WHITE MAGN

All day the snow came against the face
Of our tall mountain, blowing every line
To sadness, there was scarcely any place
That did not hold its imprompt, every pine
Was huddled white, and the stream was still That summer long went tumbling down the hill.

Our valley, too, was blanketed, yet cold
With icicles, and where the drifts were deep
The little village clashed within their hold Lay couched in feathery beds, asleep.
Only the red barn kept its friendly glow Against the battlemented banks of snow.

The mountain was no more; we looked around
To glimpse again its rugged,
kindly brow,
But it had gone;
across the crystal ground
We heard the wind mysteriously sough,
A wind whose touch was a magician's wand
That laid white magic over road and pond.

Against Capital Punishment

"There are no grounds upon which I could in any way support the execution of a woman," said Governor Martin L. Davey of Ohio.

"Oh, my God," spoke the convicted woman, "I think he would do that to me."

There is a situation in Ohio which finds the chief executive of the state torn between upholding the legal integrity of his commission and interfering in behalf of a woman sentenced to die in the electric chair.

Here we have a case of a woman, 32 years old, a mother of a 11-year-old boy, convicted of murdering an old man for his money and accused of killing three others.
She was tried and convicted by a jury of her peers in strictly legal fashion. Her pleadings before a clemency commission that she was not given a fair trial were not upheld. Now she faces death in the electric chair and the governor is called upon to make his choice between upholding the law and being called a brute, or succumbing to sentiment and being dubbed a weakling.

We have little doubt that those who profess a belief in capital punishment would be found among the most social demagogues of Governor Davey for not commuting the death sentence of the convicted woman and thereby sparing the state and nation from the disgrace.

This lack of certainty among adherents of capital punishment when a crisis arises, the tendency of us all to back down when the issue confronts us of sending to death a convicted person, and the resultant difficulty in obtaining a conviction when the death penalty is involved, are all reasons militating against capital punishment as a part of our legal system.

But over and above all these reasons there is the most prevalent consideration, that of humanity, which cries out against the exercising of the most brutal instincts in man.

The German Dilemma

The failure of certain Germans to understand why Americans are getting such a bad impression of the Fuhrer and admirably answered by the New York Herald Tribune which writes:

"At the moment when the powerful head of the German police is prohibiting the ownership of motor vehicles to all Jews in the land, at the moment when the police president of Berlin is barring Jews from all places of public entertainment and the papers are printing maps indicating the police lines and which they may not go at a moment when many reputable official refinements of persecution and cruelty are daily announced by the leaders of the hero side, the German Consul General in New York rather plaintively asks a Hoboken audience why 'we hear only unfavorable things about the German people, never anything favorable on this side of the ocean.' Mr. Bor-ner replies, the opinion of the character as a simple mixture of crudeness and arrogance, he feels that only one side of German life is being presented to the American public.

"To a degree, no doubt, he is right. The number of Americans who are again convinced (as so many were during the war) that there is a peculiar depravity in the German character itself is apparently growing. The idea that virtually all the 75,000,000 Germans must be nearly as brutal, as aristocratic, as crude and as arrogant as their government is undoubtedly widespread. It is, of course, inaccurate. There are many wholesome aspects of German life which, not being news when they occur in other countries, do not, naturally, get into the news. Disparities between Germany and Germany are much the same human mixture of good and bad as are the rest of us, and the accident that so many of their worst types have got into their highest and most prominent offices cannot alter the fact. But the trouble is that the Nazis themselves have devised the most perfect possible instrument for compelling those lands in which free thought and communication still survive to hear and think the worst of them; and there seems very little which any but the Nazis can do about that.

"These are just the unfortunate but unavoidable consequences of the Nazi method. It is strange how pathetically those iron men, the dictators, want somebody to love them; but it is not strange if they find, in the end, that they can't have it both ways. That is just one of the facts of life."

