

ROUSING MEET ENDS CAMPAIGN ON SATURDAY

 at John G. Leonardy as the first speaker among the candidates for county judge, mounted the platform. He elicited a great deal of applause when he stated that in a conversation with Mr. Sharon, the latter told him that if elected he only wanted one judgeship and that he told him "well, brother, that is all you will get."
 Among other things, Schelle Maines stated that as secretary and treasurer of the state Democratic Executive Committee, he is in theory the second biggest Democrat in the state. He closed with a plea for all present to join with hundreds of others on June 3 to make it a "Mines Day."

As J. G. Sharon was presented to the crowd some one yelled "five dollars and costs." The speaker reminded his hearers that he had been criticised very severely for some of his decisions in municipal court, but that he had always tried to be fair and square and that he has no apologies to offer for any of them. If elected, he promised faithfulness, efficiency and honesty in the administration of affairs of the office.

S. A. B. Wilkinson declared that he had been accused of being a "bogus check writer and a beater of board bills," but that all of these charges are false. He closed with the statement urging that those whom he had met to "be loyal to the hand you have shook."

John D. Jinkins and R. C. Maxwell, candidates for tax collector, were the next on the program and were followed by George G. Herring and E. F. Housholder, candidates for county prosecuting attorney.

Raymond I. Allen began the fireworks for the seekers of the sheriff's office. He stated that from the sheriff's office "we haven't been getting what we wanted," and inquired why has it been that the officers of the police department have been able to catch whiskey sellers while the sheriff has not been able to get them.

E. E. Brady was received with a big demonstration, the crowd evidently expecting him to make "the fur fly," but whatever they expected along that line, they were disappointed for the speaker never made a single attack against any of his opponents. He declared that he had been gaining considerably in weight during the campaign and that if it were to continue for two more months that he would tip the scales at 400 pounds. Sheriff Hand was the next speaker. He declared that if elected again that he will continue to maintain the affairs of the office in the same efficient manner that he has in the past. J. H. Lee

 in working out the securing of the returns this year, the Associated Press has made a great step forward, which will insure more accuracy than ever before of the results. For (before) the several large newspapers of the state have attempted in their own way to cover the state. Their results have been in many cases inaccurate but under the system in vogue this year where the state is divided into papers, each responsible for a certain portion of the territory, the returns will be handled in much better fashion.

Nine Persons Killed Wabash Train Wreck

ATTICA, Ind., June 2.—Nine persons are known to have been killed and 20 injured, several seriously when a Wabash passenger train, enroute from St. Louis to Detroit, sideswiped a freight train ten miles west of here late last night.

Mrs. Seth Woodruff and son, Charles, left Sunday by auto for Glenwater where they will make their future home. Seth has obtained employment as foreman of the Ford garage there. Mrs. Woodruff has been organist at the Congregational Church for many years and will be missed in that capacity. Their many friends wish them success in their new home.

stated that if selected as the next sheriff that he would make the best one that the county has ever had.

W. A. Tillis stated that he was glad to have such a large crowd present so that he could disappoint them all at one time as to his oratorical ability. He promised if elected that he would fill up the county jail with those people who insist upon driving their cars from one side of the road to the other while in an intoxicated condition and thus making it unsafe for anyone to travel. He again reiterated that the "best things always come in the smallest packages."

Boston Steel and L. P. Hagan, candidates for county commissioner, were the last speakers of the evening.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY—BETTER THAN RUBIES.—Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are which testify of me.—John 5:39.

THE POOR VOTER ON ELECTION DAY

The proudest now is but my peer, The highest not more high; To-day, of all the weary year, A king of men am I. To-day alike are great and small, The nameless and the known; My palace is the people's hall, The ballot-box my throne!

Who serves to-day upon the list Beside the served shall stand; Alike the brown and wrinkled fist, The gloved and dainty hand! The rich is level with the poor, The weak is strong today; And sleekest broadcloth counts no more Than homespun frock of gray.

To-day let pomp and vain pretence My stubborn right abate; I seek a plain man's common sense Against the pedant's pride. To-day shall simple manhood try The strength of gold and land; The wide world has not wealth to buy The power in my right hand!

While there's a grief to seek redress, Or balance to adjust, Where weights our living manhood less Than Mammon's vilest dust,— While there's a right to need my vote, A wrong to sweep away, Up! clout knee and ragged coat— A man's a man to-day!

Did you vote? Did your neighbors and your friends vote? This is a hot day in more ways than one.

What influence did you exert in electing good men to fill the offices? Some voters are making a collection of the cards handed them at the polling places.

