

Auto Strike Deadline Nearing

DETROIT (AP) — With less than a week to go before contract talks between the United Auto Workers and the Big Three automakers appear stalled today while the union awaits a second offer from its twin strike targets, General Motors and Chrysler Corp.

With facts at GM, Chrysler and Ford Motor Co. ending at midnight next Monday, negotiations continued through the Labor Day weekend, but little progress was reported.

The companies' initial offer, which the firms said included a wage increase of 7.5 per cent in the first year but which the UAW said amounted to no more than 3.1 per cent, was quickly rejected by the union last week.

Over the weekend, the UAW completed presentation of its contract demands at GM and Chrysler.

Details of the UAW wage demands were not made public. The current average hourly wage for UAW-represented auto workers is $4.02, with fringe benefits averaging an additional $1.75 hourly, according to company estimates.

Irving Blustein, codirector of the union's GM department, said Monday there had been no indication whether or when GM might make a revised offer.

GM's chief negotiator, Earl Bramblett, indicated when he first offered a revised offer that a second offer might be forthcoming later.

Blustein said: "If we are going to have a bargaining posture in which we can negotiate, the chances of winning the necessary two-thirds majority are in doubt."

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of the proposed amendment, contends 55 to 60 senators now support the proposal. He predicts the measure will pick up enough additional votes to pass.

But he told newsmen before the debate got underway that it is going to be a tough uphill fight and made plain that he would welcome White House efforts to line up senators behind the amendment.

President Nixon endorsed the direct election proposal after its approval by the House by a vote of 238-70.

He previously had rejected nomination over the present electoral college system of choosing the president, expressing doubts that discrediting it altogether would be approved by Congress and the states—at least in time for the 1972 election.

Bayh said "the odds are now rather heavily stacked against the plan being put into effect for the next presidential election."

Under the Senate version, ratification by three-fourths of the states would have to be completed by April 15 of next year for the direct election plan to apply in 1972. The House set a deadline of Jan. 20 when it approved the amendment a year ago.

Considerable attention is centered on the Florida runoff between G. Harold Carswell, the spurned Supreme Court nominee, and Rep. William C. Cramer, who is rated slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

The GOP victor will square off against the winner of today's four-man primary race for the Democratic nomination. Former Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schultz, speaker of the Florida House.

Florida also offers a hotly contested battle for governor with Republican Claude Kirk and Democrat Claude Kirk, who is rated slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Legal Marijuana Is Recommended

By JANET STAIRAR Associated Press Writer WASHINGTON (AP) — A government study says the rate of violent crimes by urban blacks is higher than for whites, and the majority of those offenses involve Negroes attacking Negroes.

The report, originally prepared by a three-man staff for the now-defunct National Commission on the Causes and Prevention of Violence, also recommended the legalization of marijuana for persons over age 21.

"There is no reliable scientific evidence of harmful effects, nor is there evidence of marijuana's being a stepping stone to hard narcotics," said the report.

"Through our harsh criminal statutes of marijuana use and in light of evidence that alcohol abuse accounts for far more destruction than any known psychoactive substance today, we have caused large numbers of our youth to lose respect for our laws, generally," the panel said.

"We have also criminalized untold numbers of young people. The scientific data do not support harsh treatment," it said.

VERMONT'S GOV. Deane C. Davis is favored to win Republican nomination over Lt. Gov. Thomas L. Hayes, a liberal running as a peace candidate. Democrats will choose between former Lt. Gov. John J. Daley and State Sen. Leo O'Brien Jr.

In New Hampshire, Republicans will decide between Walter Peterson, who is seeking renomination in a battle against Melvin Thompson, a law book publisher.

Arkansas will hold its runoff between former Gov. Orval E. Faubus, who is trying for a comeback, and Dale Bumper, a lawyer. Faubus is rated the probable winner and would face Republican Gov. Winthrop Rockefeller, who is seeking a third term.

In Utah and Wisconsin, Republican and Democrat senatorial candidates have no primary opposition. Utah Republican Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schultz, speaker of the Florida House.

Faircloth, Askew Seeking Support

By BILL SCOTT Seminole County backers of Earl Faircloth and Reubin Askew, two surviving Democratic gubernatorial candidates, have already made overtures seeking support from the county camps of Jack Mathews and Charles Hall, Democratic candidates defeated in yesterday's primary balloting.

Sheriff John Polk and Charles Kampf, county chairman for Askew and Faircloth, indicated in statements to The Herald today that each group will be actively seeking the local party machinery of Jack Mathews and Charles Hall, the third and fourth runner-up in Tuesday's gubernatorial battle.

Polk this morning was arraigning with other Askew workers to get support from the two losers and issued the following: "I'm very pleased that Mr. Askew carried Seminole County and is in the runoff. I would like to thank my committee and the people who worked for Mr. Askew that I have not yet met."

Polk, who helped steer Seminole County into the Askew column, said, "Mr. Askew seeks the support of all the citizens of this county in the second primary, and I would like to congratulate the workers for other Democratic gubernatorial candidates for the clean campaign just conducted."

The sheriff concluded his statement by saying he would actively seek the support of the backers of the other candidates in order to elect a Democratic governor in November.

Kampf told The Herald he was pleased with the voters' turnout and thought there would be a good clean race.

"I would like to solicit the support of all those candidates who did not win," Kampf added.

He concluded with the opinion, "Total victory depends on all working together."

New Voting Machines 'Problem' Vote Light At 50% In County

By MARION BETHEA (37) and attributed the light voting in "voter apathy."

The tally was marred with problems with voting machines in several of the precincts. Mrs. Bruce explained this as emanating from new machines in which the lever was difficult to pull.

In the local races on the Republican ticket, John Fitzpatrick trailed George Hess III in the district 1 County Commission race. Kimbrough garnered 2,802 votes to Hess' 1,875. In the district 4 commission race, Greg Wynn secured 4,429 votes, while Clifford Jordan's 1,818 votes and 867 cast for C. L. Cooper.

INCUMBENT WINS The hotly contested district 5 seat on the commission saw incumbent Sid Vines Jr., recently appointed to the post, win handily over Dot Meadows. Vines received 3,042 votes to Meadows' 1,793.

On the Democratic side for county commissioner in district 2, W. Garnett White emerged the victor over Carroll Burke with 3,784 votes to Burke's 2,479. In the district 3 post Al Davis narrowly defeated W. Lawrence Swafford by a vote of 4,069 to 3,500.

In district 4 a runoff would appear likely between the incumbent Robert Parker and Richard Wray. Parker received 3,415 votes and Wray 2,350. The other contender, Titus King, received 1,045 votes. In the district 5 battle for a seat on the Commission, John Fitzpatrick won by a large margin over Buil Gallagher by a vote of 4,361 to 2,438.

The party office of state committee man saw Republican Dominick Saffi win by a vote of 2,423 to Charles Lansing's 2,079 votes. Long time Republican state committee woman Geraldine Keeth lost the race by a narrow margin to political newcomer Paul Puckett by a vote of 2,351 to 2,000.

