Is there some nepotism going on at the County Home? Went out with County Commissioner Ted Williams this morning to investigate and found out that J. P. Beal's son lives out at the home occasionally and is gainfully employed for a construction company. Williams said this morning he will ask County Attorney Harold Johnson to write Beal a letter saying that the county condemns this practice. Beal, this morning when questioned, said that his son gets his meals and board there without charge.

We received the following telegram late Thursday afternoon: "The post office department has announced examination for postmaster at Sanford, applications to be received no later than April 21."

It was signed by Congressman Syd. Herlong.

We hear that Restauranteur Jeno Paulucci is working closely with the Chamber in attempting to bring the Minneapolis Twins to Sanford.

Orange County school officials are wrong if they think the Seminole school board will go along with them on supporting a technical school over there. At the last local board meeting, members were definitely "cool" to the idea.

South Seminole Kiwanis Club formed and watch for an announcement soon.

Word from the Seminole County TB Secretary, Mrs. Lorraine Graham is that there was a total of 7,533 chest X-rays taken in the county. Of these 4,884 were taken at the mobile unit parked downtown.

Somebody had better get those lights to work if a political rally is to be held in North Orlando tonight.

Mayor Lee Gary of Oviedo came in the office to tell us that Councilman Ben Ward will be the host Monday night following the Town Council meeting. Ben promised some weeks ago to make a cake for refreshments which are always served after council meetings.

The Red Face Dept. Longwood's leading citizen came in for a ribbing at Thursday night's council meeting. Seems Mayor Al Lormann, in the hectic rush of the past few weeks, overlooked his water bill and had been seen a delinquent notice.

Al also apologized for being a little late to the meeting. . . . said he'd just stopped by the house for five minutes to see what his family looked like. Papa's a mighty busy man these days selling real estate, being mayor AND campaigning for the State Legislature.

Oh, almost forgot . . . he paid the water bill.

Received the following telegram from Jiggs at the Zoo this morning: "I don't care about the $5,500 . . . but please, keep the clock out of here!"

P. S.: Richard was only kidding . . . Or was he?

Schools Face U.S. Funds Loss

Affects Areas With Military Installations

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Kennedy administration in the fall of 1963 it will cut off some federal funds now paid to racially-segregated school districts serving the children of servicemen and federal workers.

The announcement was made by Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare, in an uncheduled appearance before a special House education subcommittee.

The congressmen are studying the use of federal aid in school districts which enforce racial segregation.

The new policy would effect only part of the government's $285 million aid problem to about 4,000 school districts which qualify for construction and operating assistance under the 12-year-old "impacted areas" school laws.

Ribicoff said an estimated $10 million of such aid goes to schools in Southern states. Other officials said they did not know yet how much of this assistance would be cut off.

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N. Y., charged Thursday that Ribicoff was "ignoring, not enforcing, the law" by permitting federal aid to segregated schools.

Ribicoff said today that about 200 federal installations are served by public school districts which segregate their grade and high schools. However, all of these may not be affected by the ruling.

The decision will affect federal aid paid on behalf of children whose parents both live and work on federal property. It will not halt assistance paid on behalf of children whose parents work on federal property but reside away from government installations.

Ribicoff said the ruling would not go into effect until the beginning of the 1963-64 school year because of problems presented by the possibility that substitute schools may have to be provided for children whose parents work and live on federal installations.

He also noted that Congress will have a chance to amend the "impacted areas" laws before they expire next year. He said the delay might give affected school districts time to consider changes in their segregation policies.

Cuba Reports All 'Confess'

HAVANA (UPI)—The 1,182 captured veterans of last year's abortive Cuban invasion pleaded guilty at the start of their trial Thursday, it was reported today.

All Havana morning newspapers said "the mercenaries admitted their crime."

The Havana radio said in a broadcast heard in Miami that the prisoners were accused of having carried out a "treacherous attack" against the Cuban people at the "direct instigation of the imperialistic government of the United States."

In another broadcast heard this morning, Havana said the first session of the trial was taken up mostly with a recitation of the charges against the prisoners.

It said the captured men "confessed their crime and announced they wished to make no further statements."

Another Sales Fete Planned By Merchants

The Downtown Merchants Assn., unanimously pleased with the success of the recent "Cracker Days", Thursday night put into operation plans for another big two-day sales promotion June 1 and 2.

Plans for a beauty contest to be held at this time were discussed. It was decided that entries would be Seminole County young women over age 18. The winner would be in line for the big contest at Daytona Beach on July 4.

Brack Perkins, Don Knight and Mrs. David Gatehel were appointed by E. C. Harper Jr., merchants division chairman, to work on ideas for the sales promotion.

Merchants also discussed tentative plans for honoring one section of the county each month with bands and entertainment from that section, including DelBary. The ideas will be enlarged and firmed up by chairman Paul Lewis.

A discussion of blue laws and Sunday closing brought no decision and the matter was dropped until further information can be obtained on the constitutionality of the law.

Merchants decided to begin Wednesday afternoon closing on the first Wednesday after Easter, which would be April 25.

Longwood Water Needs Discussed

The Longwood City Council met in a continued session Thursday night for detailed study of material needed to increase efficiency and enlarge the municipal water system.

Mrs. Onnie Hockett, clerk, was authorized to notify dealers by letter that bids will be accepted on 2,550 feet of six-inch cast iron water pipe until noon on April 12.

In other business the council authorized Mrs. Hockett to write a check to Holler Motor Co. of Sanford in the amount of $2,784.70 in payment of the new police car. The next regular meeting of the council will be held at 8 p. m. next Thursday in the City Hall.

4 Frondizi Generals Placed Under Arrest

BUENOS AIRES (UPI) — Four generals who held high posts under President Arturo Frondizi were under arrest early today, apparently because they opposed the coup that ousted Frondizi in favor of Jose M. Guido.

A war ministry announcement identified the prisoners as former War Secretary Rosendo Fraga; his undersecretary, Carlos Perilla; former First Division commander Edgar Landis and Maj. Gen. Juan C. Gordini.

Unofficial sources said eight other generals also had been arrested, but the report could not be confirmed immediately.

No reason was given for the arrests, but observers assumed that the generals had differed in some degree with the architects of Thursday's military coup.

Citrus Growers To Meet Monday

Citrus growers of Seminole, Orange and Osceola counties will hold an area meeting Monday at 6:30 p. m. at the Tupperware plant on South Orange Blossom Trail, John Sikes of Mutual announced today.

Growers will hear a discussion of market trends and future prospects by Frank Trout, Mutual's executive assistant. Dale Carleton, Mutual's director of grower relations, will be in charge of the meeting which will start off with a charcoal steak dinner.

The meeting will kick off a membership drive of two weeks' duration. Mutual, with a membership now of 11,566, has as its goal a total membership of 12,000 by June 1. Sikes said.

Terrorists Kill Nine Moslems

ALGIERS, Algeria (UPI) — Terrorists killed nine Moslems and wounded 12 today in new violence that followed a night of bombing in Algiers. Gunmen of the outlawed Secret Army Organization (OAS) ranged into the Moslem areas of the city and carried out their attacks. One European also was wounded.

Between dusk and dawn, 22 plastic bombs shattered areas in the Moslem sectors of the city, wounding six more persons. Six mortar bombs were exploded in the gardens of the summer palace on the heights of Algiers.

In the European working class quarter of Bab-el-Oued, a center of OAS extremist support, troops cordoned off one section for two hours while they carried out new searches for terrorists.

Commissioner's Decision Follows Sharp Criticism

County Commissioner Ted Williams will ask the commission Tuesday to rescind its action of appropriating $8-500 for the city zoo, the Herald learned today.

Williams declared this morning "public criticism" has been directed at him for making the motion at the last meeting of the board.

