County Clears Logiam; OKs Four Building Projects

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

the logiam which has blocked Seminole County commissioners' planning for projected expansion was bruken Tuesday with action to begin work on three separate projects.

Commissioners voted 4-1, with Robert G. "Bud" Feather apposing, to move their offices and staff agencies as well as other constitutional officers now occupying the courthouse into the old Seminole Memorial Hospital on a short-term basis.

They also authorized negotiations to acquire property adjacent to the Zayre Plaza on Airport Boulevard in Sanford for a new health clinic site and to purchase property adjacent to the county's Five Points complex along U.S. 17-92.

The actions by commissioners break the logjam that had faced them since Hospital Corporation of America moved into Central Florida Regional Hospital earlier this year leaving the Seminole Memorial Hospital building vacant. Commissioners tried twice to market the building but only one bid was received on the building in the bid offerings.

George M. Kline of Bethesda, Md., to purchase the building for $611,050 and elected to renovate the facility for use as county offices on a short-term basis.

They will hire an outside contractor to make the renovations and hope to move in by March 1.

The decision on the hospital had blocked the other actions because the former hospital had been considered as a possible home for the health clinic. But the decision to use the hospital on a short-term basis forced the need for another site for the health department's Sanford clinic. Dr. Jorge Deju said the favored site is a 13.8-acre parcel adjacent to the Zayre Plaza along Airport Boulevard. Another parcel, 10 acres, is located to the west of that property. Both parcels are for sale for $20,000 to $23,000 per acre.

A special fund was created several years ago for construction of a new clinic when the county sold operating rights at the old hospital to HCA for more than $5 million. That fund On Tuesday, commissioners rejected the bid proposal of has grown to more than 59 million, commissioners said

> The 15 acres near the Five Points complex also was considered as a possible home for the health department clinic until the property by Zayre's became available. But commissioners said the parcel is still essential to the county's longterm needs for expanded office space.

> An addition to the Seminole County jail and the juvenile detention center, an access road to the facilities and an administration center would be built on the property, which is behind the old Village Smorgasbord along U.S. 17-92.

> Commissioners directed consultant Walter H. Sobel to proceed with plans to build an office tower for additional space adjacent to the courthouse.

> When the facility is completed, commissioners and constitutional officers could move into the building or to a proposed building at the Five Points complex. County government services are expected to be severely impacted by projected growth in the county through the year 2000 State surveys estimate the county's population will at least double from the present 187,000 people and could rise as high as 425,000

To meet those needs, additional personnel will be needed in almost every county department. In the courts, existing facilities already are being stretched to the limit.

A county survey projects that all available space in the courthouse will be needed for the courthouse by 1985.

The move to the old hospital will permit the expansion of courtrooms and will provide additional office space for judges and court staff.

The tower, planned for construction on the south side of the courthouse, also would serve as offices for court related of-

Commissioners also plan to begin negotiations with William Kirk, owner of Kirk Plaza, which is located immediately to the south of the courthouse. If the office building is built south of the courthouse, this property would have to be obtained

Insanity Defense For Greco

By TENI YARBOROUGH Herald Staff Writer

The lawyer for a 16-year-old Longwood boy accused of murdering his H-year-old sister says he plans to rely on an insanity defense and ask the court to rule his client incompetent to stand trial.

Jack Bridges, lawyer for Richard David Greco of 1685 Glenethel Court in Longwood, appeared before County Judge Harold F. Johnson with his client Tuesday in a bond hearing. Bridges said he would not contest Greco's no-bond status and said he intended to file the appropriate documents within 15 days, relying on an insanity defense and asking that his client be found incompetent to stand trial.

Johnson ordered that Greco be returned to his jail cell and set a trial date of Dec. 29 before Circuit Judge Kenneth M. Leffler.

Greco was arrested Monday night at a lainesville hospital on a warrant issued by the Seminole state attorney's office. The youth is charged with second-degree murder in the death of his sister. Katherine Suzanne. The 14-year-old girl died Sept. 9 after sheriff's deputies discovered the badly beaten girl lying on the kitchen floor of her Longwood home at about 7 p.m. Sept. 7,

Miss Greco was transported to Florida Hospital-Orlando and later underwent surgery at the Orlando Regional Medical Center where she died without ever regaining consciousness. Doctors said the young Lake Mary High School sophomore had been beaten in the head with the blunt end of a metal claw hammer 14 or 15 times.

Deputies discovered the bleeding girl after Greco called his father, Richard J., 33, at work and said the girl had been attacked. The elder Greco called deputies asking them to check on his daughter's well-being, while also calling a neighbor, Michael Young, and asking him to go to the home.

When deputies arrived at the home,

Games Walking For Fun And Medals

By BRITT SMITH Herald Staff Writer

Take a 3,000-meter race, add a leisurely stroll around the block, stir briskly and presto! You have what a bunch of folks were doing at the Golden Age Games Tuesday -

A unique combination of jogging and walking, the event captured the interest of 47 entrants, men and women aged 55 to 93, who participated in a two-mile event at the Seminole High School track.

And the racer most adept at putting one foot in front of the other as fast as possible without actually breaking into a trot was 58-year-old Al Christensen of Venus, Fla., who strode the eight laps in a quick 19 minutes and 14 seconds. His next nearest competitor was over three minutes behind nationally-ranked racewalker, and partly because, with only a couple of exceptions, no one else in the field had ever done this kind of racing before. This was the first year the event had been held at the Games teven though it has been an Olympic event since at least the turn of the century) and both racers and officials had the usual problems which accompany a maiden effort.

Prior to the start of the race, Bob Miller of Casselberry, a long-time racewalker who didn't compete this year due to recent heart surgery, gave a demonstration of the proper racing technique for the obviously inexperienced walkers.

Rules for the event state that racewalking "is progression by steps so taken that unbroken contact with the ground is maintained. The advancing foot of the walker must contact the ground before the rear foot leaves the ground."

Dancers Set To Compete Golden Age Games participants shed their track shoes for dancing shoes today to compete in the dance contest this afternoon at the Sanford Civic Center and socialize at tonight's Jubilee Dinner-Dance, also at the civic center.

Both events are sponsored by the Over 50 Club of Sanford. Dance categories which the swinging seniors participate in include waltz, fox trot, polka, cha cha, jitterbug, tango and alley cat.

The dance contest was set to begin at 2 p.m. and the dinner-dance at 6:30 p.m. Advance tickets are required for the dinner-dance and are available at the Games headquarters at the Greater Sanford Chamber of Commerce, First Street and Sanford Avenue.

The Sanford Serenaders Band, which plays for the weekly Wednesday senior citizen dances at the civic center, will play for the contest and dance.

The Golden Agers also will show off their talents Thursday at 7 p.m. at the civic center when they participate in the variety show and talent contest. The event will be open to the public with a $1 donation. Senior citizens 55 and older from many parts of the country will compete in dancing, singing, comedy, acts, musical instruments, recitations and other performances. Dorothy Francy Langkop, honorary chairman of the 1982 Sanford Golden Age Games, will be the speaker at a Fellowship of Christian Athletes breakfast at 7:30 a.m. Friday at the Sanford Civic Center. Participants in the Games are invited to attend the free breakfast to be provided by Post Cereals.

Geneva Eyes 2 Alternatives

If Geneva residents can delay a decision expected Tuesday by the state Cabinet, they will get help from their Orange County neighbors in a fight against Florida Power & Light Company's planned transmission line through Geneva.

Orange County will spend more than $100,000 on engineering surveys and environmental studies of a proposed 512mile alternate route around Christmas. But first the Cabinet decision must be Geneva residents will meet at 7:30 tonight at the community hall to examine two proposed western corridors for the twin 500,000-volt transmission lines.

The Geneva residents are trying to gather enough support to force the Cabinet to move the line out of Seminole County and into neighboring Volusia or Brevard County.

But those efforts have been hampered by mistrust, with residents living to the east and west of Geneva battling over where the line should go within the

People Against Power Intrusion, a citizens' group of Geneva residents, asked the Cabinet on Oct. 6, to consider an alternate route for the line, which will provide power from generating plants in Georgia to electric users in Florida. PAPI wants a route that bypasses the populated area of Seminole County where FP&L had sited it.

Geneva residents originally supported a route along Interstate 95 in Brevard County but later proposed a bypass around Lake Harney in Volusia County. Both plans were opposed by the state Department of Environmental Regulation because they passed through environmentally sensitive areas.

The routes considered to the west of Geneva affect about the same number of residences but traverse a far greater number of parcels of property than the original proposal.

Two meetings have been held to attempt to get a consensus among the residents on a proposal to take to the Cabinet. Cabinet members said they will place the line in FP&L's original corridor if no consensus is reached.

Another Geneva-based group, Floridians for Reconsidering the Lines, generate greater support for the bid to have the power line route changed.

Lou Childers, spokesperson for the group, said a bonfire rally will be held at 8 p.m. Friday on Lake Geneva Drive to kick off the railles. Others are planned for Saturday in counties north of Seminole.

Saturday's activities will begin at 10 a.m. at the Seminole County courthouse, where the initial group will meet. Mrs. Childers said persons are expected to join the original group as it heads to each of the railies north to form a car caravan, ending at 3:30 p.m. in Jacksonville.

"All issues need to be addressed," Mrs. Childers said.

Court Orders Jowais To Trial

A Forest City teenager who nearly escaped prosecution for plowing his car into a group of young girls after a judge ruled the state took too long to try him will wind up in court after all.

The Fifth District Court of Appeal in Daytona Beach has reversed Seminole Circuit Judge Dominick Salfi's dismissal of the case against Jerome Alexander Jowais, 18, of 1561 Kenlyn Drive, and ordered a trial date be set.

Jowais was 17 when he was charged with manslaughter after his car crashed into a group of girls walking along Wekiva Springs Road north of Altamonte Springs on May 17, 1981.

Laurie Ann Hebel, 13, of Longwood, was killed in the wreck. Four other girls who were walking to a convenience store from a pajama party were injured.

Early last month, Assistant State Attorney General Evelyn Golden argued before the appellate judges that the state should not have been penalized when Jowais delayed his case by appealing an order which would have allowed him to be tried as an adult. Ms. Golden argued that by appealing the order Jowais forfeited his right to a trial within 180 days of arrest as required by the state's Speedy Trial Law.

The charge of manslaughter by operating an automobile while intoxicated had been dismissed Feb. 8 by Salli who ruled the state had failed to bring Jowais to trial within the 180-day period.

The appellate court reversed Salfi's ruling earlier this week. No trial date has - BRITT SMITH

Sanford Agrees To Lease City Hall Space To County

Decisions were made by the Sanford City Commission this week on leasing part of the City Hall's ground floor to the county for office space and to turn over maintenance of a city park to All Souls Catholic Church.

The commission approved a lease arrangement with Seminole County for 7.913-square feet of the 14,000-square feet on the ground floor of the city building for a rental fee of $4.57 per square foot, $36,164 a year.

In addition, the county will pay $21,256 a year to the early for utility costs-power, water and sewer.

The lease arrangement is for one year with an option to

The space is to be used initially by the Public Defender's office and Manpower offices beginning Nov. 22.

Meanwhile, the Rev. William Ennis, pastor of All Souls Catholic Church, agreed to a city proposal to take over maintenance of the city park on Park Avenue across from the Oak Avenue church and parochlal school. The park has traditionally been used by All Souls students during day-time hours.

The church has also agreed to insure the city against liability at the park. In other action Monday, the commission agreed to increase its fees for mowing vacant and unkept property in the city from $30 per 50-feet lot to $100. The purpose of the increase commissioners said, is to keep the city out of the mowing business as much as possible and to avoid competing with private enterprise.

On Office Building Plans

City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles noted that the higher fees will hopefully encourage owners to mow their own vacant Currently, city policy provides that the city will mow lots when citizens complain and bill the owner. The work is done only after the owner is notified and refuses to do the work himself.

If bills for the service are not paid, the city places a lien against the property.

Knowles also told commissioners that an agreement is being worked out with Metropolitan Systems Inc. for the upkeep of benches located throughout the city, especially at bus stops. While the Orlando firm was to have placed 173 benches in the city, only 53 were actually installed in the 18 months after the agreement went into effect in mid-1981.

A new agreement, Knowles said, will include the requirement that a performance bond be submitted to the city. Several weeks ago, the city put Metropolitan on notice that it had violated its contract with the city by its lack of bench maintenance. Knowles noted that many of the benches are in a poor state of repair and could become a liability to the city.

Feathers Fly; Decision Delayed

By MICHEAL BEHA Herald Staff Writer

Routine consideration of a site plan Tuesday morning by Seminole County commissioners erupted into a squabble between Commissioner Robert G. "Bud" Feather and his exwife.

The request for site plan approval came from Walter Judge, who wants to build a two-story, 10,000-square-foot building at the southeast corner of East Lake Brantley and Wekiva Springs roads.

