

ON THE MOVE

Seminole County's Sanford Branch Library is on the move, and that means a big job for the staff, including Mrs. Bernice Hughes, library assistant, who is taking books from the shelves in photo below and overseeing John Brown, Adams Transfer mover, at right. The library operation is being moved from the building on E. First Street, while renovations are being made, to its temporary location at Sanford City Hall.

Humane Society Says:

Dog Can Remain In Unfenced Yard

By JANE CASSELBEERY
Herald Staff Writer

It's official — the two-year-old Irish setter "Bo" will be allowed to stay with his adopted family, the John Bartholfs of Apopka, even though their yard is not fenced.

The board of directors of the Humane Society of Seminole County resolved the issue, which had earlier split the board and brought about the resignation of six members, at an emergency meeting Tuesday night at the Longwood Community Center.

The board's decision was based on the report of a committee which investigated the situation at the Bartholf home to determine whether it would be safe to leave the dog.

"It is a wooded area, and the dog has a lovely home," said the new Humane Society president, Helen Wolk of Maitland. "There is no reason not to leave him there."

The society has a requirement that people adopting large dogs over 20 pounds have a fenced yard, but Mrs. Wolk said many exceptions have been made where investigation has shown that there is plenty of room and no safety hazard.

"It is not a hard and fast rule, but we like people to tell the truth. Mr. Bartholf falsified his application," Mrs. Wolk said. "This time we made an exception, but this will be the only exception for someone who has falsified a statement."

Longwood real-estate broker B.D. "Bo" Simpson was named to the board to fill one of the seats left vacant by the resignation of Mr. and Mrs. Art Grindle, fund-raising chairman Eunice Shomo, education director Joanne Terry, public-relations director Pauline McDonald, and veterinarian Dr. Peter Haberly.

In addition to resigning, the Grindles, who were longtime fund raisers and supporters of the Humane Society, withdrew their pledge of $25,000 to the building fund for the new animal shelter.

Mrs. Wolk said Simpson's appointment brings the number of board members to 11, and she doesn't know whether the board will be brought up to its previous size of 15 members. "We wish to take our time and make the best choices," she explained.

She said 10 applications have been received for the volunteer post of education director.

The shelter situation is critical, with maintenance expenses exceeding donations. Money given for the building fund cannot be used for other expenses. The split in the society could not have come at a worse time. It is trying to raise $150,000 for a new shelter and the building fund is now at $46,000. The deadline for becoming operational on the new site leased from the county is October 1983. "Time is of the essence," said Mrs. Wolk.

A suggestion by treasurer Ursula West that the shelter at the Sanford Airport property be closed temporarily because of the financial situation was rejected as almost impossible. "A telephone would have to be maintained, homes would have to be found for the animals, and there would be no place to care for injured animals," explained Mrs. Wolk. "Besides, we can't get any cheaper building than the present shelter."

To help alleviate the current funding crisis and add to the building fund, several fund-raising projects are being planned.

The board Tuesday night approved a "dollar campaign." "If everybody in Seminole County would send in at least one dollar," said Mrs. Wolk, "we could get the new animal shelter built in three months." Contributions can be sent to Humane Society of Seminole County, 2001 E. 25th St., Sanford, 32771.

School Board Set To Hear Creationism Presentation

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer

The case for introducing a "balanced treatment of creation and evolution concepts of origins" into the public schools of Seminole County will be made by Dr. Roger Chambers at the 7:30 p.m. meeting today of the county School Board.

The meeting will be held at the board offices, 1211 Mellonville Ave., Sanford. Chambers, a historian and an anthropologist, will be representing the Central Florida Creation Science Fellowship at the meeting.

C.A. Thrall, staff coordinator of the Altamonte Springs-based organization, in asking for time on today's board agenda for the matter, said several hundred county school parents have signed a petition requesting the group to represent them.

Thrall asked for 10 minutes for Chambers' presentation. He said the presentation will include a request that a committee be established to investigate the issue; the organization be represented on the committee; and a date be assigned to have the committee established.

Thrall said the organization will offer to the board its aid with teacher workshops, textbook approval and pilot programs. And he added a request that the organization be permitted to make a slide presentation "suitable for classroom use as an example of how the issue can be treated fairly."

Chambers is chairman of the general studies department at Central Florida Bible College in Orlando. The college, he said, is operating from facilities of the First Christian Church on Kaley Avenue, Orlando, and currently has 125 full-time day students as well as night students.

School Superintendent Bob Hughes, in a memo to the board, noted that the matter of creationism has not been dealt with yet by the Curriculum Advisory Council. "It will be brought to the board for consideration when the council's recommendations are received," he said.

Hughes also noted in his memo that House and Senate bills already have been filed in the state Legislature requiring that both the theory of scientific creationism and the theory of evolution be taught in the state's public schools.

In other business at tonight's meeting, the board will consider a recommendation from its attorney, Ned N. Julian Jr., that special legal counsel be hired to act as its prosecutor at a hearing of the Professional Practices Council on the possible dismissal of a former Jackson Heights Middle School teacher.

Julian said teacher Linda Coleman was suspended from her job without pay last July 14 after charges were brought against her by the Orlando Police Department because of the shooting death of an Orlando woman.

He noted that Ms. Coleman pleaded guilty to manslaughter in Orange County Circuit Court. Julian said state Education Commissioner Ralph Turlington is to decide whether a proceeding will be instituted against her for revocation of her state teaching certificate.

Julian said the best procedure is for the board to name another attorney to prosecute the matter, urging that Gary Simon, Marion County School Board attorney, be appointed.

Mental Health: Funding May Run Out For Treatment

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

An average of two persons a day may seek financial help from Seminole County because they can't afford treatment for emotional or mental illness.

But providing the means of support for these people — many of whom are suicidal, homicidal or suffering from degrees of emotional problems because of abuse — is causing distress for Seminole County Mental Health Center officials.

Although the funding period for the county's Baker Act patient program runs from July 1 through June 30, it may run out of funds within two months, according to Dr. George Lindenfeld, executive director of the mental health center.

Increased hospital costs and the fact that more clients are seeking admission to Florida Hospital-Altamonte has contributed to the projected cost overrun for the program, said Lindenfeld, who Tuesday asked the County Commission to consider allocating $30,000 toward the operation of a 10-bed community residential center.

It would be cheaper in the long run for the county to house Baker Act patients in the proposed facility instead of admitting them to the hospital and could save the county up to $98,000 a year if used to full bed capacity, Lindenfeld said.

Emotionally or mentally ill people who meet certain state criteria and are unable to pay for hospitalization for their illness are eligible for funding under the Baker Act. The state currently provides $225,000 for Seminole County residents who qualify for the program while the county contributes $80,000 as its share to the annual costs.

Lindenfeld proposed that the commission divert $30,000 that would supplement $80,000 in state funds to be used in construction of the residential facility for non-violent mentally ill patients.

"Let's open it up to everyone," said Commissioner William Kirchhoff. "I'd like to see some other proposals on this."

The rest of the commission agreed it couldn't make a decision, and directed County Administrator Roger Neiswender and Health Department Director Dr. George Deju to study Lindenfeld's proposal and submit a recommendation to the commission next month.

"If our County Commission determines there are no funds available, then what happens to the program?" asked Chairman Bob Sturn.

Lindenfeld said the mental health center may have to abrogate its responsibilities for providing treatment for Baker Act patients and transfer responsibility to the state.

"I want to see the facility left in Seminole County," said Commissioner Sandra Glenn.

Kirchhoff suggested that the commission find out how many facilities in Seminole County are capable of handling Baker Act patients.

"In Seminole County, the only available resource for (1) persons who are 'thinking' of suicide as a way to handle problems, (2) the abused elderly with no other resources at the time of screening, or (3) a person who has stopped taking his medication and is experiencing undesirable symptoms in the Psychiatric Unit at Florida Hospital-Altamonte at a cost of $260.00 per diem," according to the Baker Act alternative funding proposal submitted by Lindenfeld.

At Least One, Maybe Two Banks

ComBank Coming To Sanford

At least one and probably two new ComBanks will be opening in Sanford within the next six months.

John Squires, president of ComBank-Seminole, said today that the bank is looking at three pieces of property, including one in the downtown area, as locations for the new facilities.

Squires said the bank has a contract to purchase one parcel fronting on Park Avenue at Commercial Street but that the contract has a number of contingencies which must be worked out.

"We had hoped to have a piece of property in Sanford nailed down before the end of last year, but the downtown parcel was not even for sale then,"

Squires said. "We persuaded the owner to entertain selling the property, and that's why there are so many contingencies."

Squires said there are a total of three parcels of property being considered for purchase by the bank. In addition to the downtown location, there are two other sites off U.S. 17-92, south of downtown and north of Lake Mary Boulevard.

"We plan at least one office in Sanford and probably two," Squires said.

The Park Avenue-Commercial street site is "an excellent piece of property for us, an ideal location," he said, adding that the downtown site would give the bank the opportunity to serve virtually all of the major downtown area and the courthouse.

"I think we can make a facility that Sanford can be proud of," Squires said.

ComBank currently has six offices in Seminole County, but none in Sanford to date. Squires said that with the bank recently going over the $100 million mark in total assets, it is the largest bank in Seminole County. "It's the first commercial bank in Seminole to reach that plateau," he said.

Squires said architects are studying the structure at the downtown Sanford site to determine whether parts of the building can be salvaged.

Wearing Of The Green?

Sanford jeweler John Kader and Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce president Jack Horner have come up with an idea that may mean the "greening" of Sanford — on March 17, at least.

They are proposing a St. Patrick's Day celebration and parade in downtown Sanford on that day, but whether the idea flies depends on how many Irishmen and other interested persons turn out for a planning meeting tonight. The meeting will be at 7:30 at the Chamber of Commerce building, Sanford Avenue and First Street.

