Correction

DELAND — Florida Highway Patrol Capt. Bill Saunders confirmed today that both drivers involved in a two-vehicle, fatal crash on State Road 46 at Jungle Road, Geneva, were wearing seatbelts.

Saunders said a clerical error by a member of his staff who wrote a press release on the accident inaccurately stated that neither driver was wearing a seatbelt. A report written by the trooper who investigated the accident states both drivers were wearing seatbelts.

Michael H. Baker, 34, of Jupiter, was killed in the 8:55 p.m. Saturday crash, after his van pulled onto State Road 46 into the path of a westbound truck driven by Debra J. Dongan, 38, of Geneva. Dongan was injured and hospitalized in Sanford, the FHP reported.

Cinema opening delayed

LAKE MARY — The opening of Litchfield cinemas at Victoria Square, 3850 North U.S. Highway 17-92, has been delayed again due to electrical hold-ups. Sandy Collins, manager of the Lake Mary cinema, said that possibly the movies will open next weekend. Litchfield was originally supposed to open Friday, July 13, but construction delays and a stand-off with the city over the size of its marker prevented the opening. Collins said yesterday they had not yet reached an agreement with the city.

Trek I: mystery gator corralled

OCEANSIDE, N.Y. — Frank Baliko had the natural reaction when he looked out his window and noticed an alligator crossing his neighbor's lawn.

He called the police. But by the time Emergency Service officers arrived about 6:30 p.m. Thursday, residents of the Long Island neighborhood had corralled the 2-foot reptile and put it in a cardboard box, police said.

It was unclear how the alligator made its way to the neighborhood.

Trek II: Wrong-way seal amazes

SAN DIEGO — A hooded seal from Greenland arrived on a San Diego beach this week, completing a stunning 8,000-mile trek around the North American continent and baffling experts, veterinarians said.

The wrong-way seal, affectionately dubbed "Robin" by her temporary keepers at Sea World, is the first of her kind ever found along the West Coast of North America.

"Our reaction is total amazement and borderline disbelief," said Jim Antrim, senior curator of mammals at Sea World. "We were absolutely amazed to find it here."

Charity program explodes

Accusations fly over 'political power grab'

By J. MARK BARFIELD
Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — People calling themselves the legal governing board of a two-year-old charity ball organization decided today to challenge another group calling itself the organization's rightful directors.

Both sides of the Seminole Ornament Society (SOS) are calling foul in the controversy that may lead to the collapse of the organization that donated hundreds of presents to needy children.

With accusations of political motivations, a group of people calling themselves the legal SOS board of directors said they voted July 16 to dissolve the non-profit corporation and donated $2,228 of $2,316 found in a corporation checking account to the Seminole Children's Village.

The group that met this morning voted to demand return of the $2,316, saying the other group is necessary.

Each faction accuses the other of a political power grab and an attempt to embarrass the other.

"It's a politicalization of SOS," said Donnie Manjura, claiming the title of SOS president. "I'm such a nice person. It's Goldilocks and the Three Bears. Jim Stelling and (Harry) Hagle and (Randall) Morris are all in this together."

"You can't take these kinds of liberties with a corporation in Florida or anywhere else," said Stelling, claiming to be chairman of the SOS board of directors. "I'm doing this because she's good friends with Dick Fess. She's trying to do this to embarrass (Seminole County Commissioner) Bob Sturm."

Fess is opposing Sturm in the Sept. 4 primary. SOS was formed in November 1988 to hold an annual holiday ball for friends of organizers and to help needy children. SOS participants said. In lieu of contributions, unwrapped presents are donated

Sanford launches water-saving program

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — It's difficult to believe that water restrictions are still in force with the amount of rain in the area recently, but water conservation is still a serious need in Central Florida, and the City of Sanford is launching an education program to help save our water supply.

The City has prepared a Water Conservation

Action Guide which is being mailed to all of Sanford's utility customers this week, with additional copies available through Customer Service, at the Sanford City Hall.

The guide, prepared in conjunction with the Seminole County Cooperative Extension Service covers water conservation measures inside as well as outside the home and business.

It explains such matters as problems with a dripping faucet that could be wasting as much as 15 to 20 gallons of water per day, and gives suggestions on detecting the leaks.

The Guide is designed to serve as a quick useful reference, helping utility customers save water, money and the environment. In addition, it will help delay for many years the costs for Sanford to develop new freshwater sources.

City officials urge water users to read the information and do whatever is possible to help conserve water.

Museum reopening seen at last

By NICK PFEIFAU

SANFORD — Work on the interior of the Henry Shelton Sanford Museum, 520 E. First Street, has finally started, after a delay of several weeks, and it appears as though the museum may be ready to reopen to the public by the week of Aug. 6.

The work presently underway involves drywall repair and replacement plus painting in the east wing Alicia Clarke, the museum's curator said. "We've been closed for a month now, but we haven't been wasting time." She said work has been going on in reorganizing some of the displays and taking inventory of the items on hand.

The present work is centered only on repairs currently needed. The big expansion is still being held up. Several months ago the City of Sanford applied for a grant from the Seminole County Tourist Development Council in the amount of $400,000 for the expansion of the Library Museum but the request was denied. At the time of the denial, however, the Council and Sanford might reapply but for a slightly

NEWS FROM THE REGION AND ACROSS THE STATE

Electric chair built 100 years ago

AUBURN, N.Y. - One hundred years ago a man named William Kemmler was put to death here at Auburn State Prison for the brutal murder of his girlfriend. He was by all accounts a shabby fellow, he killed the woman with an ax, and he would not be worth remembering on this anniversary except for one thing: He was the first person executed in an electric chair.

William Kemmler, depicted in a newspaper sketch, was executed at Auburn State Prison in New York, Aug. 8, 1890. A convicted murderer, he was the first person ever put to death by electrocution.

State officers said the chair would be better than the old-fashioned rope. They said "manufactured lightning" would be more efficient, rapid and, in those regards, humane. In any case, the electrocution law created a furor through the country. The inventor Thomas Edison even got in on the debate. Edison did not believe in capital punishment of any kind, but, as a man with a huge stake in the future of electricity, he sponsored experiments that happened to lead to the creation of the chair.

But he wasn't. Just as the man was about to be removed from the chair, someone noticed that he had cut his hand with a fingernail during the electrocution, and blood was rolling out of the wound. Soon Kemmler was drooling and making stertorous sounds, and a physician said frantically, "Turn the current on! Instantly!"

had to be restarted. This time the condemned man was given the maximum current available, 2,000 volts, which caused white vapors, cooked flesh and ghastly odors. The warden waited a full minute, by stopwatch, before deciding that Kemmler had finally died. And electrocution would go on to become the nation's most popular method of execution. One editorialist in 1890 wrote that the age of burning at the stake, would pass quickly into feral history, yet that prediction, like the execution it lamented, was merely hopeful and imperfect.

Court decides death cases

TALLAHASSEE - The Florida Supreme Court rejected Thursday the state's suggestion that trial judges be granted the "courage" of defending their rulings if a death penalty is appealed.

In ordering a new sentencing hearing for Johnny Copeland in the Dec. 12, 1978 robbery, gang rape and murder of a Wakulla County convenience store clerk, the court said the notion of quizzing judges whose rulings are attacked under appeal "misconceives the entire nature of the appellate process."

A death warrant was signed for Copeland in 1986, but the U.S. Supreme Court blocked his execution because Circuit Judge Kenneth Cooksey failed to consider all of the factors mitigating against a death sentence.

Convicted welfare worker takes stand

FORT MYERS - Two former state child welfare workers, including one convicted in the unprecedented child abuse case stemming from the toilet-training death of a toddler, testified Thursday they saw no indication the boy was a victim of abuse prior to his death.

State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services caseworker Margaret Barber, who was convicted of child abuse in the July 1989 death of Bradley McGee, told jurors that she checked up on the 2-year-old three times at his parent's trailer and found nothing suspicious.

wasn't unusual for toddlers who were moved from one family to another. "It was a brand new adjustment for him and it would take a matter of time for that to happen," Barber said.

Another former caseworker, Kenneth Hasley, testified he checked on the Coe family weeks before Bradley's death to investigate a child abuse complaint filed against the couple.

MIAMI - Bankers, accountants and lawyers read it. Federal law enforcement agents peruse it. And, some say, so do the drug traffickers. It is "Money Laundering Alert," an eight-page national newsletter full of in-depth, well-written and thoroughly researched articles about banks.

Most of the 630 subscribers, including foreign businesses in 15 countries, are bankers, lawyers, accountants and government agencies trying to keep up with the ever-changing and extremely complex regulations on money transactions, Intrigo said. They pay $295 for an annual subscription in the United States or $385 to have the monthly publication mailed abroad.

Brother vs. brother

SANFORD — Willie Williams, 31, of 70 Castle Brewer Court, Sanford, was charged by Sanford police with aggravated assault after allegedly chasing his brother while brandishing a knife.

Police said when they arrived at the scene of the dispute, they saw Williams standing in his yard with a 12-inch steak knife in his hand. Williams' mother reportedly told police she had seen Williams chase Curtis Williams with the knife. Police allege Williams tried to stab his brother.

Williams was arrested at home at 2:58 p.m. Thursday.

Two arrested after pursuit

LAKE MARY — City police here who tried to stop a vehicle with an unassigned tag, report the driver and passenger fled into Sanford on U.S. Highway 17-92, where their car almost struck two police cars involved in the pursuit.

Police first tried to stop the car on Lake Mary Boulevard and made an initial stop on South U.S. Highway 17-92, but the car continued toward Sanford, police said.

The driver, Anton Lamar Sanders, 18, of 1814 Knox Ave., Sanford, was charged with traffic violations in addition to being charged with fleeing to elude police, aggravated assault with a motor vehicle on police, resisting with and without violence and possession of a concealed knife. The passenger, Raymond Ashby, 23, of 1818 Lincoln Ave., Sanford, was arrested on those same charges at 2:33 a.m. Thursday.

