New Easy Pastry for Chicken PIE!

using NEW EASY PASTRY

Regular Sliced Sliced Wheat Sliced Sandwich

CHICKEN PIE

This offers a practical solution to those chicken pie lovers who have often hesitated to serve this delicious dish because of time and effort involved in pastry making. Notice that the baking time is only 15 minutes... and, can't you think of other left-over meats which would benefit from this treatment?

Use frozen made or left-over chicken or turkey. Remove skin and bones from chicken pieces and mix with the gravy. If you are using left-over chicken and are short of gravy, add medium white sauce to cover the pieces of chicken so that there will be plenty of gravy.

Four into a ground sausage and cover with triangles of buttered bread (crust removed), fitting the triangles closely together. Bake at 400 degrees for 15 minutes or until bread is browned.

Nazi Admiral Raeder Is Put In Charge Of Anti-Invasion Unit

STOCKHOLM, July 9, (AP)—A new German "general staff" military branch headed by Admiral Erich Raeder has been organized to coordinate the anti-invasion unit.

The new branch will coordinate the anti-invasion unit, which is to be organized in a rooming house in Berlin, according to a report from the German press.

The branch is to be headed by Admiral Raeder, who is the commander in chief of the German navy. He is also the author of the "Z" plan, the German strategy for a possible invasion of Britain.

Inside WASHINGTON

Congress Fears for Health | Many Residents Now Dwell Of Overcrowded Washington | Amidst "Slim" Conditions

By CHARLES P. STUART
Central Press Columnist

CONGRESS IS seriously worried over health conditions in Washington. The house of representatives' committee on the District of Columbia's affairs has a health sub-committee which issued a report on the subject the other day, and it threw an undoubted scare into the ranks of the legislators on Capitol Hill.

The investigators declared plainly that a "dismal epidemic" threatens from the present situation. The idea shocks the lawmakers on general principles and they obviously do not fancy the notion of being themselves in the midst of such an outbreak.

Mostly their own health are pretty comfortably quartered, but the investigational committee members warn them that a city of undiscriminating germs, once on the rampage, may be very difficult to contain exclusively to the slums.

The town has grown, since the war started, at a rate that no enumerator has been able to keep accurate track of. To be sure, it has spread far into what previously were its suburbs, in Virginia, Maryland and even as far away as Pennsylvania. This belt today, however, is about as badly crowded as the central area, and transportation in and out has become nearly a problem impossible to solve.

The growth not only has been enormous, but it has been so rapid that the community's population probably at least has doubled in a couple of years.

It already was a stunted concentration, rather thinly provided with accommodations for its inhabitants, when the latest influx began. Housing was at a premium immediately. By new park benches are scarce. There is no restaurant room for transients.

Living quarters for war-time residents are in the most terrific demand, though.

Washington is being referred to of late as the "capital of the world."

Perhaps the average capital has some slums. But how extensive are the District of Columbia's? The congressional investigators report that fully one-half of the population live under such conditions that half is packed into an area of only a little more than three square miles. Fully one-third of its shelters are referred to as "structurally deficient," nearly half of them are slum dwellings.

Now, what does "structurally deficient" mean?

The congressional committee explains.

It means a house without "indoor water supply"—for instance, no indoor toilets—only little shacks outside, as in old days prior to the War of Secession, more than 80 years ago. It is inelegant to refer to, but it is illuminating as to its composition of the life about half of our capital's residents are leading up to date.

Does not that kind of the epidemic the congressional health committee is afraid of, unless a speedy remedy is found?

But how is it to be found? The answers are lacking, and Washington is looking to the House in hot haste. Yet in hot haste in Washington, at the moment, is not the hottest town on earth, for an epidemic's breeding, there is no other place north of the equator.

The remedy is not to be found in a speedy way.

The investigation was made by a group of five men.

They take an average of 100,000 people each year, making 40 percent of a million people, the capital is nothing.

This is characteristic of the District of Columbia.

Professor Declares Democracy Vanishes

STATE COLLEGE, Pa. (AP)—Because Americans pass the buck, they are losing democracy in the opinion of Prof. M. E. Johnson, at Pennsylvania State College.

"We have become so complacent," he said, "we have taken the attitude of letting the other fellow do it while they tackle our problems ourselves."

Centralization in the national government, he says, is a result of our complacency.

Johnson's area covers that of the continental United States of about 380,000 square miles.

In medieval warfare, he says, the agreement was made that the live and let live principle.