"If there is enough interest, we may make it an annual event," said Horner. Although there are no definite plans yet, Irish music, dancing, and food could be included in the event.

Residents who are interested in "painting the town green" on St. Patrick's Day are being invited to attend and share their ideas.

IN BRIEF

Congressmen Say End Salvadoran Military Aid

WASHINGTON (UPI) — There is a mounting cry on Capitol Hill for President Reagan to seek a negotiated settlement in El Salvador's civil war and to refrain from sending any more military aid to the U.S.-backed military junta.

Two congressmen just back from El Salvador called Reagan's assertion of improved human rights there "simply and obviously false." They called for an end to all U.S. military aid.

Central American Spying

WASHINGTON (UPI) — For the last two months the United States has conducted intelligence gathering missions off El Salvador and Nicaragua with destroyers outfitted with spy gear, administration officials and intelligence sources say.

The naval presence in the Gulf of Fonseca coincides with warnings by Secretary of State Alexander Haig of possible U.S. action in the Caribbean Basin to intercept the arms traffic flowing from Cuba to Nicaragua.

UAW-AMC Talks May Begin

DETROIT (UPI) — The proposed early contract calling for United Auto Workers concessions at Ford Motor Co. is steamrolling toward victory in nationwide rank-and-file voting, and union leaders say talks may open soon with the American Motors Corp.

SALEM, Mass. (UPI) — Police held a drifter today on charges of trying to set fire to local police headquarters and questioned him about a series of suspicious fires that have swept the historic "Witch City," causing millions of dollars worth of damage.

No Wednesday Times

NEW YORK (UPI) — A work stoppage by drivers for the New York Times late Tuesday forced publication of the newspaper's Wednesday editions to be suspended, Times officials said.

John Poinfret, executive vice president and general manager of The Times, said, "As far as we are able to tell, the reason for the wildcat work stoppage is the refusal of The Times to pay thousands of dollars a year in bogus overtime pay to Bernard Weisner, who is a chapel chairman (shop steward) of the driver's union at the Times, but performs no duties for the Times."

'Raider Day' Saturday

Rock Lake Middle School, Longwood, will hold "Raider Day" to raise money for school improvements Saturday from 11 a.m. until 10 p.m.

The event will feature games, food, a flea market, auction, and a barbecue dinner from 4 to 7 p.m.

Cost is $5.50. For more information, contact the school at 331-7788.

3 Teens Arrested In Bank Holdup Try

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

A 14-year-old girl was released to her parents' custody and two other Seminole County teenagers were being held today at the juvenile detention center to face charges of burglary and auto theft.

A 16-year-old Seminole Community College student, his 14-year-old brother and a 14-year-old girl friend, all of whom reportedly had run away from their Spring Oaks homes Saturday, were arrested at the Sun Bank branch at State Roads 436 and 431 at about 6 p.m. Monday, Altamonte Springs police reported.

The names of the three youths are being withheld because of their ages.

Police said the three suspects claimed they were robbing the bank so they could purchase a Pontiac Trans-Am.

When the three were arrested at the bank they were driving a 1965 Ford which had been reported stolen earlier that day from Sims Office Supply, 1001 N. Douglas Road, Altamonte Springs, police said.

Police added that several thousand dollars worth of property, stolen from the home of Raymond Waita, 413 W. Center St., Altamonte Springs, at about 4 p.m. Monday, was recovered in the car driven by the suspects.

The older boy was charged with robbery and auto theft while the two other youths were charged with being a principal to robbery, police said.

SHAKER SETS STOLEN

Thieves broke into a Sanford woman's home sometime between noon Tuesday and 12:30 a.m. today and stole 75 salt and pepper shaker sets, two silverware sets, a gold bracelet, eight silver dollars, three ladies rings and a $5 gold piece, sheriff's deputies said.

Agnes I. Short, 54, of Wilson Road, told deputies someone broke into her mobile home through the rear door and rummaged through the house, stealing her property, deputies reported.

VIDEO BANDITS

Burglars broke into a Longwood man's home sometime between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m. Tuesday, stealing a video television recorder and two TV sets, deputies said.

The thieves broke into the home of Donald W. Doebler, 52, of 1984 St. Andrews Drive, by forcing open the front door, deputies said. The stolen property is valued at about $2,000.

FALSE PHONE CALLS

Telephone calls reportedly soliciting funds from area residents for the Sanford Police Department are misleading, according to Sgt. Herb Shea, assistant to Sanford Police Chief Ben Butler.

"We've received numerous calls from residents who are reporting that they are being solicited by telephone to give money to police and specifically this police department," Shea said. "We do not ever make solicitations for donations over the telephone. The only way we raise such funds is through selling ads in our yearbook and, when we have it, through selling tickets to the police ball. But we never solicit by phone."

Shea said several callers have reported that the solicitors identify themselves as members of the Police Benevolent Association, the police labor union organization which represents police departments in Oviedo, Casselberry and Orlando.

"We are not part of the PBA," Shea said. "And we want to warn our residents that we have nothing to do with the solicitation for donations."

ZOO MONEY TAKEN

Thieves broke into the Wilson Elementary School in Paola sometime between 4 p.m. Friday and 7:30 a.m. Monday and stole $4.50 which students planned to donate to the Central Florida Zoo.

Deputies said the culprits crawled under the building and forced open a small door located beneath the auditorium stage. Once inside, the thieves removed the door to the school's clinic and also entered a classroom where they removed students' donations from a teacher's desk drawer, deputies said.

CULPRITS STEAL CABLES

Thieves stole about $842 worth of telephone cable from the Southern Bell Telephone Co., at 2709 Country Club Road, Sanford, sometime between 4 p.m. Friday and 2:15 p.m. Monday, sheriff's deputies said.

According to company manager Don Peacock, the culprits climbed over the fence at the compound and stole the cables.

PERCHED PARAKEET FOUND

A Sanford man netted a yellow-and-red-faced parakeet perched upon the fence in his back yard at about 11 a.m. Sunday in hopes of finding the wayward bird's owner, deputies said.

Leonard Jolly, 57, of 301 Fairmont Drive, said he saw the bird perched on his fence and determined it might be someone's pet, deputies said. Jolly captured the bird with a net and is holding the bird until its owners claim it, deputies reported.

AGGRAVATED BATTERY CHARGED

A Sanford man has been released from the Seminole County jail on charges of aggravated battery of another Sanford man at about 9:26 p.m. Friday, deputies said.

Paul Douglas Perkins, 21, of 2829 Magnolia Ave., was arrested and charged with aggravated battery of John Dykeman, 23, of 2827 Magnolia Ave., Sanford, in the Shop & Go convenience store parking lot at Wiley Avenue, Sanford, deputies said.

The two men were involved in an argument when Perkins allegedly hit Dykeman in the right side of the face with a large steel bar, witnesses told deputies.

Dykeman was not seriously injured, deputies said.

RENTAL TV REMOVED

Burglars stole a rented television set from a Sanford woman's home sometime between 7:30 p.m. Friday and 12:25 p.m. Tuesday, Sanford police reported.

Sandra C. Haynes, 34, of 918 Orange Ave., told police someone entered her home through an unlocked door and stole the $800 TV.

THE ENVELOPE, PLEASE

Burglars broke into a Winter Park home at about 9:30 a.m. Monday and stole an envelope containing $100 cash and about $6 in change, deputies said.

The thieves entered the home of Robert Smith, 36, of 2805 Casa Aloma Drive through an unlocked door, deputies reported.

PLANTS PILFERED

Thieves made off with about 11 plants which were lining the sidewalk of the Sanford Nursing Center sometime between 5 p.m. Friday and 6 a.m. Monday, deputies said. The plants are valued at about $30.

Religion Must Yield To The 'Common Good'

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court says when religious beliefs clash with vital government functions, religion must give way.

The justices reached that conclusion Tuesday in a decision on religious rights, as they ruled, 9-0, the government may sometimes require people to violate their faith in order to guarantee "the common good."

The decision came in a tax dispute involving members of the small Old Order Amish sect, whose religion dates back to the 16th-century Protestant Reformation.

The justices ruled the Amish cannot refuse to pay Social Security taxes, although they consider it a sin to do so. The sect maintains its own community system of caring for elderly, sick and unemployed members of the faith.

In a key finding, Chief Justice Warren Burger wrote for the court, "To maintain an organized society that guarantees religious freedom to a great variety of faiths requires some religious practices to yield to the common good."

Declaring "not all burdens on religion are unconstitutional," Burger said the government can restrict religious liberty "by showing it is essential to accomplish an overriding governmental interest."

The chief justice warned that accepting the Amish arguments could lead to the granting of exemptions to paying income taxes for "a religious adherent who believes war is a sin."

In the Amish case, Burger found the government's interest stems from the concept "mandatory participation is indispensable to the fiscal vitality of the Social Security system."

The Amish prohibit members from paying Social Security taxes or receiving any benefits from public assistance programs. They do, however, pay general income and property taxes.

Burger agreed paying the Social Security tax violates a legitimate Amish principle. But he said that conflict "is only the beginning" of the dispute.

"The tax system could not function if denominations were allowed to challenge it because tax payments were spent in a manner that violates their religious belief," he said.

The tax decision was a direct defeat for Edwin D. Lee, an Amish farmer in New Wilmington, Pa. He had refused to pay the employer portion of Social Security withholding for the five other sect members who work in his carpentry business.

Altamonte Commission Tells Legislature

'Reset The Legal Clock'

By TENI YARBOROUGH
Herald Staff Writer

Disturbed by a recent rash of criminal cases being dismissed by area judges because of the state's failure to prosecute within the legal time-frame, the Altamonte Springs Commission Tuesday night unanimously passed a resolution asking the state Legislature to establish an "investigative mechanism" to determine who is at fault in such cases and reprimand those responsible.