Under this system, which is in use in Texas, convicted persons can serve 10 days and receive $50 credit toward a sentence. Judge Berry said he also would begin issuing the warrants to appear warrants for persons who don't show up for trial. This means those persons will be charged for two of fees. One for the city violation and another for failure to appear in court. Warrants will be issued by the judge empowering police to apprehend court absentees, the judge added.

In another court-associated matter, it was decided by the Commission to have Police Chief Ben Butler and Captain Earl Bourgeois issue warrants in place of City Clerk Henry Tamm.

Tamm had been issuing warrants along with Judge Berry along with other tasks but had requested that he be relieved of the duty.

Others to be tried include Ben Posey, charged with breaking and entering (B and E) with intent to commit a felony and grand larceny. He is being held in the Seminole County jail.

Also, James B. Cain, buying and receiving stolen property; Danny Horns, B and E; Bonny Bell Posey, charged with breaking and entering (B and E) with intent to commit a felony and grand larceny. He is being held in the Seminole County jail.

President Election Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate starts debate today on a Constitutional amendment, approved by the House a year ago, to provide for the election of the President by direct, popular vote.

It is the first of many controversial issues confronting senators on their return from a five-day Labor Day recess. The amendment, which would change the way the President is elected, is one of the most hotly debated issues in the Senate.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of the proposed amendment, contends 55 to 60 senators now support the proposal. He predicts the measure will pick up enough additional votes to pass.

But he told newsmen before the debate got underway that it is going to be a tough uphill fight and made plain that he would welcome White House efforts to line up senators behind the amendment.

President Nixon endorsed the direct election proposal after its approval by the House by a vote of 238-70.

He previously had rejected nomination over the present electoral college system of choosing the president, expressing doubts that discrediting it altogether would be approved by Congress and the states—at least in time for the 1972 election.

Under the Senate version, ratification by three-fourths of the states would have to be completed by April 15 of next year for the direct election plan to apply in 1972. The House set a deadline of Jan. 20 when it approved the amendment a year ago.

Considerable attention is centered on the Florida runoff between G. Harold Carswell, the spurned Supreme Court nominee, and Rep. William C. Cramer, who is rated slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

The GOP victor will square off against the winner of today's four-man primary race for the Democratic nomination. Former Gov. Farris Bryant, considered the front-runner, is closely challenged by Fred Schultz, speaker of the Florida House.

Florida also offers a hotly contested battle for governor with Republican Claude Kirk and Democrat Claude Kirk, who is rated slight edge. Cramer says President Nixon asked him to run for the Senate seat being vacated by retiring Democrat Sen. Spessard L. Holland.

Cholera spreading through the Middle East and into Africa is an increasing health concern. The World Health Organization reports continued cases in the stricken countries. The disease, which flourishes with poor sanitation and kills through severe dehydration resulting from diarrhea and vomiting, is believed to have spread westward from an outbreak in the Far East. It may have reached southern Russia through travelers from Egypt.

Disguised Reds Hit Cambodians

PHNOM PENH (UPI)—Viet Cong and North Vietnamese troops disguised as Cambodian paratroopers attacked Siem Reap near the ruins of Angkor Wat, the Cambodian command said today. The defenders and attackers each lost 12 killed in the ensuing battle.

A 4,000-man Cambodian force pushing toward the encircled city of Kompong Thom, 50 miles north of Phnom Penh, was reported halting to its objective after two days of Communist harassment attacks along Highway 6.

Cambodian spokesmen said the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese who attacked Siem Reap Tuesday were camouflaged uniforms and red scarves like those of Cambodian paratroopers. Thirteen of the defenders, themselves, although heavily wounded and 20 wounded. The Communists lost 12 bodies on the battlefield and Cambodian spokesmen said it appeared many others were killed and the bodies carried away.

The Cambodian command said the forward elements of a

Sound And Fury Of Confrontation

Commanders Reconstructed 'What Happened'

BERLIN (AP)—In August, the sound and fury of racial confrontation rolled over the U.S. Army's Munich barracks. . . . THE BERLIN ECHO reached all the way to Washington. Along with news of a near riot involving U.S. troops at Schweinfurt in West Germany, the black-white confrontation at McNair was instrumental in sparking the creation of an interracial fact-finding team, including White House aides, that is coming to Europe this week.

The ingredients that led white and black soldiers to fight in Berlin were basic and familiar to scenes of racial tension across the United States.

The spark that set off the incident came when a white soldier called a black soldier "nigger." A white GI was "kicked with a piece of wood." The fight escalated.

Five men were arrested. Eight were treated at a hospital, including one military policeman. Evidently as many as 23 men suffered injuries of some sort.

"If you could figure out why this thing happened," a McNair-base officer declared, "then you could do something about it. But when that thing got going, it was not a case of White House aides, that is coming to Europe this week.

The Berlin Brigade has been remarkably free of outbreaks of racial unrest plaguing other Army units based across Germany. That it now has happened in Berlin, too, underlines far-reaching racial sensitivity.

Maj. Gen. George M. Seigmon II, the Berlin commander, says firmly, "This situation is endemic to our whole society, not just the Army."

Seigmon and other senior commanders feel that the Army's leadership must get the entire service, sometimes blamed for a situation born largely out of civilian circumstances.

In an interview, however, Seigmon emphasized that regardless of the original cause, the Army's leadership must bridge a racial gap wherever it finds one.

Seigmon and other top commanders emphasize that junior officers and sergeants must get through to the individual soldier because they are closest to him, always so.

The blacks go farther afield in their criticism, saying that "officers do not listen to us" because they are closest to him, always so.

Black soldiers say this is not always so.

Red Cross Racing Deadline

By United Press International

An International Red Cross deadline today in its efforts to negotiate the exchange of 184 persons and two jetliners for an unspecified number of Arab guerrillas held in Europe and Israel.

Palestinian guerrillas hijacked the TWA and Swissair jets Sunday and brought them to a dusty, hot airfield in the desert 78 miles north of Amman. Of those aboard, 115 women and children were freed Monday night and allowed to go to Amman, where they were awaiting transportation to Beirut.

But about 184 other persons still were in the planes awaiting the outcome of the negotiation. The three-man Swiss team headed by Andre Hochet met with the guerrilla leaders to determine their exact demands, over which there has been some confusion.

A guerrilla spokesman said they want freedom for all guerrillas kept in European jails, return of the body of a would-be hijacker in London and the release of a selection of persons as yet to be announced from Israeli prisons.

He said there had been no demand to release Sirhan, E. Sirhan, the convicted assassin of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, who the spokesman said.

A number of the passengers aboard the two planes were Americans and President Nixon Tuesday met with his top-ranking advisers to discuss measures being taken to obtain their release. Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said "The President has been following the situation very closely."

Inflation Becomes Global Threat—Hot Issue

Editorial Comment

Inflation in America, not properly checked or controlled by the Nixon administration's policies, is now defined as much more than the "hot political issue" and has entered the aid designation as chief threat to the stability of the free world's monetary system.

This definition came from Pierre-Paul Schweitzer, managing director of The International Monetary Fund, issued in advance of the Fund's annual meeting to be held in Copenhagen on Sept. 21, the timing underscores its importance.

