Atlantis hauled to launch pad

The space shuttle Atlantis was hauled to the launch pad early Tuesday morning for an Oct. 13 launch date to send a $1.4 billion space probe to Jupiter.

The highlight of the shuttle mission will be to deploy the Galileo probe, a nuclear-powered spacecraft that will drop a tiny sensor device into Jupiter's atmosphere.

The mission has been the topic of some controversy with anti-nuclear groups claiming a disaster such as the one that destroyed the shuttle Challenger could release the radioactive material inside the Jupiter probe into the atmosphere over Florida.

Sixers deal Cheeks to Spurs

The Philadelphia 76ers, in an effort to obtain youth for experience, traded the last remnant from their 1983 world championship team to San Antonio Monday.

Maurice Cheeks, who along with Andrew Toney, provided the league's most deadly backcourt during the 83 title campaign, was sent to the Spurs along with Chris Welp and David Wingate. In return, Philly received former Duke standout Johnny Dawkins and forward Jay Vincent.

Sanford PD investigating chase

SANFORD — The Sanford Police Department has been asked to investigate a Longwood police chase that ended last Thursday in a head-on collision leaving two people dead and two others critically injured.

The incident began when a Longwood policeman signaled a driver to lower his lights and the driver, a 15-year-old unlicensed Lake Mary boy, fled.

"A complete internal investigation of the pursuit procedures used by the Longwood Police Department is being conducted by the Sanford Police Department at Longwood's request," said Longwood Mayor Hank Hardy in a written statement.

The chase began at 2:30 a.m. on westbound State Road 434 when Longwood police Sgt. Wayne Roberts signaled an eastbound driver to lower his lights. When the lights didn't lower, Roberts tried to stop the car, but the car fled. The driver led Roberts on a chase on U.S. Highway 17-92 that reached 90 mph before passing over the centerline near State Road 50, hitting an oncoming car.

Two arrested in Sunday melee

SANFORD — A Sanford man and a 16-year-old boy were arrested Sunday night following a melee that broke out during a neighborhood football game in Chase Park. Two officers were injured and three Sanford squad cars received about $2,500 in damage when fans at the game pelted Sanford police and their cars with rocks, bottles and cinder blocks, police said.

The fight broke out at about 8:30 p.m. during the east-side, west-side football game, said Sanford police Lt. Mike Rotundo. When officers arrived, several people from the crowd of over 200 began throwing objects at the police. Rotundo said, The windshield of Sgt. Mitch Tindell was smashed and the auto's body dented as he arrived at the park, Rotundo said.

Patrolman Bob Barthlow was struck in the head with a bottle and Patrolman David Simons was bitten in the back by the 16-year-old he was trying to restrain. Both men were treated at the scene.

Arrested was Columbus Burke, 20, 2009 Summerlin Ave., Sanford, charged with throwing a deadly missile into a vehicle and resisting arrest without violence. He has since been released on $4,000 bond. The 16-year-old was charged with battery on a policeman, disorderly conduct and resisting arrest with violence.

Mismanagement charged

School bus drivers picket school board

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN and VICKI BOGGERMANN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Bus drivers today picketed the Seminole County school board, charging mismanagement of the school district's transportation system.

Nancy Wheeler, executive director of the Seminole County School Bus Drivers Association, said the union is protesting mismanagement of the school's transportation department which she said has left many children without a way of getting to school.

Wheeler said the school board's decision to mainstream handicapped children into regular bus routes has caused confusion among drivers, parents and children. The drivers do not protest mainstreaming, she said, but want better routing and better training in how to deal with handicapped children.

"The bus drivers who have special-needs children on their buses have, most often, not received any special training on how to deal with seizures or violent behavior," Wheeler said.

Benny Arnold, director of transportation for the district, said only children with minor handicaps, like hearing or vision impairments, have been mainstreamed into regular bus routes. Drivers of routes where children are being mainstreamed do not need special training beyond that required of all drivers, Arnold said. Drivers with exceptional student routes are specially trained to handle physically and mentally handicapped children, he said.

Arnold said the rerouting is an effort to reduce overall transportation costs in the county. The state does not pay transportation costs for some categories of handicapped students, he said.

It is the union's contention that money is not being saved by the restructuring of routes. "We're probably spending more money than before," Wheeler noted. She added that some transportation office staff is being required to work evenings and on the weekend to work out the bugs in the system. "The overtime is costing a lot."

The union claims that new routes were arranged "in a vacuum" by Arnold and his assistant, Tom Preston. While Arnold and Preston have limited routing experience, route managers were not consulted in the process. Neither were representatives from the exceptional education department.

While hesitant to criticize the management styles of other departments, Don Ricci, the district's director of exceptional student education, said that there was "some conversation" between his department and the transportation department, but that the decision to go to mixed routes was made completely within the transportation department.

Last year drivers made about 65 daily bus runs for exceptional students, Arnold said. The rerouting has reduced those runs by 10, he said. Wheeler contends those numbers have, in reality, only been cut by three.

Murderer draws life sentence

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — Despite a jury's recommendation of a death sentence for Larry Thompson, the state attorney's office and Seminole Circuit Judge C. Vernon Mize said Monday they did not find a sufficient basis for executing the Sanford man.

Mize sentenced Thompson, 24, to life in prison with no possibility of parole for 25 years. Mize said the 1973 Florida Supreme Court decision that upheld the state's death penalty set out guidelines for sentencing a defendant to death, and Thompson's shooting of Tony Denmark last Sept. 22 did not meet those criteria.

Thompson, standing before Mize with his attorney, Gary Sigel, as the sentence was read, remained calm as he had throughout his trial and sentencing hearing. He waved briefly to his mother as he was led from the courtroom, and turned for a final look back as he was escorted out the door.

He was convicted July 28 of shooting Denmark, 21, after the two had a fight outside the Deluxe Bar the night of Sept. 22, 1988. Witnesses at the trial testified Denmark beat Thompson outside the bar, and Thompson went to a nearby car and returned with a handgun, firing a shot at Denmark.

Denmark then fled across a grassy area, railroad tracks and Southwest Road, with Thompson firing the gun in pursuit, witnesses said. One shot hit Denmark in the leg. Two witnesses said they saw Thompson stand over Denmark and shoot him in the back.

The jury which convicted Thompson recommended the death penalty on an 8-4 vote. Judge Mize said the recommendation of the jury carries heavy weight and should not be overruled by the sentencing judge unless there are strong factors indicating it should be overridden.

The judge said there were sufficient factors to override the recommended sentence. Florida law lists aggravating and mitigating circumstances which a judge is to weigh in deciding the sentence.

Judge Mize rejected the defense's contention that Thompson had no serious past law violations. Al-

City commissioner, group say blacks being neglected by police, rec department

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A city commissioner joined a group of black citizens last night in castigating the city for what he called poor police protection and recreation offerings in black neighborhoods.

"I'm isolated," said Bob Thomas, who is the only black city commissioner. "My suggestions are nothing and I'm so sick of it. When I came in (as commissioner) five years ago, we had a makeup of people who really cared. That's all changed now."

He also said, "Nobody gives a continental about where we live. You can tell that in every facet."

Turner Clayton, president of the Seminole County National Association for the Advancement of Colored People, also charged that standards for police protection and recreation are lower in black neighborhoods.

"When it comes to the west side or black side of town, we're being neglected," Clayton said. "We want some action. We deserve the same protection that they're getting on the other side of town."

Jury convicts Winter Park man in rape case

By BRAD CHURCH
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — A Winter Park man faces life in prison after being convicted of nine charges stemming from the rape of a 56-year-old woman in October, 1987. The Seminole Circuit Court jury took just under 2 1/2 hours Monday to return the verdicts against Mark E. Osterbeck, 21.

Judge C. Vernon Mize ordered a complete pre-sentence investigation, including a psychiatric evaluation, before pronouncing Osterbeck's sentence.

Osterbeck was convicted of four counts of sexual assault, one count of burglary, one count of kidnapping, and three counts of battery. He was accused of breaking into the woman's Winter Park home the night of Oct. 8, 1987 and attacking the woman in her bed.

The victim testified she was raped at knife point, tied and gagged with strips of her own towels and assaulted

Atlantis hauled to launch pad

Inspection next step in preparation for Oct. 12 Galileo mission to Jupiter

United Press International

CAPE CANAVERAL — The space shuttle Atlantis, mounted atop a ponderous crawler-transporter, was slowly hauled to the launch pad Tuesday for blastoff Oct. 12 on a high-priority flight to fire the $1.4 billion Galileo probe to Jupiter.

One of the first items on the agenda at the pad is to work to inspect rubber seals in both of Atlantis' solid-fuel boosters because of a "knick" discovered in a seal used by the shuttle Columbia's right-side booster during its Aug. 8 launch.

The inspection will use up one of the days set aside to handle unexpected problems, but Atlantis remains on schedule for takeoff Oct. 12 to carry the Galileo probe into space.

The unmanned robot craft, the most sophisticated interplanetary spacecraft ever built, is scheduled to orbit Jupiter, dropping a probe into its stormy atmosphere and studying the planet's moons and swirling atmosphere.

Technicians began hauling Atlantis and its mobile launch stand from NASA's Vehicle Assembly Building to launch pad 39B starting at 2:02 a.m. EDT Tuesday. The 4.2-mile trip typically takes about eight hours to complete.

Once the shuttle is on the launch pad, technicians will inspect the rubber "gask-o-seals" that serve as washers between the igniters that fire the solid-fuel boosters and the rocket casing.

The ignitor is a small rocket motor used to fire the 1.1 million pounds of propellant in each of a shuttle's two solid-fuel boosters.

During the start sequence, the igniters generate an internal pressure of 2,300 pounds per square inch during a 380-millisecond pressure surge called an "ignition transient" and the gask-o-seals — two per booster — are in place to contain that pressure and prevent any dangerous leakage.

The shuttle Challenger was destroyed Jan. 28, 1986, when a different type of rubber O-ring seal failed, allowing flame to leak through a joint between booster segments.

Frank Buzzard, a shuttle manager at the Johnson Space Center in Houston, told United Press International that technicians found a "small depression" in one of the gask-o-seals used by the shuttle Columbia's right-side booster during launch Aug. 8.

For that reason, he said, Atlantis' seals will be inspected at the launch pad and replaced if necessary.

"It is a type of seal that has two concentric rings of rubber, a top and bottom," Buzzard said. "We have two of those, there's an inner and an outer. It is not an O-ring. It has a similar purpose, but it's not an O-ring."

The inner gask-o-seal in Columbia's right-side booster had a one-tenth of an inch depression, but "there was no evidence of hot gas to the seal," Buzzard said.

"In other words, there was no hot gas that got to it, so blow by, it had no effect on the mission," he said. "What it appears to be is a small sub-surface void in the rubber material that you cannot see by our surface inspections."

