Briefly Old Sanford train depot damaged by fire

An electrical shortage may be the cause of a fire at the A & M Antiques & Furniture store in downtown Sanford Wednesday.

Units from the Sanford and Seminole County fire departments arrived at the business, located at 321 W. First St., at 10:20 a.m., — two minutes after the fire was reported.

By 10:55 a.m., the 10,000-square-foot building was still burning but fire fighters had the flames under control. Damages include the northwest portion of the roof collapsing.

Four employees, working on machinery before the fire started, were evacuated from the building, and no injuries were reported.

The cause of the fire is still under investigation, but preliminary findings point to an electrical shortage.

The fire began just as the Herald was going to press. Further details will be available in the Thursday edition of the Seminole Herald.

Pan Am offers St. Louis flights

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

SANFORD — Pan American Airways on Tuesday announced service will begin Aug. 16 to Mid America St. Louis Airport from Sanford.

Pan Am currently offers daily service between Sanford and Portsmouth, N.H., Pittsburgh, Pa., Bangor, Maine, and the Gary-Chicago Airport.

The Mid America St. Louis Airport, like Sanford, Portsmouth, and Gary-Chicago is a growing secondary airport.

Pan Am President Dave Fink said the airline's business strategy is to expand 727-200 Clipper Class aircraft service to secondary airports located near metropolitan areas.

"Our Clipper strategy is to provide quality and reliable service to underutilized facilities located in metropolitan areas," said Pan Am President Dave Fink. "Mid America is a perfect match for Pan Am and we believe its growth opportunities are fantastic."

Fares from Sanford to St. Louis will begin at $129 each way, and Gary-Chicago fares start at $99 each way.

Scheduled daily service at Mid America St. Louis with Sanford's airport include departing St. Louis at 10:15 a.m. and arriving at Sanford at 1:15 p.m. Return service will depart Sanford at 3:45 p.m. and arrive at St. Louis at 4:40 p.m.

Orlando Sanford Airport officials were in St. Louis on Tuesday for the announcement.

"We are thrilled that Pan Am is going to be opening another destination site," said Victor White, executive director of the Sanford Airport Authority. "We are

National Guard is ready to fight fires

SANFORD — Should there be a serious outbreak of more forest fires in Seminole County and Central Florida, the National Guard is ready.

Despite the risks to their personal safety, Florida's National Guardsmen are committed to fighting wild-fires in the state, said Maj. Gen. Ronald O. Harrison, Florida's Adjutant General and leader of the Florida National Guard.

"We know this type of work is dangerous and has the potential for disaster even when we are vigilant about safety procedures, but we are committed to supporting the Division of Forestry in the fire fighting effort," Harrison said.

While another 20 guardsmen were called into action Monday, most units are on a volunteer standby mode.

"Most of those called this week were from medical units, mostly in the Tampa area," said Sgt. First Class Stephen Strickland, with Company B, 2nd Battalion, 124th Infantry, based in Sanford.

"At the present time, we have not had any official word to be placed on standby," he commented.

"What we have is a volunteer program, where guardsmen have, on their own, said they would join the fight if needed."

He said there would be one or two dozen persons from the Sanford based area ready if called.

"Our battalion of course, has people from as far away as

A prickly situation

Lon Fiorelli of 1412 S. Park Ave. in Sanford is having a problem with someone stealing her rose bushes. On Monday night, 15 bushes were taken. It was the fourth time thieves have stolen Fiorelli's bushes. A total of 28 bushes have been stolen, and Fiorelli has a $100 reward for any information leading to an arrest.

Local men arrested in wildlife killing

From Staff Reports

Three men and a juvenile, all of Central Florida, were arrested this past weekend for their reported involvement in a wildlife killing spree in the Ocala National Forest.

Deer, migratory and non-migratory birds were shot and killed during a week-long camping trip.

Florida Fish and Wildlife Law Enforcement Officer Michael R. Andriano arrested the four after receiving a call from Marion County Sheriff's Deputy Sherwin Scott, regarding people shooting guns around the Sells Lake area and Forest Road 599 in the forest.

Following an investigation, Andriano arrested Allen Bruce Coop, Jr., 22, of Fern Park, Robert Michael Shandik, 18, of Orlando, Jeremy Wayne Sumney, 18, of Winter Park, and a 16-year-old from Casselberry.

Coop and Shandik are each charged with possession of freshly killed deer during the closed season and possession of a gun in a wildlife management area during a closed season.

Sumney and the juvenile each face the same charges as well as additional charges of taking migratory game birds during the closed season (dove) and taking migratory nongame birds (quail).

Coop, Shandik and Sumney are scheduled to appear in Marion County Court at 1 p.m. June 12.

SANFORD — Two years ago, Mark Hoen faced the biggest challenge of his life.

A successful building contractor with projects throughout the state, Hoen awoke in the middle of the night to find he was paralyzed from the waist down.

"I had no warning," Hoen said.

Doctors diagnosed his paralysis as a form of Multiple Sclerosis. Through exhausting rehabilitation, he regained the ability to walk. He receives regular treatments, but physicians give no guarantee against a possible relapse from the waist down.

"That's why they call it 'multiple.' There are multiple symptoms, multiple forms, and multiple treatments," Hoen said.

He's quick to point out that his condition is not a hindrance to his campaign for Sanford's District 3 City Commission seat.

"It's never affected me from the waist up," Hoen said. "It only affected my legs."

He said he has learned to appreciate life and to fight for what he believes.

"It is not in me to quit," Hoen said. "When something like this happens, you have two choices. You can either sink into a deep depression, or you can say 'I'm stronger than this.' I chose to fight."