"I think we have a resolution that has some teeth in it," said Mayor Ray Ambrose. "This practice of cases being dismissed on speedy trial grounds is a concern to all of us and I feel this resolution is warranted."

The state's speedy trial law requires that a defendant charged with a felony be brought to trial within 180 days of arrest.

Commissioner Dudley Bates requested that a resolution be drafted to address the issue after several Seminole County court cases, including a charge of vehicular manslaughter against a Longwood man, were dropped because the legal clock ran out. A 14-year-old Longwood girl was killed and two other girls were injured in the May 17 crash. Police testified the driver of the vehicle was legally under the influence in that incident.

The commission directed City Manager Jeff Etchberger to forward the resolution to the House and Senate leadership.

Commissioner Bob Reis did not attend Tuesday's meeting.

In other action, the commission voted unanimously to delete part of a rezoning request by Dr. J. L. Borrero from the agenda until several technical problems can be worked out.

However, the commission tentatively agreed to rezone a portion of the property from residential single-family to professional-office. Final action on the request is scheduled for March 9.

Borrero, the owner of a lot along Jasmine Road at Lake Orienta which is zoned for single-family dwellings is asking that part of his property be rezoned for multifamily homes. Borrero said he plans to build a doctor's office on the corner of Jasmine Road and Boston Avenue behind Lord Chumley's Pub. He also is requesting multifamily rezoning for property he owns directly west of the proposed office site.

However, George Blackmore, representing Borrero who is out of the country, asked the commission to drop the rezoning requests until "we can work out a total zoning package that is best for everyone."

"We want to ask you to table the rezoning to multifamily homes for about 60 days until we have time to talk with the residents in the area and alleviate their concerns," he said. "I think it would be in everyone's best interest."

Community Development Director Jon Martin said he agreed with deleting the rezoning request until such problems as drainage, paving on Jasmine Road and sewer and water capacity for all lots involved can be resolved.

The commission voted unanimously to drop the rezoning issue from the public hearing agenda stating the request must again go through the necessary city channels before it is resubmitted to the commission for action.

Tuesday night's commission meeting will be aired in its entirety tonight at 7 p.m. on Storer Cable Communications government access channel 1.

I-4 Sinkhole Filled, Appears Stable

A sinkhole, which opened up early Tuesday morning along the westbound emergency lane of Interstate 4 near the Lake Mary exit, has been filled and is reportedly stable.

Observation of the sinkhole is expected to continue over the next 24 hours to ensure no further cratering result, State Department of Transportation officials said.

"We responded to the site and filled the hole (which measured 18 feet deep and 21 feet wide) with dirt from the surrounding area," said Mike Wright, DOT assistant maintenance engineer.

"Today it remains unchanged but we'll monitor it closely for another day and then periodically for several weeks. The Florida Highway Patrol will also be monitoring the sinkhole area."

The sinkhole was reported to troopers by a passing motorist at about 7 a.m. Tuesday. No injuries were reported, just snarled traffic as DOT crews worked to fill the gaping crater.

Sinkholes occur when the pressure from water in underground limestone cavern drops to the point where it cannot hold up the cave roof. When the roof collapses, it drags the sandy topsoil with it causing the crater-like impressions

Much Talk About Tax Hike

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A sales-tax increase still is only in the talking stage, even though Gov. Bob Graham has joined House Speaker Ralph Haiben in pushing for one.

House and Senate committees talked about raising taxes Tuesday, but that's all they did. A formal vote to raise taxes to get state government by during the recession is still days or weeks off.

Katie's Landing The Way It Was

By MARK VOGLER
Herald Staff Writer

Rachel and Don Potts can operate Katie's Wekiva River Landing the way they did when they bought it over three years ago.

What Seminole County took away in terms of property rights last year has been restored so that the fish camp and travel trailer park can resume business at near full capacity.

That's the result of a decision handed down Tuesday by the County Commission on how to resolve confusion over two conflicting county opinions that restricted the use of the river landing.

Russell and Katie Moncrief sold the fish camp river resort to the Potts for $380,000 back in June of 1978.

At that time, the Potts were told the property was permitted to have up to 23 mobile home sites, 35 travel trailer campsites, four cottages and one house.

However, last spring they were advised by the county that they could have no more than 15 mobile home sites and 18 trailer campsites.

The plat plan accepted by the county's Building and Zoning Department immediately after the Moncriefs purchased the park in December of 1974 stipulated that the owners could have up to 23 mobile home sites and 35 campsites for travel trailers.

But in 1971 the county's Board of Adjustment approved construction of a nearby sewage treatment plant and stipulated that there would only be 15 mobile homes and 18 campsites. The ruling was contingent upon construction of the sewage treatment plant which was never built.

In effect, the commission ruled that the river landing may have actually been "grandfathered," and the Potts will be allowed operation of the facility as previously permitted by the county.

John Percy, director of county Public Services and Development, today said that the Potts will be able to operate with 20 mobile homes, 35 campsites, four cottages and one house.

Herb Hardin, manager of the county's Land Development Division, issued an administrative decision which can be appealed by any party within 30 days.

"I think it all works out now," Percy said. "There had been some question about electrical hook-ups having been inspected and brought into compliance, and this may have constituted the basis for the grandfather situation. The fact that the county did indeed take action at some time, it would seem that the Potts did have invested rights to the number of units they were seeking," he said.

Two weeks ago, the Potts protested to the commission that the 1971 Board of Adjustment ruling posed a serious financial hardship, costing them about one third of their potential business and placing in jeopardy future expansion of the resort.

Ford And UAW Take Major Step

The historic agreement between Ford Motor Co. and the United Auto Workers' bargaining committee is another milestone in labor negotiations. It's good news, and we hope it marks an upturn for domestic auto manufacturing.

The committee unanimously accepted a contract that freezes productivity wage increases for Ford workers for 31 months and cost-of-living pay increases for nine months. It also eliminates eight paid personal holidays.

In turn, Ford offers the auto workers job security and profit sharing. The contract would save the nation's No. 2 auto maker millions of dollars. Ford lost more than $1 billion last year.

The contract will shave about $3 off the current average of $21.50 an hour in wages and benefits. The 170,000 UAW workers at Ford — 105,000 currently employed and another 65,000 laid off — will be voting on contract ratification during the next two weeks. If ratified, the contract goes into effect immediately and expires Sept. 14, 1984.

The contract marks a real breakthrough. It is the first time in more than 40 years of bargaining that the UAW had agreed to reopen a contract before the end of its term and give up certain pay and benefit gains provided in the existing contract. The present contract would have expired in September.

The new Ford agreement parallels the Chrysler contract negotiated in 1979, which saved the ailing No. 3 auto maker $203 million in labor costs over a two-year period, below what the two other major auto firms were paying. The Congress required such action before voting for the Chrysler bail-out legislation authorizing a federal loan guarantee. At that time, UAW President Douglas A. Fraser, in an unprecedented move, was made a member of the Chrysler company's board of directors.

The Ford pact also will pave the way for workers to share in governance of the auto firm through special councils and forums. Ford executives and UAW officials have visited Japan's modern auto plants and saw many useful cooperative labor-management practices that can be adopted here. Ford believes the pact will make the firm more competitive with foreign auto makers and take it out of the red.

Mixed with the good news about Ford is bad news from General Motors. Similar labor negotiations between the United Auto Workers' leaders and GM broke down in January and no new talks have been scheduled. GM announced the closing of its South Gate and Fremont plants in California and eliminating a shift in Pontiac, Mich., idling a total of 6,100 workers.

Sales figures are gloomy for all five U.S. auto makers. The daily sales rate of 15,808 for the first 10 days of February is the lowest since the same period in 1961 when daily sales stood at 13,287.

UAW leaders will be turning to negotiations with American Motors Corp. now that the Ford sessions are completed. AMC has proposed to its 15,000 workers that they invest 10 percent of their wage and benefit increases in order to funnel $150 million into its product improvement program.

We hope the AMC negotiations start soon and the Ford agreement will be ratified by UAW workers. They can be major steps in the revival of a giant industry that is so important to the well-being of America.

It's time for the American labor to once again get cracking on the production of a superior product and regain world leadership. Labor can do it by starting a new era of partnership with management. The UAW is showing the way.

The second season begins for Bill Payne's Fighting Seminole basketball team when district tournament action opens tonight at Apopka.

Payne's group seems to be peaking at the right time. It has won 5-of-6 games in the last three weeks with everybody contributing to the cause.

Junior guard Vernon Law wrapped up the Seminole County assists title by handing out one more than usual (eight) Friday night when Seminole edged Daytona Beach Seabreeze, 58-57.

Teammate Calvin "Kiki" Bryant coolly dropped two free throws to give Seminole its victory with just 11 seconds to go in the game.

The free throws, however, did not cause the Sand Crabs to die. Seabreeze turned the ball over, then fouled sophomore Willie Mitchell with seven seconds to go. He missed the free shot and Seabreeze's Alton Murphy threw up a 25 footer at the buzzer which hit the front of the rim.

"It's about the only one he missed all night," said Payne about the Sand Crab guard. Murphy paced the Seabreeze effort with 20 points, while Bryant totaled 22 for the 'Noles.

Seminole's record is just 11-17, but the Tribe is a legitimate darkhorse for the district title. Payne's crew has played everybody pretty tough including district favorites Spruce Creek and Lyman.

This year's tournament should be one of the most evenly-matched in years, although Spruce Creek's 15-1 Five Star Conference record is indeed impressive.

Saturday's alumni-varsity baseball game between Seminole and its ex-students was held at Sanford Memorial Stadium on Saturday.

