Williams Denies New Trial For Lowdermilk

Circuit Judge Volie A. Williams has denied a new trial to C. R. Lowdermilk of Altamonte Springs who was convicted last December on five counts in an alleged citrus swindle at the Hi-Acres concentration plant.

The case involved a Florida Department of Agriculture employee, Allan Tyndall Hall of Orlando, who turned state's evidence and testified against the defendant.

Lowdermilk's two attorneys, Ed Kirkland and Martin Segal, both of Orlando, filed an extensive 17-count brief specifying grounds in support of the motion for a new trial. All were denied by Judge Williams.

In conclusions presented with the decision against granting a new trial, Judge Williams listed 12 different opinions.

During the trial Hall confessed that he and Lowdermilk had an arrangement in which Hall jugged pounds of solids reports on Lowdermilk fruit going into the Hi-Acres plant to reflect a higher pounds of solids price than the fruit was worth.

Neither Hall nor Lowdermilk have appeared for sentencing. Following his guilty plea, Hall has been free until pre-sentence investigation and Lowdermilk pending the outcome of the new trial motion.

Bible Proposal Seen As Threat To Guarantees

WASHINGTON (UPI) — More than 200 constitutional lawyers charged today that proposals to override the Supreme Court decisions against Bible-reading and prayers in public schools could set a precedent endangering all the liberties guaranteed in the Constitution.

The lawyers, including dozens of 55 law schools, filed a statement with the House Judiciary Committee urging Congress to reject any proposals for a constitutional amendment to reverse the court's rulings.

"A grave responsibility rests upon Congress in facing this first experiment on our liberties," the statement said. "Whatever disagreements some may have with the Bible prayer decisions, we believe strongly that they do not justify this experiment."

The committee has ended public hearings on a variety of proposals to permit prayers in the schools. It has not yet given any indication on when it might take further action on the proposals.

In memorial tribute to the late Rear Admiral Paul Johnson, a staunch supporter of the academy, the midshipman who displayed through the year those officer-like qualities of Admiral Johnson was awarded a trophy bearing that title. The midshipman receiving it was Lt. Jerry Sargent of Chuluota.

Teen Pockets Jingle

It may not be surprising to anyone, especially parents, to learn that teen-agers' pocket money has increased almost 300 per cent since 1945. But the exact figure it amounts to should lift anybody's eyebrows.

According to the National Education Association, the nation's 22½ million teen-agers — 12 per cent of the population—spent $11 billion in 1963.

By 1970, the annual spending of teenagers will reach nearly $21 billion.

Currently, the national average of this group is $489 a year, or about $9.40 a week. More than half of them (usually boys) earn their own money; the rest receive it as an allowance, regular or irregular.

Despite the great amounts of money American teen-agers control, says the Education Association, "little tangible effort has been made to guide them toward mature practices in handling money."

Most of their spending goes for food, recreation, clothes, cosmetics and grooming aids.

Contributing but little to this "average of affluence," however, are many youths who live in poverty. They are the potential dropouts who contemplate quitting school to help support their families or themselves.

"They cannot comprehend," says the Education Association, "the world of abundance so many of the middle and upper-class youngsters take for granted."

Tops In Prestige

Despite all the criticism the U.S. Supreme Court brings down upon itself because of its decisions, a job on the high bench still ranks first in prestige over at least 90 other professions.

A study by the National Opinion Research Center reveals that 77 per cent of people questioned considered Supreme Court justice an excellent job; 18 per cent ranked it as good.

It has slipped in its rating, however, during the past 15 years. In a similar survey made in 1947, 83 per cent ranked it as the best, 15 per cent as good.

Greatest gain was made by nuclear physicists, who jumped from 18th place in 1947 to 3rd place in 1963. Physicians placed second in both years.

The profession which dropped the most in prestige was that of banker

—from 10th to 24th. (The poll takers ventured no explanation for this.)

A different survey, based not on prestige but on salary, offers an interesting comparison.

Conducted by the National Education Association, it found that schoolteachers, while making faster salary gains than any other group over the past decade, still ranked far down on the list—15th out of a group of 18.

They barely edged out librarians, clergymen and dietitians.

Public schoolteachers will earn a national average of $5,963 this year, a rise of $231 over 1962-63.

Nevertheless, college graduates going into teaching, says the NEA, can expect to receive a startling wage ($4,700) that is at least $1,000 less than that for any other profession.

Viet Nam Policy

The Pentagon's explanation about the use of obsolete equipment, particularly airplanes, in the Viet Nam war tells part of the story.