That parcel received office park zoning from the commission in 1980 prior to Feather's election to the board. At that time, the property was owned by Feather and his wife, Dody. The Feathers planned to build a 4,800-square-foot building to house his personal office and real estate office and her travel agency.

The zoning was approved with the stipulation that the site plan proposed by Feather be used.

When the Feathers divorced in 1981, she got the property as part of the settlement. She still owns the property and appeared with Judge to push for commission approval of the site Feather said he made commitments to the neighbors, including that the building would be one-story to preserve the residential flavor of the neighborhood.

Feather moved to deny the site approval but the motion died for lack of a second.

putting his personal feeling ahead of the public good. "I'm not sure it's for the good of the county," she said. "Are you fighting me or are you fighting the project?"

Commissioner Robert Sturm said the proposal meets the county's code and moved to approve the project. But his motion also died for lack of a second and the matter was continued until the commission's 7 p.m. session.

At that session, Ms. Simerson's aftorney, James Pansall, apologized for her behavior at the morning session and argued that the project has met zoning regulations.

Pansall argued that a public hearing was unnecessary because the code does not stipulate the need for a hearing. Feather then produced a tape recording of the original commission meeting when the zoning and site plan were approved. He played about 20 minutes of the testumony at the meeting to show that the commitments had been made to the community.

With that, he again made a motion to deny the request. This time Commissioner Barbara Christensen seconded the motion. "It's clear that it was approved for that site plan," she said. "I don't have any problem with the site plan you've shown if we have a public hearing." Pansall charged that commissioners were giving the case special consideration, "Just because we have a commissioner

HRS May Be Spared Deep Budget Cuts

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)-Gov. Bob Graham may be thinking twice about forcing the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services to absorb most of a $300 million cut in state spending.

The recession has lasted longer than expected so tax revenues aren't producing enough to fully fund the state budget. Graham and the Cabinet trimmed $110 million in state spending last August, but government economists say another $300 million in cutbacks is necessary.

The cuts will be made either by Graham and the Cabinet or the Legislature, which might be called into special session next month. Graham has said his inclination would be to exempt the public schools and possibly all of education and law enforcement from the cuts. That would leave HRS absorbing the bulk of the reductions. Agency officials say as many as 3,500 workers may have to be laid off.

Keys Development Probed

KEY WEST (UPI)—A grand jury is investigating the circumstances leading to approval for the controversial Port Bougainville project, the largest development ever planned for the Florida Keys.

The massive, 2,806 unit condominium was first approved by the Monroe County Commission last summer. The commission revoked its endorsement when it was shown that developers were using different plans than those approved, but then gave the go-ahead again last month when plans were revised.

But that approval was blocked by the South Florida Regional Planning Council, pending a public hearing in December. The council will vote again Dec. 6.

Meanwhile, environmentalist and citizens groups continue to oppose the project, which they say will destroy the fragile environment of North Key Largo, where it is supposed to be built.

Pulitzer Trial Ends

WEST PALM BEACH (UPI)-It was the kind of story that would have sold a lot of newpapers for turnof-the-century publishing king Joseph Pulitzer: a wealthy, high-society couple battling over big dollars and their children, with mutual accusations of drug abuse and kinky sex.

The characters are Pulitzer's grandson Peter and his wife. Roxanne, whose sensational divorce trial ended Tuesday with final arguments before a judge who said he would have to be like Solomon to judge the case fairly.

The decision will be made in December or January, when Circuit Judge Carl Harper returns from a

U.S.-PLO Negotiations Aimed At Mideast Peace

United Press International

The United States is conducting indirect negotiations with the Palestine Liberation Organization that could lead to an invitation for Yasser Arafat to visit Washington in exchange for recognition of Israel, it was reported today.

In Beirut, Lebanese diplomats said President Amin Gernayel met with U.S. envoy Norris Draper for the second time in two days and asked the United States to pressure Israel into withdrawing from the Shouf mountains east of Beirut - where bloody Christian-Moslem clashes have claimed dozens of casualties.

Hospital Construction To Begin By January

Construction of Hospital Corp. of America's new $30 million south Seminole Medical Complex on a 25-acre site north of State Road 434 and west of State Road 427 is slated to begin in late December or early January.

The time schedule was set by HCA after it gained final approval of a site plan for the two-hospital facility from the Longwood City Commission Monday night.

The three commissioners present at the meeting - Mayor June Lormann, Chick Pappas and Timothy O'Leary - approved the plan contingent upon HCA paving some 755 feet of West Lake Street from State Road 434 to Warren Avenue. Commissioner J.R. Grant, with a death in the family, and vacationing Commissioner Steve Uskert were absent.

West Lake Street is to dead end at the emergency room of the acute medical care facility at the complex. Both the 150-bed acute care hospital, to be named South Seminole Hospital, and the 80-bed psychiatric hospital, West Lake Hospital, are to be built simultaneously, according to Mayor Lormann today.

The two facilities will be connected with an enclosed walkway. An office building is also planned for construction at the site in the future.

No date has as yet been set for groundbreaking ceremonies. Construction is expected to be completed within a year. While the complex will face State Road 434, it also will have entranceways from Warren Avenue and West Lake Street.

Mrs. Lormann said a traffic signal at the hospital entrance on SR 434 is also planned. — DONNA ESTES

Greco Youth In

Continued From Page IA they found the young Greco boy lying on the front porch, apparently in shock, saying, "My sister, my sister." Upon entering the home, deputies were met by Young who led them to the girl.

Deputies added that a small metal hammer was found lying on the floor near the girl. The hammer had been removed from the family's tool box, deputies added.

Deputies refuted earlier claims that an intruder entered the home, battered the young girl and robbed the home. Deputies said there was no evidence that a burglary occurred.

Investigators said their probe began to center on the Greco youth, who until his arrest Monday had been under the care of psychiatrist Dr. Phillip Springer at Gainesville's Shands Teaching Hospital, after deputies received a call from a Miami lawyer telling them not to look any further for a suspect. The unidentified lawyer is a long-standing friend of the Greco family, Bridges said.

When asked if Greco has a history of mental illness or has undergone previous psychiatric treatment, Bridges said, "I really don't want to go into that at this time."

Springer also declined to comment on the psychiatric treatment issue. Deputies said they still have not determined a motive for the fatal beating.

According to State Attorney Douglas Cheshire, the law allows Greco to be tried as an adult even though he is under the legal age because of the severity of the crime.

If convicted, Greco could face life in prison and a $10,000 fine, he said.

Bridges added that he plans to ask the court to provide Greco "with some psychiatric care, although it will obviously be limited at the jail. We just don't have the facilities."

Richard David Greco, 16, of Longwood, is escorted into a Seminole County courtroom for arraignment on a charge that he murdered his 14year-old sister.

No Obituary For Reaganomics

The congressional elections held Nov. 2, were billed by President Reagan and by many Democrats as a referendum on "Reaganomics."

If that is what they were, the results must be called more a standoff then a clear victory for either the president or the Democrats.

The Republicans suffered a net loss of 26 House seats. But the Democrats failed to dent the 54-46 GOP margin in the Senate.

Statistically, there are several ways of viewing Republican losses in the House.

Democrats are noting that a 26-seat gain is more than twice the average for an opposition party in a president's first term.

Mr. Reagan is noting that a 26-seat loss is little more than half that suffered on average by the party that holds the White House during a period of economic stress.

And the average loss for all mid-term elections since World War II is 31 seats.

If Mr. Reagan can hardly claim victory, neither can his opponents.

Exit polling by ABC News on election day also indicated that Mr. Reagan's plea for voters to "stay the course" and his critics' frontal assaults on White House economic policy cut both ways.

Asked why they voted for their congressional candidates, 28 percent of the voters surveyed cited opposition to Reaganomics while 25 percent said support for the president's economic policies was the determining factor in their vote.

Had Democrats gained, say, 50 seats in the House and recaptured control of the Senate, the president and his economic program would have been effectively repudiated. As it is, voters seem to be giving Mr. Reagan's policies more time to work even as they signal their worry over double-digit unemployment.

In political terms, a slightly more Democratic and slightly more liberal House will make it that much more difficult for Mr. Reagan to muster the coalition of Republicans and conservative Democrats that gave him repeated tax and budget victories during the last two years.

The new House may require a bit more compromise by the president and a bit less by Tip O'Neil!

The financial markets are not viewing these prospective "mid-course adjustments" as a disaster, especially if interest rates continue to fall.

Wall Street reacted to the election by posting its largest one-day gain in history.

The best guess is that the Federal Reserve Board will now feel additional political pressure to pare interest rates and that the House at least will be more inclined to cut defense spending rather than social programs.

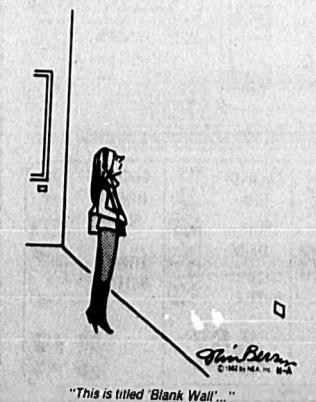

That would still leave the twin pillars of Reaganomics — stimulative tax cuts and a reduction in the growth of federal spending —

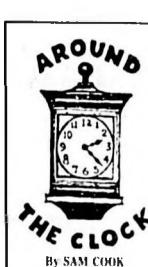

In short, Mr. Reagan may be slightly chastened, but he is far from defeated. And if the economy rebounds, as even the severest critics of Reaganomics must hope, the Democrats' modest congressional gains of 1982 may seem in retrospect nothing more than a blip on the political radar.

BERRY'S WORLD

Seminole High basketball coach Chris Marlette is entering his first season, but from the looks of the Tribe's schedule he better have the saavy of a 20-year veteran.

Seminole will compete in possibly the two most-prestigious basketball tournaments in the state. The Burger King-Metro Tournament is billed as the "Whopper Shoot-out." The tourney is in its first year but it has attracted some of the better teams in the area including Orlando Evans, Bishop Moore, Tampa Catholic and Winter Haven

The tournament will run Dec. 20-24. Seminole plays Jones at 6 p.m. Monday, Dec. 20. A win would pit them against the Winter Park-Bishop Moore survivor.

Sixteen teams are involved and the tournament will be conducted on an annual basis. While the Burger King-Metro figures to be pretty imposing, it doesn't compare to what comes up in the next few days.

Ocala Vanguard's Kingdom of the Sun Holiday Classic tips off Monday, Dec. 27. It draws the best teams from the state and also dips into powerhouses from outside the state.

This year, Vanguard coach Jim Haley has brought Grand Bahamas Catholic, St. John's (Washington, D.C.), Berea, Ky., Decatur, Ga., and Indian Hills, N.J.

Although the schedule is tough, Marlette has several reasons to take on the arduous task. Seniors Calvin "Kiki" Bryant and Vernon Law return from last year's team. Bryant is a 6-1 sharpshooter who was a double-figure scorer as a junior. Law is one of the best passers in the area and handles the point guard role.

Joining them are junior Jimmy Gilchrist, junior Willie Mitchell and probably 6-1 William Wynn in the starting lineup. Steve Grey and Steve Alexander, a couple of quick guards, lend depth as does senior Torie Hendricks.

Marlette credits a strong, weight program for toughening up the Seminoles on the backboards. Gilchrist, in particular, has been impressive, said Marlette.

The Seminole County schools open the season on Wednesday, Nov. 24 with a jamboree at Lyman High School.

it's Bad Business As Usual

Newsweek magazine is out with a big cover story to the effect that the United States is actively involved in armed attacks against Nicaragua carried out by Nicaraguan exiles operating from Honduran territory.

So what else is new might be the initial reaction in most interested quarters. Certainly not the raids, which have been going on since shortly after the Nicaraguan revolution. Nor is American animosity toward the Marxist-oriented Sandinistas in Managua.

Marxist-oriented Sandinistas in Managua. Right-wing Nicaraguans openly conduct military training in Florida. The White House authorized, CIA-directed covert operation budgeted at $19.9 million cited by Newsweek was reported by the Washington Post last March 10. The initial purpose was to block the flow of arms to Salvadoran rebels and exploit growing Nicaraguan opposition to the Sandinistas.

What makes the Newsweek story of "America's secret war" news now is the detail with which the operations are reported, the fingering of the U.S. ambassador to Honduras as the man directly in charge, the exposure of deepening American involvement with the remnants of Nicaragua's deposed and discredited Somoza regime and concern now that things have gotten out of hand. A full-scale Honduran-Nicaraguan war into which U.S. forces could be drawn is a distinct prospect.

The New York Times, which likes to be first on stories of high policy and low blows, reacted cautiously at first to the Newsweek revelations. A page-six story was headed: "U.S. Is Sald to Plot Against Sandinists." Never mind that the Times itself had long been reporting essentially the same thing in less detail on the front page.

Next day, however, it struck out boldly with a story based on its own sources and headlined flatly: "U.S. Backing Raids Against Nicaragua." Still on page six, but it confirmed Newsweek's most significant point: The United States government is a party to military operations against a government with which it has diplomatic relations and is technically at peace.

