Seminole DUI Arrests Lag Behind Other Counties

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Although the Florida Highway Patrol says drunk driving arrests in Central Florida are up 38 percent from July through September over the same period last year, DUI arrests in Seminole County are up only by about five percent.

Since a statewide crackdown on people who drive vehicles while intoxicated began with the implementation of one of the nation's toughest drunk driving laws July 1, 331 people have been arrested in Seminole County on charges of driving under the influence (DUI) of alcoholic beverages or drugs, sheriff's department records show.

Deputies arrested 316 people on DUI charges during the period July 1 through Oct. 30 in 1981. This year, the number is up to just 331 DUI arrests.

Meanwhile, troopers say 433 people were arrested in Central Florida, including Seminole, Brevard, Lake, Orange, Osceola and Volusia counties, on DUI charges from July through September this year as opposed to 313 arrests for the same time period last year.

Troopers said that the crackdown on drunk drivers has also substantially decreased the number of traffic-related deaths in the state.

"I feel the highway patrol's statistics are higher on the number of arrests because of the heavy concentration they've put on drunken drivers," said sheriff's Sgt. Rocky Ford who

'We concentrate on the drunk drivers also but not as much as when the new law first came out.' —Sgt. Rocky Ford heads the department's special DUI task force.

"We concentrate on the drunk drivers also but not as much as when the new law first came out," he said. "Now that people appear to be more aware of the law and the penalties for breaking it, I really believe it's reducing the number of DUI arrests. People are being more careful."

Ford said that his officers are now concentrating more on making "traffic arrests which, often times, results in a DUI charge, too.

"We are also finding that when we stop someone on suspicion of driving with a suspended or revoked driver's license, that person may be DUI then or not have a license because he or she was caught DUI previously," Ford said.

Ford says there are "prime times" that one would expect to find more drunk drivers on the road, including the hours just after bars close for the evening and on weekends. He said his deputies are aware of that and watch "for weaving cars and other signs of a drunk driver but many times now, we're finding the person is just sleepy. They appear to be more aware of the law and aren't drinking quite as much or they just aren't driving in that condition as often.

"I really feel the new law with its stiff penalties for first, second and third-time offenders is working to lower the DUI arrests which, in turn, maybe lowered the traffic-related death count," Ford adds. "The offenders are being penalized."

Florida's new drunk driving law, implemented July 1, stiffened the penalty for the offense providing for $250 fines and 50 hours of community service to be required of first offenders. Habitual offenders face mandatory jail terms and increased fines.

Polk Renews The Fight For New Crime Lab

While downtown Orlando may be favored by some as a site for the proposed new $3.2 million Central Florida Crime Lab, Seminole County Sheriff John Polk is going to Tallahassee this weekend to try to persuade state officials a Lake Mary site would be better.

Polk said he will meet with Bob Dempsey, the new commissioner of the Florida Department of Law Enforcement, Monday to state his case.

"The big contention has been that so many cases for the crime laboratory come out of the Orlando Police Department and the Orange County Sheriff's Office and that those cases translate into court time there," Polk said Friday.

But only those two law enforcement agencies want the lab in Orlando and they represent just 21.28 percent of the laboratory's case load, he said.

Meanwhile, Polk noted, Alachua, Lake, Marion, Volusia, Seminole and Brevard counties make up 47.17 percent of the laboratory's case work and 40.56 of its court time and they all want it in Lake Mary.

Polk added that all other law enforcement agencies in Orange County, including Winter Park and Maitland and law enforcement in Osceola also want the laboratory in Lake Mary.

Lake Mary has offered to lease to the state at $1 per year for 99 years at least two acres, more if needed, of a 10-acre, city-owned site on Rinehart Road for the new facility.

"The issue was discussed by the Central Florida Criminal Justice Association which has members from Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties. All the law enforcement from the three counties except Orlando and the Orange County Sheriff's Department approved a resolution to the governor endorsing the Lake Mary site," Polk said.

Accompanying Polk to Tallahassee will be Maitland Police Chief John Irwin, chairman of the Central Florida law enforcement organization.

Even more important than the location, Polk said, is that "we get a new crime lab with additional space and more people to work in it. The location is secondary," he said.

Polk said he expects a firm decision to be made in the next week.

More than half the employees of the current lab at the Sanford Airport petitioned Gov. Bob Graham and the Cabinet several months ago to designate the Lake Mary site for the new facility.

Fearing the new laboratory "may be used as a political pawn," the employees cited the high crime rate in downtown Orlando as a major reason for their refusal to support that site.

The petition also pointed to the traffic congestion and high accident-rate in Orlando as very serious problems.

Games Begin Monday

By JANE CASSELBERRY

More than 2,000 gung-ho senior citizens are expected to go for the gold this week as they descend on Sanford for the Eighth Annual Golden Age Games.

Men and women 55 and over will participate in more than 40 events during the Games which open Monday morning and run through Saturday.

Last year, some 1,400 persons entered an average of 3½ events during the games. Approximately 1,200 advanced entries had been received as of Friday from several states and Puerto Rico.

An "anything goes" Falling Arches Stampede parade will launch the week's activities with Helen and Sam Kaminsky of Sanford as grand marshals. Everyone is invited to enter anything they can ride, push, or pull, or just hoof it. The parade will form at 8:15 a.m. Monday at the corner of Park Avenue and Fifth Street, moving out at 8:30 a.m. north on Park to the Sanford

Women Are Taking Over Seminole Politics

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

Women are taking over in Seminole County. But residents don't have to fear that ribbons will dot the street lights in their communities or that the newest fad will be pink police cars.

And parents of public school students should know that wet-and-dries won't be passed out in the classroom several times a day to make sure the kiddies' hands are clean.

But the face of local government has changed since women have become the majority on the Seminole County School Board, the Winter Springs City Commission and the Oviedo City Council.

It's a first for these particular branches of government.

Several years ago in Lake Mary, there were two women council members and a woman mayor. And Pat Southward was recently appointed to the Council.

On the Seminole County Commission, there are currently two women commissioners—Sandra Glenn and Barbara Christensen.

On the Longwood City Commission there is June Lormann who was elected mayor by her colleagues. There have been two other women on the Longwood Commission over the years.

In Altamonte Springs Chaney Colorado serves as a commissioner and there have been women on that commission on and off for 40 years.

In Casselberry, women have served in the past and a woman is running for the City Council this year.

Only Sanford among Seminole county communities has never had a woman serve on its governing body. But one Patricia "Pat" Baxley is trying to do something about that. She's a candidate for the Sanford City Commission.

But why are more women being elected in Seminole County today than in years past?

Pamela Pellarin, who was elected to the Oviedo City Council in September, thinks she has the answer.

"I would prefer that my husband do the job," said Mrs. Pellarin, a 33-year-old, full-time homemaker and mother.

"My husband is a dentist and works very hard during the day. At night he's on continuing education things. In one-income households with the bad economic times, men are working harder at their jobs or working two jobs and they don't have time for community volunteer work," she said.

Mrs. Pellarin said being a member of the Oviedo council is a volunteer effort, adding the city pays $50 a month for the job and she spends that amount just to take the children out to dinner on meeting nights.

She has a daughter, Sunny, 9, and a son R.D., 12, who are students at T.W. Lawton and Jackson Heights Middle School, respectively.

Mrs. Pellarin said full-time homemakers today have more time with labor-saving devices in the home, are better educated and

Lake Mary High School dance teacher Connie Mosure gets set to put her students through their paces. The mirror that runs along one wall of the practice hall makes it easier for teacher and students to study dance movements. It also means Ms. Mosure doesn't need eyes in the back of her head to watch the class.

Only Dance Class In Seminole Schools

Hoofing At Lake Mary High

By MICHEAL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

Fame! I'm gonna live forever; I'm gonna learn how to fly; I'm gonna make it to heaven; People will see me and cry.

For students at the New York High School of Performing Arts the setting for the television show "Fame," the bright lights are what they're after. That pie in the sky, once in a lifetime change to make it to the top. To be a star.

For students at Lake Mary High School the goals aren't nearly as high but the enthusiasm for the dance is just as strong.

Dance teacher Connie Mosure strives to "give them something they can take with them."

"My objective is to make it so they are able to carry this into the future, so they can stay fit, so they can take a dance class when they're 30 if they want to."

Ms. Mosure teaches the only dance classes offered in the Seminole County school system. She is busy teaching the basics of ballet, modern, jazz and aerobics for five classes each day.

Like Lake Mary High School, the dance program — the only one offered by the Seminole County School District — is in its second year.

Her students are ninth, 10th and 11th graders who have chosen dancing as a physical education elective.

The 170 girls in her classes are of varying physical abilities. Some of the girls are very good and have aspirations of taking other dance classes in the future. Others go through the motions, unable to do everything they're asked to do but trying their best anyway.

Ms. Mosure circulates through the class, imploring her students to do better, to try harder, to put their movements together.

The mirror reflects the smile of one girl in the front row, the grimace of a girl on the side of the room, the boredom of one in the back.

But there is a conspicuous absence of boys in the room, a situation Ms. Mosure hopes to change.

"I've been talking to a few of them about joining," she said. "I think one boy is going to take dancing next semester. All it will take is a few of the more popular boys to join. Then we won't have any problem."

The absence of boys causes problems when the dance team performs. Last year, she recruited members of the football team to help in the show.

But she's not complaining about the lack of boys in her class. That problem will work itself out.

For now, she's busy teaching the girls to dance.

Thompson Wins Governorship, Stevenson Won't Give Up

CHICAGO (UPI) — Republican Gov. James R. Thompson, the winner in one of the closest governor's races in modern Illinois history, says he now will concentrate on making sure the victory is not stolen from him.

But his opponent, former Sen. Adlai E. Stevenson III, refused to concede and said the official totals to be presented Nov. 22 will show him the winner.

Final — but unofficial — totals were completed Friday, showing Thompson ahead by 9,401 votes out of more than 3.6 million ballots cast, a margin of less than 0.3 percent. Election officials cautioned the figures would change at least slightly.

Thompson said his task now is to make sure if the figures do change, they do so for honest reasons. He said he had a team of lawyers watching the canvass to make sure the county is fair.

New Jobs Bills Pushes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — With unemployment at 10.4 percent, Democratic leaders and organized labor chiefs do not plan to wait until the newly-elected Congress is sworn in to press for new legislation to create jobs.

Leaders of both groups made clear Friday, within hours of the Labor Department's announcement of the October jobless figure, they expect action in the lame-duck session that begins Nov. 29.

AFI-CIO President Lane Kirkland called on the lame-duck session of Congress to enact legislation to stimulate the housing industry and rebuild highways, bridges, sewers and public transport.

Brady Returns To Work

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Presidential press secretary James Brady who was gravely wounded in the assassination attempt on President Reagan, is returning to work at the White House on a limited basis.

"It's a 20th-century miracle," said one aide after Brady spent 2 1/2 hours at the White House Friday for the first time since he was shot in the head 19 months ago.

The 41-year-old press secretary displayed a quickness of mind and awareness that amazed his colleagues. He worked in the press secretary's office for a couple of hours, dictated letters and conferred with other staffers.

Tylenol Suspect Lived In Orange

ORLANDO, (UPI)—A man sought nationwide for questioning in the Tylenol-cyanide deaths once threatened to kill an Orange County deputy sheriff and sent threats to former President Jimmy Carter, authorities said.

Orange County Deputy Sheriff Sandy Carpenter said Friday that Kevin J. Masterson, 35, threatened him at an Albertsons Store in 1981. At the time, Carpenter worked at the store and detained Masterson for suspicion of shoplifting.

Masterson became belligerent and began undressing in the store after Carpenter and two other store employees failed to find any stolen merchandise in his possession, the deputy said.

"He lifted up his shirt and said 'Search me. Touch me. Put your hands on me. Let me have more to sue you for,'" Carpenter said.

Masterson later returned to the store, took down his name and car license plate number, and threatened to vandalize the car and kill Carpenter, the deputy said.

"I'll get you. If I have to kill you, I'll get you," Carpenter said, quoting Masterson. "I left my car in the drive way for a week and drove my father's car to work," Carpenter said.

Masterson lived for about a year in a house he bought in Orlo Vista west of Orlando before he sold it in the summer of 1981. A police bulletin issued this week by Chicago investigators described Masterson as a possibly dangerous man who had a grudge against Jewel Food Stores. Two Jewel Stores sold cyanide-laced Tylenol capsules to Chicago residents, killing them.

Authorities said that no warrant had been issued for Masterson's arrest and that they just want to talk to him.

Unidentified police sources also told the Orlando Sentinel in a story published today that authorities in Orlando kept Masterson under surveillance after he allegedly made threatening statements in 1977 against then President Carter and other public officials.

Secret Service spokesmen in Orlando and Washington declined to comment on the report.

One of Masterson's friends in Illinois told the Sentinel that Masterson often sent threatening letters to government officials and one letter led to a Secret Service investigation.

"Kevin is an extremely vengeful person. He would hunt me if he knew I was telling you this," said the man, who asked not to be identified.

Another deputy sheriff also said Friday he was threatened by Masterson when he refused to pursue a report of vandalism to the man's car.

Book Details Life Of Sanford's Founder

A biography of one of the Civil War's most important diplomats—and the founder of Sanford—has been released.

The book, "Henry S. Sanford: Diplomacy and Business in Nineteenth-Century America," was written by University of Nevada-Las Vegas history professor Joseph A. Fry and was released by the University of Nevada Press.

The book is the first comprehensive study of Sanford's diverse career, according to Fry. Sanford served as charge d'affaires of the American legation in Paris during the 1850s and then became the United States' minister to Belgium during the Civil War.

He was actively involved in the surveillance of Confederate activity in Europe, the preclusive buying of war material and the dissemination of Union propaganda. Collectively, these endeavors made him one of the Union's most valuable diplomatic officials.

After the Civil War, Sanford also pursued several "New South" business ventures. His most notable contributions were the founding of Sanford, and the establishing of Belair, a 145-acre citrus grove. These accomplishments earned him the title of "founder" of the modern citrus industry.

The Sanford biography is No. 16 in the History and Political Science Series and can be purchased for $9.25 from the University of Nevada Press in Reno.

WEATHER

NATIONAL REPORT: A wintry storm blasted the Great Lakes, dumping an inch of snow an hour along eastern Lake Erie and hitting Buffalo, N.Y., with more than 6 inches that glazed roads and caused scores of fender-bender accidents. Ten inches of snow buried Cadillac, Mich., and highway crews scrambled to salt roads. Temperatures plunged into the 20s over northwest Florida. The 39 reported Friday at Apalachicola, Fla., broke the 1967 record of 40 and Jackson, Miss., set a bitterly cold mark at 25. Heavy rains swelled streams in the Northeast, basking in another day of Indian summer Friday. Warnings for more heavy snow were posted throughout the Great Lakes, where the first storm of the season refused to quit. Persistent lake-effect snow squalls caused hazardous driving conditions and left up to 6 inches of snow in the Buffalo area Friday and a steady snowfall socked the Erie area with about 6 inches. A winter storm warning was posted for the Buffalo area as the squalls developed off the shore of Lake Erie. The towns of Hamburg and Orchard Park were among the hardest hit, with over a half foot of snow reported. Strong westerly winds whipped blowing snow, making travel nearly impossible. Light snow lingered over eastern Minnesota and western Wisconsin and travelers' advisories were posted for the eastern half of Lower Michigan. Elsewhere, rain dotted the North Pacific Coast and rain and snow hit the Northern Rockies. Heavy snow and gusty winds were forecast for the Cascade Mountains of Washington.

Osteen Man Critical After Auto Crash

A 21-year-old Osteen man is in critical condition today following a two-car crash on County Road 427 south of Sanford Thursday night.

Michael S. Hewitt is in the intensive care unit at Florida Hospital in Orlando following the wreck which also injured Teresa Smolke, 22, of 650 Wren Drive, Casselberry. Miss Smolke was treated and released from the hospital, according to the Florida Highway Patrol.

Troopers said the 1978 Toyota Hewitt was driving west out of control as he was driving eastbound on C.R. 427 near County Home Road. The vehicle began to spin and was struck broadside by Miss Smolke's 1978 Chevrolet.

Troopers said charges are pending in the accident which is still under investigation.

GUNS, TOOLS TAKEN
Sandy Price, 304 Cypress Landing Drive, Longwood, told sheriff's deputies that tools and guns were stolen from her garage Wednesday evening.

Ms. Price said the tools and three hand guns, valued at $1,170, were taken when a side door to the garage was opened.

CAR STOLEN
Ken Sullivan, operator of Sullivan's Auto Ranch in Longwood, told deputies that a 1972 Lincoln Marx V was taken from the car lot Thursday night.

He said a concrete block was thrown through the window of another vehicle on the lot. Sullivan said the stolen car and the damage to the other vehicle totaled $1,895.

CARD STOLEN
Kimberly King, 1410 Windsor Ave., Longwood, told deputies her VISA card had been stolen and $1,815 worth of goods had been charged to her account.

Miss King said she had not signed the card since receiving it Oct. 10. She recently discovered the card was missing and when she called her bank to see if she could get a new one, was notified of the charges.

SUEDE JACKETS SWIPED
Five suede jackets, valued at about $1,164, were stolen from a Longwood store between noon and 1:49 p.m. Wednesday.

School Roofs Suit Settled For $325,000

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

A $325,000 settlement for damages caused by leaky roofs at six schools has been accepted by the Seminole County School Board.

School board members filed a $4 million suit in 1977 against Sanford architect Eoghan Kelley and several other parties for damages to the schools caused by leaky roofs.

Kelley designed the six schools — Idyllwild and Forest City elementary schools, Teague and Tusawilla Middle Schools and Lake Brantley and Lake Howell High Schools — that were named in the 1977 suit.

Kelley also designed six other schools that have since had their roofs replaced.

The replacement of the roofs on the 12 buildings cost the school board about $4 million.

The board suit claimed that Kelley's design was responsible for the leaks developing. The buildings had built-up roofs which developed cracks and fissures.

School Board Attorney Ned Julian Jr. said Kelley "essentially has no assets." Because of the lack of assets, Kelley told board members that to continue the suit would be fruitless.

"Recovery is limited to whatever insurance he had," Julian said.

Julian said the board could continue to contest the case in court but the costs of the action would far outweigh the return.

Of the $325,000 settlement, Julian said about $40,000 to $50,000 have been spent on legal fees and court costs.