Salesman Turns To Farming, Makes Good, Hard Way

CENTER POINT, Ia.—Eight years ago, the L.P. Jamison decided they were tired of city life. An move to the farm. It's taken most of those eight years for them to find out that farming isn't the cinch they thought it would be.

Although they started out to do something they didn't know anything about, they've ended up with a fine farm. For the AAA recently granted the former city slicker with the first United States war service certificate, marking them as "soldiers of the soil."

For four years, Jamison, now 64, was a salesman who sold goody's to his family every Monday and didn't say hello again until Friday night. Saturdays were spent at sales meetings, and on Sundays the house had to be kept quiet so he could write his reports and plan another week's work.

Why the five Jamisons turned to farming, they still don't know—except that they thought any one could operate a farm without half trying. But they did know they weren't getting enough happiness out of a city routine.

Center Point, a town of 80 acre farm, trouble really began. The nervousness watched a real farmer increase their first year and they were quiet on the farm (they lived in nearby Cedar Rapids—population 62,000—before) they had trouble sleeping.

They learned they lost their rubber scores

AMERICAN TROOPS who landed at Nassau Bay on the coast of New Guinea have joined forces with Australian units that struck out from the Mubo area. The junction makes the big Jap base at Salamaua, making it possible for the Allied forces to move against the enemy stronghold in coordinated drives. (International) of times before they learned overhauls are correct barnyard footwear. They covered a lot of new corn before they discovered the functions of cultivator guards. Neighbors quietly joked about "the amateurs," predicted they wouldn't last, but loaned a hand to steer the Jamisons away from possible disaster with crops and livestock.

But folks from the city stuck it out—and made good. Today they wouldn't price their land at a $200 an acre because it would be snipped up at once. Thrills in The Country includes a team of horses, 12 registered Poland China sows, 81 spring pigs, 200 Leghorn hens currently producing 148 eggs a day, 28 pedigree Shropshire sheep, 23 head of cattle, including nine cows, a tractor and a good set of machinery.

The Jamisons have had a lot of thrills in their adventure in the country, but few will always stand out.

There was a little thing, yes but it meant that the family had won—had been accepted into the farming fraternity.

With what they hope were their hardest years behind them, the Jamisons have signed papers for adoption of a girl they never have seen. Her name will be Phoebe. Their oldest son also is adopted.

Yes, the Jamisons believe they have come a long way since that day when the whole family inspected the first field of new corn and Mrs. Jamison remarked: "It looks exactly like a black capfoster tied with green wool."

Baseball Is Hit Less By This War Than By Last One

Most Ball Players Then Had To Find Work Or Fight

By CHIP ROYAL, AP Features Sports Editor

NEW YORK—Although organized baseball has lost more players than ever before, this second year of World War II finds it in better shape than at the same time in the first World War.

It was just 25 years ago this month (July, 1918) that the "work or fight" order of Provost Marshal General Enoch H. Crowder went out.

General Crowder, the selective service head of that day, announced that "every man of draft age must work or fight." The edict was direct "not only at idlers, but at draft registrants in non-useful occupations regardless of their family dependence status."

There was some question at first as to whether it affected baseball players but general belief was that they came under the "non-useful class" defined as "persons occupied in sports and amusements."

Local draft boards started notifying various major and minor league players to get essential jobs or be inducted. This took the thoughts of the players from baseball. They wanted to do right. Frequent assurances, coming direct from the capital, were that the administration did not want baseball suspended.

In the middle of all the uncertainty, Outfielder Les Mann of the Chicago Cubs received a letter from a soldier with the AEP in France which said:

"Major League baseball will not come to a halt if the American Expeditionary Force has anything to say about it. We over on this side are very much worried about the work or fight proposition. The baseball scores are meat and drink for all the fans over here. I have talked with quite a few (some of them generals) and all deplore the fact that the greatest of all sports is to be suspended."

Shortly afterwards, on July 19, Secretary of War Newton D. Baker ruled that ballplayers came under the "work or fight" order.

On July 21, the American Association and the Eastern League closed their seasons. President Ben Johnson of the American League said his circuit also would quit for the duration on the 21st, but he changed his mind and the league kept going.

Secretary Baker eased the situation immensely on July 28, ruling that ballplayers would be allowed until Sept. 1 to find essential jobs. Baker said there was a difference between organized baseball and some other occupations classed as non-productive.