"There also seems to be a lot of talk of some 'political deal made between me and the city which is a downright lie," Williams emphasized.

"My only reason for recommending that these surplus funds be expended was that 'I felt the entire county was benefiting from this facility. 'I still feel the county should aid all municipalities in their problems and since I represent Sanford on the county board, I am not sure why they should be left out in the cold.'"

Williams said he has been besieged by phone calls complaining of his action of last week on the county agreeing to appropriate $8,500 annually for the upkeep of the zoo. "A lot of people think this is a political move, which is silly," Williams explained that he has been thinking of some aid to the facility for almost a year.

The commission last Friday agreed to take the money out of Hospital indigent aid fund. "There is plenty of money left in that fund to take care of the needy," Williams emphasized.

Committee To Inspect Junior College Site

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — A three-member study committee of the State Junior College Board is expected to take a look at the site and local financing of a proposed technical junior college at Orlando.

The board Thursday approved the idea of a technical junior college in principal, but delayed specific approval until the committee completed its study. A request for authorization of the school was formally laid before the state board, which, along with the Cabinet, must approve before the school is started.

The junior college would also be expected to serve Osceola County and Seminole. If Seminole should decide to give its financial backing to the project. However, Seminole has indicated it is more interested in a college with a general education program than in a technical college.

Mrs. Florence Fishback, chairman of the Orange County School Board, said the school could eventually be expanded to a general education institution, but right now technical courses were needed for youths seeking jobs with the Martin Company and other industries in the area.

The 1961 Legislature approved a junior college for Orlando, but Gov. Farris Bryant vetoed money appropriated for the project. Mrs. Fishback said the technical school could be financed at the county level and classes could be held in local high schools.

Reds Ask U. S. Arms Promise

GENEVA (UPI) — The United States balked at a Soviet attempt today to commit it to total disarmament in four years, working instead on a plan that would eliminate the world's nuclear armaments in nine years and replace them with a standing United Nations force to keep the peace.

GENEVA (UPI) — Russia called on the United States today to make a firm commitment now to destroy all its weapons and disarm all troops but police units within four years.

Chief Soviet Delegate Valerian Zorin said the 17-nation disarmament conference could consider the problem of insuring compliance after all have accepted the basic obligation to destroy all weapons in a limited period of time.

Zorin said the first article of his own draft treaty for general and complete disarmament contains basically the same provisions as President Kennedy's disarmament program of last Sept. 25.

The American government ought to be able to accept the Soviet proposals without delay, Zorin told the conference.

One of the major omissions, the Western delegates declared, was the lack of specific provisions for international inspection to insure that no nation replaced the arms it destroyed. The Soviet plan called for verification of the number of weapons destroyed, but not of those retained.

Anti-government mobs in Cuenca, led by conservative politicians, stoned public buildings and radio stations and shouted demands for Arosemena's resignation.

Reports from Cuenca Wednesday said the garrison there had risen against the government, demanding that it break relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Post Office Pushed By Sen. Smathers

Sen. George Smathers today said he was putting "pressure" on the post office department "immediately" to start the ball rolling on a new post office for Sanford.

Smathers said he approached officials of the post office department urging prompt action be taken to bring about at the earliest possible moment the construction of the new post office.

He also stated that he was urging the department to place the building at the site which was originally selected as the best choice.

Smathers said in conferring with postal officials he had emphasized his desire to see that the legal difficulties surrounding the contract award for construction of the post office be cleared up as quickly as possible.

He stated, "the postal needs of Sanford are urgent. I hope the post office can cut through the red tape and legal technicalities so that work can be started."

"I don't care what decision is reached but I agree with the people of Sanford that this project must get off dead center."

In a recent letter to postmaster Edward Dry, Smathers also stated that the site which was originally chosen by the Post Office Department had the approval of the city fathers of Sanford as well as commercial and business interests of the community.

Smathers asked for Mr. Dry's assurance that the new building would be erected on the Seminole Blvd. site.

Delay Explained At Meeting

A small gleam of light was cast on the long-pending new post office for Sanford when John Krider revealed that Sen. George Smathers has appointed Steve Moran to expedite the matter of the post office with the postmaster general.

Krider said that in a phone call Moran told him, "Tell the people of Sanford that we are working on it."

Also present at the meeting was W. A. Morrison, owner of the property where the new post office is to be built.

Both Krider and Morrison went into detail on the past history of the transaction and some of the causes of the present stalemate.

Krider said that post office officials told him that this was the first time a bidder had defaulted in over 100 commitments for new post offices. Part of the delay, Krider said, was to give the contractor an opportunity to try to recover a part of the bond money ($13,000) which he forfeited when he failed to build, by selling his contract. However, the bid was so low, Morrison said, that no one wants to buy it.

Morrison also commented that the extreme lowness of the bid, in great contrast to the other bids, was due to a miscalculation on the part of the bidder.

"No one can do more to expedite this than Sen. George Smathers has done," Krider said. Morrison suggested that the Merchants Assn. write to Smathers, Holland and Herlong, thanking them for what they had already done and urging continued action.

Rights Of Way Refused, Road Project Dies

The Bear Lake Road project is dead and plans can now be filed in the county engineer's office to gather dust.

County Engineer Carlton Bliss reported this morning that he failed to get the cooperation of property owners Thursday night to donate rights of way for the half mile project which would have stretched from SR 436 to Curtis Drive.

Bliss said that only a third of the 30 odd property owners along the route showed up for the meeting. . . . "All wanted the road, but none would donate it," Bliss added.

"The project is dead as far as I'm concerned," the county engineer lamented.

Bliss said he and his staff worked well over two months on plans for the road which would have included rebuilding the entire stretch.

"Maybe the board of county commissioners can come up with another approach to the problem," the county engineer said.

Violence Flares In Ecuador

QUITO, Ecuador (UPI)—A conservative "revolt" in Cuenca inspired outbreaks of violence in several cities Thursday night, but no real fighting was reported.

A leftist mob in the big Pacific port of Guayaquil, demonstrating support of President Carlos J. Arosemena, attempted an attack on the U. S. consulate and stoned the offices of newspapers.

Police firing in the air dispersed the Guayaquil rioters a block from the consulate and prevented major damage to the newspaper offices. No casualties were reported.

In Quito, teen-agers shouting "no military dictatorship!" paraded through the city, proclaiming their support of the Arosemena regime.

Anti-government mobs in Cuenca, led by conservative politicians, stoned public buildings and radio stations and shouted demands for Arosemena's resignation.

Reports from Cuenca Wednesday said the garrison there had risen against the government, demanding that it break relations with Fidel Castro's Cuba.

Youth Week Set At Pinecrest Church

Rev. Grover Sewell

Divine Direction

A man was hunting deer in the Allegheny Mountains. He had walked for several hours and decided to rest for awhile, but just as he was getting comfortable a beautiful buck bounded into view. The hunter rushed for his gun and then sought to track the prize deer, plunging through the woods for several miles. Finally he realized that he had not only failed to note his path sufficiently and had become completely lost himself.

The hunter became frightened when he thought of his predicament, in fact, he became frantic. He thought of the many accounts of people who had become lost in the forests of such vast mountains so he had the unreasonable urge to run. He ran down the mountain side until he was tired to stop from exhaustion. Nothing remained to do but rest awhile and as rest came the hunter began to get hold of himself.

It was necessary to do certain things if survival was to be accomplished and as reason returned he took stock. He then admitted that he was lost. One would not think that such an admittance was very difficult to make, but the man said that it was the hardest decision that he was forced to make. Something seemed to say to him that he should take one path or another, or that he should run again, but he knew that he was lost and most admit it.

The next thing that he decided to do was to check to see just what equipment he had in his pack. He found several things, but the most important was an old compass. He had forgotten about the compass but now it was to direct him to safety. With something to direct him he was able to reach his car.