School Board members have been ordered by Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mixe not to discuss for 30 days the percentage breakdown of the settlement with Kelley and the other parties.

Julian said the order was issued because of other suits which are pending against Kelley.

Barbara Jean Zander, 36, of 1017 W. Tulane Ave., told deputies that she believes two men and a woman with foreign accents stole the jackets from her store, Barbara Zander's in the Longwood Village, at 1851 State Road 434, Longwood.

Ms. Zander told deputies that although she didn't actually see the trio take the jackets, the clothing was discovered missing shortly after the three left the store.

PURSE WITH CASH MISSING
A Longwood woman told deputies she either lost her purse while putting groceries into her vehicle or the pocketbook containing $500 cash and personal papers was stolen.

Dottie D. Harris, 58, of 110 Beaufort Drive, told deputies that she had been grocery shopping at about 7:50 p.m. Monday and that after she returned home, she discovered her purse was missing.

Ms. Harris told deputies she did not know if she lost the purse while putting groceries into her vehicle or if several youths, who were in the store parking lot at the time, stole the purse and cash from her shopping cart.

SOUTH SEMINOLE MAN ATTACKED
A south Seminole County man told deputies he was attacked by three men outside the Cumberland Food store at U.S. 17-82 in Fern Park at about 9 p.m. Tuesday.

Thomas S. Davis, 26, of 636 Woodley Road in Maitland told deputies he had left the store when the men approached him and asked for a cigarette. When he told them he didn't have a cigarette, the man knocked him down, kicked, punched and cut him with a knife, deputies said.

COUNTY ORDINANCE VIOLATION CHARGED
A Maitland woman has been charged with violating a county ordinance which provides that no one can sell, barter, exchange or in any manner deal in alcoholic beverages between 7 and 7 a.m.

Eileen Jemison, 41, was issued a court summons at about 3:30 a.m. Saturday after deputies and state Division of Alcoholic Beverages and Tobacco agents observed a man go into Charlie's Bar, Lake Howell Road and Howell Branch Road, at about 3:30 a.m. and leave with a six-pack of beer.

Deputies charged Ms. Jemison, a barmaid, with selling the beer to the man.

HOME BURGLARIZED, VANDALIZED
Someone broke into a Sanford man's home between 7 p.m. Tuesday and 1:30 p.m. Wednesday and stole $300 worth of Christmas decorations and caused about $1,200 worth of damage.

Creed Conley, of 1320 Forest Drive, told police the culprits entered his home after breaking the glass out of a patio door.

GROCERY STORE ROBBED
Someone broke into a Sanford grocery store between 8 and 9:30 p.m. Tuesday and stole a microwave oven and an adding machine.

Police said the thieves entered Ritchey's Grocery store, 620 Cypress Ave., through a hole in the store which had been caused previously by a fire. Police said the culprits pushed a compressor away from the hole, crawled in and stole the items valued at about $500.

IN BRIEF

Cuban Officials Indicted In Drug Smuggling Ring

MIAMI (UPI)—Four high-ranking Cuban officials, including the head of the navy and the ambassador to Colombia, were indicted with 10 others in a multi-million dollar smuggling operation that used Cuba as a loading station to get drugs into the United States.

U.S. Attorney Stanley Marcus, in announcing the indictments Friday, said the drugs were shipped from Colombia to Cuba, loaded onto ships there and sent to the United States. From 1979 to 1981, 5 million methaqualone tablets and "multi-thousand pounds" of marijuana were shipped through Cuba, he said.

The indictment accused the current head of the Cuban navy, while a vice admiral, of supplying and protecting smugglers' ships that carried quaaludes and marijuana to the United States. Marcus would not comment on whether Premier Fidel Castro or other officials of the Cuban government knew about the operation.

He said it would be impossible to prosecute the Cubans because the United States does not have diplomatic relations with the Castro regime.

Welfare Fraud Plummet

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The incidence of fraud in Florida's food stamps and welfare programs has dropped sharply in the past decade, according to a new state report prepared by the Office of the Auditor General.

The report, which was released Friday, said the fraud rate in state welfare cases has dropped from 25.1 percent 10 years ago to only 5.7 percent in the 12-month period that ended June 30.

The drop is attributed in part to a special division of the auditor general's office created by the Legislature 10 years ago to ferret out welfare abuse. During that time it has referred cases involving about $19.8 million to prosecutors. The report also cites a greater rate of prosecution and tightened screening procedures in the eligibility process for the decline.

Lebanese Troops Flex Muscles Around Beirut

United Press International

The Lebanese government moved to assert its control over strife-ridden areas north and east of the capital while Israelis and Syrians strengthened their forces in the strategic Bekaa Valley, security sources said.

In Washington, Pentagon and Israeli officials Friday said a high-level Defense Department team will go to Israel soon to check through equipment and intelligence seized by the Israelis following their invasion of Lebanon.

In Lebanon's northern City of Tripoli, state-run television said the army would move into the city today to disarm pro-and anti-Syrian militias, first of their light weapons, then of their rockets and artillery next week.

Chrysler Warns Workers

TORONTO (UPI) — The Chrysler Corp. warned 9,600 striking Chrysler Canada workers they will not go back to work until there is a new collective agreement in the United States, where talks are not scheduled to resume until January.

Picket lines went up at Chrysler plants in Windsor, Toronto and Ajax, Ontario, with autoworkers jeering Chrysler Chairman Lee A. Iacocca's letter that warned a strike by Canadian workers threatened the entire corporation.

Chrysler executives said the strike would result in the layoff of 6,000 U.S. Chrysler workers Monday. Fisher said the U.S. parent corporation would begin closing U.S. plants with 2,500 workers to be hit in Detroit and elsewhere by the end of next week.

New Name For Seminole Facility

Emotionally Handicapped Workshop To Reopen

By MICHAEL BEHA
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County Mental Health Center's OMEGA workshop for emotionally handicapped people in Sanford closed a few weeks ago because of the agency's funding difficulties.

Monday at 9:30 a.m. the facility at 201 S. Elm Ave. will reopen with a new name and with expanded services.

A $40,000 grant from Comprehensive Employment Training Act funds through Seminole County commissioners has enabled Maitland Purdy, director of the facility, to reopen the workshop under the title OASIS. OASIS stands for Occupational Achievers Serving the Industrial Sector, Purdy said. "It's also a place of refuge."

He explained the program will take 40 Seminole County residents who have been unable to keep jobs because of emotional, psychological or physical disabilities.

Under OMEGA, the program only accepted emotionally handicapped people.

The mental health center had hoped to match the county's $40,000 budget with funds

But when those funds were not available, the workshop was closed.

The man responsible for the workshop's reopening is Purdy.

"I've been working for a month without any pay," he said. "People need this service."

Purdy has formed an independent non-profit corporation to oversee operations of the workshop. It will no longer be affiliated with the mental health center.

The CETA funds will finance the workshop for six months. The remainder of the workshop's $72,000 budget will come from income derived from assembling publications for area clients.

Among those business clients are Walt Disney World, Sea World and Stromberg-Carlson Corp.

Workshop clients do such things as envelope stuffing, apply labels and package plastic miniature models.

The workshop is a United Way agency. It first opened its doors in February 1978.

More than 200 people have received training at the workshop since 1978.

Abuses Threaten El Salvador Aid

The kidnapping of above-ground leftist political leaders in El Salvador has provoked concern in the Reagan administration about the continuation of U.S. military aid to that country. Recently, reports from El Salvador said 15 opposition leaders were abducted by men wearing civilian clothes. The Salvadoran military announced it was holding eight leftists on charges of terrorism. At the same time, two Salvadoran judges have failed (reportedly because of death threats against their families) to bring to justice the accused leaders assassins of two American labor leaders killed in a San Salvador hotel in 1981.

Foot-dragging in the Salvadoran courts is routine. But the kidnapping of political leaders is a new level of outrage against human rights. Congress is growing angry and may cut off military aid. President Reagan must certify in January if El Salvador has improved its human rights situation, in order for military aid to be sent. Mr. Reagan has dispatched Undersecretary of Defense Fred C. Ikle to El Salvador to communicate U.S. concern.

Ikle's trip coincides with a diplomatic initiative by exiled opponents of the El Salvador regime who are headquartered in Mexico City. At a recent news conference, political and military leaders of five anti-government groups proposed "unconditional" negotiations with the government. Acting archbishop of San Salvador Arturo Rivera y Damas handed copies of the negotiation proposal to Salvador's president, defense minister and president of the constituent assembly.

The rebels have not been successful in their military campaign. The war appears to be at a standstill, with neither side capable of winning. Meanwhile, the civilian and military death toll mounts and congressional support for military aid diminishes.

Mr. Reagan was right to send Ikle to tell the Salvadoran government to improve its human rights policy. But the administration must also push for the Salvadoran government to begin negotiations with the rebels. If the opportunity for a political settlement is lost and human rights abuses continue, El Salvador must fight its guerrilla war without U.S. guns.

Who Has Power?

Lord Acton's famous dictum on the corrupting influence of power applies to sovereigns and petty bureaucrats alike. Just ask those subjected to the regulatory excesses of numerous federal agencies.

Congress has sought to curb these abuses by asserting the right to veto regulations it deems unreasonable. Most recently, both the House and Senate overturned a Federal Trade Commission directive requiring used-car dealers to disclose vehicle defects to prospective buyers.

Whatever the merits of the FTC's regulation, or the ease for vetoing it, the dispute raises a basic constitutional issue. Is Congress usurping the power of the executive when it overturns a regulation promulgated by a federal agency?

The Reagan administration, in accord with all of its predecessors dating back to the time of Herbert Hoover, thinks so. So did the U.S. Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia recently when it found the congressional veto unconstitutional.

The House and Senate are expected to appeal the ruling to the U.S. Supreme Court, which could mean that a definitive judgment may not be made until sometime next year.

If Congress loses, the nation will still be stuck with the problem of how to restrain overzealous federal regulators. Electing a president, Mr. Reagan for example, committed to eliminating excessive regulation undoubtedly helps.

But semi-autonomous agencies such as the Federal Trade Commission are not necessarily responsive to the administration in office. Nor are they answerable to the electorate. And if the Supreme Court decides that they are immune to congressional vetoes as well, Lord Acton's warning should be nailed above the door of every regulatory agency in Washington.

BERRY'S WORLD

"The rich are getting richer and the poor are getting poorer. GOOD for me, but BAD for you, eh, tell?"

By DORIS DIETRICH

RUSTY BROWN Myths People Continue

The first blow of my life was when I grew three-quarters of an inch taller than what an airline stewardess could be.

At 15, it was devastating. I had wanted nothing more than to be a sex symbol in the sky.

In those days, stewardesses couldn't be over 5-foot-4, age 25 or 115 pounds. They couldn't be married either.

In time, the airlines relaxed the height limitation (I guess too many of us grew taller), but by then I was over the age limit.

I also had come to realize that I could never make it as a sex symbol — in the sky, or anywhere. I turned to improving my mind instead.

I was reminded of that adolescent pain when I read about the Finleyville, Pa., high school drum majorette, banned from strutting at football games when she failed to slim down to 128 pounds.

Peggy Ward, 16, was benched for being first, 4 pounds, then 1-and-a-half pounds over the weight limit set by Ringgold High School band director Joseph Cersosimo. Last August, Cersosimo imposed weight restrictions on all 17 majorettes and 23 drill team members based on medical chart guidelines geared to women's heights.

It wasn't as though the 5-foot-4 Ms. Ward didn't try to count calories. For weeks, she skipped meals and snacks, gave up Cokes and took diet pills. She managed to shed 11-and-a-half pounds. The other majorettes dieted, too, some allegedly taking diuretics and fasting before weekly weigh-ins at school.

But baton-twirling Ward just never made it to the magic number of 125.

Her mother, Marjorie Ward, said the flap was making her daughter sick. Herbert Ward, her father, got so upset he filed a discrimination complaint against the school with the state's Human Relations Commission.

A school board member called the regulations "preposterous," adding, "I don't think the public schools should be developing beauty queens." He was overruled. Ringgold High's principal argued, "I feel it all goes together when they're on the field — appearance and skill."

Finally, a Pittsburgh doctor examined the 16-year-old and sent a note to the school, saying the proper weight for her height and build was between 128 and 130 pounds. So, band director Cersosimo begrudgingly waved Peggy Ward onto the gridiron.

Among the several regrettable aspects of this episode is that the weight limits were established because several plump majorettes were being jeered by people in the stands.

I can't think of anything worse for an adolescent. Public ridicule leaves scars on developing identities that may never heal.

Too bad school officials put all their emphasis on the majorettes and apparently did nothing about the ill-mannered spectators.

Nursing Home Changes Would Hurt

WASHINGTON—The Reagan administration is planning to loosen the federal inspection procedures for the nation's nursing homes, despite solid evidence that somebody has to make the operators meet minimum standards on safety, nutrition and health care for their elderly patients.

The nursing homes get their funds from Medicaid payments by the states and the federal government; in 1980, the federal share of the $16 billion total was $5.7 billion. Hard-pressed state governments obviously can't afford to lose this federal stipend, so they have to accept U.S. standards of care.

If federal regulations are relaxed, nursing-home patients will find themselves at the mercy of local politicians, with all their susceptibility to pressure from the well-heeled home proprietors. Five years ago, I reported the squalid conditions at some of the biggest nursing homes in Texas—the inevitable result of greedy owners and venal politicians working in cahoots.

Last year, Texas authorities took a giant step; a grand jury returned 38 indictments against the Houston-based Autumn Hills Convalescent Center Inc. The charge: murder by neglect.

Four of the indictments were thrown out by a judge, but 34 are still pending. The indictments allege that eight elderly patients died between March 1978 and April 1979

ROBERT WALTERS

Strong Pesticide Lobby

WASHINGTON (NEA) — From Hawaii's Oahu Island on the west to New York's Long Island on the east, the 1.7 billion pounds of pesticides sold annually poses continuing health and safety hazards to the nation's citizens.

But the manufacturers of these toxic chemicals are waging a determined campaign on Capitol Hill to prevent the enactment of federal legislation that would offer a modest degree of protection to those endangered by their products.

The pesticide industry was summarily rebuffed in the House last summer, but it hopes to regain lost ground in the Senate when Congress reconvenes in late November for a brief but hectic post-election session.

Before Congress adjourns for the year, it is scheduled to approve a two-year reauthorization of the Federal Insecticide, Fungicide and Rodenticide Act, which gives the Environmental Protection Agency authority to regulate pesticides.

Seeking to substantially weaken the law during the reauthorization process is an industry coalition that includes the National Agricultural Chemicals Association, Pesticide Producers Association and American Farm Bureau Federation.

Attempting to defend and strengthen the law is the National Coalition Against Misuse of Pesticides, whose work is supported by the American Public Health Association, March of Dimes and National Farmers Union as well as numerous labor, environmental and consumer organizations.

"Pesticides are so expensive," says Jay Feldman, national coordinator of the coalition, "because of all the money the industry spends on lobbying, political contributions and image building, not simply product development."

The industry wants to amend the law to strip the individual states of their right to require health and safety data from pesticide manufacturers, tailor their regulatory programs to meet specialized local situations and impose requirements stricter than those in the federal law.

Opposed by the industry is a proposal to grant individuals who believe they have been harmed by pesticides the right to seek relief by filing civil suits in federal courts. That privilege now is extended only to lawsuits filed in state courts.

Although pesticide producers can turn to the federal courts to protect their trade secrets, that access is denied to the 800,000 individuals injured and the families of the 800 people killed every year in pesticide related incidents.

Finally, the industry seeks to suppress the dissemination and discussion of all data — including health and safety information — related to "new or innovative technology," even though such innovations enjoy patent protection.

The March of Dimes says it "believes that putting a restriction on public information would severely limit the free exchange of scientific thought" and possibly lead to future birth defects by "exposing the unborn to harmful chemicals."

The House resoundingly rejected all of the industry positions after its members offered disturbing accounts of pesticide damage to food, air, water and people. Among them:

— On Long Island, a pesticide called Tomik was used to control golden nematodes or potato beetles. It contaminated the ground-water and has been linked to abnormally high rates of miscarriages and neurological disorders.

— In Hawaii, pineapple crops were sprayed with heptachlor. After the post-processing waste (called "chop") was fed to dairy cattle, health officials found four times the permissible level of the pesticide in much of Oahu's milk supply.

— In Oregon, after forest lands were sprayed with phenoxy herbicides such as 2,4-D and 2,4,5-T there were reports of unnatural fish and animal deaths as well as human miscarriages.

— Midwesterners fear that toxaphene, applied to cotton crops in the South, has been carried by the wind into their region, while southerners are worried because mirex, used to kill fire ants, has been accidentally released over densely populated suburban areas during aerial spraying.

With 45,000 commercial pesticide products containing 1,200 different chemical ingredients new on the market, the nation needs more — not less — protection for its citizens.

Readers can be pretty caustic and downright brutally candid sometimes. In most cases, if they are irked at a particular story, don't worry, the reporter catches "what for" on all sides.

But then the reporter is usually doing his (or her) job.

The other Sunday at church, I delivered the children's sermon, if you might want to call my simple words a delivery or a sermon. But that's what the bulletin said.

Using a subject that I feel I should be qualified to speak on after all these years of experience might have been poor judgment after all.

And asking a question when I was almost certain of the answer might have been my own stupidity. But it was fun.

I compared The Herald to my daughter's beat-up Bible she has had since childhood. It was only natural that when I asked the children what happened to the newspaper after their families read it they told me it was thrown in the trash, used to line pet cages with and went to many other similar uses that were news to me.

My analogy that The Herald is daily news with a new concept expected by readers daily, while no matter how delapidated a Bible might be, the words of God are always "in style," day in and day out.

Now, just this week a reader complained that "I'll be glad when those Golden Age Games are over. That's all I've read about this week and all The Herald will print next week."

I treated the reader like a customer, letting her have her opinion. But I really wanted to call her "stupid." However, I "grinned and beared" it.

I will attempt to prove her point invalid. Just in the event you heard about SISTER's "Sundae in the Park Social," Nov. 7 please, don't dare go to Centennial Park. The predicted adverse weather conditions prompted SISTER to move the location to the Sanford Civic Center from 1 to 6 p.m. Patrons of all ages can prepare their own concoction from a variety of ice creams, sauces, nuts and whatever.

During the same afternoon, at the same civic center, 47 couples have registered to renew their wedding vows in a unique ceremony performed by the Rev. S. Edward Johnson of the First Christian Church in Sanford.

