EPA Probing Radioactive Contamination At Airport

By Sarah Fischer Herald Staff Writer

Officials from the U.S. Environmental Protection Agency are at the Sanford Airport this week surveying the extent of contamination from radioactive materials left by a company which occupied Building 137 several years ago.

A pending cleanup of the site off Airport Boulevard is expected to be completed by the end of June, according to Kelly McCarty, EPA on scene coordinator.

The cleanup could cost between $50,000 and 8300,000 depending on the amount and type of contamination. The EPA's enforcement division may seek damages from the airport authority or American Radio Chem Corp., the company which left the materials. Ms. McCarty said.

The company mixed chemicals with radioactive not be put out by water. Ms. McCarty said. carbon 14 particles and sold the material to pharmaceutical companies for research, she said.

Since Monday, EPA officials have determined some 55 gallons of radioactive and other chemicals will be taken off the site and shipped to disposal sites in South Carolina and the southeast, Ms. McCarty said.

She called earbon 14 a "very low active" material and said the chemicals at the airport building appear to be fairly well contained atop a

The materials pose little threat as far as leaking into the ground, although some are water reactive, which means in case of a fire they could

The more hazardous materials are to be removed first, once the EPA completes the two-week inventory of the site, she said. The agency is working to secure interim financing for the cleanup, she added.

Not all of the chemicals in the building may contain the radioactive material, she said.

"We are finding out exactly what kind of chemicals are left and deciding if anything is contaminated," she said. "When we leave, there will be no threat here."

Sanford Airport Authority Director Red Cleveland said the authority was aware of the materials at the site and contacted the EPA four to five months ago.

American Radio Chem Corp., which occupied the building since 1970, was first ordered to clean up the site by the state during an inspection several years ago which found unacceptable levels of contamination. Cleveland said.

The company declined to clean up the building. which resulted in the state terminating its operating license. Cleveland said.

We tried to work with them, but we felt we didn't have the expertise to clean it up." he said.

Man Gets 30 Years For Rape

A Fern Park man linked by a penguin-patterned beach towel to a rape was sentenced Tuesday to 30 years for the crime and a rape parole violation.

Jeffrey Alan Hefling, 22, of 200 Fren Park Blvd., was sentenced by Circuit Judge Robert McGregor for the Oct. 21 rape of a Winter Springs woman and the armed burglary of her home. He was also sentenced for violating his parole in a 1980 rape and abduction case. After serving the time. Hefling is to remain on probation for the remainder of his life. He pleaded no contest to the charges in April.

Helling was arrested Nov. 1 in connection with the October rape after he was stopped and arrested for driving with suspended license.

Police reported finding a blood-stained towel in his car that matched one taken from the victim's home. A stainless steel revolver matching the desciption of one carried by the rapist was found wrapped in the towel.

viciim nad reported to police that about 1:15 p.m. on his way into her home, hit her in the face with his gun and forced her through the home to make sure they were alone.

The man then forced the woman into a bedroom where he raped her. After the rape, he took a blue and green beach towel with a penguin pattern. which he used when cleaning up before ordering the woman to

After she bathed, he ordered her to count backwards to give him time to escape. When he left, he took the towel and more than $100 from the home, a police report said.

Witnesses gave police a description of a car they had seen in the area around the time of the attack. At about 1 p.m. Nov. 1. Seminole County sheriff's Sgt. Paul Jaynes stopped a man he knows who was driving on Winter Park Drive in Casselberry, Jaynes charged that man with driving with a suspended driver license. It had been suspended on Sept. 6.

The suspect's girlfriend drove his Camaro to the Seminole County jail and while the man was being booked into the fall. Winter Springs police on the scene asked for and got her permission to search the suspect's car. The car has faded paint and fur-like scatcovers, which linked it to the description of the carseen near the rape victim's home at the time of the attack. During the search, police found the

County Says No To Flea World Expansion Plan

By Sarah Fischer Herald Staff Writer

Seminole County Commisstoners threw a wrench into the plans of Flea World owner Syd Levy Tuesday night when they denied his request to expand the U.S. Highway 17-92 flea market.

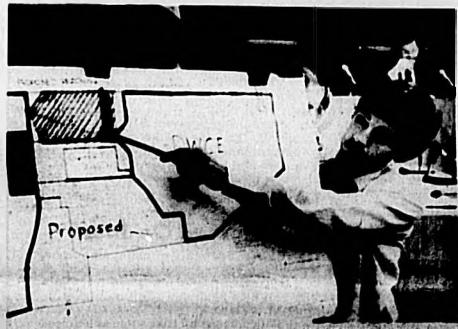

As nearby residents continued to voice their opposition to the project, commissioners voted 4-1 against the expansion, which would have provided for an exhibition center.

Commissioner Barbara Christensen, who voted for the plan, noted that the project had gone through and received state approval through the regional planning council. She also said the findings of the development of regional impact study for Flea World were correct.

"I feel when (county) staff makes a finding in agreement with the state, we (the county commission) should follow through on that recommendation," she said. Following the two-hour public hearing, at which citizens both for and against the project spoke out. Levy said he plans to pursue now." he said. the matter. He said those plans could include appealing the commission's decision and recounty's land use plan.

French Workers Exposed To Radiation PARIS (UPI) - Five workers suffered radiation exposure in an accident at a nuclear reprocessing plant on the northern coast of France, company officials said

The workers were examined by a doctor and sent home, company spokesman Jean Claude Magnae said in a telephone interview from the plant near Cherbourg. 215 miles northwest of the French capital. None was seriously injured The accident occurred Tuesday in an annex building of the main plant at La Hague center, operated by the Compagnie Generale des Matteres Nucleatres, known as

COGEMA. The company is a branch of the French government's Commission of Atomic Energy and did not announce the accident

Magnae said the five men - two COGEMA employees and three welders who were working on the site - suffered radiation exposure when they vented an unused pipe containing a radioactive liquid.

They were going to weld shut the pipe. which was not in use," Magnac said. "Before scaling it they vented the pipe to make sure there was no hydrogen gas in it because that would explode if it is exposed

"When they aspirated the pipe to verify that they found solution inside.

The three welders continued their work until two COGEMA employees realized the solution was radioactive, another spokesman said. The five then went for medical examinations.

Chernobyl Cleanup Outlined, SA

The two COGEMA employees received radiation doses of 1.6 and 0.7 rems and the three welders doses of 18, 11 and 0.7 rems. The company spokesman said all five would have been more seriously exposed if they had not been wearing protective clothing and masks.

Five rems, a unit for measuring the biological effect of radiation on a human, is the international limit of radiation to which miclear power plant employees are allowed to be exposed each year and continue working.

Radiation poisoning occurs at 100 rem and a dose of 600 rems is latal. A chest X-rays equals about .003 rem.

It was the third time in the plant's history that workers have been exposed to radiation. In the last incident three years ago an employee received a dose of 25 rems. The carlier exposure was negligible, a spokesman said.

A company statement called the incident unfortunate and regrettable but without any serious consequences."

The La Hague plant is a main reprocessmg center for used nuclear fuel from around the world. Spent fuel is shipped there from as far away as Japan.

The plant processes the fuel to retrieve the percentage that is reusable, estimated at 97 percent. I percent of which is deadly plutonium. The reusable portion and the 3 percent waste are then shipped back to the original reactor.

Except for a tiny village called Beaumont Hague several miles away. La Hague is isolated in the countryside.

Death Penalty Not Likely To Be Sought

Sanford Woman Indicted In First Degree Murder

By Deane Jordan Herald Staff Writer

A 31-year-old Sanford woman was indicted by a grand jury Tuesday on a charge of first-degree murder in connection with the shooting death of her boyfriend.

Linda Freeney, of 103 Seminole Gardens, faces the death penalty but a spokesman for the State Attorney's Office and it was doubtful the state will seek that sentence. Ms. Freeney, free on $10,000 bond, was indicted in the death of Lester Cooper, 48, with whom she lived for 10 years, according to police. Cooper was shot to death during the early morning hours of April 20.

According to court records, police arrived at Ms. Freeney's home around 12:40 a.m. and found Cooper with a gunshot wound to his left cheek. He had been shot with a

.22-caliber automatic handgun. Cooper, who was charged in 1985 with battering Ms. Freeney, was pronounced dead at the scene at about I a.m. and his body taken to Central Florida Regional Hospital in Sanford for an autopsy.

Ms. Freency, who was privately employed in the care of the elderly, reportedly said over and over that she had "killed Lester," police reported. She reportedly became incoherent while at the Banford police station.

According to police, the shooting may have been the culmination of a fight the couple had started earlier Sunday morning. The gun, with one spent shell, was found on a kitchen table in the apartment. The body was in the bathroom doorway.

The couple had lived together for 10 years as husband and wife though they were not married, police eaid. Common-law marriages entered into after Jan. 1, 1968 are not recognized by the state of Florida. according to statute.

According to police and court records, in the 1985 incident Cooper was arrested on a charge of battery after an officer said he saw Cooper shake and shove Ms. Freeney.

The case was not prosecuted

NATION IN BRIEF

Senate Votes To Extend Daylight-Saving Time

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate has joined the House in agreeing to expand daylight-saving time, but a few differences must be settled before Americans get longer

The Republican-dominated Senate agreed by voice vote Tuesday to move the late April starting date of daylight-saving time ahead by several weeks, effective next

However, before the measure can translate into later springtime sunlight for the nation, it must be reconciled with a similar bill approved by the House, which, in addition to the earlier starting date, also would extend the period into November.

PORTLAND, Ore. (UPI) - A boy who survived the Mount Hood climbing tragedy uttered "a little four-letter word" when told his feet had been amputated, and a girl who lived through the ordeal wept over hearing that nine of their companions had died.

The two teenagers were given the details of the tragedy Tuesday at separate hospitals, where they were recovering from severe hypothermia suffered in Oregon's worst mountaineering accident. Doctors said both were improv-

Glles Thompson and Brinton Clark, both 16, were among 13 members of climbing expedition from the Oregon Episcopal School who were trapped on the slopes of Mount Hood May 12 by a sudden blizzard.

