of three cards wrong. Put the ace of diamonds, queen of spades, or king of hearts in the other hand and I would have been home.

"Just think" is what you should have done," said North. "Had you led dummy's queen of hearts at trick two and let it ride it wouldn't have mattered where those cards were. Your contract would have made easily."

Needless to say, North was right. South had failed to think.

ASK THE JACOBYs

A Nebraska reader wants to know what a "Temporizing" bid is.

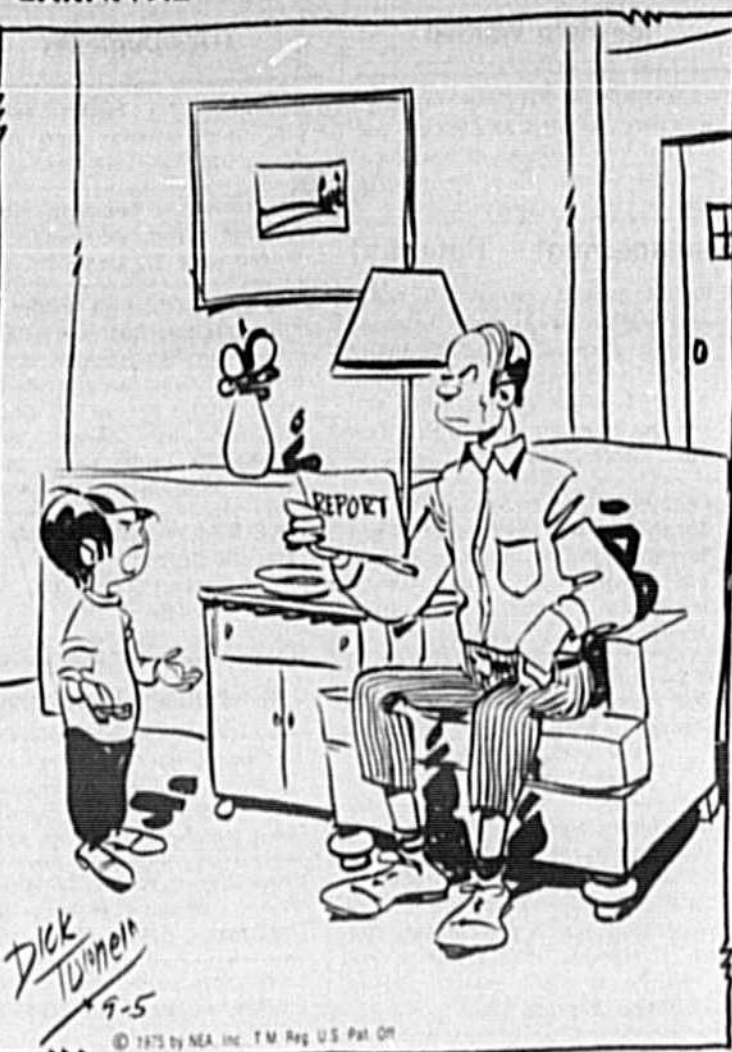

A temporizing bid is one that sort of marks time. It is made in a forcing situation in order to get partner to give more information. Thus, if you open one diamond and partner jumps to two spades, you may make a minimum sounding rebid, such as three diamonds or three spades, even though you have a big hand and will take further action later. Remember that once a game forcing bid has been made the bidding must continue to game.

Businessmen Show Confidence Downtown To Get Facelift

By RICK PANTRIDGE
Herald Staff Writer

Sanford's downtown business district has needed a shot in the arm for a long time.

Now, at least two Sanford businessmen have shown they have confidence in the future of the area and have taken steps that prove they have faith in what lies ahead.

Herman Jacobson has expanded and remodeled his Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur women's apparel and Carl Gutmann is turning the old First Street pool hall into a Spanish-design shopping mall.

Jacobson opened his new Rosh Hashana last week and he reports that he was "surprisingly busy all week. Things look so attractive and well-displayed that people are buying more."

Jacobson's daughter Sara, executive director of the Downtown, Redevelopment Steering Committee, which is trying to pinpoint downtown problem areas and solve them.

"But I don't think downtown Sanford is going to go under. Downtown is like the face of a person. People judge a city by its downtown," Jacobson said.

"I practically came out of retirement to do this," he added. "What I did may encourage some people to do something. I made the first step."

Jacobson's remodeling was only an interior job. The exterior of the building is the same as it was when it was built in 1922. "If you live in an old house and someone builds a new one next door, there's no reason you have to build a new one too. Sure, new buildings are good, but so are good old ones."

Getting back to what Jacobson considers to be a major downtown problem—the apathy of some of the merchants — he said, "We need good merchants and we can get them by dressing things up, making it the kind of place that will attract progressive merchants."

Gutmann's plans call for a Nov. 1 opening, with four stores renting space in the renovated pool hall building.

