Fire Insurance Decrease Slated For Many In County

By BOB LLOYD
Herald Staff Writer

Thousands of Seminole residents who live in unincorporated areas of the county served by standard water systems with hydrants are getting a break on home fire insurance premiums.

Depending on the insurance company furnishing the fire insurance, Kaiser said, savings to homeowners on premiums may exceed the 1.5 mill fire tax assessment they pay for county fire protection.

A random sampling of fire insurance costs, based on a $30,000 home, shows the reclassification could mean savings from $9 to $15 on concrete block homes and from $20 to $30 on wood frame homes, according to Kaiser's report.

The 1.5 mill county fire tax on a $30,000 home, minus $5,000 homestead exemption, is $37.50, Kaiser said.

The new rating is lower than a majority of the cities within the county. Sanford has a Class 6 and Altamonte Springs a Class 7 rating.

"It should be noted," Kaiser said, "that the municipalities have been providing fire protection services for many years and in most cases have well established water systems."

Kaiser said fire insurance rates are based on risk factors represented on a declining scale "from 10, 9A, 8, 7, etc., with 10 representing little or no protection."

Structures within the unincorporated Class 7 areas which are more than 1,000 feet from a fire hydrant are now considered Class 9, Kaiser said. "This same rule holds true for the municipalities and according to the Insurance Services Office is a standard practice of their rating system," he said.

Kaiser said some distant rural areas of the county have been separated from the Class 7 and 9 areas due to response times from county fire stations which exceed three or four miles (measured by road travel).

Kaiser said he believes the new lower risk classification is "representative proof" that the Board of County Commissioners' decision to adopt a countywide fire protection program was correct and that "our program and method of implementation have thus far achieved the desired results in accordance with national recognized good practice."

At a press conference today, Commission Chairman Michael Hattaway praised the new systems with hydrants were considered in the recent analysis of the unincorporated areas.

"Some of these systems, if evaluated on their own, would not qualify for insurance recognition," he said.

"However, when averaged with a group of larger, more adequate and more reliable systems, they appear as

Zeigler Held In Killings

ORLANDO (AP)—Police sketched a portrait of premeditated murder motivated by greed in charging furniture store owner W. T. Zeigler Jr. in the Christmas Eve slayings of his wife, in-laws and a customer.

Zeigler, 35, was arrested in his home Monday night and charged with four counts of first-degree murder in the multiple shooting deaths at his store in Winter Garden, a small town about 10 miles east of Orlando.