Those are just two openers to the GAGs...but not associated with the games.

Now the grande finale to a week when the senior citizens romp and frolic will be "Fall Frolics," the 15th anniversary celebration of the Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole, also at the Sanford Civic Center, at 8 p.m. on Nov. 13.

This event is not entertainment by the guild dancers, but is for the public to come and have a good time, dance to a live band and help celebrate the success of the non-profit dance company.

There's a whirlwind of activity for all ages going on in our community.

Have it your way, but have it enjoyable.

JEFFREY HART Tilden's Trophies Are Found

In the year 1920, Big Bill Tilden won Wimbledon for the first time, utterly devastating the Australian champion in the final round. The date was July 3, a fact that delighted Tilden—an American winning Wimbledon on the eve of the Fourth of July. Tilden was probably the greatest tennis player the world has ever seen and he won more U.S. national championships than anyone in history—seven of them.

And yet the large collection of tennis trophies amassed by this great player remains out of sight in a Los Angeles warehouse.

As I thought a few weeks ago when wandering around the U.S. Open Championships in New York's Flushing Meadows, those trophies ought to be on display at this new tennis complex, or else at the older West Side Tennis Club in Forest Hills. After all, the stadium at Forest Hills was built to accommodate the crowds that wanted to see the phenomenal Tilden play.

After beating Gerald Patterson at Wimbledon in 1920, as Frank Deford writes in his fine study of Tilden's life, "Big Bill did not lose another match of any significance anywhere in the world until a knee injury cost him a victory more than six years later.

"Playing for himself, for his country, for posterity, he was invincible. No man ever bestrode his sport as Tilden did for those years. It was not just that he could not be beaten, it was nearly as if he had invented the sport he conquered.

"Babe Ruth, Jack Dempsey, Red Orange and the other fabled American sweat lords of the times stood at the head of more popular games, but Tilden simply was tennis in the public mind: Tilden and tennis, it was said, in the order. He ruled the game as much by force of his curious, contradictory, often abrasive personality as by his proficiency. But he was not merely eccentric. He was the greatest irony in sport: to a game that then suffered a 'Fairy' reputation, Tilden gave a lithe, swashbuckling, athletic image — although he was in fact a homosexual, the only great male athlete we know to have been one."

And that is why Tilden's trophies remain in that Los Angeles warehouse. Tilden died in disgrace, broke and alone, after serving two jail terms for involvement with young boys.

When Tilden died of a heart-attack at the age of 60, no one from tennis officialdom bothered to send a wreath. His friend, the actor Joseph Cotton, bought him a decent suit to lie in at the funeral parlor. Then he was cremated because it was cheaper that way to ship him back home to Philadelphia. The small headstone cost $115, and read simply "William T. Tilden 2ND 1893-1953."

I myself remember Tilden from the days when I was a youthful tournament player in the late 1940s.

It is unlikely that anyone ever again will compile a record like Tilden's in tennis.

reimbursement was either unallowable or questionable because documentation was lacking. One clearly improper claim was $6,485 for a trip to Manila by the corporation's president and his wife.

The auditors also questioned the legality of Autumn Hills' claim of $34,758 for employee lunches, dinners and drinks; $8,669 for Christmas parties for employees and business vendors, and $4,808 for flowers and liquor. These expenses were described as home-office advertising and promotional costs.

Autumn Hills President Robert Gay told my associate Tony Capaccio that the admittedly critical nursing shortage was "not a problem we created, but a problem for the whole United States." He said the GAO was referring only to licensed nurses of Texas City, and insisted that "overall, the home has been overstaffed."

Gay said the costs questioned by the GAO represented only a small portion of the chain's operation. "We are not trying to beat (the government) out of any money," he said. NO MORE TOASTERS?: Many of the nation's banks are in trouble, so you can expect close scrutiny when you apply for a loan. You'll probably have to pay service fees or keep a minimum balance in your checking account.

The recession has trickled up to the banks, as businesses go broke and loans go into default. So loan officers will make it exceedingly hard to get money for unusual business ventures without a solid credit rating. Service fees for checking accounts and credit cards will help to keep cash flowing in.

How bad off are the banks? Of the nation's 1,500 commercial banks, 35 have failed so far this year, a new postwar record. And the situation may grow worse in 1983. The Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation's list of banks in trouble has grown from 220 to 320 so far this year.

LEFTISTS LEFT OUT: The big losers among Lebanese factions since the Israeli invasion have been the leftist groups who once ruled the roost. Now, with their "big brothers" of the Palestine Liberation Organization run out of the country, the Lebanese leftists have lost their clout.

A secret CIA report explains the situation that put the leftist groups in the driver's seat in the years before the Israeli tanks rolled in. The leftists "made their gains primarily because they (had) been heavily backed by the larger Palestinian fedayeen organizations," the CIA noted, adding: "Leftist militias have been trained by the Palestinians; leftist arms have been supplied by the fedayeen, and in crucial battles the leftists were backed up by fedayeen fighters."

All that has changed now.

Truckers Are A Help To Driver

On Friday, October 22nd, I had the misfortune of having my drive shaft break while I was headed from Sanford toward Orlando on I-4 near the Maitland exit. As a new owner of a CB radio, I assumed that emergency Channel 9 was the fastest way to get help. I called, giving my location and predicament. No response. I tried again and again, six times in all about one minute apart. Nothing. Then I recalled that Channel 19 is usually used by the truckers, so I sent out my call on that channel and within seconds had three responses. About a half hour later a tow truck arrived.

I am certainly very grateful to the truckers who answered and relayed my distress call, but what about so-called "emergency" Channel 9? I had assumed this channel was constantly monitored by law enforcement agencies, or others who could handle distress situations. Obviously this is not the case. Will someone please enlighten me—what good is an emergency channel if there is nobody out there listening? I'll be watching these columns for a reply from somebody who knows the answer. And thanks to you truckers, whoever you are, who relayed my message.

Article In Herald Is Enjoyed

Just a note to let you know how much I appreciate the beautiful article Doris Dietrich wrote about my mom and dad. They were so thrilled and will remember it all the rest of their lives.

Someone sent the article to a girl I had known during the war years who is now in Kansas. She wrote to me and I quote from her letter: "Several people in Kansas have read and enjoyed the lovely article and pictures of Harvey and Lois Pugh. The story was a delight to read and there should be more stories of this nature to replace the less appealing ones."

Thank you so much for your wonderful publicity for our recent rummage sale. We're sure it would not have been the successful fund raiser it turned out to be without the support you gave us. For some of our members, our sale was a first time, learning experience, that will aid us in our future endeavors for the Ballet Guild.

Uppermost in all our minds is to make this 15th Anniversary year a successful one for "our company" and "our community." The powerful, positive cooperation you have given us has restored the enthusiasm and optimism so very necessary in an organization such as ours. Again—Thanks so very much!

Orlando Utility Plant Not Needed

Orlando Utilities plans completion of a coal-fired power plant in November 1986 "because it will cost less to build it now than it will later." The plant is not needed for 20 years, if then, and will cause thousands of tons of acid rain each year.

Lakes will be destroyed. Fish, animals, trees and people will be killed. Acid rain, mostly from coal-fired electric generating plants, killed 51,000 people in 1980. Moreover, we will be forced to pay for this monster. The plant will cost $960 million. Rates have already been increased to pay for it. Additional rate increases are planned for April 1983.

Orlando Utilities salaries were increased by $400,000 in 1982. City and county employees are instructed to conduct "surveys" of salaries elsewhere and then get huge pay hikes. That is like using wolves to watch the sheep.

Shingle Creek is a sewer. Iron Bridge dumps raw sewage into Howell Branch. The Lemon Bowl did the Hula and the airport shimmies. A useless city incinerator rusts away on Pershing Avenue. Some push for more taxes to waste on more "monuments to greed".

Will Orlando be another Jacksonville, Miami, or Pompeii? Major decisions which affect our health and our pockets should be placed on a public referendum. A "Boston Tea Party" is overdue. Shingle Creek is appropriate.

Video Games Worse Than Pinball

It is high time that parents wake up to the fact of how effective and dangerous the video games are on our children and youth. Many of the parents complain but do not want to take part in enforcing any laws or any regulations that would not allow children and youth under the age of 21 to be admitted or allowed to play these games.

I am in favor of having a bill passed or regulation made that only 21 year-olds and older would be allowed to attend or play these games. These games will lead our children and youth to gambling and are even worse than the pin ball games ever could be and they were ruled out. I have tried to get some churches and religious organizations to help in this matter, but they don't seem interested in saving our children and youth. It is now up to the parents of the children and youth that take their weekly allowances, school lunch monies and whatever other monies that they can get and carry it to these gambling joints.

Reader Objects To Ruling

I am furious! What is the Judicial System coming to? Five men were cleared of sexual battery because the victim, according to Judge Salfi was not physically helpless.

I don't think that it takes very much common sense to figure out that if someone is restraining the arms and legs of someone else, the other is physically helpless. Because of the leniency in most rape cases, the offenders walk away scot-free to resume normal life. The victims, on the other hand, are left with emotional and mental scars that in some cases never mend.

Does the victim still have to be battered beyond recognition to get justice? If it had been the judge's wife, mother or sister, I don't think his decision would have been so easily determined.

Coming from someone who knows—it's been over 10 years and I'm still haunted!

If Judge Salfi needs the point proved, I can find five volunteers to restrain him and see how physically helpless he finds himself!!

Support Of Israel Is Challenged

We know few Americans who object to American Jews who aid their brothers in Israel with their personal resources. What does seem to be a perversion is the dual nationality concept of support for the terrorist tactics of Begin and Israel. Begin and Israeli extremists have earned reputations with Count Bernadotte's brutal murder, the callous destruction of Hotel King David, the ruthless murder of the U.S.S. Liberty's crew.

It requires a suspension of national loyalty and survival instinct to expect anymore Americans to die for Begin's and Israel's mistakes. We are extremely concerned about the U.S. Marines in Lebanon. If they are attacked, will they be deserted the way the crew of the U.S.S. Liberty?

The details of this senseless attack and merciless killing of U.S. sailors was jointly hushed by the U.S. and Israel for nearly 14 years. Mr. James M. Ennes, Jr., a survivor of that attack, has revealed the facts in his "Assault On The U.S.S. Liberty", (Random House, N.Y., 1979). This attack by an ally leaves us with a confused meaning of ally. Do allies attack and kill their allies? Do allies accept billions of dollars of arms and aid and respond with outbursts of outrage when questioned about flagrant violations of agreements precedent to this support?

We ask that no more American lives be sacrificed and no more American dollars be given to Israel.

Pipeline Straining Relations

The alliance between the United States and the European countries is strained at the moment due to the construction of the Siberian-European gas pipeline.

The International Society for Human Rights has brought to the attention of the world the human tragedy connected with the construction of the pipeline. We would like to ask you to become acquainted with the enclosed documentation on the use of forced labor.

Recently Sen. William L. Armstrong has become increasingly concerned with the use of forced labor in the Soviet Union and has introduced a resolution in the United States Senate calling for an investigation of the matter by our State Department.

In our view the Siberian-European pipeline contract should be canceled for humanitarian reasons. In the Neurenberg Trials after World War II, forced labor of concentration camp inmates was termed a crime against mankind. The United Nations Commission of human rights condemns slave labor. No economic gain or other benefit to Western countries can justify participation in exploitation of slave labor.

Should you have any doubts about our evidence, please support the idea of sending an International Commission to inspect the working conditions along the Siberian-European gas pipeline.

Reagan Is Actor In New Role

President Reagan was an actor so long it became a habit. He is not fooling me with his jelly beans. They are truth pills and they have back fired on him. That is why all of these lies are coming out of Washington, D.C. If you believe the big lie coming out of Russia, you ain't seen nothing yet. Wait until they turn on the big lie techniques, with all of that dirty mad money hatched up in Washington, D.C. trying to buy your vote by some cute phrase or actor's speech.

"I have been to the mountain top and I have seen." But never have I witnessed as many lies in my life as there are coming from cute TV news and commercial's trying to swing voters. Get that second opinion (check the man o-u-t) before you vote. Your vote is the most precious heritage you have. Yes. Vote but be certain you o-h-o-o-k the man out.

It Can Be Controlled

What Is Hypertension?

By CLAUDE PEPPER,
Chairman, House Select Committee on Aging

Q. My father died of a stroke at the age of 57. I'm in my early 30s now, and the doctor said I am hypertensive. Doesn't hypertension lead directly to stroke?

A. Hypertension — or high blood pressure — can lead to stroke or heart attack if it is uncontrolled. But according to medical experts, most cases of high blood pressure can be successfully controlled. It is primarily a matter of diagnosis and medication — and, most important, co-operation on the part of the patient.

You are fortunate that your condition has been diagnosed. Most people with

Growing
Older
U.S. Rep.
Claude Pepper

high blood pressure don't even know they have it, since there are no outward symptoms. That is the real insidious danger of high blood pressure. Doctors aren't certain why some people (about 15 percent of the adult population) develop the condition, though heredity is a major factor, and emotional stress, diet and general health are considered significant related factors as well.

While there is no cure for hypertension, medications have been found to work beautifully to maintain a normal level of blood pressure in most individuals. Fortunately, there are several alternative medications, so that if an individual suffers pronounced side-effects with one, the doctor may prescribe another to achieve the best results with the fewest drawbacks.

As a general rule, doctors suggest you maintain as low an intake of salt as possible, since salt expands blood volume. And avoid obesity. Also, if your physician prescribes pills, take them. Once diagnosed, the responsibility for keeping blood pressure within normal limits rests with the individual.

The 50s

When The Going Was Good

By JEFFREY HART
(Part three of three articles)

After the victory in Europe, which Dwight D. Eisenhower considered the climax of his career, the pressure on him to run for the presidency increased. He was a global figure. His charismatic smile was known everywhere. He resisted the pressure, and President Truman named him chief of staff of the Army, a crucial post, with responsibility for organizing the postwar occupation of Europe.

In January 1948, Eisenhower received a telegram from a newspaper publisher with the news that he was going to enter the general in the New Hampshire primary. He declined. He had accepted an offer to become the president of Columbia University, which he did in May.

In the election of 1948, the old FDR coalition creaked to yet one more victory. President Truman's reputation has been greatly enhanced by the passage of time, but in 1948 he looked to be a pushover. Nevertheless, New York Gov. Thomas Dewey managed to lose narrowly, and this, in retrospect, made an Eisenhower presidency inevitable.

President Truman saw the urgency of postwar consolidation of the Western position in Europe. In December 1950, he called upon Eisenhower to undertake command of the Allied forces to be established under NATO.

It is difficult to recall now the dark atmosphere of 1951. The Korean War had begun in June of the preceding year with a North Korean assault upon the South that initially carried all before it. Early in September, General Douglas MacArthur staged his brilliant amphibious landing high up on the west side of the Korean peninsula at Inchon, and at the same time the U.S. Eighth Army under General Walton Walker broke out of the Pusan perimeter and sent the overextended North Koreans reeling backward.

What all this meant for Europe and NATO was highly problematical. NATO existed as an alliance, but without much military muscle or co-ordination. When the North Koreans attacked down the peninsula, menacing Japan strategically, the guess in Washington was that the Soviets had egged their satellite on as a diversionary operation to draw U.S. forces, already stretched thin, away from the real theater, which was Europe. The Soviets had exploded their first nuclear device in August 1949, and, on the ground, they seemed capable of taking Western Europe whenever Stalin threw the switch.

In January 1951, the domestic political power of the Truman administration was at a low ebb. In that dark January, with the West itself possibly at stake, Eisenhower flew to Washington to support President Truman. The political requirements were clear. The European alliance had to be reassured, and NATO divisions had to be deployed against the looming Soviet threat. The U.S. commitment to NATO had to be rock-hard.

Eisenhower made a reconnaissance of the NATO capitals, returned to the U.S. and, in the words of Time magazine, did "for the President what Harry Truman could not do for himself." In speech after speech, Eisenhower convinced American leaders that the Europeans, so recently devastated by war, would do what was necessary to meet the Soviet threat, but that they would need American support, not only with money and equipment but also with troops.

It was at this point that Mr. Republican, Ohio Senator Robert Taft, threw away whatever chance he had to become president. He wrecked himself, in a momentous interview, on Eisenhower's commitment to a strong Europe and a viable NATO.

By the autumn of 1951, pressure began to build irresistibly for an Eisenhower candidacy. Senator James Duff of Pennsylvania, a political enemy of Tom Dewey, joined the "Draft Eisenhower" effort, but if he were to be successful in gathering support, he would need, in writing, assurance that Eisenhower would not refuse the nomination.

On Friday, October 12, 1951, two days before his 61st birthday, Eisenhower agreed, and struggled with the wording of the message, which emerged slowly the next day:

"No man who is an American can refuse nomination to the highest office in the land. If it were offered to me, I would accept, and would resign from the army, because I believe no military officer should seek a place in politics. I consider myself a liberal; I also consider myself a Republican; and through the years whenever I have voted, I have voted Republican. If given the nomination, I will wage an aggressive campaign."

That was it. The "Draft Eisenhower" movement hit the ground running to round up political and public support. And so was born the dominating presidency of the 1950s, the dominating political figure of the decade.

Ike swept to his landslide with two special assets beyond his colossal reputation as a war hero.

First of all, he had an extraordinarily attractive and highly mobile face. His smile was almost a philosophical statement. It was a smile of infinite reassurance. How could a man named Adlai who was divorced beat a man named Ike who had a wife named Mamie?

Among serious historians at the present time, a sharp revision is taking place concerning Eisenhower's achievement as president. "For all the jokes about playing golf," says one admirer, President Reagan, "he did a far, far better job of handling that office than anyone realized."

Much of the new pro-Eisenhower opinion is based upon a general sense of the period during which he was president. The annual inflation rate was 1.5 percent, hardly noticeable. Unemployment hovered around 3 percent. Eisenhower succeeded in balancing the federal budget three times. He ended the war in Korea, and when forced to intervene abroad did so with complete success. From the perspective of the 1950s, the 1950s are a decade of peace and prosperity, and for this Eisenhower gets much of the credit.

"The bland leading the bland" was a popular derisive description of the Eisenhower administration. To a considerable degree, this resulted from a deliberate tactic on the part of the president. He never attacked a political opponent by name, not Truman, not Stevenson, not McCarthy, not Rockefeller.