"For what it said, from the global standpoint, has been said by domestic critics who have urged President Nixon to be firm and bold, to practice a little needed 'jawboning' and use the wage and price control measures which the Congress has provided.

Coming, as it has, on the heels of a very straight-from-the-shoulder appraisal of the Nixon failure to control inflation by George Meany, president of the AFL-CIO, it merely gave added substance to the labor chief's charges.

Mr. Meany pulls no punches. He saw the pocketbook issue as of the highest importance with the members of labor unions losing their real pay—what the dollar can purchase—while others have benefited from Nixon fiscal policies.

Rising unemployment going hand-in-hand with rising prices is labor's worry. Mr. Meany saw the Nixon attempt to control inflation as, so far, benefiting banks, big corporations and causing the recession.

Are we in a recession? The Chase National Bank says: "Whether the 1969-70 experience is ever officially classified as a recession is now a matter of only technical interest. For thousands of businesses, it is a fact."

President I. W. Abel of the AFL-CIO United Steelworkers Union, aimed his comments, not at a question of whether or not a recession is in being, but at inflation. He looked at the Nixon record and pointed out that the cost of living had been at a rate of 4.2 per cent the year before the Republican moved into the White House and has been rising to six per cent a year since then.

Of course the pocket-book issue has been seized on by the Democrats to belabor the Republican administration. But the attack does have stature. House Speaker John McCormack (D) Massachusetts, whose long service in the House gives perspective to his remarks, used a Labor Day message to dramatically express his opinions.

Outdated economic policies of the Nixon administration caught his ire. "... high interest policies have further cost the American consumer an additional $20 billion, to say nothing of the resulting inflated prices of food, utilities and other services directly attributable to the exorbitant interest rates which have been a conscious policy of this administration."

What we have quoted and referred to are, to be sure, words, whether it be global or national, political or not that is the subject.

But the fact which puts all these into focus is the personal and daily experience of workers, housewives and employers.

Soft and encouraging words from Nixon officials do nothing to meet the problem of workers who have lost jobs or whose pay envelope has been leaking out buying power as every week-end the cost of food, clothing and services go up and up.

Thus the timing for the Nixon administration comes with the mid-term Congressional elections on Nov. 3. Public and national sentiment is split badly when the other key issues—Income tax, crime control, urban decay, racial confrontation—are debated.

But on the pocket-book issue—the value of the dollar in terms of things bought, the pay-checks which are vanishing or being weakened by inflation—there is unanimity.

Now President Nixon's policies are before the bar of global opinion. Is it not time for the President to pay attention to his critics and assume those powers which he possesses, which his office bestows, and which Congress has provided?

Tug-Of-War Now!

Transportation Secretary John A. Volpe's decision to throw $5-billion worth of federal money behind efforts to improve public transportation is only the opening push in what promises to be a long and bitter battle over transportation policy.

It is already drawing unqualified praise from auto-oriented quarters which have jumped to the undoubtedly logical conclusion that under challenge is the sanctity of the Federal Highway Trust Fund, the treasure chest that has been financing the nation's massive super-road construction program.

Specifically, Volpe has decreed that henceforth special provisions for public transport, such as exclusive lanes and exits, will in part determine allocation of federal trust funds (which can come to as much as 90 per cent of the total) to urban construction projects in order to "encourage the greatest use of buses in preference to individual automobiles" by the nation's commuting herds.

Although only bus facilities are mentioned and the decision ostensibly is intended in part to head off pressure in Congress and elsewhere to tap the trust fund for non-highway purposes, such as new rail transit systems, the latter is exactly what fund defenders fear is coming.

The Federal Highway Trust Fund was established by Congress in 1956 to finance the Interstate program, now more than 70 per cent complete. Fed largely by the four-cent federal gasoline levy, plus other motorists' taxes, it has been a cornucopia through years of tight budgets in other nondefense spending areas. Something like $50 billion has flowed through the fund to the contractors and the balance now stands at $5 billion, with income comfortably exceeding expenditures.

Since all of this comes exclusively from motorists, the highway lobby—"The Road Gang" to its Capitol Hill intimates—fiercely opposes tapping the fund for any other purpose than the creation and care of roads for motorists.

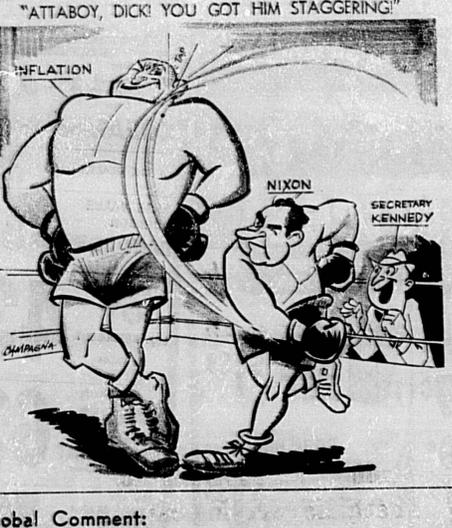

Critics, however, contend that the fund's exclusivity has encouraged an overemphasis on highways that has crippled urban transportation. Public transit deteriorates and disappears while highways proliferate, and the spending imbalance is such that something like 20 times more public money is pumped into roads than into mass transit.

Some planners—o dreamers—would correct this by replacing the highway trust with a general transportation fund committed to financing a balanced national system of roads, mass transit, railroads and air facilities.

The "road gang," naturally enough, does not buy that and has a lot on its side—the current law and, theoretically, millions of American motorists.

But the transit forces also have some big guns, notably Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., chairman of the Senate Public Works Committee. Randolph, keeper of the congressional pork barrel, has let it be known he is open to changes directed toward balancing transportation spending. He has himself proposed using some trust funds to aid bus systems in larger cities.

There is also increasing sentiment in the streets, as disclosed at the National Governors' Conference, for a change in spending emphasis. Much more is going to be heard on the issue. The $5 billion at stake assures that.—(By Don Graf, NEA Editorialist)

Red Chinese' Peace Drive

By LEON DENNEN
UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (NEA)—Not to be outmaneuvered by their Russian rival, the Red Chinese are launching their own global peace offensive.

Premier Chou En-lai, Peking's chief spokesman, will embark on an extensive tour in October that will take him into Europe, Africa and the Middle East.

His journey—obviously to influence governments and win allies against Russia—will unnerve China's return to an active foreign policy after the isolationist days that followed the "cultural revolution" of 1966.

As Peking sees it, it can play the game of détente. This according to East European diplomats, also may explain Hanoi's sudden decision to engage in secret peace negotiations with David K. E. Bruce, the new American chief delegate in Paris.

North Vietnam, like North Korea and the Communists of Cambodia and Laos, is now firmly in Red China's camp. Kuan T'ing Hanoi's top man in Paris, would hardly enter into secret negotiations with the "American imperialists" without Peking's approval.

There are other indications that the Chinese, no longer relying on revolutionary propaganda alone, are out to mend diplomatic fences.

Mao Tse-tung himself, long absent from the diplomatic scene in China, is again receiving a succession of foreign government delegations. He is also dispatching hastily new ambassadors to replace envoys withdrawn during the cultural revolution.

