Rams victory tempered by brawl

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — Lake Mary's celebration of a 31-20 win over Spruce Creek was tempered by the ejection of senior running back Chris Haney following a bench-clearing brawl in the fourth quarter. Haney now faces a possible one-game suspension, which Lake Mary plans to appeal.

Adventurous boys rescued

TAMPA — Two youngsters were rescued, at an expense of between $2,000 and $4,000, by city rescuers after the boys scaled a 20-story water tower to take a bird's-eye view of Tampa and realizing they couldn't get back down.

Raborn endorses Morris

SANFORD — Former Seminole County District 5 school board candidate M.J. "Sonny" Raborn has endorsed candidate Jeanne Morris in her bid to defeat Daryl McLain in that race.

In a press release, Raborn stated that he felt that "the needs of the county as a whole should come before any conflict of whether or not a school board member resides in a particular area of the county."

McLain has said while he will represent the whole county he will seek more for the north county schools. Morris resides in Longwood and has a broad base of support in the south part of the county.

Raborn added that he urged all registered voters "to learn all they can about the candidates, not just in District 5 but in all the races as well and cast their vote for the candidate of their choice."

Deer love costs dearly

CHICAGO — Beware the love-crazed male deer. Amorous young bucks are wreaking havoc throughout the Chicago area and have done nearly $50,000 in damage to a newly landscaped park.

Lt. James Christopherson of the Lake County sheriff's office said more motorists are encountering rutting males on roads in Cook and Lake counties.

"The roadkill is starting to build up right now," Christopherson said. "Sometimes we see two or three accidents a day at this time of the year. It's hard to avoid them. Sometimes they'll run right into the sides of cars."

Let's see those neckties

NEW YORK — The principal of a public high school with one of the city's highest dropout rates said he has ordered male students to begin wearing neckties next week as a way of helping black youth attain a higher level of self-esteem.

Frank Mickens, the black principal of Boys and Girls High School in the Bedford-Stuyvesant section of Brooklyn, said the school's 2,000 teenage boys will be required to wear ties and light-colored shirts on Fridays beginning next week and every day beginning Feb. 1.

Mickens said his decision was made in consultation with students and their parents. "I'm saying to our young men that we're going to take another step upward," Mickens said, adding that he also was talking with girl students about a dress code.

Cops face growth crisis

By SUSAN LODEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Seminole County sheriff's workers say the county is pouring money into a rat hole by continuing to pay thousands of dollars per year in rent for what they say is a dilapidated, crowded, rat-infested former U.S. Navy barracks that serves as their office space.

Sheriff John Polk is asking voters on the Nov. 6 ballot to approve a one-year, one-cent local sales tax for 1991 to benefit city and county law enforcement here with $25 million for capital outlay projects.

Polk would invest about $10 million in a 100,000 square-foot, four-story administration building, located on county-owned property at the Five Points government complex in south Sanford. Another $5 million would be used to add 400 dorm-style spaces to the county jail. The rest would be divided among SANFORD — Sanford police are slated for a $2 million share, if voters Nov. 6 approve a temporary, one-cent, local sales tax, expected to gross $25 million for local law enforcement needs. All other police departments in the county would also receive portions of the tax, based on population.

The bulk of the revenue, an estimated $15 million, will go to the sheriff's department for a new office and for jail expansion.

Sanford, Lake Mary and Longwood police have the following needs and plans for the tax.

Sanford

Police Chief Steven Harriett said Sanford's $2 million would be used to expand the existing station house on French Avenue and to alleviate parking problems.

Harriett said the 16,000 square-foot building was already filled to capacity when opened in 1974. Police would add a second story to the station, increasing space to 26,000 square feet, he said.

When the existing station was planned and built, the advent of data processing and the great increase in drug-related crime wasn't anticipated. The original building met exist-

Banding together

The Seminole County High School Band Festival, previously scheduled for Oct. 27 at 7 p.m., has been changed to 5 p.m. that same evening due to the recent ruling by Seminole County high school principals to cancel all nighttime outdoor events in light of the encephalitis outbreak. The 17th annual event to be held at Lake Mary High School, which will showcase all six district high school bands, is sponsored by the Sanford Optimist Club and the Sanford Herald. Tickets are $2 for adults and $1 for children and are available from members of the Optimists Club. ## Democratic bid bolstered by GOP aides

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — There is a growing belief that a Democrat may be elected to the Seminole County commission this year for the first time in 14 years as more Republicans are willing to vote — and work — for Democrats with Republican opponents.

"At least 50 percent of the people working for the Chiles/MacKay campaign in Seminole County are Republicans," said Bill Gilmartin, chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee.

"It's a weird year," said John Tracy, a registered Republican with a sign supporting Democrat Larry Furlong for District 4 county commissioner in his yard. "The anti-incumbency fever is growing."

Not since 1976 has a Democrat been elected to the Seminole County commission. That year, Democrat Boa French ousted both Republican Vice Perry and Independent Tom Winford to win the District 1 county commission seat. In 1980, French lost his reelection bid to Republican Barbara Christensen and the first all-Republican county commission was seated.

Following two subsequent Democratic losing bids against Republican District 2 incumbent Bob Sturm after reappointment changed his district, French changed to the Republican party.

East Union Avenue a forgotten stretch of Memory Lane

Not long ago I had a call from a local service station operator. "I've got a guy here who's looking for a nursing home on East Union Avenue," he explained, "and nobody around here has ever heard of it. Someone suggested you might know where it is, if there is such a street."

You've got to be an old timer to know there is an East Union Avenue, where it's located and how it got its name. And, that's the reason for this glimpse of "Way Back When" in Sanford history.

If you haven't noticed it already, or if someone hasn't pointed it out to you, the majority of thoroughfares running north and south in Sanford are named after trees. There's such avenues as Holly, Maple, Laurel, Myrtle, Oak, Magnolia, Palmetto, Orange, Hickory, Mangousteine — just to name a few. There are some exceptions, such as French, Park, Sanford and some streets in the newer areas of the city.

On the other hand, streets running east and west are numbered, such as First, Sixth, Tenth and so on. And here's where it gets interesting.

For example, way back when — and even to this day — 25th Street was better known to some folks as Geneva Avenue, especially from French Avenue eastward through the Midway section. In those days 25th Street west of French Avenue was mostly a single-lane brick road about 10 feet wide which led mainly to nowhere else but the cemeteries.

Let's consider 20th Street. Way back, this cross-town artery was better known as Hingley. I can't recall just why but it is interesting to note that Park Avenue, running south, once stopped

Encephalitis claims fourth life in Florida

United Press International

Florida's encephalitis outbreak has spread to a 19th county and fatalities may have reached four with the death of an elderly man in Martin County, state health officials said.

Three new cases were reported Friday, bringing to 49 the number of people stricken with the virus. Two new cases were in Orange County, while the other was in Lee County, the first reported there, state and local health officials said.

Three deaths were blamed on the outbreak and tests were under way to determine if a 91-year-old Martin County man's death on Monday was caused by the mosquito-borne virus.

Meanwhile, two chickens in Jacksonville tested positive for the virus linked to St.

SCC honors first student during anniversary celebration saluting Sanford area merchants

SANFORD — Among the nearly 300 businessmen and women who chatted, smiled and reminisced about the part that Seminole Community College has played in the community at the "Business Salute to SCC," was a man, nearing 50, his wife and seven-year-old daughter.

"That's me," said Kerry Clemmons, of Lighthouse Point, Fla., pointing to the 22-year-old man with a young lady on each arm in the photo.

According to SCC records, Clemmons was the first student to walk through the doors of the school 25 years ago.

"It was nothing but orange groves when I came out here."

Deficit's many friends

The other day a CBS News poll asked a sample of Americans what policy changes they would be willing to accept to bring down the federal budget deficit. The results help explain why the nation is frozen in the face of a $293 billion deficit.

Are voters willing to see Medicare beneficiaries pay higher premiums? No, they say, by a large margin. Are they willing to see the federal government spend less for health or education? Emphatically no. Are they willing to pay higher motor fuel taxes? Not a chance. Are they willing to pay even $100 a year in higher taxes? By a narrow margin no.

What voters are willing to do, the poll suggests, is shift the pain to someone else. As the adage goes: "Don't tax me, don't tax thee, tax that fellow behind the tree." Voters questioned in the poll said they are willing to see Congress raise taxes on alcoholic beverages and on people making more than $100,000 a year. They also would support cuts in military spending.

As policy, those suggestions for cutting the deficits are sound. Excise taxes on booze aren't high enough to offset the social costs of abusive drinking. Because of a decade of regressive Reagan-Bush policies, the wealthy don't pay enough taxes. And in the wake of the Cold War, the nation's armed forces can be cut significantly without endangering security.

Unfortunately for Congress and the nation, however, what the public is willing to support doesn't add up to a credible deficit reduction package.

The lower tax increase brings in only $10 billion over the next five years. The "bubble" of income tax on the 33 percent tax bracket of high-income earners earning more than $113,000 and couples earning more than $217,000 would bring in $43 billion by 1995. The defense cuts agreed to in the budget summit would save a total of $180 billion. In all, the president and Congress have agreed to cut the deficit by $40 billion over five years. The measure the public says it will support will cut the deficit by only $16 billion this year and $332 billion by 1995, half of what is required. Add a 38 percent tax bracket on the rich and cut defense spending even more sharply, and the voters' preferred course still leaves the nation $170 billion short of the target.

In other words, to achieve the deficit reduction needed to put the U.S. economy on sound footing will require additional spending cuts and tax increases amounting to about $1,800 per average household over the next five years. If Congress and the president are having trouble running the nation's fiscal show, it's in large part because Americans, who object to even $100 a year in higher taxes, are still unrealistic about how deep our troubles are and what's needed to end them.

Berry's World

Gas prices reflect American crisis

The cost of gasoline has been steadily climbing and the Middle East crisis has been cited as the reason for these changes. I have pondered whether this elevation in prices was really a reflection of the need to make an adequate profit or greedily taking advantage of the situation.

Our problem as Americans is that we have become too dependent upon petroleum. The United States imports more oil than France, Britain and Germany combined. We are faced with declining oil from our own sources and importation.

Currently oil is $40 a barrel. If the Persian Gulf Crisis persists, the price of oil is predicted to escalate to $50 — $60 per barrel. The American presence in Saudi Arabia is the outgrowth of our need to keep the oil fields in friendly hands to meet our consumption needs.

The deeper challenge is how we have allowed ourselves to become victims in the struggle to control black gold. We are poised on the brink of war. Certainly the capability exists to develop alternatives to gasoline.

Those of us who have lived for awhile can remember how gasoline stations have changed

over the years. In the past twenty years the number of stations have declined from over 200,000 to less than half that number. Services have also changed and stations have exchanged repair and tune-up shops for mini-marts.

Gasoline prices have reached a national average of approximately $1.38 per gallon.

Traveling south on 17-92 from First Street in Sanford to State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs, one is struck by gasoline prices. The lowest observed price for regular unleaded gas was $1.28 9/10 at the Mobil Station located at 436 West (there are two Mobil stations on the corners). The highest prices for regular gas were the Texaco station at 25th Street and the Amoco station at Lake Mary Boulevard; both charged $1.34 9/10. The cheapest, highest quality unleaded was at the newly opened Exxon station at Lake Mary Boulevard. The price was $1.45 9/10. Gasoline stations whose prices were surveyed included Exxon, Amoco, Texaco, Mobil, Chevron, Circle K, Citgo, Pina and Shell.

The crisis in black gold has impacted all of our lives — some more intimately than others. These are the families where loved ones have been deployed to participate in protecting the oil fields.

Others are experiencing budgetary woes. The upward spiraling gasoline prices are adding to the economic stress factor of many families. Persons on fixed incomes or jobs that pay minimum wages are constantly reminded of the fact that more of the family income is being gobbled up by these prices.

The transportation system serving Seminole County is not designed to provide services for a majority of the inhabitants. Consequently, many citizens are compelled to supply their own transportation. This increases the demand for gasoline and contributes to the American dilemma.

GEORGE F. WILL

Incumbents fall to budget ax

WASHINGTON — When King Edward I in 1294 summoned the clergy and demanded half their income, the dean of St. Paul's dropped dead on the spot. That was a tax protest beyond the dreams (so far) of Newt Gingrich.

The 1990 budget tedium began a few months ago with promises to cut about $50 billion from a deficit of about $200 billion. Then the promise was revised to $40 billion from a deficit of about $250 billion. Now it is $34 billion (the costs of Desert Shield will not be counted) from a deficit that probably will be well over $300 billion.

The newest "deadline" (cross the line and die? hardly) that will be missed is Oct. 19. By then, the House and Senate are supposed to have approved the various committee plans for cutting spending and raising revenues to comply with this week's achievement, the budget resolution.

That resolution is a promise. The reconciliation bill due by Oct. 19 is the delivery. Those committees have Democratic majorities. President Bush has been reduced to a bystander.

His "summit" deal collapsed in part because the process that produced it made most of Congress marginal. And Bush's aides (the tone of a White House is set at the very top and trickles down) seemed overbearing.

Richard Barman, the budget director, is commonly called "brilliant," but that handicap is no excuse for ignoring banal but important truths, such as: Decisions made without the concurrence of Congress are in the subjunctive mood.

John Sununu (who dismissed a Republican senator, Mississippi's Trent Lott, as "insignificant") is not the first clever person to become impatient with the culture of Congress, or to relish the role of a President's designated thug. (Heard on Capitol Hill: You are in a room with Saddam Hussein, Gaddafi and Sununu and you have only two bullets. What do you do? Answer: Shoot Sununu twice.)

But the serious problem is Bush's mentality, one that produces his preference for policymaking in private, by a few, in an aura of bipartisanism that blurs party differences by de-emphasizing principles and ideas. This preference is a facet of Bush's and his White House's temperament, concerning which there is confusion.

What has been described as Bush's modesty is actually arrogance. His modesty is supposedly shown by his occasional misstatements, his complacent tentativeness, his de-emphasis to the point of disparagement of the rhetorical dimension of the presidency. Bush and his handlers have spent 20 months telling the country what the country this month has told him: He is no Reagan.