But as his "Diaries" show, he could be direct, cutting and sometimes bitter. He described Churchill as childlike and almost senile, and he is scathing about such leading Democratic figures of the 1950s as Hubert Humphrey, Lyndon Johnson and John Kennedy, but he does not exempt his fellow Republicans. After persuading Nelson Rockefeller to take second place on the 1960 ticket he reported on Rockefeller: "He is no philosophical genius... he has a personal ambition that is overwhelming."

Eisenhower was not an especially elegant extempore speaker, and much amusement was had over some of his press conference syntax. It has been repeatedly demonstrated that Eisenhower often confused his opponents and kept his options open by beclouding the issue. For example, when he was asked at a March 1955 press conference if he would use atomic bombs to defend the offshore islands of Quemoy and Matsu, he answered:

"Every war is going to astonish you in the way it occurred, and in the way it is carried out. So that for a man to predict, particularly if he has the responsibility for making the decision, to predict what he is going to use, how he is going to do it, would I think exhibit his ignorance of war; that is what I believe."

Like the audience at the press conference, the Chinese must have had some reflections of the inscrutable West. Yet they could never assume that Eisenhower would not use the bomb against them. When the truce talks over Korea bogged down in May 1953, Eisenhower hinted broadly that the atomic bomb might be used if the truce were not concluded. The Chinese, not knowing whether he was bluffing, arranged a truce.

One of the major crises of Eisenhower's first term arose out of the Supreme Court's Brown vs. the Board of Education decision, which led to the dispatch of troops to Little Rock, Arkansas, to integrate the schools there over the loud protests of Governor Orval Faubus. Eisenhower wrote that it was:

"My belief that improvement in race relations is one of those things that will be healthy and sound only if it starts locally. I do not believe that prejudices, even palpably unjustified prejudices, will succumb to compulsion... federal law imposed upon our states in such a way as to bring about a conflict of the police power of the states and the nation, would set back the cause of progress in race relations for a long, long time."

When the decision was handed down, however, on May 17, 1954, he regarded it as the law of the land and obeyed his duty to enforce it. Eisenhower did refuse steadfastly to speak out in public in favor of Brown, and for this Chief Justice Earl Warren excoriates him in his memoirs. In 1965 someone asked Eisenhower what his biggest mistake in government had been. For an answer he got: "The appointment of the S.O.B. Earl Warren."

One of the ever-looming problems in the first Eisenhower administration concerned the junior senator from Wisconsin, Joseph R. McCarthy. The overall strategy was to avoid direct mention of McCarthy. Instead, Eisenhower systematically condemned the types of action in which McCarthy engaged.

Eisenhower assigned to Nixon the tough political work of destroying McCarthy, and Nixon performed with efficient artistry. He cleverly struck at McCarthy not on his communist charges but on his behavior with respect to his chief staffers, Roy Cohn and David Schine.

In a speech in March 1954, Nixon greased the skids for McCarthy. "It is true," he said, "that President Eisenhower does not engage in personal vituperation and vulgar name calling and promiscuous letter writing" — an oblique attack on Harry Truman — "in asserting his leadership, and I say, 'Thank God he doesn't.'"

Without mentioning McCarthy by name, Nixon made it clear that the administration had turned against him. The speech was effective, but the real damage was done by a report dealing with McCarthy's efforts on behalf of Private David Schine, which had been drawn up by the Defense Department.

When the report was released it caused a sensation. McCarthy had tried 44 times to get extraordinary preferential treatment for Schine. McCarthy was finished.

Eisenhower has begun to get some retrospective accolades from liberals for his refusal to become involved in the Indochinese war, but his papers do not reveal anything like the dovish and even anti-American liberalism of the 1960s and 1970s.

There will be no school Friday, but don't forget the varsity football game at Cocoa Beach at 8 p.m.

SCC's 'Journey' Wins

The Seminole Community College student publication Journey has won high honors for editorial and design excellence in the 20th annual publications contest sponsored by the Florida Community College Press Association.

The awards were announced at the recent FCCPA convention in Orlando. The SCC publication, entered in the General Magazine Division, scored two first-place wins and four seconds in the several categories listed.

Lee Lerner took first place for Best Non-fiction Story on a Non-campus Subject for his story "Catch a Rising Star," about the long trail to baseball stardom in the major leagues. Susie Stern received a first in the Best Poem category for her untitled entry.

Dan Malek won a second for his photograph of an otter at the Central Florida Zoo. Patricia Pratt won a second place for her illustration of a gorilla.

Finally Agrees To Give It Up

Lake Mary Council Argues Over Abandonment Of Alley

A long-time resident of Lake Mary will receive nearly 12,000 square feet of land as the result of the City Council's agreement to vacate and abandon an alley right-of-way which has been on the record books for more than 60 years.

The council Thursday night agreed to abandon the right-of-way of a 20-foot-wide alleyway, 594 feet long, dedicated to the city in 1920. Mrs. Arilyn True requested the abandonment.

The normal practice when such rights-of-way are abandoned is that the adjacent property owner receives title to the land. That will make Mrs. True the beneficiary.

The board by-passed its Planning and Zoning Board in directly granting the request because it had been six weeks since Mrs. True's application seeking the abandonment was filed with the city.

After a bit of parliamentary maneuvering, the request was granted. But, Councilman Cliff Nelson, serving on the board in an interim capacity, urged that an ordinance be prepared to halt any similar practices in the future.

Nelson said he didn't think the duties of the Planning and Zoning Board of advising the council should ever be usurped or arbitrarily by-passed. He asked that the ordinance be prepared by City Attorney Robert Petree outlining procedures whereby the Planning and Zoning Board must review applications for vacating public lands before action can be taken by the council in the future.

"The spirit and intent of what I'm proposing is that it be mandated that the Planning and Zoning Board consider every request for vacating of public lands," Nelson said.

Before action was taken on the request, Petree was asked whether the advisory board should review such applications. He responded that the Planning and Zoning Board is a fact-finding body and as a matter of good government, its recommendations should be sought.

From the audience, former Councilman Virginia Mercer objected to the council approval before the matter was considered by the zoning board.

"Closing streets and alleys may affect the future of Lake Mary," she said.

But City Manager Phil Kulbes said the city, in his opinion, will never need the alleyways that Mrs. True was requesting be abandoned.

City Councilman Dick Fess said he was opposed to the council aborting the normal process. "We have procedures we should follow," he said.

The council, on a motion by Councilman Pat Southward, agreed to instruct the city staff to channel all such future requests through the Planning and Zoning Board first.

The motion was approved 4-1 with Fess voting "no."

Then Fess made a motion, seconded by Nelson, to send the request to the advisory board.

Councilman Ray Fox said he found the action abhorrent. The vote was 3-2 in favor. Nelson, Fox and Councilman Ken King voted in favor of the motion while Fox and Mrs. Southward voted "no."

Fox said the motion was out of order since it conflicted with the one adopted previously and Sorenson agreed, rapping it out of order.

Fox then moved with Mrs. Southward seconding to vacate the alleyway. The vacating was approved unanimously.

Fess, King and Nelson, while voting for the motion, said they were opposed to acting without the advisory board's recommendation.

Greyhounds Blitz 'Noles

By BRENT SMARTT
Herald Sports Writer

Upon entering Lyman High's football stadium Friday night, all informed fans knew if things went as planned, this contest with Seminole High would be no contest.

Well, things went exactly as expected and the explosive Greyhounds drubbed lowly, rebuilding Seminole, 49-7, in a Five Star Conference mismatch.

The victory gave coach Bill Scott's crew a 4-1 conference record and kept Lyman just one-half game behind front-running Apopka, an easy 41-13 winner over Spruce Creek, which is the 'Hounds' next foe this Saturday. Lyman is 5-3 overall.

Coach Jerry Posey's Fighting Seminoles, meanwhile, fell to their eighth straight defeat and need a victory in their remaining two games (Mainland, Friday for homecoming) and Spruce Creek (Nov. 18) to avert an 0-10 season.

While the victory moved Lyman a step closer to its first Five Star championship, the win could prove to be costly for Scott to swallow.

Midway through the third period, with Lyman well in command, 35-0, wide-out, back-up quarterback, part-time safety, and kick-returner Willis Perry exited the personal foul-plagued battle with a possible broken collarbone injury.

From the outset, the visiting Seminoles were outclassed and out-experienced. The Greyhounds took the opening kickoff, and flexed their muscles all the way down the field on an eight-play, dive-oriented drive capped by a Gene Allen one-yard TD plunge at 8:27. Seminole gave the 'Hounds something to worry about though in its first possession, as a 46-yard return of the kickoff by Tim Lawrence and a 20-yard scamper by Tim Burke left the ball at the Lyman 20.

But the brief scare wasn't over as the crowd wondered if maybe this 0-7 club had found some magic. Two plays later Lawrence turned the corner and headed for the end zone. Before a last-minute shove out of bounds placed the ball at the one, the striped shirts had spotted a clip.

So went the 'Nole fortunes for the night,

Tim Lawrence, Seminole running back, lunges for a loose ball as Lyman's Paul Ellis grabs for a piece of Lawrence.

as Lyman took over four plays later on downs and marched 73 yards, mostly on a Jerry Axley to Perry bomb which accounted for the score and silenced all Lyman's doubts about the outcome. Tom Abernethy kicked the first of seven extra points for a 14-0 lead.

One possession later, a 35-yard Greg Pilot punt return placed the ball at the Seminole three. Field general Axley snuck in from there to cap the scoring for the half, at 29 seconds left in the first stanza.

Both squads exchange fumbles throughout the second period as the bands and concession stands took over.

Scott's 'Hounds quickly took advantage of the chilly air in the second half as sophomore Tyler "Tennessee" Hughes rambled 37 yards with a Robert Cohen punt. Allen bulled over again to put the game on ice, 28-0.

After a fumble recovery by Mike "Mr. Defense" Hill and two key Seminole penalties, quarterback Perry drilled a 12-yard strike to tight end Johnny Poor for seven more at 3:11 in the third quarter.

Junior defensive tackle, Tyrone Simpson then recovered a Clifton Campbell fumble at the 'Noles 18, as the trouncing continued. Four plays later Vince Presley rammed over from the two.

Finally the Seminole offense awoke as backup QB Cohen engineered a 13-play, pass-oriented drive to spoil the shut-out. Steve Alexander hauled in a Cohen toss with 4:10 remaining for a 10-yard score.

The subs took over for Lyman as Johnny Poor hit Robert Quisenberry with an audible fly pattern to set up a three-yard Carl Simmons score to end the one-sided affair.

"Lyman and Apopka are the two best teams we've faced," said Posey. "I felt like we could give them a better game."

In the other locker room Scott saw both sides. "I think it was just a bad game," he said. "I'll know more when I hear about Willis (Perry)."

"We played well offensively. We did what I thought we could do."

In the statistical battle Vince Presley led all rushers with 106 yard on 13 carries. On the other side of the line, Hill came away with 12 solo tackles and 9 assists.

Lyman can clinch a 5-star title with victories at Spruce Creek and Lake Brantley in the next two weeks.

Lions Turn Nasty, Overpower Groveland

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

Oviedo's Lions have a nice offense and a mean defense. When the Lions found themselves on the short end of a 14-7 halftime score Friday, coach Jack Blanton figured it was time to get nasty. Blanton shifted into the power-I and turned loose running backs Barry Williams, J.W. Yarborough and Charles "Pop" Bowers as the Lions stormed back for three third-quarter touchdowns and a 28-21 victory over the Groveland Greenbacks at Oviedo.

"We thought we saw a couple of things that would work," said Blanton after watching his club win its fourth straight and improve to 5-3 for the year. "We've got four plays in the power-I. We just said, 'If they're better than us, they'll stop us.'"

There wasn't much stopping the Lions in the third quarter. Starting at the 26-yard line, Williams carried three straight times behind guard David Butterfield, tackle David Wilson and fullback Larry Grayson for 31 yards and a first down at the Groveland 43.

Yarborough muscled four more to the 39 and a late hit by the Greenbacks pushed the ball to the 24. A holding penalty erased the gain, but quarterback

Jodie Huggins whipped a 24-yard pass to Ken Ashe.

Ashe, a sure-handed senior, made a spectacular grab while off balance and skittered his way to a first down at the Groveland 14.

Bowers, just a sophomore carried twice to the Groveland 7 from where a penalty for 12 players on the field gave Oviedo the ball three yards away.

Huggins then called his own number and followed center Eric Putman into the end zone for the TD. Rob Moody's extra point boot was blocked to keep the Greenbacks on top, 14-13, with 7:59 left in the third quarter.

"If the nose is uncovered, Jodie is supposed to sneak the ball," pointed out offensive coordinator Ken Kroog. "The linebacker moved out, so I just tap the center on the side I want to go," said Huggins. Huggins tapped him six times for 26 yards on the night.

The Oviedo defense, which held Groveland to just 10 net yards the second half, was primarily responsible for the next touchdown which came less than three minutes later.

Groveland faced a third and 10 from its own 13 when defensive end Lee Boots blitzed on a sweep and sacked halfback Titus Moblely for an eight-yard loss.

Punting into a stiff wind, Robin Potter could manage just a FOUR-yard boot which rolled dead on the Groveland 9. Williams powered for two yards to the 7, then raced untouched around right end for the TD. Yarborough carried a defender into the end zone for the two-point conversion and Oviedo led, 21-14.

The clinching score was set up by the defense again just three plays later. Quarterback Rick Adams was hit while pitching the ball and Oviedo's David Wilson covered the fumble at the Groveland 27.

Bowers popped over the right side for 22 yards and a first and goal at the Groveland 5. Two plays later, Williams hurdled over from the three-yard line for his second TD of the night and eighth of the year.

Moody's extra point boot gave the Lions a commanding 28-14 bulge with just 2:31 left to play in the third quarter. All told, they ran up 21 points in just five minutes and 28 seconds.

The Lions' "Black Friday Defense" led by linebacker Tommy Johnson (eight tackles and three assists), Boots (six and three), nose guard Scott Yentz (four and four) and end Putman (four and two) kept the Greenbacks, who boasted the best rushing offense (290 yards per game) in Central Florida, in check most of the game.

A fumble by Williams, though, gave Groveland field position at the Oviedo 24 with 7:45 to play. Fullback Steve Franklin scampered for 22 yards and a first down at the Lion 2.

Potter lost 11 yards back to the 13, but on third down Adams lofted a "wounded (frozen?) duck" toward the end zone. David Chickowski got a hand on the ball for Oviedo, but it glanced off his body and into the hands of Potter for a 13-yard touchdown. Tyson's kick moved the Greenbacks within, 28-21.

Any further problems were averted, however, when Williams, Huggins and Bowers ground out three first downs and punter John Quintana pined Groveland on its five-yard line with a 38-yard boot against the wind.

Williams led the Lions with 22 carries for 129 yards. Yarborough added 79 on 16 totes and Bowers chipped in 35 on seven tries.

Huggins hit 4 of 5 passes for 61 yards, including a 15-yard TD toss to the elusive Ashe in the first quarter.

Oviedo takes on Bishop Moore in Orlando Friday before finishing at home in two weeks against Cocoa Beach, a 40-20 victor over Groveland three weeks ago.

Lyman's Wynne Wycoff (left) spikes a point as Lake Howell's Dawn Crawford (middle) and Christy Scott defend. The Greyhounds came back to beat the Silver Hawks after dropping the first set of their District 4A-9 title match and earn a trip to Tuesday's Region 4A-5 Tournament.

Lyman Netters Trip Lake Howell For Title

Lyman volleyball coach Karren Newman picked the right time Friday night to emphasize a little championship philosophy.

Her Greyhounds were training Lake Howell in the first set of the District 4A-9 Tournament and Newman thought it was time to get priorities in order.

"I told them, 'we better figure out just what we're doing here. The whole season is on the line and we better start playing like we can,'" she said.

The Greyhounds didn't win the first set, but bounced back to grab the next two to earn the first district volleyball championship in the history of the school Friday night at Longwood 13-15, 15-1, 15-9.

Lyman, 21-1, goes to the east coast for the Region 4A-5 Tournament Tuesday. Judging from the first set, it appeared the 'Hounds might not go anywhere. Lake Howell, which starts only one senior, broke open a tight game with six straight service points by junior Christy Scott.

Scott had an ace on the 11th point and sophomore Eileen Thiebauth added a nice hit for number 12. Lyman helped out with a long return and a violation to boost the Silver Hawks to a 14-6 lead.

Newman's time out came next, and although the 'Hounds couldn't avert defeat, they did fight off four set points before Kathy Barma served the set winner, helped by Thiebauth's line-drive spike which clipped an outstretched Lyman hand before sailing out of bounds. Barma's diving save three hits earlier kept the point alive.

The Silver Hawks' joy, however, was short-lived.

Seniors Carol Rogers and Pam Stambaugh combined for 10 service points and Amy Babcock spiked three winners as the 'Hounds blew Howell off the court.

"Amy is a very emotional player," said Newman about the blond-haired senior. "When she gets fired up, I know we'll do well. Her hits were good in the second set and her block kept us in the game in the third set."

"I knew we would win when we came back strong in the second set," she added.

The third set was back-and-forth. Thiebauth, aided by a Crawford smash, gave Howell a 6-4 lead, but Rogers and

Patriots Spank Lake Mary, 34-6

By CHRIS FISTER
Herald Sports Writer

Going into Friday night's confrontation with Lake Mary, the end zone was an unfamiliar place to all but one of the Lake Brantley Patriots. In Brantley's first seven games, only Andy Rariden (four touchdowns) had crossed the goal line.

The spell was broken though as Allen Armstrong ran for 115 yards and scored three touchdowns to lift the Patriots to a 34-6 rout of the Rams at Lake Brantley. "He (Armstrong) really gave us a great effort tonight," Tullis said. "His second touchdown was pure effort. He broke a couple tackles and carried one of Lake Mary's players for about eight yards into the end zone."

It was Brantley's second consecutive win after losing its first six games. The Patriots host DeLand next Friday. Meanwhile, Lake Mary next to 1-7 and travels to Cocoa Beach next Friday.

The game started out sloppily, as turnovers marred the early going. The football was dropping about as much as the temperature, which fell to below 50 degrees before the night was over.

After receiving the opening kickoff, the Rams ran three plays before being forced to punt. Jeff Hopkins' 23-yard boot was bobbled by the Pats' return man and Ed Ades pounced on the loose ball for Lake Mary.