Man charged with battery, abuse

SANFORD — City police here report charging Gregory Owen Dickey, 28, of Deltona, with battery-domestic abuse, after he allegedly slapped his wife Stacey Dickey, knocked her down and hit her head into the floor.

The arrest and incident occurred at Dickey's workplace, McRoberts Tire, 405 W. First St., Sanford, at 4:04 p.m. Thursday. Police said the victim's knees and a thumb were injured.

Ace Hardware building sign of growth

By NICK PFENPAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Continuing evidence of Sanford's growth can be seen in the 200 block of East 25th Street, with the erection of the structural steel that will eventually be the new home of Ace Hardware.

"Sanford is no longer the small rural town it once was," said Bob Parcell, owner of Ace Hardware, "and with the growth of Sanford we simply have to have a larger facility."

The new building will contain 13,500 square feet of space for the store, with an additional farm and garden shop at the rear, which, according to Parcell, "will be about three times the space we have at present."

The old building at 205 East 25th street will be used as a warehouse, for not only the new building, but the other Ace Hardware stores in Lake Mary and Longwood.

"We've been here for seven years," said Parcell, "and the stock keeps piling higher and higher. With the new store, we'll be able to keep the stock at no higher than eye level, and there will be wider aisles as well." Steel construction began earlier this month, and the building, being constructed by Shoemaker Construction Company of Sanford, should be completed by the end of the year. "We expect to take possession around the end of November," Parcell said, "and be ready to open the new store to the public in early January."

Democrats outnumbered in school district races

By VICKI BOGARDEN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Archie Cannon of Lake Mary and Noreen Hatton of Winter Park are the only two Democrats among ten candidates in the race for three Seminole County school board seats to be contested in the fall. Cannon is seeking to take the seat in District 1, while Hatton is going after the District 4 seat.

It's not a lack of interest by Democrats in a county where they used to hold a majority, according to Bill Gilmartin, chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee.

"There was a strong effort by the Democratic party in Seminole County to avoid any primaries," Gilmartin said. "We are unified behind the one candidate in each seat who we feel is best for the job."

Verdell Pugh, one of four Republican vying for the District 5 seat, had been a Democrat but changed her party affiliation at qualifying time.

"We had her penciled in as one of our three Democrats, but she changed her mind at the last moment," Gilmartin said. "I suspect a large financial contribution was involved."

Gilmartin said that declining Democratic numbers in the voter rolls in the county (he said there are between 41,000 and 47,000 registered Democrats in the county) and across the state caused a reorganization within the party. He described the Democrats as "more organized and more unified" than ever before.

"There is no in-fighting within our party like there is in the Republican party," Gilmartin said. "They have three or four candidates fighting and slinging insults at each other while we can sit back and watch until November."

Jim Ocque, chairman of the Republican Executive Committee does not agree with Gilmartin's assessment of his party.

"There is no in-fighting," Ocque said. "We've got a situation here where we are the majority party in Seminole County and if anyone wants to be elected they have to be on the Republican ticket."

According to Ocque, the "apparent factionalization" of the party is just "different individuals supporting different candidates." He said that once the primaries are over, the Republican party will stand behind the choice of the voters.

Gilmartin said the support of one Democratic candidate per race is not only a politically prudent one, it also saves money.

"While they're (the Republicans) spending money tearing each other apart," he said, "We can just sit back and wait and that saves precious dollars."

Gilmartin added that the Democrats chose who is the best person based on experience, record and their stand on certain issues.

Ocque said he believes it is the public not the party who should decide who is the best person for the job.

"We can't decide for them," he noted.

Gilmartin said the Democrats will support any candidate, of either party, who is best for the job, but he does not pretend to choose for the voters.

"We work with the Seminole County Homeowners Association, with the NAACP, with other groups to make a decision on who we will back," he said.

PAY saves county residents big bucks in youth crime prevention

By NICK PFENPAUF
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Crime doesn't pay, but PAY can help prevent future crime.

PAY in this case is the acronym for Prosecution Alternative for Youth, with offices at 110 E. Commercial, Suite 105 in Sanford. Christina Frank, PAY Manager, said the program is saving the taxpayers of Seminole County an estimated quarter of a million dollars each year.

Frank explained, "When teenagers are involved in crimes, the State Attorney can refer first and even second offenders to us. We assign a hearing officer who meets with the police, the teenager, his or her family, the victim and any witnesses. The hearing officer, through further investigation will determine whether or not the teen is guilty, and if guilt is determined, will recommend an appropriate punishment."

Frank said the PAY program handled 600 juvenile cases last year, and will probably handle many more this year, now that 15 new hearing officers have been accepted and sworn in during ceremonies earlier this week at the Juvenile Justice Center.

The PAY Manager said, "The great majority of our cases, at least 40 percent, involve shoplifting charges. The rest include underage drinking, assault, battery and even car theft." She said, "The punishment most often is determined in such a way as to repay the community. For example, a youth determined guilty of underage drinking may be ordered to get a job, and earn a certain amount of money which he or she must then donate to MADD."

Hearing officer Jim Logue discussed cases he has heard which involved the use of drugs or alcohol. "Many times we find it necessary to have them attend counselling sessions," Logue added that "Teens often find drug or drinking problems are more serious than they first thought, because when teens get caught, it doesn't mean they just started using the stuff, it just means they have been caught. Chances are they were using it for quite some time, and possibly didn't even realize it."

Logue also listed other punishments that can, as the case demands, be handed out including community service work, restitution, jail tours, essay writing and enrichment classes. The teens then have 75 days in which to complete the sanctions imposed by the Hearing Officer. Whenever the punishment has been completed, and the PAY office can close the case successfully, the charges against the youth are dropped.

The PAY program was originated on July 1, 1986 by the Seminole County Commission in cooperation with the State Attorney, the Judiciary and the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

Fewer 4-H'ers call farms home now, professor says

GAINESVILLE — Dwindling numbers of family-owned farms have sent agricultural youth groups to urban areas in search of membership, and the strategy seems to be working, a University of Florida professor said Tuesday.

"Forty years ago, 4-H meant growing corn if you were a boy and canning tomatoes if you were a girl," said Aiden Hilliker, an assistant professor in the university's Department of 4-H and Other Youth Programs. "Today 4-H means learning how to make group decisions in a democracy and gaining hands-on experience in projects ranging from raising livestock to after-school self-care for latchkey children."

Hilliker is helping to coordinate Florida's state 4-H Congress, which has attracted 400 high-school 4-H members and 100 adult 4-H leaders and extension agents from 60 counties to the UF campus this week.

"4-H is proud of its history and perception as the 'kid with the calf,'" Hilliker said. "But the organization is also proud of its success in attracting urban youth, as our society changes."

Florida 4-H figures for 1989 show that while 5.8 percent of its 213,000 members live on farms, another 56.9 percent live in towns with populations of up to more 50,000, 13.8 percent live in suburbs and 23.7 percent live in cities of more than 50,000. Also, 48.2 percent of the state's 4-H members were male and 51.8 percent were female.

School board schedules budget talks

SANFORD — At 8 p.m. on Tuesday, July 31, the Seminole County school board and their district staff will present to the public a short information session and question-and-answer period regarding the proposed 1990-91 budget.

The session will be followed immediately, at 7 p.m., by the first public hearing on the $286.7 million budget, where the public will be given the opportunity to comment it.

Included in the 1990-91 budget is a two-mill tax increase which will generate an estimated $18.5 million for new construction.

A detailed budget document is available for the public in the school district office.

Welcome to reality

Let's say that an older, established business faces an increasing competitive challenge from comparatively more-efficient rivals. Its management announces a plan to save several billion dollars in labor costs over a period of years, but without painful reductions in the size of its work force, and without forcing its employees to accept pay cuts. How would its workers respond to the proposal?

Well, if it's the United States Postal Service, the employees union, the 380,000-member American Postal Workers Union, rejects the proposal out-of-hand and calls for the immediate resignation of Postmaster General Anthony Frank.

Frank unveiled a plan to contract out more than 12,000 new jobs, at a projected savings to the semi-independent agency of $4.3 billion over the next 10 years. In the meantime, he assured the postal service's 800,000-strong work force that no career employee would lose his job as a result of the plan.

On average, a career postal worker costs the agency roughly $30 an hour including benefits. The new contract employees, who will largely perform letter-sorting functions, will only cost the post office half that amount. Presently, labor accounts for 83 percent of the postal service's costs. Therefore, any effort to contain costs must necessarily be directed at labor.

It is this reality that rankles the postal workers union. Its president, Moe Biller, says that Postmaster General Frank is bent on "getting rid of the postal service piece by piece." To thwart this perceived threat, Biller has filed a grievance on behalf of the union, asserting that the contracting-out proposal violates six provisions of the union contract.

Yet, the postmaster general's plan is modest in scope. The 12,000 jobs in question would represent less than 2 percent of the post office's total work force. It stands to reason that if Frank is not given discretion over even this tiny percentage of his labor pool, he will never be able to achieve budgetary savings or improvements in productivity.

If recent history is an indication, the postal union will petition Congress to overturn Frank's decision, giving the postmaster general the discretion he needs to control costs at his agency.

LETTERS

Set the record straight

The June 22, 1990 edition of the Herald printed a letter to the Editor from Ron Lancaster of Orlando, Florida. Mr. Lancaster stated that he had turned away from buying a unique old home at 821 Park Avenue because there are "too many drawbacks" to the (downtown) neighborhood. Mr. Lancaster opines that the City Government needs to prod owners of run-down rental complexes to either upgrade their properties or tear them down. He seems to think that the City has done little toward upgrading the neighborhoods and eliminating undesirable conditions.

I would like to set the record straight for him and other readers of the Herald.

Sanford began a vigorous code enforcement program in 1985. This program included the addition of Code Enforcement Inspectors, establishment of an active Code Enforcement Board, and where necessary, the levying of fines for non-compliance with City Codes, many of which are oriented toward conditions which affect quality of life within our neighborhoods.

