstate Mall and Montgomery Ward, barely 50 feet off an unnamed private road leading to a condominium development.

Dr. G.V. Garay, Seminole County Medical Examiner, made preliminary investigations before the remains were removed Sunday to Seminole Memorial Hospital at Sanford for an autopsy today.

Polk said Sunday that a search with a metal detector "didn't turn up anything" and officers have yet to find anything to indicate the cause of the woman's death. Search for a wallet or purse near the body proved fruitless, police said.

Investigators, however, carried several paper bags from the scene Sunday that are believed to have contained bones and other evidence.

Polk said today investigators are checking all reports of missing women in the central Florida area in hopes they will furnish leads in the case.

East said a teenage boy, who he declined to identify, found the body about 3:30 p.m. Sunday while riding his minibus up the embankment between the private road and a nearby residential area. The youth notified police and city and county detectives blanketed the scene.

Polk said it was not immediately determined if the strip of overgrown area is in the city of Altamonte Springs or in the county jurisdiction so both law enforcement agencies are investigating.

Officers said preliminary investigations led them to believe the woman was killed where the body was found.

The site where the body was found is approximately seven miles from an Altamonte Springs dump off SR 431 where decomposed bodies of two young women were found in August 1973. One of those victims is still unidentified and authorities have made no arrests in the cases.

Longwood Faces Suit Over Fees

LONGWOOD — Glace and Radcliffe, a Winter Park consulting engineering firm, has filed a breach of contract suit against the City of Longwood for $100,000 plus interest, court costs and attorney fees.

Documents filed in the Seminole County circuit court by the law firm of Jones and Jones of Altamonte Springs for Glace and Radcliffe notes much of the $100,000 is for unpaid engineering fees of the defunct city sewer system rejected by the city voters in a straw ballot last June.

The city has until Dec. 10 to answer the suit and Glace and Radcliffe are demanding a trial by jury.

Council chairman Don Schreiner said today city officials were somewhat surprised by the court action, adding that it had been expected the firm would submit a requested itemized statement before taking court action.

Although the suit says the city council agreed to pay the $100,000 after negotiations were undertaken, Schreiner said the present council did not agree to the sum.

He said that Acting City Atty. Ned Julian told council Glace and Radcliffe was willing to negotiate the fee downward substantially. He added however that a representative of the firm then refused to consider any reduction and the itemized bill was requested.

While council still believed the statement would be negotiated the budget for the current year was adopted containing no provision for payment of the $100,000 engineering bill, Schreiner said.

He noted that including $109,000 in the budget would have boosted taxes by three or four mills.

City council is expected to take some action authorizing defense of the suit at tonight's 7:30 meeting.

Apparent Drowning, Slaying Investigated

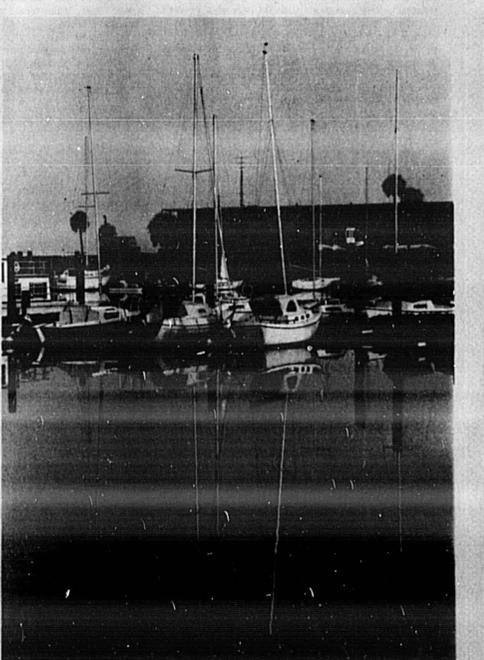

Sheriff's deputies are investigating the violent deaths over the weekend of two Sanford area men.

Deputies recovered the body of Robert Smith, 61, of 1019 Mangostine Avenue, Sanford, Sunday afternoon nearly three hours after he reportedly fell overboard while fishing on the St. Johns River near Grassy Point east of Sanford.

Roger Brown, of 503 E. 11th Street, Sanford, told deputies that Smith was in the rear of the boat and when he turned around Smith was gone and he saw a hand sticking out of the water.

Pearl Small, 48, E. 21st Street, Midway, was arrested on murder charges by deputies Saturday in the death of her common law husband.

Investigators said Abraham Smith, 48, was found dead on the dining room floor of the couple's house. According to reports he had been shot three times with a .22 caliber revolver following a domestic argument in the rear yard.

REFLECTIONS BY NATURE
The breeze barely ripples the waters of the west basin of Sanford's marina in the calm of the morning's first sunny hours. Nature reflects a picture all her own with the masts of sailboats moored at Monroe Harbour. Sailing has become increasingly popular with Lake Monroe a natural recreation center for central Florida. Animal Lovers Snooping In Filmdom

WASHINGTON — The Hollywood make-up artists who bleached Jonathan Livingston Seagull's wings paid to make them white enough for the movies, reportedly succeeded in killing many of them.

The Humane Society of the United States, which has conducted a lengthy investigation, is so incensed over this and similar findings about other films that it has begun a secret infiltration of the movie industry. The animal-lovers are using movie stars and technicians as undercover agents.

The seagull movie's producer, Hall Bartlett, insists he is equally militant about the birds' welfare. Bartlett claims he spent a fortune to protect them during filming, even to the point of putting rubber gloves on a hawk's talons before it attacked a gull for one scene.

The battle between humane associations and the filmmakers is as old as cowboys and Indians. In the 30s, trip-wires called "running Ws" were widely used to tumble horses, buffaloes and cattle during gunfights and other violent scenes.

More recently, chickens' heads have been shot off, mice stomped to death, sheep's throats cut, donkeys shot and a goose decapitated, all on camera.

Earlier this year, the American Humane Association, the Humane Society of the United States, and the Fund for Animals met privately with Motion Picture Association head Jack Valenti. Valenti promised to work with moviemakers to get voluntary reform. The Humane Society of the U.S. decided, however, to conduct its own probe.

According to the society's 40-page secret report on "Seagull," the Bartlett production team got permission from the U.S. government to "take" 250 gulls.

Based on memos, signed statements and tapes, some from those who worked on the film, the society concluded the birds were bleached "too fast," killing at least two and probably many more.

Some 88 of 113 birds suffered eye injuries and others were crippled "as a result of strings being attached to their legs to control them while in flight," witnesses said.

"Birds (were) made to do difficult flying stunts and, as a result, crashed on the rocks and died," the report goes on. It charges that some of the 50 to 100 bleached birds were treated with hair spray, others were dosed with a caustic so strong it burned handlers' fingers.

bleaching, filthy accommodations, poor feeding and movie stunts, killed dozens of the gulls and may have permanently injured more. Other films produced similar reports.

As a result, the Humane Society is now enlisting several movie stars as spies. And society investigators will shortly adopt undercover poses to get close to the animals during filming.

Quipped the society's lawyer, Murdaugh Madden: "The movies will be asking employees 'are you now or were you ever a member of the Humane Society of the United States?'" The movie industry, meanwhile, insists it is doing its best to meet demands of the animal protection groups.

Footnote: Bartlett disputed the society on every point. Of some 600 birds handled, he said, only two died. Both perished from natural causes, he claimed. No birds were injured from the strings, he said, because they were made to break before damage occurred. Special housing, food, refrigeration and veterinary services were provided, he said. In all, a maximum of 25 gulls were bleached, he insisted. He added that several U.S. and independent inspectors had found no inhumane conditions.

FAMILY AFFAIR II: In an earlier column, we reported that Morris Chafetz, head of the government's alcohol abuse program, was under investigation. He and two aides billed the government for a stay at a fancy Palm Springs, Calif., hotel after a million-dollar contractor had already paid their bills.

We have now learned that a powerful Senate aide tried to cripple the Health, Education and Welfare Department's investigative unit shortly after it began to probe Chafetz's office.

The aide is Harley Dirks, operations head of the Senate appropriations subcommittee which controls HEW's purse strings. He has such influence over HEW's budget that, inside the department, his messages are called "Harleygrams."

By an interesting coincidence, Dirks' wife, Ruth, happens to be Chafetz's special assistant. And, Dirks personally handles Chafetz's budget before the appropriations subcommittee.

