SCC looks to expand

SANFORD — Seminole Community College, which for several years has been seeking to expand their operations to an additional campus, has selected a 60-acre site near Red Bug Road and the Central Florida Turnpike Way in Oviedo as a probable site.

The land is a less than eight miles from Valencia Community College's east Orange County campus.

SCC has received about $4 million from the state Legislature to help purchase the land. They plan to ask the state for an additional $2.5 million next year to help with the purchase.

So far, no price has been agreed upon and no paperwork has begun to make the land purchase. Jim Sawyer, SCC's vice president for student and information services, said:

"He added, however, that a SCC campus is needed on the east side of Seminole County to serve the population in that area."

He said that he believes the vocational classes that are expected to be offered at the east campus would not compete with the academics at Valencia or community college.

Goldsboro Access 93 tonight

SANFORD — The neighborhood city Commission gatherings continue tonight for residents of District 2 in Goldsboro.

The area is in Commissioner Bob Thomas' district. Thomas, along with Mayor Betty Smith and City Manager Bill Simmons will be on hand.

A number of the city's major department heads will also be at the meeting to discuss various problems and respond to questions from the audience. Among subjects presented for discussion are vacant lot cleanups, curb maintenance and drainage, street lighting and lighting problems.

Access 93 is a series of meetings which began early this year. This is the fourth in the series which has now been held in at least one residential area of each district. The last meeting on May 11 was in district 3.

The main purpose of Access 93 is to provide commissioners with a first hand report on the problems and needs of that specific area as well as give the people more of a relaxed atmosphere in which to discuss the needs of their particular area.

Tonight's meeting is sponsored by the Westside Community Association and will be held in the West Sanford Boys & Girls Club, 919 S. Primmion Ave., beginning at 7 p.m.

Chamber Business After Hours

LAKE MARY — The Greater Lake Mary/Heathrow Chamber of Commerce will hold its monthly Business After Hours event tomorrow evening. ## Restrictions for watering lawns may be toughened

By NICK PFEIFAU
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — People may not water their lawns between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. Restrictions may get even tighter.

The prohibition against watering lawns in the daytime hours is an on-going rule. If water levels drop below the minimum, additional mandatory restrictions will be placed.

The minimum water level in the Wekiva drainage basin, which consists of Seminole, Orange and Lake counties, is seven feet above mean sea level for a 30-day period.

According to Barbara Vengora, director of Groundwater Programs with the St. Johns River

Water Management, the level yesterday morning at the S.R. 16 bridge in Seminole County was 7.01.

If the level continues to drop, the St. Johns River Water Management district will enter into what they call "Phase I." Under it, they would place restrictions on watering based on odd and even street numbers where residents on each side of the street would be limited to what days of the week watering could be conducted. It would also specify hours for watering, which are expected to be only between 4 a.m. and 8 a.m.

"We haven't reached that point yet," said Dr. Larry Lee. Lee is the director of water use compliance with the SJRWMD district, headquartered in Palatka. "But if people continue violating the day time watering, we may be there faster than we would like, unless we start getting more rain."

The prohibition against watering between 10 a.m. and 4 p.m. isn't anything new, he said. "We have had this rule against watering in effect for some time now."

The SJRWMD conducts periodic checks in various areas, Lee explained. "The reason we concentrated on Seminole County yesterday was because of a call we received from the county reporting some very low water pressures over this past weekend."

This morning, Lee reported a total of 30 warnings had been issued throughout Seminole. See Water, Page 5A

Cleaning up their act

Seminole County sheriff Don Estinger, above left, supervises as Orange County sheriff Kevin Beary, dressed in a trusty's uniform, washes patrol cars here in payment of a gentlemen's bet the two had made. Estinger and Beary agreed that if Seminole County raised more money for the March of Dimes, Beary would make the patrol cars here sparkle. There was some controversy as to which charity was the beneficiary of the fundraising battle. While Estinger and Beary stated that it was the March of Dimes, the American Cancer Society's Jail N Bail was the beneficiary, according to Estinger's secretary, Sandy Cannon, and Emy Bib, president of the Sanford Lake Mary chapter of the American Cancer Society. Had Orange County raised more money, Estinger would have had to clean out stables there. Right, while Estinger was pleased with Beary's washing job, he wanted to be sure that Orange County's top cop finished the job by drying the cars with the towel provided.

Offices, homes to sprout on festival site

By SANDRA ELLIOTT
Herald Staff Writer

SANFORD — Seminole County commissioners approved the rezoning of 83 acres on the southwest corner of Interstate 4 and Lake Mary Boulevard which will allow the development of commercial projects, offices and 300 dwellings.

The commissioners OK'd the request from Leo Trepanier, owner of the 1 & L Acres Ranch. The green rolling farm has been the site for several years of the Heathrow/Lake Mary Arts Festival.

According to the revised master plan the 83-acre project will consist of 230,000 square feet of commercial, 152,500 square feet of office and 300 apartments. The rezoning is a preliminary development order, not subject to the concurrency test prior to the issuance of the final development order. In the absence of the final development order, no development of the land is authorized, according to paperwork outlining the project.

The site plan calls for landscaping buffers in the various development zones.

Some members of the Markham Woods Homeowners Association objected to the commercial stores being too near their homes, some on one-acre lots.

Joanne Lucas, who is a director of the arts festival, said this morning she is happy for Trepanier.

"I know he tried to get approval for that (development) last year," she said.

However, Lucas said the zoning change probably will be approved. See County, Page 5A

Midway: new lights

County commissioners last night approved installing street lights in Midway, just east of Sanford.

Money to install the lights and the money for first year's operation will come from a Community Development Block Grant. The commissioners also approved spending $8,000 for the project.

FLORIDA BRIEFS

FHP vet charged with prowling nude

POMPANO BEACH — A seven-year veteran of the Florida Highway Patrol was arrested on charges he prowled nude at apartment complexes and accosted several women.

Clinton James, 27, was charged in connection with eight incidents in which he was naked or partially clothed when he entered women's apartments, police said.

James was charged Tuesday by Pompano Beach police with indecent exposure, prowling, burglary and burglary with assault. He was being held without bail in the Broward County Jail.

It was James' second arrest in as many days. He was arrested Sunday for prowling, indecent behavior for walking around naked and obstruction of justice without violence. He was booked and released on $125 bail, police said.

Highway Patrol Capt. Rich Rosaman said James was put on administrative leave with pay but probably would be fired.

Foster parents must be married

TAMPA — Homosexuality can't be used to prevent someone from becoming a foster parent, a Florida judge said, but kept a state ban on unmarried foster parents.

A ruling Tuesday by Circuit Judge Gasper J. Ficarrotta means lesbians Bonnie Matthews and Elaine Kohler still can't be foster parents to a 6-year-old boy since the state bans gay marriages.

However, the decision would allow single gay foster parents, which is already permitted in some parts of the state.

Attorneys for the state Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services contended there was never any "unwritten gay policy" as the women suggested — the couple was denied a foster parents license last year simply because they were not married.

The two women say they do not seek to take in a foster child together or separately again but wanted to see the policies changed.

Brush fire danger to Everglades

MIAMI (AP) — Firefighters still fear an 8,500-acre brush fire might make a dash for Everglades National Park and the main highway link to the Florida Keys.

"We don't have any actual running fires right now," Louis Roper, state Forestry Division supervisor assigned to the fire said Tuesday. "The potential of the fire getting up and breaking out is still high."

Fire crews halted the flames within one-quarter mile of U.S. 1, the access road to Key Largo, but unseasonably low humidity and 15-mph winds kept worries alive.

"The fire is smoldering within the lines that are on it," Roper said.

The blaze, which started Wednesday, burned dried grass and brush atop a layer of mushy Everglades terrain, barring vehicles and making it difficult for firefighters to maneuver in the muck.

Plane crash kills 4

DEERFIELD BEACH — The pilot of a single-engine plane that crashed near a Deerfield Beach golf course lost control just before the crash that killed four, investigators said.

"We examined the airframe on Saturday, and there was no pre-impact failure or malfunction of the airframe or flight control system," said Tim Monville, an air safety instructor with the National Transportation Safety Board in Miami.

"We're doing an examination of the engine this Thursday to determine if there was any loss of power."

Monville said investigators were puzzled because even if the engine shut down, the pilot should have been able to glide in for a landing.

"A loss of power does not cause a loss of control," Monville said. "He lost control in flight."

The Cessna 172 Skyhawk II crashed and burned Friday near the Deer Creek Golf Club. The pilot, 26-year-old John Clay of Deerfield Beach, had taken off from Fort Lauderdale Executive Airport to take aerial photographs of the golf course.

Commission to renovate 'sick' complex

STUART — The Martin County Commission has agreed to renovate the county's "sick" courthouse complex after years of complaints about the air quality caused evacuation of the complex last year.

One commissioner suggested Monday that the two buildings should be sold or torn down.

"We're looking at something that's going to cost $4.5 (million) to $5 million and we'll still have an old building with an old roof," Commissioner Janet Gettig said during a special meeting Monday on repairing the complex.