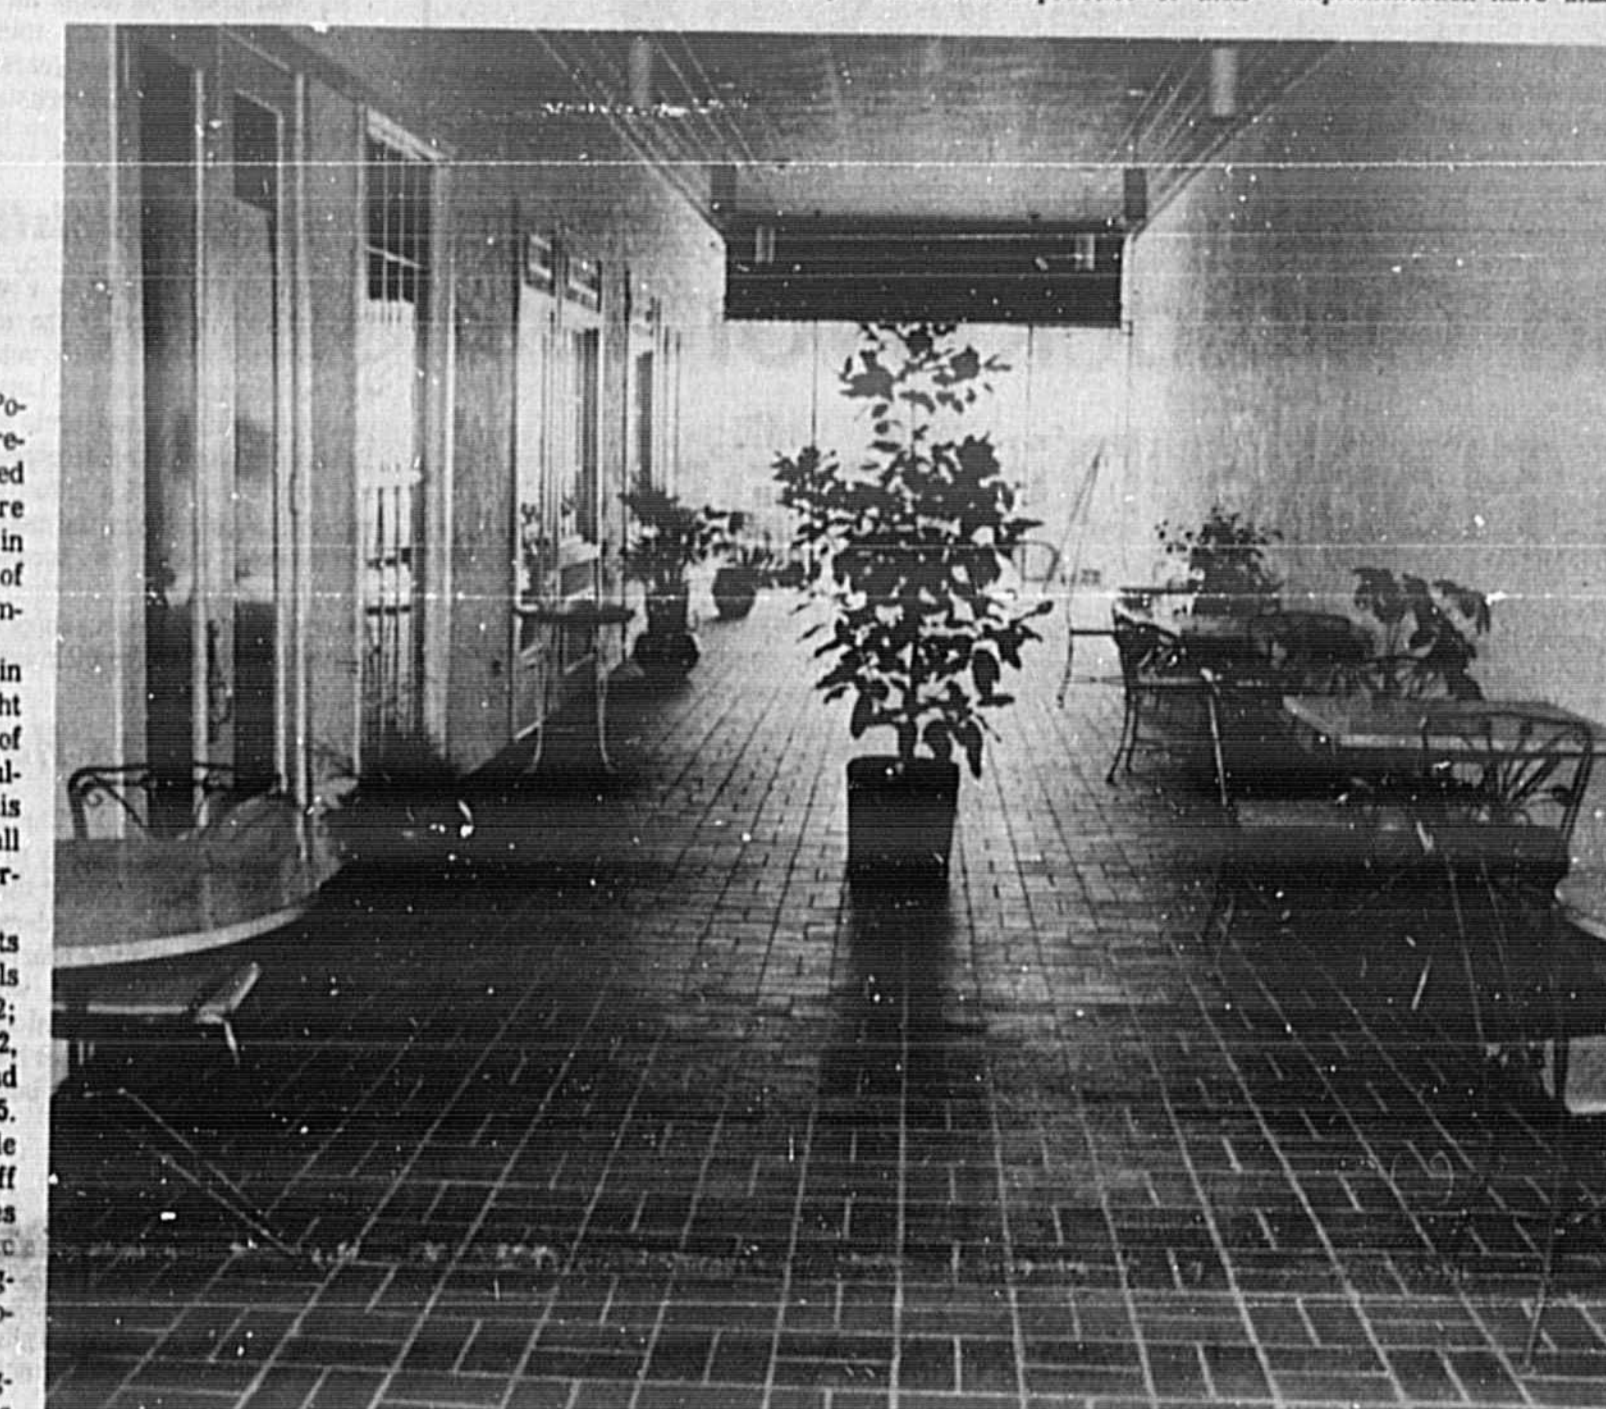

Killed in a volley of shots from as many as five pistols were Zeigler's wife, Eunice, 32; his in-laws Perry Edwards, 72, and Virginia Edwards, 55; and a customer, Charles Mays, 35. Questioned about a possible motive, Orange County Sheriff Melvin Colman said detectives had seized 12 firearms, insurance policies taken out on Mrs. Zeigler's life in the last 60 days totaling $20,000.

Colman said Mays, a long-time customer of Zeigler's, was "lured to the store to be killed" as part of an alleged plot by Zeigler.

"It was set up to look like robbery," Colman said.

Colman declined comment on whether the deaths of Mrs. Zeigler's parents were part of the alleged plot, but it was speculated that they may have entered the store by chance.

The sheriff also declined comment on whether detectives believe Zeigler shot himself as part of his alleged robbery story.

'Mall' Adds Touch Of Charm

By JOE ASKREN
Herald Staff Writer

The openings of five specialty shops as part of Sanford's new "Mini-Mall" inside what used to be just an old empty building on First Street is a good example for other Downtown property owners to follow, local officials said Monday.

Downtown Development Council Executive Director Sara Jacobson said the new Mini-Mall openings are a fine example of what can be done with larger vacant buildings by converting them into smaller shop spaces which is more profitable for property owners and produces a better buying atmosphere for the customer.

"It's an opportunity for other property owners with big empty buildings to do something similar. The success ratio has been proven by the Mini-Mall," Miss Jacobson said.

She said in treating the new Mini-Mall architecturally, the separate businesses have taken advantage of the original high ceiling, which is the image sought in the restoration of Sanford as a charm city and recommended by DDC and City officials.

Jack Horner, executive manager of the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, said he congratulates the efforts made by Fred Williams, the owner of the building used for the Mini-Mall, in "doing his best to upgrade the Downtown area."

"We're real proud of Fred and his son-in-law, Carl Gutmann. This is what's got to be done in Downtown —

Freeman Stays On Vihlen Vote

By ED PRICKETT
Herald Staff Writer

Charging "imperfections" in grand jury indictments against County Atty. Thomas Freeman, Commissioner Sidney Vihlen Jr. today refused to join two commissioners who have asked the county attorney to step down until charges are cleared.

Although he said his "first inclination" upon learning of charges against Freeman was to ask the county attorney to voluntarily step aside, Vihlen said he now has "knowledge and belief that Freeman's indictments will be thrown out."

"I cannot fire or suspend a man who has a hearing tomorrow," Vihlen said. Vihlen had the deciding vote since Commissioners Dick Williams and John Kimbrough asked Freeman to step down, while Commissioner Chairman Michael Hattaway and Commissioner Harry Kwiatkowski backed the attorney at last week's commission meeting.

Vihlen said he based today's decision on a hearing scheduled tomorrow at 2 p.m. when Freeman's attorney is expected to ask that the charges be thrown out.

Freeman, Hattaway and Kwiatkowski are charged with a violation of Florida's Sunshine Law. In addition Freeman is charged with soliciting a $12,400 kickback from John Morris, a title insurance firm officer.

Asked if Wednesday's hearing could alter today's position statement, Vihlen said, "It could very well do that." Vihlen said he consulted a member of the judiciary and members of the Florida Bar Association before reaching a decision to back the attorney at least until the outcome of Wednesday's hearing is known.

Kimbrough asked today for a statement from Vihlen, who was absent from last Tuesday's meeting because of a broken foot. Kimbrough has asked all along that the same policy that is applied to county employees be applied to Freeman.

Vihlen said that portion of the policy that suspends indicted employees should be researched because, in Vihlen's opinion, it "may well be unconstitutional."

He asked that the labor attorney research the policy. Again, Vihlen said he was acting on advice from a member of the judiciary and attorneys he consulted.

Vihlen also criticized statements made by Kimbrough which implied that Vihlen dodges issues of a controversial nature.

The Kimbrough statement said, "I assumed Vihlen wouldn't be here for any controversial issue." It was made at last week's commission meeting.

Vihlen called the Kimbrough statement "a petty well-crafted" and said it represents a "play on political motivation."

Vihlen revealed his position.

Accused Burglar Is Killing Suspect

When a 46-year-old accused murderer walked away from an unlocked ward at Rhode Island's Institute of Mental Health last August, staff officers took little note.

Sylvester Thomas had been confined to the hospital in 1968 after being ruled incompetent to stand trial for allegedly bludgeoning a Providence man to death in 1967.

But despite the pending murder charge, Thomas' departure triggered no special search and no warning that a potentially dangerous man was at large.

On Dec. 6 Sanford policeman Richard L. Bennett arrested Thomas, who gave an address of 316 W. 10th St., Sanford, on charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit a felony, attempted murder and use of a weapon in commission of a felony. Thomas is in county jail in lieu of $20,000 bond.

Seminole County jail computer check when Thomas was arrested brought no reply that he was an escapee.

Lock-Up Ends Police Game

Seminole High School students Mark Burnsed and Freddie Green started out "playing Starkey and Hutch" Monday evening and ended up five hours later participating in a real life "Emergency" episode.

Freddie, 17, produced a pair of 1975 Peerless handcuffs about 6 p.m. and manacled 18-year-old Mark. Their make-believe TV game was fine for a while. Then Mark's wrists began swelling and the teenagers discovered there was no key for the cuffs.