How much this incident illustrates to us the predicament of people today. They find that the world seems lost and without a true guide even though many claim to show the way. They become frantic and run down mountainsides of life to find themselves exhausted and still just as lost as before. Problems need solving and they do not know how to solve them.

So many people need to admit that they are lost and should examine their equipment for life. If they would look closely they would find a compass that would direct them in the very best way.

God has given the people of the world the compass of life which is the Bible. How neglected it is! It is called the Word of God and then left on the shelf to gather dust. If the contents of the Bible are not known it cannot be followed anymore than the hunter could have followed the compass if he had refused to use it. The Bible has the answer. Let us pray that man will use the only divine guide and thereby be directed in all realms of life.

Methodist Ministers Meet In Leesburg

Methodist ministers from the state's 90 newest churches, meeting Monday in Leesburg, heard Rev. Robert C. Holmes, executive secretary of church extension, tell of how the Church is now attempting to acquire church sites before they are needed rather than "five years too late."

Attending the conference from Sanford was Rev. W. Thomas Parsons Jr., pastor of Grace Methodist Church which was organized in May of 1958 with 36 members. It now has 408 members and last Sunday began using its new and modern children's building.

Finding and paying for new church sites was discussed at the conference which also was attended by five members of the General Board of Missions who were present to gain information to assist with the work in other parts of the nation.

Selection of the Florida Conference was made for this first meeting of its kind to be conducted by the denomination because of the rapid expansion made in the state during the past three years.

A filmstrip on church building, prepared for national distribution, was shown featuring the outstanding records of the Christ Methodist Church of Neptune Beach.

The 90 churches represented at the Leesburg conference had a total of 5,514 new members when organized. Their total membership now sets at 19,318 and estimates say that by 1970 they will have a total membership of 87,925.

In addition, the churches at present are giving $381,000 to World Service, $22,212 to the Florida Conference Church Extension Campaign and $18,800 to Advance Mission Specials.

MEN'S CLUB CHEFS Glen Humes, standing, and Burbon Ferrell and Henry Duncan check preparations for last Saturday's roast beef dinner at the Casselberry Community Methodist Church. The club reported a profit of near $150 for the event. Other recent projects of the group have been floodlighting the exterior of the church and beautifying the grounds. (Herald Photo)

Kennedy Wins Major Battle On Tax Bill

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's big tax bill sailed today into calmer Senate waters after nearly capsize during its House passage.

The bill—which has few allies and many foes among the nation's most powerful economic groups—was traveling with a head of steam supplied by the White House.

Its successful passage through the House Thursday, despite solid Republican opposition, demonstrated that a remarkable degree of goodwill prevails between the President and rank and file House Democrats.

The bill was twice buffeted by vigorous assaults. Both times Democrats in overwhelming numbers responded to the pleas of their leaders and rushed to save the measure. Some of them did so because they believe it involved some political risk.

As a result, the House on a 225 to 190 roll call, refused to scuttle the bill's two major features: tax withholding on interest and dividends, and tax concessions for business.

The move failed even though Republicans voted for it 163 to 0.

The Senate Finance Committee will begin three weeks of public hearings on the House passed legislation Monday.

The bill has generated thousands of letters from voters protesting against the provision that would withhold taxes to assure that they are paid on interest on savings accounts and government bonds as well as stock dividends and patronage dividends of farm and other co-operatives. The Treasury has estimated that this will collect about $600 million a year in tax revenue that is now lost because many taxpayers do not report this income.

Don't Spoil Growth - - Paulucci

"You have something wonderful in Sanford, don't spoil it," Jeno Paulucci, owner of the Chun King manufacturing company told Coffee Clubbers Thursday.

Paulucci advised Sanford and Seminole County promoters to secure controlled growth that will provide industry and progress but maintain the beauty and the quiet living that makes Sanford such a "wonderful place to live."

"Keep what you have," Paulucci said. "Other cities that have grown rapidly have lost it and they wish they had what you have here."

More than a million tons of peanuts were raised by some 200,000 American farmers during 1958.

Paulucci praised the warmth and friendliness of the people, the excellent recreational facilities, the beautiful churches and the delightful living conditions that had influenced him to build his home here.

Paulucci was accompanied by advertising manager, Jim Lee.

"We are proud to claim you as a part time resident," Charlie Morrison, Chamber of Commerce emcee, told Paulucci.

One of the highlights of the Coffee Club meeting was the presentation of a lighted birthday cake to Charlie Morrison whose birthday was this week. Mrs. Morrison was also brought forward and presented with a planter of living chrysanthemums and an orchid corsage.

A record crowd jammed the reception room at the Chamber of Commerce as wives and secretaries were special guests.

Kennedy Eyes Jurist Replacement

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy's choice to replace physically exhausted Justice Charles Evans Whittaker is expected to tip the balance of a liberal-conservative conflict on the Supreme Court.

Whittaker's resignation, submitted on his doctor's orders, stirred the flurry of Washington speculation which inevitably precedes the selection of a Supreme Court justice.

Kennedy, who will be filling his first vacancy on the high bench, told his news conference Thursday he would announce his choice "shortly." But he refused to be drawn out publicly on Whittaker's successor.

Among the names which cropped up immediately, however, were two cabinet members, Abraham Ribicoff, secretary of health, education and welfare and Labor Secretary Arthur J. Goldberg; United Nations official Ralph law school professor Paul A. Freund, a noted authority on constitutional law; Solicitor General Archibald Cox, and Deputy Atty. Gen. Byron White.

There also was some talk of two prominent federal appeals judges — Henry J. Friendly of the 2nd Circuit which has jurisdiction in New York and New England, and David L. Bazelon of the District of Columbia bench.

Since Kennedy took office, Sens. Estes Kefauver, D-Tenn., and J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., have been mentioned as potential Supreme Court timber.

Kennedy's nomination of Whittaker's successor — who will be subject to Senate confirmation — may well determine the course of the court during the remainder of his stay in the White House and beyond.

In recent terms, there has been an almost even balance between a so-called conservative wing of four members led by Justice Felix Frankfurter and a liberal bloc of four with Justice Hugo Black as chief spokesman. Justice Potter Stewart, the newest member of the court, has played the role of swing man in a number of 5-4 decisions.

Whittaker, whose resignation becomes effective Monday, was considered a member of the conservative group. It is believed the court and the federal government should be restrained in the role they play in American life. The liberal four feel that the courts and the executive branch of the government have authority to play greater roles in safeguarding civil rights and other individual liberties.

The general belief was that Kennedy would lean toward naming a new justice who would fit in with the liberal philosophy and nail down five-vote control for that side of the bench.

Whittaker's resignation came after five years on the high court. He had entered Walter Reed Army Medical Center March 6 physically exhausted. He advised the President several days ago that physicians said a return to the bench would jeopardize his health.

Cross We All Should Bear

Most of us probably think of the Red Cross as just about the sturdiest pillar of self-help we have. But change is so swift in the 1960s that no agency can take for granted its place in American life.

Thus, as the Red Cross seeks $95 million this month in its annual campaign, its leaders are bent upon altering its structure and activities to keep up with a changing nation.

None of us needs to be reminded of the threat of natural disaster in the shape of hurricane, tornado, flood. Last year the Red Cross helped in more than 330 such emergencies.

What we may not think of is that these threats can be greatly magnified as our population grows and our urban clusters widen out and consume the open countryside.

The tornado that in 1960 might do little harm to rolling farm land could today smash hundreds of houses in a new subdivision.

To prepare for this enlarging prospect of danger, the Red Cross is trying, of course, to set up countless new chapters in the growing areas. More important, it wants to tie them more closely into regional units with a centralized core providing trained workers, facilities and funds for disaster emergencies.

