Suit filed by union over compensation

By INCHAGE INCLINE United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - The Florida AFL-CIO filed suit Thursday challenging the constitutionality of the new state worker compensation law, saying it unfairly penalizes workers for escalating insurance costs.

The lawsuit filed in Leon County Circuit Court attacks the law on numerous grounds, including restrictions on workers' right to sue for work-related injuries, said AFL-ClO President Dan Miller in a news conference.

Under legislation adopted in 1935, workers traded away their right to sue for injuries suffered on the job in exchange for creation of a worker compensation system. That system guarantees Florida workers prompt payment of compensation benefits.

However, rising insurance premiums prompted the Legislature to alter the compensation system. The new law went into affect July I on the heels of premium increases for worker compensation coverage of more than 37 percent this year and 26 percent last year.

Miller accused the Legislature of tampering with employee benefits, because it is unwilling to tackle rising medical care costs that are driving up health insurance premiums.

The new law attacks skyrocketing insurance rates by "taking it out of the hides of the workers," he said. The suit, which was scheduled for a hearing next Tuesday in Leon County, meks an injunction against enforcment of the law, pending a ruling on the legislation's constitutionality.

However, the new law also has met with criticism from small contractors, because it requires them to buy worker compensa-tion coverage for the first time.

The latest move by city of ficials would shatter Redner's mail plan. He said the city informed him that the mail would violate Tampa's zoning code because the site is too close to professional offices.

Redner and his attorney. Luke Lirot, said the code is not valid because it was not enacted properly.

Pointed fingers, unclean hands

With the election drawing near and the officially projected cost of the savings and loan cleanup now doubled, everyone in Washington is trying to find ways of blaming everyone else for the thrift mess. Democrats are trying to turn presidential son Neil Bush's problems into a liability for his father. The White House is pointing fingers at Democrats In Congress.

But when it comes to the making of the crisis, there's little partisan advantage to be gained and plenty of blame to go around:

• In 1980, Congress, at the behest of the savings and loan industry, raised the ceiling on the amount of federally insured deposits from $40,000 to $100,000. The higher ceiling created so-called brokered deposits, $100,000 risk-free investments packaged by Wall Street brokers that were shifted around the country in search of the highest rate. The new ceiling made it easier for failing thrifts to attract new deposits even as it removed large depositors' incentive to scrutinize the performance of thrift management and increased the federal insurance fund's exposure to loss. The decision was made in a back room without public discussion and over the objection of regulators by top Democratic and Republican banking committee members.

 In the early 1980s, a squeeze between low rates of return on mortgage loans and high rates on deposits pushed hundreds of thrifts toward insolvency. But instead of closing the institutions at considerable cost to the taxpayers, the Reagan administration. with George Bush in the lead, opted to loosen regulatory accounting standards and open new areas of investment to thrifts. The hope was that lower interest rates and profitable new lines of business would eventually cure the problem. In some cases, it did. In many others, however, the combination of lax regulation and opportunities for riskier activities led ailing thrifts to plunge into highly speculative and often crooked deals,

• In 1986 and 1987, Reagan officials began to realize that they needed at least $50 billion to close failing thrifts. but to avoid political controversy, they asked Congress for only $15 billion in new capital for the deposit insurance fund. Not to be outdone in irresponsibility, House Speaker Jim Wright and the Democratic leadership, dancing to the tune of the S&L industry and its big campaign contributors, cut the amount to $10 billion. The inadequate package left open hundreds of insolvent thrifts.

• In 1988, a presidential election year.

Reagan officials publicly underestimated the cost of cleaning up the industry and denied the need for taxpayer dollars even as they privately understood that a taxpayer rescue would be needed. By covering up the truth to help Bush at the ballot box, the Reagan administration added billions more to the eventual cost.

