Giants Strongest Since 1933, Says B. Terry, Manager

Cards And Cubs Are Teams Gotham Nine Has Got To Beat

By BILL TERRY Manager New York Giants PEPSACOLA, Mar. 23.—(AP) I think we have the strongest club we've had since 1933 and the Giants have a good chance of winning the National League pennant. I figure the Chicago Cubs and the St. Louis Cardinals are the teams we have to beat.

"This last hour change isn't going to do Borah any good," the elderly, gray-haired physician-economist snapped at that time. Previously, he had indicated he was willing to support Borah but the senator's criticism apparently had ended the like hood, Townsend coupled his remark with an announcement that third party petitions would be circulated in every state to enlist "approximately 14 million people," as a show of strength.

But all this was swept aside when Townsend told this writer he would back Borah against the Republican field and President Roosevelt.

"Borah has not come out straight for our plan," Townsend explained, "but he has moved farther toward it than any other candidate of either party. He has repeatedly said on the floor of the Senate that any movement of the people back by the millions represented by this movement should have the most careful consideration of the legislators. We know he will give a sympathetic ear. And we feel he will lead our movement when the time comes."

"Any followers who do not agree with him are free to remain Democrats," he said.

"I am not advising one way or the other," he emphasized, "but I have changed my own registration to Republican because I feel that we need look for nothing from the present Administration. The Democratic Party seems determined to keep the country one-sided. Which is not the best for all concerned."

Continuing in the same vein, he assured his supporters that there was no desire on his part to "regiment" them.

"Antocracy has ended for our movement," he said. "I want the millions of American people who follow the leadership of the movement to know that a pure democracy among the membership in our clubs is to control. If there has ever been within our official ranks any effort to regimentation, that day has ended."

"We are not going, either locally or nationally, to endorse any candidates for Congress, by which I mean that we will have no official slate. Our local and regional and national leaders will not be permitted to make deals with any politicians. These leaders have better things to do than play politics. If there is a choice between two candidates, our people will be urged to follow the man known to be favorable to our movement; otherwise it will be a fair field."

Townsend indicated he was not over-confident that Borah would be nominated.

"It is our hope that we may line up enough delegates to the Republican convention to nominate Borah," he said. "We will work toward that end."

Upon completing the interview, Townsend left by automobile for a desert resort where he will rest briefly before returning to Washington.

Both men were charged by the police with reckless driving.

Townsend Throws His Backing To William E. Borah

Bigger, Better Gooseberries Is New U. S. Goal

WASHINGTON, Mar. 23.—(AP) A clarion call from the gooseberry lovers of the nation has been answered by the Department of Agriculture.

Frederick D. Richey, chief of the bureau of plant industry, has indicated Congress in explanation of experimental work to be done under the act.

The experimental work, Richey reported, will be "in breeding American varieties of gooseberries, using native species adapted to our conditions but now of inferior quality."

The bureau's collection of domestic and foreign genes is said to be the largest and most valuable reference collection in the world.

First Lady Says Women Who Wed Can Have Career

(Continued From Page One) and President Hamilton Holt were sitting beside each other in the chamber that they share a striking characteristic of appearance, cautiously alive eyes, eyes that seem to stare not only what is happening now, but what is going to happen. In preparatory school "Rights of the Round Table" days, I would have said that they both looked as if they are "following a gram."

"Do you and President Roosevelt ever read books together in the evening?" I asked, still bent upon my quest of trying to find out what great careers do to home life in marriage.

"No, we don't," she replied. "I have read a great deal of books, but I don't read with the president."

"There was a little secret ceremony in the chapel when several stary-eyed Rollins girls initiated Mrs. Roosevelt into "Libra," and when it was over, the President's wife very graciously turned back to me, and said, "What was it you wanted to ask me?"

"Well, what I want to know is—'I am puzzled and halted. 'Do you think it's possible for a married woman to have a career of her own without hurting her marriage?'"

Mrs. Roosevelt replied, "There is no earthly reason why a married woman shouldn't have a career—only her work has to be subordinated to that of her husband's. If there is a place or a time when one must give in, the wife must make the sacrifice."

