Aquanuts Glitter, Grab Gold

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

As they swam in sync to "Those Were The Days," it was the day for the Oak Park Aquanuts to take the gold in the synchronized swimming team competition on the opening day of the Golden Age Games.

The gold would have shined a bit brighter if the eight-woman team from Alva, Fla., had competition in the meet. But just because they swam the field alone at Lyman High School in Longwood, didn't dampen the spirit of their performance, which would likely have come up a winner in any case.

Swimming judge Mary Rose of Altamonte Springs, said the team of 60 to 64-year-olds had put in their practice time to come up with a stellar showing, because the swimmers had no idea they would have the field to themselves.

The Aquanuts, with their glittering gold and green net caps, added sparkle to the waters following the first division of Monday's game. Individual "figure" competition, which drew eleven swimmers, eight women women dressed simply in black tank suits and bathing caps and two men who donned trunks.

But all of the competitors scheduled for Tuesday's duets and solo swims had spangled and sequined costumes set aside to add splash to their planned show. However, for the individual "figure" competitions there was no flash added to spice up the act. It was a simple show of skill in performing the water wheel, the dolphin and other precision swimming feats.

In that heat, Mrs. Rose said the judges were looking for design, meaning the position of the figure — and control, how effortless the swimmer's performance seems.

As usual, Louise Wing, 67, of Lynn, Mass., swam away with the gold in the figures competition in her age group, a traditional outcome for this national synchronized swimming champion who always grabs the gold.

Mrs. Wing's husband, Fred, 73, also swam for and got the gold in his age group and they were set to be the team to beat in Tuesday's duet competition an event they won at last year's Games.

But the swimming duet of 64-year-old Becky and George Tuttle, 61, of Sun City Center, had a family swim scheduled for

Light Turnout Seen In Early City Voting

Registered voters in three Seminole County cities are going to the polls today in municipal elections.

Polls will remain open until 7 p.m.

In Altamonte Springs, where Eddie Titen and Dudley Bates are unopposed for city commission districts one and three seats, City Clerk Penny Conahan reports an extremely light turnout.

In Casselberry, where residents are electing a mayor and two councilmen, the city clerk's office described the turnout as "steady". Incumbent Charles Glascock is opposed by Owen Sheppard and John Leighty in the mayor's race. In the seat four race, Phyllis Sheppard is challenging the incumbent Al Harmon, while incumbent Tom Embree is opposed by Ed Lewis for seat five.

In Winter Springs where voters will elect three city commissioners at-large, City Clerk Mary Norton said things were "pretty quiet" at the polls this morning. Candidates for seat one: Incumbent Jim Hartman, and Cindy Jo Kaehler; seat three: Ray Bradshaw, Art Harris and Phillip A. Kulbes; and seat five: Burley G. Adkins, Lawrence Cerra, Marilyn Piland and Martin Trencher.

No Break On Water Fee Hikes

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

The Sanford City Commission was unsuccessful Monday in efforts to alleviate the substantial sewer and water rate increases thought necessary for the city to float a $15-million bond issue for its wastewater management program.

In addition, customers may face an additional 11 percent raise two years, unless between now and then the new impact fees developers will be charged to hook into the Sanford system can generate enough revenue to offset a second bond the city will float for the project, according to Bill Simmons, city director of building and planning. The second bond would be for approximately $9-million and take the city through the second phase of its state mandated program, Simmons said.

At a Monday afternoon work session Simmons presented several sets of computations which, although reducing the water and sewer increases in one consumer category, correspondingly increased them in another. He explained because the bond revenue must be obtained through the city's water and sewer accounts, "every permutation or structure we develop will have an equal and opposite reaction somewhere else."

Simmons did come up with a $116,000 rate decrease when he pared the "safety factor" that had been incorporated into the new rate structure as a means of insuring revenue if customers undertook substantial water conservation measures. He said, however, he would be "uncomfortable" reducing a figure which might ultimately serve as "part of a balancing act" that would offer "only temporary savings."