The seal prosperous community in the one that lets the carpenters do all the knocking. This is Jefferson Davis' birthday. The banks of the city are closed in observance of the day.

The Tampa Observer predicts that William Jennings Bryan will carry every county in Florida in his race for national delegate.

At the rate people were voting this morning there will be no need to keep the polls open till sundown. Everyone will have voted long before that time.

Business will get back to normal Wednesday. Everyone has forgotten about money-making during the last few days of the political campaign.

Drive into the various sections of the city and you cannot help but note the many new homes being erected. And as the summer comes on building should keep increasing. Sanford must be ready for the tourists this winter.

It begins to look as if Sanford would follow in the footsteps of Miami. It is a practise in the Miami city to first put down an asphalt street and then tear it up to lay water pipe, sewer or some other improvement. Sanford Avenue was recently paved but from all appearances some of the paving must be torn up to put in new water pipe.

Another legal battle is being staged in which twenty-five million dollars can be spent. The resources of the Leopolds and of the Loebes have been combined in an effort to save from the gallows Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks. Interested persons, all over the country, will watch this case to see just what the outcome will be.

Beginning at eight o'clock tonight The Sanford Herald will publish the returns from today's election. The ballot contains so many names that results will undoubtedly be slow in coming in. A representative in every precinct will keep this paper in touch with the counting of the ballots and this information will be given to those who gather in front of the Herald office. A leased associated press wire will bring word from every section of the state as to the results in other parts of Florida. Be The Herald guest tonight.

The "Trouble" With the Youth of America.

"The trouble is not the women or the youth. Never since the dawn of history have the young people behaved so as to suit the older people. It is just a plain case of too many laws."

The Rev. L. N. Dirkhead, pastor of All Souls Universalist Church, of Kansas City, made that statement in an address before the Woman's Dining Club of his town, May 25. The paragraph is worth consideration.

In the first place it is a matter of note that newspapers known to be advocates of "personal liberty" and "wide-open" conditions featured the telegram conveying the Rev. Dirkhead's assertion relative to too many laws. The "wet" newspapers immediately chose to recognize the statement as a churchman's disapproval of the anti-liquor laws. And no doubt the saloon interests will make wide use of it in their propaganda.

"A plan case of too many laws"—when a man makes an assertion like that he should be asked to write a list of the particular laws he would want repealed for the improvement of moral and social conditions. His explanation would undoubtedly be interesting, if nothing more.

The Herald, however, is not finding his reference to too many laws as important as his assertion that "Never have young people behaved so as to suit the older people." Mr. Dirkhead means, of course, that older people having grown stale have discarded their taste for the fresh joys of youth, and are out of sympathy with the things they cannot share.

But, on the other hand, are not the majority of young people actually doing what their elders apparently want them to do? Who is responsible for instance, for cocktail drinking, automobile petting-parties, cigarette smoking, and loose-thought attitude toward the sacred things of life? The anxious parent deploring the actions of his children along these lines may not be doing a solitary thing in behalf of law-enforcement, may not be doing a solitary thing toward strengthening the power of influences that could counteract the evils.

The fact is that young people are very much as older people want them to be. They are products of heredity and environment. They represent their trainers and exemplars.

And America's young people of today are a mighty lot in spite of conditions that have grown out of rampant commercialism with the Royal Dollar crowned king of all. Money-making Americans have little time for their homes and their children and—ideals.

The Kansas City preacher may talk interestingly of too many laws, but he knows that he has deliberately avoided a statement of the main truth. People determine themselves. They "become like that on which their hearts are fixed."

Shoes and Men.

Did you ever stop to think how much some men are like shoes? They both have like weaknesses and many good qualities in common. Under certain circumstances they are both similarly affected.

There is more in a man's shoes than he is apt to think. Taking them as a whole, from the similarity of character which his shoes bear to himself it would almost appear that there is really some affinity between them.

An old magazine is responsible for the following instances in support of the theory: Shoes go on feet; so do men. Shoes have soles; so have men. Shoes sometimes get tight; so do men.

Poor shoes are run over; so are poor men. A shoe will shine, if polished; so will a man. A shoe to get on needs a pull, so does many a man. Some shoes have red tops; so have some men. Some shoes lose their soles; so do some men.

Some shoes are imitation calf; so are some men. Shoes are tanned; so are some men. Some shoes can't stand water; neither can some men. When a shoe is well soaked it is a hard case; so is a man.

A shoe when old gets wrinkled and hard; so does a man. A shoe when well heeled always feels comfortable; so does a man.

The less understanding there is in the shoe the bigger it feels; so it is with a man.