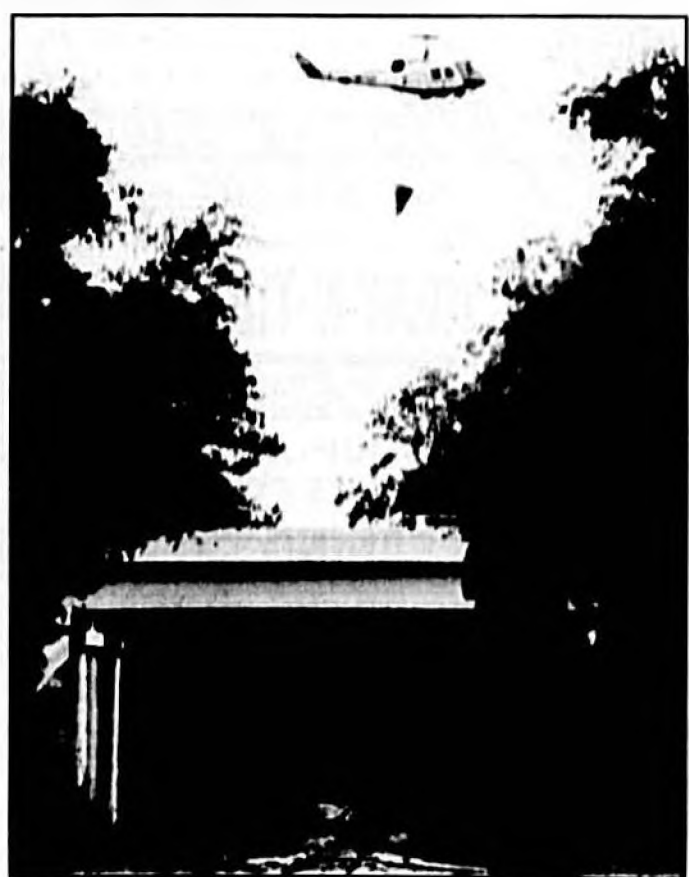

Hoen, a newcomer to politics, is an Independent. For 15 years, he owned Hoen Construction. He moved to Sanford one year ago after living in Altamonte Springs for 22 years. If elected he intends to serve full-time as commissioner.

"I believe this is a job that requires full-time attention," Hoen said. "I'm not disabled, and I can devote myself to giving this job the attention that it deserves."

He intends to focus on reducing crime and improving the city's image. Hoen believes the

Sanford Avenue fire

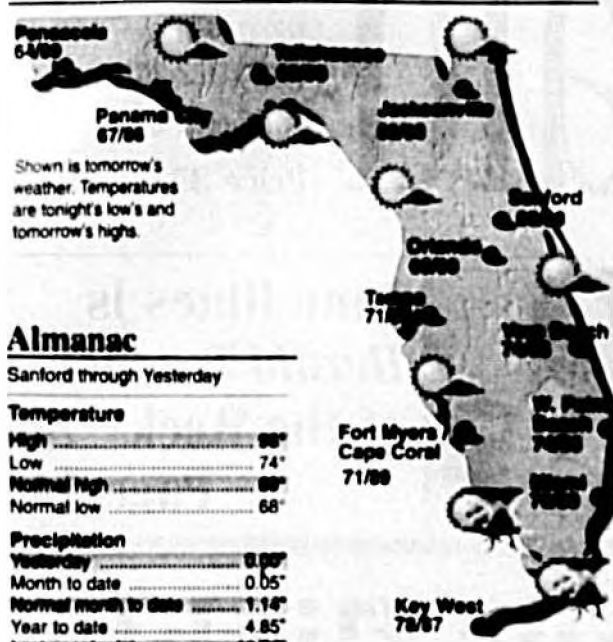

A Seminole County Sheriff's Office helicopter, equipt with a Bambi bucket flies toward a brush fire on South Sanford Avenue. Seminole County and Sanford firefighters were able to contain the 100 foot-by-100 foot brushfire. No one was injured. The fire started at about 1:48 p.m. Tuesday, and it was fully extinguished at 5:05 p.m. The cause of the fire has not been determined, said Paula Ritchie, spokeswoman for the Seminole County Fire Department. No structures were threatened.

Weight-loss marketing hits above and below the belt

DEAR ABBY: My mother, who lives in California, recently received a page torn from a newspaper with a handwritten note attached that said, "Jenny, try it. It works!" It was a full-page ad for a weight-loss product.

Dear Abby

My husband's "Aunt Ethel," who lives in Ohio, got the same thing with her name handwritten on it. Neither of the notes had a signature. Both my mother and Aunt Ethel thought it was an attack from an acquaintance or family member who didn't have the courage to sign a name. They were deeply hurt. Luckily, when we heard that they both got the exact same ad, we figured out that it was a sleazy marketing scam. Abby, please inform your readers about this advertising technique. I'm sure many other people have been hurt by it, and they should be made aware that the ads have not been sent by an insensitive "friend." It's terrible that a company would hurt someone to promote its product. This type of marketing should be exposed for what it is.

CONCERNED IN CHESAPEAKE, VA.

DEAR CONCERNED: I'm familiar with that kind of advertising. One of my staff, who has a weight problem to contend with, has received the same ad on more than one occasion. However, because of a column I wrote on this same subject a few years ago, she recognized the marketing tactic for what it was and tossed it immediately. We suspect that some of the plus-sized clothing companies that market their clothing through catalogs sell their customer lists. Readers, should you receive one of these ads, don't jump to the conclusion that someone is chastising you for your weight. And, if the product seems too good to be true, it probably is. Don't fall for false advertising.

DEAR ABBY: I have been seeing this girl for almost six months, and she means the world to me, but I get so upset when plans we make fall through.

The other night I suggested going to a movie, and later when I called to see if she wanted to go, she said she was just going to hang out at home and take it easy. I understand why and everything, but for some reason this extreme anger builds up inside me, and I end up being silent, and she knows I'm upset. The same thing happens if she gets called in to work — she's a server, and if she gets offered a good shift (Friday or Saturday), then she's going to take it unless we have some major plans.

I totally understand why she needs to do this stuff (she's a part-time student as well), but it still doesn't prevent me from getting angry. I really care for this girl, and I don't want to do anything to hurt her in any way, but I can't seem to control these feelings. They subside after about half an hour, but by then I have already upset her. Do you know of anything I can do to control my feelings — maybe count to 100 before I say something?

ANGRY IN OTTAWA

DEAR ANGRY: Actions are controllable; feelings less so. Learning to understand your feelings would be a step in the right direction, because your anger comes from hurt. Some sessions with a psychologist to probe into why you take normal changes of plans so personally might provide insight. Most people react with disappointment to such occurrences, not with extreme anger.