Gettig balked at the idea of paying for a "patch up" repair job and suggested building a new courthouse that would have a longer life span.

But her fellow commissioners rejected the suggestion, saying they fear delays associated with a new building would be more costly in the long run.

Beard relationship probed

Bell South employee describes dating utilities chief

By BILL BERGSTROM
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — A woman who state Public Service Commissioner Tom Beard said he knew only through business told state lawyers the two shared beach houses and visited one another's homes for several months in late 1991 and early 1992.

Mary Daudelin, Atlanta staff manager for Bell South Corp., was interviewed by state attorneys probing Beard's relationship with her and his present romance with Southern Bell employee Alma Paruolo of Miami.

Also, Elise Nivica, Southern Bell's assistant manager for regulatory relations in Tallahassee, who dates a PSC telecommunications analyst, was questioned by state attorneys Tuesday.

Attorney General Bob Butterworth's office is trying to determine whether to ask that Beard be removed from cases involving Southern Bell.

Meanwhile, the Florida Department of Law Enforcement is investigating travel by Beard on state expense accounts. Agents spent more than four hours interviewing the commissioner Monday and Tuesday.

Beard didn't return calls to his office and home Tuesday for comment.

In response to earlier questions about his telephone records, he said calls to Daudelin were on business, relating to work with the National Association of Regulatory Utility Commissioners.

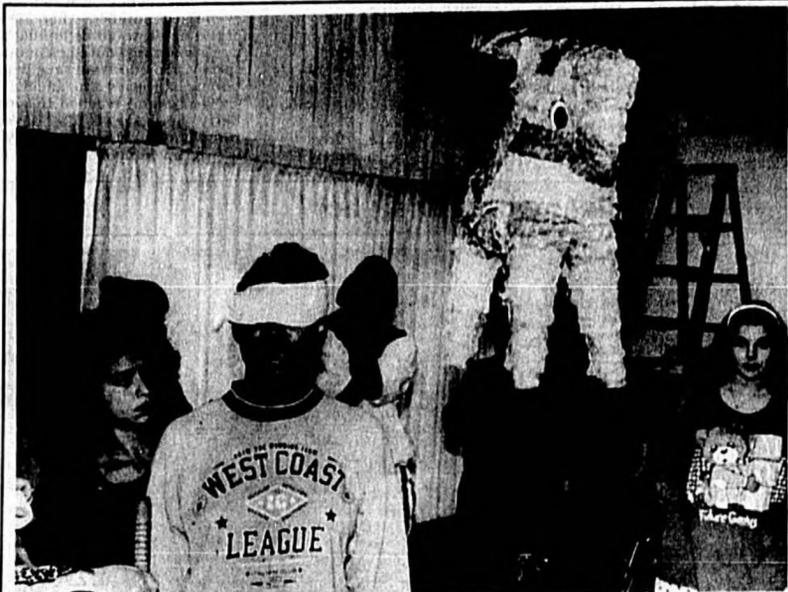

But Daudelin said when interviewed Monday in Atlanta that she and Beard met at the airport after a November 1991

NARUC conference in San Antonio, discussed raising children as single parents, and exchanged home telephone numbers.

Later that month, Beard drove to Atlanta and stayed at her house for a weekend, she told the investigators.

Several weeks later, they spent the weekend together at a house she rented at St. George, and at New Years' they and their children spent several days at St. George, she said.

Daudelin said the relationship tapered off after a spring break weekend at St. George and ended as she became more concerned about pending Florida legislation that would bar off-the-record contacts between utility regulators and those they regulate.

Suspect in tourist burning strikes plea, changes story

By JAMES MARTINEZ
Associated Press Writer

TAMPA — Prosecutors have struck a plea deal for the testimony of a teen-age suspect who has so far given three different versions of the New Year's Day burning of a black tourist.

"It is for the jury to determine whether to believe or disbelieve," State Attorney Harry Lee Coe said in announcing the deal Tuesday.

Under the bargain, 18-year-old Jeffrey Ray Pellett is to testify against fellow white laborers Mark Kohut, 26, and Charles Rourke, 33, in return for a guilty plea to an accessory charge that carries no more than 22 months in prison.

And while federal charges in the case are still under review by the Justice Department, Pellett agreed to plead guilty to the federal charge of aiding and abetting an armed carjacking. It carries a maximum 25-year term, but Pellett was expected to receive substantially less.

The deal came less than two weeks before the suspects were to face trial in the attempted murder, kidnapping and robbery of Christopher Wilson of New York City.

Police say Wilson was abducted at gunpoint from a suburban shopping plaza and forced to drive to a remote field, where he was taunted with racial slurs, doused with gasoline and set ablaze. The 32-year-old brokerage clerk from Brooklyn is recovering from burns over nearly 40 percent of his body.

While attorneys in the case would not give details of Pellett's latest version of events, they all acknowledged it is different from versions he has given in the past.

Pellett's testimony could be crucial because the state has acknowledged having no physical evidence tying the accused to the crime.

"It's going to be tough for them to hang their case on Jeffrey Pellett," said Public Defender Julianne Holt, Kohut's attorney. Pellett "has not been candid with anyone. He's changed his story too often."

Pellett was arrested six days after the attack and implicated his two labor pool buddies. He originally told detectives he followed in a separate vehicle when Rourke and Kohut kidnapped Wilson and that he wasn't there when the burning took place.

Smith pleads guilty

Congressman admits fraud, tax evasion

By Associated Press

MIAMI — Backers of Larry Smith once urged voters to "send Mr. Smith to Washington," a play on the Jimmy Stewart role as an idealistic, anti-corruption politician in the movie "Mr. Smith Goes to Washington."

Now, Smith is hoping a federal judge won't send him to prison.

The former five-term congressman pleaded guilty Tuesday to federal charges of tax evasion and filing a false campaign report.

Asked by U.S. District Judge Donald Graham if he agreed with the allegations, Smith sighed and said "Yes, your honor."

The judge approved release on a $150,000 bond for Smith, a Democrat, who surrendered earlier to agents at the Miami FBI office. Graham scheduled sentencing for July 30.

After leaving the courthouse, Smith said he felt ashamed and apologized to his friends, family and constituents for "unfortunate mistakes."

"I hope they can find it in their hearts to forgive me," Smith said.

Smith, 52, could face up to five years in prison on each of the two counts, along with maximum fines of $250,000 on each. His attorney, Neal Sonnett, had said he hoped Smith would receive probation, but federal authorities said sentencing guidelines indicate a prison term of 16 months.

In a plea bargain announced last week, Smith agreed to admit a single count of filing a false tax return in 1988 and one count of making a false statement to the Federal Election Commission in 1990.

The false statement concerned $10,000 in campaign funds that went to personal use, including paying a $4,000 casino gambling debt in the Bahamas.

The painting focuses on 'Monkey Island' which was the center of attraction at the original Sanford zoo in existence from 1925 until 1975. The zoo was located at Seminole Boulevard and N. Park Avenue, the site of the present City Hall. Mayor Bettye Smith accepted the gift. The painting is now on display at the city hall.

Inmate tells details of bay murders

By The Associated Press

CLEARWATER — A former cellmate of Obba Chandler said he could finger Chandler's accomplice and that the accused killer confessed to murdering an Ohio mother and her two daughters.

The inmate said Chandler gave him details of the killings and told him of the second person involved in the crime. "He (Chandler) was lonely, scared and looking for someone to confide in," said the inmate, who asked to remain anonymous during a newspaper interview because he feared retaliation.

The 32-year-old inmate said he refused to identify the second person for prosecutors because he wants to use the identity as a bargaining chip, according to a story published in Tuesday's Tampa Tribune.

Investigators long have believed a second person was involved in the slayings of Joan Rogers, 36, and her two daughters, 17-year-old Michelle and 14-year-old Christie, during a boat ride on Tampa Bay during their vacation four years ago. To date, only Chandler has been charged.

Chandler told the victims to "swim for it" after he and his partner bound, gagged and tossed them into Tampa Bay, the inmate said he was told. The inmate described the second person as a buddy of Chandler's.

The inmate, who is awaiting disposition of felony theft-related charges, said he gave details of his conversations with Chandler to prosecutors two months ago.

The inmate's attorney declined comment on whether his client has been questioned, citing ethical restrictions. Phyllis Pasco Chief Assistant State Attorney Bruce Bartlett said he could neither confirm nor deny that the inmate was interviewed.

Jail records said the inmate and Chandler at one time were in the same cell block.

Chandler, 48, was indicted in November on three counts of first-degree murder in the deaths, which occurred while the women were on their first vacation away from their Williams, Ohio, dairy farm.

The bodies floated to the surface on June 4, 1989, three days after police believe they were killed. Chandler and the second person had assaulted the two daughters then tied up the women and tossed them into the bay, the inmate said Chandler told him.

Chandler tentatively is scheduled to stand trial Nov. 29.

A profile on the case by the FBI suggested the possibility of more than one killer because of the "total" control over the victims, as well as the lack of contusions and other wounds that would have shown a struggle.

