Polk Becomes A Republican

By Paul C. Schaefer
Herald Staff Writer

Lifelong Democrat and 18-year Seminole County Sheriff John E. Polk has switched political parties to become a Republican.

Polk, 54, said he would officially announce the change in party alignment at a 2 p.m. Orlando press conference today, at which he will endorse Republican gubernatorial nominee Bob Martinez.

Martinez is expected to attend the media session, to be held at the

Radisson Hotel at Interstate 4 and Lake Ivanhoe, to accept Polk's endorsement, and welcome him into the party.

Polk also said he would run for re-election as Sheriff as a Republican in 1988. If re-elected, he would serve his sixth four-year term, but his first as a Republican.

Seminole County elections office manager Carylton Cohen confirmed Polk appeared in her office Friday to switch party affiliation.

The chairman of the Seminole County Democratic Executive Committee, David McIntosh, said he is "disappointed" by Polk's decision.

"I was disappointed when I heard about it, but it's his choice and only he can make it," McIntosh said.

"The party is in a rebuilding process here, and this isn't going to help that, but it's not going to change anything," McIntosh said.

County Republican party chairman Ray Valdes expressed delight over Polk's switch.

"We're delighted to have the sheriff join the Republicans," Valdes said. See POLK, page 16A

Brothers Dead Of Apparent Drug Overdoses

Two brothers were found dead Thursday afternoon in an Oviedo duplex. Police said it was an apparent accidental overdose of drugs.

Dead are John Danny Riley, about age 31, of 46 Johanna Drive, and Stephen Dudley Riley, about 37, of the same address.

Police are reasonably sure the two brothers lived at the Johanna Drive address where the bodies were found about 3:30 p.m.

Sheriff's investigator Richard Cabana said it appeared there were some needle tracks on one of the men. No foul play was suspected; police are treating the case as accidental.

Dr. Sara Irrgang, assistant Seminole County medical examiner, said the men had been dead "about 24 hours" before they were discovered.

Cabana said the men came from California and don't have any local family.

Oviedo Police Detective Sparky Dingess said no cause of death has been established on either man. He was awaiting results of the autopsies this morning.

"I can tell you two white males are dead, and it wasn't murder," he said. —Kathy Tyrity

Gambling Pros, Cons Debated

The proposed Florida lottery would benefit education, or absorb money of the poor; casino gambling would be a "cancer" to communities or give counties individual choice to decide if they want slot machines and gaming tables.

Proponents and opponents of the two hottest issues appearing on the Nov. 4 general election ballot squared-off in a debate before about two dozen people at Altamonte Springs city hall Thursday night. The debate was sponsored by The Greater Seminole County Chamber of Commerce and the Seminole County League of Women Voters, titled "Gambling in Florida's Future."

"The League of Women Voters does not think the state should be in the gambling business, promoting gambling," said state league president Judy Johnson. She also argued that a lottery would not raise enough money to make a significant impact on the state education budget, and that the money cannot initially be designated only for educational use. She also said a state run lottery would be expensive to administer and promote.

Lottery proponent Chip Ford, of "Excellence Campaign: An Educational Lottery" said education can benefit from a 6 percent funding increase from lottery proceeds, and that the lottery money would be a

Ms. Johnson said the lottery would "have to be promoted like hair spray or soap", and would "prey on the weaknesses of people instead of their strengths." She added that the

Men Who Crashed In Lake Arrested On Drug Charges

By Deane Jordan
Herald Staff Writer

The slightly-injured pilot and passenger of a plane that crashed into Lake Monroe in September were being held today in the Broward County jail on drug charges.

Being held on $75,000 bond was Paul Watkins, 25, of Sanford, the pilot of the plane. Darrell Pell, 32, of Osteen, was being held on $78,000 bond.

They were arrested Sunday in Coral Springs, northwest of Ft. Lauderdale.

Coral Springs police said today the case is being investigated and details would not be released until after prosecution.

They did say, however, that there may be a connection between the men's piloting skills and the drug arrests. Watkins is a commercial pilot, Pell a student pilot. They apparently flew a plane — now impounded — from Sanford to the Ft. Lauderdale area prior to Sunday. They were arrested by undercover agents in a shopping mall parking lot and the plane taken into custody at 12:30 a.m. Sunday at the Ft. Lauderdale Executive Airport.

The plane is being kept at a police compound at the airport. The Evening Herald has learned.

The plane is reportedly owned by a Sanford company but that could not be confirmed by the company's owner.

Watkins was being held on charges of trafficking marijuana in excess of 100 pounds, and conspiracy to traffic marijuana.

Pell was charged with conspiracy to traffic marijuana, possession of a concealed firearm and possession of a firearm in the commission of a felony.

Both men were arraigned Monday but formal charges have not been filed. A spokesman for the State Attorney's Office said the charge will probably be filed within three weeks. Watkins is being represented by a private attorney in the Ft. Lauderdale area and as of today Pell did not have an attorney.

Their cases are scheduled to be assigned to different judges and if the cases go to court, the men will probably be tried separately.

Watkins and Pell were in a single-engine Cessna 152 that developed engine trouble while over Lake Monroe Sept. 24, forcing a crash landing into the northwest portion of the lake.

The crash is under investigation by the Federal Aviation Administration.

The men were rescued by two Sanford brothers who said they saw the plane drop into the lake. The brothers took the men to a near-by picnic area then left.

Watkins was treated and released from Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford and Pell held overnight for observation. He was knocked out in the crash.

The plane went down in a shallow but alligator-infested portion of the lake just east of Interstate 4 and across the lake from the Central Florida Zoo.

Rescue personnel from Volusia and Seminole counties responded to the incident.

Young Man Called A Hero...

Didn't Know Raging Husband Had Gun

By Susan Loden
Herald Staff Writer

Jeffrey Dickey, who brandished an ax handle against a gunman following a car crash caused by the man, said he wouldn't have gotten involved if he had seen the gun.

He said Thursday he didn't know the man was armed and gunning for his wife who was in one of two cars wrecked in front of Dickey's pickup.

Even so, Dickey, 20, who lies in an Orlando hospital recovering from a gunshot wound to the neck, is considered a hero. A Eustis man, Horace W. Starns, 46, a potential target of the gunman, Robert Shaw, 41, of Sanford, said Thursday that by distracting Shaw, Dickey, saved him from harm.

However, there was no saving Shaw's estranged wife, Mary Ann Shaw, 42, of Sanford, who crouched in the passenger's seat of Starns' car, frozen in fear, saying, "No, Bob, no," as Shaw shot her pointblank in the back of the head.

Mrs. Shaw was wounded just before 11 p.m. Monday, after Dickey was shot. After the shootings Shaw fled the scene on State Road 46-A, just east of Rinehart Road in Lake Mary, leaving Mrs. Shaw's boss, Starns, who was taking her to work, unharmed, but crouching in fear at the side of his car.

Shaw drove about three miles west and within about six minutes stopped in the center of State Road 431 in Paola, and killed himself with a single shot to the head.

Dickey said he had been following Shaw's car west on State Road 46-A. Dickey was going to his home on Wilson Road from his girlfriend's home on Country Club Circle. At a stop light Dickey, who said he had had a couple of beers, was checking on a puppy that was in the cab of his truck. His truck accidentally rolled into the rear of Shaw's car, but Shaw didn't stop to complain.

Or State Won't Certify System

County Must Move 911 Equipment

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

After 18 months of planning, Seminole County has had to change the headquarters of its 911 emergency dispatch system in order to secure state certification for the system's operation. And that move will cost about $7,000.

The rerouting is inconvenient, but not expected to affect the system's Oct. 21 start-up, County Administrator Ken Hooper said today.

The public safety headquarters of the county's fire department at Five Points on U.S. Highway 17-92 was originally slated to serve as communication headquarters for the 911 system. However, the county learned last month the state Department of Communications would not certify the system unless it was installed at the county sheriff's department, located in Building 310 at the Sanford Airport.

In calling for the move, the state cited national statistics showing 85 percent of emergency calls coming in to 911 systems are for law enforcement assistance, rather than assistance from fire departments.

The county's original plan to house the system at its fire department was developed through results of a one-day survey a Virginia consulting firm did in 1984, Hooper said. The firm was asked to look into the 911 system while it was conducting a wage and management survey for the county, he said.

The firm's evaluation of county emergency calls concluded "the majority of true life and death situations were called in to public safety," Hooper said.

However, since learning of the state's position, the county reevaluated the number of emergency calls it receives and found the overall majority do come into the sheriff's department, Hooper said. The county also determined calls involving "life and death" situations are about even between both the fire and sheriff's departments, which is also on a par with national statistics, Hooper said.

While the county could have operated the 911 system without state certification, Hooper said it would not have been a prudent move. Certification ensures the

French Endorses Brantley During Debate

The Democratic candidate for a Seminole County commission seat surprised a number of people at a debate Thursday between he and his opponent when he announced he was endorsing the Republican candidate for lieutenant governor.

Democratic Seminole County commission candidate Bob French, Casselberry, endorsed Republican State Rep. Bobby Brantley, Longwood, the running mate of gubernatorial candidate Bob Martinez during a debate with incumbent Republican commissioner Bob Sturm, Lake Mary.

French stopped short of endorsing Martinez, however, but acknowledged the obvious: the only way to get Brantley into office is if Martinez is elected. French said Brantley would be responsive to the needs of Seminole County.

French said he had formerly supported Democrat Jim Smith in the Democratic runoff primary Sept. 30. Steve Pajcic narrowly defeated Smith to face Martinez in the general election.

French, a former one-term county commissioner and Sturm, who is seeking his third term, sparred in a lively debate before the Seminole County Young Republicans at the Holiday Inn in Altamonte Springs.

French made repeated predictions of victory in the Nov. 4 general election, which finally provoked Sturm into telling French "I would like to have your (concession) phone call early election night."

Sturm also all but ignored French's charges that he (Sturm) is a "good old boy" affiliated with county developers, admitting that at age 61, he might be "considered a little old."

French also said that while he and Sturm served together on the commission in the late 1970s, it was Sturm who nominated him for commission chairman.

Sturm said he did so "in the spirit of cooperation" after Sandra Glenn's nomination of Sturm for the job failed by a 2-3 vote.

French charged that Sturm has collected a huge campaign war chest nearing $80,000.

"You've got $3,500 from Jeno Paulucci alone, and I've got a total of $3,550," French said.

But Sturm said he has not actively solicited contributions for months, and has held only two fund raisers. He said more than 500 individuals have contributed, which indicates "broad based support" for his re-election bid.

French admitted that his campaign could use "about $20,000" between now and the election, but said he would "do a lot of walking" between now and then to gather support and votes.

Sturm said since he has been on the job the commission has passed a transportation plan, begun road improvements, initiated impact fees, established the county expressway authority, updated the Comprehensive Land Use Plan, and is about to implement the 911 system.

IN BRIEF

House Passes Immigration Bill; Hopes High For Senate Passage

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Surprise House approval of a long-stalled major immigration reform bill has raised the hopes of its backers that it may yet become law in the final days of this Congress.

The bill, passed 230-166 shortly before midnight Thursday, would grant amnesty to millions of aliens who entered the United States illegally prior to 1982 but would seek to discourage the entry of others by making it unlawful to hire them.

It was scheduled today to go to a House-Senate conference committee to resolve differences between it and a version the Senate passed last year.

The House, which twice earlier refused to take up the bill, passed it after voting 199-192 against a "killer" amendment by Rep. Bill McCollum, R-Fla., calling for the scrapping of the amnesty program.

The Florida Republican argued that granting legal residence to the aliens would add 90 million people to the U.S. population within 10 years because they would bring in other family members.

Wholesale Prices Rise

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Wholesale prices rose 0.4 percent last month as rising energy costs offset a drop in food costs, the Labor Department said today.

It was the largest month-to-month increase since May, when the seasonally adjusted Producer Price Index for Finished Goods rose 0.5 percent, according to analysts with the Bureau of Labor Statistics.

The index, which rose by 0.3 percent in August, has fallen at a 4 percent annual rate in the first nine months of 1986.

Gasoline costs rose 9.2 percent in September, reversing a trend that dropped prices to service stations by 19.3 percent and 1.5 percent in July and August, respectively. Wholesale gas costs have declined by 39.8 percent since September 1985.

Survey: Cocaine Use Increasing

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Most drug abuse in America leveled off or declined between 1982 and 1985, but cocaine use is rapidly increasing — particularly among young people who freebase the drug, two new government surveys show.

The Department of Health and Human Services, in its eighth study on drug abuse in American households since 1971, said Thursday that the number of cocaine users grew from 11.9 million in 1982 to 12.2 million in 1985, with frequent users soaring from 4.2 million to 5.8 million.

The HHS study said cocaine-related deaths have tripled since 1981.

Panel: NASA Too Ambitious

WASHINGTON (UPI) — NASA's plans for the post-Challenger era may be too ambitious given current resources, a review panel warns, and no more than 11 to 13 flights a year should be regularly scheduled even with four shuttles.

The National Research Council, in a study requested by Congress and paid for by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, concluded Thursday that eight to 10 flights a year are possible with the current three-shuttle fleet.

NASA officials have emphasized that the projected flight rate is a target only and that safety will not be compromised by pressure to meet a launch schedule — one of the factors faulted in the Challenger disaster Jan. 28.

Zaccaro Pleads Innocent

NEW YORK (UPI) — Geraldine Ferraro stood by John Zaccaro's side as he declared himself innocent of bribery and attempted extortion, blaming her husband's legal "nightmare" on her historic 1984 candidacy for vice president.

The indictment, returned Oct. 1, charges Zaccaro solicited the bribes from Cablevision Systems Development Corp. with the understanding he could obtain Manes's approval of a cable television franchise for the company in Queens.

The amount of the alleged bribes is not mentioned in the indictment, but sources have said they totaled $1 million.

Fatal Train Derailment Investigation Underway

FALL RIVER, Wis. (UPI) — Investigators suspect a fouled switch may have caused 12 cars of an Amtrak train to derail in south-central Wisconsin, killing a railroad crewman and injuring almost three dozen people.

The 17-car Empire Builder was en route from Seattle to Chicago Thursday when two engines, two baggage cars and one coach dormitory slid off the tracks and overturned, authorities said. Seven other cars derailed but did not overturn.

Of the 231 passengers and eight crew members on board, 33 people were reported injured in the mishap. All but four were treated for bruises and minor lacerations at two area hospitals and released.

Killed was Walter Day, 49, of Horicon, Wis., the train's fireman. An autopsy was scheduled today to determine the cause of death, said Columbia County Coroner Ken Reuhl.

An Amtrak crew from Chicago as well as investigators from the National Transportation Safety Board, the Federal Railroad Administration and the Soo Railroad Co., which owns the track, were expected to arrive on the scene today to search for a cause of the accident.

So Division Supervisor Robert Shive said the site of the derailment was a track crossover point, which means the train may have been getting ready to switch tracks — and the blame might be placed with a switching problem.

Dennis Hamilton, Amtrak's Milwaukee sales manager, said first indications were that a switch was in the wrong position.

"We don't know if there was some possible tampering by vandals or whether someone made a mistake," he said. "The preliminary report is that ... there was a switch that was fouled into the wrong position when the train hit it."

John Jacobsen, an Amtrak public affairs director in Washington, said most tracks on which the railroad operates are automatically controlled. He said investigators would consider a switching mixup as well as the possibility that recent heavy rains in the Midwest softened the rail bed.

Claiborne's Impeachment First Boot In Half Century

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Harry Claiborne — disgraced, defeated and stripped of his federal judgeship in a historic Senate impeachment trial — summed it up in a note scribbled to a friend: "A part of me died here today."

The Senate, convening as an impeachment court for the first time in 80 years, convicted Claiborne Thursday of three of the four articles of impeachment — similar to indictments.

It was only the fifth time in U.S. history a federal officer has been impeached and removed from office.

The House began impeachment procedures against Claiborne in July, infuriated that he refused to quit his post or give up his $78,700 annual salary despite his imprisonment for tax evasion.

He had been convicted of failing to report income of nearly $107,000 in 1979 and 1980 and has been serving a two-year prison sentence at Maxwell Air Force Base since May.

Claiborne, 69, listened in grim silence as the senators, standing at their desks, responded "guilty" or "not guilty" when their names were called. Afterwards, he wrote a note in red ink on a piece of paper.

"A part of me died here today, not because of defeat but because everything I believe in was assaulted beyond repair," wrote the Nevada judge. The note was given to a Las Vegas newspaper publisher who championed his cause.

U.S. marshals later escorted Claiborne from the chamber for his trip back to prison.