All this takes money, and much help from individual Americans willing to serve voluntarily, to learn how to meet these threats. Remarkably, the Red Cross is not asking for more money this year than it has for the last several. Yet Red Cross officials worry some over the agency losing a little of its identity—and hence support.

Of its 3,600 chapters, some 1,400 now get all or most of their money by submerging their campaigns in joint United Fund drives.

The big March campaign is therefore designed in part as an educational reminder to Americans. The Red Cross is an agency, we are asked to remember, which not only spends millions on disaster relief but in 1960-61 did such things as these:

Laid out $34.6 million for counseling and other aid to members of the armed forces, veterans, their families. To the thousands of reservists and guardsmen called up in 1961 when the Berlin crisis sharpened, this has been particularly meaningful.

Collected and donated for civilian hospital use 2.5 million pints of blood, almost half the U. S. supply.

Spurred nearly two million Americans to earn certificates in swimming, lifesaving, small boat safety.

The Red Cross in this age is one important way in which Americans help themselves. Surely in 1962, with the need growing greater, they will

Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — Who gets hurt—and how much—by tariff reductions if Congress approves President Kennedy's trade expansion plan is a subject of much speculation.

Official estimates are that 800 United States firms may be injured by import competition over the next five years, with 90,000 American workers displaced who'll require job retraining. This is many times the rate of injury reported since the end of World War II under the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

From 1947 through 1960 there were 100 applications for relief filed by U.S. business. Tariff Commission recommended relief for 33 industries, and various presidents approved 13 of these. If there were 10 companies in each industry, 130 firms were affected—an average of a year.

Department of Labor statistics indicate 28,000 workers may have been displaced as a result in the 33 affected industries. This would be an average of 2,150 for each of the 13 years.

These past figures contrast pretty sharply with the average of 150 firms expected to be affected in each of the next five years, with 18,000 workers displaced annually.

Undersecretary of Commerce Edward Gudeman told the House Ways and Means Committee that the adjustment assistance costs under a new relief plan of President Kennedy's trade program might average $37 million a year.

Of this, $34 million would go to injured business firms in the form of loans from a $100 million revolving fund. This would be to help them modernize plants or get into new lines of business. Also, $3 million in technical assistance would be available to these firms. And $10 million a year would be spent to retrain their workers.

This would mean that the average firm injured by competitive imports might expect a loan of $150,000, plus about $30,000 in technical assistance. This is in line with Small Business Administration experience in helping firms modernize.

The cost of retraining a worker would average $350. This is in line with Area Redevelopment Assistance experience.

On only one point, however, are administration estimates of tariff reduction effects said to be accurate. This is on the list of 26 trade classifications in which the United States and the European Economic Community — the six Common Market countries and five other possible members—control 80 per cent of free world trade. For these products it is proposed that tariffs be greatly reduced or eliminated.

Manufactures: Aircraft, photographic supplies, motor and other road vehicles, railway vehicles, musical instruments, agricultural, electric, office and power generating machinery.

Materials: Coal, furs, shortening, glass, paints, cosmetics, sugar products, non-alcoholic beverages, leather goods, organic chemicals, plastics, insecticides, rubber goods and tobacco products.

In 15 of these classifications, U. S. exports in 1961 were $2.1 billion against imports of $1.2 billion. But how many companies in any of these lines of business will be among the 800 firms now estimated as likely to be hurt by further tariff cuts, nobody really knows.

If an industry or an individual company claims injury from import competition, the President may raise tariff rates or delegate to various agencies the handling of adjustment assistance. In the latter case, a specific plan of adjustment must be submitted to the government with proof that the damage is caused by the tariff, not by bad management.

If Commerce, Labor, Agriculture or Small Business Administration find the adjustment plan feasible, they will approve loans, technical assistance and retraining. No plan, no aid.

To The Editor

Dear Editor:

Having been a resident of this community for only 18 months, I hesitate at times to express my own biased opinions. However, my family and I intend to make this our home and to rear our children within this community. This, I feel, gives me sufficient reason to voice my views about what I see and hear that is being done and not being done in our community.

A feeling of perplexity and deep concern comes when I see the leaders of our community so concerned about the housing and care of our animals (the Zoo) that they appropriate $8,500 annually for this worthy cause. While, at the same time, they cannot see fit to set aside the funds needed to house and care for needy and dependent children (the Foster Home Program).

I do not point an accusing finger at any one person or group of people. If we are looking for someone to blame, we should look only ourselves to blame. If the community at large had a concern and felt a need for something, it would insist that its elected officers provide that need.

If my reasoning is correct, then where is the community's compassion and love for people, especially for children? Has suspicion, fear, anxiety, and prejudice crowded out the most basic needs of a healthy society? Or has our compassion and love become conditional, that is, we withhold it until we are certain that it will be appreciated and used properly? This would signify that we have been deprived and starved of these emotional feelings within ourselves, and certainly we cannot give freely of what we have so little to give. But, when called upon to do so, we tie strings to it, so that if it is misused or not appreciated, we can withdraw it quickly without having lost too much.

It has been experienced and known that patronizing handouts alone do not help. We must let people have a hand in saving themselves; they cannot and will not be saved from the outside. A person will change his conduct only when he himself has had a hand in declaring that course of conduct to be desirable.

I hope you see that my concern runs deeper than just providing an adequate Child Care Program. It penetrates the whole personality, concerning the hostility and enmity that prevails among our leaders and the general public's mistrust and misunderstanding of those who have to decide our issues. These attitudes and feelings do not generate the security and pride that one should have for his community.

Having taken the initiative to write this letter, ask these questions, and make these observations, I feel I should try to give some solution. Not claiming to have the complete and final answer, I only offer some suggestions that are partial and need to be added to by all concerned. The suggestions will be directed not only to those who are in a position to give aid and assistance to a "helping ministry," and to those who make decisions that affect the welfare of our community, but to all who are interested in helping to make this a better world to live in. This is why I addressed this letter to you.

When one is on the verge of doing something significant or creative, that is when he is most likely to find himself standing alone and least likely to feel unquestionably sure that he is right. The more one grows in stature, the more difficult maintaining integrity becomes and the more courage it requires. It is especially hard when his decisions affect the welfare of others. It is hardest and loneliest of all when friends, superiors, or the public think he is wrong. Yet, if he is going to amount to anything, he must stand on his own feet no matter how hard and lonely it may be to do so.

The fact that people are making serious decisions which may lead to benefit or harm, intensifies differences and often adds emotional content to them, thus making it more difficult to differ understandingly and pleasantly. To have true consideration of others under these difficult conditions, a person must accept differences and even welcome it. He must explore differences and profit from it. He must get results by working with others, and not by working over them or under them or against them.

To combine consideration and integrity, he must do this without letting his desire to please and to be liked distort his judgments or prevent his standing up for them.

In every relationship, to work or to live well in close association with others requires faith—faith that one is being told the full truth and faith that one's opinions are being given genuine consideration. Without this faith one can neither put one's heart into the relationship nor act with confident understanding. Integrity and consideration must be both given and received. Supine conformity and fearful domination, in themselves and in the distrust which they engender, are destructive of life's most important relationships and values.

Every problem in human affairs is a double problem. It is a problem of getting something accomplished—the misbehavior of a child corrected, a contract made, an argument or a law suit won, a bill passed. On the other hand it is a problem of establishing, altering, or maintaining relationships. Both problems should be carefully explored, recognizing that one's duty or even one's right to help others or to decide for them extends only to one's function in the particular relationship.

In doing this one must also be concerned with what his function is as with what it is not. He must take care that the temptation to escape involvement does not reduce his sympathetic insight in seeing the possibilities of being of help to others. The question, "Who, then, was neighbor unto this man?" is as vital today as ever; but its answer is not a simple one.

