FP&L Lineman Injured In Fall

A Florida Power & Light Co. lineman was injured yesterday in a fall from a pole in front of the city waterworks at 13th St. and French Ave. His condition was reported as "good" today.

Taken to Fernald-Laughton Memorial Hospital was George W. Carver Jr., 30, of 705 East 14th St., who had been with the company since 1944.

An attending physician said x-rays revealed no broken bones but that the extent of Carver's injuries had not been fully determined.

Carver was a member of a crew headed by R. L. White, line foreman, which was engaged in transferring wires to other poles as a result of the French Ave. construction project.

H. H. Coleman, division manager for Florida Power & Light said the pole in front of the waterworks broke under Carver's weight and the lineman plummeted to the ground. The pole, in its entirety, was about 29 feet high.

Coleman said the pole was tested before Carver went up and it appeared to be sound.

Strolling In Sanford

Tuesday the Band and Orchestra Association will have its annual Dinner at the Seminole High School cafeteria at 7 p. m. The regular meeting will follow.

The City Zoning and Planning Board will meet at 7:30 p. m. today in the Commission room at City Hall.

The committee on education of the Ft. Pierce Chamber of Commerce visited Seminole County yesterday to inspect school facilities. Superintendent of Schools R. T. Milwee reported. Approximately 16 persons were in the party.

Possibly Fatal Blow Is Pointed At Collins' Plan

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A Senate committee dealt a possibly fatal blow to Gov. Collins' ambitious plan for constitutional revision at this session of the Legislature yesterday, but Collins said he wasn't throwing in the sponge.

In quick succession the Committee on Constitutional Amendments slapped down Collins' two proposals for rewriting Florida's basic law.

The action gave Collins his first bitter sting of defeat on a major issue this session and the governor said he "won't make me sick deep inside."

He said in a statement: "We will continue to fight on the floor of the Senate and in the House committees and on the floor of the House. We will fight everywhere honorable men and women can fight for law reform and for a better state."

"We are not willing to assume that eight senators can continue to defeat the will of a majority of the Senate and of a majority of the people of Florida."

U.S. To Consider Troop Withdrawal Sources Indicate

SAIGON, South Viet Nam (AP)—The United States will seriously consider withdrawing all but humanitarian support from free South Viet Nam should Premier Ngo Dinh Diem's political-religious opponents gain control, American sources reported today.

They said Gen. J. Lawton Collins, President Eisenhower's special envoy now on his way to Washington, will tell Congress and the administration that in his view neither the Binh Xuyen society nor the Cao Dai and Hoa Hao religious sects are capable of uniting the country against communism. They have formed a coalition demanding the Premier's resignation.

Dog Track Revenue Subject Of Meeting

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A subcommittee of the Senate Finance and Taxation Committee will sit down at 3 p. m. today with Racing Commission and dog track representatives to hear their views on proposals to increase the state's dog track revenue by 1 million dollars.

Board To Consider Naming Teachers

Reappointment of present teachers will be considered by school trustees at a meeting Monday in the office of Superintendent of Schools R. T. Milwee. The meeting will begin at 4 p. m. No new teachers will be considered for appointment at that time, Milwee said.

Bobby Wiederhold Entrant In Contest

Seminole High School Freshman Will Participate In FFA Event

Bobby Wiederhold, a ninth grader at Seminole High School, will be among 74 students from six schools who will participate in sub-district contests to be held here tomorrow under Future Farmer of America sponsorship.

The program will begin at 9:30 a. m. at Seminole High. It was announced by W. B. West, the school's vocational agriculture teacher and sub-district FFA chairman.

The various events will include public speaking, parliamentary procedure, softball, horseshoe and tractor driving contests, sweet-heart contest, and band, quartet and harmonica events.

Winners will enter the district contest at Leesburg. Schools participating in addition to Sanford, are Deland, Pierson, Umatilla, Eustis and Tavares.

Bobby Wiederhold is Seminole's entry in the public speaking contest. He will also be a contestant in the soil conservation speaking contest.

Judges will include R. F. Cooper, school trustee; Bonner Carter, Farm Bureau official; Ilen Wiggins, soil conservationist; Roy Brill, tractor dealer; Ernest Cowley, SRS band director, and Jim Sargent, soil conservationist.

1st Degree Murder Verdict Returned Against B. Brooks

The Orange County Circuit Court grand jury yesterday returned a first-degree murder indictment against Badger H. Brooks, 33-year-old Sanford fruit picker, in the shooting death of his estranged wife.

Brooks was charged with shooting his wife, Mrs. Frances Brooks, 28, in front of her mother's home on the old Winter Garden road. He is also charged with assault on murder his wife's mother, Mrs. Helen Carter, 46, who is in "good" condition at Orange Memorial Hospital in Orlando.

Quick Divorce Bill Okayed By Senate

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—A Senate approved bill to abolish quickie Florida divorces by requiring a year's residence for those who would break marriage bonds was rejected 8-3 today by a House committee.

Only Chairman Sweeney of Volusia County and Rep. Williams of Seminole County supported the measure. Present law requires only 90 days' residence.

The proposal to extend the residence requirement was made by the State Assn. of Circuit Judges and recommended by Gov. Collins.

Rejection by the committee means a two-thirds majority of the entire House would be necessary to put the bill on the calendar.

Minister Rebukes Red 'Colonialism'

DeLand Woman Slain, Two Others Wounded

DELAND (AP)—A woman was slain last night and her common-law husband and a son wounded in a shooting that climaxed a family argument, Deputy Sheriff Hardie Daugherty reported.

Coroner Wallace Smith said Mrs. Inez Metts Brooks Chase, 32, apparently died instantly of a .12 gauge shotgun blast.

Harry Clifford Dreggers, 50, was in poor condition at Fish Memorial Hospital, part of his jaw and chin blown away; and Albert Metts, 16, had a wound in the left hip.

Deputy Daugherty said he learned the argument started in the six-room slab house where the couple lived with eight children by previous marriages; that when Dreggers grabbed a gun to shoot young Metts, his mother stepped in the way.

Dreggers admitted shooting her and then the boy as he ran from the house, Daugherty reported. The deputy said it was not determined whether Dreggers picked up another gun and shot himself or if someone else had shot him.

Leonard Metts, a 15-year-old brother of the wounded youth, was in custody of juvenile authorities for investigation, Daugherty said.

Sanford Dentists To Attend Parley

This city will be well represented at the annual meeting of the Florida Dental Society at Jacksonville, April 23 to 27.

Among local dentists planning to attend the convention are Dr. W. W. Buckner, Dr. A. W. Epps, Dr. A. W. Epps Jr., Dr. Jack C. Morrison, and Dr. Harry S. Woodruff.