He discounts rhetoric because he discounts persuasion of the public. He is governing less by continuous acts of public consent than by a small elite's entitlement, the right of the political class to take care of business costly.

So, naturally, he has no need to do what Reagan did — argue, persuade, precipitate confrontations with Congress, force polarizing choices. All those things shave points off a President's popularity, but solidify a committed base outside Washington's beltway.

Now the mountain (actually, the Hill) will labor mightily and bring forth a modified mousetrap, a package of mini-measures cutting the 1991 deficit about 10 or 12 percent (depending on the gravity of the recession). The economic effects of $34 billion trimmed from the $300 billion deficit of a $1.3 trillion budget in a $5 trillion economy will be trivial. But the political consequences of this month's spectacle may be large.

We stand on the lip of a recession, and perhaps of war, with a President who is being outmaneuvered and toyed with by Democrats who like him as much as ever and fear him less than ever. A President who will not appeal over Congress' head to the country is Congress' dream.

By his capital-gains obsession, Bush is dissipating the principal Reagan effect on the Republican Party, the appeal to three blue-collar Democrats who for a while stopped seeing Republicans as "the rich." And Bush's syrupy bipartisanism — secluded summit, Sunday togetherness in the Rose Garden — is convincing an unenthralled public that Republicans are not, as until recently had been thought, better than Democrats at budgeting.

Finally, incumbents of both parties are being hurt as the budget debate fuels a nationwide program to limit the number of terms elected officials can serve.

In 1989, the Baltimore Orioles lost 108 games with a lot of expensive veteran players. Then the Orioles management thought: Hey, we can lose 107 games with hungry, spirited rookies — and might do better. In 1990, the Orioles had baseball's youngest team, and smallest payroll — and almost won a division title.

President
Bush has been reduced to a bystander.

Never too late for informed vote

WASHINGTON — Some terrible enervation of common sense by leaders has been dragging down the American people.

Our leaders have defaulted on their responsibilities. They have permitted the federal government to run up a massive public debt. Now they can't figure out how to pay for yesterday's bills with tomorrow's grim prospects. Yet they continue to spend as if they will never have to pay.

Congress and each successive administration has stood by while foreigners have taken American inventions, developed them and sold them back to Americans. The resulting trade imbalance now threatens our economic stability.

Where has all the money gone, and why hasn't it bought the nation a modicum of security? The money has been poured into well-intentioned programs that were abused and mismanaged. For instance, the government has spent billions of dollars ostensibly to prop up family farms, but most of the subsidies have gone to big corporate farms. In spite of all the spending, the family farm is nearly extinct.

The government also guaranteed savings and loan deposits under the naive impression that home-loan thrifts would make the American dream their primary business. Now it's the American nightmare. More often than not, the federal guarantee money was used to protect investments in wild ventures.

An astounding number of thrifts are now bankrupt, and the depositors must be bailed out, just as the government promised they would be.

Foreigners increasingly produce the goods that Americans consume. Their goods are better and cheaper, and if it means that the United States pays a catastrophic price somewhere down the road — well, that is then and this is now, and Americans are notoriously shortsighted.

America has issued a written invitation for economic catastrophe to move in anytime it wants. Our political leaders have fostered a climate of complacency and sleeping neglect, and the rank-and-file voters took that sleeping pill willingly. When Congress postponed hard remedies and refused to make the tough decisions, Americans took that as a little more borrowed time. The Reagan years were the epitome of borrowed time. Deregulation fostered greed at all levels.

Once again it is an even-numbered year, and the first Tuesday in November is rolling around. Once again Americans have a chance to make a difference. They can keep the self-serving members of Congress who promise painless, tax-free prosperity, or they can throw a few of the rascals out. Americans can stay home from the polls altogether, or worse, cast an uninformed vote for someone simply because the name looks familiar.

There is still enough time to cast an informed vote. Ask the reference librarian at your local public library for a newspaper index. Look up "savings and loans" and cross every incumbent off your ballot who graced the slides for the thrift industry. Next scan the newspaper and TV ads for your candidates, and cross anyone off the ballot who refuses to address issues.

Finally, call your representatives in Congress and ask for a listing of all the honoraria they have taken since the last election and all the money they have received from political action committees. If they won't give you a list, or if you don't like what's on that list, scratch them off your ballot too. If anyone is left, vote for that person.

The Reagan years were the epitome of borrowed time.

SCC salutes local businesses

By VICKI BOGGS
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Nearly 300 business people from around Seminole County, led by the five chambers of commerce in the county, gathered in the Seminole Community College gym Friday night to laud the school for its contributions to business in the community.

According to Craig Orseno, coordinator of public information at SCC, they were expecting about 225 people at the celebration, but on Friday people began calling in reservations.

"People even came in at the door with checks and wanted to come in," he said. "Of course we didn't turn them away."

Even as guests sipped punch and nibbled on crackers, cheese and fruit, tables were being wheeled in and set in another part of the gymnasium.

The gymnasium on Friday night was transformed into a glittering evening garden with trees, park benches and smoky street lights.

Tiny lights sparkled in the leaves of the trees. Black curtains enveloped the room, disguising any evidence of basketball hoops and bleachers.

"It was supposed to be outside," admitted Orseno. "But this mosquito thing has got everyone scared."

Orseno said the fear of encephalitis-carrying mosquito forced a last-minute move of the festivities.

Carpeting was installed over the gym's new wooden playing surface, a few strategically placed metallic stars were placed behind the head table.

"And, voilà!" said Orseno, with a flourish of his hand, "we're out here."

Orseno and his staff did much of the decorating.

SCC alumnus Steve Kleinberger, owner and president of Catering Corporation of Winter Park, handled the preparation and serving of the food.

Orseno said the college made a concerted effort to have alumni involved in the celebration as much as possible. The business salute to the school is part of the year-long celebration of SCC's 25th anniversary celebration.

Voter registration offered

Voter registration for Seminole County residents will be offered Nov. 10 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at Lawton Elementary School, State Road 436 and Lake Jessup Avenue, Oviedo.

Citizens for Wekiwa to meet

Citizens for Wekiwa Springs State Park will meet Oct. 25 at 7:30 p.m. inside the Youth Camp Meeting Hall in the park.

Entertainment will be provided by David Wentzel, of the Division of Forestry, who will give an overview of the division's major goals for management of undeveloped areas surrounding Wekiwa Springs State Park.

The public is invited. For more information, call 774-0323.

Democrat

The last Democrat to serve in any county position was Tax Collector Troy Ray Jr., who retired from office in 1968. In 1964, Ray and fellow Democratic incumbents Sandra Goard, elections supervisor, and Sheriff John Polk were all re-elected without opposition. Goard and Polk subsequently switched parties and were re-elected in 1968 as Republicans.

But despite the Republican majority in Seminole County, some believe many Republicans will be willing to switch parties to oppose undesired GOP incumbents.

That position seems to be belied by the fact that Republicans increased their majority in Seminole County by registering 1,929 new Republicans to 1,053 new Democrats between the first primary and the upcoming general election.

But Tracy, a member of the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission and treasurer of the Concerned Citizens Alliance, said the recent political "Hobnob" in Orlando shows Republicans will vote for Democrats.

Republican Hobnobbers, though outnumbering their Democratic counterparts by almost 2-1, voted for Democrat gubernatorial candidate Lawton Chiles over incumbent Bob Martinez by a 55 to 45 percent margin during the Thursday evening get-together at Loch Haven Park sponsored by the Greater Orlando Chamber of Commerce. Tracy assisted in the poll tabulations.

"I think that can happen in Seminole County, too," Tracy said. "This year it's possible that we could elect a Democrat to the county commission. And I think it would be healthy for the Republican party and it would be healthy for Seminole County."

"Sandra Glenn does not have the big army of volunteers like Bob Sturm had," Tracy said. "Sturm got some very important endorsements that helped. It's not going to be as easy for her to overcome the anti-incumbency vote."

Democrat Dan Bushrul agrees. Bushrul, vice president of the CAC, said Fern Park Democrat Furlong is a credible challenger to District 4 incumbent Sandra Glenn. Glenn is seeking a fourth — and she says last — term on the county commission.

Furlong, angered by what he said is uncontrolled growth without consideration to the impact to schools and roads, has waged an increasingly strong campaign against Glenn and has garnered two major endorsements including the Sierra Club. But Glenn has passed Furlong in fund-raising 15-1.

"This is the year to beat the incumbent," Bushrul said. "Whether that will have an effect in Seminole County, I don't know."

Glenn said her re-election is not assured.

"Anyone you have a candidate's name against you, you must take that very seriously," Glenn said. "There's an anti-incumbent feeling on the national level, but how much that will work on the local level, I don't know. I'm taking it as a serious part of our campaign."

the first time four weeks before classes were supposed to start," he said. "I called them up and asked them if they were sure this was the right place."

Clemmons, newly-discharged from the Navy in Sanford, wanted to start back to college and thought a small community college might be a good place to do it.

"I'd had an experience with college before," he said. "It was one of those things where the professor came in and told me that it was his job to fail me."

Clemmons said his experiences at SCC were much more positive.

"This got me off on the right foot," he said.

Clemmons, now a vice president with John Alden Life Insurance in Miami, earned his associate degree at SCC and went on to Florida Atlantic University in Boca Raton where he got a bachelor's degree in experimental psychology, as well as a master's and a doctorate degree in education.

Clemmons' wife Nancy said her husband has never been one for reunions.

"He's never been to his high school reunions or any college reunions," she said. "I was really surprised when he said he wanted to come to this."

Clemmons said that because he had nothing but good memories of the portable school in the orange groves, he had to come back. It had been more than two decades since he had visited the school. He was surprised at how the area around the school had changed.

He was surprised at the growth, despite the closing of the largest Navy attack bombing base in the southeast at Sanford.

"I didn't think it would be like this," he said.

Clemmons credits SCC with challenging him to do all that he could.

"This place is the best," he said.

Clemmons said he will be back at SCC in April when all alumni will be honored at the graduation ceremonies.

"I wouldn't miss that for the world," he said.

ing needs 16 years ago, Harriett said. Many police functions now require data processing, plus old, written records must also be stored, Harriett said. The department and the city's police needs have almost doubled in 16 years, he said.

Over the years, he said, police have struggled to make room for new communications and 911 emergency systems, as well as for a larger staff and data processing equipment.

"Over the years, we've been here we've searched for the most efficient use of the building," Harriett said.

The only space that hasn't been reassigned or divided, he said, is the training room, which is needed for that purpose and for community meetings. Subdivided offices offer no privacy because partitions fall short of the ceiling to maintain air vent service.

Harriett said using city revenue to expand the station house is justly not a priority given more pressing economic needs reflected in a recent cutback in city workers' jobs. It would be years before the city could expand the station, he said. But the need is here now, and will only increase.

"We need to maintain what we have," he said.

The sales tax, which would be in effect for only one year, is a fair and easy way to pay for major law enforcement needs without going into debt, Harriett said. The burden is removed from property taxpayers and shared by residents, visitors, tourists and even county jail inmates, he said.

"We're at the point of no return. There's nothing to do but expand after 16 years. It's time to revamp," Harriett said.

The state strictly limits the use of the money for major capital outlay projects such as buildings or renovations, Harriett said. "It can't be piddled away" on routine budget items, he said. The state also ensures the tax will be in effect for only one year and the money cannot be used to pay off existing debts.

Lake Mary

Lake Mary City Manager John Litton said Lake Mary would probably use its projected $310,000 sales tax share to upgrade the police communications system, if voters support the proposal in November.

At first Lake Mary planned to use the revenue to pay part of the cost of the city's new $1 million public safety complex on Rinehart Road, completed in 1980. Officials have since department, which is housed in more than half the same 11,000 square-foot building under the same management.

Public Safety Director Charles Lauderdale said it will cost $1.5 million to convert to an 800 megahertz communications system. If Lake Mary joins the county in a linked "first response" public safety concept,

Longwood

Police Chief Greg Manning said Longwood police would use their proposed local sales tax share to add a second watch to the department's station house.

It is estimated that Longwood police would receive $800,000 of the projected $25 million collected at a rate of one cent per dollar in Seminole County in 1981.

Longwood police moved into their current station on Warren Road in 1978. The station was done to keep up with growth in the community. Longwood police have 28 sworn officers, six clerks, and provide space for one code enforcement officer. Two new slots, one for a police officer and one as evidence custodian, have been approved, but not filled.

Memory

at Hughey Avenue (30th Street). It had to stop there because there was a house located right in the middle of what was later to be the Park Avenue extension. If you drive by there today that house now sits on the southwest corner of 30th and Park.

And, how about 15th Street? From Sanford Avenue eastward it is still known today as Celery Avenue.

Two other cross-town thoroughfares, Ninth Street and Third Street, never to my knowledge had other names. Of course, Ninth Street came to an end about six blocks west of French Avenue where the old Atlantic Coast Line Railway depot stood for years and years.

"Okay," you say "but what about East Union Avenue?"

Years ago, as late as the middle 1930s, one could leave Park Avenue and go west on First Street to Range Biding, Lake Monroe Corner, the Wekiwa bridge, Plymouth, Sorrento, Mt. Dora, Leesburg and points beyond.

But, if you left Park Avenue and went east on First Street, you had to stop at Sanford Avenue. There are some interesting reasons. Right in the middle of what now is First Street eastward were a couple of livery stables. One was operated by E.E. Brady and other by the Benton Family. For Mellon Park didn't exist. At that time it was part of Lake Monroe.

Before there was a Mellonville Avenue there was a Fort Mellon. Homes were being developed in the Fort Mellon area. So to get from downtown Sanford to what is now the Mayfair area you had to use what is now Second Street. Since Third Street did not go all the way through to Fort Mellon, and since there was no First Street, Second Street east from Sanford Avenue became known as East Union Avenue — a union of what would later be First Street plus Second and Third Streets.