An overwhelming majority of Senators convicted Claiborne of each of the three impeachment articles, easily surpassing the two-thirds vote required by the Constitution for conviction in the rare procedure.

Claiborne is the last in 1936.

"We did what we had to do. ... Even the judiciary is not above the law," said House Judiciary Chairman Peter Rodino, D-N.J., head of a nine-member House panel that served as the prosecution in the impeachment trial.

For the first time in history, a group of 12 senators — instead of the full Senate — heard the evidence in the case during a week of hearings. The Senate then, acting primarily on that panel's advice, spent three days deciding whether to remove Claiborne from office.

The Senate deliberated privately for nearly five hours on impeachment articles charging Claiborne with purposely filing false tax returns for 1979-1980, misbehavior and high crimes for being convicted while in office, and bringing disrepute upon the judiciary.

Under special rules used in the trial, Sen. Strom Thurmond, R-S.C., the presiding officer, instructed senators to stand behind their desks when their names were called and vote either "guilty" or "not guilty."

The voice votes broke an eerie silence in the vaulted chamber.

After the four votes were completed, Thurmond read an order formally ousting Claiborne from office, which concluded: "It is therefore ordered and adjudged that the said Harry E. Claiborne be, and he is hereby, removed from office."

The Senate decided not to vote on whether to bar Claiborne from ever holding office again.

Claiborne's lawyers spent Thursday running from court to court in an attempt to halt the Senate vote, arguing the judge was not given a chance to fairly present his side of the case to the full Senate. They were refused at every turn, including rejections by two Supreme Court justices.

Claiborne had argued futilely that he was the victim of an FBI vendetta seeking revenge for his criticism of the agency's organized crime strike force in Nevada, and he pleaded to be allowed to call witnesses to testify.

Kiddie Drug Pushers Supply Neighborhood

PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — Police say the arrest of an 11-year-old "hard-core" drug dealer "so aggressive it was shocking" exposed a deep problem — how do you convince a kid to take a minimum-wage job when he can make $1,000 a night selling cocaine?

Undercover narcotics officers arrested the fifth-grade boy Wednesday in the latest in a series of arrests of children selling "rock" cocaine in the same two-block area.

"This kid was so aggressive it was shocking," Lt. Jerry Schultze said Thursday. "He was a real pro salesman, and he's only in fifth grade."

The boy, who police said had a record of eight arrests for various minor offenses, was picked up by officers from the Neighborhood Crime Task Force, Schultze said.

Although officers could not say how many child arrests had been made recently, they recalled that an 11-year-old girl, a 12-year-old boy, and a 14-year-old girl had been arrested in the last few months for selling cocaine in the same neighborhood.

Schultze said police believe the child dealers are supplied and trained by older youths or adults.

Police Lt. Lynn Frolstad said officers found $650,000 in cash on a 16-year-old girl who was arrested about a month ago for selling cocaine.

"We're worried about this," Frolstad said. "How do you convince these kids to go to school and work for minimum wage when they can make $500 to $1,000 a night selling coke?"

In the latest arrest, the officers' unmarked car had barely come to a stop at a corner when three youngsters began motoring and walking towards the car, Schultze said.

"But then the littlest one, the 11-year-old, took off ahead of the other two to get the sale," Schultze said.

Cold Air Hits Great Lakes

By United Press International

The Missouri River fell and the Mississippi held steady today but floods still covered Missouri towns near the waterways, transforming roads into canals and forcing the National Guard to deliver food by helicopter.

Cold Canadian air stung the Great Lakes, prompting frost and freeze warnings in Michigan, Wisconsin and Illinois. A 23-degree reading in Marquette, Mich., Thursday night set a record low for the day.

In the Plains and Midwest, floods since late September have been blamed for 12 deaths, at least 43,000 evacuations and hundreds of millions of dollars in damage — including at least $100 million in both Oklahoma and Missouri.

The National Weather Service reported flooding in 10 states Thursday, most of it minor. However, high water kept all but a few hundred of the 7,300 evacuated residents in Missouri from returning home.

West Alton, Mo., a town of 425 people at the confluence of the Mississippi and Missouri rivers, was covered by floods that punched through levees on both rivers Tuesday.

Rescue crews Thursday went door-to-door with evacuation orders for 80 people who remained, but they refused to leave despite floods that were "shoulder height or deeper," Coast Guard Lt. Chris Smith said.

Most remaining residents — many without electricity or phone service — said they were staying to protect their possessions. Some spent their time perched on high ground, watching neighbors ply the canal-like streets in boats.

"Everything I own is in my trailer," said Glen Guess, 35, as he waited for the boat that would take him back to his mobile home. "I'm not going to let some looter come in while I'm gone and steal it all."

No looting was reported, and authorities were using identity checks to keep sightseers and potential looters out of the area.

A Coast Guard helicopter flew to nearby Portage des Sioux Thursday night to deliver food to about 50 families who remained in the flooded town, which normally has 500 residents, officials said.

Authorities said they hoped West Alton would be the last major area of flooding in the state because the Missouri River was falling and the Mississippi was holding steady down river at St. Louis.

The Missouri created Tuesday at 37.5 feet, a record high for the century.

The Mississippi held at 38.9 feet at St. Louis Thursday night. The river had been expected to crest at 39.5 feet, more than 10 feet above flood stage, but broken levees up river helped flatten out the crest, the NWS said.

In seeking a federal disaster declaration, Gov. John Ashcroft estimated that floods in Missouri have caused $30 million in damage to homes and $75 million to agriculture. He added that water would have to recede before full assessments could be made.

In northeastern Oklahoma, residents returned home as the flooding along the Arkansas River receded. Some 300 people in Moffett, the last residential area in the state to report flooding, began their cleanup Thursday.

The NWS reported "serious flooding" along the Arkansas River in Arkansas, but state police in Fort Smith said high water was confined to fields.

Local Report

Thunderstorms moved over the county Thursday night dumping 2.4 inches in Casselberry and 1.81 inches of rain in Sanford. Thursday's high temperature in Sanford was 90 degrees and today's 8 a.m. reading 68 degrees as reported by University of Florida Agricultural Research and Education Center, Celery Avenue. Temperatures today in high 80s with 60 percent chance of rain.

Longwood Moves Toward Finalizing Pact With Diocese

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

In a first step making the agreement signed Sept. 8 with the Episcopal Diocese of Central Florida legal, the Longwood City Commission has given tentative approval to an ordinance adopting the pact. A public hearing and final action are scheduled for Oct. 20. The vote was unanimous.

Under the agreement the city will pay the church $125,000 over four years and grant other concessions in order to resolve and quiet interests of the diocese in the property, which it conveyed to the city in 1938. The deed had a reverter clause that if it was not used for a park it would go back to the church. The property in question is west of Christ Episcopal Church between Church Avenue and Jessup Avenue and is the site of the new police building now under construction.

The city has already paid the diocese $50,000 as per the agreement.

A suit brought against the city by a group headed by Dave Gunter to halt construction and cancel the agreement has since been dropped.

In other action, final approval was given to an ordinance that will allow developers to have a designated authorized representative go before the city's design review board on their behalf. Previously they were required to be present in person when submitting applications or plans for review by the city staff. The vote on the motion by Commissioner Perry Faulkner was unanimous. The action was taken as the result of terms of a settlement in which Winter Springs developer Tom Binford agreed to drop a civil suit against the city.

The suit had been scheduled for a pretrial conference with County Judge Alan Dickey on Sept. 29. Binford filed a small-claims suit in June asking $200 for his 2½-hour wait to see the city's Design Review Board, because, he said, the city had ignored his bill.

The first of three resolutions required for assessing property owners for seven street paving projects was approved unanimously. Streets included are West Warren Avenue, S. West Lake St. (S. Milwee), S. Wilma St., Short Avenue, Park Avenue, Georgia Avenue, and West Lake Street (S. Milwee), north of State Road 434.

The second resolution scheduled for Oct. 20 meeting will set the time and date for equalization board hearing. Letters will be mailed to property owners on the streets on Oct. 23 to advise them of the equalization board meeting scheduled for Nov. 10. The third resolution will be adopted at the time if no changes to the assessment roll are required or on Nov. 17, when the commission is scheduled to approve contracts for paving.

In other business, the commission:

- Adopted an ordinance creating a minimum of 10 weeks for application review and processing time period for all land development, subdivision and site plan applications to be considered by the city. It also revises the public meeting notice procedure for land development applications to allow the staff to notify the applicant by phone as well as in writing prior to a scheduled meeting of the commission or other city board.

- Adopted an ordinance on a motion by Faulkner that relieves city employees or authorized agents of responsibility or liability for private costs to applicants incurred by or resulting from the city's actions on their applications, development plan, plat or permit.

- Amended a Future Land Use Plan element unanimously on a motion by Commissioner Ed Myers from low density residential to light industrial at the request of Rodney E. Weaver of Energy Conservation Unlimited, Inc., located on the north side of Georgia Avenue, east of Seaboard Railroad.

- Extended the city's lake maintenance agreement with Lake Doctors, Inc. for $8,928 and authorized City Administrator Ron Waller to find out what the cost would be for additional lakes.

- Gave tentative approval to a zoning change requested by John and Mildred Jeanette for Lots 18, Block 4, and Lot 1, Block 5, Entzmingers Addition from R-1A residential, single family. The applicant said the property is the only vacant lot in a neighborhood of homes built to R-1 standards (1,200 sq.ft.) and it would not be logical to build an 1,800 sq.ft. house as required under R-1A. The Land Planning Agency and the City Planner Chris Nagle recommended approval. A public hearing is set for Nov. 3.

- Agreed to continue utilizing the Special Population Employment Program worker to clean city hall in lieu of janitorial service.

- Postponed appointments to the code enforcement board from District 2 and 3 until Oct. 20.

- Approved an appointment by Commissioner June Lormann of Willard S. Cotter, 460 Columbus Circle, Longwood, to the city's Parks and Recreation Advisory Board.

- Tabled three ordinances dealing with proposed franchises for commercial and residential garbage collection until Oct. 20. A workshop will be held 6:30 p.m. Monday in city hall to work out some of the details.

Frances Trachtenberg, 100 Escondido, is suing for an unspecified amount of damages in excess of $5,000.

In the suit Ms. Trachtenberg states she was at the center Dec. 17, 1984 and slipped and fell due to an exercise mat and a balance beam at the center's entrance. She states the center was negligent in not warning her about the equipment.

She says she suffered a fractured ankle, pain, mental anguish, medical expenses and has lost the capacity to enjoy life.

No hearing date has been set.

Longwood Man Jailed After Charges He Practiced Medicine Without License

A Longwood man has been arrested in Orlando and charged with practicing medicine without a license.

Melbourne Ray Baldwin, 50, was arrested Tuesday after a month-long investigation by the Metropolitan Bureau of Investigation in Orlando, according to an MBI spokesman.

Agents seized over 200 patients' files and vials of medicine from the Mid-Florida Clinic, 1900 N. Orange Ave. Agents are expected to investigate the operation of the clinic further to determine if two licensed doctors were involved and whether insurance fraud has been committed.

Baldwin reportedly prescribed coffee and barium enemas, intravenous vitamins, and horse tranquilizers. MBI agents said no matter what patients came to him for, he prescribed the same things.

Most of his patients were said to be elderly. They became his patients by word-of-mouth, not through advertising. He reportedly told them he was not a licensed physician.

Baldwin was being held in the Orange County jail on $100,000 bond. Practicing medicine without a license is a third degree felony with a maximum five year sentence. The bail was set higher than usual for the felony charge because he has faced similar charges in other states, the spokesman said.

Agents began investigation the clinic after a woman became ill following treatment and went to a doctor.

Agents believe the clinic has been operating since December. —Deane Jordan

Maitland Physician Awaiting Ruling

Lake Mary Doctor Gives Up License To Avoid Medical Board Discipline

A Lake Mary doctor has voluntarily relinquished his license possibly to avoid disciplinary by the Board of Medical Examiners, according to a board spokesman.

The case of Jess Barbers, 64, of 549 W. Lake Mary Boulevard, is scheduled to be reviewed today by the medical board was scheduled to meet all day in Tampa. They are expected to accept Barbers' relinquishment.

According to Diane Orcutt of the Department of Professional Regulation, Barbers had a temporary license and was authorized to practice only in the Longwood office of physician Glen Davis, his son-in-law, according to records.

The medical board became interested in Barbers after correspondence with him showed a Lake Mary address rather than the Longwood office. A further investigation showed Barbers also had applied for hospital privileges at South Seminole Community Hospital in Longwood.

Ms. Orcutt said Barbers' temporary license was issued on a basis that there was a critical need for doctors in Longwood, although she could not explain why Barbers was restricted to practice only in Davis' office.

Barbers' speciality is anesthesiology.

In a second case, a Maitland doctor is awaiting to find out if the board will issue the recommended discipline of a hearing officer, as ruled by the 1st District Court of Appeal, or stand by its earlier decision and press stronger discipline measures against the doctor.

According to Ms. Orcutt, Dr. Stevan N. Van Orr, 541 E. Horatio Ave., who also has an office in Winter Springs, was accused of presigning prescriptions for others to fill in, allowing non-licensed persons to attend patients, prescribing controlled drugs to people who did not need them, and committing gross malpractice.

A hearing officer determined that Van Orr "clearly" had presigned prescriptions, but evidence was lacking to discipline him on the other charges. The hearing officer recommended a written reprimand. The board however opted for probation and other sanctions apparently based on the unsubstantiated charges.

Van Orr appealed their decision to the 1st District Court of Appeal, which agreed with him saying the board either has to agree with the recommendation or cite its reason for the stiffer penalties.

Robber Gets Life

Sanford Man Gets 3 100-Year Jail Terms

A Sanford man found guilty of rape, kidnapping, armed burglary and aggravated assault in two cases was sentenced to three 100-year terms Wednesday.

Christopher Hall, 33, of 23 Bamboo Cove, who could be released in 10 years, was also ordered to serve 15 years probation. He was found guilty in July and August. He was sentenced by Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Lefler.

According to court records, several victims have identified Hall as their assailant and he still faces prosecution in at least one more case.

He was found guilty of taking a woman at knife point from her home March 30 and for rapes and robbery at another home March 14.

He faces charges of rape and robbery from a March 31 incident.

In a second case, a Sanford man convicted of robbery was sentenced to life in prison after he was ruled a habitual offender.

Vincent Ashley, 31, was sentenced by Lefler. Ashley must serve a minimum of 25 years.

Ashley was convicted of a December robbery which occurred while he was on probation for a robbery. At sentencing Wednesday, he asked Lefler not to consider that he testified for the state in the murder and burglary trial of Gregory Mills after being granted immunity. Mills awaits execution for the 1979 shotgun death of James Wright of Sanford.

Lefler, however, said Ashley was an active participant in the death of Wright even though he was granted immunity and said Lefler said he was also taking into account Ashley's four felony convictions and two misdemeanor crimes.

Time Now For Budget Reform

Now that President Reagan has defied the political odds with a historic overhaul of the tax code, we nominate a new initiative for the top of the White House agenda in 1987: Budget reform.

The sorry spectacle now being played out on Capitol Hill provides ample evidence — again — that the budget process is no process at all, but rather institutionalized mayhem. "The system has broken down," declares Rep. Silvio Conte (R-Mass.), earning distinction for the understatement of the year.

Lawmakers, failing once more to come to grips with the deficit crisis, will have a lot of explaining to do when they go before the voters in November. The tangled $566 billion budget bill ought to be an albatross about the neck of every incumbent candidate.

Having failed to address a structural deficit that threatens the nation's economy and well-being, Congress is resorting to every old trick and a few new ones to conceal rivers of red ink.

Some $680 million, for example, in 1987 revenue-sharing funds for states and localities is being credited to this year's deficit instead of next year's. That's just one bookkeeping device aimed at hiding the fact that the 1987 budget will fall far short of reducing the deficit to the $144 billion goal mandated by the Gramm-Rudman act. Legislators openly deride their 1987 spending plan as the blue-smoke-and-mirrors budget.

In this election year, some free-spending lawmakers actually blame the deficit on Mr. Reagan's refusal to endorse a tax increase. But the voters should remember that the White House budget proposed to Congress in February met the Gramm-Rudman target without raising taxes. It did so by cutting spending, the simple deficit solution that Congress refuses to consider.

Even if it is too late to salvage the 1987 spending blueprint, now more than ever before is the time for fundamental reform of the budget process. If the president will apply the same shove to budget reform that he did to tax reform, it could happen.

Two practical steps could impose more budgetary discipline.