The two, listed in serious but stable condition Tuesday night, were found barely alive in a snow cave last Thursday. Two others in the group earlier had made it down the 11,239-foot mountain on their own.

'Hands' Effort Gains Links

The chain of Americans being forged from coast to coast for Sunday's Hands Across America is picking up more links and the spaces along the 4.152 miles are narrowing.

The projected line snakes from New York to Washington. across to Chicago, down through Little Rock to Dallas and on through New Mexico and Arizona to Los Angeles.

Tuesday, organizers had only about 2 million of the roughly 6 million volunteers needed for the project, but said latest tallies were incomplete.

However, they added they were unconcerned about whether there are gaps in the chain.

Each volunteer is contributing between $10 and $35 for the privilege of joining the line. And with massive corporate contributions, organizers said they hope to raise $50 million for the hungry and homeless of America.

The project is being staged by USA for Africa, the "We are the World" promoters.

Weapons Bill Supporters Optimistic;

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - The sponsor of a bill eliminating local controls on concealed weapons permits predicts the bill will pass despite oppositon from Gov. Bob Graham and Senate President Harry Johnston.

Veto Looms

The bill (HB 1) won preliminary approval from the House Tuesday, and is expected to pass easily on Wednesday. It would allow anyone who could pay the $100 fee to apply to the Secretary of State for a concealed weapons permit, which are currently issued by county commissions according to local standards. If the applicant had no criminal background, could demonstrate knowledge of gun use and a belief he needed protection. and was not insane or a drug or alcohol addict, he would be granted a permit.

"It's clear the vast majority of the people of Florida believe in the bill," said Rep. Ron Johnson. D.Panama City. "I would think the Senate would do what's right and take up an issue the vast majority of House members believe in and have passed out.'

Johnson and other supporters easily defeated a series of amendments intended to weaken the bill, including a "Dodge City" amendment that would have required gun owners to wear pistols in holsters Wild West style. They also swept aside amendments making parents responsible for children who do harm with the family pistol, requiring proof of insurance before receiving a permit, suspending permits of people suspected of a shooting, and adding an eight-hour "cooling off" period before purchasing a handgun.

'If you're going to ban dangerous weapons, you're going to have to ban golf clubs, brickbats, anything that can be used in a moment of passion." Johnson said. "To single out firearms is just a ploy by those who are against firearms, anti-gun people who'd like to do away with guns altogether."

The same bill passed both houses by large margins last year, but was vetoed by Graham. The Senate narrowly voted not to override the veto earlier this session.

Johnson conceded the possibility Graham would veto the bill again if it does pass.

"I would hope the governor would not veto it because the vast majority of Floridians support it." Johnson said. "But that's a decision I have to leave up to him." In other legislative action:

-The Senate Appropriations committee unanimously approved a bill (CS-SB 870) to raise the state's self-imposed cap on its prison population to match the cap mandated by a federal court order.

Wealth Doubles For 14 Senators Up For Re-Election; Others' Grows

WASHINGTON (UPI) - When Sen. John roughly the same level as in 1980. Glenn, D-Ohio, ran for a second term in 1980, his financial disclosure statement revealed an estimated net worth of between $2.1 million and $4.7 million. Those figures have now tripled.

But the former astronaut was far from alone in watching his estimated net worth skyrocket since the last Senate race.

Of the 27 senators seeking re-election this year, the approximate net worth of 14 climbed at least 50 percent since 1980. according to a United Press International analysis of 1980 disclosure forms and 1985 forms released Monday.

The UPI study showed that the estimated net worth of seven of the 27 senators seeking another term had at least doubled. The biggest percentage increase over the period was registered by first-term Sen. Dan Quayle. R.Ind., whose approximate net worth in 1985 was 12 times greater than in 1980, the UPI analysis showed.

Sen. Paula Hawkins. who faces a tough fight to hold on to her seat this fall against Florida Gov. Bob Graham, had property holdings of at least $461.000 and minimum liabilities of $115,000 last year. Hawkins, R-Fla., listed the property and liabilities for her and her husband in a financial disclosure report released Monday. She reported $22,250 in income from speeches, just below the allowable limit.

Senators receive an annual salary of

They are required to file the disclosure reports each spring. They are allowed to report their dealings within broad categories and do not have to report some items, such as their personal residences.

Property holdings for Hawkins and her husband were valued at between $461,000 and $875,000 and their liabilities between $115,000 and $250,000. They also reported income from rent between $17,500 and $55,000.

Her colleague in the Senate. Democrat Lawton Chiles, reported at least $1.2 million in-property holdings including at least $550,000 from Red Lobster Inn restaurants in Lakeland, Daytona Beach, Tampa and St. Petersburg.

Chiles, who took no honoraria, received $217,635 in partnership income and between $25.600 and $86,000 from dividends, interest and rent. He reported minimum liabilities of $335,000.

Overall, the survey said, the approximate net worth of 17 of the 27 senators running for re-election went up during the six-year period.

Another six senators saw their net worth decline - three of those by more than 50 percent - while four others remained at

Among those running this year, the richest, apparently, is Glenn, whose unsuccessful 1984 presidential bid left him with a huge campaign debt.

The former astronaut and first American to orbit Earth 24 years ago had an estimated net worth of $6.3 million to $12.5 million last year. That's roughly triple his estimated 1980 net worth of $2.1 million to $4.7 million.

Glenn is hardly the only millionaire in the Senate, where the roll call includes fabled big money names like Kennedy. Rockefeller and Heinz. Other Senate millionaires include John Danforth. R-Mo., Frank Lautenberg, D-N.J., Claiborne Pell, D.R.I., Howard Metzenbaum, D.Ohio, Lowell Weicker, R.-Conn., Rudy Boschwitz, R-Minn., and Alan Dixon, D-III.

In addition to Glenn and Quayle, the five other senators up for re-election this year whose estimated net worth at least doubled from 1980 to 1985, are:

 Sen. Dale Bumpers, D-Ark.: $398,940 to $401.640 in 1980; $357.988 to $867.870 last year.

• Sen. Ernest Hollings. D-S.C.: $428,587 to $493,497 in 1980; $1,070,665 to $1,508,927 last year.

• Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt.: $13.900 in 1980: $32,404 to $42,404 last year, thanks in large part to $22.404 in speaking fees in 1985. Sen. Mack Mattingly, R-Ga.: $98,800 to $253,000 in 1980; $494,123 last year. Mattingly disclosed his assets and debts this year in exact dollar amounts rather than categories. • Sen. Bob Packwood. R-Ore., chairman of the Senate Finance Committee: $51,000 to $107.500 in 1980: $161.430 to 454.030

Those among the 27 seeking re-election whose estimated net worth went up roughly 50 percent over the last six years but less than 100 percent include Alan Cranston, D-Calif., Alan Dixon, D-III. Senate Republican leader Robert Dole of Kunsas, Wendell Ford, D.Ky., Jaks Garn, R-Utah, Charles Grassley, R-Jows, and Daniel Inouye, D-Hawati:

The six senutors whose estimated net worth shrank in the last six years. according to the UPI survey, are Sens. Alfonse D'Amato, R-N.Y., Christopher Dodd. D-Conn., Slade Gorton, R-Wash., Robert Kasten, D-Wis., Don Nickles, R-Okla., and Warren Rudman, R.N.H.

The estimated net worth of Sens. James Abnor, R.S.D., Frank Murkowski, R. Alaska, Arlen Speeter, R-Pa., and Steve Symms, R-Idado, remained about the same over the six year period, the study showed.

Shuttle 'Souvenirs' Collected

Shuttle salvage crews collected small bits of Challenger punishment for one crewman and investigations by NASA and the Navy. "It is certainly an annoyance that anybody would do something like that in a period when we're looking for clues," NASA spokesman Hugh Harris said Tuesday.

The other was brought by Dow Chemical Co., which was challenging the Environmental Protection Agency's ability to take herial photographs of its 2,000-acre Jenced industrial complex in Midland.

Writing for matching majorities in both cases, Chief Justice Warren Burger said, "The Fourth Amendment simply does not require the police traveling in the public airways ... to obtain a warrant in order to observe what is visible to the naked eye.'

Civil rights advocates said the rulings erode the constitutional right of citizens to "be secure in their persons, houses. papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches."

"It's a sad day for individual rights and freedoms in this country. Expedience wins out again." said John Zwerling, representing the National Association of Criminal Defense Law-

Zwerling said the ruling gives the government carte blanche to peer into yards to see who might be attending a

"It makes no difference under the court's decision whether or not they look into the home through a skylight or into the backyard or into a completely enclosed courtyard," he said.

Gordon Brownell, a California attorney for the National Organization for the Reform of Marijuana Laws, labeled the ruling "a further crosion of fundamental constitutional rights," and said it shows "an ominous trend toward big brother government and the use of high technology and aerial surveillance to spy on U.S. citizens without search warrants.'

But law enforcement associations said the ruling would serve legitimate purposes of fighting crime. In California alone, 70 percent of the marijuana selzed by a search warrant in 1982 resulted from aerial observations.

"Since 60 percent of all marijuana is now being raised within the United States, it should have a very drastic effect on those persons who are raising illicit drugs." said Gerald Arenberg. executive director of the National Association of Chiefs of Police. "They're going to have to be more cautious."

Dissenting from the majority in both cases were Justices Lewis Powell, William Brennan. Thurgood Marshall and Harry Blackmun.

In another major ruling Monday, the court struck down as unconstitutional a union-approved system for protecting the jobs of minorities by laying off more senior whites.

Although the decision was in line with the views of the Reagan administration, the justices - as in past rulings on the issue - stopped short of holding unconstitutional all affirmative action programs, including those prescribing preferences in promotions or

Tax Reform Time Has Now Chimed

"Greater than the tread of mighty armies is an idea whose time has come.'

-Victor Hugo

The Senate Finance Committee made history. By a thundering, 20-0 vote, it gave historic tax reform a mighty push forward and, in the process, signaled a transformation in American politics.