Baseball said, was more integrated because successful operation depended upon preservation of all major league teams scattered throughout the country while in other non-essential occupations—waiters, clerks, bartenders, domestic servants—the "work or fight" order had merely a series of local effects.

"I think it would be an unfortunate thing," declared Baker, "to have a wholesome recreation as baseball destroyed if it can be continued by use of persons not available for essential war service."

The big league managers asked Baker not to put the order in effect until Oct. 15, saying 237 players in the two circuits would be affected.

Campaign Closed Early

Baker insisted on the Sept. 1 deadline so the majors moved to wind up their seasons on that

Reporter Gets Rough Idea Of What War Is Like In Training At Bragg

By HERMAN R. ALLEN

AP Features Writer

FT. BRAGG, N.C.—I'll never be scared again.

I've just settled down after hunching, squirming, wriggling and dragging myself by my elbows across a 100-yard clearing while machine gun bullets sang over my head and charges of dynamite rocked the earth and jarred every muscle in my heaving body.

I have a rough idea probably a very rough idea of what war is like, and believe me if this was half as bad as the real thing, those boys who are fighting for us deserve every nickel's worth of War Bonds we can buy for them.

Exposure To Fire

This exposure to fire is called "infiltration course" here at the Field Artillery Replacement Center. The idea is to teach soldiers to keep their heads and tails down when crawling across enemy fire. It's a part of the Army's new and tougher training program—inspired by the fact that so many soldiers were lost in Africa because they got panicky, stood up or gathered in bunches which made easy targets. Experience has shown that the worst thing a soldier can have close to him in battle is another soldier.

The course is rigged so that nobody can get hurt if he keeps his head. The machine guns are fixed so that the bullets cannot sweep any closer than 30 inches off the ground and there is barbed wire around the pits where the dynamite is planted. The dynamite is set off by electrical switches in a control tower.

By a strange quirk, I found that that one of the crew who operated the course was Sgt. Wally Sjoblom, brother of Correspondent Paul Sjoblom.

Wally Sjoblom took me and the Replacement Center Public Relations officer out in back and gave us our first lessons in crawling.

Flat's The Word

"You must keep absolutely flat," Wally Sjoblom told us. "Keep your heads down, drag yourself forward with your elbows. Crawl ten feet, raise your eyes without lifting your head, observe what's ahead, crawl ten more feet, observe again."

"When you come to barbed wire, roll over on your back without raising your arms, hunch yourself along with your shoulder blades. Turn your feet out so that you can dig your heels in, but don't let your knees come up. Keep raising the wire off your body with our hands. Don't worry about your clothes. When you clear the wire, roll over again and go ahead with your elbows."

We tried it. It was easy because the instruction area was on slippery dried grass. Then we went over to where a lieutenant was preparing to take his platoon through the course. The finish trench looked awfully far away.

Start Crawling

"When you hear the first blast," the lieutenant was saying, "drop fast and start crawling."

Up at the other end, the lieutenant in charge of the course lit the fuse on a stick of dynamite, threw it out into the field. It was a long fuse and the waiting was terrible.

The charge roared off. We dropped as one man as the machine guns started their murderous rattle. The bullets thudded into the sand bank behind us and

From then on, I can't tell you what happened. All I really remember is dust, the smell of powder and a hell lot of noise. That and something beating in my brain "Keep your head down, crawl, observe, crawl, observe, crawl, crawl, crawl. You must keep your head down!"

I don't know whether any dynamite went off close by me or not, although I know that several times it seems I lifted off the ground by concussion. It was so noisy that I thought I couldn't hear anything. I was so dusty that you were choked, blinded, stuffed with it.

Automatically, somehow, I spotted the log I must crawl around. I headed for it, blindly, with my head down, crawled ten feet, observed, crawled some more. I hit the log head on, snaked around the end of it, rolled over for the single strand of barbed wire just beyond.

Then I was crawling again, rounding another log, aimy myself for the clear space between two dynamite pits a little farther along.

Just in front of the finish trench was a barbed wire network. It looked like a flat bedspring about ten feet wide. It was about six inches off the ground.

A few feet short of the barbed wire I realized I was exhausted. I was "snoring" on the dust, gasping for air. I thought I couldn't go on. Suddenly it occurred to me (and it was the only real thought I had had since I had started crawling). Why not rest for a minute? So I just lay there, catching my breath. Then I hunched forward again, rolled over in the prescribed manner, negotiated the barbed wire, crawled on to the four-foot-deep trench, swung parallel to it as we had been instructed, and rolled in. If a man goes in head-first his feet fly up into the air and may be hit.