To develop social maturity then, one must unite integrity with consideration. To have mature integrity in human relations, one must be truly and feelingly concerned with what others think and feel, translating this concern into understanding conduct. He must do so not merely in relaxed relationships or where there is general agreement, but also when he differs with others. If one can combine such integrity and such consideration, his maturity will enable him to bring to his work, his play, his living "a mighty heart" while contributing to the opportunity of others to be freely and fully themselves.

On one occasion Christ said to his disciples, "Let both grow together until the harvest." We do not know our ultimate worth to the harvest, but we can, if we will, grow together peacefully until the day of reckoning arrives.

Sincerely,
Bill Thomas, President

Dr. Crane's Worry Clinic

Abraham Lincoln's mother died of an ailment called "milk sick." My uncle, my brother and I all took down with it within a few hours and for days the family despaired of our lives. But we finally pulled through. Note how the innocent ham sandwich felt better to my food nausea thereafter.

Berlin Escape Artist Honored

BERLIN (UPI)—West Berlin paid homage today to a truck driver who was reported to have helped more Germans escape to the West than any other individual in Communist East Germany.

The driver, Heinz Jercha, 28, was shot to death Tuesday night by Communist police in the tunnel that he and a tiny band of West Berlin workers dug under the dividing wall the Communists put up across the city last Aug. 13.

An informed source told United Press International that Jercha was a "hero who helped more East Germans escape to the West than any other single man."

The source said Jercha, who drove a meat truck, and his friends brought more than 35 refugees to West Berlin through their tunnel under the wall in about a month.

I was 16, I became deathly ill from "milk sick." I was working as a harvest hand, running a grain wagon. It was my job to back my wagon up to the threshing machine and load it with wheat or rye.

When full, I'd start my team of horses and drive to the granary at the barn, where I shoveled the grain by hand.

At noon, I ate my lunch, which consisted of some thick ham sandwiches and apple pie.

But when I bit into the first sandwich, I grew deathly sick. So I skipped the rest of the meat and tried a piece of apple pie.

I still felt nauseated and had pains across my abdomen, but said nothing for I was a city kid and refused to admit I couldn't do as much work as any farmer in the crowd.

But my Uncle Vick was pitching in the bundles of rye out in the field. This was harder work than running my grain wagon, for I got to rest between loads, whereas he had to pitch all the time.

He, too, grew very sick and finally asked me if I'd trade jobs, for he couldn't stand it any longer.

Spring meeting of the Florida Public Relations Association will be held at Pensacola Beach, May 3-5. Theme of the meeting will be Florida Industry, Agriculture and the Military.

He lay down on the wagon seat and I took his pitchfork. Those of you whose memory goes back to the era before tractors, when we shocked wheat or rye, will recall that rye bundles are heavy and the rye heads scratched your skin right through the denim overalls and shirt.

But I didn't mind the scratching, for my stomach was on edge and I felt like vomiting. But I refused to give in.

Luckily, the separator broke down about 3 o'clock and it couldn't be repaired, so I got a much needed respite.

Uncle Vick and I drove home, unharnessed the team, and headed for the house.

Despite our nauseated feelings, we attacked another apple pie and ate most of it. Nobody else was home at that moment.

Within an hour, we grew deathly sick and began constant vomiting. We went into fitful periods of unconsciousness by nightfall.

When we couldn't vomit, we'd cry out for water so we could get something into our stomachs in order to throw up again.

My brother John came down with the poisoning by 9 o'clock and for 72 hours, they despaired of our lives.

A heifer also was attacked, for this "milk sick" is due to the poison from white snake root which cattle and sheep eat when drought drives them into the woods for forage.

Abraham Lincoln's mother died of this same "milk sick" ailment and a cousin of mine had died two years earlier from it, which is what caused the doctor to be able to make a quick diagnosis.

Luckily, we recovered after several weeks, but I tell this true case to show the reverse of how food likes are developed.

For it was 10 years before I could stand the sight or taste of ham.

My nausea hit me at noon when I first bit into that thick ham sandwich. The ham had nothing to do with my being poisoned but its flavor was in my mouth when the milk sick poison first struck me, so the ham became the innocent victim of my revolution.

Now I again like ham for I have reconditioned myself to it.

G.W. Spencer Golf Tournament Kicks Off Sunday Morning

The Sanford Herald Fri. Mar. 30, '62—Page 5

By Jack Trim
Had a couple of days away from work last week and they were so pleasant I decided to take a couple more this week, so the winding up of the Fishing Liers Contest has occurred with five fish stories still not printed.

Some of these yarns are just a tad on the long side, so today we'll dispense with the short ones and let you have the others Monday.

We have the bull thrower's trophy given by Harry Robson of Robson's Sporting Goods and there will be another prize, a spinning outfit, given by The Herald. It's not easy to find anybody fully qualified by experience to judge a liars contest, so I'll have to do it myself. The winners will be announced at the end of next week.

That'll give me time to get unground from the maze of malarkey and choose the best (or worst) of the lot.

First off today, here's the story of Willis Jones of Sanford and it's addressed to the judges of the contest:

"Being as your reputation as judges of the contest will be either acclaimed or berated, you should give this letter very careful thought and serious consideration. A well known Sanford citizen and avid fisherman of unquestionable character and presence of several people that he has read each entry in the contest and NOT ONE IS A LIE!

"And he has affidavits to prove them."
Louie Wright sent is a good one, to-wit:
"Here is a true story of Florida fishing.

"One day three years ago, I went to a local bait dealer for not gut minnows to fish for speckled perch. I bought five dozen.

"After getting out in Lake Jessup, I dipped my hand net in the bucket to get a minnow to bait my hook. One of those in the net was a strange looking one, so, out of curiosity, I put him on the hook and threw it out.

"Somehow I stumbled and accidentally knocked rod, reel, everything overboard. I fished for them for an hour, but to no avail, so I went home.

"Three years later, I was in the same area fishing for sheepshead and got a bite. I reeled in, but no fish, and I had a backlash. As I reeled on in, I hooked onto something.

"It was my long lost rod and reel!
"I took this rod and reel and started reeling in the line and there started such a fight as I never had seen before. It lasted about an hour before I landed a fish.

"It turned out to be that same funny looking minnow I had baited my hook with three years before.

"I could tell because it had the same little spot on its tail, only now it was a seven pound bass."

S. G. WEEKS of Sanford landed four fine bass in the Persimmon Hammock area. The biggest one there on the right weighed 8 1/2 pounds.

Mac Tray Looms As Top Choice In Race

Carl Tracy, current leader in the victory chase at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club with a grand total of 114 wins through Thursday, is sending two of his stars to the post in tonight's 27th annual Central Florida Derby, the most important race of the season, to try and upset the apparent favorite, Fred Whitehead's Mac Tray, who goes to the post a seven to five favorite on the morning line.

Tracy is the only kennel owner with a chance for a Derby quiniela. He is represented in this speed classic by a brother-sister team, Barnacle Bob and Ruth Cruce.

Ruth is the runnerup favorite at three to one odds while Barnacle Bob goes to the post at six to one. Both have nationwide reputations and Bob was just recently voted Greyhound of the Year, Juvenile Class by the American Greyhound Writers.

As for Mac Tray, the favorite, he became internationally prominent when he finished second in the $50,000 race at West Flagler that was open to greyhounds from all countries. Here he boasts the fastest clockings of the season over both the 5/16ths-mile distances. He won the recent Marathon Speed Classic and both Inter-City races with Sarasota.

Rounding out the Derby field will be O. B.'s Melon, Upstager, Mary McLain, Topka Rose and Protocol.

Calvin Griffith, president of the Minnesota Twins, will present the trophy to the owner of the winning greyhound.

After tonight just two more days of racing remain for lights go out with the running of the Au Revoir Handicap Monday night. There will be matinees both tomorrow and Monday.