Not long after HEW investigators began looking into Chafetz's dealings and billings, Dirks, in a committee report, called for a cut back in funds for HEW investigators. Dirks told us he sees no conflict in his role as husband and budgeteer and insists his chop at the HEW gunshoes had nothing to do with Chafetz.

UN Little More Than Sideshow

If I were the government of South Africa, I would be sorely tempted to respond to the recent vote of the UN General Assembly, barring South Africa from voting or participating in this Assembly session, by withdrawing from the world organization altogether and telling it to go jump in the conveniently adjacent East River.

It is a constant source of amazement to me how seriously the UN appears to be taken by those grown-up countries that ought to know better. Since approximately 1960, when it was taken over by the so-called "Third World" as a result of a heavy influx of new ex-colonial nations that had sprung up in Africa, the UN has served largely as a source of comfortable and remunerative employment for various lucky politicians who have outgrown the delights of Addis Ababa and Ougadougou, and as a novel, off-Broadway amusement for jaded New Yorkers in search of Kinky fun.

Yet, save in a handful of the world's really important capitals, it is often seriously supposed, even by mature governments and peoples like those of South Africa, that the "deliberations" and votes of this comical extravaganza really matter.

The latest and naivest habit into which this little forum has fallen is withholding or withdrawing diplomatic recognition from sovereign governments, and/or conferring it on various guerrilla movements, depending on whether it happens to like them. Thus the government of Rhodesia has never been admitted to the UN at all, though it presides over one of the pleasantest (and black and whites alike) most prosperous regions in all Africa. And the government of the Republic of China on Taiwan was summarily dis-recognized in October 1971, despite the fact that its population of over 14 million people (larger than that of 4/10 of all UN members) enjoys a level of democracy, let alone prosperity, exceeded in the Far East only by Japan.

And it is by no means impossible that one of these days the UN will declare Puerto Rico independent of the United States, and accredit as its representatives the spokesmen of the Puerto Rican independence movement, which regularly polls three or four percent in referendums on whether the islanders want to cut their ties with Uncle Sam.

Some while back, Indonesia for some reason — I forget what — pulled out of the UN altogether, and stayed out for several years. Switzerland has never bothered to join. Yet the sun rises quite regularly over these lovely lands, and life goes on. South Africa would do well to consider their example.

'It's lovely, but I can't even afford rump roast!'

Oil-Rich Arabs Helping U.S. Farmers In Trade

WASHINGTON — The Arab petroleum-exporting nations, their treasuries swollen with revenues from increased prices of crude oil, suddenly have become more important customers of the American farmer.

A case in point: Saudi Arabia. This nation of six million persons is a member of the Arab oil-producing cartel that is seeking to Uncle Sam and the rest of the world in the form of drastically increased petroleum prices. There is another side of that coin that has had scant examination in the press.

The Arabs are buying a lot more American products with those earnings than they used to. U.S. agricultural exports to Saudi Arabia, for example, increased from $35.8 million in fiscal 1973 to a record $91.7 million in fiscal 1974.

That means that Saudi Arabia exported its purchases from the American farm-exporting states — notably Illinois, California, Kansas, Nebraska, Iowa — almost threefold in a single year.

Saudi Arabia's expenditures for agricultural imports — totaling about $550 million in 1974 are admittedly small in comparison with the increased petroleum revenues of about $20 billion in 1974, three times the 1973 income.

For exporters of farm products, however, the increases are significant and suggest a continually expanding market.

The thought has entered my mind — more than once before. What makes Secretary of State Henry Kissinger such a marvelous statesman? (This is a man who can convince others to agree with his way of thinking, right... that makes him a statesman.)

Not any one else has been so productive as has Mr. K. Then again, we haven't been privy to know exactly what Kissinger and the others have been talking about. Or a better way of putting it, what have we given away now?

Is there anyone who can tell us what made the Russian or Chinese talks such a success? Sure it's good to be "talking" instead of fighting... but, give us at least a little hint about how much it's going to cost us to be friends, O.K.?

The total deal will cost $22.5 million which Syria will pay with a 3 per cent interest charge over 20 years. (Ahem, I hate to make mention of such a triviviality, but... they won't have to make any payments either for the first two years!)

And you did read that correctly, didn't you? Three per cent!

Yet this country's building market goes into a tailspin (and affects the rest of the nation obviously), and all because this builder can't get any money for less than 11 per cent from our government.

(Well, why don't cha put a turban over your heads, fellahs, and see if that doesn't help you...)

No wonder Kissinger's such a success. He's like the guy from the home office who goes out into the field to show his salesmen how to sell the merchandise... and then gives it all away at prices below those made available to the salesman.

When are we finally going to wake up?

Ford Administration Drifts For 100 Days

By political tradition a new leader is granted "a hundred days" to reveal the style and methods he is bringing to his position and to set the tone of what is to be expected in the future. That landmark has been passed in the presidency of Gerald R. Ford.

Most Americans would probably agree that Mr. Ford's hundred days have confirmed what was anticipated when he took office. He was known as a hard working, conscientious and fair-minded legislator during his long career as a congressman from Michigan. The general satisfaction that greeted his appointment as vice president a year ago was based on this widespread knowledge of his character.

Nevertheless, there have been rough moments in the period of Mr. Ford's "settling in" as President. After a hundred days, we are left with the impression that Mr. Ford has still not reached his full power.

Never in our history has a president assumed office under circumstances like those that confronted Mr. Ford last August 9. The president who had picked him to be vice president had resigned under circumstances both bitter and unprecedented. Mr. Ford had to discover through the reaction to his pardon of Richard Nixon to what extent a humanitarian gesture aimed at uniting the country could backfire in the post-Watergate atmosphere.

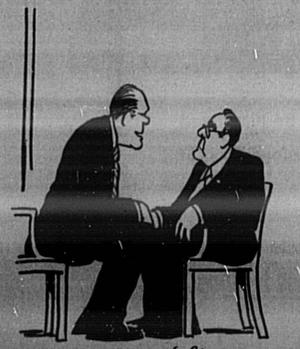

Mr. Ford's sense of fairness dictated that there should be no massive "housecleaning" of valuable government officials merely for the sake of change. This is sensible as well as fair, and the transition has been far smoother because of it. However, it has created a "Ford administration" which so far does not bear the clearly individualized stamp of the new man calling the team signals.

In calling for an economic summit Mr. Ford recognized the depth of unrest across the spectrum of American life which money problems have caused. After the outpouring of theories and advice from the economic meeting, however, Mr. Ford was still faced with simultaneous inflation and recession.

Mr. Ford's relations with Congress have been distorted up to now by the imminence of an election. His "honeymoon" was consequently brief. The 94th Congress, with its infusion of new democratic strength, may be even less responsive than its predecessors.

It remains to be seen whether the basic qualities that characterized Gerald Ford over a period of 25 years in public life are going to prove sufficient to meet the challenges that face the President and the nation over the next few years. Since our destiny as a nation may rise or fall on his ability to solve these problems, most Americans will wish him well.

BERRY'S WORLD

'I was going to give you another car for your collection, but auto sales are down. How'd you like to BUY one?'

The so-called generation gap is much overstated. So says Gisela Konopka, professor of social work at the university of Minnesota and director of the university's Center for Youth Development and Research.

The barriers that do exist between young and old are primarily artificial, she argues, and fear is the main reason for their existence.

There is fear of the unknown and fear of change, aided and abetted by the repetition of catch phrases like "generation gap," "break-down of the family," "future shock" and "permissiveness."

Families today may actually be moving toward closer relationships as they become more democratic, she thinks. Fast and easy transportation and communication allow physically separated families to get together often. Rather than destroying the family, increased mobility may be recreating the pattern of the neighborhood family.

By faith Noah, being warned by God concerning events as yet unseen, took heed and constructed an ark for the saving of his household; by this he condemned the world and became heir of the righteousness which comes by faith. — Hebrews 11:7.

The Clock

By JOHN A. SPOLESI

When Mr. Kissinger visited Syria earlier this month, do you know what he "gave" away then? According to the AP, the United States will provide Syria with 17 million bushels of wheat and 25,000 tons of rice by June 1975.

Abortion Must Never Be Used--Vatican

VATICAN CITY (AP) — In its strongest declaration on abortion in recent times, the Vatican declared today that nothing could justify abortion, even risk to the mother's life or the possibility of an abnormal child.

"Never, under any pretext, may abortion be resorted to, either by a family or by a political authority, as a legitimate means of regulating births," said the Vatican Congregation for the Propagation of the Faith.