Hundreds of dentists from throughout the state who are to attend the meeting will be devoting practically all of their time there to lectures and demonstrations on some of the latest advances in the profession as presented by nationally known authorities. The benefits of these learned lectures are then passed by the dentists along to their patients in their daily practices.

The state dental organization is one of the oldest and largest in the south. Founded 71 years ago by 19 pioneer dentists, it now has more than 1000 members.

Vice-Governor Says Greatest Problems Are Private Armies

DALLAS, Tex. (AP)—Private armies, not communism, are his country's greatest problem, says the vice-governor of South Viet Nam.

Cao Thai Bao made no attempt to underestimate the Communist threat to his country, he said. But he pointed to gunplay in Saigon recently as a more immediate threat.

"There are 40,000 well-armed and trained fighting men in South Viet Nam belonging to three private armies," he said in the interview.

"Two containing 35,000 men are religious organizations. But the third is political. It's this army of 5,000 men under former regular army Gen. Le Van Vien that's attacking the administration," said Bao.

Senate President Considers Measure

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Senate President Turner Davis says he considers a rival tax consolidation measure proposed by Gov. Collins unconstitutional.

He issued a statement criticizing the administration bill on the eve of House committee hearings tonight on the two measures.

Davis said his bill providing for consolidation of major state tax collecting agencies under the comptroller "much, much better than the proposal offered by the governor."

He said he hadn't analyzed Collins' bill but "I have serious doubt that the governor's plan would be held constitutional if it ever met serious legal challenge."

Chinese Premier Disturbed

Sir John Speaks At Closed Meet

BANDUNG, Indonesia (AP)—Prime Minister Sir John Kotelawala of Ceylon denounced "Communist colonialism" at the Asian-African conference today.

Red China Premier Chou En-lai, obviously disturbed, immediately demanded time to make a reply.

Sir John, appearing before a closed session of the Political Committee, demanded that the conference declare itself against all forms of colonialism, including Communist domination of satellite states in Central and Eastern Europe.

Delegates said that as Sir John finished Chou leaped to his feet and demanded that the Ceylon Premier's statement be circulated to all delegates of the 29-nation conference so Chou could reply to it at tomorrow's committee session.

In earlier debate the committee heard Chou express the opinion that peaceful coexistence between nations of different systems was possible.

Sir John, who had already taken the spotlight with a proposal made outside the conference for creation of an Independent Formosa, told the committee there were two forms of colonialism and the Asian-African nations should oppose both equally.

Another attack on colonialism came from Prime Minister Saif El Islam El Hassan of Yemen, who questioned the right of Britain to maintain her colony of Aden, which adjoins Yemen.

He raised also the question of colonialism in Africa and hit out at support given by the United States and European countries to creation of Israel.

London's Papers Greet Their Public

LONDON (AP)—A columnist in the Daily Sketch stated off today: when I was so rudely interrupted . . .

The News Chronicle stoutly denied that it is dead.

A Daily Express cartoon showed a gentleman in a bowler hat crawling around with a newspaper in his mouth while his wife explained to a neighbor: "He has to teach paper—all over again—how to fetch our paper."

And the Daily Telegraph gave thanks that Britons now can stop trying to dig such Yankee jive as "Redwings rip Leafs as Canadians blank Bruins."

The great London newspaper strike was over.

After 26 days in a muzzle, the nationally distributed dailies, most of them in expanded editions, set out to tell their 15 million readers what they had missed.

National Guard Praised For Alert

With speed and efficiency, Co I, 124th Inf. Florida National Guard, Sanford's own National Guard unit, was mobilized last night at 8:30 o'clock as Major General Mack W. Lance, Adjutant General, gave the order to start "Operation Minuteman."

Capt. Joseph D. Bryant, commanding officer of Co. I, expressed himself as well pleased with initial results of the test alert in this area.

"As a whole," Operation Minuteman proceeded according to schedule. We received the alert order at 6:30 and immediately sent out a flurry call to officers and men of the unit to report at once to their assigned stations.

In one hour Co. I had 18 enlisted men and four officers present and by 8, 41 enlisted men and six officers were present, the unit was in formation and ready for any orders to move out.

Gang-Style Killing Of Tampa Resident Studied By Police

TAMPA (AP)—Police today studied meager clues in the gang-style killing of Charlie Wall, black sheep of a prominent Tampa family and admitted one-time head of this city's gambling rackets.

Wall's blood-drenched body was found in his home yesterday. Coroner W. Marion Hendry said the 74-year-old man's throat had been slashed, he had been stabbed several times and beaten savagely on the head with a blunt instrument.

State Atty. James M. McEwen said the large end of a baseball bat found in the Wall back yard contained a smudge that "might be blood."

McEwen also said Wall was reported to have been showing "quite a bit of folding money" at bars Monday night but that no money was found.

Wall was in his night clothes and his pistol lay unfired on a table.

Labor Relations May Be Affected

WASHINGTON (AP)—The outcome of the wave of strikes now sweeping the South is likely to have a profound and lasting effect on labor relations in Dixie.

If employers win, it will discourage the unions. After years of trying they have in Dixie been largely unsuccessful in organizing Southern workers, although they've made some progress.

If unions win, it will prime them into a fresh drive to win bargaining rights from reluctant employers. Right now the unions admit they are pretty well on the ropes. They're still trying but they say they represent only about 10 per cent of the South's workers.

The region's two most significant present strikers are those at the Southern Bell Telephone Co. and the Louisville & Nashville Railroad.

Seaboard Railroad Service Canceled

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—The Seaboard Railroad today canceled service on its Birmingham-Atlanta line as picketing began at its yards.

A Seaboard official said the pickets "are not Seaboard employees," but that union members had declined to cross the picket lines.

The Seaboard yards in Birmingham interchange freight with the strike-bound Louisville & Nashville.

Passenger service canceled temporarily on the Birmingham-Atlanta leg only, included the Cotton Blossom from Birmingham to Washington; and the Silver Comet, the Birmingham-New York streamliner.

Pickets at the Seaboard yards bore signs reading: "Seaboard RR officers unfair. Strike breaking against L&N employees."

Trainer Browns

PORT MAHONCK, Ireland (AP)—Horse trainer Tim O'Sullivan was thrown by a skittish tax collector he was exercising on the beach yesterday. O'Sullivan fell into the Irish Sea, was swept out by the ebbing tide and drowned.

Operation Minuteman

"Operation Minuteman" so far as we are concerned, was one of the finest training exercises we have ever engaged in. We learned a lot from it and feel that now we are even better prepared to be of service to community, state or nation when and if our services are needed."

The order to put "Operation Minuteman" in motion was given to Florida National Guard units by Major General Mack W. Lance, the State Adjutant General.