Lawmakers mull early prison releases, sentencing guidelines

By CURT ANDERSON
Associated Press Writer

TALLAHASSEE — The House and Senate were searching for compromise after passing vastly different bills to change criminal sentences and expand early prison release to keep serious offenders behind bars longer.

The House-Senate conference committee was named Tuesday night to look for an agreement, but prospects were uncertain.

"I'm not encouraged that the House and Senate can get together," said Senate President Ander Crenshaw, R-Jacksonville. "We're going to try."

Even with a 10,800-bed, $211 million prison expansion program that seems headed for quick approval in the special session called by Gov. Lawton Chiles, the Department of Corrections may be forced to release increasingly dangerous inmates before their sentences are up.

The department faces gridlock by fall because it is running out of those now eligible for early release. The group is at 2,700 now and shrinking.

Under a bill (CS-HB 39H) passed by the House 60-44, gridlock would be delayed for several months by allowing early release of some drug traffickers, including those who peddle drugs near schools, who are now ineligible. Non-violent habitual offenders would also be made eligible for release for the first time.

About 5,000 inmates would gain eligibility for early release under the plan.

The Senate version, however, would allow release only of non-violent habitual offenders. Senators voted 31-6 for an amendment that would keep the 2,200 drug offenders out of the group eligible for early release, which could lead to release of more serious felons to deal with overcrowding.

The Senate voted 33-5 for its sentencing bill (SB 44B) and 27-10 for its release bill (SB 26).

The House and Senate both want to raise the population limit triggering early releases from 97.5 percent of the prison system's capacity to 99 percent, clearing space for 788 more beds.

The proposed change didn't sit well with prosecutors and the Florida Sheriffs Association, which wants an even larger prison construction program and no early releases. Columbia County Sheriff Tom Tramel said there's no such thing as a non-violent inmate.

"These are bad, violent people who pose an immediate threat to the people of this state," Tramel said.

"The luxury that the state attorneys and sheriffs have is, they can take a hard line on crime without having to pay for that position," responded House Speaker Bolley "Bo" Johnson.

One major difference between the House and Senate is how to handle credits awarded to inmates simply to control overcrowding. The Senate version would erase all such credits for about 4,500 inmates again in a year or two — while the House bill would stop awarding them in the future.

The House also sets aside $133 million in existing cigarette taxes, the source earmarked by Chiles, to be spent on prisons beginning in July 1994. The Senate did not include the provision.

The idea behind both sentencing bills is to overhaul guidelines used by judges to sentence criminals so that less serious offenders are kept out of the main prison system, freeing space for the hard-core criminals.

Both sides want to end the "basic gain-time" credits awarded to prisoners simply for showing up, which usually shaves one-third off their sentences immediately.

Another fee? It can't be!

The Lake Mary City Commission tabled a proposed services fee ordinance Thursday night. The move was a good one if the city is to continue its growth.

The fees would have been levied for police and fire service during the time a building is under final construction stages. Charges would be made from the issuance of a certificate of occupancy until the building is entered on the tax rolls.

The proposal would deal with private residences, multiple-family dwellings, hotels, commercial and professional buildings.

The original purpose sounded as though it would be beneficial. Until tax revenue is generated by a building, the cost of police and fire services is taken from the general fund. Citizens with property already on the tax rolls pay for it.

Under the suggested change, building owners would be charged certain amounts which would go into the city coffers, and help defray the expense.

On the other side of the situation however, this is nothing more than a poorly disguised method of taxation. Had the measure been approved, people putting up new homes or commercial facilities would have to pay the fees even before the property could be assessed and placed on the official tax rolls.

This would be in addition to the impact fee paid during construction which covers police, fire, parks, water, sewer and roads. For residential housing, the charges also include library and school fees.

The impact fee money can only be used for capital improvements however. The services fee was to have helped compensate operational costs for police and fire services.

When he suggested the constant seeking of additional fees must stop somewhere.

Tax paying citizens financing services to non-tax paying citizens has been a way of life. A person building a structure in Lake Mary in 1980 had his services paid for by taxpayers who were already there. After having his property placed on the tax roll, that same man would help pay for someone else's construction in 1985, who would help another person in 1990, etc.

If a city, regardless of whether it's Lake Mary, Sanford or some other, continues to seek ways to squeeze more money out of the people, residential as well as commercial growth is going to stop.

Many people are already paying high taxes. Sneaking this one in under a disguise would be a disaster.

The matter was tabled in Lake Mary, until the commission can watch what happens when other cities, including Sanford, bring up similar proposals in the future.

Regardless of when and in what city this comes up, we urge citizens to be aware. This type of tax must be rejected.

If allowed to pass, it will only add to the cost of building and have a drastic impact on the growth and economy of a city.

Humane Society fire

Boy, oh boy! Jean Sargeant's letter to the editor criticizing the Humane Society of Seminole County must have touched a raw nerve for so many people to have responded with such condemnation. Could it be that there was an element of truth in what she said?

I have never heard her recommend killing any animal. She has always crusaded for their "well being." Her generosity with time and money has never been questioned when it comes to animals. If, as the letter writers say "she wants to perform euthanasia on them," why does she have so many dogs? Even her friends and neighbors have been recruited to take some. All from humane societies.

Jean and a friend were at the shelter the night of the fire and they offered to take some of the animals. But they were turned down just as the Orlando Humane Society was turned down.

It's the letter writers who need to get a life. Jean already has one. It's to expose the "Inhumane" Society for what it is. Less than truthful and cruel to the animals in its care. For overcrowding is cruel and the 70 plus dogs that died in a fire caused by carelessness is proof of that. I have known Jean for 58 years and can vouch for the compassion she has for animals. You see, I am her brother.

Presidency: 'Clinton II' or 'Dole I'?

With President Clinton's poll ratings in near free fall (alas, deservedly so) the question arises: "How can this presidency be helped, to help America?"

To offer a constructive answer one must ask: Why did Clinton get into trouble? It is being said that Clinton is "unfocused" or is "focused on too many things at once."

Don't believe it. This president is in trouble because what he seems to stand for is troubling. Clinton, recall, ran for office saying, "both parties are brain dead." But he has tried to govern as if only Republicans are. He's done a very good imitation of giving away his political birthright to the liberal wing of his party, and in some cases to the doctrinaire left wing of his party. (I do not know why.)

This liberal tilt is apparent with regard to his budget plan, which was designed "to get all the Democrats on board." That turned out to mean all the liberal Democrats. That turned out to mean more taxes, more spending, more government, and not much deficit reduction. That left many of his original moderate Democratic supporters feeling betrayed. They are now figuring out how to work with moderate Republicans to gently and graciously stop Clinton before he spends again.

Even more egregious are some of the ideological symbols that have been set forth by the Clinton administration. The nomination of Professor Lori Guinier as the head of the powerful Civil Rights Division of the Justice Department is a case in point. She believes in quotas, in super-quotas, in minority vetoes, in minority fiat, and that all this can be done by interpreting the law as she sees it.

But why does she think it is necessary? Because this Vicar of Victimization believes that "homogeneous majorities" (that is, whites of both parties) act regularly together in legislatures to keep blacks down. Haven't you noticed that Sen. Ted Kennedy (white) and Sen. Jesse Helms (white) vote alike?

What can Clinton do? Regroup on the budget. Luckily for America, Clinton's current plan will likely hit the wall. A switch of only one Democratic senator on the finance committee could derail it. At least two moderate Democrats, David Boren, D-Okla., and John Breaux, D-La., are considering plans to do that, constructively, working in concert with Republicans John Danforth, R-Mo., and John Chafee, R-R.I. Their plan is right on target: Change the 2-to-1 ratio of new taxes over spending cuts to 2-to-1 the other way.

Other Democratic moderates are promoting a variety of ideas to slow down spending and cut deficits. The American economy should improve in direct proportion to how much the existing Clinton plan is rolled back to where it should have been originally.

Clinton should get in front of the wave and put forth a revised plan of the sort that moderate Democrats are proposing. It could be known as "Clinton II." He has another choice: He can fight for his old scheme, probably lose, and watch a new, good plan take shape, possibly to be called "Dole I."

This president is in trouble because what he seems to stand for is troubling.

Assisted suicide: Shifting guilt

BOSTON — This time the news stories got it right. No banner headlines screaming "Dr. Death Strikes Again." No heated descriptions of the "serial mercy killer."

When Dr. Jack Kevorkian was found, for the 16th time, beside a dead body, the reporters and copy editors all knew the drill. They wrote, carefully, that he had "witnessed" another suicide. They described the gas mask and the canister of carbon monoxide used by Ron Mansur. They didn't write about euthanasia but about assisted suicide.

After all, it's now three years since Janet Adkins, an Oregon woman with Alzheimer's, traveled to Michigan to seek out the pathologist and his suicide machine. In that amount of time, Dr. Kevorkian has become as well-known as Dr. Spock. The debate has moved from the sensational to the serious.