"In reality," the declaration said, "respect for human life is called for from the time that generation begins. The declaration acknowledged the gravity of the problem posed in specific cases, but said:

"It may be a serious question of health, sometimes of life or death, for the mother; it may be the burden represented by an additional child, especially if there are good reasons to fear that the child will be abnormal or retarded... We proclaim only that none of these reasons can ever objectively confer the right to dispose of another's life, even when that life is only beginning..."

"The movement for the emancipation of women in so far as it seeks essentially to free them from all unjust discrimination, is on a perfectly sound ground... But one cannot change nature, nor can one exempt women, any more than men, from what nature demands of them."

DR. L. E. LAMB Problems Can Cause Fatigue

DEAR DR. LAMB—In one of your columns you said that low thyroid is a metabolic disease, but there were many causes of fatigue. At times I have a burst of energy, but it doesn't last very long and usually after supper I tend to be quite tired. I do have an underactive thyroid and my blood pressure is low. I was taking some type of thyroid pills, but they didn't seem to help me at all. As a result of my thyroid condition I am overweight.

DEAR READER—Let's eliminate the problem of physical fatigue from heavy physical work. The cause of other types of fatigue is often situational. It may be a symptom of just plain boredom. In other instances it reflects unhappiness with life situations, at home, with the family, or on the job. A common problem with many people is lack of a truly significant goal that stimulates the person and brings out his or her best qualities.

Emotional fatigue in the evening often is related to problems within the marriage. It may be a woman's reaction to spending the night with her husband. Some men, too, use the mechanism for similar reasons. Beyond that you need to look to the many medical problems that interfere with the release of energy from your food within your cells. High on this list is anemia. You need oxygen in the cells to release food energy. Anemia limits the ability of the blood to carry oxygen to the cells.

Nutritional factors are equally important. If you don't have enough of the right foods and the necessary vitamins needed to process the food and release energy, you will lack energy or feel tired. Anyone

Inflation Hits Sugar Farmers

WINDSOR, Colo. (AP)—If you think the current price of sugar is a ripoff, don't take your grip to a sugar farmer unless you're ready to listen to his money problems, too.

The domestic farmer who grows sugar beets and sugar cane are the original source for nearly half the sugar consumed in the United States.

As greater worldwide demand and weather disasters around the globe push sugar prices far beyond levels of a year ago, the payments and potential payments to farmers are jumping up, too.

But sugar beet growers like Manuel Pineda and Jack Boegel of this northern Colorado farm area will tell you that burgeoning prices for fuel, equipment and fertilizer are eating away at their seeming bonanza.

And for diversified farmers like these men, some of the sugar money is just an offset for their recent losses in the cattle business. Fuel costs have doubled in the last year, pushing up the cost of operating tractors, harvesters and other implements in the $75,000 fleet of specialized equipment that Boegel uses on his 199 acres of sugar beets.

"Damned fertilizer," Pineda grimaced at another expense. "When we were a quarter of the way through this year, we were already up to all of last year's fertilizer bill."

Many in the sugar growing business say costs are changing so rapidly that growers' traditional accounting-analysis figures can't keep up. But they estimate it's taking a market sugar price of about 30 cents a pound just to break even.

Attorney Seeking Freedom To Defend Parolee Client

MILLEDGEVILLE, Ga. (AP)—The Miami attorney of a parolee charged with two kidnappings and two murders has asked an appeals court to strike down a contempt citation which kept the lawyer in a Georgia jail.

Meanwhile, the parolee, Paul John Knowles, 28, of Jacksonville, Fla., was to be transferred today to Milledgeville from Forsyth, 40 miles east of this central Georgia town, for a hearing on the murder charges. He is charged with the slayings of Carswell Carr, 45, of Milledgeville, and his daughter, Mandy, 15.

Knowles attorney, Sheldon Yavitz, requested an emergency hearing before the 8th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in New Orleans, asking that a contempt of court charge be dismissed so he could represent his client.

Yavitz was cited for contempt last week by U.S. District Court Judge Willard Owens Jr. of Macon. The lawyer had refused to surrender a tape recorded diary on which, Yavitz said,

Artist Wins Seminole Trust; Paints Culture

BRIGHTON, Fla. (AP)—Artist James Hutchinson, commissioned to paint 50 canvases depicting the culture of the nearly-assimilated Seminole Indians, says his perseverance paid off.

Hutchinson and his wife, Joan, first moved to the reservation near this South Florida city in 1960.

"It was very discouraging," said Hutchinson. "They treated us with a subtle contempt. It made us feel like intruders—which of course we were."

The couple decided to leave after a year. But they returned after they became convinced that they had made a mistake.

"It was amazing," he said. "When we came back, mothers brought their children to show us how much they had grown. Men got their arms around us and welcomed me back."

"I guess they decided we weren't just fly-by-nights. At any rate, everything fell into place after that."

Hutchinson began a series of pictures documenting Seminole life, which he sold to private collectors.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

British Official Missing

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP)—The search for a high-ranking British Parliament member entered its sixth day today, as police requested FBI assistance.

The Right Honorable John T. Stonehouse, 49, disappeared last Wednesday after leaving a plush beachfront hotel for a stroll, police said.

At first, police believed the former British postmaster general and minister—last seen wearing a bathing suit—was a drowning victim. But the mystery deepened when no body washed ashore, officers said.

The bodies of drowning victims who die off Miami Beach generally surface within 36 hours, officials said.

A business associate, James Charlton, first notified police of Stonehouse's disappearance after the Parliament member failed to appear for dinner Wednesday.

British Satellite in Orbit

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—A British military communications satellite finally has been orbited successfully, breaking a string of recent failures, space officials say.

Skynet 2 was positioned Sunday 22,300 miles above the Indian Ocean to provide top-secret communications for the British military in England, Australia and the Far East.

The satellite was the second and last Skyset 2 in a $50 million program. Because of the failures of the first Skyset 2 and of Skyset 1, officials were fearful that this was the last chance for the United Kingdom to have its own military communications satellite.

Slain Trooper Honored

PERRY, Fla. (AP)—A throng of law enforcement officers and state officials have joined family and friends in paying final respects to slain Florida trooper Charles E. Campbell.

Gov. Heubin Askew and an estimated 350 police officers from Georgia and throughout Florida attended the memorial services Sunday in this North Florida city where Campbell began his police career.

Paul John Knowles, 28, has been charged with kidnaping Campbell, 35, and Wilmington, Del., businessman James E. Meyer, whose body was found with Campbell's last week in rural Palmetto County, Ga.

Officials said both men had been shot in the head.

Newspaper Publisher Dead

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Former newspaper publisher Clay C. Godington is dead at age 80.

Officials said Godington, a former president of the Florida Press Association and Associated Dailies of Florida, died at a local hospital Friday after suffering a stroke.

Dollar Losing Ground To Food

LANTANA, Fla. (AP)—Several food stores are doing a thriving business here selling dehydrated food to persons afraid of impending economic depression and famine.

"We are serving people who are apprehensive about the economy," says storeowner Jim McCarthy. "They believe if the crash comes, food will quickly become scarce and they know they can't eat money."

"There's no way out," said Sunshine Simmons, owner of another survival food store, tells her customers. "Anyone who understands the money situation knows it."

And if that isn't enough food for thought, shoppers can thumb through a copy of "How to Prepare for the Coming Crash," prominently displayed on her counter.

Most of the dehydrated food, which ranges from sour cream to beef chunks to whole pitted prunes, is packaged by California Mormons, who traditionally have stored large food supplies.

Store owners say their customers include a leading ge-

Wayward Youths Sent To Training Schools

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (AP)—Youth Services Division policy, aimed at helping wayward youngsters before they commit serious crimes, is sending more youths to training schools for short stays, officials say.

Guy Revell, chief of the division's Field Services Bureau, says youths who commit petty crimes or fail to meet with counselors are sent to the schools for two to four weeks.

He said the aim of the new policy is to straighten the youngsters out before they commit serious crimes that would bring a six-month term.

"At one time, the counselors might have given a lot of them another chance, but they're not being so lenient now," Revell said. "The youth is going to get the message he has a responsibility to us as well as we have to him."

When Youth Services Director Joseph Rowan announced the crackdown several months ago, he said he expected to send more than 600 delinquents to training schools this year.