In the past two most recently completed fiscal years, over 11,800 code enforcement inspections were performed. These resulted in 1,330 notices of violation being posted, and 574 notices of hearing before the Code Enforcement Board. Since 1985, notices of violation total over 2,100 while notices of hearing for the same period exceed 1,230.

The purpose of the Code Enforcement procedure is to achieve compliance with City Codes. In cases of non-compliance, fines may be adjudged by the Code Enforcement Board. These fines in turn result in the placement of liens against the subject property. At present, liens are in place on 18 properties and non-compliance fines are accruing on an additional 12 properties.

The City commitment to code enforcement includes the services of two building inspectors, necessary clerical support, and service of the City Attorney for legal advice for the Code Enforcement Board.

I believe we have made significant progress within the last five-years; however, conditions which have occurred and worsened over decades cannot necessarily be corrected quickly, especially within a highly regulated and legally constrained area such as code enforcement. We will continue our efforts to improve the overall quality of life within our City, to the extent we are able to do so within budget limitations.

Hopefully, Mr. Lancaster, and others like him, will look more closely at both physical appearances and at ongoing efforts to improve the overall quality of life in making future decisions regarding relocation of his home or business to Sanford.

Animal rights activist extremes

WASHINGTON — Perhaps the most revealing moment during a recent animal rights rally here occurred when actor Christopher Reeve, an invited speaker sympathetic to the cause, suggested that moderation might win more converts than fanaticism.

Everyone who breeds animals or uses them for medical research is not a villain, suggested Reeve. Moreover, the use of animals in laboratory experiments seeking cures for deadly diseases can be justified if properly regulated, he added.

But Reeve (best known as the star of the Superman movies) was repeatedly booed by the nation who were gathered on the Capitol grounds. The actor left the podium in dismay.

Animal rights activists have an important message, and they have won some crucial struggles in recent years — but their intolerance and interference have antagonized countless potential allies.

They have, for example, convinced many leading producers of household products and cosmetics to abandon such needlessly cruel laboratory practices as the Draize and LD50 tests.

The former determines the harmfulness of chemical compounds by dripping them into rabbits' eyes held open by clips. The latter ascertains the lethality of substances by giving them to animals in increasing amounts until 50 percent have died.

But the president of the Cosmetic, Toiletary and Fragrance Association says: "We are not dealing with rational opponents. We are dealing with zealots who cannot comprehend that a child's life is more important than a dog's, who see nothing wrong with making a child the ultimate guinea pig instead of an animal."

In an astounding affirmation of that claim, the head of one militant animal rights group, People for the Ethical Treatment of Animals, proclaims: "There is no rational basis for saying that a human being has special rights. A rat is a pig is a dog is a boy." In another field, animal rights proponents have waged a generally successful — and thoroughly legitimate — campaign to equate the ownership and wearing of fur coats with disolute and debauched behavior.

They note that many of the 2 million lynx, beavers, abies, coyotes, wild fawns and other animals killed in this country every year for fur garments are caught in steel-jawed leg-hold traps so barbaric that their use is prohibited in 70 nations. (Desperate to escape, the animals sometimes try to chew off their own legs.)

But the fur industry has retaliated with a series of advertisements carrying the stark headline: "Today fur. Tomorrow leather. Then wool. Then meat." Again, the most shrill and intolerant activists have reinforced their critics' claims by decreeing that animals should not be killed to provide beef, veal, pork, poultry and seafood for people. Indeed, some even insist that human consumption of milk and eggs violates animals' rights.

Secretary of Health and Human Services Louis W. Sullivan clearly reflected the views of many thoughtful people when he recently criticized the "so-called animal activists who are, in fact, nothing more than animal rights terrorists."

On resolving the S&L mess

WASHINGTON — Next time, let's rely on either Chili Palmer or Jim Leach.

Next time we sink into something like the savings-and-loan mess, let's send for Chili, the Miami loan shark in Elmore Leonard's new crime novel "Get Shorty." Seems Chili can get wishers to fork over by just saying three words: "Look at me."

Or we could avoid S&L messes by listening to the likes of Rep. Jim Leach (R-Iowa), who repeatedly said: Listen to me.

On May 5, 1987, the House of Representatives was busy representing, doing the business of an interest group well-represented (meaning skillfully lobbied for) in Washington. At issue was the Leach amendment to legislation pertaining to the already feid S&L industry.

His amendment would have limited investments by federally insured S&Ls to 100 percent of their capital or three percent of assets, whichever was lower. Those limits could be waived in any state where the legislature put the state's own resources behind S&Ls that breached those limits.

Leach thought there should be stricter limits on public liability for money put out in the pursuit of private profit. And he thought that states that wanted to license high-rolling should shoulder the risk. This common sense — coming after many warnings (not least from Leach) — lost, 17-391.

Leach guesses that passage of his amendment would have prevented 10 percent of the losses so far in the S&L debacle. So far the cost of the crisis, counting 30 years of interest on the borrowing for it, will be $500,000,000,000. Thus on May 5, 1987, Congress made a $50 billion blunder.

After that, the great game of gambling with taxpayer-insured money rolled along in high gear. It was not buccaneer capitalism by rugged individualists; it was the welfare capitalism of the well-represented speculators. It was yet another instance of no-fault entrepreneurship, wherein profits are private and losses are socialized. The result is a perverse reward system: Foolish states have prospered in proportion to their foolishness.

States steeped in the ideology of go-go capitalism — states such as California and especially Texas, where regulation of state-chartered (but federally insured) S&Ls was relaxed — had fun. Money flooded in; houses and buildings were built that were not built in Pennsylvania or Iowa.

Then came the wringing out. Now taxpayers are being wrung out. The result is a fresh flood of their money to places like Texas and California — where, by the way, the residue of the S&L mess is a lot of real buildings that are a substantial contribution to the local infrastructure.

Back in Washington, there is an obnoxious complacency about the lugubrious conclusion that "everybody" is to blame. How convenient. Such a lot of protective coloration. Misery loves company, but guilt loves it even more.

If it is everybody's fault, it is no one's in particular. From that conclusion it is a short alither to blaming the "system." And from there it is but a hop, skip and a jump into sociology: The Zeitgeist did it!

You know: the 1980s, glitz, BMWs and Rolex watches, bury my heart in the Hamptons — yuppie. In a word, the culprit was greed, which may technically be traceable to Adam's Fall but really got ripping only after Reagan's Inauguration, there is nothing like a fine mist of sociology for obscuring responsibility.

The S&L argument has become an exercise in what Washington does best, or at least with most zeal: recrimination. And it illustrates a law of public discourse: The more the subject is complex and embarrassing, the more intense the recourse to sociology. But the real S&L subject, as Robert Kuttner rightly stresses, is politics — and particular policies, such as deregulation, produced by particular politicians.

Writing in Business Week, Kuttner says: "Republicans at least embraced deregulation out of ideological principle: democrats did it mainly because they were on the take." Leach, however, is different. He is a "moderate" Republican. (A student of ancient history, he calls himself a "Wendell Willkie Republican.") He is not given to the reflexive anti-government non-thinking that produced the stampede to deregulation that produced the debacle.

And he is not on the take. He takes no PAC contributions and received only a pittance (less than 45 other members of the 47-member banking committee) from S&L sources.

Should we seize the S&L mess as a pretext for changing the campaign-finance rules (for which Watergate was the pretext)? No, voters should just look around for more candidates like Leach who, on May 5, 1987, said: Listen to me.

The game of gambling with taxpayer-insured money rolled along.

USSR dissidents unknowing pawns

EAST BERLIN — The great Soviet human rights champion, Andrei Sakharov, secretly turned down freedom in the United States four years ago because it meant he could not return to his beloved homeland. His fellow dissident Natan Sharansky unknowingly was traded instead of Sakharov.

Mikhail Gorbachev had agreed to trade Sakharov for Soviet spies in prison in the West, but Sakharov willingly continued his exile in the closed city of Gorky where he was dying. He hoped he would live long enough to openly criticize the Soviet government as a Soviet citizen still standing on Soviet soil. He got his wish before he died last December.

We learned this previously untold story from reclusive East Berlin attorney Wolfgang Vogel. He has been the broker of almost every important spy and dissident exchange between East and West since 1982.

Work on exchanging both Sakharov and Sharansky was his top priority beginning in 1980, Vogel told us in a rare interview.

Sakharov was a brilliant nuclear physicist who developed the first Soviet hydrogen bomb. He received numerous awards for his work and enjoyed rare privileges and comforts. Then, in 1967, he began to raise his voice against atmospheric nuclear testing. By 1968, Sakharov had become the standard bearer for the fledgling Soviet human rights movement.

The KGB tapped his phone and harassed him in every possible way, including shutting off the elevator each time Sakharov went to a meeting of dissidents in a seventh-floor apartment. The KGB, knowing that Sakharov had a bad heart, hoped he would die from the hike up the stairs.

In 1975, Sakharov won the Nobel Peace Prize for his courage. The Soviets refused to let him accept it, labeling him "a Judas" and a "laboratory rat of the West."

On Jan. 20, 1980, the KGB seized Sakharov on a Moscow street. He and his wife were shipped to Gorky and put under constant guard. Sakharov wrote his memoirs there in longhand, and the KGB twice stole hundreds of pages. He painstakingly rewrote them. Twice he went on fasts, the first to get the Soviets to allow a relative to emigrate and the second to get urgent medical care for his wife in the West. In both cases, the Soviets gave in to his demands.

Soviet officials were greatly surprised when Sakharov turned down the chance to get out himself in 1985. The next name on the list was Sharansky who crossed the famed Glienicke Bridge into West Berlin on Feb. 11, 1986.

Sakharov was gambling that he would live, and his gamble paid off. In December 1986 the KGB installed a phone in his Gorky apartment for the first time. The next day Sakharov got his first and only call on it, from Gorbachev, telling him it was time to come home to Moscow. Of all Gorbachev's actions to that point, it was the single most important clue to the West that he was serious about reform.