Number One: Restore the Gramm-Rudman bite. It was defanged last summer by the Supreme Court, which struck down a key provision requiring automatic cuts whenever the deficit exceeds the declining targets necessary to balance the budget by 1991.

A constitutionally sound mechanism for automatic reductions already has been passed by the Senate but is blocked in the House. It would give the authority to impose across-the-board cuts to the President's Office of Management and Budget. The Supreme Court invalidated the earlier measure because it improperly assigned to the comptroller general, which reports to Congress, authority to issue spending-cut orders to executive-branch departments.

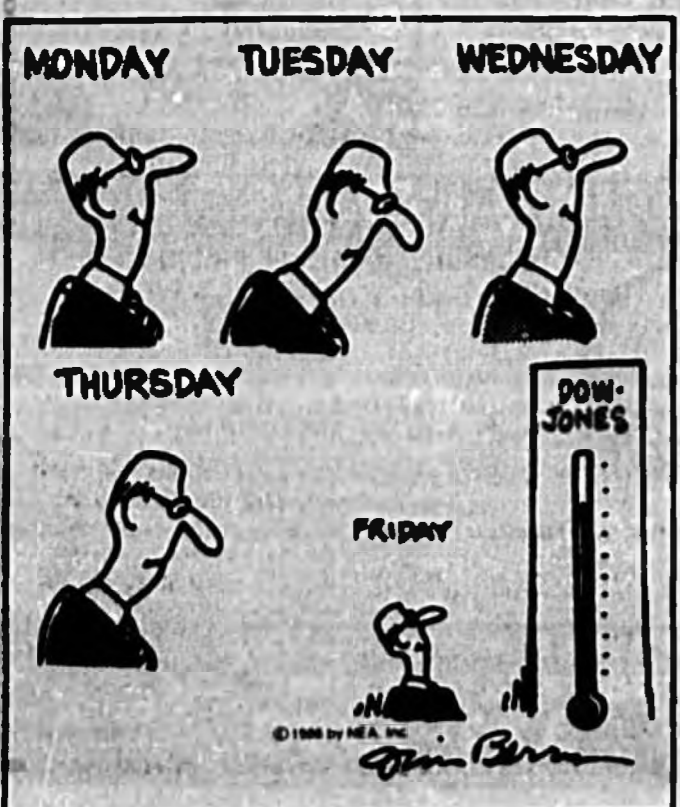

Number Two: Give the president a line-item veto over spending measures, which is to say the same power to control outlays that many governors already have. California Gov. George Deukmejian, for instance, has vetoed $3.5 billion in extravagant appropriations during the past four years.

The collapse of the budget process so appalling today in Washington summons the president to press for budget reform before the deficit crisis becomes an economic disaster.

U.S. Constitution Has Stood Test Of Time

Recently I participated in the "Unconventional Constitutional Convention" sponsored by Cooper Union in New York City under the direction of Rubin Gorewitz.

Gorewitz, an accounting executive, assembled a diverse group of political and legal experts to evaluate the American Constitution with an eye to the possibility of a national convention to draft a new Constitution. I was among those opposing the notion that we need a new Constitution.

I believe in the Constitution's essential soundness. It is a brilliantly conceived document that has guided and enriched American democracy for two centuries.

The men who drafted and fought for its ratification, along with the drafters of the Declaration of Independence, were probably the most public-spirited men ever assembled in American history.

I endorse William Gladstone's letter to the Committee in Charge of the Centennial of the American Constitution. On July 20, 1887, he wrote, "I have always regarded that Constitution as the most remarkable work ... in modern times ... in its application to political affairs." The framers of this founding document were not saints. But the more I have studied and considered the role of the Constitution in our history, the more convinced I am that it has been our great fortune to be guided by its political and moral wisdom.

I recognize there are issues not fully addressed by the founding fathers. But I am opposed to the calling of a second Constitutional Convention to revise the existing document because I fear we might not be so fortunate in assembling a group as wise as Washington, Madison, Franklin and their associates of 1787.

"The American state was created by a generation of individuals who were particularly concerned with the moral qualities of citizenship," writes political scientist John Kushman. These founders, he notes, were guided by "the ideals of civic humanism" ... by "the idea of public virtue, the willingness to forego one's personal desires for the greater good of the nation."

Were the men who gathered in Philadelphia in the summer of 1787 better endowed in wisdom, morality, vision and motivation than the citizens who would probably comprise a Constitutional Convention in 1987? In my opinion they probably were. We are not likely to be so fortunate the second time around. At the moment, I'm not inclined to take that chance.

There are, however, constitutional issues that concern me. One is the question of how the United States legally goes to war. Since 1950, the Constitution's war clause has been subjected to drastic reinterpretation. The Korean War and the Vietnam War plus conflicts in the Middle East, the Caribbean, Central America and Grenada have stood that constitutional provision on its head.

I believe the constitutional framers made clear that the power to declare or initiate war was confined to the Congress except in an emergency circumstance where an attack on the United States would give the president the right to take defensive action.

We must clarify federal law based on the Constitution to make certain that never again will American troops be sent off to war without a declaration of war by Congress.

Black's Weight Problem

By United Press International

High blood pressure is a major problem among blacks, but researchers have found that for black males, weight gain is more dangerous to circulation than continuous high weight.

Fifty-nine percent of those who became obese over the course of a study developed high blood pressure, compared to 45 percent of those who were obese at the beginning of the study and remained so, the researchers reported.

Those who became overweight in the course of the study were almost one and a half times more likely to develop high blood pressure than those who had never been overweight.

Those who lost weight during the study had the lowest risk.

The study was conducted by Meharry Medical College in Nashville, Tenn., and the National Center for Health Statistics. It involved 313 black male physicians who were examined initially between 1958 and 1965 and again between 1981 and 1983. The doctors were all Meharry alumni.

The study findings were published in the Journal of Chronic Diseases.

Mimicking Fly Eyes

Researchers at the University of Rochester have created a novel distortion-free wide angle lens modeled after the eyes of common houseflies.

The optical device consists of a hemisphere of 13 small glass rods, each designed to transmit small sections of light. The rods are precisely aligned so their images overlap at a focal point, according to Robert Zinter, a graduate student in the school's Institute of Optics.

Zinter, who worked on the project, said the lens produces a distortion-free image because light refracts off a series of points along the length of the rods, just as it does in a series of rods called ommatidia found in fly eyes.

Although still in the basic research stage, Zinter said the optical system could conceivably be used in robots, missile guidance systems and wide-angle security detection systems.

WASHINGTON — This is the portrait of Georgia O'Keeffe, the eminent artist, as painted by the FBI during the Red scare of the 1950s.

O'Keeffe, who died earlier this year at 88, was not just a reclusive, intense woman who broke new ground in American art, according to her FBI file. She was an outsider, living near the Los Alamos nuclear laboratory, whose politics did not "sound entirely American."

Though born in Wisconsin, O'Keeffe spent much of her life in New Mexico, where she found the inspiration and subject matter for the masterpieces that made her a major figure in the history of American art. Her studio in Abiquiu was about 20 miles north of Los Alamos.

Our associate Stewart Harris obtained the O'Keeffe file, which details a three-month FBI investigation.

Polls' Miserable Year

WASHINGTON (NEA) — In the last decade an aura of infallibility has grown up around political polling. As techniques have become more sophisticated, polls have become increasingly accurate.

Nowadays most politicians and campaign strategists rely so much on polls that many candidates all but give up weeks before an election, because polls indicate they have no chance.

So far, however, 1986 has been a miserable year for the pollsters. In some cases they have been disastrously wrong. In other cases, highly respected polling organizations have issued results within days of one another that read like each had been questioning voters on different planets.

An extreme example was the Democratic gubernatorial primary in Hawaii. There the favored Rep. Cecil Heftel was facing Lt. Governor John Waihee and former Rep. Patsy Mink.

Polls showed Heftel far ahead during the campaign — a month prior to the election one statewide poll had him 38 points in the lead. The final poll, taken 10 days before the vote, showed some erosion in his support, but still had him leading by 21 points.

Waihee said the polls were wrong. This is a common refrain in politics — usually from candidates who are far behind. But in this case Waihee was dead right. When the votes were counted Waihee was the winner, receiving about 45 percent of the vote to Heftel's 36 percent and Mink's 16 percent. Waihee had won comfortably.

This left pollsters scrambling for an explanation. They hit upon the fact that, because of lack of funds, Waihee saved his media effort for the campaign's last days. The late media blitz, we are told, caused this monumental turnaround.

Another example occurred in the Alabama Senate race. Last April, within days of one another, the political camps of incumbent Republican Sen. Jeremiah Denton and his challenger, Democratic Rep. Richard Shelby, released the results of polls that asked about the same number of voters for their senatorial preference. Both polls had approximately the same degree of possible statistical error.

Denton's polls showed him leading his opponent by about 27 points. Shelby's poll showed Denton ahead also, but by just a hair — 44.6 to 44.4.

Take the bitter senatorial race in Florida, which pits incumbent GOP Sen. Paula Hawkins against popular Democratic Gov. Bob Graham. Both political camps are polling, as are several of the state's largest newspapers and several of its major television stations. Most of these media outlets are using respected, private polling organizations.

While polls have generally shown that Graham is ahead, the results have varied wildly. In one case three polls showed Graham ahead, but one had him only 6 points in the lead, which, taking into account potential error, made the race a neck-and-neck affair. Another poll, though, had Graham ahead by a comfortable 14 points. A third pegged his lead at 28 points, which made the race look like a runaway.

In some political circles the accuracy of polling is starting to be questioned, and if this trend continues, the way campaigns are run in the future could change drastically.

ROBERT WALTERS

Burying Nuclear Corpse

WASHINGTON (NEA) — "It is unthinkable," said a 1978 congressional report, "that the United States would continue nuclear power plant construction without a national program of radioactive waste disposal and decommissioning."

Yet that warning from the House Government Operations Committee continues to go unheeded by the federal government and the owners of the 100 commercial nuclear facilities throughout the country.

Because the nation still has no official repository for high-level, non-military radioactive waste, almost all of the 12,000 metric tons of spent fuel assemblies from those power plants are temporarily stored in water-filled holding pools and ponds.

The decommissioning or dismantling of reactors when their useful life ends after 30 or 40 years is expected to quadruple demand for long-term disposal facilities by the beginning of the next century. By that time, the federal government says a permanent burial ground will exist, probably in Nevada, Texas or Washington.

But that project has been repeatedly delayed and one knowledgeable critic suggests that the schedule "can be met only through a series of somewhat fantastic assumptions probably requiring divine intervention."

The low-level wastes produced during decommissioning would be less radioactive but more voluminous. Dismantling a single commercial reactor would produce almost 1,500 truckloads of radioactive debris — enough to bury an entire football field under 13 feet.

But waste disposal is only one aspect of decommissioning nuclear power plants. Because they are highly radioactive, they cannot simply be demolished with a wrecking ball.

Yet nobody is certain how to do this task that has never been done. Although some small research, military and commercial reactors have been dismantled, none of the 1,000 megawatt reactors that now are standard in the industry has ever been decommissioned.

Estimates of how much the task might cost vary widely. One industry group says a plant could be decommissioned for slightly more than $30 million to just under $130 million, while a consulting firm says the range is significantly higher, from about $175 million to almost $695 million.

FBI Tried To Paint O'Keeffe Red

complaint about her on Oct. 29, 1953. The informant, whose name was deleted from our copy of the FBI document under Privacy Act rules, told the bureau that O'Keeffe was the only person in Abiquiu who voted for Henry Wallace, the Progressive Party candidate for president in 1948. He did not say how he knew the contents of her supposedly secret ballot.

The informant further reported that, in a discussion with O'Keeffe, he had called Wallace a "Bolshevik." O'Keeffe replied, the informant related, that she believed in Wallace's policies, including his desire for closer relations between the United States and the Soviet Union.

"Also," the FBI wrote, "the subject (O'Keeffe) had made remarks which were not (in accord) with his line of thinking, and remarks that would not be made by loyal Americans." She is "ultra-liberal," the informant said, and "her political philosophy doesn't sound entirely American."

At the height of McCarthyism, this was enough to set the FBI bloodhounds on O'Keeffe's trail. A Nov. 18, 1953 memo from the Albuquerque FBI office to headquarters in Washington explained the threat O'Keeffe posed to national security:

"Due to the closeness of Abiquiu to Los Alamos, it is recommended that a case be opened and that the subject (O'Keeffe) be checked out."

The investigation was approved, and diligent detective work soon turned up further horrors regarding the artist. She "frequently entertains guests of foreign extraction in her home," the G-men reported.

Of particular interest to the FBI was a man of either Chinese or Filipino extraction who stayed in her home while O'Keeffe was visiting the Ghost Ranch, a resort operated by her friends and neighbors, Earl Vance and Arthur Pack. The FBI noted the man's description, but was frustrated in its research on him. "No further information was available in Abiquiu," the FBI reported, explaining that "the Oriental talked to very few people and stayed to himself most of the time."

In addition to her visits to the dude ranch, the FBI noted that O'Keeffe had a room at 509 Madison Ave., New York City, in November and December 1953.

The G-men never did interview O'Keeffe about her foreign guests or the Oriental house sitter, and the file was closed on Feb. 5, 1954, "until such time as information is received that is of a substantial nature." The final report states: "It is to be noted that the New York files and the (Albuquerque) bureau files failed to reflect any information of derogatory nature regarding (O'Keeffe)."

There is one mysterious reference in the FBI file on O'Keeffe to the "John Reed Communist Club" in New York, though it appears from the context to be a reference to one of her acquaintances rather than to the artist herself. The names and other identifying information in the mention of the club were blacked out.

Reagans May Be After Wrong Drug

By Tom Tiede

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Shortly after Nancy and Ronald Reagan used the television networks to announce a new, complex, $900 million program to battle narcotics proliferation in the nation, an administration staff member accepted a luncheon engagement to privately discuss his personal skepticism.

He ordered a margarita. He said he was bewildered by the first family's action. He thought it had the tone of an election-year impulse. He said the drug problem could not be resolved by raiding the treasury, or introducing the military, and, he concluded, raising his glass, the crusade was enough to drive one to drink.

The last line was a touch of relief. But the official was making an important point as well. The president and his wife are mobilizing against drugs that are easy to despise — cocaine and heroin and the like — but they are not as outraged by the most popularly accepted drug in the country: alcohol.

That is an oversight that might be considered hypocritical. The Reagans are among 110 million Americans who take at least an occasional drink. When it comes to real drug problems, moreover, alcohol is far more dangerous than cocaine or heroin, and is, statistically, the most abused narcotic in the land.

The National Council on Alcoholism says Americans over 14 consume the equivalent of 2.77 gallons of alcoholic beverages per person per year. That's 591 cans of beer, or 115 bottles of wine. The council says the booze is used by an estimated 100 million adults and perhaps 10 million children.

The council also says the figures dwarf those for other drugs. As far as it's known, at least, no one has totaled the quantity of hallucinogens and sedatives purchased each year, but the guess is there are no more than 30 million people who use marijuana, crack, PCP and that kind of thing.

Tom Secesal is the executive director of the National Council on Alcoholism. And he worries that the Reagans may be creating a double standard for dope. He says when it's viewed from a health and safety standpoint, alcohol is the greatest drug threat today to social and national well-being.

Items:
 • Abuse. The council believes that 18.3 million adults, or more than 10 percent of that population, drink to excess. Excess is defined as 14 or more drinks per week. Secesal says 12.1 million of these people have one or more symptoms of alcoholism, which can be interpreted as a physical dependence.

• Health. Alcohol accounts for 98,000 deaths annually. Half of all automobile accident fatalities are alcohol-related, drinkers are six to 15 times more likely to commit suicide than non-drinkers, and liquor is known to cause or contribute to numerous fatal diseases, including several kinds of cancer.

• Crime. Liquor is said to be involved in 50 percent of the spouse abuse cases reported to police and up to 38 percent of the child beatings. The Bureau of Justice Statistics says about 54 percent of jail inmates convicted of violent crimes admit they were drinking before committing their offenses.

• Children. Alcohol is the No. 1 drug problem among youth. The average child sees televised booze consumed 75,000 times before he turns 21. Ninety-two percent of them try alcohol themselves before they reach the legal age. And nearly 100,000 grade-school kids admit they get drunk at least once a week.

• Family. One out of every three adults polled in a national survey (a total of 56 million) say that alcohol abuse has brought trouble to their families. The poll indicates this is about four times the number of Americans who complain that other drugs have generated problems in their homes.