Montreal Expo Tim Raines and San Francisco Giant David Wiggins were the big names on the scorecard, but Raines' brother Ned stole the show by driving in two runs to win it in the bottom of the ninth inning, 10-9.

The varsity roughed up manager Bobby Lundquist for three runs in the top of the inning before Raines bailed him out in the bottom half with his key hit.

"Yeah, they got three runs off him," confirmed ex-Tribe first baseman Dean Smith. "But he didn't get much support on the field."

Jeane Breaks Even

Jeane J. Kirkpatrick, as you may have heard, is more than a little turned off by her job as U.S. ambassador to the United Nations.

And if you haven't heard, it's certainly not the ambassador's fault. She has been going out of her way of late to let well-placed members of the press know of her disgruntlement.

Now she has laid it on the public line. In an address to the American Legion, she ticked off the world organization as 1) more of a problem maker than solver, 2) in practice pretty much the opposite of what its founders intended it to be, 3) not worth the cost and 3) in general "a very dismal place."

The first thing that might be said to that is that both opinions and the bluntness with which they were expressed are decidedly undiplomatic for a professional in a post of such high diplomatic visibility.

The second thing is that she has a point. The United Nations is indeed a disappointment, of an order that has frustrated more than one of Mrs. Kirkpatrick's predecessors. It is no coincidence that turnover in the job has been so high.

In faulting the organization for failing to realize the intentions of its charter, the great powers must bear a great part of the responsibility. From the very beginning, they so dominated policies and proceedings that the United Nations was capable of acting only in distorted accord with their interests and rivalries.

That is especially true of the American performance during the earliest years. With the votes of the Western alliance and Latin America providing a near-automatic majority in the small original organization that represented only part of a world, the United States could be assured of having its way or at least of preventing the opposition from having its.

It may be argued that what was done in the name of the United Nations during that era of American hegemony was in the best interests of all — Soviets excepted, of course. But the example set was not of the best for the new majority that took charge with the rise of the Third World — in numbers, if not in terms of real power.

If the early United Nations was frustrated by conflicting great power interests, the contemporary body is near paralysis from domination by the powerless. Third World solidarity is mostly rhetoric. When it comes to uniting for action, its ineffectiveness is nowhere better demonstrated than in the inability to deal with Iran and Iraq, a conflict with peripheral great power involvement that should be a natural for today's United Nations but where its impact has been less than minimal.

The United Nations — some of its specialized agencies excepted — is no longer even a forum for real debate. It is a convenience in maintaining contact among regimes, a number of which are not otherwise on speaking terms, and keeps a significant portion of the world diplomatic corps from getting in worse trouble elsewhere.

Perhaps we should be thankful for those small favors.

Otherwise, give Ambassador Kirkpatrick credit for calling a spade a broken shovel.

Pressler's Poland Trip: Publicity Stunt

WASHINGTON — Larry Pressler, the weathervane Republican senator from the plains of South Dakota, made the headlines recently when he managed to get himself "arrested" for taking pictures of a food line in Warsaw.

Actually, it was no big deal. The Senate's likeable lightweight was snapping away when some plainclothesmen came up and began questioning him. State Department sources say Pressler told the cops he had official permission to take pictures, but they detained him anyway. Half an hour later, he was released.

The question that remains is: What was the senator doing in Poland in the first place? He's a member of the Foreign Relations Committee. But, my sources say, he dreamed up the idea and subsequently sought the committee's endorsement. And he certainly wasn't in Poland as an emissary of the Reagan administration.

In fact, I've learned that Secretary of State Alexander Haig explicitly advised Pressler against making the trip. Here's the story:

Five days before his scheduled departure,

JEFFREY HART

Poland: Again And Again

On November 29, 1830, a revolt broke out in Poland against Russian domination.

It began at the Officers' Training School but rapidly spread to the populace. The Polish army increased from 30,000 to 80,000 as recruits flocked to the ranks.

In England, the youthful Alfred Tennyson, then an idolized undergraduate at Trinity College of Cambridge University felt thrilled by these stirrings of national independence and personal liberty, directed against the despised tyranny of Czar Nicholas I.

Tennyson dashed off a celebratory sonnet, the emotions of which could well apply to the rise of the Solidarity movement in Poland a year ago, six months ago:

Blow ye the trumpet, gather from afar
The Hosts to Battle: be not bought and sold.

Arise, brave Poles, the boldest of the bold;

Break through your shackles — fling them afar.

Unfortunately, then as today, the Russian moved massively to crush the revolt. The parallels are chilling even to their details.

In 1830, Prussia was in tacit alliance with the czar, and helped to isolate the rebelling Poles.

Today, West German Chancellor Helmut Schmidt is in tacit collusion with the Soviets and the puppet government in Warsaw.

By 1831 the revolt was crushed, and Tennyson wrote another sonnet, in sorrow and anger:

How long, O God, shall men be ridden down,
And trampled under by the last and least

Of men? The heart of Poland hath not ceased

To quiver, though her sacred blood doth drown

The fields; and out of every mouldering town

Cries to Thee, lest brute power be increased,

Till that o'ergrown Barbarian in the East

Transgress his ample bound to some new crown:—

Cries to Thee, "Lord, how long shall these things be?"

How long shall the icy-hearted Muscovite

Oppress the region?" Us, O just and Good,

Forgive, who smiled when she was torn in three;

Us, who stand now, when we should aid the right —

A matter to be wept with tears of blood.

Now this is not great poetry, such as Tennyson would soon write when he matured; but it is remarkable poetry for a undergraduate at Cambridge, and Tennyson certainly does have his political priorities right. And there are some good things in the second sonnet especially.

The refrain "How long..." echoes Cicero's oration against Catiline, and his demand for action against Carthage. By implication, Russia is a modern Carthage and the enemy of Western civilization, a "barbarian in the East." Tennyson thus implicitly calls upon England to assume the civilizing mission of the Roman empire.

And Poland, here, is imagined as a Christ-figure, undergoing crucifixion. Its heart still quivers, its blood drenches the fields, while we — England — stand by, and smile: England in these lines perhaps playing the part of Pontius Pilate.

Tennyson's line about Poland being "torn in three" refers to the Congress of Vienna following the defeat of Napoleon, where Poland was both partitioned and consigned to Russian control. In that connection, you might well think of Yalta.

But there are differences.

Today, we have had some protests against the Soviet-managed suppression — but the protests have been for the most part rather languid. Certainly no clear voice has been raised on our campuses comparable to that of the young Tennyson. It is good to think of him there, in those far away and yet so immediate days at Trinity College.

And, of course, today as then the governments all do business as usual. One thinks of Shelley's famous lines on Lord Castlereagh: "I met Murder on the way — He had a mask like Castlereagh."

BERRY'S WORLD

"This one is either 'Unemployment' or 'Herpes.' I don't have my glasses."

ANTHONY HARRIGAN

At The End Of The Rope

LONDON, England — "England is the sick dog of Europe."

The Briton who made this remark to me in Waterloo Station was furious and indignant at the locomotive drivers who go on strike every Sunday, Wednesday and Thursday, doing enormous damage to British business and making life unbearable for hundreds of thousands of commuters and other train travelers.

No other modern industrial country would tolerate such expensive disruption by 25,000 union members. The locomotive drivers deserve the treatment meted out to the striking air controllers in the United States, but the British government fears all-out confrontation with the unions.

Every day of the year, one or another group of union members is on strike in Britain. They range from oilfield workers in the Shetland Islands to ground crews at London's Heathrow Airport. They are inflicting on their country the Chinese death of a thousand cuts.

The unions fiercely resist any change in staffing or work methods that would end over-manning. The most incredible situation is to be found in the newspaper publishing business. The typographical union refuses to allow newspaper proprietors to convert to computer operations. Instead, the newspapers are required to retain old-style linotypes, 19th century type-setting machines.

Incidentally, a linotype operator at a major London paper earns more than $60,000 a year, more, that is, than the editor of the paper. My source for this is an editorial writer for one of these papers.

This type of thing is happening throughout British industry.

The conservative government of Mrs. Margaret Thatcher plans to introduce labor legislation to deal with some of the union abuses which are destroying the British economy.

The unions have made plain how they will respond — with a national strike. They are particularly angry at a government proposal which would allow compensation for workers who refuse to join a union where there is a closed shop agreement.

Britain hasn't had a general strike since the 1920s, and there is no assurance that the government could survive such a strike. Nevertheless, a confrontation may be necessary to prevent the "British disease" from becoming a terminal illness.

Britain has all but used up its resources under decades of labor domination of British society. The chronic crisis is worsening. Living standards are falling as unions prevent modernization essential to improved sales of British goods. Even the nationalized industries, which have absorbed vast amounts of public money, are on the verge of collapse. They, too, are targets of strikes.

British patience is remarkable. Britons endure difficulties which Americans would consider intolerable. Even British patience is wearing thin, however, as public reactions to the rail strike make clear.

It's unlikely that Britain will be able to muddle through in its traditional way. As plants close under union harassment and indifference to productivity, unemployment increases and anger grows. Sooner or later, 19th century socialist ideas and ways must be eliminated, or the country will be plunged into an economic abyss from which there is no return.

short, Pressler's conduct was nothing to be ashamed of, but he couldn't resist the temptation to puff up the incident into an act of extravagant purlity.

Ironically, Haig's warning about possible propaganda use of the senator's visit by the Polish government may unwittingly have inspired the little dustup with the secret police in Warsaw. The press-conscious Pressler may have figured that if a senator's uneventful visit to Poland would be a propaganda coup for the Communists, then a senator's detention by commie goons would be a propaganda coup for the West. At the very least, it would garner him some attention in the press.