She smiled at the secretary and went to the Society Center of the chapel to tell her husband goodbye. I heard her call to him, "Have a good time, just as any other American wife might when she was wishing her husband 'good fighting,' and then off she went with President Hamilton Holt to walk up Rollins' Path of Fame before leaving for Jacksonville by motor with her brother, Alan Roosevelt.

The impression she left behind her did not belie the reports I have always heard—an intense eagerness about life, amazing Roosevelt vitality, a keen awareness of "the world we live in," a simple sincerity of manner and above everything a warm and glowing humanness.

Tornadoes Add To Death Toll, Floods Recede

Ohio At Flood Along Indiana

Scores Of Families Flee From Homes In The Lowlands

With storms increasing the death toll in the Midwest, southern and eastern states, at the fury of the flood-rampaging Ohio lessened today as the river swept over more lowlands downstream from Cincinnati. The death list after a week of wind and flood mounted to 177.

The Ohio River neared the crest at Cincinnati, but unlike the inundation at Pittsburgh and Wheeling, failed to reach the business district. This was true, also, in river towns nearby Cincinnati, upstream, the river either was leveling off or receding. Downstream, it was at flood stage along the Indiana boundary. Scores of families, given ample warning, left lowland homes.

Tornadic winds sweeping up the Mississippi valley took five lives, four in Missouri and one in Memphis. Hall and wind wrought considerable property and crop damage. Graphically portraying the destructive force of not only wind but of wind to the nation's east, Chicago was deluged by down-pour of rain.

Telephone communications with Kansas, Missouri, were down and reports from Conway, 30 miles north, said the hamlet of 25 persons was wiped out. Bader is northeast of Springfield.

First report of the tornado came from Niagara where five houses were blown away. Mrs. Rivera's body was picked up between her home and storm cellar. Her daughters, Olga and Lola, were among the injured.

A major dust storm, boiling for two days in the Western dust belt, swept eastward tonight in a choking, blinding fog.

The same kind of scourge which cut winter wheat farmers on the western prairie in 1934 was under way over a 2000-mile path and still spreading.

Southwesterly gales were sucking up tons of the loose topsoil of the Texas and Oklahoma panhandles and sweeping it toward the Great Lakes. Visibility closed down in the path of the storm.

Vivian Speer Announces For Commissioner

Candidate Helped Reduce Assessments Of City From 1934 To Seven Millions

Declaring that he is making the race squarely on his record as a former city commissioner who had always fought for tax reduction and at the same time had done everything he could to keep Sanford in the forefront of progressive communities, Vivian Speer yesterday announced his candidacy for the vacancy on the Commission caused by the death of the late T. L. Dumas.

Fira elected to the Commission in 1929, Mr. Speer said that he had been among those who had actively worked for a reduction in tax assessments which resulted in cutting the assessments in Sanford from $21.2 million dollars to approximately 7 million dollars, bringing about a corresponding reduction in taxation.

At the same time that he was working for tax reduction, Mr. Speer said, he was devoting his energies to the upbuilding of the community, being particularly interested in the development of the aviation field, the sewer project, the securing of right-of-ways and easements for the Lake Front Boulevard, the clearing of the title on the Mayfair Hotel, and the acquisition by the City of the lakefront land between the Hotel and Sanford Avenue, and its dedication for recreational purposes.

Mr. Speer is given credit by his former associates on the Commission for having been largely responsible for the purchase by the City of the McCracken Concrete Pipe works which enabled the City later to make materials for the sewer project, under Mr. Speer's direction, at so small a cost to keep the project within the 75-cent per foot requirement of the City.

In addition to Mrs. Jameson, other visitors at the luncheon today included Charles Bayles, of Van Wert, Ohio, Al Blerly of Water Haven, Fla., J. V. C. Chapman, of Orlando, Fla., and T. H. Eckerson of Jersey City, N. J.

Kelleghan of Sanford will assist Father John Cotter of DeLand in conducting the service.

