Most Powerful Explosion Rips Desert Underground

'Hiroshima' Sized Blast Detonated; Record For Power

ATOMIC TEST SITE, Nev. (UPI) — The most powerful underground explosion in world history violently rocked a lonely desert mesa today as atomic scientists detonated a "Hiroshima" sized device 850 feet beneath the earth's surface.

The device, dubbed Blanca, blasted the core of the mesa from its cavern below ground at the end of a 3,000-foot tunnel. It dislodged millions of tons of rock and dust as scientists raced the clock to meet a proposed test deadline.

Scientists rated Blanca, which relinquished its devastating might through nuclear fission at 7 a. m. p. m., as equal to 20,000 tons of TNT.

The AEC officials said it was the largest manmade underground explosion ever "we know of."

Blanca burst into the mesa edge.

An atomic bomb with the same "blast" rating leveled the city of Hiroshima, Japan, during World War II, leaving 14,500 dead and bringing that country's surrender a week later.

Felt In East

Blanca sent its shock waves rippling under the earth's surface to be picked up on seismographs at such distant points as New York and Alaska. Seismic readings on an Oct. 15 blast with less than half the yield of Blanca, were made on the Atlantic seaboard.

Six Days In Mine, 12 Men Alive; 57 Others Are Dead

SPRINGHILL, N. S. (UPI) — Twelve coal miners trapped for six days in a dark tunnel of their wrecked mine were brought out safely early today to cheering relatives and friends who had given them up for dead.

The 12 survivors, discovered Wednesday when rescue workers pushed a pipe through the debris that imprisoned them, appeared to be in good condition although one was reported to have a broken leg. Some of them grinned and waved wildly to the crowds that the good news brought to the pithead.

Women and husky mine workers wept with unabated joy as the men were hauled from the depths of the continent's deepest coal mine on slope-climbing carts called "trucks."

Others unaccounted for

But mine officials said there "is no hope for 57 more miners unaccounted for today. The underground was a liquefied, or "slumped," that ruined the Cumberland Coal company's mine No. 2 struck last Thursday when 174 men were working. During the next few hours 81 men were rescued or made their way out and 24 bodies were recovered.

The men were discovered alive at 1:45 p. m. Wednesday, but it took rescue workers more than 12 hours to break through to the life-saving pocket where the men had been entombed since 7:30 p. m. last Thursday. The pocket kept poisonous gases from the men and trapped with them enough air to keep them alive, rescue workers specialized.

Atom Can Bring Variety Of Rich Benefits To All

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The men in charge of the U.S. atomic project hope the world won't reject use of nuclear explosives for peaceful ends.

They believe the atom's violence can be made to produce not a harvest of death and desolation but a rich variety of benefits for all mankind.

For this reason Chairman John A. McCone and his colleagues on the Atomic Energy Commission hope the East and West in test ban negotiations starting Friday in Geneva will exempt peaceful nuclear explosions.

Americans Capture Coveted Prize For Cancer Research

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (UPI) — Three American scientists won the 1958 Nobel Prize for Medicine today for their pioneer work in genetics—studies that could lead the way to a cure for cancer.

One-half of the $41,250 award went to George Wells Beadle, professor at the Rockefeller Laboratory of Biology, Pasadena, Calif., and Edward Lawrie Tatum, professor at the Rockefeller Institute, New York, for their discovery "that genes act by regulating definite chemical events."

The other half of the prize went to Joshua Lederberg, professor at the University of Wisconsin, for his discoveries concerning "genetic recombination and the organization of the genetic material of bacteria."

The awards were made by the staff of Sweden's medical research center, the Karolinska Institute, which said the American discoveries would have a strong influence on the search for a cure for cancer.

Discuss Pasternak Upwar

Today's announcement completed Stockholm's part in awarding Nobel prizes this year. However, it was overshadowed by the rejection of the Nobel Prize for literature by Russian writer Boris Pasternak. The Swedish Academy will meet later today to discuss the situation created by his renunciation of the award.

This Whisky Was Real Snake Poison

ATLANTA (UPI) — Two patrol men emptying a sack of bottled moonshine whisky reached in four times and brought out four bottles.

On the fifth draw, Pat. G. P. Hicks and R. B. Harfield said, "out came a 14th snake. They said they kept it stomped the snake and finished it off by dousing it with some of the whisky."

Crash Kills Negro

WEST HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Paul Carlisle, 22, a Fort Lauderdale Negro, was killed Wednesday when a truck slammed into another truck stopped for a traffic light.

UP GOES THERMOMETER—The United Fund climate was warmer today, some $2,000 worth. Marcel Fallo stands on a ladder to paint the new "temperature" to the $11,000 mark.

United Fund Climbing; Total Passes $11,000

The Seminole County United Fund climbed past the $11,000 mark today, Roy Mann, campaign treasurer, announced.

The "big rush" came from Odham & Tudor. Employees of the firm gave $750. This amount was matched by the company. Art Harris, representing Odham & Tudor, yesterday presented checks and pledges to Harold Kastner, UF president, totaling more than $2,000. Harris is the chairman of the building and suppliers division of the UF drive.

Harris said most of the Odham & Tudor employees who live in Seminole County had contributed a half-day's pay to the drive. Harold Odham, president of the company, told employees that the company would match the total pledged by them.

Russia Gets Tough On Nuclear Tests

GENEVA (UPI) — The Russians assumed a tough attitude today against Western proposals to suspend nuclear weapon testing for one year. There were reports the United States and Britain would refuse to budge from their position on a firm control system.

Diplomatic sources said the two countries would tell Russia an agreement to end the tests without proper controls would be worthless.

But Radio Moscow, quoting the newspaper Sovetskaya Russia, said the Soviet Union would continue to explode nuclear weapons until the West agreed to an immediate cessation of nuclear tests.

The Russian news reports said the Communists would reject the proposal of a one-year suspension.

Harris, skipper of VAH 9, and Cdr. Hal Lang, skipper of VAH 7. Charlie Morrison, emcee of the Coffee Club introduced the Naval officers. Other introductions included three City Commission candidates, Joe Baker, David Mathis, and Sonny Harborn; Ed Andrews, Richard Deas, and Lee Samuels, present for the first time; Sam Levy and Marvin Meltzer, local manufacturers; Harland Howe, Ed DeMers, Harold Hardester, Syd Morrison, Ed Mimer, and Barney Wolford, Florida State Bank.

Clifford McKibbin spoke briefly concerning the Chamber of Commerce membership drive now underway. Those present were invited of the Jaycee get-out-the-vote campaign and the election Tuesday.

The November meeting of the club will be held the third Thursday in the month because of Thanksgiving. Morrison stated that the crowd was the largest ever attending a session of the club.

UP GETS LIFT — Harold Kastner, Howard McNulty and Art Harris look at checks and pledges, totaling $1,460, from Odham & Tudor and its employees. Some of the men who gave to the agency are shown at Sunland Estates, where the presentation took place. The total was divided evenly between employees and the company. Harris, chairman of the building and suppliers division of the UF, turned in more than $2,000.

Contract Accepted

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — Union workers at two big atomic plants voted early today to accept a new contract, but following the vote members of a machinists' local renewed their picketing of the plants.

Refrigerator Law Goes Into Effect

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A early-haired 3-year-old boy climbed into a refrigerator and the door slammed shut.

His mother found him five hours later — dead. Tiny finger marks on the inside of the refrigerator door testified to his efforts to escape.

A federal law aimed at eventually ending such "free box deaths" went into effect today. The law requires that all refrigerators sold in interstate commerce must be constructed so a small child can open them from the inside.

Must Open Easily

Refrigerator doors must be built so they will open when: —Not more than 15 pounds of pressure is applied from the inside where the handle is located.

—Or, an inside knob requiring not more than five pounds of pressure is turned.

—Or, some automatic device requiring not more than 15 pounds of pressure to operate.

Congress passed the law in 1956 and directed the administration to draw up specific requirements. Many refrigerator manufacturers have been installing the required safety features for some time.

The law requires that all refrigerators sold in interstate commerce more than a dozen children a year on the average are trapped in refrigerators and few boxes and reached 26.