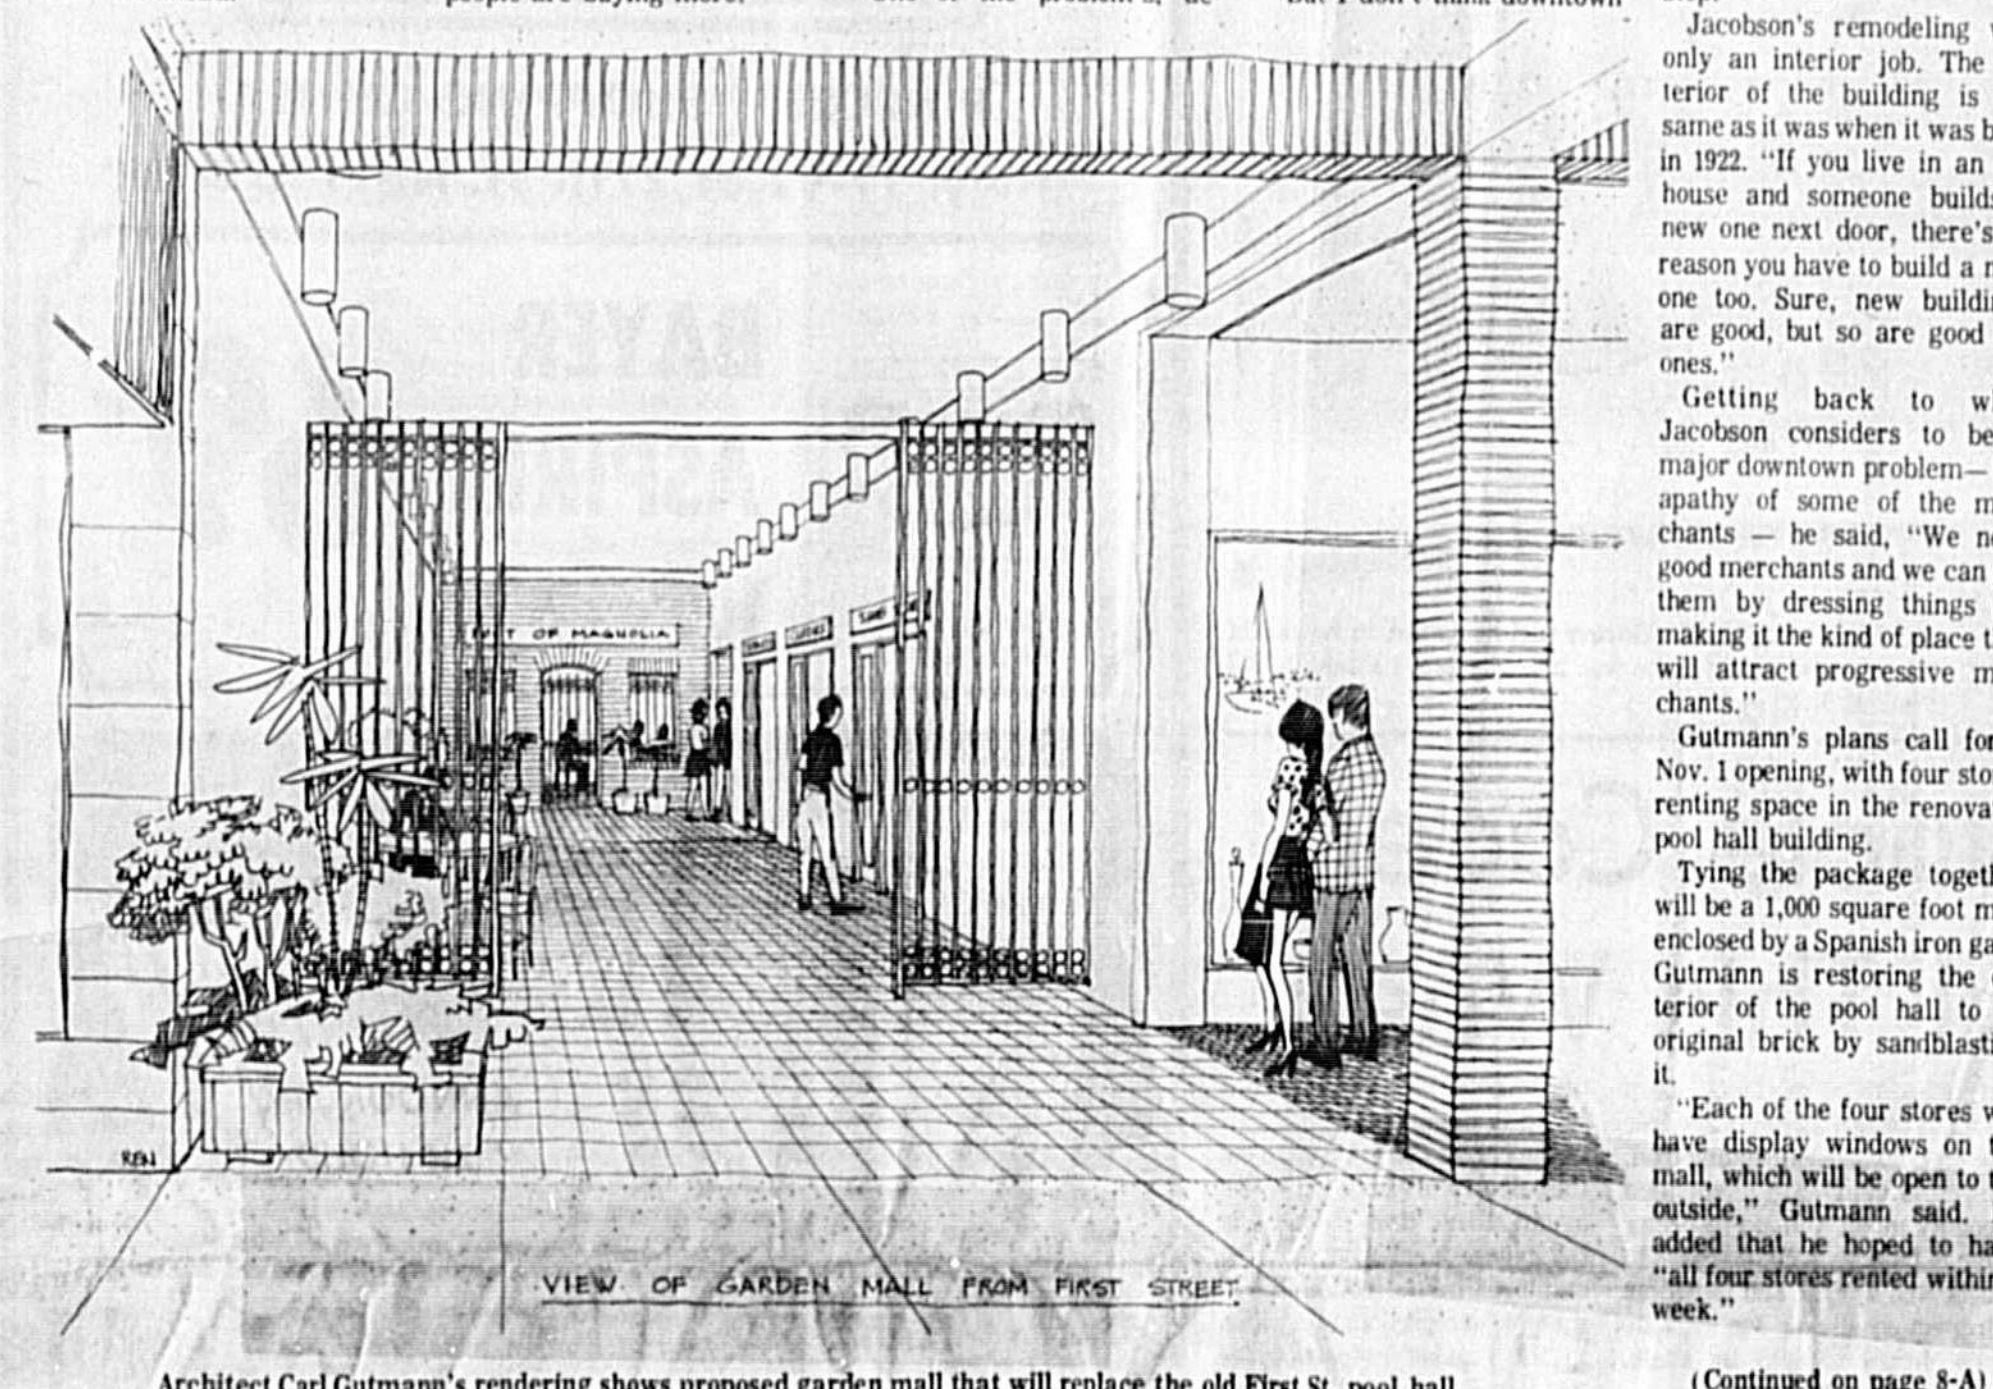

Tying the package together will be a 1,000 square foot mall enclosed by a Spanish iron gate. Gutmann is restoring the exterior of the pool hall to its original brick by sandblasting it.

"Each of the four stores will have display windows on the mall, which will be open to the outside," Gutmann said. He added that he hoped to have "all four stores reitied within a week."

ANNOUNCING HIGH HOLIDAYS
Cantor Michael Goodman of Temple Shalom, Deltona, blows the Shofar to announce the Jewish High Holiday season of Rosh Hashana and Yom Kippur, ushering in the Hebrew year of 5776. Rosh Hashana, which begins "10 days of repentance," began Friday at 7:30 p.m. The High Holiday culminates with Yom Kippur, "The Day of Atonement," on Sept. 15. Cantor Goodman opens and closes the ceremonies by blowing the Shofar, more commonly known as a Ram's Horn. (Herald Photo by Bill Vincent Jr.)

A second reading of Sanford's new $3,625,709 city budget, up $94,882 but requiring 2.14 mills less than last year, is set for 7:30 p.m. Monday.

Each mill equals $1 per $1,000 of appraised property value and is used to determine property taxes.

The city's new budget calls for a total 6.33 mills, including the certified 5.63 mills for the general operating budget and .70 mills towards paying off the $1.7 million in general obligation bonds by 1977. Last year Sanford levied a total of 8.47 mills, including 6.97 mills for the operating budget and 1.5 mills for debt service.

"The biggest change in our new budget is we dropped the tax rate by 2.14 mills. We froze the number of personnel position increases. The last 10 years we've dropped the millage. It was 17 mills 10 years ago," said City Manager Warren E. (Pete) Knowles.

"The main thing is the City Commission has really bitten the bullet and they're making severe attempts to hold the line to anticipated revenues," said City Clerk and Finance Director Henry N. Tamm Jr.

"Although the new budget is 'very tight this year,' as termed by Personnel Director San. Ackley, the city manager position increases. The last 10 years we've dropped the millage. It was 17 mills 10 years ago," said City Manager Warren E. (Pete) Knowles.

Safety Program Readied

Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler has announced the implementation of a safety program to be headed by Patrolman Richard Quigley.