Nothing to get excited about, however, a senior intelligence official assured the Times.

"We're not waging a secret war or anything approaching that. What we are doing is trying to keep Managua off balance and apply pressure to stop providing military aid to the insurgents in El Salvador."

Further, while it may be true that U.S. Ambassador John Negroponte is the man on the spot overseeing operations, "nothing is done without clearing it in Washington first."

That's supposed to make it diplomatically OK?

Meanwhile, back in Washington the State Department doesn't want to talk about the story and its ramifications. Pressed at the noon press briefing for details, State's spokesman John Hughes declined comment other than to reiterate that it is "not U.S. policy to undermine any legitimate government."

Policy, maybe, but what about practice? You can believe what and who you want in all of this, but history does not lend support to the official denials and disclaimers. U.S. political and economic interests in this part of Latin America have traditionally been equated with those of an exploitive elite and U.S. power has been used to thwart popular movements threatening those elites.

This may have had from time to time its short-term tactical advantages in a Guatemala or a Nicaragua, but it has proved to be bad business for long-term American interests.

Other Side Of The Story

I had hoped that my first letter to the Editor would be my last, but it appears that as long as Sam Cook is allowed to use his position at the Herald to spread venom across the sports page by distortion and misrepresentation of the facts it will be necessary for me to tell the other side of the story.

Cook's article of Sunday, November 7, 1982, entitled "Flat Champagne?" is an excellent example of this. I did not put a damper on the exuberant Greyhounds nor order them to sit down; neither did I hurry through the presentation as reported by Cook. After several minutes of celebration by the victorious Greyhound players, Coach Newman, at my request, went to the center of the floor and brought the team to the players' bench in preparation for the presentation of the trophies. The Lake Howell team was already at their bench with their coach. When the fans began to quiet down and I began the presentation, one of the Greyhound players jumped up and began to holler; I turned toward her and directed her to be quiet, which she did. At that point I thanked the fans for their support of the teams and encouraged them to support the District representative in the Regional tournament. Then I proceeded to recognize the Lake Howell team and presented the runner-up trophy. The Lyman team was then called forward and presented with the championship trophy and the celebration began again. All of this was done without the aid of a public address system, which Cook failed to mention in his article. Cook coached in that gym, and he knows that one cannot be heard above the noise of the crowd without a public address system unless he raises his voice.

Sam Cook knows that lengthy presentations are never in order at team contests. The usual procedure is to thank the crowd for their support and to present the trophies. This procedure was followed Friday. He also knows that it shows a lack of consideration for the feelings of the losing team and its fans to cause them to sit for a prolonged period waiting for their trophy while the winning team celebrates. The winners and fans can celebrate as long as they wish after the trophies are presented. Knowing all this, however, did not serve Cook's purpose — which appeared to be to criticize and belittle the Lyman principal.

It is unfortunate that Sam Cook seems to use his journalistic talents only to distort the facts and criticize administrators, coaches and players. This is high school athletics. The players are not paid salaries, and the coaches certainly aren't overpaid. There is enough stress and pressure involved without everyone having to be concerned about an unprincipled individual who may be lurking around eavesdropping on conversations, waiting to distort and misrepresent the facts by the clever use of words and spreading heresay information on the printed page that is circulated throughout the community.

Sam, the Bible teaches that we should love or enemies and pray for them who persecute us. So I am going to try to forgive you again, and I will continue to pray for you. But, Lord, I hope it won't have to be seventy times seven!

Economy Isn't The Only Issue

The Nobel Prize-winning economist Milton Friedman once remarked to me that the greatest problem in managing the American economy is our electoral cycle. Like everyone else who has paid attention to the matter, he knew that economic recovery would require some painful measures, and that you don't bring a ruinous inflation down merely by wishing. And yet, under the American electoral system, the party in power faces punishment at the polls when it does what must be done.

Dr. Friedman had in mind the four-year presidential cycle, and he was inclined to prefer the longer six-year British electoral model — more time for the necessary measures to take effect.

But we have seen his point underscored dramatically in the present off-year election, which the Democrats succeeded, at least in part, in turning into a referendum on "Reagonomics," and in which Mr. Reagan was obliged to agree, pleading with us to "stay the course."

In fact, Mr. Reagan has been in office for less than one half of his first term. He has had a chance to enact only the beginnings of his economic design. We have had the first tax cuts so far, but not the full tax cuts — and even now, the Democrats have been talking about repealing the third-year tax cuts.

Everyone knows that something is going to have to be done, and sooner rather than later, about a Social Security system that is careening out of control — probably later retirement and scaled-down benefits for the affluent — but the Democrats have been talking as if the present Social Security arrangements are engraved in marble and have been demagoging the fears of the elderly.

It seems likely, from the perspective of this off-year election, that Mr. Reagan and his advisors made a strategic mistake in focusing so exclusively on the economy. The state of the economy was of course a high priority, but Mr. Reagan ran in 1980 on a number of other themes as well. By focusing for nearly two years on the economic problem, he invited the Democrats to take pot-shots at an as yet incomplete program and a recovery visible now largely in key statistics and not yet in the supermarket or the car lot.

But Mr. Reagan's mandate and his revolution were not confined to interest rates or even inflation, and as we survey the political landscape mid-way through his first term it is difficult to avoid the judgment that he would have been wiser to diversify his agenda. His advice was that to attack the social agenda would distract energy and attention from the economic one, but that may have been wrong.

In 1982, Mr. Reagan might have been less vulnerable on unemployment if, say, he could also tell the voters that he had fought through Congress and brought before the states a Constitutional admendment banning racial busing for school children. Practically everyone agrees that racial busing is a failure and an abomination, and yet the practice now has the legal momentum in the courts that only a Constitutional amendment can halt.

Racial busing is probably the least divisive item on the conservative social agenda, but tuition tax credits are not far behind it. Among middle-class parents pressed by mounting tuition bills, this Issue is a surewinner — and though the National Education Association and the New York Times hate the whole idea, they always back Democrats, anyway.

And those are only two social agenda items.

Syria Targets Arafat For Ouster

WASHINGTON — Is Yassir Arafat about to lose his leadership of the Palestine Liberation Organization after 14 years? Secret intelligence reports describe a move to oust him.

The wily Arafat emerged from the PLO's Lebanese disaster with an enhanced reputation as a moderate leader, even a statesman. He had an audience with the pope, and seemed on the verge of gaining world acceptance as a reasonable man.

All this cuts no ice with Syria, the most implacably, immoderately anti-Israel of all the Arab states. In fact, the more reasonable Arafat seems to become, the more he is detested by Syrian President Hafez Assad, who has long wanted to oust Arafat and replace him with a full-blown radical.

What makes this significant, of course, is that Syria is now the home of the greatest number of PLO guerrillas. The latest intelligence reports suggest that Assad is determined to take advantage of his position as host to the PLO and get rid of Arafat once

The Syrians have secretly been trying to round up support among PLO leaders for their choice as chairman, Abu Iyad. Though Iyad is now in Syria, there is no evidence that he has given any encouragement to the Syrian efforts. But some PLO leaders are reported to have pledged their support for Iyad as the new chairman.

Assad's clandestine moves to oust Arafat—and the support the Syrian leader has gained—were sparked by Arafat's talks with Jordan's King Hussein. Both Arafat and Hussein have been relatively positive about President Reagan's peace plan, which is anathema to the Syrians and the radical PLO leaders.

Assad was also angered by Arafat's decision to set up his temporary headquarters in Tunisia. Assad wants PLO headquarters to be in Syria, where he will be able to control it. Arafat is too clever to be caught in that trap.

Despite their longstanding hostility, Arafat has had good reason to be grateful to Assad in the past. As secret CIA reports note, Syria was for years the indispensable arms supplier to PLO forces in Lebanon.

"Almost all arms and equipment destined for the guerrillas in Lebanon, whatever their source, (came) through Syrian territory," a CIA report said. This obviously put Damascus "in a position to control the flow of arms of the fedayeen."

Just as obviously, this arrangement rankled Arafat, who looked for ways around it — like setting up direct links to the Soviets.

The seriousness with which Arafat is taking Assand's challenge is evident in PLO communications intercepted by the National Security Agency. Several of these decoded messages, classified "Secret Spoka." were shown to my associate Dale Van Atta.

The messages described emergency PLO command meetings Arafat held in Beirut to figure out ways of dealing with Assad's attempt to unseat him. Arafat and other Fatah leaders tried "to counter Syrian influence—and demonstrate their own independence—by patching up their relations with PLO radicals and drawing closer to leaders of Arab states interested in limiting Syrian influence," one message said.

Arafat was so desperate he even asked the late Egyptian President Anwar Sadat to ask the United States to stop Syrian interference in Lebanon—a request based on the startling assumption that U.S. Influence is significant in Damascus.

The Syrians' current favorite to replace Arafat, Abu Iyad, has what the CIA terms "excellent radical credentials" in Syrian eyes as head of the defunct terrorist group, Black September. But there are other candidates the Syrians would approve of: Dr. George Habash, the uncompromising leader of the Marxist Popular Front for the Liberation of Palestine, and Achmad Jabril, a former Syrian army officer and head of the Popular Front's General Command.

Arafat has deflected other moves to undercut him over the years, and he may succeed again. If he does, the CIA predicts, it will be by his usual deft methods, "trying to preserve freedom of maneuver and exploiting any opportunity for playing off other Arab states, both radical and conservative, against

Thieves Help Themselves To Jewelry, Credit Cards

Thieves broke into an Oviedo man's home at about 4:45 p.r.-Monday stealing $15 in change, costume jewelry and a half carat diamond ring.

Randy Joseph Means, 32, of 366-0 Clear View Road told deputies the thieves entered his home through a bedroom window and took the items valued collectively at about $1,015.

THIEF CHARGES ON STOLEN CREDIT CARD

About $1,350 worth of merchandise was charged to a south Seminole County man's account which was closed about five years ago after he lost his credit card.

Ray E. Ailey, 53, of 1610 Clematis Lane in Winter Park told deputies he received a bill from Sears. Roebuck and Co. saying he owed them $1,344 for merchandise charged on his account Alley told deputies he lost or misplaced a company credit card about five years ago and that account had been closed and a new one opened. However, the charges were made to the old and now defunct account, deputies said.

Investigators are continuing their probe of the incident.

THIEVES STEAL GUNS

Someone broke into a south Seminole County man's home between 4:20 and 7:30 p.m. Monday stealing two guns, but apparently intending to steal much more.

Paul S. Whiting Sr., 49, of 5086 Seminole St. in Orlando told deputies he returned home to find someone had broken into his home through a living room window and had placed his microwave oven and reel-to-reel tape recorder next to the front door. He said the intruders had also left a pillow case containing his wife's jewelry box and jewelry on the master bedroom floor, deputies added.

However, Whiting told deputies the thief stole a .22-caliber. single shot rifle and a pump-action shotgun, with a total value of $275, from a bedroom closet. The Lieves were apparently frightened from the home before they could steal the remaining items, deputies said.

MAN HELD ON ARMED BURGLARY CHARGE

A 27-year-old man was being held in the county jail under $10,000 bond following his arrest at 10:44 p.m. Monday on a charge of armed burglary.

Anthony David Schaffer, who is also known as "Jesus Christ" and lists no address, was arrested by deputies after they received a report a man with a weapon was inside a vacant apartment at Gene Gable Lodges.

Upon investigation, deputies said they discovered Schaffer inside Apt. 3 of the lodges, located near Sweetwater Academy, adding that he had a stick in his hand which had an ice pick tied

OVIEDO WOMAN RAPED

A 23-year-old Oviedo woman told deputies she was raped by a man who offered her and two friends a ride home from an Altamonte Springs bar at about 1:25 a.m. Sunday.

The woman told deputies she accepted a ride from a man. known only to her as "Sandy," as she and two friends left the Club 436 in Altamonte Springs. Deputies said the man drove one of the victim's friends home and then took the two women to their home, but forced one of them to stay in the car as the other got out. The man then drove the woman to an orange grove near the Black Hammock area of Oviedo where he sexually assaulted

The woman said the man took her to Franklin Street where he let her out of the car and drove away. The rape victim sought help from the Oviedo police department who referred her to sheriff's deputies.

HOME ROBBED

Two women told deputies that someone broke into their home near Altamonte Springs between 9:30 a.m. and 7:30 p.m. Saturday and stole a fur coat, microwave oven, television set, cash and a makeup mirror.

Dating from WWI, modern chemical warfare - prohibited by Geneva convention for almost 60 years - is a growing threat. This 1918 gas mask was used by American forces in Europe.

What If The Next War Is A Chemical Inferno?

By TOM TIEDE

sergeant puts his hands on the lectern, looks out over the class, and says he has good news and bad. The good news is that increasing numbers of militarists are beginning to doubt that the next war will be nuclear. The bad news is it will probably be gas instead. LNUCKIES.