The Sheriff's Department couldn't round up a key for the antique handcuffs either. So Sanford Patrolman Lewis Coombs contacted police departments over the county. Nobody had a key that would release Mark.

At 11 p.m. Coombs called in the Sanford Fire Department Rescue Unit. Emergency Medical Technicians Paul Keith and Fred Bowen arrived to help officers Coombs and Roy Hendricks free Mark.

With a massive bolt-cutter tool they carefully cut off the handcuffs.

As Mark rubbed his swelled, irritated wrists he was asked what he and Freddie would do now with the cuffs.

"I sure don't want 'em," said Mark.

In Florida, Policemen Have Their Rights, Too

By DONNA ESTES
Herald Staff Writer
First in a Series

It took a concerted effort by police officers and their fraternal organizations throughout Florida, particularly the state Fraternal Order of Police (FOP) years to do it.

Years to convince legislators that law enforcement officers are first class citizens and professionals and should have at the least the same rights and privileges guaranteed under the U.S. Constitution to accused and convicted criminals.

The need for the law was clear, according to Sgt. Dale Wasson of the Winter Park Police Department, president of the Winter Park Lodge and an officer on the board of directors of the statewide organization.

With 14 years experience in law enforcement, seven years of that time with the Winter Park department, Wasson said prior to the law, which went into effect Oct. 1, 1974, police officers were an "open target" for physical and verbal abuse from the citizenry-at-large, politicians in general and just anyone who didn't like the law of "men in blue."

"Anyone who wanted to get rid of his personal frustrations and or animosities could "select" an officer as the target," Wasson said. The way was relatively simple. A law enforcement officer who refused to fix a ticket, who insisted on treating every one alike, could soon find himself without a job.

No job protection was available, except in the few areas of the state where civil service was available. Charges of personal misconduct did not have to be documented or substantiated.

"Anyone could say or do anything to a police officer and he or she had no recourse," Wasson said.

Now, the officer, under the new law, may file civil suit for damages he suffers during the performance of his official duties.

Wasson said the current law requires that the officer be given notice before disciplinary action is commenced. He cannot be singled out and punished without prior notice and he can also file a law suit if his civil rights are abused.

Wasson said the courts in Florida have upheld the "Bill of Rights" in the cases of two officers.

The state FOP has retained the services of a Miami attorney to handle cases for officers whose rights have been violated.

The law provides, Wasson said, that interrogations of accused officers be held at a reasonable hour during his off-duty time, and that the officer be given the name, rank and command of the officer who is conducting the investigation. According to the rules, the questioning must take place in the office—the police station—of the local unit where an offense allegedly occurred.

Much in the same way as all citizens are guaranteed their constitutional rights under the Miranda decision of the U.S. Supreme Court, an officer accused of any offense by (Continued On Page 2-A)

Blast Rips New York Airport, 11 Killed, Dozens Injured

NEW YORK (AP) — A thunderous explosion from a bomb placed in a locker sent a shrapnel shower of glass and metal through a crowded baggage area at LaGuardia Airport. At least 11 persons were killed and more than 50 others injured.

The blast, which officials said had the force of 20 to 25 sticks of dynamite and was meant to "maim and kill," reduced the baggage area to rubble Monday evening and sent dozens of persons fleeing in panic.

The airport was quickly evacuated and closed to all traffic shortly after the 5:30 p.m. explosion, forcing the cancellation or diversion of at least 45 flights and fouling the plans of some 5,000 travelers. The airport will be closed until at least 10 p.m. today.

As workers searched the debris, there were reports of as many as 14 deaths, but police at the airport said they could not confirm more than 11.

Angola Predictions Cited
WASHINGTON (AP) — American officials expect the 48-nation African summit to condemn South Africa's military intervention in Angola but to stop short of granting recognition to the Soviet-supported faction that controls the island.

In fact, these officials say prospects are good that the Organization of African Unity will urge the Marxist Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola to form a coalition government with two U.S.-backed factions once there is a ceasefire.

This is the course favored by the United States and urged by William F. Schaufele Jr., the assistant secretary of state for African affairs, on his current tour of Zaire, Gabon, Cameroon, Ivory Coast and Senegal.

Murder Conviction Reversed
SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Inez Garcia, whose case became a national cause celebre for women's groups, has been granted a new trial by an appeals court which reversed her conviction of murdering a man she said held her down while another raped her.

Mrs. Garcia, 30, was convicted in October 1974 of second degree murder and was sentenced to five years to life in prison. The courtroom was jammed by supporters who burst into tears as Monterey County Superior Court Judge Stanley Lawson, now retired, read the verdict.

"It's beautiful," said Mrs. Garcia when she was told of the decision at the California Institution for Women at Frontera. "I'm very happy about it."

Dinner Party Controversial
VAIL, Colo. (AP) — President Ford, heading home after an eight-day skiing holiday, may find his campaign committee embroiled in controversy because of a departure-ree party in his honor.

The key question is whether the Monday night party was planned as a social gathering by Ford fund-raiser Shelia Gramsman or to funnel money into Ford's presidential campaign. Ford, who planned to fly back to Washington today, said he didn't know Mrs. Gramsman was raising money for him.

Ford spokesman Ron Nessen said Mrs. Gramsman's committee was not tried to keep the dinner out of the fundraising category.

Medicaid Cutback Worries Nursing Home Directors

By JANE CASSELLBERRY
Herald Staff Writer

A reduction of Medicaid funding announced by the State Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services, on top of costly new federal regulations, has come as a blow to area nursing home administrators.

Effective Jan. 1, the maximum payment for skilled nursing home care will be reduced $15 per patient per month from the present $600 to $585, DHRS has announced.

Also effective Jan. 1 will be a 20-cent-an-hour hike in the federal minimum wage and a new federal regulation which requires every nursing home to have a medical director.

Arthur Harris, president of the Florida Nursing Home Association, estimates that the minimum wage increase will cost about $20 per patient each month and the medical director regulation will cost about $10 per patient.

In addition, DHRS has issued new guidelines for the classification of Medicaid patients, which will result in the reclassification of thousands of patients from skilled nursing care to intermediate care.

While nursing homes will receive $100 a month less for the care of such patients, the state is requiring the present level of staffing to be continued.

This effective Thursday, nursing homes will have $130 per patient less each month with which to pay for patient care. In the case of the patient, who remains in the skilled care classification, reimbursement will be reduced by $15 per month plus the $20 increase in minimum wage and $10 caused by hiring of a medical director.

"It's going to be rough, we are not going to be able to make ends meet," said Mr. Virginia Michalowski, administrator for Lakewood Nursing Center in Sanford. In addition, she said, most of all the suppliers have indicated there would be a 10 per cent increase in costs as of Jan. 1. "Food, paper goods, medical supplies and laundry services keep going up," she said.

"Ms. Michalowski reported that Lakewood averages 30 patients and that about 25 per cent of them are on Medicaid. "We hope to not raise the cost to patients, but we want to see what happens the first month," he added.

Israelis Kidnap 3 Civilians As Guerrilla Attacks Persist

TEL AVIV, Israel (AP) — The Israeli military command said three Israeli settlers were kidnapped by guerrillas from Lebanon on Monday night, and Israeli troops crossed into south Lebanon and kidnaped three civilians suspected of aiding Palestinian guerrilla operations.

The military command said the three attacks and two bursts of gunfire earlier Monday brought to 12 the number of incidents in December along the 70-mile Lebanese frontier. The Israelis have suffered no casualties during the month, the command said.

Canadians Buy Fur Coats
TORONTO (AP) — Canadian consumers are expected to buy $100 million worth of fur coats this year despite an average 15 per cent increase in the price of fur garments since 1974, a number of fur buyers say.