"After you put the seal together and put it under compression, it leaves a little depression that you can see if you take it apart."

Two of the gask-o-seals in place on Atlantis' boosters have been used before and for that reason, it is believed they are acceptable for flight because any depressions like those found in Columbia's seals would have been detected before installation on Atlantis.

But the two outer seals are new, and "what we're going to do is roll the vehicle out, remove the outer ring of bolts on the left and the right (booster) and we're going to lift the ignitor assembly out of the booster and inspect those outer gask-o-seals, both left and right," Buzzard said.

"We don't expect to find anything, but if they do we'll replace them."

Boat-speed hearings resume

MELBOURNE — Public hearings were to resume today in Melbourne on a proposal to limit boat speeds on Florida's inland waterways.

The state Department of Natural Resources has proposed slowing boats to 30 mph in navigation channels and 20 mph outside such channels in order to protect people and threatened manatees.

Hearings earlier this month drew strong opposition from fishermen who said the speed limits would prevent them from crossing large bodies of water in a timely fashion. Boaters also complained that water skiers and other sportsmen cannot adequately perform at low speeds.

The issue is scheduled to go before the governor and the Florida Cabinet later this month.

Felix weakens in eastern Atlantic

MIAMI — Tropical storm Felix began to weaken Tuesday as it drifted north in the eastern Atlantic.

The storm was expected to continue on its slow northerly path, which did not threaten land, said Max Mayfield, a forecaster at the National Hurricane Center. But he noted that a turn to the west was possible later in the week.

At 6 a.m. EDT Tuesday, Felix was centered near latitude 23 north, longitude 24 west, or about 550 miles southwest of the Canary Islands.

Meanwhile, forecasters who were tracking a tropical depression that formed Sunday night east of the Windward Islands decided Monday to downgrade that system to a tropical wave after a reconnaissance airplane failed to find a pattern of circulating winds.

Three tropical storms have reached hurricane strength since the Atlantic-Caribbean hurricane season began June 1. The season lasts through Nov. 30.

Growth management plan rejected

TAMPA — The state Department of Community Affairs has rejected Hillsborough County's growth management plan, saying it allows for too much congestion on state roads.

All municipalities in the state must submit growth plans to the DCA for approval under the Growth Management Act of 1985.

The state said the plan allows for too much suburban sprawl into rural south Hillsborough County. The DCA also said Tampa Electric failed to show that a new power plant near Cochranch Bay would not harm the environment.

Tampa environmentalists cheered the rejection. Hillsborough County Commissioners must now draft a revised growth plan.

Investigators examine SunBank

TAMPA — Investigators are examining SunBank records of loans overseen by regional banking executive Lawrence Johnson, who has been missing since last Wednesday.

Johnson failed to show up to explain several loans amounting to $100,000, and was suspended from his job pending the outcome of the investigation.

SunBank officials said customers do not have to be concerned about their money because the loans are federally insured. But they want to talk to Johnson, who vanished along with his wife. Johnson's two children live with his ex-wife and are not missing.

The FBI was called in to talk about the loans last week, but has not commented on the case.

Migrant labor camps to be inspected

RUSKIN — Fire inspectors will visit all 360 migrant labor camps in Florida at the request of state health officials, who are concerned about the safety of the camps' 39,000 residents.

Growers must present fire safety certificates by Oct. 1 before their camps are granted new licenses.

The request for the inspections was made by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services. HRS officials said they don't expect the migrant housing to be in tip-top shape, but they want it to be as safe as it can be from fire.

Hillsborough County has the state's highest concentration of migrant camps, with 85. Most are run by strawberry growers in the Plant City area and produce growers in and around Ruskin.

Harris sells satellite support business

MELBOURNE — Harris Corp. said Monday it has sold its commercial satellite support business to COMSAT Systems Division, a unit of COMSAT Corp., for an undisclosed sum.

The business, based in Melbourne, employs 54 people and provides installation and maintenance services to the satellite and fiber optics communications market, Harris said.

The business is currently under contract to COMSAT for the operation and maintenance of a network that distributes NBC programs to network affiliates.

Florida students will learn about solid waste management

United Press International

GAINESVILLE — A new curriculum teaching children about the disposal and recycling of solid waste will be introduced in the 1990-91 school year in Florida schools.

The curriculum is mandated in the Florida Solid Waste Management Act of 1988, which also requires each county to reduce its volume of solid waste 30 percent by 1994.

Linda Cronin, an education professor at the University of Florida, heads the task force that received $132,000 in state funds to formulate the solid waste curriculum, field test it and print the manuals for use in Florida's schools.

"We can get to the children early, maybe society can change its ways," Cronin said. "We can't wait until kids grow up to change their attitudes about solid waste, or all the money in the world won't make a difference."

The manuals, which will be available during the 1990-91 school year, will contain activities keyed to different grade levels that teachers of all subjects can integrate into their current curriculum, Cronin said.

For instance, math teachers can have students observe how solid waste builds up in their own homes, and use math skills to estimate how much an entire community accumulates. Social studies teachers can have students role play businessmen, community officials and others who have a stake in the state's solid waste management policy.

Some of the lessons can be covered during one class period, while others will involve long-range projects like making a model landfill and monitoring its progress.

"We won't prescribe what teachers must do. We will give them 104 options, so that they can choose what they want to do," Cronin said.

Cronin said her group first looked at the way other states have taught solid waste awareness. But she said Florida's needs are different because of its diverse population and varied landscapes.

"We need to know what will work with all kinds of children — a Hispanic from south Florida, a child from the rural north — not just a typical middle-class suburban kid. That's why we need the help of teachers from all over Florida, because they know best what works with their students," Cronin said.

Drought poses danger to snail kite in Everglades

United Press International

MIAMI — The drought of 1989 has been catastrophic for the endangered Everglades snail kite, reducing the hawklike bird's numbers from 500 to an estimated 300, wildlife officers said Monday.

Snail kites are plentiful in Cuba and Central and South America, but are among the rarest birds in North America, found only in south and central Florida.

Only the California condor, which exists in captivity, and the whooping crane, which has found a haven in Canada, are known to be rarer in North America than the Everglades snail kite.

Many wildlife experts consider the snail kite and its only prey, the apple snail, to be barometers of the Everglades ecosystem. When the bird is healthy, so are the millions of acres of marshes that supply fresh water to 4.5 million people in south Florida.

"You can equate it with the miner's canary," said Larry Thompson, the Southeastern regional director of the National Audubon Society.

"As long as the bird is fine, then the people will be OK, too. But when the bird dies, it means something is terribly wrong out there."

There were only about 100 snail kite chicks hatched in Florida this year and mortality among them is high, said state biologist Jim Rodgers. Of the nine Rodgers found hatched this year on Lake Tohopekaliga, south of Orlando, only two are still living.

Snail kites are brown or gray predators, identifiable by a sharply curved beak and white clump of feathers near the tail. They soar on a 50-inch wingspan and use their hooked beaks to rip the snails from their shells.

State NAACP leader settles lawsuit

United Press International

TAVARES — The president of the state NAACP has settled out of court the libel and slander lawsuit he brought against five men who accused him of using his church to launder NAACP money for his own use.

T.H. Poole Sr. also claimed in the lawsuit filed in 1986 the five men plotted to oust Poole from the black leadership post he has held for more than two decades.

The case was to go before a jury this week in Lake County Circuit Court, but the two sides met behind closed doors for hours Monday and finally settled without trial.

Poole and wife Rena had sought $10 million in damages. As is the case in most civil suits settled out of court, terms of the agreement were not disclosed.

The defendants were Walter Berry, Earl Gooden and Ralph Burley of Lake County, R.M. Manning of Lee County and F. Bernard Lemon of Marion County.

Poole sued them for writing to national NAACP Executive Director Benjamin Hooks to report Poole and his wife sold property that had been willed to the local NAACP chapter Poole heads and then diverted the proceeds to their personal bank accounts.

Since the suit was filed, the Pooles provided bank records showing they borrowed $38,000 in 1979. When Mrs. Poole prepared the deposit she mistakenly used a deposit slip from the construction fund of the St. James A.M.E. church, where her husband is a director.

He was also treasurer for the building fund and kept the account materials on a desk at the couple's home. They did not realize Mrs. Poole's error until their checks started bouncing.

They explained the mistake to church officials, who eventually cut a check to replace the Pooles' money.

DOT refers Kelley to attorney

By A. MARK SANDFORD
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The chief official of the Florida Department of Transportation district offices in DeLand has told Seminole County commissioner Jennifer Kelley all future contacts with road officials should be made through their attorney.

The reply Monday came in response to Kelley's complaint last Tuesday that district DOT officials were taking an "unreasonable" amount of time producing a file they say has been misplaced.

"It would seem obvious we can't produce what we don't have," wrote Thomas Barry, district secretary of the DOT district that includes Seminole County. "After opening our files in various DOT offices to you and your colleagues over a four day period two weeks ago, we consider any implication that we are limiting your access to public records unfair, unfounded, and unreasonable."

Barry wrote he will continue to make any DOT information available to Kelley as long as she contacts district DOT attorney George Lovett first.

Barry said last week he was surprised by the tone of Kelley's letter which was sent to Gov. Bob Martinez and other top state officials. Barry said he was responding to the formal nature of Kelley's "demand" for the files, which includes a file of information about the state's plans to widen Interstate 4 through Seminole County.

"In this particular case, we looked at the general trend of the way things were going and the nature of the requests," Barry said. "We refer many requests for public information to our attorney."

Kelley said she regretted any misunderstanding caused by her letter. She said she didn't mind being referred to the district DOT attorney.

"I'm glad," Kelley said. "Now maybe I'll start getting somewhere."

Sanford man arrested on door step

SANFORD — A Sanford man was arrested early this morning after police reported he had broken into his former home. Lewis William Heath, 28, formerly of 908 Bay Avenue, Sanford, was arrested on the front door step of the residence at about 1:30 a.m. Police report finding a front window screen in the home had been removed and the front door opened.

Heath was charged with burglary to an occupied structure and trespassing after warning. Bond was set at $5,000.

Cocaine in police car leads to arrest

ALTAMONTE SPRINGS — Andre Lee Bryant, 18, 1150 Bennett Ave., Winter Park, was arrested in the parking lot of the Ramada Inn hotel Monday night, charged with possession of cocaine. Altamonte Springs police report seeing three men sitting in a car in the parking lot at about 7 p.m. Bryant was asked to sit in the back of an officer's squad car while police spoke to the other two men.

After Bryant was asked to step out of the officer's car, the policeman reported finding a small plastic tube containing four pieces of crack cocaine behind the back seat. Bryant was charged with possession of cocaine. Bond was set at $5,000.