For more than half a century, the federal tax system has been used as a political instrument to redistribute income and support activities favored by government. The result was a vast tangle of tax law reeking of favoritism - special concessions for special interests. And reeking, too, of inequity: Too many corporations and millionaires paying no income taxes at all while the middle class of wage- and salary- earners surrendered a fifth or more of its income deducted automatically from paychecks.

Worst of all, the system put brakes on the economy. Steeply graduated rates discouraged the very activities - working, saving and investing - most responsible for creating wealth, expanding the economy and improving living standards for all.

The Reagan administration's proposed remedy was a version of the flat-tax reform advocated by supply-side Republicans, led by Rep. Jack Kemp, and enlightened Democrats. led by Sen. Bill Bradley. The House passed a watered-down version of the administration bill last December. Whereupon, the Senate Finance Committee, long a bastion of tax orthodoxy, took up the legislation.

And therein lies the true measure of what happened last week. Only two of the 20 members of Senate Finance had been vigorous advocates of tax reform. As recently as last January, Finance Committee Chairman Sen. Robert Packwood was saying that he rather liked the present system, loopholes and all. Yet, the logic and political appeal of a radical, flat-tax reform nonetheless swept the Senate Finance Committee, routing defenders of the status quo, not least Sen. Packwood himself. Such is the emerging power of an idea whose time is arriving.

Its power will grow as millions of Americans realize how they would benefit from the reform bill approved unanimously by Sen. Packwood's committee. The Packwood bill would dramatically lower rates and replace the present 14 brackets with only two. About 80 percent of taxpayers would fall under the 15 percent rate. The top rate would be cut from the present 50 percent to 26 percent. But eliminating most tax shelters would expand the tax base and ensure that the affluent and the rich pay their fair share. Dropping the corporatate rate from 46 percent to 33 percent while eliminating most business loopholes would accomplish the same for corporations.

The principles of tax reform are wonderfully straightforward: Lower taxes but with everyone paying their share; a simpler tax system designed primarily to collect necessary revenue, not redistribute income or facilitate social engineering: and a shift of economic power away from government and back to individual citizens and the private

The cynics and skeptics said it could not be done. The Reagan administration, the House of Representatives, and this week the archorthodox Senate Finance Committee have shown otherwise. Can reform now withstand counterattacks from the special-interest lobbyists, pass the full Senate, and then survive a House-Senate conference?

It can. As one chagrined lobbyist acknowledged last week. "any bill endorsed by both Jack Kemp and Ted Kennedy has a future." Tax reform still is not a certainty, but it appears more and more to be the sort of irresistible force Victor Hugo had in mind. That's the best news the American taxpayer has heard in half a century.

Less Public Expense For Presidential Libraries

By Robert Shepard
WASHINGTON (UPI) — With one notable exception, future presidential libraries — those multimillion-dollar monuments to former presidents - will be less of a burden to U.S. taxpayers.

A bill that recently won congressional approval requires that such libraries possess a private endowment large enough to pay at least 20 percent of their operating costs.

Although built with private funds, these libraries are maintained by the taxpayers. currently at a cost of about $14 million a year. That is in addition to other costs associated with former presidents, such as Secret Service protection and office expenses.

Many members of Congress and their constituents long have believed that the libraries impose an excessive drain on the Treasury. The Gramm-Rudman budget-cutting frenzy helped bring the issue to a head this year, producing the bill to hold down costs of operating whatever future libraries are built.

The seven existing libraries house the papers House and Senate." said English, chairman of a of Presidents Hoover, Roosevelt, Truman, Eisenhower, Johnson. Kennedy, and Ford: the Carter library is under construction.

Friends of former President Nixon are planning to build a library in California, but it is uncertain what they will have to put in it. Congress, during the Watergate investigation, passed a law placing Nixon's White House papers in the custody of a U.S. District Court.

President Reagan's friends will build a $45 million library to hold his papers, but that library will be exempt from the new requirement for an endowment to help pay operating

During the brief debate on the libraries bill. Rep. Glenn English. D-Okla., said Reagan aides had insisted the Reagan library "be exempt from this cost-saving, deficit reduction effort."

By agreeing to come under terms of the bill, Reagan could have "set an example for the American taxpayer by committing his library foundation to the establishment of the operating cost endowment-type envisioned by both the House Government Operations subcommittee. According to a congressional staff member, White House aides resisted any changes in the law covering presidential libraries. "The administration wanted no changes for nobody, ever," the staffer said. Gradually, that attitude changed, however, and the White House later said. "as long as you don't cover us we don't care." The Reagan library did not get off the hook entirely. The bill includes a provision setting architectural and archival standards intended to ensure that all future presidential libraries are run properly. If a library is to be larger than 70,000 square feet, the endowment will have to be proportionately larger to cover the higher operating

'When you're putting a lot of documents in a building, it's important to meet a number of conditions, such as floor strength, certain celling heights, temperature and humidity controls." the congressional staffer explained.

Lobbyists Lose A Round

WASHINGTON (NEA) -Washington lobbyists are smarting over one of the greatest failures in their collective professional memory - the tax bill passed by the Senate Finance Committee.

A lobbyist earns his keep by knowing what is going on and what is going to happen. The lobbyist's ultimate nightmare is to be caught unawares. If something is going to happen on Capitol Hill or in some government office that affects the interest he represents, he must let his employer know it's coming and try to intervene.

This is why the Senate committee's tax bill is a disaster for so many powerful lobbyists.

The general expectation was that the committee's bill would probably be a little more in line with what President Reagan wanted than last year's House bill, but would still basically be the "give a little here, take a little there" kind of tax measure we have grown so used to.

instead, in less than a week, the Senate Finance Committee has come forth with the most radical overhaul of the tax system in the last 30 years. Most gailing from the lobbyists' perspective is that it was done almost entirely behind closed doors. They didn't learn what was going on until the public did. At best they might have been able to call their various bosses at 3 a.m. to tell them what they would find in their morning papers.

This did not make the lobbyists happy. Many have taken the whole thing personally, as if the committee set out to embarrass them individually. They have vowed to change provisions of the bill when it comes to the Senate floor for final passage in June. Many of their jobs might hinge on getting provisions changed. The result of all this is expected to be the most intensive month of lobbying ever seen on Capitol Hill.

At the heart of the committee's proposal is a shift of about $100 billion in taxes, between 1966 and 1991, from individual taxpayers to corporations. This was accomplished by eliminating all sorts of tax breaks, big and small, that had previously been chiscled out by one industry or another. It is the retention of these tax breaks that lobbyists are seeking at all costs.

The most commonly heard expression in the days following the committee's action was "money is no object." Lobbyist after lobbyist. trade association after trade association, special interest after special interest has vowed to spend whatever is necessary to change what they don't like in the bill.

A Lob Too High?

WASHINGTON (UPI) - We have in that category, much less whether been hearing a lot those days about the lobbying activities of Michael Deaver after he resigned as President Reagan's deputy chief of staff.

But I am more concerned about his lobbing. That interest arose after the former White House aide was reported to have forsworn certain amenities, including access to the executive mansion tennis courts.

It remains to be seen whether foreign governments will continue to pay as handsomely now that he no longer plays tennis at the White Deaver's lob, I'm told, is something to see. He apparently is able to hit a tennis ball in such a way that it sails over the outstretched racquets of opponents at the net and safely lands in bounds in the back court.

But would the lob be as effective, or as lucrative, if hit on courts located elsewhere?

Having never played tennis either with or against Deaver, I cannot answer that question. I'm strictly relying on hearsay here.

At one point, however, he apparently was on the verge of selling his public relations firm for $18 million. Not bad for a lobber who once complained he had trouble making ends meet on his government sala-

As to whether the fact that the tennis courts are located on the White House grounds means anything, I can't say from first-hand knowledge. I do hope, however, that his clients will fork over whatever the game costs to play on public

Let me make it clear that it would be presumptious of me to draw any conclusions regarding the controversy over whether Deaver violated federal conflict-of-interest

I do know that tennis shots are said to "bring rain" if they are high enough. But I can't say whether Deaver's lobbing could be included

It had any effect on "acid rain." A Canadian official may have been entirely correct in asserting that Canada's $105,000 contract with Deaver did not violate the laws of either country.

that Deaver's lobbing may been unethical if it wasn't illegal. Well, let me just say this about that. It has been my experience both as a player and a spectator that any lob an opposing netman doesn't put away with an overhead smash is totally ethical. Oh, foreing an opponent into the grandstand to return a shot may be somewhat debatable. But as long as a lob stays in the court, the question of ethics shouldn't arise.

Just ask John McEnroe if you have any doubts about what is ethical. There is a move under way to have Congress deny lobbing privileges to any former White House employee. That could mean they would all have to play on the White House courts where the separation of powers presumably would apply.

Although the Constitution itself is strangely silent on the subject of tennis rules. I think it is safe to say the White House courts definitely are part of the executive branch.

If the legislative or judicial branches feel differently, let them build their own tennis facilities.

ROBERT WALTERS Reform Underside

Shadowy WASHINGTON (NEA) - By mid-April. the Senate Finance Committee - relying upon the public meetings mandated by "sunshine" laws — had thoroughly botched the task of fashioning an omnibus tax reform measure. During 11 days of open markup sessions under the constant surveillance of lobbyists, the committee had given the oil and gas, timber. aerospace, banking and other industries $29 billion worth of tax credits, deductions, deferrals and preferences over the next five years.

That figure was well on its way toexceeding $50 billion when the committee chairman. Sen. Robert W. Packwood, R-Ore., abruptly shutdown the public proceedings and declared that the committee would resume its work in "private consultations... in a room with no windows and no doors."

Some purists have tried to argue Only a few years ago, that proclamation would have inspired protests. Critics would have charged that Packwood was undermining the "open government" reforms that gave the public unprecedented. access to meetings in the executive and legislative branches of the federal government.

> But this time there was no such clamor. Indeed, there is a growingrecognition among serious practitioners and observers of government that, while many of the reforms of the 1960s and 1970s were well conceived and executed. substantial number produced unintended results. In other instances. meanwhile, needed reforms were never enacted.

> That's the central theme of an important new book, "Rethinking Congressional Reform. by Washington lawyer and political scientist Burton D. Sheppard. He asks. "Who are the main beneficiaries of all the information generated by open meetings. hearings and disclosure?"