MAN COULD DIRECT his ways by plain reason and support his life by tasteless food; but God has given us wit, and flavour, and brightness, and laughter, and perfumers, to enliven the days of man's pilgrimage, and to "charm his pained steps over the burning marle."—Sydney Smith.

I HAVE SEEN that Man moves over with each new generation into a bigger body, more awful, more reverent and more free than he has had before.—Gerald Lee Stanley.

LAWS AND INSTITUTIONS are constantly tending to gravitate. Like clocks they must be occasionally cleansed, and wound up, and set to true time.—Henry Ward Beecher.

YOUR EVERY VOTER, as surely as your chief magistrate, under the same high sanction, though in a different sphere, exercises a public trust.—Grover Cleveland.

MY FAVORITE STORIES

BY IRVIN S. COBB

"Possibly I attach undue importance to this occurrence because it fitted that most of us are inclined to happen to me. You may have noticed that I attach importance to events in which we, personally, have figured. It's a somewhat common human failing.

At any rate, this particular incident came to pass once upon a time when I was on a speaking tour. Being green at the lecture I had a little expedient for getting myself off the platform. My subject was the World War, from which I had lately returned. When I had concluded my more extended remarks I would invite questions from the audience touching on any phase of the great conflict upon which I had, or had not, touched during the early part of the evening. Invariably there would be responses from all parts of the house, for in those days people were tremendously interested in what was going on in Europe.

After I had grown weary of making replies I would take my handkerchief from my pocket and pass it across my forehead. This was the cue for my manager, stationed at the back of the hall, to call out: "Mr. Cobb, do you expect to return to the war?" "Ah," I would say instantly, "the question asked by the gentleman in the rear reminds me of a certain story." Then I would tell the story and, as I concluded it, make my final bow and retreat into the wings. The trick had the air of being spontaneous and impromptu and served as an appropriate exit.

But when I reached Los Angeles my manager fell ill. Seeking a substitute for him, I went to my friend, Charley Van Loan, now deceased, one of the dearest fellows in the world and one of the most incorrigible practical jokers that I ever knew. He consented, I drilled him until he seemed letter perfect in his part, but to be on the safe side we held one more private rehearsal behind the scenes before I went out on the stage; and then he slipped around to his appointed place and I stepped out and began. The big auditorium was packed, and my humble efforts were well received. At ten-thirty I reached my prearranged and invited quarters. They were fired at me thick and fast from all quarters. When I was good and tired I gave the signal. I could see Van Loan looming up, he was well over six feet tall—away back yonder by the entrance, but he seemed not to see me. Ignoring the interrogations from all others, I mopped by streaming brow feverishly. Still my chosen confederate stood silent. I waved the handkerchief to and fro and mopped again. "Were there any more questions?" I asked, desperately.

There were—plenty of them, but it was one particular question for which I waited. The delay became embarrassing; I guess that the audience could tell that I was distressed, for all at once a lull ensued. There was a prolonged, heart-breaking stage wait.

It was broken by the booming voice of Van Loan: "Mr. Cobb," he called out, "there is one question I should like to put to you, if you please." "Ah, yes, indeed," I said gladly. "What is the question, please?" "Where do you go from here?"

As Brisbane Sees It

1925, Holy Year. Man Foolish, but Able. Law is Man's Will, or No Law. The Ex-Husband Problem. Copy Right, 1925

A SOLEMN SCENE in the Pope's throne room in the Vatican Saturday. Surrounded by the papal guards and all the court dignitaries of the Vatican, the Pope handed his bull, proclaiming 1925 a holy year to Mr. Wilper and Mr. Ayleen, apostolic pronotaries.

THIS PAPAL BULL proclaims "the sacred universal twenty-second jubilee, and the Pope prays, for the holy year 1925, a restoration of brotherly feeling among the nations. Various 'indulgences' go with the holy year. Pilgrims from afar must, ten times in the year, visit the churches of Saints Peter, Paul, John and Maria Maggiore. Residents of Rome must make twenty visits to gain the indulgences.

These include shortening of the sojourn in purgatory and other indulgences of great moment to the faithful.

CAPTAIN DOISY, plucky Frenchman, who started without special preparation to fly from Paris to Japan, has reached Peking. His plane had an accident, but he borrowed another and went on.

Every little French boy knows the lines "From Paris to Peking, from Peking to Rome, the most foolish animal in my opinion is man."

Man may be a foolish animal, in fact, he is, since he commits murder, wholesale, and calls it "glorious war." But man is an able animal with all his brutilities and superstitions. He is just now climbing Mount Everest. He flies around the world, on which his ancestors used to creep so slowly; goes down to the bottom of the sea and really rules the earth. That takes brain.