On its next play, Ram quarterback Scott Sperrazzo's pass was intercepted by linebacker Donnie O'Brian to give Lake Brantley its first possession of the game.

On the first play from scrimmage, Armstrong fumbled and Hopkins recovered for Lake Mary. That fumble may have gotten Armstrong a little ticked off and he came back to make up for it later.

When Lake Brantley got its hands on the ball again, it went to Armstrong. The 6-0, 155-pound junior, carried seven times for 25 yards in the Patriots 82-yard scoring drive. The drive culminated with Armstrong blasting over from one yard out to put Brantley up, 6-0.

The score stayed at 6-0 as Chuck Stallings' extra point attempt was wide to the right.

That touchdown seemed to be just what the defense needed to get fired up. Led by O'Brian, who had a hand in five straight tackles, the Pats' defense shut down Lake Mary, forcing a punt.

After trading turnovers again, Brantley regained possession and went to Armstrong. On the second play of the scoring drive, Armstrong bolted 46 yards for his second TD with 2:27 left in the half.

Brantley made it 14-0 as Scott Salmon tossed a pass to Mike Scranton for the two-point conversion.

Lake Mary would liked to have gone into the locker room down just 14-0, but fate didn't lend the Rams a hand.

A little over a minute after Armstrong's TD the Patriots got the ball back. A 13-yard gain by Stallings put the ball at the Lake Mary 32 with time running out in the half. A five-yard penalty put Brantley back to the Rams' 37-yard line.

Then, the Patriots climbed on the Armstrong express. With 14 seconds remaining, Armstrong rambled 37 yards for the TD to give Lake Brantley a 20-0 halftime lead.

Lake Brantley started where it left off in the second half, going 65 yards for a touchdown on its first possession of the half, a drive that consumed over five minutes.

On a fourth down and goal, quarterback Dennis Groseclose found tight end Robert Padgett in the end zone for a four-yard scoring connection. Stallings' point made it 27-0 at 5:18 in the third quarter.

Although the Patriots already had the game on ice (if they didn't the weather certainly did), Lake Mary got on the board to break a three-week scoring drought.

The play may have been a fluke, but it was heads-up on the part of the Rams' Tim Curtin. Jim Boghos, the Rams' QB, tossed a pass that was tipped by a Patriot and Curtin alertly grabbed it and scampered into the end zone. It covered 39 yards.

The Patriots' last touchdown was on a 20-yard run by Steve Emmons. Craig Marlen kicked the extra point to make it 33-0.

"They (Lake Brantley) played an excellent ball game," Lake Mary coach Roger Beathard said. "They came out hitting and never stopped."

"We talked about playing aggressively and physical all year and we did just that tonight," Tullis said before being carried off the field by his jubilant players.

Hawks Slip By 'Dogs'

Clinging to a 14-13 lead with one minute remaining in the game, Lake Howell found DeLand breathing down its back with a first down at the Silver Hawks' 29-yard line.

DeLand's quarterback, Terry Nettles, who had completed 12 of 20 passes up until the Bulldogs' final drive, found a receiver open in the end zone. The pass was on target and the receiver got his hands on it, but he couldn't hold on as Lake Howell's Bill Lang delivered a crushing blow that jarred the ball loose and saved a 14-13 victory for the Silver Hawks Friday night at Lake Howell.

"We anticipated a close game and we got one," Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia said. "The defense played a great game, they may have bent but they didn't break."

With just over a minute gone in the game, Richard Evangelista intercepted a Lake Howell pass and returned it 27 yards for a touchdown. The extra point gave DeLand an early 7-0 lead.

In the second quarter, Bill Norton recovered a fumbled punt for the Silver Hawks at the DeLand 15-yard line. One play later, Troy Quackenbush hooked up with John McKay for a 15 yard TD pass and Robert Kerr's conversion kicked it at 7-7.

Lake Howell took advantage of another DeLand mistake as Rick Pughe recovered a Bulldog fumble at the DeLand 10. Three plays later, Quackenbush scored and Kerr booted the extra point to put the Hawks up, 14-7.

Before the half ended, DeLand got its second touchdown on a 37 yard pass from Nettles to Wendell Gibson. The snap for the extra point was poor and the kick was no good as the score stood at 14-13 at halftime.

"The second half amounted to defense," Bisceglia said. "We couldn't generate much offense and DeLand couldn't either. The kicking game, with Lang punting, helped out a lot."

Lake Howell's victory keeps the Hawks' chances alive in the Five Star Conference title race with a 4-2 conference mark, 5-3 overall.

Lake Howell takes on the conference's leading team, Apopka (5-1 conference, 5-3 overall) next Friday at Apopka and ends the season at home against non-conference foe Boone.

Jay Robey was the Silver Hawks' leading ball carrier with 83 yards on 10 carries. Quackenbush rushed for 23 yards and completed five of 13 passes for 54 yards.

Lang led the defense with nine solo tackles and he broke up three DeLand passes. Ed Norton had two interceptions.

Melbourne Holds Off Stubborn Trinity

MELBOURNE—Central Catholic broke loose for 10 points in the final 24 minutes here Friday to knock off stubborn Trinity Prep, 17-6, in prep football action.

Melbourne, 7-1, broke on top early when quarterback Steve LeRoux tossed a 29-yard touchdown pass to David Schreiner with 6:26 to play in the first quarter. Roger Manley's point after kick gave Central Catholic a 7-0 lead.

The 1A Saints, however, bounced back in the second period when fullback Brian Butler bulldozed two yards for a touchdown with 9:46 left in the half. David Green's kick for the tying point was blocked, though, and 2A Melbourne took a 7-6 lead into halftime.

Midway through the third quarter, Melbourne put together a drive which resulted in a 16-yard TD pass from LeRoux to Dan Marcinik. Manley once again booted the PAT and Central Catholic led, 14-6, with 5:37 to go in the third quarter. Both teams battled on even terms until the 4:07 mark of the fourth quarter when Manley laced on a 24-yard field goal to ice the victory for Melbourne.

Running back Walt Steele paced the Catholic ground game with 141 yards. Steele went over the 1,000-yard mark midway through the third quarter.

Butler led the Saints with 64 yards on 14 carries. Richard Milliman muscled for 42 yards on nine tries.

Butler also led the Saints defensively with eight tackles and three assists. Milliman had seven solos and three assists while Bill Samii sacked LeRoux for 10 yards.

Trinity, 4-5, is open this week.

Kuhn May Succeed As Commissioner

NEW YORK (UPI) — With nationwide unemployment at its highest in 42 years, would you believe one of those dream jobs paying $250,000 a year is going begging?

The dream part of this job has to do with all the fringe benefits that go with it — like a liberal expense account, a chauffeur-driven limousine, and the opportunity to go out and see as many ball games as you wish.

That's the kind of job Bowie Kuhn has had the past 14 years and now that he failed to win re-election in Chicago, how many nominations do you think there have been for a new baseball commissioner?

None, period. But all that is about to change next Friday. That's when Bowie Kuhn officially begins his "comeback" as commissioner. Baseball's executive council, made up of eight owners and both league presidents, will meet in New York then for the purpose of recommending candidates for the commissionership.

"There'll be candidates coming out of the woodwork," said Gabe Paul of Cleveland in Chicago last Monday. Maybe so, but there haven't been any yet.

"I haven't heard a single name that made any sense," one owner claims, while another says, "I haven't heard a single name, period."

Nevertheless, there is a candidate out front. Bowie Kuhn. He had 18 votes among the 28 owners when he left Chicago and he'll be recommended to "succeed" himself by the members of the executive council as well as by both league presidents, Lee MacPhail and Chub Feeney, when they get together

Milton Richman
UPI Sports Editor

Nov. 12.

"He'll be No. 1 on my list," says Ballard Smith, one of the executive council members ... other council members say the same thing ...

The two front-runners for Oakland's vacant managerial job are a pair of fresh faces, Montreal first base coach Steve Boros and Baltimore pitching coach Ray Miller. That ties in with A's President Roy Eisenhardt's statement — "We don't want to hire a retard. A couple of other coaches, the Yankees' Joe Altobelli, and the Orioles' Cal Ripken, Sr. are the top candidates to replace Earl Weaver as Baltimore's manager. Orioles' owner Edward Bennett Williams said there is nothing to the rumor he had asked Jim Palmer if he was interested in the job ...

Leo Durocher came to Chicago from his home in Palm Springs, Calif., this past weekend to attend the wedding of Joe Amalfitano to Kay Fuchs. Amalfitano is one of the Dodgers' new coaches who played under Durocher with the New York Giants and coached for him with the Cubs. Johnny McNamara, the Angels' new manager, also was at the wedding ...

Mike Ferraro, named Cleveland's new manager Thursday, has nothing but warm words for his old boss, George Steinbrenner, who didn't have such good ones for him on more than one occasion while Ferraro was still coaching third for the Yankees. "I want to thank him for the opportunity he gave me," Ferraro says of Steinbrenner. "It prepped me for this job" ...

The Yankees' Bill Bergesch says they plan to keep both their catchers, Rick Cerone and Butch Wynegar. That may be, but I still wouldn't be surprised to see Cerone going to the Dodgers for their catcher, Mike Scioscia, and maybe a couple of young pitchers ...

Bud Selig, the Brewers' boss, is annoyed with those criticizing the baseball writers' choice of Pete Vuckovich, Milwaukee's 18-game winner, as this year's American League Cy Young Award-winner.

"That's baloney," Selig says. "I think the writers made not only the right choice, but the only fair one ... I have never seen a better one or a tougher competitor than Pete Vuckovich ... There isn't any more anyone can give than he does." ...

You never know what will impress a prospective employer. Eddie Chiles, owner of the Texas Rangers, was talking to Doug Rader about the team's managerial job in terms of the Rangers' future and what they could conceivably expect purely in an arithmetic sense. "I don't know about an arithmetic sense, but I can tell you what you can expect in a geometric one," Rader said, then went on to outline what he meant. Chiles liked the way Rader expressed his ideas and that didn't hurt his a bit in getting the Rangers' job ...

Georgia Deerhunting Proves Profitable For Sanford Sharpshooters, Taxidermist

Deerhunters in Georgia for the opening of the season last week were blessed with a week of perfect Indian Summer weather. Cloudless skies saw the temperatures from pleasant seventies during the day to near freezing at night, making the evening campfire doubly popular as a relaxing place to swap yarns of the day's hunt and plan strategy for the next day's adventure in the autumn woods.

Cliff Nelson
Fish and Game Writer

hunting the area and enjoying the camaraderie of the campfire. Each year I eagerly look forward to my hunting time in Georgia, and the renewal of old friendships.

This year I hunted from a stand where for the past two years I had sighted bucks, but had been unable to shoot for various reasons. Year before last the wily rascal had suddenly appeared and walked behind a bush before my gun could be raised, and I spent the next 30 minutes with safety off waiting in vain for his reappearance on the other side. Last year he nonchalantly walked into a gully before I could move and never reappeared. Both encounters left me feeling foolish and very frustrated — a condition common to deer hunters.

As a club member for many years, I have spent many enjoyable hours during both bow and gun seasons

I am convinced that the successful still hunter is possessed of skill and luck in equal measures. The skill consists of both the ability to select the most likely place for a deer to appear, and the ability to wait quietly and patiently for long hours. Luck takes many forms, but consists mainly in whether the deer actually appears or not.

Although I am woodsman enough to find the right place to hunt, I have limited patience and little ability to sit quietly, being a compulsive squirmmer, scratcher, grunter, and stretcher.

Consequently, I kill few deer and am forced to rely almost totally on pure luck. It is very likely that the few deer I have killed over the years all suffer from some serious impairment of their vision and hearing. But since I am partially deaf and blind, this makes my deer hunting a very sporting proposition indeed, with the deer having a decided edge in the long run.

This year I was so riddled with luck that the scales of chance tipped decidedly in my favor. The first bit of luck occurred late in the morning of the second day of hunting just as I was becoming unusually restless and ready to quit my stand. A buck materialized in the empty forest, purposefully walking toward me at an angle, his antlers clearly visible through open spots in the brush. The second bit of luck occurred when I was able to kill the deer, even though forced to shoot while leaning from the stand at a very awkward angle and holding on to a tree with one arm. It was also very lucky that I didn't fall from the stand and break my neck, but I'll chalk that up to some degree of boyhood skill learned long ago.

When you're hot, you are really hot. My third piece of luck was in having Dick Dove, of Dove's Taxidermy Shop in Sanford, walk up shortly after I had reached the dead deer and help me drag the 10-point trophy up an impossibly steep embankment to my vehicle. After all, how many hunters shoot a trophy deer deep in the forest and have a taxidermist appear immediately on the scene.

Talk about your ambulance chasing lawyers all you want, but I consider a shot-chasing taxidermist a real asset in the woods.

The rest of the week was anticlimatic, of course. Although a total of nine deer were killed at our camp during the first six days, including a very nice buck by Susan Cruce of Sanford, the deer harvest was still below normal, due primarily to the fact that the leaves were still on the trees. A few frosty nights and some much needed rain should improve the deer hunting considerably.

Cliff Nelson shows off his 10-point deer he bagged in Georgia.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Owners Give Ultimatum To NFL's Striking Players

NEW YORK (UPI) — Faced by an NFL Management Council threat to break off talks, the striking Players Association was to meet early Saturday with the league's bargaining arm in what may be the most crucial bargaining session in the 47-day walkout.

"There's a meeting at nine tomorrow morning (Saturday) and management has told us if we don't change our stance they're going to walk out of the meeting," said Green Bay Packers' player representative James Lofton.

Asked if that meant the Council would pack their bags and leave, Lofton replied, "that's right, they're leaving."

Talks between the two sides, with Sam Kagel presiding as private mediator, recessed at 5:35 p.m. EST Friday and neither union head Ed Garvey nor owners' negotiator Jack Donlan appeared publicly to answer questions.

Moses Leads 76ers, 120-103

United Press International
The supposedly heretofore unsewn full force of Moses Malone's capabilities is now being unleashed on the NBA.

"I can do things here I didn't have the chance to do in Houston," said Malone Friday night, after he helped spark an awesome 18-0 spurt that propelled the Philadelphia 76ers to a 120-109 victory over the Detroit Pistons in Pontiac, Mich.

"No one thought I could run the ball up and down the floor because I never did in Houston. We won 46 games there playing the way the coach wanted us to. It's a whole different situation here."

Before a Silverdome record crowd of 28,222, Malone scored 28 points, 18 of them in the third quarter. During that period, the Sixers outscored Detroit, 18-0, over a 3:31 stretch. The happily freed Malone began it by leading a fast break and jamming in a layup.

In other games, Boston defeated Washington, 104-97, New Jersey topped Cleveland, 99-91, Dallas downed Kansas City, 118-113, Milwaukee routed San Diego, 130-99, Seattle beat New York, 112-103, and San Antonio nipped Golden State, 105-104.

Bad Bounce Beats Rangers

United Press International

Ed Mio and his teammates were feeling "snake-bit" Friday night.

"Why me?" said Mio, the New York Rangers' goaltender, after an unexpected bounce sparked his former team, the Edmonton Oilers, to a 5-1 victory over the Rangers at Edmonton, Alberta.

Lynn Lugerling combined for three points to retake the lead, 7-6.

Babcock followed with three more service points for an 11-6 lead before Barma and Wynne Wycoff traded points to keep the margin at five.

Crawford rallied the Hawks with two points to pull them within, 12-9, but Stambaugh came through with the last three points for a 15-9 win. Babcock, fittingly, spiked the final point. "The second set hurt us," said Lake Howell coach Jo Luciano. "I don't know how much it helped them but it took the wind out of our sails. Lyman played excellent. They put on a good show."

FLAT CHAMPAGNE? — Lyman Principal Carlton Henley put the damper on the post-game celebration when he ordered the exuberant Greyhounds to sit down so he could hurry through the trophy presentation. "He just screamed at them," said one observer. "This is the first district title in the school's history. You'd think they could celebrate a little."

Henley, undoubtedly, had to hurry back to the football game outside. Lyman won that one in a squeaker, 49-7.

0-8 Knights Tangle With Carson-Newman

It won't be the Who that's performing in the Tangerine Bowl Saturday afternoon but "who" will be playing. The University of Central Florida Fighting Knights are searching for their identity and their first victory after a miserable 0-8 start against a mammoth schedule.

For the first time in the four-year history of UCF football, the Knights will play an afternoon game in the T-Bowl, and this week UCF faces another powerful foe. Last week the Knights were demolished, 41-7 by West Georgia and this week the Carson-Newman Eagles invade Orlando.

College Football

Carson-Newman is 7-1 in 1982 and ranked fifth in the nation for NAIA schools. Last year the Eagles were 7-4. UCF and Carson-Newman met once before when the Eagles defeated the Knights, 30-21. However, it was later learned that a Carson-Newman player was ineligible and the Knights won via forfeit.

Although the Knights have an 0-8 record, a few individuals have been outstanding this season. One is receiver

Mike Collier who has 22 catches for the season. Only a junior, Collier needs only 11 more catches to tie the UCF record of 33 set by Jim Taylor in 1981.

Ed Schenk is right behind Collier with 21 receptions. The Knights' passing attack has been much more productive than the running game. UCF averages 182 yards through the air per game with an average of 12.1 yards per completion.

Dana Thyssen leads the quarterbacks with 636 yards and three touchdowns. Raymond Agee follows with 510 yards passing.

Craig Named Rush-Hampton Marketing VP

Murray Craig has been named vice president of marketing of Rush-Hampton. He joined the Longwood-based firm as vice president of international marketing in 1981 following a progressive 18-year marketing career with the Dutch Electronics firm, Philips.

During terms with Philips Australia and Philips Canada, he worked in all facets of consumer goods marketing management. He achieved notoriety for his successful introductions of new kitchen electrics, particularly drip-filter coffee makers.

Craig established Rush-Hampton as a major international marketer of air treatment appliances with supply programs now in place in United Kingdom, Europe, Australia, Japan, Latin America, as well as, Canada.

As vice president of marketing, Craig will be responsible for all consumer, domestic, and international sales, as well as, medical and construction divisions.

BUSINESS

IN BRIEF

FP&L Projects Tests

Solar Cooling Power

Florida Power & Light Co. has finished a test of a solar-powered air-conditioning system, issuing a report card marked with grades that are both high and low.