Two Champions

Sir Winston Churchill has been so long identified with the Conservative party that many people think he has always been a member. There could be no greater mistake. For nearly 20 years he was a Liberal, and strove for such un-Tory-like measures as the abolition of the veto power held by the House of Lords. These days have been recalled by the ceremonies in the House of Commons, commemorating the 10th anniversary of the death of David Lloyd George.

Lloyd George was, as the former Labor premier, Clement Attlee, said, "the first man to come from a cottage to 10 Downing Street", the official home of the British premiers. In his heyday he was the bane of the Conservatives. He assailed the great landowners, and enacted such social reforms as health insurance and old age pensions. In all this he had Churchill's hearty support.

Temperamentally Lloyd George, the humbly born Welsh attorney, and Churchill, the descendant of England's foremost general, the Duke of Marlborough, had much in common. Both were fiery orators, daring, impatient of stuffed shirts, eager to try new ideas. Each won a great war for his country by, in Lloyd George's phrase, "gingering it up."

Some unreconstructed Tories may still writhe at Churchill's praise of their one-time enemy. It may not abate their partisanship to recall that their cherished leader has repeatedly risen above narrow partisan alignment.

Dulles Question Behind Doors

Associated Press News Analyst
WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee, looking into the behind-the-door "leak" of the Yalta papers, questioned Secretary of State Dulles behind the door.

The senators could have questioned him at an open public session. Instead, they quizzed him at a closed session, behind doors barred to the public and to news cameras. Afterwards several senators put and told newsmen parts of what he said.

Thus the senators, investigating a news "leak," in turn "leaked" news of the "leak." Dulles read a prepared statement to the committee, and copies of it were given to newsmen. But there was no public record of the later questions and answers. The whole story of the Yalta documents — on the warship in a Roosevelt-Churchill-Stalin meeting — had not been disclosed more than a year ago. President Eisenhower gave government agencies authority to "classify" documents and withhold them from the public if, among other things, they involved national security or allied relations. That would make them secret.

On March 14, the day the State Department decided to let selected members of Congress see the papers, Henry Byrd, Dulles' press officer, said a news conference they could not be released publicly because they involved national security and allied relations. This implied they were classified, secret documents.

Many days later Byrd said they had been declassified 15 days to two weeks before that. Dulles' statement yesterday indicated they had been declassified last November.

Dulles' statement made no reference to what Byrd had said. Nor did it say that March 5 Dulles himself told newsmen release of the papers was indefinite. He said they would be released some day, that it was just a question of when.

But two hours before he told newsmen that March 15, his prepared statement showed, he had made up his mind the papers should be released "at once," and he told the British so, in asking their agreement on releasing the papers.

Yet, British approval could not have been a factor in determining when the papers should be released, and for this reason: They were "leaked" to the New York Times that same day, March 15. The British didn't give an okay until March 16.

Right after his March 15 news conference Dulles met with Carl W. McCordie, his assistant secretary for public affairs, and James B. Reston, the Washington Correspondent of the New York Times. McCordie took Reston to Dulles' office, and Reston explained to the papers and promised the Times would publish them in full. Then Dulles' statement said this:

McCordie and Reston left his office. That night McCordie gave Reston the papers without telling other newsmen who — after being told by Byrd the papers involved national security and by Dulles that they would be released some day — had been left in the belief publication of the papers was some time away.

Dulles put no blame on McCordie. He said McCordie had a right to give out the papers. This didn't satisfy Sen. Morse (D-Ore). He said Dulles acted in "collusion" with McCordie and the New York Times.

Since there is no indication of a further Senate investigation, that seems to end one of the worst public relations messes of the State Department in recent years.

ROCKY IN TROUBLE
HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Mickey Rooney is facing alimony and child support trouble.

His ex-wife, Mrs. Betty Rose Baker, yesterday had Rooney cited to appear in Superior Court May 9 to face alimony charges. Mrs. Baker, the former "Miss Birmingham," claims he is $2,000 behind in child support and alimony payments.

Our Real Rulers

The real rulers of America are not the farmers or the city-dwellers, but the residents of suburban areas, according to Richard Rutter of the New York Times. Suburbanites, he says, constitute a homogeneous group, 40,000,000 strong. They are apt to have similar tastes, and they are numerous enough to make their numbers felt. They are responsible for such popular current developments as ranch-type houses, hard-top convertibles, slacks and do-it-yourself kits. Supermarkets, too, are built with suburbanites in mind.

Dwellers in residential suburbs are generally law abiding and intelligent citizens. If they have faults, they are apt to be smugness and a readiness to let their thinking be regimented. Everywhere it is hard to resist the pressure of a man's neighbors, but it may be especially hard in the suburbs and small towns.

Why Women Leave Home

Despite the fact that the increasing birth rate would seem to place the little woman more firmly in the home, she is firmly walking out the front door every morning to her job in the business world. Twenty million employed women attest that they have a place in the sun as well as in the home.

Why do women leave home? The income is an incentive and in some homes a necessity. For many, however, careful budgeting and less luxury could keep a family within the husband's pay check. These women leave home because they want to.

Until a woman is married she, like a man, is reared as an independent being, responsible only for herself. Upon marriage, her family, her home, her responsibilities come first and she lives largely in the isolation of the home her duty and care have built. The man retains his independence to a large extent at work and in the home, expecting it to be built around his comfort.

The women have rebelled because being a subordinate is tedious and being a housewife is monotonous. Individualism is stifled, the gap between her fenced-in activities and her husband's more worldly interests widens.

The fact that many married women out of preference are going to continue in business is one to be faced. One possible solution is to educate women for a positive attitude towards housewifery and at the same time encourage them to train for other skills so that they can handle part time jobs outside.

1st Roller Coaster Built In 1904

NEW YORK (AP) — So far the Russians haven't claimed they invented the roller coaster.

If they ever do, they're going to have to fight Joe McKee, who at 67 is the acknowledged dean of the roller coaster industry.

"The first roller coaster in history was built in Pittsburgh in 1804," Joe recalled. "And I got started in the business as a carpenter the following year."

In 51 years some 600 roller coasters have been built throughout the world. Joe figures he has had a hand in designing or building about 200 himself—more than any other man.

"Only 18 men—all carpenters—have ever had anything to do with designing roller coasters," Joe said, "and there are only four now left alive. I'm the oldest."

"The roller coaster grew out of the old scenic railway. We had nothing to go by, so we operated by rule of thumb."

"The four of us have kept a few things about the business to ourselves. The Lord knows we struggled hard enough learning them. There never has been a graduate engineer connected with the roller coaster field."

McKee, now general superintendent of the Palisades (N. Y.) amusement park, estimates he has ridden some 5,000 miles on roller coasters.