Sanford Seeks Pay Hike For Budget Analyst

Cash drawers left open during the day behind the counters at Sanford City Hall and a $100,000 accounting error that was not discovered until two days after it had been made are two of the reasons City Manager Frank Faison and Director of Administrative Services Kim Smith have requested the City Commission increase the salary for the budget analyst the city is seeking.

"Sloppy practices must be stopped," said city commissioner John Mercer, speaking in favor of the proposal.

Mayor Bettye Smith agreed, adding the information provided by Faison and Smith was indicative of Sanford's being "a grow-

Mayor: We Need Help

Land Tug-Of-War 'Nightmare' For Sanford

Seminole County's interest in the Yankee Lake property as possible site for a waste treatment plant has created "a nightmare" for Sanford, according to Mayor Bettye Smith.

She said today the city's efforts to obtain the site for its own waste management program are "too far along for us to start playing games."

"The county has known all along we wanted this land and Jeno Palucci (the property's owner) had indicated a willingness to sell it to us," the mayor said. "Now we're placed in a very vulnerable position and we need help."

According to Mrs. Smith, the situation is compounded and "too horrible to talk about" when the possibility of alternative sites for the city's spray irrigation system are addressed. The Yankee Lake parcel, Mayor Smith said, "is the only site in our area that has the size and type soil we need."

Mayor Smith was out of town on Friday, when County Administrator Ken Hooper announced the county's interest in Yankee Lake as possible site for a county wastewater treatment plant.

"We'd heard rumors the county was interested, so I'm not really surprised," the mayor said. "I'm just extremely disappointed it's turned out to be true."

Mayor Smith also said she was

Seminole Picks Agriculture Extension Agent

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

In what may have been a classic confrontation of farmers versus cattlemen, the Seminole County Board of Commissioners overruled its own agricultural advisory board and selected a new cooperative extension manager who has a stronger background in horticulture than livestock.

The selection of Uday Yadav for the job was sweetened by the state with an offer to make Orange County's livestock agent available for consultation in Seminole County, according to Commission Chairman Bob Sturm.

Yadav, an Orange County extension service agent specializing in horticulture, will take over the job of supervising agriculture-related extension programs in December, according to John Percy, director of public services for Seminole County. The program is run by the state through the University of Florida.

The selection of Yadav was opposed by the Seminole Farm Bureau and the Seminole Cattlemen's Association. The cattlemen wanted an extension manager whose background was strong in livestock experience, according to Ed Yarborough, president of the organization. Cecil Tucker II, president of the Farm Bureau, said the bureau opposed Yadav's selection because the promotion would lessen his time available as a plant specialist and increase his administrative duties, "which are worth a hill of beans," Tucker said.

The county Agricultural Advisory Board recommended 3-2 against Yadav. That board preferred Gary Brinen, an agricultural agent in Alachua County, Sturm said.

Sturm said he preferred Yadav because of his background and experience and because his selection brought the promise by the university that an Orange County livestock expert would be made available to Seminole County cattlemen.

Yadav will replace agricultural agent Frank Jasa who left the position a few months ago to help operate a family business in south Florida. Seminole County agricultural agent Bob Llewellyn has been acting in Jasa's stead.

Yadav, 43, will supervise group and individual training that the extension service conducts in the county as well as agricultural projects, research interpretation and application, 4-H activities and home economics instruction.

The state will pay 80 percent of Yadav's $22,000 salary and the county 20 percent. Top salary for the position is $31,000.

Yadav, lives in Orlando near Winter Park.

KGB Agent Claims CIA Kidnapping

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kremlin has delivered a pre-summit bombshell by producing a top KGB official who claims he was kidnapped in Rome, spirited to the United States and drugged by the CIA.

Vitaly Yurchenko started the U.S. intelligence community Monday with his claim that he spent "three horrible months" being questioned in a CIA "safe house" near Fredericksburg, Va., before slipping away to the Soviet Embassy.