Mother's Night Is Held By FFA Chapter

Characterized as one of the most successful meetings of its kind ever held here the Seminole Chapter of Future Farmers of America held its annual Mother's Night in the vocational agriculture building in the rear of the high school last night, according to Alex R. Johnson advisor.

Mr. Johnson reported that there were 37 chapter members present and 24 mothers.

After the opening of the meeting with the usual Future Farmer ritual Kenneth Gustavson, in a short address, welcomed the mothers to the meeting and also gave a brief outline of the work of the chapter.

The Future Farmers string band furnished music for the occasion and Arthur Williams sang an entertaining song. A monologue of a negro preacher was given by Warren Odham.

The mothers inspected the chapter's meat curing plant, house and other work of the vocational agriculture students.
The guests also enjoyed Chinese checkers.

At the conclusion of the meeting refreshments were served and those present gathered around the huge fireplace to pop popcorn and toast marshmallows.

the trade body from the public utility fund.

He was advised that this body yesterday.

On a motion made by Com-

The Table Supply Store was awarded the contract for furnish-proved as were the bonds of Fred

L. E. Jordan, members of the Seminole County Board of Public Instruction.

Complying with the order of the State auditing department, the Commissioners directed the clerk to notify all county officers that the Board would no longer be responsible for telephone bills. Telephones will be obtained in the other county offices but the Board will not be

Marie Hahn Appeals To Federal Court

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Dec. 7.— Marie Hahn, scheduled to die in the electric chair tonight, sought a writ in federal court as the last legal step in a fight to save her life.

Joseph Hoedlin, condemned prisoner Hahn's attorney, contended she was not given a proper opportunity to defend herself.
Judge Mel G. Underwood said he would hear the application later today.

The 32-year-old Hahn, who was born in Bavaria and is the mother of a 12-year-old son, was convicted of administering poison to 78-year-old Jacob Wagner, Cincinnati gardener.

The state charged Wagner was one of four elderly men poisoned by Mrs. Hahn so that she could obtain their savings to pay her race track losses. Gov. Martin L. Davey declined to grant the woman clemency.

BRITAIN MINING GOLD

LONDON.—(AP)—Gold mining is being developed in the Northwestern area of England. During 1937, 787 tons of gold ore (dressed) were produced at $2, 080, compared with 6 tons in 1936 valued at $25.

places he said were engaged in gambling.

Solicitor Joseph E. Williams of Tampa said Haggerty, under questioning, failed to reveal any evidence of gambling and did not know the names or addresses of any persons who had made such reports to him. He said Haggerty's charges were based upon "rumor and hearsay."

Deade county prosecutors said Willis had not complied with their invitation to supply evidence on which they could base prosecutions. State Attorney G. A. Worley said a witness subpoena the county grand jury issued for Willis could not be served because he "had left the State and returned to New Jersey."

Writing to Solicitor Williams at Tampa, the Governor said "it is my intention to see that gambling is held to the lowest possible minimum, and prosecute it vigorously when sufficient evidence is available."

"While the law must be upheld as it applies to all criminal offenses, I desire to emphasize that all species of gambling must be held down in every way possible."

Squadrons of bombers often Bilbao and Valencia and nearly town and strip heavy necessity bombs that damage and destroy warehouses and important depots.

Six days ago Franco began

128 communities in government-

ROME, Dec. 7.—(AP)—New French demonstrations in Sicily pleas continued today. Italian Union for Africa and Middle Eastern territories held by France Classes were suspended at the University of Naples as a result hundred students walked out in march on the French consulate.
At the consulate, about 100 guards turned them back.

Demonstrations then passed through the main streets waving flags and shouting slogans of Tunisia, Corsica and Djibouti and acclaiming Premier Mussolini.

Tunisia, North African protectorate, Corsica, Mediterranean island, and Djibouti, Red Sea territories of the railway from Addis Ababa, capital of Italian Ethiopia, have been the chief possessions claimed in the past week's Italian clamor.