On the surface, it seems sensible that slower-moving, lighter-armed planes would be best suited for the catch-as-catch-can jungle fighting against the elusive Communist Viet Cong guerrillas.

It is a curious fact, however, that the use of outmoded planes and other weapons is in keeping with the 1954 Geneva agreements ending the war between the French and Indochina. These agreements outlawed modern weapons, such as jet planes and guns heavier than 50 caliber, in the area.

The United States, while not a partner to the agreements, has been adhering to them. It seems at first sight a happy coincidence that the best strategy in Viet Nam is served by this mutual self-restraint on weapons.

But the strategy is political as well as military. It is to keep the war from escalating into something worse while we attempt to build a viable democratic nation in South Viet Nam.

Both sides seem to be staying just shy of a decisive victory. Victory, apparently, would bring even more serious problems than those we have now.

Washington seems reluctant to explain this to the American people.

The announced replacement of the aged B-26 and T-28 airplanes by the hotter, faster A-1E Skyraider is being handled as if it marked the beginning of an all-out effort to smash the Viet Cong once and for all.

It is, but only in the sense of a prizefighter donning a new pair of 16-ounce "pillow" gloves to fight his similarly outfitted opponent.

Defense Secretary McNamara has returned from another quick look-see at Viet Nam. For once he didn't talk about victory, either imminent or ultimate.

"This is going to be a long war," he said. "I don't think we should delude ourselves into thinking anything other than that."

Indeed, we shouldn't. And it is to be hoped that this statement signals a new policy.

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Republicans who know what they are talking about fear that this may be one of the worst money-raising years in the party's history.

In the view of one who has rustled funds for a long string of campaigns, there is one overriding reason:

Many Republican "fat cats" simply are not willing to bet their bankrolls that President Lyndon B. Johnson can be beaten in November. And some, whatever their public stance, are not particularly eager to see him defeated. He is the most "comfortable" Democrat they have had around in a long time.

Party fund-raising veterans think they already observe signs of a severe 1964 dollar drought. They believe that by midsummer the full weight of the problem will be upon them.

Sen. Barry Goldwater has had money difficulties in his campaign for the nomination, but some party men have sought to explain this on the ground that some contributors do not want to kick in twice in the same year. Others say the senator's troubles are symptomatic of the general prospect.

If, as expected, Johnson declines to meet the 1964 GOP presidential nominee in a series of televised debates, Republican financial matters could take an even grimmer turn. The party's choice would lose a large amount of free television time coast to coast. And he may be needing all the exposure he can get.

Those who are worrying over the prospective money crisis doubt that it can be exaggerated. They believe everybody in the party should be fretting over it.

Generally, it can be said that the warriors are not in the camp of New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller. But most feel that the wealthy governor is the man who, as nominee, could see it that the 1964 campaign bills will be paid.

The judgment is that fund-raising would be hardest if the GOP nominee is either Goldwater or Richard Nixon, usually rated the most likely compromise choice.

One of the ironies in this situation is that in a number of key states men who HAVE contributed to Goldwater's nomination fight may apply maximum pressure on delegates to put Barry over quickly at San Francisco. One midwestern leader guesses that in his state such pressure might be worth 20 first ballot votes to Goldwater.

ter. Says he: "If the money men are tough enough, they could get those added votes. But I know these delegates. If left to their own devices, they won't go that way."

In at least two nearby states the story is similar. The party power setup differs, but the pro-Goldwater contributors nevertheless hold a commanding place.

More than a few of these, mindful of their stake in the senator, exhibited considerable anger when asked about his recent defeat in the Oregon primary at Rockefeller's hands.

It is conceivable, then, that money may talk strongly in the final delegate push for Barry at or before the convention.

But, again, what haunts some experienced Republicans today is the prospect that when the real election show begins the crackle of troop currency will be heard all too little on the GOP side of the line.

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — This has been a great time for American agriculture, folks. Wonders abound.

At their experiment laboratories in Beltsville, Md., scientists of the U. S. Agricultural Research Service are studying a cow in a sealed plastic chamber. Her name is Lorna.

That Lorna is some kind of cow. A Holstein, as a matter of fact. She has amazed everyone by giving back more calories in milk than she consumes in feed. Which is mighty generous giving.

If Lorna could continue her present pace, she would be the next best thing to a "Smoo," the comic strip creation of a few years back. Something like Lorna could be the answer to the world's food problem.

What efficiency! It would be tantamount to getting 20 pounds of pork chops from a 200-pound pig.

But, also, there is a trick to what she has been doing. Lorna has been getting the extra calories from stored body fat and replacing it with water.