One fur buyer, Cyril Berlin, said increasing demand throughout the world has caused prices to rise and indications are that fur coat prices will increase again in 1976.

He said prices for some furs, particularly mink, are reasonable because, rates have not been undervalued in the last few years. Berlin said demand has increased for longhaired furs such as lynx, racoon, fox and wolf.

Mexican Minister Resigns
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Foreign Minister Emilio O. Rabasa has resigned in the midst of a foreign policy controversy over Mexico's votes in the United Nations against Zionism. President Luis Echeverria, who sets the policy, named Alfonso Garcia Robles to succeed Rabasa.

Rabasa told a news conference Monday he was resigning to enter active politics. Informed sources said he would run for the senate in the national elections next July. Echeverria wants to succeed Krud Waldheim as secretary-general of the United Nations, and some foreign observers are interested in support of the Arab's anti-Zionist resolutions as a bid for their support for his candidacy.

Competition Halted
MONTREAL (AP) — The Olympic organizing committee was ordered Monday to stop a competition aimed at decorating city streets for the 1976 Olympic Games.

The competition was ordered by a Quebec Superior Court judge, pending a hearing on an injunction request by artist Pierre d'Amour, who alleged the organizing committee used his original idea without permission.

D'Amour's motion alleges he suggested the idea to the committee in March, 1974, but officials showed little interest in the idea.

Survey Shows Oil Slick
HALIFAX (AP) — An aerial survey off northern Cape Breton to assess pollution caused by a wrecked Swedish freighter showed a small oil slick near the vessel's rear ground, a transport department spokesman said Monday.

Roll Tovers said the survey uncovered no major pollution of shorelines. The department plans to burn off the slick, but the vessel's crew is being held in custody.

Terrorists Receive Asylum
ALGIERS, Algeria (AP) — The Algerian government has granted the six OPEC countries asylum as fighters for the Palestinian cause, official sources reported. The government decided the five men and one woman who invaded the meeting of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna on Dec. 21 were "Palestinian revolutionaries or people acting for the same cause," the sources said. The terrorists killed three men including a member of the Libyan OPEC delegation.

Search For Tug Suspended
MIAMI (AP) — The Coast Guard has suspended its search for a tug boat and five crewmen three weeks overdue on a trip from Miami to San Juan, Puerto Rico, officials said today.

A Coast Guard search said helicopters and other aircraft had scanned the Atlantic for several days after the Boundless was reported missing. He said the tug, which left Miami Dec. 7, was expected in San Juan Dec. 8.

Roads, Hotels, Parks Jammed As Tourists Flock To Florida

Associated Press Writer
As they gleefully compile reports of jammed roads, packed hotels and amusement parks where turnstiles have been stopped by the crush of vacationers, tourism industry officials report one of the best holiday seasons in Florida history.

"We're off to a terrific start," Don Bottorff, spokesman for the Fort Myers Chamber of Commerce, said Monday. "This could be our best tourist year in history."

He said about 60,000 visitors have descended on the Florida west coast community alone to bask in the sun, fish and enjoy a respite from the winter chill.

And from campgrounds at Orlando in central Florida to Key West, the report was the same—record crowds, jammed highways, no vacancies.

Ex-Convict To Seek Custody
MIAMI (AP) — An ex-convict who befriended a deformed 6-year-old and then persuaded a team of doctors to restructure the girl's face says she'll fight to obtain custody of the child.

"I know that it's going to be hard for a single woman who's also an ex-convict to get custody of anybody, but I talked to my parole officer and he said he would support me in any way that he can," Willie Mae Brown said Monday.

Miss Brown said she met young Natasha Conroy last October when the child was visiting her mother, jailed on drug charges. Miss Brown, released from prison last June after serving three and a half years for manslaughter, was working as a counselor at the jail.

Christian Makes Payment
TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Former Education Commissioner Floyd Christian has made the first $5,000 payment on $40,000 in fines and restitution assessed after he was convicted of accepting kickbacks.

Christian presented a cashier's check Monday for $5,000 to his probation officer, Hardy Lashley. The sum was set by Circuit Judge Ben Willis of Tallahassee, who required Christian to make seven annual payments on his debt to society.

The judge found Christian guilty last April of perjury, receiving $2,000 in kickbacks and conspiracy to receive another $29,000. Christian was charged with perjury, perjury, fined $10,000 and ordered to pay the state $20,000 in restitution on a contract awarded to a business partner.

Nursing Home Crisis Claimed
TALLAHASSEE (AP) — Spokesmen for the nursing-home industry say announced cuts in Medicaid payments will signal a crisis for nursing homes in the state and will jeopardize the quality of care.

Robert L. Russell, executive vice president of the Florida Nursing Home Association, said Monday the cuts might force some homes out of business because they would no longer be able to meet expenses.

William Page, Health and Rehabilitative Services secretary, announced last week that because the state was facing a $9.5 million deficit in the Medicaid program, per-patient payments to nursing homes for skilled care would be reduced from $600 to a month to $585.

The new shops have generated plenty of traffic during the holidays.

"It helps everybody. There's a lot of enthusiasm and pride of ownership here," she said.

The five businesses which open onto a common walkway include:

—Little Wardrobe, a children's clothing shop was the first to open earlier this fall by sisters Betsy Gutmann and Sally Johnson.

—Plants & Answers, a gardening shop, opened Dec. 15, and is operated by Mrs. Katherine Park and her daughter, Sydney.

—Buck's Restaurant, which has an outside patio, opened Dec. 22. It is managed by Dick and Vivien Buck.

—Travel Rite, a travel agency with offices also at Kissimmee and Winter Park, is preparing to open in January. Mr. and Mrs. Max Kremenek will be in charge, according to Miss Jacobson.

Miss Jacobson said, part of the charm of the specialty shops is their individuality.

Vihlen To Seek Congress Seat?

County Commissioner Sidney Vihlen Jr. is expected to announce soon, perhaps by next week, that he will seek a seat in the U.S. Congress.

For the past month Vihlen has been lining up support for a race next year for the seat presently occupied by Richard Kelly, a Republican.

Already an advance man from the Bill Gunter camp is working with Vihlen. Gunter, Fifth District Congressman before losing the seat to Kelly, also, Gunter is planning a race next year for State Insurance Commissioner.

Contacted today at his Altamonte Springs office, Vihlen would not confirm nor deny an announcement by next week. He did say, however, that he is "contemplating" entering the race.

Political strategists say a race next year, even if unsuccessful, would place Vihlen's name before the public in the eight counties which make up the congressional district.

Vihlen was set to run for the Florida Legislature. He had all but announced that he would seek the seat occupied by Vince Fechtel, a Republican from Leesburg. Now, Vihlen is ruling out a race against Fechtel.

By Vihlen's own admission Fechtel would have been a hard man to beat.

Vihlen says he could win next year's Democratic Primary. He could pick up support from top-ranking Democrats, support which Vihlen feels would make a race against Kelly very interesting.

Vihlen feels Kelly is vulnerable. Vihlen, the county commission chairman here for a year, is expected to cite the depressed economy, rising crime and other factors as platforms from which to launch his campaign.

Reportedly, Vihlen has lined up some top-notch support among Central Florida businessmen in his race for Congress.

Vihlen, a Democrat, switched to the Republican Party in 1968 and took up the Democratic standard again this year.

Accused Burglar Is Killing Suspect

"nearly a month ago" and still hasn't received a reply.

"Apparently they don't want him back," said Gallaway today.

Patrick J. Brown, associate IMH administrator, conceded on Monday to reporters that the failure to alert police that Thomas was an accused murderer was a "definite foul-up."