The Russians, ever suspicious of Mao's political moves, have also noted with interest the recent release from a Chinese prison of American Bishop James E. Walsh.

"Peking does not make such humanitarian gestures without political purpose," said a worried Soviet diplomat.

Why this dramatic shift in Mao's foreign policy? The answer lies in a member of the Associated Press which is entitled exclusively to the use for reproduction of all the local news printed in this newspaper.

Isolationism vs. World Role

By BRUCE BOISSAT
NEA
WASHINGTON (NEA)—For all our foreign entanglements through wars and treaties since World War II, the spirit which underlay our long prior history of isolationism never really left us and is giving us acute difficulties today.

One who seeks to make such a case is historian Andrew Hacker. In his soberly pessimistic book, "The End of the American Era," he writes: "... In attitude, Americans remain an isolationist people. And it is what Hacker has in mind when he says we remain an isolationist spirit even as we engage ourselves abroad, exhibiting no real sense of world purpose and often behaving with selfish insensitivity toward the very people we presume to help."

Some foreign affairs specialists will make contrary argument, citing our treaties, our sacrifices in blood and treasure, our leaders' sometimes eloquent utterances of noble goals of world betterment.

There is no doubt that the United States, in fact, has done much to have the word from tyranny. But it is just as plain that no amount of noble utterance from our leaders has infused these efforts with a sense of mission or of broadening of popular understanding of the meaning of the word.

From World War II on, our foreign economic assistance, though lofty in concept, has had to be sold to Congress and the American people as a mere or has directly involved in our

—and that when they do they either try to get the involvement over with as quickly as possible, or, if they cannot do it as it is if it were somehow an extension of their own domestic life over which they are accustomed to exercising control.

This is precisely the point President Nixon made so frankly in his 1969 anniversary talk with newsmen when he set forth his "Doctrine" at Guam. And it is what Hacker has in mind when he says we remain an isolationist spirit even as we engage ourselves abroad, exhibiting no real sense of world purpose and often behaving with selfish insensitivity toward the very people we presume to help.

Motivational Purity On View

By DICK WEST
WASHINGTON (UPI)—When it was a mere child, the child was Mike Mansfield and Barry Goldwater co-sponsor a piece of legislation, motivational purity is taken for granted.

Otherwise, in the case of a postal paraphernalia bill they are promoting, I might have suspected them of playing footsie with the junk mail lobby.

The measure, subject of hearings by the Senate Post Office Committee this week, would provide that unregistered mail likely to be considered indecent must carry warning labels similar to those found on cigarette packages.

"The enclosed material may be obscene or offensive to the addressee," is the way the alarm would be worked.

Both Mansfield, a high-minded Montana Democrat and Goldwater, a high-minded Arizona Republican, assured the committee the bill was pro bono publico, so to speak.

"Protects us innocent addressees against unwanted salacious solicitation," they said. And I am convinced that they are convinced of that.

But when David A. Nelson, a post office official, testified that "the possibilities for abuse of such a statute would be very great indeed," he steered himself a victory.

For one thing, the bill would be a bonanza for junk mailers. To see why, ask yourself this: What is the first principle of direct mail solicitation?

Answer: To make sure we addresses open it. For if the envelope is tossed into the wastebasket, it is so much sweetness wasted on the desert air.

Over the years, many of us on the mailing lists have become immune to the enticements appearing upon the envelope. These ordinarily promise only pecuniary or cultural rewards to the addressee.

Suppose that invitation to join the Encyclopedia-of-the-Month Club, or buy retirement dresses against unwanted salacious solicitation, they said. And I am convinced that they are convinced of that.

Both phosphates and breakfast cereals have been under attack lately.

The one, an ingredient in laundry detergents, has been blamed for providing too much nutrition to lake algae by way of sewage runoff. The other has been accused of providing too little nutrition to children.

But the two wrongs may be combined to make a right, if an experiment being conducted in Ann Arbor, Mich., proves out. In a program aimed at finding a tooth decay preventive, nearly 1,000 teen-age students in that city's public schools are being given breakfast cereals enriched with phosphates.

The researchers will know for sure when the three-year experiment is completed in the spring of 1971.

O'Malley Unseats Broward Williams

MIAMI (AP)—Broward Williams, a favorite target of Floridians irked by rising insurance costs, lost his job as state treasurer Tuesday and a flock of "Big Dade" politicians used fat home county margins to score in statewide races.

In a major Cabinet shaker, former Dade County vice mayor Tom O'Malley crushed Williams by a 2-1 margin and will face Republican Tom Slade of Jacksonville in the Nov. 3 general election for the State Treasurer - Insurance Commissioner seat.

"The people obviously seek a new voice," said the 34-year-old Slade, a Jacksonville natural gas dealer. "Mr. O'Malley is a 'taxocrat' who will give his answer with the 32 per cent tax increase that's ahead in Dade County."

O'Malley polled 361,419 votes with 999 per cent of Florida's 2,757 precincts tabulated. Williams polled only 25,231 or 41 per cent. O'Malley, a 37-year-old attorney, won by more than 3:1 in Dade.

Slade polled 57 per cent in his easy triumph against former Florida Industrial Commission Chairman Tom Johnston of Winter Park. Slade received 173,313 with 68 per cent reported to Johnston's 131,822.

"This shocked a lot of people," said O'Malley after his victory. "It was clear that Florida people wanted a new man as State Treasurer. They had enough of what has been going on."

O'Malley comes a long line of politicians. His father was once a U.S. Congress member from Wisconsin and his grandfather died in 1936 while serving as that state's acting governor.

The surprise victor spent a scant $99,929 in campaigning.

Governor Two Per Cent Shy Of Winning

Dejected Kirk Faces Jack Eckerd

By HOWARD BENEDICT
Associated Press Writer
ORLANDO, Fla. (AP)—Gov. Claude Kirk came to town confident he would win a clear-cut victory over Republican opponents in Tuesday's primary election. He left for Palm Beach early today a dejected man.

He had collected 48 per cent of the GOP vote, just two per cent shy of the required majority. The millionaire drugstore owner had registered 38 per cent and forced a runoff primary in three weeks. L. A. Hagaman gathered the remaining votes.

Even when he had no chance of winning a majority, Kirk refused to concede he faced a runoff with Eckerd.

"Let's wait until all the results are in," he said at 1:15 a.m. today as he and his wife, Enka, left for Palm Beach where he scheduled an afternoon news conference.

But his senior executive assistant, Lloyd Ingram, admitted the vote totals made it "probable" that he would lose.

Further conceding the runoff, Hagaman said of the governor: "He's very disappointed. He's a fighter and he'll come out fighting to win the nomination."

Kirk spent the evening in his suite on the ninth floor of Orlando's Park Plaza Hotel to await election results. With him were his pretty wife, Sara, 21, and 15-year-old daughter, Sara, 15, and Lt. Gov. Ray Osborne, and his wife, Mary Tom.