AMERICANS CRITICISE the British government for allowing whiskey shipments to this country. And Britain, anxious to oblige, talks of taking his title from Sir Broderick Hartwell, because he advertises twenty per cent. profit on American bootlegging.

WHY IS IT England's business to police this country or help us to obey and respect our own laws? Why do we import the goods of India, or pork to Mohammedians. If they don't want to eat beef or pork, that is their affair, not ours.

If Americans will not obey their own constitution, that is their business, not Britain's.

THAT LAWS or constitutional amendments can't prevent whiskey drinking is proved at the big universities. Princeton men pledge themselves to keep whiskey out of their societies. Columbia boys urge each other to forego "their personal preference" which means whiskey drinking, for the sake of the university.

GOOD prohibitionists, which supposed that better prohibition in the constitution would do everything, are disappointed.

Human beings do what they want to do and such of their laws as are enforced merely put into legal words what the majority want to do.

METHODISTS take the ban from theaters and dancing, but not from divorce. You can be divorced for one reason only—infidelity. Your husband may beat you to a jelly, or you may nag him into a disease known to comic artists as "the heebie jeebies," but that does not justify divorce. When divorce is justified only the innocent party may remarry.

THAT SOUNDS reasonable, but questions come up. For instance, what do you expect the guilty half of the marriage to do, if you won't let him marry again? It's usually a "him" that is guilty.

METHODISTS have read that the leopard can't change his spots or the Ethiopian his skin. Can the imperfect husband live as you would like to see him live, outside of marriage. Condemned to bachelorhood, will he not go up and down the land like a raging lion, seeking whom he may devour?

Does it make the world safe for innocence to keep all the bad husbands on the alert for unsophisticated girlhood? Would it not be wise to let each husband failure have at least one more chance? He might get for a second wife somebody that would worry him into behaving himself.

ON THE Indianapolis speedway racers drove their cars at a speed well above one hundred miles an hour, averaging over 98 miles an hour for the first 150 miles. Henry Ford, who was judge of the race, insured the life of every racer for $10,000 per life, at his own expense.

One hundred miles per hour would have seemed incredible when men were marching off to the Spanish war. It seems slow to the young flirts that fought in the recent war. It will seem like crawling to flyers of the future that will cross the Atlantic soon and the Pacific later, between sunrise and sunset.

THAT'S A BETTER way to spend money than collecting "art" for your own private gallery. Nevertheless, American collectors render public service. All things worth while drift eventually into the public museum and just now Europe is ready to sell to America works of art that can not possibly be duplicated, and that this country needs.

That extraordinary thing is that the government should lay a heavy tax to discourage such purchases, every one of them meaning a contribution to the public education, eventually.

Even A Dull Ax is Sometimes Better Than None.

HENRY'S RAILROAD NEW YORK WORLD

When Henry Ford bought the Detroit, Toledo and Ironport Railroad a few years ago for $5,000,000 it had a bonded debt of some $9,000,000 and stock capitalization of $13,000,000. It was in chronic bankruptcy. It often failed to earn running expenses. It now has a net operating income running around $1,700,000 for 1923, and this on an expenditure on the property of "scarcely more than $1,000,000 of new money." It is now planning to double-track and electrify the whole line, which runs into Southern Ohio.

Mr. Ford tells in the World's Work how this transformation came about. He denies that he paid for the property less than it was worth. He paid a good deal more than what its bonds and stocks were quoted at in the market. He did not buy it because he wanted a railroad, but because he wanted a piece of property belonging to the road.

Nor did he think to make a road a mere facility to the Ford motor plant. His motor and tractor business now supplies 40 to 60 per cent. of the road's freight, and he says it could have had that before had it the facilities.

He has simply applied certain principles which he would apply to any business. "Do the job without red tape, pay every man well, put all machinery in the best condition possible." Results: The road had 2,700 employees to handle 5,010,000 tons of freight. It now handles 7,531,000 tons with 2,300 employees. The lowest man on the road's payroll gets $1,872 a year for an eight-hour day without overtime. The average wage for more hours on the average American railroad is stated to be only $1,588 a year.

Mr. Ford intimates that the road could have been made to pay before but that it was run by and for bankers and their commissions on financing it. He is certainly putting the general railroad manager of the country on the defensive.

DEMOCRATS IN GOTHAM MIAMI DAILY NEWS

The meeting of the Democratic national convention in New York in June will give opportunity for appraisal of the growth of this, the world's greatest city. When the Democrats met in that city in 1868 which was in the course of growth which was to lead it to a position of unchallenged distinction the world over.

