1 Killed, 1 Injured In Plane Crash

From Staff Reports

At least one person was reported killed and one other critically injured in a plane crash at Sanford Airport late Thursday night.

Details were sketchy this morning, but preliminary reports indicate the craft crashed some time after 11 p.m. Thursday, but apparently the wreckage was not located until about 9 a.m. today.

Maek Lazenby, Sanford Airport assistant director of aviation, said this morning the pilot apparently is dead and a passenger, who was critically injured, was airlifted this morning by a Volusia County Sheriff's Department Emergency Services helicopter to Orlando Regional Medical Center. The extent of his injuries was unknown at mid-morning.

Lazenby said the craft was spotted on radar Thursday night by air traffic control at Orlando International Airport, but disappeared from the screen and a search was under way.

See photo below.

However, the wreckage, strewn about near a Sanford airport runway, was not discovered until this morning. The wreckage was located in an open field some 300 feet off the north runway, according to Lazenby.

The craft has been tentatively identified as a twin-engine Cessna 441 Conquest. Authorities this morning said they had not yet determined who the people in the aircraft are, or where they were coming from or headed. They also believed only the pilot and the injured passenger were in the craft when it crashed.

At 9 a.m. today Sanford fire department rescue personnel rushed to the scene of the plane crash moments after a grounds maintenance crew spotted the wreckage and reported it.

Other preliminary reports indicate that Sanford officials may have been notified late last night or early this morning to begin a search for the plane, and that it might have been reported to Scott Air Force Base, near Belleville, Ill., as missing. That base acts as a clearing house for information on any aircraft in the nation which might be in distress, a base spokesman said today.

The Scott Air Force Base spokesman said today he did not have information available on the plane's origin of takeoff or who the occupants might be.

County medical examiner Dr. Sara Irgang, as well as other emergency medical personnel converged on the crash scene to sort things out.

Wreckage of plane that crashed at Sanford Airport

Building Razing Prompts Protest

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

Several new buildings are needed at Sanford Middle School, according to Principal Louis D. Pelham, and that may mean the main building facing French Avenue has to come down.

Pelham said Thursday that if the State Board of Education approves a survey submitted to a state survey team recently by Richard Willis, county superintendent of facilities and transportation, contracts for a $5.1 million construction project may be possible by December.

Some historic preservation enthusiasts have had reservations about tearing down the main building, which is more than 60 years old, he said. However, it is a choice between spending $4 million to renovate and restore one building versus spending the $5.1 on an entire project.

That one project, Pelham said, according to Willis, recommendations would involve tearing down 13 buildings and building nine new ones. All the buildings facing Lake Street, which includes the agricultural buildings and the greenhouse, need to be torn down, he said.

Lorraine Fiorelli, 1412 S. Park Ave., said she and her husband went to a meeting at the middle school last week, where school personnel discussed their proposals with the state survey team. Fiorelli is a member of the National Preservation Society and her husband, Ron, is a member of the Sanford Historic Preservation Board. She said she believes the school board should consider some alternative other than tearing the old building down.

She said school personnel laughed about the old building and called it a "monster." She said she was offended that they even discussed holding a spaghetti dinner so that people could come and take one last look at the building.

"I feel like I'm by myself," she said. However, she explained that she is taking some action. She said she is contacting various historic preservation groups in the city, including Save Our Sanford. She said that on Thursday she also talked to Walt Marger of the Florida Bureau of Historic Preservation in Tallahassee. He told her that if the school was named a historical building that possibly a $2 million grant could be obtained to renovate it, she said.

Fiorelli noted that the recently

New School Planning

Plans have been presented to the state for funding approval for new buildings at the Sanford Middle School.

• What - New complex with plans to tear down 13 structures and build nine new buildings

• Cost - $5.1 million

• Timetable - State approval 30-45 days

Preliminary drawings June, 1988

Final plans September 1988; Contracts let December 1988.

• Opposition - Historic preservationists with eye towards having main building named to National Register of Historic Places. This would make building eligible for federal funds for renovation, they say. It would also prevent razing of building.

published Sanford Historic survey, done by Florida Preservation Services, names the main building at Sanford Middle School as one that should be recommended for listing with the National Register of Historic Places.

Fiorelli said she doesn't really know what to do, but she is going to start by putting a three by six-foot sign in her own yard which will say "Save Our School." And she hopes that will start people asking a lot of questions, she said.

On the other hand, Pelham says new facilities are needed and they include new physical education facilities and athletic fields and courts, including a new track. Where the current track exists, a new building would be constructed under the proposal sent to the state, he added. The current building is primarily a locker room and the gym is a combination gym, stage area, he explained.

Academic classrooms to accommodate 1,332 students are also needed and that means at least nine new buildings, Pelham said. He added that plans must be made with the knowledge that the number of students will continually increase. A new food services building is needed and a new administration building.

The present lunchroom should be converted to art and graphics classrooms, the principal said.

The classrooms are small and

Zoo Society Re-Elects 9 To Board Of Directors

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Nine members of the Central Florida Zoo board were re-elected by 67 voting members of the zoological society at its annual meeting held at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce Thursday night.

Members also voted down an attempt to have a new set of bylaws considered at the meeting after the zoo's attorney, Bob Billick, said they could not be considered without a 10-day advance notice to all members.

Al Rozon, former zoo executive director who was fired last year, but is still a zoo society member, made the motion to have the proposed new bylaws considered. The motion was defeated by a 41-26 vote.

Board President Susan Morris said changes in the bylaws are needed and that a committee would be appointed to suggest changes. Those changes will then be mailed to all members as required by the present bylaws, in advance of any meeting called to approve them.

After the nominating committee nominations were announced, three were made from the floor, but none of those nominees won election to the board.

Re-elected to the board were Morris, Steve Heibel, present board treasurer and a representative of General Mills Restaurants, Inc., Diane Hancock, present board secretary and a representative of Walt Disney World, Nancy Alrichs, vice president of Todd Persons Communications, Wally Henderson, president of DSI Developments, Inc., Pam MacCannel, vice president of MetLife HealthCare Network of Florida, Inc., Bill

McLaughlin, retired printer, Christine Repas, a technical writing consultant, and R. Norman Souch, Jr., of Forum Architecture & Planning Inc.

Nominated from the floor, but not elected were Jim Schlenz, Jim Ryan and Bob Kirkwood.

Members were also told that the zoo is in the best financial condition of its 11-year history. Total revenue in 1987 was $910,899, a 100 percent increase over the previous year. Expenses also increased by 10.7 percent, but surplus funds of $12,089 represented a 9.1 percent increase over the previous year.

The zoo showed a 39.4 percent increase in unrestricted funds over the previous year with a total at year's end of $27,148. A large part of that increase was due to a fourth of

School Board Adopts 1988-89 Academic Calendar

By Richard Whittaker
Herald Staff Writer

The Seminole County School board has unanimously approved the 1988-89 school calendar with the full support of both the school district administration and the four organizations representing its employees.

Seminole County public school students in grades kindergarten through 12 will start school on Wednesday, Aug. 24, 1988 according to the new calendar. The school year will end on Thursday, June 8, 1989.

Students will attend classes 180 days under the calendar.

The board was given six different versions of the calendar to consider. It was the sixth and final version which was re-

School Days 1988-89

- School Begins Wednesday, August 24, 1988
- School Ends Thursday, June 8, 1989
- Spring Break: March 24 through April 2, 1989

Classes resume April 3

• Holidays do not include Memorial Day

• Duration: 180 classroom days commended by Supt. Robert Hughes which was finally approved.

A particular area of concern in developing the calendar was the date of the spring break for the next school year. The reason for this was a question over whether the break should be held before or after the end of the nine week grading period in March.

Under the approved calendar, spring break for the 1988-89 school year is scheduled to begin on Friday, March 24, and classes resume Monday, April 3. The break includes six school days and two weekends, and is scheduled immediately after the end of the nine week grading period.

School Board Member Pat

Telson said she has received several complaints from county residents about holding school on Veterans Day, Nov. 11.

"Some of the people called me names," Telson said. She told the board some of the people called them an American and communists because they scheduled school on the holiday.

The school district tried to give students the day off on Veterans Day for two years, according to Ernie Cowley, a school administration official. He said the practice was discontinued after several veterans groups' plans for celebrating the holiday fell through.

Hughes said that veterans groups seemed to place more emphasis on Memorial Day than Veterans Day. He told the board there were more parades and activities with patriotic themes on the Memorial Day holiday anyway.

School Board member Larry Betsinger said he would rather see Seminole County students given Veterans Day off than President's Day, which they have off this year on Feb. 15. He told the board that considering the value of some of America's past presidents he would much rather see Veterans Day observed.

In developing the 1988-89 calendar Hughes said the school administration was torn between something educationally sound and meeting the needs of the public. Telson said she was pleased that everybody seemed to like the option they approved.

Probation Officer Involved

Driver Shoots Over Another Car

A man, waiting at a red light at U.S. Highway 17-92 and Airport Boulevard Wednesday afternoon, may have gotten tired of waiting. The unidentified man fired a shot into the air, over the top of another waiting vehicle, according to Sanford Police Chief Steven D. Harriett.

Ironically, the driver of the second vehicle was Jayne Elizabeth Ready, 31, Lake Mary, who is a probation officer with the State Department of Corrections. However, Harriett said that the incident was coincidental and that Ready's position as a probation officer had nothing to do with the shooting.

Ready was waiting in the left turn lane, eastbound on Airport Boulevard at about 1:40 p.m., according to the report, and the man who fired the shot was a passenger in a truck, southbound on U.S. Hwy. 17-92. Ready told police the man first pointed his finger at her, then held up an undetermined type of gun and fired a shot into the air, over her car.

Ready said the man was in a light blue truck, with a dark blue camper. After he fired the shot, he drove his truck south on U.S. 17-92.

"There was no kind of confrontation, no driving mishap, nor is there any indication anything happened to cause the incident," Harriett said.

An investigation is continuing. —Nancy Simmons

Man Suffers Heart Attack Waiting On Trial

A Longwood man was in critical condition Thursday after suffering a heart attack while he was waiting to testify in a juvenile court case at the Seminole County courthouse in Sanford Wednesday.

William Huntzicker, of 1780 Wyoming St., was admitted to the the coronary care unit of Central Florida Regional Hospital Wednesday afternoon. He suffered the attack at approximately 10:30 that morning, according to Lt. Robert Kunckler.

Kunckler said Sanford Fire Department personnel responded to the courthouse. Huntzicker was transferred to CFRH after initial treatment at the courthouse, Kunckler said. —Richard Whittaker

Gang Of 20 Reportedly Beats, Robs Two

A pickup truck broke down on two men traveling on State Road 46 east of Sanford early Thursday. After the breakdown, which occurred just east of Sipes Avenue, the men were beaten and robbed by a gang of about 20 men, they reported to Seminole County sheriff's deputies.

Donald Arthur Loomis, of Inverness, and Lenny Dewayne, Robey, of 350 Clark St., Oviedo, told deputies they were working on the truck when a man walked up and offered to help. The man then whistled loudly and a gang of about 19 other men joined the stranger and began beating Loomis and Robey with their fists. One pulled a knife, and the attackers demanded valuables from the victims, the two reported.

Lost to the robbers were a $300 diamond ring and a $500 gold necklace. The suspects fled with those, and when the victims checked their truck they found the windshield had been broken and items including a $300 air compressor and $20 worth of tools had been stolen from the truck.

Sheriff's deputies called to the scene reported finding some of the stolen goods discarded in the nearby intersection of Sipes Avenue and King Road. —Susan Loden

Two Boys Arrested In School Cafeteria Shooting

PINELLAS PARK (UPI) — A suspended 15-year-old boy opened fire with a revolver when asked to leave a school cafeteria, wounding two administrators and a student-teacher before police grazed the teenager in a shootout.

A second juvenile, also armed with a stolen gun, fled Thursday from Pinellas Park High School to a nearby home, but surrendered to police after an hour of negotiations.