Quigley started his new duties last week and is tailoring a safety presentation to the needs of students in each of the 10 schools in the city. He said plans call for film presentations on bicycle safety the last week in this month at elementary schools.

Programs emphasizing motorcycle and auto safety will be presented at middle schools and high schools.

In addition to the safety programs in the schools, Quigley said he is working with the Sanford Chamber of Commerce on developing a motorcycle safety program for the general public and with Senior Citizens groups for presentations in mid-October on safety plus other subjects, including confidence games and "bunko" operators who prey on elderly victims with fictitious monetary schemes.

Portuguese Government Out After Six-Week Battle

LISBON, Portugal (AP) — Pro-Communist Gen. Vasco Gonçalves has been forced from power after a bitter six-week campaign by political and military moderates that edged Portugal close to civil war. The move opened the way for formation of a broader-based government. A communique issued by President Francisco de Costa Gomes on Friday night after a stormy meeting of officers at a military base in Tancos, 80 miles north of here, said Gonçalves was expelled from the Revolutionary Council, the group of officers that represents the highest authority in Portugal. In an apparent face-saving gesture, the communique said that Gonçalves voluntarily relinquished his appointment as chief of staff of the armed forces, announced by Costa Gomes a week after he said Gonçalves was being replaced as premier.

Bombing Suspects Sought

LONDON (AP) — Police searched today for two men seen speeding away in a blue car from the Hilton Hotel minutes before a bomb blast ripped through the lobby, killing a man and a woman and wounding 62 other persons. Hotel staff told police they saw a man run from the hotel and get into the car in Park Lane. The auto was driven off by a second man who had stayed behind the wheel. About 10 pounds of explosive hidden under a marble-top coffee table in the lobby went off at lunchtime Friday, severing limbs of several victims. The dead woman was headless and limbless, eyewitnesses said. Police refused to speculate on who planted the bomb, but it was thought to be the work of a splinter group of the Irish Republican Army which is fighting to get the British out of Northern Ireland.

Three Leftists Kidnaped

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Two men and a woman said to be members of a leftist group were kidnaped in La Plata early today 24 hours after the bullet-riddled bodies of five colleagues were found dead near the city, police said. Police in La Plata, 30 miles south of here, said a group of men snatched their three victims off a street corner, bundled them into a car and drove off. Police sources said the three were members of the Socialist Workers party, a Trotskyite group. The naked bodies of three women and a man, reportedly the same party, were found Friday in La Plata near the River Plate. No group claimed responsibility for the killings, but the area is a dumping ground for victims of the Argentine Anti-Communist Alliance, a right-wing death squad.

Nuclear Pact Signed

CADARACHE, France (AP) — France and Iraq will sign a nuclear cooperation agreement next week, Premier Jacques Chirac said today. Chirac was talking to newsmen during a tour of the nuclear research center in this southern French town with Iraq Vice President Saddam Hussein. The French premier said Iraq was in the process of "setting up a coherent nuclear program" and that France wanted to take part in the program, initially with water-cooled reactors. Hussein is on the second day of a seven-day official visit to France, one of Iraq's major trading partners and a leading buyer of Iraqi oil.

Ex-Black Panther Kimbro Appointed Assistant Dean

WILLIAMSBURG, Conn. (AP) — Oetime Black Panther Warren Kimbro, who pleaded guilty to killing a fellow Panther in 1969 and testified against Panther leader Bobby Seale in the case, has won appointment as an assistant dean at Eastern Connecticut State College. Kimbro, paroled last year after four years in prison, has since earned a master's degree from Harvard University. On Friday, the state Board of Trustees for State Colleges approved his immediate appointment as assistant ESCC dean for student activities and as assistant to the college's president. Kimbro studied at ESCC while in jail and, since leaving prison, has been a paid advisor to the student union board. He also directed a local drug rehabilitation center. ESCC president Charles Webb, called Kimbro the best qualified candidate and said, "You just can't go on trying a person for something."

Justices Awarded Doctorates

PROVO, Utah (AP) — Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has been awarded an honorary doctor of laws degree at the dedication of Mormon-run Brigham Young University's law school building. Also honored with the degree Friday were Associate Justice Lewis F. Powell Jr. of the U.S. Supreme Court, and Marion G. Romney, second counselor in the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints (Mormon). Burger, in a dedication speech, said there are encouraging signs the American Bar Association is progressing toward a means of disciplining professional misconduct by lawyers.

Admiral McKee Not Upset

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) — Rear Adm. Kinnaird R. McKee says he isn't upset that he will probably go down in history as the man who was superintendent of the U.S. Naval Academy when it went coeducational. "I don't think it disturbs me," he said Friday as he met with reporters for the first time since taking over command of the academy last month. "I think we are past the point of lively debate on the subject since it is obviously the will of Congress that we do so.... The name of the game is to get on with it." The academy's first female students will probably enter next summer.

Shevin Opinion Raises Queries On Tax Funds

By DONNA ESTES Herald Staff Writer

Attorney General Robert Shevin's opinion that municipal donations to Chambers of Commerce for general purposes are improper has raised additional questions about the propriety of cities contributing tax funds to other civic or charitable organizations. And, Altamonte Springs Mayor Norman Floyd wonders if contributions or dues to organizations such as the Florida League of Cities, the CALNO Council of Local Governments or even the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council are proper municipal expenditures. He is particularly concerned about the city's contribution earlier this year of $1,000 to the Central Florida Zoo and about a continuing appropriation, included in the 1975-76 budget, of $1,000 to the South Seminole Community Library.