Most of the deaths have involved children becoming trapped in abandoned ice boxes or unused refrigerators. However, some have involved refrigerators in use.

Governor Renews Pledge To Fight Against Gambling

MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — Gov. LeRoy Collins renewed his attacks on gambling Wednesday night and said he will vigorously fight attempts to turn any Florida city into another Las Vegas.

Collins did not refer directly to a move by the Dade County Commission recently to legalize casino gambling in Greater Miami. But he told the annual convention of the Florida Hotel Assn. here that Florida faces enough challenging problems without "opening up a Pan-Java's box of gambling."

He said that the fight to rid Florida of slots and other crime is all an all-time high and is going to get even stricter if he has his way.

Commenting on constitutional reforms, he said he is confident the 1959 Legislature will submit acceptable revisions, including more realistic reapportionment.

"If Florida continues its present position at the bottom of all states in legislative representation proportionate to citizenship, "our future progress will be wrecked by internal discord and devastating sectionalism," he warned.

One of the most challenging issues ahead, he added, is resolving of race relation tensions "and we must find ways to come to grips with this issue honorably and lawfully."

Discussing Florida's growth, he said the state needs only 27,000 new residents to become the 12th largest compared to 20th eight years ago.

Based on the population rise, Collins said he will not be surprised to see, five or six new congressmen, after the 1960 census.

Snow Flurries, Rain In Weather News

United Press International Snow flurries were occurring more frequently over the nation to give many points a foretaste of winter, but rain—five inches in Texas—continued in the weather picture.

The Lone Star State also had a touch of snow Wednesday. Cold air whipped chilling rain across the Gulf Coast from Florida to Texas, culminating in a five-inch downpour in the south-central part of the state.

As fresh flurries of snow pelted the Rockies Wednesday, searchers came across the bodies of two Minnesota youths missing for more than a week near the Wyoming-Montana border. One of the boys apparently killed himself after watching his companion freeze to death.

The heaviest snow in the western portion of the nation late Wednesday was at Colorado Springs, Colo., where one inch fell. There also was rain and some snow at higher elevations throughout New England.

cluded a narrow band of light rain from Texas across the lower tier of states to Florida, with gusty winds causing unpleasant conditions in parts of Texas and Louisiana. Winds were as high as 33 to 40 miles per hour.

Today's forecast was for clear skies over almost all of the country except the Southeast. Scattered showers were expected from Texas to Florida.

Hendrix Promises Full Bomb Report

OLDSMAR (UPI) — Segregationist Bill Hendrix said he will give a "full report" on school and church bombings Saturday night at a Ku Klux Klan cross burning at Jacksonville.

Hendrix, who did not elaborate on the report, said the KKK "speaking and cross burning in full regalia" would be held at 8 p.m. at the intersection of Phillips Highways and Bowden Road.

$4.30 Auction Bid Gets Man Fortune

LONDON (UPI) — Furniture dealer Frank Offord today displayed the glittering $250,000 treasure trove he bought for about $4.30.

Gross went up from the men through whose unsuspecting hands the treasure slipped — Auctioneer Hamilton Smith, who gave an old and dusty safe to trucker John Courtney just to get rid of it, and Courtney himself, who sold the safe to Offord for 30 shillings ($4.30).

"Cut!" said Courtney in broad cockney. "Stone the bloomin' crown!"

Inside the safe was a diamond tiara valued at $150,000. Other jewelry and gold discs were valued at about $100,000.

Only clues to the original owners were letters inside the safe addressed to Madeline Constance Hall of 20 Eaton Place, Brighton. A Bible listed her birth as September 1883.

The Bible was a gift to "Mr. and Mrs. Hall on their marriage."

Drivers Declare They Paid Bribes

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Three motorists testified Wednesday they paid bribes ranging up to $150 to keep from losing their driver's licenses on drunk driving charges.

The three went before a state Insurance Commission hearing to determine if bondsman Ralph E. King of the Terry Bonding Co. should have his license revoked.

King is one of four bail bondsmen charged with violating state bail bond laws. He already has had his license suspended.

Therese O. Tate told the hearing he paid King off and received his license from a drawer in the Terry firm office.

N. T. Frischer said he paid Ernest W. Terry $150 to get his license back without going to court, and Lee Brock said he paid the same price to avoid losing his driving privileges.

A fourth witness, Antonio Galan, said King advised him he could also pay and get his license back. But he said he refused and was later convicted of drunk driving.

1872 Office Workers Had No Coffee Break

In 1872, the coffee break was beyond the comprehension of office workers. Today, it is an established institution in the U. S.

By way of comparison between office workers of 1872 and today, an office manager in Boston came across the office rules of 1872 while cleaning out an old file the other day. The rules, in case some employer wants to post them on his bulletin board:

1. Office employees each day will fill lamps, clean chimneys and trim wicks. Wash windows once a week.
  2. Each day will bring in a bucket of water and a scuttle of coal for the day's business.
  3. Make your pens carefully. You may write them to your individual taste.
  4. Men employees will be given an evening off each week for courting purposes, or two evenings a week if they go regularly to church.
  5. After 12 hours of labor in the office, the employee should spend the remaining time reading the Bible and other good books.
  6. Every employee should lay aside from each pay day a portion of his earnings for his benefit during his declining years so that he will not become a burden on society.
  7. Any employee who smokes Spanish cigars, uses liquor in any form, or frequents pool and public halls or gets shaved in a barber shop, will give good reason to suspect his worth, intentions, integrity and honesty.
  8. The employee who has performed his labor faithfully and without fault for five years will be given an increase of five cents per day in his pay, providing profits from business permit it.
- The man who found the rules in the old file wanted to read them to his fellow workers. He discovered, however, that he was alone in the office. All of the others were on a coffee break.

Needed: Annexation

Only about 200 more signatures are needed to call an election on the question of annexation in Sanford fringe areas.

The annexation area includes south and southwest Sanford, including Pinecrest to 1,800 feet south of Onora Road, the Dreamworld and Country Club Manor sections.

City Manager Warren E. Knowles said total signees of the petition now is near 400. There are 1,880 property owners in the annexation area. As yet, more than 800 have not signed.

For all practical purposes, this area is already a part of Sanford. A valid petition and favorable vote would put these citizens into the city's growing population. It is true that annexation would mean some additional taxes for these residents. It would also mean that the area would be serviced by the fire department and garbage trucks, have police protection and the benefits of other city services, such as a recreation.

We think that benefits received would be worth much more than the small additional tax.

Washington See-Saw

SMATHERS RAISES SIGHTS—Just back from a campaign check-up around the country, Senator Smathers has revised his early estimates about the election next week. Instead of capturing 10 seats in the Senate, he now thinks the Democrats might do better. New prediction—12.

HE-COON ANSWERS BUTLER—When Paul Butler, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee, suggested that if the Southern Democrats don't go along with a liberal civil rights platform in 1960, they should get out of the Democratic Party, he brought down on his head a great amount of Southern wrath. Among the more wrathful was Florida's He-coon, Congressman Bob Nikes.

He answered Butler: "The Democrats are the party of all the people. The aims and principles of the Party must not be diverted to the extreme of policies of a few radical and left wingers. The South has held the Democratic Party together for decades and I am convinced the great majority of Americans want the contributions of Southern leaders to the Party and to the Nation to continue. Mr. Butler is playing into the hands of the Republicans who with their policy of forced integration are certain to be defeated unless they can split the Democratic Party and bring about a Southern walkout. It would be more appropriate for Mr. Butler to get out of the Party if he is dissatisfied with the position of the great segment of the Nation represented by Southern Democrats. A third party movement must be avoided if it is at all possible. Such a movement could be extremely dangerous to the welfare of the Nation and it probably would contribute nothing to Southern aims."

Day Before Night, Charge Dismissed

NEW YORK (UPI)—Engineer S. Norman Wand, 28, got the law to agree Wednesday that day comes before night and in so doing saved himself a $5 parking fine.

Magistrate Edward J. Chapman said in vehicle accident court that he wasn't quite sure why, but he would have to dismiss a summons against Wand, who was called in to court for parking near a sign that read "no parking after 10 p. m."