The scientists say she cannot keep up her remarkable production for very long without wearing herself out. Thanks anyway, Lorna. Thanks for letting us glimpse for a brief shining moment the embodiment of man's old dream of getting back more than he puts in.

Even though Lorna was too good to be true, we need not despair. Other promising things are happening. For one thing, Agriculture Department entomologists are investigating the use of amplified sound as a possible insect repellent.

One of them got the idea for the experiment when he noticed that amplified sound waves seemed to keep flies and mosquitoes away from his backyard patio.

I've noticed the same thing on my own patio. My teenage daughter occasionally takes her portable radio out there, tunes in her favorite disc jockey and turns the volume control until all systems are go.

This not only keeps flies and mosquitoes away from the patio. It keeps me away as well.

In their experiments, the department entomologists are using more humane methods. They released some Indian meal moths in a chamber where two radio loudspeakers emitted only a continuous low hum.

Even so, the sound waves apparently had a deleterious effect on the moths. Many of their eggs failed to hatch, nearly half of the young moths that did hatch died the first day, and those that survived had retarded development.

It is easy to see that amplified sound has tremendous potentialities. If they had exposed the moths to my daughter's favorite disc jockey, he would have wiped out the entire lot overnight.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Lola's case should be discussed in every high school for she is like millions of other teenagers, both girls and boys. Train yourself to be sexual opposites and don't make a mountain of a minor physical defect. A jolly personality and the use of compliments can offset Lola's trouble, even without use of the electric needle.

CASE S-485: Lola G., aged 17, is a high school senior. "Dr. Crane," she spoke dejectedly, "I am becoming an introvert."

"For you can notice my problem if you just look at my upper lip."

"Why, people think I am growing a mustache! Isn't that horrible?"

"How can I ever win a boy friend and get married? Oh, I am so unhappy that I feel like taking an overdose of sleeping pills!"

Then she nervously shook out a cigaret and started snorting smoke through both nostrils like an old coal locomotive!

Male Symbols Actually, Lola's fuzzy upper lip was not nearly as evident as she imagined.

For people who have even a very tiny flaw are often so conscious thereof that it looms unduly large to them.

They are thus inclined to make mountains out of molehills.

Millions of women have a little fuss on their upper lip, yet they are jolly personalities who win boy friends galore and marry happily.

Yet other girls are so excessively conscious of hair on their lips or on their legs, that they become unduly introverted.

Such hair is often regarded as vaguely masculine but not nearly as much so as a cigaret in a girl's mouth, or a liquor glass in her hand!

Vulgarity, profanity or even excessive slang are much more masculinizing influences than a little superfluous hair.

The "image" of an attractive girl that most men hold in their mind is a distinctly feminine personality.

They want her to be 100 per cent feminine and not contaminate herself with 25 per cent masculine traits or fashions or even 10 per cent.

"Opposites attract," runs an old adage that is just as true today as 100 years ago. And by "opposites" we refer not to differences in religion or education, ideals, etc., but to physical or sexual "opposites."

Many a husband has reported to me that he has become platonically with reference to his wife because of her boyish haircut, her smoking and her adoption of other male traits.

"Dr. Crane," is their typical report, "when I wake up and see her lying on the pillow beside me, she looks like a teenage boy."

"So I feel a vague homosexual revulsion. That's why I find it increasingly difficult to grow romantic about her."

If you girls wish more vividly to understand this reaction, would you feel very romantic about a male who dressed in feminine lingerie, used women's rouge and lipstick, and minced along on high heels?

Obviously, you would NOT! Then why do you girls act like sheep and meekly follow the silly fashions and fads that reduce your own feminine charm?

You employ silks and perfumes to attract a boy friend; then you unwittingly rebuff him by your cigars and coarse talk!

If you do have any physical blemish that a doctor will admit needs correcting, then remedy it, too.

If surplus hair is really a problem, the electric needle can often remove such hair permanently.

Plastic and dental surgeons can often perform other medical miracles, too.

But a jolly personality can offset most of your minor defects! "Psychology and Medicine of the Face," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long stamped, addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Nuclear Ship Savannah On Maiden Trip

NEW YORK (UPI) — The U.S. Savannah, the first U.S. nuclear powered passenger-cargo vessel, sails today on her maiden voyage to Europe, eager to prove the atom the maritime fuel of the future just as her namesake demonstrated 145 years ago that steam marked the end of the sailing era.

The atomic pioneer, built by the U.S. government at an estimated cost of $53 million, is expected to complete its first transatlantic crossing in 10 days with its first port of call Bremerhaven, Germany. Aboard the flag decorated vessel are 33 paying passengers and 250 tons of cargo.