Mr. Mayer was born in Austria, Hungary in 1884, where he earned the following professions at the age of 25. He came to this country in 1917, and in 1928 he moved to DeLand, Fla., where he has since resided.

Charles Marshall, who had announced as a candidate for constable in the Sanford district, advised Engineer Earle yesterday that he would forsake his political aspirations and would continue on the WPA payroll.

Not so with the two superintendents, Fred A. Dyson, candidate for County commissioner in the Second district, and C. M. Hand, candidate for sheriff. They are going to stay in their respective races for public office, even at the cost of being stricken from the WPA payrolls.

Mr. Dyson, however, though not on the payroll, as Mr. Earle told the City Commission he "had to have at least one experienced man who knows how to lay paving bricks."

The engineer asked that the City employ Mr. Dyson, but as the paving work is a WPA project, not paid for by the City, there was some question as to what to do, and the answer was not forthcoming at last night's meeting.

Excepting on days when it has rained, the paving work is proceeding rapidly on Park Avenue. The brick has been laid on the widened artery from Fulton Street to Commercial Street including the Commercial Intersection, and the crews are today proceeding south from Commercial toward First Street.

NATIONAL GUARD PLANS TO PUBLISH Monday's Herald

Three Companies To Have Full Charge Of Issue For Day

Officers of Sanford's three national guard companies next Monday when full charge of the publication of The Sanford Herald will be taken over by the guardsmen in an effort to raise money needed to help finance the completion of the new armory which is now under construction.

The decision to publish the Herald for one day came last night during a meeting presided over by Col. J. C. Hutchinson. The other officers who agreed upon the plan were: Capt. Harold C. Washburn, Capt. George McRory, Capt. A. W. Knox, and Lieutenant W. D. Hofmann, Karl Nordgren, and Bill Runge.

For the past few weeks the National Guard has been seeking funds of raising the necessary funds with which to complete the electrical wiring in the new armory. Recently officers of the Guard appeared before the County Commissioners and secured enough money to pay for plumbing work and fixtures but the electrical work will cost approximately $1,800 and this amount must be raised principally by the members of the three units if the armory is to be completed.

HARVEY HOLDS CHAMP TO DRAW IN ONE GAME OF CHESS LAST NIGHT

Newell W. Banks of Detroit, Mich., national chess and checker champion, failed to win every game during exhibition play in the Valdes Hotel last night, for W. L. Harvey held him to a draw in one of the two games of chess.

Before the chess games, the champion (blindfolded) played against five other players simultaneously, and won each game. His opponents were K. W. Fite, Andrew Lees, Ray Monsalvo, Jack Keene and Mr. Harvey.

After this stunt he played chess and checkers simultaneously. Others who played were Nick Zarnovcan, Gus Lovejoy, Dr. G. S. Selman, Dr. W. D. Gardner, A. C. Madden, Arthur Marchen, J. Seal of Atlanta, Tom Halme, M. B. Smith, Robert Ramsey, R. M. Burns, H. E. Pope, Andrew Lees, Fred L. Scott and J. R. Stewart.

Mr. Stewart, president of the Sanford Chess Club, said the Club "is very proud that one of its members succeeded in holding the world champion to a draw in one of his games."

DEFINITE, LASTING FIGHT NOT YET WON AGAINST SHIP CANAL, SAYS DORNER

The margin of one vote majority in the Senate yesterday against recommending the proposed appropriation for the Florida Cross-States canal was not, in the opinion of C. F. Dorner, chairman of the Central and South Florida Water Conservation Commission, that the fight against the canal has been definitely won.

"It is not a definite and lasting victory," he said, "and we dare not let our guard down. We have had with such limited funds at our disposal. It is hard to conceive," he continued, "that one small county (because the fight centered here) could have accomplished so much in a nationwide campaign. We have received some assistance, but not as much as we need, and it is the urgent hope of every member of the committee that growers and shippers will come in one and help us overcome the deficit in our treasury."