The bizarre turn of events created yet another strain on U.S.-Soviet relations, as Secretary of State George Shultz prepared to meet Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev in Moscow today to make final preparations for the Nov. 19-20 summit.

Yurchenko's revelation follows recent U.S.-Soviet confrontations involving a Soviet seaman who jumped ship in New Orleans and a soldier who sought refuge in the U.S. Embassy in Afghanistan.

The Soviet Embassy lodged a formal protest at the State Department over the incident and demanded Yurchenko be allowed to return to the Soviet Union. Tass, the Soviet news agency, called it "an act of terrorism" and "a flagrant violation" of the human rights of a Soviet diplomat who U.S. agents wanted to make an "unthinking, senseless thing, a dumb beast" doing their will.

But the State Department, branding Yurchenko's allegations "completely false and without any foundation," said that before he will be permitted to leave the United States, "we will insist on meeting with him in an environment free of Soviet coercion to satisfy ourselves about his real intentions."

Yurchenko, 49, appearing at an hourlong news conference, claimed he had not defected but had been "forcibly abducted" in Rome in August "by some unknown persons" and "brought

Price Wasn't Right

BOISE, Idaho (UPI) — The Idaho Court of Appeals has ruled that a Washington firm has no obligation to pay for a $5,620 electrical device that an employee thought cost only $56.

The dispute arose when Spokane Computer Services purchased an electronic part from Konle International of Kootenai County.

The Spokane employee was told the part cost "56-20," which he assumed meant $56.20. But the part actually cost $5,620.

The justices said Monday that companies have no duty to pay for merchandise when there is such a serious misunderstanding about price.

Evening Herald, Sanford, Fl. Tuesday, Nov. 5, 1985-2A

A 21-year-old Altamonte Springs man has been charged in connection with a burglary to a neighbor's home and he has also been charged with child abuse, because his reputed partner, who was also charged in connection with the burglary, is a juvenile.

The pair was charged with burglary and possession of burglary tools after a Seminole County sheriff's deputy, responding to a burglary in progress call at 107 Eileen Drive, nabbed them near the scene at about 4 p.m. Sunday. The arrest was made outside the Altamonte Men's Club on the corner of Marker Street and State Road 427, near Altamonte Springs, where the alleged dispute occurred at about 1:20 p.m. Saturday.

A Seminole County sheriff's deputy was told by the victim that the suspect had a .38-caliber pistol. The gun was reportedly found in the man's pants pocket after he denied having a weapon, a sheriff's report said.

Indecent Exposure Painful To Decent Man Years Later

DEAR ABBY: Here's the problem: Years ago, when our son was a freshman in college, he and a bunch of kids his age went to Fort Lauderdale over Easter vacation. Well, he got drunk and urinated on a parked car. A policeman witnessed this, and our son was charged with indecent exposure, which is a felony.

Our son is now in his 30s, married with children, active in Scouting and owns his own business. He is interested in moving to Florida but is terrified of this incident hanging over his head.

Indecent exposure sounds as if he was exposing himself to people, but, Abby, he was just a college kid who drank too much and chose a handy place to relieve himself. I'm sure the police have arrested many kids in Florida over Easter break.

My question: Is there a way to erase this from his record? He and his family went to Disney World, and he was afraid to drive for fear of an infraction of the law because of this happening years ago.

You have my permission to run this in your column to warn other young people that what they do can follow them all through life.

DEAR HEARTBROKEN: In some states, if the offender was under 21 years of age and subsequently proved himself to be of good character, the record can be expunged (destroyed). Your son should consult a lawyer. It might cost a few hundred dollars, but the peace of mind for him and his family would be well worth it.

DEAR ABBY: I had to write after reading the letter from "Massachusetts Birdseed Lady" who had had a mastectomy and used birdseed in her bra to make her look "even."

Two years ago I had a mastectomy, and the cup size of my bra was a "D." I love to swim, but a prosthesis to equal a D cup is very heavy and pulled my bathing suit away from my chest, so I came up with the idea of using birdseed in a cloth pouch that could be pinned into the cup of my bathing suit.