New Hope For Paret
NEW YORK (UPI)—Henry (Kid) Paret remained in a "moderate coma" today at Roosevelt Hospital but his wife held new hope for his recovery.

"I think he's going to make it," said Mrs. Lucy Paret after spending her fifth straight night at the bedside of the stricken former welterweight champion.

DERBY FAVORITE—Mac Tray, one of greyhound racing's all-time leading money winners with more than $30,000 to his credit, is a solid favorite to win the 27th annual Central Florida Derby tonight at the Sanford-Orlando Kennel Club. Fred Whitehead's champion has tuned up for the top race of the season by winning six of his last seven starts including a Derby semi-final test Monday night.

Secretary Key Man In Bird Camp

United Press International
It's no joke in the Baltimore Orioles' Miami, Fla., training camp when they say the two key men in the team's pitching plans this year are Pfc. Steve Barber and club secretary Bob Brown.

Barber is the 23-year-old lefty fireballer who won 18 games in 1961 and is the recognized "ace" of the Orioles' strong staff. The hitch is that he's currently serving a year in the Army and will be available to the Orioles, at best, as a "Sunday pitcher."

Barber, who is able to train with the Orioles because he is on a 28-day furlough, demonstrated his power-pitching Thursday when he pitched six shutout innings in a 7-2 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals. It was the Orioles' fifth straight victory and their eighth in nine games.

Carlton Willey and Bob Buhl collaborated in a seven-hitter as the Milwaukee Braves broke a five-game losing streak with a 6-2 decision over the New York Mets.

Gordy Coleman and Jerry Lynch walloped homers to lead the Cincinnati Reds to a 15-6 triumph over the Philadelphia Phillies.

Paret has not regained consciousness since being knocked out by Emilio Griffith in the 12th round of their welterweight title bout at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

the Pittsburgh Pirates. Dick Stuart homered for the Pirates.

Rookie Bernie Allen, former Purdue quarterback, hit three straight doubles, including one that started a three-run ninth-inning rally, to lead the Minnesota Twins' 7-4 win over the Detroit Tigers. The loss was the Tigers' 11th in 18 exhibition games.

Lee Walls' double with two out in the 10th inning scored Wally Moon from first base and gave the Los Angeles Dodgers a 5-4 win over the New York Yankees. Mickey Mantle hit his fourth homer of the spring for the Yankees.

Frank Malzone's two-run homer enabled the Boston Red Sox to beat the San Francisco Giants, 4-2, behind the nine-hit pitching of Don Schwall and Hal Koolstad.

The Kansas City A's scored four runs although they got only one ball out of the infield in the fourth inning to beat the Washington Senators, 6-1. Dale Long's homer averted a shutout for the Senators.

George Altman went 4-for-4 with three singles and a homer as the Chicago Cubs defeated the Houston Colts, 7-5. Glen Hobbie, former President Eisenhower was a spectator at Palm Springs, Calif., where the Los Angeles Angels topped the Cleveland Indians, 7-4.

Plum Trade Fizzling?

DETROIT (UPI)—A six-man trade that included Cleveland Brown quarterback Mitt Plum and Detroit half-back Howard (Hopalong) Cassidy seemed headed for the scrap heap today when Len alternate signal caller Jim Ninowski balked at being traded.

In addition to Ninowski, 27, and Cassidy, 28, the Lions sent defensive end Bill Glass, 26, to the Browns. Cleveland, in return, sent Plum, the National Football League's leading passer the past two seasons, rookie halfback Tom Watkins, 24, and linebacker Dave Lloyd, 25, to Detroit.

News of the trade embittered Ninowski. Late Thursday night he announced he would not report to the Cleveland Browns. He said, "I'll quit football if I have to. You get tired of being tossed around like a toy. I'm going to settle down and take care of my business."

A spokesman for the Browns said Ninowski's refusal to join the team may have been his first reaction.

all round town!

with ... Dottie Higginbotham

IF YOU LOOK to the West, you may see three stars rising, these cool Spring nights. And without a doubt, you will hear the sound of music. Listen closely and you will discern that the music is made by three handsome and talented young men, and a guitar.

As yet un-named, the bright new trio has been making a hit at the high school and around town. It consists of three popular and well-liked boys, Doug Stenstrom, Jack Ivey and Mike Champion.

Harmonizing in a manner faintly reminiscent of the Kingston Trio or the Eberly's, but with a special style all their own, the three seem to have a mutual understanding when it comes to the blending of notes. Jack's versatility with his guitar carries them along with the rhythm and the beat.

The boys gave their first presentation just a few weeks ago and were such an instant hit, with students and parents, too, they were immediately deluged with invitations to sing at a whole series of functions, at school and around town, too.

Mike is on the track team, and Jack is on the swimming team (both teams are really hot) while Doug is student body president and has lots to do, too. So they are having a hard time trying to find the necessary hours to practice together, and fulfill all the requests that have been made.

At present, they are inviting the suggestion of names for their trio, promising a free copy of their first record to the winner!

WANT A JAPANESE PEN PAL?

We have a communication here from a 16 year old boy named Kiyonori Yamada, who writes pretty good English. He says his hobbies are stamp collecting, postal cards collecting, readings and all kinds of sports.

If anyone would like to start a correspondence, drop by the office and I'll give you the letter.

POSTCARDS from Henry Simpson show scenes from Bangkok, Thailand and from Hong Kong, China. One card from Bangkok says "This is one of the most fascinating places in the world, but very hot and humid." He reports everyone still in fine shape, having a wonderful time, and busy looking at everything.

HARRY AND ANNE WEIR will be back in their Mayfair home around the first of April we hear, via the grapevine.

Friends of the couple are delighted to hear of their return as both are attractive and popular.

ROTA, SPAIN, the duty station of Bob and Julie Anderson, more recently of Sanford, is proving to be a fascinating place to explore, according to word received by friends here.

They have been traveling about the country in their new station wagon, which just about takes up all the room in the narrow streets of that country.

The Andersons, with children Tommy and Danny and little Susan have been learning about the native customs, and stay busy all the time. No Navy quarters were available so they are living in town, which is quite an experience in a foreign country.

THE OFFICERS WIVES CLUB at NAS is promoting a benefit card party for April 5, to be held at the NAS Ballroom, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m. The benefit is for the Navy-Marine Residence Foundation.

Retired and reserve friends are asked to contact Mrs. Albert Antar for reservations and military personnel can call Mrs. Everett Jones to make reservations.

Pat Thompson is general chairman for the whole party.

Club, had a small taste of competition during intermission. Strictly on the spur of the moment, a "bunch of boys" which included Doug Stenstrom, Mike Champion, Charles Itabun, Dale Duncan and deep-voiced Powell Austin took over the three mikes, with the huge amplifiers used by the Rebels, and proceeded to give the audience a little of their own version of gospel singing. They weren't bad at all and the audience, amused and somewhat surprised gave them good-natured approval. The high school singers, carried away with their instant success, were finally hustled off the stage with mock consciousness by some of the members of the Rebels.

They arrived by plane and will remain for a few more days. Mr. and Mrs. Richard Walker and children of Fort Lauderdale are spending the weekend with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. F. Mills, and his grandmother, Mrs. Richard Teneyck. Mr. and Mrs. Alfred W. Kirachstein, of 145 Country Club Circle, have their cousin, Mr. and Mrs. William Jaeger, and two children from Long Island visiting with them for 10 days. Mr. Kirachstein is the new clerk of the local draft board. Friends of Mrs. Lew Luster will be glad to learn that she has returned to her home on Country Club Road, Lake Mary, after an absence of almost six months. She had a complicated operation (thyroidectomy) at the Community Hospital in Medina, Ohio. A long convalescent period was spent with her children,

Joint Meeting Held By Leagues

A joint meeting was held recently by the members of the Sanford Story League and girls of the Little Women Junior Story League. The Episcopal Parish House was the setting for the occasion.