Bottom At Last

I hit bottom with a crash, sat against the side of the trench between two grinning tired young soldiers just in time to have a lieutenant roll in on top of me.

"If there he said, as though we had just bumped into each other in a hotel lobby, "Dusty, isn't it?"

We were spitting mud, shaking with fatigue. The machine guns were still going, just over our

Today, baseball is looking ahead to finishing its season in early October. Whereas many of the owners and players were worried before the season started—that they might not reach the stretch wire and that they would lose too many players, they feel much better now.

Draft board officials have hinted that there will be a cut in the number of men being called up; the Washington administration is beginning to recognize the importance of baseball as a morale builder, and men serving the country all over the world have been lout in their plans for continuance of the national pastime as long as there are nine men able to take the field.

So, we were after the first crisis, baseball is doing all right, thank you.

Butter Cut Is Indicated For This Year

OPA Orders Reduction In Ceiling Prices On Lettuce, Cabbage Of 25-50%

WASHINGTON, July 12, (AP)—The War Food Administration announced today that for 12 months beginning July 1 civilians would have to get along with less butter, cheese and most kinds of processed milk. Butter will be cut by 404 million pounds under the previous year with the supply reported at 1,670,000,000 pounds compared to an apparent consumption of 2,074,000,000 in the previous year.

"Our armies, our Allies, the Red Cross, our territorial possessions all are in short supply," it was stated.

The War Food Administration also said that farmers in the southern blue-corned tobacco marketing areas would vote on marketing quotas for 1944 crop of 707 "three-year" period 1942-44 in a referendum on July 24. Georgia, Florida and Alabama are included in the area.

Saturday a reduction of about 25 percent in the price of lettuce and 50 percent in the price of cabbage was ordered by the Office of Price Administration as the first step in cutting back excessive prices of fresh vegetables and fresh fruits.

The new ceilings will take effect July 15 and have the effect of the war food administration's frequent consultation with the War Relocation Authority in regulations governing agricultural products. In that price are established at the market level point. Retail ceilings which are determined by applying a uniform mark-up over the wholesale price of the products are automatically reflect the lower wholesale prices.

The measure provides a pattern for OPA district offices to set high community ceiling for pound wholesale and retail ceilings for principal fresh fruits and vegetables as the products are brought under this control.

Airman With Bird's-Eye View Of Invasion Tells Story Of Landing Party

By JOSEPH MORTON
AN ALLIED AIR BASE IN NORTH AFRICA, July 12, (AP)—One of the few American airmen to get a complete picture of the invasion of Sicily told today of witnessing assault by two great groups of Allied ships without sign of an Italian vessel around.

One group was fighting off an attack of enemy bombers and the other was shelling the shore so heavily that the warships themselves seemed to blaze.

Meanwhile the landing operation was being carried out with a thick pall of smoke hanging over the beach in one sector possibly indicating a heavy artillery action, the pilot reported.

Great Strides of Fire
He said he saw fires burning at a number of points along the 100-mile coastline captured by the Allies and stretching of blazes extended across central Sicily.

The pilot, Lieutenant Colonel Frank L. Dunn, San Antonio, Texas, holder of the distinguished flying cross for a low level reconnaissance flight over Cagliari last March, said, "the whole thing sprang before me as I came in yesterday afternoon about six miles up in the air."

"It was a wonderfully clear day, could see all the Sicily, Pantelleria and the tip of Italy."

"Our ships were the greatest collection of naval strength ever seen. And there seemed to be a great deal of activity with their noses firmly planted on the beach."

"On the east side of Sicily I saw pretty much the same thing with men still coming ashore."

"On land I couldn't see much fighting anywhere but there was considerable activity on the roads leading to it. Over the sea side there was a big cloud of smoke from the landing operation."

"Warships were firing at the beach."

Allied Troops Prepare To Leave For Sicily

Loaded to the gunwales with specially-trained amphibious shock troops, one of the many Allied invasion barges that participated in the invasion of Sicily is shown pulling away from a port in North Africa. The men aboard the craft wave to the shore—the capture of the first photos to show the Allied troops embarking for the invasion of the strategic Italian island. This is a U.S. Army Signal Corps radiophoto. International Sunphoto.