Sakharov was elected a deputy to the new Soviet Congress, and he had his podium as a Soviet citizen. He used it indefatigably. Several times Gorbachev himself silenced Sakharov by cutting off his microphone or ordering him to sit down.

Then, last Dec. 14, Sakharov collapsed from a heart attack and died alone in his study only hours after delivering a ringing denunciation of the Communist Party monopoly.

Poll shows Nelson closing in on Chiles

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Bill Nelson has closed some of the distance between himself and Lewton Chiles in their contest for the Democratic nomination for governor, according to the latest Mason-Dixon Opinion Research poll.

The poll, released Wednesday, shows Chiles getting 53 percent support of those polled and Nelson getting 40 percent. Chiles once held a 54-point lead over Nelson.

Chiles, the former U.S. Senator from Florida, "remains the clear frontrunner, but his nomination is no longer a foregone conclusion," said Bob Jaffe, vice president of Mason-Dixon Opinion Research.

The poll, designed to be accurate to within plus or minus 4 percent, also shows both Democratic candidates ahead of incumbent Republican Gov. Bob Martinez. Chiles leads Martinez 53 percent to 35 percent, while Nelson leads Martinez 40 percent to 40 percent.

Within the Republican primary, Martinez leads state Sen. Marlene Woodson-Howard by a large margin, 81 percent to 22 percent. But one-quarter of the Republican voters polled said they were undecided.

Nelson, the congressman from Melbourne, was the Democratic frontrunner until Chiles entered the primary April 12 and immediately vaulted to a 34-point lead.

Nelson managed to cut that lead in half after his $1.5-million television advertising campaign that ended in June.

Neither Nelson nor Chiles ran any ads from mid-June to late July, but Nelson continued to record slight gains and is now embarking on a new statewide ad campaign that he calls him as part of a "new generation of leadership".

FCC finds no reason to re-regulate cable

WASHINGTON — The Federal Communications Commission said cable television operators should face greater competition, not re-regulation, to ensure fair consumer rates and improved services for millions of viewers.

In a report to Congress, the FCC said Thursday it would be a mistake for lawmakers to re-impose strict controls on cable rates, as called for in legislation now under debate on Capitol Hill.

Critics charge the cable industry, since the removal of most rate controls in 1986, have gouged consumers with skyrocketing prices while providing terrible service and inferior programming.

According to a General Accounting Office survey released in June, the average cable subscriber's monthly rate for the lowest priced basic service increased 43 percent to $15.98 from Nov. 30, 1986, to Dec. 31, 1989, including a 10 percent hike in 1989. During that time, the number of basic channels available to subscribers increased from 24 to 31 channels on average.

AIDS toll expected to rise

WASHINGTON — Women and children increasingly will fall victim to AIDS, with the deadly disease killing about 3 million women and children worldwide in the 1990s, the World Health Organization reported.

AIDS also will create "several million" orphans worldwide, cut the overall life expectancy of children born in some parts of the world by about six years and boost the childhood death rate 30 percent in the 1990s.

"Whatever the actual numbers are, the HIV infection/AIDS problem in women and children will doubtless become one of the major challenges to public health, health care, and social support systems worldwide," he said Thursday.

HIV, which stands for human immunodeficiency virus, is the infectious agent that causes acquired immune deficiency syndrome, which destroys the body's ability to fight off infections.

Red Cross acts to improve monitoring

WASHINGTON — The American Red Cross announced it will take corrective steps in response to a government report that found laxity in blood banks' tracking of transfusion-associated AIDS and other diseases.

In a 60-page letter sent to the Food and Drug Administration, the Red Cross outlined Thursday how it would improve its methods for receiving, investigating and following up on reports of errors and accidents that come in from its 54 blood-collecting regions.

FDA officials had no immediate comment Thursday on the corrective steps proposed by the Red Cross.

Earlier this month, a preliminary report by an FDA inspector found the government had never been notified of 228 reports of transfusion-associated AIDS reported to the Washington, D.C., region of the Red Cross.

The AIDS-causing human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, is spread by sexual or blood-to-blood contact, such as receiving a blood transfusion from another person.

Costs of Frank and Durenberger probes

WASHINGTON — By the time the House and Senate conclude their ethics cases against Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., and Sen. David Durenberger, R-Minn., it had taken more than a year of investigations and cost a still undetermined amount that may approach $1 million.

At the same time, Durenberger's aides have estimated it cost the senator $500,000 to defend himself, as well as more than $124,000 that the Senate ordered him to pay to charities and reimburse to the government. Durenberger's friends are helping to pay his legal fees through a defense fund, but the senator must pay the other Senate-ordered costs himself.

Frank has not estimated the cost to himself, but he also has a defense fund.

The two investigations concluded Thursday when the House voted 408-18 to reprimand Frank for his relationship with a male prostitute. The Senate voted 96-0 Wednesday to denounce Durenberger for a variety of financial improprieties, including accepting about $100,000 in excessive speaking fees.

Study supports comet start-up of life

WASHINGTON — Comets could have carried some of the building blocks of life directly to infant Earth about 4.5 billion years ago, a team headed by astronomer Carl Sagan reported.

Many scientists have speculated that the comets and asteroids that bombarded Earth in its early days may have contributed organic compounds that eventually gave rise to life. But some have argued that any organic compounds found in comets and asteroids would have been destroyed by the fiery, high-speed entry into Earth's atmosphere.

Now, in an article published Thursday in the Journal of Science, Cornell University's Sagan and his colleagues present calculations that show comets could have helped provide the seeds of life.

Gorbachev: Soviets need immediate aid

MOSCOW — President Mikhail Gorbachev said the Soviet Union needs immediate financial aid from the West to salvage its economic reforms.

Gorbachev bared the dire straits of the Soviet economy Thursday at a joint news conference with visiting Italian Prime Minister Giulio Andreotti.

"In these two years — I would say very difficult and crucial years — we need this help," Gorbachev said. "And we need it, of course, within the present year."

Gorbachev said aid from the West would give him room to maneuver as he tries to move the economy from a centralized administrative system to a market-based distribution of goods.

"We will act during this period to unleash economic initiative, create an environment for entrepreneurship and organize cooperation between Western firms and those of ours that work for the market," Gorbachev said.

Cosmonauts shut Mir door

MOSCOW — Two Soviet cosmonauts took another improvised spacewalk on their second venture outside the Mir space station to repair the giant orbital complex, successfully fixing a faulty hatch.

Flight commander Antoly Solovyov and cosmonaut Alexander Balandin successfully completed the free-floating maintenance mission Thursday, shutting the door on a module addition to the Mir and transferring handrails they had used last week to reattach insulation torn from their spaceship.

"The cosmonauts spent three hours, 31 minutes in outer space," Soviet television said. "They managed to close the hatch with great effort."

Solovyov and Balandin videotaped the open hatch on the Kvant-2 physics module jutting out from the Mir, then followed instructions from the Soviet space program's Mission Control Center outside Moscow to shut the door.

who signed the document under her married name "Bonnie Buddy," lists Buddy, Stelling and Cummins as directors.

Manjura said Barbara West, WFTV Channel 9 news anchor, was also a director at the time, but her name was not required to be listed in the report to the state.

According to Stelling, the rift between the factions began before the 1989 ball when Eoghan Kelley, former husband of Seminole County Commissioner Jennifer Kelley, contributed a $500 check seeking to be an SOS host.

Stelling said he opposed Kelley's involvement in the society because Kelley had been charged by the state attorney's office for 53 counts of campaign violations.

"I felt the society was for the betterment of the children and I didn't want him on the board," Stelling said.

Stelling said a meeting was held and he, Manjura and Hagle voted unanimously to refuse Kelley's contribution.

Manjura said she didn't vote, but said "Jim and Harry told me to return the check." Manjura said the meeting wasn't official, but she didn't contest the request, saying she didn't know Kelley's or Stelling's political ties.

Cummins said that meeting was not official.

"Stelling took it on himself to refuse Kelley's contribution," Cummins said. "That was $500 that didn't go to the children."

Cummins said the Kelleys attended the ball, bringing several teddy bears.

The rift widened May 2 when Manjura, Cummins and West voted to remove Morris from the board saying he didn't pay the $500 he committed to paying.

Morris said he had told the board he would be late in making the payment, but after seeing what he called "what was going on"

he refused to make the donation. Morris said he has since deposited the amount in the "corporate trust account" with SOS corporate attorney Joseph Rozer.

Stelling, saying he didn't recognize Cummins or West as official directors, refused to vote and refused to recognize the removal of Morris. Manjura wrote Morris a letter the next day notifying him of his removal.

A copy of the letter was received by the Sanford Herald two days after the meeting from an unknown source.

Following the meeting, Stelling said he demanded Manjura show him the corporate records. Stelling said the records, kept by Manjura, did not include records of meetings he said was required in their corporate by-laws.

Stelling said he also found the corporate annual report that had been filed with the state corporations division Manjura, listing Buddy, himself and Cummins as directors.

"I've attended every announced meeting we've had since we've formed and we never elected Cummins to the board," Stelling said.

Manjura said records of all meetings are kept and are available for anyone to review them.

"I have minutes showing where the directors were elected," Manjura said. "Talk is very cheap and it's all bull. People can lie and people can tell you anything but the proof is in the papers."

Stelling said he met with Manjura and asked her to dissolve the corporation and reform it with anyone of her choosing.

"I asked her to let us know what she thought," Stelling said. "She said she wanted to fight."

Later in May, Manjura, West and Cummins voted to expand the board to six members, adding Tony Giorgio, Tammy Rondinaro and Sharron Wolkrom. Stelling and Hagle, who were present, refused to vote, SOS officials said.

After the meeting, Hagle resigned, saying he didn't want to be involved in a power struggle. Stelling said Hagle rescinded the resignation and is still a director.