Police Sgt. Eric Sandvik said the altercation in the cafeteria, filled with about 500 students, began just before noon when the suspended teenager was asked to leave the high school.

"Before the officers arrived, an altercation ensued in which Richard Allen and Nancy Blackwelder, both assistant principals, were injured," Pinellas Park Police Chief David Milcham said. "Mr. Allen was shot in the head area at point-blank range and Miss Blackwelder was shot in the abdomen."

Joseph Blozanalis, a student-teacher who attempted to restrain the youth, was shot in the leg, police said.

Court Rescinds Death Sentence

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Florida Supreme Court Thursday threw out the death penalty for Robert Waterhouse, convicted in the 1980 murder of a Pinellas County woman.

It ordered a new sentencing hearing for Waterhouse, but affirmed his conviction for the savage beating and drowning death of Deborah Kammerer.

In another first-degree murder case, the court accepted arguments by James Coban that he should be allowed out of a life sentence because he was not advised of the life sentence he was promised carried with it the condition he serve 25 years before being eligible for parole.

The case was sent back to Hillsborough County Circuit Court, where prosecutors, presumably, will bring Coban to trial if another plea agreement is worked out. He could face the death penalty if he is tried.

Martinez To Lead Trade Tour

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Gov. Bob Martinez will visit the pope, see his ancestral homeland and try to sell Florida tourism and trade during a two-week trip to Europe, state officials said Thursday.

Martinez will lead a 50-member delegation of business, education and government officials to France, Spain and Italy, said Tom Slattery, bureau chief of International Trade and Development.

The delegation leaves Friday.

Because the trip will be partly underwritten by airlines, foreign governments and other hosts, Slattery could not estimate the costs to taxpayers. Non-public officials on the excursion will pay their own expenses.

Martinez will meet with Pope John Paul II Feb. 19. Press Secretary Jon Peck characterized the meeting as a "courtesy call." Peck noted that Martinez officially greeted the pope in Miami last spring and said the pontiff was simply returning the courtesy.

Board Threatens Foreclosure Suits

Actions To Be Taken If Fines Remain Unpaid By Owners

By Nancy Simmons
Herald Staff Writer

Foreclosure proceedings may be brought against three Sanford property owners, including Peggy Nestor, owner of the old Florida Hotel, unless they pay fines owed for previous code violations. Those decisions were made Tuesday by members of the Code Enforcement Board during a regular meeting at city hall.

The other property owners are Sheldon Polakoff, 420 Oak Ave., and John Childers, 2714 Orlando Drive.

The board authorized its attorney Donna McIntosh to notify Peggy Nestor, Matland, who owns the old Florida Hotel at 500 Oak Ave., that she has liens in the amount of $3,500 and $1,325 against that property and that foreclosure proceedings will begin unless she pays the total, $4,825, within 10 to 14 days after she is notified of the liens.

The $4,825 stems from fines Nestor accumulated for code violations on the property in 1986. According to Dan Florian and Mary Muse, Sanford code enforcement officials, Florida Hotel, now used as an apartment building, did not have adequate fire separation between walls. Neither did it have smoke detectors and the electrical system was not up to code. Nestor was fined $250 per day on one citation and $25 on another one. Although Nestor eventually complied with city codes, she did not pay the fines. The eight

Violations

Fines were unpaid for the following code violations, leading to the foreclosure proceedings:

- Inadequate fire separation between walls, no smoke detectors, out-of-code electrical system. Unpaid fine: $4,825.
- Allowing a used car lot on property without a city license. Unpaid fines: $3,675 and $1,350.
- Operating a rooming house without a license. Unpaid fine: $2,000 plus interest.

percent interest on the fines continued to accumulate until the total reached $4,825.

Another possible foreclosure case began earlier in 1987 when John Childers, owner of property at 2714 Orlando Drive, was cited for allowing a used car lot on his property without a city license. The operator of the used car lot, William Gore, was also fined by the code enforcement board. Muse and Florian said Wednesday they do not remember the amount of the fines per day assessed against the two men.

McIntosh could not be reached Wednesday. However, with the original fine plus the interest accrued, Childers' lien now stands at $3,675 and Gore's at $1,350. Florian said that while the men have not paid the fines, they have vacated the property.

Muse noted that McIntosh told the board she may drop the fine against Gore and that Childers had been negotiating with her about paying his fine.

Sheldon Polakoff, Matland, property owner at 420 Oak Ave., was cited in 1987 for operating a rooming house without a license.

He did apply and receive that license, Florian said, but still did not pay his which had reached $2,000, including interest.

The building has also been improved and restored recently, Florian added. He explained that Polakoff, a bondsman, acquired the property when one of his clients could not pay him, except by giving him the property.

Post Office Adopts New Operating Hours

New operating schedules for post offices in Seminole County have been announced by Gerald L. Edwards, postmaster of Orlando and manager of the mail service center.

"In order to comply with the Federal Budget Reconciliation Act of 1987, it was necessary for the Postal Service to participate in deficit reductions by reducing retail hours," Edwards said.

Edwards also said that the charges will not affect post office box mail service, package pickup or carrier delivery of the mail.

Personality May Affect Health

Medicine's catechism of the heart eludes the memory as easily as Sunday morning lessons on salvation by grace. Let's see, is HDL the good cholesterol? Should the salad be dressed with corn oil or olive? Does the new regimen of walking to work make up for those long runs along the river, abandoned now because of the creak in the right knee?

The only lesson that sticks is moral. In the mid-1970s, medicine announced that people who pushed for every advantage and never relaxed—were at higher risk of keeling over with a heart attack. It was a medical lesson perfect for an age of American doubt about progress, striving and work. Those who hustle and drive would make the Earth, but only the meek and laid-back would live long enough to inherit it.

Now comes new research confounding that cardiac moral irony. In a recent issue of the New England Journal of Medicine, researchers report that people with Type A personalities are, in fact, much more likely to survive a heart attack than Type Bs, the relaxed and unambitious. Coming on top of other studies that cast doubt on the link between striving and sick hearts, the new research seems to pardon pushiness and perfectionism.

So our compass, which scans nature for moral direction, spins again. Culture always has looked to disease, from tuberculosis to cancer to coronaries, as the stuff of metaphors for living.

Even as it buries the Type A hypothesis, an editorial in the New England Journal searches for alternatives: "Something is going on in terms of the relations between personality and heart disease," it avows. Tantalizingly, it cites self-absorption and hostility as possible alternative risk factors.

Could it be? Kindness and caring, a balm for the heart? Cardiac salvation by good works alone? Moralist heart, be still.

TV Ratings Shift

Last fall, the A.C. Nielsen Co., the folks who rate what Americans watch on TV—or, rather, what 2,000 American families say they watch—updated its methodology.

Instead of having to fill in diaries—an exercise that invites forgetfulness and hazy recollections—the families were provided with "people meters," electronic gadgets that make it easier to record what you're watching while you're watching it. The idea was to get a more accurate reading of what viewers like and don't like.

Nielsen and the networks agreed that this new approach was likely to produce a reduction in aggregate numbers of about 5 percent, and advertising rates were adjusted accordingly.

Guess what? The numbers fell by more than twice that amount, with CBS alone losing 13.8 percent of its viewers—assuming, of course, that it really had them before "people meters" came into being. "Dallas" lost 23 percent of its audience and "The Cosby Show," 16 percent.

And because networks guarantee advertisers a certain number of viewers, free commercial time had to be parceled out to produce the agreed-upon numbers. Result: The networks say they're losing tens of millions in ad revenue.

What does this mean? Is cable TV harvesting those missing couch potatoes? Are people going to more movies? Are they reading? Are J.R. and Dr. Huxtable doomed?

We don't pretend to know, but we're pretty sure of one thing: A multibillion-dollar industry that bases its product and its price on the tastes of 2,000 families in a heterogeneous nation with more than 100 million TV sets shouldn't be surprised at anything that turns up when it changes its formula.

Baker's 'Talking Down' Of Dollar A Disaster

WASHINGTON—For most Americans who don't travel to Europe on business or vacation, the fall in the U.S. dollar doesn't appear to be of significance. They don't see the devaluation of American currency as a personal problem.

But many Americans have sons, daughters and other relatives who are in the services and based in Europe. Many of the service people on duty in Europe are finding it necessary to send their families home because the loss of purchasing power had made it almost impossible to survive financially.

Evidence of this was presented in an Associated Press news photo late last month. The photo showed a U.S. Army sergeant stationed in West Germany who had exchanged $12 for German marks. At the going exchange rate, said the AP, "A cup of coffee in Frankfurt costs about $3.70 and a hamburger $7.50." That should shock the American people.

One can be sure that it won't be long before Americans read stories about our servicemen abroad living on food stamps or receiving handouts from German civilians who feel sorry for the poor Americans.

In reading of this profoundly disturbing situation in West Germany, one is reminded of who triggered the fall of the U.S. dollar—Secretary of the Treasury James Baker. It was his ill-considered notion to "talk down" the dollar on world money markets. He foolishly believed that the way to deal with the trade deficit was to force the dollar to a lower level. He imagined that this would produce a flood of export business for the United States.

Well, it hasn't happened that way. The dollar has declined 40 percent to 50 percent since Baker's "talk down" speech, but imports in the United States have continued to increase. At the same time, it has become enormously difficult for the U.S. to maintain 300,000 troops in Europe. Hardships for the service people are worsening all the time.

Secretary Baker now wants to halt the fall of the dollar. But he is discovering that one can't "talk up" the dollar. Once confidence is shaken, it can't be recreated in an easy, rhetorical manner.

The Baker folly will cost the American people a tremendous amount in many ways. It could produce hardship at home—even a recession if the federal government finds it necessary to raise interest rates in order to stabilize the dollar. One can only say: What a mess! What incompetence at the top!

The root cause of the dollar problem is that the administration refused to deal with the trade deficit in a practical, legislative fashion. Instead, it decided to play games with the U.S. currency.

One can't blame the Germans or Japanese. The dollar problem, like most of our problems in this country, is one of our own making—the government's making, that is. And the Executive Branch has been in the grip of an ideological view of economic problems that rules out a pragmatic approach based on national interest.

Treaty Approval Problems

By Helen Thomas
UPI White House Reporter
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The White House could blow quick ratification of the new arms treaty with the Soviets unless it backs up the testimony of administration witnesses as authoritative and legally binding.

The dispute flared into the open when Secretary of State George Shultz was willing to promise in a letter that his testimony on the Intermediate Range Forces Treaty before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee was the binding view. But then he reneged on his pledge.

Shultz backed off under pressure from Senate conservative Republicans who feared it would jeopardize President Reagan's reinterpretation of the anti-ballistic missile treaty of 1972 in which he contends the United States has the right to test the "Star Wars" space defense system outside the laboratory.

Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd and Sen. Sam Nunn, D-Ga., have asked for a letter from Shultz explicitly stating that his testimony is the proper interpretation of the accord.

White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater said Reagan wants the issue resolved with Congress in "private talks."

In an apparent diversionary tactic to throw the political blame for any setback to the treaty on the Democrats, Fitzwater said, "We are a little surprised that they would jeopardize the hearing process in this fashion."

But there is surprise on the other side as well when the administration refuses to say that the testimony it is giving in the ratification hearings might not necessarily be so. So what is the public to believe or know about the treaty that has strong support in the Senate and with the people?

By its flip-flop, the administration may have gotten itself into a bigger box now that Sen. Joseph Biden, D-Del., the Foreign Relations Committee's second ranking Democrat, and its chairman, Sen. Claiborne Pell, D-R.I., are proposing a formal "condition" to the INF treaty affirming the Senate's right to make the testimony of administration witnesses legally binding.

Bush Flopped On Japanese Trade

By Jack Anderson
And
Dale Van Atta
WASHINGTON—George Bush is campaigning on his record of leadership as vice president, but in 1984 Bush dropped the ball when President Reagan entrusted him to take the lead on a key issue—Japanese trade. Bush backed off, saying the issue was a "political loser," and that his staff was not competent to handle it.