Major Sicilian Port Is Taken Together With Nine Other Important Towns

At an Allied Command Post in the Mediterranean area, Allied sources said today enemy forces defending Sicily may consist of 12 divisions of about 114,000 men. The Russians meanwhile, claimed Axis armies have made little or no advance in a week of bloody warfare, while losing 2,500 tanks and 1,688 planes. The enemy's losses are reported blunted and the 100-tank lunge at the Oriskany area was repulsed.

In the Pacific, Allied forces tightened the squeeze on the Munda air base racking the target with 32 tons of bombs. Ground troops were on a three-mile advance.

The British Army swept into the port of Syracuse (population 53,000) last night while Allied forces mopped up nine other major ports and towns of southeast Sicily, hurling back seven Axis counter-attacks in a savage tank combat and taking 2,000 prisoners.

Located 80 miles west, Gela; Paolingo on the extreme south-eastern tip of the island; Avola and Noto, midway between Syracuse and Pachino; Pizzolungo, an air base on the south coast; Scoglitti; Enna; and Troina were among the captured towns.

American troops near Gela beat off counter-attacks by the Italian 14th Army division, led by 45 tanks. The British drove the 54th Naphi division from Syracuse in a lightning blow. The civilian population seemed "pleased."

Axis reinforcement efforts were hampered by the possibility of a shortage of wooden containers.

An Allied announcement disclosed that Gen. George S. Patton, Jr. is commanding American forces in Sicily while Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery is commander in chief of the Allied forces.

In the ground action Allied forces seized three vital airbases and an unexplained report by the Moroccan radio listed the additional capture of the important Catania base after a furious bombardment.

Allied troops and armor drove rapidly into the coastal town of Syracuse on Sunday, making "good progress" and capturing at least three enemy airbases on the second day of the invasion from North Africa.

Units of Allied fighters and bombers arrived and took part in the ground action.

Funeral Services Held Sunday For Mrs. Colclough

Funeral services for Mrs. Meta Johnson Colclough, wife of J.H. Colclough, prominent Sanford realtor and insurance man, were held yesterday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church following her death at the Fernside-Laurelwood Hospital, Sanford, after a brief illness from pneumonia.

Attending the funeral services in a body were the members of the Sanford Garden Club, the Azalea Club, and Mrs. Colclough's Bible study class. The "Old Rugged Cross" was sung by the choir. The many floral tributes presented a mass of color across the whole front of the church where they were banked.

The Rev. W.P. Brooks and the Rev. E.D. Brown officiated at the services.

Mrs. Colclough, who was born in Alban, N.C., had lived in Sanford since 1928. She was an active worker in the First Baptist Church, where she sang in the choir. She was a former president of the Women's Missionary Society of the church, and for nine years a member of the Azalea Club. For two years she was president of the Sanford Garden Club.

She is survived by her husband, J.H. Colclough; her mother, Mrs. Belle E. Johnson; a sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Graham of Lenoir, N.C.; and three brothers, Haddon Johnson of Atlanta, Ga.; Master Sgt. Robert W. Johnson of Fort Benning, A.C.; and Colonel Johnson, Tampa, Fla.

Funeral services were held at 8:00 o'clock at the Sanford Garden Club.

The Colclough residence is at 2112 Hillside Avenue, Sanford, Fla.

Florida State Bank's Deposits Up 272 Percent

An increase in deposits in excess of $1,800,000.00 during the first six months of 1943, is revealed by the financial statement of the Florida State Bank, one of the four banks controlled by C.H. McNulty of Melbourne.

Deposits as shown at the close of business on June 30, 1943, were $2,679,265.77, an increase over the Dec. 31, 1942 statement of 272 percent, it was stated.

During the last six months the bank has sold in excess of $2,000,000 in Government Bonds and securities placed in the hands of its customers, and has granted to the people of Sanford and Seminole County more than 10,000 loans, according to the report.

Since the organization of the bank on June 2, 1939, deposits have shown such a continual increase from year to year that it was found necessary to add to the official staff two officers: Miss Doris Hall and Miss Mary Lynd, bank assistant managers. Other new employees are Miss Joseph Pittman and Joseph McCaslin, bookkeepers; John W. Roberts, teller; and Mrs. J.E. Hodges, secretary. J.E. Rowland is vice-president.

In December, 1942, the bank purchased the Cooper Block in which it is located, from Walter L. Deppes.

In view of the rapid growth of the bank, the officers found it was of advantage to install the Recordak System, by means of which a picture of each check and every bill handled by the bank is kept.