The self-described "obstetrician" has had his medical license revoked and been charged with murder three times. He forced the debate about doctor-assisted suicide out of the ethics class and onto the national agenda. He forced the Michigan legislature to pass a statute forbidding doctor-assisted suicide.

Finally, before he could be charged with breaking that law, last week a Michigan court struck it down on a technicality. Kevorkian is temporarily, at least, still in business.

Through all this time, however, reading about one death after another, I have wondered about more than medical ethics and the law. I have wondered why these people went to the Michigan specialist for their deaths.

Janet, Sherry, Marjorie, Susan, Lois, Catherine, Marguerite, Merceia, Jack, Stanley, Mary, Elaine, Hugh, Martha, Jonathon and now Ron were all capable of committing suicide themselves. Most of them had family and friends. Why did they go to Kevorkian?

I raise this grim question, in part, because Kevorkian is the last person I would want as my shepherd. This peculiar man never had a live patient before he began dealing in death. His first cause was promoting the harvesting of organs from death-row inmates. His second was a chain of suicide clinics. He does not have the manner for my final bedside moments.

But this question also goes to the heart of the discussion about whether doctors should be allowed, even expected, to assist suicide: Why would we call on them to perform this role or make these decisions? Why doctors?

The simple answer is that doctors have been the gate-keepers of the information and the medicines with which to painlessly end life.

The simple answer is that we may require help if we are physically unable to even pick up a vial of pills. People are afraid of botching the job. In pain, ill-health, they turn naturally to their family doctors.

But there are times when the simple answers may be too simple. After all, Dr. Kevorkian is nobody's family doctor. For that matter, in an era of HMOs and emergency care as primary care, there are fewer intimate doctors. Then too, information about a painless death is widely available today without a doctor.

If the discussion about suicide for the painfully, perhaps terminally ill has focused on doctors and doctor assistance, it may be for another reason. It may be part of the way we are professionalizing everything.

In our culture, birth most often takes place in a hospital. Death does as well. We shift our problems from family and friends to Ph.D.s and M.D.s. We go to doctors with emotional problems. What were once moral problems — drug abuse, for example — are now medical problems. For many people, including the very ill, suicide is also a moral problem. Now, I suspect, some are subconsciously looking to medicine not just for help but for a seal of approval, some official moral permission slip to end their life.

"We haven't squared our desire to make life and death choices with our willingness to take the responsibility," says ethicist Art Caplan. "Instead of swallowing pills in our own room with loved ones, we can have a doctor put a gas mask on. It shifts the guilt."

Maybe it's fitting that this debate about moral responsibility should take place on Jack Kevorkian's turf. Kevorkian is a death technocrat, nothing more.

But as the discussion about doctors, patients and the law goes on — and it will — the focus also widens. These searing questions require the moral attention of family and friends. Life and death are not just for the professionals.

They didn't write about euthanasia but about assisted suicide.

NCAA on wrong kind of mission

When I heard that Dick Schultz had resigned, my mind surged with cliches about people who ride tigers and people who get hoisted by their own petards.

Schultz, for those who do not follow sports, is the executive director of the National Collegiate Athletic Association, the confederation that regulates the games played by institutions of higher learning. Before he took the NCAA job in 1987, he was the athletic director at the University of Virginia.

During his tenure there, it now turns out, a booster club improperly loaned money to student athletes. Schultz claims he knew nothing of the loans, but will resign to protect the NCAA's credibility.

It befits Schultz's image to abdicate as act of principle. He is a lay preacher and a deeply religious man. He touts standards, reform and purity in athletic programs. He believes in stern retribution for offenders. When he left the University of Virginia, Business Week magazine headlined his story, "Mr. Clean Comes to the NCAA." When he quit the NCAA, The Washington Post described him as a man "who built a reputation based on integrity during a 40-year career in college sports."

I have a different opinion — one shared, perhaps, by one person in a thousand. I think the NCAA is a capricious, imperious, heartless, obtuse organization dedicated to the promulgation of arcane, complicated and arbitrarily enforced rules. And I think Dick Schultz is a wower, a Lord Protector bent on rooting out the wicked. He has not been regulating college sports so much as he has been on a moral crusade.

That's what I think. Before I go on, I wish the record to show that I believe college sports are in dire need of regulation. I believe that university presidents should control athletic departments. I believe the money they generate should be used to support the institutions at large. I believe that athletes should be held to the same academic standards as the general student population. And I believe that corruption should be punished.

I speak of real corruption — cash payoffs, free cars, changing grades, cheating on exams. But too many times, the infractions are minor, yet they are probed — and sometimes punished — as if they were tantamount to felony. To wit:

When two basketball players at the University of Nevada-Las Vegas posed in expensive suits for a Sports Illustrated spread, the NCAA investigated to see if they were participating in an advertisement. Why? Because the magazine identified the manufacturer of their suits in the photo credits.

When Duke University basketball player Christian Laettner agreed to keep a diary of his senior year for possible publication in GQ magazine — after his graduation — the NCAA swooped down to check whether he had signed a contract. "I don't think we would distinguish between an oral or written agreement," solemnly intoned one NCAA official.

When the University of Maryland investigated itself and found that its basketball team had violated some rules, the coach under whose tutelage the wrongs occurred was fired and the file was turned over to the NCAA with a plea for mercy. The NCAA responded by pummeling the school with three years of probation, loss of two scholarships and banishment from post-season play for two years and from television for one — as a result of which the team was exiled from its own conference tournament.

It befits Schultz's image to abdicate as act of principle.

Former employees sue

By Associated Press

CAMDEN, N.J. — Three black former employees at the U.S. Attorney's Office in Newark have filed a discrimination lawsuit alleging their white superiors made derogatory racial and sexual comments.

The former employees, all women, claim they were denied promotions while working for a contractor and assigned to the U.S. Justice Department in Newark. The lawsuit contends the plaintiffs created "a hostile and almost impossible work environment."

The eight-page lawsuit filed Monday in U.S. District Court in Camden names six federal prosecutors and two Justice Department employees. It also names Ebon Research Systems, a black-owned Florida contractor, which hired the women.

A spokesman for the U.S. Attorney's Office said he had not seen the lawsuit and declined comment Tuesday.

Florence J. Hicks Alexander, who is black and president and owner of Ebon, was not in her Altamonte Springs, office and did not return telephone calls seeking comment.

The lawsuit claims the defendants, beginning in April 1991, made offensive racial and sexual comments to the women. A document, containing derogatory racial remarks, remained on an office bulletin board for three weeks, the lawsuit said.

The plaintiffs are Sharmon D. Bailey, of East Orange; Carmen B. Stephens, of Elizabeth; and Ida D. Brown, of Montville.

The women also claim they were passed over for promotions given to less-qualified whites, given poor evaluations and threatened with disciplinary action when they complained. They also contend they were forced to perform menial jobs normally done by the janitorial staff.

According to the lawsuit, the women complained to officials at Ebon's headquarters but no action was taken. Ebon had a government contract to supply employees to the Justice Department.

The lawsuit seeks punitive and compensatory damages and to have the women reinstated to their former jobs.

- Decided not to discuss a land swap/pace trade with the county school board at this time.
- Accepted a $50,000 grant from the Department of Corrections. The money will be used for a work-release center at Five Points. The 24-bed facility, a pre-fabricated modular building adjacent to the present correctional facility is expected to cost $80,000 for construction and site preparation.

- Okayed the collection of the Tourist Development Tax by the clerk of the court and local tax collector rather than the State of Florida. By collecting the tax locally, the county would not have to wait for distribution of the money.
- Approved a request to extend the filing deadline to May 1, 1994 for Heathrow Town Center PUD final master plan. The property is located on the west side of I-4, north of Paola Road. The project is for a 1,340,000 square foot shopping center. The required deadline was December 4, 1992. The delay in filing was attributed to an appeal of the requirement for providing low/very low income housing. The appeal has recently been resolved, according to the petitioner.

Report

Hagerty, who arrived in Seminole County a year ago, was evaluated by each of the board members.

Member Barbara Kuhn thought Hagerty's performance should be "a B-plus or better."

Hagerty's job performance will be evaluated annually. He will continue to hold his position as long as the board agrees that he is performing well.

"I think he's done very, very well in his first year," said school board member Larry Strickler. "I've been very pleased."

In almost all areas, Hagerty was graded in at least the mid-level range.

The only area in which any board member gave Hagerty a less than acceptable rating was in the area headed "insists on effective performance from subordinates and subordinates."

Board comments in that area included that Hagerty was "still exploring ground" in that area, that he should "continue to evaluate effectiveness of administrative participation" and that "reorganization efforts are steps toward higher standards."

The superintendent scored high marks in the areas of rapport building both within the district and in the community.

"Visibility has been great," was a comment from the board members.

He also earned high marks for integrity from the board, who called him a "role model for education and professionalism."

They also praised him for maintaining consistency in interaction with the staff, board members and the community.

The board had insisted on a strong business leader when they conducted the search for a new superintendent last year. Hagerty received strong marks in the areas of "quality control and cost effectiveness."