Two arrested on DUI charges

©Kenneth Joseph Wells, 48, 3298 S. Sanford Ave., Sanford, was charged with driving under the influence of alcohol by Sanford police at about 9 p.m. Sunday night following an accident at the intersection of Sanford Avenue and Airport Boulevard. Bond was set at $500.

©Luis Antonio Chavez, 23, 130 Etowah Circle, Casselberry, was charged with DUI by Casselberry police at about 12:30 a.m. Monday after he was reportedly found in his car, the motor still running, in the front yard of a residence at 802 Occoala Trail in Casselberry. He was also charged with careless driving. Bond was set at $500.

City to study Lake Monroe beachfront

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN
Herald staff writer

SANFORD — The city commission last night granted a request by the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce to fund a study on how to improve the Lake Monroe beachfront. They also decided to support the city attorney's recommendation to end the lease with the Holiday Inn at the marina if the city becomes involved in foreclosure action.

The chamber asked for $5,185 to conduct a study to determine the viability costs of building a perched beach to keep northwest winds and waves from washing sand into the lake channel. A University of Florida engineer, who surveyed the lake in June, will conduct the study.

The motion to fund the request from city reserves passed unanimously without discussion.

In other business concerning the marina, the city attorney has recommended ending the city lease with the marina Holiday Inn and finding a firm to manage it if the city becomes involved in the foreclosure suit against the hotel.

Great Southern Federal Savings and Loan in Savannah, Ga., has moved to foreclose against Holiday Inn, which has a 55-year lease with the city. The commission last night authorized city attorney Bill Colbert to defend the city if Sanford becomes involved in the suit.

Holiday Inn and the city commission have been meeting regularly over the past four months to renegotiate the hotel's lease and $87,000 owed in lease payments. Colbert said the city and hotel could still strike an accord, in spite of the latest developments in the Holiday Inn foreclosure.

The commission approved a $98,000 contract to study drainage in the Mill Creek basin. The study uses information from a study done with $25,000 in community block grant money to develop ways to correct poor drainage in the Mill Creek basin, located in the west side of Sanford. The six-month study will be a follow-up to one done in 1988, said Bill Simmons, city director of engineering and planning.

Last month Sanford asked Seminole County to reallocate $170,000 in CDBG money from a program to improve Mill Creek drainage to housing rehabilitation because because the allocation would not cover the expense of the project. Seminole County agreed to drop the drainage project, but reallocated the money to a project in Altamonte Springs.

Local retailers haven't seen milk price increase

From staff and wire reports

SANFORD — Although milk prices are going up in Florida because of the usual summer slowdown in production and tight competition for supplies from other states, Sanford-Lake Mary retailers say they haven't been hit with the price hikes yet. Producers say milk prices could get higher as schools start around the state.

"We know that children drink more milk when they are at school than when they are at home," said Bill Boardman, executive vice president of Dairy Farmers Inc., an industry promotion group.

"I have not gotten any indication that we are experiencing a shortage," Jay Boosinger, director of the Florida Department of Agriculture's dairy division, told The Florida Times-Union for Monday editions.

Still, the laws of supply and demand are manifesting themselves. The Florida Dairy Farmers Association, a cooperative that produced about 75 percent of the milk in Florida, announced a recent "substantial" price hike that translated into an increase of between 10 cents and 20 cents.

Sanford area retail outlets report they have not had anything like the 10- to 20-cent price increase promised.

Pete Schwartz, an assistant manager of Publix in Sanford, said Publix produces its own milk so the chain is not subject to a price increase from the producer's co-op. He said milk prices went up a few pennies about a month ago and a gallon of whole milk now sells for $2.19.

Food Lion in Lake Mary reports no recent price increases either. Like Publix, their prices went up a few cents a few weeks ago and a gallon of whole milk is $2.19 there also.

Henry Matza, who purchases milk for the area 7-Eleven stores, said as of the convenience chain's last milk order on Aug. 1, it had experienced no price increases.

State per-capita tax burden at all-time high

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE — Florida's per-capita tax burden soared to an all-time high in 1988, climbing almost three times as much as the national average, but there is no evidence that higher taxes are buying a higher level of service, according to a tax watchdog group.

"The sentiment around the state is that we're getting less value and less performance, and we can't show scientifically ... that Florida's public service infrastructure and service delivery system is getting better," said Dennis Calabro, president of Florida TaxWatch Inc.

"In fact, there is a lot of evidence that it's getting worse," Calabro said Monday, saying that the state has to "fundamentally change the way it budgets and spends tax money."

His comments came during a new conference to announce the release of the private, non-profit research group's annual report comparing Florida's tax status with the rest of the nation.

According to Calabro, the per-capita tax bill for Florida in 1988 was $926, an increase of $108 — 13.2 percent — from the previous year and an all-time high for the state. The national average was 5.8 percent.

The increase was enough to move Florida to 33rd place in the nation, up four places from 1987. The state's overall tax burden is still lower than the averages for the United States — $1,076 per person.

A "very substantial majority" of the state's tax revenue appears to be accounted for, said Calabro, "but we can't see what difference it is making in terms of the state Comprehensive Plan, or in terms of the objectives that citizens are demanding."

He cited the state's school dropout rate, the growth of the prison population, day-care needs and highways as areas where additional public funds are not translating into improvements. "The money's being spent, but it doesn't seem to make much difference," Calabro said. In some cases, he said, it's not going where it is supposed to go.

"We have a lot of requirements, but we're just not holding the system accountable," he said.

"What's happened is that the system of demands by Floridians and the size of the state has changed, but our system of governing and delivering services — the public management system — has not changed and has not kept pace with the demands," Calabro said.

"Simply raising taxes alone without changing how we spend the money is not going to be helpful," he said.

The principal area needing reform, he said, is simply "accounting for where the money goes."

Controversy surrounds cell for AIDS victims

United Press International

ORLANDO — A legal services lawyer is threatening to sue Orange County unless jail officials end the practice of segregating prisoners infected with the AIDS virus from the general jail population.

Jail manager Richard Anderson defends the use of cell area O, known to the more than 3,000 prisoners at the 33rd Street Jail as the AIDS cell, as a precaution to keep infected prisoners from being attacked and uninfected prisoners from being exposed to the virus.

But attorney Homero Leon Jr. with Greater Orlando Legal Services outlined in a letter to jailers several objections to the segregation policy.

He said the cell violates the right of confidentiality for the 30 prisoners jailed there because its purpose is widely known. He claims seriously ill prisoners receive inadequate medical attention and should instead be hospitalized.

And, Leon alleges, jail AIDS testing is discriminatory because only high-risk prisoners — those with needle tracks and suspected homosexuals — are tested for the AIDS virus.

Racial gulf exists

A few days before President Bush spoke to the National Urban League recently, a study was released by a respected Washington group that provided a useful perspective on the condition of blacks in America since World War II. Bush in his speech vowed that his administration "will not tolerate discrimination, bigotry or bias of any kind — period."

The study, sponsored by the National Research Council, underscored the continuing need for such a commitment.

The council's 608-page report, entitled "A Common Destiny," concludes that "a great gulf" continues to divide black Americans and whites. Despite progress during the past four decades, discrimination, bigotry and bias still have an impact on the nation's 30 million blacks.

"We have really two major findings, one positive, the other negative," Gerald Jaynes, the study's director, told The New York Times. "By any calibration other than that of an unrepentant segregationist, race relations and blacks' status are remarkably improved since the World War II era. However, the major fraction of this improvement was in place by 1970. Since then, material measures of status relative to whites have not improved and many have deteriorated."

Jaynes, an economics professor at Yale University, noted declines in standard of living, education, housing opportunities and political participation.

The study found, for example, that blacks are still more likely to be excluded from renting or buying in certain residential areas. Blacks often are quoted higher prices and "steered" toward areas where blacks already predominate.

Residential segregation in metropolitan areas is nearly as high in the 1980s as it was in the 1960s. The study suggests that at the current rate of integration, it would take 60 years for blacks and whites to be as integrated as whites and Asian-Americans or whites and Hispanics.

The social barriers that limit black America's economic progress are not as blatant as they once were, but they are still a fact of life in this nation. Beyond residential and school segregation, they include exclusion from the informal networks that lead to educational and economic opportunities.

As the study points out, these more subtle forms of discrimination contribute in ways difficult to measure to disturbing statistics about black crime, black-infant mortality and the number of black children who live below the official poverty line.

The Urban League has long been concerned about such vexing issues, the Urban League spokesmen were pleased that Bush addressed their gathering; he is the first president to do so in a non-election year since Jimmy Carter in 1977. As John Jacob, Urban League president, pointed out, "This president has at least said that he is willing to debate the issues and work with us."

There is, indeed, ample room for debate on how to close the gaps — social, political and economic — between black and white America. There's no debating the fact that the gaps shouldn't exist.

Bennett shifts focus of drug war

WASHINGTON — President Bush has recently given broad approval to drug czar William Bennett's new anti-drug plan, which focuses on combating illegal drugs where they are grown and where they are consumed. This strategy is in sharp contrast to the policy of the Reagan years, which aimed at keeping drugs from coming across the border.

Under a direct congressional mandate, Bennett has spent his first six months as drug czar conducting a comprehensive review of this nation's strategy for fighting the war on drugs. The president has now approved, in general, Bennett's draft proposal but must still make final decisions on a number of issues, including how much money will be spent on various aspects of the new anti-drug plan and where that money will come from.

The Bennett plan's goal is to reduce drug use in this country by 50 percent within the coming decade, and by 10 percent over the next 24 months. To accomplish this difficult goal, Bennett wants to spend upward of $7 billion a year. Under the Bennett strategy much more money will be spent on street-level enforcement as well as on punishing drug sellers and users.

During the Reagan years, the federal anti-drug effort was mainly fought on the nation's borders. In those eight years, the federal government spent about $21 billion on the drug war. Eighty percent went for drug interdiction efforts — trying to stop illegal drugs from getting into the country — and in trying to jail drug kingpins.

By almost any measure that strategy has failed. Though large amounts of drugs have been seized, more and more have slipped through. Bennett's answer is to move the fight from the borders to the street corner.

Bennett contemplates sending two to three times the current amount of federal anti-drug funds to states and cities, allowing them to put more police on the streets, hire more judges and prosecutors, and build more jail cells to house drug offenders.

He also advocates the same priorities on the federal level — hiring more federal drug agents, more federal prosecutors, appointing new judges to hear only drug cases and markedly increasing the size of the federal prison system.

Bennett also believes we must do more on the international front to stamp out drugs at their source — in the countries where they are grown and processed. He proposes to do this in several ways. He wants to significantly increase the amount of foreign aid going to drug producing countries. This will allow them to step up their own anti-drug efforts and offer subsidies to farmers who agree to stop producing drugs and plant food crops instead.

Bennett also foresees greater use of the U.S. military in the anti-drug effort abroad. Exactly what the military's role will be is one of the decisions being left up to Bush and the National Security Council.