Brown said the teletype message on Thomas' escape should have included that he was a court commitment and potentially dangerous.

Meanwhile, Thomas has been arraigned in circuit court here, assigned a public defender, and is docketed for trial on the local felony charges the week of Jan. 20.

Assistant Public Defender Larry Horton, who has been assigned the Thomas case, said today that he has requested records on Thomas from two hospitals, one in Rhode Island and one in New Jersey.

Lake Mary To Renew Utility Purchase Loan

LAKE MARY — City council members elected early this month will receive their oaths of office at 4:30 p.m. next Monday.

The money was borrowed early this year to assist in financing the purchase of the Southern Gulf Utilities water system operating within the community.

Repayment of the loan is guaranteed from franchise fee receipts from Florida Power Corp. and Southern Bell Telephone Co. The loan is ultimately to be repaid from a $350,000 U.S. Farmers Home Administration loan for expanding and improving the system, expected to be approved early in the new year.

Among the improvements scheduled are installation of a full scale fire hydrant system and purchase of water from the City of Sanford to provide better pressure and availability of water for firefighting purposes.

City Clerk Kay Sassman said that one-third of the factor used in state test houses will be increased from the current 67 per cent to 80 per cent at 7 a.m. on Wednesday.

The increased factor will mean processors will be able to lighten their juice extractors a little more and still obtain only "good, useable juice" from early and mid-season orange varieties.

World Trade Is Mutual Game

For the past year or so there have been so many sparks flying between the developing world and the industrialized nations that some observers see an economic "cold war" in the making. The Conference on International Economic Cooperation meeting in Paris could serve as a peace conference nipping that kind of warfare in the bud.

The conference brings together potential antagonists from three corners — the major industrial nations, countries from the Third World whose economic growth is threatened by inflation, recession and high energy prices, and oil-exporters whose big price increases helped create the problems afflicting the other two groups.

In spite of the tensions inherent in such a gathering, there are grounds to hope for constructive results. It is not because the economic problems these nations face have become any easier to solve. It is because nations which at first saw themselves competing for a bigger share of the economic pie — or to protect the share they have — are now more willing to worry about the condition of the pie as a whole.

A good example of the changing mood can be seen in Iran, a member of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries which began counting on staggering amounts of oil revenue after OPEC quadrupled oil prices early in 1974. Today, Iran comes to the economic conference facing a deficit in its national budget and balance of payments, jeopardizing the shah's ambitious plans for his country.

Oil production in Iran is at the lowest point since 1972. Although OPEC decided on another 10 per cent increase in oil prices last September, Iran and some other members are showing an obvious reluctance to impose it for fear they will drive down demand for their oil even more.

The bloom is off the rose for OPEC, and also for those third world nations who had hoped to copy the OPEC model in demanding more for their raw materials and other commodities which, like oil, are essential for the industrialized world. Just as high prices have caused a slackening demand for OPEC oil, and spurred the search for cheaper alternatives, so would that strategy boomerang inevitably if applied elsewhere.

The Paris conference has a lengthy agenda of proposed new trade and monetary mechanisms that can help poorer countries pay for oil and other imports, both through loans and by stimulating their own economic development and exports.

Secretary of the State Henry Kissinger, who unveiled many of these proposals three months ago, referred to the proposed new economic relationships as "interdependence." That's another way of saying that a system of mutual trade must work for the mutual benefit of all nations occupying different rungs on the ladder of development. The Paris conference is their chance to prove that it can.

Sen. Thomas Eagleton is warning that Washington, D. C., may be heading down the same road as New York City. The Missouri Democrat told his colleagues that the District of Columbia's big area is in "chaos" and its local government could go bankrupt.

There's a big difference between New York and Washington, however. The latter became a home-rule city only last year. Until then its affairs were managed with the oversight of Congress, which has generously loaned the city a total of $1.07 billion from the federal Treasury leaving its residents saddled with a per capita debt second only to New York City's.

Members of Congress do not have far to look if they want to know who bears the ultimate responsibility for any fiscal problems now overtaking the city.

Around

The Clock

Thomas Wolfe said it best — "You Can Never Go Home Again."

Time and time again, though, journalists must slip out of the newborn back to that town or city where it all began.

In this case it all began in Leeds, Ala., a small city near Birmingham. About the only thing Leeds is known for, I guess, is the cement dust that sprinkles from the plant on the cars of the town.

But like Wolfe, I was astounded by changes in my hometown. The town truly gets smaller each year. That could be because the state came in awhile back and built an interstate highway which bypassed the city.

That particular highway also ran squarely through the honorary mayor of Brompton's house. Now, Brompton — about three miles from Leeds — is important because the honorary mayor, Ed Ewing, is my grandfather and for 18 years I lived there where the interstate is now located.

The honorary mayor, got his title, I suppose, because he's been there so long. Even after the interstate wiped out his house, he moved to Leeds and commutes to Brompton to play cards with his cronies.

When relatives offered him a trailer on the river in Florida, he scoffed at the idea.

Now, the mayor's wife is a little less impressed with Alabama and welcomed proposals of a switch to sunny Florida. But the mayor is getting on in age now, though you wouldn't know it to look at him, and he's always lived in Alabama, never ventured out of the state except to visit.

Repeated offers of a Florida residence this Christmas just brought a smile to the mayor's face. He wouldn't even discuss it, wouldn't even talk about the possibility.

Over the years the mayor saw a lot. He saw me leave home first for Florida. Saw me leave again on a four-year tour of European capitals. The mayor never said much about that kind of wandering, just shook his head, smiled and laughed a little.

Separation Requirement Explained

WASHINGTON — Our system of democracy requires, in my mind, as clear a separation between private business and the government as between the President, Congress and the Supreme Court.

When this dividing line is overstepped or ignored, the door is open to corruption, influence peddling and favoritism, and to inefficiencies so great — as witness the Soviet experience — they cost us dearly in our standard of living.

It requires noting here again that there are a considerable number of companies in the United States which receive so great a percentage of their income from government contracts that abuses are certain to occur. Especially when the amounts involved are overproportionally large.

Take, for example, the matter of military prime contracts, which totaled $40 billion this past fiscal year.

Twenty-eight companies accounted for half the $40 billion, 10 companies for a third and five companies alone for 20 per cent.

Each of nine firms had military prime contracts between $1 billion and $2 billion.

These figures refer only to military contracts. When we add in Health, Education and Welfare; the National Aeronautics and Space Administration; the Energy Research and Development Administration, and a host of other agencies, we have a situation in which a considerable number of companies are dependent on the government for their very existence.

Very little data on this matter is available on most firms. But I have estimates on seven super-giants. Reports are that each does between a third to two thirds or more of its entire business with the federal government. These major concerns are not alone in their dependency; the problem extends to thousands more.

This dependency leads inevitably, in too many cases, to coziness, over-friendliness, relationships ending in free hunting trips, expensive gifts, employment at high salaries after retirement from the government, regardless of restrictions written into law.

These gifts are tied to special favors — tax concessions, easy approval of cost overruns, overlooking of alterations, expense padding, the ignoring of defects in a manner most satisfactory to the officials on the government side of the fences.

Success thus falls to those firms which have the best word merchants. Workmanship — or lack of it — comes to have little bearing.

Because profits, to often, are a percentage of costs, the greater the cost the greater the profit. Inefficiency pays off.

Tax Shelter Benefits Detailed

Few questions facing the American people today are more vital, more debated — and more confusing — than the question of oil.

Barely two years after the United States decided to make itself independent of foreign oil, we find ourselves consuming 17 million barrels of oil each day and produce less than 10 million.