Manjura said Hagle's attempt to withdraw the resignation could not be acted on without a board vote because she had already accepted the resignation.

Stelling next called a meeting for July 16 of SOS participants who he recognized as the board of directors, himself, Manjura, Hagle and Morris. He said Manjura did not attend the meeting, although she was invited. The three voted Manjura out of office and Stelling as chairman. The three then voted unanimously to donate the balance of $2,316 found in the checking account to the Seminole Children's Village and to dissolve the corporation.

A check for $67 was issued to the secretary of state's office to dissolve the corporation. Stelling said he received the $67 back from the secretary of state's office Wednesday with instructions to file the corporate dissolution papers with the clerk of courts. He said he filed the dissolution papers Thursday.

Stelling and Morris said they had little choice but to dissolve the corporation.

"This corporation was operating improperly and illegally," Stelling said. "No minutes of meetings were kept. She appointed directors illegally. She was filing illegal documents with the state. Our board was flawed, using any legal definition, it could not continue."

Manjura said the actions were done illegally by "one official director and two former directors."

"The meeting was not authorized," Manjura said. "How can people do that when they're not on the board?"

Stelling said they were undecided.

Nelson, the congressman from Melbourne, was the Democratic frontrunner until Chiles entered the primary April 12 and immediately vaulted to a 34-point lead.

Nelson managed to cut that lead in half after his $1.5-million television advertising campaign that ended in June.

Preschool

According to 1989 Department of Education figures, there were 7.4 million 3- and 4-year-old children, of which 1 million were enrolled in public schools and 1.8 million attended private schools.

The number of children in preschool has nearly quadrupled since 1985, the figures showed.

"We must be ready to serve these very young children," said Samuel Sava, the association's executive director. "These kids are not just younger versions of our first graders. They do not learn in the same ways that older children learn. And their education programs should not be simply patterned after traditional elementary grade programs."

Sava cited a number of reasons for the increased numbers of preschoolers, including more working parents, more child care and school readiness programs and greater pressure for achievement and the belief that preschool can achieve that end.

The proposal by the National Association of Elementary School Principals stressed a need for a less-structured, unhurried environment to enhance the development of young children.

The principals' voluntary standards were prepared by a committee of elementary school principals and early childhood experts.

She presently works in 2 East, the surgical floor and primarily cares for pre- and post-operative patients. Her husband, Frank and son Timothy were on hand for the award presentation. Her daughter Amy was at school in Gainessville. In addition to a trophy, she received $250., a bouquet of roses, and judging from the applause of her co-workers, what could have been the most coveted award of all, a private parking space of her choice at the hospital.

Fourteen nominations were made for this year's award. Final judging was made by previous winners and selected personnel from the staff.

Campbell will now become eligible for regional and national awards in competition with selected employees at HCA hospitals across the nation. Two of the 10 previous winners from Sanford have won divisional Dr. Frist awards.

Buddy Lake League wraps up

SANFORD — Regular season action in the Buddy Lake Summer Baseball League will wrap up Saturday with a game at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

At 11:45 a.m., Wes Rinker's Florida Baseball School Academy will take on the East Coast All-Stars (a team from the Daytona Beach/New Smyrna Beach area).

Also, it was announced that Friday night's game between Adcock Roofing (Seminole High School's summer team) and the Patriots as well as Saturday's game between the Patriots (the FBS Academy) have been cancelled.

Going into the final weekend of play, Adcock Roofing leads the standings with a 14-5 record, followed by the All-Stars (8-5), the Academy (9-6), the Sanford Reds (7-11) and the Patriots (2-13).

It was not known how the cancellations would be figured into the standings.

Any rainouts that could affect the top two teams in the standings will be played on Sunday.

The teams that finish with the two best records will play in a best two-of-three series next Friday and Saturday.

MARTIAL ARTS

Local students meet Challenge

SANFORD — Students of Menefee's Martial Arts Academy, under the direction of Langston Menefee, had a very successful day in the 1990 Seminole Challenge of Champions held at Seminole High School on July 21.

Kenny Kaiser, the No. 1 ranked martial artist in the intermediate class (for yellow to brown belt) in the state of Florida, took home the championship in the FAME rules Forms event.

Also winning in fighting were Tonya Pierce, Ricky Acosta, Mike Rogers and Mario Roberts. Finishing second in fighting were Jon Rogers, Mike Gaines and Meiko Roberts.

Finishing third in fighting was David Yururetagayerb. Robert Lowe and Jeremy Middleton also competed and did very well.

Coming up this weekend at the Orange County Civic Center is the U.S. Open for martial artists. The event will draw participants from everywhere, including the Bahamas.

Competing for Menefee's Academy will be Kaiser, Pierce, Mario and Meiko Roberts and Yururetagayerb.

Langston Menefee expects big things from the students in the Open.

"We have some of the best Martial Artists in the area and we should have some champions come out of this tournament," said Menefee.

DiTore aims All-Stars at state tourney

By TONY BOGOMMEN
Herald Sports Editor

OVIDEO — Richie DiTore made Rich DiTore proud Thursday night, pitching Oviedo to a 13-2 win over Eglin Air Force Base in the championship game of the Junior All-Star Section I tournament at the Oviedo Little League complex.

Oviedo now advances to the State Tournament next week at Southwest Volusia Little League in Orange City. The Oviedo All-Stars will play at 7:30 p.m. Monday against the Section IV champion.

DiTore the son threw a complete game, striking out eight, giving up three hits and only walking one. He also led the Oviedo offense by going 3 for 4 with a double, two runs scored and two RBI.

That performance helped take the pressure off DiTore the father and manager.

"It was something else," said DiTore the manager. "I'm so proud of Richie. He was in control through the whole game. He stayed within himself and just got the ball over the plate."

"We knew he could get the bat on the ball at the plate. We were worried about him giving up walks. But he came in and threw strikes. He did the job."

And did it exceptionally well. DiTore retired 10 of the first 11 batters he faced. Eglin's first hit came with one out in the fourth. Keesan Amaker's bleeder that found its way past the third baseman and shortstop. After a stolen base and a Oviedo advanced to the Junior All-Star state tourney by beating Eglin Air Force Base.

Balance is Juniors' key to success

By TONY BOGOMMEN

OVIDEO — Every coach would like to have a team of players with nearly equal abilities. That way, you don't have to rely on any one player every game.

Rich DiTore, head coach of the Oviedo Junior All-Stars who claimed the Section I championship with a 13-2 blowout of Eglin Air Force Base on Thursday night, has come closer than any other coach would dare hope.

"That's the great thing about this team," said DiTore on Tuesday night and again Thursday. "All the players have come through at one time or another and have been the hero. And the rest of the players chip in behind him."

Let's you think he's handing you a line straight from The Coach's Cliche Handbook, consider:

● In Monday's win over Eglin, Byron Coffie struck out 13 while pitching a three-hitter.

● On Tuesday, Mike Duncan homered, came up with a key defensive play and struck out the last batter.

● Finally, on Thursday, Richie DiTore (the coach's son) struck out eight in a complete-game pitching performance and led the offense with three hits and two RBI.

During their 9-1 run through All-Star competition (the only blemish was 4-3 loss to the Altamonte Americans in a game where DiTore threw a one-hitter), Oviedo has gotten contributions from the whole roster: Todd Bellhorn, Mike Bergman, Coffie, Aaron Church, DiTore, Duncan, Jason Fore, Brian Lead-off hitter Drew Jackson singled and scored the first run of the game Thursday night as Oviedo knocked off Emerald Coast to force a final, winner-take-all game tonight for the Senior All-Star Section I championship.

Livingston's home run sets up Sr. showdown

From staff reports

DELTONA — The Oviedo All-Stars avenged an earlier loss and forced a winner-take-all game tonight with a 4-3 triumph over Emerald Coast in the Senior All-Star Section I Baseball Tournament at Deltona's Van Park Thursday night.

The final will be tonight at 7 p.m. at Van Park. The winner will advance to the state tournament starting on Monday and the loser will call it a summer.

Oviedo's lone loss in the tournament was a 6-4 setback suffered at the hands of Emerald Coast (from the Panhandle) on Wednesday night. Oviedo fell behind Emerald Coast 4-0 before mounting a comeback that fell short.

Oviedo would have nothing of that on Thursday, however, as they drew first blood.

After Oviedo starting pitcher Scott Hagge retired Emerald Coast in the top of the first inning, Drew Jackson led off the bottom of the inning with a single and stole second. Jamie Jackson reached on an error and Curtis Livingston grounded out to second, the Jacksons moving to second and third. An out later, Andy Hynes drilled a double to left to clear the bases.

Two Oviedo errors allowed Emerald Coast to tie the game in the third. The errors put runners on second and third before Jeff Morris ripped a double to tie the game at 2-2.

Emerald Coast had a golden opportunity to take the lead in the top of the fourth inning when a single and two walks loaded the bases with no one out. Oviedo manager Tommy Thompson removed starting pitcher Hagge in favor of Mike Rugenius, who proceeded to retire the side without allowing a run to score.

The first batter to face Rugenius grounded to Hynes at third, who fired to catcher Jay Busee for the first out. The next batter grounded to Jamie Jackson at shortstop, who also threw home to retire a runner. The next batter flew out to left.

Oviedo took the lead for good in the bottom of the fifth when Jamie Jackson singled and Livingston launched a long home run to right to put Oviedo ahead 4-2.

The game was not over, however, as Emerald Coast mounted a serious challenge in the top of the seventh inning. With one out, Morris walked and stole second base. The next batter flew out to left for the second out of the inning, but Chris Rosnick doubled to left to score Morris.

Rugenius started to show the strain when he balked, allowing Rosnick to advance to third base

McClanahan A's whip Dunbar's to remain undefeated

From staff reports

SANFORD — The McClanahan Law Offices A's continued to roll along undefeated, pounding out 19 hits in a 13-3 shellacking of Dunbar's in Sanford Recreation Department Thursday Night "C" League Slowpitch Softball action at Chase Park.