In the mid-1930s the City of Sanford floated $5 million in municipal bonds. Part of the money was used to construct a sewer system, a water distribution system, dredge portions of Lake Monroe for Fort Mellon Park, build bulkheads along the lakefront, pave the street along the lakefront, and build Municipal Park, a baseball stadium at 15th Street and what is now Mellonville Avenue.

Shortly afterward came the post World War II boom. It later became the Mayfair Inn and once was owned by the old New York Giants. Now it houses the New Tribes Mission.

At the outset of the Depression the City renegotiated a repayment plan to retire the bonds. It took some time but in 1977, the city's 100th year, all the remaining bonds were retired.

But if you're ever asked about East Union Avenue, now you'll know.

 the city police department in the county, with Sanford receiving about $3 million and Lake Mary earmarked to receive about $600,000. The shares are based on population figures.

For 13 years Polk's headquarters has been Building 310 at the Sanford airport complex, owned by the Sanford Airport Authority, a branch of that city's government.

Under the existing contract, annual rent is $80,520. An increase to $100,650 is scheduled for 1991; that will be followed by an increase to $127,080 in 1992, Sheriff's Budget Director Betty Simeco said.

Simeco said Seminole County also pays for all maintenance to the 40,260 square-foot, three-story building, which is about 30 years old. The building is poorly maintained, with holes in the walls and doors, and needed paint touch-ups ignored. Carpeting is mismatched in style and colors, stained and installed in choppy configurations.

The decor in the lobby-reception area demonstrates a lack of pride and creates a non-professional atmosphere, some say. The furnishings included straw trivets and a scenic placemat tacked to the walls, dirty plastic flowers and a dumping area for aluminum cans in one corner.

The most pressing problem, officials say, is a lack of workspace. Jail Administrator Duane Rutledge said 310 staff members work out of the sheriff's office, but about 100 of those are patrol deputies who group at a substation in Longwood. The substation, which is rented for about $13,000 per year, won't be needed, Polk said, if the new, more centrally located main office is built. Rutledge said law enforcement needs increase along with population growth. Seminole County, he said, grew by 61 percent over the past 10 years, with law enforcement growing 47 percent, and corrections needs increasing 510 percent.

"It's crowded. It's not conducive to a professional atmosphere when victims come here. We're the premiere law enforcement agency in the county and we have a shoddy atmosphere, with no privacy," Lt. Al Sanchez said of the administration building. "There's very little privacy," Capt. Roy Hughey, chief of criminal investigations, said. "You have a victim of a crime, regardless of what type of crime it is, telling you what happened in a roomful of other people, be it other victims or investigators. It's almost impossible to have a one-on-one conversation with a victim."

Currently eight investigators are assigned to one partitioned office space, with four more in a smaller office across the hall. One small room is assigned for interrogations. When that is in use other private space is very limited, Hughey said. Additional investigators are grouped in even smaller offices.

Hughey's secretary works behind a portable partition, within six feet of his desk. She tries to transcribe tapes and field phone calls, while he carries out his management duties. A second secretary also is stationed in the same office.

Maj. Donald Ealinger, former chief of the City County Investigative Bureau that will continue to investigate vice crimes from a confidential outside location, has no office at the sheriff's administrative building, even though he is third in command. Hughey said there is no space there for Ealinger. "He has a phone that he carries around with him," Hughey said. Ealinger uses a conference room as his base, when that room is not occupied.

"The current arrangement of the building affects morale and productivity of people assigned to work out of the building. It's not the best atmosphere to get the job done," Ealinger said.

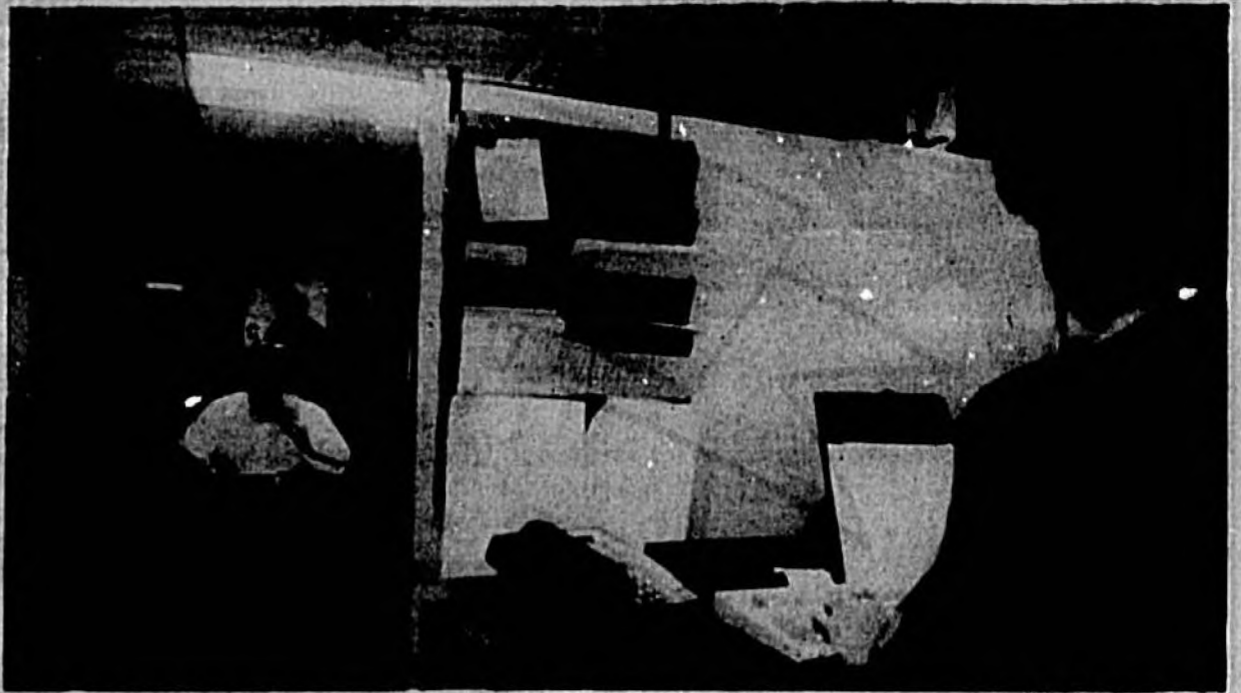

This month the county and airport authority equally shared the $80,000 cost of a new roof for the old building, Capt. Jay Leman said the county has also paid to replace the building's air conditioning/heating system. That system, Leman said, works inefficiently and erratically in a building not designed to be used as office space. Rats and squirrels that infest the building, along with roaches, Leman said, recently chewed up some newly installed computer and electrical cables valued at more than $1,000.

On each floor, left over from Navy days, are shower facilities that are not used for their original purpose. Leman said this open plumbing system generates pungent fumes in the building. The shower stalls are used to store discarded furniture. All other available storage space has been adapted to store thousands of records in boxes and on shelves as a makeshift measure.

Workmen's compensation representatives are scheduled to test the building as a "sick building" to determine if the dirt and mold that spreads out around air vents in the ceilings and walls carries diseases, Leman said.

Backers of the surtax, which is called the "Copper Penny," said this is a fair way to pay for law enforcement's housing needs. The one-cent tax would be added to the state six-cent per dollar sales tax in Seminole County for the year of 1991 only, Polk said. He said the alternative, a property tax to pay for the projects, would be permanent and would burden only property owners. The temporary sales tax, like one that grossed $13 million here for jail expansion in 1985, is more evenly shared with tourists and visitors paying 55 percent of the total. Even county prisoners, making purchases at the jail would pay the tax, Rutledge said. The tax would be in effect on single purchases up to a total of $5,000. "We have endorsed the tax," Bob Lewis, vice president of the Greater Seminole Chamber of Commerce, said. "We feel as the community grows business will have to come to grips with needs...We can't expect the sheriff to operate out of converted barracks...We will need more jail space. It's a matter of accepting responsibility."

Dave Farr, executive director of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said that chamber's board won't meet in time to officially back the tax. Farr said he personally supports the tax and has information available as a public service. The Lake Mary Chamber of Commerce shies away from political endorsements, a spokesman said.

 Louis encephalitis, suggesting that Culex nigripalpus mosquitoes carrying the virus may be in the area.

Although follow-up tests were needed to confirm encephalitis, Duval County authorities warned residents to avoid going outdoors in the early morning and evening hours, and the mosquito-spraying program was intensified.

"Sentinel" birds are tested as an early warning of the virus' presence. Domestic birds such as chickens can catch the disease from mosquitoes that have fed upon infected flocks of wild birds.

St. Louis encephalitis causes headaches or mild flu-like symptoms in most people stricken by an infected mosquito. Extreme cases can cause tremors, brain swelling and coma. Death results in about 7 percent of cases. People over age 65 are considered most at risk.

The outbreak has forced rescheduling of high school football games and other activities around dusk in central and south Florida.

The arrival of cooler weather was expected to ease the situation.

The last major outbreak in Florida came in 1977, when 110 cases were reported and eight people died.

COLLEGE FOOTBALL

State schools suffer losses

The University of Central Florida and Florida State both suffered losses in late college football games Saturday night.

UCF dropped to 4-3 on the season with a 38-17 defeat at the hands of Georgia Southern. Southern, the defending division I-AA champs, are ranked #11 in the nation and are 4-3 on the season.

FSU suffered its second straight loss of the season, 20-17, to #6 Auburn in Alabama.

Simpson Wins Disney Again

LAKE BUENA VISTA — Falling short of a cherished PGA record could hardly wipe the glow of victory off Tim Simpson's face Saturday.

Simpson successfully defended his title at the $1 million Walt Disney Golf Classic, shooting a 1-under-par 71 to stave off the furious challenge of John Mahaffey by one stroke.

In vaulting from 13th to No. 7 on the PGA money list with the $180,000 winner's check, Simpson finished at 24-under-par 264. Mahaffey, who began the final round eight shots behind Simpson, settled for a startling 64 after leaving a 18-foot birdie putt just short at 18.

Simpson later tapped in a 2-foot putt for par at 18 to capture his fourth career PGA title and first since winning here a year ago. Davis Love III, whose best previous finish here was a 30th-place tie in 1988, shot a 67 to finish two shots back at 266.

Gene Sauers fired a second straight 67 to finish fourth at 267 and Paul Azinger's second consecutive 68 left the 1987 Player of the Year fifth at 20-under 268.

After rounds of 64-64-65, Simpson began the final day six shots ahead of Love and Payne Stewart, who followed a record-breaking 61 with a 76 Saturday. Simpson, a resident of Dunwoody, Ga., needed to shoot a 67 to set a PGA tournament record for most strokes under par. Mike Souchak (1955 Texas Open) and Ben Hogan (1945 Portland Invitational) share the PGA mark of 27-under-par in a 73-hole tournament.

Lake Mary's Haney faces suspension

By TOM LANNAN
 Herald Correspondent

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — The visiting Rams from Lake Mary made the most of the gracious hospitality extended to them by Spruce Creek Friday night en route to an exciting 31-20 win at Airport Stadium.

Lake Mary's celebration of the win was tempered severely by the ejection of senior running back Chris Haney following a bench-clearing brawl in the fourth quarter. Haney now faces a possible one-game suspension, which Lake Mary plans to appeal.

The host Hawks coughed up the football five times on three fumbles, an errant punt snap and an interception to provide the difference in a statistically close contest. Four of the turnovers led directly to Ram touchdowns; the fifth occurred on the last play of the game.

Defensive back Troy Todd was the most frequent recipient of the Hawk largesse. He made an interception to set up a score early in the second period and contributed to a recovered punt snap at the Spruce Creek 9-yard line early in the fourth quarter.

Todd's biggest play, however, was a 27-yard touchdown return of a fumbled lateral with a minute and a half left in the first half.

"On the fumble play, they set up a screen pass," Todd said. "When he didn't catch the ball, I thought I'd just pick it up. It seems so natural, because I've already had two for touchdowns. There wasn't a whistle, so I just took it to the end zone."

On offense, the Rams did not wait for gifts. They simply took what they wanted. Running back Chris Haney carried the ball 25 times for 116 yards, almost all of it gained straight up the middle, behind the blocking of center Sean Adams and guards Ken Hoover and Wyatt King.

"We were running 41 and 43 blast plays right between the guard and center, most of the night,"

Just as they've done all season, Chris Haney (No. 21, left) and Troy Todd (No. 18, right) were in the right place at the right time for the Lake Mary Rams on Friday night, Haney rushed for 116 yards while Todd returned another fumble for a touchdown, his third this season, in Lake Mary's victory over Spruce Creek.

Lake, Lake Weir blow by 'Hounds

By ROBBIE STOCK
 Herald Correspondent

CANDLE — Their contest with Lake Weir Friday afternoon, the Lyman Greyhounds outgained the Hurricanes by a two-to-one ratio, limiting Lake Weir quarterback Derrick Lake and his teammates to 163 total yards.

But it didn't matter. Thanks to a furious fourth-quarter rally, the Hurricanes survived their battle with Lyman and came out a 20-10 winner.

No one was really sure how Lake Weir managed to win this game.

Not even Joe Register, Lake Weir's head football coach.

"I guess we're just lucky," said Register. "It was probably our poorest offensive execution of the season. We were definitely asleep for the first three quarters."

Lyman coach Bill Scott couldn't offer up any suggestions, either.

"I thought we played well enough to win," said Scott. "The kids played tough. We moved the ball. It's hard to say (what went wrong)."

Turnovers, penalties and an almost superhuman effort by Lake in the fourth quarter helped spell the Greyhound's demise.

On the night, Lyman turned the ball over four times and converted on none of their three attempted fourth-down conversions. Two of those failed fourth down plays led directly to Lake Weir touchdowns.

To make matters worse, the Greyhounds were flagged for nine penalties totaling 90 yards, including in that was an illegal procedure which nullified a touchdown in the second quarter.

Finally, there was the performance of Lake. □ See Lyman, Page 2B

The friendship between Seminole's Henry Williams (left) and Lake Howell's Marquette Smith (right) has been highlighted by a series of close contests in the 100-meter dash. Both agree the series is close to being even.

Friendship transcends heated competition

By TONY BOGARDIAN
 Herald Sports Editor

SANFORD — Several years ago, at a Florida university, there were these two guys who were very good friends.