Revell, who is acting director during Rowan's illness, said in an interview last week that 246 youths were sent to the training schools in August compared with 182 in August, 1973, and that 334 were committed in September compared with 193 in September, 1973.

About a fourth of the increase, Revell said, is due to the bureau starting to handle cases involving 17-year-olds on July 1.

The plan to send youths to the schools for short stays encourages counselors to crack down on petty cases, such as minor shoplifting, that the counselors feel might not justify a six-month term, he said.

Florida Highways Claim 14 Lives

By The Associated Press
Florida's weekend highway death count rose to 14 when two Atlanta residents were killed in a head-on collision after a car tried to pass another vehicle on U.S. 1 near Key West, the state Highway Patrol said today.

Names of the victims in that Sunday crash were withheld pending notification of relatives.

In another multiple-death accident, a Crestview woman and her two children were killed Saturday when they were thrown out of a taxi as it overturned after a collision with another car in that Okaloosa County town, troopers said. They were identified as Kathleen Deese, 29, her daughter Lisa, 5, and son Jonathan, 3.

Troopers said four others were injured in the accident. The Highway Patrol gave these details of other accidents:

Charles C. Fitzpatrick, 58, address undisclosed, was killed when a car hit him as he crossed a Tampa street Sunday night.

Christopher Guetter, 12, of Fort Pierce, died when a car hit his bicycle on a road just west of Fort Pierce.

John Walter, 50, of Englewood, was killed late Saturday when the car he was driving overturned in Charlotte County and he was thrown out.

Mary A. Knight, 57, of Plantation, died in a head-on collision in Broward County late Friday.

Eugene Matthews, 73, of Merritt Island, was killed in a two-car collision on State Road 400 north of Haines City Friday night.

Evelyn Sanford, 64, of North Billerica, Mass., died in a crash on State Road 9 just south of the Volusia County line in CASE 647: Arthur G., aged 33, illustrates a common sex problem.

Husband Showing Change Of Life

"Dr. Crane," his wife tearfully explained, "Arthur and I have three children in Junior and Senior High School.

"And our home life was happy until a year or so ago."

"Then Arthur began to pick fights with me, often with little or no justification."

"And for the past six months he has been criticizing the children unmercifully."

"They even hate to come to the table when he is at home, for violent quarreling is sure to begin."

"Several times our 16-year-old daughter has been so upset by his caustic scoldings that she has left the table before the meal was half over and gone to her room in tears."

"Dr. Crane, what has happened to change Arthur from such a wonderful husband and father, into this hypercritical tyrant?"

medical aches and pains, hoping thereby to appeal to their wife's sympathy and divert her attention from the husband's bedroom inertness.

Other men flee into alcoholism or become gamblers, addicts of pornographic literature or sometimes commit suicide.

If they are strong personalities, they adopt the sadistic role of Arthur and thus try to browbeat their wife and children, thus putting them on the defensive.

Many who have been of a weaker libido, tend toward the masochistic symptoms, hoping to cover up their waning erotic vigor by medical ailments or drunkenness.

For when men have been married 15 or 20 years, they often grow terrified at the reduction in their romantic ability.

When first married, they direct most of their attention and energy to paying bills, worrying about their children's contagious diseases, plus their own efforts to rise in the economic scale, that they haven't much time for self-analysis.

But after age of 40, they are fairly well established in the community, have good jobs and their children are grown.

That frees some of their attention for introspection, so they begin to focus on their "innards."

Then they grow panicky that their libido has waned and this very terror of impotence soon throws them into a frantic state.

For a husband can't be secretly worrying about his sexual vigor and still function ardently.

To protect his deflated sex pride, such an impotent male then tries the various ruses mentioned above and also projects his ire on his wife.

If he grows callous to his criticism, he may shift to the children, knowing that most mothers can be hurt worse by attacks on their offspring than on themselves.

The cure for Arthur's problem is for his wife to banish his dread of impotence by serving more enticing boudoir chesapeake.

New World Team Boxing League Will Tie In Local Promoter

Information on the new World Team Boxing League has been hard to come by. I have not received any word on who will represent the Orlando franchise when the league kicks off on January 18, 1975 but I have been able to get some other statistics which can pass along at this time.

Getting a handle on the ball seems to be the problem of Pacer guard Donald Burns (left) and Raiders Randy Wright (50) and Jim McIntyre (22)

Technical Decide SJC 93-90 Win

By LEE GEIGER Herald Correspondent LONGWOOD—The "T" sign in basketball does not indicate a timeout when the official flashes it. What it does stand for is a technical foul—or in the case of Seminole Junior College this past Saturday night it means the difference between winning and losing.

The Raiders took on Florida's second-ranked junior college from a year ago, the Palm Beach Pacers, and after 40 minutes of run and gun action came away with a 93-90 triumph.

Considering that the locals converted on three of four "T's" that the referee's blew on the Pacers one would have to agree that a lack of emotional control on the part of Palm Beach was a big factor in the upset win by the Raiders.

The game started slowly enough with Seminole taking a 5-4 lead after the first three minutes. All five markers were rung up at the charity line as the Argentinians failed to take a single round on any of the three officials cards even though several were judged even.

After the bout, "Scottie" announced he wants "Mike Quarry as his next opponent." Considering the fact that Quarry is once again in action for Pete Ashlock and he is having trouble getting opponents it would seem that Scott might get his wish.

The win gives Scott a mark of 9-0-1 with wins over Bobby "The Bodyguard" Lloyd, John L. Johnson, Frankie Evans, Baby Boy Rolle, and Ray Anderson.

Results from the supporting card were Bobby Lloyd on a 10-round decision over O. T. Davies, Eladio Leal scored at first round T.K.O. over Joe Hamal and Roberto Diaz outpointed Jerry Powers.

No. 1 Ranked Wolf Pack Has 'A Very Fine Team'

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—With four of last year's starters returning, North Carolina State will have "a very fine basketball team" this season, Coach Norm Sloan said Sunday of his No. 1-ranked Wolfpack.

Only Tommy Burleson, the 7-foot-4 center, won't be returning from last year's NCAA national champion team. Because Burleson has not been replaced, Sloan said he will play three forwards and not have a center.

Playing without a center won't matter much on offense, he said. But Sloan, the Associated Press Coach of the Year, predicted that his national champions will "have trouble defensively when we're up against some of those really big players."

Sloan said he was "awfully happy" to have the Wolfpack ranked No. 1 in The Associated Press preseason college basketball poll. "But the one poll that really counts comes from the Dec. 2 Victor Galindez and Len Hutchins fight it out of the vaunted light heavyweight crown. On the Dec. 14, Jose Napoles puts his welterweight title on the line against Horacio Saldano. Other bouts that could come off are such blockbusters as Joe Frazier and Oscar Bonaventa, Tony Licata and Vanny Curto, Jerry Quarry and Pedro Agostro, Rod Bobick and James Helwig, Hegemon Lewis with Armondo Muniz and Tyrone Evert against Jose Luis Lopez.

This team has worked the hardest in preseason of any group I've had," he said. The starting line-up will include All-American David Thompson, the 6-foot-4 leader who averaged 26 points a game last season. Also returning is 5-foot-7 senior Monte Towe, who averaged 13 points and dizzied opponents with his ball-handling.

Marquette was picked No. 5 with 477 points. Kansas, one of the four finalists in the NCAA championships last year, ranked sixth followed by South Carolina.

Other teams ranked in the AP poll were North Carolina, No. 11; Notre Dame, No. 12; Purdue, No. 13; Providence, No. 14; Memphis State, No. 15; Kentucky, No. 16; Michigan, No. 17; Minnesota, No. 18; Arizona, No. 19, and Penn, No. 20.

Guess Who's Going To Rose Bowl

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer PAST! Have you heard Ohio State's going to the Rose Bowl again?

That was the outcome of I've Got A Secret by the Big Ten athletic directors, a procedure which is becoming almost as traditional and controversial as the annual Ohio State-Michigan showdown itself.

Ohio State, ranked fourth in The Associated Press poll, won Saturday's shootout over fourth-ranked and previously unbeaten Michigan 12-10 on four field goals by Tom Klaban. The score of Sunday's vote was not disclosed. Only Big Ten Commissioner Wayne Duke and the conference attorney know for sure. Even the 100 active athletic directors weren't informed of the final count and they promised not to divulge their individual votes ... so it should be a surprise.