"Now," the sergeant goes on," Our job is to prepare for that possibility. We have to accept the fact that it could happen. Toxic clouds may gather over the earth. People will drool, clutch their throats, and poop their pants. Millions may die. You and I may die. We have to get ready for it."

"Sergeant?" somebody asks. "What is it?"

"I just wanted to know if we get a weekend pass first."

Welcome to the U.S. Chemical School. It's a barrel of laughs. It's also a sobering reminder that threats to the peace are manifold. While protests rage regarding the potential of a nuclear annihilation, the real concern may be the military's apparent preparation for a battle using gas.

At least that's the real concern at Ft. McClellan. Five thousand troops are attending classes here this year that are designed to condition them for the worst. The men and women, officers and enlisted people, are enrolled in as many as five months of instruction on the use and abuse of chemical

They are learning how to protect themselves with cumbersome clothes and detoxification fluids. They are learning how to eat, drink and sleep in the furnes of death. And, ultimately, they are learning how to wipe out legions of battlefield opponents by shooting them with containers of poison.

The poison comes in two forms: nerve and blister. And they may be the most hideous instruments of hate ever devised. Small amounts can torture victims for hours or days. Some agents can raise pancake welts over the entire body. Survival is possible, experts say, but death is often preferred.

Indeed, the weapons are so terribly frightening they have been banned by convention for almost 60 years. The prohibition was created in Geneva, in 1925, shortly after chemical weapons were introduced during World War I. The United States was one of the first governments to ratify the protocol.

That ratification, however, has never been absolute. America has all along maintained a gas potential. The military was testing various agents even as the civilian government was signing the treety, and by the time World War I occurred there were 60,000 soldiers in the U.S. Chemical Corps.

And it may be a good thing the nation didn't ben the weapons completely. Their limited use was most effective against the Germans. For example: during the fighting at Anzio, in Italy, the United States saved thousands of lives by secreting troop movements with a screen of smoke nearly three miles long.

But smoke is not a killer. And its good work may have been nullified, at least emotionally. when the Army went on to test more harmful substances after the war. Many of the tests took place in Utah. Some of them got out of hand. At one time, the tests killed 6,400 sheep near Salt Lake City.

From then on it seemed the service could do no right with the chemicals. Not even get rid of them. The nation was outraged when it learned that the armed forces were disposing of outdated chemical ordinance by sealing it in concrete and acuttling it in the ocean off the Eastern Seaboard.

Eventually, the outrage forced government FT. McCLELLAN, Ala. (NEA) - The action. In 1969 President Richard Nixon ordered an end to further production of chemical materials. He left the existing supplies largely in place, but the overall effect of the directive was to undercut and downgrade the importance of the Chemical Corps.

That undercutting was more or less completed in 1973. By then the corps' major responsibilities had been given to other Army units, and the branch strength was reduced to 1,300 men. Eventually, the Pentagon "disestablished" the corps, and after 50 years of service it was thought to be at the end.

Yet the stockpiles of gas were maintained. The United States has 40,000 tons of the ordinance in depots as far apart as an island in the Pacific Ocean and a leased military post in Europe. The full count includes 630,000 warheads; that means the nation has 605,000 more chemical bombs than nuclear bombs.

The deadly stockpile is said to be one of the first things reconsidered when Ronald Reagan moved into the White House in 1981. And within months he moved to reestablish it as a credible arm of the nation's defense. Doing that, he also helped rescue the Army Chemical Corps from extinction.

That corps is now tied closely to Ft. McClellan's chemical school. And the instructors and students here seem to agree that the rescue was in the nick of time. They claim to abhor the prospects of gas warfare, but they insist that the nation must have the capability to fight it if necessary. The school's commander says it's primarily a matter of pragmatism. Brig. Gen. Gerald Watson says the Soviet Union has forced the United States' hand. He says the Russians have created an awesome chemical capability (100,000 trained soldiers) that threatens every man, woman and child in the free world. In addition, Watson and others here say the Soviets are prepared to use their weapons. They quote a Red Army marshal who, in 1956, said: "Future wars will not be won with nuclear weapons and massive air power alone... biological and chemical weapons will be used to augment conventional and atomic warfare."

The Chemical officers think that it could be suicidal to ignore the quote. They claim the Russians have demonstrated their intent in recent times in both Afghanistan and Laos. The Kremlin is believed to have used gas, "a yellow rain," to kill belligerents there who were opposed to communist occupation.

Gen. Watson says that in the event of war, the Soviets could do the same to unprepared GIs. If the Reds gassed an Army division, for instance, the clouds would cover half the unit area and jeopardize 30 percent of its troops. One in 10 men, he adds, would quickly die or be incapacitated.

Thus Watson insists the United States must be able to defend itself. And more, he says the nation should no longer harbor any reluctance regarding the retaliatory use of chemical munitions. He suggests that the Chemical Corps has to have a strong offensive nature, so that it can strike back in kind.

The suggestion gets to the heart of darkness here at the chemical school. Because the dominant feeling is that the nation should get ready to fight an inevitable chemical war. The argument is that nuclear weapons are too final, but a gas fight could be held without destroying all mankind.

But the casualties would be of the unhappiest kind. Because, as the sergeant explains, gas bombs really are selective: "If the chemicals were ever released, most soldiers might survive, for they would be trained and outfitted to do so. Unfortunately, that wouldn't be the case with civilians."

Tough Economic Times Leading To Abortions

NEW YORK (UPI) — Many women are having abortions because they cannot afford to raise children under the Reagan administration's economic policies, a health center

Fifty-three percent of the women interviewed in a survey for the health center CHOICES said financial reasons were the most important factor in deciding to have an abortion. In a similar study last year only 28 percent of the respondents had cited economic concerns in having abortions.

Merle Hoffman, a social psychologist and director of CHOICES, said the survey questioned 200 women during a six-month period. The study was made in conjunction with Adelphi University and the Health Insurance Fine of Greater New York:

"Because of the reality of the economy, many women are sacrificing their desire for children," said Ms. Hoffman.

"The Reagan administration's economic policies must be viewed as having a direct effect on abortions in this country, now over 1.5 million a year."

The second reason listed as most important was a career while emotional, school and medical reasons were cited by only 6.5 percent. The majority of women ranked children and having children to be of primary importance in their lives, followed by marriage and relationships. Out of the sample, 65.5 percent were employed and 93 percent of those held pinkcollar jobs - secretary, data processor, office work, clerktypist.

Thirty-five percent were totally responsible for their family's financial care.

Among the 28 percent of the women sampled who were married, nearly half were working full-time to help support their families.

Economists have estimated the cost of raising a child to age 18 can cost as much as $250,000.

Her Life A Constant Deathbed Vigil

GASTONIA, N.C. (NEA) - Stanley and Sara Trimnal were hardly more than newlyweds in April of 1976, and all was right with the world. They had been married seven months, they had moved into a small home, and they were making the plans that people do who prepare for the future with hope and happiness.

Then disaster. Mr. Trimnal took a short trip to visit relatives. On the way back he lost control of his Volkswagen bus. The vehicle turned over, Trimnal was thrown out on the road, and the bus rolled over his body. His head was very much." crushed. A police officer at the scene said there were brains all over the highway.

The man was rushed to the hospital, doctors worked frantically to save his life. They did. But only barely. His vital signs were restored, his breathing was normalized, but to another hospital. They wouldn't have cared the rest of the damage was too extensive to repair. He was partially paralyzed, and he did not regain consciousness.

Doctors watched him for two months. After that they gave up hope of further recovery. The hospital told Mrs. Triunnal that her husband was not really dead, but not really alive either; the doctors said he could not see. he could not respond, and he would never again be anything but a vegetable.

Eventually Mrs. Trimnal was asked to remove her husband from the hospital. She was told that his bed was needed for other patients. When she asked what she should do with him, she was advised, quite bluntly, to "take him to an institution, let him die, and find yourself another man."

The idea haunted the woman. She thought that would be no better than murder. She also thought the doctors had given up too easily. So. having no acceptable alternative, the wife took her husband home, set him on the marriage bed, and began a remarkably stubborn personal effort to keep him alive.

That effort continues to this day.

Six and a half years after Stanley Trimnal was battered into an apparently permanent sleep, and six years after medical authorities wrote him off as wasted, Mrs. Trimnal still takes care of her spouse in a converted bedroom of their home. Twenty-four hours a day. Week after week. On and on and on.

It is an astonishing vigil. And a testimony to both sacrifice and devotion. Mrs. Trimnal has not left her husband for more than a few hours in more than 75 months. She feeds him, she washes him, she disposes of his wastes. She has as a matter of fact given up her own existence to ensure his.

And she has succeeded. Somewhat, anyway. Technically, Mr. Trimnal's condition has not improved over the years. He remains in a deep coma, he is in a nether world of the living dead. Yet he remains alive, and Mrs. Trimnal insists that he does show some few signs of recognition and response:

"He cries sometimes. And if I ask him to he will squeeze my hand a bit. If I scratch him on the foot, he moves. He never used to do that. I don't know Maybe I'm just imagining it. But I think he knows that I'm with him, that I won't leave him. I think he understands that I care."

That care has been trying. Mrs. Trimnal says she has not had a full night's sleep since the vigil began. "He doesn't breathe well. And mucus collects in his throat. Sometimes I have to suction it out every couple of hours. I'm up and down. It seems there is always something that goes wrong."

Often the wrong is far worse than the formation of mucus. Given his total dependency, and immobility, Mr. Trimnal regularly needs emergency care. The wife says he gets pneunomia at times, and blood infections. His kidneys have misfunctioned, his lungs clog, and he has chronic bladder difficulties.

Once he stopped breathing. Another time his temperature shot up to 100, and then dropped to 94. "I can't tell you how many times he's been rushed to the hospital," Mrs. Trimnal says. "The only time I kept a count was for a two and a half year period. He was in the hospital 40 times then."

Mrs. Trimnal doesn't like to take her husband to the hospital. And not just because she worries for his survival. She claims the doctors only like to work on patients who they think they can save. That's not the case for Mr. Trimnal, and thus the wife says he is not treated very well:

"They don't look out for him. I've seen him lay on soiled sheets, with sores all over his body. I've seen the nurses let mucus run all the way down his back. They only do what they have to do, and no more. He can't complain about it, he can't even ring for help. I resent it

Then there was the time the husband stopped breathing. Mrs. Trimnal says one hospital would not even admit him. "I said he was a human being, like anyone else, but they would not let him in the door. I had to take him if he had died on the spot."

Mrs. Trimnal says the hospitals do care about fees, however. And she adds that this is another reason the doctors do not like to treat her husband. "The bills have been unending. I can't pay them. I do the best that I can, but I probably owe the hospitals more than I will ever have myself."

She says she doesn't know the complete debt. But Mr. Trimnal ran up a $52,000 bill during just one period under emergency care, Mrs. Trunnal keeps piles of bills in paper grocery bags. One of those bills, salted with $20 and $30 charges, for such things as shots and pills, is 12 feet in length.

Mrs. Trimnal says Medicare, the federal assistance program, pays for 80 percent of the approved hospital fees. And Medicaid, the state program, helps a little more. Even so, she can't nearly keep up with the medical debts. She says she doesn't even have enough money to meet household expenses.

"Here are the figures. I get $519 a month for Stanley's disability, but my basic bills are $600 or more. My mortgage is $150, my electricity is $100, I spend $200 on heat in the winter, $100 for special food for Stan, and then there is the phone and other things like that. The money just disappears."

Mrs. Trimnal also sings to her husband. And she tunes in country music on the radio. She has decorated the walls of his 13-by-14 foot sickroom with pictures of Jesus, and a framed admonition to "Have Faith in God." She sleeps on a cot near his bed. "I suppose," she says, "I've become a nurse."

She has indeed. And a good one. By trial and! error. She does not have an extensive education, she used to work in a convenience. store, but she has nonetheless discovered the wonders of medical science. She has learned the procedures necessary to support and sustain her husband's fragile life.

"I can't even spell gastrostomy," she says, "but I know what it is. Stanley has a tube that; carries his food into his stomach. I feed him, that way. And I can put the tube in or take it. out. I've got a medical dictionary. That helps: And I have asked a lot of questions at the

Laxalt On Fence

WASHINGTON (UPI) -New Republican National Chairman Sen. Paul Laxalt. R-Nev., does not plan on "undercutting" the liberal GOP head of the Senate campaign committee, an aide said Tuesday.

The aide responded to a report that the White House has asked Laxait, a close friend of President Reagan, to keep tabs on Sen. Robert Packwood, R Ore., who has attacked the president for alleged insensitivity to blacks and women.

The aide said Laxalt plans only on being a coordinator between the Republican National Committee and the Senate and House GOP campaign committees.

"He will not become involved in campaign committee day-today activities," the aide said. "He doesn't plan on undercutting Bob Packwood or checking Packwood or anybody else who runs the committee."

The aide said Laxalt has not indicated who he favors for the job of oversceing donations to GOP Senate candidates. A battle for the job is shaping up between Packwood and Richard Lugar.