Bennett wants to increase federal funding of drug treatment programs by about 50 percent. During the Reagan years, however, federal money for drug treatment was cut by more than 40 percent. Taking inflation into account, less would be spent on drug treatment programs under the Bennett plan than was spent during the Carter years — when fewer people were seeking treatment.

Move the fight from the borders to the street corner.

WW II: catalyst for a new era

WASHINGTON — The avalanche of trivial anniversaries — like Woodstock's 20th — has so cheapened the currency of commemoration that when the time comes to take note of a genuinely historic event like the start of World War II 50 years ago this week, our sensibilities are dulled. That war and the changes it brought with it was the central event of this century. It merits examination and reflection.

Exactly half-a-century after Hitler's Panzer divisions breached Poland's borders, that country is back in the headlines. Freedom and democracy are reasserting themselves strongly where Hitler set out to crush them.

But that is only one of the ironies that leap out of the history books as one thinks back to that time. Most obvious is the fact that the aggressor nations that were ultimately defeated have reemerged stronger than ever. Japan is the economic wonder of the world and West Germany dominates the European Community's soon-to-be-integrated marketplace.

Meantime, the Soviet Union and its economy never have recovered from the devastation of the war. And the Western allies all have had a bumpy road to today's widespread prosperity.

If one thinks about the United States, so many transformations can be traced directly to the war. It was that conflict that changed Washington forever from a sleepy small town to the world capital it is today. As David Brinkley wrote in his fine memoir, "Washington Goes to War," the prewar capital "was a town and a government entirely unprepared to take on the global responsibilities suddenly thrust upon it." Up to 1939, the budget of the federal government never had been bigger than $9 billion. At the end of the war, it was $91 billion.

That is a shift of such magnitude that it measures a wholly different relationship between the nation and its people, on one side, and the capital and government on the other. Although some subsequent Presidents sought to "shrink" government, none succeeded. And from the time draft notices began arriving in 1940, "the feds" have been much more in our lives than ever before.

But it was not just government that was growing; it was, fortunately, the American economy as well. The demands of the war ended the last vestiges of the Great Depression and accelerated enormously the expansion of the nation's industrial machine. The Gross National Product more than doubled in six years and just kept growing. It was well that it did, for the United States took on unprecedented world obligations. Even after demobilization, American forces remained on duty around the globe, from Vienna to Okinawa and from Cuba to Korea.

The war was socially transforming as well.

Missions of men were uprooted from their communities and given their first look at the country and the world. Millions of women were recruited into their first jobs. But even those changes may have been dwarfed by the decision to reward the veterans of World War II with GI Bill assistance for higher educations and home purchases.

The 7.8 million who drew GI Bill benefits constituted the heart of a new middle class. Those vets moved into occupations their fathers could not have dreamed of attaining. They also moved physically, especially to the suburbs, achieving the dream of "a home of your own" in communities which had been open prairie until the bulldozers arrived.

The postwar growth of the suburbs, along with the wartime mass movement of Southern blacks into Northern cities' defense jobs, recast the shape of American politics. Although Harry Truman was able to hold the White House for the Democrats in 1948, that party was able to elect a President only three times in the next ten elections — and never once to re-elect the same man. The new GOP base was built in the suburbs and the white South.

That does not begin to exhaust the list of profound changes that came from World War II. But obviously The Bomb cannot be omitted. The nuclear weapon that decided that war also altered the nature of warfare, expanding its terror to the point that another world war may have become unthinkable. The battlefield deaths of World War II were horrible enough, as Paul Fussell reminds us in his unsparring new volume, "Wartime." But two-thirds of the 50 million deaths, it's been estimated, were civilians.

In Britain's Salisbury Cathedral a few months ago looking at an open page of the thick memorial book listing the parishioners killed in World War II, I was struck by the similarity of the surnames and the variety of the ages — some infants, many elderly. I realized most of them had died in air raids.

Whatever good has come out of the transformations cause by World War II — and there has been much of it — three generations paid a fearfully high price in the slaughter.

The war accelerated the expansion of the nation's industrial machine.

Iran-contra affair may not be over

WASHINGTON — The FBI scored an intelligence coup in 1985: It learned that American missiles were shipped to Iran in violation of U.S. law and policy. But when the FBI briefed the CIA on this disclosure, it was sternly warned to mind its own business because the shipment was a "White House operation," according to intelligence sources.

Just what the FBI and CIA knew about the Iran-Contra operation, and when it knew it, has remained one of the blank pages in the political scandal of the decade. Recent evidence we've uncovered for the first time trains the spotlight on Washington's Mr. Clean, Judge William Webster.

In 1987, then-FBI director Webster was grilled during closed-door hearings before the Senate Intelligence Committee about his knowledge of the arms shipments. At the time, the committee was weighing Webster's nomination for director of the CIA, a position he currently holds.

If news had surfaced that the FBI became aware of arms shipments back in 1985, Webster's reputation might have been tarnished and his nomination endangered.

Our associate Stewart Harris has learned that in 1987 Webster told the senator committee that he was never informed about the TOW missile shipment at the time his agents uncovered the information. The FBI insists that lower-level officials didn't deem this political and intelligence bombshell significant enough to pursue, or boot up the chain of command.

Webster refused to comment. We have pieced together the story from congressional and intelligence sources. The FBI received information that in September 1985 American TOW anti-tank missiles were delivered to Tabriz, Iran. This could be the same missile shipment documented by the Iran-contra committee. However, one source believes it was a different shipment, undiscovered by the Iran-Contra Committees. This source contends that the FBI informed the CIA that the missiles were brought to Iran aboard an Air Force C-141 transport plane.

The Iran-Contra committees determined that the cache of TOWs flown to Iran aboard a private DC-8 was hired by Israel.

If this one source is correct, it means the Air Force participated in an arms delivery that has not yet been revealed. It also means the cover-up of the Iranian arms deal was far more widespread and effective than initially believed.

At a minimum, FBI knowledge of the 1985 arms shipment to Tabriz raises questions about what else the bureau knew, and why its normal investigation was throttled.

Congressional sources find it implausible that Webster would have been kept in the dark. Insiders recall the days of J. Edgar Hoover, when sensitive political information was beeline to the director's office.

One committee staffer told us that the FBI was questioned extensively about several aspects of the Iran-Contra scandal, but never about arms shipments. It never apparently occurred to the committees that the FBI had the intelligence capability to penetrate an arms shipment deep inside Iran.

Evidence we've uncovered trains the spotlight on Washington's Mr. Clean, Judge William Webster.

Accidental shooting kills 'Hee Haw' director

United Press International

HENDERSONVILLE, Tenn. — Bob Boatman, long-time director of the "Hee Haw" television show, was killed when a pistol accidentally discharged, police said.

Boatman, 59, was found Monday lying in a pool of blood in the garage of his home. Authorities said a .22-caliber gun discharged when Boatman apparently pulled out a drawer too far and it fell. The gun was in the drawer.

Davidson County Coroner Charles Harlan said the bullet slug penetrated the wooden drawer and entered the left side of Boatman's abdomen, lodging in his chest.

"He died from bleeding to death from the injury to his cardiovascular system," Harlan said.

A trail of blood indicated Boatman walked from his bedroom to the garage, possibly planning to drive himself to a hospital, said Police Lt. Terry Prizell. Boatman directing "Hee Haw" Boatman worked as lighting consultant for Presidents Richard Nixon, Gerald Ford, Jimmy Carter and Ronald Reagan.

Boatman was lighting director for "Hee Haw" from 1970-1973 when he became director.

"In late 1971 when the director left the show there were many, many prospects for the job, but I just felt that Bob had great ability," said "Hee Haw" producer Sam Lovullo.

George Lindsey, a "Hee Haw" regular who also played Goober on the "Andy Griffith Show," said Boatman volunteered his time for the Special Olympics.

"He did so much for Special Olympics in the state of Alabama," Lindsey said. "He was a friend and a consummate professional. I loved him."

Cast member Lulu Roman described Boatman as "incredibly talented."

"He always encouraged me by telling me I was a million-dollar baby," she said.

Diplomats file suit

United Press International

WASHINGTON — The organization representing the foreign service announced this week it is suing Secretary of State James Baker to force him to disclose the qualifications of political ambassadorial appointees.

At issue in the suit brought by the American Foreign Service

Association, which represents foreign service officers in their dealings with the State Department, is the so-called "certificates of competence" that tell the Senate how political appointees are qualified for their posts.

The Bush administration has come under sharp criticism in the Senate and from AFSA.

Drivers

represents about 300 of the district's 340 drivers, wants better supervision of handicapped students on regular bus routes.

Wheeler said that just because a student can be mainstreamed in the classroom does not mean he can be mainstreamed on a bus. While a teacher can maintain eye contact with a student and carefully observe behavior, bus drivers cannot.

"Drivers have their backs to the children and must concentrate on the road," Wheeler said. As an example of safety risks, she said, one retarded girl tried to jump from a bus as it moved at 40 mph.

Ricci said that he had no knowledge of that incident.

Wheeler said recruiting has completely omitted some children from any route. At 10:45 a.m. on the first day of school, one driver was asked to pick up children who had been waiting for a bus since 7:30 a.m., she said. "As if they would still be standing there four hours later," she said.

Arnold said confusion over bus routes is probably no greater this year than any other year. Transportation was hectic during the first three days of school, he said, but problems with bus routes usually are worked out within the first two weeks of school.

Arnold said he worked with route managers Saturday and Sunday trying to correct problems with the new routing.

The dispute between transportation management and bus drivers stemmed from "disgruntled employees," Arnold said. He did not elaborate.

"Of course the employees are 'disgruntled,'" Wheeler said. "They are concerned for the safety of children. This is not an issue of pay."

Wheeler said the drivers have the support of parents and school administrators in their pocket.

The 1988 proposed budget has allotted $6.1 million for the transportation department. Salaries and benefits make up $6.1 million of the budget.

The victim later identified Osterbeck in a lineup of nine photographs.

Rioters protest police shooting

United Press International

VINELAND, N.J. — About 30 people were arrested overnight as black and Hispanic residents took to the streets in angry protest against the police shooting of a suspected drug dealer, authorities said Tuesday.

The riots, which began about 11 p.m. Monday and lasted about four hours, stemmed from the shooting death Sunday of a black man suspected of dealing drugs in a neighborhood apartment complex, police said.

"Hispanic and black community members gathered in large numbers in various sections of the city, causing a riot situation," said Lt. Timothy Zatsaryny of the Vineland police department. Police said a few hundred people were involved in the disturbance.

Protesters threw rocks and other objects at police officers and vehicles, store windows and a fire department building, Zatsaryny said.

The most violent outbreaks occurred on the main strip in the center of the city and on nearby side streets. No police officers were hurt, and one or two people suffered slight injuries, Zatsaryny said.