Seven floors below in the Granada Room, Kirk supporters and campaign workers assembled. They confidently predicted a victory without a runoff. There was exuberance as early returns gave Kirk more than 50 per cent of the vote.

Kirk aides first said the governor would appear at 8 p.m. but as the vote failed to show a significant trend, the appearance was put off until 9:30, then 10, then 11, then midnight.

All the while, an aide, Tom Alexander, tried to drum up enthusiasm in the crowd, which by an announcement that the three television networks all had forecast a clear-cut Kirk victory.

The biggest cheer of the evening came at 9:35 p.m. when Alexander announced that Kirk was winning Eckerd's home county, Pinellas.

The crowd was further boosted by an announcement that the three television networks all had forecast a clear-cut Kirk victory.

Cramer Sinks Carswell

By PEN FUNK
MIAMI (AP)—Veteran Rep. Bill Cramer swamped former Judge Charles Carswell Tuesday for a seat in the U.S. Senate in Florida's election and carried a Republican nomination and carried Bryant led Lavon Chiles into a runoff for the Democratic nod in Florida's U.S. Senate first primary.

"Florida's Republicans have spoken," the 48-year-old Cramer said after turning back Carswell's charge that he was ineligible for a seat in the Senate that rejected his nomination to the U.S. Supreme Court on grounds of medicity.

"We now appeal to the discerning Democrats of this state to join us in our fight to stop the cop killers, the bombers, the burners, the revolutionaries who would destroy America," said Cramer in his victory speech.

Shortly after capturing 63 per cent of the vote in a three-way contest with Carswell and unknown darkhorse George Balme, Cramer accepted an invitation to meet President Nixon Thursday in Washington.

Cramer, a veteran of 16 years in Congress, said Nixon urged him and seven other House members to run for the Senate in an effort to seize control from the Democrats.

He also said he expected in the Democratic voting, but Chiles scored a mild upset by surging

Aussies Losing Tennis Monopoly

By WILL GRIMSLEY FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — It's the U.S. Davis Cup team — coach and players — against Australia leading into the quarter finals of the U.S. Open Championships and there's a hint the pendulum may be swinging away from Aussie monopoly of the big three tennis.

Among the last eight tournaments in the men's singles, there are four Yanks. There are only three Australians, including the defending champion and top seed, who are, and a lone New Zealander, unseeded, unnoticed and unfeared.

Training for the Davis Cup helped "us all," said Dennis Ralston of Bakersfield, Calif., the U.S. coach. "We worked hard. We hit a lot of balls. We shipped ourselves into top physical shape and tuned our games."

Electoral College Abolition

Senate Foes Vow Fight

By JOHN CHADWICK
WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate opponents of a Constitutional amendment to abolish the electoral college and provide for the election of the president by a long, all-out fight.

The far-reaching proposal, already approved by the House and endorsed by President Nixon, came under heavy attack in the opening Senate debate on the amendment Tuesday.

Sen. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., chief Senate sponsor of the direct election plan, did not show the state a two-thirds majority necessary for passage. But he predicted the necessary votes will be obtained.

Even if the amendment clears Congress, Bayh said, it will never be ratified by three-fourths of the states because it would mean a loss of voting power to the states in presidential elections.

"The states will be heavily penalized and degraded in their political influence," Bayh said. "I will do everything I can to make the public understand this. It will have to be debated at great length."

Each state, regardless of its population, now has a minimum of three electoral votes. The number of electoral votes corresponds to a state's representation in the Senate and the House.

Bayh called this one of the most fundamental defects in the electoral college system but argued the most fundamental defect is that it does not guarantee the election of the popular vote winner.

"We also said the direct election plan would give each party an incentive to turn out the largest vote possible in every state because each vote would count. As it is now, he said, with the electoral college, a state's electoral vote is awarded to the popular vote winner, but some in one-party states have the incentive to vote.

The amendment provides that a candidate must receive at least 40 per cent of the popular vote nationwide to win. If none of them do, a runoff election is to be held between the top two vote-getters.

This feature was assailed by Curtis as a fatal defect. He said several weeks might pass before a runoff election would be necessary, creating confusion, doubt and indecision.

Bayh replied he knew of the defects resulting from runoff elections in the states, but Curtis said this was not comparable to the outcome of a presidential election hanging in the balance.

Currently, a baby carriage is under way and will terminate the first Sunday in October.

Mrs. C. Williams and Mrs. E. B. Mierke are the sponsors of this benefit program. Rev. W. B. Bagley is pastor.

Dr. J. C. Ringling, Appraisal Commission member, will hold at All Saints Church Sept. 15 at 8 p.m.

The public is cordially invited to attend this appreciation program.

That school has opened for the 1970-71 term and quite different than previously, parents, children as well as citizens are trying to reach the top.

This youthful performer has studied drama at Pace College, New York City; the American Academy of Drama and Arts and London Dramatic School of Arts, London, England.

She recently had a bit part in "Gator Comes to Harlem," yet to be released in the South, but can be seen in the City and up state New York.

She also has had a small part in documentary films and is currently making arrangements for another documentary film to be filmed in Florida.

Her conversation with Miss Bradwell was interesting and educational. I have reference to her vacation and work abroad which included stops in Paris, Madrid, Portugal, Italy, Holland, Copenhagen and Pakistan, just to mention a few.

Incidentally, this actress has been featured on a few television shows.

Her parents and relatives are proud of the accomplishment of Miss Bradwell.

I am sure that those of us who had the privilege of knowing her personally, are very happy to know of her whereabouts and what she is doing.

Gulf Co. Schools Hit By Boycott

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Sarasota, Fla. (AP) — A virtual total boycott of blacks in Gulf County left officials there searching for explanations.

About 200 blacks in all grades stayed home in Gulf County Tuesday, and only about 15 showed up at school.

"I would venture to say that they're unhappy about the closing of Washington Elementary, but they have not communicated this to me," said Gulf Supt. Marion Craig.

He said the school board closed Washington, an all-black school, and sent its pupils to three mostly white schools to comply with desegregation orders.

"Students who vandalize property should be sent to jail," he said.

"Adequate bond should be required to cover possible damages when controversial speakers are brought on campus."

"Colleges which close in the face of militant activities should be used by students for loss of tuition and time."

Byrd said colleges need to "reverse their policies of fear, permissiveness toward students." They should be expelled for misconduct, he said.

Byrd suggested in a 39-page statement, accompanied by a 42-page study of campus disorders, that "it is to take into proper account the attitudes, abilities and potentialities — or lack thereof — of the individual" and "it fails to take into account the various needs of society."

CHEVY'S NEW LITTLE CAR IS OPEN FOR BUSINESS.

Vega is here at last. We'd have brought it out sooner, but you know how it is. We've got a lot riding on this little car and we wanted it to be right, really right, before turning it over to you.

Now we're ready. And you were wise to wait. Because now you can say what we modestly believe is the best little car in the world. If this ad doesn't convince you, the car will.

It does everything well. Everything? Everything. Vega moves well, steers well, rides well, handles well, responds well, powers well, merges well, tracks well, parks well, sits well, wears well, and is priced well under what you'd expect to pay for such a totally talented car.