A youth student demonstration occurred at Florence.
These manifestations followed anti-French outbursts yesterday in Rome, where the French embassy was still strongly guarded today. Genoa, Milan and Turin also had demonstrations. Italian newspapers kept the agitation boiling.

BELLEVILLE, Dec. 7.—(AP)—The German press stated unanimously and with emphasis yesterday that the new French-German war renunciation pact in no way detracted from the solidity of the Rome-Berlin axis.

The mouthpiece of the foreign offices, Diplomatische Politische Korrespondenz, asserted that the French-German agreement, as well as the similar British-German understanding, was the direct outgrowth of German-Italian policies.

German newspaper correspondents in Paris were keenly aware of dissenting voices in France, and for once they have spared their readers little ad-

Household Hints

Here is a quickly made cake frosting. Place six chocolate-covered peppermints and four chocolate-covered wintergreen candies in double boiler, add two tablespoons of cream and cook until hot and well blended. Quickly spread over the cake and in a few minutes the frosting will harden.

Efficient cooking equipment is as essential to meal success as good ingredients. When buying spoons see that they are large, light and easy to hold. Too often spoons are so heavy that they tire the wrists or the handles are so sharp they cut into the hands.

Steam Brazil nuts for ten minutes, then cool them and you can remove the kernels easily. To remove pecan kernels whole, simmer the nuts in water to cover, in covered pan for ten minutes. Cool the nuts in water and then crack them gently.

Here's a list of the month's characteristic flowers that will come in handy when planning a party: January, carnation; February, primrose; March, violet; April, daisy; May, lily of the valley; June, roses; July, sweet peas; August, gladioli; September, aster; October, dahlias; November, chrysanthemum, and December, holly or poinsettia.

Add a dash of cinnamon and a little brown sugar to the whipped-cream topping of your pumpkin pie. Another good topping is made with half a cup of white cream cheese to two cups of whipped cream.

Giants And Cubs In First Players Deal Of Meeting

Leiber, Mancuso And Bartell Join Team Of Gabby Hartnett

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 7.—(AP)—Manager Gabby Hartnett, in a move to rebuild the National League champion Chicago Cubs, swapped off Shortstop Billy Jurges, Catcher Ken O'Dea and Outfielder Frank Demaree yesterday to the New York Giants for hard-hitting Outfielder Hank Leiber, Catcher Gus Mancuso and Shortstop Dick Bartell.

The deal was completed with the Giants' Bill Terry here last night on the eve of the 17th annual convention of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, traditionally the scene of a flurry of winter trading. It followed a day of rumors which for the most part were denied as fast as they circulated.

In trading Jurges, a massive fielding shortstop, Hartnett broke up one of the greatest keystone combinations in baseball—Jurges and Billy Herman, Cub second baseman and captain of the team. Jurges, 28 years old, joined the Cubs in 1931 and reached his peak in 1934 when he led the National League shortstops by 15 points.

Bartell, an easy out infielder, joined the Cubs in 1937. He was the Giants' first baseman in 1937 and 1938.

Shippers Will Ask Wage Law Exemptions

Definite Plans Made By Celery Handlers To Petition Administrator Andrews

Grimes Is Named Group's Attorney

Opposition Voiced To Proposed Vegetable Weight Increases

Cheaper means of transporting Florida's large supply of fruits and vegetables to northern markets and exemption of processors of these fruits and vegetables from the regulations of the wages and hours law are the chief topics of discussion among Florida shippers.

At a meeting in Lakeland Tuesday a committee was appointed to petition Administrator Andrews for exemption of the celery wash houses over the state from the provisions of the wage and hour law.

The celery shippers appointed as their attorney, Mr. Grimes of Bradenton who is also working for exemption of the citrus packing houses from the regulations of the law. Action on the growers will be taken within the next few days since wash houses will begin operation after the first of the year.