The story is one of several told to Dale Van Atta by high-level administration sources that suggest Bush was not always a mover or shaker in the White House. Whenever someone in the administration said, "Let George do it," they were probably talking about Secretary of State George Shultz.

In the case of the Japanese trade assignment, it was finally Shultz who picked up and carried the ball when Bush backed out.

In 1984, Reagan was grappling with U.S.-Japan trade relations. The Japanese trade surplus with the United States was estimated at about $35 billion, and the administration was demanding con-

Endorses du Pont

MANCHESTER, N.H.—This former New England mill town bears a striking resemblance to the English city for which it was named. It consists of worn 19th-century alleyways, non-descript shop windows, and mostly working class people. Yet this unpromising scene forms the backdrop for a chapter in the American Dream. Manchester is the place you start from when you want to be president of the United States. And this year in Manchester you see the banners, the buttons, and the stickers, the store-front campaign headquarters. Red-white-and-blue is everywhere. Simon, Robertson, Kemp, Bush, Gephardt, Dole, Dukakis, DuPont. Someone is going to be president, and the buck starts here in Manchester, N.H.

There is a great deal about the spectacle that is at once absurd and inspiring. Inspiring, because when you reflect on it you realize that nothing of this sort is taking place in Havana or East Germany, to mention only two such prisons. These aspiring candidates are Americans, and cash is here welcome to have his—or one day soon, hers.

The Pete du Pont headquarters is one flight up in a building on Elm Street, the shopping street of the city. The stairwell has patterned metal walls, dark wood bannisters, Victorian. The three-room office is staffed by a dozen people, mostly young, mostly volunteers. There are word processors, a Xerox machine, phones, banners. It is a modest launching pad for its goal, leader of the free world.

The only state-wide newspaper in New Hampshire, the Manchester Union Leader, created something of a stir when it editorially endorsed Governor du Pont. Yet after following this campaign very carefully I am not surprised by the endorsement. Whatever the outcome of the present contest, it is clear that Mr. du Pont is a figure in our political future. His campaign has been thoroughly admired, raising taboo topics like the future of Social Security and the ever-present farm subsidies. The other candidates treat such things as rolling hand grenades. Du Pont has also grasped the welfare nettle, if able-bodied, should be required to work at less than the minimum wage, at public jobs. He knows that they need to join the "work culture" and get out of the dependency culture.

Mr. du Pont did not take the easy way, into his family's Giant Delaware enterprise. He did it his way, through Harvard Law School and into politics, moderate-liberal in Congress, but changing his mind through his immensely successful two terms as Delaware governor. He lowered taxes and stimulated the state economy spectacularly.

This columnist has been so impressed by Du Pont's record and by the sheer class of the campaign he has run that I found myself in the unprecedented, for me, position of standing in front of a press conference, one flight up, in that Manchester building and endorsing du Pont for president.

cessions to allow more U.S. goods to be sold in Japan. The Japanese were blaming the deficit on the low quality and high price of American goods.

"We were trying to come up with a high-level push to demonstrate to the Congress and to the Japanese that we were serious about making concrete progress on the U.S.-Japanese economic front," one of Reagan's top economic advisers recalled. "It was felt that to best accomplish that task, you obviously had to put the highest level official you can come up with in charge of the exercise so that it sends the signal that you think it is important."

Reagan and his advisers came up with Bush. "It was thought that the vice president would be the (one) to undertake the management of that issue," the administration source said.

He and other sources recall that the vice president and his staff—principally Bush's national security adviser Donald Gregg—had about four to six months with the issue, but accomplished little.

"It was a very complex assignment," one source said. "It required some resources, and you had to take it quite seriously, because we were trying to measure the progress of the trade and economic issues."

Then came the memorable meeting when Bush washed his hands of the issue. It was a regularly scheduled meeting of the Senior Interdepartmental Group for International Economic Policy. At the meeting were representatives from the Office of Management and Budget, the Treasury, State and Commerce departments, the National Security Council and the Pentagon. One of the things that made it unusual was that Bush was there. He was not a frequent attendee.

We questioned three different sources who were at the meeting, and they offered similar accounts.

The first source said Bush announced that "he had determined his staff was not competent to deal with this issue professionally." The source distinctly recalled, after reviewing his notes, that the vice president called the Japan trade issue "a political loser."

The second source remembered that Bush "laid the blame off on his staff. He said something to the effect

SCIENCE WORLD

Effect Of European Snowfall

By Cella Hooper
UPI Science Writer
WASHINGTON (UPI)—Snowfall in Europe and Asia may have global effects not suspected before, influencing the Asian monsoon, weather in North America and El Nino events along the Pacific coast of the Americas, a new study suggests.

In a report in a recent issue of Science, Tim P. Barnett, a marine physicist at the Climate Research Group at Scripps Institution of Oceanography in La Jolla, Calif., and three scientists at the meteorological institute at the University of Hamburg in West Germany, used a sophisticated new computer model of the world's climate to examine effects of the Eurasian snowfall.

In a telephone interview, Barnett said earlier studies had failed to include all the physics and other mechanics or effects of snowfall, or had been based on scanty measurements of actual snowfall. Instead of using sparse data, the scientists designed and used a mathematical model to test two "what if" scenarios—what if snow fell at twice or half the average rate over Europe and Asia one winter?

They found changes in the snow would lead to a series of events ultimately affecting the Asian monsoon, atmospheric pressure off North America and most surprisingly, "El Nino," the oceanic and atmospheric phenomenon that recurs every 4 to 7 years, warming coastal waters, bringing massive rains to the Pacific coast, wreaking havoc with coastal weather and ocean fisheries.

A doubling of the snowfall rates, the scientists said, would keep the Eurasian land mass cool longer, shortening the period when it was hotter than the Indian Ocean. Temperature difference between the warm land mass and the cool ocean drives the monsoon, and thus the large snowfall could lead to a failure of the monsoon that usually starts in June.

But higher snowfall rates could have wider effects, Barnett said, creating not just the high atmospheric pressure and reduced rainfall over Southeast Asia, but also a reduction of surface winds over the Arabian Sea and the equatorial Indian Ocean.

that his staff wasn't particularly equipped to handle this assignment. He kind of grouched a little bit about it being a tough issue (or) a loser issue—or it's very difficult to come out on the winning side. I can't remember his precise words, but he basically wanted to have the portfolio of responsibilities reassigned."

Finally, the third source remembered that Bush said, "I don't know the issue. There's nothing in it for me." And then Bush said he wouldn't be doing it any more.

After the meeting, our administration sources say, the issue fell primarily into the hands of Shultz.

Bush knew a political dog when he saw one. The trade talks dragged on for a year and the final concessions from Japan were seen as marginal. The two sides reached agreement on drugs and medical equipment, but were stalemated on forest products and the all-important electronics trade issue. Then Japanese Premier Yasuhiro Nakasone went on Japanese TV to make an unprecedented appeal to his people to buy American. Bush publicly praised Nakasone for his "courage."

Reports Say Haig Will Throw Support To Robert Dole

CONCORD, N.H. (UPI) — With George Bush fighting signs of declined support in New Hampshire, word came that Republican rival Alexander Haig was pulling out of the White House race today and throwing his weight behind Robert Dole, the vice president's principal challenger.

Haig, the former secretary of state running at the bottom of the six-man GOP field, called a news conference for this morning to discuss his presidential bid. Cable News Network and The Washington Post reported he would become the first in his party to drop out of the race and would offer support to Dole.

While that might not switch many voters to the Senate Republican leader from Kansas, a shift before next week's New Hampshire primary could help derail a solid victory seen as crucial to Bush, whom Haig dislikes and has criticized repeatedly.

Booster Test Called Success

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. (UPI) — A small-scale shuttle booster equipped with redesigned O-ring joints stood up to a high-pressure test firing, despite deliberate flaws to allow hot gas to reach primary O-rings, officials say.

The successful test firing Thursday indicates the new joints "would have prevented another Challenger accident," said Jim Thomas, a booster engineer at NASA's Marshall Space Flight Center.

The flaws were created using common shoestrings and while it will take several days to complete an inspection of the rocket, officials said the O-rings appear to have withstood internal pressure of 910 pounds per square inch for a full two minutes as planned.

Two more such tests, along with three full-scale booster firings, are planned before the first post-Challenger shuttle flight, now scheduled for around Aug. 4.

TV Show Helps To Nab Killer

NEW YORK (UPI) — David James Roberts was the director of a homeless shelter until a wanted poster on a television show identified him as a convicted killer and rapist on the lam. FBI agents nabbed Roberts, 44, Thursday near his home in the Stapleton section of Staten Island, FBI spokesman Joseph Valiquette said.

Authorities had been scouring New York and New Jersey for Roberts since Sunday night, when "Most Wanted," a Fox Television show, flashed his wanted poster on the air and the station's was flooded with calls. About 75 callers identified Roberts as Robert Lord, the director of Carpenter Men's Shelter.

Valiquette said a fingerprint check after Roberts was taken into custody confirmed he was the man serving six life terms for five murders — including those of a 2-year-old girl and a 6-year-old boy — rape and arson. Roberts had escaped from guards of the Indiana State Prison in October 1986.

Iranian Gunboats Attack Tanker; One Killed, Two Wounded

MANAMA, Bahrain (UPI) — Iranian gunboats attacked a Danish supertanker laden with Saudi Arabian crude in the southern Persian Gulf at dawn today, killing a Danish officer and seriously injuring three seamen, shipping sources said.

The sources said Iranian gunboats sent machine-gun fire and rocket-propelled grenades crashing into the 339,206-ton Danish tanker Kate Maersk at 4 a.m., killing the ship's Danish radio officer and seriously injuring three Danish seamen.

The slain radio officer was the second Danish merchant mariner killed by Iranians in the gulf since December. A Danish seaman died in an Iranian attack on the Danish tanker Estelle Maersk Dec. 6.

The spokesman said the three Danish crewmen injured in the attack were the second mate, the junior engineer and an able seaman, who had been sleeping in their bunks when rocket-propelled grenades pierced the metal wall of the crew quarters.

Ethiopian Troops Kill 20

ADDIS ABABA, Ethiopia (UPI) — Ethiopian troops opened fire and killed 20 famine victims who refused government resettlement hundreds of miles away from their homes in northern Ethiopia, relief officials said in Addis Ababa.

The officials, quoting witnesses, said Thursday several others were wounded when the troops opened fire Monday on a group of people who refused to board vehicles that were to drive them from a feeding camp at Korem, 300 miles north of Addis Ababa, to camps in the south.

The sources, who asked not to be identified, said the army rounded up people who had come from the drought-stricken areas around Korem to collect monthly food rations from the official Relief and Rehabilitation Commission.

But many people offered "passive resistance" when they were told to board the vehicles. "The army opened fire. Twenty people were killed," a relief official said.

Arab Civilian Killed By Soldier

JERUSALEM (UPI) — An Israeli soldier shot and killed an Arab man in the West Bank refugee camp of Tulkarm, bringing to 52 the number of Palestinians killed in two months of anti-Israel violence, an army spokesman said today.

The spokesman said Ahmad Abu Sahil, 36, was accidentally killed Thursday night when a soldier tripped and his gun went off. The slaying occurred a short time after soldiers entered the U.N.-run refugee camp to arrest youths violating a curfew, the spokesman said.

As soldiers went through the camp of about 9,000 residents, 40 miles north of Jerusalem, demonstrators began throwing rocks. One soldier was slightly wounded by a stone, the spokesman said.

One soldier was chasing a suspect when he fell and his gun fired, killing Sahil, the spokesman said. At least 52 Palestinians have been killed and hundreds wounded since the unrest began Dec. 9.

Newsmen Kidnapped For 1 Hour

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Kidnappers freed two Swedish journalists who arrived in Lebanon to report on a recent abduction but barely made it out of the airport before they were attacked, shoved into the trunk of a car and whisked away themselves.