It just so happened that one semester, these two good friends fell for the same attractive co-ed. But rather than ruin their friendship over it, the two were diplomatic about the situation, taking turns in escorting the young woman.

But a couple nights a week, the two friends would walk over to the gym together and, while working out with the school karate club, beat each other near senseless.

Currently, high school seniors Henry Williams and Marquette Smith are bound together in a similar relationship. Friends since grade school, the two give each other no quarter when they step on the football field or line up for a 100-meter dash.

Lewis second in Lee race

From staff reports

JACKSONVILLE — Lake Mary's D.J. Lewis was Seminole County's top finisher at the Jacksonville-Lee Invitational cross country meet on Friday night, taking second in the boys' race with a time of 15:29.9.

Lewis was over six seconds behind individual champion Calvin Whitaker of Jacksonville-Fletcher, who covered the flat, fast three-mile course over the Florida Community College at Jacksonville campus in 15:23.8.

The three schools that competed in the meet — Lake Mary, Lake Brantley and Lake Howell — all finished in the top 10 in both the girls and boys team standings.

Lake Brantley was third in the girls' standings and fourth in the boys. Lake Howell's girls finished eighth while the Silver Hawks boys took sixth. Lake Mary took 10th in the girls' standings and fifth in the boys.

Naples was the girls' team champion with a score of 67, finishing □ See Cross Country, Page 2B

Rio fires two-hitter, Reds sweep series from Oakland

United Press International

OAKLAND, Calif. — Jose Rijo fired a two-hitter over 8 1-3 innings and the resilient Cincinnati Reds overcame first-inning injuries to Eric Davis and Billy Hatcher Saturday night to rally for a 2-1 victory over Oakland and conclude an astonishing sweep of the Athletics.

In winning their first Series crown since the days of the Big Red Machine in 1976, the Reds scored twice in the eighth off Dave Stewart to erase a 1-0 deficit.

Herm Winningham and Glenn Braggs, the replacements for the injured outfielders, played vital roles in the comeback.

Barry Larkin opened the eighth with a single and Winningham, trying to sacrifice, beat out a bunt. Paul O'Neill laid down another bunt, and was safe when first-base umpire Randy Marsh ruled Stewart's throw had pulled the covering Willie Randolph off the bag. Replays seemed to indicate otherwise.

Braggs bounced into a force play at second as Larkin scored to tie it. Hal Morris, who grounded into an inning-ending double play in the sixth with the bases loaded, then lifted a sacrifice fly to bring home Winningham with the go-ahead run.

Rijo, who pitched seven shut-out innings to win Game 1, was masterful after allowing a double to Willie McGee and an RBI single to Carney Lansford in the first. The Series Most Valuable Player struck out nine and retired the final 20 batters he faced.

After he fanned Dave Henderson, Rijo left for Randy Myers. The lefthander got pinch-hitter Jose Canseco — who was scratched from the starting lineup — on a slow roller to third and Lansford to foul out to first baseman Todd Benzinger for the final out, triggering a wild Cincinnati celebration. Stewart allowed just seven hits but lost for the second time in the Series to Rijo.

Davis suffered bruised ribs and possible kidney damage when he landed on his right side diving for McGee's first-inning double. Hatcher, 9 for 12 in the Series, also left with a severe bruise after being hit in the left hand with a Stewart pitch in the top of the inning.

Both players remained in the game briefly after being hurt, but soon were taken to Merritt Hospital for X-rays and evaluation. Their status for Game 5 was uncertain.

players. Smith is the No. 1 rusher and scorer in the county while Williams is a triple threat for the Seminoles as a receiver, runner and punter.

Friends

On Thursday night at Seminole High School's Thomas E. Witham Stadium, Williams and Smith continued their highly competitive friendship in a Seminole Athletic Conference football clash between Williams' Seminole Fighting Seminoles and Smith's Lake Howell Silver Hawks.

Lake Howell won the football game. The competition between Williams and Smith was almost too close to call.

Smith rushed for 106 yards and two touchdowns. Williams returned a kickoff 89 yards for a touchdown, completed a pass on a fake punt for a first down and caught five passes for 34 yards.

When asked about the other's performance, each responded with respectful appreciation.

"He's a great back," said Williams simply.

Smith, asked to describe Williams' kickoff return, shook his head in amazement and said, "He was gone."

"We're all friends," continued Smith. "I've known 'Red Man' (Williams' nickname) and Kerry (Williams' brother) since grade school. We go back to the seventh, eighth grade."

It was in grade school that Williams and Smith first began their personal competition. In the 100-yard dash. There's no telling how many times the two have lined up against each other, but both agree that the series is just about even.

"We beat each other in the 100," said Smith. "That's been the big competition between us. The last time we ran against each other, I got him. I think the time before that, he got me. It's pretty even right now."

Williams agreed, saying, "I think we're about even right now."

It's been almost two years since Smith and Williams ran the 100 against each other, Smith having to sit out last year's track season. Their last race head-to-head was the SAC championship meet on April 21, 1989. Smith was third in 11.1 while Williams was fifth in 11.3.

The time before that, at the SAC Freshman-Sophomore meet on April 11, 1989, Williams was first in 11.2 with Smith second at 11.3.

Even after all the races, all the football games, all the close calls and all the blowouts, Smith and Williams have maintained that friendship. When they speak of each other, it is with obvious respect and affection.

But in a story published in another newspaper before last year's Seminole-Lake Howell game, Williams was quoted as saying some less than complimentary things about Smith, resulting in some hard feelings between the teams.

Smith shrugs off the incident now, but Williams is still upset, saying that his comments were taken out of context.

"That was turned all around," said Williams, becoming animated when reminded about the incident. "I look up to Marquette. And I know he looks up to me. We're friends."

Lyman

Entering Friday's matchup, he led the state in passing yardage. Although he threw for a mere 107 yards, he performed in the clutch, throwing two strikes for scores late in the game as well as picking up a key first down with a scramble.

The Greyhounds had a chance to retake the lead late in the fourth quarter, but were turned away when J. J. McKenzie picked off a Jeff Jackson pass.

With the win, Lyman increased their record to 4-3 (4-2 in SA-District 4 play) while Lyman fell to 2-5 (1-4 in district action).

The Hurricane's surprising win overshadowed some superlative efforts by Greyhound players.

Like Dallas Simpson, who scored Lake twice, blocked a

In the first half, Lyman's Alvin Trotter provided the only points with a 37-yard field goal.

The Greyhounds opened up the second half with a touchdown on a 15-yard fumble by Jackson. Cornerback Bobby Washington set up the score when he picked off a Lake pass three plays earlier.

explained Adams. "Because of the way their defense was, it was pretty easy to blow them right off the ball."

The conservative approach left little time for a passing attack, but when quarterback Joe Menello did throw, he made the most of his chances. His five completions, including a 35 yard scoring pass to Bill Kanasky, averaged over 30 yards each.

Ram Coach Doug Peters explained that, "We could have thrown probably a lot more, but we did what we wanted to do to win the game. Plus, when you've got a back like Haney, you're going to make things happen, you go to him."

With seven minutes left in the game and Lake Mary leading 31-20 and mounting a final drive to seal the victory, the game officials also went to Haney.

Having given away the ball, if not the game, all night, the Hawks suddenly became less than gracious hosts. A fight broke out near midfield, instigated by Spruce Creek's left defensive tackle.

As he and a Lake Mary blocker rolled around on the ground, virtually at the feet of an official, Haney was running the ball and being tackled several yards away. Because the referees did nothing to stop the fracas, Ram players, including Haney, soon stepped in to separate the combatants.

A minor incident quickly turned into a brawl that was ended only after six police officers came onto the field. Haney and Spruce Creek back Cliff Pitts were each ejected from the contest, even though neither player had been a principle in the altercation.

"I remember some guy trying to pull the ball out of my hands while I was on the ground," Haney related. "Then attention turned from me to this big ruckus next to me. I saw punches being thrown; I ran over there; I was just going to try to break it up."

"I saw one of their players jump into a big pile, and I was going to try to pull people off, I pulled one guy off, then I got knocked down on top of it. He was trying to punch me. All I was trying to do was hold him down."

"When the coaches came and pulled me up, I heard that '3-0' was out of the game. The referees never explained why I was thrown out, but I think they just looked up and saw me on top of a guy, and I was out."

The implications of the ejection reach further than the momentary embarrassment. As things now stand, Haney will be ineligible for next week's important clash with undefeated and state-ranked Mainland.

"That is going to be a big big game for us," said Peters. "We are going to appeal Haney's suspension. He was trying to pull players off the pile, and their guys were slugging him. I am a little upset at the officials for not having more control of the game."

"It's a shame that they are going to do that to one of our

Individually, Lake Brantley's Amy Ginnette, Lake Howell's Natalie Newberry and Lake Mary's Melissa Olson were top 10 finishers. Ginnette claimed sixth with a time of 12:38.1. Newberry was eighth in 12:47 and Olson came in 10th at 12:59.4.

Nicole Grappo of Winter Park was the girls' individual champion, finishing first with a time of 12:09.5.

Olson led a group of seven

Lake Mary runners in the varsity race. Scoring for the Rams were Aimee Tharp (34th, 13:34.6), Nicole Burlinson (80th, 14:36.4), Oasi Paget-Wilkes (88th, 14:34.4) and Heather Book (87th, 14:35.5). Also finishing were Libby Johnson (74th, 15:00) and Tam Marshall (79th, 15:16.4).

For Lake Howell in the varsity race, Miki Palumbo was 13th (13:01), Tori Dempsey finished 48th (14:04), Tina Reed took 50th (14:08) and Jenny M-Hong placed 55th (14:14). Froehlich (58th, 14:16) and Julie Logan (73rd, 15:02) also ran for the Silver Hawks.

In the girls' junior varsity race, Lake Howell finished fifth behind Corri Crosby (14th, 14:30) and Lynn Haid (16th, 14:31). Staci Ferguson was 23rd (14:51) and Barbie Hawkins took 27th (15:18) as the Rams took sixth.

Lewis and Lake Brantley's John Feola were the only county runners to break into the top 10, Feola coming in fifth at 15:58.

Also scoring for the Lake Brantley Patriots were Hunter Kemper (16th, 16:39), Wes Iler (25th, 16:55), Mike Capelli (29th, 16:59) and Craig Streetman (31st, 17:03).

For Lake Mary, doing the scoring were Bob Robertson (18:28), Toby Ayers (15th, 16:37), a new Lake Mary freshman record), Brian Benson (17th, 17:44) and Steve Platt (62nd, 17:49).

Rocket, Notre Dame knock Hurricanes out of title picture

United Press International

SOUTH BEND, Ind. — Raghib Ismail, Craig Henrich and a deceptive Notre Dame defense ended Miami's dream of defending college football's national championship.

"Rocket" Ismail returned a kickoff 94 yards for a touchdown, rushed for 100 yards on 13 carries and finished with 208 all-purpose yards to lead the sixth-ranked Irish past No. 2 Miami (Fla.) 39-20 Saturday.

The Irish remain in the national title race at 5-1, but the Hurricanes tumbled to 4-2.

Henrich kicked an Irish-record five field goals and Notre Dame forced three Hurricane turnovers, two in the fourth quarter. But the key was an Irish rushing game that overwhelmed a Miami defense ranked second in the nation against the run. Miami had allowed 62 yards rushing a game. Notre Dame rolled up 278 yards despite Ismail needing intravenous treatment for dehydration at halftime.

Ismail, a sophomore, scored the fifth and longest kick-return touchdowns of his career with 1:30 remaining in the first quarter. Ismail stumbled as he caught the ball at the 6-yard line, then rushed straight infield 20 yards before veering left and running the sidelines untouched to tie the game at 10.

Carlos Huerta's 25-yard field goal early in the fourth quarter pulled Miami within 22-20, but turnovers killed the final two Hurricane drives. A hurried throw by Craig Erickson was intercepted by Todd Lyght and sparked a 77-yard Irish touchdown drive, capped by a 31-yard screen pass from Nick Mirer to Rodney Culver with 6:18 to play.

Mike Stonebreaker recovered a Leonard Conley fumble with 4:44 remaining to end Miami's last threat.

The Irish waited until the second half before using many of the plays they developed to challenge the Miami offense.

Henrich kicked field goals of 28, 34, 35, 35 and 44 yards, the longest tying a career best for the sophomore. Both 35-yard efforts came in the third quarter and gave the Irish a 22-17 lead. One-yard runs by Craig Erickson and Steve McGuire plus a 23-yard Huerta field goal gave Miami a 17-16 halftime edge.

Florida destroys Akron 59-0 to win homecoming

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — Shane Matthews threw for 283 yards and three touchdowns Saturday, leading Florida to a 59-0 victory against Akron.

Matthews, the nation's 17th-rated passer, completed 20 of 32 passes, including touchdown throws of 10, 15 and 35 yards, in front of a homecoming crowd of 74,966 at Florida Field.

Akron managed only 84 yards of total offense against the nation's 10th-ranked defense. Quarterback Jeff Switzer provided most of the Zips' effort, rushing for a team-high 31 yards and throwing for 20 yards on 5-of-13 passing before leaving the game with a separated right shoulder.

But the Zips' also helped with their own undoing, losing two fumbles and three interceptions — two from replacement quarterback Mark Friday.

Akron, 3-4-1, could do little to stop the Gators, as Florida, 6-1, rolled up 595 yards. Junior running back Willie McClendon rushed for his first 100-yard game, gaining 106 yards on 18 carries. He also scored on a 15-yard pass from Matthews. Freshman running back Errict Rhett added 49 yards and a pair of 2-yard rushing touchdowns on nine carries.

The Zips recorded only seven first downs in the first half, and trailed 31-0 at halftime. They never got another.

Akron did not get into Florida territory in the second half, gaining only 33 yards in the last two quarters.

Florida scored all the points it needed just 7:02 into the game, on a 35-yard pass from Matthews to wide receiver Ernie Mills. That followed a Tim Paulk interception of Switzer at the Akron 38.