Footnote: Senator Pressler said that Secretary Haig had requested only that the trip be "delayed" while he, Haig, was in Europe. Pressler said he complied with the request. "The general conclusion," said the senator, "is that the trip was beneficial to the (State) department, and it was very beneficial to me." He said he had dispatched a report on the trip to the president and had briefed the vice president, the CIA and the State Department.

Workers Earn More But Can Buy Less

United Press International
Families with full-time salaried workers earned more but could buy less last year — a sign of the fiscal hard times further reflected in a drop in orders for large items like cars and refrigerators.

The median earnings of these families rose to $412 a week during the fourth quarter of 1981, the Labor Department's Bureau of Statistics reported Tuesday. It represented a 6.5 percent rise over the same period for 1980, but a 2.6 percent drop when adjusted for inflation.

At the same time, the Commerce Department reported the level of orders for so-called "big ticket" durable goods — large appliances, cars and household goods — dropped another 1.5 percent in January.

This continued a downward trend that has been going on since July at an average of a 2.2 percent drop a month.

Analysts have blamed severe January weather as well as recession for the sputtering economic statistics.
One of the things the administration tried last year to help out some of those suffering with losses in income — tax-exempt "All Savers" certificates — may be dumped.

Treasury Secretary Donald Regan told Congress the ad-

There was a bit of a positive economic note Tuesday when the nation's largest commercial banks lowered their prime rates to 16 1/2 percent from 17 percent in response to a sudden downturn in the cost of their money.

ministration has tentatively decided not to try to extend the certificate beyond December because the deposit account is still not well understood and was not helping savings and loans as was intended.

There was a bit of a positive economic note Tuesday when the nation's largest commercial banks lowered their prime rates to 16 1/2 percent from 17 percent in response to a sudden downturn in the cost of their money, but analysts said the road to lower interest rates is likely to be rocky.

Citibank, ranked second in size, led the way to the 16 1/2 percent prime and was followed by all of the largest banks, including Bank of America and Chase Manhattan, Nos. 1 and 3, respectively.

The cut in the prime came less than a week after the banks adopted the higher rate and was a direct response to a sharp downturn in the cost of their purchased money.

Paul Volcker, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, said the Reagan administration must cut spending to reduce budget deficits or interest rates will rise again and block the economic recovery.

The drop in prime interest rates helped Wall Street post a small gain Tuesday in heavy trading.

The Dow Jones industrial average, which lost 13.04 points Monday to its lowest level since May 12, 1980, gained 1.72 points to 812.38.

PEOPLE IN BRIEF

Curt and Kathy Saville of Providence, R.I., will explore remote Arctic areas in Ex-calibur, the 25-foot boat they used to set two trans-Atlantic rowing records in an 88-day, 3,000 mile odyssey last summer.

Saville, 35, says they want to see the Arctic in the custom-made fiberglass boat and have planned a lecture tour through the Northeast in April to raise money for the trip.

In last year's row, Mrs. Saville, 25, became the first woman to row the Atlantic, and the Savilles also set a record for rowing from the Canary Islands to Antigua.

'Unbelievable' Budget

Former Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal says President Reagan's 1983 budget is "unbelievable, unworkable and unjust," and he would resign if it were his job to defend it.

He told the House Ways and Means Committee that Congress should make a bipartisan effort to rewrite the budget, rather than risk a program "likely to prolong and deepen the current recession."

Blumenthal, Treasury secretary in the (Jimmy) Carter administration and now president of the Burroughs Corp., said,

"If I had been asked as secretary of the Treasury to support and defend such a program, I would surely have seen no choice but to tender my resignation forthwith."

Putting Hazard On The Map

The Dukes of Hazard went straight to the source during the weekend, giving two benefit concerts in Hazard, Ky., to raise money for the families of eight miners killed in a Dec. 7 underground explosion.

About 6,000 people showed up to see Tom Wopat and John Schneider, television's Luke and Bo Duke.

Hazard Mayor Bill Gorman says he wants people to know the real town is not the same.

"If they drove here in Hazard the way they do on the show, we'd arrest them," he said with a laugh.

It was Wopat's second visit to Hazard — last month he presented a $25,000 check from the show's producers, Warner Communications, to the families of the miners.

Governor Ed Koch?

New York City's flamboyant Democrat Mayor Ed Koch says he will decide this week whether to run for governor of New York state.

Last fall, after he won re-election as mayor on both the Democratic and Republican tickets by the widest margin ever afforded a New York mayoral candidate, Koch, 57, said he would not seek any office higher than mayor.

But then fellow Democrat Gov. Hugh Carey announced last month he would not seek re-election.

Koch shocked politicians by saying "maybe" he would run after all.

The only announced Democratic candidate is Lt. Gov. Mario Cuomo, whom Koch defeated for mayor in 1977. Some polls indicate Koch would win against any of the Republican candidates announced so far.

10 Most Wanted Men

Who are the 10 most-wanted men in America? They range from Dudley Moore to O.J. Simpson to New York's Mayor Ed Koch. So says Harper's Bazaar, which came up with its most-wanted list of bachelors — at least they were single at the time.

Others on the list were Reggie Jackson, George Hamilton, Donald Sutherland, Peter Martins, Ron Duguay, Andy Gibb and Robert Hays.

When the men were asked about the kind of women they liked, the answers ranged from Jackson, who doesn't want "someone who is going to shake my hand hard" to Sutherland, who looks for "humor, intelligence, objectivity and confidence."

Hamilton says he wants to share with a woman — but not everything.

"If that means she sees other men and I see other women, that's fine."

A Surly Williams Jousts With Prosecutor

Defense Rests In Williams Murder Trial

ATLANTA (UPI) — The defense rested its case today after accused killer Wayne Williams, his calm and stony demeanor broken, taunted the prosecutor from the witness stand that he had "no proof of anything."

"The defendant rests his case, your honor," said Mississippi lawyer Al Binder at 10:50 a.m. on the 34th day of testimony in the marathon murder trial.

Williams' surly attitude today stunned the courtroom and Binder's attempt to repair it may have failed to impress the jury.

"You want the real Wayne Williams, you've got it right here," Williams barked.

The 23-year-old would-be music impresario, who spent eight hours on the witness stand without showing a crack in his quiet demeanor, appeared agitated and petulant from the outset of his second day of cross-examination.

Prosecutor Jack Mallard appeared satisfied with having shown the jury the "real Wayne Williams," and did not try to take advantage of the rage the defendant displayed from the moment Mallard asked the first question today.

Williams is on trial for the murders of Nathaniel Cater, 27, and Jimmy Ray Payne, 21, two of the young blacks abducted and slain in Atlanta. Testimony has linked him to 10 more victims.

The prosecution is expected to present several days of rebuttal testimony.

Binder had to go to the witness stand and whisper anxiously to Williams, apparently trying to calm him down.

The chubby young black, wearing a blue jacket over an ill-fitting shirt, accused police and witnesses of lying, saying that "with a reward as large as this I'd probably get out there and lie myself."

He called FBI agents "goons" and city police "Keystone Kops."

"Isn't it true that this is your center stage, the challenge of your life?" Mallard demanded.

"You must be a fool," Williams sneered. The state, in its cross-examination, has accused Williams of killing for the mere challenge of getting away with it.

"You haven't got no proof of anything," he taunted Mallard. "All you've got is supposition."

Mallard asked him why a policeman would lie, and Williams barked "I don't know why, unless you put something in his mind, which you probably did."

"You've had all this time to program him."

Cooper tried to calm him, but he snapped that "I've been through a lot and I'm tired, and he keeps asking me the same question again and again."

"Why don't you try answering my questions for a change?" Williams barked at Mallard. District Attorney Lewis Slaton, sitting at the prosecution table, smiled happily through most of the testimony.

Williams accused Mallard of not giving the jury "the truth, probably because you're scared."

Mallard pointed to Williams' frequent statement that when police put him under surveillance, he knew it "within an hour or two."

"You were proud of that, weren't you?" he asked.

"No, I wasn't proud. It makes you all look stupid, not me... If anything, it makes me sick that my tax dollars are being spent like that."

"Didn't you feel you were outdoing the police?"

"No. It's not my fault they did a sorry job." Mallard was asking him about his movements in the crucial early-morning hours of May 22 when Williams snapped:

"Now look, what in the world has that got to do with killing somebody?"

Williams was expected to be the last witness for the defense.

The radical change in Williams' demeanor was astonishing. He had spent four hours on direct testimony with Binder, and a grueling four hours with Mallard Tuesday, without appearing to lose his temper — although he did get testy occasionally.

He came out of his cross-examination Tuesday in no worse shape than he went in — but his performance today may have been seriously damaging.

It seemed to mesh with the prosecution's contention that his motive was not homosexuality, not racial self-hatred, but the thrill of challenging and outwitting an entire city-state-federal task force assembled to catch a murderer.

"Didn't you consider this a challenge, really, as your mother put it, you love a challenge?" Mallard asked Tuesday.

"Sir, that is something that is not no challenge. That's something that is dead serious."

"Isn't it a fact that every chance you've got to talk to somebody in this case, you've done it, haven't you," Mallard demanded later.

"No," Williams said.

"Isn't this a challenge to you?"

"Man, this ain't no challenge."

But as the day was winding down, both men clearly exhausted, Mallard asked Williams if he had not had scratch marks on his arms and face.

"No," snapped the short, pudgy defendant, "and I challenge you to find them with the jury."

If you cover your windows with solar-reflective film we'll help cover the cost.

Our Watt-Wise™ incentive will pay up to $150 to help qualifying customers gain the electricity-saving benefits of heat-reducing film.