WPA Workers Can't Run For Public Office

One Quits Politics, Two Forsake WPA, And Engineer On Paving Worries

WPA workers can't engage in politics. That's the order from Washington, Engineer W. S. Earle has been advised, and neither he nor O. P. Swope, administrator in this section, can change it, he informed the City Commission last night.

As a result, the engineer in charge of paving operations in Sanford is in a quandary as under the anti-politics ruling of the WPA he has lost both his superintendents. He was in danger of losing one of his foremen, but that individual decided to stay by the WPA and forget the political bee that has been buzzing around him the last few weeks.

Charles Marshall, who had announced as a candidate for constable in the Sanford district, advised Engineer Earle yesterday that he would forsake his political aspirations and would continue on the WPA payroll.

Not so with the two superintendents, Fred A. Dyson, candidate for County commissioner in the Second district, and C. M. Hand, candidate for sheriff. They are going to stay in their respective races for public office, even at the cost of being stricken from the WPA payrolls.

Laymen representing nearly every church in the City, meeting Sunday afternoon, planned for daily services during Holy Week, beginning on Monday evening, Apr. 6. H. C. DeLoach is chairman of the Laymen's Association.

Plans are to hold the inter-denominational services in the First Congregational Church, beginning at 8:10 o'clock each evening, and closing promptly at 6:30 o'clock. Each service will be largely musical, at least 15 minutes of the 20 minutes allotted to be given over to singing, according to P. R.

Intensifying Or Amplifying Sound Is To Be Illegal

The City Commission placed on first reading last night an ordinance to regulate "intensification and amplification" of sound, providing for a license tax of $10 a day on sound trucks.

Under the ordinance, no sound truck could traverse any one street more than once a day, and sound must be turned off a block from any hospital and the same distance from a school or church while school was in progress or religious services were being held.

Townsend Says That Third Party May Be Organized

LOS ANGELES, Mar. 21.—(AP)—The threat of a Townsend Pension Plan third party was revived last night by Dr. Francis E. Townsend, author of the plan which would give $200 a month to persons over 60 years of age.

He declared it "the same coldness (to the plan) is displayed by the Republicans as has been displayed by the Democrats, a third party, composed exclusively of Townsend Plan followers, will be formulated, with the avowed purpose of shelving both Democrat and Republican parties perpetually."

Dr. Townsend yesterday announced he was changing his registration from Democratic to Republican and spoke favorably of Senator Borah, Republican presidential candidate. He emphasized, however, he had not pledged his organization to support Senator Borah or the nomination.

Anything he does, he said, will be merely an expression of his personal attitude. "I am not trying to commit our organization to anyone," Dr. Townsend declared. "In politics, one can never know when a candidate's attitude may change and it is not my wish to be entangled by pledges."

League Council Quits Before Hitler Replies

No Further Action On Treaty Is Taken By Group Before Adjourning

LONDON, Mar. 24.—(AP)—The League of Nations Council, without waiting to hear directly from Reichsfuehrer Hitler, voted today to adjourn without taking further action on Germany's violation of the Locarno treaty. Council members decided they would reassemble at Geneva whenever called to meet. In the meantime, England, France, Belgium and Italy, co-signers and guarantors of the Locarno pact, are to continue negotiations with Germany. An authoritative source said France was "disappointed at Great Britain's attitude toward Germany," and consequently sought an adjournment.

Hitler sent his reply to the treaty powers' proposals today, officials saying he offered no counter-proposals to the powers' suggestions that international troops go into the Rhineland, but that he left the door wide open for further negotiations. The French said they were determined to oppose any counter proposals.

Italy's Markets Crash

ROME, Mar. 24.—(AP)—The stock markets in Rome and Milan crashed today following Mussolini's abolition of private industry. The Milan market dropped 100 points, while the Rome market fell 150 points. Mussolini took the step in preparation for an expected European war.

In striking phrases, Il Duce yesterday announced the following measures:

1. Abolished the Italian Chamber of Deputies.
2. Abolished all industries to take the profits from war.
3. Asserted economic self-sufficiency.