According to one study, even if there is only a modest 2.5 per cent annual increase in oil consumption over the next decade, by 1985 we will be consuming 23 million barrels a day, while our presently known domestic reserves will be supplying less than 5 million barrels.

It is the urge to attack the petroleum industry, especially in Congress, where some members seem determined not only to roll back the price of oil being produced today but to abolish the investment incentives that are needed if the industry is to find and develop the oil the nation will need tomorrow.

Few people will shed a tear over the problems of Exxon, Gulf, Shell and the like. The fact is, however, that drilling by the nation's 4,000 small, independent oil companies accounts for 80 per cent of all new oil discoveries, and these companies are perhaps even more dependent than the giants of the industry on investment capital from private individuals.

Not many Americans, of course, can afford to take a "bat" in a dry hole to the tune of $5,000 or $10,000, the usual investments in one well these days. But apparently, despite the recession and its lingering after effects, there are still many individuals in the U.S. with a minimum net worth of $300,000 who can.

This is the criterion required by ENI Corporation, the nation's largest brokerage house specializing in tax-related investment opportunities for high-income individuals and corporations — in short, tax shelters.

"It is important to recognize the vital role played by the independent oil companies and to give them the kind of encouragement necessary to continue drilling on-shore wells," ENI president Joseph L. Schocken recently told a meeting of faculty and students at the Harvard Business School.

Schocken agrees that a "tough and comprehensive" tax reform bill is badly needed. Certain abuses are permitted within the tax code which severely undermine the morale of other taxpayers.

There are, for example, situations whereby an investor can make an investment in a program and have a profit the instant he writes the check merely from the tax savings he realizes. Such possibilities are flagrant abuses of the tax code and ought to be curbed.

At the same time, he points out, tax shelters can serve as a means of channeling needed capital to areas of national priority. Construction of low-income housing, as well as the development of domestic petroleum resources, are very much needed national goals, and the flow of investor capital to those areas is significantly enhanced by tax benefits.

Footnote: The Pentagon acknowledged that the GAO audit was "an impressive overview of the impact of aid to Israel and Vietnam." But Defense officials claim the report "incomplete" because of its "inadequate analysis."

Secret Audit Claims Arsenal Depleted

In August, 1971, and again in June, 1972, then, "as negotiations for a cease-fire in Southeast Asia progressed, it was anticipated that the agreement might call for a moratorium on military equipment entering Vietnam."

A special project was undertaken in October, 1972, to identify and expedite delivery of all the equipment the United States wanted to get into country before such a deadline could be established.

Most of these supplies were abandoned a few months later by the retreating South Vietnamese. Indeed, the loss of U.S. equipment on overseas battlefields has been staggering.

During the latest Arab-Israeli conflict in October, 1973, for example, "equipment and supplies on both sides were consumed at astonishingly high rates. The Israeli inventories were reduced to such dangerous levels that Israel requested immediate assistance from the United States."

The Defense Department, caught without a contingency plan, asked the Israelis to document their needs. But they refused "to provide some special information," the study alleges. Therefore, U.S. authorities had to base on which to judge the criticality of items and amounts thereof requested by the Israelis.

Defense officials, never/less, filed most of Israel's requests on "blind faith, although this meant stripping certain U.S. units. Here are other highlights from the secret GAO report: — "The two principal types of tracked vehicles furnished to Vietnam and Israel in large quantities were tanks and APCs (armored personnel carriers). As of June 30, 1974, the Arab had a shortage of 4,943 tanks and 1,822 APCs." This reduced the inventory of tanks, for example, 50 per cent below the minimum Army requirements.

"During the 1973 Middle East war, 400 M48 Patton air-ground missiles were withdrawn from the U.S. and sent to Israel." This amounted to "90 per cent of the missiles on hand," charges the report.

"Another air-to-ground missile, the Shrike, is used chiefly to knock out the radar systems of anti-aircraft missiles." In October, 1973, the report says, "Israel requested slightly more than 1,000 Shrike missiles. Although only 300 Shrikes were delivered to Israel, at the time the Air Force had only 22 per cent of its requirements."

"The U.S. has stopped producing Sparrow intercept missiles, which are used to blast enemy planes out of the sky. Although the U.S. had none to spare, the Israelis requested 180 received 80 Sparrow missiles during the October, 1973, war."

'75 Had Its Share Of Problems

DEAR ABBY: I would like to know if the U.S. government has what they call a "conscience place" where a person can go and pay the government what he has cheated them out of. If so, where is it? I want to do it clean.

WANTS TO REPENT
DEAR ABBY: There is no one place, if you've cheated on your income tax, wrote to the Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C. with a note of explanation. If you've cheated on something else, send your remittance to any U.S. Treasury office with a note explaining the situation.

Two Days Removed, Viking Controversy Still Rages

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

If you ask Drew Pearson, who caught the ball, the Minnesota Vikings were absolutely right. There should have been an interference penalty called on Roger Staubach that gave Dallas a last-second 17-14 victory over the Vikings in their National Football League playoff game.

The question is, then, who interfered with whom.

"There was interference on the play," said Pearson. "I don't know if the official would call it."

There are two kinds of interference — offensive, which the Vikings thought Pearson committed, and the more commonly called defensive.

"After a pass is thrown, the ball is up for grabs," said Art McNally, the NFL's supervisor of officials. "Both players (the intended receiver and the defender) may move for it. Whether there is interference on the play depends on whether either player runs through the other to get to the ball or there is deliberate extension of an arm to push an opponent out."

What about contact between receiver and defender?

"If both men are making a play for the ball, you're going to contact," McNally said. "Incidental or strong contact doesn't mean a thing."

Pearson and the defender, Nate Wright, both agree that there was contact.

"I thought I had an interception," said Wright. "I had position... I felt myself pushed. I slipped forward and I tried to hold my balance. All of a sudden, I was lying on the ground."

Pearson said he and Wright went up together for the pass.

"After the collision, I had the ball in my hands, but Wright knocked it loose as he was falling," the Dallas wide receiver explained. "The ball slipped out of my hands but slid onto my right hip and I was able to grab it and hold it there."

By then, Wright was down. "I never saw him catch the ball," the Viking defensive back said. "The officials were signaling touchdown. I couldn't believe it."

Neither could Pearson and for a split second, he wasn't sure his catch would survive the scrutiny of the officials.

"I saw something fly through the air," Pearson said. "I thought it was a yellow flag. I thought, 'Oh, no, he's calling the interference.'"

But Pearson's fear was unfounded. What flew past him was an orange tossed by a fan. The touchdown was legal and the Cowboys were winners.

But Grant, coach of the Vikings, couldn't believe that the officials had allowed the play to stand. "It was definitely interference," snapped the tactician Minnesota boss.

Dallas Coach Tom Landry watched the game film Monday and decided that the play had been called properly.

The call looked fine to me," he said. "It looked to me that the ball was a little underthrown and that both Wright and Drew were coming back for it. It looked like Wright stumbled and came into Drew while he was falling down. Drew went for the ball, caught it and that was that. You had two officials within 10 yards of the play from different angles."

The officials were head line judge Arnie Terzian.

It was Bergman whose controversial no-fumble call on an apparent fumble by Miami's Mercury Morris and subsequent unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against Buffalo three weeks ago led to loud criticism by Bills' owner Ralph Wilson. The outburst cost Wilson a $5,000 fine by NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Later, following Pearson's controversial catch, Terzian was banned by a whiskey bottle hurled from the stands. He suffered a scalp wound and left the field with his head bandaged.