Knowles said as long as the donation from the city was given for something within the purview of a municipality, it would be all right. Although the City of Sanford has permitted the Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce to use a municipal building as its office for more than a quarter of a century at no cost, this operation will not be affected by the new Shevin ruling, according to Knowles. He pointed out that Sanford city commissioners adopted a resolution designating the Chamber the city's official publicity agency. Thus, the Chamber has a specific municipal function, Knowles noted.

In Altamonte Springs, where the Altamonte Springs Chamber of Commerce has been leasing the city's old community house for office space on Mainland Avenue, a problem with the Shevin opinion may exist. City Attorney Joe Davis was attempting to obtain the full text of the opinion Friday. As for contributions, donations or dues to other organizations, Knowles believes if the organizations serve a municipal function, the city funding is proper. He said the Florida League of Cities, CALNO and East Central Florida Regional Planning Council all are serving municipal functions.

The two-year-old City of Lake Wales has never made a donation or contribution from tax funds to any private organization. Neither Casselberry nor Longwood have made donations in recent years. The site of the new industry is large enough to provide room for future expansion, Schilke said. Schilke is also president of Harcar Aluminum Company which has a 125,000 square foot production plant on Highway 17-92, Sanford. Harcar is one of Sanford's largest industrial employers and was organized in 1967.

New industry Coming Here

By JANE CASSELLBERRY Herald Staff Writer

Carl Schilke of Schilke Enterprises Inc., announced today his company — in what is estimated to be a quarter million dollar package — has purchased from Lake Monroe Industries a 20,000 square foot shell of a building in the Sanford Industrial Park on Silver Lake Drive. Schilke said the building, located on approximately three acres, will be completed by his firm's specifications. Construction will begin next week on the plant. The company will manufacture energy-saving building products in the window and door field and will initially hire 25-30 employees. Preliminary operations should start in 60 days. By 1977, government regulatory agencies will be specifying the amount of energy that a new building will be permitted to consume for heating and air conditioning, according to Schilke. These parameters will dictate changes in construction to meet the limited amounts of energy that will be consumed and already the Federal Government is allowing credits for various building products, such as insulation, that save energy, Schilke said.

Windows and doors will fall into this category and Schilke Enterprises was formed to provide thermal barrier windows, insulated glass and reflective glass, as well as provide replacement window service and merchandising of related building products to the general public. Already on design boards are prime windows that incorporate a secondary window system to provide actually two windows linked together by a thermal barrier to reduce conduction and provide dead air space between the two for insulating values.

John Krider, associated with W. Garnet White Real Estate Agency, was instrumental in helping to put the industrial package together.

According To International Monetary Fund Official Oil Producing Nations Might Not Increase Prices

WASHINGTON (AP) — Oil-producing nations, in a gesture of cooperation with other countries, may decide not to increase prices as expected, according to the director of the International Monetary Fund. "I think they are aware of the impact a big price increase could have on the world economy," Johannes Witteveen said Friday in winding up the IMF and World Bank annual meeting here.

Signs Point To Gradual Recession Recovery

NEW YORK (AP) — The government posted more signs this past week of a gradual recovery from the recession, while New York City remained a bleak spot in the nation's financial picture. The Labor Department said the nation's unemployment rate remained steady at 8.4 per cent in August and 275,000 more Americans held jobs than in the previous month. The recovery in the employment picture remained slow, however. In March, 8.2 million Americans were jobless. That total had declined 419,000 by July and held steady in August. On the price front, the Labor Department's August wholesale price index rose 0.8 per cent — a 9.6 per cent annual inflation rate. The August total is down from July's 14.4 per cent wholesale price jump, and for the last three months the index has climbed at an annual 7.7 per cent annual rate, an improvement from the 30 per cent annual rate last fall. Fuel and power prices were the main factors in August, offsetting a drop in agricultural prices.

controls through Oct. 15. Democrats, confident of overriding a Ford veto to restore controls for six months, blocked immediate consideration of the (GOP) effort, which now is eligible for debate in the Senate Monday and Tuesday. Ford has until Tuesday midnight to veto the measure restoring price controls through March 1. Ford contends that if fuel prices are raised, consumption will be cut, incentive will be provided for increased domestic production, and U.S. reliance on foreign oil will be reduced. Democrats say that would worsen inflation and unemployment. Meanwhile, the executive director of the U.S. Conference of Mayors, John Gunther, said here that if New York City defaults on its debt, there will be a "tidal wave" effect on other large municipalities. Wall Street bond dealers agreed a default by New York City would bring on a coast-to-coast ripple effect that would make it very expensive, or even impossible, for big U.S. cities to borrow on the bond market.

On the price front, the Labor Department's August wholesale price index rose 0.8 per cent — a 9.6 per cent annual inflation rate.