The system was graded well because it did work. But it was graded low because it did not work well enough to overcome the extreme heat and humidity of South Florida, and had maintenance problems.

The test was conducted between May 1981 and September 1982 at the company's Perrine service center. FP&L officials said the complexity of the system — 82 solar collectors, a maze of pipes, valves, tanks, two chemical processors and one data-collection and control computer — was part of the problem because so many components were available to stop working. "The longest period the system at Perrine operated without a breakdown was two weeks," said principal engineer Bob Allan. "Even when it ran properly, it required extensive daily tinkering."

Another problem was that the demands made on the system exceeded its capacity. At best it met only 16 percent of the cooling needs of the building.

Information gleaned from the test led to two preliminary conclusions: that present-day technology could be used for solar cooling; and that such a system does not appear feasible for small commercial buildings in South Florida without fulltime maintenance personnel.

FP&L tested the system to determine whether the widespread use of solar-powered air-conditioning could reduce the utility's ever-increasing peak load. Reducing the peak saves customers money and means less money must be invested in power plant construction.

Under the sponsorship of the Electric Power Research Institute (EPRI), Arthur D. Little, an international research and consulting firm, managed FP&L's test program, which is now in the data analysis stage. EPRI is funding 80 percent of the project and FP&L is funding 20 percent. Total cost was approximately $500,000.

Florida Citrus Promotions Set

Expansion best describes the promotional activities planned by the Florida Department of Citrus this season in support of the growing fresh grapefruit market in Japan.

While the budget will be 50 percent greater than last year, the market area will be expanded from four large metropolitan centers to less heavily populated regions representing strong potential for grapefruit sales.

The promotional emphasis will see a broadening in the use of displays and in incentive programs for the retailer and the consumer, according to Bill Gordon, advertising director.

One consumer contest, to be supported by national newspaper and magazine insertions, will be a quiz format with grand prizes of trips to Florida's Walt Disney World. Consumer awareness also will be extended with a spot television advertising program planned in the new marketing area of Sendai.

Commitments on the part of several chain retail groups led to the decision to increase spending for trade incentive programs, Gordon said. This proved successful in a test last year and will be conducted with display contests.

The overall budget of $300,000 includes $75,000 from the Foreign Agriculture Service of the United States Department of Agriculture, which also cooperates with the Department of Citrus in the conduct of Three Party promotional programs in Europe.

Business Program Saves 23,000 Jobs

A federal program to spur economic development in urban and rural communities has created or helped to save more than 23,000 jobs in hundreds of communities across the country.

The program is the U.S. Small Business Administration's Certified Development Program, commonly called the 503 program after a section of the Small Business Investment Act. In SBA's Region IV, which includes Florida, Georgia, Mississippi, Tennessee, Kentucky, North Carolina, and South Carolina, the 503 program has created or saved 782 jobs.

In the Jacksonville district, the program has created or saved 139 jobs. Douglas E. McAllister, SBA district director, said, "The 503 program is one of the government's principal economic development tools to assist communities, both urban and rural. It already has stimulated growth and expansion of small businesses in hundreds of communities and has created or saved more than 23,000 jobs through a unique partnership between the Federal Government and certified development companies (CDCs). "These companies include state and local government and the private sector."

SBA guarantees debentures of the CDCs, which in turn use the proceeds to assist small business by financing part of long-term fixed asset projects. So far, SBA has certified 267 development companies.

Florida Leads In Employment Growth

Florida, Texas Show Economic Strength

Florida and Texas are the only two large states in the nation that are showing economic strength during the current recession, according to a recent report by the University of Texas at Austin.

In a special bulletin prepared by the University's Bureau of Business Research, the two sunbelt giants have the strongest economies of the nation's 10 most populous states.

In releasing the study's findings, Secretary of Commerce Stuart Edgerly said he was particularly pleased to see that Florida led the Big Ten states in employment growth.

Florida's employment increased 3.8 percent from July 1981 to July 1982, according to the report. Texas was second with a 1.6 percent increase.

"Florida and Texas were also tied for the top spot in personal income growth and population growth," Edgerly said. "Both states recorded a 3.1 percent population gain according to the study. And personal income rose 12.2 percent in Texas and 12.1 percent in Florida. California was third with a 10 percent rise."

Texas topped the Big Ten in retail sales increase with an 8.3 percent jump. Florida's 3.5 percent rise tied with Pennsylvania for fourth behind Illinois and Massachusetts.

The report also said that Texas had the lowest unemployment rate among the 10 largest states when the recession began in July 1981, and a year later was still the best with a rate of 7 percent. Florida was second with 7.3 percent.

Since the report was completed, however, unemployment in Texas crept up past 8 percent in the latest figures released for September. Massachusetts, among the largest 10 states, reported 7.2 percent unemployment. Florida is second with 7.5 percent.

He will be responsible for overseeing the management of the approximate 8,000 apartment units the company has developed in Florida.

Walgreen Reports Dividend

The Board of Directors of Walgreen Co. has declared Walgreen's 29th consecutive regular quarterly dividend.

The company increased the dividend to 30 cents per share from the previous rate of 25 cents per share, payable Dec. 11, 1982, to shareholders of record Nov. 15, 1982. For fiscal 1983, this represents an annual dividend rate of $1.20 per share, compared to $1 for fiscal 1982, an increase of 20 percent.

Walgreen, one of the nation's leading retail drug chains, earlier reported sales of $2.94 billion and net earnings of $68.1 million for the fiscal year ended Aug. 31, 1982. The company has operations in 38 states and Puerto Rico.

Stockholders of record at the close of business on Oct. 1 will be entitled to vote at this meeting.

... Women Gaining Political Strength In Seminole

keep up with events better than women in earlier years.

Jane Dees, the second woman council member elected in Oviedo in September, is also a full-time homemaker and has one daughter, Ragan, 7, a student at St. Luke's School.

In addition, the 37-year-old has a college degree in social science and taught government in Indiana.

Mrs. Dees feels comfortable in her role as a city legislator, adding that women seem to have more time to study and research issues and the capability of meeting deadlines more easily than working men.

Mrs. Dees and Mrs. Pellarin joined Janice Finch on the council to make up the majority.

Mrs. Dees said the male minority on the Oviedo council currently and male predecessors on the council have been gracious in extending information and explaining past events that influence current city business.

Jean Bryant, 57, who was elected Tuesday to the Seminole School Board, says the fact that she will become the third member of the female majority on the board will not influence her decisions.

"I am independent and my own person," she said. "I won't go along with anyone whose thinking is not in line with mine, whether that person be a man or a woman."

In preparation for the return to the office she held for eight years from 1966 to 1974, Mrs. Bryant will be seen often in the school administration office in Sanford in the few days remaining before she takes office Nov. 16.

She's gathering information to update her knowledge of the school system. During the eight years she's been out of office, Mrs. Bryant has worked with dividends, the school volunteers, especially at the elementary school level.

In the past year she worked especially with foreign speaking children, teaching them vocabulary and sentence structure. Most of her Dividend work has been at Midway Elementary. Earlier this school year when one of her Laotian students from Midway was transferred to Idyllwild School the student asked that Mrs. Bryant help her with her language studies.

"These kids are very sharp," she said.

Mrs. Bryant in her bid for re-election did not have a formal campaign organization. She had old friends from all over the county who offered their help.

"I had a people-to-people campaign," she said.

Mrs. Bryant, despite having no formal organization, carried 62 of the 72 precincts in her Seminole County contest and tied two others. Mrs. Bryant when elected in 1966 was the first woman ever elected to the Seminole County School Board.

With members Pat Telson and Nancy Warren, Mrs. Bryant will be part of the female majority on the board.

In Winter Springs, Leanne Grove 34, and Inez Linville were elected to the City Commission Tuesday to join Maureen Boyd, a three-year veteran on the board. Come December she will be the senior member of the Commission.

Mrs. Boyd was re-elected unopposed to a three-year term in 1981.

Mrs. Boyd, now 30, was one of the youngest elected officials at 27 when she first won office in 1979.

"The only change I see coming on the commission is that women will be the majority," she said.

She said the newcomers will probably notice when they take office in December that they will have a different way of looking at things.

"When one becomes a commissioner, the issue is the same. But the way she looks at it will be different. She will look at the issue with her mind and not with her emotions," Mrs. Boyd said.

"I'm excited," Mrs. Boyd said. "Now we've got three men" male mayor and two male commissioners) and three women. That kind of events the board out."

Mrs. Boyd has three sons, Michael, Mathew and Marty, all students at Central Florida Christian School.

Inez Linville rounds out the new majority in Winter Springs. She says from publications she has read on women in politics it appears that women in elective office do not bend as easily as men.

Compromise is not an easy philosophy for women to follow, according to Mrs. Linville.

Having just passed the "big 40" she is a career woman and an officer in her own business, Ariwan Properties which she also operates. It deals in commercial investment and residential properties.

Saying she is neither a women's libber nor bra burner, Mrs. Linville, notes that women are also good at business.

The native of South Dakota, who has lived in Seminole County for eight years and in Winter Springs for the past 3 1/2 years, says she thinks it's great that women form the majority of the Winter Springs City Commission and hopes they will make a lasting contribution to the community.

Her children are: a daughter, Stacey, 18, going to school in California, and son, Scott, 22, in the real estate business here.

... Golden Age Games Monday

City Hall at Park and Seminole Boulevard.

Taking part in the opening ceremony will be the Naval Training Center Band, Miss Florida Deanna Pitman and Miss Sanford Catherine Stewart. This year's honorary chairperson is Dorothy Franey Langkop, 67, of Dallas, Texas, an Olympic skater who won her first gold medal 50 years ago at the age of 16. She served as chairman of the first Texas Senior Games which were held in June based on Sanfor's Golden Age Games.

Officials of the city, Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, and General Foods' Post Cereals, co-sponsors of the games, will also be on hand. Highlight of the opening ceremonies will be the lighting of the official Olympic flame.

"The response has been overwhelming this year," said Virginia Longwell, chamber executive assistant. "There have been 325 entries in the golf tournament and we've had to go to two days. There are 100 entries for bridge and we'll have to probably cut that off. Interest in horseshoes is way up this year with 37 signed up by Friday. Archery, which takes place at 9 a.m. Friday at Seminole Community College, has already attracted six entries."

New events this year include race walking, the six-mile walk through the streets of Sanford; one-and three-meter competitive diving, and a photography contest. Entries in photography and the hobby show should be entered Tuesday between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m. for judging on Wednesday. Exhibits will be open to the public through Friday.

Events scheduled for Monday following opening ceremonies include bowling, the 1/2-mile bike race, synchronized swimming, tennis, sailing, and women's 8-ball billiards. Canoeing will get underway Monday afternoon, as will men's 8-ball billiards.

Deadline for these events was 5 p.m. Friday. Rules, schedules and entry blanks for other events scheduled for the week can be picked up Monday at the Games headquarters at the Chamber of Commerce building, First Street and Sanford Avenue. Entry fee for each event is $1 (plus bowling, lane fee and golf cart fee.)

Free breakfast will be available at the Civic Center courtesy of Post each morning for Games participants. Orange drink and coffee will be furnished by McDonalds at the Chamber headquarters.

Tickets are available at the Chamber for the Jubilee Dinner Dance to begin at 6:30 p.m. at the Civic Center on Wednesday. Admission is by advance tickets only which sell for $6.50 per person. The Sanford Serenaders Band will play music for dancing.

Each entrant will receive a free Golden Age cap and a lapel pin. Gold, silver and bronze medals will be awarded the winners in each event.

The idea of Sanford playing host to an Olympic-style event for senior citizens was conceived by Vic Arnett, now chairman-emeritus. The second week in November was chosen because it is traditionally a slow period for tourism and there are plenty of motel rooms available.

Each event is sponsored by a local organization. General Chairman of the Games is Jim Jernigan, Sanford parks and recreation director.

From its small beginnings as the Golden Age Olympics eight years ago, the event has grown in popularity each year and has received national publicity on television and in the print media. The rules have been refined over the years and several similar competitive events for senior citizens have been patterned after it. The word "Games" was substituted when the city was told by the National Olympics Committee it could not use "Olympics."

The struggle for funds to put on the Golden Age Games each year was eased when General Foods' Post Cereals agreed to underwrite much of the cost.

New events have been added almost every year and there is talk about Cypress Gardens of Winter Haven, a Sanford chamber member, sponsoring a water skiing event next year.

Free transportation will be available for participants from the Chamber of Commerce building in downtown Sanford to event sites at the Sharidan Aquatic Club, Seminole Community College, and Seminole High School.

For further Games information, call the chamber at 322-2212.

Study: Breast Cancer Linked To Pollution

BERKELEY, Calif. (UPI) — Breast cancer may be linked to auto exhaust and smokestack emissions, researchers at the University of California at Berkeley say.

The researchers, who called the discovery a "significant step" toward finding the cause of the disease that strikes one in 11 women, obtained the "first experimental evidence" linking benzopyrene, a hydrocarbon combustion byproduct, with breast cancer, laboratory officials said.

The findings were reported in a recent issue of the Journal of Cellular Biochemistry.

"Benzopyrene is the most common chemical carcinogen in the environment resulting from the burning of fossil fuels," said Jack Bartley, one of the two biomedical scientists who conducted the research.

"It may be found in automotive exhaust as well as in emissions from industrial smokestacks, and mammary cells are well-supplied with enzymes which act on this substance," he said.

Bartley and his colleague, Martha Stampfer, also found dietary fat may be "a contributory factor" in breast cancer.

Studies in underdeveloped countries where the incidence of smog is much lower have shown a lower rate of cancer.

NEW OFFICE POLICY . . . MOST INSURANCE ASSIGNMENTS ACCEPTED WITH NO EXTRA OUT-OF-POCKET EXPENSES BEYOND POLICY REQUIREMENTS

We are happy to announce a "NEW OFFICE POLICY — MOST INSURANCE ASSIGNMENTS ACCEPTED WITH NO EXTRA OUT-OF-POCKET EXPENSES BEYOND POLICY REQUIREMENTS."

What does this mean to you? You pay absolutely nothing, we accept whatever your insurance company pays, you pay no deductible whatsoever. If your policy calls for $50.00 deductible per year, you pay us nothing. If your policy pays 80 percent after the deductible you still pay nothing. The reason we are doing this is because we understand that many people and many families have members who need treatment for some health problems and find it difficult to pay the deductible to acquire health care. This way, it costs you and your family absolutely nothing out-of-your-pocket for health care in our office.

It's The Manatee's Month In Florida

BRADENTON (UPI) — This is "Manatee Awareness Month" in Florida and, if you can stand his breath, you can look Snooty right in the eye and pat him on the head.

Snooty resides at the South Florida Museum in Bradenton and officials say he is the oldest manatee in captivity. He is 34 years old.

Federal and state law prohibits boaters and divers from chasing the endangered "sea cows" to get a closer look at the easy-going mammals. But there still are some places in Florida where one can make friends with the dwindling creatures.

Capt. Lewis Sheller of the Florida Marine Patrol in Tallahassee says there currently are 15 manatees in captivity in Florida. Even some of them are not readily accessible. They are being treated for illnesses or injuries and may eventually be returned to the wild.

Snooty, though, is a 600-pound blob of friendliness. He could be lonely in his 8,000-gallon indoor pool. He has no mate and is the lone manatee at the Bradenton museum.

"He is very friendly and will come right up to you and put his head on the rail (of the pool)," said museum director John Hare. "You can stare him right in the eye if you want to. But he has terrible breath."

Snooty was born July 21, 1948, at the Miami Seaquarium and was brought to Bradenton in 1949. Authorities don't know for sure how long a manatee lives, but there has been speculation it is about the same span as for humans.

Like other captive manatees, Snooty is well cared for and precise records are kept on his diet, health and development.

The Rose A Celebration In Nature And Art

By LORRAINE LINK
Special To The Herald

"The wolf also shall dwell with the lamb, and the leopard shall lie down with the kid; and the calf and the young lion and the fatling together; and a little child shall lead them." (Isaiah 11:6)

So began Isaiah's prophecy of peace for the world, according to the King James version of the Bible. More than 100 years ago, this prophecy inspired an American artist to paint more than 60 canvases entitled, "The Peaceable Kingdom."

Edward Hicks was a humble, traveling preacher who began painting his "Peaceable Kingdom" series around 1820. He lived in the era of the Quakers, Indian treaties and ardent patriotism.

Now, more than a century later, his work is being honored with an eight foot by eight foot canvas that will be on display for this first time this weekend in Deland. The artist responsible for this tribute—Benini Benini, who currently lives about 20 miles east of Sanford on Lake Harney, has shown his paintings in more than 65 one-man shows throughout the world. His exhibition, "The Garden of Spatial Delights," which features the tribute to Hicks, will open for the public Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. concurrently with the 10th Anniversary Volusia County Rose Show at First Federal Mid-Florida in Deland. Thousands of live roses will accompany the art exhibition, a celebration of the rose in nature and art.

Those who have seen Benini's work know the recurring symbol in his paintings is the rose, in countless designs and settings. With the rose, Benini has explored in each painting, some aspect of that mysterious eternal search for the answer to what it means to be alive and human.

Art is magical. Science, myths, memories and fantasy can all merge in a painting. And so it is in a second huge painting that will be hung directly above the tribute to Hicks at First Federal Mid-Florida.

In this painting, Benini has re-created the planetary system. Jupiter and Saturn, Pluto and Venus are all there, floating roses, and a blue abyss. There is a faint glow around each rose that sets it free of the loneliness that space could imply. Instead, they are light and cheerful. Benini's rendition is based on the Grand Planetary Alignment that occurred earlier this spring, a rare occurrence when all the planets were lined up on one side of the sun, an event which will not happen again for centuries.

How did Benini's long involvement with the symbolism of the rose, and other images he paints frequently, including the serpent, ballerinas and eagles come about?

"I have chosen to deal with the world of symbols, primarily because it has been, and will always be a form of language that transcends the limitations of time and speaks through the ages to different souls at different levels," he replied.

"Naturally, it puts the mind on certain limiting tracks; this might be a disadvantage compared to the total freedom that certain forms of abstraction allow us, however, these limitations can very well become guidelines to a structured form of dialogue.

"When I paint an eagle, I take the eagle out of its ordinary life and allow it to become a symbol of all that this bird has become in man's mind through the ages, but I also add subconsciously what I personally know about this symbol — its ruthlessness in its dealing with smaller birds, its seemingly heartless behavior that lets its own eaglets who are pushed out of the nest die a slow death of starvation, and all the other less-than-pleasant qualities of its particular nature in the animal world," Benini continues.