W. M. Scott, manager of the vegetable division of the American Fruit Growers, and Andrew Duda of Ovidio are on the shippers committee, appointed to work with Mr. Grimes on the petition. Other members of the committee are W. R. Hamlett, manager of the Manatee County Growers Association and B. W. Powell of Palmer Farms in Florida.

Plans for formation of a permanent celery shippers organization with possible headquarters in Sanford was also discussed at the Lakeland meeting. A committee was appointed to draw up plans for such an organization to be acted upon at the next meeting which will be held in about 10 days.

The organization, it was pointed out, would tabulate information on the celery shipments, and also keep a check on the state's celery acreage harvested.

Shippers are attempting to obtain exemption from the regulations of the wage and hour law in the wash houses while the growers are advocating the return of the industry to the field pack for celery. They claim that processing costs during a poor season often represent their margin of profit.

Return to the field pack and elimination of the wash houses would throw thousands of Florida laborers out of work during the harvesting season and the investment in machinery and equipment would be a loss, shippers have pointed out.

Many local shippers attended a meeting of the Grower and Shippers League in Orlando yesterday at which members voted to vigorously oppose the proposed increase.

River Line Dock In DeLand Will Not Be Rebuilt

DELAND, Dec. 8.—Abandonment of DeLand as a shipping point by the St. Johns River line seemed more likely than ever here yesterday as local merchants failed to evidence much interest in the rebuilding of the line's docks and warehouse, which were destroyed last week by fire.

Forty-one DeLand consignees had been represented by $25,000 worth of shipments lost in the blaze. Nearly all the goods was covered by insurance.

Indicating that the shipping company would not consider rebuilding the docks and warehouse unless DeLand merchants express a lively desire for them, Fred H. Treshler of Daytona Beach, co-manager of the line, left a detailed audit of losses with the local chamber of commerce Monday.

He requested Secretary L. V. Cantrath to contact the affected consignees and determine their sentiments, and yesterday Cantrath did not raise much interest when he began his survey.

Most DeLand merchants believe their river freight rates will be unchanged if the local warehouse is abandoned and this city is included in the Sanford territory. They point out that New Smyrna Beach and Daytona Beach consignees have been charged the same rates as DeLand in the past, although the east coast goods had to be hauled some 25 or 30 miles by trucks from the docks near this city.

Constitutionality Of Anti-Arsenic Law Upheld By High Court Decision

TALLAHASSEE, Dec. 8.—(AP)—The Supreme Court upheld yesterday the authority of Agriculture Commissioner Nathan Mayo to destroy oranges that have been sprayed with arsenic or its derivatives.

The decision, written by Justice Elwyn Thomas, held the 1927 anti-arsenic law constitutional and affirmed a decision by Circuit Judge H. C. Petteway of Bartow refusing to halt seizure of fruit owned by Siney Groves, Inc., of Lakeland.

In a special opinion, Justice Armstrong Brown and Rivers Bradford said they still believed the act unconstitutional as applied to grapefruit, but valid as covering oranges. They voted against the act several years ago in a case from Polk County involving grapefruit.

At that time, one Circuit Judge ruled the act good and another held it bad. Both rulings were upheld automatically when the Supreme Court divided 3 to 3 on appeals.

As a result, Mayo reaped enforcement of the act all over the State against grapefruit because of the conflict of law that had developed.

Justice Thomas said the Siney Groves case showed no evidence that arsenic sprays made the fruit deleterious to health, but declared it affected sale of Florida fruit.

"The cultivation of inferior fruit and the marketing of a product inspiring lack of confidence in the buying public," he wrote, "would result in downright loss not only to the growers as a whole not resorting to such methods, but to a vast army of employees dependent upon the business for a livelihood."

The act as applied to oranges also has been under attack recently in a case at Titusville. There Circuit Judge M. B. Smith of Titusville upheld the law. His decision is expected to be appealed.