The A's win, along with a loss by Sanford First Baptist Church, propelled the A's into a commanding two-game lead. First Baptist suffered a 7-5 defeat at the hands of Rhino Systems.

The A's are now 4-0 on the season followed by First Baptist (2-2), Rhino Systems (2-3) and Dunbar's (1-4). Next week's schedule has Rhino Systems taking on the A's at 6:30 p.m. and Dunbar's playing First Baptist at 7:30 p.m.

Rhino Systems opened the night's action by scoring three runs in the top of the first inning. Seven consecutive singles accounted for the runs with Will Bland, Scott Bowersox and Mark Hoffman scoring the runs.

Rhino Systems	230 010 0 - 7 13
First Baptist Church	001 000 0 - 5 17
Dunbar's	201 000 0 - 3 7
McClanahan A's	240 033 0 - 13 19

Rhino Systems doubled its lead in the second inning by adding three more runs. Mark Sullivan, Mike Leininger and Bland all singled to load the bases before Hoffman drilled a double to left to plate the three runs.

First Baptist finally got on the board in the third when Andy Blake walked. Tommy Gracey doubled and Mike Henley singled.

Rhino Systems scored its last run in the top of the fifth when Fowersox singled, went to third on Hoffman's third hit of the game and scored on a ground out by J.R. Johnson.

First Baptist got back into the game in the bottom of the fifth by scoring four runs. Jordan Beckner led off the inning with a walk and Bryan Harris singled. Andy Blake followed with a single and the Rhino Systems defense started throwing the ball around the field. When the smoke had cleared First Baptist had scored two runs and Blake wound up on third.

After an out, Sidney Brock drilled a triple to score Blake. Brock scored and out later on a Tim Palmer single.

First Baptist got the tying runs on base in the sixth but could not push a run across as they lost their second straight game and Rhino Systems won its second straight.

Providing the offense for Rhino Systems were Hoffman (double, two singles, run scored), Bland (three singles, two runs scored), Bowersox (two singles, two runs scored), Leininger (two singles, run scored), Steve Mauey (two singles), Sullivan (single, run scored) and Johnson, Jack Hearne and Steve Gray (one single each).

Pacing the First Baptist attack were Brock (triple, single, run scored), Gracey (double, single), Henley (two singles), Blake (single, two

RMC, Killer Bees, SPBA all in first

From staff reports

SANFORD — The Sanford Recreation Department Wednesday Night "D" League remains in a three-way tie for first place after all the front runners won this past Wednesday night at Chase Park.

RMC Corporation handled the Killer Bees 9-4, the Sanford Police Benevolent Association hammered Harcar Aluminum Products 14-1 and Crazy Wings defeated Waddles B/W Market 11-5.

RMC, SPBA and Crazy Wings are all 5-1 on the season followed by the Killer Bees (2-4), Harcar (1-5) and Waddles (0-6).

Next week, SPBA faces Waddles at 6:30 p.m., Crazy Wings takes on the Killer Bees at 7:30 p.m., and Harcar will do battle with RMC at 8:30 p.m.

RMC opened the night's action by grabbing the momentum early in the contest with the Killer Bees. RMC scored three runs in the top of the first inning and never looked back as it got back on the winning track after last week's loss to SPBA.

Providing the offense for RMC were Mike Damico (home run, two doubles, two runs scored), Dan Gill (double, two singles, two runs scored), Brian Burgess (three singles, three runs scored), James Ledford (three singles, run scored), Tom Tews (single, run scored) and Danny Casey, Rich Covell and Danny Gracey (one single each).

Doing the hitting for the Killer Bees were Eric Erickson (two doubles, run scored), Tim Wilks (two singles), Paul Pratt and Scott Williams (one triple and one run scored each), Sonny Eubanks and Mark Reggentin (one double each), Frank Turner (single, run scored) and Frank Van Pelt and Mike Abels (one single each).

The second game was all SPBA as they scored six runs in the first inning, one run in the second and seven runs in the third before the game was called by the mercy rule.

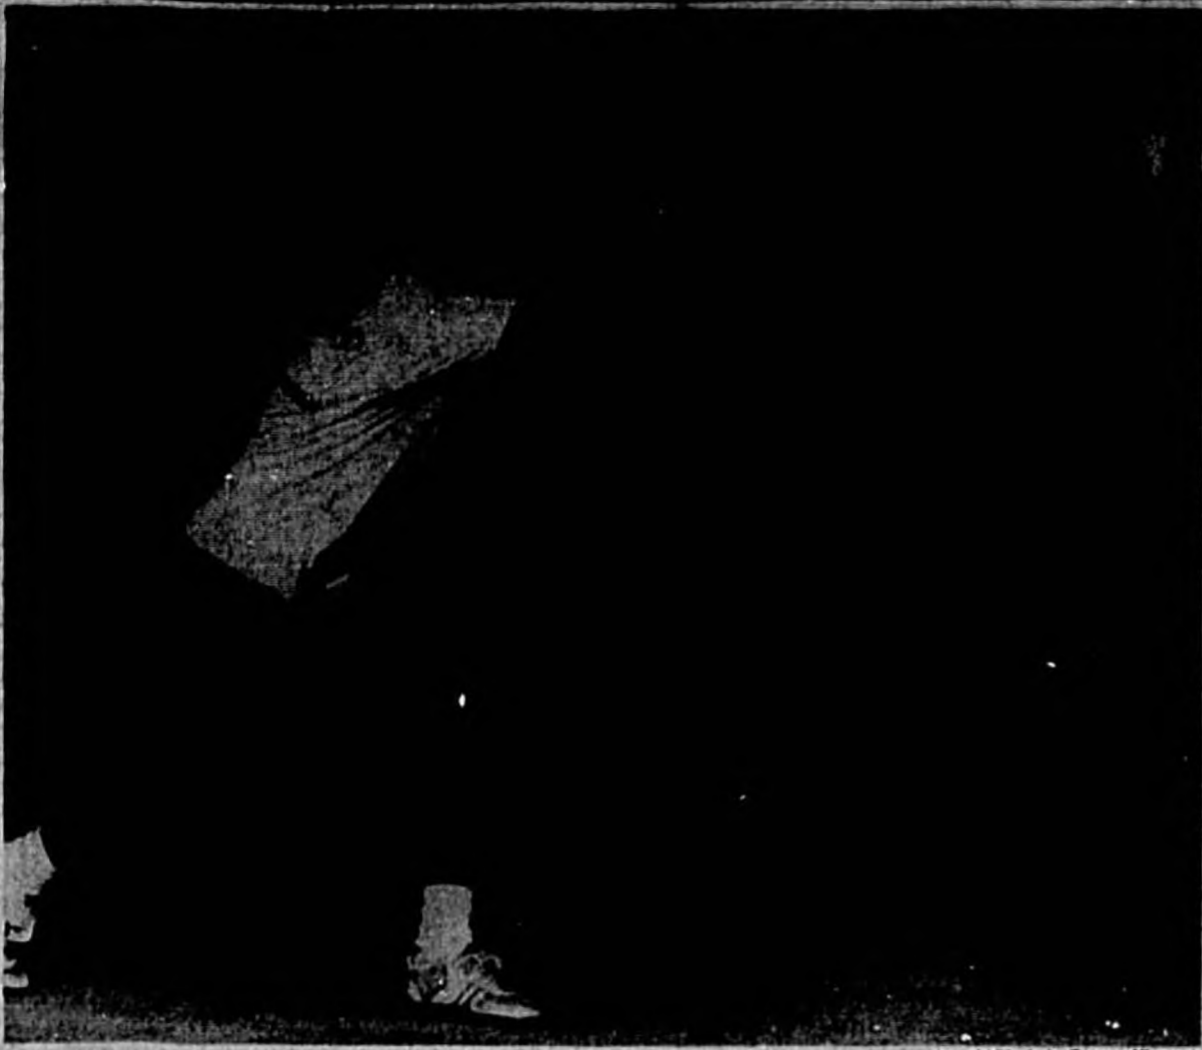

Doing the damage for SPBA were Matt Stewart (triple, single, run scored), Mick Bennett (double, single, two runs scored), Bob Fisher and Randy Smith (one double, one single and one run scored each), David Delrosso (double, three runs scored), Art Barnes and Steve Harriet (one double and one run scored each), Ned Golden (single, two runs scored), Greg Smith (single, run scored) and Mitch Tindel (run scored).

Getting hits for Harcar were Dave Fry, Brian Burke, Jim Arnold and Mark Steffen with one single each. Fry scored the only Harcar run.

Waddles was leading the last game of the evening 5-4 going into the bottom of the fourth inning. But Crazy Wings got its act together and scored two runs in each of the fourth and fifth innings and three runs in the sixth to claim the victory.

Contributing to the 13-hit Crazy Wings attack were Greg Henaley (double, single, two runs scored), Duane Smith, Craig Appel and Russell Holloman (one double, one single and one run scored each), Brian Rogers and Jim Smith (one double and one run scored each), Mick West, Tom Barnes and Jerry Herman (one single and one run scored each) and Mike McLohan (run scored).

Pacing the Waddles offense were Brian Jorjes (home run, double, run scored), Mark Brooks (triple, double, run scored), Tim Waddles (double, single, run scored), Glenn Burgess and Steve Richards (two singles and one run scored each) and Mark Bolan, Ike Moon and Rusty Whittington (one single each).

Balance

King, Nelson Lecour, Brian McMahon, Mark Metcalf, Phillip Moss, Scott Root and Marvin Wilson.

"We have a beautiful balance," said DiTore the coach. "That's what makes this team so special. I can make a substitution at any position any time during the game and not worry about that position being weaker."

"The other teams see us making changes and lick their chops, thinking 'Here come the subs.' But our substitutes are just as good as are starters. Most teams can't say that."