Wand admitted that one morning last May he did indeed park his car near the sign in Fort Tryon Park, but it was at 12:35 a. m. He said since the sign didn't say otherwise, it was logical to assume it meant from 10 p. m. until the end of the day—midnight.

Each time he went to court Wand pleaded innocent to the charge. At Wednesday's session, Chapman ruled Wand was technically right but he told him not to do it again.

Outside court Wand said he realized the purpose of the sign was to discourage overnight parking in the park but he said it should have been more specific—"no parking from 10 p. m. to 7 a. m., for instance."

Slight Oversight

CHARLOTTE, N. C. (UPI)—Five persons failed to put money in parking meters at a new public parking lot, but authorities couldn't prosecute them. County commissioners never passed a law requiring a fee in the lot.

Fred Othman Says

BY FREDERICK C. OTHMAN
WASHINGTON—Two of my Hollywood friends actor Glenn Ford and producer Edmund Grainger came through town with a new movie they said was news. They also said there'd be a feed.

There sure was. All the admirals were there with gold stripes and their ladies in evening gowns. My kids was present, looking pretty and I put a fresh drop of ink in the hole of the lapel of my tuxedo, and showed up looking well-dressed, too.

So we all lapped up the movie people's roast beef de luxe and fell sorry (but not too sorry) for the stockholders of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, who footed the bill. Then we marveled over to the Capitol Theater, where spotlights appeared the sky, the Navy band tooted, and a whole slew of sailors stood at attention in the lobby while we stalked in. I had a ticket and nobody even asked for it.

This picture was entitled "Torpedo Run," and Fred was the captain of a submarine; a first-class movie it was, too. Ford and Grainger said it made history. This I do not doubt.

Since the beginning of the cinema, they said, Hollywood has been making movies about soldiers, sailors, marines, and airmen, and all with the same plot.

Two guys invariably got in an hour- and-30-minute argument about one pretty girl, and after adventures designed to scare the audience, the hero always won her. Or so said Ford and Grainger.

Their picture, they added, was different. Submarine Ford already was married and he had a girl child when the film opened. Then he had to go to the Orient and torpedo a Japanese carrier. Those wily Japs ran in front of their flat-top a prison ship bearing American captives, including the captain's wife and daughter. His torpedoes sank the passenger ship and Capt. Ford never did learn whether he'd killed his own family. Neither did

Spook Hill Foretells This Year's Weather

LAKE WALKER, Fla.—All Florida should be hoping for a warm Halloween night in this central Florida City Friday when the state's winter weather will be foretold by the mystic powers of Spook Hill.

This hill is where thousands of persons visit annually by motor car, cut off their engine and roll UP hill.

The story goes that if automobiles coast farther on Halloween night, it means that axle grease is warm and the weather will be warm the major part of the winter months.

In a 1957 made today on Spook Hill, a car coasted 114 feet. If that test is bettered Halloween night, the ghosts of Spook Hill reportedly will be wearing sheets all winter instead of a blanket.

The official judge will be Casper, the Friendly Ghost, who recently was adopted as a mascot by pupils of Spook Hill Elementary School. Lake Wales claims Spring's groundhog has a winter rival.

Intricacies Of Hula Dance Told

By GAY PAULEY

HONOLULU (UPI) — Anyone can learn the hula. That's what dancing teacher Lila Guerrero said before I became her pupil.

After a couple of hours instructing a girl who has trouble even with the fox trot, she concluded that the hula and I were permanently out of step.

"Maybe," she said, "the best hula dancers do train right from childhood."

Miss Guerrero, who has been dancing the hula since she was five, gives lessons to Hawaiian children and on occasion teaches its swing and sway to curious tourists like me. I took my lessons in private—if I'm going to make a fool of myself, I don't want an audience.

She left me in the hands-making-rainbow department; in this motion, the fingers, stretched above the head, perform a shimmy. And, I failed the "around the island" movement completely.

This sets the whole body rotating, and I just ain't a Dorothy Lamour.

Miss Guerrero, 25, a native of Honolulu, is married to Frank DePalmer, a Chicagoan working as a clerk at the shipping terminal.

She explained that to most tourists, the hula is nothing more than a sexy dance. But actually it is based on ancient religious ritual. They have two children, a girl of 7, and a boy of 8, both "already accomplished hula dancers," their mother said. Miss Guerrero has been a featured dancer in several mainland night spots and in addition to teaching, also performs at ship welcoming parties.

She explained that to most tourists, the hula is nothing more than a sexy dance. But actually it is based on ancient religious ritual.

Watch The Hands

Mastering the hula's basic step isn't too hard. It's a one, two, three and tap with the ball of the foot, called the "kili wa wa" in Hawaiian, meaning feet in motion.

"Watch your hands," said Miss Guerrero, early in the course.

"Let others watch the hips."

In the true hula, the motions of the hands are most important; the hands tell the story. The feet and hips just keep the rhythm.

I watched my hands and immediately ran into trouble with my bare feet—the hula always is danced barefoot. Mostly tripping over them, because the hula means movements of all parts of the body, I had to remember that the knees should be bent slightly, my wrists relaxed, my hips doing the "arm" rotating, and my elbows in toward the body and not jutting into the air like Diamond Head into the Pacific.

No Dorothy Lamour

Miss Guerrero patiently steered my awkward way through the intricacies of the hula step, or "uwahi"; the turn step, "hala-kaua"; and tried to show how motion of the hands and arms symbolized the rolling sea, the arc of the rainbow, or the gathering of flowers.

Carnival Scheduled In Paola

The carnival to be held at Wilson School, Paola, will begin at 5:30 p. m. Friday. Hot dogs, hamburgers, coffee, milk, soft drinks, candied apples, pie, and cake will be available for hungry patrons.

A ceremony will be held during the evening to crown a king and queen of the carnival. Their identity will be a secret until that time. Runners-up will be members of the court.

Prizes for costumes will be awarded to different age groups. Prizes include a fortune teller, fish pond, dart game, pair tree, handicraft, country store, potted plants, ceramics, grab bag, surprise package, spook house, and cake walk.

Mrs. Catherine Keyt is general chairman. Proceeds will be used for the IFA project for the year.

Story League Meets

The Sanford Story League opened its monthly meeting with Mrs. Virginia Roche presiding. The group plans to have a covered dish luncheon at the November meeting in honor of the visiting state president, Mrs. E. R. Cary, Tampa.

The League plans to help the Junior Story League finance year books. Theme of the program "Florida, Home of the Indian" was carried out with Mrs. Tom McCain and Mrs. Clarence Snyder telling stories while Mrs. Gretchen Crowell, artist, sketched illustrations. Mrs. Lucy Ann Jones read a poem and her sister sang "The Indian Love Call."

Refreshments were served from a table overlaid with an arrangement of straw mats and centered with an arrangement of straw flowers.

Personals

Chief Leslie C. Howard and family left Tuesday for Norfolk, Va., after spending the past month with his mother, Mrs. Pauline Howard.

Dr. and Mrs. Gordon Stanley and children and Col. and Mrs. Paul Chatterton left today for Daytona Beach. They will return Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. George Wells celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary in West Palm Beach last weekend with their daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David Dyal.

Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Harris are spending some time in Rome, N. Y., where Mrs. Harris was called at the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. Clarence Galloway. Mr. and Mrs. Galloway spent the winter with the Harris family on Bay Street.

Try Hypnotism To Lose Weight

TULSA, Okla. —(UPI)—If you're overweight, and have tried 10-day diets, pills and fads without success, a Phoenix, Ariz., psychiatrist has a suggestion: Get yourself hypnotized!

Dr. Milton H. Erickson, president of the American Society of Clinical Hypnotists, made that suggestion here at a clinical symposium.

The advice is aimed at persons whose plumpness stems primarily from inability to control the urge to overeat.

Dr. Erickson did not say that hypnotism will cure all obesity. The brand of hypnotism he talked about is "medical hypnotism"—not stage or purely entertaining hypnotism.

When the hypnotic power of suggestion is used on susceptible overweight persons they will respond to the command to eat smaller portions.

"They'll do it automatically, after hypnosis, and feel just as full as ever," said Dr. Erickson.

For stuffing woolen blankets or using feather pillows give them a tumbling in the automatic clothes dryer for three or four minutes.