This worked great at first. Then I began to notice that the pouch of birdseed was getting "tight," causing me to look like a one-sided Dolly Parton. Upon opening the bag, much to my surprise, I discovered that the birdseed had begun to sprout!

Needless to say, I had to do numerous "lumpectomies" on my bag of birdseed until I had my reconstructive surgery.

If you use my letter, please omit my name as I am well-known in this small town.

ANOTHER BIRDSEED LADY

DEAR LADY: Thanks for writing. For those who need it - to avoid a bumper crop of embarrassment, change the birdseed after each plunge. (That stuff is for the birds, you know.)

DEAR ABBY: Please, just one more time! Will you please tell us where to write for copies of "The Living Will"?

If we should become terminally ill and incapacitated, we do not want artificial life support. Many of us feel the same way. We thank you...

SENIOR CITIZENS IN ROLLA, MO.

DEAR SENIOR CITIZENS: You can obtain the Living Will by writing to: Society for the Right to Die, 250 W. 57th St., New York, NY 10107. Please include a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The Society for the Right to Die is a non-profit organization. It does not charge for Living Wills, but in order to cover the cost of my documents, I sent a check for $10 requesting five documents.

In my view, it's the best investment in peace of mind I've ever made.

Award-Winning Headliners Offers Complete Makeover

The Headliners Salon at 2303 French Ave., Sanford, is known for its complete makeovers. Darlene M. Patsos, (shown in before and after photos on right) owner of Skip's Shoes and Western Boots, wanted a new look. Bonna Fitzgerald, a hairstylist and makeup artist at Headliners started by cleansing the face and then applied a moisturizer. Bonna used "On Stage" cosmetics. After the moisturizer she applied the foundation and then went on to contour the face. She brought out the eyes to make them the focal point and contoured the cheeks with one of the many shades of blushes Headliners carries. The lips were done in a color that complemented the other shades of makeup.

Darlene's hair was previously permed and so Bonna decided that a fuller look would be best. She gave her this beautiful style and you can see the result for yourself. Darlene got the new look she wanted. Headliners thanks Darlene for modeling for these photos. If you would like a complete makeover call Bonna at 321-5851 and schedule your appointment today. She has appeared on local television shows. Where It's At in Orlando demonstrating her makeup artistry. Lynda Behrens of Headliners strives to keep the salon "No. 1" by attending classes and by training her staff in all the latest techniques. She has qualified to compete in the 1986 Olympic hairdressing tryouts in New Orleans. Lynda is one of the top 15 hairstylists in the United States that has qualified. If she is one of the four winners in New Orleans she will represent the U.S. in the world championship in Italy in September 1986. Lynda has been a hairstylist for 19 years and has won 75 awards. Besides competition, she has appeared on local TV stations on Looking Good and Where It's At in Orlando. She has trained other stylists to be winners. Teaching haircutting and hairstyling classes also keeps her quite busy. If you haven't been in Headliners she cordially invites you to come in and visit her salon and meet the hairstylists. The salon is designed to accommodate men, women and children and provides full service including: haircutting, hairstyling, coloring, permanent waves, manicure, pedicures, nails, eyebrow and lash tinting, waxing, makeup (regular and stage), facials, non-surgical facelifts, and consultations. They also offer in-home services. Call 321-5851 for an appointment.