In the meantime, instead of counting to 100, remind yourself that people run away from those who pout, sulk and make others uncomfortable by applying the silent treatment.

Chamber events

The Seminole County/Lake Mary Regional Chamber of Commerce will hold a "Let's Get Acquainted" golf tournament on June 8, at Deltona Hills Golf & Country Club. Shotgun start is at 4 p.m. Fee is $10 per person including cart. For reservations phone Rick Hughes at 904-789-3911.

JungleBook

The Storybook Theater Company will present its production of Edward Mase's JungleBook starting June 9 at The Sands Theater Center at the Cultural Arts Center in Deland. This dramatization of the Mowgli stories by Rudyard Kipling places the jungle of India on a children's playground. The dialogue and action refer to the jungle, but the play draws color and style from a child's world of playfulness, loyalty, adventure and betrayal. June 9 and 16 performances are at 7:30 p.m. and June 10, 11, 17 and 18 performances are at 2:30 p.m. Tickets can be purchased at the Cultural Arts Center, located on 600 N. Woodland Blvd., Deland, during lobby hours. Tickets will also be available at the box office the day of the show. Tickets are $5 for adults and $3 for children. Call (904) 738-7156 for more information.

Summer Jam 2000

All middle and high school students are invited to Summer Jam 2000, presented by Seminole Community College Reachout Program, and the ladies of the Sanford Alumnae Chapter, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority, Inc. The event will be June 10 at Seminole Community College Gymnasium from 9 p.m. to 12:30 a.m. Admission is $5. Funds will go to support the scholarship fund.

Arsenic And Old Lace

Seaside Music Theater will start its summer season with Joseph Kesselring's farce, "Arsenic and Old Lace." The play, which remains one of Broadway's longest running productions, running over three years, received rave reviews for Kesselring's ingenious plot and effective use of black humor.

Performances are Tuesdays through Sundays, now through June 11, at the DICC Theater Center. Ticket prices are $35, $30 and $28 for Friday and Saturday evenings at 8 p.m. and Sunday matinees at 2 p.m. Weekdays and Wednesday matinees are $30, $25 and $23. Youth, full time college and group discounts are available. Tickets can be purchased at the SMT box office, 1200 W. International Speedway boulevard, Daytona Beach, FL, or by calling (904) 252-6200, (904) 255-3146 or (800) 854-5592.

Cruisin' Calendar

The Celery City Cruisers, a classic car organization, will be on hand in Sanford a number of times during the month of June. On June 17, the group will hold a Main Street Cruise down First Street in Downtown Sanford from 5:30 until 9:30 p.m. On June 24, it's Super Saturday Night at Walmart/Wendy's Plaza, on highway 17-92 in Sanford from 6 until 9 p.m. The events are free to the public, and the cars will be available for browsers.

Florida Trail Meeting

The Florida Trail Association is holding their Central Florida Chapter General Meeting on Thursday, June 8 at 7 p.m. in the Camellia Room at Harry P. Leu Gardens, 1730 N. Forest (off of Corrine Drive) in Orlando. The public is invited to hear Sandy "Navigator" Downs give a talk titled "Hiking Northern Florida's State Parks." She will take the group through a journey of some of the best hikes and natural wonders "up north." Greeters from the Florida Trail Association will be on hand to answer any questions about the organization. Paying less, expecting more doesn't make much sense

The men and women on the County's Charter Review Commission have decided $49,945 a year — instead of $66,000 — is enough to pay a county commissioner. They want to know if we agree. That's why there's a public hearing at the county services building next Tuesday evening.

My fellow citizens, be careful about this. We shouldn't be trying so hard to dock the pay of the Seminole County commissioners. Heaven knows, they're intimidated and insecure enough without their constituents expecting more of them for less pay.

James Thurber used to say a politician could fool too many of the people too much of the time. That's not true when it comes to the current county commissioners. Believe me, they're not fooling anyone.

Politics, and the fate of the

county, is shaped by five men whom we have elected to public office. To tell them they're going to earn so many dollars and then take away a huge hunk of it is a terrible thing to do. But we're probably going to do it, anyway.

Some politicians probably don't care much about money. They're the ones in office for the power not the dough. If this is true, the home rule charter pay cut isn't as critical as taking away some of the powers of the commission — which is another matter.

As you know, the current commission is comprised of five Republicans. The Democrats that were on the board are either dead or became Republicans. A few Democrats are challenging for office this year. So are a number of Libertarians.

This is very exciting. All kinds of people trying to be elected to jobs that figure to pay much less than they have for a long time. (The lower salaries would begin in 2002, affecting only those commissioners elected this year).

Most of the challengers believe in less government, less economic development and less pay for the elected officials.

While this may sound groovy and good, it could do great harm to this county for the next decade or more. Each of us has a responsibility to shape the quality of life, the education and well being of the community. We do this by electing able leaders. We also do it by paying them their due in respect and in wages.

Slashing the salaries of the commissioners shouldn't be a slam dunk. Attend the public hearing next week. Voice your opinion. Forget Survivor. The hearing is on Seminole Government TV. Real life survival of the county.

Russ White's column appears daily in the Seminole Herald.

Military

Army Spec. Eric L. Grasso Sr. has arrived at Fort Knox, Ky., to complete basic combat training.

During the eight weeks of training, the soldier will receive instruction in drill and ceremonies, weapons, map reading, tactics, military courtesy, military justice, physical fitness, first aid, and Army history and traditions.

Grasso is the son of Luis R. La Luz of Staten Island, N.Y., and Quintine Grasso of Oviedo.

His wife, Dana, is the daughter of Robert Burger of Jacksonville.

Air Force Staff Sgt. Treena M. Merk was named noncommissioned officer of the year.

Selection was based on the individual's exemplary duty performance, job knowledge, leadership qualities, significant self-improvement and other accomplishments.

Merk is a telephone systems journeyman with the 52nd Communications Squadron at Spangdahlem Air Base, Germany.

She is the daughter of Dora M. Drummond of Deltona, and sister of Irene M. Mattei of Muncie, Ind.

Her husband, Leonard, is the son of James T. and Jennifer Merk, Deatsville, Ala.

The sergeant graduated in 1990 from Deltona High School, and received an associate degree in 1998 from the Community College of the Air Force.