Kadets Have Party

A party was held Saturday night at Kadet Headquarters for boys and girls of Kadet Unit 1811 of Sanford. Fifty Kadets attended. Games were played. Prizes were awarded to Donna Slaughter and Joey Hubel in the hula hoop contest. Tommy Hickson won a prize for the funniest costume. Donnie Crestin for the most original costume. Melissa McAllister for the prettiest. John Hope won the bean guessing game.

A cake was baked and decorated especially for the first anniversary of the Kadets in Sanford. Parents served the refreshments. Kadets met each Saturday morning at 9:30 at the Armory.

Miss. Southern Dislikes 'Small' Tag On Gridiron

By Cliff Sessions
HATTIESBURG, Miss. (UPI)—Officials at Mississippi Southern don't like the "small college" label that's pinned on their football team despite its No. 1 ranking in the United Press International listing.

But Southern has managed to arrange a few games with "major" foes — and the Southerners haven't lost in any of them since 1952. The most noteworthy "major" victory for Southern was its 25-19 conquest of Alabama in the opening game of the 1953 season.

Southerners Lead Small College Poll

Coach Appreciates Rating
Southern, undefeated this season, has been rated as the top of the small college heap by coaches all season long in the weekly voting conducted by UPI.

3 Marines Charged With Mistreatment

PARRIS ISLAND, S. C. (UPI) — Three Marine Corps drill instructors were under investigation today on charges they stopped and otherwise mistreated recruits at this basic training installation, seen of a 1954 "death march" in which six recruits lost their lives.

Capt. Joseph C. Bridges, public information officer, said the probe involved an alleged incident in which young trainees were stopped by a drill instructor. It was also charged that members of a 69-man training platoon had been forced to pay $10 each to a cadreman.

Bridges said the platoon has since been transferred to Camp Lejeune, N. C. after completing a 12-week training cycle here, and the actual investigation is being conducted there.

The drill instructors allegedly involved in mistreatment of recruits were identified as S. Sgt. Ralph A. J. Grant of Racine, Wis., and Sgts. Willard B. Pops of Augusta, Ga., and Ronald Heiler of Milwaukee.

The investigation began after parents of six recruits from the Lakota, Ohio area complained to the Cleveland office of the Marine recruiting service, Bridges said.

The recruits were identified as: Sgt. Arthur L. Browne, Richard

Pope John: Poor Sharecropper's Son

By ALDO TRIPPINI
United Press International

SOTTO IL MONTE, Italy (UPI) — There is a house of square-cut stones, covered with grapevines, at the top of a narrow cobblestone street, and from the window of the room where the boy slept he could see the green valley below the hillside sloping down to where the River Adige flows.

His family had lived in the village — in the stone house — for five centuries. This is the village of a cluster of farmhouses lined in paths, a place of legends and memories of ancient times. An old bell-tower and a chapel still stand atop the hill at the end of a populated lined road.

Villagers' Help — Tuesday night there was a young and cheering crowd. For Angelo Giuseppe Roncalli, known virtually every one of the 1233 parishes, led by the priest, Pietro Rosio, they rushed to the town's center. Many knelt to pray on the gray stone steps. Angelo's three brothers, still living here, went to the parish church to pray.

And according to Astoria sources in Rome, the name that he took for himself as supreme pontiff, "Giovanni," or John, was chosen to honor his father, whose first name was John—then father who had not objected to his leaving the fields to dedicate his life to God.

News Of Men In Service

MEDITERRANEAN SEA (UPI) — Marine Pvt. Clifford W. Barrow, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Barrow of 1719 W. 23rd St., and husband of the former Miss Amy L. Rabette of 1719 W. 23rd St., all of Sanford, Fla., is serving aboard the dock landing ship USS San Marcos, operating in the Mediterranean Sea.

Marines aboard the San Marcos are members of the 2nd Battalion, 6th Regiment, a unit of the amphibious arm in the Sixth Fleet.

New Mexico has had more than 200 governors since it was colonized in 1598.

These Men Are Blind, But They See

MAYWOOD, Ill. (UPI) — They called Jim Smitty and he had just lost a sock while doing his washing.

"Hey, if any of you guys see a blue sock in the washer, it's mine," he said.

"Loo!" under the cover, "some-one suggested, 'Sometimes they get sucked up there.'"

A moment later Smitty returned, holding the sock.

"Got it," he said.

"Cripes, Smitty," came the reply, "Somebody'd think you were blind."

He was. They all were.

It was the way they operate at the Hines Veterans Administration Hospital's Blind Rehabilitation Center. Sightlessness is nothing to be ashamed of or hidden.

"I'm not embarrassed about my cane any more," Cass Riggs of Hutchinson, Kan., said. "I realize now it's just an aid, like glasses."

Riggs, formerly an assistant sociology professor at the University of Wichita, plans to go for a Ph.D. in sociology at the University of Missouri.

To Bob Sheer of Miami, Fla., however, the Center's benefits are more complex.

"Each man must find his own answer to blindness within himself," Sheer said.

Before World War II, Sheer was a parolee of the American Hotel Association. He was an special call throughout the Eastern seaboard, sculpturing and supervising table displays for top echelon banquets.

Today, blind, Sheer hopes to enroll at the University of Miami and eventually become an English teacher.

"It's a little late for a start," he said. "I'm past 40."

George Keates of Norwood, Fla., used to read slide sales. The last thing he ever saw was a World War II European battlefield, where shrapnel tore out both his eyes.

"For a while, I washed goggles in a plant, but the recession closed that out. I haven't washed since," he said.

Riggs, Sheer and Keates bring home a vital point about blindness.

"There's no catalogue of gratitudes into which society can shove blind people," Center psychologist Don Blach said.

"Blind persons run the gamut of personality just like sighted persons. You've got all kinds. With all types of hopes and aspirations. Sure, you've got negatives. But you've got sighted negatives, too," he said.

Sheer said he expects nothing for nothing.

"I know society's theme is 'You're not your brother's keeper,'" he said. "But does society have the right to take a man's life away just because he's handicapped? And if sitting a man down and saying there's no save for him isn't taking his life away, I don't know what is."

Center director Russell Williams, himself totally blind, said he feels part of the stigma attached to a blind man dates back to the nation's "pioneer culture."

"We still seem to feel that unless a man can chop down a tree or two a day or bring an elk home for dinner, he's not worth living," Williams said.

To Sheer, whatever answer there is lies in the Center's program.

"There should be places like this all over the nation," he said.

To Blach, however, the answer isn't that simple.

"I'll tell you when we'll have the problem licked," he said. "I'll be licked wherever we know all there is to know about human beings — and then superimpose that whatever there is to know about blindness."

Negro Gets Death In Slaying Case

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI) — A Negro janitor was sentenced to the electric chair Wednesday for the May 2 homicide slaying of Miss Louise Baker, employee of the Palm Beach Western Union office.

James Edward Brooks, convicted Sept. 17 of the murder, told Judge Culver Smith in a last-minute appeal that three men in a "purple Chevy" beat the woman to death.

Defense Attorney John Evans, who said Brooks did not tell him this earlier, was turned down in his request for a new trial.

Brooks said he did not tell about the three men because they threatened to kill his wife and family.

However, police said he confessed earlier to the crime.

The victim's body was found in the Western Union office where more than $1,000 was reported missing from the safe.

REJECTS PRIZE — Russian poet and novelist Boris Pasternak has rejected the 1958 Nobel Prize for literature for his novel, "Dr. Zhivago," which has been banned in the Soviet Union. Pasternak was the first Russian to win the prize in 25 years and the only author living in a Communist country ever to win it. Yesterday, he turned the $10,000 prize down. (UPI Telephoto)

Juice Processing Holds Citrus Key

LAKELAND (UPI) — Florida Citrus Mutual predicted Wednesday that within a few years more oranges will be used in the processing of chilled juice than are shipped on the fresh fruit market.

Mutual General Manager Robert W. Rutledge also predicted that orange utilization this season for chilled juice will increase 11.8 per cent over that of last season.

He said chilled juice, the fastest growing of all citrus products, should use up 10,150,000 boxes of oranges this season in producing 36,625,000 gallons of juice.