Schedule Meet On Uniform Sign Laws

Area Leaders Dislike Cluster Mailboxes

By Brad Church
Herald Staff Writer

Members of the Seminole County Council of Local Governments discussed ordinances to control roadside signs, cluster mailboxes, and heard reports on county purchasing and planning Wednesday night.

A report from Jane Deese, president of the Oviedo City Council, that the Postal Service is putting up clusters of mail boxes at many new developments, kicked off a discussion of the practice.

Deese said that the city of Oviedo does not like the cluster mail boxes, and that developers often don't know that they have the option of not accepting them.

"As far as we can figure, the only benefits of clustering mail boxes are those derived by the postal workers' union," she said.

Lee Constantine, Altamonte Springs Commissioner, said the Postal Service is making a pitch for cluster mail boxes to many existing apartment and condominium complexes in Altamonte Springs. He said postal officials offer to build the clustered boxes and house them in a unit built to match the architecture of the development, to install larger mail boxes and a package drop box, and to maintain the boxes for a period of time.

The group decided to schedule a discussion of adopting uniform sign ordinances at a future meeting but, meanwhile, got into a discussion of present ordinances.

Commissioner Thomas Mahoney of Lake Mary talked of that city's efforts to install a sign-free zone along Lake Mary Boulevard and Rhinehart Road. Mahoney said the city will be contacting Sanford and Seminole County, who also border parts of the area, to see if their ordinances and Lake Mary's can be uniform for the area. "We plan to take the most restrictive parts of each ordinance and combine them into one ordinance," he said.

Meeting at the county services building, five members of the nine-member group heard a report from Betsy Leonard, county purchasing director, about how governments can save money by joint purchasing.

Leonard said cities are not taking advantage of the opportunity to join with the county, or with a six-county organization the county belongs to, in making purchases. "There are major savings available on some purchases," she said, citing Volusia County's saving of $150,000 in purchasing office furniture for a new building.

Local governments also can join in state contracts, and usually get prices the same, or slightly higher than those offered to the federal General Services Administration, she said.

Leonard also said the cities would soon receive a letter inviting them to join with the county in its annual excess property auction. She said the auction is tentatively set for April 9 and cities would be notified next week as soon as the date can be confirmed.

Tony Van Derwoep, director of county planning, outlined the changes made in the county's comprehensive land plan last year.

A Job For The Birds

Sanford city workers Freddie Williams, holding ladder, and John Givens replace a birdhouse high atop a pole on the shores of Lake Monroe Wednesday. The two and other city employees are this year cleaning existing birdhouses and installing 22 new ones. The houses first were set up years ago to house purple martins, in an attempt to cut down on the blind mosquito population by the lake.

Lady 'Noles Upend Rams

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Editor

One of the key contributors to Seminole High's 12-game winning streak has been its ability to adapt to any situation. Thursday night, Lake Mary controlled the tempo of the game, but Seminole made the right adjustments and got the ball in the hoop when it counted most in a 50-43 Seminole Athletic Conference victory before 501 fans at Bill Fleming Memorial Gymnasium.

The Lady 'Noles, conference champions, finished the regular season at 17-5 overall and 11-1 in the league. Seminole opens play in the Class 3A District 6 Tournament on Thursday at 7 against Osceola at Orlando Jones High.

"When we needed to get the basket tonight, we got it," Seminole coach Charles Steele said. "We had some things that worked and some that didn't and we also got to work on some things for the district tournament. One thing we need to do, is get off to a better start."

Lake Mary, 10-12 overall and 5-7 in the conference, has two games remaining as it hosts Titusville Astronaut on Saturday and goes to New Smyrna Beach on Monday.

"This club right now has the capability of being a very good team and contending in the district," Lake Mary coach Mac Blythe said. "They girls have matured nicely since the last time we played Seminole (69-44 loss)."

One reason for the Lady Rams' improved play against Seminole this time was junior forward Tara Jackson. Jackson poured in eight of her game-high 18 points in the first quarter as Lake Mary built a 16-13 lead.

Lake Mary's leader inside, 6-5 senior center Teri Whyte, picked up three fouls in the first quarter, though, and that hurt the Lady Rams the remainder of the half. Seminole was able to go inside a number of times in the second period as it outscored the Rams, 13-4, for a 26-20 halftime lead. Sophomore Sherri Reddicks scored six points, had six rebounds and blocked two shots in the quarter.

Jackson and Amy Kuvach kept Lake Mary close with four points each early in the third period but Seminole then went on a 10-4 run behind six points by Reddicks, two each by LaShon Cash and Adrian

Dr. Phillips Outlasts Sloppy Hawks

By Chris Fister
Herald Sports Editor

While the hitting has been good and the pitching decent, the nemesis of Lake Howell's Silver Hawks in the first two games of the 1988 season has been defense.

The Hawks committed seven errors that contributed heavily in a 13-9 loss to Orlando Dr. Phillips' Panthers Thursday at the Minnesota Twins Complex in Orlando.

"Errors have been killing us in the early going," Lake Howell coach Birto Benjamin said. "We'll be all right if we can start playing some defense."

Lake Howell, 0-2, returns to action today at West Orange. The Hawks will play all of their games away this season as they do not have a home field due to construction at the school.

Dr. Phillips scored five runs in both the first and second frames with five Lake Howell errors paving the way. The Panthers then scored three times in the bottom of the third for a 13-6 lead. Lake Howell got one run in the sixth and two in the seventh but could not make up the deficit.

Freshman Eric Melendez started on the mound for Lake Howell and he went one and a third innings before giving way to Jason Sandberg. Sandberg also only lasted 1 1/2 innings and Brian Osburn then shut the Panthers down the rest of the way.

"Eric (Melendez) really can't be faulted for what happened in the first inning," Benjamin said. "If we made the plays in the field, Dr. Phillips probably would not have scored at all."

Bobby Moore led the Hawks on offense with a solo home run among his two hits while Chris Norton was 2 for 3 with a double, triple and one RBI. Cory Coljeak and John Bagley also had two hits each for Lake Howell.

Soccer Club To Register

Registration for the Sanford Soccer Club will be held Saturday from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. at Sanford's Pinecrest Elementary School. Registration is for boys and girls ages 6-17. New players are required to bring birth certificate plus one picture. Fee is $50 for new players and there is no fee for returning players.

Coach Suzy Reno also said she is looking for girls ages 12-16 to form two teams, one for the under 19 league and one for under 14. Reno said girls who will play high school soccer at Seminole High are urged to participate.

U.S. Hockey Team Center Of Attention

OLYMPICS

CALGARY, Alberta (UPI) — The U.S. hockey team, still burdened by the legacy of 1980, will serve as the centerpiece of attention for an entire nation Saturday when it helps inaugurate the Winter Olympics.

The Americans, coming off a rigorous six-month, 60-game exhibition schedule, face off against Austria at the Olympic Saddledome three hours after the completion of the opening ceremonies, and will be the only U.S. athletes in action that day. Despite a 37-18-5 tour record, the team is rated only an outside chance at a medal.

Optimism, though, runs high and the potential is present for a strong showing if luck flows in the right direction.

"We're shooting for the gold," said 19-year-old defenseman Brian Leetch who had 13 goals and 61 assists in 50 games during the tour and is considered to be the team's outstanding player. "We have a realistic chance of getting to the medal round, and after that it's up for grabs."

Added left wing Kevin Stevens of Halifax, Mass., a 22-goal scorer in 44 games. "This is what we've worked for since Aug. 7. Everyone is glad to get started, and we can't wait for Saturday night. Our team is ready."

The United States has beaten Austria in both previous Olympic meetings and has a 5-8-1 record in Olympic openers.

Comparisons are inevitable with the 1980 American team that produced one of the great Olympic upsets by capturing the gold medal at Lake Placid. According to Mike Eruzione, who scored the history-making winning goal in a 4-3 victory over the Soviet Union, the current squad has just as good a chance to succeed.

"No one knew how good we were until we won, now let's see what these guys can do," said Eruzione, who will be covering hockey as a commentator for ABC-TV. "When it's over, then we'll know."

"Offensively, their defense is better than ours was, but I don't know if their defense is as good defensively. We didn't have a Leech, but they don't have a Morrow (defenseman Ken Morrow, who played on four Stanley Cup champion teams with the New York Islanders)."

Eruzione said he hopes this year's squad can avoid the trauma suffered by the 1984 Olympic squad, which fell to seventh place.

"I'm sure some of that had to do with what happened in 1980, and if that's the case we take full responsibility," he said jokingly.

"We've got another good bunch of kids this time, and their dreams are the same as ours was. They know they're under a microscope, that people are watching them and expecting good things."

"This is the most open Olympics I've seen. I think anyone can win this one, except France. I believe this team can do well and win a medal. After what we did in 1980, anything can happen."

The United States, in 1960 and 1980, is the only country other than the Soviet Union to win the hockey gold since 1956, and the Russians have captured 18 of the last 23 world championships. While the Soviets remain one of the big favorites for 1988, Canada has a strong opportunity to win its first hockey gold since 1952.

Lake Mary swept four of five singles matches Thursday and it turned out to be the difference as the Rams edged Orlando Boone's Braves, 4-3, in season-opening tennis action at Boone High.

Lake Mary has its home opener Tuesday at Lake Mary High against Winter Park.

Boone got its only singles victory at division one where Steve Markey downed David Sheridan, 8-4. The Rams dominated the singles competition from that point on.

Brett Thorpe outlasted Wayne Hayford, 8-6, at division two and Adam Dombek followed with a clutch 9-7 victory over Hu Chong at division three. Doug Sheridan kept the Rams rolling at division four as he downed Scott Greenhalgh, 8-4.

Ryan Ross then clinched the victory for Lake Mary at division five as he upended Randy Mormal, 8-6.

OVIDO — Oviedo stayed under control, used its speed and had a nice defensive game as it won the Class 3A District 7 semifinal match, 5-0, over Seminole Thursday night before 201 fans at Oviedo High School.

Oviedo, 14-6-2, will now take on Bishop Moore, who took a 4-0 win over Edgewater in the other semi-final, tonight at 6 p.m. at Oviedo High School.

"We're looking forward to playing Bishop Moore," Oviedo coach Dave Jekanoski said. "Oviedo has never won a district soccer tournament and we hope we can change that tomorrow night."

The Lions opened their scoring quickly as Rob Selter drilled in a 17-yard shot just 32 seconds into the game. The early, 1-0, lead caught Seminole by surprise and pumped up the Oviedo squad.

Jimmy Guggenheim then upped the lead to 2-0 as he broke through the Tribe defense off a long pass and volleyed the ball into the goal. Guggenheim made good in his third attempt as his two previous opportunities were stifled due to him being offside.

The Tribe's Javi Falcon then dove to stop Duncans first shot, while on the ground he slapped the ball to as Bowlin had fell to the ground after charging Guggenheim.

Bird Gets Kicks Out Of Soccer, Football

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Erik Bird began his soccer career when he was six years old in Tampa, and with the help of his father and brother he has become one of the county's top players and scorers.

Bird, though, would like to continue his college days in a football uniform as a field goal kicker. He has been kicking footballs for three years.

"Soccer was my first love, though," Bird said. "I think I stayed interested in the sport when I was young because my dad would always take us to watch the Tampa Bay Rowdies play."

Bird has been offered a grant to attend Lehigh University, in Bethlehem, Pa. But with his 3.9 grade point average, most of the Ivy League Schools have been taking a look at his talents.

"Most of the schools in the Ivy League have shown an interest in me," Bird said. "I'm looking to play football now, though, because kicking has opened up a lot of opportunities for me."

SOCCER

Bird became involved in field goal kicking as a sophomore as a soccer teammate, Jeff Phillips, and junior varsity coach Bob Irvin convinced him to give it a try.

After a successful season kicking for the football team, Bird has come on in his senior year in soccer to be the top goal-scorer in Seminole County with 18.

Bird has been pleased with Lake Howell's season as he knew coming into the year it would be a tough task for the young team to produce a winning season.

"This is a rebuilding year for us at Lake Howell," Bird said. "We graduated a lot of starters and a lot of players off the bench who put in quality time last year."