"In view of this process, the presence of each element in a painting becomes all encompassing in the overall meaning. Each segment becomes part of a puzzle that will continue to find different meanings and solution as time and man change."

and the 10th Anniversary Volusia County Rose Show will be held at First Federal Mid-Florida, 345 N. Woodland Blvd. in Deland, Sunday from 1 to 5 p.m. Both events are free.

Benini's paintings will remain on display through Jan. 28, 1983. After this weekend, they can be viewed during regular banking hours. For any further information, please contact Malinda Chambliss at First Federal Mid-Florida, (904) 734-2551.

Cuddly Pantyhose Dolls Generate Smiles And Coos

By LORI DREW
Special to the Herald

It seems some people were brought into this world just to make other people smile; to make them laugh; to make them want to reach out; and most of all to make them feel like children again.

Some such people are being made solely for such purposes by a Casselberry woman nearly every day now (and until Christmas). The woman is Rita Crews, and the people are her soft sculpture babies she brings into this world to bring a stitch of happiness into others.

Rubbing noses could mean a run in "pantyhose," since that is what the life-size darlings are made of. Facial features resembling the most comical expressions only mothers and fathers ever get to witness become frozen in a warm bunch of "poly-fil" behind sheer-to-waist sandelfoot hose.

The petite size is magically transformed into a toddler. The queen-size pair of fashion legs quickly grows into three feet of a squeezable, lovable forever-child. And a child's set of tights makes a newborn even your oldest can't hold too hard.

Holding pieces of pantyhose arms and legs to torso and head is the job of the carpet thread Mrs. Crews also uses to sculpt fingers, toes, belly buttons, elbows and even dainty derriere. Fake fur adorns these baby boy heads, while coils of rug yarn eliminate the need for curlers.

"The kids just love them," says Mrs. Crews, full-time fiscal secretary at Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford. She began her project of making the dolls just one month ago for each of her seven grandchildren for Christmas. "These babies are great for kids. They can hold them and squeeze them without worrying about hurting them," said the creative grandmother.

But grandchildren are not the only real-life people who instantly love the soft sculpture dolls. Their seamstress brought four completed "babies" to her place of employment recently.

See DOLLS, Page 3B

Rita Crews gets ready to put her soft sculpted dolls to bed. These four just might be destined for Santa to deliver to grandchildren Christmas Eve.

Time for a diaper change. Even baby bottoms are added to dolls with carpet thread and a careful, creative hand.

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Over 300 Attend Pre-School Center 10th Reunion

The 10th reunion of the Presbyterian Pre-School Center was held Oct. 29 in the fellowship hall of the church.

A spaghetti dinner was served to over 300 guests. Many alumni returned with their families to visit old classmates and former teachers. After dinner, a time for remembering and catching up was shared by those present, and it was decided to make the reunion an annual one, according to Pat Hartwig, teacher and director of the school.

The Presbyterian Pre-School began in September, 1972 under the auspices of First Presbyterian Church of Sanford and is located still in the educational buildings of the church.

Ken Mullis, associate pastor and minister of education that year, was the first director of the pre-school for 3 and 4 year olds. There were 17 students, one teacher, Mrs. Carolyn Durak, and her assistant, Mary Jean Berrien.

Today the pre-school, under the direction of Mrs. Hartwig, has 120 students, six teachers, and one full-time aide. Two kindergarten classes have been added to the school since its beginning.

The Presbyterian Pre-School Center is the only school of its kind in Sanford that does not provide daycare also. It is open to the public and accepts all denominations. The teacher-pupil ratio does not exceed to 12 to 1 in pre-school and no more than 16 to 1 in the kindergarten classes. Although the school is housed by the church, its only sources of income are tuition and fund-raising.—LINDA HOLT

Organists Host Hymn Festival

The Central Florida Chapter of the American Guild of Organists will host a Hymn Festival Tuesday, at 7:30 p.m. at St. Mary Magdalen Church, 861 Maitland Ave., Altamonte Springs.

Starting at 7:10 p.m. Thomas A. DeWitt will play a 20-minute Prelude of hymn tunes. Joe Troxell will play the offertory and postlude. Paul Skevington will be organist for the hymns and will be assisted by a Brass Quartet from UCF. Dr. Robert Fort will be coordinator.

The public is invited to attend this program.

YMCA Family Programs

The Seminole YMCA has some new programs beginning this month for family members of all ages. This informal education program will include flower arranging, danceercise, slimnastics, aerobics, guitar, weaving and macrame, art for children, basic golf, dog obedience, woodworking, beginners bridge, stained glass, karate and a special holiday decorations class. Most classes are held at the Seminole YMCA with a few at the local schools. Everyone is welcome to participate and costs are minimal. Come and join us and have some fun. For times, places, and other information, call 862-0444.

FHA-HERO Conference

The Future Homemakers of America-HERO (Home Economics Related Occupations) chapters from Seminole County high schools will attend the District 5 Conference to be held Thursday, from 8:30 a.m. to noon at the Tupperware Auditorium, Kissimmee.

AARP Changes Meeting

Sanford AARP will meet Nov. 18, at noon in the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce building for a covered dish luncheon and election of officers.

The monthly board meeting will be held at 10:30 a.m. Nov. 17 at the chamber. Those changes will eliminate conflict with the Golden Age Games.

Longwood Women To Meet

The Longwood Women's Club will meet Tuesday at 1 p.m. in the club building, 150 Church St.

The program will be a talk by a Seminole County Commissioner. Refreshments will be served.

Candidates Night, Club Boutique Set

On Nov. 15, the Chamber of Commerce will hold "Meet the Candidates Night" at 8 p.m. at city hall. The Seminole County League of Women Voters will preside over the evening's activities.

"Meet the Candidates Night" has proven to be an evening of learning the views and positions of the candidates who will be elected to direct the future of our city. Voters should take advantage of this opportunity to hear our candidates speak.

Many citizens cast their votes, not knowing the candidate or what their positions are on crucial items affecting the city. This is your city and your future. Know who and what you will be voting for in the Dec. 7 election. Attend this informative evening.

The Lake Mary Woman's Club will hold its First Annual Boutique Nov. 13 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. and on Nov. 14, from 1-4 p.m. at Lake Mary City Hall.

'Fall Frolics' To Mark Guild's 15th Season

Frolic into fall is the theme the Board of Directors of Ballet Guild of Sanford-Seminole has chosen to celebrate the non-profit dance company's 15th season.

But don't confuse "Fall Frolics" with a performance by the Ballet Guild dancers. This fun gala at the Sanford Civic Center on Nov. 13 is for the community to enjoy. A live band, Passenger, will be featured at the colorful event which begins at 8 p.m.

According to chairman Joe Monserrat, there will be light food, door prizes, a cash bar and some surprises.

Attire for the evening is casual. Donation is $15 per couple. Tickets are available at the door or in advance from the following BGS board members: Mary Blair, Jonnie Butler, Elsa Caskey, Jean Clontz, Mary Ann Duxbury, Ron Dycus, Eleanor Maresca, Ed Korgan, Joe Monserrat, Dora Lee Russell, Pat Scott or Gail Stewart.

A down-home, old-fashioned fall gathering is planned. BGS Board president Jean Clontz says, "We want a feeling of warmth and welcome for our many friends and supporters in the community who have made this cultural endeavor possible."

A little premature, perhaps, but according to Margie Beine, chairman of Beta Sigma Phi's Valentine Ball next February, organizations are asked to sponsor a male candidate in a "legs contest" that will take place that evening.

Who will your group's candidate be? Call Margie, 322-2893, after 5:30 p.m.

Nora Gordon seems to be surviving her retirement well. Nora says she and her granddaughter, Norita Kemp, have been traveling and "having a good time."

will be held at the State Garden Club Headquarters, 1400 South Denning Drive, Winter Park Thursday, Friday and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. On display will be exhibits of flower designs, plants and educational and Junior Gardening.

Lou Woodruff is co-chairman of the Design Schedule.

Seminole County Bar Association members and guests will gather at the Speer Camp in Geneva for the Annual Bar Barbecue, Nov. 13, from 12:30 to 5 p.m. For information and reservations, call Lee Barks, 322-8495; or Kris Rabinowitz, 830-7354. The tab is $6 per person.

Candi and A.A. (Mac) McClanahan are celebrating their 36th wedding anniversary this weekend. Mac says they did not know each other but 10 days. The "love at first sight" case has endured for 36 happy years, Mac says.

Rupert Strickland was the center of attraction among friends and family on his 80th birthday. Rupert was honored by his wife, Minnie, and their family.

Patricia L. Meredith, formerly of Sanford, will present a recital, Nov. 7, at 3 p.m., in Concert Hall of the Fine Arts building at Seminole Community College.

The recital will include works, both sacred and secular, from a variety of composers including Mendelssohn, Handel, Mozart, Wagner and Strauss.

Patricia, a voice student of Dr. Bert H. Perinchief, will be accompanied by Robin Lee Hodges. The recital is open to the public at no admission charge.

A large crowd turned out at the First United Methodist Church Bazaar and Luncheon Friday. Jean Musgrove was bazaar chairman and Lou Baker was luncheon chairman.

Peggy Deere is chairman of "Hacienda Holiday," a luncheon and fashion show to benefit Hacienda Girls Ranch, Melbourne, a project of the Florida Federation of Women's Clubs.

The event will be held Nov. 17, at noon, at the Woman's Club of Sanford. The luncheon will be catered by club members. The fashion show will be under the direction of Lois Dycus, owner of Lois' Place, Sanford.

For information and tickets, call Martha Yancey or Peggy Deere.

Mrs. Lena Black made a colorful alphan, the door prize to be given by SISTER, for the Fourth Annual Sundae in the Park, social soiree Sunday, beginning at 1 p.m. until 6 p.m., at the Sanford Civic (note change from Centennial Park).

Chairman Vivian Buck says entertainment and door prizes will also be featured.

So gather family and friends and go to the Civic Center Sunday where 47 couples will be renewing their wedding vows during the aforementioned ice cream social.

Paula Stevens, chairman of the vows renewal, says 18 states, England and Nova Scotia are represented in the couples who have registered to renew their vows. Paula says if other couples married 50 years or more would like to renew their vows, they may register at the Civic Center Sunday before 2 p.m.

FASHION, BEAUTY EXPERT TRAINS IN LOS ANGELES

Mrs. Ceynowa says, "Part of the Merle Norman philosophy is to help women develop their own style through a better understanding of how cosmetics relate to fashion."

UDC Learns How Nations Progress

A warm welcome and a busy agenda greeted members of the Norman deVere Howard Chapter of the United Daughters of the Confederacy as they gathered at the home of Mrs. Troy Ray on South Crystal Drive. Mrs. Glenn J. Wimbish was co-hostess.

A memorial to a departed member, Mrs. A.B. Wallace, a Real Daughter, was conducted by assistant chaplain Mrs. Donald Dunn with Mrs. I. D. Hastings reading the resolutions. Presiding over business was Mrs. Linda Zike, president. Detailed plans for a Membership Tea in December were discussed and committees formed.

Also, Mrs. Hastings says interesting and enthusiastic reports were heard from committees concerning the Seminole County Museum of which the Chapter will have a part in establishing.

Mrs. Troy Ray introduced the guest speaker, Cmdr. Guy Strickland who gave an account of an article taken from E.P.O. Elks Lodge, newsletter of Sanford written by professor Alexander Tyler over 200 years ago while the 13 original colonies were still part of Great Britain. In part, he said the average age of the world's greatest civilization has been 200 years.

Strickland says these nations have progressed through this sequence: from bondage to spiritual faith; (a great spiritual awakening just before the Revolutionary War); from spiritual faith to great courage; from courage to liberty; from liberty to abundance; from abundance to selfishness; from selfishness to complacency; from complacency to apathy; from apathy to dependency; from dependency back again into bondage.

Commenting on these steps, Strickland says he only hopes that all of this country will agree that we never get to that fifth step in the above sequence if we are to protect the personal liberty we have in these United States.

Refreshments were served to Cmdr. and Mrs. Strickland and 12 members attending.

Diabetes Meeting

The Lake Monroe Chapter of the American Diabetes Association will hold its regular monthly meeting at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday in the cafeteria of the Central Florida Medical Center in Sanford.

Speaker is Jane Dennis, chief clinical dietitian at the Orlando Regional Medical Center. Mrs. Dennis will speak regarding the best route for diabetics to take regarding their diet over the holidays.

She has been at the Orlando Medical Center for the past four years. She did her preparation at Iowa State University, and interned at Indiana University Medical Center. The public is invited to attend these meetings of the ADA every second Tuesday on each month.

only to find nearly every co-worker and visitor cooing and cuddling, at the very least smiling, over the wonders of Mrs. Crews' handiwork.

"Once you get the basics," she explained, "you use your own ideas." The Casselberry woman received the basic instructions from three classes at "Crafts Plus" in Altamonte and is now experimenting with knee-high stockings. "It's fun. It really is."

Yet, much time and effort goes into each new soft person. "It takes me about four to six hours for each one, depending on the size and hair," said Mrs. Crews, also explaining her cost being approximately $5 for materials and an additional $4 or $5 for clothes. "You can buy or make their clothes," she explained, adding, "I just hate to see my babies undressed."

Buster was born to wrestle. She clad him, her first-born, in a terry cloth short and tank top set. Others were dressed in jumpers with B-A-B-Y bracelets and socks. "Yes, it's time consuming," the grandmother admitted. Perhaps that is why she grows to love each little person she creates. "You become attached to each one you make."

Even though her "babies" will one day leave home to bring smiles to another, Mrs. Crews keeps attaching stuffed pantyhoes joints along with a lot of love to each new doll, finishing them with blushing cheeks and moveable eyes.

These soft sculpture people may be new to some Sanford folks, but the idea of making Christmas presents for family and friends is as old as Christmas itself.

You may not wish to attend a craft course as Mrs. Crews did, or you may not wish to purchase an instruction booklet from your local craft store, introducing the techniques of soft sculpting.

But if you do wish to become one of those people brought into this world to make other people smile; to make them laugh; to make them want to reach out; or to make them feel like children again, try a little handwork of your own. Then hand your creations to others as Christmas gifts. And watch them smile.

A Bullet Does More Than Kill

DEAR ABBY: You said it is possible for a woman to become pregnant and still remain a virgin. It sounds impossible, but I know it's true, which reminds me of a similar story I read in a reputable magazine some years ago.

It seems that during the Civil War (May 12, 1863, to be exact), a young Virginia farm girl was standing on her front porch while a battle was raging nearby. A stray bullet first passed through the scrotum of a young Union cavalryman, then lodged in the reproductive tract of the young woman, who thus became pregnant by a man she had not been within 100 feet of! And nine months later she gave birth to a healthy baby!

You don't believe it? If it hadn't been published in the very reliable American Heritage magazine (December 1971, page 96, in a story titled, "The Case of the Miraculous Bullet"), I wouldn't have believed it either.

LELAND E. SMITH, NASHVILLE, TENN.
DEAR MR. SMITH: Several years ago I ran that item in this space, which brought me a letter from a 90-year-old South Dakota Indian. He said he heard a different version of the same story. Only the girl wasn't a Virginia farm girl, she was an Indian maiden who claimed she had been impregnated by a bow and arrow.

Maybe that's where the traditional Indian greeting "How?" originated.
DEAR ABBY: I am writing to congratulate you for doing something I have never seen another performer do, although I'm sure that many wanted to.

I was in the audience at the Capitol Theater in Yakima, Wash., yesterday when you lectured for a Town Hall series. You were about 10 minutes into your talk when a baby started to cry. The cries did not let up. Instead they became increasingly disturbing. Almost everyone in the auditorium (it seats 1500 people) became distracted and many were obviously annoyed, but the mother of the crying child just sat there, apparently unconcerned.

You stopped talking, Abby, and all that was heard in the theater was the sound of the crying baby. After what seemed an eternity, you said softly and apologetically, "I'm sorry, but I can't go on with that distraction."

In support of your courage the audience broke out in wild applause! Finally, the mother left with the crying child in her arms.

Count me as one who appreciated your courageous action. A FAN IN YAKIMA

DEAR FAN: Thanks. I needed that.
DEAR ABBY: I recently gave a zircon ring to my girlfriend. I had every intention of telling her it wasn't a real diamond, but she became so excited when she saw it, I just couldn't get the words out of my mouth.

She showed it to all her friends, and they all thought it was "real," too, which made matters worse. Should I tell her the truth or let her go on thinking it's a diamond?

BETWEEN A ROCK AND A HARD DECISION
DEAR BETWEEN: They say "A diamond is forever," but don't expect the same mileage out of zircons you've tried to pass off as the real thing. Tell her the truth before somebody else does.

Briefly

Bishop Folwell To Preside Sunday At Holy Cross Church

The Right Rev. William Folwell, bishop of the Central Florida Episcopal Diocese, will be at the Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, this Sunday at the 10 a.m. service to preach, preside over a baptism and confirmation and celebrate the Eucharist. After the service there will be a covered dish luncheon in the Parish Hall.

Sharing Center Moves

The Sanford Christian Sharing Center moved Saturday to its new location at 314 Magnolia Ave.

Luncheon Speaker

The Rev. Robert Anderson, curate of Holy Cross Episcopal Church, Sanford, will present the program at the Fall Luncheon of the Episcopal Church-Women at noon Monday. Those attending are asked to bring a covered dish. Dessert and beverage will be furnished.

Bishop Dedicates Allen Organ

This Sunday, Messiah Lutheran Church, 510 N. Highway 17-92, Casselberry, will celebrate Holy Communion at the 8:30 and 11 a.m. services. At 6 p.m. there will be a potluck supper in the Parish Hall, followed by the dedication of the new 305 Allen Organ which will take place in the sanctuary at 7 p.m. Bishop Royall A. Yount, of the Florida Synod, Lutheran Church in America, will dedicate the organ and there will be a concert by Phyllis Marie Carlson, organist.

Church Dedication Set

E. Ray Schulz, secretary of the Peninsula Florida District of the Assemblies of God will be ministering at the 11 a.m. service at the dedication of Rhema Assembly of God, corner of Wilbur and Country Club Road, Lake Mary. Special music is planned and a covered dish luncheon will follow the service.