FPL will actually pay you to conserve electricity four ways:

Our Cooling & Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an older, inefficient air conditioning system or heat pump replaced with a qualifying high efficiency system.

Our Ceiling Insulation Incentive. FPL will pay up to $300 towards the cost of having ceiling insulation installed.

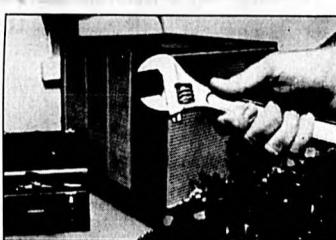

Our Water Heating Incentive. FPL will pay up to several hundred dollars towards the cost of having an inefficient water heater modified or replaced with a solar water heater, water heating heat pump or heat recovery system.

Our Solar Film Incentive. FPL will pay up to $150 towards the cost of having solar-reflective film installed.

To qualify for the last three incentives, work must first be recommended by an FPL Home Energy Audit.

Will everyone benefit from Watt-Wise incentives?

These incentives are less costly than the oil necessary to generate the electricity wasted by inefficient homes. Every 600 kilowatt-hours of electricity not used is a barrel of oil no one has to pay for. This also helps us postpone the building of expensive power plants. S. Carolina's First Black Sheriff In A Heap Of Trouble

KINGSTREE, S.C. (UPI) - Theodore McFarlin made history in 1976 when he was elected sheriff of Williamsburg County, becoming South Carolina's first black sheriff since Recon-

Today, McFarlin stands indicted on charges of obstructing justice, official misconduct and misconduct in office. He has been replaced, at least temporarily, by another black sheriff.

McFarlin, 50, had no formal law enforcement training when he was elected sheriff of the rural and predominantly-black county 60 miles north of Charleston.

The sheriff's management of the county jail, according to one court officer, was "unbelievable."

Selected prisoners could come and go at will. Drugs and alcohol flowed regularly through cell doors, lumates drave a____ cruck around town, hauling pork and other goods to the sheriff's barbecue stand.

And prisoners jailed for violent crimes mingled in a "bullpen" with men charged with petty offenses.

On a muggy night last Aug. 1, three white inmates said 16 or 17 drunken black prisoners held a kangaroo court in the bullpen. The whites said they were beaten and assaulted — one sexually - for six hours. Two black jailers, they said, ignored screams for help.

For the next three days, the whites said the attackers muttered death threats. Finally, one got word to his wife, touching off an investigation that led to McFarlin's indictment Oct. 22.

Seven black inmates — two of them trusties — were indicted on multiple charges including criminal conspiracy, criminal sexual conduct, aggravated assault and battery and unlawfully furnishing prisoners with alcoholic beverages.

"Twenty years ago, the roles would have been reversed," said R.D. Cantley, the county magistrate who ran unsuccessfully against McFarlin in 1980. "It would have been a white sheriff, and you'd have had white prisoners roughing up

Cantley added, however, that "whatever racial tension exists here was confined to the jailhouse that night."

Gov. Dick Riley suspended McFarlin and appointed George Fulton, a 34-year-old black highway patrolman, temporary sheriff while McFarlin awaits trial.

Meanwhile, residents of Williamsburg County are struggling to mend the image of their troubled community.

Mayor Homer Gamble ordered that anyone arrested in the city after the jail incident-i- half the state completes its investigation of McFarlin's jail management.

Gamble, like Cantley, believes the McFarlin case has little to do with race relations in Williamsburg County, where about 65 percent of the 38,000 residents are black. He said he thinks the county's problems can be worked out "in an orderly manner without a lynch mob mentality," which "I do not feel will cause any exacerbation of black-white relations." The local NAACP chapter called the jail incident an issue of human decency, not race. Indeed, the community appears able and willing to deal with juvenile court officer, said the real problem in Williamsburg County is disregard for the law among some county officials and residents.

McFarlin, a portly, cigarsmoking military veteran, seemed to tolerate the lawlessness, they said, because he was illprepared for his job and didn't want to alienate the people who elected him in 1976 and again in 1980.

"Because he owns beer and wine licenses himself, Mr. McFarlin is unaggressive in enforcing blue laws," Gorman said in an Aug. 19 editorial. "You can drive around the county." and find 'juke joints' open on Sunday in violation of the law."

Grady also said that on Sunday, when state law forbids the sale of alcohol except in private clubs, he often has seen public. nightclubs open in "blatant-di zamenia d' aler "---"

"It's been so bad sometimes on Sunday that black ministers come to my office to complain. They say they can't conduct services because the noise is so loud," said magistrate Can-

These and other accusations by people who want to "clean up the county" are not included in the state's charges against McFarlin, who refuses to discuss his case.

"The way he ran the jail was unbelievable," said Grady, who could see the jail's front door from his old office.

"I used to see prisoners walk outside the jail, flag down a car and speak to the driver for a moment. A little while later, he'd

"It was obvious he was intoxicated," the letter said. "That is

-Inmates could leave the jail mattended and unaccounted for.'

McFarlin reportedly employed jailers who had not attended jailers' school, as required by law, and had a deputy on his staff who was indicted for taking money in a juvenile case. "He said he didn't know his jailers had to go to school,"

Cantley also said a female jailer on duty during the Aug. 1 incident was McFarlin's cousin. She, McFarlin and the other jailer were named in a federal lawsuit filed by the white

Tommy
Johnson:
Oviedo's
Handyman

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

Oviedo's Tommy Johnson is an exception to the rule. Some people are considered a "jack of all trades and a master of none."

Johnson, a 6-2½, 193-pound linebacker, handles all the trades on the Lions' football team and masters all of them too.

"He's just about on everything we have," said Oviedo coach Jack Blanton about his do-everything senior. "Tommy's about as good a linebacker as I've seen."

Johnson's duties read like a football depth chart. He's on the kickoff team and the kick return team. He plays the upback on the punting team. He's also on the punt return team.

And when the Lions shift into their power-I offense, Johnson plays the power back. "He's a tremendous blocker," said offensive coordinator Ken Kroog. "When we have trouble moving the ball, we go to our power-I and he makes it go."

Oviedo had trouble last Friday against Groveland in the first half. Trailing 14-7, the Lions switched to the power-I and generated three quick touchdowns in the third quarter which took an accumulated time of five minutes and 28 seconds.

Johnson led backs Barry Williams, Charles "Pop" Bowers and J. W. Yarborough through the holes. All told, the trio combined for 244 yards.

Power back, though, is not the only position Johnson plays on offense. On occasion, he'll move into the tight end position and grab a couple passes. Against Lake Mary, Johnson snared a six-yard pass from Jodie Huggins for a fouchdown.

complishments, it is defensively where Johnson excels. He is usually the leading tackler for the Lions. Last Friday, he collected eight solo stops and three assists.

For the season, Johnson's numbers are 55 tackles, 25 assists, two recovered fumbles and two interceptions.

"Tommy's very intense," points out Blanton. "And he hits people. He's always around the ball and he takes on the blocker real well."

Johnson has the eye of several scouts, including Davidson and Furman. His Baverage in the classroom won't hurt him either.

"He's definitely college material," continued Blanton. "Tommy's quiet and does his job. He's one of our leaders on the field. That's just not too much that he can't do."

That's why he's Oviedo's "Handyman."

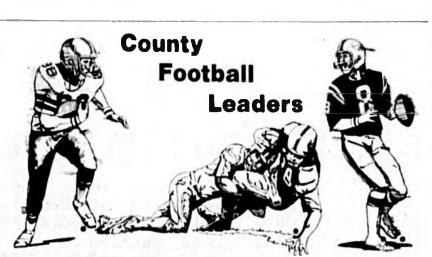

Logas Scored TD

Lake Brantley and Phil Logas, not Robert Padgett, scored a touchdown in the third quarter of last Friday's game with Lake Mary.

The play went four yards from quarterback Dennis Groseclose to Logas. Lake Brantley won, 34-6.

Oh Gallie! What A Comeback

Greyhounds Falter After Easy Opening-Set Victory

By SAM COOK

Herald Sports Editor
EAU GALLIE — Coach Emory "Fing"
McMillian's Lady Commodores don't full teams into a false sense of security on purpose — it just happens.

After Lyman's Greyhounds easily took apart Eau Gallie in the opening set here Tuesday for the Region 4A-9 championship, the Commodores woke up and grabbed the final two sets for a 8-15, 15-12, 15-7 victory over Lyman.

"The exact same thing happened in the district against Satellite Beach," informed McMillan. "Our serving was the pits that first set. Then our setters started doing their job and we came on."

Sophomore Barbara Berry continually beat the Lyman defense with powerful smashes off setups by Kelly Rue (12) and Anita Outly (11).

"We didn't want it bad enough," said a disconsolate Lyman coach Karren Newman who watched her girls lose for just the second time in 23 matches. "After the first set, we thought it was over because it was so easy."

It did look pretty easy at the outset. Lyman broke to a 10-1 bulge behind the serving of Lynn Lugering and Ronda Tempesta and the net play of Vikki McMurrer and Pam Stambaugh.

Eau Gallie regrouped at that point with four points to pull within five, but Carol Rogers dinked the ball into an open area to stop the surge.

Stambaugh followed with three service points for a 13-5 lead and several turns later Rogers added the 14th and Wynne Wycoff the 15th when Alyce Kelly's spike went out of bounds.

Set two began in the same fashion as Rogers and Babcock served Lyman to a 4-1 lead. Lisa Booth, however, turned the tide for the Commodores with five straight points.

Rogers gave Lyman a 10-9 lead but Kim Grimes followed with three points for Eau Gallie. Lyman pulled within 13-12 on a Lugering serve and a nice hit by McMurrer, but Kelly came through with three straight hits for a 14-12 Commodore lead. And when McMurrer's smash went long, Eau Gallie had a three-point win.

In the deciding set, Lyman again took the early momentum with a 40 lead.
Berry, however, was relentless down the stretch. The tall underclassman had several hard slams as Eau Gallie forged a 6-6 deadlock and then took the lead for good at 7-6.

The Greyhounds closed within, 9-7 on a Rogers' serve and Wycoff hit, but they would get no closer as the Commodores ran off the game's final five points on some fine serving from Outly.

"We played good defense all night," observed Newman. "But we were defensive on our offense too. In the final sets, we didn't defense their spikes very well either."

Eau Gallie advances to the Sectional Tournament this Friday. There are just eight teams remaining in 4A competition.

Nehemiah Reinstated

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — World-record hurdler Renaldo Nehemiah, perhaps stung by the strike by NFL players, has been allowed to retain his amateur track status despite a contract to play with the San Francisco 49ers.

A three-member board from The Athletics Congress Tuesday ruled unanimously in favor of Nehemiah's request, said his attorney, Ron Stanko of Reading, Pa.

Stanko said the panel, headed by Robert Hollander, the national registration chairman for TAC, based its decision on a provision that allows athletes to receive money from participating in a sport as long as the participation does not aid their performance of track and field events.

Nehemiah's amateur status was in question because of a TAC rule that bars an athlete who has signed a contract in any sport, from participating in U.S. track and field events as an amateur, said Pete Cava, a TAC spokesman.

The move by TAC, the nation's governing body for track and field, paved the way for Nehemiah to seek approval from the International Olympic Committee for participation in the 1984 Olympics.

Nehemiah, who holds the world record in the 110-meter hurdles at 12.93 seconds, signed a contract with the 49ers last summer and played two games as a wide receiver with the defending Super Bowi champions before the strike by NFL players.

Stanko said Nehemiah will have to reargue his case before the International Amateur Athletic Federation, which has a similar rule.

He said the decision by TAC was a "judgment call" and declined to speculate on the outcome of an IAAF hearing.

The International Olympic Committee will have the final word on Nehemiah's eligibility for the Games, he said.

"Teamwork wins it."
That was the battle cry of the Tampa Catholic Crusaders Tuesday night as the visiting "Big Green" made few mistakes and played excellently as a team en route to the Region 3A-I volleyball championship over the Oyledo Llons at Oyledo.

"We try to prepare game by game," Crusaders' coach Sherry Schaibly said. "And we try to go to the basics and stress teamwork."

Playing a disciplined match Tampa Catholic got off to a fast start, cooled off in the middle, and in the end, blazed to a 15-6, 15-8, 15-1 victory over the scrappy Lions.

Oviedo's serving ace, Sandy Stephens opened the match and a fine block by Stephanie Nelson gave Oviedo a 1-0 lead before Melissa Diaz spiked to give Tampa Catholic the serve.

The Crusaders recled off eight straight

The Crusaders reeled off eight straight points before a Fayetta Robinson dink gave Oviedo the serve with the Lions trailing, 8-1.

The two teams then traded serves a few times and Tampa Catholic took a 9-1 lead before Oviedo regained the serve and scored two points to make it 9-3.

Tampa Catholic regained the serve but could not extend its lead as Oviedo got the serve. Another nice block by Nelson and two service aces by Mary Lokers cut the Crusaders' lead to 9-6.