Hagerty was lauded for his communications skills. Board members commented that as he has become more comfortable in the community his "warmth and humor are more evident."

Board members also gave Hagerty high marks in the area of "organizational sensitivity," saying that he did especially well in responding to suggestions and complaints in a timely manner and that he operates in a style appropriate to site-based management.

Hagerty responds well to the needs of all community groups, the board commented, because he is "approachable" and because he "listens to and incorporates input from local business and community resources."

While the board members felt the grading tool was very effective in evaluating the superindependent on his first year's performance on the job, some believe the format needs to be fine tuned.

The grading tool was a compilation of other grading instruments being used around the state. It was put together by Wayne Blanton of the Florida School Boards Association.

"It's a very loose instrument," Kuhn, an educator and psychologist, said. "I think that together it presents a picture that is accurate and that shows he has been doing a good job."

Strickler agreed.

"Some of these questions are not necessary and there are others that need to be added," he said.

Kuhn added, "I think the instrument can be improved, but I think Dr. Hagerty is doing a fine job."

Hagerty's salary, $97,000, will be reviewed at a future date.

County in the one-day sweep yesterday.

For the first violation, we usually give a written or verbal warning to the home owner," he said. "The second warning results in a $80 fine for a residence, and $100 for a business."

He added that fines for continuous violations could climb to as high as $500 to $1,000, with some cases even being taken into court if the need arises.

Seminole County Manager Ron Rabun called the sweep a "wake-up call." "The restrictions are always on the books," he said. "It's just that people are ignoring the SJRWM edict and when we have the lack of rainfall we've had recently, the problem becomes more of an urgency."

In Sanford, City Program Coordinator Bill Marcous said his office has been inundated with calls from people wanting to be hooked up to the reclaimed water system. "There are no restrictions on using that type of water," Marcous said. "The city issues special tags which are displayed where the reclaimed irrigation is available, and they wouldn't fall under the restrictions."

Marcous commented, "Getting a neighborhood hooked up to this reclaimed system however, takes a great deal of planning and time, and requires lines to be near the area."

"This isn't something that can be arranged on the spur of the moment when there is a low water level," he added.

At the present time, only about 10 percent of the city has the reclaimed water service.

Christie's pulls maltese falcon from auction

By CATHERINE CROOKER
Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK — More than a half-century after Sam Spade got dragged into a quest for the maltese falcon, the bird is at the center of a new mystery.

Christie's auction house has dropped plans to auction a resin version of the statuette because it can't prove it actually appeared in the 1941 Humphrey Bogart classic "The Maltese Falcon."

Ara Chekmayan, a director and Emmy-winning film editor, paid $8 for the 6-pound statuette at a flea market in New Jersey two years ago and took it to the auction house in March. After consulting experts in film memorabilia, Christie's was confident it had the real thing and valued it at $30,000 to $50,000.

But on May 17, the auction house withdrew the falcon from the June 19 sale because of questions about its authenticity, spokesman Todd Merrill said Tuesday.

There is a consensus among film memorabilia experts that Chekmayan's mahogany-colored bird was held by Bogart in a publicity still for the Warner Brothers movie. Like other props used by the studio, it has the letters "WB" etched on the base, followed by a number.

The big question is whether it was used in the movie.

Chekmayan said it probably was. But a retired Beverly Hills dental disagree, Dr. Gary Milan owns the only other falcon known to exist, a lead one weighing 40 to 50 pounds that was filmed perched on Sydney Greenstreet's desk in the movie. Chekmayan doesn't dispute that Milan's falcon was in the movie but argues it was too heavy for Bogart to carry around, so a lighter, resin statuette was used for some scenes.

Milan's bird recently was in a Warner Brothers retrospective that traveled from the Pompidou Centre in Paris to the Museum of Modern Art in New York. The value of Chekmayan's bird, Milan said, "is greatly dependent to being seen on the screen."

By April 23, enough doubts had been raised that Christie's was saying only that the resin bird had been "created for the movie." Christie's asked Warner Brothers to authenticate the bird, and when it couldn't, the auction house pulled it.

Top waste watcher

Nayda Lopez, manager of the Sanford P.O. Mail and More, received the Waste Watcher Award Tuesday on behalf of the store from Seminole County Commissioner Larry Furlong. Store employees reuse boxes and polystyrene "peanuts" in packing material for shipment. Old newspapers are recycled by shredding them for filler materials. Store employees wash and reuse plastic eating utensils and use ceramic coffee cups. The Waste Watcher Award is given in the county's campaign to "Reduce, Recycle, Reuse."

Hollywood connection: TV producer pops up

By LYNN ELBER
AP Television Writer

LOS ANGELES — It may be just a bit part, but TV producer Harry Thomason keeps popping up in President Clinton's soap opera of continuing political gaffes.

Clinton gets his hair trimmed while Air Force One idles; Thomason introduced him to the $200-a-cut stylist. The White House messily sends its travel staff packing; Thomason had asked about getting business for his own travel company.

On Tuesday, reporters grilled presidential spokesman George Stephanopoulos about why the White House is taking phone messages for Thomason — who has a "resident's pass" of the type usually given the first family.

"If I have done anything that would hurt the president, then of course, I would be terribly sorry," the "Designing Women" creator said Tuesday night when questioned about the travel-office flap in a CNN interview with Larry King.

"In my heart," he continued, "I think I did what this president's mandate was — to come in here (and say) 'We're gonna clean up things, we're gonna make things run like a business.'"

In all of this, Thomason has not been accused of any wrongdoing, and some observers call it unfair to blame him for Clinton's public relations missteps.

But the new president should consider himself warned, they say: Beware of the pitfalls of old friendships. And don't let Hollywood's dazzle blind you.

"All presidents in the past have had to be careful about the people they're around," said political consultant Joe Cerrell, who helped manage John F. Kennedy's 1960 campaign. "There's also a tendency of public officials to be somewhat starstruck, to be somewhat in awe of the Hollywood crowd."

Thomason's friendship with Clinton goes back to the 1960s, when Thomason was a high school football coach in Arkansas and Clinton was a student.

Thomason and his wife, Linda Bloodworth-Thomason, have produced such TV shows as "The Fall Guy," "Evening Shade" and "Hearts Afire." Hillary Rodham Clinton's father, Hugh Rodham, appeared in an episode of "Hearts Afire."

The 51-year-old Thomason is a heavyset figure with thick silvery hair, a beard and a gentle Southern accent. Despite his success in Hollywood, he has the kind of personality and casual dress that would not be out of place back in Arkansas.

Thomason and his wife helped create that down-home image for their old friend.

The talk is of taxes and Btu's

By DOUG FERGUSON
Associated Press Writer

STROUD, Okla. — There are two constants at Wright's Restaurant: A dozen or so men gather around a long table every day for breakfast, and the talk always gets around to government and taxes.

They don't trust government and they don't like taxes. Sometimes it's the other way around. "If we handled the money at this table the way they handle it in Washington, we wouldn't be able to come here and buy a cup of coffee," said Grover Keys, who did just that Tuesday.

Lately the talk has been about President Clinton's energy tax, which was headed for a House vote Thursday. The tax, part of his economic package, is pegged to the heat content of specific fuels, as measured in Btu, or British thermal units.

It would affect almost every form of energy, from oil and natural gas to coal and nuclear.

"You won't find anybody in this town who supports it," said Joe Talbert, 72, a retired sales representative for a company that makes oil field equipment.

Stroud is an oil and agriculture town of about 3,000, known mostly for being the halfway point on the Turner Turnpike between Oklahoma City and Tulsa.

The men who stop by the restaurant near old Route 68 for coffee, oatmeal, biscuits and gravy, and a plateful of opinions say the energy tax is another example of tax-and-spend, though they're not exactly sure what a Btu tax would mean to them.

How much will they pay for gas? How much will their utility bills increase? How much more can they expect to pay for anything that uses energy to make?

"I haven't sat down and figured it out yet, and I don't even know that I could," said 84-year-old Loren Crouch.

"I know it's more than what I want to pay," said Bill Blaney, 62, a contract pumper and cattleman. "Whatever they tell you, just double it."

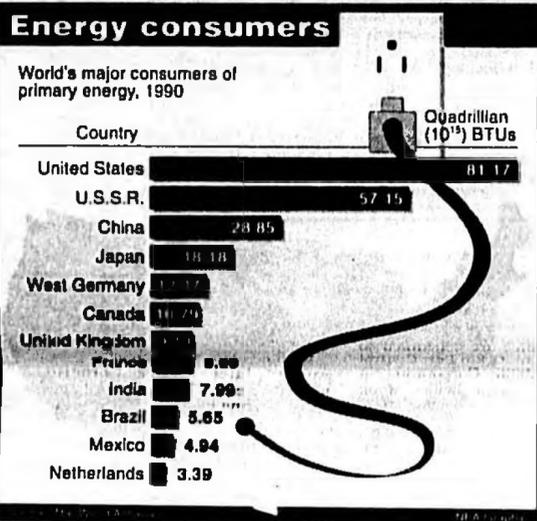

"This is a politician's dream — tax 'em, and they'll never know how much they're being taxed," Talbert said.