As a matter of fact, DiTore thinks that that couldn't be said of last year's Oviedo Major All-Star team that won the Section I title — a team that consisted mostly of the players on this year's Junior All-Star Sectional champions.

"I think we have a more powerful team than last year's Major League All-Stars," said DiTore, saying that there are some new faces who are contributing as well as some old faces that have improved.

And it's that reason that makes DiTore believe this team is destined to go further than last year's club, which lost its first two games in the state tournament and was eliminated.

"This year's going to be a little different," DiTore said. "The kids aren't awed at being in the state tournament like they were last year. And we won't have to worry about being away from home. We'll be playing in Orange City, but we won't have to stay in hotels. When we're finished with our games, we'll come home and sleep in our own beds."

As a matter of fact, should Oviedo win the state title and advance to the Southeast Regional, it'll still enjoy something of a homefield advantage. This year, the Regional Tournament is being played at Dr. Phillips High School in Orlando. The only time Oviedo would have to travel away from home is for the World Series, which will be played in Taylor, Mich.

According to DiTore, last year's success primed Oviedo for this year's All-Star run. He said they fully expected to go this far and are planning to go even further.

"I felt strongly that we go this far and beyond," said DiTore. "I would have been disappointed if we hadn't gotten this far. Not to take a slap at the other teams, but we knew that our strongest competition through this level was going to come from Altamonte."

Now it's on to the next level.

With father and coach Rich DiTore looking on from the dugout, Richie DiTore limited Eglin Air Force Base to three hits while contributing three hits on offense to help Oviedo claim the Junior All-Star Section I championship and advance to next week's state tournament in Orange City.

Amaker ruined DiTore's shutout when he scored on Jason Friend's line drive single to right.

But by that time, the Oviedo offense had the game well in hand, chasing Amaker (Eglin's starting pitcher) with four runs in the first inning. James Garcia was faring a little better, being touched for two runs in the third inning.

Protecting a 6-1 lead, DiTore kicked into a higher gear, retiring the next eight batters (striking out four) going into the bottom of the seventh frame before an error by the left fielder stopped the streak. Eglin converted the error into its second run when Chris Burke hit an RBI single to right.

At that point, it didn't matter. Oviedo had scored three more times in the top of the sixth and took advantage of a pair of Eglin errors in the top of the seventh to score four more times.

Once again, Oviedo showed remarkable balance offensively as eight different players scored runs, eight batters contributed hits and seven players had an RBI. Oviedo's first seven runs were driven in by seven different hitters.

Leading the attack with DiTore was catcher Brian King, who was 2 for 4 with a two-run double in the sixth inning and a run scored, Mark Metcalf and Brian McMahon were both 2 for 2 with two runs scored. Metcalf also had an RBI. Mike Bergman was 2 for 3 with an RBI and a run scored.

For Eglin, Amaker, Friend and Burke had the only hits while Amaker and Friend scored the only runs. Friend and Burke had the RBI.

with the tying run. Joe Wickliffe tried to give his team the lead, but his long blast to left was hauled in by Hagge and Oviedo had advanced to the final.

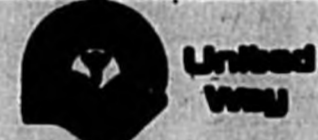

Hagge and Rugentius pitched beautifully as they allowed only four hits. Better help from their defense and the two may have combine on a shutout.

Rugentius pitched exceptionally well in relief despite pitching with a painful lump on his throwing arm after getting hit with a pitch while batting.

Providing the offense for Oviedo were Livingston (home run, run scored, two RBI), Hynes (double, two RBI), Jamie Jackson (single, two runs scored), Drew Jackson (single, run scored) and Hagge, Matt Pipkin and Tim Slavik (one single each).

Pacing the Emerald Coast offense were Morris (double, run scored, two RBI), Rosnick (double) and Todd Davis and David Bennett (one single each).

Weighing the risks of heart surgery

DEAR DR. GOTT: I had cardiac catheterization in 1988 and was advised to have my 90 percent heart blockage repaired by surgery. I cannot bring myself to have the surgery. My problem is further complicated by diabetes and a high cholesterol level. Gynecological problems call for a D&C, yet the heart blockage has me concerned. Can I make it through a D&C, and what type of anesthesia would you recommend? Would you suggest repair of the blockage also?

DEAR READER: Your health problems are complicated, and I would be presumptuous to offer specific advice that is best given by the physicians who know you and have examined you. Your primary problem is almost total blockage of one (or more) of the arteries supplying oxygen to your heart. Surgery might be your best bet. However, depending on the location and extent of the arterial blockage, you might be helped by non-surgical treatment, such as laser therapy (used to burn away the obstruction) or balloon angioplasty (in which a balloon-covered catheter is threaded into the blocked artery; rapid inflation of the balloon will crack and disintegrate the occlusion).

A cardiologist is the best person to advise you. Don't ignore the problem — because non-surgical alternatives may be available to you. Your health is also being affected by diabetes and an elevated cholesterol level. Your doctor will want to address these problems, too, with a low-sugar, low-fat diet and — perhaps — medication. The questions of gynecological surgery and the type of anesthesia are difficult. If such surgery is required, spinal anesthesia, which allows you to be fully awake, is the safest. However, I'll have to leave that decision to the anesthesiologist. Clearly, you need the services of several specialists. To give you more information, I am sending you free copies of my Health Reports "Eating Right For A Healthy Heart," "An Informed Approach To Surgery," "Medical Specialists," and "Diabetes Mellitus."

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

Visitors to South Africa for the annual bridge congress last May had to admire their hosts' lack of timidity in bidding. The South Africans tended to overcall freely, regardless of vulnerability and often on limited high-card values. That style worked against East-West in today's deal. After North had made a negative double, South cue-bid three clubs, intending to next jump to four hearts. That would describe a club control as well as a potential slam-going hand in hearts. However, North, with a long and attractive diamond suit, saw fit to leap to four diamonds. No matter. When South bid four hearts, North remembered the club cue-bid and risked a raise to five hearts. South, of course, went to six.

Without West's overcall, a declarer in six hearts might well attempt to ruff two clubs in dummy. He would be set when East overruled the third club. But West's vulnerable two-club overcall served as a warning. So declarer ruffed only one club and then ran his hearts. His intention was to play several rounds of trumps and then take the diamond finesse. But West read his partner's high-low in clubs as showing four rather than a doubleton. So defender West threw away all his clubs except the queen as declarer played out four rounds of hearts. Even though the diamond queen was outside, declarer now had a safe and certain play for 12 tricks. He played dummy's A-K of diamonds while shedding a spade, came back to his spade ace and gave up a club trick.

tionally act aggressively today, there will be something commanding about your mannerism. Others will find your demeanor worthy of imitation.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Providing for those for whom you feel protective is likely to be your primary concern today. A sense of responsibility won't be your motivation, love will.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) The attribute that will distinguish you from others today is the fact you will be a doer as well as a talker. When you give your word, something will be done. The recipient can take it to the bank.

Lights! Camera! Action!

Florida film industry full of glamour

By JOAN KING
Herald correspondent

SANFORD — During the month of August, the Florida Endowment for the Humanities, a non-profit organization will sponsor a traveling exhibit of film making in Florida.

The exhibit traces the history of Florida's love of movie making by the use of posters, scenes, text and film clips from movies made in Florida since 1906.

Light! Camera! Action! first appeared in Tampa in December 1988 and scheduled a three-year tour of the state. Hosts to the exhibit have been: organizations; museums; newspapers; theaters; libraries; shopping malls, and now Seminole Community College. This exhibit is scheduled to kick off film festivals in Miami, Jacksonville, Fort Lauderdale and Sarasota. Also, the exhibit will appear in art festivals and other events throughout the state.

Florida's film making industry today is a $200 million dollar yearly venture and ranks third in the nation. California and New York rank first and second for movie productions. However, with MCA's Universal Studios and Disney's MGM films, Florida is increasingly in the limelight. It would be conjecture to assume Florida's future standing in the film industry.

Florida's film making was successful in the early 1900's but soon faded due to an apathetic public. History records the decline of the state's film industry as faltering support which dwindled even further after

The history of movie making in Florida, on display at SCC.

World War I.

The state's first film making took place in Tampa where Spanish-American War documentaries were shot in 1898.

By the turn of the century, out-of-state movie makers were lured to Florida by its exotic attractiveness, months of appealing weather for shooting and access by rail to northeastern laboratories for film developing. Movie makers were encouraged by civic leaders to take advantage of low cost labor, land and dwellings. That appealing attraction is more evident today in Florida than in California or New York.

Jacksonville was a favorite studio locale where Kalem Studios was founded in 1908 as a forerunner to others. Kalem produced "A Florida Feud: Or, Love in the Everglades" in 1909.

The Lubin Studios (Independent producers) produced 3,000 feet of film weekly during their eight months shooting season. Between 1914 and 1917 over 100 production companies shot films in Florida.

Probably one of the most famous personalities to emerge from Jacksonville movie making was Oliver "Babe" Hardy of the Laurel and Hardy fame. Hardy developed his comedy style in the 1916 series of "Plump and Runt" films.

History in the film industry was made in 1917 in Jacksonville where the first technicolor film was shot and developed.

A half century after the technicolor breakthrough and the absolute loss of an infant industry, the Sunshine State awakened its sleeping giant. By the 60's television production actively moved into Miami with "Surfside Six," "Flipper," and the "Jackie Gleason Show." For the next twenty years the state continually hosted television and film productions for major and minor films, video and commercials. One of NBC's greatest achievements, "Miami Vice," blitzed TV screens across the nation in 1984 and became more popular as it ran weekly.

Florida is rapidly becoming a film mecca with glamour, glitter and gold lining our streets. The industry offers Florida a brilliant future and the state presents the industry with talent, lush tropical scenery, tourism, a willing labor force and sound economics with improved infrastructure.

The days of yore in Florida movie making are well documented and may be seen at SCC during the entire month of August and is free to the public. For information call 323-1450, extension 438.