Many people will motor into New York for this convention. The motor car was unknown in 1868. There will be some, perhaps to come in airplanes. The flying machine was a dream of "crazy individuals" in 1868.

There were only twelve theatres in New York in 1868 in which entertainment could be had. Today the theatres number into the hundreds. New York in 1868 entertained 50,000 visitors for the National Democratic Convention. This year the number will be more than half a million it is estimated.

The highest building spot in New York in 1868 was the Trinity Church spire, 284 feet. Today the Woolworth building rises floor upon floor to unprecedented heights. New York's skyline fifty-six years ago was in no wise comparable with the present line which greets visitors from the sea. In every way the city has grown and changed and commended itself to the nation and to the world.

Visitors next month who have not seen New York for a decade will be amazed at the progress that has been made and the development which has marked the giant city among the communities of the universe. This in itself offers an unusual attraction in connection with the convention.

RUNNING UP THE DEBT MIAMI HERALD

With the enactment of the bonus bill, over the President's veto, all hope for a material reduction of taxes upon the people must be abandoned.

Perhaps the mere passage of the bonus bill would not in itself compel the defeat of the new tax measure, but it is evident that this congress is bent upon the greatest program of extravagance that has been proposed since the war.

The accumulated appropriations amounting into the hundreds of millions. All these things added to the war debt and with local debts will, it is estimated, make the indebtedness of this country amount to more than $35,000,000,000 by the end of 1924.

It is a question whether we are not approaching the limit of national indebtedness and the immense appropriations of congress point to the necessity of a serious attempt at economy in government, both federal and state.

The President well said that the present tendency in congress was both a burden and a menace, threatening the progress and the prosperity of the country.

It is high time that a Democratic administration be given an opportunity to curtail the tremendous program of expenditure.

PRONUNCIATION ST. AUGUSTINE RECORD

A snicky columnist submits a short paragraph to be read aloud by would-be speakers, warning candidates that he doesn't know anyone who would pass the test with a percentage of 100. Here it is:

"As coadjutor of your labors, it would be indecorous of me to issue any preemptory orders. But it is obligatory that I construe my oath of office as conferring certain exemplary duties; otherwise our position would be irremediable—or perhaps I should say remediable. My own feelings are sacrificial; the good of the order must take precedence.

It is good practice for anyone, from the smart eighth grade up to the father who presides in lodge meetings and the mother who directs the destinies of a woman's club. Nearly everyone is likely to meet with some surprises when he looks up the doubtful words in a dictionary.

English pronunciation is a sady mixed affair, to be sure. To consider two or three more common stumbling blocks, where do you place the accent in "detail," "aerial" and "diocesan."

"Aerial" is almost universally pronounced "wherefore" it is fortunate that "antenna" is coming to be used as a substitute in radio terminology. "Precedence" contained in the difficult paragraph above, is unfortunately confused in accent with "precedents." ["Detail" is one of a large class of words in which the accent is placed on different syllables accordingly as the word is used as a noun or a verb.

With all the confusion involved in English accent, there are certain broad rules which will help in most cases. A little knowledge of Latin will help, too. But perhaps the biggest help is simply the cultivation of "a good ear," by reading good poetry and hearing good speakers.

YOUNG PEOPLE OF SANFORD ENJOY CAMPING TRIP

At the close of school lake parties and picnics are becoming more and more popular. One of the most delightful yet given was that one by Mrs. A. E. Hill. Mrs. Hill cannot receive too much praise for the interest she has taken in entertaining the young women attending the camp, or party, which lasted the entire week.

Laden with everything to make their stay an enjoyable one, the party motored to Crystal Lake a week ago Saturday, returning Monday morning of this week, a little weary in body but rested and satisfied in mind, it is said.

Crystal Lake made an ideal location for the camp with its smooth shores and cool, clear water, and for a solid week was the scene of much merriment, it is reported.

While the party was at camp they had a congenial bunch of young men to visit them often. There was dancing, swimming, motoring, promenades, theater parties, card parties and the like.

A dinner party on Thursday night was made up of a jolly crowd from both Sanford and Orlando. Some of the visitors present were Sarita Lake, Gladys Wilson, John Meisch, Robert Dodson, Paul Lake, Edgerton Patterson, Lee Peck, Harry Wimblish, G. W. Spencer, Jr., Tommy Thompson and Robert Thrasher from Sanford.

Coming out after the dinner party were San Thrasher, Walter Connelly, W. A. Adams, Warner Hogan, Pierce Griffin and Charles, of Sanford; Kennis Harrod, Marian Kinkaid, Bill Anderson and Claude Anderson, of Orlando; and Frank and Richard Banbow of Ohio.