Signs Point To Gradual Recession Recovery

With consumers apparently more confident in their spending plans as the recession winds down, the nation's retail merchants produced some of the strongest sales statistics this year. S.S. Kresge Co. led the way with August sales up a strong 22 per cent, followed by gains of 8.4 per cent at Woolworth, 6.2 per cent at J.C. Penney and 6 per cent at Sears. There were further signs that industrial activity has begun to pick up, as the Commerce Department reported new factory orders rose 3.6 per cent, the fourth monthly increase in a row. But overhauling the gradually improving national picture was New York City, which barely escaped default when the city's unions came through with $100 million in pension money to help meet welfare and payroll costs. The city's immediate and long-term hopes of avoiding default on its $12 billion in outstanding bonds and notes is in the hands of a special session of the New York Legislature. It was hoped that an agreement would be reached under which the state and the city's banks would come up with a money package to see the city through the rest of the year.

"If the federal government were to allow New York City to go into default, even for only a day, it would have a ripple effect that would start east of the Hudson River and reach all the way to the West Coast," said Roger McKnight of Pair, Webster, Jackson & Curtis, Inc. "Cities like Cleveland or Detroit that make more frequent trips to the bond market would have the biggest worries," he said. Labor Department officials announced that wholesale prices rose eight-tenths of 1 per cent during August, while unemployment held steady at 8.4 per cent. The statistics indicate that recession continues to abate, but there is deepened concern of a return to high inflation.

A reader from Alberta wants to know what the proper response to partner's double of an ace heart is when holding ♠ J 5 4 ♣ 6 4 ♢ 3 2 ♠ K Q 8 6 4.

The answer to this question is played by the late R. R. (Dick) Richards of Detroit. Dick was one of the really great auctioneers in general and the founder of the American Contract Bridge League, which became the American Contract Bridge Guild right after it turned out that you get a second out that you can afford to try to find a way to bid seven with Dick's hand, but old timers then be sure that you don't have anyone can see there was just no way to make a grand slam. In fact if West had opened a club as called for by East's double there would have been no use in this column and used in this column and used in this column and used in this column.

Wise Old Second Graders Give Advice

By JOE ASKREN

Herald Staff Writer
What advice do you suppose some wise "old" second graders would have for their first grade counterparts starting off the new school year in Seminole County? Bewildered first graders will be happy to learn that their upperclassmen have their best interests at heart. At least at Hopper Elementary School.

The following dozen or so second graders interviewed this week offered this free advice for what it's worth: "You gotta pass to get to second grade and you have to work hard to pass. A friend should study with them. Teach them how to work in a school book." — Bryan Sheffield, Route 2, Box 25, Celery Ave.

"Do their best. Try to make it. And be quiet." — Christopher Andrew Smith, 6 "Don't cry. Don't worry, you'll have some fun. Sit down and be calm. If they don't have papers and crayons I'll give them some." — Carl Tipton, 7, 906 Scott Avenue.

"Color neat and write very good. Try to color the same pictures really real good." — Michael Gross, 6, 1217 Randolph Street.

"Try their best to further life in their grade. Try to get a good grade in as many grades as you can." — Noel Carpenter

HOLLYWOOD — Somehow you can't escape "Jaws." Heard from a friend at Cove Haven in Pennsylvania's Poconos, a famous honeymoon spot, that reservations are up 80 percent because of the movie. He said most of the letters mention that they want no snapping fish spoiling the good times.

Funny, I didn't think the movie was that scary. And neither did the person under the seat with me.

Got a call from Forest Lawn trying to sell me a cemetery plot. The woman was quite persistent so I told her that if I bought a lot, I'd buy it in Hollywood cemetery.

"Why there? she asked. "It's nearer my office," I said.

Got her off my back.

Scruggs Moves Away From Blue Grass

WILLIMANTIC, Conn. (AP)—Thirty years after his rolling, syncopated banjo established the standard against which all future banjo players would be measured, and defined a form of music that didn't yet have a name, Earl Scruggs is no longer "into" blue grass music.

At 52, Scruggs is the Godfather of the Scruggs Revue, a six-piece boogie-blues-bluegrass group seen more often in rock clubs and on college campuses than at blue grass festivals.

At its center stands Earl, his black hair still slicked straight back, but now tickling his shoulders. White doves and peace symbols climb his bright blue banjo strap.

Below the tailpiece of his banjo, a small wire emerges and falls to the floor, trailing off to a bank of amplifiers behind him. It is this connection, the electric plug, that symbolizes the new Scruggs sound and the sparks it has created among many of his old fans.

In the 1940s, Scruggs refined and made popular a three-finger style of picking that now bears his name. When he joined Bill Monroe's band, the Blue Grass Boys, the new banjo style became the key element in the sound later known as blue grass.

Most blue grass bands still use the instruments Monroe assembled: acoustic guitar, mandolin, fiddle, banjo and string bass. And traditionalists think it should stay that way.

But following his 1969 breakup with Lester Flatt, Scruggs formed a band with his three sons, using electric guitars, drums and piano. The idea originated nine years earlier, during rehearsals for a TV concert when Scruggs jammed with fellow guest King Curtis, the late blues saxophonist.