In our highway tests, Vega has been getting gas mileage in the neighborhood of the little imports, which isn't a bad neighborhood.

Let's roll: your average little car, ours steps right out when you step on the gas.

The engine is really something: a specially designed overhead cam four with a lightweight aluminum alloy block. Besides being highly economical and responsive, it is also extremely durable. It turns slowly and quietly at turpise speeds, with power to spare.

The brakes are something too. Discs are standard in the front, new-type drums in the rear. Together, they really do a job.

Vega holds the road like a much bigger car, even in still crosswinds. Credit its low center of gravity and wide stance.

September 10th is Opening Day. All 4,300 Chevrolet dealers are handling the Vega, so you shouldn't have to go very far to see, drive and price one.

Chevy's new little car is open for business. Look into it.

Numbers speak louder than words. The wheelbase is 97 inches.

Shrimp Normande Recipe

By TOM HOGE
Associated Press Writer

Robert P. Adler, youthful president of the nationally known Biscuits Corporation, generally refers to himself as a "confliques man." But he's on the verge of acquiring a gourmet taste.

Adler always felt that eating was like refueling a car, and the 37-year-old executive, who burns up a good deal of energy putting in a 12-hour work day and golfing or water skiing in his spare time.

"I have to eat to have the energy to work and play, so I eat."

Left to his own devices, Adler would probably settle for a hamburger or steak, but the cook in the dining room of his Milford, Conn. office, and his wife, Sandra, who supervises the kitchen activities at their Orange, Conn. home, have other ideas.

As a result, Adler is being exposed to such delicacies as Roast Duckling Montmorency and Shrimp Normande.

Other influences are also at work. As Adler travels around the United States and Canada, supervising his Biscuits empire, he eats in many restaurants and has begun acquiring a taste for certain specialties, despite his avowal that food means more to him than a form of fuel.

Corn bread is one favorite. Adler seeks out when he is in the South, and California-style chili is another. Not gourmet fare perhaps, but a step in that direction.

Mrs. Adler has been channeling her husband's diet along subtler lines. With wisdom and logic, she chose shrimp for a starter. This delicious crustacean has become a universal favorite, from the great shrimps in the Gulf of Mexico to the tiny half-inch creatures found in the cold waters of Scandinavia.

Shrimps have won such a faithful following in America that in the South where they abound, they are often served with hominy for breakfast.

Shrimps surface under different names according to location. What is a jumbo shrimp in San Francisco Bay, is a prawn in Dublin Bay, and the crustaceans plucked from the Mediterranean are known as scampi or langoustine. But in the final analysis, they are all shrimp.

Shrimps change in color from brownish-red to a grey-green, but turn bright pink when cooked. And cooking is usually a brief process; about five minutes does the trick as a rule, as soon as they acquire the pink hue, they are ready.

Mrs. Adler's version of Shrimp Normande has not only won smiles from the man of the house, it is a great favorite among the guests. Here is her recipe for this delicious dish.

SHRIMP NORMANDE
2 pounds fresh shrimp
1/2 pound butter
1 clove garlic, minced
1 teaspoon dried tarragon
3 teaspoon chopped parsley
1/2 cup bread crumbs
salt and pepper to taste
dry Vermouth, about eight ounces
1 1/2 cups heavy cream
slice of lime
bay leaf
Shell and devein shrimp and cook for four minutes in enough boiling water to cover, with bay leaf, lime slice and 1 teaspoon salt. Blend butter with garlic, tarragon, parsley, seasonings and bread crumbs. Roll shrimp in butter and crumb mixture and then place them in greased baking dish. Pour in enough wine to cover completely. Top with cream and bake about five minutes in a hot oven (475 degree). Serves about four people. Good with a dry white or rose wine.

SATURDAY NIGHT
Make this cheese spread well ahead of serving so flavors blend.

Texas Cheese Spread
Sour Cream Crackers
Bourbon Cake Beverage
SWISS CHEESE SPREAD
1/3rd cup real mayonnaise
1 tablespoon dry vermouth
1/2 teaspoon lemon juice
1/2 teaspoon prepared mustard
Dash of salt, pepper, garlic powder and nutmeg
2 cup (about 8 oz) finely grated Swiss cheese, not packed down
Thoroughly mix together the mayonnaise, vermouth, lemon juice, mustard, salt, pepper, garlic powder and nutmeg. Add cheese and mix well. Cover and chill. Bake about 1 cup, serve as a spread for assorted crackers.

Quick Fish Chowder Delicious

By CECILY BROOKS
Associated Press Food Editor

Cooks take good dishes to restaurants and then come home and try to duplicate them.

That's how this chowder came into being. A friend of mine, restaurant-hopping in Baltimore, found a main-dish chowder that had real staying power and then I tried it in my kitchen.

She used a pantry shelf ingredient, cream of potato soup, as her base, but admitted that the original cook may have made the chowder from scratch. When we tried this Quick Fish Chowder in our test kitchen, we found it was definitely worthwhile.

Serve the chowder with a Maryland favorite, corn sticks. Add a fresh fruit salad as dessert and you'll have lunch or supper made.

QUICK FISH CHOWDER
2 tablespoons butter
1/2 cup finely sliced onion
1/2 cup thinly sliced celery
2 cans (each 1 1/2 oz) condensed cream of potato soup
1 soup can milk
1 soup can water
1 can (7 1/2 oz) tuna, drained and flaked
1 can (8 oz) sliced baby tomatoes, undrained
Pepper to taste

In a medium saucepan over low heat melt the butter; add onion and celery; cook, stirring constantly, until tender. Stir in soup, milk, water and pepper. Heat, stirring occasionally, to serving temperature, do not boil.

Makes 6 generous servings.

CHINESE SUPPER
The fried rice for this good dish comes from the freezer.

Egg Rolls with Mustard
Chow Mein Special Fried Rice
Pineapple Almond Cookies
SPECIAL FRIED RICE
1 package (10 oz) frozen fried rice with chicken or meat
1 tablespoon butter
1 medium green apple, peeled and cored and sliced (1 1/2-2 cups)
1/2 teaspoon curry powder
1/4 cup raisins, rinsed in hot water and drained
1/4 cup coarsely chopped pecans

Prepare cooking pouch of fried rice according to package directions. During last 5 minutes of cooking time for rice, in a 10-inch skillet melt the butter. Add apple; sprinkle with curry powder and mix well. Stir in raisins and pecans. Cook over moderate heat, stirring constantly; apple should soften slightly. Empty contents of cooking pouch into apple mixture and mix well. Serve at once. Makes 4 to 6 servings.

SUNDAY BRUNCH
A delightful homemade preserve.

Poached Eggs and Bacon on Toasted Buttered English Muffins
Ginger Pear Marmalade Beverage
GINGER PEAR MARMALADE
2 pieces (about) fresh ginger root
3 cups water
1 cup light corn syrup
4 cups sugar
2 lemons, thinly sliced (unpeeled and seeds removed)
2 pounds firm and still green Bartlett pears (about 8)

Wash, scrape and coarsely grate ginger root; there should be about 1/2 cup. Into a heavy 4-quart saucepot turn the ginger and water.