With Denise Rubio serving, Tampa Catholic scored six consecutive points to take the first set, 15-6.

Then, just as it did in the semi-final and final games of the district tournament, Oviedo came out storming in the second set to tie the match and force a third set.

In the second set, Tampa Catholic took a 1-0 lead, then Stephens took the serve and Robinson took the game into her own hands.

Stephens' service ace tied the game at 1-1 and Robinson then gave the Lady Lions the momentum as she hammered a spike into the floor on Tampa Catholic's side of the net. Another Robinson spike and another service ace by Stephens gave Oviedo a 7-1 lead as Tampa Catholic called a timeout and sent for reinforcements.

After the time out Robinson spiked two more times as Oviedo rallied for four more points to take an 11-1 lead.

The Crusaders came back with four consecutive points to make it 11-5 before Robinson gave the serve back to the Lions with another spike.

After trading serves Oviedo took a 12-5 lead and Tampa Catholic then came back to cut it to 12-8 on a service ace by Denise Espinola.

With Robinson serving, Lokers let loose with a spike to put the Lions up 13-8 as Tampa Catholic used another time out. Oviedo then won the set and tied the match with two straight points, the final point coming as a Tampa Catholic player was called for a net violation, and the Lions were back in it.

Oviedo wasn't as fortunate in the deciding set as Tampa Catholic got the momentum and never let go of it. Thanks to the spiking of Marlene Ansotegue and Diaz and a few critical mistakes on the Lions, the Crusaders cruised to n 15-1 victory and the Region 4 title.

"We got the momentum in the second game but couldn't keep it going in the third game," Oviedo coach Anita Carlson said. "We had nothing going for us in the final game and we got behind. We don't play well when we get way behind."

For Oviedo it was the end of an outstanding year while Tampa Catholic advances to the sectionals Friday night at Tampa Catholic. Schaibly said the Crusaders will probably play against Inverness Citrus in the sectionals.

Tuskawilla Turns Tables On 'Cats

By SAM COOK Herald Sports Editor

Tuskawilla's Blue Warriors turned the tables on previously-unbeaten Jackson Heights Saturday, using a stellar defensive effort to hand the Bobcats a 24-6 setback in Junior Midget Division action in Seminole Youth Sports Association football at Sylvan Lake Park.

Jackson Heights had depended heavily on its defense all year while posting an undefeated record. but it was no match for Tuskawilla as the Warriors turned a blocked punt and an interception into Tyler Jack blocked a punt in the first quarter and returned it five yards for a TD for the first Tuskawilla score.

The game stayed close at 6-0 until the fourth quarter. Jimmy Joe Kress then blocked another Bobcat punt and Chris Norton picked up the loose ball and scampered 40 yards to the nine-yard line of Jackson Heights. Three plays later, Nathan Hoskins powered in from the 1 for a 12-0 lead.

Another key defensive play - Mark Wainwright's interception - set up touchdown number three. Jeff Holcomb's six-yard scoring run capped a short 30-

Holcomb put the game on ice for Tuskawilla when he picked off a deflected pass and returned it 87 yards for a touchdown with just 20 seconds to play. In the previous six games, Jackson Heights had given up just one touchdown. Norton led the Warrior defense with 12 tackles. Mark Peters collected 10 while Kress chipped in with nine and Hoskins had eight. The Bobcats could muster just 38 yards

In another Junior Midget game Saturday, Jeff Blake continued to light up the scoreboard. The Lakeview quarterback tossed three touchdown passes as the Dolphins ripped South Seminole, 32-0.

Blake's scoring strikes covered 45, 55 and 25 yards as he completed 6 of 10 passes for 178 yards. Tarance Eddie caught four passes for 122 yards and two TDs. Tarance Carr had a 50-yard sprint for Dropping down to the Mighty Mites, Jerry Riddell's nine-yard scoring run offset a kickoff return by Teague Gold to give Teague Red a 7-7 tie.

Riddell carried seven times for 78 yards and Mike Spernanza added five for 24. Cuyler Davis led the Gold with 96 yards on 16 totes. Red rushed for 204 yards but was hampered by 65 yards in penalties. Two more Mighty Mite teams came up deadlocked 0-0 as Milwee battled South Seminole on Bem Major and Greg Couch combined for 65 yards rushing for Milwee. Chris Shafer had 50 yards on five carries for South Seminole while Pat Newell had 42 on four. Newell had two catches for 28 yards from quarterback Chuck Lamb and also booted a punt 37 yards. He also led the defense with 10 tackles. Casey Kelly had seven stops.

Stepping up to the Peewees. Tuskawilla's Warriors clinched the championship with a 20-6 victory over the Teague Tigers.

Coach Tom Emanski's crew was led by Shan Fulp who had 12 tackles defensively and caught a big pass from quarterback Pat Brown.

Chris Knutson was the only Tiger to penetrate the Tuskawilla defense with a kickoff return for a touchdown.

In another Peewee battle, Sammy Edwards scored two touchdowns as the Lakeview Dolphins knocked off Rock Lake Red, 14-6. Edwards scored on a kickoff return and then intercepted a pass and ran 45 yards for another TD.

In Junior Peewee action, the Tuskawilla Rams blanked Teague Red, 12-0. Mike Krot led the Teague rushers with 40 yards on seven carries. Scott Meredith had 35 yards on eight carries.

Meredith completed 3 of 5 passes for 20 yards. Ritchie Tibbets had one grab for 10 yards before suffering a broken arm.

In another junior Peewee game, the Tuskawilla Rams scored a touchdown in the first and fourth quarters to shut out Teague Red, 12-0.

After an onside kick set up the Rams with good field position, Marquette Smith rambled 40 yards for the first score. Later, he added an eight-yard run for the Rams final score. Smith led a 11 rushers with 116 yards on 16 carries.

Sanford Soccer Club Wins 2, Drops 2 As End Nears

Mitch Albert and Mike Alitzer scored two goals apiece to lead Celeste Industries (Sanford 280, under 12 division) to a 7-0 rout of Downtown Orlando 280 in Sanford Soccer Club action as the season nears its end.

Sanford scored three times in the first half and iced the win with four second half goals to raise its record to 2-5-0. Nick Pastis, Tim Waisanen and Rusty Smith also added goals for Sanford 280. Brent Posey and Patrick Partlow did excellent jobs at goalle while Phillip Perez, Chad Miller, Chuck Roll and Bruce Boyer led the defense.

In other action, Sanford 780 (under 9 age division) scored three first half goals and held on for a 3-1 victory over Pine Hills 780. The win evened 780's record at Josh Letchworth, Jon Williams and Matt Teague scored the goals and the defense was led by Ryan Dickey, Jason Walraven and John Scott.

Celery City Printing (Sanford 480, under 14 age division) staged a gallant comeback effort before falling to Maitland 481, 2-1. It was the first loss against five wins for Sanford 480. Matt Albert scored the lone Sanford goal.

Sanford Scales (180, under 11), fell prey to a powerful Maitland 181 team in a 10-0 setback. Steve Cann, Doug Saunders, Jackie Hansen, Randy Bowlin and Chris Morse all had good games for Sanford despite the loss.

Baseball Changes Hands

The Sanford Recreation Department took over the operation of Sanford Little League baseball Tuesday night, claiming that the Sanford Youth Baseball Association, which had run the leagues for four years, had too few people doing too much work.

The Baseball Association will still be in existence but will only fund all-star teams and bring all-star tournaments to Sanford, all other responsibilities will be handled by the recreation department.

Sandon Wins 'Granny'

Lawanda Sandon shot a 67 for a one-shot victory over Katherine Park in the Mayfair Women's Golf Association's Grandmother's Tournament.

In the weekly tournament (net scores), Stella Brooks fired a 27 to win the first flight over Ann Moore (2714), Ada O'Neil and Mary Anderson (28%).

Grace Sauers posted a 261/2, best in the second flight and was followed by Diddie Webber (27), Pauline Rose (2716) and Miriam Andrews (2816).

Katherine Park was best in the third flight with a 231/2 followed by Lawanda Sandon (24), Alice Potter (32) and Thelma Vose (33).

Fourth flight scores were, Donna Craig (28), Ginger Herndon (29) and Vera Smith (30).

Yount Named MVP

the Most Valuable Player in the American League, says he still has some rough edges.

That's hard to believe, but the selfeffacing shortstop insists it's true.

"I have a hard time going to my right to field a ball," said Yount, whose bat and glove carried the Milwaukee Brewers to the AL pennant and within one game of the World Series cham-

"I do that least well," he said. "That's my biggest weakness. I believe you have to improve in all areas every season."

Yount has done just that, improving steadily both offensively and defensively since breaking in as an 18-year-old starter in 1974.

The capper came Tuesday, when Yount got 27 of a possible 28 first-place votes and piled up 385 points to run away with the MVP trophy. First baseman Eddie Murray of the Baltimore Orioles was a distant second with 228 points in the balloting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

Yount and Murray were the only players named on all 28 ballots. Outfielder Reggie Jackson of the remaining first-place vote, but Yount said he wasn't disappointed by the nearmiss at unanimity because he's uncomfortable with these "personal awards."

California Angels received the one

Doug DeCinces of the Angels finished third with 178 points. Rounding out the top 10 were Hal McRae of Kansas City with 175, Cecil Cooper of the Brewers become a stronger player." with 152, Jackson with 107, Dwight Evans of Boston with 57. Gorman Thomas of the Brewers with 4412, Dan Quisenberry of the Royals with 39, and Rickey Henderson of Oakland with 38.

"I'm excited," Yount said, "but when you're involved in a team sport, it's difficult to single out a single person. As I have said many times, I couldn't have won it without everyone else on the team."

Yount talked to reporters via telephone hookup from California, where he had delayed a Hawaiian vacation in order to field questions.

Back in Milwaukee, Brewers' General Manager Harry Dalton stood in the rear of the interview room with club President reliever Rollie Fingers won both awards Bud Selig. Dalton said Yount "is one of in 1981.

"He can beat you four ways - with his glove, arm, bat and legs. He's amazing."

One of Yount's least-known strengths, Dalton said, is baserunning. Dalton said Yount was "one of the best base-runners in the American League as far as instinct. He doesn't hesitate. He can gauge the speed of the ball and the location of the fielders.

Leonard Retires From Ring

BALTIMORE (UPI) - World welterweight champion Sugar Ray Leonard says his retirement is definite and he has "no regrets" about ending a career that earned him almost $40 million and two world championships.

"No way I'm going to change," Leonard said. "There's a lot of people think I'm going to get back into the ring. I'll prove them wrong."

Leonard said he decided to retire only moments before addressing, among other fans, Marvin Hagler, Muhammad All and Ken Norton Tuesday night at the Civic Center.

"I didn't make the decision until tonight," the champion said. "I didn't feel the electricity. I have no regrets whatsoever."

His decision ended months of speculation over his return to the ring and a fight against Hagler for the middleweight crown - a bout that could have earned him $20 million.

"(It) would be one of the greatest fights in boxing history," Leonard said. "But that unfortunately won't happen." Leonard underwent successful surgery in May to repair a partially detached retina in his left eye. Leonard said his vision has returned to normal and Dr. Ronald Michels, the ophthalmologist who performed the surgery, gave him "the freedom" to make his own choice.

Mike Trainer, Leonard's manager, said the champion may have "run out of challenges."

Trainer said Hagler turned down $7 million to fight Leonard. He also claimed Alexis Arguello and Aaron Pryor, who go at it Friday night in Miami, do not want to face Leonard.

"No one was really falling over themselves to fight him," Trainer said. The champion's decision pleased most of the estimated 7,000 fans, and especially his wife, Juanita.

"I definitely don't want him to box again," she said. "He's got a million and one things he can do."

In his career, Leonard used his enormous skills to become a consummate boxer. In 33 professional fights, he lost only to Roberto Duran, a 15-round unantmous decision in Montreal on June 20, 1980. He avenged that loss five months later with an eighth-round technical knockout in New Orleans when Duran quit late in the round.

Leonard gained undisputed claim to the world welterweight crown with a 14th-round TKO over Thomas Hearns on Sept. 16, 1981. The fight earned Leonard $12 million, the largest purse paid to one

Three weeks before a scheduled title defense on May 14 against Roger Stafford, Leonard noticed the vision in his left eye was blurred. On May 7, a Buffalo doctor discovered a tear in the retina. Two days later Michels performed successful surgery at the Wilmer Eye Institute of Johns Hopkins Hospital.

Leonard, who proclaimed after winning the Olympic gold medal in 1976, "This is my last fight," scored 16 TKOs, seven knockouts and nine decisions and was not knocked down in his professional

In his last fight on Feb. 15, Leonard knocked out Bruce Finch in three rounds.

To A Professional, Fishing Is A Lifestyle

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) -Whether it's competition, money or just a lifestyle, not just a sport. love of fishing, something keeps a unique across the country putting a lot on the line in an effort to second-guess bass.

In their quest for the unpredictable and elusive creatures, these fishermen say they hardly think twice about spending thousands of dollars every year.