Mr. C's Has New Owner But Same Good Chicken

Mr. C's Southern Fried Chicken, 2100 S. French Ave., Sanford, is under new ownership, but it still serves the same great chicken prepared with Mr. C's special recipe and the same menu. "Many people tell me we have the best chicken in town," said the new owner Sue H. Liu. Sue, who came to this country from Taiwan nine years ago, has added an oriental touch with her shrimp and fried rice with fresh ground pork or beef, which is available by the pint or half-pint. She does not use monosodium glutamate usually found in Chinese cooking, because some people are sensitive to it. She uses only the meat juices. Dana Lamar is assistant manager of Mr. C's. Take advantage of the Monday through Saturday luncheon special consisting of two pieces of chicken, cole slaw, mashed potatoes, and gravy daily between 11 a.m. and 3 p.m. or the budget special, which includes 8 pieces of chicken, two pints of salad, and four hot rolls for $6.52. On Wednesday they offer a three-piece chicken dinner with choice of two from cole slaw, mashed potatoes or baked beans for only $2.49. You can get a 21-piece medium shrimp dinner for $3.99. They also have fried fish or oyster dinners, fried okra, fried mushrooms, French fries, potato salad, onion rings, chicken gizzards and livers are also specialties. You can eat in Mr. C's dining room or take your order out. Call 322-9442 to place your order and it will be ready when you arrive. They also cater dinners and picnics. They are open seven days a week. Hours are 11 a.m.-9:30 p.m., Monday through Thursday; 11 a.m. to 10:30 p.m., Friday and Saturday; and noon to 8 p.m., Sunday. Sue moved to the Orlando area a year ago and her husband teaches math and computers at the University of Central Florida. They have one son, 11.

Sanford Gulf Offers Old-Fashioned Service With Modern Know-How

Do you remember the friendly neighborhood gas station in your hometown? It was probably on a tree-lined street and you knew the station manager by his first name. He took care of your car like it was his own — filled it with gas, checked the oil, and cleaned the windshields.

He also gave you the advice of a hometown car expert when your car made a funny noise or leaked too much water.

The same corner gas station existed in Sanford as well as other towns and cities across America. But with interstate highways, gas shortages, and high prices the picture changed. With the advent of the self-serve pump it became harder to find that type of service station.

But in Sanford you can still find a full-service station with these qualities. It is Sanford Gulf Service, Inc. at 2518 S. French Ave., Sanford, your Gulf CarCare headquarters.

Motorists, who were pumping their own gas to save a few cents, also found they were not getting the care and maintenance a full-service station can provide. They missed that extra touch. Americans not only want their cars filled with gas, they want service, advice and mechanical help.

Gulf Oil CarCare Centers have a commitment to high quality, professional automotive service.

Sylvester Chang, who has owned the business for 4 1/2 years and general manager Chris Petris, a certified master automotive technician, have a team of certified mechanics trained to care for your car.

They perform basic auto repair work, so drivers can rely on them for gas, preventive maintenance and repair work. Sanford Gulf performs vehicle safety checks, engine tune-ups, complete brake repair, wheel alignment and balancing, heating and air conditioning service and electrical system repair.

At the customer's request, the Sanford Gulf will provide written estimates prior to beginning work and mechanics are certified by the National Institute for Automotive Excellence. All work is warranted for four months or 4,000 miles, whichever comes first. For an appointment, call 322-4924.

They offer road service.

CarCare dealers use only high quality parts and products and meet standards of cleanliness and modern diagnostic and repair equipment.

The roles of service station dealers have increased over the past few decades, from being mere sellers of petroleum products to being independent business people offering a variety of products and services.

Oil and gas prices will continue to change, and so will automobile designs. But one thing that won't change is the need for automotive maintenance, and the Sanford Gulf Service is in the business of caring for your car, not just filling it with gas.

U.S. Wastes Triple Agent

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U.S. intelligence agencies wasted a valuable triple agent, declared dead a week ago, by using him as bait for a Soviet KGB agent and allowing him to be kidnapped in 1975, a lawyer for the man said Sunday.

"Here was an American citizen who was wasted by U.S. intelligence services," said Richard Copaken.

His client, former Soviet Navy Commander Nikolai F. Armatamonov, worked for the Defense Intelligence Agency in Washington and then the FBI, the CIA, and — as a double and triple agent — with the Soviet KGB.

Armatamonov, who was given the cover name of Nicholas G. Shadrin, disappeared in Vienna, Austria, Dec. 20, 1975.

Last Sunday, two FBI agents went to the northern Virginia home of his wife and told her that "Nikki" was dead — fatally chloroformed by KGB agents who kidnapped him 10 years ago. It was an "accident," according to a high-level Soviet defector, the Soviet agents apparently applied too much of the anesthetic when they bundled him into the back of a car.