"The roller coaster has been my whole life," said Joe, who has shrewd twinkling eyes beneath a thatch of thick white hair. "I even met my wife Meggie on a roller coaster. That was back in 1899 in Cincinnati."

The older roller coasters were built on a simple figure eight pattern and cost only about $20,000. Because of the rising value of land the newer coasters now keep about like a parcel. They average about a half mile in length and cost from $100,000 up. The cars on some coasters reach a peak speed of 30 to 35 miles an hour.

McKee, who often acts as a consultant on thrill rides, gets a bit steamed up whenever the safety of roller coasters is questioned.

"If you just sit down in the seat and stay there," he said, "you're far safer than if you were in an automobile. You can't get off the track, and you can't get hit from behind by another driver."

There are two roller coasters at the park McKee supervises—one regular one, the other a smaller one for kiddies. To Joe's great sorrow more and more teen-age boys and their girl friends are showing a preference for riding on the kiddie coaster.

Hot-Air-Furnace Makes Comeback

NEW YORK (AP) — The urge to cool off in hot weather is aiding the comeback of an institution of grandfather's day—the hot-air furnace.

The warm-air heating industry is teaming up with the air-conditioning industry. Add in some assists from the all-but-total electrification of American homes, the rapid increase in the use of fuel oil and natural gas in the heating units, and the nation's home building boom.

Result: a 45 per cent increase in sales of the warm-air heating industry in the last five years. The American Institute of Management estimates wholesale totals last year reached 163 million dollars on 773,000 units sold.

The present warm-air system isn't too much like the cast-iron furnace into which grandfather shoveled coal, to let the hot air rise through ducts to the upper floors.

Now it's streamlined, made of steel, is equipped with electric blowers and fans, regulated by thermostats, and maybe heated by oil and gas.

And of late, it is increasingly being combined with cooling equipment to serve as an all-year round conditioner of air and controller of temperature in the modern home.

The Institute forecasts that the warm-air heaters—which fell out of favor for a time—will stage an even greater comeback in the next 10 years. It foresees a continuing sizable market for new homes, plus "an almost unlimited replacement market of poorly engineered, antiquated or badly installed furnace units."

They recovered most of the $500 — and $15,000 in bank funds.

Food Spoils Quickly During Summer Months

By HERMAN H. BUNDSCH, M.D.

FOOD poisoning is a potential hazard to almost all of us.

Fortunately, the vast majority of those stricken do not become seriously ill. You may be uncomfortable for a few hours, or even days, but within a short time, you're up and around again, looking for something to eat.

Critical Months

Food poisoning, of course, results from contaminated foods. Probably most often to blame are fish and meat dishes, custards, pies and sometimes ice cream. These foods, if contaminated and stored at relatively warm temperatures, are more likely to cause food poisoning. Thus, you should be especially alert for spoiled foods during the warm months of July, August and September.

But this hazard is not limited to those three months. Bats, mice and humans are often responsible for contamination. If someone handling your food has skin eruptions on their hands or arms, look out. In cases like this, cooking doesn't necessarily render the food safe to eat.

Thorough Cooking Essential

Thorough cooking, however, is always essential, and in many instances will destroy the organisms which are responsible for the contamination.

While spoiled foods will make most people feel ill, and can even cause death, others can eat them with apparent impunity. You see, all of us are not equally susceptible to poisoning from contaminated foods.

(Copyright, 1954, The Futuro Press, Inc.)

Symptoms can develop within a few hours after eating or they can come as late as 18 to 24 hours after the meal. Usually, you will feel a colicky pain, become nauseated, and begin vomiting. You'll probably have diarrhea, too. Sometimes you may have a fever for several days.

Most Recover Quickly

The vast majority of you will recover completely within a few days, or a week at the most. In severe cases, however, recovery will take much longer. In such instances, you are likely to have cramps in your calves, you will urinate less frequently and your circulation will be slowed.

If you suffer an attack of food poisoning, even a mild case, the best place for you to be is bed. You can usually relieve the pain by placing an electric heating pad or a hot water bottle on your abdomen. As long as the symptoms remain, don't eat anything. Take only water and glucose.

Caution And Advice

I. H. K.: I see colored rings of light at night around electric street lights. Could this be caused by anything except glaucoma or cataracts? I wear glasses and they are O.K.

Answer: This symptom appears in several diseases. It may be due to cataracts, or a defect in the vision, or high blood pressure, or to migraine. Glaucoma is a common disease. A thorough examination by a physician is necessary before the exact cause can be determined; then proper treatment can be suggested.

Interest High In Final Plans Of Garden Show

Interest is running high in the final preparation of plants and flowers for exhibition at the 28th Annual Flower Show of the Sanford Garden Club, but local gardeners work throughout the year in the care of their gardens.

Mrs. A. W. Epps, chairman of the propagation section of the show to be held April 28 and 29 at the American Legion Fair Building, says that she will have many hints and instructions for air-layering and other methods of propagation. There will be seed and cutting boxes with proper soil combinations for the growth of plants. New and improved methods of irrigation and rooting will be emphasized through the cooperation of Sanford fertilizer and seed companies. Interesting plants difficult to grow from seed will also be on display.

The education of a gardener begins early and Mrs. George Harnden has had a school program throughout the year which will culminate with the flower show. Children in the Sanford Grammar School have been given seeds and cuttings to plant and have been taught how to make simple flower arrangements, emphasizing a focal point, color, line and container. The children have also been making button gardens for display under the guidance of Miss Lucille Campbell.

Mrs. Harnden and Mrs. George McCall are teaching the children in the Southside and West Side Primary schools how to make kitchen "critters" out of fruits and vegetables. A third project includes the distribution of picture frames to the fifth and sixth grades for picture making using plants, flowers or dried materials to be entered by the school rooms.

Mrs. John Fox, chairman of the section on flora and conservation, and her committee will feature a display of plants and shrubs put on the conservation list by the 1951 Florida State Legislature, which made it unlawful to buy or sell them in Florida. Sports Roundup

By GAVIE TALBOT
NEW YORK—As is customary at this stage of the big league races, pitchers are complaining that the "baw" ball they are trying to throw past the hitters is so full of rhabdomyosarcoma that they can't lift it by the ears. Actually, says the company which turns out identical balls for both leagues, there not only has been no change whatever which could account for the rash of homers, but the boys still are swinging at leftovers from last season if they want to know the truth. . . . It is a matter of baseball history that the Brooklyn Dodgers won their first nine starts back in 1940, yet finished a dozen games behind the champion Cincinnati Reds. The Giants of '41 agonized through a losing streak of 11 straight on the way to that sensational playoff victory over the Dodgers. It's a long, long season.