Bring to a boil over medium heat; reduce heat, cover and boil gently for 30 minutes. Add corn syrup and 2 cups of the sugar. Cover and continue to boil gently for 30 minutes, adding lemon slices during last few minutes of cooking. While ginger is cooking peel, core and coarsely grate pears - there should be 5 cups or 1 1/2 pounds prepared pears. Add pears and remaining 2 cups sugar to ginger mixture.

Bring to a boil over medium heat; reduce heat and boil gently uncovered for 30 minutes, stirring occasionally. Let stand several hours or overnight.

The hot gently uncovered, stirring occasionally to prevent sticking about 20 to 30 minutes or until syrup is thick and bubbles form over entire surface and break uniformly or to 225 degrees on candy thermometer. If desired, remove lemon slices. Pour into hot sterilized jars, fill and seal as directed by jar manufacturer. Makes six 1/2-pint jars.

Soldiers In Vietnam Are Most Decorated

By JOHN LENGEL
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Medals for soldiers symbolize achievement, build morale, look good on a man's record and tell of heroism.
And soldiers in Vietnam have received more medals than GIs in Korea. In certain areas, soldiers in Southeast Asia have received more medals than were issued to troops in World War II.
There are plenty of reasons for the increase and the service fees the awards are rightly deserved.
"There's no stated policy that awards should be given out more frequently," says Maj. Frederick Vollrath, who watches these things in the army adjutant general's office.
But in the case of the Army's bronze star, the fourth highest medal for heroism, the decoration also can be given for achievement.
A bronze star can be awarded to a rifleman who takes a bunk single-handedly or to a man who moves paper, a bit more easily than the fellow at the next desk. The only distinction in appearance is a tiny "V" on the medal.
Further, in some units, civilian commanders can award a bronze star to everyone in a rifle company. This was standard procedure at one U.S. in the World War II.
As it is, the Army alone has given out in Vietnam 217,470 bronze stars in all, compared with 72,495 in Korea and 283,570 in World War II.
The first and only medal in the Army for several decades was the Purple Heart, created by George Washington. Several times it was given and had to be revoked by special order.
The only medal of the Civil War was the Medal of Honor and there were abuses. When the honor gained stature, thousands of names were purged from early lists.
The third highest gallantry award, behind the Medal of Honor and the distinguished service cross, was the silver star. It began going to men "mentioned in dispatches" in World War I. The rest of the Army's 10 decorations followed soon after.
A Vietnam veteran, Marine Brigadier General Herbert Beckington, accounts for the hike in leatherneck awards by pointing out the Vietnam conflict has been a long and often bloody war.
More men have fought in it and there is more to do day to day fighting, he said.
A distinction in the figures comes in one category, the Air Medal. It was given out less frequently when helicopters weren't around. But in Vietnam everyone rides in helicopters and for the Marines alone this has accounted for 30 percent of the decorations.
Here's some comparative award categories for the Army: Medal of Honor, 283 in World War II, 78 in Korea, 78 in Vietnam; Distinguished Service Cross, 23,651 in World War II, 1,100 in Korea, 1,100 in Vietnam; Air Medal, 11 million in World War II (when the Air Force was in the Army), 8,504 in Korea, and 647,334 in Vietnam.

Snipers Aim At Police Chief

By LOUIS CASSELL
UPI Senior Editor
WASHINGTON (UPI) — Police Chief Roy Burke of Cairo, Ill., says snipers have fired at his car on six occasions this year and that finally, "it had so many holes in it I had to get a new one."
Cairo is a Southern Illinois town with a history of racial disturbances, but Chief Burke's troubles are not isolated. A wave of attacks on police and bombings of public facilities have swept cities from east to coast this year, and authorities are alarmed.
"We can be found to deal with this problem, but first the public has got to realize that the situation is getting quite serious," a high law enforcement official told UPI.
"These attacks are not directed just at the police and the military forces; they are aimed ultimately at disrupting the whole fabric of our society. Too many law-abiding citizens have tended in the past to take a tolerant or complacent view. To justify these attacks as expressions of rage provoked by racial discrimination or an unpopular war. But they are not that."
"They are deliberate acts of premeditated violence, and people had damn well better wake up to that fact."
Official sources estimate that more than 1,000 policemen have been shot, stabbed or wounded deliberately this year in attacks attributed mostly to radical Negro organizations, such as the Black Panthers.
The Weatherman faction of the Students For a Democratic Society and other young white revolutionaries are believed responsible for many of the upwards of 2,000 bombings this year, particularly those aimed at police stations, draft board offices, college facilities used by the armed forces and other symbolic public buildings.
A UPI survey of cities across the country showed that 16 policemen have been killed in improved attacks so far in 1970—twice as many as in 1969 and four times the number recorded the year before that.
A high federal official said there is no evidence the attacks are part of a single nationwide conspiracy. Rather, they seem to be carried out independently and without coordination by various groups committed to revolutionary violence.
Unlike the urban riots of the 1960s, guerrilla warfare in the cities shows no promise of slackening with cooler weather. Police note that only a few determined individuals can carry out a guerrilla attack, in any kind of weather.

Orlandoans Held On Check Charge

Sanford police are holding four men from Orlando in connection with a breaking and entering at Gainesville in which money orders were stolen from a Western Union office.
Ronald Larry Willis, 27; Jesse Neal Williams, 32; Curtis Lee Niblack, 24, and Herbert Carroll, 33, were lodged in the city jail last night after Willis allegedly passed one of the money orders at a Sanford convenience store.
Lt. Charles Fagan followed the man back to his three comrades after a $95 money order was cashed at the Seven-Eleven Store at 12th Street and Park Avenue, and arrested the quartet. The four are expected to be released to the Gainesville authorities unless a local charge is brought.
County Deputy William Robbins yesterday investigated the reported incident of a 19-year-old boy being molested by an adult on his way to school.
The incident occurred at Fern Park. Fred Kelley, county juvenile officer, is probing the incident.

AROUND THE CLOCK
By JOHN A. SPOLSKI
Didn't mean to infringe on sports, BUT... surely they've got to be putting us out!
I mean, Clay and his proposed fight in Georgia, with what's-his-name...
There's only one thing I can say... (and come to think of it, a family "vaporizer" wouldn't dare print it, anyhow.)
Come on, let's swamp our elected officials and let our thoughts be known on the matter. Nothing works like a quick telegram, I assure you.
My views... this man has done more to create chaos within this country and has flouted the laws of the land more than any other individual.
Until he takes "that step forward" and don't the hand or else serves his time in the clink, then he should be barred from entering any ring to make big bucks out of us (not to mention the many green backs he'd pocket from an appearance.)
How long has it been now? Three, four, five years that he's been fighting the induction?
And how many have died during that time, while fighting in that "hell-hole" called Nam... just to protect the constitutional rights of people like Clay?
Is it really any wonder that some of the younger generation do everything in their power just to escape the draft?
We hear so much talk about "equal rights"... which is supposed to work both ways, to my way of thinking... but, how about the "rights" of those who didn't want to go into the service but did... how about their rights when you have a national figure such as Clay roaming the streets while they dodge bullets?
For what's the worth... they're all unmarked down in Oviedo. Understand that this is due to the regular police patrol car being out with mechanical trouble, requiring the men in blue to use their own private vehicles. Drive with care... as you should anywhere...
Usually reliable sources indicate that a new Sanford shopping center will break ground soon so a Feb. 17, 1971 completion date can be realized. Promoters have reportedly signed up Fairway Markets and Eagle Army-Navy Stores for a location across from A-Mart.