> Public-spirited citizens aren't prowling the halls of Congress in search of committee markup sessions on tax code revisions. Sheppard notes. Instead, it's the lawyers, lobbyists and others retained by the wealthy and powerful who hover over the lawmakers.

> The current experience with tax reform vividly illustrates Sheppard's point. The House Ways and Means Committee was making little progress on the issue last autumn! until its chairman, Rep. Dan Rostenkowski, D-III., ordered the meetings closed.

Whistleblowing Can Be A Job Hazard

By Jack Anderson And Dale Van Atta

WASHINGTON - Despite all the 'protections" the government boasts about, whistleblowers who report wrongdoing by their bosses are having a tougher time than ever.

Consider the vengeance wreaked by the bureaucratic establishment on Elaine Mittleman, a Treasury Department lawyer whose only sin was trying to do the job she was being paid for. She was fired a few years back after a bitter dispute with her supervisors over Chrysler Corp.'s failure to make periodic reports to Congress, as required because of the federal bailout of the auto company.

Mittleman suspected that her firing was in reprisal for her strict enforcement of the bailout legislation. She took her case to the Office of Special Counsel, which was established, in part, to protect whistleblowers from retribution. But the office declined to help her and Mittleman left for a job in the private sector. Recently, when Mittleman applied to the Office of Personnel Management for another government job. she learned just how difficult it is for whistleblowers these days. In a telephone call to the Office of Special Counsel, an investigator for the personnel agency was told that Mittleman had been suspected of leaking information to Congress and The New York Times while she was at the Treasury.

Mittleman insists she did neither. but the accusation has effectively blackballed her from government

"The Office (of Special Counsel) is a Trojan horse," said Tom Devine, an attorney with the Government Accountability Project, a group dedicated to helping whistleblowers.

As a spokesman for the Office of Special Counsel explained, the official who relayed the charge against Mittleman was required by law to answer inquiries from the personnel agency: Special Counsel attorneys and their clients do not have the confidentiality that covers other attorney-client relationships.

Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., has introduced legislation that would remedy that crucial flaw, but she told our associate Stewart Harris she doesn't expect it to pass the Senate.

Meanwhile, according to a government survey, a growing number of potential whistleblowers are clamming up for fear of reprisals. Some of those who courageously blew the whistle have suffered for protecting the taxpayers. The number seeking help from the Government Accountability Project has almost tripled in the last two years. Here are some other cases from its files:

- Joseph D. Whitson, a chemist at an Air Force laboratory in Texas. found that drug testing of recruits was sloppy, and the results could be misleading if the subject had just eaten anything with poppy seeds like a fast-food sandwich on a poppy-seed roll. After he testified to this effect in a court case, Whitson began getting unsatisfactory performance ratings and was shunted to a dead-end job where he spends his days "dusting the file cabinets in the basement where he has a — Hobart Bartley, an Agriculture Department meat inspector, was suspended after he declared 90,000 pounds of poultry tainted. His decision was overruled; he protested and was suspended for showing "disrespect" to the meat packing company.

- Postal employees David Pat-; terson and Alvin D'Andrea told postal inspectors about an improper hiring scheme in Prince Georges County, Md. They were demoted, and even though the inspectors confirmed 43 illegal hirings, the two whistleblowers have yet to get their old jobs back.

Starting out as an animal control officer, he became a supervisor after six months and director after two years.

McIntosh helped to institute the adoption and spay/neuter programs and revamp the animal licensing program.

In 1983, he began lobbying state legislators, who passed a special act in January 1985 making animal violations a non-criminal infraction rather than a misdemeanor and providing for a notice to appear in

For Chernobyl Victims, Marrow Transplants Only Hope

UPI Science Writer

For the most exposed victims of the Chernobyl nuclear plant disaster, the risks of a bone marrow transplant are their only alternative to certain death.

The actual transfer of bone marrow from one human to another is the simplest part of a transplant procedure. The complicated problems include matching up with a suitable donor and keeping the patient alive after the operation - fighting off rejection, infection and other severe complications.

'They are doing more transplants now than they had ever done previously in the Soviet Union," said Dr. Mortimer Bortin, scientific director of the International Bone Marrow Transplant Registry in Milwaukee, which is helping coordinate the effort by U.S. and Israeli doctors brought to Moscow by industrialist and philanthropist Armand Ham-survival rates of patients range up to 80 percent.

But in the Chernobyl cases, doctors face myriad additional problems, including the possibility that victims may have ingested radiation that continues to poison them and pose a danger to those caring for them.

"They may be continuing to get significant irradiation. If that's the case, the marrow isn't going to help them because the radiation will kill the marrow you're putting in." said Dr. Dean Buckner of the University of Washington School of Medicine. which has the largest bone marrow transplant center in the world.

Most of the 19 transplants done on Chernobyl victims so far have utilized marrow from close relatives. Marrow for two victims was sought in the United States but the request was later dropped when one patient died and doctors decided to try to use a relative for the second.

One of the most difficult problems doctors face is estimating how much radiation the victims received. It may be so much that a transplant will not help. Or it a rejection.

Although the Soviets have had little experience with bone marrow transplants, they have developed a genetic test that appears to be effective at measuring radiation exposure, Bortin said.

For the transplant itself, the marrow is given to the recipient through a simple transfusion. Because blood circulates through the hollow of the bone, the marrow would eventually be deposited there.

It usually takes several weeks before the new marrow begins producing blood and helping the body fight disease. During that period, patients must be given large amounts of whole blood, kept isolated in germ-free environments and treated with antibiotics to fight infections.

Patients usually are also given drugs to protect against the most common complication graft-versus-host disease. The complication, in which the transplanted marrow "sees" the host as foreign tissue and attacks the patient's body, occurs in about 40 percent of sibling transplants. The ensuing com-

"Each of these complications is life-threatening. They have to be right on top of the situation to use extraordinary measures to pull these patients through," said Bortin. "But my impression is that they (Western doctors) are very impressed with the talent of their Soviet colleagues."

Whatever the outcome, the experience will provide doctors with a unique opportunity to learn how to treat victims of radiation exposure, said Buckner.

'We can learn a lot about this kind of exposure to radiation." said Buckner. "We know every situation is going to be unique. The next accident won't be the same as this one. But we stand to learn a lot from this one."

Dr. Robert Peter Gale of UCLA heads a team comprised of two other Americans, one Israeli and three Soviet specialists. Before the team could begin treatment. the doctors had to overcome both a language barrier and different national approaches to medical care.

Gale has said that when he arrived in Moscow, six days after the April 26 accident. Soviet performed two transplants. He has variously described the level of Soviet medical care as "impressive" and "adequate."

However, one of his colleagues, who asked not to be named, said he was appalled when he walked into Hospital No. 6, despairing that such delicate procedures as marrow transplants could be performed under Soviet conditions.

The disaster, the world's worst nuclear accident, presented the physicians with unique problems. Among them was the number of patients requiring immediate treatment.

Gale said last week that 19 transplants had been performed and another 14 of the critically ill either did not require Chauffeur-driven black ilmou- transplants or could not benefit

The tanned and graying Gale, 40. appeared sockless and in clogs for interviews. He has been variously described by colleagues as "diplomatic." "media hungry" and "slightly egotistical."

Besides the 35 patients in critical condition, some 300 have been hospitalized with varying degrees of radiation sickness. Gale and Soviet authorities have said. They will need to be monitored to determine whether they require bone marrow transplants.

Judge Cites Problems Of Black Youths At Banquet

By Gail Gardner Herald Staff Writer

Palm Beach County Judge Jerome L. Davis, a Sanford native, told an audience of nearly 200 guests that the struggles of blacks during the 60s was being able to sit at lunch counters and getting a decent education.

The comments were made during his address at the Annual Freedom Fund Awards Banquet sponsored by the Seminole County branch of the NAACP.

"The people who came through those struggles are now your black doctors and lawyers." Davis said. "But the struggle today is that our young people are not motivated toward education.'

Davis said that freedom's worst enemy is when good people sit and do nothing about the problems that confronts our community. He said that society is now training doctors and "One of freedom's responsibilities is that we must learn what our part is in the involvement, otherwise blacks will eventually be locked out of the hearing rooms, the court rooms and the operating rooms. Davis said.

Davis told the audience that by doing so, this generation can be saved.

"Freedom carries responsibilities for example, jury duty." said Davis. "If you give up the responsibility, somebody else will take it over. Davis also said, "Ronald Reagan was the best thing that ever happened to blacks. because he crystalized the system of welfare by giving blacks an opportunity to stand on their own two feet.

"All of the battles are not being lost," said Davis. "There are still people fighting."

After Davis' speech, several awards were given to those who have worked through the years with the NAACP, and the black

Botha Warns Of Possible Raids

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (UPI) - President Pieter W. Botha, accepting "full responsibility" for raids into Zambia, Botswana and Zambia, warned that South Africa would not hesitate to take similar action in the future.

Appearing in the House of Assembly in Cape Town Tuesday night, Botha made the first official comments on the raids against suspected bases of the banned African National Congress. Three people were killed in the raids Monday and 13 - including two children - were wounded.

"Like the United States of America and every other civilized government, we reject internationally organized terrorism," Botha said.

"Israel's attack on the PLO headquarters in Tunisia and America's attack on certain Libyan installations are a case

He added, "We likewise will not tolerate terrorists hiding in other countries with the intent to perpetrate crime against people in our country.

Botha dismissed worldwide criticism of the lightning pre-dawn raids mounted by South African security forces in Zambia, Botswana and Zambia - including sharp rebukes from the United States and Britain.

"South Africa will not allow the double standards and hypocrisy of the Western world, even on the application of legal principles, to stand in the way of our responsibility to protect our country.'

Shipwreck Survivors Sought

AGUADILLA. Puerto Rico (UPI) - The Coast Guard searched today for four missing sailors from the schooner Pride of Baltimore, sent to the bottom of the Atlantic by a sudden squall.

Eight survivors, rescued after nearly five days in a life raft, were to be flown to Baltimore today.