The Little Women, with the help of their sponsor, Mrs. Betty Snyder, took the group "Around the World on a Magic Carpet," by telling stories from many lands. The girls proved to be very talented and poised story tellers.

The stories told were folk tales from Alaska, China, India, Africa, Turkey, Brazil, Pennsylvania, Wisconsin and Florida. The storytellers were Kathy Young, Patsy Owens, Sherry Scott, Duane Vihlen, Sharon Scott, Linda Lee, Renee Levi, Danita Levi, Kathy Lee and Sandra Metzler.

Mrs. Snyder played two accordion solos, "Aloha Oe," and "Two Guitars." Mrs. W. L. Roche presided at the business meeting and Mrs. Harold Pauver served as recording secretary. Those appointed on the nominating committee were Mrs. Clarence Welch, Mrs. Fred Robb and Mrs. Harold Pauver.

The speaker's table held a lovely arrangement of iris, anemones and blue birds. They were furnished by Mrs. S. J. Nix and later sent to Little Calix Juras, a patient in Orange Memorial Hospital.

The refreshment table was covered with a lace cloth and decorated with pink camellias and fern. Green candles were used in crystal candelabra. Green punch, cookies and candies were served by the hostesses, Mrs. Gretchen Crowell, Mrs. K. Mykannen, Mrs. E. C. Williams and Mrs. Harold Pauver.

Mothers of the Little Women were guests for the occasion.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I wish I knew what to do about a woman I must see very often, and who is making a nervous wreck of me. Whenever she is around she monopolizes the conversation. She has something to say on every subject, whether she knows anything about it or not. Her big fault is breaking into a conversation. This butting-in business makes me very angry. No one can finish a sentence while she is present. She is the kind who can dish it out, but can't take it. Don't tell me to quit seeing her. She is a relative and lives near me, and I don't want a family fight.

NERVOUS

let's call him "John"—for nine years. During that time "John" endeared himself to my family, who thought he was tops. He wasn't as "tops" as they thought he was, but that's another story.

"John and I were divorced. My family blamed me. I didn't care to defend myself by tearing down "John" so, of course, he is still tops with my family.

When they have family get-togethers, they invite "John." He doesn't have the good sense to refuse, so consequently he and I are thrown together often. I annoy me because I want to with my family, but I don't enjoy myself with "John" there. Is there a solution?"

JOHN'S EX

DEAR NERVOUS: The type of person you describe couldn't care less about listening. All she wants to do is talk. Either you must fight fire with fire—go right on talking, and continue while she attempts to interrupt you—or you must turn in your tongue and surrender.

DEAR EX: Tell the one in your family with whom you feel you could be the most candid that you would like to attend the family get-togethers, but would appreciate knowing in advance if "John" will be there. It is your privilege to protect yourself from social situations which could be embarrassing.

DEAR ABBY: I belong to a poker club. I won't say I clean up on the girls every week, but I win more than I lose. Whenever I win a pot, one woman says, "Oh, well, lucky in cards — unlucky in love." In other words, my husband is no bargain. I am very satisfied with my husband and I resent the implication. How should I handle her? She is getting on my nerves.

LUCKY IN CARDS

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SLEEP-LESS NIGHTS": If your religion permits it, telephone your local PLANNED PARENTHOOD center and tell them what you have told me. The Lord doesn't want you to have any more children than you can feed.

DEAR LUCKY: Call her bluff and ask her to explain her remark.

For Abby's booklet, "How To Have A Lovely Wedding," send 50 cents to Abby, Box 3365, Beverly Hills, Calif.

DEAR ABBY: I was married to—

Jacoby On Bridge

The chief test of a really great player is his ability to find the winning play in a doubtful contract.

John Crawford, one of our greatest players, looked over dummy and remarked, "We may be wrecked on the rocks of distribution, but at least there are two entirely different methods of playing this hand to make. At least I know trumps are going to break for me."

Thereupon, Johnny proceeded to wrap up his slam. He discarded three of his clubs on dummy's top spades, led a heart to his king, went back to dummy's ace of hearts, discarded another club on the queen of hearts, ruffed dummy's last heart with a small that did him no good. Johnny threw him in with the queen of trumps and West had either to lead away from his king of clubs or give Johnny a ruff and discard.

If you haven't figured out the other line of play as yet, here it is: You win the ace of trumps and lead a trump back. West will probably lead a spade. Now you cash dummy's ace of clubs and high spades and run off trumps. If the player with the long hearts also holds the king of club he will have been the victim of a Vienna coup.

Why did Johnny try the elimination play rather than the Vienna coup? Easy! The Vienna coup would not have worked, the elimination play did.

We The Women: By Ruth Millet

"The secret of having a good party in Washington is how many celebrities one can pack in," says a Washington newspaper woman. Well, maybe so—in Washington. But that's not the secret of having a good party in your or my home town—thank goodness.

If a good party is one where everyone, including the host and hostess, has a good time (and what else is a good party?) then you don't need even one celebrity to throw one heck of a good party, no matter where you live.

What you do need for a good party are the following:

Guests who are invited for one reason and for one alone—because the host and hostess like them and enjoy their company. Put the guest list on any other basis (paying back people you "owe" but don't care about, entertaining business "contacts," or trying to outdo some other hostess) and you just aren't starting with the most necessary ingredient of a good party—friends.

You also need a host and hostess who are relaxed enough to enjoy their guests... who are delighted to have them arrive and who hate to see them leave. That kind of enthusiasm is catching.

Then whatever you serve in the way of food and drink should be the best you can provide—not the most elaborate, just the best. Good simple food makes a bigger hit than more elaborate food that you can manage easily.

There's one more important item in having a good party. Every guest should feel he is just as important as the party as any other guest. That is, every guest should feel that in this particular gathering he is a VIP. The host and hostess who can make their guests feel like that don't need any celebrities to spark a party. If every guest is important to the host and hostess and is made to feel he is—then every guest is a VIP.

JACK SOO, Nancy Kwan, Miyoshi Umeki and James Shigeta in a scene from the "Flower Drum Song" coming to the Movieland Drive-In Sunday.

Musical Film Drive-In Bound

That motion picture screen at the Movieland Drive-In is wearing its brightest and happiest smile these days, thanks to the magical music, the spectacular dances, and the heart-warming comedy and pathos of Universal-International's sparkling "Flower Drum Song" which makes a brilliant box office evening.

This fine Ross Hunter production, in association with Joseph Fields, adapted masterfully for the screen from the Rodgers and Hammerstein Broadway musical smash, literally explodes in color with musical merriment woven around a delightful and rickety conflict between the age-old customs of the Orient and the ring-a-ding modernities of life in San Francisco Chinatown today.

Other features on the program which will run through to Tuesday is "The Burning Hills" with Tab Hunter and Natalie Woods.

A triple feature program is scheduled for Friday and Saturday. They are "Last Of The Vikings," "Desert Warrior," and "Gunstreet."

'Four Horsemen' To Be At Ritz

One of Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer's greatest pictures for 1932 is the film version, in CinemaScope and color, of the famous Vicente Blasco-Ibanez novel, "The Four Horsemen of the Apocalypse," brought to the screen at the Ritz Sunday with a notable all-star cast, filmed largely on location in Paris and the magnificent French chateau country, and directed by the brilliant Academy Award winner Vincente Minnelli.

More than three years of preparation were devoted to this classic drama which is at once a passionate love story, the story of a family torn asunder by divided loyalties, the spectacle of Paris invaded by the Nazis during World War II, and the suspenseful drama of a rich and reckless actor who devotes his life to pleasure until he is caught up in the realities of a tremendous conflict.