Ewa Shadrin had been at the Vienna Opera that night, scheduled to meet her husband later. It took 10 years for her to find out what happened to him.

"I understand from sources that I have confidence in that the FBI and Justice Department and, I guess, the CIA knew what had happened to Shadrin, or thought they did, some time ago — at least a couple of months ago, maybe longer," said Copaken, who has been trying for years to help Mrs. Shadrin find the truth.

"I was told (Soviet defector Vitaliy) Yurchenko merely confirmed what they had learned independently prior to that," he said in an interview with United Press International.

Yurchenko, the high-ranking Soviet KGB officer who defected in Italy last July and is now being debriefed by the CIA at a "safe house" in the Washington area, is said to be giving information not only on past events but on recent Soviet activities.

Copaken said Shadrin was first employed by the DIA but "essentially had his arm twisted by the FBI and Navy intelligence to go to work as a presumed double agent for the Soviets, actually being a triple agent for the United States and providing counterintelligence to the FBI."

"He was a Soviet who had come to our side then been doubled back by the Soviets but really in cahoots with the CIA and FBI ... In reality serving the role of a triple agent to provide counterintelligence on the KGB."

Sources, who declined to be identified, generally agree that Shadrin was finally "fingered" by a Soviet KGB agent named Igor. He was said to have contacted a top CIA official in the 1970's and offered to cooperate. To prove his credentials, he asked U.S. intelligence to "set up" Shadrin for a meeting.

Neither the CIA nor the FBI will comment on the story.

But Mrs. Shadrin now knows.

"Events that surrounded his disappearance are just unbelievable," Copaken said. "He was sent there. They were prepared to use him to get in contact with Igor and the Soviets were using Igor as bait to get Shadrin. They (U.S. intelligence) knew it was a potential trap. They sent him there without any protection whatsoever."

San Francisco Makes Much ADO About Toilets

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The city's attempt to give downtown tourist sites a Gallic flair and odorless air by installing French public toilets has gotten stopped up with political controversy.

Two city supervisors are in Paris seeking better public plumbing and a third went on a clandestine toilet search. Critics say they smell a conflict of interest, but "Toilet Wars" combatants are charging "idea stealing."

It all started when Board of Supervisors member Wendy Nelder announced she would go to Paris to inspect a new design for the portable toilets that could be installed near downtown tourist sites to create a French ambiance.

The city Chamber of Commerce offered to pay $10,000 for the trip, but it was soon revealed the money came from the French toilet maker, J.C. Decaux Co.

Acceptance of such a gift by an official can be considered a conflict of interest, and a supervisor who takes a gift of more than $250 can be barred from voting on a contract.

Nelder tried to get special permission from the board but was blocked by Supervisor Carol Ruth Silver who said, "We have to avoid even the appearance of impropriety."

So Nelder, who said "someone has to see if they work right, and sniff them to see if they smell bad," offered to finance the trip herself.

Before she could do so, Supervisor Richard Hongisto took a vacation in England and France, toured the Decaux factory, and phoned in a toilet update.

"They are absolutely odorless. You can stand inside those things and there's no odor at all," he said.

Nelder accused Hongisto of "idea stealing" and flew to Paris with another supervisor and two community leaders on a trip paid for with funds she claimed to have raised herself. She also reported the toilets passed the "sniff test."

In Paris, entrance to the toilets costs one franc, about eight cents, but Nelder said unless they are free in San Francisco, the homeless population would shun the facilities and "jeopardize the future of our city."

The toilets look like large pill capsules. A user slips a coin into an electronic cash box, and the door slides open, revealing facilities that include a wash basin, mirror and other amenities. The door then closes.

When the user departs, the privy senses the absence, closes the door, and tilts the floor and toilet bowl for scrubbing with a high-speed brush and disinfectant. Then it dries itself. In 40 seconds the cycle is completed.