They also say it is a science that is breed of professional anglers traveling infinitely more involved than the weekend fisherman's excursions to a local pond with a box of worms and a sixpack of cold beer.

About 40 of these professional anglers were in Montgomery in October for the 12th Annual BASS Masters Classic, And they don't seem to mind being which is considered the "Super Bowl" of brought their families, but all of them were engulfed in the excitement of competition.

Their talk was almost like a foreign language - filled with words such as crank baits, spinners, jigs, runners, spoons and wigglers.

And as might be expected, they were frequently telling tales about "the one that got away" and criticizing each other more vocal this year because some of the tournament leaders were fishing the same area as the winner, Paul Elias of Laurel, Miss.

But the things the pros did not joke about were the weather and the clarity of Lake Montgomery, a renamed 75-mile stretch of the Alabama River where they spent three eight-hour days of continuous

"You have to cast constantly," said George Bowman, a sporting goods store operator from Dumas, Ark., who placed 35th in the Classic. "You can't waste time. You have to go at it all day and if you don't catch anything, you feel disappointed and disgusted. All you can do is strive to do better the next time you

Most of the anglers, who could be easily recognized at the tournament because of their sunburned faces and forearms, rely on professions other than tournament fishing for their income.

A tournament can cost an angler anywhere from $750 to $1,500 - depending on expenses and entry fees - but many of the pros are sponsored by major tackle companies that help ease the

Florida May Sink Next Time Ice Covers All

GAINESVILLE (UPI) - The next ice age could become a "melt age," putting low-lying areas such as Florida beneath the ocean, if man keeps spewing pollutants into the atmosphere, a University of Florida scientist says.

Physics professor Karl Taylor predicted Tuesday an ice age may send glaciers creeping across the continents around the year 4000, but - if pollution continues to clog the air at its present rate - a "melt age" is just as likely.

"A lot of scientists believe man's effect on the environment, especially increased injections of air pollutants like carbon dioxide, could cause the remaining ice sheets on Greenland and Antarctica to melt, flooding low-lying areas like Florida with oceans," he said.

"Ice ages seem to correspond to times when the earth's orbit is nearly circular," Taylor said. "The earth travels in an elliptical orbit around the sun - but every 100,000 years or so, the orbit becomes more circular."

He said the earth's orbit and tilt affect the amount of sunlight the warming the atmosphere, which could determine the severity of winters and summers.

Even though this generation is unlikely to see an ice age grip the planet, it probably will hear more accurate weather predictions covering entire seasons made possible by studying thousands of years of climatic changes, Taylor said.

"But weather predicting is still such a complex task that meteorologists have a hard time accurately predicting weather for two or three days, and forecasting weather for two or three months is even more difficult," he said. "In any case, today's weather patterns should not be used as an indicator for what to expect even a few months from now," he said. "Because major climate changes take hundreds or thousands of years to develop." "If meteorologists could accurately predict weather for longer periods of time — months in ead of days — they could help the agriculture industry better prepare for severe weather that destroys billions of dollars worth of crops every year," he said.

"If we could improve seasonal predictions, farmers could plan their planting schedules and prepare for severe weather that could, for example, thereaten Fiorida's citrus crop.

Senior Citizens Clean Up In Yonkers

YONKERS, N.Y. (UPI) - For Bill O'Roarke, working is a habit and retirement, even at age 71, seemed inappropriate. Ruben Payne, 63, was recently laid off and badly needed a job.

Both found what they were looking for as members of the Yonkers Rangers - 24 elderly men and five women who suit up in fresh white coveralls and caps and take their cartmounted garbage cans to the city's parks and business district to pick up trash.

Eileen O'Connor, executive director of the Yonkers Employment for Seniors agency, says the Rangers are the nation's first senior citizens cleanup program and both the elderly and the city have benefited, she says.

The program began in September after Mayor Angelo Martinelli asked Mrs. O'Connor for help in cleaning up the New York City suburb. Teenage crews had not been as effective as expected but the senior citizens, still filled with the oldfashioned work ethic, have made a difference, she said.

"We find seniors are very reliable, dependable," said Mrs. O'Connor, whose nonprofit employment agency serves Yonkers' 40,000 senior citizens. "Ours start at 55 and some are as much as 84 years old.

"They've been trained to work hard. Not to talk bad about young people, but sometimes the young today can't add or they're more interested in when the coffee break is or how many sick days they get. The older people were raised in a different age."

The Rangers' ages are taken into consideration. They work only four hours a day, five days a week, are advised not to lift anything heavy and when their trash bags are half full, they leave them on the street for garbage collectors.

Foley Square, a retail district that is a prime spot on the Rangers' route, is hardly spotless but Mrs. O'Connor says the reaction to their work has been positive.

YES caters to two types of senior citizens - those who are looking for something to do and those who need a paycheck. Payne was laid off by the Otis Elevator Co. in June and could not find another job. The Rangers trash detail provides $3.50 per hour until he can find something better. believe we should get more money for this but I'm glad I've got this job," he said. "I could work up to 65 but I can't get nothing else."

O'Roarke figures he worked at two jobs - 80 hours per week - for about 20 years and is fairly well set financially with pensions and Social Security. He joined the Rangers to fight boredom.

"I had to get out of the house to keep from fighting with the old lady," he said with a smile. "They (YES) called me and I said certainly. I was glad to get out of the house. It gives me something to do and it's plenty of exercise.

"I was a school custodian until I had an operation about three years ago and retired. I was also a security guard but I didn't get around fast enough to please them.

"This agency does a lot of good. Where the hell else can you get a job at my age?"

During Holidays Share Love Gifts From Kitchen

By LOU CHILDERS Herald Correspondent

The Holidays are just around the corner and Evalene Whiddon is getting ready to do some heavy duty baking to celebrate their arrival.

During the "cold snap" this week, Evalene made a batch of Molasses Sugar Cookies. "These cookies turn out perfectly round," she says, "because you roll the dough into 1-inch balls and place them on the cookie sheet." "When they bake, the cookles spread out into perfect circles!"

From Thanksgiving to Christmas, the calendar is filled with opportunities to share some special treat from your kitchen with a friend or loved one, Apple Carrot Quick Bread, Holiday Banana Bread, and Christmas Pumpkin Bread are perfect to make and serve to guests, or to present to that someone dear as a real "love gift"

A delectable sweet to serve in the coming weeks is Heavenly Bits. These snowy white cookies have a surprise inside - nuts! Their outside coating of powdered sugar keeps the surprise nuts well hidden until the first bite.

While Evalene prepares a few exotic recipes, she considers herself the type who likes things "plain and simple." She says, "I would have made a good pioneer." In 1979 when Evalene and husband Tom moved to Oviedo to the beautiful Black Hammock area, she got her chance at pioneering. "While Tom was building our house, we lived in the tent camper - about a

The Whiddons celebrated their 32nd wedding anniversary on Sept. 3. Evalene says, "That's about how long I've been cooking, too." She goes on to explain that she never cooked much before she was married, and her mother-in-law was the one who gave her her first real instruction in the kitchen. As Evalene's family grew, she was glad she learned the art of cooking. So were her five children, Patsy, Johnny, Thomas Lee, Donna and Laura.

MOLASSES SUGAR COOKIES

- 34 cup shortening
- 2 teaspoons soda
- 1 cup sugar 2 cups unbleached flour
- 14 cup molasses
- 1 egg 12 teaspoon salt
- 12 teaspoon ground cloves
- 1/2 teaspoon ginger 1 teaspoon cinnamon

Melt shortening over low heat. Set aside and allow to cool. Add sugar, molasses and egg. Beat well. Sift salt, flour, soda, spices and add to first mixture. Mix well. Chill. Form into 1inch balls and roll in granulated sugar. Place on ungreased cookie sheet 2 inches apart and bake in a 375 degree oven 8 to 10 minutes. APPLE CARROT QUICK BREAD

- 112 cups (2 medium) peeled, shredded apples 12 cup (1 medium) shredded carrot
- 14 cup margarine
- 12 teaspoon lemon extract 2 eggs
- 134 cups all purpose flour
- 2-3 cup sugar 1 teaspoon baking powder
- I teaspoon soda 12 teaspoon salt
- 12 cup coconut or chopped nuts

Heat oven to 350 degrees. Grease bottom only of 9 x 5 x 3-inch pan. In large bowl, blend first 5 ingredients. Lightly spoon flour into measuring cup; level off. Add remaining ingredients except coconut or nuts. Beat 3 minutes at medium speed. Stirin nuts or coconut. Pour batter into prepared pan and bake 50 to 60 minutes or until toothpick inserted comes out clean.

Evalene Whiddon serves sugar cookles. Remove from pan to cool. Refrigerate any leftovers. CHRISTMAS PUMPKIN BREAD

- 'z cup vegetable oil
- 2 eggs
- 1-3 cup water
- 1 cup canned pumpkin 1 2-3 cup sifted flour
- 14 cups sugar
- l teaspoon soda
- 12 teaspoon cinnamon
- 12 teaspoon nutmeg
- 14 teaspoon salt
- to cup candied cherries, cut up

12 cup chopped nuts Combine oil, eggs, water and pumpkin. Sift together next six ingredients. Gradually beat into first mixture. Stir in cherries and nuts. Pour into greased and floured 9 x 5 x 3-inch baking pan. Bake 1 hour in a 350 degree oven, or until done. HOLIDAY BANANA BREAD

- 1 egg 1 cup sugar
- 12 cup shortening 3 ripe bananas, mashed
- l teaspoon vanilla 2 cups flour
- 1 teaspoon baking soda
- 12 cup chopped dates
- 12 cup chopped maraschino cherries (red & green) 12 cup chopped nuts
 - HEAVENLY BITS
- 2 cups flour a cup shortening
- 2 tablespoons powdered sugar 2 teaspoons vanilla
- I teaspoon salt
- 2 tablespoons water 1 cup chopped nuts.

Sift flour; measure and sift again with powdered sugar and salt. Cut shortening into dry ingredients until mixture resembles coarse corn meal. Add water, vanilla and nuts. Shape into small balls. Bake at 350 degrees for 15 to 20 minutes. Do not brown. Remove cookies and roll in powdered sugar. Cool and roll in powdered sugar again.

Be Careful When Taking Estrogen

DEAR DR. LAMB - For the past four years I have been experiencing irregular menstruation. I am 45 and my gynecologist says I am beginning the menopause. I have no symptoms to indicate this other than my irregular menstrual cycles. It has now stopped for nine months.

My mother had osteoporosis of the spine. I know I should take hormones for the rest of my life to prevent bone disease. I have been warned of the danger of cancer caused by these hormones. My doctor thinks I should have a mini-curretage before starting on a program of hormones. Now I risk the problem of cancer if I take hormones and osteoporosis if I don't. Do you have any suggestions?

DEAR READER - I'm glad you recognize that the decrease in female hormones can increase your chances of having osteoporosis (dissolving bones). And there are good studies that show small amounts of estrogen in the post-menopausal woman can prevent part of this problem.

As your doctor suggested, you should have a study of your uterus before starting hormones. But unless the examination turns up signs of problems, you should not let the estrogen-cancer scare keep you from the health benefits you could receive.

Not every woman can use hormones; it depends on her family history and what is found on examinations. In the vast majority, a sensible program with regular examinations can minimize the cancer risk.

There are new studies that show interrupting the estrogen on a monthly basis and using a combination of estrogen and progesterone greatly decreases the cell changes that are associated with later cancer development. Your doctor may want to use such a sequence to help you.

Don't forget the other factors that help. Get plenty purpose osteoporosis. And there are other changes that occur with the menopause that hormones may help control. You can read about these in The Health Letter 5-12, Menopause, which I am sending you. Others can send 75 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for it to me, in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, New York, NY 10019.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Today I was in a health food store and noticed lecithin capsules on display. I have high cholesterol so I became interested but would like your opinion on it.

DEAR READER — I notice on the leaflet you sent that a few things have been added to old claims for lecithin. You need to know that lecithin is a combination of fat (fatty acids and glycerol) and choline. Like all fats, it will be digested before it can be absorbed into your body. The fatty acids and choline then will be no different from the same fatty acids and choline you get from ordinary sources in your food.

Our body does need choline but it can manufacture it from the two amino acids, glycine and methionine. You can get plenty of choline from lean meat, fish, cereals and wheat

Don't expect the lecithin you swallow to lower your cholesterol. If you have a high cholesterol level you need a proper diet and exercise program to lower it and if those measures don't work. you may need one of the newer medicines used for that Showpiece desserts for a dazzling Holiday table.

Hazelnut Desserts Give Sparkle To Season Ahead

The hazelnut has been a superstar for years in the European pastry chef's repertoire, flavoring the most elegant desserts with that most sophisticated of nuts. The Viennese create delicate tortes with it and the French concoct exquisite tarts.