The S&L scandal can justifiably be called "Congress' Watergate," as some critics de-scribe it. The crisis dragged down former Speaker Wright and his top lieutenant, Tony Coelho: threatens the careers of the "Keating Five"; and has tarred an entire institution that was too willing to put the interests of the well-heeled thrift lobby over the public good. But it is equally a tale of a Republican administration that let deregulatory zeal and its opposition to government action override its duty to protect depositors and eventually taxpayers. There are lots of pointed fingers in wasnington, but no clean hands.

Voters for school board beware

Our school children cannot vote. They must depend on responsible adults to place the best available persons on our school board.

There is a vast difference among the Seminole County candidates. These questions should be addressed by the electorate:

Does the candidate intend to simply use the position as a political rostrum?

Does the candidate anticipate a "full-time, difficult JOB", or a "part-time POSITION?" Will the candidate spend time in the schools.

will have a unique opportunity to reject the excessive packaging that unnecessarily increases both the prices of products they buy and the amount of garbage they send to landfills. Concerns about extravagant and wasteful packaging increasingly are being expressed by consumers throughout the country. But in no other state will the voters have an opportunity in this autumn's elections to approve such a tough statutory ban on those materials.

The proposed law on the November ballot was drafted by the Oregon State Public Interest Research Group. It requires that all packaging offered in the state by 1993 must be reusable or

A common example of the materials in the first category are glass soft-drink bottles that can be cleaned, refilled and reused. In the second category are packages that can be recycled including aluminum soda cans, plastic milk jugs and cardboard food boxes.

"America really is trying to come to grips with the garbage crisis," says Bob Jenks, director of the campaign to gain approval of the OSPIRG ballot proposition. "People everywhere in the country recognize that packaging accounts for 50 percent of the volume and 30 percent of the weight of all solid waste."

In Massachusetts, a similar measure was expected to be on the ballot this year but is entangled in a legal dispute. The New York Public Interest Research Group early this year mounted a campaign to ban throwaway products and nonrecyclable packages. In Maine, a new hold beer six-packs together and other forms of wasteful packaging.)

The industry's response to these consumer concerns ranges from grudging acknowledgement to determined hostility.

In Maine, the industry hired lawyers, public relations people, political consultants and advertising executives in an expensive but fruitless attempt to repeal the ban on aseptic boxes now scheduled to go into effect in Seplember. One of the wasteful packages singled out by NYPIRG was a plastic ketchup container marketed by the H.J. Heinz Co. and composed of fused layers of polypropylene plastic, scrap plastic known as "regrind," ethylene vinyl alcohol and adhesives.

"The squeezable plastic ketchup bottle and many products like it are rapidly joining the plastic foam hamburger box as a symbol of wasteful packaging, many environmental groups say." The New York Times reported late last year. Heinz's manager of plastic packaging was quoted in that story as saying "we recognize that there is a problem and that we have a responsibility to solve it." But when an improved container was recently introduced, the company's promotional materials refused to acknowledge any problems posed by the unrecyclable predecessor.

Skepticism over 'European ideal'

WASHINGTON - A passerby, curious about an unusually long line of limousines snaking down the street in front of one of Washington's poshest hotels, paused to ask a chauffeur the identity of the visiting dignitary who required all these chariots of power. The chauffeur replied, "Le President de l'Europe.

A grand title, Now, name the President of

The potentate who is pleased to be called that is Jacques Delors. He is, fortunately, not yet nearly as potent as his title implies and as he plans to be. As president of the European Community's executive commission, he is the leading bureaucrat in Brussels, the capital of bureaucracy and pretender to the inflated title of capital of Europe.

This "president" of a continent of democracies is an appointed official. His title reflects the fact that in politics, vanity often is inversely proportional to legitimacy. But the title also testifies to a dark side of today's "Europhoria."

There is afoot an attempt to supplant politics by edicts. This anti-democratic impulse may be the last refuge of, or merely the latest manifestation of, socialism's durable dream of replacing the governance of people by the administration of things. ## Foreign student recruitment ebbs

WASHINGTON - The end of the Cold War also means an end to the battle of the brains - the struggle between the United States and the Soviet Union to see which superpower could recruit more foreign students to its universities to be propagandized in the "right" thinking and sent home.