Police said about 30 people were arrested on various charges of disorderly conduct, failure to disperse, and burglary and theft after looters struck area stores, he said. Eight squad cars and numerous businesses were damaged. About 100 state and local police officers were called to subdue protesters.

The violence broke out after a peaceful demonstration earlier in the day by the NAACP.

The protests stemmed from the death of Samuel Carl Williams, who was shot Sunday after fleeing police and then confronting an officer with an iron bar. The officers were attempting to arrest Williams for suspected drug dealing at an apartment complex, Zatsaryny said.

Police said they were aware of eight outstanding warrants and several parole violations committed by Williams when they were called by an apartment resident to investigate his activity in the building.

Economic growth at 2.7%

United Press International

WASHINGTON — On the strength of higher consumption and government spending the economy grew at a surprisingly fast annual rate of 2.7 percent in the second quarter, the government reported today.

The Commerce Department's Bureau of Economic Analysis revised upward its July estimate of a 1.7 percent annual growth rate for the second quarter. The second quarter's 2.7 percent advance, $27.2 billion to $4.13 trillion, was the smallest increase since a 2.3 percent advance in the fourth quarter of 1986.

The Commerce Department figures are expressed in 1982 dollars to eliminate inflationary distortions. In current dollars, the economy advanced at a 7.3 percent annual rate, or $90.7 billion, to $5.2 trillion.

The BEA also reported that corporate profits fell in the second quarter for the second back-to-back quarterly drop. Net cash flow, however, increased slightly in the second quarter after falling in the first.

The bureau said that inflation, measured by the gross national product price deflator — which reflects changes in prices as well as in GNP composition — rose at an annual rate of 4.6 percent from April to June, somewhat less than the 4.9 percent estimated in July, and the highest number since the fourth quarter of 1986.

In the first quarter, the annual inflation rate was 4 percent. For all of 1988, the GNP deflator advanced by 3.3 percent.

The largest upward revisions for the second quarter came in personal consumption expenditures, $7.1 billion, to a $14.3 billion rise, and government purchases, especially of farm supplies, $4.4 billion, to a $9.9 billion hike.

The largest downward revision of the July data were made in inventory investments, mostly in farms, by $1 billion to $19 billion for the second quarter, the BEA said.

Since the gross national product, the nation's output of goods and services, grew at a 3.7 percent annual rate in the first quarter, the economy will only need to expand at a 2.2 percent annual rate in the next two quarters to reach the White House's goal of a 2.7 percent growth from the fourth quarter of 1988 to the final quarter of 1988, or 2.9 percent for the whole year.

In the first quarter, growth was boosted by 2.3 percentage points due to the recovery of agriculture from the 1988 drought.

The two quarters confirm that growth was slowed by the Federal Reserve's tight monetary policy. In 1988, the economy grew by 4.4 percent.

The bureau said that corporate profits from current production fell $7.2 billion in the second quarter, or 2.3 percent, to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $309.1 billion. In the first quarter, such profits plunged $23.9 billion, a 7 percent loss.

The BEA noted that the figures are preliminary estimates.

Cash flow from current production — the internal funds available to corporations for investment — increased $6.1 billion in the second quarter, or 1.6 percent, to an annual rate of $394.7 billion, in contrast to a decrease of 5.6 percent, $22.9 billion, in the first quarter.

Profits before tax fell 6.4 percent in the second quarter, to an annual rate of $297.6 billion, after losing 0.3 percent in the first. Profits after tax fell 5.4 percent, to $164.3 billion, after dropping 1.1 percent in the first quarter. The second quarter drop was the largest since a 16.5 percent plunge in the fourth quarter of 1986.

Domestic profits of non-financial corporations dropped $7.5 billion in the second quarter, to $227.8 billion, after plunging $22.9 billion in the first.

The BEA noted that in the second quarter, real gross corporate production increased while profits per unit of real production fell.

The decrease in unit profits reflected smaller increases in the prices corporations received than in the unit costs they incurred, both labor costs and non-labor costs, the bureau said.

though only convicted of misdemeanors, Judge Mize found them to be serious since they involved shooting a 14-year-old boy in the back in 1987.

Judge Mize ruled there is no evidence to indicate Thompson was under the influence of a drug the night of the murder, which can be a mitigating factor in a sentence of death. However, he ruled that evidence did show Thompson was emotionally disturbed at the time of the shooting as a result of being severely beaten by Denmark.

Mize said Thompson had endangered people by firing the gun several times when other people were around, a fact which could support a death sentence. However, the judge said that to support a death sentence the aggravating factors of the crime must be especially heinous, atrocious and cruel, or that there was a "heightened sense of premeditation." He said these factors were not supported by evidence.

Mize said the Florida Supreme Court ruled that the terms "heinous, atrocious and cruel" were usually applied to cases where a victim was tortured or caused pain in which the murderer was either inattentive or took pleasure. An example of a heightened sense of premeditation would be a murder committed for payment, Mize said. Neither of those aggravating circumstances applied to the murder of Denmark, the judge said.

resource officer, said areas in Georgetown are poorly patrolled by Sanford police. He said one such area is East Seventh Street, between Locust and Pine Avenues.

Commissioner Whitey Eckstein disagreed with Clayton's charges. Backing up the police budget to $4 million in 1990 is one way the commission has tried to improve the quality of life in all areas of town, he said.

"We have put our political futures on the line financing this police budget," Eckstein said, referring to a tax millage increase tentatively approved by the commission in June.

The commission should be responsive to the group's demands or suffer political consequences, Clayton said. A few residents in the audience supported him with chants of "Vote them out."

About 30 black residents attended the meeting to speak out on what they called a discrepancy in standards between black and white sections of Sanford. The debate stemmed from a list of complaints the group presented to the commission about the city's recreation department.

Members of the group blamed what they said are racist attitudes for the deterioration of Westside Center, a city community center on Peralmon Avenue, and disparity between recreational offerings there and at the downtown youth center, located in city hall.

"Westside Center is roach-infested," Sanford resident Janet Hewitt said. "You have 100 kids at a time in there sweating like its some kind of slave camp." She said the disparity in facilities and programs at Westside and downtown centers is "a black and white issue."

Commissioner Lon Howell said Westside Center will become a model recreation facility when Boys Club takes over the facility. Boys Club will offer programs the city has not been able to offer there or at the downtown center, he said.

But Clayton said the city is obligated to repair the building before Boys Club can move in. "This is a city-owned property and the city is not taking care of it," he said.

industry again and forbid her from handling others' money during her probation without the consent of a probation officer.

Jernigan will begin her 30-day county jail term Sept. 8, serving weekends only.

"There are certainly enough counts here to put you in prison for a long time," Eaton said. "But I rejected the idea because sending you to prison didn't make sense."

About 15 of Jernigan's friends joined her husband, Sanford recreation director Jim Jernigan, in the courtroom for the sentencing. Several friends testified that Jernigan is remorseful for her crime, and pleaded with Eaton for a sentence that would allow her to rehabilitate.

Fred Buse of Sanford said he had held insurance coverage through Jernigan since her business opened. "I understand she has made a mistake, but she has suffered enough already," he said. "She never lied to me."

Eaton said he was surprised to hear her friends testify that they would do business with Jernigan again if her license was reinstated. "They are kinder in heart than I," he said.

After Eaton heard her friends' pleas, Jernigan cried as she said, "I am very sorry I hurt anyone; I never intended to. But I fully intend to repay everyone who has been hurt."

Jernigan later said the sentence Eaton handed down was fair.

Jack Bridges, Jernigan's attorney, said Jernigan has collected $30,000 to pay restitution to people who had paid premiums but had not received insurance coverage. Restitution for any claims filed by Jernigan's uninsured customers will exceed that amount, he said.

A restitution hearing will be held in October.

Assistant state attorney Beth Rutberg said Florida Department of Insurance investigators had originally thought the fraud claims dealt only with insurance of heavy equipment like dump trucks, which require high insurance premiums. They later found claims involving all types of personal injury insurance, she said.

"It started small, but it got too easy and...all of a sudden, it mushroomed into a situation involving...at least tens of thousands of dollars," Rutberg said.

Rutberg estimated restitution for premiums would be between $30,000 and $40,000, in addition to claims that may be recovered in civil court. The charges filed represented only a few of the complaints received by the Florida Department of Insurance between May 7, 1986 and Jan. 1, she said, but filing any further charges would have been "overkill."

Jernigan said she did not pocket the money she collected in premiums, but used it to pay a $20,000 worker's compensation claim the state would not pay. She said, though she mailed the claim on time, the postal service did not deliver it before the deadline to receive compensation from the state.

Jernigan voluntarily surrendered her insurance license after her Nov. 18 arrest.

Bush reviews his final drug plan

United Press International

KENNEBUNKPORT, Maine — President Bush summoned his top security advisers to his summer compound today to put the final touches on a national drug policy plan that will include more aid to strife-torn Colombia.

The president, who is to unveil the plan Sept. 5 in a nationally televised address, was to discuss the plan in a morning meeting with Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, acting Secretary of State Lawrence Eagleburger, Attorney General Dick Thornburgh, CIA Director William Webster and federal drug policy director William Bennett.

White House spokesman Roman Popadiuk said Monday the session was a "status review" of the $7.5 billion strategy, focusing on how it will work and how the Cabinet members can do their parts.

The advisers were also expected to discuss the heightened tensions in Colombia as the government war against drug barons escalates and $65 million in U.S. military aid begins heading to the South American nation. Last week, officials said Bush's drug plan would include an unspecified amount of additional aid for Colombia.

The scheduled session followed a meeting Monday in Washington between Thornburgh and Colombian Justice Minister Monica de Greiff, who has been threatened by cocaine kingpins and is coordinating her country's discussions with the United States on the problem.

Officials said De Greiff, despite reports she had resigned after just two months on the job, and Thornburgh met under tight security for two hours.

Bush last week approved a $65 million package of additional aid for Colombia to help it fight the Medellín and other powerful drug operations. The assistance includes 20 helicopters, as well as airplanes, assault boats, jeeps, radios, and grenade launchers. The White House said, however, that Colombian President Virgilio Barco has not requested U.S. military personnel to help wage the fight against the drug traffickers and there are no plans to send them.

First day of Bakker trial emotional

CHARLOTTE, N.C. — The first witness in Jim Bakker's federal fraud trial testified that the evangelist and his wife, Tammy Faye, collected close to $2 million in bonuses from PTL while the television ministry was verging on bankruptcy.

Bakker is accused of soliciting millions of dollars from the PTL faithful for annual accommodations at the ministry's resort but putting those proceeds into the church's general fund, from which he was extravagantly paid.

