Louis Meyer wen the Indianapolis 500-mile race, at an average speed of 100 miles an hour, breaking all track records, without tire trouble of any kind.

No tires except Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires could have resisted the terrific heat generated at such high sustained speeds on the hot brick track, lap after lap, hour after hour. You can have no greater proof of blowout protection.

Not one of the thirty-three drivers would risk his life on any other tire, for each driver knows that heat is the chief cause of tire failure and blowouts. Firestone coefficient scaked in liquid rubber, which saturates and coats every cotton fiber, preventing friction and heat and adding great strength. This is the Firestone patented process of Gum-Dipping, that gives you greatest blowout protection and safety.

Profit by the experience of race drivers. Equip your car today with Firestone Gum-Dipped Tires—it costs so little to protect lives worth so much.

Dividing The Bonus Money

What are the veterans going to do with their bonus money which they will begin to receive shortly?

Seventy per cent of the $2,000,000,000 bonus to be paid to veterans the middle of, June will be spent toward the attainment of economic and social security for the more than $,000,000 beneficiaries, it has been predicted by The American Magazine which has just completed a nation-wide entrace on this subject.

American Magazine which has just completed a nation-wide survey on this subject.

The detailed analysis of the many and varied anti-mates of where the money is going, both geographically and by industries, has been published in reply to inquiries from businessmen all over the country who are offing their cash registers in anticipation of the bonus payment, the magazine stated. The analysis is based on grivate investigation, following examination of figures supplied by the American Legion, the Department of Commerce and other organizations.

The two largest items, according to existing the second on

The two largest items, according to estimates based on inquiry among the veterans themselves, will be the payment of back debts, and the purchase or improvement of homes. These alone will account for some $60,000,000 each, or considerably more than half of the entire bonus payment. The third largest item, approximately $165,000,000 will be spent for the purchase of new businesses, businesses, accurate the second of the iness equipment, and on education to increase earning power.

The survey revealed that large industrial organizations as a rule do not anticipate any sort of a boom to retions as a rule do not anticipate any sort of a boom to result from the bonus payment. For example, the statistician for a national organization of automobile manufacturers stated that the $122,000,000 of the bonus money which is expected to go for cars and trucks will be "only a drop in the bucket." Nevertheless, on the Department of Commerce estimate of 500 hours of labor in the creation of an automobile, this would involve 172,500,000 manhours of work, not merely in the factories but extending back through the sources of material, to the mines, the forests, the last time its budget was in balance. panies and similar industries.

Nature Stories By THORNTON W. BURGESS The Bravery of Mother Love

Pain and fear will mothers bear, short jump from the tree to which And for their children all things she was clinging over to the

- Old Mother Nature.

Of all the little people who live in the Green Forest the Flying Squirrels are among the most gentle and timid. They are so timid that seldom do they come out during the daytime. You see, they feel safer after the Black Shadows come; for then there are few hungry felk looking for them. It is because they are abroad at night that they have such big eyes. In proportion to their size their eyes are larger than the eyes of other members of their family.

Farmer Brown's Boy knows Timmy the Flying Squirrel well and is very fond of him. Not for the world would Farmer Brown's Boy hurt Timmy or any member of his family. So it was that when he was cleaning out the birdhouse he had put up in a tree on the edge of the Green he had pulled out was not an old bird's nest as he had supposed but the nest of Mrs. Timmy, and that in that nest were three helpless little babies, he was much distressed. Of course, his first shought was to get that nest back in the house, but in pulling it out he had pulled it apart and some of it had fallen on the ground.

It was then that Mrs. Timmy had shown how brave she was Of course, she couldn't know that this great two-legged giant would not harm her, but she was brave enough to take a chance She came down to the very fee of Farmer Brown's Boy, seized a mouthful of that seating mate. This upset the plan of Farmer Brown's Boy to try to put that nest back in the little house. It was very evident that Mrs. Timmy didn't intend to live in that house any longer. "Well," said Farmer Brown's Boy to himself, "what shall I do now? What it is Mrs. Timmy is trying to ask me? You poor little thing. You look frightened to death, yet you have dared to are of Laughs and Love! come almost within arm's reach. I can read right in those big, soft eyes of yours that you want me to do something. I wonder if you are trying to ask me to put these bables down. Even if do, I don't see how you are going to get them away up in that hole so high in the trees."

Farmer Brown's Boy started to put the rest of the nest, with the bables in it, down on the ground. He intended to then go off a little way and watch to see just what Mrs. Timmy would do. However, as he stooped down a straightened up again.

"I wonder," thought he, how much courage little Mrs. Timmy really has. I wonder if she will dare to take these babies from my hand. I suppose it is mean to test her courage in this way, yet I would like to know if she really is brave enough to de such a thing."

He took one of the bables from the nest and held it in the palm of his hand toward Mrs. Timmy He could see her quiver all over. It seemed as if her eyes grew starts at $:15. bigger, if that were possible, and in them there was such a look of love and longing as he had never seen. Twice Mrs. Timmy made a move as if to jump over to his hand, and then fear held her back. The third time she overcame feer. She made the little hand of Farmer Brown's Boy. She hesitated only long enough to glance up into Farmer Brown's Boy's face, as if to plead, "You won't hurt us, will you?" Then she picked up one of the babies, turned and leaped back to the trunk of the tree, carrying that baby in her mouth.

"You brave little thnig," said Farmer Brown's boy softly. "Tru-Jy there is no bravery like the bravery of a mother's love. Not for the world would I harm one of these babies of yours, nor would I harm you. I wonder if you know it, or if you aimply took a chance."