Scholarship administrators in American universities lear that federal acholarships to foreigners will suffer from the budget axe now that the United States is no longer as interested

In 1984, the U.S. National Bipartisan Commission on Central America issued the "Kissinger Report" with a recommendation to boost the program to 10,000 scholarships. AID responded by giving some $268 million to foreign students between 1965 and 1987. On the surface, the scholarships looked good. They were targeted at poor people with leadership potential who could get an American education and then go home to serve their countries. Some didn't go home, but AlD has gradually worked out most of the loopholes the students used to stay here.

The United States built up its numbers until today more than 13,000 Latin and Caribbean scholars have been educated in the United States courtesy of the taxpayers.

But an audit of the program in 1985 revealed that initially the United States was less interested in educating future leaders than it was in outnumbering Soviet-educated

The audit noted that poor people should be targeted for scholarships because they were also "one of the prime target groups of Soviet bloc training efforts." The audit said that unless the program was upgraded, the scholarships would be ineffective in counteracting Soviet scholarships, a mission the audit called "the primary goal" of the AID scholarships.

The report went so far as to complain that too much money was going to countries where the Soviet presence was minimal. Nowhere in the audit were the educational needs of students from those countries emphasized.

Scholarship administrators at various universities told our associate Dean Boyd that the Soviet-U.S. competition has always been one motivating force behind the AID largesse. But under glasnost, the program has out-grown its Cold War mentality.

AID officials assured us their program has matured beyond a numbers game. University administrators agree, but some fear that without the competition, the scholarships will not be a priority and the budget will be cut.

AID officials told us that won't happen and that little or no consideration should be given to what the Soviets are doing. But, one federal scholarship administrator told us. "It remains to be seen how committed Washington is to long-term development in Latin America or short-term political goals."

Condemnation hearing scheduled

SANPORD - City Commissioners are expected to approve Condemnation proceedings against two Sanford houses during Monday night's City Commission meeting. In both cases the building inspector has recommended demolition.

Police have reported that one of the houses, at 1305 Olive Avenue, is being used as a crack house, with illegal drug activity known to have occurred at the location. According to the building department report, the owner of the house had been previously notified of unaafe conditions and that structural, electrical and plumbing problems must be corrected or the building would be condemned. The report says that very little has been done since the original notification, to correct any of the conditions.

The second house, at 210 Laurel Avenue had already been on the city's list for condemnation, but since then has been severely damaged by fire.

The meeting is acheduled for 7 p.m. in the commission chambers of the Sanford City Hall.

The company will now be handling towing for all wrecks, illegal parking, and disabled vehicles in Lake Mary. The minimum charge for a standard tow is $25 for five miles or less, with $1 for each

Legge of Cities passes resolution

LAKE MARY - The Tri-County League of Cities, an advisory group composed of officials from Seminole, Orange, and Osceola counties, held its monthly meeting yesterday at Lake Mary City Hall. The group passed a resolution to promote the passage of Florida constitutional Amendment Three, which limits state mandates in need of financing.

A video was presented and distributed explaining the amendment and why the Florida League of Cities wants it passed. The video said the state has been "dumping" its programs on local governments, and forcing them to raise property taxes to finance these programs. The campaign theme for Amendment Three, which Florida voters will vote on November 6, is "Keep Local Taxes Local."

Researchers build anti-AIDS

SYRESSES AROLIERS UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON - A tiny, custom-made compound may provide a relatively cheap and easy blockade against the deadly impact of the AIDS virus, researchers

A team from Harvard University Medical School and the Dana-Farber Cancer institute said it has built small, synthetic molecules that can prevent the spread of AIDS infection among cells grown in a test

The molecules, called CPFs, act in a manner similar to soluable CD-4, an inectable AIDS drug already being tested in numans, but are easier to make and should be able to be given orally due to their very arnali size, researchers said.

Early tests of solumble CD-4 in A<sup>1</sup>DS patients have not produced impressive results, and researchers said one problem seems to be the relatively short life of the natural protein in the bloodstream.