The survivors — six men and two women — told officials the vessel's skipper. Capt. Armin Elsaesser III. 42. of South Dartmouth. Mass., cut their raft free and apparently went down with his ship. They reported seeing the bodies of two of the other three missing crew members floating near the sinking ship.

The 136-foot Pride of Baltimore, built to help celebrate America's bicentennial - was returning from a 15-month goodwill mission in Europe when it sank last Wednesday about 240 miles north of San Juan.

The survivors were picked up by the Norwegian tanker Toro Horton about 2 a.m. Monday.

The Coast Guard said four C-130 transport planes and a Navy jet were searching a 13,000-square-mile area 300 miles north of Puerto Rico near the spot where the survivors were picked up. The Coast Guard Cutter Bear of Portsmouth. Va., was called in to join the search Tuesday

China, Taiwan Agree On Plane

HONG KONG (UPI) - The hijacked plane that brought China and Taiwan to the bargaining table for the first time in 37 years left Peking today on the first leg of a journey to Hong Kong, where it will be handed over to officials of Taipei's China Airlines.

The Boeing 747 cargo jet was scheduled to stop in the southern Chinese city of Canton to pick up two CAL crew members and the cargo of fruit and tires that was aboard the plane when it was hijacked May 3. The plane was expected to remain in Canton at least overnight.

Pilot Wang Xijue diverted the plane, and its cargo of fruit and tires. May 3 on a flight from Bangkok to Taipei. The other two crewmen apparently were overpowered by

The county planning and zoning commission earlier this month recommended approval of the project.

As was the case at the P&Z public hearing, residents of Sunland Estates said Tuesday night they feared the project's negative effect on an adjacent 30-acre hardwood swamp. They also said proposed access to County Road 427 would impact traffic on the two-lane road and open it up for more commercial

Practice, Hard Work Pay Higher Premium Than Gimmick

Today's tennis market is literally flooded with all sorts of new ideas. new gadgets and new gimmicks that all promise to improve your game.

Some actually promise to make you better quickly, while others say they will help you stay free from injury long enough to get sufficient practice to become a great player.

I've even seen some advertisements that say that if you try their new product, by the end of the week you will actually be able to beat your arch-rival - the one that you have not taken a set from in years.

Anyway, there are a lot of items that you can pick from that are really not considered basics that may or may not help you or your tennis game in any way.

To help you sort through the maze, I have listed some of the most common and popular tennis "accessories."

By the way, the opinions expressed hera are strictly my own opinions and in no way should be considered

"etched in stone." Anyway, what works for some people does nothing for others, etc., etc.

●1 — Jumbo Rackets: I'm not talking oversized here - I'm talking big, big rackets. The most popular one right now is called "The Weed." It makes an oversize racket look minute in comparison. It is big, folks. You really do hit the ball easier (you can hardly miss the ball if you are anywhere in the general vicinity of

The problem is that you cannot get any power on the ball. If you swing too hard you simply lose control. It is so big and cumbersome that serving is difficult and passing shots are almost impossible. Only a few people use this racket with much success. I know a few but they hit almost entirely with chops and slices and hit

On clay, and if you love to just lob and dink, this might be good for you. but if you like a more all-around game I would not advise the jumbo racket.

•2 — Powermate: This is a devise that attaches to your wrist and then to the top of the grip of the racket. "It links your wrist to the racket, to give you added power and control," the ad says. It is advertised to give you the "perfect instant backhand."

If you believe that, I have some ocean front property in Iowa I'd like to sell you. True, you need a firm wrist on a lot of shots, but you need to develop this yourself. A device will not be the answer for you.

•3 - Shock absorbers: These are rubber or foam devices that attach to your strings, usually at the bottom of the face of the racket. They really make the shots coming off your racket sound dead. They really do take a lot of the vibration out of the shots. If you have any arm, hand, or wrist pain (i.e., tennis elbow), these may help. I know people they have helped a lot.

04 - The Elbow-Counterforce Brace: This is an item that fits securely around your arm just below the elbow. It stops the vibration before it gets to the sore spot. It works - no doubt about it. For most people with tennis elbow it is a must. I have been over my tennis elbow problem for about a year but I still wear my counterforce brace to help protect the area from recurring pro-

05 - Gauzetape, Grip Tape. etc.: These are items that you wrap over your existing grip. They absorb the moisture, keep the hand dryer and allow the player to grip the racket more securely. Almost everyone uses some form of it now. although some players feel uncomfortable using it. It does keep the grip from slipping in your hand, though. and most players feel it's worth getting used to.

•6 - Ball Machine: If you can rent or afford to buy one for some individual practice - do it. It's a great way to groom your strokes and a ball machine never complains or wants to get off the court because of the heat.

Of course there are hundreds more in the line of tennis gimmicks. If you find one that works for you, use it. But remember - nothing replaces the basics and nothing will change your game drastically in a short time.

Hard work, lots of practice and years of paying your dues will mean much more than any new gimmick that may come along.

Scrimmages Are Next Spring Test

Hillery Takes Seminole Controls; Burton, Boyesen Battle At Lyman

By Scott Sander Special To The Herald

Spring football practice is moving along and the spring jamborees are just 10 days away for most schools. This Friday most of the Seminole Athletic Conference high schools will be holding controlled scrimmages in an attempt to simulate game like conditions.

Seminole will be having an offense vs. defense scrimmmage on Friday night at 7 Admission is free. Seminole coach Dave Mosure said he may move the scrimmage to 6.p.m. because of evening rain showers.

"The game will be competitive," Mosure, beginning his second year as head coach, said. "We will give the defense a certain amount of points for holding the offense or creating a turnover. "The scrimmage is more like a " clinic than anything else. It's purpose is to prepare us for the jamboree."

The Seminoles will host the spring jamboree on Thursday. May 29 at 7 p.m. The jamboree will be broken down into quarters. In the first quarter. Sanford will take on Lake Howell. In the second quarter. Ovicdo will clash with DeLand. The two losers will play each other in the third period while the two winners will butt heads in the final stanza.

Mosure said he has been extremely pleased with effort of his kids so far this spring. "This is the best spring that I've ever had," Mosure said. "You don't have to scream and yell at these kids in order for them to give 100 percent."

Mosure said the junior Herb Hillery will take over the chores at QB. "Herb played flanker last year, and he is a great wide-out," Mosure said about Blake's cousin. "But we need him to play QB and he will anything to help out Mosure went on to say that despite the loss of Blake the team is right on schedule. "We are where we need to be offensively, and probably are ahead of schedule on defense." Mosure said.

As if the injury to Blake was not enough, the Seminoles will have do without offensive tackle Wen Springfield for the rest of spring. Mosure said Springfield suffered a broken arm in a wrestling accident and will be out for the rest of spring.

The Marketing Of Tim Raines

■ Korgan: Mazda's Sports Look Tonight, Late Night Tomorrow

By Sam Cook Morald Sports Editor

Mazda's Sports Look tonight. Late Night with David Letterman tomorrow. That's the plan. The plan of Sanford's Ed Korgan to get Montreal Expo left fielder Tim

Raines more national attention. Korgan, the desk manager at the Cavaller Motor Inn. has taken it upon himself to get Raines' face into national focus. He said Raines is sorely lacking of attention on the national level and he plans to do something "Sure, everybody in Sanford knows Tim Raines." Korgan said Tuesday night. "But he needs to be known nationwide.

And if you don't think Korgan is serious or already successful — about his venture. tune in to ESPN tonight at 6. Roy Firestone. the award-winning interviewer for Mazda's Sports Look, will have Raines as his featured guest. And Korgan is responsible.

Korgan, who said he wants no compensation for his services, has been a friend of Raines' for a number of years. The former Sanford Recreation Department youth baseball manager has journeyed to Atlanta. St. Louis and New York to watch his favorite stories on him."

One would reason that articles in the those two publications would be no great conquest since it would be natural Grapefruit Season fodder anyway. Korgan agreed that those two "weren't that big of a deal." but when the subject of tonight's interview comes up, Korgan is all smiles.

It took a lot of persistence and several phone calls. Once Korgan was able to reach the right people, he said everything fell into place. It started with a call to Bristol, Conn., ESPN's headquarters. ESPN pointed Korgan toward California, Beverly Hills to be exact. where the half hour show is produced.

Korgan reached Sports Look producer Bob Seizer, who pointed him to Jeff Wallach, the talent coordinator of the show. After conferring with both men several times, the deal was set. Raines is in Los Angeles to play the Dodgers this week, so the timing was

Tuesday morning, a limesine picked up Raines at Los Angeles' Hyatt Regency and took him to the studio. The half-hour segment was filmed and will air tonig plus twice more over the next few days. "Wallach said the filming went real well."

Korgan said. "He said. 'Tim looked real comfortable and did a nice job.

Raines said "anything he does is fine with me," when asked about the arrangement. Raines is represented by agent Tom Reich. which is one thing that Korgan said bothered him. "I didn't want to get in trouble with Reich." he said. "But Tim said 'Reich doesn't do that much publicity-wise for him anyway."

Korgan said he doesn't adhere to any special style when marketing his protege. "I just call up and start BSing." Korgan laughed. "It's funny, but they're usually pretty happy to receive story ideas. Everybody I've talked to has been very receptive.

Although Sports Look has been Korgan's biggest feather in his baseball cap to date. he said that's just the beginning. His next project is Late Night With David Letterman. Appearances on the popular NBC show has done wonders for the marketability of Kaness City Royal shortstop Buddy Bian-calana and former Atlanta Braves and present California Angels pitcher Terry Forster.

"Going 10 rounds was a ball." Tyson said after winning a unanimous decision over Mitch 'Blood" Green Tuesday night. "I'm having a good time going 10 rounds. I just might go 10 rounds my next five fights."

Tyson dominated the fight by around the ring for 10 rounds to improve to 21-0. It was his second straight decision after, scoring 19 knockouts, but Tyson was much more impressive Tuesday than in his lo-round triumph over James Tillia May "Not to be egotistical, but I won the fight so easily." he said. "Now they know Mike Tyson is not one of those fighters who after six rounds or four rounds is dead tired. I can go 10 rounds hard." Green, who fell to 16-2-1, nearly withdrew from the fight Monday when he learned he was making $30,000 compared to $200,000 for Tyson. He said that bothered him when he entered the ring. "I have no desire, no determination, no motivation because I'm not getting paid," Green said after the fight. He also repeated his wish to sever ties with promotor Don King. "I'm no $2 fighter." he said.