If an FPL Home Energy Audit indicates that adding solar-reflective film is beneficial, you'll receive a Watt-Saver™ certificate. The certificate is redeemable with any participating solar film contractor. FPL will verify that the installation meets our specifications.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives?
Yes.

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. The less oil we use, and the less new building we have to do, the more we can help hold the line on everyone's electric bill.

For more information, or to arrange for a Home Energy Audit, send us the coupon or call the Watt-Wise Line™ at 1-800-432-6563.

Twin Glass Towers Power Rams To Title

By SAM COOK
Herald Sports Editor

When Lake Mary's Peggy Glass raised her arms high over her head to signal a time out with one second remaining in Tuesday night's Region 4A-3 championship against Clermont, she had a smile on her face as big as her 6-1 stature.

She had good reason to smile. Just 12 seconds earlier, the sophomore center had thrown in a 12-footer to give the Ram girls a 41-40 edge over Clermont. Seven seconds later, Glass grabbed the biggest rebound of the night to preserve Tuesday's one-point victory and a trip to the Sectional Tournament.

After Glass's big rebound, a mad scramble ensued and Clermont standout Lisa Howard came up with a loose ball, but was whistled for a travelling violation.

After the time out, the Rams inbounded the ball to steady sophomore Lisa Gregory, who held the ball until the agonizing final second ticked away in the 41-40 overtime victory.

Lake Mary, 19-5, will meet the state's top-ranked 2A team Clearwater Central Catholic on Saturday night at 8 in Clearwater. CCC, 26-2, walloped third-ranked Lake Placid, 56-41, Tuesday night at Lake Placid.

Phyllis Flynn, a 5-8 forward, paced the Catholic attack with 25 points. Clearwater will be shooting for its seventh appearance in the State 2A Tournament when it meets the Rams for Saturday's Section 2A-3 championship.

Clearwater trailed by four points at halftime, but blew away Lake Placid, 23-5, 39-20 in the final 16 minutes.

"It was a great win," confirmed Ram coach Bill Moore above the din of celebrating Rams everywhere. "To think that a bunch of freshmen and sophomores could hold together under all that pressure is unbelievable." Lake Mary is a first-year school composed of around 100 ninth and tenth graders.

But hold together they did, especially on defense where Gregory and freshman Kim Averill held Clermont's Howard to just 11 points. The 5-10 senior was averaging 23 points and 10 rebounds a game. She was coming off a 32-point game from the district tournament championship.

"I don't want to sound like I'm making excuses," said Clermont coach Dave McNish. "But Lisa (Howard) was troubled somewhat with a groin pull.

"But they (Lake Mary) deserved to win. They've got a good team and they played tough defense with that box-and-one on Howard."

Making the defense go was Gregory and Averill.

"We call it a triangle-and-two," corrected Moore about the setup. "We just let Lisa Gregory go where she wants and we put Kim (Averill) on the person we don't want to score."

That person was Howard. The long-haired senior poured in nine first-half points as the Highlanders came on strong in the second quarter to post 24-20 advantage at intermission.

In the last four minutes of the second quarter, Howard scored seven straight points to erase an 18-17 Ram lead which was built on two jump shots by Averill. Howard scored five points in the last 90 seconds for the four-point edge.

Both teams were sloppy with their ballhandling as the Rams had 11 turnovers in the first 16 minutes and Clermont had 10. Lake Mary hit 9-of-19 shots for 48 percent. The Highlanders threw up 28 but hit just 11 for 39 percent.

Peggy Glass's "Twin Tower," twin sister 6-1 Laura gave the Rams a lift offensively with seven first-half points. Most came on offensive rebounds as the Glass girls dominated the backboards.

"Peggy's usually the better shooter," remarked Moore about his sophomore center. "And Laura holds her own on the boards and defensively."

Quite the opposite was true Tuesday, however, as Laura supplied the scoring and Peggy blocked seven first-half shots by Clermont. On one occasion, she blocked three straight shots before snaring the rebound.

Averill scored at the opening of the second half to cut the Highlanders lead to 24-22, and when sophomore Andrea Johnson shoved in a rebound, the Rams were tied at 28 with 4:16 left to play in the third quarter.

Two minutes later, Laura Glass hit again for a 30-28 lead, but Rebecca Stokes fired in a jumper to deadlock the game at 30-30 with 43 seconds left.

Averill, however, gave the Highlanders an omen of things to come to hitting a 30-footer with just one second left in the quarter for a 32-30 edge going into the fourth quarter.

"I just threw it up," she said about her prayer shot. "Then I thought, Oh my God, it went it."

Howard scored her only two points of the second half — two free throws — 36 seconds into the fourth quarter to retie the game at 32 all.

Then both teams went over four minutes without scoring before Laura Glass tossed in a rebound effort and Michelle Swartz, who was hobbled by a pulled muscle, nailed a 20-footer for a 36-32 lead with only 2:30 to play.

Moore credited Ram trainer Roger Mosure with making Swartz available with periodic treatments during the day.

The Rams fourth-quarter lead almost held up. Jackie Butler threw in a jumper with 40 seconds to go, then calmly dropped two free throws with just five seconds left to tie the game.

Gregory fired a 60-footer off the backboard at the buzzer.

"I knew she'd hit the free throws," related McNish about Butler. "She made 6-out-of-6 when we won the district in double overtime."

Peggy Glass put the Rams on top in the overtime, but Tenecia Woolfork countered with two free throws with 1:40 to play for a 38-38 deadlock.

Averill then turned the ball over on a travelling call, but the Rams got it back with a minute to play and Peggy Glass hit a free throw with 52 seconds left for a 39-38 edge.

With just 27 ticks to go, though, Glass fouled Butler and the cool junior did it again — making both tosses — for a 40-39

Marriott Mauls Boone; Pats' Novak 4-Hits Oviedo

Prep Baseball

Lyman's Todd Marriott slapped four straight hits including a home run and a double Tuesday afternoon to power the Greyhounds past defending state champion Boone, 9-7, in prep baseball action at Longwood.

Marriott, a junior centerfielder, raised his batting average to .628 with the spree which also included four runs batted in. In the lusty-hitting junior's last 15 at bats, he has stroked 12 hits. Tom Perkins had two hits including a double.

Lyman, 5-1-1, is off to its fastest start in several years. Manager Bob McCullough's club opens Five Star Conference play on Monday when it hosts DeLand at 3:30 p.m. Boone, 6-2, has lost only to Lyman and Seminole.

The Greyhounds gave starter Pat Burkhart an early 6-1 lead by scoring once in the first and second innings before exploding for four runs in the third frame.

The Braves, nevertheless, came back with a two-spot in the fifth inning after scoring once in the third inning to make a ball game out of it.

In the bottom of the sixth, senior Ray Humphery powered a bases-loaded triple into the left-center field alley to give Lyman a 9-3 lead which it needed when Boone chased Burkhart with four runs in the seventh inning.

The Greyhounds committed four errors — three by infielder Kenny

Brown — to aid Burkhart's demise, but reliever Willie Pashe came on to earn his second save. Lyman had eight errors for the day.

Bob Simmons had a solo homer for Boone in the third frame.

Elsewhere in the county, coach Sam Momary's Lake Brantley Patriots picked up their first victory of the season by dumping Oviedo, 7-2, at Altamonte Springs.

Righthander Tommy Novak spun a neat four-hitter for the 1-4 Patriots, while striking out nine hitters including five in succession over the first and second innings.

Second baseman Brian Wright supplied the bat support along with senior John Simas. Wright scored three times and hit a solo home run in the second inning. Simas drove in two runs with a single and a double.

Brantley erased a 1-0 lead over the 0-4 Lions by scoring three times in the bottom of the first. Jimmy Robbins started the inning with a single and Wright chased him to third with a base hit to right field. Simas followed with a hit to score Robbins and Scott Killam walked to load the bases. A balk scored Wright and Simas came around when Novak reached on an error. The Patriots take on Jones Saturday

Cook Of The Week

Entertaining One Role In Ministry

By LOU CHILDERS
Herald Correspondent

Although this week's special cook, Rose Marie Cox, was born in Washington, D.C., reared in Orlando, and learned to cook in a purely Italian family, she is now the wife of an Assembly of God pastor, Don.

She has learned to cook her husband's favorite dishes, but she admits, "He has grown to appreciate Italian cooking, too."

Rose Marie and Don live in Deer Run with their children, Philip, 10, and Christina, 6. Don is the pastor of Rock Church in Maitland, and Rose Marie is a substitute teacher in the Seminole County school system. She graduated with a B.A. degree in history from Southeastern College of the Assemblies of God in Lakeland. In fact, the campus of Southeastern is where the Coxes met.

Rose Marie's parents, Domenick and Mary Chiaro of Orlando, provided good Italian traditions in the home where Rose Marie grew up. Domenick was from Calabria, Italy, and Mary was born within days of her parents' arrival in the States from Sicily. "There were no mashed potatoes and gravy in our home," Rose Marie says, "just plenty of pasta and sauce!"

"Thursdays, Mama made the sauce and we had some sort of pasta — macaroni or spaghetti — on Thursday, and the leftovers on Sunday," Rose Marie continues. "There were always a lot of vegetable dishes using linguine, broccoli and spaghetti, garbanzo beans and macaroni."

"I've been a pastor's wife for 13 years now. Part of the ministry is having people in our home and it doesn't cause a lot of anxiety for me to prepare a tuffet for a large crowd."

The way Rose Marie handles company meals is this: "I prepare a menu, make the grocery list, and ask the Lord to guide me in entertaining those He's sending into our home." She adds "One time I cooked enough spaghetti and sauce to feed over 100 people at our first church!"

Even Italian cooks like to provide a dessert for their guests. Rose Marie likes the Pea Pickin' Cake because it can be prepared 24 hours or more before it is to be used. This gives you less hours in the kitchen the day the company is coming.