Navy Fireman Michael Morley, son of Joan M. and Michael Morley of 1918 S. Locust Ave., Sanford, recently returned from a six-month deployment to the Mediterranean Sea and Arabian Gulf while assigned to the guided missile destroyer USS Carney, home ported in Mayport, Fla.

While on deployment, Morley's ship participated in numerous international exercises, including one with the Bulgarian, Italian and Turkish navies. The exercise included multi-warfare training, seamanship practice, live surface warfare training and maneuvering, ship handling and communication drills.

During the deployment, USS Carney received the Arizona Memorial Trophy for being the most combat-ready ship in the Navy for 1997-1998.

Morley, a 1998 graduate of Seminole High School, joined the Navy in May 1999.

The dangers of coaching Little League

See that? I say to my son from the 27th row, first-base side, of Pac Bell Park in San Francisco. See how J.T. Snow taps his glove to the ground before every pitch? He's reminding himself to get his glove down on grounders.

Joan Ryan

My son looks up from his peanuts. "Oh, yeah," he says. Back to the peanuts. See that? I say. See how the batter ran out the pop fly? No response. He's searching the aisles for the churro guy. See that? I say yet again. See how the pitcher locks his eyes on the catcher's glove and doesn't glance into the other team's dugout every time they make a remark? I suspect I'm pushing his patience, a hunch based solely on body language (though it's possible he clapped his hands over his ears for warmth). Yet I can't stop myself. It's almost playoff time for Little League, which is to say, by this point in the season, parent coaches like me begin to show symptoms of borderline personality disorder. It is brought on by an entire season of: calls going against us; bad home; strike zones the size of a paperback for us and a Sub-Zero refrigerator for them; 9-year-olds who simply won't, no matter how many times you drill it into their little heads, hit an outside pitch to right field with less than two outs to move the runner from second to third.

By this time of year, you no longer think it's cute when, after falling behind so significantly that the umpire ends the game in the fourth inning, one of your players asks, "Did we win?" (Several responses leap to mind, but you manage to answer, "Almost.") By now you've given up trying to keep the players on the bench during your team's at-bats. They're throwing Frisbees to dogs, trying out someone else's scooter, sending friends to the corner store for Kit Kats and Gatorade, and holding staring contests. You decide the try-out system is to blame. Next year you'll insist on IQ tests, disciplinary records, muscle-motor analyses, growth-projection charts, distractibility quotients and three character references.

You have exhausted all possible strategies for getting the kids to stop beating on the plate with the bat (particularly as pitches whiz by). You have run out of answers to the child who asks at every single game why he can't be the pitcher. (His inability to throw a ball more than three feet doesn't strike him as a relevant consideration.) You are at a loss about why players still slow down at first base and overrun second. You are just the slightest bit cranky. Which is why, around this time of year, you decide there is nothing more grating than phrases like "They're just kids," and "It's only a game" — except when an opposing coach goes bonkers over an umpire's call, at which time you turn to the parents in the stands, shake your head and say, "They're just kids. It's only a game."

You continue to tell your child, as if you still believe it, that you don't care if he plays well or poorly, as long as he has fun. Then you begin to fit your child's homework schedule around trips to the batting cage. You rent instructional videos and try to pass them off to your child as "baseball movies." You turn every Giants game into a seminar on base-running, backing-up, concentration, infield files, cut-off men.

At Pac Bell Park, my son finally interrupts me. "See that, mom?" (Yes! Yes! He's noticing the details!) He points to the third-base dugout. "See the coaches standing on the steps of the dugout?" (Yes! I do! I see them!) "See," he says, "how they hardly say anything?"

To the editor:
Let me start by saying I drive the truck for Habitat for Humanity. I need to take this time to thank all of you. Let me start with those that believed in me and gave me this wonderful job. You need to know that my heart is in it 100 percent. Let me also thank the fire and police departments in Seminole and all surrounding counties. I'd like to thank you not only for your donations, but also for helping me find the places that I could not. You saved my neck more than once. God bless all of you. I can't say enough about you except thank you. I also want to thank all of the wonderful people out there that give selflessly to our cause. I've made many friends and you guys make it happen. All I can say to you is that you have a special gift that only the heart knows. And the heart is where life lives. May God bless all of you threefold.

If I haven't met you yet, then I'm looking forward to extending the many friends I have so far.

President Clinton and 'the rule of law'

The decision of the 11th Circuit Court of Appeals in Atlanta, acquiescing in the ruling of the Immigration and Naturalization Service that Elian Gonzalez is too young to claim political asylum and must abide by his father's decision to take him back to Cuba, is unquestionably a triumph for the Clinton administration. President Clinton took time out of his trip to Europe to hail it, and Attorney General Janet Reno promptly held a press conference to crow over the result.

William Rusher

But, as so often in this administration, what you see is not quite the whole story. From the beginning, the public has been encouraged to believe that the central figure on the government's side of the drama was Ms. Reno. It was she who was seen pressing the INS to reverse its original opinion that the issue of who should have custody of Elian belonged in the Florida courts. It was she who so visibly dominated events thereafter, even traveling to Miami herself to try to resolve the family dispute. And it was she, of course, at least in theory, who finally ordered the famous 5 a.m. assault on the Gonzalez residence, from which Elian was removed at gunpoint.

So if the public wanted to get mad at anybody on the government's side of the case, Ms. Reno was the obvious choice. Mr. Clinton confined himself, in public at least, to saying piously that "the rule of law" must be upheld. But what "rule of law" was it, precisely, that needed so desperately to be upheld? It was the aforesaid ruling of the INS, which the Gonzalez family challenged in court and appealed to the 11th Circuit. And how did that come to be the law of this particular case?

As noted above, the INS had originally had a very different view. Its first inclination was to let the Florida courts decide the question of custody. But soon thereafter, somebody persuaded the INS to change its mind. In short order, federal agents in Havana twice questioned Juan Miguel Gonzalez, Elian's father, and declared themselves convinced that he wanted his son back and that the boy ought to be returned to Cuba. The INS so ordered.

What — or rather who — changed the INS's mind? It simply beggars belief that an issue that explosive, involving this country's relations with the Castro regime and the sentiments of hundreds of thousands of Cuban-American voters in Florida and elsewhere, would be left to the decision of Janet Reno. For whatever reason (and we will return to that point later), the decision was made by President Clinton himself.