And it was Terzian who ruled Minnesota's recovery of a punt on the Dallas four-yard line legal even though the Vikings' Aubrey Beamon ran into Cliff Harris, who had signaled for a fair catch. The Vikings moved from the four to the game's first touchdown.

And a late move by the powerful front court could spell trouble for a handful of other players who have their eyes on the season wins championship trophy.

Chucho together a strong two-week performance and has moved to within nine wins of the most victories in the house, 79, shared by Arpi, Sanchez, Aldana, Maruri and Celaya.

Larri, Alberdi, Bilbao, Urza and Arecha are also within striking distance.

The front closes Jan. 25. Chucho, who makes his offseason home in Seminole County, came to Orlando six years ago as a backcourter. He was signed as a frontcourter for the following season, but when Harris decided upon an early retirement, player-manager Juan "Africeta" summoned Chucho from Tijuana a year early.

The experience of playing in the backcourt strengthened Chucho's game. "It helped me a lot in singles," he admits. After one year in the backcourt against middle game competition, Chucho quickly moved into feature game competition. In familiar surroundings in the frontcourt, Chucho has developed into one of the strongest players in the game.

Tars, Hats T-Bowl Foes

WINTER PARK (AP) — claim the victory.

Stetson University meets Rollins College in the finals of the Tangerine Bowl Basketball Tournament tonight at Earl Alumni Fieldhouse after Marshall College and East Carolina play a losers' consolation game.

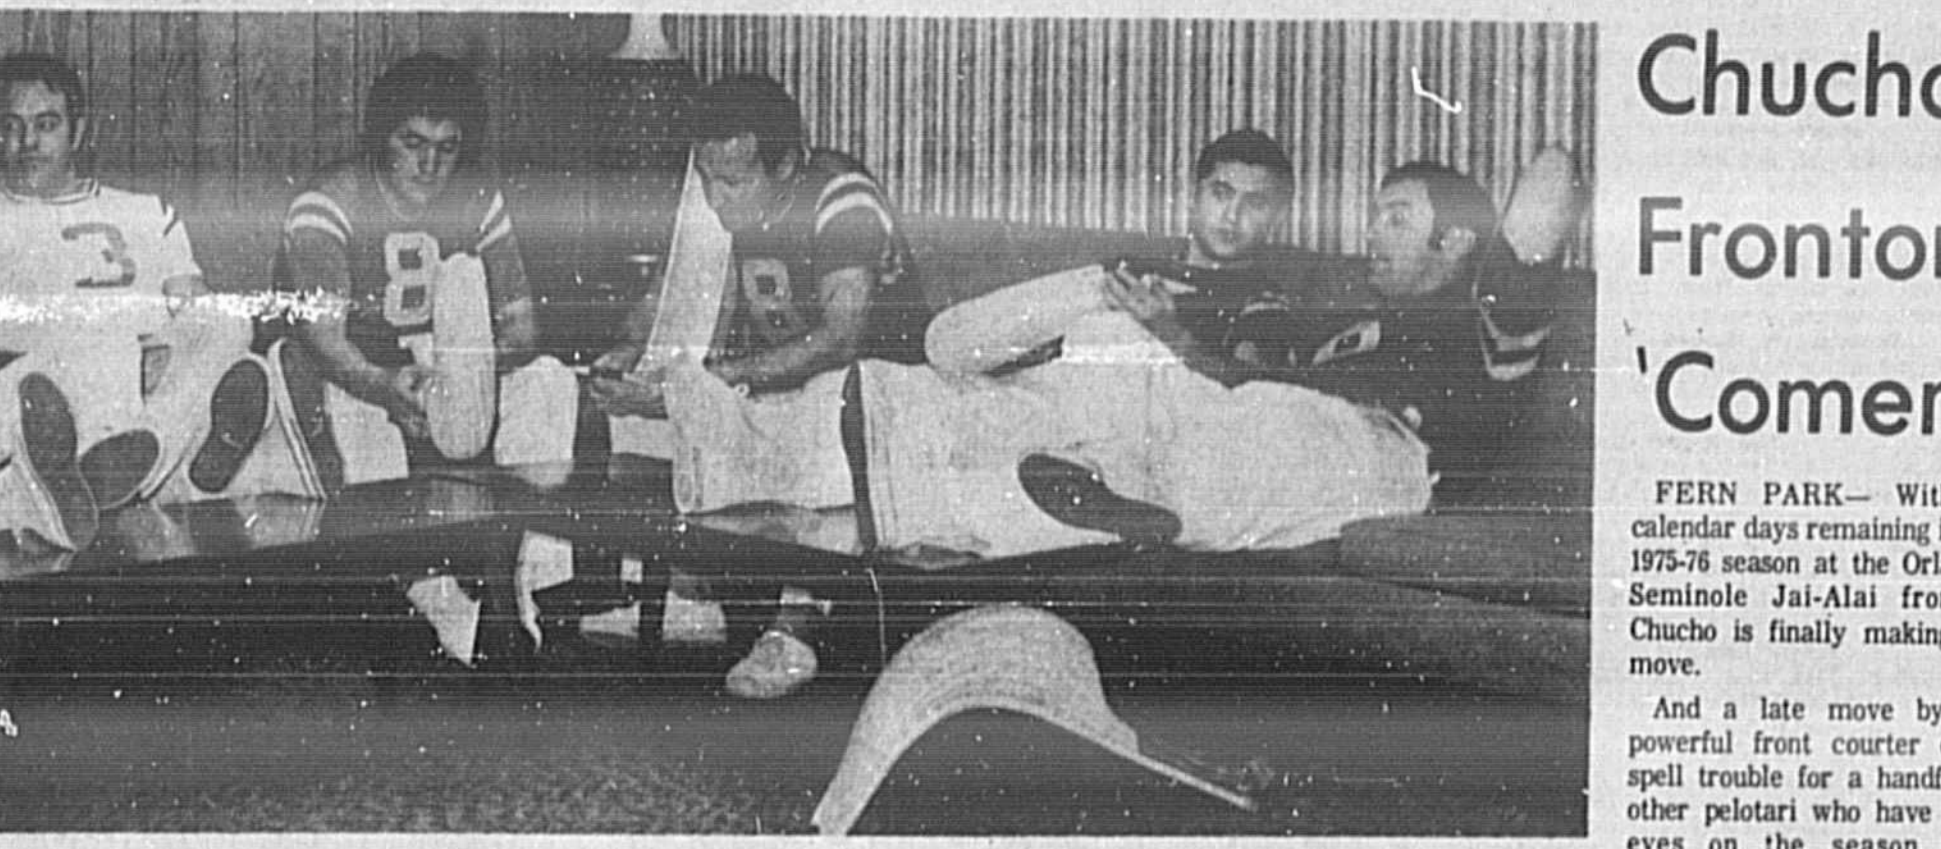

Forward Dave Stowers scored 17 points to lead Stetson to a 96-73 victory over East Carolina.

Stowers sank nine of 11 free throws in the game Monday night as the Hatters took a 53-31 half-time lead but had to hold off a second-quarter surge by the Tars. Stetson is now 62, Marshall 53.

Marshall's David Miller took game-high scoring honors with 18 points.

Lake took the high-scoring honors in the earlier game, closely followed by forwards Bruce Howland and Gary Parsons with 20 points each.

The smaller but scrappier Rollins squared built a nine-point advantage at the half, then methodically increased the margin in the second half to CLEVELAND (AP) — The annual report mailed to the financial partners in the Cleveland Indians revealed The Tribe lost $1.3 million this past season, more than twice the amount estimated by team President Ted Borda in September.

Cleveland's gross income in 1975, according to the report, was $4.99 million, compared to $4.3 million in 1974.