She says, "When we pastored the First Assembly of God Church in Sanford, a good friend and former neighbor, Frances Hirst gave me the recipe for this cake. It's one of my favorites, and everyone I've ever shared it with just loves it, too."

Since Rose Marie is married to a "meat and potatoes man," she fixes dishes like "Italian Casserole." It's the best of both worlds — meat and potatoes, plus Italian sauce.

Also, her entire family enjoys the Yummy Swiss Steak which can be cooked in the conventional manner or hurried along in a pressure cooker.

Whether she's cooking for her family of four, or 100 church members, Mrs. Cox radiates confidence in her kitchen and joy in her heart. Maybe the old Italian proverb, "Happy cooks are good cooks," is true.

The weather is beautiful, but how quickly we forget the two hard freezes Florida sustained. The heavy rains out west have caused many fresh fruits and vegetables to retail at higher prices. However, March is fast approaching and we should see fruits and many of the leaf items, like lettuce come down to 59c - 69c a head. Bananas should maintain a solid 30c a pound, apples are prettier at 25c each and cauliflower and broccoli are now one dollar and a half and a dollar respectively. The month of March should bring lower produce prices across the counter, so shop at Carl's and Save! This week Mark and I are featuring Florida lettuce, 3 heads for a dollar... see ya soon!

From the Dell we have a selected line of meats and cheeses. The top round roast beef is one of the best in Sanford and for only $1.29 quarter pound. You'll be glad you shopped Carl's! Baby Swiss, Provolone, Hot Pepper, Cheddar and American Cheeses are all popular demands we fulfill. From this fine line we have started a full assortment of cold subs, so please call ahead and place your order to go.

Speaking of orders, Mark can sure put together a very nice Party platter with meats and cheeses, for such occasions as Cocktail Parties, Weddings, Pool Parties, Sporting Activities, or just any event, he will satisfy your needs, so just come and see him!

Don't forget the next party should have at least a few cold beers and a wine selection to help you be a successful host or hostess. Carl's has it all for you!!! along with sparkling ice for just 67c for an 8 pound bag.

Oh yes, we have the fixings for a healthy bacon, egg, toast, milk and juice breakfast which can be picked up at Carl's either by walking in or DRIVING THRU!

HOROSCOPE

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
For Thursday, Feb. 25, 1982

YOUR BIRTHDAY February 25, 1982
Be on your toes this coming year. Unusual situations could suddenly develop, advantageous to you materially or careerwise. New acquaintances will play roles in these events.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) In activities offering a bit of friendly competition, you're likely to fare better today than your opposition. Win gracefully, not boastfully.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Your possibilities for gaining in some measure from situations others originate are good today, but don't seek credit where it isn't due.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Things should go rather smoothly today in most areas between you and your mate. The one fly in the ointment could be how the budget is to be spent.
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Today, you'll manage efficiently matters relating to your finances or career, but your judgment may not be as wise in family involvements.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) If you apply yourself today, you will find ways to enhance your security or add to your resources. However, there's a chance you won't follow through when you get things going.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Should it be requested today, friends will go out of their way to do favors for you, provided the favors are not of a business nature. Don't involve pals in commercial dealings.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) There's a chance today that you could find you've made an error in a financial transaction. Straighten it out immediately.

Treatment Needed To Curb Bad Breath

DEAR DR. LAMB — I am almost 18 years old and I have a boyfriend who I don't get to see very often. My dentist says that I suffer from gum disease. My problem is that I don't seem to find a way to hide my bad breath, which is extremely embarrassing. I brush my teeth three or four times a day. I get awfully tired of chewing gum and using bad breath protection remedies. Is there any solution to this burden that I have to worry about when I am in public? I'd really appreciate some advice because I'm at a stage right now where I would even break my dates rather than be in an embarrassing situation.
DEAR READER — One cause for bad breath is dental disease. And regardless of how often or how well you brush your teeth if you have infected pockets around the roots of your teeth (pyorrhea or periodontoclasia) you will not be able to eliminate the odor. You need dental treatments for this directed toward eliminating the infected or diseased areas.
I'm not sure why your dentist has not been able to help you with this. Meanwhile, you may get some aid from strict dental hygiene, dental flossing and being sure your diet contains adequate amounts of calcium (to help the bone around the infected area form) and lots of vitamin C, 500 mg a day at a minimum. I presume you do not smoke. If you do, stop. This will not replace needed dental treatments but may help speed things along for you.

the stomach. And dieting that causes ketosis causes a bad breath.
I am sending you The Health Letter number 9-4, Halitosis: The Breath Problem and What to Do About It. Others who want this issue can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, N.Y. 10019.
DEAR DR. LAMB — Would you please explain calcium blockers in connection with coronary artery blockages? Does any of the calcium that is recommended for the elderly to supplement their diet to prevent softening of the bones accumulate in the arteries? One article I read said the heart needed calcium.
DEAR READER — Calcium ions are essential to muscle contraction and other muscle and nerve functions. Your body will endeavor to maintain a constant calcium level in your blood regardless of whether you get enough or more than enough calcium in your diet. The calcium for this will be taken from your bones if you don't provide it in your diet.
The ionized (free) calcium activates muscular contractions. Your arteries contain a layer of special muscles. The calcium interacts in the chemical process to induce these muscles to contract. Sometimes the muscles overcontract or go into spasm. When this happens in a coronary artery to the heart the arterial spasm prevents adequate blood flow. The calcium blockers you have read about are to prevent the spasm and maintain the opening in the arteries. This is unrelated to the calcium you get in your diet.

Suzanne Somers Coming Back

NEW YORK (UPI) — Like money-back guarantees and unbreakable toys, most "dumb blondes" aren't, and Suzanne Somers is no exception. Echoes of "Three's Company" notwithstanding, the lady is smart, tough, talented and on her way back to the battlefield of network television.

She left it under less-than-happy circumstances — her role in the ABC Top-Ten regular reduced to that of a voice on a telephone after wills and egos, her own included, collided.

Monday, from 10-11 p.m., EST, CBS will provide the reentry vehicle in the form of "The Suzanne Somers Special" — a song and dance spectacular in the mode of Bob Hope on the road to the troops.

The show, videotaped in a scant three hours aboard the USS Ranger, an aircraft carrier just back from 30 lonely months in the Persian Gulf, carried to an understandably enthusiastic captive audience, but the volunteer audience Monday night should find it equally captivating.

"I was so excited when I walked out on that deck I thought my head was going to explode wide open," she said in a post-screening interview of the show. "I wanted to sing my guts out for those guys."

And to what may be the surprise of many who remember her only as spacey blonde, long on sex appeal and short on intellect, sing she does, with class and style.

She engaged in a catty musical duel with Marie Osmond and the two make explosive chemistry. She swaps one-liners with Flip Wilson in his Geraldine persona, swings along with Gladys Knight and the Pips and appears in everything from a chicken suit to a merry widow just one step short of the centerfold.

The show is spicy, upbeat and professional, but then Suzanne Somers has had plenty of practice since her clouded sitcom fadeout.

For a year and a half, she has honed her skills at Las Vegas, on the nightclub circuit and before American troops in Korea, but never has the effort had any target beyond the bigtime

Tube.

"All my entertaining in the last 18 months doesn't touch one night of television," she said. "So as far as television is concerned, this is my song and dance debut."

Miss Somers left television amid a flurry of media reports that she was demanding an astronomical pay increase, but she said money really was not the issue.

"I was third lead and my star rose fast," she said.

"Things got unbalanced. I was getting more publicity than the top bill. . . I did 55 national magazine covers in the first year, but I'd been working for 10 years to get there.

"I've never let an opportunity pass me by. I think opportunities are gifts. . . I had an opportunity to become the most visible person of the year and I felt I had to take it, but it created some ego problems.

Last year's surprise nude centerfold in Playboy magazine, resurrected after years from the poverty of her past, was anything but soothing to the ego.

"I was so frightened at the time," she said. "I had worked so hard to get my career going and it was all being threatened. But instead of censure, I got sympathy from the public. It's strange how something so adverse can work out to one's benefit."

But why would one of show business's most unabashed sex symbols worry about a nude centerfold, however long ago it was taken?

The question brought Suzanne Somers, the mother, to the fore.

"The hardest part of all was with regard to my son," she said. "No mother wants her son to see her unclothed — which is funny, coming from me, since the public perceives me in a sexual way.

"But I don't perceive myself that way. It's just an act."

The act, of course, is what show business is all about and few of the art's practitioners pursue it with more steely determination.

Should Grandpa Be Told The Truth?

DEAR ABBY: I am a 24-year-old male, in jail, facing charges of first-degree murder. I was my grandfather's favorite grandchild. In fact I was named for him. He is 97 years old, and he doesn't know where I am because my mother and her brothers do not want to tell him. They say it would break his heart.

I think he should be told. For one thing, I could use his help financially. My lawyer plans to have me out in seven years, but by that time my grandfather will probably be dead. I think the real reason my mother and her brothers don't want to tell Grandpa is because they're afraid he will sell some of his land to help me, which will mean less for them after he dies. I feel very bitter about this.

Don't you think my grandfather should be told?

BITTER

DEAR BITTER: I can understand your mother's and her brothers' desire to protect their elderly father from heart-breaking news, but I have strong feelings against withholding information from a competent adult in order to "protect" him. However, until I know the facts concerning your family's motivation and Grandpa's condition, it's not possible to make a valid judgment.

DEAR ABBY: I am going crazy with this problem. I have two kids, 7 and 1 1/2. Both of them were breast-fed and given lots of love, but we ended up with a couple of thumb-suckers. Where have we failed? Is it hereditary, or what? The older one has outgrown the habit, but I still find her with her thumb in her mouth when she sleeps. It's the younger one I'm worried about.