After five days in Bremerhaven, the ship will sail to Hamburg, Dublin, and Southampton before returning to New York July 21. Two more European cruises are planned this year to give the gleaming white rakish vessel as much public exposure as possible.

The Savannah, a joint project of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Maritime Administration, already has called at ports on the U.S. Pacific, Gulf and Atlantic coasts. More than 105,000 persons have inspected its large cabins, broad decks and the science-fiction-like operations room where engineers control the nuclear reactor.

The U. S. post office at Pense, Minn., was the northernmost in the United States before Alaska's admission to the Union.

HANK PYLE, proprietor of Lake Monroe Inn, went deep sea fishing the other day and came up with this 20-pound red snapper. The trophy was on display at the restaurant for a few days then prepared and served to friends dropping into the establishment. (Herald Photo)

Village To Have Summer Series In Recreation

By Doris Dean

A summer recreation program to run from June 23 to Aug. 13 for North Orlando youngsters has been announced by Mrs. Mona Grinstead, health, welfare and recreation commissioner.

The recreation area will be open on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday of each week between the hours of 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. with at least one adult supervisor on the premises at all times. Teenagers will be asked to volunteer as assistants and to help with supervision of the playground. One night each week will be devoted strictly to a planned program for the teenage group.

Daytime activities for the younger children will include volleyball, softball, horseshoes, badminton and table tennis along with quiet indoor games. A story hour will be conducted once each week for the four to six year olds.

Parents will be asked to attend with preschool age children and all children will be required to follow rules which will be posted on the civic building. Adult and teenage volunteers are needed as are donations of play equipment and games. Any person who can assist or make a donation to aid the program is asked to contact Mrs. Grinstead.

Warren Makes On Scene Study

DALLAS (UPI) — The chief justice of the United States set out in an assassin's footsteps Sunday, then talked for more than three hours with Jack Ruby, the presumed assassin's killer.

Chief Justice Earl Warren visited the Texas Schoolbook Depository. It was reported he aimed a rifle from the sixth floor death window toward the spot in the street outside where two shots struck President John Kennedy.

Then he interviewed Ruby in the county jail across the street. Ruby was reported "wild eyed and staring" during the meeting.

Warren, head of the commission investigating the President's death, flew to Dallas from Washington. He spent about two hours in the schoolbook depository, from where the fatal shots were fired.

Then he and his aides met with Ruby in a small conference room only steps away from the sixth-floor cell where the baldish, 64-year-old former striptease club operator is being held during his legal fight to escape the electric chair.

Afterward, Warren made brief stops at the apartment house where Ruby lived; at the rooming house where Oswald had been living and at the Texas Theater, a movie house where Oswald was captured. He did not go in any of the places.

What Warren and the commission learned in the long meeting with Ruby was not revealed. J. Lee Rankin, chief counsel for the commission investigating the assassination, said only that the group "took the testimony of Jack Ruby." Warren, who left the jail with a big smile on his face, declined to comment.

Old River Port May Lose 'Father Of Waters'

NEW MADRID, Mo. (UPI) — Stubborn Missourians in this old Spanish riverport, forced to move from banks carved in by the Mississippi River four times in the town's 180-year history, may have their river taken away from them.

The 3,000-plus residents of the farm-trade community don't like the idea.

The town sits on a reverse S-shaped curve formed long ago when the river went on a bender and cut northward to form a 40-mile loop in its meandering channel.

The U. S. Army Corps of Engineers is considering a proposal to construct a new channel through the narrow neck of the bend that would leave New Madrid off the main river channel.

Engineers are in the final stages of study before making a decision. A hydraulic model of the proposed cut-off was demonstrated last week in Vicksburg, Miss., depicting possible effects of the new channel.

Memphis District Engineer Col. Edmund Kirby-Smith is the man facing the Sept. 1 deadline for a decision. Key factor in Kirby-Smith's recommendation appears to be whether expected benefits exceed expected costs.

New Madrid, named after the Spanish capital by its builder around 1783, objects to the proposal because the town would be removed from the main stream of the river.

Residents fear this would leave the town in the same shape as early Western boom towns that were by-passed by the railroad.

Before the levee system was initiated in 1914, buildings along the river front were built on rollers so they could be moved back when large chunks of the bank caved in the swirling waters. The first New Madrid was washed away and its remains are now on the Kentucky side of the river.