Matthews threw his second strike, 10 yards to tight end Kirk Kirkpatrick, on the next series, and the game was out of reach.

Florida added insurance with scores by Rhett Kirkpatrick on an 53-yard option pass from Terence Barber, Darren Mickell on a 33-yard fumble return, and a 13-yard pass to Brady Ackerman from Brian Fox. Arden Cayszewski also chipped in a 33-yard field goal.

Health care issues addressed

TALLAHASSEE — Health care costs have become a major issue in American business. By 1996, total expenditures for health care in our country may represent 13.1% of our Gross National Product. Health Care Cost Management — Solutions for Employers, the newest employer guide from the Florida Chamber of Commerce, can help businesses of all sizes control their health care costs.

The publication focuses on five key areas of health care cost management: plan design, plan administration, employee communication and education, health promotion and wellness, and utilization and data management. Health Care Management offers employers help in implementing effective strategies and smart decision-making to maintain cost saving health care policies.

The Florida Chamber is the nation's largest broad-based state chamber representing the interests of over 8,500 members.

For more information or to order a copy of Health Care Cost Management please call the chamber at (800)940-3034. Cost is $30 plus $5 shipping and handling and seven percent Florida sales tax.

American launches Madrid nonstop

MIAMI — American Airlines said Thursday it will launch daily nonstop service between Miami and Madrid on May 1. The Texas-based airline, which recently acquired the Latin American routes of bankrupt Eastern Airlines, currently flies from Miami to London. American said it will use 177-seat Boeing 767-300ER aircraft on the route. "This is another important step in the continuing development of the Miami hub," said Peter J. Dolars, the airline's senior vice president for Florida.

First Florida to acquire Mid-State

OCALA — Shareholders of Mid-State Federal Savings Bank Thursday approved the thrift's revised acquisition agreement with First Florida Banks Inc., the thrift said. Under the revised agreement, First Florida will pay $48 million, or about $22.43 a share, in cash for Mid-State. The Office of Thrift Supervision has approved the acquisition, Mid-State said. The deal is subject to approval by the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency and the Federal Reserve's board of governors. Mid-state operates 36 offices in five counties in west central Florida, with assets of about $1 billion.

Computer Products revenues down

BOCA RATON — Computer Products Inc. Thursday posted lower third quarter profits and revenues, and predicted a further decline in revenues in the fourth quarter. Income for the quarter was $1.5 million, or 7 cents a share, on sales of $36.1 million, compared with income of $1.9 million, or 9 cents a share, on sales of $39.7 million. "We are combating the economic downturn in our industries through adjustments in our workforce and other effective cost-control measures aimed at sustaining profitability," said Chairman John N. Lemastra. For the nine months ended Sept. 30, the company earned $4.4 million, or 23 cents a share, on sales of $83.1 million, compared with income of $4.9 million, or 24 cents a share, on sales of $91.3 million. The company said orders in the third quarter declined to $17.8 million because of seasonal factors and continued weakness in the power supply business.

Teachers' health care costs up

CLEARWATER — The cost of health care for teachers is rising to a level that may jeopardize the system's ability to attract top-notch educators, the vice president of the National Education Association said Thursday. Robert Chase said health care premiums for the NEA's 2 million members have risen annually by an average of 30 percent to 35 percent over the past five years. One in three teachers now pays a portion of that premium, he said. School districts also are paying more for health care. As a result, "fewer revenues are available for salary increases and programs for our students," Chase said. Chase spoke to retirement and health plan trustees and state education association leaders attending the NEA's four-day 1990 Retirement and Benefits Forum. Chase also warned of a trend by state and local governments to cancel or defer pension plan payments because of budgetary problems.

Christmas freeze impacts early crop

A bumper citrus crop that promises to surpass last year's Florida yield may owe its early bloom to the 1989 Christmas freeze, agriculture officials said Friday.

While the freeze that barreled through the state during Christmas weekend devastated citrus groves in north Florida, it contributed somewhat to the early crop in central and south Florida, said Harry Whittaker, statistician supervisor with the state Agricultural Statistics Service.

The U.S. Department of Agriculture last week issued a rosy forecast for Florida growers, predicting orange and grapefruit production may reach 215.5 million boxes this season. Last year, the massive Florida industry produced 146 million boxes.

Video retailer, magazine join forces

By United Press International

ST. PETERSBURG — Home Shopping Network Inc., the nation's largest video retailer, and Family Circle magazine announced an alliance Thursday aimed at boosting product sales and subscriptions through cross-promotions.

Under the joint marketing venture, Family Circle will provide television programming to be aired by the electronic retailer, and promote products from Home Shopping's catalog subsidiary on its merchandising pages.

Home Shopping in turn will pay to advertise in the magazine under a multi-year agreement, and sell magazine subscriptions on the air, the companies said. Terms of the advertising agreement were not disclosed.

"These are probably two of the strongest, demographically oriented women's media that you are ever going to find," a spokesman for Family Circle in New York said. "Demographically, they are almost identical."

Other cross-promotions could follow, the companies said.

Home Shopping Network has annual sales of $1 billion and a shopping club that claims about four million members. The company's shopping programs can be seen in about 60 million homes.

Family Circle, a women's magazine, claims a readership of 31 million. The magazine, part of The New York Times Co. magazine group, is published every three weeks and has a circulation of 5.25 million copies.

The companies said the joint venture, which is open-ended, was developed during discussions over the past nine months.

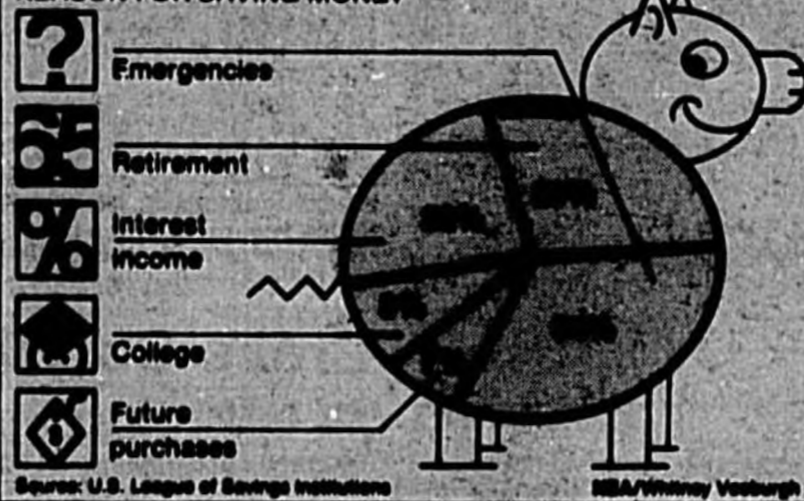

As part of the pact, Family Circle editors and contributors will provide editorial segments to be aired on the network.

"The same things that come out of the pages of Family Circle have been formatted for television. How to unclutter your kitchen is, for instance, one of the tips," the Family Circle spokesman said.

The magazine has produced 18 separate 30- and 60-second spots to air through the Christmas season, said the spokesman, who asked not to be identified.

The spots are not linked to products for sale on the program, or to features in the current issue of the magazine, he said. "It is excellent exposure for us. ... (And) it helps them develop credibility and viewership," he said.

Northwestern tops business school survey for second year

By United Press International

NEW YORK — Northwestern University's J.L. Kellogg Graduate School of Management topped a national poll of business schools for the second consecutive year, Business Week magazine said Thursday.

The magazine's B-school survey found the school retained its top spot by winning favor among corporate recruiters and its graduates.

Among the top 20 listing, it was followed by the University of Pennsylvania's Wharton School, Harvard, Chicago, and Stanford, respectively.

Yale University's School of Organization & Management disappeared from the top 20 following recent student unrest, Business Week said, while the University of Texas at Austin climbed into the elite group at number 18, largely because of a major overhaul of its MBA program.

The survey is based on questions to 6,000 graduates of 32 prominent schools and 333 companies that actively recruit at these schools. A total of 3,694 graduates and 149 companies replied.

The latest generation of MBAs awarded top honors to Chicago, UCLA, Stanford, Carnegie Mellon, and Dartmouth, while the favorite hunting grounds of the corporations were Wharton, Northwestern, Harvard, Michigan, and Chicago.

The survey also found that pay for female MBAs is still lower than that for their male counterparts. The women can expect to take home an average $54,749 in their first year out of school, while men will pocket an average $61,400. adv 5 p.m. EDT

Shrimpers want to regulate selves; oppose bay ban

By United Press International

TAMPA — In an effort to stave off a ban on shrimping in Tampa Bay, shrimpers told state officials they would police themselves and voluntarily keep large trawlers from the bay.

"If we regulate ourselves, the bay will improve," said Richard Perez, president of the Inshore Shrimpers Association of Tampa.

The group of about 65 shrimpers made their recommendations Wednesday night during a meeting with the Florida Marine Fisheries Commission.

Commission members are gathering information to develop an overall shrimp management plan for southwest Florida later this year.

Officials begin to consider a shrimping ban after biologists reported the lowest viability levels ever in Hillsborough Bay.

Scientists and environmentalists say the dirt bay bottom may be smothered up by heavy trawler activity. The heaving mounds threaten to suffocate sea grasses and kill tiny marine animals.

Shrimpers argued that the foggy bay bottom is not the result of trawling for shrimp, but is instead a result of the massive freighters that ply the bay waters. They also said sewage plants that discharge into the bay also link up.

Shrimpers did agree that more stringent rules were needed to control the number of boats in the bay.

Office construction will drop in 1990s

By United Press International

NEW ORLEANS — A study commissioned by a national real estate group predicted Thursday that more than half of the nation's cities will not need to build any more office space until the year 2000.

David Birch, a corporate economist who conducted the survey for the National Association of Industrial and Office Parks, says construction of new office space in the 1990s will drop drastically — 35 percent from the boom years of the 1980s.

"Over half the metropolitan areas in the United States don't need to build any more offices until the year 2000," he said. "The United States only needs to build six percent of what it built in the last 10 years."

Birch said half of all office space built in the United States has been built in the last 10 years, he said, the nation will need less than 10 percent of what built in the previous decade.

Among major cities, Birch said, the biggest glut is found in Los Angeles, Denver, Dallas, and Houston, all of which have vacancy rates of more than 20 percent.

Atlanta tops the survey's list of cities ripe for more office space. Others include Washington, Orlando, San Diego, San Francisco and Honolulu.

Birch said the greatest demand for construction by region will be in the sunbelt areas of the South and West.

"Half of all office space built in the entire United States has been built in the last 10 years. The economy has slowed, so we've been left with a tremendous glut," he said.

"Atlanta needs to build more space than any other city in the country, followed by Wash-

Survey: most say auto bumpers too weak

By United Press International

OAK BROOK, Ill. — Seven of 10 adults responding to a nationwide survey released Thursday say their vehicle bumpers are too weak and they want carmakers to include information on bumper strength on window stickers in dealer showrooms.

The Roper Organization interviewed 1,498 adults in June for a poll sponsored by the Insurance Research Council, a nonprofit agency that conducts public policy studies for U.S. property-casualty insurance industry.

The survey said 70 percent of adults surveyed said bumpers should be stronger than currently required by the government. U.S. standards require bumpers to withstand crashes up to 2.5 mph, down from 5 mph in 1983.

Only 18 percent of those surveyed said the standard should remain as it is.

In addition to the 73 percent of those surveyed who said they wanted bumper information on vehicle window stickers, 18 percent said such information should be available on request only and 10 percent had no opinion.

IN BRIEF

Ferris inducted into fellowship

BOSTON — Local dental practitioner, Dr. Geraldine M. Ferris, was recently inducted as a Fellow of the International College of Dentists at its annual Convocation in Boston, Mass.

An honorary organization for the recognition of outstanding and meritorious service to the profession, the College presented Dr. Ferris a membership plaque and gold key symbolic of this fellowship for conspicuous service rendered the art and science of Dentistry.

In an impressive cap and gown ceremony, 200 dentists from the United States were initiated into the College at this year's ceremony before several hundred members and guests. The College, with representative chapters in more than 50 countries, has approximately 7,000 members, including 4,200 in the United States. The College conclave was held immediately preceding the 131st Annual Session of the American Dental Association in Boston, Massachusetts.

Support group announces meetings

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — The Community Support Group for Eating Disorders offers information and support to anyone who has an eating disorder (i.e. anorexia and/or bulimia). Meetings are held every Monday from 6:30-8 p.m. in the Executive Offices Conference Room at Florida Hospital Altamonte, 601 Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs.

The Community Support Group for Eating Disorders is a free community service of the Florida Hospital Center for Psychiatry.

For more information, call the Florida Hospital Altamonte Eating Disorder Unit at 767-2267.

'Treatment Options' to be discussed

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — "Treatment Options," a discussion by a panel of patients who have undergone treatment for impotence, will be the focus of the next "Impotents Anonymous" meeting on Monday at 7 p.m. in the Chatlos Conference Center at Florida Hospital Altamonte, 601 E. Altamonte Drive, Altamonte Springs.

Florida Hospital Altamonte sponsors Impotents Anonymous for men who are affected by impotence and want to learn more about its causes and treatment. Wives and friends are welcome to attend this special meeting, which is free and open to the public.

For more information about Impotents Anonymous, call (407) 767-2265.

United Cerebral Palsy delegates selected

ORLANDO — Two three year olds, Elizabeth Lloyd, of Sanford, and Hailey Riggs, of Longwood, have been chosen as the United Cerebral Palsy of Central Florida ambassadors for 1990-91. As ambassadors, Elizabeth and Hailey will serve as representatives for the local UCP clinic, located at 930 S. Orange Ave., in Orlando, at various special events including the 1990 UCP Telethon on Feb. 2, 3.

Elizabeth lives in Sanford with her mother, Liz Devine and her grandparents, Nona and Joseph Provost. She was born on Oct. 4, 1987, two months premature. She enrolled at the J.D. Holloway Jr., Memorial Clinic at one year of age, when her mother noticed she was not developing correctly. Elizabeth was diagnosed with cerebral palsy in November of 1988. "Elizabeth has worked very hard ever since she started coming to UCP," said Elizabeth's mother. "I am very proud of all the progress she has made. She has really changed my life for the better."