May Be Necessary To Amend Present City Election Ordinance

Possible entrance of a third candidate in the special election to fill the vacancy on the City Commission caused by the death of Mayor T. L. Dumas would make amending the City's election ordinance advisable, City Attorney Fred R. Wilson told the commission last night.

The present ordinance provides that the candidate receiving a majority vote shall be declared elected. In the event there are only two candidates a majority vote would be probably, the City attorney stated but if there are three or more candidates that would be doubtful. He suggested that if a third candidate enters the race the word "majority" in the ordinance be changed to read "plurality."

A Desperate Situation

The Herald has repeatedly pointed out the want of adequacy of present hospital facilities in Sanford. We have urged the powers that be to do everything they could toward enlarging and improving the building which now houses the hospital staff. In times past, when local funds were more plentiful than at present, we have advocated the construction of an entirely new hospital. Other civic minded leaders in our community have seen the same need and have done what they could to get PWA and WPA funds for hospital improvements.

These efforts thus far have met with little success though the local hospital throughout the winter months has been crowded to capacity. There has scarcely been a day during the past few months when every available room was not taken. Last Sunday when three unfortunate automobile accidents unexpectedly occurred in this vicinity and seven dead or injured victims were rushed hurriedly to the hospital, there was nothing which could immediately be done for them but leave them lying on the floor.

The situation in the hospital was such as to cause our reporter to write: One of the victims "was painfully cut on the face and head, and blood was streaming from his wounds as she sat on a chair in the reception hall of the hospital last night waiting for room in the over-crowded institution". . . another victim "was stretched out on a couch in the hall, as there was not a vacant room in the hospital to which he could be taken". . . though two other victims "were so critically injured that their recovery was considered as extremely doubtful, there was no place in the institution in which they could be given immediate attention. The operating room was in use at the time the accident victims were taken there, and they had to wait until the operations being performed were concluded. . . Every available physician and surgeon in the city responded to the call for help, and they and the hospital nurses, working under the handicap of inadequate facilities, put in the night treating the victims, and they continued duty this morning."

That, it seems to us, is an amazing story of totally inadequate hospitalization in a modern city. We hope that every resident of this city will take that story to heart and resolve to do something about it. It is bad enough to think of some person absolutely unknown to you sitting on a chair in a hospital with blood streaming down her face waiting her turn for assistance. But suppose that person had been yourself! Suppose it had been your mother, or your wife, or your child, and you had been standing there watching, waiting, and wondering, why somebody did not do something!

In this day of reckless driving and mad highway crazes, one never knows when his turn will come. Most of us are willing to take our chances. Most of us drive as if there had never been an accident in the world, or at least as if we had never seen one. But most of us know that we may be the next victim. And when we are picked up out of the ditch or off the shoulder of the road, with half a dozen bones broken, perhaps, and we are rushed to the hospital, we will hope that there will be at least one spare room and one spare bed on which we can rest while the operating room is made ready.

We hesitate to think what would happen in this fair city if there should ever be a serious disaster or a major calamity here. So far we have been extremely fortunate in never having anything more serious than an extra automobile accident or two to overcrowd our hospital, but suppose we should wake up some morning to find that a terrible explosion somewhere during the night had killed or maimed fifty or a hundred victims! Suppose we should have a hurricane here leaving a toll in its wake as it hits in Palm Beach and Miami! Suppose there should be a serious epidemic!

Such things happen somewhere every day. It can happen here. We are disgracefully unprepared for it! Sanford's community leaders and its civic body as a whole should resolve that out of additional federal relief allotments for Sanford, sufficient funds shall be devoted to a substantial hospital project until our requirements in this direction are more adequately filled.

The Sinister Celery Scandal

Now that the Senate has again turned down Senator Fletcher's cross state canal hobby, there will be more scandal than ever over the celery which our local farmers want the senators voting against the amendment last week. It seems that some very zealous critics of our legislative system are insinuating that the vote against the canal was deliberately purchased with a few stalks of celery.