• And, finally costs. The National Council on Alcoholism calculates that the economic consequence of alcohol abuse (accidents, hospitalization, lost production and so forth) is at least $120 billion per annum. The related burden for all other drugs is about half as much, or an estimated $60 billion.

Secesal says the case against the narcotic is therefore clear. But its prevalence in society has given it an immunity from national worry. The Reagans mentioned alcohol during their television broadcast, yet they did not suggest that liquor stores be closed down along with pot shops and street dealing.

Secesal doesn't suggest that either. He says prohibition has already been tried in vain. But he does believe that if the government is serious about drug control, and the Reagans really believe dollars can make a difference, the abuse of alcohol must be attacked with equal contempt and enthusiasm.

Longwood Considering Hook-Up With County For Sewage Disposal

By Jane Casselberry
Herald Staff Writer

The city of Longwood, which will open bids on its proposed 600,000-gallon-per-day Grant Street sewage treatment facility on Oct. 22, is exploring the option of hooking up to Seminole County's Greenwood Lakes plant.

Mayor Larry Goldberg has confirmed that he has been talking to county officials about the possibility of acquiring sewage capacity at Greenwood Lakes instead of building the Grant Street facility near the present Skylark plant.

Goldberg said, "There are a whole lot of things that have to be talked about."

Two of the questions to be negotiated are who would put down the lines connecting the Grant Street site with the Greenwood Lakes plant.

Longwood City Administrator Ron Waller thinks the idea is worth exploring and said he has received good encouragement from the individual commissioners. "We are going to open bids on the Grant Street Sewer Plant on Oct. 22," he said. "Once we open bids, we will have 90 days to choose the way to go." Waller explained, "Until we know what the bids are, we won't be able to compare as well."

Jim Bible, director of Environmental Services for the county, said the project is feasible. The county will go out for bids in the next two or three months on an expansion project that will bring the 1.5 million gallons per day Greenwood Lakes plant up to a capacity of 3.5 million gpd at a cost estimated at $9 million.

Waller emphasized these are only preliminary discussions. "One of the important facts is what would the Grant Street Plant cost. Once that is known, the matter will be clear," he said.

The city has borrowed $2.5 million from Sun Bank to build the new sewage treatment plant. If the city decides to do something else besides building the Grant Street Plant, it will mean more legal and paper work and applying to the state to modify its method of taking care of sewage, Waller said.

Waller said, "We can't act independently, we have an obligation to spend the money in an approved fashion, but as long as we comply with DER regulations we should get by."

Waller estimated costs already exceed $100,000 for plans, tests and engineering on the Grant Street sewage project. He said the $200,000 force main being constructed between Columbus Harbour and Skylark will be needed and used regardless of what happens.

Bible said the county acquired the Greenwood Lakes facility in 1984, but just recently completed the design for the expansion to submit to the state Department of Environmental Regulation for approval. Up until then we couldn't commit ourselves to providing service outside of our service area. We were committed to developers within the service area, which includes part of Lake Mary, Greenwood Lakes, The Crossings, Greenwood Lakes Middle School, Lake Mary High School, the YMCA now under construction and the proposed county branch library.

Bible said there would be sufficient capacity to provide Longwood with the 600,000 GPD it needs and if an agreement was reached between the two boards the connection could be made right now.

Seminole County Commission Chairman Bob Sturm said the county advertised pre-sale in July of the capacity at the Greenwood Lakes expansion to fill sewer needs of developers or adjacent cities and has had a good response.

The pre-sale policy allows the county to expand its water and sewer capability without a county bond sale or other alternative funding, while assuring developers of water and sewer service in advance of project completion.

Developers pay from $5 per gallon for sewer connection up to $7 per gallon depending on how much they pay upfront in cash.

Sturm said, "We are working with the city of Longwood as well as Lake Mary. We entered into an interlocal agreement to take the sewage effluent from the plant in The Forest development, which is in the city limits, and helped alleviate a problem Lake Mary had."

He said he had talked individually to Mayor Larry Goldberg, Deputy Mayor June Lormann, and City Commissioner Ed Myers, as well as city staff members and city engineering consultant.

"The county will look favorably on a pre-sale arrangement with Longwood. It is in negotiation and we will continue to do so and will wait until their final decision," Sturm added.

Waller said last spring at the city commissions instructions he looked into what it would cost to connect Longwood's sewer lines to the Altamonte Springs treatment facility. It didn't work out because it cost too much and was too far to go, he said, so they had to proceed with the Grant Street project.

Alcohol Abuse

The National Council on Alcoholism advocates three principal ways of controlling liquor abuse. The first is to increase the federal excise tax on bottled spirits. The council would have the tax hiked by $16 billion a year, with a goal toward cutting consumption by way of the pocketbook.

The council also believes the government should require health warnings on alcohol labels. The warnings are now placed on cigars, cigarettes and chewing tobacco, but not alcohol. The council wants the labels to point out that liquor taken in excess can cause illness and even death.

Last, the council says reform in alcohol advertising is overdue. Children can see celebrities touting beer during televised football.

County Officials React To Possible Jury Probe

By Paul C. Schafer
Herald Staff Writer

Most Seminole County commissioners say the possibility of a grand jury investigation of alleged misdealings in the county's purchase of the Yankee Lake property last year doesn't concern them, and are tired of rehashing the issue.

However, one commissioner says she's happy she voted against the purchase and hopes, if an investigation is done, "everything will be put to rest."

Meanwhile, a defeated county commission candidate says the entire commission should resign if inappropriate actions were taken during the purchase.

The county commission agreed to buy the 2,900 parcel of property near Yankee Lake from developer Jeno Paulucci during a meeting that lasted until about 2 a.m. Nov. 6. The county paid $7.5 million for the land, to be used as the site of a county wastewater treatment facility.

The city of Sanford wanted to purchase the same parcel, and tried to void the county's purchase with a condemnation suit, which it lost on a technicality.

Last week, Seminole-Brevard

circuit judge Dominick Salfi agreed to provide special counsel for a grand jury, which will decide if an investigation is necessary.

Yankee Lake became an issue that wouldn't die, and the sale was used frequently by Bob Desmond, Jr., R-Sanford. In his bid against incumbent county commission chairman Bob Sturm, R-Lake Mary, Desmond was defeated by Sturm for the Republican nomination Sept. 2. Sturm faces Democrat Bob French, Casselberry, in the Nov. 4 general election.

"I based my candidacy on the (alleged) improprieties surrounding the Yankee Lake purchase," Desmond said. "I'm glad to see special counsel (to the grand jury) appointed."

"In my opinion, it would be appropriate for anyone involved in (alleged) improprieties surrounding the Yankee Lake purchase... to resign their position. This includes (county administrator) Ken Hooper, (deputy county administrator) Woody Price, (assistant county administrator) Montye Beamer, (Director of Environmental Services) Jim Bible, (county attorney) Nikki Clayton, and her assistants in the legal department, and the board of county commissioners.

Government in the Sunshine laws are alleged to have been violated by county officials just prior to the property purchase. The purchase came up as an add-on agenda item, wasn't discussed until 2 a.m. during the meeting the purchase was approved on a 4-1 vote, and advance appraisals by the county were not completed, according to allegations made by two county businessmen, Grant McEwan, Casselberry, and Art Davis, Sanford. McEwan's wife, Gerri, was Desmond's campaign treasurer.

"We do not have a grand jury who has heard the first element of fact... on this matter, and the local state attorney has refused to take any action," Ms. Clayton said.

McEwan and Davis had attempted to get a state attorney's office investigation of the purchase but were refused just before the Sept. 2 primary in which Desmond was defeated by Sturm.

Ms. Clayton said the special counsel will advise the grand jury on Florida statutes, but "they haven't heard the first iota of information" about the purchase.

Sturm said the Yankee Lake allegations are becoming old.

"They're just battling at windmills, and frankly, I'm getting tired of hearing about it," Sturm said, adding that the land purchase was "legal and proper."

He said Desmond's call for county official's resignations is "political garbage."

Hooper said Desmond's comments are motivated by the "politics of a disgruntled former employee."

Streetman said, "The Yankee Lake property was purchased by the county to fill a current and future public need for safe and efficient sewage disposal to benefit the citizens and protect the environment. All decisions regarding the purchase were made legally and publicly."

"Bob Desmond ran a mismanaged, misdirected and unsuccessful campaign against Commissioner Sturm in the Republican primary by trying to make an issue out of the Yankee Lake purchase," Streetman continued. "Now that Desmond has endorsed the Democrat, Bob French, he and his key workers, McEwan and Davis, are trying the same tactic again."

"When political ambition overrides ethics, principles and integrity, the public is quick to recognize it. The Desmond-French tactics will work to assure Bob Sturm's re-election, and the people will be the winners," Streetman concluded.

Commissioner Bill Kirchhoff said the appointment of a special counsel doesn't worry him. He said the issue is being pushed because "it's an election year."

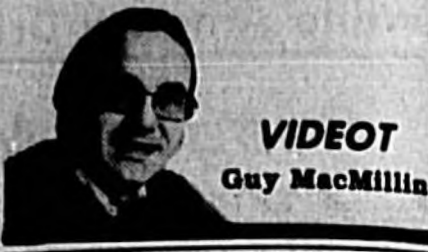

But Barbara Christensen said she is happy she voted against the purchase, and would welcome an investigation.

"I'm glad everything is going to be discussed and that once and for all, we're going to find out if it (the purchase) was right or wrong," she said.

"I voted against it because I felt we were rushed, and we've never rushed into anything. Did we rush into (the purchase) to stop Sanford from buying it and why did we have to vote when we voted?" she asked.

"I just wasn't comfortable with it. There were too many red flags left unattended," she added.

She said she hopes facts of the purchase would "be brought into the open and everything will be put to rest."

TV's Bread And Clutter

If you think there are more commercials on TV than there used to be, you're right. Thank the Justice Department. It saved us from having to watch too few commercials.

Here's the story. The National Association of Broadcasters used to have a voluntary code limiting the amount of prime-time promos and commercials to nine minutes and 30 seconds an hour. (Daytime and late-night limits were more relaxed. Who hasn't fallen asleep waiting for Johnny Carson to be "right back"?)

The NAB code was a little like the 55-mph speed limit: It was often broken, but not usually by very much.

Then along came the lawyers at the Justice Department — the folks who did such a good job with the telephone company. They charged the NAB with restraint of trade. In 1983 the code was abandoned.

Things have worked out well since then — if you like your TV shows with lots of commercials.

The other day I decided to see how well. As Jessica sloshed her way through the red herrings, figuring out who poisoned an elderly woman on "Murder, She Wrote," I clocked 11 minutes and 13 seconds of commercials and promos.

Jessica caught the killer, but she had to do it two minutes quicker than she would have a few years ago.

The NAB code also prohibited commercials shorter than 30 seconds. That was to limit what's called "clutter": the unnerving assault on the senses that comes from too many people trying to sell us too many things in too short a time. A lot of people think broadcasters turn up the volume during commercials. They don't, but they do speed up the pace.

During that "Murder, She Wrote" episode, there were six 15-second commercials and five 10-second promos. Don't ask me what they were about.

In the pastoral early days of television, there was no clutter — just programs and commercials. The commercials lasted 60 seconds. Then the programs started up again. Life was simple.

But as TV time became increasingly expensive, everything got jumbled up. Clutter was born.

Commercials were cut to 30 seconds. To make the most of the shorter time, announcers began talking faster.

Station breaks got complicated, too. It used to be stations would flash the call letters on the screen, and the announcer would say, "This is Channel 4." But at some point — I think it was around 1962 — broadcasters started using station breaks to remind us to watch the news at 6.

Then somebody got the idea of shouting at us over the programs' closing theme songs things like, "Lucy's hair catches fire! Monday at 8:30!"

That practice has really gotten out of hand. "Search for Tomorrow" celebrated its 35th anniversary a few weeks ago by ending several episodes with little tributes from big stars who used to be on the show. When Hal Linden's turn came, on Aug. 29, the announcer shouted right over him: "This week on 'Days of our Lives' Hope experiences an expectant mother's worst fear... and next week on 'Today' Sen. Richard Lugar! Also Tina Turner!"

Sometimes local stations even break in and try to out-shout the network. When the engineer isn't quick on the draw, you often get parts of two messages: "On 'General Hospital' Monica has an affair with... the Eyewitness News team at 6!"

Sometimes clutter is more fun than the programs.

Warden Stars
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jack Warden, co-star of the defunct "Crazy Like a Fox" TV series, heads for the British Isles to star in "Three Wishes For Jamie," a two-hour movie for first-run syndication produced by Columbia Pictures Television.

The story, based on the book by Charles O'Neal, weaves a fantasy-adventure about Jamie McGrew and three wishes granted to him in a dream, and the unusual way they come true.

Co-starring with Warden, who plays a village matchmaker, are Stevan Rinkus in the title role and Anna-Livia Ryan.

'Bama Hopes 'Goober' Will Be Real Grabber

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — Alabama officials have picked George Lindsey, "Goober" on television's "Andy Griffith Show," as celebrity spokesman for tourism, but experts in other states withheld judgment Thursday on whether the hillbilly image will lure travelers.

Lindsey, a Jasper native who also appears in his trademark overalls on the syndicated "Hee Haw" show, signed on to do free television advertisements and make public appearances to help boost tourism that pumped an estimated $3.6 billion into Alabama's economy this year.

But while Alabama is taking the celebrity approach and hoping that Goober will be the grabber, some other states are abandoning the name-dropping in favor of stylish, people-oriented ads that promote themes, not names. Alabama tourism officials admit the new plan could backfire.

"We talked about the image and we thought about it," said Doug Benton, director of the Alabama Bureau of Tourism and Travel. "George certainly wanted to do what was best for the state. If you take any character, there's some flaw in him."

On "Andy Griffith," Lindsey played garage mechanic Goober Pyle, cousin of Gomer Pyle, a character played by Jim Nabors, who also is an Alabama native. Lindsey portrayed a character who was long on neighborliness but short on what he might call "book learnin'."

"I think this will show (other states) we can laugh with them or be as cultured and refined as any other state in the union," said Benton, who said Lindsey will make his first appearance for Alabama in a tuxedo introducing the state's symphony orchestra at the National Tour Association convention in Atlanta next month.

Lindsey is co-founder of a celebrity golf tournament in Montgomery that raises money for Special Olympics.

"He's got a lot of class. He won't be appearing as Goober, but as George Lindsey, native son of Alabama," Benton said.

Alabama has its share of celebrity natives not generally associated with the southern hillbilly image, including singer Lionel Ritchie, actor Wayne Rogers, actresses Nell Carter and Kate Jackson and Hall of Fame athletes Hank Aaron and Willie Mays.

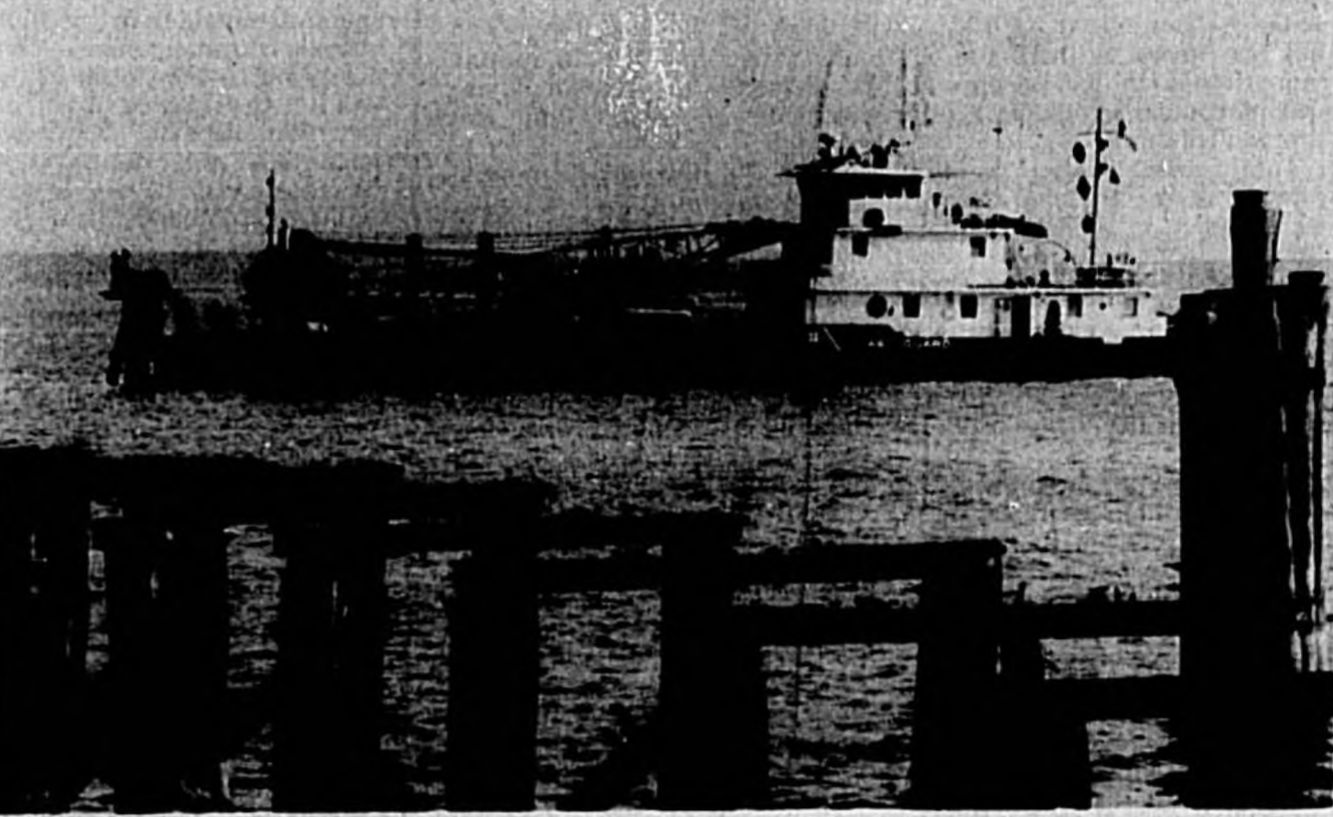

"It had been kicked around for a long time. George was the first to volunteer," said Benton, who said the celebrity idea was launched after Tennessee's successful ads featuring singer Dolly Parton.