The young women going on the camp were Olive Newman, Mae Holly, Emily Lingo, Naomi Sedgwick, Mildred Holly, Georgia Mobley, Sara Williams, Mary Elizabeth Puleston and Helen Vernay.

Mrs. Henry Wight, president; Mrs. W. M. Scott, first vice-president; Mrs. W. A. Fitts, second vice-president; Mrs. E. M. Gallo-way, third vice-president; Mrs. F. F. Dutton, recording secretary; Mrs. S. O. Shinholsler, corresponding secretary; Mrs. John Meisch, treasurer; Mrs. W. L. Morgan, chairman of social department; Mrs. D. P. Drummond, chairman of music department; Mrs. C. C. Woodruff, chairman of literature department; Mrs. J. G. Sharon, chairman of welfare department; and Mrs. J. E. Pace, house chairman.

All communications intended for the Woman's Club should be addressed to Mrs. S. O. Shinholsler, corresponding secretary. The parliamentary has not yet been selected.

Sanford should feel proud of its Woman's Club. With the live and efficient officers working together there is no reason why some more good work should not go on, for they make up a splendid group of women and great things are looked for.

Members of the board feel they are fortunate in having secured Mrs. E. A. Douglass as press and publicity chairman and Mrs. Walter Wight as vice-chairman. The secretaries of the five departments will constitute the committee to act with these two women. Further articles on club work will follow.

Child Welfare Work In Seminole County Makes Much Progress

(By Miss Abby Doudney)

What one thing can be chosen from the whole of Seminole county which will be of most vital interest to the greatest number of people? Unquestionably our children. Their happiness, their welfare, their development, their needs and finally their fair chance to obtain the benefits of a sound mind and a strong healthy body that we manifest in them the types of men and women well fitted to take our places.

Few people in this day question the necessity of sending their child to school. The question of education, however, is not one of mind only. We must strive to cast an every child the opportunity to develop a healthy body or education will be in vain for the most brilliant mind in the world in a broken, disabled body, is useless. The time has come when health work is being worked out on an equal plane with the education of the mind.

The physical advancement of a child each month, the physical care of their bodies, and the record of it, should be as much a part of the child's report card as reading, writing and arithmetic. It can truthfully be said for statistics show, that over 50 per cent of school failures are due not to dullness in the child or failure on the part of the teacher to apply the right method, but to lack of good health. We cannot expect these children to give their attention to, and learn well the lesson of the blackboard, when they are compelled to look at it with eyes that fail to see. We cannot hope to have a perfect mathematical problem worked out when every nerve and every attention of the child is centered on an aching tooth, which never should be allowed to ache.

Say what we will of the beauty of education of the mind, the needs of the body cannot be neglected and fail to see that our children observe them, nature rebels, only after repeated warnings, however, and trouble follows.

A system of corrective health work which has been endorsed and adopted throughout the United States has been installed in our schools in Seminole county and the results, after a trial of seven months, fully prove its worth, and are very satisfactory.

That the healthy child is the one who does the best work has been entirely shown by the results of this system.

In the Sanford schools, where on account of the large number of pupils, several different classes of the same grade are required, these children are classed together according to their ability to work. Surely none can believe that it was mere coincidence that to the grade in the primary schools which was shown to do the best school work and classed accordingly, the gold star for the greatest number of 100 per cent (health) pupils was awarded. The same "coincidence" held true in the grammar school.

The gold star was won by the grade having the best record, not only for health, but for studies. Can we in the face of this, doubt the necessity of teaching to children the simple rules of health, which will not only insure them comfort of mind as well as body but will relieve us of so many doctors' and dentists' bills? If we will only heed nature's warnings and take the ounce of prevention instead of the pound of cure, how much fatter our pocket books will be!

The county nurse must see this means of expressing to the school children of Seminole county her pride in them and the splendid work they have accomplished for health this year.

Special mention must be made of Lake Monroe school, for those scholars by hard, persistent work and the steadfast efforts of their teachers, brought themselves up to and above the 100 per cent mark for corrective health work.

This school was awarded the large gold star for best health work in the whole county, and it was truly well earned.

It is to be hoped in the next school year there will be not only one, but many schools who go beyond 100 per cent.

Following is a list of the per-contages made by all the schools in the county for corrective health work:

Lake Monroe	101%

English Excavators Find Roman Kitchen

LONDON, June 3.—A camp house where probably in olden times the unwelcome Roman legions once feasted, has been found among a group of newly discovered Roman remains at Folkstone, on the English Channel, where the first Romans are said to have landed. The remains consist of two buildings, in each of which are about seven hearths, which leads to the belief that they were used as the cook houses and dining halls of the Roman camps.