"Something sinister is taking place or about to take place that ought to make the Senate Lobby Investigating Committee sit up and take notice of," roared up the telegram and letters passing between Washington and the State of Florida, insinuating the Washington Star. "It concerns celery—celery by the crate—and the proposed Florida Ship Canal. According to a document received by The Star from Sanford, Fla., the Central and South Florida Water Conservation Committee is sending forty crates of celery as a token of appreciation to the thirty-nine senators whose votes Tuesday killed the proposed appropriation for the cross-state canal. Senator Vandenberg, the announcement boldly declares, for his outstanding opposition got 'top credit'."

"Now, is that lobbying or is it not lobbying? Is the Slack committee sure that the Senators were not promised in advance that if they voted against the Florida canal project they would be rewarded by a crate of celery? Is there a single senator, weighing his vote, who would not be in favor of celery? The fact that the celery has been sent after, and not before, the vote, is not important. If a senator is rewarded when he will not vote to support certain bills, it is not lobbying. A crate of celery is a very small thing, but next time he may receive a crate of lettuce, or even spinach, by voting right."

"Something should be done to stop this or some other form of bribery. The Senate Lobby Investigating Committee should be sure that the Senators are not promised in advance that if they vote against the Florida canal project they will be rewarded by a crate of celery. It is not lobbying. If a senator is rewarded when he will not vote to support certain bills, it is not lobbying. A crate of celery is a very small thing, but next time he may receive a crate of lettuce, or even spinach, by voting right."

Eddie Cantor Stars In "Strike Me Pink"
Eddie Cantor in "Strike Me Pink," the pop-eyed comedian's sixth annual musical extravaganza for Samuel Goldwyn, begins a two day run at the Ritz Theater Wednesday.

This lavish million-and-a-half dollar production, featuring Ethel Merman, Billy Elyer, Parkynarkus and William Frawley and a glorious new array of Goldwyn Girls, casts Eddie as a timid little college fellow whose secret passion for a glamorous night club singer, in the person of Miss Merman, moves him to take a correspondence course in personal magnetism, entitled "Man or Mouse, Who Are YOU!"

Then he inherits the management of a huge amusement park and becomes involved with a gang of slot machine racketeers who have put every previous manager on the spot.

"Strike Me Pink" was based on Clarence Irvington Kelland's Saturday Evening Post story and novel, "Drumland." The adaptation and screen play are by Frank Butler, Walter DeLeon and Francis Marion Warner. Twelve songs are responsible for the happy song hits which include "The Lady Dances," "First You Have Me High, Then You Have Me Low," "The Calabash Pipe," and "Rhapsody II Off."

Robert Altou staged the dances and assemblies and Gregg Toland photographed the dance numbers. Omar Kiam designed the costumes, and Richard Day created the sets.

Highlights of the musical are a thrilling, laugh-loaded comedy chase on a Giant Roller Coaster and a wild ballroom scene, with Eddie and Parkynarkus in the ballet and the gangsters at the controls.

Other prominent in the cast are Helen Lowell, Gordon Jones, Brian Donlevy, Jack LaRue, Susan O'Neil and Rita Rio. "Strike Me Pink" is released through United Artists.

ROLLINS HONORS THE ROOSEVELTS

Over the audience at Knowles Chapel at Rollins, there ran a ripple of expectancy, like the breath of a wedding just before the bride enters the church, and in the theater just before the curtain rises on a great star. The lofty nave, the spreading arches, the brilliant polychrome designs on the ceiling, the marble altar, the fine panelling of carved cypress and walnut, all combined to make this Spanish-classic chapel, designed by Ralph Adams Cram of Boston, a perfect setting for the services to be held there honoring President Franklin Delano Roosevelt and Mrs. Roosevelt.

The Renaissance rose window with its vivid reds and blues, the Rollins blue of the choir robes, even the lighting fixtures in red and blue, seemed to echo the patriotic color pattern of the American flag in the chancel. Just as the dignified impressive academic procession of be-capped and gowned college presidents, professors, and notables led by Marshal Weisberg came up the central aisle, I heard a loud whisper, "Hey, Charlie, who're you shooting for?" It was one of the newsmen men halting one of his fraternity as Fox, Paramount, and Hearst cameras were set up ready for action.