Chris Harris, a spokesman for the Florida tourism bureau, said the state abandoned an ad campaign that featured Phillip Michael Thomas of television's "Miami Vice," Miami Dolphins coach Don Shula and singer Jimmy Buffet in favor of shots of "normal, everyday people."

"The theme is, 'The rules are different here.' We've got a lifeguard, a bellhop, a young boy who talk in a conversational tone to the audience," Harris said. "The aim is to try to describe Florida as a state of mind, not a high action campaign. One different rule is that you have to get suntanned in a place that's never been tanned before. It's tongue in cheek."

Florida leads the southeast in tourism, raking in $17.6 billion in 1984, according to a report by the U.S. Travel Data Center in Washington.

Other Southeastern states have made free use of their celebrities.

Nautical Inspection Time

The crew of the Coast Guard ship inspects channel markers and lights on Lake Monroe to make sure all are clean and operating. Malfunctions are repaired. A spokesman said that one of the goals of the Coast Guard was to maintain the navigational aids in good condition to insure the safety of boaters and other users of the waterway.

New Trees Grow In Sanford

Ninety new trees now grow in Sanford as a result of a planting program the city and its residents recently completed.

Pines and palms felled by the city and storm were replaced by live and laurel oaks the Sanford Parks Department secured from Davidson's Tree Farm at discount rates.

An idea planted by City Commissioner John Mercer led to the program being branched out to local residents when the rates were secured through a bidding process last winter.

The cost, $65 for live oaks and $54 for laurel oaks, also covered planting, and 40 citizens availed themselves of the program by placing orders with the parks department, according to Parks and Recreation Department Director Jim Jernigan.

Most residents had the trees planted on their own property, while some also purchased them for city right of ways, Jernigan said.

Aside from the residential orders, the parks department secured 32 live oaks and 18 laurel oaks from Davidson's for the municipal program, at a cost of $3,056.60.

These were planted throughout Sanford, with a concentration in the downtown residential area, Jernigan said.

The planting program was initiated after a parks department survey of trees killed by disease and recent freezes. Commissioners approved the replacement expenditure at a meeting in January and the last tree was planted earlier this fall, Jernigan said.

While the city removed approximately 150 dead or dying trees during the spring and summer, replacements were planted only in areas conducive to growth, Jernigan said.

County Challenges Casselberry Annexations

Seminole County has challenged the city of Casselberry's action to annex five sections of right of way along four county roads and a state road.

Assistant County Attorney Lonnie Groot filed the suit challenging the city on several grounds. The county commission voted 3-2 on Sept. 18 to fight the annexation.

The city moved Sept. 8 to annex the land to eliminate the possible challenge to city traffic tickets issued on roads that go in and out of the city limits.

The areas the city wants to annex are the right of ways of state Road 436 from Howell Branch Road south to the Seminole-Orange county line, Lake Drive from the intersection of Carlisle Drive to the intersection of Easton Way, Lake Howell

Lane from State Road 436 to the city limits, Winter Woods Boulevard from State Road 436 to the city limits, and Howell Branch Road from State Road 436 to the city limits.

Groot, who asked that the city's suit be quashed, maintained that the city erred on several counts in bringing the suit.

He said the city did not prepare a report and detailed map of the annex areas nor submit them to the county as required by law. He also said the law requires a consent of 50 percent of the land owners — since no voters live on the rights of way — before the land can be annexed. He said neither the county nor the state have agreed to the annexation.

Further, he said the law says the matter has to be approved by the voters in the area and no voters live there. Groot said the area to be annexed is not "compact" as required by law and that the city has not detailed how it will provide urban services to the annexed land.

The case has been assigned to Circuit Judge Dominick J. Salfi. No hearing date has been set.

Sanford Commissioners Endorse Recreation Programs

By Karen Talley
Herald Staff Writer

A pilot program to blanket the city with after school recreation programs was endorsed by Sanford commissioners during a work session Monday.

The proposal, made by Sanford Parks and Recreation Department Director Jim Jernigan, involves a $44,437 expenditure for staff and supplies to enable offering programs at four local schools.

Jernigan's request to commissioners included a show of support from five Sanford Youth Advisory Board members who attended Monday's session. Youth Board members had targeted the recreation programs in a report they submitted to commissioners 10 months ago.

Jernigan said efforts to get the programs rolling include key support from the four principals of the schools at which they will be offered. The schools are Hamilton Elementary, in eastern Sanford; Lakeview Middle, in southern Sanford; and Crooms and Idyllewilde Elementary, which both lie in western Sanford. Lake

Monroe serves as the city's northern border, as well as a natural recreation center for youth and all others.

In endorsing the proposal, Mayor Betty Smith said, "If you want to know what kind of city you're in, in any part of the country, look at what they do for their young people."

Commissioner Dave Farr said Jernigan's proposal, "seems like an excellent return for our investment." Commissioner Bob Thomas concurred. Commissioners John Mercer and Milton Smith were not present for the session.

Authorization for funding of the programs is expected to be formally addressed during a regular commission session later this month.

The $44,437 allocation breaks down to $6,755 for eight part-time employees' salaries through Jan. 1, $17,417 for their salaries after this date through the end of the school year, and $20,265 to cover salary and benefits for a full time supervisor, to be hired for a Jan. 1 starting date.

Commissioners indicated allocation of the full $44,437 would be considered this fall, although in agreement with Jernigan's proposal the part-time staffers will be hired at $6,755, and expenditure of the balance would come later this year, contingent on the programs' success.

After the meeting, Mayor Smith said the allocation would come from the 1986-87 budget, although from which account would have to be looked into this week by City Manager Frank Faison, who was not present for Monday's work session.

Jernigan said through contact of the schools' principals he was able to determine the availability of the facilities through the end of the school year.

He also said use of these locations would be in conjunction with recreation offerings at the Fort Mellon Park Youth Wing, the Salvation Army Center and the Westside Community Center.

Jernigan indicated recreation department use of the Crooms School gym and outdoor area seven days a week: Monday through Friday, from 4 to 6 p.m.; Saturdays, from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m.; and Sundays, from 2 to 6 p.m.

Lakeview Middle School will be used Wednesday and Friday, from 3 to 6 p.m.; and Hamilton and Idyllewilde, from 3 to 6 p.m., Monday through Friday, Jernigan said.

Indoor and outdoor intramural programs are planned at Crooms and Lakeview, while "special events" and athletic and instructional programs geared toward younger children will be held after school at Hamilton and Idyllewilde.

Jernigan had asked for the funds to cover the programs in a budget request he submitted to Faison last spring, although apparently through mutual agreement the funds were deleted by Faison during his budget review until the programs could be more fully developed.

The Youth Board report which targeted the programs was developed by members who polled their peers as to recreational offerings they'd like to see in Sanford.

Howell Boys Try To Squeeze Into Central Florida Spotlight

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

There's not much room underneath the Central Florida cross country spotlight. The area already has two of the top girls teams in the state in number one Lake Howell and defending (4A) champion Winter Park. There are also some powerful boys squads including Orlando Colonial, Lyman and top-ranked (3A) Bishop Moore.

Another team that is looking to emerge from the shadows and step into the light in the Lake Howell High boys team. The Silver Hawks of coach Joe Corso look to continue their upward climb Saturday at the Boone High Invitational in Orlando.

The Boone meet begins with girls junior varsity at 9 a.m. followed by girls 2A-3A at 9:30, 4A girls at 10, boys JV at 10:30, boys 2A-3A at 11 and 4A boys wraps up the meet 11:30.

Scheduled to compete from Seminole County are the boys and girls teams from Lyman, Lake Howell, Lake Brantley and Oviedo along with the Lake Mary girls. The Seminole High boys and girls and Lake Mary boys will take the weekend off and return to action in the Seminole County Postal Run Monday at Lake Mary.

Lake Howell High's boys team had its most successful season ever in 1985 as it won the Seminole Athletic Conference and advanced to the state meet for the first time. Although the Hawks lost five of the top seven from last year's squad, Corso believes the 1986 team can do as well if not better.

"We've got a stronger seven this year," Corso said. "If we run as well as we can, I believe we can be strong enough to push anybody."

Lake Howell is led by the senior duo of Chuck Buster and Jeff VanBuskirk, the only two returning runners from last year's varsity team. Buster has been consistently among the leaders in every race the Hawks have run in this season while Corso said VanBuskirk is to the point where he's almost running step for step with Buster.

The number three runner this season has been sophomore Kavan Howell, the top JV runner a year ago. Corso also said Steve Steffy and Luis Caban, two JV runners last year, have come on strong this season and Andy Terchenoek, who was on and

Mets Rip Ryan, Even Series, 5-1

N.L. Baseball

HOUSTON (UPI) — Houston Manager Hal Lanier must now consider the obvious — Nolan Ryan just can't beat the New York Mets.

Ryan proved it again Thursday night, lasting only five innings in a 5-1 loss to New York and left-hander Bob Ojeda.

With the National League playoffs now tied at one victory apiece and the series headed to Shea Stadium for Game 3 Saturday, Lanier is leaning toward a change in pitching plans.

And that may leave Ryan on the bench, even though the game's all-time strikeout artist had been one of the league's better pitchers down the stretch.

"It's up to Hal," Ryan said. "I have no idea what he is thinking."

Lanier had originally hoped to use left-hander Jim Deshaies only with the Astros well ahead in the series.

Now that may change. For one thing, Ryan is 0-4 against the Mets this season. He hasn't beaten New York since May 16, 1984 and his only postseason victory came in 1969 — as a member of the Miracle Mets.

Just as significantly, an increased role for Deshaies might help neutralize the growing role of New York's lefty hitters: Len Dykstra, Keith Hernandez and Darryl Strawberry. Wally Backman is a switch-hitter but is much more effective from the left side.

For three innings Thursday night, Ryan was perfect. The right-hander fanned five through

There's A New Seminole On Warpath

Tribe Takes Second Step Against Brantley Tonight

There was something in the air last Friday night. For 48 minutes of prep football it was a charged electricity. Seminole High caught hold of the lightning bolt and dealt Lake Mary High a 10-7 setback.

As the Rams stumbled toward their bus in a trance-like state, it was easy to comprehend the utter despair which grasped the loser of these Seminole-Lake Mary tussles. A despair Seminole had felt the three previous years.

The Seminole-Lake Mary rivalry is intense. More flags flew and tempers flared in Seminole-Lake Mary IV than any previous meeting. While the Rams humbled their way south, the Seminoles celebrated with tears and cheers.

Finally, the arch-rival had been slain. J.J. Partlow's field goal had inflicted the first wound, Curtis Rudolph's touchdown run cut deeper and an outstanding defensive effort by Rick Kelley, Earnie "Sackman" Lewis, Steve Warren and the rest of coach Dave Mosure's Marauders had sent the Rams packing.

"We've passed the grease on the mountain," Lewis shouted amid a wild locker room celebration. "We're on firm ground right now and we're going higher."

Mosure said he knew his team was ready the previous Friday when, after suffering a tough 7-3 setback to Lake Howell, "Mr. Intensity" marched his troops back to the field for a little extra work.

It was a move questioned by some, but not by Principal Wayne Epps, who celebrated his birthday last Friday with the win over Lake Mary. "I think Dave took some heat for taking boys out again," Epps said. "But he showed Friday night that he knew what he was doing. It paid off with a big victory."

Mosure said he never worried about how his players would react. "They haven't let up since Day 1," he said about the Aug. 15 beginning. "And that's two hours every Saturday, too."

"When you take them back out on field after a frustrating loss like that, and there is not a negative comment, no moaning and groaning, you know you have a determined group of young men.

"Now, those are the kinds of kids that you bleed for," he added with his voice cracking.

Along with earning the emotional first-ever victory, last Friday's conquest may signal something else among Seminole County prep circles. Seminole, with its biggest win in Mosure's two-year career safely tucked away, is ready to assume control of its football destiny. A destiny which may follow the lead of successful basketball and track and field programs.

Lake Mary's Harry Nelson announced four years ago: "There's a new tiger in the woods." He was right. Under Nelson's tutelage, Lake Mary went quickly to the top of the county teams with two conference, one district and one regional championship over the past two years.

Seminole's Mosure, who doesn't possess Nelson's brashness but does exude the same confidence, couldn't be faulted for an announcement of his own: "There's a new Seminole on the warpath." With just 10 seniors on this year's team and a healthy Jeff Blake a possibility in three weeks, the county power may be shifting from Lake Mary to Sanford.

"I can't believe how young they are," Lake Brantley coach Fred Almon said Thursday. "Just about all those kids are coming back and some have started for two years already. They are going to be awful tough for the next few years."

Almon and his Patriots will find out how tough tonight. Seminole, still riding the high of last Friday's triumph, goes after victory No. 2 tonight at 8 against the winless Patriots in a Seminole Athletic Conference

Hawks, Rams In Key SAC Game

Lake Howell Searches For Offense, Lake Mary Tries To Stop Skid

By Mike Andrew
Special to the Herald

The Lake Howell Silver Hawks are boning up for a tough Seminole Athletic Conference game against rival Lake Mary tonight. The Hawks are trying to snap back from a tough loss at Apopka a week ago while Harry Nelson's Rams find themselves struggling after consecutive setbacks to DeLand and Seminole.

Lake Howell sports a 3-1 mark heading into tonight's 8 o'clock kickoff at Lake Howell. They Hawks are 1-0 in the SAC. Lake Mary, meanwhile, is 1-2 overall and 0-1 in the SAC.

Lake Howell coach Mike Bisceglia was upset with his team's performance last week. It was the second year in a row which the Hawks jumped to a 3-0 start, but lost the fourth outing to Apopka. Whereas, the Blue Darters were top-ranked in the state last year, this year's Apopka edition doesn't have that firepower.

"Our execution really declined," Bisceglia said. "That's more upsetting than the loss. We're just not executing offensively."

Regardless, Bisceglia said the Hawks have to put Apopka behind them and gear up for Lake Mary. "We have put last week's film on the shelf and look forward to a tough game against the Rams," he said. "We always look forward to playing against Lake Mary. They're a tough team, and really get after you."

Although Bisceglia is dissatisfied with his offense, he can't find anything bad to say about the defense.

"Our defensive unit is playing better and better each week, and we'll need a big game from them," Bisceglia said. "(Linebacker) Jeff Harris (50 tackles) is playing better and better. (Linebacker) Steve Trier (37 tackles) is coming along, and Marty Golloher is almost back to 100 percent." Golloher is still suffering from a badly bruised shoulder from the West Orange game.

Football

"Our defense has done a great job so far, including last week," he continued. "We've been preparing the defense all week for the Mary Wishbone, and the broken bone. It's a very difficult offensive scheme to defense against because of all the variations they can run from each set."

Lake Mary's 'Bone is run by quarterback Shane Letterio, and solidified by the explosive John Curry. "The Rams have a lot of strength in their skill positions, and we'll have to defense against it," Bisceglia said. "We have to shut down Curry, and keep Letterio from connecting with (Sheldon) Richards or the younger (Carlos) Harrisfield."