The base of a watch tower also has been found, built in a wall which evidently surrounded the camp. Several burial urns and Roman glass have been dug up, all in perfect condition.

The excavations are being made under the supervision of experts from the British Museum to which the relics will be given.

Tendler Defeated Senators Tounce By Mickey Walker Athletics Monday Who Retains Title By An 8 to 3 Score

PHILADELPHIA, June 3.—Mickey Walker of Elizabeth, N. J., world's welterweight champion, successfully defended his title against Lew Tendler, Philadelphia southpaw, in a furious 10-round bout in the National League ball park here Monday night. The challenger put up a strong fight against the youthful champion but was outpunched in the infighting.

In the first 10-round bout Johnny Mealy, Philadelphia lightweight, won a judges' verdict over Pedro Campo of the Philippine Islands. The verdict was unpopular.

Joe Tiplitz, sensational Philadelphia 135-pounder, won a decision over Dan Gartin, also of Philadelphia in a 10-round bout. Tiplitz won all the way despite the game showing of Gartin.

The main go was sent on ahead of the final preliminary bout due to the threatening weather. Tendler was the first to enter the ring. He came in at 10:03 o'clock. The southpaw was given a tremendous ovation although the consensus of opinion favored Walker.

A small army of photographers followed the challenger in. Tendler sat calmly in his corner while the crowd waited for the champion. The crowd rose to its feet when Walker came down the aisle and paid a glowing tribute to the welterweight king. The champion parted the ropes at 10:08 o'clock, attired in a loud purple sweater bundled high around his neck.

It was announced that Slim Brennan of Wilkes-Barre, Pa., would referee the bout. Despite Tendler's popularity in Philadelphia the champion apparently had just as many friends at the ring-side as his challenger.

The southpaw's long left bothered Tendler to some extent. The challenger tried to score heavily by hitting Tendler's body. The Philadelphia was game, however. He boxed Walker at every turn, blow for blow, carried the fight to the champion during the later rounds and even forced the champion to cover by the fury of his attack.

Walker fought a crafty fight. He rushed Tendler, swinging with both hands, while Tendler boxed for an opening to clinch. The challenger started off a bit awed by the championship aspect of the bout, but gained courage as the battle progressed.

He opened up in the final rounds and rushed the titleholder, carrying the fight to him. Walker's lead in the early rounds was too great to overcome, however, and the decision went to the champion by vote of both judges.

Over Ninety Percent of Childish Ailments Come From Indigestion

—W. I. Hand.

Indigestion, in children, should be but a very temporary condition. Yet while it lasts, it congests the liver and bowels, breeds germs and fills the blood with poisons that are the cause of many troubles.

Children's ailments develop suddenly, without much warning, but yield just as quickly to proper treatment. By a judicious cleansing action of stomach, liver and bowels, my Liv-o-lax, a pleasant-tasting liquid remedy, gives the quick relief that mothers seek, and it saves the use of calomel and castor oil. Just one trial will convince. Get a 30c bottle. Children love Liv-o-lax and mothers will be delighted with its quick action.

Mrs. Housewife! Do You Favor Food Law Enforcement?

You appreciate the vital importance of pure and fresh drugs—drugs that are prepared and packed under fixed government regulations.

How about foods? Aren't they just as important? Take baking powder, for instance—it is useful only when it produces its maximum of leavening strength in the baking. Leavening efficiency means light, wholesome breadstuffs—bakings that are easily digested, which in strength means flat and soggy bakings which are surely indigestible.

The pure food laws of our country have standardized baking powder—they require that it contain 12% leavening gas at the time of sale to the consumer. Why is it that these laws have not been applied to baking powder mixed with flour, and sold in sacks as self rising flour?

Thousands of barrels of self rising flour are annually sold in our southern states without any regulation by pure food measures, except in Texas.

Any grade of flour and any quality or strength of baking powder can be used in making self rising flour and so deteriorated as to be productive only of heavy, soggy bakings.

Numerous baking and laboratory experiments have been conducted by state chemists and other investigators. They found a surprising amount of this mixed flour to be so deteriorated as to be productive only of heavy, soggy bakings.

Do you want to eat foods made from self rising flours that do not contain the necessary leavening strength—foods that are hard to digest and a detriment to health? Do you want the law to protect you in this instance as interested in public health to decide.

Remember Calumet Baking Powder meets every requirement of the law—that it retains its great leavening strength to the last spoonful.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY: BETTER THAN RUBIES: Search the Scriptures; for in them ye think ye have eternal life; and they are they which testify of me. —John 5:39.