"As soon as I found out about the payday, I couldn't fight.

Judges George Colon and Pat Dolan scored it 9-1 in rounds for Tyson, and judge George De-Gabriel had it 8-2.

Tyson was able to walk through any offense Green mounted, and consistently crashed left hooks off Green's jaw and connected with right hands to the body whenever Green tried to clinch.

Green's mouth was bloodled early in the third round, and a stiff jab from Tyson sent his mouthpiece flying and anapped his head back in a neutral corner. A Tyson right hand rocked Green in the fourth round, and a left hook buckled Green's knees late in the 10th.

Nothing that Green tried worked early in the fight. Despite a 51-inch height advantage, he could not keep away Tyson. Tyson walked through Green's best punches, and Green's best punches, and punched through every clinch.

"He was 6-foot-5 with an 64-inch reach and he wasn't hitting me with his jab." Tyson said. "I was connecting more with my jab when I threw it."

Green's best moments came in the eighth round. He countered a Tyson miss with a left book, and Typon miss with a left hook, and Typon miss with a left hook, and unleashed a two-handed combination that had Typon rattled. Typon was able to work out of trouble, however, and controlled the rest of the of the round.

Typon. from Catalill. N.Y., weighed $15.14 pounds for the book, which took place before 6,259 in Madison Square Catalill.

Riley: Minor Corrections To Help LA

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (UPI) - The defending champion Los Angeles Lakers, maintaining their confidence is unshaken despite three straight losses to the Houston Rockets, say slight changes can turn around the Western Conference final.

"We were a very short hop away from winning two of the games we lost." Lakers coach Pat Riley said Tuesday after his team practiced for Wednesday night's fifth game. "The very minor things that are killing us are easily correctable."

Riley would not elaborate. "If I went into them, I might open the eyes of the opponents," he said. "We've just got to do them and we will do them. I have tremendous faith in this team's character.'

The Lakers, who lost the third and fourth games of the series when they secred 18 and 16 points, respectively. in the final quarter, are seeking to become the fifth NBA team to come back from a 3-1 deflett to win a best-of-seven series.

"We can't rely on history and think about who was the last team to do it." Riley said, "I live in the present and I'm the eternal optimist. I'll always be until the final whistle."

The Lakers have been soundly beaten on the backboards, a fact Magic Johnson addressed without his usual

"We have to get better shots and execute better." he said. "That means getting more rebounds. We're confident. We just have to go out and play our style. If we play our game, we'll win, no question about it.

Johnson said the Lakers can not afford to look past Game 5.

"We can't think three in a row." he said. "We have to win one. Once you get one, you never know what will happen from there.

Karcem Abdul-Jabbar, who along with the other Lakers big men have been unable to contain Akeem Olajuwon, agreed.

"We've been in very tough situations before, but this is as tough as you can get without being out of it." he said. "We've been in every game, so we know we have the potential to win."

Houston's Robert Reid said the Lakers believe they can come back.

"I don't think the Lakers are down on themselves," he said. "I honestly think they think something's just gone haywire right now."

MILWAUKEE (UPI) - Milwaukee Bucks coach Don Nelson's playoff share could be turned into a muchneeded plowshare for a financially strapped Wisconsin farmer and his family.

Faced with bankruptcy and foreclosure of the family's 313-acre dairy farm near Birnamwood. Clarence Willcome wrote Nelson asking for possible advice.

But Nelson, who grew up on a farm in Sherrod. III.. has given the Willcome's much more than advice.

Nelson said he would contribute his share of the Bucks' playoff earnings to the Willcome family. Although Nelson said he did not want the exact figure made public, he said $12,000 would be in the ballpark.

Mike Magee, right, tips over Jim Petersen. Series resumes tonight.

Valenzuela Tops Expos On 2-Hitter

United Press International

Fernando Valenzuela, Nolan Ryan and Mike LaCoss each had something in common Tuesday night. They carried no-hitters for at least five innings. By the end of the night, Ryan and LaCoss shared something else — losses.

Valenzuela, who was perfect for six innings. settled for his fifth career two-hitter and held on to blank the Montreal Expos 4-0 in Dodger Stadium.

Ryan, the author of a record five no-hitters. took a two-hitter into the ninth inning, but allowed a three-run homer to Pittsburgh's Mike Brown and the Pirates rallied to defeat Houston 4-2 at the Astrodome.

LaCoss had a no-hitter until the sixth, when Tim Teufel got a leadoff single, but the Giants lost 2-1 to the New York Mets at Candlestick Park.

At Los Angeles. Tim Raines walked on a 3-2 pitch to begin the seventh and break up Valenzuela's perfect-game bid. Mitch Webster followed with a line single to left to end the no-hit

"I wasn't thinking about the no-hitter," said Valenzuela, who has won five of his last six starts to raise his record to 6.2. "Never. All I was trying to do was get the hitters out and win the game.

Ryan tried the same thing in Houston, but failed. The 39-year-old right-hander was working on his 19th career two-hitter and 55th career shutout when Brown shattered his bid.

R.J. Reynolds led off the ninth with a single and moved to second on Johnny Ray's infield single. Sid Bream then forced Ray, and both Bream and Reynolds scored as Brown connected on his third homer of the year, into the left-field seats.

One out later, Junior Ortiz doubled, chasing Ryan, who has failed to win in each of his last six outings.

"I was with the Angels organization for five years." Brown said, "Nolan Ryan was an idol to me. I really looked up to him. I was going around the bases thinking of Nolan Ryan, the strikeout king ... to pitch that well and lose the game is a shame. It leaves me at a loss for words."

It left Ryan speechless too. "I don't have anything to talk about." Ryan said. "I don't have any comment on the game or what happened. I had good stuff, but not good

At San Francisco, LaCoss, one of the National League's biggest surprises, ran into a tougher pitcher in Bob Ojeda.

Ojeda, 6-1, gave up five hits before leaving the game for a pinch-hitter in the eighth when the Mets scored the winning run on a passed ball. He struck out three and walked none. Roger McDowell worked two scoreless innings for his fourth save.

LaCoss, 4-1, went eight innings, giving up only four hits while striking out five and walking none. In other games, Cincinnati stopped St. Louis 5-3, Atlanta clobbered Chicago 8-3, San Diego edged Philadelphia 4-3, .

In the American League, it was: Oakland 2, New York 1: California 6. Baltimore 4: Detroit 12. Scattle 0: Chicago 2. Toronto 1: Boston 17. Minnesota 7: Texas 4. Kansas City 0: and Milwaukee 12. Cleveland 9.

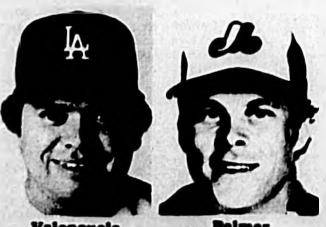

Reds 5, Cardinals 3

At St. Louis, Dave Parker's two-run homer in the seventh lifted the Reds, extending St. Louis's losing streak to six games. Starter Bill Gullickson, 3-3, left on the ninth when Jack Clark lined a single off the pitcher's leg. John Franco earned his sixth save. Reliever Greg Bargar, 0-1, took the

Braves 8, Cubs 3

At Atlanta, David Palmer and Gene Garber combined on an eight-hitter, and Ozzie Virgil and Dale Murphy homered to lead Atlanta. Palmer, 3-2, surrendered six hits over seven innings to earn the victory. Chicago starter Scott Sanderson.

Padres 4, Phillies 3 At San Diego, Eric Show and Rich Gossage combined on a seven-hitter, and Kevin McReynolds hit a two-run home run for San Diego. Show. 3-2. allowed six hits, struck out 12 and walked four in 8 1-3 innings before yielding to Gossage, who recorded his eighth save. Kevin Gross, 3-4, took the loss.

SPORTS IN BRIEF

Rookie: After 40 Minutes Of 200. MPH, Slowing is Like Walking

INDIANAPOLIS (UPI) - Rookie Randy Lanier, who set a rookic qualifying speed record for the Indianapolis Motor Speedway, is worried about the first time he will have to slow up in Sunday's Indianapolis 500.

"After qualifying I started thinking about the race," Lanier said. "I talked with other drivers and they said after you've been running for 30 to 40 laps, that first pit stop is something. You run 40 minutes at 200 mph and you have to slow down. It's like walking."

"I think I'll be painting my (pit crew) guys with Day-glo (reflective paint).

Lanier spoke Tuesday at a luncheon honoring him as the fastest rookie qualifier for the 70th Indy. He was the fastest rookie qualifier ever at the Indianapolis Motor Speedway. making the 33-car field with an average speed of 209.964

"I think the most difficult part (of the race) will be the first 15 minutes. At least that is what the veterans have been telling me," Lanier said. "For the first few laps I'll be concentrating on who is coming up behind me."

Among the former fastest rookie qualifers are two of Sunday's front row starters, pole sitter Rick Mears and Michael Andretti. The last rookie on the pole was Teo Fabi in 1983, with a speed that barely would have made this year's field.

Strikers Can Win MISL Tonight

SAN DIEGO (UPI) - The San Diego Sockers face the end of their MISL championship run Wednesday night when they take on the Minnesota Strikers in Game 5 of their best-of-seven title series.

The Sockers, winners of two of the last three MISL championships, trail three games to one. A victory by Minnesota would give the Strikers their first league title.

Even though the Strikers also won all three regularseason games between the teams. San Diego remained confident Tuesday it can rebound and defend its title.

Personally. I have enough confidence we will make it," Sockers defender Fernando Clavijo said. "I know we are the best team. I can't see San Diego not winning the championship.

Robinson's Fate In 3 Months

KNOXVILLE. Tenn. (UPI) - Former Tennessee star quarterback Tony Robinson, charged in January with selling cocaine to an undercover police officer, may not learn for three months whether he will be dismissed from school.