The Silver Hawks were able to come up with an upset over tournament favorite, Lyman Wednesday night in the Class 4A District 9 second round action.

"It was satisfying to beat Lyman in the second round," Bird said. "Lyman has knocked us out of the district in the second round four out of the last five years so it was nice to beat them for a change."

Bird will hope Lake Howell can continue to be a spoiler as it faces the tournament's third seed, Lake Mary, tonight in the district finals to be held at Lake Mary.

"We're the underdogs this year and that's nice because the pressure isn't on us to win," Bird said. "It's us spoiling the other team's season this year and I hope we can continue to do it tomorrow night. But Lake Mary has a very good team."

The Rams own a win over the Silver Hawks that came early in the season as they scored a goal in the last 30 seconds of the game. Howell and Mary tied in their second game at Lake Howell.

"It will come down to who gets the breaks and who capitalizes on their opportunities," Bird said. "If we play well it should be a very good game. I think if we play with them, we just need to stay under control."

Lake Howell coach Bill Stevens has only been pleased with the efforts of Bird this season.

"He's a great player and he does a lot of things well for us," Stevens said. "He scores when given the opportunity and he also drops back and plays a good defense for us when we needed him to."

Switzer's 3 Shoots Down Lady Patriots

By Chris Pister
Herald Sports Editor

Jodie Switzer capped off a superb performance with a three-point shot with 20 seconds remaining to give Oviedo's Lady Lions a 40-37 Seminole Athletic Conference victory over Lake Brantley's Lady Patriots Thursday night at Lake Brantley High.

Switzer, a senior guard, finished with a game-high 17 points as Oviedo concluded the regular season at 14-10 overall and 4-8 in the SAC.

"It's nice to come out on the winning end of a close one for a change," Oviedo coach John Thomas said. "I've been impressed with the way the girls have matured as the season has gone on. Now we're looking forward to the district tournament."

Oviedo opens play in the 3A-6 District Tournament this Thursday at 4:30 against St. Cloud. The tournament will be held at Orlando Jones High School.

Lake Brantley now stands at 6-12 overall and 4-7 in the SAC. The Lady Patriots conclude the regular season tonight at Lyman.

Rams' Richards Creates Own Wrestling Style

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

Rob Richards has been involved with wrestling for 10 years now, and what started as a second sport ultimately took over as his favorite.

Richards is 24-1-1 this season and has dropped to 135 pounds entering the district meet, starting tonight at Lake Brantley.

"I used to play soccer and baseball," Richards said. "My father wanted me to be involved with something during the winter and started me and my brother wrestling."

The new sport became Richards' love as he was able to see his results right away and was able to create his own style.

"It wasn't like baseball where a coach may or may not play somebody," Richards said. "In wrestling you either win or lose, the best wrestler is determined right there and there's nothing anybody can say about it."

Lake Mary coach Doug Peters is happy with his standout senior who has done nothing but help his squad over the last two years.

"Rob has his own style on and off the mat," Peters said. "He doesn't have to say anything, he leads by example."

Richards' style carried him to a 24-3 season last year which included a District and Regional championship. Two of his losses came in the state tournament.

WRESTLING

"He wrestled the state champ at his weight class in the first round," Peters said. "Richards is the only wrestler he didn't pin in the state meet, he beat him 10-0 but he really didn't dominate him the way he did the other wrestlers."

Richards is hoping that his senior year will produce better results in the state tourney as he enters post season action tonight.

"I feel that I have a good shot at winning state this year," Richards said. "All the wrestlers in my weight class were seniors last year or didn't return to the same class so I feel I can do a lot better."

"He's lethal when he's hot," Peters said. "When he gets his cradle's working he can really sting you."

Peters feels Richards build has helped also throughout his career. Richards is 6-1 and thin which Peters feels is to his advantage.

"He's built like a rubber-band, and I think a lot of his opponents don't think he's as strong as he really is," Peters said. "His style really helps him, he's always thinking on the mat and has been extremely reliable."

Peters has labeled Richards as a typical Lake Mary wrestler, by being in outstanding shape as well as being smart on the mat. Peters also addresses Richards as a well behaved youth.

"Along with his ability to wrestle, Rob is a gentleman," Peters said. "That may sound corny, but for this day and age it's kind of different."

Richards has won the Lyman Christmas Tournament, the Seminole Athletic Conference tourney and the Tournament of Champions this season and hopes to add on to that string tonight.

"I have it together mentally now and am ready to wrestle," Richards said. "If keep wrestling the same way I have over the last few weeks I'll be happy."

Peters will now coach Richards in his last high school matches and realizes that without him next year the Rams will lose a quality athlete.

"We'll miss Rob Richards quite a bit," Peters said. "He's the kind of guy you can depend on every time he wrestles, he's very disciplined and it will be different without him in the program."

Brantley Hosts District Tournney

By Mark Blythe
Herald Sports Writer

The Class 4A District 4 wrestling tournament will kick off first round action tonight at 7:30 at Lake Brantley High School.

Eight teams throughout Central Florida will be in the meet with Lake Mary being the district favorite. Lake Brantley and Lyman both have the personnel to come up with an upset in the tourney.

Lake Howell, Winter Park, Maitland, Spruce Creek and DeLand are the other teams to be involved in the tournament.

"It's such a small tournament that there are four or five teams that can win it," Lake Mary coach Doug Peters said. "A lot of teams are capable of scoring a lot of points and can possibly upset the favorites."

The Rams have been ranked in the state's top ten all season long and will hope their past few matches will give them some valuable experience.

"I scheduled the toughest possible teams, with some well known power houses late in the season," Peters said. "I think we're ready to go, we've been tournament tested and we've held our own."

The tournaments second round will be Saturday at 10 a.m. with the finals to be held at 8 p.m. Saturday night.

"We're ready to go and looking forward to the match," Peters said. "I think our kids know they can do well and they want to go out and win the meet."

The Rams won the Seminole Athletic Conference with Lyman and Lake Brantley coming in second and third. The district meet have three teams that did not participate in the SAC, but none of those schools are known to have powerful wrestling programs.

"It should be a quality tournament," Peters said. "There will be a lot of quality wrestlers participating and it should be an interesting match to watch."

The Regional meet, to be held at Lake Mary Feb. 19 with at Lake Mary High School.

The Class 3A district meet for Seminole and Oviedo will be held all day Saturday at Kissimmee Gateway High School.

Reid, Williams Click For Heels In OT Win Over 'Pack

United Press International
North Carolina State did an admirable job containing J.R. Reid and Scott Williams during regulation Thursday night. But the Tar Heels' big men eventually proved unstoppable in overtime.

Reid and Williams, held to 9 points each after 40 minutes, split their team's 8 points in overtime in lifting fifth-ranked North Carolina to a 75-73 Atlantic Coast Conference victory over the No. 13 Wolfpack.

North Carolina led by 10 in the second half, but a flurry of 3-pointers plus baskets by N.C. State's Rodney Monroe and Chucky Brown trimmed the Tar Heels' lead to 67-65 with 40 seconds left.

With 25 seconds to play and North Carolina trying to freeze the ball, Wolfpack guard Vinny Del Negro tipped the ball into N.C. State's court and tapped in a Brown miss to tie it 67-67 with 18 seconds left.

BASKETBALL

"I was very proud of our team for coming back and winning in overtime after losing the lead at the end of regulation, because we didn't play smart," Tar Heels Coach Dean Smith said.

Reid scored to open the overtime, and Williams, his 6-foot-9 teammate, put the Tar Heels on top with 2 dunks, the last with seven seconds left. North Carolina State's Chris Corchiani hit a jumper at the buzzer.

"It was a heck of a comeback," Wolfpack Coach Jim Valvano said. "In overtime, we had every opportunity to win. It's a very difficult loss for us because we have Louisville coming up Saturday."

The Tar Heels were led by Ranzino Smith and Steve Bucknall with 14 points each. North Carolina improved to 17-3 overall and 6-2 in the ACC, a half-game behind league-leader Duke.

N.C. State freshman Rodney Monroe led all players with 19 points. Del Negro had 16 points and Brian Howard 14 for the Wolfpack. 15-5 overall and 5-3 in the ACC.

Elsewhere in the top 20, No. 3 Arizona downed Oregon 89-57. No. 6 Brigham Young defeated Wyoming 78-69. No. 7 Nevada-Las Vegas beat Cal State-Fullerton 77-61. No. 9 Duke pounced Wake Forest 98-67. No. 12 Michigan thrashed Wisconsin 80-67 and No. 17 Indiana routed Northwestern 74-45.

At Tucson, Ariz., Anthony Cook equaled a career high with 23 points to power the Wildcats, who improved to 22-2 and 11-1 in the Pacific-10. Steve Kerr, who contributed 18 points, set a conference record with his 60th 3-point basket of the season. Anthony Taylor led the Ducks, 10-10 and 5-6, with 17 points.

At Provo, Utah, Jeff Chatman scored 22 points to lift the Cougars in a Western Athletic Conference game. BYU is 19-1 overall and 8-0 in the league. The Cowboys, who received 25 points from Fennis Dembo, tumbled to 6-5 and 17-5.

At Las Vegas, Nev., Gerald Paddio scored 19 points and the Rebels pulled away from the Titans in the final minutes to improve their record to 21-2 overall and 10-2 in the Pacific Coast Athletic Association. Richard Morton had 20 points for Fullerton, 6-15 and 2-10.

At Durham, N.C., Phil Henderson came off the bench to score a game-high 19 points for the Blue Demons, who have won eight straight to improve to 17-3 and 6-2 in the ACC. Wake Forest, 0-7 on the road, dropped to 8-12 and 2-6.

At Madison, Wis., Gary Grant scored 28 points and Glen Rice added 19 to lead the Wolverines, 19-4 and 8-2 in the Big Ten.

Barkley's 46 Lifts Sixers

United Press International
Philadelphia's Charles Barkley, who wound up playing all but three minutes of Thursday night's game, was understandably apprehensive about the possibility of overtime.

"I was hoping it didn't go into overtime," said Barkley, who played 50 of a possible 53 minutes and scored 46 points to give the Philadelphia 76ers a 119-113 victory over the Bucks.

"It was a very physical game," Barkley missed 2 free throws in the last two minutes of regulation that could have given the 76ers the triumph, but scored 9 points in the extra period.

"I was just fortunate I got the ball in a good situation," said Barkley, who had scored 47 points Tuesday night in a loss to Atlanta. "We had to win that game (Thursday) or we would really have been in the doldrums."

The triumph was the first for new coach Jim Lynam, who replaced fired Matt Guonkas Monday. The 76ers have won only three of their last 11 games.

"Charles has really been an expending energy in the last two games," Lynam said. "I don't know what more you could ask for."

Barkley, who had only 8 points in the first half, sank 2 free throws to give the 76ers a 116-112 lead with 22 seconds to play in overtime after Gerald Henderson's driving basket had broken a 112-112 tie with 48 seconds to go.

After Paul Pressey hit a free throw for Milwaukee, Barkley sank 1 of 2 from the line to put Philadelphia up 117-113 with 15 seconds to play.

Milwaukee's Sidney Moncrief was called for traveling with 10 seconds to go and Barkley scored on a dunk for the final margin.

"Charles is a lesson to people in the NBA," Milwaukee Coach Del Harris said. "You have to be aggressive."

— a total of 69 cars started the two races — and the pressure of the slower cars to earn a starting spot make for a dangerous 50 laps on the 2.5-mile Daytona tri-oval. His suggestion is to keep holding the races, but to determine the starting field another way.

"If it could be a place that those guys that need the experience could get it without the pressure of trying to get into the race, I'd be all for it," Allison said. "The way they are right now, even though I've won a lot of them, I'm not really fond of them."

McDuffie, who pulled himself out of his burning car, was taken to nearby Halifax Medical Center with possible second-degree burns. Jones was unable to remember the accident and was placed under observation, but no other serious injuries were reported.