A poll of 500 Oklahomans commissioned by the American Energy Alliance shows 62 percent oppose Clinton's energy tax. Sixteen percent believe the revenue will go toward more spending instead of reducing the deficit. The poll had a margin of error of plus or minus 4.5 percentage points.

"This will ruin us," says Milton Wolff, 61, who owns a feed and supply store. "The cost of just about every purchase will go up. It's going to make my fertilizer go up." Natural gas is used to make most common fertilizers.

Sen. David Boren, D-Okla., and Sen. John Danforth, R-Mo., offered an alternative plan last week that eliminates the energy tax and makes $2 in spending cuts for every $1 in taxes.

Crouch, still angry that Boren didn't take a stand quickly enough against lifting the ban on homosexuals in the military, said he was glad to see Boren "finally get off the fence."

In 1990, the United States was, by a large margin, the world's biggest consumer of energy. The former Soviet Union was the second largest consumer.

"Well, he still says he's for taxes," Talbert countered. Most of the men are Democrats who, like the rest of Oklahoma, tend to vote Republican when choosing a president. But the blame for the deficit gets placed on just about everyone in public office, beginning with Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Lee Henderson ran his own oil field service company until returning two years ago at 65, earlier than he had planned because, he said, he got tired of losing $25,000 a year of his $60,000 salary to taxes.

"I'm a World War II veteran and I am dedicated to our country and our government, but it's gone to hell in a handbasket," he said. "Any tax bothers me, just the attitude of tax and spend."

AROUND THE NATION

Cooke blanks Marlins

PITTSBURGH — Steve Cooke, only seven months old when pitching opponent Charlie Hough made his major-league debut in Pittsburgh, tossed a four-hitter for his first shutout and doubled in the only runs in the Pirates' 2-0 victory over the Florida Marlins on Tuesday.

The 23-year-old Cooke (2-2) didn't allow a runner past second base to outduel the 46-year-old Hough (2-5), who debuted by striking out Willie Stargell on Aug. 12, 1970, when Three Rivers Stadium was only 18 games old.

The expansion Marlins, playing the Pirates for the first time, managed only three singles after Benito Santiago's first-inning double and never did advance a runner to third.

Chattanooga bests O-Cubs

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. — John Cortright gave up three hits, no runs, allowed three walks and had nine strikeouts through eight innings as the Chattanooga Lookouts defeated Orlando 6-4 Tuesday night in Southern League play.

The Lookouts had a 6-0 lead going into the ninth inning, when Chris Ebricht hit a three-run homer, his first of the season.

Nashville edges Suns

NASHVILLE, Tenn. — Mike Durant's sacrifice fly in the eighth broke a tie and helped Nashville defeat the Jacksonville Suns 4-3 in Tuesday's Southern League game.

Mike McDonald's triple had tied the score 3-3 for the Xprens, before Durant's winning hit.

Jacksonville scored its three runs on Aubrey Wagner's RBI single and two bases-loaded walks by winning pitcher Bob McCrary (1-1).

Barkley named NBA MVP

PHOENIX — Charles Barkley never needs to be told how good he is. On Tuesday, the NBA told him anyway.

He is the league's MVP, beating out the likes of Michael Jordan, Hakeem Olajuwon and Patrick Ewing. He is the first player since 1984 to win the award, other than Larry Bird, Magic Johnson and Jordan.

A nationwide panel of 98 NBA writers and broadcasters gave Barkley 59 first-place votes and 835 to 22 and 647 for Olajuwon, Jordan, who had won three times, including the last two years, got 13 first-place votes, and Ewing received four.

Barkley averaged 25.6 points, 12.2 and a career-high 5.1 assists.

When two undefeated teams go head to head, every run can be crucial. On Tuesday night at Pinehurst Park, Allan Truskauskas (No. 9) scored the first run of the game for the Orphans when the Gager Pest Control catcher couldn't hang on to the ball (right) when tagging Truskauskas on this play at the plate. The Orphans eventually rallied for three runs in the bottom of the seventh to pull out an 11-10 victory and lay sole claim to first place.

From Staff Reports

SANFORD — That's the way you hope a battle for first place would be decided.

Duke Ferrato hit a two-run triple to tie the score, then came in on Don Baldwin's single to rally the Orphans to a 11-10 win over Gager Pest Control in a battle between undefeated teams in the Sanford Recreation Tuesday Men's Slowpitch Softball League at Pinehurst Park.

In other games, Signature Homes topped Orkin Pest Control 13-3 and Mobil Tech picked up a forfeit win over the Mobilite Corporation.

Anderson wins disqualification, crash-marred Joslin Memorial

By PAUL MARSELLIA
Special to the Herald

ORLANDO — Wildwood's Dick Anderson survived a five-car pile-up and the searching eyes of technical inspectors to win the 100-lap Dick Joslin Memorial Late Model race last Friday, May 21, at Orlando Speedworld.

Anderson, the race runner-up, was awarded the winner's purse of $2,000 when apparent winner Jimmy Cope was disqualified after a post-race inspection revealed that he was running on illegal tires.

"I've won some like this and I've lost some like this," said Anderson. "This race wasn't just handed to me. I led a good part of it and fought to stay in second place the remainder of the time. "When you're a professional driver and you race for a living, you take the wins anyway that they fall."

Cope, on the other hand, was less philosophical.

"Getting disqualified is just plain b-----," he said. "If our tires were wrong, why didn't they tell us when they marked them for qualifying?"

Tech inspectors stated that the tires were marked with paint to assure that the drivers started the race with the same set of tires they qualified with. The tires were not inspected for compound or size.

The race was run in a format similar to that of the Winston NASCAR race this past Saturday night in that it had three segments. After beginning with a 50-lap run, the drivers went through a 20-lap charge before finishing with a 30-lap shootout.

There was a brief intermission between each event to allow the drivers time to work on their respective racers.

At the drop of the green flag by the honorary starter, State Representative Bill Pose, Pete Orr outduelled fellow pole sitter Cope for the point and went on to lead all 50 laps of the first segment.

Cope, who set the evening's fastest qualifying time, raced in second place until he was overtaken by Anderson, who started the event from the fifth position.

"I'm real pleased with the performance of the car after this first portion of the race," said Orr. The 1993 World Series Late Model champion. "The crew did a great job getting me ready for the race."

The line-up for the next 20 laps had Orr and Anderson on the pole. Anderson quickly took command with Orr, Cope, Ricky Till, and Mike Franklin in tow.

As Anderson and Orr battled for the lead, Cope and Franklin were being challenged by Ronnie Burkett, who got to the inside of Till four laps into the second segment.

With the checkers in sight, Orr came up short in his attempt to get around Anderson. Following the lead duo to the stripe were Cope, Burkett, Franklin, and Till.

"I really hate this format, but tonight, it worked in my favor," said Anderson. "In the other race, I had a tire starting to go down and the break gave me a chance to change it without losing any laps."

"I still don't like it. A 100-lap race should be racing as hard as you can from start to finish."

In the final 30-lap shootout, Anderson and Orr were paired again on the pole. This time, Orr jumped to the early lead, only to be reeled in by Anderson on the following lap. Every time Orr tried to get reclaim the lead, Anderson slammed the door.

Then, with six laps remaining, Orr nudged Anderson, setting off a five-car melee. Orr and Franklin went to the pits, out of competition for the evening, while Cope, Anderson, and Till, were able to continue.

"I ran out of race track on the high side, so I tried the low side and ran out of track there, too," said Orr. "We made contact and as I started to spin, another car hit me, busting the rear suspension."

Anderson told a different story.

"Pete (Orr) bashed me, plain and simple, he bashed me," said Anderson. "I'm not saying he did it intentionally, but he knocked me out. He was just frustrated. When I'm running second and can't get by the leader, I get frustrated also. Who knows? I might have tried the same thing."

On the restart, Anderson was put to the rear of the field with Cope inheriting the point as the race resumed.

It took Anderson two laps to work his way through slower traffic and close on Cope's rear bumper. Despite the pressure, Cope was successful in maintaining his advantage and crossed the line less than a car length ahead of Anderson.

"It's a shame the race turned out like this," said Cope. "I feel real bad for my crew and car owners. They do so much for me. They never lay down. They're always working and doing everything they can to help me win."

With Anderson declared the winner, Burkett moved up to second followed by Till, Charlie Regan Jr., and Orr. The race had six caution periods and three lead changes.

In other racing action last Friday night at the Orlando speedplant, Jacob Warren came out on top in the Limited Late Model main. Rounding out the top five were Gary Schlichter, Mike Branco, George Murphy, and Randy Cook.

Bill Loomis was the winner in the Sportsman feature race, finishing ahead of Paul Colgan, Jim Robinson, Barbara Pierce, and Walt Loggins.

Top spot in the Florida Modifieds division went to Donald Shedd, who beat Rob Rainey across the finish line. They were followed by Jon Compagnone Jr., Dave Savicki, and Sanford resident John Ripley.