A hearing at the University of Tennessee-Knoxville was completed Tuesday, but acting hearing officer Francis Gross, an assistant vice president, has 90 days to make his recommendation.

inc penalty may range from a reprimand to dismissal. Robinson and his roommate. Kenneth (B.B.) Cooper are free on bond. They were arrested for allegedly selling sidelined with a knee injury when he was arrested.

Noien is Rams' Softball Coach

Karen Nolen, an assistant the past three years, has been named head softball coach at Lake Mary High, Assistant Principal Bill Moore announced Tuesday night.

Nolen, a graduate of Furman University, where she played softball and basketball, takes over for Cindy Henry who resigned after this past season in which Lake Mary finished with a 7-15 record.

Prior to coming to Lake Mary. Nolen was head coach at West Orange High where she led the Lady Warriors to district runnerup in 1982 and coached the Region III FACA All-Star team to the 1982 Sunshine State Games Championhaip.

Montreal Douses Calgary

MONTREAL (UPI) - The Stanley Cup clock is running down for the Calgary Flames because of bad timing.

The Flames gave up goals toward the end of the first and second periods Tuesday that killed a comeback attempt in a 5.3 defeat to the Montreal Canadiens in Game 3 of the Stanley Cup final. The Flames trail the Canadiens 2-1 in the best-of-seven series, with Game 4 scheduled for Thursday in the

Since 1939, only one team the Toronto Maple Leafs in 1964 - has gone on to win the Stanley Cup after splitting the first two games and losing the third.

With 2:01 remaining in the first period, the Flames led 2-1 on goals by Joey Mullen and Joel Otto. They fell apart in the next 68 seconds, allowing goals by Bobby Smith. Mats Naslund - his second of the period - and Bob Gainey to give Montreal a 4-2 lead with 27 seconds left in the period.

Calgary coach Bob Johnson pulled rookie goalie Mike Vernon at that point and inserted veteran Reggie Lemelin.

Lanny McDonald brought the Flames within one goal again with his league-leading 11th playoff goal at 7:13 of the second period. Once again, the Canadiens scored, this time Kiell Dahlin, with only 38 seconds left in the period.

"The timing of their goals really hurt," Calgary captain Doug Risebrough said. "I mean. you want to carry a lead for more than one of two shifts."

McDonald praised Lemelin's performance, but agreed Dahlin's goal sapped the team's resolve heading into the second intermission.

"It really hurt us because we seemed to be taking the play away from them." McDonald

The loss was the first time the Flames have dropped two consecutive games in the playoffs.

"Naturally, you don't like to lose two games in a row." McDonald said. "Who would. especially in the playoffs. We have to cut out mental errors. In a couple of cases it was guys trying to do too much by doing the other guy's job."

Vernon refused to take all the blame for the goals, saying they were screen shots or they came on rebounds that could have been cleared. "There were goals that were scored that I don't think I could have done anything about." he said. "This club has a lot of character and talent. We've bounced back before, and can do it again."

the players who will probably not play in the jamboree."

When asked if the Rams were especially pumped up do to the fact they are playing Brantley in the jamboree, Nelson said that they were not. "Everyone wants to knock our blocks off." Nelson said. "I'm more worried about the way our kids are going to respond in game conditions than I am worried about preparing for Brantley.'

The Rams lost three key players when they lost Ray Hartsfield, Byron Washington, and John Curry. The trio started both ways and always seemed to be there when a big play was needed.

"We need someone that wants to be in the spotlight." Nelson said. "Right now we have a lot of supporting actors but we don't have one main star."

Nelson went on to say that desensively the Rams will be more versatile. "We only lined up in one defensive set last year." Nelson, who is implementing the wishbone this apring, added. "This year we will line up in a variety of sets hoping to confuse the offense."

Nelson said that he was particularly happy with the ef-forts of two kids. Defensive tackle Rodney Nelson and middie linebacker Matt Beck have been impressive. "Rodney and Matt have done a heck of job." Nelson said. "I hope that they will continue to do so."

Lyman's Greybounds will also suit up for an intrasquad ocrimmage on Friday night at 7:30. Admission is also free. Lyman coach Bill Scott said that a tremendous off-season weight program is already pay-ing dividends. "Last year we had two players that weighed over 200 pounds," Scott said. "This year we have 21 players that are over 200. Our (weight program) program will undoubtably help the record of the team."

Scott went on to say that he is happy with the way practice has gone so far. "We have gotten a lot accomplished," Scott said. "The main difference between this year and last year is that we have depth, Last year the kids basically knew if they were going to start, this year they are having to fight for a starting spot. I think that it is very good for the players to have to battle for a starting spot." The chief battle so far for the 'Hounds has been at the quarterback position. John Burton and Darren Boyeson have been battling tooth and nail for the starting job and a decision still has not been made, according to Scott.

"They are both good kids." Scott said. "It's great that they are both fighting for the position. I think that it will help them both in the long run."

Scott went on to add that quite a few players have lived up to the coaching staff's expectations. "We have had a lot of kids do well that we expected to," Scott said. "Hopefully, they will keep working hard and improv-

When asked if his team is on schedule Scott responded by saying. "We have not gone to war yet. We've only been drilling each other. We'll see what hap-pens when the jamboree rolls around."

Scott said that he has been pleasantly surprised with reshman Stove Jerry. Jerry. a nephew of former Lyman great Al Latimer, is currently playing third team quarterback but is very versatile, according to Scott. "Stove could play running back or defensive back as well as QB. He is really a good athlete," Scott said.

Bears Will Fine Dent For Misses

Chicago Bears officials say Richard Dent, who is reportedly cruising the Caribbean, will be fined $1,000 for each day he falls to show up for a three-day mini-camp that begins today.

Dent's agent, Everett Glenn, and Bears General Manager Jerry Vaintsi say contract negotiations for the Super Bowl MVP have reached an impasse.

"We're getting to the point where there may be irreconcilable differences, and they may have to move (trade) him. Glenn said Monday, adding the All-Pro defensive end will not play for the Bears this fall without a new contract.

Dent is entering the option year of his contract and must play to achieve free agency in

"We've gone as far as we're going to go," said Vainisi. "I'm done with Dent. I told (coach) Mike Ditka the other day. 'It looks like Tyrone Keys (Dent's backup) is in for a big year."

The Bears' three-day minicamp opens today, and Glenn said Dent will not attend.

USFL Turns Attack To Rozelle Aids

NEW YORK (UPI) - The U.S. Football League turns the focus of its attack from NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle to one of his top aides today in its $1.3 billion antitrust suit.

Rozelle was questioned for the fourth straight day Tuesday by his own attorney after three days witness. He is expected to return this morning to the stand in U.S. District Court in Manhattan before USFL attorney Harvey Myerson calls NFL executive vice president and general counsel Jay Moyer.

Tuesday, Rozelle reiterated earlier testimony he did not attempt to tie up the networks to prevent the USFL from getting television coverage.

"The U.S. Football League had no bearing one way or another on the negotiations." Rozelle said of his 1982 contract talks with ABC. NBC and CBS.

Whyte Helps AAU 16s To State Championship

> By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Jiffy Lube Select, Central Florida's AAU 16 and Under girls basketball all-star team. was in fine tune this past weekend as it claimed three straight victories and the 16 and Under State Tournament title at Florida Junior College in Jacksonville.

The state tourney title earns Jiffy Lube Select a trip to Plainville, Conn., for the national tourney on June 23 through July 4. The team can only make the trip if it is able to raise the necessary funding, according to coach Bill Moore.

Jiffy Lube Select claimed the state title with an 87-81 victory over Paco AAU. Cocoa High's Rhanda Hinote led the way with 17 points while Daytona Scabreeze's Kenya Robinson tossed in 16. Melbourne's Candie Wilkie added 13 and Titusville Astronaut's Brenda Green contributed 11. Lake Mary High's Teri Whyte added four points and pulled down eight rebounds while Lake Mary's Tonya Lawson chipped in with six points and Lake Brantley's Ashley Thomas added four.

In a victory over Quincy. Whyte had an outstanding allaround game as she lift 7 of 7 field goals for 14 points and ripped down a tournament-high 17 rebounds. Thomas contributed six points in the game while Lawson added five points and three steals. In an earlier round win over Jacksonville. Thomas hit 12 points and Lawson pumped in 11. Wilkie was high-scorer with 13 points while Merritt Island's Dee Williams added eight points and 11 rebounds.

For the tournament. Wilkie was high-scorer with 41 points for three games while Williams had 30 rebounds and Whyte 28. Lawson and Thomas both had 22 points for the tourney and Whyte added 20.

Another Central Florida team. Seminole West, competed in the 16 and Under tourney but lost its first two games. Winter Park's Sharon Bonaventure was high-scorer for the two games and Lake Mary's Dina Mulholland had 11 rebounds. Also on the West Seminole roster out of Seminole County were Marcie Dalzile. Tonya Davis and Marnie Frey of Lake Mary along with Gretchen Mull, Laurie Rivers and Jenny Tufford of Lake Brantley.

In the 18 and Under State Tournament this past weekend. Seminole West was runnerup to Central Florida AAU Select. The Seminole West team pulled off a 87-85 upset of Pinicilas AAU in the semifinals before losing to Central Florida in the finals.

Daytona Mainland's Kacie Kemmer was high scorer for the Seminole West team with 31 points for the tourney. Seminole High's Kim Johnson hit 29 points and Lake Mary's Cynthia Patterson 21. Johnson pulled down 16 rebounds and Patterson 15.

Also on the 18 and Under roster out of Seminole County were Anquenette Whack and Heather Leckie of Lake Mary, Yolanda Robinson of Seminole, Sherry "Ice" Asplen of Lake Brantley and Stephanie Nelson of Oviedo.

Cook Of The Week Educator Collects Recipes For Summer Vacation

By Derothy Greene Herald Correspondent

It will be like going home again for Linda Brewer, our Cook Of The Week, when she returns to her classes next fall at the brand new Greenwood Lakes Middle School, in Lake Mary. Mrs. Brewer, who is presently a 7th grade English teacher at Lakeview Middle School, has a very special reason for being excited about her new surroundings.