Truman Committee Begins Study Of Airplane Crashes

WASHINGTON, July 12, (AP)—The Truman Committee turned today to a probe of military airplane crashes and accidents that American planes have post-war landing rights on fields built abroad with United States funds.

Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) said the committee "is concerned about the large number of plane casualties, particularly in non-combat operations in this country."

Chairman Truman (D-Mo.) said Senators Mead (D-N.Y.) and Brewster (R., Maine) had been instructed to look into the terms of foreign airport agreements on an aerial trip they will start late this month with three other senators to inspect American troops and equipment in far corners of the world.

Mead told reporters he and Brewster hope to bring back recommendations which will aid this government in establishing a policy which at least would permit post-war use by American planes of the landing fields built with war department and lend lease funds along the aerial highways all over the globe. The two senators are holding conferences with army, navy, lend-lease and board of economic warfare officials preliminary to the aerial trip.

Hundreds of airports built in 1942 are our understanding that hundreds of fine airports have been built and are being built with American money in foreign areas and that these fields will revert to the countries in which they are located six months after the war ends," Mead said.

"If there is anything in lend-lease in reverse, we certainly should have some concessions which permit our commercial planes to land on the fields and use their facilities in the post-war era."

Hotel Mayfair Opens Its Third Floor

H. J. Lehman Is Inaugurated Head Of Rotary Club

Calls Upon Members To Make Worthwhile Community Effort

H.J. Lehman was inaugurated as president of the Rotary Club at its regular meeting today at the Mayfair Hotel and called upon the members and committee chairmen to give their time and talents to the club so that "something of a truly worthwhile nature may be accomplished during the coming year."

"A club's achievements," he said, "are in proportion to the contributions of its members. Alone we cannot accomplish much but with the help of each and every one of you, the club can go far."

"I believe the town can get along very well without it."

G.W. Spencer announced that George Rollins, a former president of the club and local superintendent of the Atlantic Coastline Railroad, had been transferred to Savannah, Ga., and plans to leave here Wednesday. Mr. Lehman expressed the regrets of the club over Mr. Rollins' leaving and wished him success in his new position.

Joe Tolle announced that the Rotary Club has been challenged to an old fashioned spelling match with the Kiwanis club in a bout which will take place next Thursday night. Earl Kipp was appointed captain of the Rotarian five man team and announced that in spite of the fact that the Kiwanians had not given him sufficient time to properly condition his men, he has no doubt as to the outcome of the ordeal.

Frank Evans, Seminole County Blood Chairman, announced that the Blood Bank unit from Orlando has been at the Sanford World today taking blood from volunteer donors for conversion into blood plasma and asked for blood volunteers from the Rotary Club for this afternoon.

Declaring that he had found there was a great deal more to know about Rotary than he at first supposed, Mr. Lehman said that the familiar standards included regular attendance, attention to financial obligations, and "service when called upon."

He added that every Rotarian should consider his vocation an opportunity to raise the standard of society and he declared that every Rotarian is expected to be a loyal and faithful member of the country to which he belongs.

Frank Pulley offered a prayer for the success of the club during the coming year and announced that the club will be holding its annual convention at the Hotel Mayfair on August 12-13-14.

Stimson Confers With Churchill On Allied Strategy

LONDON, July 12, (AP)—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson, arriving here yesterday by plane from the United States, advised a conference today with Prime Minister Churchill on forthcoming moves against the Axis.

Stimson's visit came less than 12 hours after the Allied invasion of Sicily, and a communique issued by the War Department stated that the United States entered the war on Dec. 7, 1941, and for this reason military officials indicated there was great importance attached to his coming.

Campaign Gets Under Way To Save Crates

Shortage Of Wooden Containers Is Announced By SDC

LAMPA, Fla., July 12, (AP)—A campaign to save and reuse all wooden fruit and vegetable crates was announced today by Lt. J. Kye, chief of the state Defense Council's Food Division.

He pointed to a shortage of wooden crates and the need for a campaign to save and reuse all wooden fruit and vegetable crates. He said that the shortage of crates was a serious problem for the state's food supply.

The campaign is directed primarily to the retail and wholesale trade. Problems include careful handling of crates, local sale arrangements, storage and transportation of used crates, and the use of crates for other purposes.

Local subcommittees will arrange if necessary for dealers to accept crates and pay for them. They will be appointed to handle this special assignment.