Playing leading roles in the large cast are Glenn Ford, Ingrid Thulin, the celebrated Swedish star in her first Hollywood film; Charles Boyer, Lee J. Cobb, Paul Henreid, Paul Lukas, Yvette Mimieux and Karl Boehm, young Austrian star also making his American film debut. The picture's panoramic scenes also called for hundreds of bit players and extras.

Lions Play Lyman Today

The Greyhounds will be looking for their sixth win in as many starts. They have a meet be out after the win against a tough Oviedo nine.

The game will get underway at 4 p.m. at the Lions' field.

Swim Meet

Seminole High School's girl swimmers travel to Daytona Beach today where they will meet the girls from Seabreeze High at 4 p.m. This will be the second meeting of the two teams.

Astronauts Upset Over Slayton Grounding

Simmering Down A Little Now

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The seven Mercury astronauts now are beginning to "simmer down a little."

But the fact is, a source close to them said today, that "they were damned upset" about the abrupt withdrawal a couple of weeks ago of Donald K. Slayton as prime astronaut for the next orbital flight in the Mercury man-in-space series.

"They were sufficiently upset, it was learned, to enter a plea in Slayton's behalf with President Kennedy. Nothing, apparently, came of it, because Slayton still is grounded."

Slayton, a 35-year-old Air Force major, was picked last year to follow Marine Lt. Col. John H. Glenn Jr. into orbit. Glenn flew "Duce" twice around earth Feb. 20. Another three-orbit flight is scheduled for May.

Some time in the first two weeks of March Slayton was told by his superiors in the National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) that he was being "re-evaluated." On March 13 he was summoned to Washington. He, and the public, learned that day that he had been disqualified for the second orbital flight because of an intermittent heart flutter NASA had known about since November, 1959.

Slayton himself feels he was the victim of a ruling that should not have been made. He disclosed this Thursday in a letter to Mayor Ralph Osborne of Sparta, Wis., his home town, he said: "I feel the situation developed through ignorance of the problem and resulting panic, and can therefore best be resolved through education of responsible personnel."

He made it clear, however, that he would stay with the manned space flight program, but he will get a later orbital mission if stress tests prove it would not endanger him.

Slayton was stunned by his disqualification—"damned disappointed," as he put it. A lot of other people were sure

Ted Kennedy Admits Error At Harvard

BOSTON (UPI)—Edward M. (Ted) Kennedy admitted today that in 1951 he withdrew from Harvard University at the request of school officials who found he arranged with a fellow freshman to take a test for him.

Kennedy disclosed details of the incident to Robert Healy, Washington correspondent for the Boston Globe. The incident has been the subject of rumors for some time in Massachusetts where Kennedy is a candidate for the U. S. Senate seat vacated by his brother, the President, after he went to the White House.

Kennedy, 30, told Healy this story: "I entered Harvard in 1929 at the age of 18. During the second semester of my freshman year I made a mistake. I was having difficulty in one course, a foreign language.

I became an apprentice about that I arranged for a fellow freshman friend of mine to take the examination for me in that course. "The dean learned of this and my friend and I were asked to withdraw with the dean. I was not expelled, but I was asked to leave for a period of absence, provided that during that time I could demonstrate a record of constructive and responsible citizenship."

Kennedy joined the Army and served in Europe for two years as an infantryman. When he returned, he was readmitted to Harvard and was accepted. He said his friend, who was not identified, also was accepted again.

"I worked hard, passed all my courses — some with honors—and was graduated in good standing in 1936," he said.

He then went to the University of Virginia law school. "The authorities at that institution were fully aware of all the facts surrounding the Harvard incident," he said. "They have an honor system at the law school of the University of Virginia. I was accepted at that institution and graduated in good standing three years later."

Fire Chief Visits Lyman

By Jane Casselberry

Color movies used during the instructive sessions before the various classes were "What's Your Fire?" and "No Fool With Fire" and the dramatic story of "Mouth-to-mouth resuscitation." "That They May Live."

Homemakers Class Meets In Casselberry

By Jane Casselberry

The Christian Homemakers Class of the Casselberry Community Methodist Church met at 8 p. m. Tuesday in Weaver Hall.

Bill Shook, president of the class, conducted the business meeting. Mrs. Marvin McClain, vice president and program chairman, read quotations from books by Dr. Tom Doolley and Rev. Oscar C. Poole, pastor of the church, offered the prayer.

Jack Waldman, chairman of the ways and means committee, gave a progress report on the sale of chocolate bars and centers of Easter candy the class is selling and Mrs. Frank Mesick read a letter from the orphan boy in India which the class sponsors.

The group voted to help send delegates from the local MYP to the Methodist Youth Camp near Leesburg this summer. The class also is investigating the possibility of sponsoring a missionary or native pastor for a year.

Following the meeting Mrs. Poole and Mrs. I. G. Reuter served refreshments of sandwiches and tea.

Jack Paar Goes Out Fighting On TV

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jack Paar wound up nearly five years of conversation and controversy Thursday night in a manner that must have delighted his ardent devotees.

For his final fling on the midnight forum, the angry young man once again came out fighting.

The motifs of the evening—Atty. Gen. Robert Kennedy and Richard M. Nixon—were among those tendered good wishes via film—took something of a back seat as the entertainer devoted much of the first half of the 105-minute show to such old-fashioned topics as colonialism and Dorothy Kilgallen and Walter Winchell and to Newswatch magazine.

Paar took especial exception to the article about him in the current issue of the magazine. He claimed some of the material was erroneous and charged that Newswatch "prints knowing untruths... knowing falsehoods."

This was in connection with Paar's explanation of why he had said some kind things about Fidel Castro at a time when many Americans were beginning to shy away from the Cuban leader as the Communist pattern of his revolt in the Spanish-American War, had fought in the Boer Rebellion and in the Philippines.

Survivors include his wife, Florence of Lockhart and two sisters, Mrs. Edythe Rains of Idaho and Mrs. James A. Goss of California.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from the Care-land Funeral Home in Orlando.

A. L. Hoover, 81 Dies In Orlando

Mr. A. L. (Al) Hoover, 81, resident of 9019 Bear Lake Rd., died Wednesday at the Florida Sanitarium and Hospital.

Born in Viola, Ill., he had lived in the Lehigh area since 1921. A member of the VFW he was a veteran of the Spanish-American War, had fought in the Boer Rebellion and in the Philippines.

Survivors include his wife, Florence of Lockhart and two sisters, Mrs. Edythe Rains of Idaho and Mrs. James A. Goss of California.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday from the Care-land Funeral Home in Orlando.

Longwood Navy Man In Pacific

COAST OF CALIFORNIA (UPI)—Navy Lt. (jg) Endell W. Wright, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert T. Wright, of Longwood, is serving with Patrol Squadron 14, which is participating in Exercise Pat Shef off the coast of Southern California, March 12-22.

The exercise, largest Navy training maneuver in the Pacific First in nearly a year, involves more than 80 ships, many aircraft and elements of the First Marine Division and the Third Marine Air Wing.

Wright was becoming apparent. Paar said he hadn't "convinced" with Communists a visit to Cuba after the rebellion, as Miss Kilgallen allegedly wrote. That he had hoped, like others here, that the ousting of Fulgencio Batista would be good for Cuba and admitted a naive to such notions at that time.

Paar further explained that he was led to accept Castro at first because an interview secured in Havana by Jim Bishop, Hearst columnist, who accompanied Paar on a post-revolt visit. The filmed interview, shown briefly on the program, revealed Major Mueller, described as auxiliary bishop of Havana, as replying to Bishop's questions to the effect that the new government "is not Communist; is very democratic" and that there was "very little" communism in Cuba.

NRC's five-a-week "Tonight" program continues with guest hosts until Johnny Carson takes it over Oct. 8.