Seated just above me in the chancel so that I had a good view of the hem of his gown and a pair of very neat black shoes was a tall distinguished looking man in cap and gown. He was very kind about helping me identify Dr. Conrad (I've heard the Tallahassee girls talk about him so much that I felt he was an old friend), Dr. Allen of Stetson, and Dean Winslow Anderson of Rollins (I'll never forget him because he wrote, "Pass freely" on my precious press ticket that Mr. Clark of Rollins gave me).

Finally I said to my tall, unknown neighbor, "But where's Tiger?" I think he's wonderful. Don't you? I want to see Tiger."

He replied with a quiet smile, "Why, I'm Tiger."

Then suddenly, there was the steady boom of a twenty-one gun salute, cheering in the street outside, and the President entered on the arm of his military aid, Colonel Edward Watson. There was a blinding flood of light, the clicking of camera lenses, and the whirring of newsreels. An A. P. photographer asked me, "Do you mind if I stand on your table to take a picture?" I was so close I could almost have touched President Roosevelt and very proud because the A. P. man referred to the press table as "mine!" The President made a dramatic picture in his black cap and gown, his black and white striped tie, with his fine head, his fighting chin, his friendly grey eyes, and pleasant smile.

He paid a glowing tribute to "the varied culture, the tireless industry, and the independent thinking" of Dr. Holt. Those in the chancel who have watched Dr. Holt's dream of Rollins come true, who have seen the miracle this amazing man has made in Winter Park with their own eyes, who have followed the blazing trail of the educational pioneer during the past ten years, realized the truth of President Roosevelt's statement.

As the cameras about me clicked, I gathered some exciting mind pictures, impressions to take home with me... Mrs. Roosevelt and President Holt sitting by each other in the chancel with eyes of a different color but the same curiously alive look... Marvin McIntyre, secretary to the President, in a grey spring suit with a green and white tie... Novelist Irving Bacheller in purple hood and gold-tasseled cap shaking hands with the previous recipients of the Algernon Sydney Sullivan Medalion... among them young Rodman Lehman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Lehman of Sanford and grey-moustached, peasant-looking N. P. Yowell of Orlando... William Stockton of Jacksonville in the white fur hood of Oxford... T. W. Lawton of Sanford in academic robe... the ubiquitous Karl Lehmann, capped and gowned, jolly, purposeful, and beaming... Martin Andersen, Orlando publisher, in grey tweeds and blue tie with an amused smile at the tremendous eagerness of his cub reporter... Aroxis Hagopian, Rollins soprano who gave me the right sort of feeling inside when she sang "Stabat Mater."

The interesting tableau made by the presidents of the Florida colleges on a semi-circle with President Roosevelt and President Holt in the center with the damask of the tester above the altar making a rich background of crimson and gold... Dr. Ross T. McIntyre, White House physician, small and bald, and intelligent looking... Captain Wilson Brown, President Roosevelt's naval aid, and Adjutant General Vivian Collins, Governor Sholt's aid, both magnificent in gold braid... good looking Rollins boys wearing white carnations, acting as ushers... the courtesy of Miss Clara Adoffs of the Knowles Chapel office... my brief interview with Mrs. Roosevelt on cressets for women and a friendly handclasp from the President, both exciting memories for years to come.

Just before I left I had a few minutes with Dean Charles A. Wood Campbell of Rollins (I've been wanting to meet him ever since I heard his address, "Lovely Things," last October in the Chapel) and I dashed into his study to peek out of his window at President Roosevelt and Governor Sholt's drinking orange juice together and hear the President say, with a twinkle in his eye, "It's so good. It must be made of California oranges." And when you say that in Florida, you have to have a twinkle in your eye and a smile as nice as the President's!

"I hope you don't mind my using your study as a sort of Lady of Shalott window," I said to Dean Campbell.

"Why, of course not," replied the Dean, tall dignified, grey-haired in his doctor's gown and scarlet divinity hood, "Only," he coughed apologetically, "I was planning to dress here."