"Our home was where Lake Mary High School is now, and where the new Middle School is going to be, says Mrs. Brewer. All that land was my Dads and that's where I grew up. He had 320 acres and it seems strange to go by there now and see the changes. Daddy had a job as a loan appraiser, but this was just like a second job to him. a hobby. It was called Green Acres, and we had cattle and an orange grove. We always had a freezer full of beef and a lot of fresh vegetables.'

Mrs. Brewer is a native of Florida and attended all the Sanford schools. She remembers going off to Troy State University in Troy, Ala., with two friends from Seminole High School. "It had a good reputation for being a good place to go if you wanted to be a teacher. We all roomed together, and it wasn't so bad, because that was pretty far from home at that time," she says, but I was the only one who stayed the whole time. The rest of them left to go to other Although her siblings are scattered from Florida to New York, Mrs. Brewer recalls that together alot and are trying to have a family reunion every year." Mrs. Brewer has a brother in Bradenton who is a physical therapist, another brother in Gaineaville who is a CPA, and a sister living in Rhinebeck, N.Y. who is also a teacher. Her mom and dad, Leukara and Curtis Green, still reside in Sanford. "We always took family vacations together." she recalls. A memorable trip to Washington. D.C. and many trips to the beach strike a happy note for Mrs. Brewer.

"Mother was a very good cook." Linda remembers. "We always cooked a lot, and we all took turns in the kitchen cooking meals and desserts. The whole family had a free reign in the kitchen, "and mother always cooked a lot of food for six hungry people," she laughs.

When our attractive cook became Mrs. Tom Brewer in 1967, they were both still attending Troy State U. "he was there on a football scholarship and I met him the first year I was there," she says. "We were engaged for a year, then we got married at the end of my sophmore year. We had two more years of college, so we moved into a trailer off campus. He was actually a couple of quarters ahead of me, but I went to summer school so that we could finish at the same time. and we graduated together in March of 1969." An amusing fact, Mrs. Brewer relates, "is that we went back last summer after 18 years and our trailer is still sitting there. We couldn't believe it! The same trailer, in the same spot," she says. "It was very exciting for our children to see it. We had no idea that it would still be there, and it looked exactly the same." The Brewers' took a nostalgic trip back to their college town so that their daughter. Tracey, 16, and son Troy, 13. could see the campus, the college, and the town where they were married.

A dedicated educator, and proud of her profession. Mrs. Brewer says. "I do love teaching middle-echoolers. I think one of the reasons for that is because I've had children that age ever since I've been teaching middle achool, so I really feel I can understand some of the things that they're going through because I see it at home every day. But it is a lot of fun," she laughe. "One day they want to be adulta, and the next day they come in not wanting the re-sponsibility and still want to be children. So it's a very up and children. So it's a very up and down age. I do enjoy it. and I love teaching English. I enjoy working at Lahavisw alot — the faculty and the administration there are just super." Mrs. Brown is now eagerly include forward to her transfer to the new school and is planning ber

"At "we were a very close family and the ages my children are, we still are". "We still enjoy being stay extremely busy because band at Lakeview playing the saxophone," says Mrs. Brewer.

Tracey is a student at Seminole High School and is also involved in many extracurricular activities. As a member of the Polygiots, a foreign language club, the Key Club, and the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Tracey is a very busy young lady. She also babysits two afternoons a week, and has recently started working for the Seminole County School Board three afternoons a week, which is a great introduction to the business world.

Family accord and togetherness take place not only at home, but at church where the Brewers devote themselves to the fellowship of the church family at Central Baptist Church of Sanford, Both Tracey and Troy are members of the church orchestra and the Youth Choir. Tom Brewer works for the bus ministry at Central Baptist the soccer practice and all, where he is also a Deacon. "What I'm-deing right now, and what I've been coing all year, is collecting recipes that I really want to try during the summer when I have more time to cook. I enjoy cooking. To me, cooking is a way of relaxing, provided I have the time to get in there and cook the way I want to."

Resping in mind that her family shares a close relationship. Mrs. Brewer says. "I'm a firm believer in everyone sitting down and having dinner together at night. No matter if we have to wait a little longer, or eat a couple of hours earlier, I try to plan the meals so that at least at night we can sit down togehter as a family because I feel that's the only time we can talk together. With the babysitting that my daughter does, and sometimes we eat at 5 o'clock and sometimes we cat at 7:30 p.m. We try to get togehter that one time at night, and that's a

Adding to the Brewers' busy schedules was their recent move into a new home nestled in a quiet, wooded area of Lake Mary. "Many of my plans for this summer do center around the house," says Mrs. Brewer. "I have all these ideas about what I want to get done this summer. I want to try some of the country crafts that I've seen, like wall hangings and stuffed ducks and geese and needlework patterns framed in embrodery hoops." Mrs. Brewer also enjoys working with ceramics, when her busy schedule permits, and creating homey touches to add to the lovely decor of her comfortable home.

What family would be complete without a menageric of lovable pets? The Brewers are no exception. Included in the family circle are Rio, a terrier mix. Gator the cat, a hamster named Pebbles, one "plain old goldfish," and the transient mother cat with 5 kittens who knew a good place for refuge when she saw it.

Sharing a very happy event which took place recently, Mrs. Brewer goes on to explain about the newest addition to the family a brand new vehicle. "My husband won it from his company through a promotional program. It was very exciting. Depending on how many sales he had made, he got to pick so many spots on a big board. he had 8 spots, so he let us all pick two numbers. It was one of my sons numbers that won the van. a 1986 Plymouth Voyager. It was really interesting and alot of Commenting on her family. Mrs. Brewer says, "We live real simple and we have a good time together. We've got very, very good kids and I just hope and pray that it stays that way." Combining her ingredients for stable home life, a fulfilling career, and a unifying association with her church. Mrs. Brewer has come up with the best of all recipes.

Here in the Bahamas we are only 50 miles off the south Florida coast: we are a prime vacation spot and cater to over a million visitors each year mostly from the United States.

You would be surprised at some of the comments we hear: "How come you speak English so well? We expected you to speak a kind of broken Spanish." "When did you stop wearing grass skirts and living in tree houses?" "Why, you're actually driving cars and you dress the way we dress!"

Sweet Vidalia Onions A Perfect Side Dish For Any Meal

They are here again, the sweet Vidalia onions that are grown in or within a thirty mile radius of Vidalia, Georgia. These onions come with a certificate to their authenticity and the flavor and taste is not the same as other onions that are grown outside that rather small exclusive area. Expensive though they may be, many belive them well worth the cost. While traveling recently through Georgia we bought some (with papers). My favorite way to prepare these onlons in the microwave is the easiest. This recipes makes a wonderful side dish to serve with most

MICRO-BAKE ONIONS

4 whole Vidalia onions 4 1/2 teaspoon instant beef bouillon

¼ cup water

Fresh parsley Remove outer skin from the onions and place onions in 1-quart casserole. Sprinkle 1/2 teaspoon of instant beef bouillon on each onion. Add water to casserole. Cover with casserole lid or plastic wrap. Microwave on 100% power for 6-8 minutes or until onions are tender, allow to stand 3 minutes. Sprinkle with fresh chopped parsley. Serve. Allow 1 onton for each person. Low sodium bouillon can be used for those on restricted dicts.

Food for Thought

Use your microwave to separate stuck-together bacon. Heat the package on high for 15 to 30

Best for deep-fat frying: solid vegetable shortening and vegetable oils. They won't burn and smoke at high temperatures the way that butter - or even olive oil - will. If you strain out particles from oil or fat, you can use it again.

Be sure to state your zodiac sign.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) A positive "I know I can do it" attitude will work marvels for you today. Apply this technique to problems that have had you pinned down. LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Lady Luck isn't apt to rally to your side until later in the game today. Don't be discouraged if carly happenings are negative.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Something personally beneficial can be pieced together today by linking two unrelated sources. You're the middleman who can make it all possible.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Material conditions continue to be your area of greatest promise. Focus on things that can ring the cash register.

SCORPSO (Oct.' 24-Nov. 22) Things will work out as you envision them today, provided you stay in the driver's seat. Put those who might interfere in the back of the bus.

BAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Conditions are now stirring that will eventually contribute to your material security and feelings of well-being. The first ripples may be felt today.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Happy tidings you'll be receiving will put new zest in your step. Lots will be going on today, but most will be pleasant happenings. AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) You're still in a good achievement cycle, so dedicate your time and talents today to attaining objectives that will give you pride of accomplishment.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Concepts you conceive today will be both logical and promising, even though associates might think you're viewing things on too grand a scale.

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're in a stronger position today than you may realize. You have something others need and will be willing to pay for. It's either a contact or a special talent. TAURUS (April 20-May 20) involvements you have with friends today will work out well for all concerned. You could be especially lucky with a pal with whom you've been lucky pre-

Beardless Brolin Braves TV

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - There has always been something sinister about beards in the theater, movies and TV.

Few leading men or major movie stars have worn beards with any great success. Traditionally, beards and black hats indicate the actor is a viliain. Going back to Charlie Chaplin's old one-reel comedies.

the heavy was as often bearded as not. There have been exceptions, of course. Monty Waolley, for instance, but he was a character actor. Some major stars have worn beards in period pieces and costume epics. Usually they were false beards attached with spirit gum. When an actor did grow his own whiskers, he haved them away as soon as the role was completed.

Willie Nelson and Kenny Rogers sport beards, but they are also country singers and not generally considered romantic leading men.

Don Johnson's "Miami Vice" stubble doesn't really count.

Clean-shaven heroes have been the rule, although mustaches have been altogether acceptable on the likes of Errol Flynn, Clark Gable, David Niven

"Night of the Juggler" even years ago. He let his beard grow for the role. It came in heavy, black and slightly menacing. It looked good. He liked the rugged image the hiraute decor provided and decided to keep it.

Three years ago Aaron Spelling hired Brolin to star in "Hotel" in the role of Peter

McDermott, the hostelry's suave general manager. Here, at last, was a romantic leading man with a full, albeit well-trimmed, beard. At the end of this season's shows, Brotin flew to London to