A visitor to West Point brings back the news that Earl Blaik, coach of Army's football forces, is doing a rush job of transforming his brilliant end, Don Holleder, into a pass-throwing quarterback in spring practice. Holleder was widely regarded as the finest wingman in the east last season, but the loss of Pete Vann by graduation this June and the lack of an adequate signal-calling replacement forced Blaik's hand.

Already the Chicago White Sox, with heavy-footed Walt Droppa playing first and Bob Nieman breaking into their outfield, are being described as a far cry from the base-running "go-go" gang they

Dodgers Have To Defeat Roberts Today To Set Record Of 10 Consecutive Wins

Brooks May Face Hardest Contest Of Young Season

By ED WILKS
 The Associated Press
 So now the Brooklyn boys have won themselves nine straight games.
 And all they have to do to take No. 10—the one that would set a modern major league record for consecutive victories at season's start—is beat a gent named Robin Roberts today.

The streak has been getting tougher and tougher for the Dodgers and this afternoon's game at Ebbets Field may be the toughest yet. Roberts, the best right-hander in baseball, hasn't had too much success against the Brooks in the past, but this time the Philadelphia ace is off to his best start in four years.

Robin is 2-0 thus far, beating the world champion New York Giants twice. Both decisions were by 4-2 counts, and only two of the Giants' runs were earned.

That sort of a push off in his bid for a sixth straight season of 20 or more victories may turn the tide for Roberts against the Brooks. Robin is only 17-21 lifetime, vs the Dodgers.

For a time last night, it looked like the Brooks wouldn't have any streak for Roberts to challenge. They were shut out on one hit by Steve Riddick for 7-3 innings. But then he tired and walked in a run that sent the Dodgers off on a three-run inning and a 3-3 victory over the Phillies.

It was pitching weakness by the opposition, too, that snapped a string yesterday. The Baltimore Orioles made the best of Bob Grim's wildness and a two-run homer by Hal Smith to beat the New York Yankees 6-3 and win their first decision of the American League season. They had lost six.

In the only other A.L. game, league-leading Boston beat Washington 1-0 on Willard Nixon's five-hitter. The Chicago at Detroit game was rained out.

In the National, St. Louis defeated Cincinnati 3-0 and Milwaukee clipped Chicago 9-5. Winless Pittsburgh was leading the Giants 3-0 when rain halted play after three innings.

Lean Record Is Behind Don Cockell In His Quest For Marciano's Crown

By FRANK ECK
 AP Sports Editor
 Out of the ring England's Don Cockell has very little to recommend him as a prospect for the world's heavyweight boxing championship. He is a pugny 5-foot-9 which means he is short and thick-set. He is not the rugged outdoor type for his skin is a pale white.

He meets unbeaten Rocky Marciano on May 16 in San Francisco with the title at stake.

In the ring Cockell's credentials also are very much on the lean side.

Dr. Vincent A. Nardiello, New York State Athletic Commission doctor who has been stopping fights and mending cuts around Madison Square Garden for 18 years, took one quick look at Cockell seated 20 feet away in the wine cellar of a New York restaurant and summed up the feelings of group of free loaders when he said:

"I wonder how many rounds he will last?"

"But Doc," someone said, "That split nose that Marciano got against Ezzard Charles last September, it might open again."

"There's only one chance in a thousand that will happen," said Dr. Nardiello. "Rockey's nose wasn't cut by a punch. It probably was the result of an elbow coming up and hitting him beneath the nose. But now the nose is all right. It is flexible enough to take any kind of a punch."

Dr. Nardiello, not one to go around sounding off, is a true student of boxing. He has followed the sport since his teens when he was a GI boxer. He knows Cockell's record only too well.

The 26-year-old Englishman weighs about 217 or more, probably more. He plans to weigh around 210 for Marciano. Some have said he has weighed as much as 255 pounds. His manager, John Simpson, says "he eats only one meal a day because he is inclined to put on weight." He most certainly is not a hungry fighter.

In June of 1932 when Cockell was knocked out by 182-pound Randy Turpin in 11 rounds Don weighed 174½. Last July in his last fight, when he stopped Harry Matthews in eight rounds, Cockell scaled 210½. It just doesn't make sense—a difference of 36½ pounds within 25 months.

Cockell has lost 10 of 73 bouts, five of them by knockout at the hands of the likes of Dave Goodwin, Johnny Williams and Aaron Wilson, fellows who you never heard about in this country. He also was stepped by Jimmy Slade in four rounds in 1931.

Cockell undoubtedly qualified as the heavyweight contender by his three victories over Matthews all within a year. Two were decisions. His tiffs with Matthews should

Title Awaits Grace Smith

OCALA (AP)—Mrs. Grace DeMoss Smith's path to the Women's State Amateur golf title appears straight and clear today.

The former Oregon school teacher's chief stumbling block was expected to have been Mrs. Frances Owen Williams of Jacksonville, defending champion and six times winner. But that roadblock was removed yesterday when Ema Lou Prince of Gainesville trounced Mrs. Williams 7 and 6.

Mrs. Smith, who lives in Miami, eliminated Barbara Bremerman of Naples 8 and 2, moving into today's semifinals along with Miss Prince, Mrs. Roy Thomas of Winter Haven and Mrs. Thomas Jenkins of Sarasota.

Mrs. Smith faced Mrs. Jenkins and Miss Prince faced Mrs. Thomas. The winners go 36 holes tomorrow for the title.

The story of Mrs. Williams' unexpected defeat was in a round completely different from her usual game. She was short with chip shots and her putts avoided the cup; consequently she went 11 strokes over par for the 18 holes it took Miss Prince to beat her.

Mrs. Smith, playing for the title for the first time although she has competed against the nation's best amateurs for several years, matched men's par for eight of the first nine holes. That put her 4 up on Miss Bremerman and let her coast to victory.

Mrs. Thomas eliminated Babs Sulplit of St. Petersburg 9 and 1.

At the annual meeting of the State Women's Golf Assn. last night Mrs. Horace Palmer of Sarasota was named chairman of the board and Mrs. Clarence Camp II of Ocala re-elected secretary-treasurer.

Next year's tournament was awarded to the Ponce de Leon Course at St. Augustine.

West Palm Beach Scores 8-5 Win Over Lakeland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Things are looking up for the West Palm Beach Indians who went winless for their first five games in the Florida State League.

Their 8-5 victory over defending champion Lakeland last night was the third straight and put them in position to burdle into the first division.

Seven pitchers saw action in the fray. Stuart Kloos pitched shutout ball for four and two-thirds innings in relief to get the decision.

In other games Sanford beat Gainesville 13-3; Orlando took Daytona Beach 12-7; and Cocoa punished St. Petersburg 8-1. Orlando and Cocoa's victories left them in a tie for first place.