Hayride Planned

The College and Career Singles and the Young Adult Couples Sunday School classes of Pinecrest Baptist Church, Sanford, will leave the church at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 13 for a hayride.

'God's Prison Gang'

"God's Prison Gang," a dramatic motion picture documentary hosted by Art Linkletter concerning the international prison ministry of Chaplain Ray will be shown at 7 p.m. Sunday at Upsala Presbyterian Church. It will be open to the public free of charge.

Missionary To Speak

The Rev. Dave Darwick, missionary to Costa Rica, will preach at the 7:30 p.m. service this Sunday at First Baptist Church of Deltona. The Lord's Supper will be served at the close of the service.

Loyalty Night Supper

First Presbyterian Church of Sanford will hold its Loyalty Night supper at 6:30 p.m. Nov. 7 in the church fellowship hall.

Deacons To Be Dedicated

A deacon dedication service will be held at Pinecrest Baptist Church on Nov. 14 for Joe Gazil, Don Tise, and Ron Willis, who were elected last Sunday. Gazil will also be ordained as a deacon.

UCF Choir To Sing

The University of Central Florida Gospel Choir will be presented in Concert at The New Mt. Calvary Missionary Baptist Church, West 12th St., Sanford, Nov. 14 at 3 p.m. The Dual Day Committee invites the community to enjoy this afternoon of music. Rev. G.W. Warren is pastor.

Music Classes Set

Beginning this Sunday at 6 p.m., Seminole Heights Baptist Church will have some general music classes for adults taught by Mrs. George Elliott and Mrs. Richard Mullins at Lake Mary High School. Benefits of the session, according to the church's Minister of Music and Youth, Richard L. Mullins, will be to help choir members sharpen their skills and congregational singers to enjoy the music more.

Heritage Celebrates

Heritage Baptist Church celebrates its First Anniversary this Sunday. A full program is planned, beginning with Sunday School at 9:45. There will be something special for everyone in the family.

For the children, ventriloquist, Ann Marie Weis and her wooden friend, Jackie, will have special programs during both Sunday School and the morning service. For the teens, there will be music by guitarist, Keith Wilson, and special guests, athletes sharing their testimonies. The "Sonrise," a local Orlando group, will be singing for both Sunday School and the morning service. The Brass Jubilation Ensemble of First Baptist Church of Orlando, will play and many guests, including local civic leaders and congressmen will be joining in the celebration.

Pastor Ron Crews will be bringing a "wrap-up" lesson during Sunday School on "The Spirit-Filled Life," and then speaking during the 11 a.m. service on "Who Is Jesus?" In addition, there will be a multi-media presentation entitled, "The Future With Heritage Ministries."

The day will climax with Rev. Grant Rice from Murfreesboro, TN, speaking in the 7 p.m. service. The Church is presently meeting at the Sabal Point Elementary School on Wekiva Springs Road near Sweetwater. Nursery will be provided.

Concert By Choir

The University of Central Florida Gospel and Cultural Choir of Orlando will present a concert at the St. Paul Missionary Baptist Church, 813 Pine Ave., Sanford, on Saturday, Nov. 6 at 7:30 p.m.

$7 Million Project Planned

Baptists To Get Into Satellite TV

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — Southern Baptists are embarking on a $7 million satellite television network project that will offer religious instruction to church leaders and inspirational entertainment to the public.

The denomination, which counts 13.8 million members, is launching the project through two of its independent agencies — the Southern Baptist Sunday School Board in Nashville, Tenn., and the Radio and Television Commission in Fort Worth, Texas.

The Southern Baptist Sunday School Board will offer closed-circuit leadership instruction programs to the 36,000 Southern Baptist Churches in the United States.

The Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission will produce inspirational programs for national distribution through cable and low power television stations. It will be called the American Christian Television System.

"Heretofore, we have been limited to print media, plus personal appearances across the country," said Dr. Grady Cothen, president of the Sunday School Board. "When telecommunications becomes available in 1984, we will have instant communication with everyone who has a receiving dish.

"Our objective is to secure cooperation from the churches and the state conventions in installing the receiving dishes. Once these dishes are planted across the country, all denominational agencies and entities will be able to communicate directly and immediately with state conventions and churches. So it will have the same significance that this technology has had on the business world — instant communications," Cothen said.

The two Baptist agencies have initially earmarked $3.5 million each to lease satellite time and buy two transponders to send their programs to a satellite that will beam the signal back to dish-like earth receivers.

"Our basic goal is to be programming six to eight hours a day by March 1, 1984," explained Like Williams, executive vice president of the Radio and Television Commission. "We might be doing it sooner on another satellite."

"What we are going to be doing is really establishing a pay TV network," said Joe Denney, manager of telecommunications for the Sunday School Board. "Some 61 percent of our 36,000 churches have less than 300 members. They are the churches who can benefit the most. We are going to rely on them to pay for it through subscriptions."

Denney, a 43-year-old Auburn University graduate, said many small Southern Baptist churches don't have their own music or education ministers and some have pastors without formal training.

Denney said the board anticipates the major problem will be the initial $4,000-$5,000 cost of the dishes that will be borne by individual churches.

REVIVAL SET

Evangelist A.J. Creel of Acworth, Ga., will conduct revival services at the Elm Avenue Church of God of Prophecy, 2509 S. Elm Ave., Sanford, Sunday through Saturday, assisted by his wife, Dorothy. Before going into fulltime evangelism he served as state overseer in several states and Canada.

Pros And Cons On Death Penalty

It would help us immensely if we always knew what God wanted us to do in every situation of our lives.

We can go to the Bible and sometimes get a pretty good idea of what he would have us do. But it does not have a ready answer to fit every single question that confronts us.

As for capital punishment, however, God couldn't have made himself more clear. Genesis 9 reads: "And God said... Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed."

To the Bible fundamentalist, that settles it. Capital punishment is right and moral. It is God's will, quote and unquote. Never mind that the Supreme Court doesn't see it that way. God is higher.

(The high court ruled a decade ago that capital punishment is "cruel and unusual punishment" and unconstitutional. Since then, it has pulled back from that position and has said that the death penalty is constitutional in certain cases. Several states now have laws which provide for the death penalty.)

To the non-Bibler fundamentalist, the passage in Genesis 9 doesn't settle anything. Did God really say that? they ask. Or was this some ancient culture's idea of what God would say? Was the writer in Genesis putting words in God's mouth?

Those who oppose capital punishment can also quote the Bible in defense of their position. Doesn't the Bible say, "Thou shalt not kill"?

This commandment is often advanced by people who oppose not only capital punishment but war and even hunting. Such forms of killing were, however, not prohibited in Old Testament times.

A more accurate rendering of that commandment would be, "Thou shalt not murder." It does not forbid the slaying of animals, capital punishment or the killing of enemies or war. What it does forbid is all killing not explicitly authorized.

The commandment was designed to heighten respect for human life by making it illegal and immoral for one man to take another's life. But it did not bind the hands of society once somebody had broken that law. Murder in Old Testament times was punishable by death.

By and large, however, the running controversy over the death penalty is not a controversy over Bible interpretation. It is an argument being fought over questions like, "Is the death penalty a deterrent to murder?" In other words, is capital punishment in the public self-interest by saving the lives of innocent people?

It is an argument being fought over questions like, "Unless

Saints And Sinners

we have capital punishment, won't murderers who win parole be free to kill again?"

One opponent of capital punishment is Perry Johnson, director of the Department of Corrections in Michigan where a petition drive to reinstate the death penalty after 135 years fell short of the number of signatures required to put it on the ballot this year.

Johnson couldn't have been more pleased. "In Michigan, which has not executed anyone in nearly a century and a half, we have no record of any person, commuted from a sentence of first-degree murder, who repeated that crime," he says.

"First-degree murderers who do not die in prison serve an average of 25 years before release and their record in society thereafter is exemplary."

Even so, there are many today whose sense of justice is offended by seeing a convicted murderer ever again enjoying freedom and those good things of life which can never be restored to the innocent person whose life he wantonly cut off.

Another of Johnson's arguments against capital punishment (it is an argument also used by others) is that it cheapens the value of human life.

Proponents of the death penalty argue just the opposite. They say that the higher the price we put on anything, the more value we are attaching to it. Once we lower the price that must be paid for taking another person's life, we are lowering the value we put on life.

As so the debate goes on. Neither side appears to have enough points for a clear-cut victory. What can be said, however, is that today's swing back toward less permissiveness, plus the rise in violent crimes, has caused many who were formerly opposed to the death penalty to switch sides.

UCF Gathering Promotes Peace For Middle East

A "Gathering for Peace and Justice in the Middle East" is scheduled for 8 p.m. this Sunday at the University of Central Florida Village Green with Gene Burns as moderator. Speakers will include the Rev. Donald E. Wagner, national director of the Palestine Human Rights Campaign, university professors and representatives of Campus Ministry.

The event is sponsored by the Arab Student Organization in conjunction with the Orlando American-Arab Anti-Discrimination Committee. Co-sponsors will be the International Student Organization, the Black Student Union and other campus groups.

There will be a candlelight ceremony and choral music. Refreshments will be served following the program and the public is welcome.

Wagner comes from Chicago and is an ordained Presbyterian minister who has served congregations in New Jersey and Illinois. He made two trips to Lebanon during and after the war and has agreed to share his observations regarding events in the area and thoughts on where Americans should go from here to prevent further suffering.

The Palestine Human Rights Campaign is an American humanitarian organization comprised of peace, religious, university and human rights communities.

The purpose of the gathering is to help promote peace and understanding in this troubled area of the world.

ABS Sets Bible Sunday

Countless men, women and children around the world long for a Bible of their own, because they want to read its message of hope for themselves.

But Bibles may be hard to come by where they live or even at very low prices beyond their means, and for them owning a Bible remains only a dream.

Americans will be remembering these spiritually hungry millions on the Sunday before Thanksgiving, November 21, which has been officially designated Bible Sunday.

A small number of denominations, however, choose to celebrate the event on some Sunday later in the year.

Bible Sunday, whose origins can be traced back to the church prayer book of England's Archbishop Cranmer in 1549, was adopted by the American Bible Society as an annual observance at the turn of this century. Its aim is to focus people's attention on those who still lack the Word of God in their own language.

The 1982 theme, "Share The Word With The World," is a telling reminder that Scriptures, so readily available to almost everyone in this country, are either in short supply, not obtainable locally or too costly through bookstores in many other places.

"It is a day when we reflect on the vast number of people everywhere with a deep but unsatisfied longing for God's Word," observes Alice Ball, an ABS general secretary, "and rededicate our energies to helping meet their needs."

Ministry To Alcoholics Workshop In Tampa

The Hazelden Continuing Education Department is offering a workshop titled "Pastoral Ministry To Alcoholics and Their Families" Dec. 7-9 at the Franciscan Retreat Center in Tampa. Instructors for the workshop are fully certified Clinical-Pastoral Education supervisors. The workshop is approved for 1.5 academic credits through the University of Minnesota; 1.5 Continuing Education Credits are also offered.

"Pastoral Ministry to Alcoholics and Their Families" will respond to one particular question: "What are the spiritual dimensions of care related to the recovery of alcohol-drug dependent persons and their families?"

This three-day workshop, valuable for clergy or anyone involved in parish ministry, will explore topics including: the emerging role of clergy in identification, treatment and prevention of drug and alcohol problems; spiritual implications of addiction and recovery; information about alcoholism and drug dependency; the Twelve Steps of Alcoholics Anonymous and Al-Anon.

For registration information, call (812) 257-4010, Extension 417.

Conciliation Seminar

The Christian Conciliation Service is sponsoring two mini-seminars for pastors. The first at the Christian Life Center, First Baptist Church, Orlando, Nov. 9 at 8 a.m. The second at Falth Lutheran Church, 500 Silver Star Road, Orlando, on Nov. 16 at 8 a.m.

The seminars will introduce pastors to CCS — a new legal program that seeks to bring resolution and reconciliation in legal cases outside the court system.

CCS is affiliated nationally with the Christian Legal Society of Oak Park, Ill. The cost of mediation is $50 per party. In cases where the fee is a burden, the service is provided free. CCS is financially supported by charitable contributions.

Victory Over Problems

I talked to a man the other day who, I believe, was just about as whipped out as anyone can get. Life had pushed him so far down into the dark dumps that he declared he had to look up to see the bottom.

What his real trouble was he never quite got around to telling. His was a long list of minor woes; none of which amounted to much compared with those of his pleasant and jovial neighbor. The man who lived next to him, lived in a wheelchair and had to be pushed wherever he went, not because he was crippled, but because he was crippled and blind. Nevertheless, there was always a smile on his face and a strange, triumphant sparkle in his voice whenever someone took the time to stop and speak to him.

One day he confided to a friend that the reason he was so contented and obviously happy, was that he knew now that nothing could touch him. He had risen above life's petty little problems.

They tell the story that one day a lot of loafers were gathered around a favorite spot in Hades discussing floods. One man there was describing the first and famous Johnstown flood. He was doing a good job of it, giving dramatic flourishes and pleasant exaggerations.

All of those listening to him, except one little runt of a fellow, appeared to be enjoying his story. The little fellow would grunt now and then with obvious disdain . . . maybe even contempt. The storyteller finally got tired of the sneers of his listless listener and asked, "Who are you, anyhow, to sneer at my story of the Johnstown flood?"

The little man answered with considerable disdain: "Why my name is Noah, and I went through a little flood myself once which makes you look silly."

Well, that's the way it is. There are certain experiences that come to us which give us a lofty attitude from which we can look down on all other experiences and know that life can no longer touch us very deeply . . . can no longer hurt us . . . can no longer push us about.

Surely, most of us have had such experiences out of which we can either continue to whine or begin to win. Why not be one of the winners? When you reach that point, life will then be filled with a peaceful power. This is the "Victory that overcometh the world."

Baptists Pledge $13.1 Million

ORLANDO (UPI) — Members of a large Orlando church have pledged $13.1 million during the next three years to pay for a 5,500-seat sanctuary and a Sunday school, officials say.

The money from the six-week-long fund drive will be used for the first phase of construction at the First Baptist Church of Orlando. The drive comes on the heels of a $2.5 million campaign last year in which the 6,000-member congregation raised enough money to pay cash for 160 acres of land.

The first 1,100 families to make pledges in the recent fund drive accounted for more than $10 million of the money promised — averaging about $10,000 a family over three years. There were even some Social Security recipients who pledged $5 a month.

While most of the pledges are in cash, a non-member donated a watch collection valued at $8,000, which he had spent 30 years putting together, said the Rev. Jim Henry, pastor of the church.

The church received deeds to between 15 and 20 pieces of property in Orlando, Jacksonville, south Florida, North Carolina and the Bahamas. A couple said God spoke to them in their car and instructed them to donate a piece of property.

Another $1.5 million came from the sale of some of the church's downtown land.

First Baptist plans to move into its new "worship center" just west of Interstate 4 in mid to late 1984.

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

For Sunday, November 7, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY November 7, 1982
If you forego wasting your time on a lot of frivolous pursuits and concentrate on worthy projects, the year ahead will reward you handsomely. This is the year to make things happen.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you permit your pride to get in the way today, it will hamper your chances for success and could tarnish your image. Put ego in the background. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Others will have small respect for your opinions today if you give indications that you're unappreciative of theirs. Don't be closed-minded.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Be hopeful regarding the outcome of events, but don't bank entirely on Lady Luck. You'll need extra determination to achieve your objectives today.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Decisions founded upon easy outs or the course of least resistance could backfire today. Base your judgment upon realistic factors.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Normally you are generous and giving, but today you might not be too willing to part with anything unless you are certain you'll get more in return.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Do not make demands of others today you'd not like to have made upon you. Dictatorial behavior will cause avoidable problems.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) If a misunderstanding occurs today between you and your mate, make amends promptly. Once the issue is settled, don't bring it up again.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Even if the situation warrants it, try not to criticize another publicly today. It could cause this person to overreact in self-defense.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be a trifle more security-minded than usual today about your possessions. Unprotected items may tempt someone who is unscrupulous.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Try to cooperate today instead of being too insistent upon having your own way. If things go wrong, you'll be blamed.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) It's important today that you tell it like it is without stretching facts to adjust your story. Even small fibs will be easily spotted.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of telling others what should be done today, set the example. When they see you're industrious and productive, they'll try to match your performance.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This should be a pleasant day, but there's a chance you may be tempted to neglect some duties in order to enjoy yourself. Put responsibilities first.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your possibilities for personal gain look good today, provided you're not afraid of a little hard work to bring them into being.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In situations where you are directing the actions of others today, be very explicit. Fuzzy directives may cause problems.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you hope to collect funds which are owed to you, it's not likely the debtor will take care of things without some prompting.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your friends like you for what you are, not for what you have or what you can do for them. Don't pretend to be anything but the real "you."

For Monday, November 8, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY November 8, 1982
The times ahead look interesting and promising for you. You might even revitalize two ventures with which you previously were unable to succeed.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Don't look for easy outs today if you hope to achieve your objectives. Be prepared to make a second effort if the first one fails. Find out more of what lies ahead for you in the seasons following your birthday by sending for your copy of Astro-Graph. Send $1 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Be sure to specify birth date. Send an additional $2 for the NEW Astro-Graph Matchmaker wheel and booklet. Reveals romantic combinations and compatibilities for all signs.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Jumping to conclusions could get you off on the wrong track today. When you study situations thoroughly, you aren't apt to make bad evaluations.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today could prove rather unusual in that situations which you thought to be shoe-ins could fizzle, and others that you felt were "bummers" might turn out to be fruitful.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Major accomplishments are possible today if associates have aims in harmony with yours. Those who don't share your point of view could complicate things.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) To accomplish your goals today, you might have to do things in steps rather than in a single thrust. Secure your footing before making the text move.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Strive to be discerning regarding involvements with friends today. Business and pleasure are not apt to make a good mix. Keep them separate.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Instead of telling others what should be done today, set the example. When they see you're industrious and productive, they'll try to match your performance.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This should be a pleasant day, but there's a chance you may be tempted to neglect some duties in order to enjoy yourself. Put responsibilities first.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) Your possibilities for personal gain look good today, provided you're not afraid of a little hard work to bring them into being.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In situations where you are directing the actions of others today, be very explicit. Fuzzy directives may cause problems.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If you hope to collect funds which are owed to you, it's not likely the debtor will take care of things without some prompting.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Your friends like you for what you are, not for what you have or what you can do for them. Don't pretend to be anything but the real "you."