Offensively, Lake Mary has moved the ball in all of its games but has not had much success getting into the end zone. Lake Mary has scored 32 points in three games with 19 of those coming in the opening-night win over Apopka.

Lake Mary's top two weapons of a year ago, running back Curry and quarterback Letterio, have not been too explosive so far this season, though. Curry, a junior, has 230 yards rushing which ranks fifth in the county. Curry went over 1,000 yards a year ago. Curry has been reliable when the Rams get close, though, as he leads Seminole County in scoring with four touchdowns for 24 of the Rams' 32 points.

Letterio, a senior, has thrown for just 116 yards in three games and is in the negative category in rushing. Letterio threw for more than 1,000 yards and ran for over 300 in 1985. But Letterio does not have the experienced receivers he had a year ago in Ray Harrisfield and Byron Washington. Several throws have been dropped each game.

Bisceglia, who has a solid running game in the tandem of Nate Hoskins and Cornel Rigby, hopes his offense can get the passing game going this week.

"We're still trying to find the passing game," Bisceglia said. "Mark (Wainwright) is doing a good job, we've just dropped a few passes, and have not always given him the protection he needs. We had some success with the shotgun last week against Apopka, and consider it part of our offense, and we'll use it if we have to."

Wainwright has completed just 17 of 46 passes for 36.9 percent and 197 yards. Included are two TD passes to slotback Bill Wasson. He has thrown two interceptions.

Defensively, Lake Mary has been a little suspect against the run in 1986, allowing 242 yards rushing to Seminole a week ago. The Rams' defense has still been tough enough to keep Lake Mary in every ballgame. Lake Mary has allowed 30 points in three games. Linebackers Matt Beck, Mike Smith and Doug Bandy are the big hitters.

Lake Mary's secondary is one of the better areas, led by Richards, the Rams' leading tackler with 34. Terry "The Cat" Miller and Carlos Harrisfield have also played well.

"It will be nice to play at home," Bisceglia added. "We've had three tough games on the road, and we look forward to playing at home. I think it's a definite advantage for us."

Brewer Sheds Backup Role — Shockers Next For Slack

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — Through the first 4 1/2 games of this season, Rodney Brewer sat on the sidelines and watched Kerwin Bell pick himself up from the football field every time he was hit.

But last Saturday afternoon, Brewer knew it was different. He knew that this time Bell, after being sandwiched high and low by two LSU tacklers, was not going to get up.

"I must have seen him go down a hundred times," Brewer said after his first practice as the Florida Gators No. 1 quarterback. "He always gets up slowly, but this time when I saw him go down, my baseball cap came off and the football helmet went on. I knew I was going in."

Brewer came out of Apopka High School in 1984 as one of the most sought-after quarterbacks in the state. He narrowed his choices to Florida State, Alabama and Florida before deciding to go with the Gators. One of the reasons for his choice was the uncertain quarterback picture at Florida.

"I came in as a freshman high on confidence," Brewer said. "I just came up one short, and the one I was behind was Kerwin. It was just my luck that we happened to be in the same grade."

But come Saturday, because of a knee injury that has sidelined Bell for four to six weeks, Brewer will get his first start for Florida against homecoming foe Kent State.

Football

"I've waited three years for this chance," Brewer said. "I'm going to go out Saturday and move the ball from one end zone to the other. I don't know how I'm going to do it, but I'll do it."

The Rodney Brewer most Gator fans remember, however, is the one who entered the Rutgers game a year ago with Florida leading 28-7 and, in a nightmare he has been trying to live down ever since, sputtered with a usually potent Gator offense, allowing the Scarlet Knights to rally to a 28-28 tie.

"That was tough. It's tough for a 19-year-old to take being booed by 75,000 people," the junior signal-caller said. "I wouldn't wish something like that on anyone. But I think I've come through with flying colors. I've had some bad times, but I've also had some good times."

KNIGHTS SEEK 5TH WIN
ORLANDO — Central Florida junior quarterback Darin Slack shattered several school passing records in the Knights 38-25 win over Murray State.

Slack, 6-1, 190 pounds, from Lake Howell High School, passed for 408 yards and three touchdowns Saturday. He set school records for most yards passing, most completions (29), and most total offense (422).

The previous record for yards passing was 293 by Dana Thyhaen in 1983 against

Brewer Slack

Bethune-Cookman. Slack on the year has completed 78 of 157 passes for 1,119 yards, seven touchdowns and three interceptions.

With six games remaining, Slack could pass Thyhaen's season passing record of 2,058 yards, set in 1983.

Slack's outburst was good news for wide receiver Ted Wilson, who caught 10 passes for 133 yards and has now caught 29 passes for 368 yards and two touchdowns on the year.

Wilson caught 76 passes for 1,119 yards a year ago and has been seeing constant double coverage this season.

The UCF offensive line, which allowed zero sacks on 48 passing attempts against Murray State (two attempts by backup Tony Lanham), received the team's offensive award of the week.

Defensive back Keith Evans has tied a school record by intercepting four passes this year. Three other players — Bill Giovanetti, Bruce Gordon and Reggie Edwards — also intercepted four passes in a season.

The Knights, 4-1, travel to Wichita State this week for the second contest in school history with a Division I-A team.

Rudd Decries Loss Of Car, Lack Of Freedom To Speak

NASCAR Winston Cup Director Dick Beatty dished out a handful of fines recently including a $2,000 penalty to driver Kyle Petty and a $100 assessment against Ricky Rudd.

The two drivers were fined because of an incident in the Sept. 21 Goody's 500. Petty was fined for rough driving immediately prior and during an accident involving Rudd. Rudd was penalized for remarks afterward in which he implied retaliation. Remarks, Beatty said, were detrimental to the sport.

"Because Kyle doesn't have a history of this type of thing, we felt the $2,000 fine was in line with his actions," Beatty said. "But the incident did put Ricky out of the race when he had been running in the top five."

Petty said he intended to appeal the fine but could accept it. "I can live with it, although I don't plan to appeal," Petty said. "NASCAR did what it felt it had to do."

A disgruntled Rudd wasn't amused by the situation.

"Of course he could accept it. It's only $2,000 while we're out a $60,000 race car," said Rudd. "I don't understand my fine, though. I thought there was free speech in this country."

There's a rumor going around that NASCAR driver Joe Ruttman may be hooking up with the Dingman Brothers Racing Team. The Orlando-based team, with crew chief David Ifft and engine builder Ducky Newman, has fielded IMSA cars for Tommy Riffins, but have expressed an interest in going into Winston Cup competition.

Ruttman, who has a home in Venice, has been released from the Bernstein Quaker State team at the end of this season, and is looking for a new ride for next year.

Ruttman has had a lot of bad luck this year, most not of his doing and would really be an asset to a new team.

Driving one of the revamped Skoal Bandit Chevrolets, Needham won the 'Costa A Costa' event of covering the 125-mile distance in just over 54 minutes.

Needham, a 55-year-old motion picture director who has been a co-owner with actor Burt Reynolds of the Skoal team since 1981, ran the distance with Clay Weiler as navigator.

After the victory Needham sent word to Harry Gant, his driver on the NASCAR circuit. "I won, now it's your turn."

off varsity last year, is much more consistent.

The only freshman on the varsity squad is Jason Springhart who Corso said has done an outstanding job despite coming in with no experience in distance running.

Lake Howell had its most successful week of this season last week when it won the West Orange Invitational on Wednesday and finished second to state power Melbourne Palm Bay in the Bishop Moore Invitational on Saturday. "Winning at West Orange really helped the team's confidence," Corso said. "Boone (which finished second) had beaten us earlier in the year so it was a big boost for us to beat them."

Corso said the team is not quite where he thought it would be at this point but he feels the Hawks will be ready in time for a shot at defending the SAC title.

"Lyman's looking really strong," Corso said. "But, if we're ready by the conference meet, we have a shot at it. If our top seven keeps improving the next two weeks it will make a difference for us in conference and districts."

Lyman's boys team was without two of its top five in the Florida State Invitational this past weekend but expects to have one of them, Nick Radkewich, back for the Boone meet while the other, injured Darren Marshall, is doubtful.

In the girls meet, Lake Howell will look to defend its title with Melbourne Palm Bay the top competition. The Lady Silver Hawks have two of the top runners in the state in seniors Lisa Samocki and Martha Fonseca who lead a solid top seven that also includes Jenny Bolt, Bonnie Oliver, Mary Fonacca, Tammy Bolt and Michelle Lee.

Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots, after taking last week off, are expected to be on hand Saturday and look to reestablish themselves as contenders. Brantley has a tightly packed group led by Heather Camino, Kristin Longmire, Mindy Olinger and Karen Kopp.

Lake Mary's team is starting to come together as Debi Smith is just about fully recovered from an ankle injury and Kim Blackadar will run in her first meet. Heather Helkkila, Tabatha Gano, Lisa Shelby, Allison Snell and Heidi Hostnick will also run for the Lady Rams. Senior Sue Kingsbury, who is still waiting for her orthotics, will not run but is expected to be ready within the next two weeks.

IN BRIEF

ICBA To Hold Weekend Signup At Oviedo Little League Field

The Inter-County Basketball Association, which has won state championships in the 11-, 12- and 13-year-old age brackets the past three years, will hold its registration Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon and Sunday from 4 p.m. to 6 p.m. at the Oviedo Little League Field, ICBA president Mickey Norton said.

The signup table will be right at the concession stand in the middle of the four-field complex on King Street.

The signups will be for the third, fourth and fifth grade boys and girls as well as any middle schoolers from Jackson Heights, Tuskawilla and South Seminole who might have missed the signups held at their schools.

Registration for middle schoolers is $25 for the first child in the family, $15 for the second. For the elementary boys and girls it is $15 for the first, $10 for the second. There is no charge for the rest of the family.

In case of rain on Oct. 11-12 the signups will move across the street to 492 King St., the tan house opposite the Little League driveway. Any questions about the ICBA or the signups, call Norton at 365-4040.

Rain Sidetracks WCT Tourney

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (UPI) — Jim Grabb defeated Mexico's Leonardo Lavalle 6-1, 6-3 in the only completed singles match Thursday in the $279,000 WCT Scottsdale Open tennis tournament.

Rain postponed the rest of the day's action and halted the first-round match between No. 2 seed Tim Mayotte and Sammy Giammalva, with Mayotte leading 6-4, 3-2.

After a five-hour delay, tournament officials postponed the action. Mayotte's match will be resumed today, followed by the second-round match between top seed John McEnroe and Peru's Jaime Yzaga.

Pensacola: Birdies In The Rain

PENSACOLA (UPI) — Before a steady downpour shortened Thursday's opening round of the $300,000 Pensacola Open, a deluge of birdies catapulted three unknowns atop a soggy leaderboard.

Curt Byrum, Jeff Sluman and Ernie Gonzalez, each seeking an initial Tour victory, combined for 19 birdies and just one bogey in shooting 6-under-par 65s before thunderstorms forced suspension of the opening round. Half the field of 156 players was still competing on the 7,083-yard Perdido Bay course when play was halted.

'Pushy' Photographer Wins $50

RIVERHEAD, N.Y. (UPI) — The jury that awarded $50 to a photographer who sued tennis star Martina Navratilova for $2 million found him to be "pushy" and did not believe his story; a juror says.

The panel decided Thursday to compensate Arthur Seitz only for the loss of his film and refused to grant him any damages for doctors' bills, pain and suffering, or loss of income — all components of his damage suit.

Oviedo Anxious For Completions

Blanton Waits For McCurdy Or Pettit To Take Control Of QB Job

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Writer

Oviedo High is anxiously waiting for construction on its school to be completed. Another thing Oviedo wants to complete is some passes.

Tonight's nonconference, nondistrict game at Cocoa High will give the Lions an opportunity to work on a passing game that has been practically nonexistent the first three games of the 1986 season.

Oviedo takes a 2-1 record into the contest while an improved Cocoa team (1-9 a year ago) goes in with a 3-1 record. Oviedo won last year's game, 28-0.

Oviedo quarterbacks Mike McCurdy and John Pettit have combined to complete just 5 of 20 passes for a total of 59 yards. The Lions did not complete a pass in last week's 16-0 victory over New Smyrna Beach.

"We've been working hard on the passing game," Oviedo coach Jack Blanton said. "We've got two kids at quarterback who have never played varsity football at that position until this year. Last week we had a couple of passes dropped and our best receiver (Alan Greene, who has all five receptions) had strep throat and only played a couple series."

Oviedo's running game compiled 113 yards a week ago with Steve Hofmann leading the way with a career-high 77 and Willie Gainey contributing 49. Gainey now has 180 yards for the season and Hofmann has 151. Rodney Thompson, a sophomore, also figures to see more action in the Lions' rushing game.

"We have three backs that we can go to and a quarterback (McCurdy) who can run the ball, too," Blanton said. "If our opponents key on someone, we have somebody else who can pick up the slack. Our running game is improving, but we have to be able to throw the ball in order to win." The offensive line did a good job of opening holes for the runners against New Smyrna, but the line may not be at full strength tonight as Andy Palmer suffered a twisted knee in practice this week. Blanton said Palmer, a 280-pound junior who plays on the offensive and defensive lines, is probable for tonight's game. If Palmer does not start, Mike Lee will fill in the defensive position and John Lyons will be at Palmer's offensive line spot.

Defensively, Oviedo is coming off its best performance of the season as it held New Smyrna scoreless on 130 yards total offense. Emery Sneed, Palmer, Jeff Joyce, Jeff Neeley, Pete Lingard and Willie Pauldo had outstanding games in the shut-out victory.

The Lions' defense will be in for one of its biggest tests of the season tonight as Cocoa comes in averaging 30 points per game. A week ago, Cocoa (a Class 4A team) defeated 5A Satellite

McCurdy Greene

Beach, 28-14. "Cocoa has a real good quarterback who can do a lot of different things with the ball," Blanton said.

GRAD GAUGE — Oviedo High graduate Andrew Smith, who ran for over 1,500 yards to lead Seminole County a year ago, is gaining some more ground this season as a freshman at Evangel (Missouri) College. Smith has scored five touchdowns so far for the NAIA team. Former Lion tackle David Wilson is also contributing to Evangel's success.

JV: Rams Rout Lions; Pats Trim Howell

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

The Lake Mary Rams used their depth to overpower Oviedo's Lions, 36-0, Thursday night in junior varsity football action at Lake Mary High School.

In the only other game played Thursday, Lake Brantley came away with a 14-7 victory over Lake Howell.

"Oviedo was a scrappy team," Lake Mary coach Bill McDaniel said. "We just have a lot more depth than their team and we were able to wear them down."

Art Bradford scored the Rams' first touchdown on a two-yard run up the middle with 7:24 left in the first quarter. Ray Williams then ran the two-point conversion in for an 8-0 Lake Mary lead.

The Rams went right back to work in the second quarter when quarterback Joey Hunt connected with Calvin Davis on a 55-yard pass to push the score to 14-0. Alex Birle came on and provided the PAT for a 15-0 halftime edge.

With 3:13 left in the third, Williams took the ball in from 10 yards out, after Birle added the extra point, Lake Mary had a commanding 22-0 lead.

In the fourth is where the Rams' depth came through. Dorcy Williams came in and scored on a one-yard plunge to up the score to 29-0. Bobby Burkett then scored the last Lake Mary touchdown on a 31-yard run. Birle put another PAT through the uprights to give the Rams their convincing win.

Lake Mary used three primary running backs and all came through with healthy contributions. Williams led the way with 108 yards on nine carries. Bradford chipped in 74 yards on seven attempts and Burkett got the call 10 times and added 66 yards.

Hunt was another of the catalysts as he went 3 for 3 in the passing department good for 88 yards.

The Ram defense was just as impressive as linebacker Pete Herzog, and multi-purpose defensive player Gary Whack contributed heavily in keeping Oviedo out of the end zone.

Lake Mary is now 3-1 and will face Lyman next week while Oviedo dropped to 1-2 and will face Lake Howell next Thursday.

Lake Brantley fell behind early but used a great defensive effort and used the power running of Danny Piero to come from behind.

After the Pats fumbled on their first possession the Silver Hawks took control and drove straight into the end zone with a Mike Julian six-yard run capping off the drive. Jason Logan booted the extra point and Lake Howell had an early 7-0 lead.

"It looked like we were in for a long night after that first touchdown," Lake Brantley coach Marty Williams said. "Our defense was able to come together though and create some big plays for us."

Brantley scored for the first time in the second period when Piero took the ball over from one-yard out. Williams said, Piero, labeled a powerback, is very effective near the goal line.