Ohio State won a double-header last year—6-4 over Michigan in the athletic directors' vote and 42-1 over Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl. The Pacific-8 Conference doesn't need any such silliness to decide Ohio State's Rose Bowl opponent. It will be Southern California. Isn't it always?

The eight-ranked Trojans saw to it that they'll be in Pasadena to meet the Buckeyes on New Year's Day for the third year in a row by trouncing UCLA 34-9.

Elsewhere, No. 1-ranked Oklahoma rallied behind a 422-yard ground assault to beat No. 6 Nebraska 24-14 while fifth-ranked Notre Dame a-ck-acked the Air Force 35-4. The other Top Ten teams were idle—second-ranked Alabama, No. 7 Auburn, No. 9 Texas A&M and No. 10 Penn State.

Maryland, ranked 11th, struggled to a 10-0 victory over Virginia, No. 14 Michigan State buried Iowa 60-21 and No. 15 Houston defeated Florida State 23-8. Baylor, 16th in the rankings, whipped Southern Methodist 31-14 and can make it to the Cotton Bowl for the first time ever if Texas knocks off

Texas A&M on Friday. Stanford upped No. 19 California 22-20 on Mike Langford's 50-yard field goal at the final gun while the other teams in the Rose Bowl opponent. It will be Southern California. Isn't it always?

Then, with 16 seconds left in the game, Michigan's Mike Lantry missed a 33-yard attempt that would have won it for the Wolverines.

Top-ranked Oklahoma trailed Nebraska 14-7 in the third period but tied the score on Joe Washington's four-yard run and won out in the final quarter on short runs by Elvis Facer and Steve Davis. The coaches, on probation and ineligible for a bowl appearance, wind up their campaign and submit their national championship credentials next Saturday against Oklahoma State as the 1974 regular season comes to a close.

Notre Dame, a loser only once just like Ohio State and Washington, still thinks it has a shot to repeat as national champion. The Irish rolled to a 28-0 halftime lead over Air Force on scoring runs by Russ Korman, Tom Parise — subyarder early in the third quarter. "I'll make it the greatest thing I ever do," said the Czechoslovakian-born placekicker.

Reggie Cherry gained 158 yards and scored twice and John Housman added 150 yards and one touchdown as Houston knocked off Florida State. Baylor's Steve Bearer scored three times and Don Beckhorn booted a school record 59-yard field goal to help the Bears defeat SMU.

The long final-gun field goal by Stanford's Langford nullified a 318-yard passing show by Cal's Steve Barkowski, nine of them to Steve Rivera.

Milt Holt's one-yard run with 15 seconds left lifted Harvard over Yale and Stanley Morgan scored twice as Tennessee beat Kentucky. John Betham returned the opening kickoff 100 yards and Gary Skiede passed for two scores as Brigham Young trounced Utah.

Sink Or Swim For The Dolphins

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer The Miami Dolphins have been submerged by the New York Jets—and now it's sink or swim for the defending National Football League champions.

Shocked 17-14 Sunday by the Jets, the Dolphins were thrust into a flaming three-way fight for the National Football Conference's Eastern Division title. With just three games left in the regular season, the Dolphins and themselves trading water with the Buffalo Bills and a kick to two ahead of the New England Patriots.

The Bills, 16-10 conquerors of the Cleveland Browns, are tied for first place with the Dolphins, with just 8-3 records. The Patriots, 27-17 winners over the Baltimore Colts, moved within a game of the top at 7-4. Jets 17, Dolphins 14.

Joe Namath, suffering through one of his worst seasons and troubled over the hospitalization of his father, had enough to knock out the Dolphins Sunday. The gifted quarterback pitched two touchdown passes, the second with just one minute left in the game.

Cardinals 23, Giants 21 Jim Bakken kicked a 36-yard field goal with three seconds to play, giving St. Louis a nerve-racking victory over the New York Giants.

Beckham 28, Eagles 7 Larry Jones returned a kickoff 102 yards to spark Washington past Philadelphia. Jones, a rookie from North Missouri State who has been filling in for the injured Herb Mulkey, took Tom Dempsey's kick in his own end zone, raced to his right sideline and turned on the speed. He broke two tackles near the end of his run.

Packers 34, Chargers 0 Rookie Eric Torkelson ran 29 yards for a touchdown with a recovered fumble and Ken Ellis scored on a 38-yard interception return, sparking Green Bay over San Diego.

Lions 34, Bears 17 Levi Johnson scored on an 18-yard interception return in the early minutes to trigger Detroit to an easy victory over Chicago.

Redskins 28, Eagles 7 Larry Jones returned a kickoff 102 yards to spark Washington past Philadelphia. Jones, a rookie from North Missouri State who has been filling in for the injured Herb Mulkey, took Tom Dempsey's kick in his own end zone, raced to his right sideline and turned on the club record with his four scoring aeriels.

Broncos 20, Raiders 17 Jon Keyworth and Otis Armstrong combined for nearly 300 yards rushing to lead Denver past Oakland.

49ers 27, Falcons 0 Rookie Manfred Moore returned a punt 88 yards for a touchdown and rookie quarterback Tom Owen hit Gene Washington on a touchdown pass of 53 and 5 yards to spark San Francisco over Atlanta.

Can Steelers Do It?

NEW ORLEANS (AP)—If the Pittsburgh Steelers aren't frightened by the New Orleans Saints, at least they admit they are interested.

Tonight's national television clash stands the splendid defense of the Steelers against a blossoming New Orleans offense in a contest that could bear heavily on Pittsburgh's Super Bowl hopes.

Though a definite underdog, the Saints have the momentum and health — except for a couple of aching kickers slightly damaged in a minor traffic accident Sunday while en route to practice. Punter Tom Blanchard came out of this with a bruised ankle.

"But we can adjust," Russell was talking about a new Saints offensive formation last week that used four wide receivers, just one running back and no tight end.

But the rejuvenated Saints' offensive line still must deal with a Pittsburgh line that leads the National Football League in takeaways with 20 interceptions and 18 fumble recoveries. It also tops the NFL in quarterback sacks with 40, and in total defense.

But our front four will have to be aware of Archie Manning's scrambling ability," said Russell. "Sometimes you can do a good job initially and then the scramble kills you."

Terry Bradshaw was chosen to start, ending speculation about who Coach Chuck Noll would choose from his trio of quarterbacks this week. His rotating quarterbacks system has

Cross Country Champs Are Top

Largo had 73 points for first in Class AAAA competition Saturday with South Plantation second with 83 points and Coconut Creek third with 181 points.

In the combined A and AA classes, St. Petersburg Catholic was second with 81 points followed by P.K. Young at 94 points.

DEAR ABBY
Abby Shares

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR READERS: If you want to treat your family to a marvelous dessert for Thanksgiving, this column is for you. (Otherwise, skip DEAR ABBY today.)

Nearly 15 years ago, I was honored at a dinner party at the Phoenix Hotel in Lexington, Kentucky. Pecan pie was served for dessert. But what pecan pie! Never had I tasted anything so delicious. After dinner I went to the kitchen to congratulate the pastry chef. He was so pleased, he gave me the recipe.

I tried it at home. Mine was every bit as good as his. And it was so easy to make that I wrote and asked permission to share the recipe with my readers. He cooperated, and I published it.

Notes came by the thousands saying, "That was the best pecan pie my family has ever tasted." So here is the recipe:

KENTUCKY PECAN PIE

1 cup white corn syrup
1 cup dark brown sugar
1-3 teaspoon salt
1-2 cup melted butter (or margarine)
1 teaspoon vanilla
3 whole eggs (slightly beaten)
1 heaping cup shelled whole pecans

Combine syrup, sugar, salt, butter, vanilla and mix well. Add slightly beaten eggs. Pour into a 9 inch UNBAKED pie shell. Sprinkle pecans over all. Bake in pre-heated 350 degree oven for approximately 45 minutes. When cool, you may top with whipped cream or ice cream... but nothing tops this!

You don't care for pecan pie? Too rich? Well, here's an alternative for you: If you like cheese cake, you'll love this. It's super. But requires a spring form pan.

ABBY'S CHEESECAKE

Crust: 1-3 cup powdered sugar
1/2 cups graham cracker crumbs
1/4 pound butter or margarine
Melt butter and add to graham cracker crumbs and sugar. Line the bottom of a spring form pan, packing firmly.