If a person does not leave within 17 minutes, the doors open automatically.

The city now is considering leasing some of the toilets at an annual cost of $12,000. To be paid for with private donations.

Parents Favor Teen Birth Control Dialog

NEW YORK (UPI) — Nearly seven out of 10 adults say schools should work with family-planning clinics so teenagers can get contraceptive information and birth control materials if wanted, the Planned Parenthood Federation of America reported today.

The poll also found parents are doing better at talking with kids about sex but have difficulty when talk turns to birth control.

The report described teenage pregnancy as "a tragedy that all Americans must recognize."

People polled believe it would help if television broadcast birth control messages, the report said.

The three major networks recently accepted a first-ever public service family planning announcement from the American College of Obstetricians and Gynecologists only after the word "contraceptive" was deleted. Teen pregnancy problem, the way television treats sexual matters, including messages about birth control, support for international family planning programs and abortion. Telephone interviewers called 2,500 homes nationwide during August and September.

"We are heartened by the level of support we have for the program as we are advocating to solve the teen pregnancy problem," said Faye Watteon, president of the federation.

"While more parents are talking with their children, though, few report that they are discussing birth control."

Two Newspapers Lose Supreme Court Pleas

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court, in a double blow to newspapers, refused Monday to review decisions concerning libel law in Ohio and the rights of Texas journalists to keep unpublished material confidential.

Justice William Brennan objected to the stand taken by his brethren in the libel case, saying failure to grant the appeal could hurt small papers trying to cover communities.

The libel dispute, brought by the Lorain Journal Co., publisher of The News-Herald of Willoughby, Ohio, involved a state supreme court ruling that found a well-known public high school wrestling coach was not a public figure, meaning it would be easier for him to prove libel.

In a lengthy dissent, Brennan, joined by Justice Thurgood Marshall, said the court should have heard the appeal because of the case's likely impact. Four justices must agree to hear a case before it goes on the court's docket.

The state supreme court decision, Brennan wrote, "is especially unfortunate in that it most affects reporting by local papers about the local controversies that constitute their primary content."

"Moreover, it is these local papers that are most coerced by the threat of libel damages since they can least afford the expense of damages awards," he said.

The newspaper argued Maple Heights wrestling coach Michael Milkovitch Sr. was a public figure and cited, among other matters, that he has actively promoted himself as "Ohio's No. 1 High School Coach."

The paper also argued that since the alleged libelous statements were made in an opinion column, greater protection also was warranted.

Decisions by the Supreme Court have held that public figures must prove malice — that the material published was known to be false — to win a libel case. The court has also given wide protection to opinion pieces.

The Supreme Court's refusal to get involved in the case, which focused on Milkovitch's role in a brawl at a wrestling match, clears the way for further state court action.

The second newspaper case concerned a photographer for the Dallas Morning News who had covered a 1983 anti-nuclear demonstration in which a woman was arrested.

The woman was charged with obstructing a public passageway for allegedly chaining herself to a doorway. At trial, her attorneys demanded photographer Randy Grothe produce all negatives and unpublished photographs he took during the demonstration in an attempt to prove the woman did not chain herself to the building.

Allergy Causes Major Problem

Dr. Gott

DEAR DR. GOTT — I can't watch TV, listen to radio or talk on the phone. It burns my nose, eyes, and the inside of my mouth and makes my chest hurt. The smell of plastic and ink also bothers me. Can you have an unusual but severe form of allergy to these substances. Ordinarily this malady is not related to noise stimulation, so I cannot really put all of your symptoms together. Perhaps starting with the more obvious problem would be a good approach. Ask your doctor to refer you to an environmental allergist. In many large cities, there are specialists who deal almost exclusively with unfortunate people who seem to be allergic to almost everything around them.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I am sure you have a lot of readers out there with fibrositis who do not know much about it and would like to know more. I know it is a form of arthritis and affects the muscles instead of the joints. Would you give me some insight on this medical problem?