Testifying Monday in U.S. District Court, David Taggart, who was convicted of tax fraud last month for his PTL activities and acknowledges that he expects leniency for turning state's evidence, gave a detailed list of the generous bonuses the Bakkers received from 1983 to 1986 when the ministry was committing itself to expenditures that exceeded its income.

Emotions ran high on the trial's first day Monday, with detractors hurling insults at an athen-faced Bakker as he entered the federal courthouse.

Journalist Joseph Alsop Jr. dies at 78

WASHINGTON — Joseph Wright Alsop Jr., the politically influential journalist whose prominent career began with the Lindbergh kidnapping trial and spanned nearly 50 years, died of cancer and emphysema at age 78.

Alsop died peacefully Monday at his home in Georgetown, said his longtime secretary Jan Wentworth. Alsop suffered from severe anemia, emphysema and lung cancer, and retired in 1976 before undergoing heart surgery in the early 1980s.

During his career, the chain-smoking Alsop became one of the nation's most influential and widely read political columnists between the end of World War II and the Vietnam War.

Four killed at birthday party

LOS ANGELES — Sheriff's officials defended a dispatcher's decision not to send a patrol car when a terrified woman called 911 to say she had been warned her estranged husband was on his way to kill her.

Within minutes of the call, the man burst into his wife's 27th birthday party, shot her and three other women to death, seriously wounded two other party guests and sent several children diving for cover, deputies said.

The suspected gunman, Raymundo Navarro Jr., 26, surrendered about five hours later at his father's apartment in East Los Angeles, sheriff's Deputy Chris Wahla said Monday. He was booked for murder and held without bail.

Minutes after receiving a telephoned warning about 10:30 p.m. Monday from her husband's brother that the man was on his way over to kill her, Maria Navarro called 911. The dispatcher said nothing could be done unless and until someone actually was at her house.

About 11 p.m., Navarro sneaked through the back door of the small house where his wife had been living with her family and burst into her birthday party, firing a pistol at her family and friends, authorities said.

Swindall gets year in prison

United Press International

ATLANTA — Former Rep. Pat Swindall said a year in prison and a $30,000 fine is a fair sentence for perjury, but said he is innocent and will appeal his conviction for lying to a grand jury about a money laundering scheme.

A Republican who lost a bid for re-election following his legal troubles in 1988, Swindall could have been sentenced up to five years in prison and given a $250,000 fine on each of nine counts of perjury.

The government had recommended that Swindall serve 37 months in prison and be fined $75,000. Federal guidelines prohibited the judge from sentencing Swindall to probation, requiring that he serve at least 10 months in prison.

U.S. Attorney Robert Barr said he was satisfied with the sentence.

"We certainly have no quarrel with the judge's sentencing," he said, even though the government had asked and hoped for a harsher penalty.

Swindall's attorneys pleaded for a lenient sentence, based on the fact that he lost his seat in Congress, faces permanent expulsion from the state bar and already has suffered enough punishment to "last a lifetime."

Officials recommended that Swindall serve his term in a federal minimum-security prison, possibly in Atlanta.

Swindall's wife, Kim, held his hand and patted him on the back as the judge pronounced sentence.

Colombia seizes pharmacies

United Press International

BOGOTA, Colombia — Police struck a new blow in Colombia's cocaine war, seizing a chain of pharmacies owned by an alleged trafficker who appears on the U.S. government's list of the 12 most-wanted cocaine smugglers.

President Virgilio Barco also met Monday with presidential candidates from his Liberal Party to discuss measures to protect them and restart the campaign halted by the assassination by cocaine gangs of the party's leading contender.

Police said 17 branches of the pharmacy chain La Rebaja were seized in the city of Monteria, 300 miles north of Bogota. The chain is owned by Gilberto Jose Rodriguez Orejuela, who appears on the list of the 12 most wanted cocaine traffickers the U.S. government would like Colombia to extradite to face charges, police said.

Justice Minister Monica de Greiff met Monday with U.S. Attorney General Dick Thornburgh in Washington to discuss an emergency aid program to help Colombia fight drug traffickers.

De Greiff was reported Sunday to have offered her resignation to Barco because of death threats against her.

Japanese merger creates huge bank

United Press International

TOKYO — Two major Japanese commercial banks said today they will merge April 1 to form the world's second-largest bank, a move observers said could trigger reorganization of Japan's financial market.

The merger of Mitsu Bank Ltd. and Taiyo Kobe Bank Ltd. will be realized on an equal basis, executives of the two institutions said.

"We have judged that the merger will best serve our customers in the age of liberalization and internationalization of the financial market," Taiyo Kobe Bank President Yasuo Matsushita told reporters today.

Newly formed Taiyokobe Mitsu Bank will be the world's second largest commercial bank for fund volume. Daiichi Kangyo Bank Ltd. of Japan is the largest.

The combined funds held by the two banks at the end of March was $231.87 billion.

The merger ratio of the two banks will be five Taiyokobe Bank shares for every four Mitsu Bank shares, Matsushita said.

The announcement marked the first merger of two Japanese commercial banks since 1973, when Taiyokobe Bank was formed as a merger of Taiyo Bank and Kobe Bank.

Matsushita will lead the new bank as chairman; Mitsu Bank President Kenichi Suematsu will become its president. The bank will be based in Tokyo.

The two banks will form a joint committee to discuss details of the merger before applying to the Finance Ministry for approval in October, bank officials said.

Finance Minister Ryutaro Hashimoto and Bank of Japan Governor Satoshi Sumita welcomed the merger.

Communists pledge support in Warsaw

WARSAW, Poland — A senior official was quoted as saying the Communist Party will support the Solidarity-led government of Prime Minister Tadeusz Mazowiecki to prevent more "radical" groups from taking power in Poland.

Leszek Miller, one of 17 members of the party's policy-making Politburo, said it would support Mazowiecki's non-communist government because its collapse would mean "the emergence of more radical groups of the political opposition."

Miller spoke Friday during a rally with workers in Kalisz, southwestern Poland. The text of his speech was published Monday in the Communist Party newspaper Trybuna Ludu.

Afghan rebels feud

PESHAWAR, Pakistan — Two rival U.S.-backed Afghan resistance groups fought fierce battles this month that left about 300 guerrillas dead in an escalation of an internecine rebel conflict, one of the groups said.

The Hezbe-Islami, one of the seven major Pakistan-based guerrilla groups fighting the pro-Soviet Kabul government, accused the rival Jamiat-i-Islami of launching a massive attack on one of its bases in the northern Afghan province of Takhar early this month.

The deputy chief of the Hezbe-Islami, Engineer Ubaidullah, told reporters Monday in the Pakistan border city of Peshawar that the attack was staged "with the full backing of the Kabul regime forces."

Albanian leaders face political trial

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia — A prosecutor in reative Kosovo province filed charges against 15 ethnic Albanians for inciting pro-autonomy demonstrations and said the group will go on trial within the next two months.

If convicted, dismissed Communist Party leader Azem Vllasi and his compatriots face sentences ranging from 10 years in jail to the death penalty for "counter-revolutionary activities endangering the regime," according to a 100-page indictment made public Monday by Prosecutor Spasoje Zamfirovic.

Observers in Belgrade said the trial of Vllasi, 40, the former chief of the Kosovo ruling Communist Party, will be the "biggest political trial" since Yugoslavia's most prominent dissident Milovan Djilas was sentenced in 1962.

MOSCOW — Renewed clashes between Azerbaijanis and Armenians over the disputed enclave of Nagorno-Karabakh have forced the government to send more soldiers to the region, Interior Minister Vadim Bakatin said.

Bakatin, the country's chief law-enforcement official, said Monday that one person was killed last week in violence linked to the status of Nagorno-Karabakh.

In an unusual statement broadcast on national television, Bakatin described other recent unrest throughout the country, ranging from nationalist rallies in the southwestern Moldavian republic and the northern Baltic region to violent crime in Leningrad and Moscow.

"Our people want the police to act more resolutely and more quickly," he said. "In the past week, the situation regarding Nagorno-Karabakh has intensified."

IN BRIEF

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Sparky unimpressed by sweep

BOSTON — The Boston Red Sox had just bagged the Tigers for the fifth time in as many days, but Detroit manager Sparky Anderson was not that impressed with the winners.

"A five-game sweep's not that unusual when one of the teams is 35 (actually 39) games under .500," said Anderson after the Red Sox defeated Detroit, 6-3, Monday night at Fenway Park.

It was the Red Sox' seventh straight victory and was their first sweep in a five-game series since 1975, also against the Tigers. Boston moved to within 5 1/2 games of the idle first place Baltimore Orioles in the AL East.

Detroit has lost nine straight.

"They have 29 games, and that's a lot of games," Anderson said. "But look what they're up against. They have to play the West now ... and I don't know what it is, but nobody plays well out there."

Elsewhere in the AL, Oakland ripped New York 7-3; Milwaukee nailed Toronto 8-2; and Minnesota edged Seattle 5-4 in 10 innings.

FOOTBALL

Saints' fans get penalized

NEW ORLEANS — The New Orleans Saints on Monday night were introduced first-hand to a new NFL rule that penalizes boisterous fans, and not many of them were impressed with it. But the fans and the team were impressed with the Saints 27-10 win over Cincinnati.

The NFL this season is instituting a rule that could cost a home team timeouts, and even five-yard penalties, if fans are so loud an opposing quarterback cannot call his plays.

The new rule got its acid test late in the second quarter, with New Orleans up 7-0 after Dalton Hilliard had scampered in from 3 yards out.

Rickey Jackson and Wayne Martin apparently sacked Boomer Esiason for a loss on a key third-down play at the New Orleans 12. But the Saints were called for defensive holding, giving Cincinnati a first-and-goal at the New Orleans 2.

The Saints first were penalized each of their timeouts, then a half-the-distance-to-the-goal line penalty by Gene Barth.

HOCKEY

McDonald hangs up skates

CALGARY, Alberta — Lanny McDonald, the charismatic right wing who led the Calgary Flames to the club's first Stanley Cup victory last season, announced his retirement Monday after a distinguished 16-year National Hockey League career.

"I made the decision before the 1988-89 season started but kept it to my family," said the 36-year-old McDonald during a reception at his rural residence west of Calgary.

McDonald said he kept his decision private because he "did not want the decision to affect the team and players."

"The decision to retire from the game did not come easy. Hockey has been a large part of my life. The time, however, is right," said a teary-eyed McDonald.

Over a fabled career with three NHL clubs McDonald amassed 500 goals and 506 assists for 1006 points.

NATIONAL LEAGUE

Three-run dingers lift Padres

SAN DIEGO — Earl Weaver used to say you win ballgames with three-run home runs and good pitching, and San Diego Manager Jack McKeon believes it.

McKeon's Padres got three triple-dingers Monday night to account for all of their runs in a 9-4 win over Montreal.

Jack Clark had two homers and Mike Pagliarulo had the third as the Padres won their fifth straight game.