In the steamboat days, travelers would disembark at the neck of the bend and spend the night on the peninsula while the boat made the trip around New Madrid bend. The next morning the passengers crossed the strip of land and re-boarded the steamboat.

Sales of life insurance in Florida by the Prudential Insurance Co. of America amounted to $319.5 million in 1963, an increase of 26 per cent over the previous year.

Thinking Out Loud

By Julia Stetson

The Campbell-Losing Post 53 American Legion baseballers got into the swing of things this past weekend with two games in Ocala on Friday night and another at Memorial Stadium here on Saturday. And they look good!

The Seminoles had a chance to look at some of the best pitching they will see when Gilson faced them in Ocala. The big buzz-bull boy sent 14 of our lads back to the bench after having had a look at his stuff.

One fine thing about Manager Frank Thomas and his assistants, E. B. Kuykendall and Glenn Price, they try to give each boy a chance to get in the game. And everybody played Friday. This was good, both for the team and for the managers.

Last year Red Jensen worked the initial sack. But this year Thomas is taking advantage of his good glove work and his experience and has moved Red to the hot corner. And the big hustler is doing a bang-up job. Red's fine play and his heads-up thinking makes him a logical "take-charge-guy" and this keeps everyone on his toes. He has some work to do on his batting stance to make his timing and bat's position a little more positive—but he's working at it—and so are the managers.

Jim Courier indicated that even when he is not pitching, he is going to be a tough man to keep on the bench. He can "pound that apple," and as the oldtimer says "them hits is needed."

Local support of the fans will keep these youngsters doing their best. They'd like to play in the Little World series in Little Rock and the size of the gallery at the games will have much to do with whether or not they make it. Their schedule was in Friday's edition of The Herald. Clip it out and put it on your mirror. There are some windows cards, too, to help focus attention on the playing dates.

Legion Divides Twin Bill At Ocala; Whips Orlando

Don Smith Just Misses No-Hit Performance

The local American Legion team divided a twin bill in Ocala Friday night. The Sanfordites won the first set-to, 5-1, and the Ocala Legion nine came back on top in the nightcap, 5-0. Both tussles featured some excellent pitching performances.

Don Smith looked like a mid-season chunker in the opener, allowing only one scratch hit. He issued two passes, but struck out 10 Ocalans. The home club's run was unearned and came about on a walk, fielder's choice and an error.

Jimmy Courier was wielding wicked wood in this contest and had a double and a single to his credit, accounting for half the Seminoles safeties.

After the rest period the visitors faced a huge speedball thrower, Gilson, with a "savvy" for mixing up his tosses. He not only had the Sanford lads mystified, but proved that he was no slouch at the plate. He struck out 14, didn't four-ball a single batter, and allowed only one hit. His double and triple were shining lights in leading the way to the 5 to 0 win.

Ricky Sires, in opposing Gilson, performed like a veteran. He allowed the two hits to the opposing moundman and two singles to Wilson, the battery-mate of the big boy. The Sanford nine made three miscues in the opening inning of the game, an out-field bobble, a passed ball and an overthrow at first, but having gotten these out of their systems, the invaders settled down to the fine ball that made the evening a treat for the gallery.

Manager Frank Thomas said that the coaches played all the boys in uniform, giving them a chance to show what they could do under actual playing conditions and affording the mentors an opportunity to make some "on the field" comparisons.

Giants Hike Margin; White Sox Lead AL

The Phils, who led 3-0 until the ninth, weren't quite finished. They put runners on first and third in the bottom of the 10th with two out. Johnny Herrstein slashed a wicked shot to the right of first base. Cepeda desperately flung himself at the ball.

The San Francisco first baseman, lying on the ground when he stopped the ball, knew he couldn't get to his feet in time to beat the streaking Herrstein to the bag.

So Cepeda dove headfirst toward the bag, gulping nearly half an acre of real estate en route. But he figured it was worth it because there was umpire Ed Varzo with his thumb in the air. That play officially nulled down the Giants' third straight victory over the Phillies and increased their National League lead to 1 1/2 games.

Elsewhere in the NL, Houston beat Pittsburgh, 6-5, but dropped the nightcap, 6-1; Cincinnati outlasted St. Louis, 11-0; Chicago defeated Milwaukee, 5-2, and Los Angeles downed New York, 6-1, in the first of two while the second game was washed out by rain after five innings with the score tied 1-1.

The Chicago White Sox regained the American League lead by sweeping the Detroit Tigers, 8-3 and 2-1; Cleveland beat Washington, 3-2, in their 15-inning opener but lost the nightcap, 9-3; Minnesota lumped Baltimore, 5-2, and Kansas City beat Boston, 8-6, in the second game after losing the first one, 9-5.