Waltrip, driving a Chevrolet, did not pit during the 125-mile event, and finished in front of Dale Earnhardt, Davey Allison, Terry Labonte, Lake Speed, and Sterling Marlin. Bobby Allison, in a Buick, finished ahead of Rusty Wallace, Ken Schrader, Greg Sacks, and Bobby Hill.

Waltrip and Allison each earned $23,000 for the wins. Waltrip averaged 133.889 mph, while Allison averaged 130.966 mph.

The top 14 finishers in each race — excluding Schrader and Davey Allison, who earned spots on the front row in qualifying last weekend — gained an automatic entry into the Daytona 500. Schrader will start on the pole in a Chevrolet, while Davey Allison will start on the outside of the front row in a Ford.

Yates Intends To Return Saturday

CINCINNATI (UPI) — University of Cincinnati basketball coach Tony Yates, who didn't attend Wednesday night's game in St. Louis because of a death threat, says he intends to resume coaching Saturday at Virginia Tech.

Yates remained in his St. Louis hotel room during Cincinnati's 80-73 defeat after a telephone caller threatened his life. The FBI is investigating the incident.

"There were racial overtones," Yates, who is black, said of the call. His secretary received Tuesday afternoon in Cincinnati while Yates and the team were en route to St. Louis.

BASKETBALL

"He (the caller) used real derogatory language and indicated he was going to kill me. And he said, 'in St. Louis, I took it seriously. After considering everything, I decided not to do it (coach).'"

Yates said the call was different than a death threat he had received in December 1983 following a controversial game in which the Bearcats stalled in a 24-11 loss to Kentucky.

Yates said the 1983 caller was "raving," while Tuesday's caller "appeared a little more calm and calculated about how he said things."

The coach also said the call could have been prompted by recent news accounts of another poor Cincinnati season. The Bearcats are 8-11 this year and Yates, in his fifth season with the team, has suffered more losses (82) than any other coach in the school's history.

"I think some of it (reasons for the call) is attributable to some of the things that have been written and said," Yates said. "That creates some of the negative things within our society. It's too bad those things take place, but they do."

Allison, Waltrip Impressed With Handling In Twin 125s

By Carl Vanzara
Herald Motor Sports Writer

Daytona Speed Weeks are coming to a conclusion as yesterday the Twin 125 Mile Qualifying races were held. Bobby Allison and Darrell Waltrip thrilled the packed stands as they each won their event.

Allison moved to the front early and seemed to win with ease in the Miller High Life Buick. His car held any groove on the track he wanted as he said the handling was his advantage for the win.

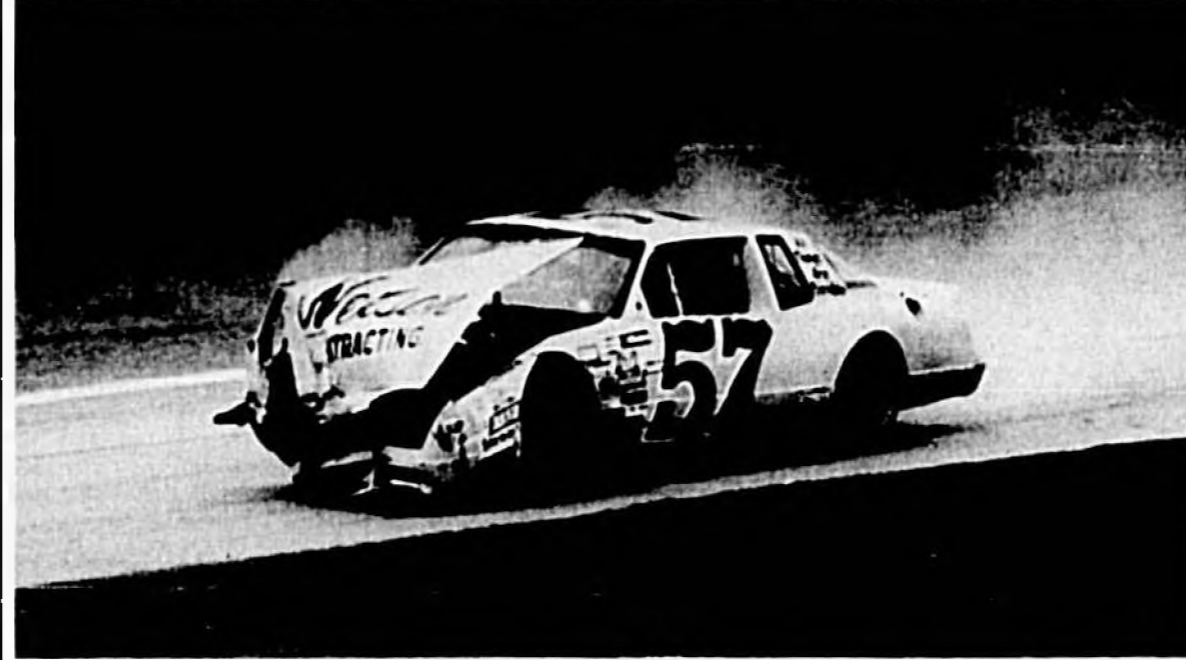

Thursday's first event was loaded with local racers hoping to make the 500. Greg Sacks in the Winter Park-based Dingman Brothers Racing Pontiac had his best finish at Daytona since winning the 1985 Firecracker 400, as he was fourth at the finish. Rick Wilson, many-time feature winner at New Smyrna Speedway, finished a fine seventh place after starting last in the 35-car field.

Lakeland regular Dave Pletcher spun early in the event and couldn't get the car back in. Former Volusia County Speedway star Mark Gibson ran well until he blew a motor on the 30th lap.

With the restrictor plate on the cars this year, it looks like there might be 20 cars capable of winning. My choice is Bobby Allison, but it looks like Darrell Waltrip might win his first Daytona 500.

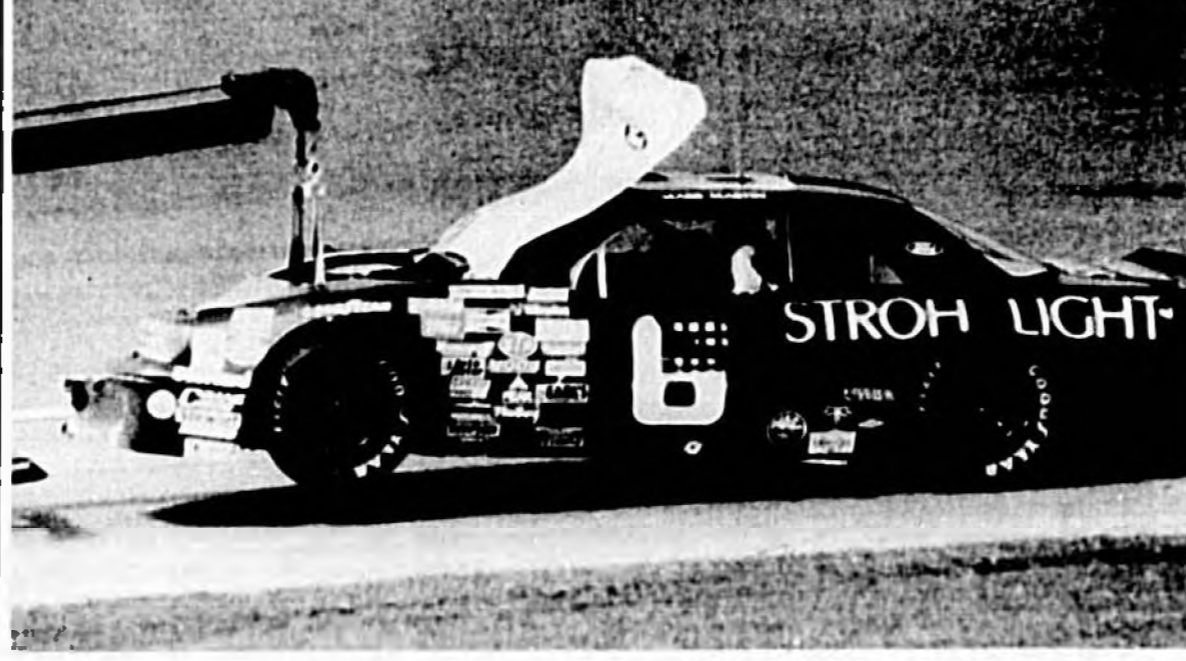

Longwood's Mike Kubanek is entered in the 500-lap Enduro tonight and Saturday at Orlando Speed World. Kubanek, after winning the World Enduro at Gaffney, S.C., last year, is considered one of the favorites to win as much as $50,000.

Tonight, Speed World will hold Twin 125 lap races to qualify for Saturday night's 500. Racing starts at 7 p.m. on both nights.

Rough Day at the Races

It was a tough day at the Daytona Beach Twin 125 races for some Thursday afternoon as Bobby Wawak (No. 57) smashed his car in the first qualifying race. He was treated for a possible fractured leg. Below, Mark Martin hangs his head after blowing an engine in race two after starting in the No. 2 position.

Pruning Adds Life To Trees

The best pruning cut is flush with the trunk, right? And coating a cut promptly with a good tree paint will keep out damaging moisture and disease organisms, right? Both of these widely-held beliefs are wrong, according to the findings of Dr. Alex Shigo. In his effort to learn how trees have grown after they've been wounded, he has dissected many trees during his 23 years as a USDA Forest Service pathologist.

After a limb dies or has been cut off, the bark quickly grows over to close the wound, a process called callusing. After a few seasons all that's visible is a dimple or some ridges on the bark, and most people assume that all is well. But behind that bark, there is always decay—no matter what the pruning was like. Some decay is inevitable, but trees have a remarkable way of restricting its spread.

A tree can create a protective barrier around an injury, walling it off from adjacent wood. It does this via complex biochemical changes in the wood that are still not completely understood. These changes arise from a special kind of tissue in a slight ridge around the base of every limb. It is called the branch collar.

When a limb is lost, the exposed wood begins to decay. But decay is halted from spreading farther inward by the wall that the branch collar has created. Flush cutting often removes at least a part of the branch collar. And if that happens, there will be a gap in the decay-resistant compartment. Bacteria and fungi can proceed deeper into the tree. The tree will work to create new protective layers and compartmentalize the decay. But the larger barrier zones make a weaker trunk more prone to break. A lot of flush-cut pruning can actually kill a tree, because it forces the tree to expend too much energy walling off the injuries.

Proper pruning, then, means cutting off branches as close as possible to the branch collar without injuring it. Look for a sort of cracked and slightly-raised ring where the branch joins the stem. This is called the branch bark ridge, and it's your guide to proper pruning. When pruning, place the shears or saw in front of the ridge and cut downward and slightly outward. If you're cutting a heavy limb, you should first make and undercut several inches out from the base of the limb. Otherwise, it will tear bark off the trunk as it falls.

A traditional pruning manual would next instruct you to apply a tree wound dressing. Experimental results have shown that tree paints do nothing to prevent decay. In fact, when applied heavily, they can increase decay. If you want to camouflage a stark-looking cut, apply a very thin coat of tree paint. Do not use house paints. Just keep in mind that wound dressings are only cosmetic.

Fortunately, there is an outlet for our compulsion to give our trees a little TLC. Correct and regular pruning is one of the best things you can do for your trees. At least once a year, you should remove all weak, dying and dead branches. The best time to do this is in late winter, although it's all right to prune anytime except when the trees are leafing out.

When a tree is injured, a car backs into it—you hit it with the lawn mower—a storm damages it—you should immediately clean away ragged and torn bark. Take a sharp knife and carefully trace around the wound in the shape of an ellipse. Don't point the ends. And if you feel the urge to put a bandage on it, go ahead! It has been found that black plastic, when applied to fresh wounds, speeded wound closing and reduced decay. It can be held in place with plastic tape wrapped around the trunk.

Decay-filled cavities in trees should be cleaned out, but you must be very careful not to damage the hard rim of tissue surrounding the decayed wood. Breaking into this area will cause more injury and more rot. The cavity can be filled with concrete, which can help the callus to close, rather than to roll inward.