Lesty Jack Horby, making his first appearance for Cocoa, set St. Petersburg down on three hits. Reliever Lowell Zook spoiled his bid for a shutout with a home run in the eighth.

Pelicans Showing Victory Aptitude

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 With astute Andy Queen at the controls, the New Orleans Pelicans are showing an early aptitude for victory that stamps them as definite Southern Assn. pennant threats.

Cohen, who brought to the league a reputation for success from Denver, has the birds hustling and scoring. If the pitching develops, they will be tough indeed.

Cohen's Pittsburgh farmhands grabbed the league lead last night via a 3-3 victory over Little Rock. It was their third straight triumph and the seventh in a row in which the Pels scored five runs or more.

Cards Rack Up 6 Unearned Runs To Win Contest

Sanford's Cardinals will be looking for revenge when they meet the Lakeland Pilots under the lights at Memorial Stadium tonight. Game time is 8 o'clock.

In two earlier encounters, Lakeland blanked Sanford in each instance. Lakeland's Dave Exter fanned 14 Cardinals for an 8-0 victory in one game, while the Pilots racked up a 2-0 verdict in the other.

Last night at Gainesville, Sanford overcame a four-run Gainesville first inning lead and went on to defeat the GMen 13-5.

Virginia Beach Golf Tournament Gets Under Way

VIRGINIA BEACH, Va. (AP)—Stylist Chandler Harper, a familiar figure on the professional golf scene for years, appeared a pretty fair bet today to win the third annual $17,500 Virginia Beach Open tournament as first round play in the 72-hole event got underway.

Harper, a native of nearby Portsmouth, Va., is no stranger to the par 69 Cavalier Yacht and Country Club course. The slender star with brilliant iron shots and deadly putting has played the course many times and knows every inch of the level 6,043-yard layout.

Harper, now playing out of Chattanooga, Tenn., expected to have his hands full, though, since most of golf's leading professionals except Sam Snead and Cary Middlecott hope to pick up the $2,400 top money.

Slugged out as likely to give Harper the most trouble were Doug Ford of Kilmorack Lake, N.Y., and chunky Mike Souchak of Durham, N.C. Ford won the title here in 1933 and finished two strokes off the pace a year ago when his drive on the final hole tumbled in the bay flanking the 300-yard 18th green.

Andrus had blacked-out the night before he was to have a party in his apartment. He had been drinking and was in a state of confusion. He had been told by a friend that he should not drink so much, but he had ignored the advice. He had been drinking since the afternoon and was now feeling very unwell. CHAPTER NINE

After Lulu Cassery went in with the sergeant, Susan didn't see Barry, moodily reading a book in the living room. She went on into the kitchen. She didn't want to see anyone. She was wildly angry at herself. And at Jim Andrus. He had let her alone, if he had never come near her, she couldn't have betrayed him to the police by asking the silver flask about the coroner's report. She had said, "The sergeant's here, but he's leaving. Can I take a message?"

The voice at the other end of the wire said, "Tell him I think I know where the fellow he's asking who is this? Got the sergeant, will you please? It's important."

She went into the dining room. Dupasse and Mrs. Cassery were just leaving. She told Dupasse she was wanted on the phone. He waved. Dupasse went through the door. It swung to behind him. Susan crossed the rug noiselessly and listened.

In the room in the hotel in the city, Andrus walked up and down the floor waiting for the light to show, his eyes darkly bright, the rest of his face expressionless. The necessary he had made when he started to get into his topcoat an hour earlier had put fury into him. He hadn't been hit by a chunk of falling rock when he was bending over the dead man, match in hand. He had been hit by a chunk of falling rock when he was bending over the dead man, match in hand. into contact with his skull. There was a long splinter of broken glass embedded in the cloth of his overcoat just below the collar. For the second time he had been induced into the part of a murderer.

The silver of glass in an envelope had been put down behind the medicine cabinet in the bathroom, in a chink between the back of the cabinet and the wall. It would do very well there for the present.

The room was cold, the window partly raised in readiness. It wasn't dark enough yet. He had managed to get his watch going by knocking out bits of the smashed crystal holding the hands. There was no mystery now about Michael Brodsky's elimination. Brodsky had been killed to keep him from giving him, Andrus, an alibi for Roger Pelham's death.

Therefore an alibi existed. It existed still in the shape of the woman with love birds and the plants and the chamois of an Italian lake, with whom he and Mid-nite Mike had drunk wine out of a jug before they started for the cabin on the night Roger was run down. In recollection the taste of the wine was sour and tart on Andrus's tongue.

The door of the bedroom was locked but the lock was flimsy, and there was a crack in one of the thin panels. He went over to the window. Behind it was a wilderness of back yards and the windows of houses fronting on the other street. A woman peeling onions at a sink, farther along a man reading a paper in a rocking chair. . . . there was no fire escape but directly below Andrus, a story and a half below, was the roof of an extension. The drop wouldn't be too bad. . . .

He buttoned his coat, seized his arms, started to push the dingy curtains aside, and stopped. He had waited a little too long. The foot steps came first, then the assault on the door, three smart raps and a voice he knew, Sergeant Dupasse's voice.

"Open up, Andrus. We know you're there. Just want to ask you a couple of questions."

Wa. There were two of them. He could hear the other man breathing. He returned silently to the middle of the room. His own key was in the lock inside but the door wouldn't hold long. Another demand, a whispered consultation. Andrus made no further attempt at stealth. He raced across the floor to the window and hung it to its full height with a crash. The door was under heavy pressure. There was a splintering sound behind him. The panel gave. A hand came in and twisted the key. Andrus moved fast.

Red faced and sweating, Dupasse and Baker tumbled into the room, bringing the door with them. The room was empty, the window wide open. It was what they had expected to find. They rushed over to the window, leaned over the sill. "There!" Baker pointed. "There on the roof, see it—that's his hat." As he spoke he was throwing a leg over the sill. "I'll go after him this way, you bring the car round to the back. . . ."

Dupasse turned. He took a step and stood stock still, his face suffused with a dark flush. The door that they had crashed open was closed. . . . It was the oldest trick in the world and he had fallen for it. Andrus had used the door as a shield and let them go past him. The key was now in the lock on the outside of the door. Dupasse showed an arm through the broken panel. The key was pretty well wedged. It finally turned. Five or six seconds wasn't going to do Andrus any good; the sergeant charged for the stairs.

Washington (AP)—The Eisenhower administration is going right ahead with plans to give farmers their first taste this year of flexible price supports despite continued bitter attack on the new program by some farm leaders.

Congress last year authorized use of the flexible system, beginning this year. However, legislative moves at this session to restore the wartime system of high, rigid price floors had created some uncertainty.