"It should be only a few years until as many, or more, of our oranges are used for chilled juice as are sold in fresh form," he said.

Bachelor Gets Out Of Maternity Ward

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Walter Graham, a bachelor, was out of the maternity ward today. Graham's teeth were in a bad way. Doctors said 21 of them would have to come out, and that Graham should have the extractions performed in the hospital.

The hospital was crowded. Since the only thing available was a room in the maternity section, that's where Graham had to spend three days.

"People laughed," he complained on his department Wednesday. "My mail got sent up to 'Miss Graham' and the receptionist and mail clerk downstairs didn't know I was male until I walked out."

"When I walked down the corridor, I heard giggles. And I really got some stares."

She said she isn't certain whether her father, who usually winters in Morocco or the south of France, will be on hand to see her perform.

"I hope so," she said. "He's a wonderful audience."

Meet Candidates Seeking Seat On City Commission

Sanford World
Page 8—Thurs. Oct. 30, 1958

Sanford voters will choose from an unprecedented field of candidates next Tuesday when they choose a City Commissioner to fill the seat to be vacated Jan. 1 by David Gatehol.

Eight men qualified with the city clerk for the position. Merle Beck has publicly announced that she will be a write-in candidate, bringing the total to nine.

To a man, the candidates are "backed" by a sewage disposal plant for a plan that becomes a necessity shortly because of a State Health Department order. The aspirants all have stated that they are not backed politically by any one group, but each is running independently. The main difference of opinion seems to dwell on the old problem of taxes.

A complete total of registered voters is not yet available from the city clerk's office, but new registration has been reported as "moderately heavy." Registration closed last Friday.

The election will be held Tuesday at the City Hall from 7 a. m. to 7 p. m., according to legal announcements by Mayor Merle Werner. The Mayor has appointed as clerks James E. Gull and Floyd A. Palmer, inspectors appointed as Mrs. L. T. Doar, Mrs. F. E. Rounhill Jr., Mrs. Ralph A. Smith, Mrs. C. M. Ables, F. P. Ashdown and N. J. Stenstrom.

A "thumbnail sketch" of the candidates, in alphabetical order: JOE E. BAKER, co-owner of the Green Valley Dairy is a native of Sanford. Green Valley Dairy is producer-director for Perfection Dairies. Baker attended Sanford schools and is a graduate of Swaine Military Academy. He holds a degree in Business Administration from the University of Georgia.

The dairyman served as an intelligence officer for two years with the Strategic Air Command. He lives with his wife Jean, at 521 Plumosa Drive. They have three children.

"I'm running for city commissioner because I feel I am a successful businessman and now have time to devote to my city. I would like to have a part not only in its growth, in which I have great confidence, but also in the planning and control of its growth," he said.

The candidate expressed an interest in a regular plan for city growth. If I'm elected I will do my best to see that our city government is administered honestly, economically and efficiently, free from the influence of any political group or machine. I don't want to see the taxes raised, nor do I want to see our indebtedness raised. I feel money for the proposed sewage disposal system will come by annually setting aside the $40,000 already allotted for that purpose this year.

ROGER L. HARRIS is materials manager and internal accounts auditor for Seminole County Schools. Harris has been auditor for the past ten years. Until two years ago he was a biology teacher at Seminole High School. Harris came to Sanford in December of 1946, and began to teach the next month. He is a former resident of Bluefield, W. Va., and a graduate of the University of Richmond.

The candidate and his wife, Louise, reside at 2107 Oak Ave. They have three children.

"I want to get along with the other commissioners, and am interested in seeing the street paving program continued. Anything that concerns public welfare, like the sewage disposal program, needs attention. Also, I am interested in seeing that public funds are spent in the best interest of the citizens, and that no one is riding a 'gravy train'."

He said that it is his belief that the city should provide separate, wholesome recreation for both white and colored youths of the city.

Wight Kirtley is a native of Sanford. He will be 31 in November. He is associated in business with his father, C. R. Kirtley, in the K and W Fruit Co. He is married to the former Miss Joyce Goodspeed. They reside at 2102 Myrtle Ave. with their four children, Bill, Pat, Peggy and Pam.

It is his belief that the city should provide separate, wholesome recreation for both white and colored youths of the city.

He favors construction of a sewage disposal plant stating that this is a must for the growth and ability for the betterment of the entire community. If elected, I invite you to discuss your problems with me at any time. I am an independent businessman and represent no special interest group."

Kirtley said "I believe it is the duty of young, successful businessmen to use their knowledge and ability for the betterment of the entire community. If elected, I invite you to discuss your problems with me at any time. I am an independent businessman and represent no special interest group."

He attended local schools through junior high, later attended Georgia Military College in Milledgeville. He received his BA degree and did graduate work at the University of Florida.

David Wayne Mathis, 25 year old music teacher and Coca-Cola Bottling Company employee, was the first in the line for the forthcoming election for Sanford City commissioner. Mathis resides on West First St. with his wife Pauline. He has lived in Sanford for two years, after an absence of four years spent in the Air Force as a technical instructor.

Mathis is a high school graduate, originally from Dayton, O. If elected he "assures the citizens of the city an honest and fair approach to all matters concerning better city government and would constantly seek to do Sanford's progressiveness in a safe efficient manner."

Mathis feels a cut in taxes "would never be the solution to our problem. And I think a young alert Christian man with young ideas is needed for good city government."

Philip T. Meeks, trainman conductor for A. C. L. railroad has been a resident of Sanford for 13 years. Meeks is originally from Nichols, Ga. He is a graduate of Georgia Normal Business College, and holds a degree in Business Administration.

The city commission aspirant served in the merchant marine for three years during World War II, in both Atlantic and Pacific Theaters. Meeks, his wife Jewell, and son Phillip, a senior at Seminole High, reside on Myrtle Ave.

"Efficiency, economy, and progress, with emphasis on progress," said Meeks when asked what he wished to promote for Sanford if elected. "I'm interested in the street program, and a sewage disposal unit. Think that our recreational directors are doing a wonderful thing for Sanford's youth, and I would like to see that program continued. I would also like to see the salaries of deserving city employees raised. Some are not getting the money they need. With higher salaries for some of those on the city payroll, we will maintain high standards in operation. I'm also for bringing new industry to Sanford and anything that will cause progress."

M. L. Raborn Jr., 31, is a native Floridian, reared in Sanford, attended public schools in Sanford and graduated from Seminole High School in 1915.

He is a Navy veteran, attended the University of Florida and graduated from the Ohio Mechanical Institute in Cincinnati in 1918. He is associated with his father in the laundry and dry cleaning business. He is married to the former Mildred Hobson of this city and they have three sons.

He is a member and Senior Warden of the Holy Cross Episcopal Church, a member of the Sanford-Seminole County Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Senior Chamber of Commerce.

"As a young businessman, homeowner and parent, I am concerned with the future of Sanford. I have long been interested in city government and feel that citizens should take an active part, when possible, in civic affairs. Raborn said, "It is my belief that government is created to serve and represent the people and should act in the best interests of the majority. Should you elect me to serve as your City Commissioner I pledge to work and vote in the best interests of the majority of the citizens of Sanford."

Troy Glenn Richardson has lived in Seminole County and Sanford for thirty years. The produce merchant operates a fruit stand at Fifth St. and French Ave. He and his wife Alma reside at 1703 West Third St. with their five children.

Richardson is a high school graduate, originally from North Carolina. As a candidate for the Sanford City Commission, Richardson feels that taxes should be kept from getting any higher. "I think we should improve on present conditions and offer better living conditions to residents. Taxes are too high."

Clyde H. Robertson is vice-president and manager of the Thermotone Gas Co., and owner of Robertson's Imported Motors. Robertson came to Sanford 7 years ago from Forest City, and has lived in Seminole County 13 years. He attended Lakeland schools and business school at the University of Kansas. Robertson, his wife, Virginia, and their two children reside at 1208 Valencia Drive.

"With all my worldly possessions in Sanford, I am interested in seeing the city grow and progress."

Through efficiency I believe we can stabilize taxes. When taxes were raised we understood there was enough money to operate, but it wasn't there when we wound up. I am taking a "middle of the road" policy on taxes. If we have to raise them, it is the only thing to do, but with efficiency and economy, it should not have to be necessary."