"It's really nice to get the three-run homers," said McKeon. "Now I know why Earl Weaver used to like them."

Andy Benes, 2-2, pitched 6 2/3 innings and allowed four runs on five hits.

Elsewhere in the NL, Chicago hammered Houston 6-1; Atlanta beat Pittsburgh 5-2; St. Louis shaded Cincinnati 3-2; Philadelphia bombed San Francisco 9-1; and New York blanked Los Angeles 1-0.

Making a run at state

County girls could be among best

By MARK BLYTHE
Herald sports writer

Seminole County has made a name for itself in girls' cross country over the past decade and the tradition is likely to continue in 1989 as several strong individuals and teams are present in the county.

Lake Brantley, which finished third in the 4A state meet a year ago, is ranked ninth in the pre-season poll and has a number of strong returners. Always tough Lake Howell should make another run at the title with Lake Mary right on its heels. Lyman, Seminole and Oviedo round out the rest of the county.

Lake Mary will be under the guidance of Mike Gibson, who is in his ninth year with the Rams. Gibson is hoping to bring a conference title to Lake Mary, something that has avoided the Rams in his nine-year stint.

"Our goal is to win the Seminole Athletic Conference meet," Gibson said. "Then we want to get out of districts and regionals. The district should be no trouble but this is a very, very strong region."

Gibson has sent several teams to state during his career at Lake Brantley and Lake Mary, and was just denied last year, finishing fifth in the region (the top four teams qualify).

"We were knocked off last year and we want to make it back this year," Gibson said. "We have a good top four runners. Right now we're looking for the fifth. We have some freshman coming in and doing a real good job right now."

Returning to the Rams are senior Allison Snell, who finished third in the state in the 880-yard run during the '89 track season, sophomore Bekah Boothe, junior Meredith Olive, sophomore Helen Gutmann, senior Kim Blackadar, senior Haydee Rohlehr, junior Start Ferguson and freshman Christina Olson.

"They all look good in practice so far and I'm happy with the number of freshman I have out," Gibson said. "But it's still too early to tell what they will do in a race situation."

Lake Mary will host five meets on its course this year including the SAC meet. Gibson hopes that will give his athletes the advantage they need.

"I'm hoping the home course advantage will help us," Gibson said. "Knowing how to run our course can make a difference and we hope by that time we can use it to our advantage."

Gibson isn't expecting too much. See Run, Page 2B

A-Team, Sunniland continue to roll

By DEAN SMITH
Herald correspondent

The A-Team Construction Company and the Sunniland Corporation continued to roll toward a showdown and the Tim Raines Connection clinched third place in Sanford Men's Class B Slowpitch Softball action at Chase Park Monday night.

With a 9-1 win over Stromberg-Carlson, the A-Team remained undefeated at 9-0 while Sunniland defeated Royce Electronics 13-1 to move to 8-1 and set up a meeting between the two squads to decide the second half championship at a date to be decided.

In Monday's other contest, TRC defeated Ken Rummel Chevrolet 9-4 to advance to 5-4 and take a two-game hold on second with one game to play.

In Monday's opening game, Sunniland scored six runs in the first inning to stake itself to an early lead and never looked back. The big hit in the inning was a two-run triple by winning pitcher Albert Key.

Contributing to the 18-hit Sunniland assault were Rocky Morris (triple, two singles, three runs scored and an RBI), Craig Split (three singles, two runs scored, one RBI), Rick Cieslak (three singles, one RBI) and Key (triple, single, two runs scored, three RBI).

Others who played well for Sunniland were Tolle Frank (two singles, run scored, two RBI), Dan Sacco (two singles, run scored, two RBI), Brad Wallace (single, run scored, RBI), Ron Carroll (single, run scored), Chuck McMullen (single, run scored) and Mike Mawby (run scored).

For Royce, which lost its third straight game to fall to 3-6, Shrupp had a double, two singles and one run scored. Martin had three singles, Palumbo singled twice, K. Williams had a single and one RBI, and Giannelli, G. Williams, Delinger and Pulliam each hit one single.

In game No. 2, TRC trailed 3-1 after four innings of play but exploded for five runs in the fifth and added three in the sixth to roll to the victory.

Tony Dunkinson led the TRC 18-hit attack with a triple, two singles, two runs scored, and two RBI. Also contributing were Fred Washington (double, single, run scored, RBI), Burnett Washington (dou-

76ers send Cheeks to San Antonio

United Press International

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia 76ers Monday severed the last link with their 1983 championship team by trading point guard Maurice Cheeks to the San Antonio Spurs.

In return for Cheeks, center Chris Welp and guard David Wingate, the 76ers obtained floor leader Johnny Dawkins and forward Jay Vincent.

"There was no one final determining factor in making the trade, but if there was one, age is probably the biggest factor, the age of Johnny Dawkins versus the age of Maurice Cheeks," Philadelphia General Manager John Nash said. "To be able to get a young player of Dawkins' caliber is exciting."

Cheeks, who will be 33 Sept. 8, was the last player remaining from the 76ers' 1983 championship team and he averaged 11.6 points and 7.8 assists a game last season.

With San Antonio, Cheeks will be expected to provide leadership to young players like David Robinson and Willie Anderson.

Nash said the team held a news conference to announce the trade before informing Cheeks because San Antonio had called a news conference to disclose the deal.

Dawkins, who will be 26 Sept. 28, averaged 14.2 points and 7 assists but played in only 32 games because of a nerve problem in his left leg and foot.

Vincent, 30, averaged 8.6 points with Denver and San Antonio last season but played in only 29 games because of foot and ankle problems. He is expected to play backup forward for the 76ers.

Nash said the 76ers believe Dawkins and Vincent are recovered, but the trade is conditional on them passing a physical.

Injuries have haunted the 76ers in trades. In 1986, Philadelphia sent Moses Malone, Terry Catledge and a

Wilander, Graf begin defense of U.S. Open crowns

United Press International

NEW YORK — Returning for the first time to the court where they gained milestone victories, Mats Wilander and Steffi Graf began defense of their U.S. Open crowns Monday with straight-set triumphs.

Wilander, whose decline from last year's peak is reflected in his No. 5 seeding, crushed Austria's Horst Skoll 6-1, 6-3, 6-1 after Graf beat Etsuko Inoue of Japan 6-3, 6-1.

Four-time champion John McEnroe ran off a comfortable 6-1, 6-4, 6-4 victory over France's Eric Winogradsky, and in the first big surprise of the competition, No. 8 seed Brad Gilbert was eliminated by Todd Witsken 4-6, 7-6 (7-4), 4-6, 6-3, 6-2.

Second seed Boris Becker, the three-time Wimbledon champion, had no difficulty eliminating David Pate of Las Vegas, Nev. 6-1, 6-3, 6-1.

Gilbert, winner of his last three tournaments and 17 successive matches, led 2-0 in the final set and had a break point in the third game before falling. He said later he woke up with a sick stomach and didn't have the stamina for the 3-hour, 56-minute marathon.

"I got tired from the second set on," he said after being treated for cramps. "I didn't have any food in my tank and I just ran out of gas. My brain wanted to get to some balls, but my body wouldn't."

Gilbert was bedeviled by serving problems, hitting merely 49 percent of his first serves to 72 percent for Witsken, and committing 10 double faults.

Witsken, 25, Carmel, Ind., broke service 10 times. He is ranked 63rd in the world to No. 8 for Gilbert.

McEnroe, seeded fourth, served 13 aces with only four double faults. He dropped his serve once during the 2-hour and 26-minute contest.

"I think I can win," said McEnroe, now on his second — to make a pretty good showing, now I think it's a realistic possibility. I feel if I play the top players, I'd give them a run for their money."

Graf, the near-invincible West German, and Wilander have followed contrasting paths since winning at Flushing Meadow.

By defeating Ivan Lendl in the 1988 final for his third Grand Slam crown of the year, Wilander elevated himself to the world No. 1 ranking, a position he could hold for merely 20 weeks. The 25-year-old Swede has failed to win a tournament this year, reaching only one final.

"I haven't really struggled," Wilander said. "For the first few months after that (the U.S. Open) I didn't really feel like playing. I wanted to enjoy being No. 1 and then I lost a few matches, one too many."

Wilander, who lost to Skoll in five sets in a Davis Cup match in April, took the first five games Monday and was never in trouble, breaking service twice in each set.

Graf became only the sixth player ever to See Open, Page 2B pair of No. 1 draft choices to Washington for Jeff Ruland and Cliff Robinson.

Ruland played in only a handful of games before ending his career because of a knee injury. Robinson has been plagued by injuries since his acquisition.

Dawkins, 6-foot-2, was San Antonio's first pick in the 1986 draft out of Duke. He has averaged 13 points and 5.6 assists per game in his career. Vincent, 6-7, was the 24th player taken in the 1981. He has averaged 15.9 points per game in his career.

Cheeks, Philadelphia's second-round draft pick in 1978, has averaged 12.2 points and 7.2 assists a game in his career. He was hampered by minor injuries last season and missed 11 games.

"We were concerned last season that Maurice's problem was age as much as injury although that did not prove to be the case," Nash said. "But the older a player gets, the more the little bumps and bruises become prolonged problems."

Weip, 7-0, was Philadelphia's first pick in the 1987 draft but suffered a serious knee injury in his rookie season. In limited playing time last year, he averaged 3.6 points per game.

Wingate, 6-5, was Philadelphia's second-round pick in 1986. He played in only 33 games last season because of knee injuries and averaged 4.2 points a game.

Philadelphia Assistant coach Fred Carter said Dawkins should improve quickly in his new setting.

complete the Grand Slam when she defeated Gabriela Sabatini in the 1988 Open final and, unlike Wilander, hasn't slipped a step.

Her triumph over Inoue in the opening match of the championships on Center Court was her 62nd in 64 matches this year and brought Graf's two-year match total to 134-5.

Graf was extended a bit more than expected, actually dropping her service once and requiring 54 minutes to complete her day's work.

The four games won by Inoue, ranked No. 62, were one more than she had managed against Graf in two previous contests.

"I thought I rushed a bit too much," Graf said. "I was not patient in waiting for the right shot and I missed a lot of forehands."

No. 10 seed Alberto Mancini of Argentina overcame Jonathan Canter 3-6, 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, and No. 14 Aaron Krichstein beat Richard Matsuzewski 6-3, 6-2, 6-4.

Among the women, No. 5 Zina Garrison defeated Rada Zrubakova of Czechoslovakia 6-2, 6-1; No. 7 Manuela Maleeva of Bulgaria beat Marianne Werdel 6-4, 6-3.

from the Rams early in the season as he is training them to peak later on in the year.

"We might look real weak at the beginning of the year," Gibson said. "But I'm expecting to come on strong in the championship meets at the end of the year."