The importance of proper pruning cannot be overstressed. It's incredible, how many trees succumb to insects and disease, and even die, due to improper pruning. Trees have been misunderstood and mistreated for centuries, all because we insisted on treating them like overgrown people.

Wife Tired Of Birth Control Burden

DEAR ABBY: My husband and I have been married for eight years. We have two children—a beautiful 5-year-old boy and a newborn baby girl. My husband and I agree that our family is complete, but here's the problem:

I have been on the pill since the day we were married, and I think it's his turn to take the responsibility for limiting the size of our family. Abby, I have gone through enough carrying two babies for 18 months, enduring the pains of labor twice, and I want my husband to have a vasectomy so I won't have to worry about an unwanted pregnancy. He has absolutely refused to consider it!

Why can't he bear a 20-minute outpatient operation with a little discomfort for a day or two? I've tried to explain that there will be a tiny scar—not more than half an inch long—and a vasectomy would in no way diminish his precious masculinity. If that's what he's worried about, I am very angry about his selfish, inconsiderate attitude. He's 28 and I'm 28. What do you think?

ANGRY
DEAR ANGRY: Don't judge your husband so harshly. We never know what tomorrow may bring. If, God forbid, you should lose one or both of your children, you might want another child. You may even change your mind about the size of your family later on.

But there are other options—for both men and women. Consult your physician for advice on other forms of birth control.

DEAR ABBY: Being the mother of three sons, I appreciate most sports, but baseball is my favorite. Abby, I do not understand why baseball managers and coaches need to wear baseball uniforms. I can understand that at one time they were probably players, but there is really no need for them to wear uniforms now.

There are several managers and coaches who look rather ridiculous with their potbellies hanging out. Of course, they wouldn't look a whole lot better in a three-piece suit.

BARBARA DELONG, OHIO

DEAR BARBARA: Obviously, baseball managers and coaches wear uniforms to identify them with their team. I don't know when or why this tradition began, but it makes sense to me. Readers?

DEAR READERS: My, how time flies. St. Valentine's Day is just around the corner, and we just finished with Christmas. Well, be a sweetheart and call someone you love and say, "I love you." Make two or three calls. Who said you can't love more than one person—in different ways, of course?

Go through your closets and get rid of all those clothes you've been saving until you lose 10 pounds. Your favorite charity can turn those good-as-new garments into money.

Visit someone in a nursing home and take him or her for a ride. Forgive an enemy, hug your children, neuter your cat, spay your dog, listen to a bore, tell your parents you appreciate them, send a donation to the charity of your choice, fix up a date for someone who doesn't get madly, quit smoking, get some exercise, count your calories, pay your dentist, donate some blood, return the book you borrowed, update your will, drive carefully, and if you're walking, thank God you're able to, and watch where you're going. And don't wait until next St. Valentine's Day to be a sweetheart again.

Aspirin Is Aspirin, But Avoid Use By Children

DEAR DR. GOTT: I recently read that generic aspirin was satisfactory for occasional headache, but for relieving the pain and swelling of arthritis, it might be better to use a brand-name aspirin. Is this true? Also, what's the difference between enteric-coated aspirin and the uncoated aspirin?

DEAR READER: All aspirin, whether brand-name or generic, is acetylsalicylic acid, a compound used for lowering fever, reducing inflammation and slowing blood clotting. Aspirin is marketed as plain, buffered, time-release or coated. Whatever the form, it's still aspirin. Brand-name aspirin is not superior to generic in relieving arthritis pain.

In addition to its advertised properties, aspirin causes irritation of the stomach wall, indigestion and ulcers. Evidence suggests that this effect can be moderated by buffering the aspirin with an antacid or coating the tablet with a film that will not allow the aspirin to be released until it enters the intestine. In my experience, choice of aspirin depends more on patients' personal preferences than on any therapeutic advantage. Some people experience fewer side effects with buffered aspirin; others prefer the enteric-coated variety. In my view, the therapeutic effects are identical.

I do not believe that patients with histories of peptic ulcer or gastrointestinal bleeding should take aspirin regularly in any form. With that caveat, any type or reputable brand is all right for adults to use.

The use of aspirin for childhood fevers is another matter. In my practice, I do not give aspirin to any child below the age of adolescence. I substitute acetaminophen instead because of the connection between Reye's syndrome, a serious neurological disorder, and aspirin in children.

DEAR DR. GOTT: I have a relaxed or torn ligament in my neck. The third vertebra pops in and out, causing much pain. The prison doctor says, "Live with it." What can you suggest?

DEAR READER: The neck bones are held in place by tough bands of gristle called ligaments. With age, or after injury, these ligaments may relax and stretch, allowing the bones to move sideways. This can cause a click or produce pain because of muscle spasm.

Although your options for treatment are limited in prison, you could be helped by physiotherapy, a program of rehabilitation that might include neck-strengthening exercises, massage and heat or gentle manipulation to reduce spasm. Dr. Gott's new Health Report on IRRITABLE BOWEL SYNDROME explains the symptoms and management of this common problem. Send $1 and your name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By James Jacoby

The penalty double by South of East's one-spade overcall showed more than just four spades; it also indicated a strong opening bid. When North bid three clubs, a game contract was assured, but delicate cue-bids paved the way for the final slam contract. Three diamonds showed the ace, and three hearts another ace. Three spades showed obvious control in that suit; four clubs said, "I'm waiting for more information," and four hearts by South indicated the king. That was enough for North, who simply bid six clubs. There was nothing to the play, just a matter of drawing trumps and eventually giving up the inescapable diamond loser.

HOROSCOPE

What The Day Will Bring...

By Bernice Bede Osof
YOUR BIRTHDAY
FEBRUARY 13, 1988

A substantial financial opportunity may be presented to you in the year ahead in a rather roundabout fashion. It could be a project that someone has abandoned.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) More time and effort will be devoted to two secret ambitions that you have been contemplating. Your chances for fulfillment are beginning to look better than ever. Know where to look for romance and you'll find it. The Matchmaker set instantly reveals which signs are romantically perfect for you. Mail $2 to Matchmaker, c/o this newspaper, P.O. Box 91428, Cleveland, OH 44101-3428.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Your leadership qualities are very pronounced today, so don't be hesitant to use them, especially in critical situations where command decisions are required.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Something of significance may occur at this time that will cause you to alter your objectives where personal ambitions are concerned.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Even though the players and the settings may be different today, keep in mind a lesson you've learned from personal experience so you won't repeat the same mistake.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Strive to be realistic and hard-shelled where business is concerned. If you are an easy mark, someone might try to take advantage of you.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Face issues squarely today, especially if you have to make some difficult decisions that could affect others as well as yourself.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Material considerations will grow in importance for you at this time. In areas where there is profitable potential, your motivation will increase.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Bonds of friendship with two pals aren't so delicate that they can't handle a little tension. They may strain, but they won't break.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Major changes are about to transpire that will have an effect on your lifestyle. Possibilities to increase your material worth will be amplified.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Important new interests will soon be stimulated that could alter your destiny. Your influence in your field of endeavor will increase.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're entering a cycle where you should begin to see financial improvements. You could earn money from old ventures as well as from new ones.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) You will begin to have greater control over matters that have been influenced more by others than by yourself. Today might mark the beginning.

Indians Used Decoys As Early As 200 B.C.

Perfect 'Bait'

For Fishing

With Spears

The endless quest of collectors puts form over function and brings unique items out of the regions of their origin and into strange territory where the uninitiated may not realize what they are seeing when they spot such items.

That's the case for fish decoys, the bait used by fishermen who spear their catch, usually in iced over waters, but sometimes in tropical streams.

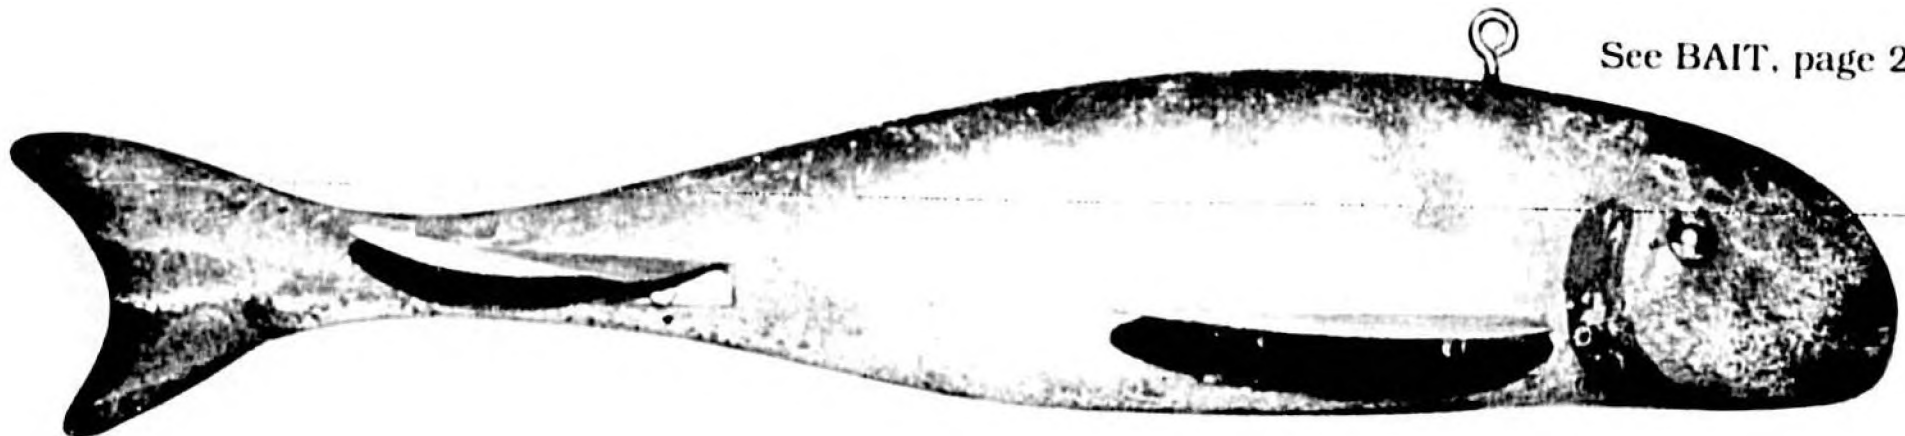

Longwood collector Ron Zelnick has dozens of these "folk art" collectibles that he has picked up at antiques shows and flea markets.

Zelnick said those who aren't familiar with ice spear fishing often mistake fish decoys for fish lures that have had their hooks removed.

Although 25-year old Zelnick first became aware of fish decoys because of his interest in fishing lures and duck decoys, he said the fish decoys are in a class by themselves.

"I first knew they were around when I started collecting duck decoys. I wanted a fish decoy. But I don't have 6,000 or 7,000 of them. Some people do. They have become popular in the last couple of years," said Zelnick.

The earliest recorded sighting by a white man of the American Indians' use of fish decoys was by fur trader Alexander Henry, who between 1760 and 1776 documented his experiences in the northwestern region of known new world.

Henry wrote that he and his companions were amazed by the fishing prowess of the Indians in the Sault Sainte Marie area, who cut holes in the deep ice and lured fish to spear with long metal prongs.

Henry said the Indians' catches were made through a hole cut in the ice, which was typically about two feet in circumference. The Indians would shield the hole from direct light by building a make shift twig cabin that covered the hole and the fishermen.

Reflected light would give them a view of the fish in the deep waters and fish decoys, attached to a line, would be sunk into the water about 60 feet down, to attract fish, which would then be speared.

Some floating lures have also been used to lure fish to the surface to be speared.

Fishermen in tropical waters, also, Zelnick said, use similar luring and spearing techniques, but they don't have to contend with the ice, as the northern Indians did.

Recorded history, Zelnick said, shows that Indians were using fishing decoys as early as 200 B.C.

Although in recent decades, some fish decoys have been commercially produced, the originals were handcrafted by individual craftsmen. Some made as few as 10 while others made hundreds of these lures in a lifetime.