"Serving as ambassador is our way of trying to repay the clinic for all that they have given to us," according to her mother. "I'm proud to tell the UCP story, especially as it relates to my little girl."

Hailey lives in Longwood with her parents, Bob and Jill Riggs and her brother Ryan. Hailey was born on Jan. 7, 1987, in Tallahassee, two weeks overdue. At two days old, Hailey was discovered to have a ventricular septal defect, a hole in her heart. She also suffered from myoclonic seizures for the first six months of her life. As a result of the seizures, Hailey has a developmental delay. She began her developmental program in Tallahassee at two years old and entered the local clinic, when the family moved to central Florida this year. Hailey recently graduated from the clinic and now attends the pre-kindergarten program at Sable Point Elementary School, Longwood. "This was a big highlight in all of our lives," her mother said. "The milestones accomplished in three years have been difficult and much appreciated."

IN BRIEF

DISTINCTIONS

The Flowers

Farming skills honed

Mr. and Mrs. S. Taylor Flowers were the only Seminole County residents to attend a conference for young farmers, sponsored by the Florida Farm Bureau, held in Ocala recently. The Flowers shared ideas with farmers from other counties.

Retired seniors elect officers

The Retired Senior Volunteer program of Seminole County elected new officers and directors recently. They are: President Bob Walko, Maitland; Vice President Tom McCarty, Orlando; Secretary Jean Metts, Lake Monroe; Treasurer, Linda Anderson, Altamonte Springs; Leon Crawford, Fern Park, was elected representative to the Advisory Council. June Harnelin, Longwood, was elected as the Chairman of the Nominating Committee. New directors elected to a two year term are: Frank Stone, Orlando; Ken Pedlow, Longwood and Fred Gaines, Longwood.

Sanford man joins inner circle

Sanford native, Andrew Perry, son of Cora Perry, was nominated and accepted recently into the Republican Senatorial Inner Circle. Senator Connie Mack sponsored Perry. Perry, who was born in Sanford, was invited by Vice President Dan Quayle to attend a private reception for members last month.

Newcomers Board of Directors

Directors announced

New members of the Board of Directors for the Newcomers Club of Lake Mary and Longwood are: June Harnelin, Gail Wallace, Sheryl Haffer, Marianne Mooney, Mary Ann Colvin, Joan Breslin and, not pictured, Marsha Peterson.

Dreams do come true

Terminal adults granted last wish

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY — Like any young mother, Joanne Michels, 36, had dreams of a bright future for herself and her three boys, aged 9, 11, and 13. Because she has only days to live; she is dying of cancer; her dreams will be buried with her. But Michels has a last wish. She would like her boys to visit Disneyworld.

If Rosemarie "Bud" Seaman, a Winter Park fitness instructor; Kathy Phillips, General Manager of Timacuan Golf and Country Club in Lake Mary; and Frankle, a Lake Mary songstress, dancer and student get their way, Michels' sons will travel from Indiana to Orlando courtesy of The Wishing Well, an adult wish foundation.

The non-profit organization was founded by Seaman to grant a final wish to adult candidates who are terminally ill. She said many organizations grant last wishes for children, but no such organization existed for adults. Seaman's friend since childhood, Kathy Stilwell, who is suffering from degenerative multiple sclerosis, was the inspiration for the Wishing Well.

"Kathy wanted to meet Oprah Winfrey and Arsenio Hall. I started making phone calls and found organizations would not help because

How would you rate as a customer? Some area waitresses spill the beans

Waitress Michelle Todd tends to her customers.

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — Four local waitresses recently spoke about service, tips, wages and customers. They also revealed differing attitudes on the one penny or two penny tip left with or in lieu of a gratuity.

The youngest waitress, Michelle Todd, works at the Colonial Room in Downtown Sanford.

Todd has a joyful attitude concerning her work. She said she serves lawyers, salespeople, businessmen and women and retired people. Everyone is pleasant.

"I love to wait on my customers. The same people come in every day. I guess it's because it's downtown and they come in for breakfast and lunch. I get to know them," she said.

Todd's aunt, Connie Low, works a few blocks west on 1st Street at Mac's Pub. Low has years of experience as a waitress and looks at it as a dignified, legitimate profession.

Low said, "I've been serving people for 15 years. It's all I know and how I earn an honest living. I like what I do and I like the people. I like where I am. It's not strenuous, the hours are perfect, no nights and the customers are polite and dignified," she said.

Uptown at El Bar (The San Antonio Rose) more popularly known as Tex Mex, Dorian Murray serves lunch. She also works the dinner shift at 2150' Cafe on 17th St. Both restaurants are in Sanford.

Murray's first waitress job was at Whataburger, a curb hop on French Avenue where the Rib Ranch is presently located. She was 14 and needed a work permit. After nine months she had saved enough to purchase her first home.

The lunch shift at the Tex Mex restaurant is quick service for busy people but not considered fast food.

Murray said, "The people are greeted, seated and served. Lunch is three hours long but we do other work also like prep veggies, set up tables, and closing work is folding napkins. There is always something for waitresses to do where there is no tips involved."

Murray likes serving people and wants to make them happy.

She said, "If I wasn't happy serving, I'd be something else somewhere else. I'm always serving the best when I'm serving my customers."

Cindy Ennis is a Sanford resident that works out of town for two chain operations. One is near full service while the other is cafeteria style. Ennis spends many hours traveling to her two jobs but believes it is worth the effort. She splits her time in Apopka and Kissimmee.

Ennis started in the business as a bread-and-beverage girl in 1976 at S&S Cafeteria in Winter Park. After two years she moved onto 94th Aero Squadron, now the 49th Airborne. As their first bus girl she stayed for

Another world exists just stone's throw from busy boulevard

Bobby Sharp plunks his fishing line in the tranquil lake off Lake Mary Boulevard.

By LACY DOMEN
Herald People Editor

LAKE MARY — Dr. Bobby Sharp spends as much time as he can near the noxious fumes and snarled traffic along Lake Mary Boulevard.

Just a stone's throw away from the new post office and a possum's jump from Taco Bell, Sharp and his partner John Canal, both Lake Mary dentists, are preserving their 20-acre tract of tranquil, wooded land, a Lake Mary from long ago.

Sharp and Canal will relocate the office they share early next year since the county claimed the present location for the widening of Lake Mary Boulevard. The new office will be tucked amidst pine trees, huckleberry, gooseberry, and blueberry bushes, with a view of gator trails and water turkeys that nest in nearby trees.

"I love nature. My father was an Alabama sharecropper so I was raised on a farm," Sharp says as alligators lounge near the bank of the manmade lake in which he fishes. The lake was fashioned four years ago when 86,000 cubic yards of dirt was removed to fill lowland slated for a shopping center nearby.

Sharp's fishing line plunks into the clear water on which lily pads lazily float. The lake appears to have been on the property forever, the merest ripple causing speckled perch, brim, catfish, bass and "a few other fish that might have gotten in here by accident," according to Sharp, to investigate the disruption of their quiet setting...only yards from the hub-bub of the boulevard.

Sharp stocked the lake and fishes it whenever he can.

"I intend to have my fishing pole set out most of the time, so between patients I can fish," he jokingly says.

A retired Navy dentist, Sharp is the father of two sons who live on the family farm in Alabama where they attend college, and a daughter, Dawn, who lives in Lake Mary.

He said, along with playing golf, preserving the natural site smack in the middle of explosive growth is one of his passions.

"You always have secret wishes which you don't think will happen. I have always wanted my office to be in this kind of setting, and because the other building was condemned, I'm getting my wish," he says.

Sharp has a working knowledge of edible plants and poisonous snakes, many of which exist on the property. He has seen coral snakes, water moccasins and rattlers. One thin snake-like trail stops abruptly at the base of a tree.

"Maybe that's not a snake," he says. "It could be a walking catfish stuck in the tree," he grins and adds.

Although much of the land is heavily wooded, Sharp spends four hours at a time mowing cleared areas.

"It keeps me out of trouble," he says.

His vision includes preserving the acreage as a park and wildlife refuge.

"It's amazing to me that so much wildlife exists so close to Lake Mary Boulevard. I'd like to see this become a permanent park to preserve it, but it would be very costly for the county to do. If I win the lottery, I'd do it," he says.

Although Sharp has posted "No Trespassing" signs, he allows friends to visit the property.

"I like for the animals to live by themselves. They don't need too many people back here," he says.

A gray fox scampers through a clearing. Chubby squirrels scale tall trees. Palmetto thickets rustle with its inhabitants. It's quiet enough to hear crickets chirp as dusk descends.

Nearby, motorists still snake down Lake Mary Boulevard.

ANNIVERSARY

Macon and Genny Hare

Hares celebrate 50 years

SANFORD — Macon and Genny Hare, Sanford, celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary on October 9, 1990 at their residence. They were married October 11, 1940 in Pascagoula, Mississippi. Two hundred guests attended the anniversary reception.

They have three children:

Macon G. Hare, Jr., a missionary in Colombia, S.A.; Bing Hare, missionary in Brazil and Terri Reinalda, missionary in Sanford.

The couple have nine grandchildren and have been missionaries for 40 years. They credit their secret for a long marriage to their love for each other and for the Lord.

NEW ARRIVALS

Katharine and William Corso, Sanford, announce the birth of their son, Michael James, on September 14 at Physicians Birthing Center in Longwood. Maternal grandmother is Phyllis Hoffman, Sanford. Paternal grandmother is Audry Corso, Sanford.

Janice and Ralph Durand, Geneva, announce the birth of their daughter Jessica Leigh, on September 18 at Central Florida Regional Hospital, Sanford. She weighed 6 pounds 6 and one half ounces at birth. Maternal grandparents are Pat and Pauline Shannon, Sanford. Paternal grandmother is Ruth E. Durand, Fort Lauderdale.

Carol and Stephen Toggweiler, Longwood, announce the birth of their son, Troy Dean, on September 22 at Physicians Birthing Center, Longwood. Maternal grandparents are Al

Ballerinas audition for guild

Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole conducted auditions on Sept. 22 with 27 talented and sparkling ballerinas accepted into the 1990-91 company.

On Saturday, Oct. 13, the dancers, their parents and other guests were honored at an orientation luncheon at the Lake Monroe Inn with Margaret Gustafson serving as hostess.

During the course of the delightful luncheon, the company dancers introduced their parents and guests. Each dancer was presented a pink carnation tied with a black ribbon, a pink check-book-like calendar inscribed with the BGS insignia and a BGS pin. The clever calendars were handcrafted by Shirley Barbour and Fran Neville.

Donna Hoffman, president of the BGS Board of Directors, conducted the orientation and short business session. She called on Miriam Doktor and Valerie Weld, artistic directors and choreographers, who told about the forthcoming activities of the guild. The dancers will perform in the "Circle of Light" at the St. Lucia Festival in December. "Who Shot Diddy?", a murder thriller ballet, is scheduled in March with Foreman Heard cast in the role of Phillip Diddy.

Several guest dancers were present including Mayor Bettye Smith and Ed Korgan, manager of School of Dance Arts. Accompanying the mayor were her husband, Dr. Robert J. Smith, and their baby granddaughter, Chelsea Nicole Smith, who will probably be a BGS ballerina in just a few short years. The mayor signed a proclamation declaring last week as Ballet Guild Appreciation Week for Dancers and Guest Dancers.

Other BGS board members with Donna are: Becky Lauwma, vice president; Fran Neville, treasurer; Diana Garris, secretary; Shirley Barbour, corresponding secretary; Susan McLaughlin, treasurer; Robin McLamb, Linda Zern, Sandy Orwig-Murray, Judy Cox, Dara Smith, Jeff Smith, Elai Kruk and Fonda Nobles.

Native daughter turns 92

One of Sanford's native daughters has just recently celebrated her birthday. Olga Hunter turned 92 on Oct. 5. The lovely lady was born in 1898 in Sanford to Leonard and Emma Vihlen. The Hunters were not a part of General Henry Sanford's original Swedish settlers whom he brought to Sanford. They purchased their own property in Sanford while still living in Sweden.

SANFORD

DORIS DIETRICH

Olga was honored on her birthday at a coffee given by her sister, Alice Nordgren, at the Nordgren home on Bay Avenue. "It was a nice affair," Olga said.

Among those attending were Sid Vihlen, Sr., Olga's brother, Louise Austin, Lenora Jones, Helen Stapler and Catherine Malloy.

Olga is as bright as they come. To what does she contribute her longevity? "I just think being responsible for self and good old plain hard work," she said. "Responsibility is a good dose of medicine. I believe in the Lord. That's important. In other words, the Lord's the boss."

Here comes Lacy

Lacy Nobles, 5, may not know it, but she's into some pretty heavy show biz. The bubbling and petite beauty, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Randy (Fonda) Nobles, recently auditioned for a role in "Doc Hollywood," a movie by Warner Bros., starring Michael J. Fox. The movie will be filmed in Gainesville and Los Angeles.

Local talent agencies were asked to supply the girls to audition. Lacy was one of four chosen by her agency, Hurt-Garver Talent and Modeling Agency, Winter Park. Sanford's former Melanie Hurt is co-owner of the agency.

Described by her mom as "high energy," Lacy has already been featured in several commercials. The results of the audition will be announced next week. We're keeping our fingers crossed for Lacy.

Circle helps festival

Wildflower Circle of the Garden Club of Sanford Inc. met on Oct. 11 at the clubhouse with Alice Beaulieu and Barbara Bradshaw as hostesses.

Guest speaker was Kathy Krasnoff, chairman of the Speakers' Bureau for the St. Lucia Festival. Kathy spoke of the origin and purpose of the festival and asked members to help make it a success. Circle members are selling candles to "Light up Sanford."

Members brought plants which were donated to the Butterfly Garden at Wilson Elmentary School. The hostesses served bagels with cream cheese, chocolate cake, pear bread, coffee and tea.

Emy still recovering

Emy Bill, civic leader and volunteer, has been hospitalized at Central Florida Regional Hospital following a fall at a political gathering that left her in serious condition.