Lake Brantley's two-point conversion attempt failed and the Hawks had a 7-8 advantage at the half.

Piero came through once again in the fourth, bulling his way in from two yards out. The Pats stayed with their scoring machine as Piero also took in the two-point conversion and Brantley led, 14-8.

The Patriot defense was able to shut the Hawks offense down the rest of the night and the Brantley offense came through with enough fire power to overcome the early deficit.

Lake Brantley, 3-1, will have next week off as Lake Howell hosts Oviedo.

battle at Lake Brantley High School.

With an unbeaten freshman team, which possesses great size and speed, the Seminole program is on the rise despite the lack of a junior varsity program which was scratched this year for lack of numbers.

Nelson conceded that the future looked bright. "These got some great-looking kids over here," he said. "I was watching them coming out of the locker room. They're got good bodies. Lean and hungry kids."

It's a crop Moore has been cultivating for two years. The loss of Blake with a broken leg in a motorcycle-automobile crash last spring stalled the juggernaut during the first three games. Losses to Titusville Astronaut, Titusville High and Lake Howell could have been reversed with a healthy Blake, a junior who throws and runs the ball well along with reading defenses.

When Blake went down with the injury, a cloud moved over Seminole High School. Without the junior's leadership, the future was uncertain. Players like Dwyan Willis, Rudolph, Lewis and Kelley have stepped forward, however, and assumed the leadership roles.

Last Friday's win, however, removed that cloud. The Seminoles whipped the Rams without Blake — something that may have been deemed Mission impossible earlier this year.

Blake may return Oct. 31 against Oviedo, if Dr. Thomas Brodrick feels the calcium has hardened sufficiently in his right leg to hold up under the pounding of the defenders. Whether it's Blake '86 or Blake '87, though, this program has turned around.

And 1-3 Seminole takes its second step up the mountain tonight against 0-4 Lake Brantley, a team desperately searching for its first victory of the season. The Patriots haven't won since they whipped Lake Howell, 14-7, last Nov. 15. They have lost 13 of the last 14 games.

Almon, also in his second year, has trouble figuring out his Pats. Over the last 14 games, Brantley has turned in some remarkable performances against powerhouses (Orlando Evans, Winter Park, Lake Mary).

caisons. "I guess we just get up for the better teams."

Almon said this year, breakdowns of the punting game have been pivotal. "I figure our punting has cost us two games," he said. "We would have beaten Oviedo and Lyman if we don't get two punts blocked."

Almon said he hopes he has rectified the problem for tonight by moving versatile Jason Lanham to punter. "Jason doesn't kick them as long as some of the guys we got," Almon said. "But he just takes one step, so I know he's going to get it off."

In addition to punting, Lanham will also start at quarterback tonight and defensive back. Greg Ebbert, who aggravated a knee injury, was pronounced fit Thursday by Almon and will also see action at QB.

Almon, though, said the Pats will be missing two key figures — running back Johnnie Griffin, who doubtful because of a knee and ankle injury, and DB-wideout Jason Puddicombe, who will not play due to a knee injury. Sophomore Clegg Ivey replaces Griffin and senior Brooke Christian takes over for Puddicombe.

Almon said speed has killed the Pats. "Speedy teams like Seminole are always going to be tough on us," he said. "When that (Dwyan) Willis gets around the corner, he's tough to stop."

It was the play of Willis last week that Moore pointed to as the key offensively. The jet-quick handled the reads on the option well and turned it up enough to gain 89 yards. Willis' ability to turn the corner opened up the inside game for Rudolph who had a career-high 119 yards on 20 carries. Sophomore Eric Williams chipped in with his varsity beat, 60 yards on nine attempts.

Willis and Rudolph praised the offensive line of coach Glenn Malolini, which once thought to be a weak area, has played effectively in all four games. The nucleus is formed by Juniors Wilton Hooks (6-0, 200), tackle Randy Bryant (6-2, 225) center Kevin Straub, Tackle Wen Springfield (6-3, 235) and guard Keith Redwine supply the senior leadership.

"This is just the beginning," Hooks told the Optimist Club of Sanford Wednesday at the players of the week luncheon. "We had a big win against Lake Mary and we want to go out and do the same this week against Lake Brantley."

The Fascinating Science Of Autumns Color Is Changing All Around

It's that time of year now when we begin to see some changes in leaf colors in our home landscapes. We may not see the incredible burst of vivid fall leaf color that our northern neighbors enjoy, but we do have enough temperate-climate plants in some parts of Florida to give us some seasonal changes in foliage color.

Some folks wonder why the leaves of some trees and shrubs change color as the weather cools in northern areas. Plant scientists tell us that the brilliant display of autumn leaves is brought on by a combination of things—falling temperatures, shorter days, and certain chemical substances, called pigments, found in the leaves. Some of the pigments that give us these brilliant fall colors are present in the leaves as soon as they unfold in the spring. But, during spring and summer when the plants are growing vigorously, a green-colored material called chlorophyll, dominates the other leaf pigments.

Chlorophyll, as you may remember for your school science classes, plays an important role in a process called photosynthesis—whereby plants capture energy from the sun and manufacture food for the whole plant. Chlorophyll is produced in the leaves of most plants during their active growing season. But, in the autumn as plants get ready for dormancy, the production of new chlorophyll slows down. Finally, it stops entirely, and there's no

Alfred Bessesen
Urban Horticulturist
323-2500
Ext. 181

chlorophyll left in the leaves. When this happens, the other leaf pigments take over and the result is the bright colored, cool-season hues.

There are different groups of pigments that affect fall color. One makes the leaves turn orange, red, and brown. Others are developed due to changing weather conditions. Bright, clear autumn days and cooler temperatures produce shades of red and purple. Still another group of pigments cause yellow coloring in some foliage.

Even though we're not famous for brilliant fall colors, there are plants that do change with the seasons. And, you should plant to include a few of these in your landscape. Unlike most of our flowering shrubs which hold their blossoms for only a brief period, the trees and shrubs that turn color in the fall will usually retain their varied hues for a month or more, depending on the weather.

The goldenrain-tree, red maple, dogwood, sweet gum, crape myrtle, tuliptree, and Chinese tallow are some of the trees which will add fall eye appeal to your landscape. Each has its own unique color, but they may change from year to year, according to seasonal conditions.

Autumn is a good time, too, to renew the mulch around your landscape plants. Most of us use a mulch because it makes our plants look better. Appearance is only one of the benefits of mulching. Mulches make it much harder for weeds to grow in shrub and flower beds. Also, it slows down evaporation of soil moisture. And, they act as an insulating blanket over plant roots—keeping them cool in the summer and warm in the winter.

As organic mulches decompose, they work their way down into the soil. This improves texture and may increase soil fertility. Mulches allow water from rain or irrigation to soak into the soil rather than running off and causing erosion.

Any number of different mulching materials are available. They fall into two groups—the organic and the inorganic or inert mulches. Organic mulches include compost, pine bark, pine straw, leaves, straw, wood chips, sawdust, or similar material.

Inert or inorganic mulches are things like gravel, pebbles, or the new plastic weed barriers now available at most garden centers. But, in most instances, the organic mulches are preferred.

Applying an organic mulch is a simple matter. Just spread a two- to four- inch thick layer of the selected material around the base of the landscape plants. Then, add more mulch as needed during the year. However, never allow the mulch to pile up around the trunks or lower branches of your plants as a root-rot disease problems may occur. If you're mulching with straw, wood chips or sawdust, it's a good idea to spread some fertilizer at the same time. One or two cups of fertilizer added to each bushel of mulch should help avoid any nutrient deficiency problem.

Some folks are still using the old-time black plastic mulch, and will have to add fertilizer to the soil first. Usually two pounds of fertilizer per 100 square feet of garden area is sufficient. Be sure you work it down into the top two or three inches of soil. This may not seem like much fertilizer, but plastic mulches reduce the amount that leaches out of the root zone of your plants. So, you can apply less fertilizer to begin with. Plastic mulches are generally used for commercial ornamental and vegetable crop production in Florida. Other mulches are more beneficial for the home landscape. Remember, mulching can be one of your most valuable gardening practices. Happy Gardening!

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sponsors 'Adopt A Village' Program

Alpha Kappa Alpha's Global Perspective, the Adopt an African Village project of which Kappa Sigma Omega Chapter AKA is involved, is a part of the nationwide effort to address the needs of millions of African Villagers. Recently, members of AKA and guests gathered for a unique program that included a slide and tape presentation prepared by Africare showing some of the village development programs they sponsor. The shortage of water in Africa is a matter of life and death; the difference between a village's ability to farm and meet their own needs or to perish from starvation.

Those assembled received a special spiritual treat from the three vocal selections rendered by Mrs. Graela Miller, Mrs. LaVerne Graham confirmed the tragic conditions existing in some regions of Africa. Mrs. Graham has recently returned from Africa as a part of her missionary work for the Foreign Mission Board of the National Baptist Convention of American.

Seminole High School Top Ten Scholar Recipient Of Expense Paid Scholarship

All-expenses paid is the opportunity won by Jennifer Durak, who was one of the Top Ten Scholars to graduate from Seminole High School this past June. It all began when she was awarded a Cottey College Scholarship from the state chapter of the PEO Sisterhood, which sponsors a two-year women's college in Nevada, Mo., as one of its projects.

The scholarship provides for three-quarters of all expenses for the two years, plus a generous allowance for needed airline tickets. However, once Jennifer was accepted at Cottey, she received the news that she had been awarded, from the college, its Presidential Scholarship, which pays for all remaining expenses—except books.

Jennifer, listed in Who's Who In American High Schools for 1985 and 1986, was a member of Tribe and of the National Honor Society at Seminole High School, served as co-captain on the Academic Bowl team, and was a member of both Concert Chorus and the Destiny, Seminole's choral ensemble. She was a recipient for Seminole High School of the Walt Disney Dreamers and Doers Award, the DAR Citizenship Award, the Presidential Academic Fitness Award, Pride Awards in Writing and in Social Studies, and was selected "Student of the Month" by the Sanford Rotary Club for February, 1986. Jennifer's Project on the Shuttle Tragedy won grand prize in the 1986 Seminole County Social Studies Fair.

Jennifer, born in Sanford, is the daughter of Michael Durak, recently Transportation Planner for Seminole County, and Carolyn Durak, teacher of fifth grade at Wilson Elementary. She has a sister, Rebecca.

Jennifer plans to complete a program of foundation courses required for a major in civil or architectural engineering.

Diner Had Bellyful Of Pregnant Waitresses

DEAR ABBY: A few week ago my wife and I had dinner out to relax and forget about cooking. In the cocktail lounge of this very nice restaurant we were served by a pleasant young lady who was well along in her pregnancy. Then in the dining room, an equally pregnant young lady served us dinner.

I believe that women and children are important — to be love and cherished — but being served by two pregnant women in one evening was, I thought, a little too much.

My wife had a "so what?" attitude. I was upset. Do you think my reaction was wrong? And if so, why?

STORK-SAVING MAD

DEAR MAD: As a man who claims to "love and cherish women and children," perhaps the sight of two pregnant women working so far along in their pregnancies made you feel guilty. Or were you embarrassed to be reminded of how babies get here?

If you still cling to the notion that pregnant women should not show themselves in public, consider this: Pregnant waitresses would rather be home soaking their swollen feet, but they continue to work because they need the money. Examine your feelings. Then you will know why you were upset.

DEAR ABBY: I have a mother-in-law problem. When "Joe" and I announced our engagement, his mother gave us a down comforter. It wasn't a new one; it was one she had had for a long time that belonged to her mother. My own mother gave us a brand-new down comforter, not knowing that I had already received one.

Joe and I have been married a year and we're using the comforter we got from my mother. My mother-in-law was at the house yesterday and noticed that we were using the new comforter, so she asked me to give the one she had given us to her daughter who didn't have any.

Abby, the one from my mother-in-law has a lot of sentimental value attached to it, and just because we're not using it doesn't mean we don't want it. I suppose you'd call me selfish if I have two and refuse to give one to my sister-in-law who doesn't have any, but I don't really think I am. What should I do?

ON THE SPOT
DEAR ON: Once a gift is given, it becomes the property of the recipient to use, put away, throw away, sell or whatever.

However, with two comforters, you have more comfort than you can use, so why not give one to your sister-in-law to warm and comfort her? Were you to keep them both, I would not call you "selfish," but there's much to be said for keeping peace in the family.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 17-year-old guy with an important question. Why are your readers so hung up on sex? I like your column, but it seems that about one-third of your letters are about sex. Personally I think bowling is a lot more fun. Judging from the few times I've had sex, I thought it would get more enjoyable, but it didn't.

Unfortunately, high school peer pressure about this over-rated activity is still with us.

I think sex is boring. Besides, with AIDS to worry about, it's not worth the risk. Also, the world already has more people than it can feed.

Give us more letters about people who are too fat, too tall, too short or were born on Christmas. Or hassles with the phone company, the neighbor's dog barking at 3 a.m. — anything besides sex for a change.

WIN AT BRIDGE

should play the nine. If declarer wins the 10, West can grab the first club trick and continue hearts, setting up the suit for East while he still has the club ace for an entry.

Boulenger made a simple play that countered any stratagem the defenders could employ. He rose with the heart jack in dummy and allowed East to hold the trick with the queen.

WORLD IN BRIEF

Captured American Tells Of Supplying Arms To Contras

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (UPI) — An American flier captured in Nicaragua said he was part of a CIA-directed network of flights out of Salvadoran and Honduran military bases that dropped weapons to U.S.-backed rebels.

Eugene Hasenfus, 45, of Marinette, Wis., who parachuted out of a cargo plane shot down by Nicaraguan troops, said at a news conference Thursday he participated in 10 flights over Nicaragua from El Salvador and Honduras. He said the flights dropped supplies to rebels fighting the leftist Sandinista government.

In Washington, CIA, Pentagon and other American officials denied that Hasenfus or the crew of the cargo plane were connected to the U.S. government. Congress has prohibited the CIA from assisting the rebels.

Veterans Return War Medals

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Congressional Medal of Honor and dozens of Bronze Stars, Purple Hearts and other combat medals were laid at the base of the Vietnam Veterans Memorial by American veterans protesting U.S. aid to Nicaraguan rebels.

"It was with pride that I accepted the Silver Star, and with sadness that I renounce it," said Art James, a Vietnam veteran from Clear Springs, Md.

As the protesters placed their medals along the base of the granite memorial Thursday, five veterans stood arm-in-arm, reflecting on their act of defiance. Four of the five were in their 39th day of fasting to protest U.S. backing of the Contra rebels trying to overthrow the Nicaraguan government.

Reagan Prepares For Summit

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (UPI) — President Reagan and his key advisers are meeting today, preparing for the weekend summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev, and one aide warns that a hoped-for agreement in one area of arms reduction is "not a done deal."

The 75-year-old president had a low-key arrival in drizzly Reykjavik with greetings at Keflavik airport from Iceland's President Vigdis Finnbogadottir and other Icelandic officials.

Meese Suggests Drug Raids

PUERTO VALLARTA, Mexico (UPI) — Attorney General Edwin Meese, after meeting with law officials from 12 Latin American and Caribbean nations, said joint raids using U.S. forces are the way to stop cocaine production.

After the first day of talks Thursday, Meese said he hoped to convey the United States' willingness to help the other nations combat their drug problems.

The officials gathered in Puerto Vallarta, a coastal resort 385 miles northwest of Mexico City, for the unprecedented, two-day regional meeting on fighting drug trafficking.

FLORIDA IN BRIEF

Coalition: Homestead Revision Called 'Reverse Robin Hood'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Homestead Exemption amendment on the November ballot is "a reverse Robin Hood" that would hurt the poor and possibly help no one, a coalition of consumer advocacy groups opposing the amendment says.

"This is a direct tax shift from wealthy homeowners to middle and lower income homeowners," Florida Consumer Action Network president and coalition president George Sheldon said Thursday. "That amounts to nothing more than Robin Hood in reverse."

Currently, the exemption allows a homeowner to exempt the first $25,000 of his home's assessed value when figuring property taxes. If the proposed amendment is adopted, homeowners would exempt the first $5,000, then half the remaining value up to a total exemption of $25,000.

That would mean higher taxes on homes worth between $5,000 and $45,000; taxes on other homes would remain the same.

 said, "Philosophically, he has been a Republican for quite awhile."

"Sometimes there might be a question as to why someone changes party, but in Sheriff Polk's case, he's just getting his party affiliation in line with his beliefs," Valdes continued. "He said Polk's conversion represents 'the kind of people we like to see come to the Republican Party... someone who has been a good conservative Democrat.'"