The Germans not only use the hazelnut liberally in baking but sell the nut itself, coated with rich caramel, on the streets as

Thanksgiving: Counting Blessings For The Bounty Of The Land

Thanksgiving is one of the (about 6-inches each) most American of holidays. It comes in the season of harvest, when all give thanks for the bounty of the land.

Since it is all-American, many who feast on this day of warmth and sharing follow personal food likes and dislikes. Those who have drifted in their menus from the traditional turkey, replete with stuffing, potatoes and pumpkin pie, set a table that reflects American ingenuity.

Main dishes for a small gathering may include zucchini lasagna, lamb curry, beef stroganoff and beancheese cannelloni. The cranberry touch will be there as will the seasonal apple cider in special drinks for toasting. Dessert may be a cranberry pudding ice cream pie or almond fruit triangles.

Variety and an independent spirit reach from coast-tocoast in Thanksgiving dinners this year. In common, though, will be words of blessing and thanks for our bounty.

HOLLYWOOD (NEA) -Poor Gordon John Sinclair. He came over to America from Scotland to promote his delightful movie, "Gregory's Girl," and he didn't even see one gunfight on the street.

That, you see, is the biggest surprise young Sinclair has found in America. No gunfights.

"All we read about in Scotland are your gunfights," he says. "I've been surprised to find you have very normal people here. I expected to see Starsky and Hutch and such. I've not seen one gunfight."

The tall, gangling actor did expect to find marvelous stores carrying marvelous, unexpected treats. And he found that the treats were even more unexpected than he had expected. When he talked about his shopping he had to go to his closet to drag out the coat he had bought, which he modeled proudly.

It was a huge thing, double- or maybe even triple-breasted, very long, very lush. Nobody in America would wear such a coat. A tourist coat. He bought it and was proud of it, and says it will really stop traffic in Glasgow.

"Gregory's Girl," the product of Scottish director Bill Forsyth, is the first Scottish-made film to make an international impact. Sinclair says they were surprised it was well received in England, let alone the United States. He says they expected nothing at all from the United States, and it is doing respectably well here.

It's his first, as an actor. He may do more. "I'd like to try to make acting my life's work," he says.

Does he worry about his Scottish accent hampering

"I'm going to start voice training soon," he says, "but I would be happy playing Scotsmen all my life. It's only the English who don't like to hear the Scottish accent."

GARY KINDER'S book, "Victim," may turn out to be one of 1983's big movies - if they get the cast they are angling for.

"Victim" is a grim book about a grim crime. There was a mass murder in Ogden, Utah, in 1974, and Kinder has chosen to write about that event, with the emphasis on one of the survivors. A boy named Cortney Naisbitt, then 16, survived, although badly injured, and is still recovering eight years later.

Naisbitt is the "victim" of the title. And producer Charles Evans, who has bought the rights to the book, wants Timothy Hutton to play that part.

"It's funny," says Kinder. "I've always thought of Timothy Hutton as Cortney, since I saw him in 'Ordinary People.' There is a distinct physical resemblance between the two."

Evans, according to Kinder, also would like Paul Newman to play the part of Cortney's father, a doctor, who figures prominently in

Home-Cooked Gifts Loving Tradition

If ever there was any question that home-made gifts are the ones most valued, the story of the Widow Cornewallis should sweep away the doubts. One holiday she baked her favorite Christmas pudding and presented it to King Henry VIII. It so delighted the mighty monarch with the famous appetite that he presented the lady with a manor house in return. Alas, her recipe has been lost to history. But cakes, breads, candles, dessert sauces, cookies, jams and jellies, sweetmeats and sugarplums continue to top the best-of-all-gifts list.

Since the turn of the century, the makers of Karo corn syrup have been developing such recipe delights. They have gathered some all-time favorite holiday gifts and have also created a few new ideas to win friends and, perhaps, influence a monarch or two.

Filleting A Turkey

1. Removing leg and thigh.

Remove stuffing from turkey. With a sharp knife, such as a Chicago Cutlery 8" Slicer, remove drumstick and thigh in one piece by pulling leg away from body and slicing through the Separate leg and thigh by cutting through the connecting

Each piece may then be individually aliced if desired, removing bones.

2. Removing Breast.

Place bird on its back with tail near you. Remove left breast first by making a vertical cut along the breastbone approximately 1" deep, the entire length of the breast, until you reach the bone. Place fingers in the slit and peel the meat away from the bone with the tip of a very sharp knife. (If the bird is piping hot, put a small plastic bag over your hand to help protect your fingers from the heat.)

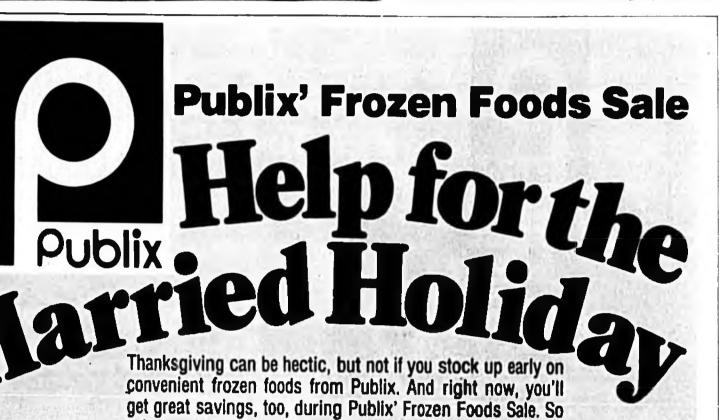

Turn the bird around so the neck is near you and remove the other breast in the same manner. Set aside. You will have two large breast sections, perfect for slicing.

3. Removing Wings from Bird.

Pull the wings away from the bird and cut through the joint closest to the breast. Separate the wing into sectors at the joints for serving. 4. Slicing Breast.

Place the breast sections on a cutting board and starting at the small end make thin diagonal slices at 45 degree angle. Lift the sliced turkey onto the serving platter. Makes a beautiful display of sliced turkey with each slice overlapping the next. Garnish with paraley and fruit-filled orange shells.

Entertaining With Style: Serve American Cuisine

The time-honored melting pot of the U.S. is spilling forth a cuisine that chefs around the world are acknowledging as "American." Comprising adaptations from practically every country, as well as dishes unique to regions of the U.S., clever American hosts are entertaining American style.

Take the pride of the southland, for instance - the pecan pie. It could crown any party meal in triumph. And it combines two of America's famous originals — pecans and corn syrup.

As nearly everyone knows, corn was an important staple to Indians across this land. They shared it with the new settlers from Europe, and taught them how to dry it, grind it, press it and love it. Pecans, also an Indian favorite, were called variously "pakans," "pagans," and "peccans" by the local Indian tribes. The Indians roasted pecans, and they also ground them, mixed them with vegetables and extracted their Pecan trees, given to George Washington by Thomas Jefferson and planted just weeks before the Revolution, can still be seen at Mt. Vernon. Even then pecans were prestige nuts and a worthy gift. Today, their flavor and delightful crunchiness add goodness to a variety of foods - desserts, of course, but also main dishes, meats and relishes. Pecans are also nutritionally wholesome. They add fiber to the diet and contain iron, calcium, the B vitamins, potassium and phosphorous.

Although the ingenuity of the Indians was great and their use of corn creative, it wasn't until this century that corn syrup was developed. It was named Karo, perhaps for romantic reasons, by its inventor. Corn syrup quickly became a standard product in the American kitchen.

Cooks like its subtle sweetness and the consistency, body and gloss it lends to sauces and glazes. Many of the fine corn syrup recipes developed by its early fans remain classics of good eating today - whether they be special desserts, meats, fruit; or vegetable dishes, sauces, condiments or candles.

Call it patriotic, chauvenistic, or just plain fun, but em-

CITRUS GLAZED HAM WITH PECANS

- 1 (12 to 15 lb) fully cooked harn, with bone in
- 1 cup dark corn syrup
- 1 tablespoon shredded orange or lemon rind
- 2 tablespoons orange or lemon juice
- Toasted pecan halves Whole cloves
- Very thin slices orange peel

Place ham fat side up on rack in large roasting pan. Bake in 325 degree F oven about 1 hour and 15 minutes. In small bowl stir together corn syrup, orange rind and juice. Remove ham from oven; with sharp knife, score fat %-inch deep in diamond pattern. Brush ham with some of the syrup mixture. Continue baking about 45 minutes, basting frequently, until harn is well glazed and heated through. Remove from oven. Place 1 pecan half in center of half of the square marked on ham. Put whole clove through center of orange peel and insert 1 in center of each of the remaining squares. Baste ham once more. Return to oven 10 minutes.

Mushrooms Mushrooming In New Uses

Most Americans know that it is unwise, potentially extremely dangerous, to pick any wild mushrooms and eat them. They could poison you. On the other hand, it's a pity not to enjoy the very special flavors available in safe, varied and tested varieties.

"Americans really don't know what they are missing by not at least trying some of the many edible fresh, canned and dried varieties that are becoming increasingly available in reliable specialty food shops around the nation," Town & Country says in the October issue in a comprehensive report on exotic mushrooms.

"Exotic mushrooms already play an important role in our best French and Italian restaurants, and our more innovative American chefs are utilizing more and more native chanterelles, morels, oyster mushrooms and boletes in the development of the New American style of cooking. "Why? For the simple reason that to compare the rich flavor of most wild mushrooms with that of the cultivated, overbred, characterless white agarics — the common 'button' mushroom you find in the supermarkets - is like comparing the savors of sturgeon and lumpfish caviar."

Town & Country lists eight recipes, with where they come from, that can bring rejoicing to the cook or chef who is prepared to give them that old school try. Following are three recipes:

> CHICKENSAUTE WITH WILD MUSHROOMS

132 oz. dried Boletus mushrooms, chanterelles or morels

1 314-4 lb. chicken, disjointed and washed Salt and freshly ground pepper

14 cup flour 1 Tb. vegetable oil 15 small onions, peeled

Pinch of thyme 1 bay leaf 1/2 cup dry red wine

4 cup heavy cream Soak mushrooms in 114 cups warm water for 30 minutes, pick for grit, rinse and chop coarsely. Strain mushroom liquor through triple cheesecloth and set aside. Pat mushrooms dry, melt 2 Tb. butter in a small skillet, and saute mushrooms 3 minutes over medium heat. Season chicken with salt and pepper and roll lightly in flour. Heat 3 Tb. butter and oil in a large, heavy skillet, brown chicken on all sides, beginning with dark pieces, and remove. Add onions to skillet and brown evenly over moderate heat. Add chicken, mushrooms, herbs, red wine and about 1/4 cup of the mushroom liquor, cover tightly, and cook 35 to 45 minutes or till chicken is tender. Transfer contents of skillet to a hot platter, skirn fat from cooking liquid, add cream and boil, stirring, about 3 minutes or till sauce thickens. Taste for seasoning and pour sauce over chicken. Serves 4.

> ALICE WATERS' POTATO AND WILD MUSHROOM GRATIN

14 lbs, new red potatoes

11/2 oz. dried Boletus mushrooms, chanterelles or morels 4 Tb. unsalted butter

2-3 Tb. heavy cream 14 tsp. minced garlic

Salt and freshly ground pepper

Peel potatoes, slice 14-inch thick, place in cold water and soak, changing water three times at 10-minute intervals. Soak mushrooms in 11/4 cups hot water about 20 minutes, pick for grit, rinse and chop coarsely. Strain mushroom liquor through triple cheesecloth and set aside. Preheat oven to 425 degrees F. Pat mushrooms dry and saute in 2 Tb. of the butter 3 minutes over medium heat. Add heavy cream, garlic, 1/2 cup of mushroom liquor and sait and pepper and cook 3 minutes. Dry potatoes well and arrange a layer of them in a lightly buttered 9-by-9-inch baking dish. Salt potatoes lightly, spoon on some mushroom mixture and continue layering, ending with a layer of potatoes. Dot with remaining butter and bake 15 to 20 minutes or till potatoes are a deep golden brown. Serves 6.

> FETTUCINE WITH PORCINI, ONIONS AND TOMATOES

1% oz. dried porcini (Boletus mushrooms) 1 stick butter

I large onion, chopped

I large tomato, cored, seeded and chopped Salt and freshly ground pepper 1 lb. packaged fettucine

1 Tb. oil 2 springs fresh paraley, finely chopped 14 cup freshly grated parmesan cheese

Soak mushrooms in 11/4 cup warm water for 30 minutes, pick for grit, rinse and chop fine. Strain mushroom liquor through triple cheesecloth and set aside. Melt one-half the butter in a large skillet, add onions and tomatoes, and saute over medium heat about 3 minutes. Add chopped mushrooms, 1/2 cup mushroom liquor, and salt and pepper. Cover skillet, cook 30 minutes over low heat, uncover, increase heat, and continue cooking till no liquid remains. Pour 4 quarts water into a large kettle, add 1 % Tb. salt plus 1 Tb. oil, bring to the boil, add fettucine, cook aldente, drain and transfer to a large bowl. Add mushroom mixture, remaining butter, parsiey and cheese, toss well, and serve immediately. Serves 4 to 6.