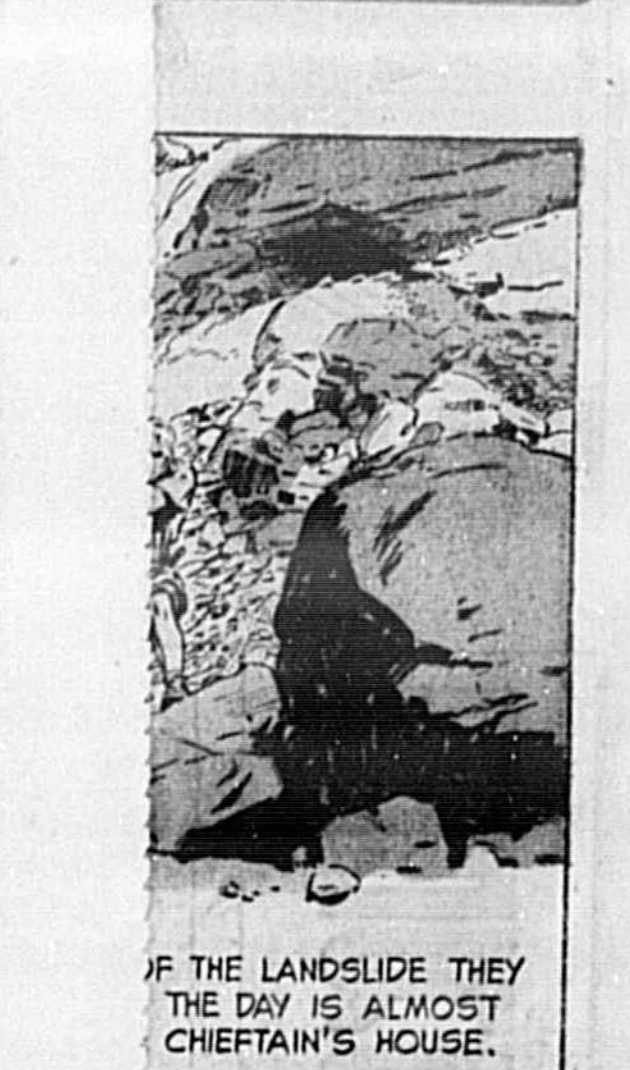

"I saw where the banjo was more versatile than just straight blue grass, and it sounded so good to me until I just couldn't get it off my mind," Scruggs said in an interview.

Jamming his Nashville home with his three boys, Rankin, Gary and Steve, the youngest at 17, Scruggs said even the old tunes sounded better to him with a heavy beat behind them.

"I remember back in the old days, when groups didn't even carry a bass fiddle. But the deepest guitar that put out the fullest, deepest, bassiest sound for his vocal. And also they would stomp their feet quite a lot and to be to the group. So I thought that a good drummer and a set of drums would make a much better sound than a group of people pickin' and stompin' their feet against the floor," he said.

"I didn't know how it would

EVERY SINGLE SOUND THAT YOU HEAR IS CAUSED WHEN SOMETHING MAKES THE AIR VIBRATE BY DISTURBING IT. WHEN YOU PLUCK A GUITAR, ITS STRINGS VIBRATE RAPIDLY. WHEN A LION ROARS, THE VOCAL CORDS IN THE LION'S THROAT ARE VIBRATING. WHEN AN OBJECT VIBRATES AND PRODUCES SOUND, IT MAKES THE SURROUNDING AIR VIBRATE. THESE VIBRATIONS, OR SOUND WAVES, TRAVEL THROUGH THE AIR TO YOUR EARS, AND YOU HEAR THEM AS SOUNDS.

Second Reading On City Agenda

Budget Action Set Tonight

By JOE ASKREN Herald Staff Writer

A second reading of Sanford's new $3,829,709 budget, up $94,882 but requiring 2.14 mills more than last year, is the second agenda item for tonight's regular city commission meeting which begins at 7 o'clock.

Each mill equals $1 per $1,000 of appraised property value and is used to determine property taxes.

The city's budget for the new year calls for a total 6.33 mills, which includes the certified 5.63 mills for the general operating budget and .70 mills towards paying off the $1.7 million in general obligation bonds by 1977.

Last year's millage levy was 5.47 mills, which included 6.97 mills for the operating budget and 1.5 mills for debt service. The new budget has an overall five per cent "cost of living" increase for all employees.

This is figured by paying the five per cent pension payment for police and firemen and paying the four per cent state retirement contribution for all other city employees who have been given a one per cent salary increase, according to City Clerk and Finance Director Henry N. Tamm Jr.

Salaries in the city manager's budget increased from $2,770 last year to $31,709 in the new budget. Salaries in the city commission budget rose from $14,700 last year to $15,500.

A total of seven job positions were eliminated from the new budget at a savings of $67,135 to the city, according to City Manager Warren E. "Pete" Knowles.

These cutbacks include one of the four city building inspectors, two public works laborers and four library employees. The municipal library, which cost the city $35,065 last year, is being taken over and operated under the county commission.

Also on the agenda for tonight's meeting is a request from the Central Florida Zoological Society for putting up signs on public right-of-ways. Plans are to attach the signs, which are in the shape of an elephant, to stop signs at all intersections, pointing the way to the new zoo. A public hearing also is set to consider rezoning part of property north of 25th Street and between Yale Avenue and the Seaboard Coastline Railroad right-of-way to SR 1.

Social Agency Funds Pared

Commission May Draw Fire

By ED PHACKETT Herald Staff Writer

County commissioners may come under fire from social agencies whose budget requests have been pared at the first public hearing Tuesday on the more than $18-million budget.

"Some special agencies have been asking for money because subsidies have been reduced this year," Commissioner Dick Williams said today.

He said the agencies — which include senior citizens, drug action programs and Division of Family Services, among others — have been cut $5.91 per year to about $5,000.