The attorney general was simply pushed forward by Mr. Clinton to take the heat — and the fall, if things went badly.

The INS's coerced ruling quickly became the "rule of law," before which Mr. Clinton and Ms. Reno genuflect daily. But the opinion of the 11th Circuit makes it plain that the court had little regard for the wisdom of the ruling. The court repeatedly noted the tyrannical character of the regime to which Elian would be returned, and was tacitly skeptical of the INS's decision. But, obeying the (highly conservative) legal principle that decisions of the executive branch, made within its authority, ought not to be overturned unless there has been a clear "abuse of discretion," the court reluctantly concluded that the ruling did not quite add up to such an abuse and must be obeyed.

In other words, the president and the attorney general are telling us that "the rule of law" must be upheld at all costs, although the particular ruling they are so eager to uphold was one that Mr. Clinton himself contrived to bring about, and that could easily — indeed, in the implied opinion of the 11th

Circuit, more easily — have gone the other way.

The remaining mystery is what Mr. Clinton is up to here. His overriding aim, clearly, has been to avoid offending Fidel Castro — even at the expense of losing Florida to Governor Bush in November, let alone condemning a 6-year-old boy to a life in Cuba. But what's so sacred about Castro?

We are left to conclude that Mr. Clinton has privately reached some understanding with the Cuban dictator, which might be jeopardized if Castro were angered. What the deal involves is something we probably won't find out until after Election Day, when means of retaliation are few.

But it will have precious little to do with upholding "the rule of law."

Schools Receive Material About Pilgrims

Seminole County elementary schools will receive 35 kits containing primary source documents from the colony settled at New Plymouth Rock between 1620 and 1627.

The kits, valued at $300, will be presented to the Seminole County School Board on June 13 at the Educational Support Center in Sanford. The donations are being made by the Society of Mayflower Descendants in the State of Florida — John Howland Colony, and The National Society Sons and Daughters of the Pilgrims.

Special Senior Awards

Seminole County School Board member Larry Furlong is providing scholarships to five students as part of the annual Special Service Awards.

The winners include Megan DeMichele and Jeff Sawyer of Lake Howell High School, Rachel Roloff of Lyman High School, Elizabeth Baldwin of Lake Brantley High School and Brian Morgan of Oviedo High School.

The students received a check for $500 and a framed certificate. This year's winners also received an additional $50 from the congregation of Temple Beth Am in Longwood.

The winning students were selected from more than 25 entries submitted by students in Seminole County's public high schools.

Since 1991, the year the first awards were presented, Furlong has provided scholarships to 52 students worth $29,750. The Special Senior Award is dedicated to the memory of Furlong's parents John and Evelyn Furking. The awards were presented at each high school's spring awards night.

PreK Early Intervention Program Recruiting Students

Spaces are available for children who will be four years old on or before Sept. 1 to participate in PreK Early Intervention classes. Spaces are still available at Caseberry, Cross, Hamilton and Midway elementary schools. Funded by Florida Lottery money, it is a full school day program.

The program is for lower income working families who would meet the 150 percent Federal Poverty Guidelines criteria. Based on new state legislation, parents will pay a small weekly fee determined by their income.

For more information, call the Parent Information Line at 407-320-0414 (English) or 407-320-0415 (Spanish). The PreK office is located at 1722 West Airport Blvd., Sanford at the ESC Annex and will accept applications on Fridays only, throughout the summer.

Herald Teacher of the Week

Jane Hines teaches seventh- and eighth-grade language arts and social studies at Double R School Inc., a private school located in Chuluota.

Double R School serves pre-school for age two and up, as well as about 150 students from kindergarten through eighth grade.

Hines has been teaching for five years, all at Double R School. She holds a master's degree in gerontology from the University of South Florida, and a bachelor's degree in political science from Seton Hill College in Pennsylvania. She was raising her children as a housewife when she decided to become a teacher.

"There was an opening at the school, and they encouraged me to just try it," Hines said. "I have loved teaching ever since."

She has been married to her husband Charles for 13 years. They have four children, ranging in age from 4 to 10.

Hines shared her views on various topics with Herald Staff Writer Bill Kerns:

Favorite part of teaching: "Watching the little light bulbs go off over their heads when they get it."

Most memorable experience as a teacher: "Probably having overnight lock-ins with my students and spending time with them. We had three lock-ins this year in the gym. We played basketball, listened to music, and ate pizza."

Biggest challenge for teachers: "Getting parents involved with what their kids are doing in school."

Advice for parents: "To check their children's homework frequently. Talk with their children's teachers.

Let them tell you the good stuff and not just the bad stuff."

Advice for students: "To do their best at everything they do. Ask questions when you don't understand something. Asking questions is very important."

Advice for new or prospective teachers: "Keeping your sense of humor is very important. Finding an older or more experienced teacher is a big plus. Also, it's important to teach what you're interested in."

Best advice you have ever received: "When they hired me at this school they said to just try it. That is the best advice I've ever been given."

Person(s) who have inspired you: "Amelia Earhart was such a courageous person. She had such spirit, and she was such a pioneer. My parents (Mary Lou and Joe Mitchell) also inspired me. (Hines was born and raised in Arlington Heights, Ill., just outside Chicago.)" Favorite book or inspirational message: "The Old Man and the Sea" by Ernest Hemingway. It's one of those books that says to keep trying."

Hobbies: "I'm a crafts person. I love to sew and do needle work."

If you would like to nominate a teacher for the Herald's Teacher of the Week, contact Herald Editor Dan Ping or Staff Writer Bill Kerns by fax, 407-323-9408; or E-mail, shedit@tdaol.com.

Two teachers honored for innovative pursuits

Vanlandingham, Hines receive awards

By Bill Kerns
Staff Writer

Two Seminole County teachers were honored with best business education awards Monday at Disney World in Orlando.

Anna Vanlandingham of Lake Mary High School won second place in the innovations category for grades 9 to 12. In addition, Jane Hines of Double R School, a private school located in Chuluota, won second place in the innovations category for grades 6 to 8.