Gene Van Alstine claimed the checkers in the Mini Stocks finale. Trailing him across the stripe were Jerry Symons, Richard Newton, Gene Merritta, and Bobby Sears.

After 8 years, Froemming notches first win

By PAUL MARSELLIA
Special to the Herald

NEW SMYRNA BEACH — After eight years of frustration, Orlando's Greg Froemming blasted to victory in the Late Model feature event last Saturday night, May 22, at New Smyrna Speedway.

"We did it," said the 42-year-old Froemming after claiming his first ever feature event win. "I can't believe it. We've been close so many times, but never got to victory lane. Last week's race was a good example; I'm leading with a couple of laps to go and we're involved in a wreck."

Froemming Racing has had a succession of bad luck. While leading a race at New Smyrna, a rear-end gear stripped with one lap to go, causing Froemming to drop from contention.

In another event, a spark plug wire burned itself in half midway through the race and once again, the checkered flag flew for someone else.

"I got to the point where we got numb about our racing," said Nan Froemming, the driver's wife. "Whenever a wreck happened, it was always close to us and, naturally, we got involved."

"I'm sure glad that's behind us. If a team deserves a win, it's ours."

The team's run of misfortune has been so long and so consistent that Froemming's crew was surprised when nothing happened.

"Every time Greg went by us tonight, I thought about all the things that happened to us in the past," said Larry Froemming, Greg's brother. "As he got closer to the checkered flag, I was just waiting for something to happen."

"I was probably more surprised than anyone else when he made it to victory lane to take the flag."

Fellow drivers shared in the elation of the Froemming crew.

"Man, it's really great," said Ed Meredith, who finished second to Froemming. "It's been long overdue. Greg finally got his first win. He's a super nice guy; his whole operation is first class. He ran us a real good race tonight. I really needed a caution to catch him but it never came."

"We've got a new car and a new team. After a lot of hard work, we're real close to having it all sorted out."

Bruce Lawrence, another veteran campaigner who finished third behind Froemming and Meredith, added "That's one guy you don't mind losing to. He always tried his best, he races you clean, and never complains when things go wrong. If anyone deserves a win, it's Greg and his crew."

Froemming started the race from the fifth position. By the third lap, he slipped to the inside of leader John Kennedy to assume the point. Once in command, Froemming was never challenged. By the midway point, he had a 12-car advantage over the second place car of Meredith.

Using lapped traffic, Froemming kept

Meredith at bay to notch the win. They were followed by Lawrence, Kennedy, and Bobby Blake.

Dave Savicki, driving the MOPAR Dodge Daytona, went green flag to checkers to take top honors in the Florida Modified main event. For Savicki, it was his fifth win of the season.

Barbara Pierce held off a late race challenge by Bill Loomis to win the Sportsman feature. Trailing the duo to the stripe were Art Chapman, Mike Yingling, and Walt Loggins.

Mike Hughes passed Wally Semrow with five laps to go and went on to win his sixth Bomber main event of the year. Semrow finished second with George Spears, Johnny Mitchell Jr., and Nilly Bellow in tow.

Keith Baiga was the winner of the Limited Late Model race. Finished second through fifth, respectively, were Claude Collignon, George Murphy, Jim Brazee, and Jacob Warren.

More than six months into the 1992-93 racing season, three-time FASCAR Mini Stock champion Bobby Sears finally got his first win of the year last weekend. Runner-up honors went to New Smyrna Beach driver Jerry Symons, also a three-time track champion. They were followed by Ted Vulpius, J.D. Duncan, and Mike Winn.

The posted finishing order for the Run-About class was Lee Wagner, Lyle Messinger, Andy Jacques, Bobby Kobb, and Melvin Wilks.

Pole-sitting Luyendyk in unenviable position

By STEVE HERMAN
AP Sports Writer

INDIANAPOLIS — Arie Luyendyk is like the class monitor whose job is to keep everyone else in line. It's a big responsibility, and he won't get much cooperation.

The 1990 Indianapolis 500 winner will start Sunday's race from the pole position. Besides a fat bonus with his paycheck, that means he's the one who has to set the pace as the 33 cars rocket toward the starting line.

They're not supposed to begin racing until they cross that line. Invariably, some of them try to move up too soon. That could mean trouble, and that's why the start is the most dangerous part of the race.

Especially this year.

"The strategy this year was to qualify as high as you can because it's going to be hard to pass," Luyendyk said Tuesday.

"Obviously, we've achieved that goal. It will be harder to pass."

The 2 1/2-mile track has a new look this year. The old track apron was replaced with two pit entrance and exit lanes separated from the track by grass and a rumble strip, making a narrower racing surface, especially in the turns.

"In 1990 I was third-quickest, in '91 I was third-quickest, last year I was fourth — all those qualifying runs were a lot easier," Luyendyk said of his four-lap, 223.967-mph average that put him on the pole for the first time in his career.

"The way the track's laid out ... it's really a one-groove race-track," he said. "Therefore, in the race, it's going to be more difficult, too, because you really don't have a lot of room to work with as far as driving behind someone."

"You can't say, well, I'm going to go below him, because you can't go there anymore. So you have a lot of problems with (air) turbulence, and it's going to be a different motor race than you've ever seen before at Indy."

Last year, pole-sitter Roberto Guerrero crashed on the parade lap; in 1991, Buddy Lazier locked his brakes and spun into the wall on the first lap; in 1989, Kevin Cogan crashed on the second lap; in 1988, Guerrero, Scott Brayton and Tony Bettenhausen were eliminated on the second turn of the first lap. First-lap crashes occurred five other times since the mid '80s, including a chain collision that eliminated 11 cars at the start of the 1986 race.

"When I went out to do my qualifying run, I wasn't thinking

I'm going to put it on the pole," Luyendyk said. "I was thinking I'm going to put it on the first two rows."

"If you go in the corner just a little too quick you'll run out of room coming off the corner. It seemed like I had to kind of poke myself the whole time to not go into the corner too quick."

Next to Luyendyk is Mario Andretti, a three-time pole starter who has led 484 laps at Indianapolis in his career but only one last year after starting from the outside of the front row. Raul Boesel of Brazil, who has led only one lap in six previous Indy starts, is on the outside this time.

Scott Goodyear, who has never led a lap but came within .043 seconds of victory last year, is starting on the inside of the second row, directly behind Luyendyk. Al Unser Jr., who beat Goodyear in the closest Indy finish in history, is in the middle of the second row, and Stefan Johansson of Sweden, the highest starter among five rookies, is on the outside of the second row.

"A change is a change. Good, bad or indifferent, you just deal with it," Andretti said.

"It may affect certain situations. It could affect the race in the way of passing more than it did before. ... We know that you can still go quick above the line. But you're not going to see too many real banzal passes like you've seen, because I hate like hell to really be forced to test those rumble strips, to be honest with you."

Canada's Paul Tracy, who replaced the retired Rick Mears as a full-time driver with Team Penske, echoed the same concern.

"I think the changes are going to make it harder to pass because now there is basically only one line through the corners, and to get past a guy you're going to have to set him up through the turns and then get him coming down the straight," Tracy said.

Chicken Fajitas is a tasty Mexican dish

Chicken, peppers a popular combo

Chicken goes well with other naturally nutritious foods and among the most popular current combinations is chicken with peppers.

Red, green, yellow, gold — fiery or mild — peppers add a fresh, crisp taste to many chicken dishes. Although native to the Americas and widely used in the cuisines of Mexico and to the south, cooked peppers were slow to be adapted into this country's everyday cookery.

The National Broiler Council developed two recipes (below) which use chicken with peppers. Chicken Fajitas is one of the most popular dishes to cross the border. Mild peppers are used but those who like them hot can substitute jalapenos pasillas or long green chili peppers.

Grilled Chicken Salad is another warm weather favorite. Anaheim peppers — a slightly hot variety — add a piquant touch to this tasty and wholesome salad.

CHICKEN FAJITAS

- 4 broiler-fryer skinless, boneless chicken breast halves
- 2 Tbsp. lime juice
- 2 Tbsp. lemon juice
- 4 Tbsp. orange juice
- 1 clove garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. chili powder
- 1/2 tsp. salt
- 2 Tbsp. canola oil
- 1 red sweet pepper, cut into strips
- 1 green sweet pepper, cut into strips
- 1 yellow pepper, cut into strips
- 1 onion, sliced into rings
- 10 flour tortillas, heated
- 1 cup sour cream
- 1 cup salsa
- 1/2 cup sliced black olives
- In medium bowl, mix together lime juice, lemon juice, orange juice and garlic. Sprinkle chicken with chili powder and salt. Set aside half of juice mixture for basting and in remainder, place chicken, turning to coat well. Cover and refrigerate chicken at least 30 minutes. On prepared grill or broiler rack about 6 inches from heat, place chicken. Cook, turning and basting with reserved marinade, about 10 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. In nonstick frypan, place oil and heat on medium temperature. Add peppers and onion and cook, stirring, until onion is transparent but still crisp, about 5 minutes. Slice chicken breasts into strips and add to pepper-onion mixture in frypan. Divide chicken-pepper mixture evenly in center of tortillas; top with dollop of sour cream, salsa and olives; fold tortillas. Makes 5 servings of 2 tortillas each.