She has now been transferred to Florida Living Nursing Center Inc., 3355 E. Semoran Blvd., Forest City, to convalesce. Knowing Emy, she will be back at her Sanford home in no time at all.

Women attend confab

Several members of the Woman's Club of Sanford Inc. will attend the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs District II Fall Tour at the St. Cloud Woman's Club, Tuesday. Special guest speaker will be Tam Duggan, Ocala, president of the FFWC.

Scheduled to represent the local club are Marty Colegrove, president; Hazel Cash, immediate past president; Audrey Roush, first vice president; Faye Stier, chairman of the arts department; Charlotte Smith, Rose Payne and Kay Bartholomew.

Saturday in the park

Saturday, Oct. 27, should be a perfect day for a free concert in Centennial Park under the auspices of Seminole Community Concert Association. On hand to entertain will be Mike Arena of Sanford and his 19 jazz musicians who "play for the sheer love of it," according to Mike.

The park is located on Park Avenue between Fourth and Fifth Streets and concert hours are from 4 to 6 p.m., according to SCCA president, Bette Gramkow.

Refreshments will be served and a drawing will be held for free concert series tickets. During the concert, subscriptions will be sold to the season's series.

Women hear psychic

Several Sanford women attended the Heathrow Women's Club luncheon meeting Tuesday to hear the celebrated psychic, clairvoyant and clairaudient, B. Anne Gehman, speak. Anne flew in from the Washington, D.C. area especially for the occasion and was the guest of Marianne Bassler, President of the Heathrow club.

According to Ms. Gehman, "everybody was fascinated." The speaker performed psychometry using a watch and ring to pick up the subject's vibrations. She also answered numerous questions from the club members and guests. "She had everybody just spellbound," Lis said.

Among the Sanford women attending, along with Lis who is a member of the club, were Jeri Kirk, Dorothy McReynolds and Dara Lee Russell.

Friends, family join celebration

Diminutive Mary Wolf celebrated her 79th birthday in a big way recently. Friends and family gathered to honor her at a surprise party held at the home of Claire O'Connor. As much planning and work as everyone did, the biggest job was keeping the secret from Mary.

"Boy, was she surprised, too," Mary Jane Duryea said.

Claire picked Mary up after the Historical Fair and stopped home for a minute. The minute turned into a three-hour autumn bash, complete with apple cider and molasses cookies. Claire used pumpkins and chrysanthemums to lend a seasonal air, in spite of the still-hot weather.

Guests feasted on a variety of finger foods, including a big, beautiful cake and ice cream, according to Mary Jane.

Family who attended include Mary's husband, Charlie; her son Robert, his wife, Brenda, and Mary's grandsons Scott and Bobby from St. Petersburg; Mary's son Leonard, his wife, Bonnie, and their son David from Stuart; and Mary's granddaughters, Brenda and Heather Bailey.

Friends who paid their respects were: Claire O'Connor, Ola Dell Cochran, Lois Pugh, Jackie and Roger Quick, Lillian Allison, Dill Mathews, Nan Erle Stevens and her granddaughter, Megan; Kay Sasman and her mom, Margaret Ulmer; Alfred Schoblom, Happy Parrish, Lillian Griffin, Helen Glatt, Hattie Boyd, Dick Fees, Arolyn True, Laurette Williams, Christine, Alling, Anna Mae Decker, Harry and Mary Terry, Evelyn Rice, Fritz O'Connor, Jarad Melick, Virginia Anderson, Ethel and Carl Carlson, Ken and Christie King, Pat and Ray Fox, Melissa and Paul Souvan and their children, Susanna and David; Mary Jane and George Duryea, Kay Thompson, Pat Neff, Margaret Wesley, Thelma Brewer and Doris Osborn.

Winners announced
Lake Mary Rotary Club members had a very good time at the golf tournament they sponsored recently at Timacuan Golf and Country Club, according to spokesperson Scott Wyse.

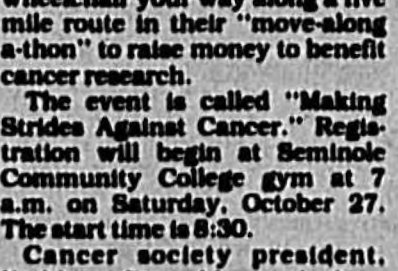

He said 101 golfers participated and over $5,000 will be added to Rotary coffers to assist area charities.

Timacuan released the last names of winners in each flight. They are: Reeder, Green, and White in the first flight; Ganas White and Evans in the second flight; Bobbitt, Oxford and Ward in the third flight; and Quarterman, Ferwand and Owen in the calloway flight.

The event is called "Making Strides Against Cancer." Registration will begin at Seminole Community College gym at 7 a.m. on Saturday, October 27. The start time is 8:30.

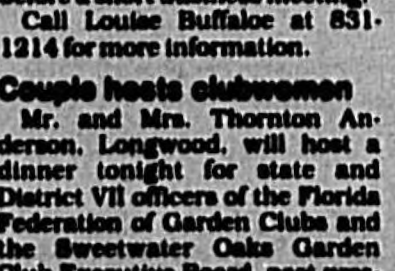

Cancer society president, Kathleen Reynolds, said there are two ways to participate: as an individual or as a team of family and friends. Collect pledges and qualify for prizes, too. Call 323-0849 for more details.

There's been a change
The South Seminole Garden Club President, Doreene Fish, announces the regular October meeting has been changed to Tuesday, October 23, and will be held at the home of member Kathy Robertson at 1 p.m.

Kathy has a lovely water lily garden at her home and will have a talk on starting and caring for this type of pond. Refreshments will be served

Couple hosts clubwomen
Mr. and Mrs. Thornton Anderson, Longwood, will host a dinner tonight for state and District VII officers of the Florida Federation of Garden Clubs and the Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club Executive Board, past presidents and members. The dinner is a prologue to the district's fall meeting hosted by the Sweetwater club.

Attending will be: FFQC President Elise Hayman; Addie Lou Harris, Beth Wilson and Marian Hilliard, vice presidents; and Corresponding Secretary Esther Freyermuth. Also planning to attend are: the immediate former National Council of State Garden Clubs President Ellen Griffin, former FFQC President Gini Jordan, District VII Director Madalyne Lawton; Assistant District VII Director Margaret Kirkpatrick and Sweetwater Oaks Garden Club President Ann Wilson.

Reader lucky to see Lindy back in 1927

DEAR ABBY: I wonder if perhaps I am the only living American who was in Paris the night that Charles Lindbergh arrived in 1927. I was a lad of 17 at the time.

My later brother-in-law, Global Zobel, and I were at Autell, watching Bill Tilden and Bill Johnston play Brugnon and Borotra for the doubles championship of France, when newsboys began hawking "extras" announcing that "Lindbergh" had been sighted flying over Ireland. A mass exodus from the stands took place, with everyone grabbing taxis to go to Bourget Airport. To this day, I don't know who won the tennis match — or if it was even finished.

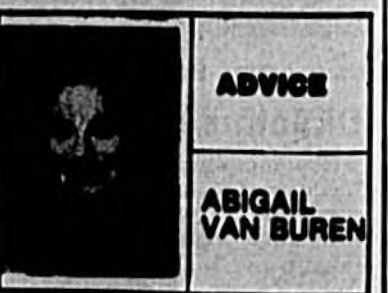

The boulevard to Bourget was jammed with taxis 10 abreast. In those days, the Paris taxi had a sliding panel in the roof. Everyone had acquired a bottle of something and, inasmuch as the traffic moved very slowly, bottles were passed from cab to cab celebrating the earthshaking achievement. We managed to get to within a mile of the airfield. It was around 10 p.m. in Paris, and we saw Lindbergh shoot out a flare over the airfield to determine where he was and how to land.

Paris went mad for the next three days. There was dancing in the streets, and restaurants were giving free food and liquor to Americans!

I would be very interested to know if there are any other Americans still around who shared this experience.

JOHN SUCERMAN, STOCKTON, CALIF.
DEAR JOHN: If there are, and I hear from them, I'll let you know. Readers?

DEAR ABBY: I was very much amused by the letter from a mother who received outraged insults whenever she took her children out in public on leashes.

In England, "harnesses" are much more accepted — perhaps because people walk more in England than we do in the States. So when my husband was an exchange teacher in London for a year, I purchased leather harnesses for our 18-month-old twin daughters. They didn't seem to object, and it gave me a great deal of peace of mind.

It wasn't until we were back in the States and we changed planes in Dallas that I realized how many Americans felt about children on leashes! I received dirty looks, muffled negative comments and some outright insulting criticism as we strolled through the Dallas airport. I felt like a criminal. Then a very distinguished older gentleman approached me with a smile and said, "How I wish those things were around when my twin girls were about the age of yours!"

Believe me, Abby, that man made my day.

LOVING MOM IN SACRAMENTO

DEAR MOM: Knowing something about what a handful a pair of spirited 2-year-old twins can be, I'm sure my dear, departed mother would also have appreciated some kind of "harness" for her twins.

Live life free from addictive influences

READERS: Today is the first day of the National Red Ribbon Week, Oct. 21 to 28, a week to demonstrate our community, state, and national commitment to our right to live our lives free from the influence of addictions.

Red Ribbon Week began seven years ago in response to the death of Enrico Camenero, a Federal Drug Enforcement agent who was tortured and murdered in Colombia while on assignment. Following the investigation of his murder, the FDA came to the realization that as long as the demand for drugs remains strong in the USA, the supply will also follow. Therefore, the focus of the agency expanded to incorporate demand reduction as a cornerstone of the fight against drug use in America, and Red Ribbon Week was born.

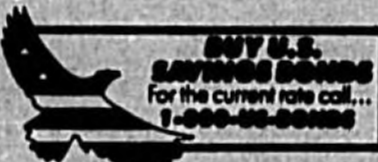

Red Ribbon Week is a celebration and acclamation shared by businesses, governmental organizations, social service agencies, churches, civic groups, schools and individuals, standing together to proclaim our united determination to reclaim our communities from the impact of drug use. As the Yellow Ribbon expresses our individual and national commitment to the freeing of American hostages, the Red Ribbon expresses our determination to be free from the chains of drug addiction in our population.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 21, 1980

Usually you tend to favor partnership arrangements or team efforts. In the year ahead, however, your greatest successes are likely to come from situations you originate or operate independently of others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your self-interests can be substantially advanced today, provided you do things to please yourself rather than trying to do things as others would have you do them. Be your own person. Libra, treat yourself to a birthday gift. Send for your Astro-Graph predictions for the year ahead by mailing $1.25 to Astro-Graph, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428. Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) A secret ambition you've been nurturing has excellent chances of being fulfilled at this time. For best results, however, keep your intentions to yourself a while longer.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) A close friend of long standing might introduce you to someone new and interesting today. This contact could be important and may constructively fit into your future plans.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) More attention than usual might be centered on you today. Your comments and suggestions will carry a lot of weight, so be sure what you say makes the type of impression you want to make.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Someone you've been trying to advise who didn't appear to be receptive to your ideas has in actuality taken them to heart. Today you may see several examples of their utilization.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Something you've been wanting to change, but have lacked the power to do so looks like it may of its own volition begin shifting in a desirable direction as of today.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) People in general tend to be more receptive to your ideas and suggestions today than usual. Make your thoughts known so that you can receive the cooperation you're seeking.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) There is a strong possibility you may come up with a better way of doing something today that will make an important endeavor on which you're working much easier.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) There are strong indications that something special, socially significant, may develop for you today that will have peripheral benefits and favorably affect your popularity.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) Something from the past might be drastically terminated today as your interest shifts to a new situation. Even if you don't trigger the change, you'll still welcome it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Projects or assignments that are of a purely mental nature are the ones you are capable of performing the most effectively today. Don't use your nucleus where mind power is required.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You are still in a favorable trend for developing a healthier cash flow, provided you do something about your profitable ideas instead of merely sitting on them.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
Oct. 22, 1980

A number of opportunities for material growth will come your way in the year ahead. They will have promising potential, provided you are prepared to assume the principal role and let associates play the minor ones.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) In your involvements with your peers today try to be democratic and let the majority rule. If you attempt to impose your will you may be left out on the limb alone.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 23) A situation in which you are presently involved isn't optimum, but it is not as bad as you think. Focus on its positive aspects and rebuild from there.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You should have an equal say today in any decision that could cost you money for either business or pleasure. Don't let the less informed think for you.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be extremely careful today you do not find fault with a situation where someone is going out of the way to do something for you that isn't obligated to do.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) If anything good happens for you today in conjunction with another be willing to share the fruits of the endeavor. However, you are not under obligation to reward one who made no contribution.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) In order to achieve a significant objective today, you might have to take a circuitous route because a brusque frontal attack, although dramatic, will be ineffective.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Guard against tendencies today to rush into situations before your plans are properly formulated. What you do impulsively may have to be un-learned later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Strive to be open-minded today when others tell you things for your own benefit regarding ways to enhance your financial position. You can learn by listening.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Only people who are party to the proceedings should be privy to direct involvements today. Those who do not belong could derail the progress of the arrangements.

CANCER (June 21-July 23) Try not to let your work pile up on you today, because you are not likely to perform as effectively as you should when you have to do things under pressure.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 23) Your enthusiasm and optimism might not be of an enduring nature today and this could cause you to fold early should things get testy. Be of sterner stuff.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) There's a strong possibility you will achieve a significant goal today, but not necessarily because of your methods or tactics, but because Lady Luck might intervene.

By James Jacoby

Willy Nilly was smarting over the frequent criticism from partners about his declarer play. So he studied up on card combinations. It didn't help him in today's four-heart game. East won the opening club lead with the ace and returned the jack of diamonds. Willy won the ace and promptly attacked trumps by leading the heart jack. West played the five. Willy played low from dummy, the right play in a vacuum. It would win not only when West held Q-5, but also when West held A-Q-5, which tilts the odds in favor of playing small. Too bad. The defenders now look two heart tricks to go with their two black aces, and Willy was set once again. Even worse luck for Willy. Careful Charlie was libtizing. "Tak. tak," exclaimed Charlie. "You might have done better." "How so? I made the right percentage play," argued Willy. "Why not play the king of spades out of your hand before going after the trump suit? When East shows up with the ace of spades, in addition to his previously played club ace and diamond jack, you know he cannot hold the heart ace or he would have opened the bidding. That marks West with the heart ace and makes the right play going up with dummy's king. You lose only when West holds all three hearts, an unlikely distribution.

three years. Ennis said, "I got into the business because I wanted to be a day server and a night cocktail waitress."