The House Agriculture Committee has voted to return to the old system, but delays in bringing the legislation to a vote in the House and failure of the Senate Agriculture Committee to consider it at all make fairly certain that the flexible system will get a trial this year on at least two crops—corn and wheat.

Under this system, price guarantees to farmers are geared to the size of supplies. The larger the supplies, the lower supports may be and vice versa. Advocates of the system contend that in times of surplus low supports would discourage overproduction and encourage greater use, and that in times of shortages high supports would encourage greater production and tend to limit consumption until supplies catch up with demand.

Under the wartime program in effect through last year, prices of the so-called basic crops—corn, wheat, rice, peanuts and tobacco—were supported at a fixed rate of 90 per cent of parity. The law sets up a so-called "sliding scale" formula for determining the minimum level of supports under this system.

The sliding scale is geared to the size of the supply of a particular crop and to the prospective market demand.

The Agriculture Department recently announced that the support rate for this year's corn crop will be at least 87 per cent of parity compared with 90 per cent last year.

There has been much misunderstanding about the sliding scale. The agriculture department must abide by it only as a minimum rate. It has authority under the law to set the support rate above the sliding scale minimum if it sees fit.

Authors of the law did not want to tie the department to the sliding scale minimum because they could foresee the possibility that emergency conditions might arise that would make it advisable to encourage greater production of a given crop even though large supplies were already in existence.

This is not the full extent of the possible flexibility of the new support system. Should there be changes in either the estimate of the total supply or normal needs, or both, by the official harvest date—which, in the case of corn, will be next Oct. 1—the department could make increases in the previously announced support rate, but not decreases, if those changes warranted, do so.

Once a support rate is announced before the planting season, it is against the practice of the department to go below that level regardless of changes in the supply and demand factors.

The support rate for wheat has been announced at 82 1/2 per cent of parity, the minimum level permitted this year, because the total supply is so much larger than the normal needs than it is in the case of corn.

The support for cotton has been set at the 90 per cent maximum. The sliding scale allows a much larger supply in the case of this crop than for the others before price supports start declining. No reduction may be made until the total supply exceeds 8 per cent of normal needs.

In addition, cotton was helped this year by a requirement in the farm law directing that a portion of the supply be set aside for special government disposal operations and excluded from the total

George Burns Gets Into Spotlight With Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—After more than a quarter-century as pin-boy for his wife, George Burns has finally found a chance to do some bowling on his own.

Through the years, Burns of Burns and Allen has built a reputation in vaudeville, radio and motion pictures as the greatest "straight man" in the comedy business. But so far as the public was concerned he was merely the man who set up situations and lines for Gracie to scatter like nine pins.

Now, with television, George is coming into his own as a funny-man. In the weekly show he does a couple of turns as a sort of Greek chorus, addressing the audience directly, explaining what's going on and throwing in a few solo jokes.

The monologue makes partners of the audience," he explained earnestly and almost apologetically for stepping out of his time-tested role of long-suffering husband.

Burns works a seven-day week, 40 weeks a year, turning out TV shows. There's no phase of the program, except possibly the sponsor's commercials, which doesn't bear the strong imprint of a veteran actor.

A thorough-going extrovert, Burns obviously is at stage-struck today as he was more than 23 years ago when he teamed up with the San Francisco girl named Gracie Allen.

Watching the show, you'd think Gracie was the extrovert. But off camera, she's shy and retiring. George, on the other hand, is an uncomplicated comic who goes on with a routine even when the audience is only a stranger with whom he is having lunch.

"I've been working on a book all winter," he said at the conclusion of one comedy monologue. "I don't know why I wrote a book, except that Hope wrote one and Crosby wrote one and I didn't want to feel left out of things."

Burns at rehearsal is another fellow entirely. He's serious and watches every detail.

China News Issues Report on Planes

TAIPEI, Formosa (AP)—Red China has 900 planes—500 of them jets—along the Fujian and Chekiang coast across the strait from Formosa, the China News said today.

The paper, which has some sources inside the Nationalist Chinese government, said new types of Russian-built planes were involved in the buildup.

It stated that a Nationalist air force patrol plane last week encountered but escaped from some Russian type jets believed to be either MIG-15 or MIG-17. These are later models than the MIG-15 which the Reds have in large numbers and which they used in the Korean War.

One of the reasons for the success of the New York Giants in 1954 was the fact that they did not lose a doubleheader during the entire season.

The International Tea Cup Match will be held on Sept. 7, 8 and 9 at Wedgwood, Nevada.

Sen. Morrow Resigns Post

TALLAHASSEE (AP)—Sen. Morrow of Lake Worth today submitted his resignation as a member of the Constitution Amendments Committee in protest against committee rejection of constitutional revision by an appointive commission.

Morrow charged in a letter to President Davis that the committee was stacked with small county senators from north and west Florida who ignored the desires of a majority of the people in refusing to study the needs for revision of the basic law.

Morrow was one of three senators on the committee who voted for the Collins' plan of having the Constitution redrafted by a commission which in turn would submit it to the Legislature before the people voted on it.

The Senate also approved two bills dealing with registration of firearms but decided to hold up on two others until future studies could be made of them.

The administration's proposal to establish a development credit commission with the idea of its spurring the state's industrial development went before the Senate.

Six-Point Program Proposed For Peace

PARIS (AP)—France's government and Tunisian nationalists laid down a six-point plan today to bring eventual home rule and possible peace to the troubled North African protectorate.

The agreement in principle, reached after midnight by French Premier Edgar Faure and Tunisian Premier Tahar Ben Ammar, must still be worked out in detail before a final text is drawn up.

Then it must be approved by the aged Bey of Tunisia's nominal ruler, and the body French Assembly.

The Bey's approval is considered certain. But in the Assembly the agreement is certain to encounter opposition from members sympathetic to the French colonialists who constitute a powerful minority in Tunisia.

Avery Today Faces New Wolfson On Highly Debated Co. Issue

CHICAGO (AP)—Seymour L. Avery, who never has backed away from anything—including the U.S. Army—faces up to a new foe, Louis E. Wolfson, today.

The annual meeting of Montgomery Ward & Co. stockholders gave Avery and Wolfson an opportunity to confront each other in person for the first time.

Avery, 51, gray, erect and a rugged individual, is chairman of the company. Wolfson, 45, tall, dark and handsome, is trying to take control of the firm—the oldest and second largest mail order house in the country.

The battle arose for these men with the multimillion dollar merger of the Madison-Taylor Co. of Chicago's near North Side. There were 1,000 shares of the stock in the company and 1,000 shares in the merger.

Convict Is Labeled As Very Dangerous

Slum Cleanup Plans Furthered By Gillon

City Building Inspector John M. Gillon today carried his slum cleanup plans a step further as he prepared 200 copies of city plumbing and building laws for distribution to owners of below-standard houses.