The decoys have been made of ivory, bone, wood and metal, with the lighter ones having lead weight added so they will sink, Zelnick said.

The appeal and value of fish decoys today depends, Zelnick said, on their design and appearance as well as the reputation of the maker if his identity can be determined.

"Most aren't signed. You just learn to recognize them by the shapes," Zelnick said. "It's very easy to tell a good fish decoy. There's got to be something about it that speaks out and says, 'Aren't I nice?'"

He added, "Some of these things are very homely," but they have the look of simplistic folk art, which is very appealing to some collectors.

A major problem for collectors, Zelnick said, is that fish decoys are being counterfeited in great numbers. They look authentic, but don't have to worry about whether or not the decoy works or not, because collectors aren't very likely to ever try to fish with a decoy.

One test that may determine if a fish decoy is authentic, Zelnick said, is to suspend the decoy from a cord in the air. If it balances out and hangs evenly, it's probably a fake. Authentic, functional decoys, he said, usually hang evenly only when they are suspended in water.

When in use, authentic fish decoys are moved by currents and water pressure, which makes them look alive and attract a catch, Zelnick said.

Fish decoys, Zelnick said, are valued from about $35 to more than $3,000.

"The most I've ever paid for one is $200," Zelnick said. But that decoy, he said, is the prize in his collection. It is rare and because it is large — more than 9-inches in length — is worth several times what he paid for it.

Most fish decoys are made in the form of fish, but some are designed to look like frogs. Zelnick even has a turtle-shaped decoy, which he said would have been used in tropical waters.

The National Fish Lures Collectors Club, P.O. Box 1791, Dearborn, Mich. 48121, provides information on fish decoys in its quarterly newsletter. Membership fees are $10 per year.

During the time Erica was unconscious, she remembered Mike telling her that she was attracted to him only because she couldn't have him, she remembered Kent Bogard telling her that he wouldn't marry her, and she remembered how her planned marriage to Jeremy went away. In her dream, Erica heard Adam say that the worst thing he ever did in his life was to marry her. And also in her dream, Mike accused Erica of always putting her career first in her life. Adam hinted when he learned that Trina brought Trina magazine, which means that Trina is now working for Traven Silver. Robert tracked out when he realized that the bracelet man he'd been luring around Robin's hospital room was actually Grant Putnam. Scott left Debbie a shoulder to cry on after she talked on the phone with Jake, who said he's staying in South America. Scott dug up some unavowed facts about Cheryl's past and then blackmail her into helping him with a scheme he has cooked up. Duke gave Jerome all the information he has on Trina's whereabouts and then asked him to kill Grant. Grant escaped from the hospital and returned home just as Anna was about to escape from her basement prison cell.

'Falcon' Quest

Sullivan Confronts Her Past

By Frank Banellio
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — On CBS-TV's "Falcon Crest," Maggie Gioberti, one of the healthiest and most honest characters on a soap filled with conniving rogues, is suddenly going off the deep end and becoming an alcoholic.
 If Susan Sullivan, who plays Maggie, seems to be doing a good job, it's because she's playing the role from life.
 Not her life, says Sullivan, who has never had a drinking problem, but her father's.

Although never an alcoholic, Sullivan still has problems being the daughter of one. She is strongly involved with a support group called Adult Children of Alcoholics (ACA).
 "For years, because I was in therapy, I knew my father's alcoholism had had a large impact on my life," Sullivan explains. "But it wasn't until I attended an ACA meeting and found myself so moved and filled with emotion that I realized the extent of the impact."

Brendan Sullivan, a New York advertising executive, was "the most charming man in the world — a real Irishman," says his daughter. When he was sober, she says, "he was the most delightful and insightful man I have ever known. But when he was drunk, there was another person there. He was untrusting, angry, hostile. He was a real Jekyll-Hyde." He died of lung cancer in 1980.

Sullivan believes that most of those "I-hate-men" books have been written by women who come from "dysfunctional homes," homes with alcoholics, drug abusers or child abusers.
 "They are women who couldn't reach Daddy, and still act out that same ritual in their adult relationships," Sullivan believes. "You reach a point where you simply have to stop. You may be drawn to somebody, but you have to look hard and say, 'This is not going to nurture me, and I can't nurture this person. What am I doing here?'"

About his drinking, Sullivan says, "It just made me a whirling dervish. My mother became what they call a co-alcoholic." That's not an alcoholic, but someone who accommodates and thus reinforces the alcoholic's behavior. Says Sullivan: "She set up her own system of craziness and compounded it."
 Maggie's surprising TV battle with the bottle was Sullivan's idea.

"Go home and read a book," she advises.
 Despite years of therapy and the help of ACA, Sullivan still finds her late father affecting her life. Her relationships with men have not been satisfactory, she says, and she has never married.

"Falcon Crest" has been on the air since 1981, and by now, Sullivan says, it's no wonder that the writers are desperate for new stories.
 "Someone could walk in off the street with an interesting story line, and they'd grab it," she says. "I just wanted to explore my own feelings about drinking."

"I'm still out there trying to win that daddy I never got," says Sullivan. She finds herself attracted to "that slightly unavailable man who is somehow afraid of real commitments. It sets off a real bell tolling, bringing back infantile memories, and you're out there trying to win that man."

Those feelings included the discovery that Sullivan herself was "allergic" to alcohol.

When Sullivan finds a "substantial man whom I could really share my life with in a substantial way, I'm not interested. I don't get all that excited."

"I never had a drinking problem, but we're up in the wine country shooting the show," Sullivan says. "You go into a restaurant, and if you don't order a glass of wine, they look at you strangely. I would never get drunk, but I'd wake up at 3 a.m. and be wide awake for two hours. It acted like caffeine on me. It left me physically devastated."

Sadly, she adds, "Maybe that's why I live all alone in a 4,000-square-foot house. What can I tell you?"

Sullivan found it hard to turn down one drink with friends, and it amazed her. "I thought, 'I'm a pretty together lady, and if I can get hooked into that, what would happen to a lady who was involved in a (tempestuous) relationship with Richard Channing (David Selby)?"
 "Alcohol is such a perfect way to drown your feelings. That's why I wanted Maggie to develop a drinking problem — because it's so easy to do."

Michael Jackson is one of the nominees for Favorite Male Vocalist on "The American Music Awards," airing Monday, Jan. 25, on ABC.

Picturing TV Series Featured Bronson

Dear Dick: Back in the 1950s, an exciting TV series emerged in which Charles Bronson played a photographer. What was the name of the series? When did it run? Did that series launch Bronson on his illustrious career? And why isn't that series included in re-runs on late-night TV? — C.E.F., Houston, Texas.

Dear C.E.F.: That was "Man With a Camera," and it ran from 1958-60 on ABC. It helped Bronson's career, but it did not exactly launch it — he had been in movies since 1951, with some good parts to his credit before that TV show. It isn't one of the late-night re-runs because it was only a half-hour show, and the re-runs series are an hour or longer.

Dear Dick: I would like to know if James Coburn's father was Charles Coburn, and also if James Coburn and Lee Marvin were brothers. — J.D., Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Dear J.D.: No. And no.

Dear Dick: What happened to Jack Warden in "Crazy Like a Fox"? It was my favorite show! — B.A.S., Athens, Ga.

Dear B.A.S.: There is a chance it will be back, but only a slim one. It never did very well in the ratings battle, and, as often happens, salaries go up each year so a show becomes expensive and the network has little choice but to shut it down.

Dear Dick: I've had a dream since I was 12 — to meet John Denver in person. I'd settle for an address to write him. No, I don't want his agent's address or his secretary's — I want his address. Is this possible? — M.J.M., Greene, N.Y.

Dear M.J.M.: Not from me. It's not. I get so many requests like this one that every once in a while I must restate my position: no personal addresses, ever. Too many hooks are out there.

Dear Dick: I went to college with, and was a close friend of, Norma Crane, the actress who played the mother in "Piddler On the Roof." I know she is no longer living, but what was the cause of her death, and when did she die? — M.U., Perryton, Texas.

Dear M.U.: Norma died of cancer in 1973.

Dear Dick: I would like some info on Arleen Sorokin, of "Days Of Our Lives." Is it true she has an carrying shop? If so, where is it? — J.F., Camarillo, Calif.

Dear J.F.: Not precisely. Arleen does have a line of jewelry she calls Calliope's Collection (she plays Calliope Jones on that soap). She tells me she will send a brochure about her creations if you write her in care of Days Of Our Lives, NBC, 3000 West Alameda Ave., Burbank, CA 91523.

Dear Dick: I like both "Days Of Our Lives" and "Beauty and the Beast." Are Mary Beth Evans (Kayla Brady on "Days") and Linda Hamilton (Katherine on "Beauty") related? —

J.L., St. Anthony, Idaho.

Dear J.L.: No, they are completely unrelated.

Dear Dick: I am a big fan of Valerie Bertinelli. Why is it that she's been in so many made-for-TV movies, but I haven't seen her in a movie in the theater? — L.N., Idaho Falls, Idaho.

Dear L.N.: Mostly because movie-makers don't think she would bring people into the theaters. She is, they feel, strictly a TV actress, and not a big enough draw (or a big enough talent) to sell tickets. I think they're probably right.

Dear Dick: My question is: which of the handsome young men on the soap, "The Bold and the Beautiful," is Ethan Wayne? Also, please identify the other gentlemen on that show. — E.G.T., College Station, Texas.

Dear E.G.T.: Ethan Wayne plays a character named Storm Logan. I'm afraid there are so many "other gentlemen" on that show I just wouldn't have room to list them all.

Dear Dick: Could you tell me if the actor who played the role of Max on "Hart to Hart" also played on the old series "Car 54, Where Are You?" — P.J., Reading, Pa.

Dear P.J.: No, two different men. Joe E. Ross is the man you are thinking of from "Car 54." He played a character named Gunther Toody. Lionel Stander was Max on "Hart to Hart."

Dear Dick: Is Richard Dean Anderson of "MacGyver," the son of Richard Anderson, who was Oscar on "The Bionic Woman"? — V.H., Fresno, Texas.

Dear V.H.: No, they are unrelated.

Jim McKay Prepares For Olympics

By Evan Levine

Jim McKay, who serves as ABC's principal anchor for the XV Winter Olympics, feels that Americans have plenty to feel good about this year, no matter what the outcome. "I feel very relaxed—more than for any other games," says McKay, who is participating in his 11th Olympics. "Everyone knows from our past record how good we are, so we don't have to prove anything. And it's good to be in a place (Calgary, Canada) where everyone speaks English." ABC broadcasts the Olympics from Feb. 13-28. (WFTV, Channel 9.)

While McKay admits that it's exciting to watch the sports and be present for the discovery of a new champion, he claims that his favorite part of the event is being the storyteller. "I like to be in a situation where I feel I'm the thread that holds things together," he explains. "Even like pressure situations, where something goes wrong, and you just have to keep talking. I don't mind on-air emergencies; it always works out, as long as I'm honest with the audience. I just relax and pretend I'm talking to one person."

But McKay admits that meeting an athlete like skier Jean Claude Killy or Jeff Blatnick, a wrestler who overcame cancer and won a medal, can be an emotional, exciting experience. "Usually you don't really get much time with the athletes," he explains. "I write the little bios you see of them, but that's about all the contact I have, except for interviewing the medalists after the fact."

This year, McKay predicts that America's best hope for a medal—especially gold—may be figure skater Debi Thomas, he notes that interest always runs especially high for that sport because of the pageantry and entertainment, and the ability to see the athletes close up.

"There's going to be some very strong competition in the men's and women's singles events," says McKay, who also serves as the commentator for that event. "Debi's strongest competition is East German Katarina Witt, and it should be very exciting."

As to Americans' chances in other sports, McKay is hedging his bets this year. "I think the hockey team will advance fairly far," he offers, "maybe to the medal round. I don't think there's much for us in ski jumping or Alpin skiing or cross country, but speed skating is a possibility. And the exciting thing, of course, is that despite it all, you never know who will pop up or what will happen."