Navy Wins Little American Crown

Andy Rufus went to the hill Friday afternoon and turned in a fine two-hit performance as he and his mates downed Perfection Dairies, 7 to 5, to win the City Recreation Department's Little American League championship.

The Sailors anchored the title with still three weeks of play remaining. The victory, the Navy's 13th in a row, and 16th of the season, put the Sailors on a "stand by" alert for the winner in the Little National League and a chance to win the city crown.

Scott Harris hit his second homer of the year for the winner in their effort. Perfection turned in two fine double plays.

Over in the National, Standard Oil came from behind to score six runs in the last frame to knot the score at 7-all in its encounter with First Federal and carry the contest into extra innings.

However, the Savingsmen came storming back with four markers in the top of the seventh and wrapped it up.

The Ollers, still seeking victory number one in this season's campaign, fell short when they rallied but got only three runs. The final score was 11 to 10 in favor of First Federal in a hard fought contest.

Gary Spotts hit the first home run of the season for the First Federal nine. He also had a pair of singles and a double plus four runs batted in to cop plate honors.

Dave Wiggins had a double and two singles. Al Grooms paced the victors with a two-bagger and a single.

Courier Blanks Invaders As He Whiffs Fifteen

The Campbell-Losing Post 53 American Legion baseball team opened their home season Saturday night at Memorial Stadium by swamping the invading Orlando Post 242 to the tune of 6-0.

With a big fifth inning that tallied five runs and the effective pitching of Jimmy Courier that kept the visitors local created quite a stir with the fans by their hustling "go-go" style of play.

Courier not only had a good night on the mound, but continued his fine timing with the bat. The crafty Orlando athlete allowed only three scattered hits, struck out 15 and walked two. He had two hits for three times at bat.

John (Red) Jansen is getting his stance at the plate on a more satisfactory basis and also had two for three.

The final tally might have been even greater but for three fine plays at the plate by the Orlandoans that nipped potential scorers.

Line score:
Orlando 242 0 3 3
Sanford 53 6 8 0

The first District Six game of the season will be played at Memorial Stadium at 7:30 p. m. on Wednesday, June 10. The opponent will be Eustis' Legion entry.

First U. S. team to join the National Hockey League was the Boston Bruins, in 1924.

Ann Ridenour and Diane Gaydick. The club was lighted only by dozens of candles and the floor was covered with pillows.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Is there something wrong with me? Whenever I take a trip on a bus or train, I get into very intimate conversations with the person sitting next to me. I don't know why, but before I know it, I am telling this person my life's history. I've told complete strangers things about myself that I'd never think of revealing to anyone I know. If I ever ran into any of these people again I would die of shame, but I can't seem to help myself once I get going. I am not a child, I am a grown woman who has seen 33 summers. Please don't use my name.

TALKS TOO MUCH
DEAR TALKS: Some people who "talk too much" are reacting to a deeply rooted psychological problem. If you're lucky, it won't hurt you (although it may bore others). Meanwhile, try counting to ten before you start, then talk about something besides a yourself. You MAY not be that interesting.

DEAR ABBY: I live in a very small town where everybody knows everybody else's business. After I graduate from high school it is only natural for people to wonder why I don't look for a job. The trouble is I can't work because I am five months pregnant, and I have to get out of this town as soon as possible. I am being pressured from all sides to go look for a job. I have only enough money for a bus ticket to a place not more than 200 miles from here. Is there a home for unwed mothers that will take me in? Please put your answer in this paper.

MARION (not my real name)
DEAR MARION: Send me your real name and address at once and I will send you the information you need immediately.

DEAR ABBY: My son was asked to be an usher at his friend's wedding. He will have to rent a tuxedo for the wedding. Who is supposed to pay for it?
MRS. D.

DEAR MRS. D.: Either you or your son, depending on his resources. But in any case—not the friend who is being married.

DEAR ABBY: The letter from Wrestler's Wife has prompted me to write. Soon after we were married my husband's brother would snap his fingers on my bare arm, above me, and otherwise horse around. I didn't want to make an issue of it, and my husband didn't say anything, so I let it go. Sixteen years ago, at a family reunion, this brother rushed across the room, grabbed both my feet and pulled me off the davenport. I hit the floor like a melon. My teenage children were present and so were his. The laughter ceased when I couldn't get up. When it was ascertained that I had broken the end of my spine, my brother-in-law felt terrible. Since then I have spent weeks in the hospital, months having therapy and years in a heavy body brace. I might have been spared all this if either my husband or I had made it clear from the start that I did not want to be touched.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

A motorist stopped his car to ask a Vermont farmer, "How far is it to Brattleboro?"