Lake Howell is looking to pick up where it left off at the middle of last season, when it was one of the state's top teams. Then the Silver Hawks were struck by injuries, dropped off and finished sixth in the region, their worst finish in seven years.

"We're coming back with the motto of 'unfinished business,'" Lake Howell coach Tom Hammontree said. "The team never really got to see how good they could be last year and that's their goal this year."

They have the potential to be real good. They just have to make it happen."

Hammontree believes that if his team will do the proper things and go our reaching for their goals, that this will be another banner year for the Silver Hawks.

"There's no denying we were good last year," Hammontree said. "And since graduation didn't hurt us badly, they could be just as good this year. They have the power to go as far as they want."

Lake Brantley returns Joyce Tullis, who has run in the state meet in each of her three years at Lake Brantley, Tullis, a senior, will look to make it four consecutive seasons and hopes to close out her career with all-state honors.

Screening to certify therapy pets

The Seminole Dog Fascists Association will test and certify pets for Project PUP (Pets Uplifting People) in a screening set for Tuesday, Aug. 26, at 7 p.m. at Secret Lake Park Recreation Center, Casselberry. The program brings therapy pets into nursing homes in Seminole County and parts of Lake and Volusia counties. Pets will be tested for their behavior around wheelchairs, walkers and other conditions in most nursing homes. Pets passing the temperament test will need health check-ups before they can be assigned a nursing home. For more information, call 333-1862 or 333-0343.

Cheerleader needs cash for London trip

SANFORD — Christa Prather, a senior varsity cheerleader at Seminole High School, Sanford, recently was selected to participate at the New Year's Day parade in London, England, as a Universal Cheerleader Association (UCA) All-Star.

Christa, the daughter of Leonard and Rebecca Prather of Sanford, was chosen at a UCA cheerleading camp held in July.

Cheerleaders from across the nation will represent the United States in the parade.

Funds are being raised to enable Christa to attend the prestigious event. All contributions may be sent to Seminole High School, c/o Ms. Tami Gaudreault, 2701 Georgia Ave., Sanford, FL 32773.

Checks should be made payable to Seminole High School.

For more information, call Gail Stewart at 323-6880 (evenings).

Four plays slated for SCC theatre

SANFORD — The Fine Arts Theater of Seminole Community College, Sanford, has announced its 1999-00 season of plays, which ranges in style from outrageous comedy and farce to lyric and poignant tales.

For the convenience of the public, the theater's 10th season features two-weekend runs for each production, rather than the former one-weekend runs.

Oct. 8-15: Scapino! by Moliere, adapted by Frank Dunlop and Jim Dale, is a fast-paced romp with loveable men, winning beauties and grasping fathers. The play shines with Moliere's insight into the comedy of human frailties and has been called a "glorious cornucopia of every kind of comedy."

Nov. 20 - Dec. 10: How the Other Half Lives, by Alan Ayckbourn, concerns three couples—the men are professional colleagues—who encounter outlandish situations involving infidelity and intrigue in this inventive farce.

Feb. 23 - March 4: Under Milk Wood, by Dylan Thomas, is the story of the intimate lives of the inhabitants of a Welsh fishing village, revealed through song, verse and prose. At times humorous, the play is a lyric exploration of the fabric of life.

April 12-23: Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon, by Margaret Kellogg, centers around the friendship of three unlikely roommates, each scarred irrevocably by life. This play of mood and memory tackles rejection, despair, hope, courage and love.

Season subscription tickets may be purchased for $20 for general admission and $16 for senior citizens. Individual ticket prices are $6 and $8.

The Seminole Community College Fine Arts Theater Box Office opens Monday, Sept. 18, for season subscriptions and on Monday, Sept. 25, for individual tickets. Hours are 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. Monday through Friday.

For reservations, call 323-1450 or 843-7001, ext. 389.

They'll roll out their tattered red carpet for company

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Abby is off on a two-week vacation, but she left behind some of her favorite letters taken from her best-selling book, "The Best of Dear Abby.")

DEAR ABBY: I just read the letter from the 28-year-old mother of four who tacked a poster on her door with "rules" to keep visitors away.

Well, I'm a 38-year-old mother of six, and I'm amazed that anyone would want that much privacy. We're newcomers who live in the country, and I'm stuck out here with six kids, two dogs and three cats. I'm so hungry for company. I'm ready to go out on the road and flag down some strangers.

Please print my "poster" in the paper for all to read:

—You may smoke inside, outside, on the roof or anywhere you wish; just don't burn the house down.

—If you're hungry, help yourself to anything you can find. And if you can't find anything, ask one of the kids. They'll fix you a peanut butter and brown sugar sandwich.

—If you're here around mealtime, grab a chair and join us.

—If you want to stay overnight, bring a sleeping bag and we'll move some clutter from the corner to make room for you.

—Bring your kids. We have so many, a few more won't make any difference.

—We can't lend you any money, but go ahead and ask anyway. It will make us feel good to know we appear that prosperous.

—Tell us your troubles and we'll tell you ours. One of our kids can play the violin for background music, and we can all cry together.

—If you can stand us, we can stand you, so drop in anytime and stay as long as you like. We're people who like people.

MIDGE IN WATSONVILLE, CALIF.

DEAR MIDGE: You sound like the kind of person I'd like to know. I'll bet you won't be hungry for company long.

DEAR ABBY: The wife who said her husband smelled because he seldom bathes reminds me of a story they tell about Samuel Johnson, the noted English lexicographer of the 1700s.

Johnson was a "purist" where words were concerned, but when it came to his personal hygiene, he was a notorious slob.

A woman passenger sitting next to him on a coach train said, "Sir, you smell!" Whereupon Johnson replied: "Madam, you are wrong. You smell. I stink."

Perhaps the husband who was accused of "smelling" would like to show this to his wife.

SEATTLE

DEAR ABBY: My husband's former wife, Velma, with whom we have remained on fairly good terms, invited us to her home for a party. She is now married to a very well-to-do man.

Velma told me it was going to be a costume party, so my husband and I dressed up like a couple of rabbits.

Imagine our surprise when the butler opened the door and ushered us into a room filled with men in tuxedos and women in stunning gowns! We felt like a couple of fools. Velma laughed and said she thought it was funny. I was very upset to have been made a butt of her joke, so I got myself a glass of punch and spilled it on her gown. Then I laughed and told her I thought it was funny. However, she didn't see anything funny about it.

My husband isn't speaking to me, and he thinks I owe Velma an apology. What should I do?

A WIFE IN NEED

DEAR WIFE: Send Velma a bunch of carrots, and tell her you're sorry.

DEAR ABBY: Is it possible for a woman to conceive under water? I mean in a pool, river or bath.

MUST KNOW

DEAR MUST: Not without a man.

Serio's deli will cater your party

LAKE MARY — Joyce and Sal Serio are the owners of the newest deli in Lake Mary. The establishment is located in the Oaks Center at 345 W. Lake Mary Blvd.

Sal decided to move his family to Lake Mary because, after three months of research, he felt that the high growth potential and the quality of life evidenced here was what he wanted. He felt that the school system of Lake Mary was the best for his children, Ashley and Corey. His oldest daughter Dawn is away at college.

Serio's is the only deli in Lake Mary that sells the complete line of Bear's Head products. Serio's also has one of the largest selections of domestic and imported cheeses.

All of Serio's salads are homemade. They also make homemade meatballs, lasagna and the best Italian sausage in sauce. Also, you must try their famous homemade cannoli for dessert.

Serio's also specializes in gourmet and regular catering suited to your individual tastes and budget. They have all the trimmings for the perfect wedding, office party, shower or house party. You name it, they can do it!

They also feature overstuffed sandwiches and subs to be eaten at the deli or for take-out.

Along with all the homemade features and extensive selection of cold cuts, they have imported Italian groceries, imported pasta, bread and rolls, snack food, milk and soda. Don't stand in line at the supermarket — they have free delivery to your home or office.

You can fax them your order at 322-1793 or call them at 322-1793.

Aplastic anemia refers to blood deficiencies

DEAR DR. GOTT: Is aplastic anemia a form of cancer? Our doctors don't seem to help in answering our questions.

DEAR READER: No, it isn't a form of cancer, but it is a dangerous disorder marked by a deficiency of red blood cells, white blood cells and platelets in the bloodstream. It can result from a toxicity to drugs, radiation or chemical agents (such as benzene or arsenic). Allergic reactions to medicines (notably antibiotics and anti-inflammatory drugs) often appear as aplastic anemia. Certain cancers, especially lymphoma and leukemia, can cause it. Unusual inherited diseases, such as Fanconi's anemia and Blackfan-Diamond syndrome, are associated with aplastic anemia. Tumors of the thymus gland sometimes cause this condition.

Treatment is usually difficult because a marked decrease in blood cells can produce a wide range of serious health consequences. Cortisone is often helpful therapy, but many patients require bone-marrow transplants to provide tissue from which new blood cells can grow.

To give you more information, I am sending you a copy of my Health Report "Blood." Other readers who would like a copy should send $1.25 with their name and address to P.O. Box 91369, Cleveland, OH 44101-3369. Be sure to mention the title.

DEAR DR. GOTT: What can you tell me about costochondritis? Is there a drug, other than prednisone, that can be used which might not have the drastic side effects of swelling and disorientation?

DEAR READER: Costochondritis is a poorly understood chronic inflammation of the cartilage attaching the ribs to the breast bone (sternum). It causes pain, tenderness and swelling of the rib-ends. Prednisone, purified cortisone, is helpful in controlling symptoms. However, as you have discovered, it has side effects, including ankle swelling and behavioral changes. Ask your doctor to consider prescribing a weaker drug, such as Indocin or Motrin, that is less likely to produce serious side effects. If you are willing to put up with some discomfort, the non-

Bulgaria, a recent addition to the roster of World Bridge Federation countries, made itself heard when its women's team upset the United States in the quarter-finals of the World Women's Team Olympiad last October. In addition, Christo Drumev, new president of the Bulgarian Bridge Federation, won a best-played-hand award in 1988 on today's deal. He has obviously trained himself to ask the famous two questions when he is in a very good contract: "How can I go set?" and "What can I do about it?" After winning dummy's ace of clubs, declarer ruffed a club immediately. Then he played king of spades and a spade to dummy's ace. West showing out. Next another club was ruffed. South then played two high hearts before playing the K-Q-J of diamonds, overtaking the third diamond with dummy's ace. When the fourth diamond was played, East was skewed. If he ruffed, declarer would overruff, draw the last trump and cash the winning heart for 13 tricks. If he discarded, declarer would throw his heart honor, and the lead would be in dummy to force East to ruff in front of declarer's Q-10. It was a simple little play, ruffing a club at trick two. But how many of us would attack spades immediately, not bothering to set the stage for a favorable end-position when East holds unforeseen length in the trump suit?