Governor Up Early, No Hands To Shake
MILWAUKEE (UPI)—It's getting so a politician can't even run into the "common man" on the streets of Milwaukee.

Wisconsin Gov. Vernon W. Thomson, a Republican, declined to do some solitary campaigning at the grass roots level Wednesday and got up at the crack of dawn.

There wasn't a soul in sight when he took up a corner post near a manufacturing plant to greet early shift workers with a firm GOP handshake.

Then the first passerby emerged from the early morning gloom with a smile, an equally firm Democratic handshake and the words, "Hello, Vern."

Thomson and Sen. William Proxmire (D-Wis.), a candidate for reelection, stared at each other for a few seconds, thinking how the grass roots had changed over the years.

"Well," Proxmire added, "you were here first, so I guess I had better go somewhere else."

Berlin, City With Two Pulse Beats

BERLIN — (UPI) — Every great city, it is said, has a pulse that can be felt by those who love it. Berlin is like that.

But it has two pulses. One beats in tune with Hamburg, London, Paris, New York. The other echoes the rhythm of Moscow.

Berlin has been this way since the summer of 1948, when the city administration divided, leaving:

—Two million Berliners living in the western sectors of the city, under a freely-elected municipal administration and a firm military guarantee by the U. S. and —One million Berliners living in the eastern sectors, under a government of German-born Communists who spent the war in Moscow, were flown here by the Soviet Army in 1945, and were kept in power by the East Germans.

Since then, the two halves of the city have lived somewhat as Siamese twins whom the surgeons want to separate but cannot.

Berlin remains linked by common elevated and underground railroad systems. Anyone can walk or drive along the lines dividing the sectors. But the telephone systems have been separated.

The newspapers printed in one half of the city do not have general circulation in the other. Each side has its own radio and television stations, which wage ceaseless war on one another.

All in all, it's as if the Siamese twins — to continue the simile — were joined at the base of the spine, facing in opposite directions.

West Berlin is pointed west. Restaurant menus are printed in German or either French or English. The windows are German or French. Foreign books are either French or English, foreign plays are imported from Paris, London or New York.

In East Berlin, restaurant menus are printed in German and perhaps Hungarian or Polish. Wines are usually Hungarian or Soviet Crimean. Book stores are full of translations from Russian, Polish, Hungarian or Chinese.

West Berlin, in the years since the war, has grown steadily more prosperous. Unemployment has dropped from far above 200,000 to only about 65,000. Streets are jammed with new cars, stores filled with goodies, theaters booming, cafes bursting with elegant women and handsome men drinking exotic liquors or eating mounds of whipped cream.

East Berlin, by comparison, seems dreary. But make no mistake, conditions have improved a great deal there, too. The imposing Stalin Alley, with its rows of stores and tall apartment buildings has been extended. Food rationing ended some months ago. Store windows are filled with goods.

But there is a difference. West Berlin store windows display some of the finest, most stylish goods in the world. East Berlin windows show poorer styles.

Dummies in West Berlin dress shops are size 12 or 14, considered the ideal figure here.

In East Berlin, there are little signs beneath the price tags which disclose the sizes to be either 16 or 18. The ideal woman in a Communist state is heavier than her Western sister.

West Berlin women's shops display airy, sharp-toed, spike-heeled shoes which show a rounded calf to perfection. East Berlin shoe stores sell lowheeled, sturdy women's shoes.

One of the city's favorite songs is sung nightly by a slender girl at Willi Schaeffer's "Tingel Tangel" cabaret in West Berlin.

It's all about the West Berlin boy courting the East Berlin girl. Came the Sunday when the boy decided he would take his camera on his date and make a picture of the girl to carry in his wallet.

The boy took the underground to East Berlin. But when he got off the train, the Communist police found his camera, said he was a Western spy, put him in the lock-up and threw away the key.

And the little East Berlin girl still waits for him.

Hangman Says Hanging 'Unbearable'

TOKYO (UPI)—Watching an execution is "unbearable," according to Fumio Hiranuma, and he ought to know. He has executed 78 prisoners in his lifetime. But, while Hiranuma insists he could never get used to hangings, he has no regrets about his career, and he says emphatically that capital punishment is necessary as a deterrent to crime. Today, the graying, husky 65-year-old Hiranuma is chief of a juvenile reformatory at Odawara, 50 miles southwest of Tokyo. But from 1907 until the end of World War II, he served as hangman at a number of prisons around the nation. Hiranuma still remembers his first execution. It took place at Ichigaya prison in Tokyo. The condemned man was 27-year-old Takayoshi Ueno, who was convicted of killing a school principal for $400. "The trapdoor was sprung as he was about to say something," Hiranuma recalled. He also remembers what it was like before a hanging. When the time for an execution was set, the hangman would call the prisoner to his room. "There I would serve him tea and break the news to him," Hiranuma says. "I still remember why they had been brought to my room before I told them. "They would begin to tremble and, as the minutes ticked by, the tremors would increase in intensity. Finally, you would hear their teeth chattering. Some would shake their whole bodies in a fit of agony. "It was unbearable to face them, and even after doing it 78 times, I could never become used to it. There are no possible words of consolation or encouragement. If you say something intended to have that effect, you could never convey your meaning. "All you could do was hope they would calm down. Most of them did after a while." In one corner of the execution yard was a Buddhist altar with three ceremonial rice cakes on it. When the prisoner was led into the yard, a priest said prayers. Then the prisoner was offered the cakes and led to his death. "Of the 78 convicts executed by Hiranuma, not one refused the rice cakes, he said. Pausing a moment, Hiranuma changed the subject to the controversy over capital punishment. "After all the executions I have witnessed," he said, "I still oppose the abolition of the death penalty."

"In this confused world, capital punishment should be maintained as a means of preventing the number of crimes from growing still larger. The best way to deal with crime is to maintain the right to impose severe punishment but to deal with offenders as leniently as their case deserves." Hiranuma protests, however, against the hangman as a cold, unfeeling man devoid of human sympathies. He tells of an autumn night at the Hamamatsu Penitentiary when he opened the cells and ordered 200 prisoners taken out into the prison yard to enjoy the beautiful moonlight. "I wasn't quite certain that a riot might not break out," he confessed. "But I was betting on the soothing effect of the moon." As insurance, he added some flute music. For one hour, the prisoners sat or stood quietly in the compound—apparently enraptured—and then went quietly back to their cells. France produces in a year about what United States mines produce in about two months. At the equator, the average surface temperature of the oceans is about 80 degrees.

MOSCOW (UPI)—Soviet authorities have launched a counter-attack against incursions of rock 'n' roll music and sentimental ballads from the West. The situation is conceded to be serious. Phonograph records in the millions are drenching the Soviet motherland with music that is "trite," "convulsive" and all wrong, according to a spate of articles in Pravda and other official organs. The radio stations are doing it. So are the movies. Some dance bands, according to Pravda, even go so far as to regale audiences with "rock 'n' roll and similar productions" on the pretense of parodying those manifestations of Western decadence.

From the pages of Pravda and other Soviet papers and magazines the order is out to redouble the manning of Soviet cultural defenses. At the same time an attack is on against performers acting as a fifth column for the cultural enemy. One of those under censure is a celebrated movie actor and singer named Mark Bernes. Citizen Bernes, complained a Pravda article, sings with "tears in his voice" or also in "mournful tones" or "suggestive whimpers"—a far cry from the "joyous, graceful, melodic" style Pravda approves. Bernes and others like him are accused of copying "bad foreign models," to quote Pravda, and imagine themselves beings of a different order from the great mass of Soviet citizens. Thus, an article in Komsomolskaya Pravda, organ of the Young Communist League, held Bernes up to public shame for his alleged arrogance when behind the wheel of one of his six Soviet-made automobiles. The article gave a detailed account of an incident in which Bernes was said to have careened through Moscow traffic, scattering pedestrians and almost killing a man. Snapped by a policeman after a spirited chase, the movie idol emerged from the car intoxicated and abusive and threatening to report the cop for "spelling his execution," the Communist youth paper said. The moral of the tale was that no driver, not even Bernes, has a right to endanger the lives of Soviet pedestrians. And the moral of other recent articles is that no singer, not even Bernes, has a right to poison the wallsprings of Soviet popular music.