Both Vanlandingham and Hines won $200 each, plus $35 in gift certificates for restaurants.

Education Commissioner Tom Gallagher presented awards to 35 total teachers from across the state.

The Florida Council on Economic Education, a non-profit organization, sponsors the 20-year-old annual competition entitled the Governor's Awards for Excellence in Teaching Economics. The Council is funded by the Florida Department of Education and by businesses statewide.

Hines involved 21 students in an economics class of seventh and eighth graders at Double R School in a year-long program about budgeting entitled Higher Education Inc. Students received Double R Money as a wage for every hour they were in class, plus incentives and raises for good performance.

Their "wages" were also reduced based upon poor performance. Meanwhile, students had to balance a mock checking account while making payments for an apartment, a car, and other expenses.

"Students learned that if you don't have money, you cannot have things," Hines said. "They don't know that because their parents buy their clothes and food."

The awards ceremony was held at the Contemporary Resort before an audience of 250 educators, business leaders and legislators.

Teachers from pre-kindergarten through 12th grade were rewarded for their creativity in initiating business programs in their classrooms. Each teacher submitted a synopsis of a project for competition.

A total of 146 projects from across the state were considered in the competition, and 41 awards were given.

Hoen

Sanford Police Department needs increased funding and manpower. In addition, he believes the city should increase street lighting and code enforcement efforts.

"I don't think we're doing enough as a city government to reduce crime," Hoen said. "I think crime in general is one of our biggest problems."

Hoen said he probably would have voted against a proposal to place a hotel and conference center on Fort Mellon Park had he been a member of the City Commission when the matter was first considered. He would prefer that such a facility be located along US Highway 17-92 or the Interstate-4 corridor.

However, if the city received a bid for a hotel and conference center which includes shops and stores within the facility and improvements for Fort Mellon Park, Hoen said he may vote in favor of it.

"I think the downtown concept is a good concept, but I'm not married to it," Hoen said. "We need to bring more business to our downtown, and I want us to have a state-of-the-art park. I'd like to find a way of generating new business downtown without destroying the heritage of Sanford."

Regarding Zoning Ordinance 3502, Hoen said he would consider requests from social service agencies for a variance on the 1,500 foot separation requirement on a case-by-case basis.

"I don't think we can say we have to vote no on every case because we have an ordinance," Hoen said.

He said he would need to learn more about tensions between residents of the city's historic district and Seminole Volunteer Enterprises before recommending a way to resolve tensions over a proposed soup kitchen.

"I'm for the idea of helping the needy, working within city ordinances," Hoen said.

Meanwhile, Hoen has been talking with residents of the district who voted in the previous election of 1999, in which A.A. "Mac" McClanahan was elected. The special election is being held because McClanahan died in April.

"My biggest pitfall is that nobody knows who I am," Hoen said. "That's why my biggest effort has been to meet as many people as I can who will be voting."

Pan Am

convinced that service between Sanford and St. Louis will do very well."

The airline is planning to announce commuter service between Sanford and three or four locations within Florida later this year, said Dan Fortnam, Pan Am's Vice President of Marketing.

"We're within two to three months of making an announcement," Fortnam said. "Service would start in about six months."

Pan Am is looking into offering commuter service to Ft. Myers, Key West and Tallahassee, Fortnam said. "Our Clipper strategy has been very successful in the Boston, Chicago, Pittsburgh, Central Florida, and Bangor markets, and we believe it will rapidly take hold in St. Louis," Fortnam said.

The airline's Clipper Class flights are reconfigured 727's with the total number of seats reduced from 173 to 149.

Pan Am began scheduled domestic service in Sanford in October 1999.

Sanford's airport handles about one million passengers per year. Total passenger numbers so far this year at the airport are up 25 percent over the same period last year.

Through April, a total of 210,349 passengers have been served. This breaks down to 148,106 international passengers and 62,263 domestic passengers.

The airport remains on schedule with the $25 million terminal expansion project that will provide carriers with a two-level terminal and seven additional jetbridges.

Completion of the first wide-body gate position is expected in June, with total project completion expected in November.

Jacksonville and Tampa, so I wouldn't say these are all Sanford guardsmen," he added.

Just this past week, one guardman, Spec. Matthew Moore, 20, of Polk County, was left paralyzed from the chest down when he was struck by a falling tree during a fire fight. Maj. Gen. Harrison visited Moore at Orlando Regional Medical Center where Moore is listed in stable condition.

"He is a strong young man," Harrison said. "He was in good spirits despite the situation he is facing," Harrison assured Moore that the Guard will support him and his family as long as necessary.

Harrison also voiced concern for the family of the helicopter pilot who died last week fighting a fire south of Fort Myers.

"Our heartfelt thoughts and prayers go out to the family of George Burton, a former U.S. Army aviator, who gave his life protecting the citizens of Florida," he said.

About 30 guardsmen have been sent to the Jacksonville area to assist fire fighters there, with another 40 planned for activation for refresher training, then assigned to various fire districts. In all, over 200 guardsmen are now involved in fighting the fires around the state, with that number expected to increase to over 300 in the next few weeks, unless the weather changes drastically.

Special Olympics Florida receives $1-million from state legislature

Special to the Herald

TALLAHASSEE - In a press conference held on Tuesday, May 30, Governor Jeb Bush formally approved the state budget, which included a legislative appropriation of $1,000,000.00 to help establish a permanent education and training center for Special Olympics Florida.

The Special Olympics Florida Education and Training Center will be located on the grounds of the South Lake Hospital, at the USA Triathlon National Training Center in Clermont (Lake County). The center will also serve as the state headquarters for Special Olympics Florida.

Among the benefits of the new facility's location will be the opportunity for Special Olympics athletes to be housed by registered operators near other disabled world-class athletes.

Additionally, the proposed 10,000 square foot facility will allow for expanded training opportunities for athletes, coaches and volunteers.

Unique in this setting will be the opportunity to grow Florida's "Special Olympics Healthy Athletes" initiative. Part of a worldwide program, the Healthy Athletes initiative focuses on producing better athletes through better health.

"This legislation would not have become a reality without the work of Representative Bob Starlin (District 34) who introduced the appropriations request in the House and worked tirelessly on our behalf during the recent legislative session," said Special Olympics Florida President and CEO, Monty Castevans.