He keeps his thumb in his mouth all the time, except when he eats or cries. It is really maddening to see him with his thumb constantly in his mouth. I tried applying bitter-tasting medicine on his thumb, but he got accustomed to it and sucks his thumb anyway. I even made a pair of gloves, but his hands are so small and flexible, it's only a matter of time before he frees his thumb and sucks it.

If I scold him, he goes and hides so he can suck his thumb. I am sick and tired of this tug-of-war with him. My pediatrician is no help. He says leave him alone. I have no one to turn to but you, Abby. If you can't find a solution, ask your readers if they know of a foolproof, tamperproof device to keep a child's thumb out of his mouth.

GOING CRAZY

DEAR GOING: Most little ones suck their thumbs because it comforts them when they're lonely, bored, hungry or tired. My experts tell me that it is harmless — unless they suck so vigorously that they create a malformation of the mouth which later causes crooked teeth. Your tug-of-war battles with the boy could do him more harm than his thumb-sucking. Your pediatrician gave you good advice. Leave him alone. But check regularly with a dentist for his advice.

Dear Abby

Wanna Buy A Kidney?

HUTCHINSON, Kan. (UPI) — A prison inmate wants to sell one of his kidneys for $10,000 to pay back society for his crime and to teach a child the meaning of friendship.

Rick Reid, 22, a Kansas State Industrial Reformatory inmate from Muscatine, Iowa, was passing through Kansas in October 1980 when he robbed a liquor store with a gun. He is serving a 13-year-to-life sentence for aggravated robbery.

Now, his goal is to save Augusta, Kan., residents Martha Elliott and her daughter, Tina, 12, from bankruptcy. Reid said the Elliotts invested in a bad business venture and were forced to sell their restaurant. When Mrs. Elliott's mother died, she left her family more bills to pay.

Reid became familiar with the Elliotts' problems through another inmate almost eight months ago and his first contact with them was a phone call. Since then, he said, he has kept in touch with the family through letters because the family no longer has a phone.

Reid says the $10,000 fee he wants to charge for his kidney would be cheaper in the long run for a kidney patient than dialysis.

Reid said he has not yet received a reply from Mrs. Elliott about his offer, but he said Tina wrote to him.

"She's still young and she's got a lot to learn," he said. "I'm thinking maybe I can teach her something about friendship and giving up things for other people."

And Reid says giving up his kidney could be a way to atone for his crime.

"In a way, it's a way to pay back for what I've done," he said. "I can pay for damages, but there is no way I can physically pay the people at the liquor store for the psychological damage I have done."

Try Cheery Desserts During Cherry Blossom Time

February is a good month to try some cherry desserts. One of these will make any meal special.

CHERRY NUT TORTE WITH CHERRY SAUCE

- 4 eggs
 - 1 cup sugar
 - 1 cup unsifted all purpose flour
 - 1 teaspoon baking powder
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 2 cups sour pitted cherries, drained (save juice for cherry sauce)
 - 1 cup chopped nuts
- Beat eggs until frothy, gradually add sugar, continue

It's not much fun cooking for one. Poached Chicken Cutlets for two are enhanced with a Spanish Roux Sauce.

Share Easy Entree With A Friend

Dining in solitude may not be to your liking. Why not invite a friend from work or a neighbor in to enjoy a meal for two. This can be very simple, such as poached chicken cutlets with a Spanish olive roux.

A roux basically is a butter and flour mixture (you may use margarine) and is the basis of much Creole cooking, for example. You may freeze the leftover roux to use in other dishes that call for this thick, rich-tasting sauce.

POACHED CHICKEN CUTLETS

- 1 cup canned chicken broth
- 1-3rd cup small whole Spanish pimiento-stuffed green olives
- 4 small new potatoes, unpared and halved
- 2 chicken cutlets
- 1 cup frozen mixed vegetables
- 1/2 tablespoons Spanish Olive Roux

Heat chicken broth and olives to boiling. Add potatoes and chicken. Cover and simmer about 20 minutes. Add frozen vegetables, cover and simmer 10 minutes or until potatoes are tender. With slotted spoon remove vegetables and chicken to serving dish. Pour liquid in skillet into measuring cup. There should be about a cup. Put 1 1/2 tablespoons of the Spanish Olive Roux into the skillet. Slowly stir in hot broth. Cook over low heat, stirring constantly, until mixture comes to a boil and thickens slightly. Pour over vegetables. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 2 servings.

SPANISH OLIVEROUX

- 1/2 cup all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 cup (1 stick) margarine, softened
 - 1/2 cup whole small Spanish pimiento-stuffed green olives, chopped
- Stir together flour and margarine until well blended. Stir in olives. Store in tightly covered container in refrigerator. If storing for any length of time, place in freezer. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 1 cup.

NOTE: Use 2 tablespoons roux for each cup of liquid. For a thicker gravy or sauce, use 3 tablespoons per cup.

Finger-Lickin' Spicy Spareribs

Spareribs are from the breast and rib bones of a hog and make finger-lickin' good eating. Forget your table manners when eating ribs and just enjoy them.

A favored way is to prepare spareribs with a barbecue sauce. Here is a variation that has Oriental overtones. Cut spareribs into 2-inch riblets for easier eating and serve them as a first course.

You may use lamb riblets, which are relatively inexpensive, instead of pork.

SPICY ORIENTAL SPARERIBS

- 3 1/2 pounds spareribs, cut in 2-inch riblets
 - Water
 - 2 tablespoons corn oil
 - 1 cup thinly sliced green onions
 - 1/2 cup ketchup
 - 1/2 cup dark corn syrup
 - 1 cup cider vinegar
 - 1 cup soy sauce
 - 2 tablespoons prepared spicy brown mustard
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
- Place spareribs in 5-quart saucepot; add water to cover. Cover; bring to boil over high heat. Reduce heat and boil gently 30 minutes or until tender.
- Meanwhile, in 2-quart saucepan heat corn oil over medium heat. Add green onions; stirring frequently, cook 1 minute or until tender. Stir in ketchup, corn syrup, vinegar, soy sauce, mustard and pepper. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes.
- Drain ribs well. Place ribs on rack in broiler pan. Brush with sauce, mustard and pepper. Stirring occasionally, bring to boil. Reduce heat and simmer 20 minutes.
- Drain ribs well. Place ribs on rack in broiler pan. Brush with sauce. Broil 6 inches from source of heat, turning and basting frequently, about 15 minutes or until browned. This kitchen-tested recipe makes 4 servings.

Spicy Oriental Lamb Riblets: Follow recipe for Spicy Oriental Spareribs. Substitute 3 1/2 pounds lamb riblets for spareribs.

Flavorful rock shrimp teams with wild rice for a superbly delicious casserole.

Casserole A People Pleaser

It is said "You can't please all of the people all of the time" — that is, unless you are serving delicious Rock Shrimp Wild Rice Casserole.

Rock shrimp, a delicate shellfish found in abundance off Florida's coast, has the rich flavor of lobster, but in the shape of its cousin, the shrimp. This delicacy cooks in a matter of seconds — 30 to be exact — and adapts well to almost any menu.

Wondering how rock shrimp will fit into your food budget? Due largely to lack of publicity, rock shrimp is still less expensive than regular shrimp and will not strain the moderate budget. Here, combined with wild rice, onion, peppers, garlic, and other tasty ingredients, the savory casserole will serve six generously.

Unlike most Florida seafood which is best purchased fresh, rock shrimp are just as good, and quite often better, when purchased frozen. The unique creatures are available in the raw or frozen state as either whole or split tails. Sold according to size, the largest size generally available is 21 to 25 per pound.

When purchasing, remember that properly cleaned and cooked rock shrimp yield about half the weight of the green tails. One pound of cooked, peeled, deveined rock shrimp will serve six people, making it a wise buy. Also, when available, split tails will cut preparation time considerably.

Rock Shrimp Wild Rice Casserole is a superbly delicious combination of seasoned long grain and wild rice, tender-crisp celery, onion and green pepper, toasted crunchy almonds and succulent rock shrimp and mushrooms, bound together in a delicately chicken-flavored white sauce. The mild flavors of all the ingredients of the casserole are a perfect marriage, since each ingredient retains its own distinct characteristics and flavors, and yet blends together to form a union which is sure to be a "people pleaser" at your house.

ROCK SHRIMP WILD RICE CASSEROLE

- 1 1/2 pounds raw, peeled, deveined rock shrimp, fresh or frozen
 - 2 tablespoons salt
 - 1 quart water
 - 1 package (16 ounces) long grain and wild rice
 - 1/2 cup sliced celery
 - 1/2 cup chopped onion
 - 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 - 1 clove garlic, minced
 - 3 tablespoons margarine or butter, melted
 - 1 tablespoon all-purpose flour
 - 1/2 teaspoon salt
 - 1/2 teaspoon pepper
 - 1 cup milk
 - 1/2 cup chicken broth
 - 1 can (4 ounces) mushroom stems and pieces, drained
 - one-third cup toasted sliced almonds
- Thaw rock shrimp if frozen. Add salt to water and bring to a boil. Place rock shrimp in boiling water; cook 30 seconds. Drain. Rinse under cold running water for 1 to 2 minutes. Remove any remaining particles of sand vein. Cook rice according to package directions. Cook celery, onion, green pepper and garlic in margarine until tender but not brown. Blend in flour, salt and pepper. Gradually stir in milk and chicken broth, stirring constantly. Cook until thick and smooth. Add rock shrimp, rice, mushrooms and almonds. Pour into a well-greased 2-quart casserole. Bake in hot oven, 425 degrees F., for 20 to 25 minutes, or until bubbly and thoroughly heated. Makes 6 servings.