Wife Is Held For Killing Husband With Feather Duster

MONTGOMERY, Ala., July 12, (AP)—Mrs. Dora A. Holloway, 32, was held in jail today on a charge she beat her 34-year-old husband, prominent insurance man, to death Sunday in their home with the handle of a feather duster after a quarrel. Holloway was found beaten to death on the sleeping porch of his home here yesterday.

Police Chief Ralph King said Mrs. Holloway told him that she was sleeping upstairs and about 10 o'clock this morning awoke to find her husband lying on a bed on the sleeping porch.

Mrs. Holloway, Chief King said, ran to a neighbor's home when she found her husband and asked for help as he was being beaten.

The neighbor called police.

Chief King described Holloway's body as a mass of bruises and cuts. She had been beaten and choked. She had been beaten and choked.

Prominent Club Woman Dies Following Brief Illness

Funeral services for Mrs. Meta Johnson Colclough, wife of J.H. Colclough, prominent Sanford realtor and insurance man, were held yesterday afternoon at 8:00 o'clock at the First Baptist Church following her death at the Fernside-Laurelwood Hospital, Sanford, after a brief illness from pneumonia.

Attending the funeral services in a body were the members of the Sanford Garden Club, the Azalea Club, and Mrs. Colclough's Bible study class. The "Old Rugged Cross" was sung by the choir. The many floral tributes presented a mass of color across the whole front of the church where they were banked.

The Rev. W.P. Brooks and the Rev. E.D. Brown officiated at the services.

Mrs. Colclough, who was born in Alban, N.C., had lived in Sanford since 1928. She was an active worker in the First Baptist Church, where she sang in the choir. She was a former president of the Women's Missionary Society of the church, and for nine years a member of the Azalea Club. For two years she was president of the Sanford Garden Club.

She is survived by her husband, J.H. Colclough; her mother, Mrs. Belle E. Johnson; a sister, Mrs. Ernest L. Graham of Lenoir, N.C.; and three brothers, Haddon Johnson of Atlanta, Ga.; Master Sgt. Robert W. Johnson of Fort Benning, A.C.; and Colonel Johnson, Tampa, Fla.

Funeral services were held at 8:00 o'clock at the Sanford Garden Club.

The Colclough residence is at 2112 Hillside Avenue, Sanford, Fla.

McNulty Institution Now Has Deposits Of $2,679,265.77

An increase in deposits in excess of $1,800,000.00 during the first six months of 1943, is revealed by the financial statement of the Florida State Bank, one of the four banks controlled by C.H. McNulty of Melbourne.

Deposits as shown at the close of business on June 30, 1943, were $2,679,265.77, an increase over the Dec. 31, 1942 statement of 272 percent, it was stated.

During the last six months the bank has sold in excess of $2,000,000 in Government Bonds and securities placed in the hands of its customers, and has granted to the people of Sanford and Seminole County more than 10,000 loans, according to the report.

Since the organization of the bank on June 2, 1939, deposits have shown such a continual increase from year to year that it was found necessary to add to the official staff two officers: Miss Doris Hall and Miss Mary Lynd, bank assistant managers. Other new employees are Miss Joseph Pittman and Joseph McCaslin, bookkeepers; John W. Roberts, teller; and Mrs. J.E. Hodges, secretary. J.E. Rowland is vice-president.

In December, 1942, the bank purchased the Cooper Block in which it is located, from Walter L. Deppes.

In view of the rapid growth of the bank, the officers found it was of advantage to install the Recordak System, by means of which a picture of each check and every bill handled by the bank is kept.

Vacation Bible School Starts Morning Series

The annual Vacation Bible School of Sanford, sponsored by the Sanford Ministerial Association, will start its series of morning sessions at 9:00 o'clock Monday at the Methodist Church, it was announced today by R. Earl Kipp.

All boys and girls of intermediate departments are invited to attend these sessions which are inter-denominational, he said.

The primary and beginners' departments will be housed in the Presbyterian church while the juniors and intermediate will be placed in the annex of the Methodist church. However, the opening meeting will be held in the auditorium of the Methodist Church, he said.

Mr. Kipp stated that more detailed plans, superintendents of the various divisions will be released later in the week, but urged parents to plan for all children to attend the school. "We are particularly anxious to get boys and girls that are not attending church school at the present time interested in the Bible School and if anyone knows of any such children, I will be glad to have them communicate directly with me so that I can contact them," he added.