Williams aid he thinks there will be "some changes" at Tuesday's 7 p.m. hearing at the Seminole County Courthouse.

Eleanor Anderson, budget analyst in the Office of Management Analysis and Evaluation (OMAE), said today the budget is within a half-mill of the 5.34 mills certified by the county's property appraiser.

Millage at present is 5.91, which would mean property owners would pay an additional 50 cents per $1,000 of the assessed value of their property. In all citizens would be required to pay $5.91 per $1,000 of taxable property.

Last year, the same social agencies received about $125,000.

Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen Jr. said commissioners are "still looking" for ways to reduce the budget.

Already, the commission reduced budget requests from more than $22-million to $18,586,354.

Vihlen says "state, federal and local revenues" have been reduced because of "the recessionary trend — which is the sole problem."

Vihlen said departments have been "uniformly cut" and that no single department has been "crucified."

Agency chiefs are expected to protest cuts in their departments.

Mrs. Anderson said some agencies were held to last year's funding level. But some requests were drastically reduced.

For example a request for $96,000 from the Seminole County Association for Retarded Children was reduced to $20,000. A senior citizens group is budgeted for $7,000 — half of what the group requested.

All in all Mrs. Anderson said budgets were reduced "equally."

Last year's county budget was slightly more than $18-million.

Vihlen To Seek Approval Of Jail Safety Bids Tuesday

Seminole County Commission Chairman Sid Vihlen Jr. will ask commissioners Tuesday for approval to award bids for installation of safety features at the county jail — damaged in a fire that killed 10 inmates and a jailer.

The bids were presented to the commission last week, but the matter was referred to a committee until certain waivers could be obtained from state officials.

The commission chairman predicts the facility will reopen in three weeks. Doors closed after the June 9 fire, and inmates have been housed in surrounding jails at a cost of $1,000 per day.

Vihlen met last week with Olin Greene, director of the state fire marshal's office, and Cecil Sewell, the chief prison inspector for the Department of Offender Rehabilitation.

At the Tallahassee meeting, Vihlen said, he was assured by both agencies that the county would not be required to construct a new jail within two years before reopening the present facility.

Vihlen said a letter from Greene "completely approved the county's proposal for additional items for the jail."

The jail was damaged by fire and smoke.

And prisoners were moved from the Sanford facility to jails in surrounding counties.

Sims Charges County School Budget Padded

One of the board members claims the new $50.2 million Seminole County School budget calling for an 8.5 millage levy is "padded."

Board member Davie E. Sims, who cast one of the two dissenting votes last week to advertise the 8.5 millage to support the new $39.3 million operational and $12 million debt service budgets, said the budget contains "contingencies on contingencies."

Each mill equals $1 per $1,000 of appraised property value and is used to determine property taxes.

Sims said the eight mills requested for the operational budget could easily be reduced to seven mills.

"For years, we've been robbing our operating budget and putting the money in what he termed 'padding' of about $1.3 million that was in operating budgets that is now in the $6.8 million capital outlay budget, having been 'carried over' from previous years.

"There are many things that could be delayed for a year with our present economic situation," said Sims.

He said the new budget contains a $1 million "contingency fund," in addition to what he termed "padding" of $250,000 in the utility budget for anticipated increases in electrical expenses, and $100,000 for fuel expenses.

Sims said these and other "high estimates" have resulted in heavy padding of the school budget.

BIG BEEF BLOCKS TRAFFIC

Thousands of curious motorists who were detoured around a wrecked truck-load of prime beef (above) Sunday on SR-434 at Douglas Ave. found the garage sale sign on the utility pole didn't apply. Ten hours after the accident 19 tons of prime beef (left) had been loaded on another refrigerated truck on orders of insurance adjusters. Florida Highway Patrol Trooper Ernie Jacobs said truck driver Wayne Osbel, 44, of Wichita, Kansas, wasn't hurt. But a passenger, Beverly Moses, 45, of Wichita, was listed in satisfactory condition today at Florida Hospital North, Altamonte Springs. Hubbard Construction Co. officials estimated damage to the highway under construction and new sidewalks at $5,000. Osbel said the swinging Iowa beef bound for Riviera Beach, shifted when he made a jog onto the new road and it caused the trailer to overturn. The accident occurred just before 11 a.m., and two large wreckers from Altamonte Garage righted the truck at 9 p.m., after the beef was unloaded. (Herald Photos by Bob Lloyd)

Shevin Opinion Sought

State Rep. Robert Hattaway (D-Altamonte Springs) asked Attorney General Robert Shevin today what effect a July opinion from Shevin's office will have on the continued use by the Altamonte-Casselberry Chamber of Commerce of a municipally-owned building.

According to news articles published Friday, Hattaway said in a letter to Shevin, the chamber may lose its Altamonte Springs office.

The opinion, made available to the cities in Seminole in digest form, says, "Assuming the Chamber of Commerce would not be charged a rent of full market value, it is not a proper public purpose for the city to allow the Chamber of Commerce to utilize a portion or all of a municipally owned building."

Noting the Chamber building, formerly Altamonte's community house, is leased from the city for $1 annually, Hattaway said it has become the "much-needed focal point" for chamber activities and chamber efforts to bring about the orderly economic development of the area.

The Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce has used a Sanford-owned facility for more than a quarter of a century, but Sanford City Manager W.E. (Pete) Knowles said Friday the city has designated the chamber as its official publicity agency.