Mix well: 1 cup granulated sugar
3 eight-ounce packages Philadelphia cream cheese
1 generous teaspoon vanilla flavoring
4 eggs

Pour above ingredients into spring form pan (the crust is as yet unbaked) and bake in preheated oven at 350 degrees for approximately 50 minutes. Do not turn off oven. Remove cheesecake and top with one pint commercial sour cream and return to oven for another five minutes. Let cake cool. Top with one can (21 oz.) prepared pie filling or topping. (Take your choice of blueberry, cherry or strawberry.) Chill overnight.

Please let me know how your cheesecake and/or pecan pie turned out.

P.S. And don't forget to have one of the children say the blessing. (Or say it yourself.) Here is mine:

"Oh, heavenly Father, we thank Thee for food and remember the hungry. We thank Thee for health, and remember the sick. We thank Thee for friends, and remember the friendless. We thank Thee for freedom, and remember the enslaved. May these remembrances stir us to service—that Thy gifts to us may be used for others. Amen."

Have a wonderful Thanksgiving, and may God bless you and yours.

LOVE, ABBY

POLLY'S POINTERS
Non-Slip Designs
Hard To Remove
By POLLY GRAMER

DEAR POLLY: How can one remove rubber designs that were put in a bathtub to prevent slipping? Mine are yellow and discolored. No one seems to know the answer. —MRS. O.T.

DEAR POLLY: My Pet Peeve concerns our staff of life. What is happening to our bread? It seems to me that modern bakers have "refined" bread beyond any semblance of what it should and used to be. I am really angry about this and find it almost impossible to believe there is any nutritional value left in it. Fatally I find it is not baked to its full capacity as the slices are badly shaped and the yeast smell is so strong. I challenge the bakers to give us a less "refined" and a fully baked bread. —MRS. J.G.N., a burned-up housewife.

DEAR POLLY: I am a square dancer and starch my nylon net petticoats with one cup of Epsom salts added to a quart of water. This is perfect and might be just the answer for Joan who wants to add body to her nylon lace tablecloth.

My greetings to Mim as I am with her concerning her Pet Peeve. I have been trying to find those nice old-fashioned round bath towels for years. —WINIPAT.

DEAR POLLY: and Joan who wants to add body to her nylon lace tablecloth. —Ariened had this problem with her nylon ruffled curtains and read that powdered milk would do it. She has been using this for some time and likes it. Little bits of the dry milk are left but they are so small they really do not show. Try different amounts of milk and water until the desired consistency is achieved. —HELEN.

DEAR POLLY: My husband thoroughly dislikes painting the exterior of our house. However, with our new plan the house has never looked nicer and he does not fuss as much about doing the painting. Only one side is painted each year and it always looks fresh and neat. —ELLIE.

DEAR POLLY: With shortening prices sky rocketing (what do you say?) I have wherever I can. When I have used the shortening in a can I leave the tin. When ready to grease a pan I wad up a piece of waxed paper, rub around inside the can, grease the pan and then save the tin and paper until the next baking. No waste with shortening clinging to the tin or from paper having too much shortening on it. Here is to saving. —CAROLE.

DEAR READERS: I set such a tin on a low flame or even the pilot light on the stove, melt what shortening clings to the can and then pour this into a small can that is kept in the refrigerator just for this leftover shortening use. —POLLY.

Borrow Smart To Beat Inflation

NEW YORK (AP)—Knowing about different types of loans available gives you better borrowing leverage and saves you some of your beleaguered dollars.

Two types of bank consumer loans are installment (single purpose) loans, and revolving (open end) loans such as credit cards.

Installment loans are the oldest and most common type of consumer bank loans. With them you borrow a predetermined amount of money and agree to pay it back, plus interest, over a predetermined number of months or years, usually in monthly installments. Installment credit is usually less expensive than revolving credit because once the initial paperwork is completed, the cost of administering an installment loan is less. The annual percentage rate for this type of loan today is about 9 to 12 per cent, depending on the length of time you take the loan and the bank's lending policies. Credit cards are actually loan devices. Everyone's bank charge card has a credit ceiling assigned by the bank. If you don't pay what's due on your card in 30 days, the bank will charge you 1 or 1 1/2 per cent per month, or up to 18 per cent per year. That's why cards should be used for the smaller purchases that you can pay back rapidly.

If you have a savings account you can use your passbook as collateral to get a loan. Your banker will lend you any amount up to the total in your savings account. By federal law, he can only charge you two percentage points more than the interest he's paying you on your savings account. The bank takes possession of your passbook but you can still withdraw any amount over and above the sum you have borrowed.

Many banks provide overdraft checking services. The plan is advertised as "no bounce checking," "advance reserve" or "ready-credit," but they all mean the same thing. The bank reviews your credit worthiness to determine how much credit you should have. Then, when you need a loan, you just write a regular check, even if it's for more than you have in your account. The bank honors the overdraft up to the ceiling of your credit line. For this service you pay about 1 per cent interest per month.

An unsecured loan is based on your good credit history and your promise to pay. To keep your interest rate down, ask your banker about a secured loan, using real property, life insurance or securities as collateral. Most banks, for example, will lend you about half the current market value of your stocks and bonds. You may get up to 75 per cent on certain blue chips. The banks hold your stocks, but you still get the regular dividends. Interest on a fully secured loan is about half the interest on a straight, unsecured installment loan.

If you are young, starting your first job or have no credit rating, talk to your loan officer about getting a loan with a co-signer—a friend or relative who has good credit and is willing to sign the loan with you. But, if you fall on the payments, your co-signer is totally and legally responsible for the money.

Until five years ago, figuring the interest rate on consumer loans was a mathematical nightmare virtually beyond the grasp of the average borrower. Borrowers were confused and often selected a loan arrangement that wasn't their best bargain.

Then, in 1969, the Federal Truth-in-Lending Law was passed, which erased the ambiguity about interest rates and made the system clear enough for any borrower to understand. This law requires banks, and all other lending institutions, to state— orally and in writing—before actual credit is extended, the actual interest rate being charged, the total finance charge in dollars and cents, and to 75 per cent on certain blue chips. The banks hold your stocks, but you still get the

India's Caste System Survives Despite Constitution

EDITOR'S NOTE—India's constitution abolished untouchability, but discrimination by upper caste Hindus continues. Millions of untouchables have menial jobs, live in segregated pockets and draw water from separate wells, despite a government campaign to end the segregation.

DEOLI VILLAGE, India (AP) — In all his 70 years, Dharma Anand has never entered the homes at the other end of his village.

"No, not inside," he said. "I may go along the road, but not inside the houses."

Anand is an untouchable, the lowest rung on a strict Hindu ladder. The homes down the road belong to upper caste Hindus, his religious, social and economic betters.

Their closed doors illustrate inherited prejudice still poisoning human relations across India a quarter-century after untouchability was abolished by the Indian constitution. Despite thousands of pious words from government officials and a set of special laws, the 80 million untouchables continue to suffer the violence, discrimination assigned them by ancient Hindu laws.

"It is 27 years since India became free, and it has not changed," said Kishori Lal, who runs a school for untouchable children in New Delhi.

"Outside there is a show, but inside things have not changed much. Old people are unable to get out of the rut. It is for the young to build a new order."

Upper caste Hindus often enforce their centuries-old dominance with violence. Indian newspapers carry frequent reports of beatings, rapes and group attacks against untouchables.

A private opinion poll this spring found that one in seven villages surveyed had experienced group violence by dominant castes against untouchables.

The trend was driven home to Nafe Singh Narwar 22 years ago when he first entered a classroom with upper caste children in this village 15 miles from New Delhi.

Because he took a drink of water, the teacher caned him on the hands and buttocks. Then, to make the lesson clear, the teacher smashed the earthenware water jug to make sure upper caste children would not drink from a vessel defiled by the lips of an 8-year-old untouchable.

It is perhaps a gauge of progress that Narwar, a 35-year-old electrician, now regularly enters the homes of upper caste Hindus — to fix broken lamps.

Tanwar's job makes him a local success story and he heads the untouchable association of Deoli Village. He believes his generation can force better relations with high castes and looks forward to an easier life for his five-year-old son.

"We are all united now," he told a recent visitor. "If anything happens, we can put up a fight. The law is with us."

The basic law is Article 17 of the Indian Constitution, which abolished untouchability for India. A 1955 law makes discrimination against untouchables a crime.

The caste system stems from sacred Hindu scriptures dividing society into Brahmins for priestly and educational work, warriors for defense, merchants for commerce, and peasants for agriculture.