Looking back, Ennis remembered her first job at S&S with fond memories.

"The help at S&S laughed at me with my bulging pockets full of small change. All the older people would place a coin on the tray for me. I saved it and every Friday I'd roll up all my change. With that money I bought my first car and paid cash for it, $1600," she said.

Two weeks after Ennis graduated from high school she enrolled at Seminole Community College in the interior design program with money she earned as a waitress.

"I took all of the classes but didn't get my degree. I fell in love and quit college. I never did get to work at interior decorating."

The four waitresses have varied backgrounds, experiences and educational levels. One owned her own business, one is presently building a business, three have children, three work in Sanford while three live in Sanford. They all have a similar attitude about the service industry as in professionalism and a love of people.

Tips are a very important aspect of the service industry to these women.

Todd said, "You have to take the good with the bad. Some people may not leave anything but the next table may leave $5 or $6. I heard beer customers may leave better tips. I really don't know as we don't serve beer here but the food is very, very good."

Todd works the breakfast and lunch shifts and picks up about $50 a day in tips for both shifts.

"Breakfast is busier but tips are better at lunch," she said.

Her hourly wage is $2.26. She gets a 16-hour break before lunch.

Low said, "I was stilled for a bill once. I had to pay it out of my own pocket. It's like a double hurt because there is no tip and then to pay the customer's bill also causes a financial hardship. The waitress always pays when a customer walks."

Low works the breakfast and lunch shifts and earns $2.50 per hour. Her daily tips for both shifts come to $60 to $80. Lunch only brings $25 to $35.

Murray earns $2.09 per hour plus tips.

"Sometimes people will hold a table for two hours and eat lightly, thereby have a low bill and a low tip. We make our living from tips and need to serve many people. If the customer stays longer, they should leave a larger tip. Some stiffing is cultural. If a tourist comes from a country where the service people receive salary then while here they don't know any better."

Ennis admitted when she has a table of kids, her job is more difficult because it takes her a long time to clean up after them.

"I think the adults with kids could tip better," she said.

Ennis earns $2.09 per hour plus tips of $60 to $130 per day.

Ennis remembered having her tips placed in a locked box at one restaurant where the chefs took 50 percent and then she had to pay out the bartender and the busboys with the remainder.

Todd, Low, Murray and Ennis have each experienced the one penny, two penny tip.

Todd has no attitude about pennies. It doesn't insult her and she doesn't know what it means.

Low has a definite attitude against pennies and believes any pennies means a "cut to the waitress."

Murray believes it means, "one penny, poor service; two pennies, above and beyond good service along with a hefty tip."

Ennis doesn't concern herself with pennies. "It all adds up. If it has a meaning, I'm too busy to notice. I'm always gracious whatever I get."

Without exception, each woman liked her job, the people they worked for and with. They stressed clean work, decent customers, good tips, good hours and pleasant surroundings as being big pluses for waitresses. They each appreciate the daily cash flow but believe strongly that tips need to be budgeted to pay bills. The temptation is always there to spend the money daily.

Rabbit laid to rest in series finale

Rabbit at Rest
By John Updike
(Knapf 515 pp., $21.95)

The last word of "Rabbit at Rest," John Updike's fourth and presumably final book of the life and times of Harry "Rabbit" Angstrom is "enough." And perhaps for Updike, who has chronicled the libidinous, anxiety-ridden Rabbit through four decades, it is.

Readers may think otherwise, because Rabbit, here in semi-retirement, dividing his time between Brewer, Pa., and a condo in Florida, has become as companionably familiar as a next-door neighbor.

Now, viewed in its totality, the Rabbit quartet stands as a major achievement, a chronicle of post-war America that is both loving and harshly critical. Updike, not Tom Wolfe, is our true Dickens.

In "Rabbit at Rest," we pick up Rabbit at 55, easing beyond middle-age, waiting for his son Nelson and Nelson's family, to fly into Florida. As Rabbit watches a plane land, the mood and there are set for the plane seems to come as the seed of his own death.

And the book is a meditation on death, often in vintage Updike prose with its meticulous cataloguing and serpentine sentences. Here it is the junk thrown up by America during the Reagan era — junk food, junk bonds, junk television — that poisons body and soul.

America, like Rabbit, Updike seems to be saying, is drifting downward, a drift we've watched in Rabbit since his glory days as a high school basketball star.

Updike propels his plot through Florida and Brewer, providing enough story to make Rabbit's musings interesting. He ends it in an intensive care unit after Rabbit suffers a bad heart attack.

But the plot is less important than the finely observed details. There is an almost theological attention given to these descriptions as if, in heeding the Psalmist's injunction to "taste and see," Updike is attempting a kind of transubstantiation of the elements allowing him to transcend death.

Kathy was too old. So I decided to do it myself," she said.

After nine months, Stihwell met Winfrey. Last June, she met Hall.

Now ready to make the organization grow, the group incorporated in May and they said, they intend to help more adults like Stihwell and Michaels.

"We don't need a lot of money if businesses will donate their services," Wishful Well Vice President Phillips said.

"We've all donated money to get this off the ground. We're grass roots with no big names behind us," she said. "Our operating budget is $0. All money, products and services are used to grant wishes, so a donation of plane tickets or a rental car is a big deal to us."

One way the organization raises money is through the sale of the cassette tape for which Frankie donated her talent.

"Bud and I were jogging one morning and she asked me if I wanted to sing a cover song for a tape the foundation wanted to do," she said. "I was so impressed with Wishful Well and Kathy that I wrote and recorded the song 'Remember'."

The recording studio and musicians who accompany Frankie also donated time.

"All of the proceeds go to Wishful Well," Frankie said.

"It could be you sitting in a wheelchair, wishing for one last thing. That's what we want to help grant," Seaman said.

Frankie's tape is available through mail order by sending $2 for postage and handling to Wishful Well, c/o Tom Williams, P.O. Box 99167, Lake Mary, FL 32706-1607. Phone Bud Seaman at 442-0907 for more information about Wishful Well.

IN BRIEF

SCC offers effective parenting class

SANFORD - Parenting classes are being offered beginning in the middle of October at the Sanford campus of Seminole Community College.

The cost of the class is $25 for the six week class which consists of 12 hours in class.

Several elementary schools will offer 30-hour classes on the same subject free of charge including free child care and free transportation.

For more information call the Parent Resource Center.

Law, graduate schools to present at UCF

ORLANDO - Representatives of more than two dozen law and graduate schools will be at the University of Central Florida tomorrow to talk to area students interested in pursuing advanced degrees.

The annual event, sponsored by UCF's career resource center, will be held at the student center auditorium in two sessions: the first at 10 a.m. and the second at 1 p.m.

Some of the schools who will be on hand are: Barbiri Professional Training Center, Embry-Riddle Aeronautical University, Mercer Law School, Rollins College Graduate School of Business, South Texas College School of Law, St. Thomas University School of Law and the Thunderbird Graduate School of International Management.

For more information, contact James Gracey at 823-2361.

Loch Lowe students are busy

LAKE MARY - Students in the lower school and the kindergarten sections at Loch Lowe Preparatory School learned about fire prevention last week from Capt. James Peacock who is with the Orlando Navy Base Fire Department.

Peacock allowed students to try on firefighters' clothing, examine the firefighting equipment and practice escape tactics for leaving a burning room.

The students in the lower school have also been writing to Richard Shamp, a Sanford resident who is stationed with the Dental Battalion in Saudi Arabia.

Soviet poet to speak at UCF

ORLANDO - On Monday, Oct. 22 Soviet poet Unna Moritz will speak to the World Writers Series at the University of Central Florida.

Moritz, considered by some to be the finest poet writing in the Soviet Union today, is the author of the anthology "Talk of Happiness."

She will appear at 2:30 p.m. in the Board of Regents room which is on the third floor of the UCF administration building.

There is no charge for the event.

Slover's work was perfect

MOBILE, Alabama - Paula Dentac Slover of Longwood was one of only a dozen students at the University of South Alabama to compile a perfect 4.0 average during the summer session.

Slover was named a "President's Scholar" in ceremonies at the university last week.

FAAPS offers scholarships

BRANDON - Over $1.4 million in scholarships are being made available to Florida high school seniors by the Florida Association of Accredited Public Schools (FAAPS).

Details about the scholarships and applications for it are available at all public libraries, at the Seminole County school district's county office and from the vocational offices at the district level.

Additional information can be obtained through school guidance offices.

The deadlines for students to submit their applications is May 1, 1991. The scholarships will be awarded for the Fall of 1991.

For more information regarding the program, call FAAPS at 813-681-3877.

One minute manager at SCC

SANFORD - Kenneth Blanchard, famous as the author of the "One Minute Manager" will be speaking at Seminole Community College on Wednesday, Oct. 24 from 1:30 to 3:30 p.m.

There is a $45 charge for the class which will focus on strengthening your leadership position in the Greater Orlando market, on developing three of the most important one minute manager secrets and on enhancing corporate strategies for the 1990s.

Families sought for exchange students

International Student Exchange is looking for host families in the Seminole County area to host exchange students from eastern Europe who would like to come to the United States to study.

Host families are paid a stipend for hosting the youngsters and the students bring their own insurance and spending money.

For more information, call Robert Pink, president of International Student Exchange at 1-800-788-4886.

Fun games and Red Ribbon prep highlight full week

By ALLISON SLATER
High school correspondent

LAKE MARY - The week of October 8 saw the beginning of the 1990 Lake Mary Intramural games sponsored by inter-club council.

The games ranged from fribee golf to swimming, and representatives from various clubs and organizations competed for "points" for their groups.

The first game, held in the gym during lunch the first day, was a free throw basketball contest which was won by Interact representatives Jennifer Moore and Ron Peck. Interact is a branch of Rotary Club and is sponsored by Dianne Mills and Moore, who is president.

In other news around campus, the Healthfully Involved Peers (HIP) participated in an district-wide anti-drug and alcohol training session this weekend held at Lake Mary.

The group, headed by Bekan Boothe, president of the Lake Mary HIP program and Tony Napolitano, sponsor of the program, joined representatives of other programs from the other county high schools, attended sessions Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

In addition, there was a drug and alcohol-free dance Saturday night. HIP was founded three years ago and is designed to show teenagers that they can have a good time without drugs or alcohol.

The Lake Mary High School chapter of Students Against Driving Drunk (SADD) met with the SADD Coalition of Central Florida on Saturday to participate in a "Rock-a-Thon" held at the Square Mall in Orlando.

Students rocked in rocking chairs all day to raise money for their clubs. The event kicked off Red Ribbon Week (Oct. 22-28), for which the Lake Mary High SADD and HIP clubs have made symbolic red ribbons. The ribbons will be sold at school this week for a quarter. Wearing the red ribbon declares that the wearer is drug and alcohol responsible.

All sports are a strong bond for busy Seminoles

By SHANNON LETTMER
High school correspondent

SANFORD - Whether in fall or spring, a sport can unite a student body.

Students of all types and from all grades come out to show their spirit while encouraging a team to victory. Football games bring the entire school together during pep rallies. The community comes together with spirit and enthusiasm at the games.

And the excitement is not limited to varsity sports. The entire Seminole family continues to push the junior varsity through tough battles.

For the varsity grid iron players, on October 12, spirited fans helped the varsity 'Noles to a victory over the Edgewater War Eagles. The War Eagles were undefeated until they met up with the fighting 'Noles, who were also undefeated at 5-0.

The varsity girls' volleyball team will have their last home game on October 24th. At this time senior players will receive their traditional flower. The girls are 3-0 in their district and will try to enhance the record to 4-0 October 24th against St. Cloud.

Other fall club sports, such as bowling, are also thriving at Seminole High. Both girls' and boys' teams continue to increase their standings in the district.

Many winter and spring sports such as basketball, soccer and baseball are also getting under way.

All the athletes have had their required physicals.

The girls' basketball program has just begun conditioning for the upcoming season which begins next month.

Members of the boys' basketball team are also getting into shape and regaining their feel for the game.

With many new athletic seasons right around the corner and the others still underway, the Seminole family looks forward to exciting and unpredictable plays.

Bessie Martinez, a financial counselor at SCC offers information and encouragement to Elisea Causey, 18, of Altamonte Springs who attended the workshop with her daughter Kaylene Campbell, 2. According to local experts, such commitment to education is rare.

Teen moms shun help

By VICKI BOESCHMAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD - Joan Johnson, a teacher who coordinates the Single Mothers Project for the Seminole County school district, said she had expected it. Still she was disappointed.

"I shouldn't have been surprised," she said of the fact that only three young women showed up for the free information session for single mothers interested in vocational careers.

"They're irresponsible," she said. "That's why they're in the situation they're in to begin with."

Johnson is not really bitter. She is concerned.

"These girls don't know what they need to get training to get jobs to support their children properly," she said.

The program, which was last weekend, was sponsored by the vocational departments at Seminole Community College and the Seminole County school district.

Johnson and Midge Mycoff, who coordinates the single parent program at Seminole Community College planned the session and enlisted the assistance of professionals from the Private Industry Council and the financial aid department of SCC to help the teens find their way through the maze of vocational training programs at SCC.

"If we can get them in here they would be able to see how to make their lives easier with a better paying job," Johnson said.

She noted, however that many of the young women who are involved in either the district's Teen Age Parent Program or the college's single parent program often do not want to make a commitment to a long-term educational program.

"Sometimes something more interesting will come along," Johnson said, "and they won't want to be committed to something else."

Johnson said she had contacted each of the 80 girls who had completed her program in the Seminole County schools and received their high school diplomas and would be eligible to start at SCC.