Big Coronation Slated For Pope John

By ELVEZIO BIANCHI
 VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Unexcelled pageantry and ceremony will surround Pope John XXIII on the day of his coronation, but a new pontiff will place flax into a consuming flame and hear the words: "Thus passes the glory of the world."
 The coronation of the supreme pastor of the Roman Catholic Church, expected to take place Sunday, Nov. 9, will be in an age-old pattern designed to remind the Pope and his people of the glory and humility of his high office.
 A rich procession of 2,000 persons will carry Pope John into

St. Peter's Basilica whose interior will be lighted by thousands of candles.
 Once inside, secular pomp will give way to the solemnity of a Pontifical Mass, which the Pope will say and for which he will be "paid" to remind him that he still has the responsibilities of a simple priest.
 He will take handfuls of flax three times and thrust them into a small burner, watching the flax pass into smoke "sic transit gloria mundi" (thus pass the glories of the world).
 Crowds Short Adoration
 Outside, a crowd of up to half a million persons will fill St. Peter's Square and the streets all the way to the Tiber to shout their adoration "Viva il Papa"—Long live the Pope.

 A lucky 30,000 special ticket holders will pack St. Peter's Basilica to see Pope John recite the Pontifical Mass. But all the rest, about 300,000 in St. Peter's Square and tens of thousands more in the adjacent streets, will see the actual crowning, when the Pontiff sits on the basilica's central balcony to receive the three-tiered papal crown.
 Eugene Cardinal Tisserant, dean of the Sacred College of Cardinals, will place the crown on the Pontiff's head.
 "A golden crown is placed upon his head," a choir will sing. Then the cardinal will recite the only prayer accompanying the coronation, the Lord's Prayer.
 For all its splendor, the coronation ceremony involves no elaborate formal oath and does not have the same significance as the coronation of a temporal sovereign or the swearing in of a chief of state.

Congress Protects Rare Florida Deer

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Rare deer will continue to scamper in Florida and scarce Nene Geese will continue to flock in Hawaii as a result of a series of conservation bills passed by the 85th Congress.
 Congress appropriated funds for the establishment of a national refuge to protect the rare deer in Florida and the geese in Hawaii.

Salvage Expert To Raise Andrea Doria From Sea

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—A plaque on "A" deck of the 20,000-ton Andrea Doria honored her designers for creating a ship that could not sink.
 On a bright summer's day in 1960, if salvage master Dick Meyers has his way, the Doria will rise from her watery grave 40 miles off Nantucket Island and the barnacle-encrusted plating will be removed before the leviathan returns to the sea lanes.
 The Italian sea queen has been resting 240 feet down on the ocean bottom since the morning of July 27, 1956, less than 12 hours after she collided with the Swedish liner Stockholm with the loss of 30 lives.
 Meyers, who negotiated with the Doria's insurers for rights to the wreck, regards his task as "routine."
 "There is really not too much to it once you have studied the wreck and know what is to be done," said Meyers interviewed during a Hollywood visit with his actress fiancee Carol Mathews. The bearded diver explained that approximately 100 inflatable rubber caissons, each with a lifting power of 212 tons, would be secured to the sunken vessel.

 "The caissons are secured by knocking most of the 400 post-bolts out of the Doria, then inserting clamps through the openings. Once they are in place we'll start lifting."
 "We plan to lift it by degrees, then tow it toward Nantucket with two ships, allowing it to settle to the bottom periodically until we are in only 30 feet of water."
 "At that point a gang of men will swarm over the exposed parts of the Doria to smear grease over her. While she is submerged the only real oxidation damage will be that suffered by the light metals such as aluminum," Meyers said.
 Meyers discounted any hopes that money and valuables left aboard the Doria would be salvaged.
 "At the most there would have been possibly $100,000 and I suppose that was taken off in the 11 hours before she sank," he said.

 "The big money is in the salvage. We figure the whole operation will cost us less than four million dollars and when the Doria is raised she will be worth three-fourths of her $36,000,000 cost," the 41-year-old diver said.
 Up to 600 men will be involved at times in the project although the crew will be restricted by weather to working only from late spring until mid-December. Meyers hopes to have the Doria out of the water by the end of summer in 1960.

If There Is Better Way, He Finds It

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI)—Aubrey Fox is one of those vanishing Americans—a combination inventor and do-it-yourself wizard.
 Looking for a better way to do things has become a profitable sideline with Fox.
 In 13 years with the Illinois Cent in Chicago, Fox has received about $1,500 for 55 money-saving suggestions. One of Fox's ideas saved the company $28,000 a year, also brought Fox a $2,388 payoff.
 "This is a business with me," said the 41-year-old locomotive repairer. "You might call it a hobby—but a good-paying hobby."
 Fox's big pay off came from an idea to reduce wear and tear on coaches on the U.S. Chicago to New Orleans passenger run.
 "Most of the people ride between Memphis and Chicago, and Memphis to New Orleans is dead-head," he explained. "They were pulling the entire train all the way."
 My suggestion was to load the train in Chicago so that by the time it reached Memphis whole cars would be empty. Then they could cut them off at the next stopping point—Jackson, Miss.
 "It saves about 200 miles running on each car every day," Fox doesn't confine himself to his job in looking for better ways to do things. A skin-diving enthusiast, he made himself an aquanaut from junk parts.
 Fox has also built a miniature railroad in the front yard for

Prima Donna War Erupts At Opera

By DELOS SMITH
NEW YORK (UPI)—The "war of the prima donnas" has taken a new, dramatic turn—the heavier of the two claimants for recognition as the world's greatest practicing operatic soprano, Italian style, has lost weight.

This was revealed at the opening of the Metropolitan Opera's 75th year when Renata Tebaldi cut an admirably girlish figure and gave an out-of-this-world musical performance in the name role of the opera, "Tosca." A well-heeled audience applauded her until she and it were limp. It had to be well-heeled; the best seats cost $40 each.

Record Box Office
 As the result, the box office shared Miss Tebaldi's triumph. It took in $22,227 for the single performance, a record for America's oldest and most celebrated opera house. The previous record—for opening night two seasons ago—was $17,510. Opening night prices are jacked up several times over the regular tariff.

There had been no previous announcement of Miss Tebaldi's slimming and it occasioned much comment. Not that she was ever very heavy when you think of the traditional well-upholstered Italian soprano, but her arch rival for topmost prima donna honors in the world's opera houses, Maria Montserrat Callas, has had a lot of critical acclaim over the past few seasons for her slender, girlish figure, although in all truth (in this critic's opinion) she is downright skinny.

As singer and musician she was the old Tebaldi still; that is, superb. The quality and purity of her tones, the subtlety and color of her intonations, the exquisite control she exercised over every nuance of the singer's art—in these vital matters and in every thing else needed to make the human voice the most thrilling of musical instruments, she showed her audience she has no rival.

Miss Tebaldi was supported brilliantly by George London singing the villain role, Mario Del Monaco singing that of the hero, and Dimitri Mitropoulos conducting the orchestra. There are only three really important parts in "Tosca" and the three singers gave the operatic melodrama considerable impact—as musical melodrama.

Pension Payment Policy Changes Loom

JACKSONVILLE (UPI)—The state Welfare Board is expected next week to consider changes in its pension payment policy in Palm Beach County where many recipients face loss of state aid because of higher property evaluations.

The board meets here Nov. 7, and unless it takes quick action, a number of aged, blind or disabled residents in Palm Beach County will lose all or part of their state aid.

A spokesman from the board's district office in West Palm Beach said no one has been cut from the welfare rolls yet pending a decision by the board.

"But there are a number of hardship cases who will be cut unless changes are made in the board's policy," the spokesman said.

Current Welfare Board regulations exclude all persons having taxable property beyond the $5,000 homestead exemption. Palm Beach recently reassessed property at full value, thus affecting many pensioners who own homes. Palm Beach so far is the only county which has responded to Gov. LeRoy Collins' plea for full evaluation of real estate.

Collins Tuesday urged the Welfare Board to make exception in its policy in Palm Beach. He pointed out that it would be grossly unfair to take residents in Palm Beach off the rolls while residents of neighboring counties, whose property is assessed at only part value, receive full benefits.