History comes alive at pioneer settlement

Step into the past and fill your day with a tour of the Pioneer Settlement for the Creative Arts in Barberville, where spinning, weaving, quilting, rope and candle making will be demonstrated, topped off with an old-fashioned, home cooked luncheon on July 31. The event is sponsored by the Seminole County Historical Society.

Fare for the chartered bus, to leave at 10 a.m. from the historical museum, is included in the $20 fee which also covers the meal and tour of the museum.

Featured on the luncheon menu are: herbed chicken breast, potatoes, fresh vegetable, salad, iced tea and a homemade dessert. Some of the greens and vegetables will be taken fresh from the settlement garden.

The old Central High School at Barberville houses a historical folk museum in which the visitor gets a feeling of stepping back in time as tools and crafts of our past are displayed and demonstrated.

Structures of local historical significance are located on the museum grounds where the staff also raises some livestock. Marking the entrance of the settlement is a bridgehouse which was moved from the St. John's River at Astar. It currently houses the caretaker, a commissary store from a turpentine company, a caboose, the soon-to-be renovated Pierson Railroad Depot, post beam barn constructed from wood milled on the premises, a replica of a 1900's blacksmith shop and an operating turpentine still.

To make reservations send check with name, address and phone number to: Seminole County Historical Society, 300 Bush Boulevard, Sanford, 32773, or phone 321-2489.

Solo flight to airport planned

DEAR ABBY: I need some advice. My husband is stationed in England with the U.S. Air Force, and he's coming home for a 30-day leave next month. My problem is that his parents want to go to the airport to meet him, and I would prefer they didn't because I'd like to have him all to myself when he arrives. Besides, he's coming in at 11 p.m. on a weeknight, and his parents have to go to work the next morning. Anyway, I don't know how to tell them that I would rather meet my husband alone.

He hasn't been home in 13 months, but I flew to England to see him last November — so I've seen him more recently than his parents have. But he is my husband and we've been married only four years. My parents are not going to the airport.

I'm not sure how to handle this. What would you do, Abby?

UNDECIDED: I would say absolutely nothing to his parents to discourage their meeting him at the airport. As you know, a man can have more than one wife in a lifetime, but he will never have more than one set of parents. So put your nose back in joint, grow up, and don't make an issue out of who or how many people meet your husband at the airport.

DEAR ABBY: I am an attorney. Last night I received a telephone call from one of my clients, and his story might prevent many similar situations if it's shared with your readers.

Before leaving the United States, he took his prescription medications out of their original pharmacy containers and placed them in a moisture-proof pill box. While out of the country, he purchased some over-the-counter pain pills which, had they been purchased in the U.S., would have required a prescription.

ADVICE

ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

When he re-entered the United States, all of his medications were on top of his clothing in his suitcase. He is presently in custody in the Dalias County Jail, where he has been held for two days of "importation of controlled substances" — a felony!

Hopefully, he will be granted bail today, and possibly the court will eventually dismiss the charges on a showing of the facts — but it is not certain.

Abby, advise readers who travel abroad never to remove prescription drugs from their original containers, because some that may be over-the-counter medicines in a foreign country may be considered controlled substances in the United States.

If a medication is purchased in another country — even something as seemingly innocuous as a cough medicine (which may contain a narcotic) — do not assume that it can be brought into the United States.

Whatever the outcome for my client, he has learned a costly lesson he will never forget.

SAN FRANCISCO ATTORNEY
DEAR ATTORNEY: Thank you for bringing this valuable information to the attention of my readers. You may have prevented countless headaches.

FINDING YOURSELF

Do you ever feel like just giving up and running away... driving faster and faster, mile after mile, with no destination? Do you think that if you flee far enough and fast enough from everyone and everything, you will feel better? Unfortunately, this is fruitless, because you can never run away from yourself, no matter how far or how fast you run.

In this "life in the fast lane," there is so much turmoil. We read each day of domestic disputes, crime, and corruption. It is enough to make you want to run and hide, but you do not have to do that.

Instead, try to find yourself again. God is waiting to help you discover a new self. You will find Him to be an ever present source of comfort, protection, and ever present love.

Visit your church or synagogue this week. God will help you find yourself again. You will like what you discover.

Hound of heaven in pursuit of prey

By REV. RICHARD G. DANIELAK

In an enduring work of literature, "The Hound of Heaven," Francis Thompson presents a classical image of God. He portrays God, the ever-constant, ever-faithful lover, as a hound, A pursuing, near-to-be-deterred hound, unwavering in the pursuit of its prey. Thompson's intent is to fix the reader's mind upon the breadth and width of God's love, to respond to that supposedly forbidden and who either tries to flee from God or who wonders about the depth of God's love. What Thompson presents is a pairing of a pursuing lover (God) and a pursued beloved, fleeing for what could be any number of reasons. Thompson writes these immortal words, "I fled Him, down the nights and down the days; I fled Him, down the arches of the years; I fled Him, down the labyrinthine ways of my own mind; and in the mist of tears I hid from Him, and under running laughter... From those strong feet that followed, followed after. But with unhurrying chase and unperturbed pace... They beat — and a voice beat more instant than the feet — "All things betray thee, who betrayest me."

Thompson's imagery of a loving and pursuing God is strikingly faithful to the pages of scripture. His picture of Christ is accentuated by the parable of the Prodigal Son and again by the words of Jesus in response to the limits of our forgiveness. "Lord...how many times do I have to forgive my brother? Seven times?" The Master's reply, "Not seven times, seventy times seven." (Matthew 18:21-22). It is reinforced by the words of Isaiah 49:16, "I have written your names

'God of Israel will 'hound' us as He will our children who chose not to walk the path pointed out to them.'

—Rev. Richard G. Danielak

upon the palms of my hands."

The heart of "The Hound of Heaven" throbs loudly and consistently over one word especially, "covenant," and over one divine truth, fidelity to that covenant. Imagine! God entering covenant with those he placed on earth, bonded to them forever and ever, regardless of eventualities or changes.

As a matter of fact, the words of Francis Thompson even reach out, as do the words of Jesus Christ, to you and me. They tell us that the God of Israel will "hound" us as He will hound our children who for whatever reason chose not to walk the path pointed out to them. They may try to shake Him off or they may try to lose him. Yes, they may even try to belittle the Christ whom you have striven to share with them. But what both Thompson and the inspired authors, from Genesis to Revelation, are saying is that our God will walk (even run) with the same dogged clipity clop of a pursuing hound, never to be more than a silent pant away.

Then too, God will also hound us. For example, hasn't it happened that sometimes you find yourself wondering about His presence in your personal life? Try as you may to live a good life, yet everything seems to be falling apart. You try to be a good disciple, yet the burdens of life seem to be unending and getting heavier all the time. In desperation you cry to the one you have so lovingly called "Father, where are you? Why have you distanced yourself from me?" or perhaps you become overwhelmed by an awareness of the ugliness of what you may or may not have done and you wonder if God will resume his stride at your side. You ask, "How can he forgive me still another time?" Questions we have asked over and over.

The reply of God, is eloquent, both in Francis Thompson's words, "Know thee not) Lo, all things fly thee, for thou fleest me," and in Isaiah 49:15, "Even if a mother should forget her child, I will never forget you." Truly, our God is a faithful God, true to the covenant that we have so often cast aside. We may choose at times to run away from his watchful and caring eye or to hide in the deepest recesses of sin or we may be so steeped in difficulty that we lose sight of him. But what Francis Thompson and the Bible tell us is that our God is a faithful God, that He has given us a Son who has given up his life, holding nothing back. What greater sign of fidelity could we possibly hope for?

Just as the piercing eyes of a faithful hound, peering into the depths of its master's soul, God's eyes rest upon us each moment of each day. There is no need of words. The message is written in the eyes. "I love you and I will always be walking, even running at your side and, if I must, I will even pursue you as a faithful hound. You ask my name. I have been called Yahweh. Yet by others, Elohim and Shaddai. But for this moment my name is Faithful, for I am the "Hound of Heaven."

Rev. G. Richard Danielak, is pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Sanford, 301 S. Oak Ave.

Public invited to pre-tour performance

By KELLEY MITCHELL
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Promisae, the youth choir of First Baptist Church, Sanford, will leave Sanford Aug. 4 for an eight day tour of Florida, Georgia, Alabama, and Tennessee.

The 45-plus-member group will perform "People Need The Lord" at Music Memphis in Memphis, Tenn., Six Flags Over Georgia, as a guest star program, and a number of Baptist churches throughout the states.

A bon voyage performance will be performed at the First Baptist Church, Sanford, on Sunday at the 10:30 a.m. service. The public is invited to attend.

"The ministry is to encourage youth programs," said Sidney Brock, minister of youth and music for the First Baptist Church, "not necessarily in just the Baptist church but in all denominations."

Andy Blake, a senior at Seminole High School and member of Promisae, said, "I am looking forward to the ministry aspect of the trip. The idea of the whole choir singing praises to the Lord to a lot of people is exciting."

Kim Fosaelius, a junior at Seminole High School, feels the closeness of the group. "Whenever someone is down, we try to get them to open up. It's just like one big happy family, we help each other," she said.

Promisae stood for picture across from First Baptist Church.

Amy Pagden, an 8th grader at Sanford Middle School, agrees with Kim. "I enjoy the people and the way we work together to make a better youth choir," she said.

Andy said, "Before each performance Sidney gives the choir the opportunity to share everything that is bothering us. His motto is 'God can't use you to the full extent if you have something else on your mind. You must be a clean vessel.'"

Seminole Community College sophomore Kerry Fosaelius' favorite part of the program is when the testimonies are given. "Near the end of the program, testimonies are given by not only pastors and members of the choir, but the audience is also encouraged to come forward to share their experiences."

After spending the entire week singing praises to the Lord and ministering to hundreds of people, the last stop for the musical group will be Six Flags Over Georgia in Atlanta. Following their performance, they will spend a day having a good time at the park before heading back to Sanford.