"Senator Howard Forman (District 32) was crucial in introducing this request to the Senate and we have to thank Lt. Governor Frank Brogan, Rep. Ken Pruitt (District 81), Rep. Jim Fuller (District 16), Sen. Daniel Webster (District 14) and Rep. Randy Johnson (District 41) for their support of Special Olympics in Florida."

Mr. Castevans continued by saying, "We want to extend our thanks to Governor Bush for making a strong statement about the importance of our athletes and people with mental retardation in the state of Florida."

"Special Olympics has changed the way the world views people with developmental disabilities and right here in Florida, athletes have been inspiring greatness in themselves and others since 1972. While we have made great strides, there is still much to be done. See Olympics, Page 2B

Vivona's grabs top spot

Vivona's outscores Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary to take Wednesday Men's lead

By Dean Smith
 SPORTS EDITOR

SANFORD - Manny Silvia's two-out, inside-the-park home run in the fourth inning broke a 6-6 tie and Vivona went on to outscore Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary, 18-12, in a battle of co-leaders in the City of Sanford Recreation and Parks Department Men's Spring Wednesday Night Slow Pitch Softball League at Pinehurst Park last week.

The victory was the second of the season for Vivona's over Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary (Vivona's edged Wilson-Eichelberger 6-4 on April 19th) and put the leaders in prime position to take the league championship with the season scheduled to end this evening at Pinehurst Park.

The win was also more impressive in that it came on the heels of Vivona's only loss of the season, 22-21, to Kenny's Klan two weeks ago.

In other game's last week, Beer 30 jumped out to a 9-0 lead in the fourth inning and clinched at least a 500 season by holding on for a 9-7 triumph over All Natural Lawn; and trashed closer to a 500 season by nipping winless Wells Contracting, 7-3.

Vivona's is now 8-1 and leads Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary (7-2), Beer 30 (5-4), Kenny's Klan (4-5), All Natural Lawn (3-6) and Wells Contracting (0-9).

Tonight's final games at Pinehurst Park have Wells Contracting tackling Beer 30 at 6:30 p.m.; Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary battling Kenny's Klan at 7:30 p.m.; and All Natural Lawn challenging Vivona's at 8:30 p.m.

Vivona's took a 4-0 lead in the top of the first inning and increased the margin to 6-1 in the top of the third inning.

But Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary battled back to tie the game in the bottom of the third inning by scoring five runs, two coming home on a double by Dale Peters.

Silvia then ripped his inside the park homer in the top of the fourth inning seemed to take the wind out of Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary's sails and to put Vivona's ahead to stay, but the game was not over.

Jimmy Kenney's two-run triple highlighted a three run fifth inning as Vivona's took a 10-6 advantage and then, after Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary scored a run in the bottom of the fifth inning and Vivona's answered with a run in the sixth inning, the new leaders put the hammer to their foes, collecting seven straight hits, including doubles by Danny Hewitt and Andy Logan, to score seven runs and give Vivona's an 18-7 lead.

Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary tried to battle back in the bottom of the seventh inning, getting a grand slam from Craig Jones and scoring five runs in the frame to make the final score respectable.

Kenny's Klan broke away from a 1-0 lead by scoring three runs in the fourth inning, with back-to-back triples by Dave Goff and Hank Toole bring the big blows, and eventually built a 7-0 lead before Wells Contracting scored its three runs, two on a triple by Troy Hickson, in the bottom of the seventh inning.

Beer 30 scored two runs in each of the first three innings and three runs in the fourth inning to take a 9-0 lead and then went into cruise control and nearly snatched defeat from the jaws of victory.

All Natural Lawn finally got on the board with a run in the fifth inning, then made things interesting, closing to within 9-5 by plating four runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Things really started to heat up in the bottom of the seventh inning as Mike McLohon and Jeremy Chusat opened the inning with back-to-back singles, moved up on a grounder by Jamie Pitzer and See Wednesday, Page 2B

Manny Silvia went 2-for-3 with a home run and a sacrifice fly, scored two runs and drove in three more to help Vivona's outscore Wilson-Eichelberger Mortuary, 18-12, last week to take over sole possession of first place in the Sanford Men's Spring Wednesday Night Slow Pitch Softball League heading into the final evening of the regular season tonight at Pinehurst Park.

Bombats moves to top of tight AAA Co-Ed League

By Dean Smith
 SPORTS EDITOR

LAKE MARY - A new leader emerged but things remained very tight between four teams in the City of Lake Mary Department of Parks and Recreation Spring Co-Ed AAA Slow Pitch Softball League.

Last Wednesday night at the Lake Mary Sports Complex, Ross LeDuc and Jack Cadden drove in two runs each as the Bombats topped I.S., 11-7, in a battle of former co-leaders.

Third-place Cross Bones found itself down 4-0 to Liberty Mutual II after the top of the first inning, but Rick Stock drove in three runs to help Cross Bones rally for an 11-4 victory and move into sole possession of second place, just a half-game out of the lead.

Liberty Mutual I also kept its hopes alive, rallying for four runs in the bottom of the fourth, and final, inning to nip Liberty Mutual II, 19-18.

The Bombats are now 6-3 and lead Cross Bones (5-3), I.S. (5-4), Liberty Mutual I (4-4) and Liberty Mutual II (1-7).

Tonight at the Lake Mary Sports Complex on Rantoul Lane, Cross Bones looks for a share of first place when it battles Liberty Mutual I at 7 p.m., and Liberty Mutual II challenges I.S. at 8 p.m. The Bombats have the week off.

Liberty Mutual II got off to a good start in the opening game of the evening, scoring five runs in the top of the first inning on the strength of a two-run single by Sam Copeland.

But Liberty Mutual I came right back to take control of the contest, sending 17 hitters to the plate and getting seven hits and seven walks to score 12 runs in the bottom of the first inning. Two-run doubles by Skip Bowen and Steve Passwater and a two-run walk by Mark Thalling were the big at bats in the frame.

Liberty Mutual II was not about to let its slater team get away so easily, however, scoring two runs in the second inning and seven runs in the third inning, using five walks, two scoring two runs each, and a two-run single from Clara Vetro, to take a 14-12 lead.