"There's no reason for Republicans not to be in full support of him in 1988," when Polk will run for re-election, Valdes said.

There remains only one Democrat in Seminole County government, tax collector Troy Ray. McIntosh said the party would continue to support Democratic county commission candidate Bob French, who is opposing incumbent county commission chairman Bob Sturm.

"We have been assisting Mr. French from the outset," McIntosh said, but added, "what we're doing to help would be between us and Mr. French."

Polk cited "philosophical differences" with the Democratic Party, as well as nominee Steve Pajcic.

Prior to September's primary and runoff elections to determine the finalists for the Nov. 4 general election, Polk said, "I picked the best Democrat, Jim Smith, and the best Republican, Bob Martinez."

Smith was narrowly defeated by the Democratic nomination by Pajcic in the Sept. 30 runoff.

"If Smith had won the nomination, I would not have changed parties," Polk said. "His philosophies are along the same line as mine."

"I think the philosophy of Pajcic and mine are 180 degrees apart," Polk continued. "I think he's too liberal."

"I'm not saying anything against him personally. He's a fine man and a fine person, but his philosophy is just too liberal for me," Polk continued.

"I've always been conservative," he added.

time Starns, who knew Shaw only by sight, had transported Mrs. Shaw to work. During the past two months, since the Shaws' marriage broke up, Shaw routinely followed her to work, harassing her and her driver. Starns had taken Mrs. Shaw two and from her job at Stromberg-Carlson on Sunday night without any trouble from Shaw, but other co-workers had become fearful of accepting that responsibility, Starns said.

Dickey said he was driving slowly. As the three vehicles approached Oaklawn cemetery, Starns said Dickey tried to pass Shaw's car, but Shaw wouldn't let him.

At a hill on a curve in the road, Shaw cut in front of Starns' car and stopped short, causing Starns' car to crash into the rear of Shaws' vehicle. Dickey braked to avoid hitting the two cars and his truck hit a tree. He jumped out of his truck brandishing an ax handle.

"I thought he caused the wreck on purpose. That's why I got out," Dickey said.

Shaw was already approaching Starns' car, brandishing a small-caliber handgun. Starns stalled car wouldn't restart.

"Hold on," Starns told Shaw. "Hold on hell," Shaw said as he advanced. Starns felt panic. He said he felt both he and Mrs. Shaw were going to be shot.

Then Dickey appeared and Starns jumped out of his car and rushed to the passenger's side door and was trying to get Mrs. Shaw, who was frozen in fear, out.

Dickey wielded the ax handle against Shaw, but didn't strike him as he chased Shaw to the rear of Starns' car. As Starns tried to get Mrs. Shaw out of his car to run, Starns was aware of Shaw's fleeing from Dickey.

"I didn't know what was going on," Starns said. "I didn't know if there was a previous problem between them." (Shaw and Dickey). But Dickey didn't know Shaw or Mrs. Shaw and Starns.

And he said he didn't know Shaw had a gun until Shaw turned toward him. Dickey heard two shots, and fell to the ground with a single wound to the left side of his neck.

"I tried to scream. I couldn't scream or move," Dickey said. He said he was afraid he would die, or that he would never be able to speak again.

Dickey said he never saw Starns or Mrs. Shaw and wasn't aware of what happened to them at the scene at that time.

"All I remember is me being shot and seeing that guy (Shaw) drive off," Dickey said.

After shooting Dickey, Shaw moved to the open driver's door of Starns' car. As Mrs. Shaw sat crouched in a fetal position in the seat with her head bent down against the dashboard Starns frantically tried to pull her from the car. She begged for her life, saying, "No, Bob, no."

"She never moved. She was scared to death," Starns said.

system is operating in compliance with the state's policies and procedures for 911 operations, which equates to greater protection against lawsuits concerning response time, he said.

The county agreed to move the system to the sheriff's department last week, before 911 hardware was installed at the public safety building, Hooper said.

The rerouting is expected to add about $7,000 to the system's approximately $900,000 overall cost, according to County 911 Coordinator Roanne Rubin. Unincorporated Seminole County and the city of Longwood will be served through the answering point at the sheriff's office, Ms. Rubin said. The county's six other cities have their own answering points, and the move will have no effect on them, she said. That is, persons dialing the 911 number in Longwood or the unincorporated areas will immediately be linked to the sheriff's department, which will process the call to the appropriate agency to deal with the emergency, which could be law enforcement or fire departments. Those dialing the 911 number in other Seminole County cities will be linked immediately to those cities' police departments.

Sheriff John Polk and Public Safety Director Gary Kaiser, have no objections to the move, Hooper said.

"We don't really have any problems with moving the system to the sheriff's department, we realize it's a matter of finding the most effective relay point," Hooper said. "It's just that this was planned to be done one way for so long, and locating it there (at public safety) was agreed to by all involved locally."

The state contacted the county about a month ago while reviewing 911 information the county had submitted.

parimutuel sports such as Jai-Alai and dog racing.

Ms. Johnson suggested a higher cap on required local effort, property taxes, be given by the state to produce more money for schools. She said the cap is now $6 per $1,000 of property valuation.

Ford admitted that there are "long odds" for lottery players chances of winning, but that the games would have "entertainment value." Ms. Johnson responded that a significant number of people who become chronic gamblers do so by becoming hooked on lotteries.

Twenty-two states and Washington, D.C. have legalized state lotteries, and Floridians will vote Nov. 4, to decide if one is wanted here.

The casino gambling issue does not instantly legalize casinos in Florida, but would allow individual counties to make up their own mind on the issue through a second vote, Laura Coburn, a statewide spokesman for Citizens for County Choice, a pro-casino group said.

But casino foe, State Rep. Art Grindle, R-Altamonte Springs, said passing the casino issue would allow "the ultimate social disease... a malignant cancer of society."

Grindle said crime, prostitution, and drugs would follow the casinos into Florida if they are permitted.

Ms. Coburn said Atlantic City, New Jersey was a declining city until casinos were built. She said the city was able to pump $1.6 billion into housing since the casinos opened, and the only area where crime increased was in petty larcenies.

"Violent crime has increased by 300 percent here since Disney opened," she added.

Grindle responded that the crime rate in Atlantic City had jumped by 500 percent, and that each of the 11 casinos was responsible for generating 1,000 crimes each.

...Theater

Mrs. Wahl dreams of a Seminole County children's theater where puppet shows and other performances would be played for children. But it's a dream she fears won't come true unless some civic group, developer or other backer magically appears to provide a show space and support for such a project.

In the meantime, in her Longwood office of Sunshine Artist magazine Mrs. Wahl is holding monthly workshops teaching teachers and other adults interested in entertaining children with puppet shows how to get their act together to take puppets into the schools and other community organizations.

Because space is limited Mrs. Wahl's next workshop, scheduled Oct. 18, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., is restricted to 10 students, who will learn to make simple hand puppets.

The one-day workshop also includes basics in scriptwriting, a chance to try a hand at puppetry and a tape recording of a show plus music, which means the students can put on a show by just manipulating the puppets they create, with the puppets "miming" the recorded script, Mrs. Wahl said.

She gives her students, who each pay $15 which goes to support a non-profit theater group, a pattern and instructions in making a simple hand puppet from felt, which is glued together and has glued on features.

Part of the money collected for the workshops goes into making tapes, which Mrs. Wahl hopes will attract a producer who will televise her puppetry productions, for which she scripts and directs the work of volunteer puppeteers.

Students in her advanced workshop go on to make rod puppets, which are more complex and Muppet-like, with arms that are manipulated with wooden rods attached to the hands. That makes their movement very life-like.

"They're life-sized and lovely," Mrs. Wahl said of her rod puppets. "I think ours could compete any day with what we see on television."

"I made the rod puppets. I love them all. I wouldn't sell them. I created them for my shows. Not only did it take many, many hours to do, but I feel very close to them. I feel almost like they're my own children."

"You know an artist is not supposed to fall in love with their work. I find the characters for some of my shows, I just couldn't part with them," Mrs. Wahl said.

But she will teach you to make your own.

Mrs. Wahl is creating her own characters and writing her own scripts, but she also is working within her advanced workshop to revise and revitalize "Punch and Judy," a British puppet act, historically one of the first, which has survived.

Mrs. Wahl is having to clean up Punch and Judy's act as well as create her puppets based on the original characters. "I think most people recognize them as one of the earliest puppet shows. We do have a Punch and Judy show script. I don't think it would be accepted anywhere, because Punch is a very rude, miserable person."

"He kills and out the window goes the baby. Of course she's supposed to be dead. Out the window goes the wife. Then they send the police and the policeman goes out the window."

"The hangman, who is supposed to hang Punch for all his crimes somehow gets the noose on his own neck. Finally a crocodile appears from nowhere and pulls Punch off the stage.

"So, it's horrible. It's something mothers don't really want their children to see. So we're going to rewrite Punch and Judy for today's child," Mrs. Wahl said.

Although she will produce puppet shows with messages related to child abuse or getting off drugs, if requested, Mrs. Wahl said she prefers shows that are strictly entertaining. She said her ideal puppet show audience is a bit young to be dealing with issues, but they can "come for a little while and enjoy a fantasy," woven around princesses, frogs, witches and children.

Her cast of puppets is flexible and can star in fairy tales or be lost in space, she said.

If you would like to try your hand at creating puppets or are interested in children's theater contact Mrs. Wahl at 323-6349.

It's Alive! On Saturday Night

By Mark Schwab
UPI TV Editor

NEW YORK (UPI) — Alone, illuminated by the flames that had killed everybody else, the last surviving NBC page — his name was Brandon Tinker — saw something out of the corner of his eye. Something horrible. Something green.

And then, smoke still billowing from the flames, a claw dug into the floor. Ever so slowly, the molten mass of green slime grunted and snorted its way toward the mortally wounded page. After all, it was lunchtime and the monster hadn't had a page since Tuesday.

"Ohhhhhh, nooooooo!" the page screamed as the alien's fangs drew first blood. "It's alive! It's alive!"

Live, from New York, it's Saturday Night!

Yes, that star factory called "Saturday Night Live" has risen from the ashes of lousy ratings and last season's cliff-hanger-fire to rant, rave, rock and rap one more time around.

The new day dawns Saturday (Oct. 11, 11:30 p.m. EDT) — exactly 11 years to the day after the show aired for the first time.

Instead of Madonna, who opened the last season, this year's first host is the ghostbusting, alien-basher herself, Sigourney Weaver in the flesh.

There's a (mostly) new cast, a new (old) producer and a new (same) budget.

Besides that, nothing much has changed from last year — except one thing:

"The cast know that the press are not necessarily their friend," says Lorne Michaels, who created the show, produced it during the wonder years, left, then returned as executive producer and now, at long last, returns as producer once again.

Last year, at midsummer, there was no cast, no crew, no staff. This year, it seems like the same fine mess all over again. The new cast members were signed only a week ago, the script was finalized four days before the debut, leading some to speculate that not all was going to be well on opening night.

Not so says Michaels.

"It may look as if it was all thrown together at the end of summer but it wasn't," he said.

"It took a long time. I didn't want to make any decision right after the season ended. I wanted to get away from it a bit. I didn't want to lose the taste from last season. And I had a clear sense of what I wanted to keep and change."

"All summer I went to see people, watch people work. I met with people I knew I wanted to work with and saw some of them three or four times. It took me a long time to decide."

But will it be different than before?

"The show always ... it was always different every week," Michaels said. "Sigourney Weaver is different than Reggie Jackson."

But as it begins the twelfth season, "Saturday Night Live" is in its eleventh hour. NBC Entertainment President Brandon Tartikoff is still committed to the show, but only as far as 13 episodes.

Stars' Body Builder

By Vernon Scott
UPI Hollywood Reporter

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Jake Steinfeld is getting rich shaping up such movie and TV stars as Priscilla Presley, Morgan Fairchild, Linda Gray, Bette Midler and Whoopi Goldberg.

The muscular exerciser from Brooklyn also has put muscles on and taken fat off such male stars as Harrison Ford, Michael J. Fox and George Segal and directors Steven Spielberg and John Landis.

Steinfeld's "Body By Jake" is a 30-minute workout with himself or one of his minions in the homes of his clients — at the astonishing cost of $200 per half hour.

Steinfeld, an ebullent, fast-talking extrovert once described as ferociously friendly, has 107 regular clients and others waiting in line for his services.

Although his muscle definition isn't as severe as the oiled monsters who compete in body-building competitions, Steinfeld makes Arnold Schwarzenegger look undernourished.

His workout is designed not to make clients look like himself, but to win the battle against the flabbing of America.

In only seven years Steinfeld, 28, has built his business to include a best-selling video exercise tape, "Body By Jake," with a second tape on the way, "Body By Jake, Energize Yourself," and a franchised fitness firm, the first branch of which recently opened in New York City.

Never one to cloak his success in modesty, he is proud of his appointment to the President's Council on Physical Fitness and Sports.

Steinfeld — who likes to call himself trainer to the stars — arrived in Hollywood eight years ago as a sometime student to live in a dormitory on the campus of California State College, Northridge. Today he lives in a house in Bel Air.

"You could call me a success story that's still happening," Steinfeld said, running a hand through his shock of tightly curled dark hair. "I made more than $1 million last year, not counting the proceeds from my book, 'Body By Jake' and the video cassette.

"It began when I quit school to work at the Universal Studios Tour. I just walked around all day without my shirt on, wearing green paint, as the Incredible Hulk. I got paid $700 a week, but when the series was canceled I was out of work.

"So I went to the unemployment office and when the lady asked what my last job was, I told her. She said, 'Great, when a job opens up for a hulk, I'll give you a call.'"

Undisturbed, Steinfeld went back to his old job, nightclub bouncer, a delicate profession he had learned as a teenager in Brooklyn beer joints.

He continued to work out with friends until a young actress asked if he could quickly get her in shape for a TV commercial in which she had to wear a bikini. He soon found himself helping other performers — for a fee.

Steinfeld calls his technique "body-maxing," the step beyond aerobics that gets the most out of a person's body in the least amount of time.

"The first celebrity who asked me to help get her in shape was Margot Kidder," he recalled. "I had perfected a 30-minute program without aerobics or jumping around or using commercial weights for lifting.

"I encourage my clients to use whatever is at hand for weight-lifting, cans of tomato juice, bath towels for pushing with me, that kind of thing.

"People had a hard time reaching me because I had an unlisted telephone number. I still do. It adds a kind of mystique to me. Show business people love that kind of thing.

"Ninety percent of my clients are in the business, but I also have doctors, lawyers and other professional people. My clients range in age from 19 to 68, and a lot of them fire their psychiatrists when they work out with me."

Lamas Takes To The Track

By Frank Banello

NAPA, Calif. (NEA) — When his father, Fernando Lamas, died, Lorenzo Lamas, best known as the good-bad boy Lance Cumson on "Falcon Crest," thought his world was falling apart.

"My dad was always a leveling force, so when he passed on I had nobody to keep my head on straight," says Lamas on location at the Silverado Hotel.

"It's tough to be young and have it all, and I do have it all."

If his father had been around to counsel him, the younger Lamas believes he wouldn't have rushed into a disastrous second marriage, which produced two children before ending in divorce.

"I married the second time too fast," he says. "I had just been divorced from Victoria, and here I was marrying Michelle. We should have taken a little more time to get to know each other. We had kids too soon. I don't regret for one second having children. But both marriages were a mistake. The only thing that sanctifies them is the children."

Despite such negative statements, Lamas says that right now is the best time of his life. After two failed marriages and his father's death, he has found happiness in an unlikely place.

"I just feel like I've been born again," Lamas says. The source of his new salvation? Grand Prix racing.

His enthusiasm is understandable. He won the very first race he entered — the 1985 Long Beach Grand Prix — racing out other celebrity competitors including Mark Gastineau, Perry King and Tony Danza.

"I just took to it like a duck to water," Lamas says. Racing has been a cure-all for his many spiritual and physical ills. The grueling physical demands of the sport have forced him to quit drugs. "You have to be so disciplined and aware of yourself at every moment that I just don't have time to party or do drugs or all that other nonsense that doesn't really do you any good anyway. You can't drive a car messed up."

The 28-year-old actor says his drug of choice was marijuana and "some other things" that he refuses to identify. "I never got seriously into anything except grass," he says.

Racing, oddly enough, has even been a substitute for human relationships, including female companionship. Lamas claims that he rushed into both of his marriages because he couldn't stand to be alone.

"Some people have a tendency to marry because they're unhappy, and they think a mate will make them happy again. Wrong!" he says.