GRILLED CHICKEN SALAD

- 1 1/2 lbs. broiler-fryer chicken tenders
- 2 Tbsp. prepared mustard
- 3/4 cup pineapple juice
- 3 Tbsp. soy sauce
- 2 Tbsp. red wine vinegar
- 1 Tbsp. honey
- 1 bunch leaf lettuce
- 1 can (14 ounces) pineapple tidbits
- 3 Anaheim peppers, sliced in rings
- 1 small onion, sliced in rings
- 1/2 cup almond slices, toasted
- 1/4 cup sesame seeds, toasted
- In saucepan, place mustard and stir in pineapple juice slowly to prevent lumping. Add soy sauce, vinegar and honey; place over high heat and bring to a boil. Place chicken in a bowl and pour over warm sauce; cover and refrigerate at least 1 hour. Remove chicken from marinade. Place marinade in small saucepan and boil 3 minutes. Place chicken on prepared grill (or broiler rack) about 6 inches from heat. Cook, turning and basting with boiled marinade, about 6 minutes or until fork can be inserted in chicken with ease. To assemble salad, arrange lettuce on a plate; then add pineapple, pepper rings and onion. Sprinkle with almonds and sesame seeds. Top with chicken tenders and spoon remaining marinade over all. Makes 6 servings.

Woman's Bogus name causes a stir

DEAR ABBY: Do you think you can stand one more letter about peculiar names? If so, my last name is Bogus. That's right — I am a genuine Bogus.

Three times I was unable to cash a perfectly good check because my name is Bogus. Clerks are embarrassed to call out my name when it's my turn. Nobody believes it's pronounced the way it looks.

I've been called Bogart, Vogera, Logan, Boggs, even Boogers. No kidding!

While some comments are rather insulting, it's kind of fun to have an unusual name. When someone exclaims, "Bogus?" I must reassure them that is my real name.

I have been asked, "Why haven't you changed your name — don't you know that bogus means fake or bad?" I then explain that I am neither fake nor bad; I am totally and authentically Bogus.

JOANNE C. BOGUS, CHAMPAIGN, ILL.

P.S. I have quit explaining to people that the name was originally Bogulaski in Poland, but when my family left Poland for America, they shortened it to Bogus. Sometimes I wonder if maybe they should have left it Bogulaski. What do you think?

DEAR JOANNE: I think you had better stick with Bogus. It's easier to pronounce, spell and remember.

DEAR ABBY: Yesterday, my 4-year-old daughter took a nasty spill and hit her face on our coffee table as she was going down. She now has a black eye and a terrible bruise on her cheek. It is very noticeable.

This morning, out of fear of being accused of child abuse, I canceled the time I had reserved for her at the day-care center. I knew they would ask me what happened to her, and the truth sounds like such a lie!

Abby, I would never abuse my child. She is my pride and joy, but these days, parents are held responsible for every bump or bruise on a child's face or body. Sure, some parents do go too far, and suspicions are raised and must be explained, but this is getting like the Salem witch hunts all over again.

Do you think it's all in my head and I shouldn't have kept her out of school? I really had nothing to hide, but she did look as though she had been abused. All it takes is a whisper, a rumor, a suspicion, and the child welfare people will be calling on you and asking a lot of questions.

COLORADO MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: If, as you explained, the child fell and hit her face on the coffee table, you had nothing to hide; therefore, you should not have kept her out of school.

DEAR ABBY: The letters about kids wetting their pants in school reminded me of an incident I experienced when I taught second-grade children in a Catholic school.

I noticed a little boy squirming in his seat...then I saw a puddle on the floor under his desk. I walked over to him and whispered quietly, "Honey, did you have an accident?"

He looked at me and replied, "No, I did it on purpose."

KATHERINE H. KELLY, FALL RIVER, MASS.

DEAR ABBY: We have a newborn baby, just 2 weeks old. How can I nicely tell relatives and friends at social gatherings that I don't want my bby passed around like the pigskin on "Monday Night Football"?

NEW MOM,

WOODBURY, MINN.
DEAR NEW MOM: If you want to tell them "nicely," simply ask them not to pass the baby around. But skip the reference to the pigskin on "Monday Night Football."

Fibromyalgia often linked to stress

DEAR DR. GOTT: Please discuss fibromyalgia. DEAR READER: Fibromyalgia, an affliction of unknown cause, is marked by muscular pain, tenderness and stiffness, which may include tendons and ligaments as well.

The condition is more common in women and may be related to stress, dampness, fatigue or viral infection. On examination, patients often exhibit "trigger points," specific areas of particular tenderness and spasm. Fibromyalgia is a diagnosis of exclusion: Other, more serious, disorders -- such as rheumatoid arthritis or polymyalgia -- are considered, but discarded when blood tests prove to be normal.

Fibromyalgia may disappear spontaneously or may become chronic. Treatment consists of supportive care: heat, increased rest, physical therapy, pain medication, cortisone injections (into "trigger points") and reassurance that the disorder will not affect health and longevity.

DEAR DR. GOTT: In 1991 I suffered an open fracture of the tibia and fibula. It's been two years, yet my foot and ankle are still severely swollen because of the extensive damage to the blood vessels around the fracture site. I experience pain when walking or sitting, and I am on Ansaid for control with minimal effect. The medication also causes ringing in my ears that is driving me crazy. Is there another medication that will afford better results and eliminate the new problem?

DEAR READER: The pain and swelling that follow an extensive injury such as yours may be difficult to treat. Nevertheless, there are several drugs that might help relieve your symptoms. Ask your doctor to change your prescription to Voltaren, Lodine or Feldene. While these drugs are related to Ansaid, they are -- in my experi-knowledge, no herbs are as effective as the over-the-counter remedies Tinctin and Lozol or the prescription fungicidal drugs such as Lotrimin and Nizoral. Ask your doctor to recommend one.

WIN AT BRIDGE

By Phillip Alder
When defending, what do you do as soon as the dummy comes down? You start to plan the defense, of course, but you should always count dummy's high-card points. This will give you an idea of how many points partner can be expected to hold.

In today's deal, you are East. In answer to your double of Stayman, your partner leads the club seven: four, queen, six. You cash the club ace: 10, two, nine. Don't be misled by declarer's false-card. If partner had started with 7-5-2 of clubs, either he would have played the five at this trick or -- much better -- he would have led the two at trick one. It is best to lead the lowest from a tripleton in partner's suit when you haven't raised. However, after cashing a third club trick, where do you go for your fourth trick?

The natural inclination is to switch to your singleton diamond. But check the points. Dummy has 11 and you have 13. That leaves at most one for partner. The diamond switch is pointless. When you have taken all possible side-suit tricks, it is usually best to concede a ruff-and-discard. Lead a fourth club.

If partner has the eight or nine of spades, his ruff will effect an uppercut. Dummy overruffs, but you will now collect a trump trick by covering an honor when it is led from the dummy. Note also that it doesn't help South to ruff with the spade nine. You still score a trump trick.

If I may paraphrase the Bard: I count myself in nothing else so happy as in a soul remembering the high-card points.

YOUR BIRTHDAY
May 27, 1993

In the year ahead, your chart indicates that you're likely to dissociate yourself from endeavors that have failed to produce the type of results you hoped for. Your new attitude will be a major contributor to your success.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Others will only respect your opinions today if you first find some merit in theirs. If you discount their views, they won't put any stock in yours.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) There is a possibility that someone who took advantage of you previously might try to take advantage of you again today. If you are roped in a second time, it will be your own fault.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Be careful today not to bring up an issue upon which you and your mate are diametrically opposed. This issue has the potential to create an extremely serious argument that will be difficult to resolve.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) If your motives are too self-serving and materialistic today, this could have a deleterious effect on an objective you hope to achieve that requires support from others.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Expensive, pleasurable pursuits aren't guaranteed to provide you with happiness today. In fact, your best chance for having fun is simply being with your good friends.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You will have the motivation and drive today, but you could fall short of fulfilling your expectations by doing things the hard way. Don't make problems for yourself where none exist.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Usually you're a rather optimistic person, but today your mental focus could be on negatives rather than positives. Where you place emphasis has a great influence over the bottom line.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If your present financial position is a bit shaky, don't take on any new, long-term obligations at this time. In a little while, things will be more lucrative.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You are one of the signs that get along well with people from all walks of life. Today, however, you might have a chip on your shoulder and experience some abrasive encounters.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Things might not work out too well for you today if you attempt to be the power behind the throne, guiding events from behind the scenes. Be an upfront person and let people know where you stand.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you are going to take a gamble on anyone today, take it on yourself and your abilities. There are strong indications that your hopes and expectations might be dashed betting on pals.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Guard against using methods or tactics on subordinates today that tend to be a bit heavy-handed. The results could be undesirable and, besides, more can be accomplished with a light touch.