DEAR READER — Fibrositis is a troublesome disorder that is characterized by inflammation of the body's fibrous tissue, particularly where muscles attach to the bones. The disease is often difficult to diagnose because nobody knows what causes it and there is no specific method to test for it. Actually, it is not arthritis, because it affects structures surrounding joints, but not the joints themselves. It causes pain, stiffness, tenderness and (occasionally) fever. If muscles are also involved in the inflammation, the condition is usually called fibro-myositis.

The new nonsteroidal anti-inflammatory drugs (NSAIDs) usually control the symptoms of fibrositis. Aspirin, too, will help. In severe cases, cortisone may have to be considered. The disorder is treatable, but requires periodic medical followup.

DEAR DR. GOTT — My 14-year-old son was diagnosed as having Osgood-Schlatter's disease in his left knee. His phys. ed. instructor discovered and diagnosed it. My real concern is that this boy was found to have Legg Perthes' disease when he was 6. Is there any direct relation between the two? What are the chances for full recovery without surgery? Will it develop arthritis? Will it develop in his other knee?

DEAR READER — I believe that your son has two separate diseases, one common and one rare. Osgood-Schlatter's disease is a problem experienced by many healthy, growing adolescents. It is due to partial separation of the growing portion of the lower leg bone below the kneecap. Extension of the leg is painful, so sports that involve running are uncomfortable. The condition heals itself with time; youngsters have only to limit athletic activity until they are pain-free.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

As you follow suit in bridge, it is normal to give count in the suit by playing high, then low, to show an even number of cards. Then you save your highest cards in the suit, hoping to take tricks with them. When you purposely follow suit with an unusual or unexpected card, you have sent a different message. It simply says, "Hey, partner! Wake up! There may be something we can do on this deal."

East had the wrong hand for a takeout double, but he doubled anyway.

Against the two no-trump contract, West led the nine of diamonds. East won the king and made a passive return of the club four. As dummy's jack won, West began his echo with the five to show count. A second club was played from dummy, and West completed the high-low echo with his deuce. That showed an even number of cards in the suit. On the third club, East threw the two of diamonds, declarer followed with the club nine, and now West had the opportunity to make an unusual play: He played the 10 of clubs, unnecessarily. Remember, that's just a way of pinching partner. But the only reason for doing so is to let partner know that there might be some way to beat the hand.

Now another diamond was played. East figured out that the funny play by West was an attempt to show the heart ace. He grabbed the ace of diamonds and led away from the K-J-9-3 of hearts. The defenders quickly gobbled up four heart tricks to set the contract a trick.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY NOVEMBER 6, 1985

In the year ahead, new ways will be discovered to cut yourself free from limiting conditions. Once these restrictions are lifted, you will be extremely successful.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) It's unwise today to let intermediaries attend to things you should take care of yourself. The results they get won't please you. Major changes are ahead for Scorpios in the coming year. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions today. Mail $1 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, Box 1846, Cincinnati, OH 45201. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Do not be impatient when trying to achieve objectives today. Restlessness could cause you to make bad moves.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's best not to discuss your hopes and aspirations with a negative friend today. His or her comments could lessen your faith in your plans.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A difficult assignment can be successfully accomplished today, but not necessarily on the first try. If you want to win, you must keep hammering.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In a joint venture today, you may yield to the influence of an associate even though you'll know your methods are the best.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you have others working for you today, set a proper industrious example. If you're lax, they'll be lax.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may encounter someone socially today who gave you a bit of a cold shoulder in the past. Instead of trying to get even, build a bridge.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you fail to set a sensible schedule today, you are not likely to complete all the things you hope. Strive to be methodical.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your first ideas will be workable and effective today. But rather than implement them intact, you might settle for a watered-down version.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) A financial matter in which you're presently involved is not tied down as tightly as you think. You'd be wise to re-check all of the contingencies.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's not to your advantage to make all of the concessions today in your material dealings. Everyone must bend a bit.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things will work out better for you today if you make all of your moves in plain view. Coy maneuvering behind the scenes will backfire.