Below all four categories came noncaste common laborers — untouchables for dirty work. Their jobs included removing carcasses of dead animals and emptying chamber pots that were for years the only plumbing — and still are in some backward towns.

Weight Watchers Brunch

By AILEEN CLAIRE
NEA Food Editor

Brunches are very popular during the holidays. Those who enjoy eating but must watch their cholesterol count won't be left out this year. They can eat such treats as special egg dishes, muffins, French toast, cakes and pancakes when these are made with cholesterol-free egg substitutes and skim milk.

SCRAMBLED EGGS WITH MUSHROOM SAUCE

4 teaspoons margarine
2 cups cholesterol-free egg substitute
8 toasted English muffins
4 broiled tomato halves
Mushroom Sauce

Heat margarine in a 10-inch skillet over low heat. Add cholesterol-free egg substitute. Begin to stir when edges start to set. Stir only occasionally until set. For each serving, spoon ¼ of scrambled egg on a toasted muffin half. Generously spoon mushroom sauce over eggs. Serve with remaining muffin half and broiled tomato. Makes 4 servings.

MUSHROOM SAUCE: Saute pound (about 2 cups) sliced mushrooms in cup margarine. Blend in 2 tablespoons flour, 1 tablespoon chopped fresh dill weed, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley and teaspoon salt. Gradually stir in 1 cup skim milk. Cook over low heat stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil.

EGGS IN CURRY SAUCE
2 cups cholesterol-free egg substitute
1-3rd cup margarine
1 cup chopped celery
1-3rd cup chopped green pepper
1-3rd cup flour
½ teaspoon salt
1 teaspoon curry powder
3 cups skim milk
2 tablespoons chopped pimiento
6 toasted English muffins

Pour cholesterol-free egg substitute into a heavy 10-inch skillet. Cover tightly. Hold over very low heat just until firm to the touch, about 15 minutes. Cool. Remove from skillet in large pieces. Cut into small cubes. Melt margarine in saucepan over medium heat. Add celery and green pepper and saute 10 minutes, stirring occasionally. Blend in flour, salt and curry powder. Gradually stir in skim milk. Bring mixture to a boil, stirring constantly. Simmer 1 minute. Fold in diced eggs and pimiento; heat through. Serve on toasted English muffin halves, with remaining muffin halves on side. Makes 6 servings.

Approach Christmas menu planning on money-saving and delicious dishes premises. Or, follow an economic theory — the propensity to consume or the natural inclination to consume.

In every day language that means you will spend whatever money you have allocated for food whether you buy expensive items or lower priced items.

Put resourcefulness, ingenuity and imagination to work. Plan menus that will utilize as many items from the garden as possible. Buy the meat that is most economical — baby beef, stewing hens, fresh pork or hams. A check of the food ads will quickly reveal which is the most economical.

The Christmas menu should be prepared from recipes that provide many servings to make Christmas at Mom's a day, among the many, to be remembered. The dish that is better than the one "that Mom used to make" still hasn't been cooked.

In every region of the country, the homecooked meal that is relished, remembered and copied the most is the hard-times dish. The vegetables and meats in these dishes that had to be used during those days were "the things that were at hand."

"At hand" is a Cajun term and good synonym for the abundance of Florida fruits and vegetables during the winter. Florida also has a lot of meat at hand, particularly rice the introduction of baby beef and when hens from egg-laying farms are offered as stewing hens.

Cajuns cook "at hand" foods deliciously "Creole Style." For Florida's adventure in cooking for Christmas, permission has been granted to offer "from scratch" recipes right out of Cajun kitchens. They are found in "Cookin' On the Horseshoe."

Here are three Christmas Day menu ideas. Serve a Fresh Strawberry Surprise as a fruit salad.

STRAWBERRY SURPRISE
1 c. boiling water
1 (3 oz.) pkg. strawberry-flavored gelatin
1 T. lemon juice
1/2 c. cold water
1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen strawberries

1 banana, halved and sliced
1 (3 oz.) pkg. cream cheese
1/2 c. finely chopped nuts

Pour boiling water over gelatin and stir until dissolved. Add lemon juice and cold water and chill until thick but not set. Toss and drain strawberries. Fold strawberries and banana slices into one cup of the thickened gelatin and pour into an 8-inch square pan. Chill until set but not firm. Soften cream cheese. Whip remaining gelatin until fluffy and blend a small amount with the cream cheese. Fold this mixture into whipped gelatin; fold in nuts. Spoon over first layer and chill until firm. Makes 8 servings.

Try Baby Beef Gumbo as an entree. The baby beef is especially suited for this dish because it is very lean meat.

BABY BEEF GUMBO
4 lbs. beef meat or beef neck bone
3 kitchen spoons cooking oil

Cook beef meat in pieces and fry brown. If using neck bone, fry until brown. Remove meat from cooking oil.
1 kitchen spoon flour
1 med. onion, sliced thin
1 bell pepper, chopped
1 stalk celery, chopped
minion tops
Salt & pepper (hot) to taste

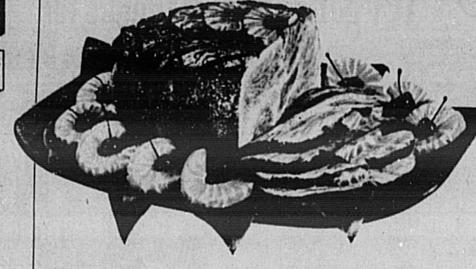

Stir flour into the cooking oil in which the meat was fried. Stir constantly until golden brown. Add onions, bell pepper, celery, stir until soft. Place meat again in pot; add two quarts hot water. If gumbo is too thick, add more water and let simmer slowly until meat is tender. Season to taste. Onion tops and parsley may be added just before serving. When serving, put a dash (less than 1/2 t) gumbo 'lie' in gumbo plate. Serve with cooked rice.

A Rice Dressing will provide the vegetable for the meal.

RICE DRESSING
(To serve approximately 12 people)

Coarse Grind the Following Ingredients:
2 lbs. fresh chicken gizzards
4 med. size dry onions
6 cloves garlic
5 stalks celery with leaves
2 lge. bell peppers

In a deep pot, put one cup Crisco and two cups water. Add all above ingredients and bring to a boil, stirring occasionally. Season to taste. Medium simmer for five hours. Cook two cups raw rice until dry and grains separate. Mix cooked ingredients. In a large pan put the cooked rice. Add one-half bunch chopped green onions and one-half bunch chopped parsley. Add strained gillet mixture and two raw eggs. Stir in the mixture adding gillet juice as needed in order to have a very moist dressing. Add extra salt and pepper because the rice will absorb the seasoning. Put in a shallow pan and bake for 30 min. at 400 degrees.

The imaginative cook will enjoy preparing Chicken Supreme.

CHICKEN SUPREME
1 lge. hen or 2 fryers
2 cans mushroom soup
4-5 onions
1-2 bell peppers
3-4 stalks celery
Salt and pepper to taste
Spaghetti or noodles
1 can pimentos
Black olives
Almonds
Cheese
2 cans broth reserved from chicken

Boil chicken until tender; bone. Cook onions, green pepper and celery in Weston oil until soft. Add 2 cups mushroom soup, 2 cans chicken broth and boned chicken to vegetable mix. Add pimentos. Boil spaghetti or noodles in chicken broth — drain. Mix with chicken mixture. Rippe olives and toasted almonds may be added at this time. Sprinkle generously with grated cheese — American (mild) or Cheddar (sharp) is good. Bake in preheated oven 325 degrees and heat briefly.

When the aroma of roast pork fills the air, ring the dinner bell and serve the crown buffet style with this Cajun-style Italian salad.

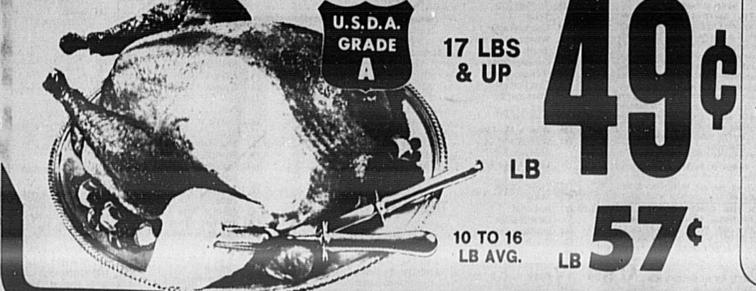

ITALIAN SALAD
1 head of lettuce — wash, dry, cut in bite size pieces and chill thoroughly
1/2 c. Italian Olives, mix, squeeze dry
One-third c. Capers, squeeze dry
2 ribs celery chopped coarse
1/2 lge bell pepper chopped coarse
2 cloves garlic, chopped fine
1 small can anchovies
1/2 c. olive oil
Greek olives, dry ones

Place first six ingredients in chilled bowl, add oil from the can of anchovies, then add olive oil, toss, salt to taste; place in salad bowl and decorate top with anchovies and Greek olives.