Liberty Mutual I answered again in the bottom of the third inning, regaining the lead by plating three runs.

The top of the fourth inning was Liberty Mutual II's turn to take the lead again, scoring four runs on a pair of two-run, inside-the-park home runs from Jorge Martinez and Kevin Roche.

But they could not hold the lead as, with orig out, Steve Passwater got to second on a single and an error and Mike Pecchio walked before Rich Baker drove in Passwater with a single.

Skip Bowen singled and Pecchio scored on the play on an error to make the score 18-17 in favor of Liberty Mutual II. Celeste Herrera then walked to load the bases and Jason Prosdhan followed with another walk to score Baker and Bowen with the tying and winning runs.

Jorge Martinez's two-run single capped a four-run top of the first inning as Liberty Mutual II again took a quick lead in the second game.

But this time their would not be much of a battle as Cross Bones scored three runs in the bottom of the first inning and two runs in the bottom of the second inning to take a lead it would not give See AAA, Page 2B

Recent Seminole High School graduate Brian Nielsen (above and left) decided to forego college to start his trek toward a major-league baseball career when the 10th Round Draft pick signed a minor-league contract with the Milwaukee Brewers and will be headed for mini-camp in Arizona starting on Thursday.

Nielsen signs pro contract; Oviedo's Goodwin selected

By Bill Kerns
 Staff Writer

SANFORD - Brian Nielsen first realized he could one day pitch in the Major Leagues during his sophomore season at Seminole High School, when he threw a two-hit shutout after being promoted to the varsity squad.

For the past two years, the 6-foot-2 left-hander has honed an 88-mph fastball, a nasty forkball, hard breaking curve and changeup to become the Seminole High School ace.

The Milwaukee Brewers drafted the 18-year-old Nielsen in the 10th round Monday afternoon, making him the 291st overall selection.

He agreed to a minor league contract later that night, relinquishing a scholarship from Embury-Riddle Aeronautical University in Daytona Beach. Nielsen will depart from his Sanford home to mini-camp in Arizona on Thursday. See Draft, Page 2B back. The winner's then pulled away by scoring three runs in each of the third and fifth innings to secure the win.

LeDuc's two-run homer capped a three-run top of the first inning and the Bombats went on to take a 9-2 lead going into the bottom of the fifth inning.

That's when I.S. bowed its respective backs and tried to make a game of it, scoring three runs in the bottom of the inning to cut the lead to 9-6.

But the Bombats dealt a death blow by scoring two runs in the top of the sixth inning and I.S. could only answer with three runs in the bottom of the sixth inning.

Providing the offense were:

"I'm very excited," Nielsen said. "I'm ready to go. I think I'll do well, as long as I work hard and keep my mouth shut."

Seminole High School head baseball coach Mike Powers said he considers Nielsen "one of the best pitchers I've had here at Seminole High School."

Although Nielsen's won-loss record was 4-5 during his senior season, he still struck out 117 in 77 innings and led the Tribe to its fourth consecutive district championship. As a junior, his record was 9-2 and he was also a mainstay of the Sanford American Legion Post 53 squad the past two years.

Nielsen said the fastball is his best pitch.

"I need to add more snap to my curve ball and throw it harder," Nielsen said. "I also need to get better location on my fastball."

Nielsen, who lives in the Seminole Estates subdivision, becomes the third player to be drafted out of the same west Sanford neighborhood, joining shortstop Chris Louwsma (by the Florida Marlins in 1998) and first baseman Clyde "C3" Williams (by the Montreal Expos last year).

"I don't know what it is between us," Nielsen said. "We just all played together and grew up together. Really, the credit goes to coach Powers and (assistant) coach (Rod) Ferguson."

Nielsen, who has played baseball since age four, grew up dreaming of getting drafted and playing in the major leagues. His goal is to pitch for the Brewers by 2004.

"The Brewers are a small market team," Nielsen said. "That gives me a better chance of moving up, and staying in the rotation."

The hitter Nielsen particularly looks forward to striking out is New York Yankees star shortstop Derek Jeter.

"I just always have fun watching him," Nielsen said. "He's one of the best hitters in the game."

The largest crowd Nielsen has pitched in front of is 350 during the 1998 American Legion Regional Finals in Tennessee. He believes larger crowds will improve his performance.

"I don't let pressure get to me," Nielsen said. "It makes me do better."

TWINS TAKE LION GOODWIN

OVIEDO - Righthanded pitcher Jered Goodwin became the second Oviedo Lion to be taken in the 2000 First-Year Player Draft by Major League Baseball on Tuesday when he was taken in the 23rd Round by the Minnesota Twins, making him the 672nd player taken overall.

Goodwin, who also played infield for Coach Harold Hitt's Lions, went 8-2 this season to help Oviedo finish the season 28-4, ranked No. 2 in the final Class 6A State Poll and a Class 6A State Final Four participant in Tampa.

Tuesday, Longwood's Bryson Grassing, who played at St. Leo College, was taken with the 833rd pick in the 28th Round by the St. Louis Cardinals as a righthanded pitcher, and Longwood's Justin Harris was the 1317th player taken in the 44th Round by the New York Mets as a shortstop out of Manatee Community College in Bradenton.

Also, the University of Central Florida's Daniel Sillman was pick #1378 in the 47th round by the Anaheim Angels. The Palm Harbor resident is a righthanded pitcher.

Of national interest, San Diego Padres star Tony Gwynn's son, Anthony, was taken in the 33rd round by the Atlanta Braves. The centerfielder from Powa High School in California was the 1,000th player taken overall.

Rounds 21-through-50 were conducted on Tuesday with the remainder of the draft to completed today.

to be done and this is a tremendous step in the right direction."

While the $1,000,000.00 will go a long way toward the realization of the Special Olympics Florida Training and Education Center, more funds will be needed to complete the project. To work toward this goal, Special Olympics Florida will soon launch a Capital Campaign program to raise the additional funds.

Special Olympics Florida provides year-round sports training and competition for over 19,000 children and adults with mental retardation throughout Florida.

Founded in 1968 by Eunice Kennedy Shriver, Special Olympics gives people with mental retardation continual opportunities to develop fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in the sharing of gifts, skills and friendship with their peers, families and communities.