Re zoning Request Is Denied

By CHARNER LEONE
A request for rezoning which would permit the building of an industrial park at the intersection of SR 46 and Interstate 4, just west of Sanford was denied Wednesday night at the regular meeting of the Seminole County Planning and Zoning Commission.
A request by J. W. Hickman for a change in zoning at the intersection of C-3 Commercial to M-1 General Industrial was turned down by the Board. "We recommend that the category of M-1A be substituted in the request," said David Parr, County Planner. The M-1A is for lighter industrial development than is the M-1 classification.
"This is one of the main alternatives to Sanford," explained Parr. "Very heavy industrial development would not be attractive."
A request for a change in zoning from A-1 agricultural to R-1A and R-1AA residential to R-2 duplex by David Meadows was also denied. The five acres of land is located in Fern Park on the South Side of Spartan Road.
Greater Construction Company made a request for a change in zoning from A-1 agricultural to R-1AA residential which was approved. The land is located on Longwood-Markham Road at the 14 overpass.
Zoning which will allow the construction of a tourist court complex of duplexes was also approved. Dynamic Development man John Alexander questioned whether a septic tank permit was issued. Mrs. Stanton said that she had obtained a permit two years ago, and assumed that it was still effective.
Harris said that he had issued a letter of protest to the Board of Adjustment, which was possibly the reason for the matter being considered. Harris continued that Mrs. Stanton moved into her trailer without his knowledge, and that he had no indication that anyone was applying for a permit. Harris elucidated that there was nothing personal in his objection; that he simply did not want a trailer park area. Commissioner Robert Parker queried whether Harris objected to a trailer park or district, to which Harris replied, "No, but this area is zoned agriculture and is not trailer zones."
40 YEARS
Mrs. Robert Thomas told the board that she had lived in the area for 40 years, and that her husband knew when he purchased his property that it was surrounded by "working class people." She noted that no one else in the area objected to trailers, and suggested that if Harris didn't like living by the working class that he move.
Alexander took umbrage at this statement and said that Harris was also entitled to consider the zoning was agricultural, that zoning was to protect all interests. He continued the matter was tabled at a work session Monday night. Drumm reported that he had been verbalized for posting it. It is

Trailer Resident Wins Parking Permit Appeal

By MARION BETHEA
Mrs. Patricia Stanton has been victorious in her appeal against a decision of the Board of Adjustment denying a trailer parking permit in lots 42 and 43 in the town of Sylvan Lake. The appeal was heard last week at the last week's meeting of County Commissioners.
Mrs. Stanton told the County Commission that she had been erroneously described, and was actually located on the first street in Paola.
Hal Harris, a resident of the area, objected to the trailer of Mrs. Stanton with the statement that "there is no basis to grant a trailer to park in this area... this will create an area of trailers."
It was ascertained that the trailer was parked without a permit, and Commission Chairman John Alexander questioned whether a septic tank permit was issued. Mrs. Stanton said that she had obtained a permit two years ago, and assumed that it was still effective.
Harris said that he had issued a letter of protest to the Board of Adjustment, which was possibly the reason for the matter being considered. ## Mayor-Police Chief Conflict Breaks Anew

By KATHY NIBLACK
What may turn out to be a new conflict between Mayor Curtis Blow and Police Chief Donald Brumley was brought out during discussion of a new City Service ordinance at a City Council work session last night.
A difficulty arose over a particular section of the new ordinance, which granted Civil Service privileges to all "appointed" employees of the city. Council Chairman Tom Napier pointed out that under this ordinance, Chief Brumley would not be covered by the ordinance, since he is a holdover employee, a "person not appointed at a regular term."
Mayor Blow contested the addition of "holdovers" to the ordinance, claiming that such an addition is "against the city charter, and illegal."
After lengthy discussion, Councilman Dick Wynn suggested that the council add the words "holdover" and pass the ordinance as it is, letting the mayor take further action if he wishes.
The ordinance is now on the agenda for the public council meeting Monday night. Drumm reported that he had been verbalized for posting it. It is

Port Approves Lease For Steel Firm

By BILL SCOTT
Seminole County Port Authority (SCOPE) at last night's special meeting approved by a four-two vote a lease with Port Everglades Steel Company (PESCO) which will bring the steel hauler to the barge port as the first user of the just-completed facility.
Voting against lease approval were M. L. Raborn Jr. and James Wagner.
Voting for the lease were Harold Soder, chairman, George Harden, Edward Yarbrough and Bernard Yagerman. A written proxy vote from Henry Schumacher, absent member, indicating his approval was cast by Kestner, but according to the rules of order was not allowed.
As a matter of fact, since Yagerman was late in arriving, the vote was a probable legal tie for W. C. Hutcheson, SCOPE attorney, to solve, since according to the legislative act creating the port there must be four affirmative votes cast in favor of motions brought before the board.
BALLOT WAS 3-2
Before Yagerman arrived the ballot was three-two for lease approval with Raborn and Wagner against the proposal.
Before voting Raborn indicated he was not satisfied with the 10 cents a ton wharfage figure in the contract. He stated SCOPE was only leasing land and providing PESCO a building which would not pay out in a five-year period. He said approval would have to be ratified after PESCO signs and it is returned.
Yagerman arrived at that moment and closed out any possible legal questions by voting to approve the lease, making the four positive votes in accord with the legislative act.
SCOPE will now be faced with acquiring enough funds to construct a storage building to PESCO's specifications and the firm will pay 10 cents a ton wharfage for all tonnage over the first 25,000 tons, in addition to rental fee for the property under lease.
PESCO is a "blue chip" firm and its presence at the port would induce others to follow and help the Central Florida area.
NEEDS 4 VOTES
Wagner, holding a copy of the port act, said approval took the form of a resolution and requested a roll call of the members. He stated that he was not satisfied with the 10 cents a ton wharfage figure in the contract. Wagner, holding a copy of the port act, said approval took the form of a resolution and requested a roll call of the members. He stated that he was not satisfied with the 10 cents a ton wharfage figure in the contract. He stated SCOPE was only leasing land and providing PESCO a building which would not pay out in a five-year period. He said approval would have to be ratified after PESCO signs and it is returned.
Yagerman arrived at that moment and closed out any possible legal questions by voting to approve the lease, making the four positive votes in accord with the legislative act.
SCOPE will now be faced with acquiring enough funds to construct a storage building to PESCO's specifications and the firm will pay 10 cents a ton wharfage for all tonnage over the first 25,000 tons, in addition to rental fee for the property under lease.
PESCO is a "blue chip" firm and its presence at the port would induce others to follow and help the Central Florida area.