Both soluable CD-4 and CPFs have been shown to mop up the AIDS-causing human immunodeficiency virus, or HIV, in the test tube by binding to the protein that HIV uses to enter key immune cells, called T-4 helper cells. By themselves, neither compound can attack HIV that is already inside infected

Unlike soluable CD-4, which is a natural protein that mimics the door HIV uses to enter T cells, CPFs consist of protein building blocks not naturally found in the body. The synthetic structure, coupled with CPPs smaller size and tight binding power, means such compounds should be less likely to be broken down by the body's enzymes that CD-4 and therefore survive longer in the bloodstream, researchers said. Another advantage CPF drugs should have over soluble CD-4 is cost.

"They are really quite easy and inex-penaive to produce," said Steven Burakoff, the Dana-Farber researcher who headed the study published Thursday in the journal Science. Burakoff said "a major drug company," which he did not name, is "very interested in licensing" in CPFs.

Preliminary results of CPFs in laboratory mice show the compounds appear to be relatively non-toxic, Burakoff said. The mice suffered no ill effects when they were given CPF doses 20 to 50 times higher than the amount needed to block the spread of HIV infection in the test tube.

Nelswender expressed concerns that, at first review, the budget was acceptable this year, but consecutive years of little financial support for programs and growth will cause the district to decline. Currently the district has 47,000 students, but expects to have more than double that number by the turn of the century, making it one of the fastest-growing districts in the state. Still, the legislature ranks Seminole 65th out of 67 counties in terms of funding.

While the district and school employees and administrators may see the budget as lean, Mary Chambers, the district assistant superintendent for finance, conceded that the mean part will come when county homeowners open their tax bills, which will

School unions strike accord

Unions agree on insurance after hours of negotiations

By VICKI BARRA Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY - Negotiators of the four unions. representing the teachers, bus drivers, cierical and maintenance employees in the Seminole County School district agreed last night to change the structure of their insurance benefits plan.

Meeting in the media center at Greenwood
Lakes Middle School, 601 Lake Park Drive, Lake Mary, the negotiating teams took longer than expected — nearly six hours — to hummer out an agreement, which union representatives said was very good.

Until now, district employees had a $100 deductible with a maximum of $450 in out-ofpocket expenses. Under the newly-negotiated deal employees will have a $250 deductible with a $1,000 cap on out-of-pocket expenditures.

"We have had a Rolls-Royce insurance package in the district until now," said Nacy Wheeler, the unions' chief negotiator. "We had to give a little bit, but it worked out well for all involved.

Wheeler said the insurance changes were necessary to help ease the rising cost of premiums, but admitted the plan was going to be less than popular with the rank and file of the unions.

"This was a really courageous move on the part of the union reps," Wheeler said, noting that "no one is ever happy about having to cut a benefit."

The union hopes that the amount saved under the new plan will give the district more resources to increase salaries when that portion of the contracts is negotiated later this summer.

Wheeler said the change in the insurance benefits really do not harm the average employee. Rather, it is the "high utilizers" who will see the biggest difference because of the jump in out-of-pocket expenses.

"The high utilizers are going to have to pay more," she said. "They are the ones who will notice the biggest change."

Lake Mary seeks help widening road by appealing Sanford mall road agreement

By LAURA L. SULLIVAN Herald staff writer

LAKE MARY — City commissioners last night agreed unanimously to appeal a development order for the 217-acre Seminole Towne Center mall planned for the interchange of State Road 48 and interstate 4. The appeal was to be made today, the final day the state would accept such a petition.

Lake Mary commissioners are challenging the development order, which was approved by the City of Sanford in April, because they want the developer to help pay for four-laning of Rinehart Road, which will carry about 25 percent of a tremendous increase in traffic the $100 million mail is expected to bring to the area.

"I think we need to be good neighbors. But I also think we need to protect our own interests," Lake Mary City Manager John Litton said.

ners next week will discu plans to widen Rinehart Road between County Road 46-A and State Road 46. But Lake Mary officials are concerned that the segment of Rinehart Road between CR 46-A and Lake Mary Boulevard will be as significantly impacted.