Gillon said he would concentrate his campaign "at first" in the Negro sections of Georgetown and Goldsboro, where he said many houses would have to be condemned for lack of sanitary facilities.

The City Commission, Gillon said, will probably appoint a new Board of Adjustments and Appeals at its meeting Monday night. The board will be the one to give Gillon the go-ahead signal on the cleanup.

Appointment of a new board was made necessary because the old board had been inactive so long that the terms of all its members had expired.

Gillon said he had received a letter from Goldsboro residents praising his proposed campaign. The letter was signed simply "Citizens."

"We are glad to know your campaign is to begin on sanitation in our section," the letter said. "Hope you will begin on the very first street and on."

The letter said many home owners have had access to a sewer for a long time but have kept the outdoor privies "which are a menace to others who have sacrificed and had flush toilets installed."

Gillon said he would thoroughly inspect the area and would either hand or mail the copies of the building and plumbing laws to property owners with special violations checked for their guidance.

Gillon said sections 19-56 of the plumbing code require that each residence be equipped with not less than one flush toilet. This requirement applies only when and if the city water supply is available to the property on which the house may be situated.

Under the code, he pointed out, the use of existing privies may be continued "until the same are in need of repair or renewal, at which time they shall be removed and flush toilets installed."

Where sanitary sewers are available to the property on which a house may be situated, Gillon said, every flush toilet must be connected with the sewer at the time the house is built.

The words "available to the property," Gillon quoted from the code, "shall mean as to water supply that the city tenders delivery of water at the property line of the property on which the residence or dwelling house may be erected, and as to sanitary sewer within 75 feet of such property line, which 75 feet shall traverse only city property and be measured in a straight line from any point on the property line."

Gillon said section 19-56 of the code require also that dwellings have one water closet and one sink for each family. Stores are required to have one water closet and one sink for each family.

The unsafe building section of the building code, Gillon pointed out, classified as unsafe all buildings "which in relation to existing use constitute a hazard to safety or health by reason of inadequate maintenance, dilapidation, obsolescence, or abandonment."

"Where the building official shall find any building or structure or portion thereof to be unsafe, as defined in this section, he shall, in accordance with established procedure for legal notices, give the owner, agent, or person in control of such building or structure written notice stating the defects thereof. This notice shall require specified repairs or improvements, or to demolish and remove the building or structure or portion thereof," the section continues.

Defense System Made To Protect PARIS

PARIS (AP)—The last time German soldiers entered Paris they gossiped in legions behind Hitler's swastikas. Next time, they will move in slowly, singly and almost humbly.

They came as conquerors in 1940 to begin four long years of Nazi occupation following the collapse of French defenses. Now they will be fellow members of a pitiful system designed to protect the Western world.

Taylor Escapes Sunday Son's Surrender Urged By Mother

Labeled "emotionally unbalanced" and "extremely dangerous," an escaped convict who was sentenced for the robbery of a Seminole County motel continued to elude Central Florida law enforcement authorities today.

He was identified as Elwood Duncan Taylor, 22, of Winter Park, who escaped from the State Road Camp at Moore Haven Monday.

Taylor, described by authorities as "emotionally unbalanced," was serving 21 years in prison as the result of a reign of terror early in 1954.

He was found guilty of armed robbery of the Gator Motor Court in Seminole County and the Mount Vernon Motel, Titusville. He was convicted also of the theft of three Cadillacs.

Taylor was slightly wounded in gunplay with Titusville Patrolman John Threlkett following the Feb. 6, 1954, Mount Vernon holdup.

His mother, Mrs. Elwood S. Taylor, of Winter Park, said she talked with her yesterday by telephone. She maintained she did not know where he was but said she urged him to surrender and hoped he would not get hurt.

Taylor said her son has been a "mentally unbalanced" since he returned from the Korean war.

According to the report from the road camp, Taylor and another convict escaped together. The escape was Taylor's second in slightly over a year. On Feb. 10, 1954, he kicked out an unbarred window in the Bradford County Jail, Titusville, and slipped down a rope ladder.

He was captured the same day in Orlando in a stolen Cadillac while trying to reach the home of a girl friend.

Besides the big plant at Lake Success, Sperry production plants at Mineola and Lake Ronkonkoma, both on Long Island, also were closed. There had been minor disturbances at these plants.

Small hands of supervisory personnel kept vigil inside the plants to see that vital manufacturing processes and equipment did not deteriorate.

It was the first crippling strike in Sperry's 45-year history as a chief supplier of electronics equipment to the nation's armed forces.

The IUE is seeking an 18 cent an hour increase in wages that now average $2 an hour. The company has offered 12 cents spread over three years.

Scales Convicted For Advocating Polity Overthrow

GREENSBORO, N.C. (AP)—Communist Julius L. Scales was convicted last night for advocating overthrow of the U.S. government by force and violence.

Scales will be sentenced today in Federal Court. The maximum sentence under the Smith Act is 10 years imprisonment, a $10,000 fine or both.

Scales, 35-year-old Communist party chairman in the Carolinas, was the second person convicted as an individual under the Smith Act. The other was Claude Lightfoot, also an admitted Communist. Lightfoot was convicted in Chicago last January and given five years and a $5,000 fine.

The Communist party advocates overthrow of the government by force and violence; Scales was a member knowing this to be the party goal; and he worked to bring it about.

Gen. J. L. Collins Has Open Concern In Political Crisis

WASHINGTON (AP)—Gen. J. Lawton Collins, openly concerned about the political crisis in free Viet Nam, reports his on-scene findings to President Eisenhower today.

Against a backdrop of sharp differences between the United States and France on further support for the government of Premier Ngo Dinh Diem, the president's special ambassador, arranged to call at the White House with Undersecretary of State Herbert Hoover Jr.

Collins told newsmen on his arrival yesterday from violence-flooded Saigon that the situation "is serious." Asked if the United States will continue to support Diem, he said quickly: "Our government is behind the legal government of Viet Nam."

Diem's resignation has been demanded by a united front of three armed religious sects—the Binh Xuyen, the Cao Dai and the Hoa Hao.

French authorities also were said to be urging Diem's immediate replacement by Emperor Bao Dai and appointment of another government leader.

Many Americans To Rise Earlier

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

The sun won't be up as high as usual when millions of Americans go to work next week, but it'll stay up longer after they get home.

Reason for the change is daylight saving time, which goes into effect in the most populous sections of the nation at 2 a. m. Sunday. At that moment, it suddenly will become 3 a. m.

The household will have to get up and stir around an hour earlier, but they'll have an extra hour of sunshine when the day's sun is done.