If the man of the house is a lucky hunter, treat the family to a Roast Wild Duck.

WILD ROAST DUCK
Rub inside of duck with salt and pepper. Put onion inside. Sprinkle duck with dried green onions, Italian seasonings, and a little garlic chips. Place duck on large piece of doubled foil. Pour 1/2 c. red wine over it. Add pat of butter on top of duck. Wrap duck tightly in foil. Bake at 325 degrees for about 3 1/2 hours.

Longwood Finances Clouded In Debate

Without the bank loan the city would have to give employes a two weeks vacation without pay in mid-December.

LONGWOOD — Councilman B. H. Ferrell, self-proclaimed watchdog of the city treasury and chairman of the finance committee, threw his hands up in despair Monday night and told his colleagues "to do what you want to do" about the city's financial condition.

Ferrell charged fellow council members had taken the problem out of his hands and he was worried about bill payments being put off and the refusal of his colleagues to float an immediate loan. (Related Story Page 2A)

City Clerk and Treasurer Omie R. Shomate said she will write no more checks until the city bookkeeper, now hospitalized, returns to work next month and Councilman H. A. Scott said that although an $18,000 loan from ComBank Castlesberry has been negotiated it does not appear the city is in immediate need of the money.

Ferrell, who has been warning colleagues for several months to stop spending, said last week that without the bank loan the city would have to give employes a two weeks vacation without pay in mid-December.

Mrs. Shomate, however, said Ferrell's financial doomday comments were without foundation and adequate funds would be on hand to take care of city commitments. She suggested Ferrell was "trying to make the city look bad."

Ferrell Monday night continued his predictions that financial disaster is at hand, saying a $2,500 electrical bill has not been paid and that substantial withholding taxes and social security payments must be made by the beginning of the month. He added that hospitalization insurance premium is also due in less than a week, that an additional $8,000 must be paid for liability insurance and that a $5,000 cash maintenance bond, improperly placed in general fund accounts and spent must be returned to builder Al Stolle in addition to the Dec. 15 payroll of more than $20,000. Other unpaid city bills for November total $5,000, he said.

Mrs. Shomate said that the city has a total of $53,000 in all accounts and that payroll checks for the Nov. 30 pay period have already been made and deducted from city funds. Ferrell said, however, that most of the $53,000 is in accounts which cannot be used for general expenses, such as cemetery account, federal revenue sharing money, paving fund, customer water deposits, and $9,450 in sewer connection rebates owed to CAM Corp., Skylark developers.

City Supt. Ralph Fisher noted that CAM Corp. owes the city a considerable sum for a bill for water used during the subdivision's construction.

In other business, action was delayed on a complaint that Mrs. Richard Galliano is operating a children's nursery in residential area on Heider Avenue. Mrs. Galliano was given time to consult her attorney on the matter.

Assistant City Atty. Ned Julian was instructed to prepare an emergency ordinance banning parking on the Seminole Boulevard right of way by patrons of the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club.

Council Chairman Don Schreiner urged councilmen to keep an eye on the proposed industrial development of a large area in Lake Mary which will dump traffic onto Longwood Hills Road, E. E. Williamson Road and Range Line Road to SR 494 causing the city problems.

Cities, County Disagree On Planning Act

effort to implement the act is an analysis of the act itself. As a result of last month's analysis, two basic concepts have emerged:

— That there is a "great deal of work to be done" and while there is a lot of information already in existence (provided by various agencies), there is a lot more information that does not exist.

— And, while the new act does not require that the planning goals of the county be analyzed, the county feels that such an examination is necessary and will take steps to complete such an analysis, according to Kercher.

The second concept is that "some very important, and complex inter-governmental relationships" now exist in the county. Of these relationships, the task of the comprehensive planning must be divided into three groups; those performed by each entity, such as policy decisions and setting of goals; those done either individually or collectively; and those best executed by county and supplied to the cities, such as data collection.

In the realm of "policy making," the act requires that a "Local Land Planning Agency" be designated within 180 days of Oct. 1. Seminole County has already prepared an ordinance for a public hearing that would make the county planning department its agency on a temporary basis. The city of Winter Springs is preparing to vote on a resolution that would also make the county planning department its designated agency in order to avoid additional expense to the city.

Unless otherwise provided for, as in the Winter Springs designation, the county planning department will be temporarily responsible for all unincorporated areas of the county.

All two separate meetings — one of the state legislative delegation Oct. 21, and one of CALMO members, Nov. 13 — the county and the cities were asked to name a technical person to coordinate the more fundamental aspects of the planning. County Planner Roger Neiswender has already been designated as the county head.

Altamonte Springs has designated Mayor Norman Floyd as its representative, and

Sanford Police Get Cycles, Then Ask Commission's OK

Sanford city commissioners have authorized the "emergency purchase" of two new police motorcycles without seeking bids on the $7,032 worth of equipment.

City Manager Warren Knowles requested the action Monday night. When asked by Mayor Lee Moore why the cycles didn't go to bid Knowles grinned and replied, "You shouldn't ask that." (Related Story Page 3A)

Commissioners didn't pursue the issue or ask why the state bid law was being circumvented.

After Monday night's meeting, Knowles said his office received a request for two motorcycles Monday and he wouldn't sign it since the cycles hadn't gone to bid.

"That would have been illegal and I wanted the city commission to authorize the emergency purchase," Knowles said.

City commissioners said the first they knew of the emergency purchase request, which didn't appear on the meeting agenda, was when they were told in the meeting of the request.

Knowles told a Herald reporter Monday night that Chief of Police Ben Butler "had already bought the motorcycles for $3,518.48 each."

Commissioner John Morris said today he was unaware earlier that the two units to be delivered to police today were not put out for bids. "But I think you're aware that the proper parties have been chastised," Morris said.

Commissioner A. A. McClanahan said "There was probably a foul-up in staff communications" but Butler today denied there was a foul-up. Butler refused to comment on whether or not he had asked that bids be sought on the equipment.

Butler said two 1968 model motorcycles are being sold outright and not being traded-in on the new units.

He explained that Harley-Davidson had been on strike and the Orlando dealer "got three in and I wanted two of them while we could get them."

Butler said the third motorcycle budgeted for replacement this year is a three-wheeler for the traffic division estimated to cost $2,400. He said this unit will go out for bids.

Moore said today he didn't push for discussion Monday night because "I got my head kicked in at budget time about motorcycles."

In August, Moore suggested a switch from Harley-Davidson police motorcycles that must be serviced in Orlando to Honda cycles that could be serviced locally.

Two weeks later commissioners authorized the purchase of Harley-Davidson cycles after Chief Butler said his officers wouldn't ride the imports. At that time $10,300 was budgeted for three motorcycles.

It's A Bird? A Plane? No - It's Super Turkey

SONOMA, Calif. (AP) — "Super-turkey" has arrived for Thanksgiving — on weak legs that sometimes quake beneath its 60 pounds of meat.

Wild turkeys seldom reach more than 20 pounds, but computer-aided turkey industry geneticists have bred giant-sized holiday birds with more meat, especially in the breast.

The Nicholas Turkey Breeding Farms, Inc., claiming to be the largest breeder in the world, produces about 15 million eggs each year. The company estimates that two-thirds of North America's turkeys are second-generation descendants of Nicholas eggs.

"We have a super-turkey," sales executive Jack Merritt said in an interview Monday. "Today's turkey has more meat to bone yield, more breast, rapid growth, economical growth on less feed, good reproduction traits and hatchability."

FARM - CITY DAYS

Just in time for Thanksgiving, shoppers are taking advantage of Farm City Days sponsored by Sanford Plaza merchants. Downtown Business Association, Chamber of Commerce. Produce is being displayed at the Plaza and along First Street by local farmers at bargain prices. In bottom photo, Kyle Bauer and Charles Prescott of Seminole High School Chapter Future Farmers of America (FFA) man stand as project.