Included in the $5.17 million in operating expenses were $440,000 for promotions, $2 million for travel, $1.1 million for salaries and $1 million for player development.

UCLA Survives Scare

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Guard Andre McCarter hit three key free throws in the final 42 seconds Monday night to help fourth-ranked UCLA squeak past a well-disciplined, cautious Santa Clara team 52-48 in the first round of the Bruin Classic basketball tournament.

UCLA, which extended its winning streak to 88 in a row at Pauley Pavilion, will meet Purdue in the finals of the event Tuesday. The Ballersmakers beat St. Louis 89-77 in the tourney's first game.

Bradshaw, Harris OK?

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nobody figured Terry Bradshaw will be starting against the Cardinals. "I practiced all week as if I was going to start," he said, "so I was ready. But if James is able to play Sunday, I'll give him the ball."

The Cowboys got into a 35-2 victory over St. Louis. He ran for one touchdown and threw a 66-yard bomb to Harold Jackson for another.

Still, he may be back on the sidelines when the Dallas Cowboys, 17-14 victors over Minnesota, show up for Sunday's National Conference title game.

"Harris has earned the right to start," said Rams Coach Chuck Knox. "James would have been in there last week if he could have played. He will start this week if he's ready." But when that will be decided isn't known.

Jaworski didn't know until about two minutes before kickoff that he'd be starting against the Cards. "I practiced all week as if I was going to start," he said, "so I was ready. But if James is able to play Sunday, I'll give him the ball."

Hoosiers Still No. 1

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Indiana kept on doing what comes naturally... and, naturally, the Hoosiers are still No. 1 in The Associated Press major college basketball poll today.

Indiana opened first place — barely — in the preseason poll, then grabbed it by the throat with its runaway victory over defending national champion UCLA.

The unbeaten Hoosiers, who rolled up their ninth victory of the year Monday by beating 18th-ranked St. John's University 76-69 in the championship game at Madison Square Garden's Holiday Festival.

Gators: Doubting Thomases

JACKSONVILLE (AP) — Maryland Coach Jerry Claiborne and his players believe they proved themselves to skeptics by beating Florida 13-0 in the 31st annual Gator Bowl game. But Florida's Gators remain doubting Thomases.

"Maryland isn't as good as we made them look," Florida senior tackle Mike Williams said after Monday night's upset. "Every time we cranked it up, we blew it. We beat ourselves."

The Terrapins would have none of that.

"They said we couldn't win the big game. They said we couldn't beat a Southeastern Conference team," chuckled Maryland senior linebacker Kevin Benson. "Well, that freed us up and we did it."

He sees his Terrapins as a "no-name" team, without stars, despite freshman tailback Steve Atkins' 127 yards rushing and most-valuable-player honors, sophomore quarterback Larry Dick's 15-yard touchdown pass to senior split end Kim Hoover and overall defensive brilliance.

"We knew we were going to play a defensive game," Claiborne said. "We had time to prepare

A. Duda & Sons - From The Mini To The Mighty

The secrets to be a success are an enormous ambition and hours of hard work. No one knows this better than A. Duda & Sons, Inc., creator of Oviedo Tractor and Duda Auto Parts, Oviedo.

The Dudas, a diversified company, began operations in the vegetable business 60 years ago. Since then the second and third generation Dudas continue to expand their operations. Their operations are established all over the state of Florida as well as in California, Arizona, Texas, and New York. At the home office in Oviedo, Florida, they have deep tillage tools for all sorts of ground preparation, rotary mowers, and walk behind mowers, and a variety of used equipment.

They carry disc harrows from 30 inches to 14 feet in width and wheel tractors from 5 to 320 h.p.

These wheel tractors are from 32 inches to 14 feet in width and weigh from 400 to 40,000 pounds.

Oviedo Tractor, a division of A. Duda & Sons, has been in operation since 1957. It started out with only two employees and now boasts 14.

Oviedo Tractor carries the widest range of farm equipment in the state. They handle five major lines of tractors, lawn and garden equipment, and three major farm forage equipment lines. New Holland, Gehl and John Deere are among the brands they carry.

In addition to the above mentioned businesses, the Oviedo location houses a complete line of auto parts and accessories. They stock a complete line of auto parts and accessories for all major brands. All territory from Daytona Beach to Palatka and south the southern tip of the state is serviced by Duda. They also have an operation in Naples, Florida.

A true story of success — one might say the Duda story — from the mini to the mighty.

Milex Tune-Up Technicians, Not Tinkerers

LET MILEX TUNE UP YOUR CAR RIGHT THE FIRST TIME

Today's sophisticated automobile engines are intricate pieces of machinery that require the latest electronic devices to test and analyze their performance. These instruments can only be operated properly by skilled technicians.

These intricate electronic devices and expert technicians are available in this area at Milex Tune-Up, Hwy. 17-92 & Nursery Road, Longwood, Fla. Owner Jerry Schmit and his skilled mechanics avail you of the services of a professional tune-up.

If you are having trouble under the hood — or if it is too long since your car's last tune-up — take your car in to Milex for an electronic engine tune-up analysis.

This is a 40-point engine analysis that examines such areas as ignition distributor, electrical system (including starting system, spark plugs, starter, voltage regulator and battery), and checks car operation: timing; cylinder output; exhaust system; and coolant system.

When the analysis is complete, clearly specified on your analysis report, are undertaken. Only national-brand parts are used. The work is covered by a written guarantee. After each repair, replacement or adjustment, the work is rechecked to insure that it is controlled. Performance is considered satisfactory only when readings meet or exceed specifications of the manufacturer of your car when new.

The ordinary auto repair facility simply install parts and plugs, and considers the job done when you go in for a tune-up. This "quickie" type of engine analysis, and trust your car to technicians, not tinkerers — ADV.

For Wednesday, December 31, 1973

ARIES (March 21-April 19) As the day wears on, you tend to become a bit more serious. Let yourself go if you can, or you could spoil the good times of those around you.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Conclude your business before early afternoon. By then you'll be in a more festive mood and won't be worried about tying up loose ends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're going out this evening and plan to share expenses, have a clear advance understanding as to who pays for what.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be too opinionated this evening. Be prepared to make concessions, especially to your mate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The way a situation works out today may stick you with some last-minute chores. Plan ahead. You can handle things and still have fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Go where the bright lights are tonight, but avoid crowds. You'll be better off with a small group of friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) You'll have a better time with pals at home tonight. If you must go out, make it an early dummy's ace and his queen of spades. Now let's see what happens in the extraordinary, very good bridge game.

Blood Pressure Affected By Salt

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. DEAR DR. LAMB — Is eliminating salt from one's diet the only way to keep from having high blood pressure?

Also, could you tell me why my body shoots off little red spots? I got two today. One I had about 10 hours and there over my body and also on my head. Are these caused from the veins or high blood pressure? I asked my doctor and he said that it was nothing. If they are nothing why do I get them?

DEAR READER — There is some evidence that high salt intake will increase the chances of having high blood pressure. High blood pressure is caused by many other things, including kidney disease and various hormone abnormalities.

Simple obesity appears to be a factor in many cases. You would be surprised how many people with elevated blood pressure have lower readings if they get rid of any fat, even a small amount, that they have on their body.

DEAR READER — Actinic refers to rays of sunlight, and keratosis refers to those brown or grayish spots on your skin. In short the term means grey or brownish spots on the skin caused by exposure to sunlight. They are quite common.

Depending a lot on how many you have and what they look like on examination, they can be ignored or removed. The doctor can use chemicals to remove them from the surface of the skin, if he thinks they need to be removed. In some instances he may want to remove them surgically.