The reply was, "About 25,000 miles the way you're going, but if you turn around it's only 15."

A great many bridge players have a tendency to play hands that way. Occasionally such roundabout plays work. Most of the time it plays to use the simplest method available.

South's two no-trump was brilliant, imaginative and most unsound. Had he just passed, North would probably have bid and made three hearts. North might well have bid three hearts anyway, but he decided to gamble.

West doubled on general principles and opened the queen of diamonds. South won in dummy and knocked out the ace of hearts.

At this point, West could have led a club and defeated the contract, but West made the conservative lead of a low diamond. He hoped his partner would show up with the ace of spades.

This should have allowed South to bring home nine tricks, but South was too brilliant for that. He ran off the heart suit.

West discarded the five of spades and the queen-eight-four of clubs while East let go two spades and a club. New South decided that West had hung on to an unguarded king of spades, so South led a spade from dummy, went up with his ace and conceded down one when the king failed to drop.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

"Would you please, please write a column," asks a woman reader, "about the mothers who have but one topic of conversation—a teenage daughter?"

"Wherever you speak to one of these doting mothers, you have to listen while she goes on and on about her daughter. And when two of the same sort are in a group, heaven help the others. No one else gets a chance to get a word in edgewise. Do these mothers really suppose that everyone is as interested in their teenagers' doings as they are?"

A mother who talks constantly about a teenage daughter has probably never bothered to ask herself if anyone else is interested.

She talks about her daughter at every opportunity for one of two reasons.

—She is so busy reliving her own girlhood through her daughter that she hasn't any real and absorbing interests of her own.

—Or—she thinks her daughter needs a full-time press agent to get her launched, and figures that mother is just the person for the job. So she tackles it with dedication, and doesn't let up until her daughter is safely married.

If these doting mothers bore you too much with their endless chatter about their darling daughters, there's just one solution. Avoid them for a few years.

Once they marry off their daughters, they'll quit talking about them. As soon as the girls are out of dating competition, the mothers will relax and go back to leading their own lives. They'll then have some more generally interesting topics of conversation.

It's amazing how much a daughters marriage can do for the woman who has been thinking of nothing else since her daughter's first date in junior high.

Herald Correspondent Jane Casselberry's daughter, Cathy, enters the hospital today for corrective surgery. Until she and Jane return home, residents of the area are invited to call news items directly to the Herald office; dial 424-8824 or 425-5938.

One of The Herald's Clock Winders has come up with this take off on an old spiritual. He calls it Barry Goldwater's new theme song. It goes like this: "When the roll is called in 'Frisco I'll be there."

When Stetson University's College of Law holds its commencement exercises Thursday in St. Petersburg, a former Sanford man will be the speaker. He's Judge A. O. Kanner who recently retired from Florida's second district court of appeals. He's the brother of Mrs. Lee Samuel.

The annual meeting of the Seminole County Chapter of the American Red Cross is scheduled for 7:30 p. m., Wednesday, in the Caucus Room of the First Federal Savings and Loan Association. One of the major items on the agenda is the election of officers for the forthcoming year.

Also, there's a meeting of the Sanford Historical Society slated for 7:30 tonight at 107 West Commercial. The new organization is making a concentrated effort to get off the ground and requests that all persons interested in the history of this area be present.

A new claim to fame.

The local Lions Club bulletin offers this reply to a recent Clock comment about singing at Kiwanis and Rotary Club luncheons: "We read in the local daily that there was some competition between two other local clubs as to which one did the better job on group singing. We of the Sanford Lions Club wish to go on record and to challenge any and all civic groups, local, state, national and international—we are pretty darn sure that we sing worse than any other group and hereby claim the championship. Any takers?"

By the way, Lions will install new officers Tuesday night at the Capt. George Hughes is stepping down after what appears to be the Lions' best year to date. A Clock Winder tried to attend many of the sessions and always found them interesting, educational and just plain fun.

That graduation ceremony Friday afternoon at the Sanford Naval Academy was tops. Highly colorful, interesting speakers, correct students and a responsive audience made for a perfect couple of hours. A tip of the hat to Col. H. J. Furman for a splendid effort. He had the weatherman on his side, too. Ominous clouds filled the skies but the rain made its visit elsewhere.

Look for Sanford and Seminole County to get national attention next winter. Plans are in the works for this area to be videoed on the Florida Showcase. And right in the deadly cold of wintertime.