The board had met here in July to discuss the situation after protests by the Palm Beach County Commission and Commission Vice Chairman Lake Lytal.

At that time, Board Chairman J. Hal Stallings of Tampa said "the board will cooperate with the Board of County Commissioners in any way possible" and assured the group that cancellations would be "a gradual process."

Stallings was not available for comment today, but a Welfare Department spokesman said it was possible the board would consider revamping its property evaluation policy.

Even Caveman Had Music For Work

MERIDEN, Conn. (UPI)—There's nothing modern about music to work by, according to an official of Business Music, Inc. Joseph Walthier said music to reduce boredom and increase efficiency has been used "as far back as we can go in history."

He added: "Even the caveman when he broke one stone against another often grunted. This, in a very crude form, as early work music. It was rhythm and it helped him to get a little more strength for successive blows on the rock."

Washington Window

WASHINGTON (UPI) — How come Vice President Richard M. Nixon has not done any campaign speaking in New York where so much is at stake for the Republican Party this year?

The answer to that question comes in two versions, as follows: The smartly edited National review, a very conservative or extreme right wing weekly, reports bluntly that Nelson A. Rockefeller will not have the vice president in the state. Rockefeller is the republican nominee for governor in a contest with Democratic Gov. Averell Harriman who seeks reelection.

The other version adds up to about the same thing, but more gently. In response to a United Press International inquiry to Rockefeller campaign headquarters in New York City, it was explained that:

He's Welcome, But... Rockefeller would welcome Nixon as a campaign speaker in New York but only on behalf of Republican congressional candidates. Rockefeller also would welcome Nixon's personal support for his gubernatorial candidacy. He feels, however, that he (Rockefeller) is campaigning on state issues and thus Nixon's support, while welcome, would be more pertinent to New York's congressional candidates.

That is a very fine line of reasoning, almost as fine as the line of reasoning by which President Eisenhower backs the tradition of American politics by insisting that a president or a presidential nominee must not attempt to influence the nomination of a vice presidential candidate to share the party ticket with him.

It was that Eisenhower line of reasoning in 1956 which so distressed Nixon that he all but withdrew from the contest for the vice presidential nomination some

Newfangled Gadgets Test His Temper

JOLIET, Ill. (UPI) — Luke Benedict, 76, years young and tough as the horseshoes he helps to manufacture, spat disdainfully in the general direction of the new steel rolling mill.

"Broke down again," he grumbled. "Stopped more than it's running. Damned machinery!"

He spat again and pointed proudly to his own crew guiding long bars of molten steel by hand through successive molds that narrowed and lengthened the fiery snakes.

"We keep rolling," he said proudly.

Benedict, for all his years, is head roller of the Phoenix Manufacturing Company's horseshoe division.

He and some 60 colleagues are dedicated to the sometimes questionable proposition that the horse is not vanishing from the American scene.

Chris I. Lennon, sales manager of the division, reckoned that Phoenix fashions 90 per cent of the nation's supply of horseshoes.

If they're a dying breed, the horseshoe makers are in no hurry to write their own obituaries.

Benedict, dean of the crew with almost 63 years of horseshoe rolling behind him, is 200 pounds of muscle. His helpers look equally hearty, though a dozen have been with the company more than 43 years and most of the others have been turning out horseshoes at least 30 years.

Joseph Gregorash, at 50 one of the "youngsters", beamingly told a reporter he had been feeding "blanks"—short lengths of rolled steel ready for final bending—into the same furnace for 35 years.

Faced with a steady decline in horseshoe sales, Phoenix gradually added other products and built, under the same roof with the horseshoe mill, the modern, automatic rolling mill.

The big mill isn't used to making horseshoes, Lennon explained, because it isn't economically feasible to change molds in it as often as they must be changed to make the shoes.

The company turns out more than 300 sizes and styles of horseshoes, compared with about 725 during the heyday of the horse. But horses and mules still come in assorted shapes and sizes, and the plant produces horseshoes ranging from six to 4 1/2 ounces in weight.

California buys more horseshoes than any other state, Texas ranks second. The Army, which bought 4,000 kegs as recently as 1945, no longer is a customer.

Benedict admitted sadly that times have changed.

"We rolled as high as 125 tons a day for shoes back in 1913-14," he said. "Maybe 15 tons in a good day today."

He recalled that he played hooky from school to start work as a billet boy at 11. "Made 20 cents a day," he said. "The guy that does my old job now gets $15 a day, has a helper yet and think's he's working too hard."

Officials Ponder Raising Interest For FHA Loans

By BERNARD BRENNER United Press International

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration farm officials are considering an increase in interest rates on federal farm ownership loans from 4 1/2 per cent to the legal ceiling of 5 per cent. It was learned today.

The loans involved are made and supervised by the Agriculture Department's Farmers Home Administration, which lends only to low-income farmers. Some of the loans are made with federal funds, others are government insured or government-guaranteed.

No decision on the interest boost has been made, an Agriculture Department official told United Press International. Officials have discussed the possibility of an increase however, this spokesman said, and "realize we may be faced with the necessity of entertaining it."

The official indicated administration policymakers would move slowly and reluctantly in boosting the farm loan rate. He pointed out however that the Farmers Home Administration's insured loan program is under pressure from a money market in which other investments pay a better return to private lenders.

One source of funds for the agency's insured farm ownership loans has been completely dried up since early August, the official said. Buy banks and other national rate lenders have not invested a cent in the program since August.

Local banks which "buy" insured government farm loans in their own communities are continuing to finance the program, the official said. But he said the government rate is "not competitive" with the returns investors can get now in other government or government-guaranteed securities.

Army Displaying Fast Typewriter; Paper Is Problem

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Army displayed Tuesday a "lefty" typewriter that can operate, in theory, at the rate of a half million words per minute.

Actually, the electronic device was shown running at a speed of 3,000 words a minute — 20 times as fast as most people can talk. The Army intends to use it at 250 words a minute.

The 500,000 words per minute speed would be the equivalent of typing the King James Version of the Bible (774,745 words) in a minute and a half.

The mechanism will go that fast or faster, but what baffles the experts is how to pass the roll of paper past the printing mechanism fast enough. The specification for the machine was prepared by the Signal Corps and it was built by the Burroughs Corp.

1959 EDSSEL

An exciting new kind of car! Makes history by making sense

The car you hoped would happen! Looks right, works right. Priced right. Luxurious without overdoing it. Roomy without useless length. Powerful without hogging gas. Styled to last. Soundly engineered. Solidly built. Priced with the most popular three!

Add it up. You get solid new distinction rivaled only by cars costing much more! Bold new vertical grille. Strong new lines. Graceful new rear flight deck.

You get beautiful new efficiency. Wonderfully spacious interiors—with less length outside. Six adults ride in comfort, but Edsel's compact 120-inch wheelbase fits any normal garage, swings easily in and out of tight spots.

You get lots of go for little gas. Pounds and pounds of useless car weight are gone. And four new Edsel engines are here! Including a thrifty six with a powerful test track record. And a new kind of economy V-8 that uses regular fuel and wrings big mileage from every ounce!

You get all the magnificent quality that marks a superior car. Super-smooth ride. Big, self-adjusting brakes. Luxurious carpeting, electric clock and four other customary "extras"—at no extra cost.

Yet the challenging new 1959 Edsel is priced with the most popular three! For example, you'll find that a new Edsel Ranger is priced almost exactly the same as many models of Chevrolet, Plymouth and Ford. See for yourself—this comparison is actually based on the factory suggested list prices.

Maclean Reported At Geneva Parleys

BERLIN (UPI)—The West Berlin tabloid newspaper BZ said today former British diplomat Donald Maclean arrived in Geneva Thursday as a member of the Soviet delegation to the atomic conference.

Maclean said he had no confirmation of the report and doubted Maclean would be allowed out of Russia even under escort. A Soviet delegation spokesman replied "I know nothing" and hung up the phone.

Knight said there was no doubt he had seen Maclean. "We once were good friends," he said. "We were good friends until the time he left the West and went to the Soviet Union. I know him as well as I know my own brother. I could not have made a mistake."