THE POOR VOTER ON ELECTION DAY: The proudest now is but my peer, The highest not more high; To-day, of all the weary year, A king of men am I. To-day alike are great and small, The nameless and the known; My palace is the people's hall, The ballot-box my throne!

Who serves to-day upon the list Beside the served shall stand; Alike the brown and wrinkled fist, The gloved and dainty hand; The rich is level with the poor, The weak is strong to-day; And sleekest broadcloth counts no more Than homespun frock of gray.

To-day let pomp and vain pretence My stubborn right abide; I set a plain man's common sense Against the pedant's pride; To-day shall simple manhood try The strength of gold and land; The wide world has not wealth to buy The power in my right hand!

While there's a grief to seek redress, Or balance to adjust, Where weights our living manhood less Than Mammon's vilest dust, While there's a right to need my vote, A wrong to sweep away, Up! clouted knee and ragged coat— A man to lead the way! —John Greenleaf Whittier.

Did you vote? Did your neighbors and your friends vote? This is a hot day in more ways than one.

What influence did you exert in electing good men to fill the offices? Some voters are making a collection of the cards handed them at the polling places.

The real prosperous community is the one that lets the carpenters do all the knocking.

This is Jefferson Davis' birthday. The banks of the city are closed in observance of the day.

The Tampa Observer predicts that William Jennings Bryan will carry every county in Florida in his race for national delegate.

At the rate people were voting this morning there will be no need to keep the polls open till sundown. Everyone will have voted long before that time.

Business will get back to normal Wednesday. Everyone has forgotten about money-making during the last few days of the political campaign.

Drive into the various sections of the city and you cannot help but note the many new homes being erected. And as the summer comes on building should keep increasing. Sanford must be ready for the tourists this winter.

It begins to look as if Sanford would follow in the footsteps of Miami. It is a practise in the Magic city to first put down an asphalt street and then tear it up to lay water pipe, sewer or some other improvement. Sanford Avenue was recently paved but from all appearances some of the paving must be torn up to put in new water pipe.

Another legal battle is being staged in which twenty-five million dollars can be spent. The resources of the Leopolds and of the Loeb have been combined in an effort to save from the gallows Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb, confessed kidnapers and slayers of fourteen-year-old Robert Franks. Interested persons, all over the country, will watch this case to see just what the outcome will be.

Beginning at eight o'clock tonight The Sanford Herald will publish the returns from the primary election. The ballot contains as many names that results will undoubtedly be slow in coming in. A representative in every precinct will keep this paper in touch with the counting of the ballots and this information will be given to those who gather in front of the Herald office. A leased associated press wire will bring word from every section of the state as to the results in other parts of Florida. Be The Herald guest tonight.

"An adjudicator of your labors, it would be indecorous of me to issue any peremptory orders. My own feelings are sacrificial; the good of the order must take precedence."

English pronunciation is a sadly unfortunate that "antenna" is coming to be used as a substitute in radio terminology. "Precedence," contained in the difficult paragraph above, is unfortunately confused in accent with "precedents." "Detail" is one of a large class of words in which the accent is placed on different syllables accordingly as the word is used as a noun or a verb.

With all the confusion involved in English accent, there are certain broad rules which will help in most cases. A little knowledge of Latin will help, too. But perhaps the biggest help is simply the cultivation of a good ear, by reading good poetry and hearing good speakers.

"Mr. Radio Man" Is Favorite Song of Tiny Tots, Their Benefactress Discovers From Their Letters
 New York City.—Nonette, gypsy violinist and singer and lover of children, has listed herself as one of those who will aid the American Child Health Association in calling attention to National Child Health Day.
 Nonette is known in theatrical circles as the "children's friend" because she nightly puts many thousands of babies in orphanages and children's hospitals to sleep with her radio music.
 Her first effort in the child health campaign which is being led by Herbert Hoover, President of the American Child Health Association, was to sing the modern child's favorite popular song, "Mr. Radio Man," for the benefit of Jacqueline Pabon and Ramanda Camadado, rival candidates for baby health queen of New York.
 "When the telephone first came in," Nonette explains, "the song writers immediately saw the possibilities of joining the child and telephone themes. The radio belongs to every child, and I earnestly believe the radio bed-time story and song are a great aid in promoting child health."
 "You ought to see the letters I get from children everywhere about their favorite songs. They like best of all the one that personifies for them the mysterious voice coming out of the horn in the wall, 'Mr. Radio Man.'"
 New York's baby health queen will be crowned by the city's Mayor in Central Park as part of the local child health celebration.