Mayor A. L. Wilson made a special greeting to Scouts and leaders of Troop 34 at Monday night's City Commission meeting. In welcoming the group, he said he hoped they "would learn something" from Commission proceedings. Then, as an after-thought added: "You'll probably learn to stay out of politics."

The lights are to be burning tonight for the first time along the new sidewalk leading from East First Street to Commercial Street and thence to the municipal parking lot in that area. The lights were installed by city crews on the recommendation of the Commission.

SHS Senior Class Of '64 Wins High Praise

The 1964 Senior Class of Seminole High School graduated with honors in the Bill Fleming Memorial Gym Monday night in one of the most brilliant in the school's history. Principal Andrew Bracken told parents and friends who filled the room.

"As of today, 118 seniors of this fine class have already been accepted by colleges, universities and specialized training schools, having earned between $80,000 and $100,000 in scholarships, grants and awards," Bracken said.

County Refuses To Approve Property Swap

County Commissioners today denied a request by M. R. Strickland, local gasoline dealer, for an exchange of property with the county.

Strickland recently asked the Commission to swap his property for a parcel owned by the county because the widening of SR 46 would claim so much of his property that a service station now located there would not be able to continue business.

Fourth Of July? Just Skip It

July Fourth this year will be just like any other Saturday for city employees—a normal day off.

Commissioners, in an informal poll Monday night, agreed that no other day should be allowed as a holiday even though the Fourth falls on a regular day off.

By Jane Casselberry

The largest class in the history of Lyman High School was graduated Monday night in the school auditorium with 160 seniors receiving diplomas from Principal Carlton Henley who was assisted by James Birkenmeyer, school board member.

By Evelyn Lundy

Barbara Saucer, salutatorian, spoke on roots of the tree as compared to each individual, pointing out that "adults are roots from which students gain much of their knowledge and that all young people depend on these roots which come from early home life, community, school and church."

Casselberry Talks 'Island' Annexations

Although it wasn't on the agenda, annexation problems took the spotlight of Monday night's meeting of the Casselberry Town Council. Disturbed by the fact that there are so many "islands" of county property within the general boundaries of Casselberry, the council told Attorney Kenneth McIntosh to draft the necessary documents indicating the council's intent to annex these parcels.

Hope Still Seen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional backers of Pennsylvania Gov. William W. Scranton for president believe it's late—but not too late—for their man.

"We all realize it's very late," said Rep. Robert J. Corbett, (R-Pa.), one of three lawmakers attending a closed-door strategy session in the office of Sen. Hugh Scott, (R-Pa.), "however, we haven't said it's too late."

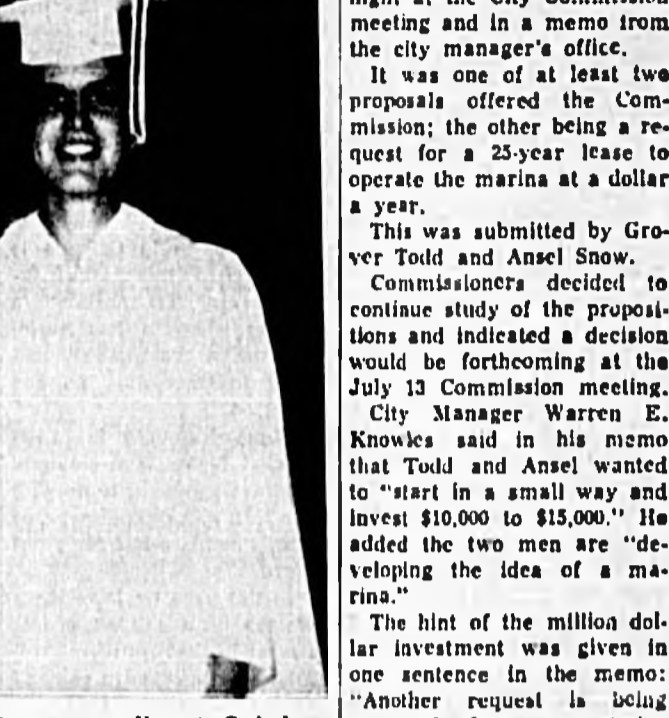

Jets Resume Laos Flights

WASHINGTON (UPI) — U. S. jet fighters today resumed their sweeps over Laos with White House authorization to shoot up Communist gun emplacements if they fire on the American fliers.

Official sources said the fighters, which are being sent along to project unarmed photo reconnaissance planes, had received White House permission to attack Laotian Communist anti-aircraft positions which downed two American planes—one armed and one unarmed—over the weekend.