Forrest Fields, special legal counsel to Lake Mary, said the mail would account for 25 to 40 percent of the road's capacity, or "so much of Rinehart Road that you could not issue any more development orders.

Widening of Rinehart Road is mentioned in the mall development order, but Commissioner George Duryea called references to the segment

Lake Mary and Sanford to meet with developers to figure out how to pay for road widening, but the references are not specific about when they would meet or how the burden would be distributed among them.

During the East Central Florida Regional Planning Council review of the mall in March, Lake Mary Commissioner Paul Tremel asked the council to require developer Melvin Simons and Associates to share the expense of the road project with other major developments in the area, including Timacuan, Primera and the Mid-Florida regional postal facility. Jim Willard. Melvin Simons attorney, said at that time the developer would cooperate with the cities on the project, but would not agree to any commitments concerning Rinchart Road.

Fields said. "The development order is flawed because it doesn't consider that from the beginning of construction of the mail. Rinehart Road will be carrying construction traffic.'

Construction of the mall was scheduled to begin this year.

Fields said the city's challenge of the mall development order could cost as much as $10,000 in legal fees.

Fields said this morning the appeal would be filed today with the Florida Land and Water Adjudicatory Commission in Tallahassee.

The state Department of Community Affairs has appealed the city's development order, citing a lack of attention to the impact the development would have on the area's housing. About 900 units of low-income housing in the mall area would be needed to accommodate mall labor, the appest said.

Virginia man dies in electric chair

By TIM COX

United Press International RICHMOND. Va. - Despite contentions by attorneys that Virginia's electric chair may be in danger of malfunctioning, condemned killer Richard Boggs was routinely put to death for killing an elderly widow. "There were no complications," Deborah Groome, acting operations officer at the State Penitentiary, said Thursday night, shortly after Boggs was executed by two jolts of 2,500 volts of electricity. A physician pronounced him dead at 11:07 p.m. EDT.

Boggs, 27, was sentenced to die for the Jan. 25, 1984, robbery and murder of Treeby Shaw, 87, of Portsmouth. She was beaten and stabbed to death. Boggs robbed her to support his drug habit.

Hoggs was the 135th person executed in the United States and the ninth in Virginia since the Supreme Court reinstated the death penalty in 1976.

between Lake Mary Boulevard and CR 46-A "vague." Fields agreed, saying the order calls for Desmond to take on Sturm, Fess

By J. MARK BARFIELD Herald staff writer

SANFORD - The District 2 Seminole County commission Republican primary race has now become a double-pronged effort to unseat incumbent Bob

Bob Desmond, who challenged Sturm in 1986, qualified for the Sept. 4 primary Thursday, taking on Sturm and former Lake Mary mayor Dick Fess for the commission. Desmond, of Sanford, also challenged Art Grindle of Altamonte Springs for the Florida

House District 35 primary in 1988, losing to Grindle by a nearly 79 to 21 percent margin. In a prepared statement. Desmond said, "Tax-and-spend government here in Seminole County has brought us to very serious times. Four years ago over 42 percent of Seminole County Republican voters agreed with my stand against taxes and voted for me in the first primary. The recent proposed county tax increase of over 30 percent reinforces my 1986 campaign and justifies my qualification as the most viable

candidate for Seminole County

District 2 commissioner. Desmond is a former county computer analyst who resigned in 1986. Then county administrator Ken Hooper fired Desmond after receiving his resignation letter, saying it was a personal attack on computer services department director Montye Beamer.

Fate of old schools up in the air

Gift may be too costly to accept

By MCK PPEIFAUF Herald staff writer

SANFORD - There was no specific indication given earlier this week as to whether the City of Sanford is interested in accepting two old school properties offered by the Seminole County School Board.

The matter was brought up for discussion during a joint meeting of the city commission and the school board meeting Tuesday afternoon to determine how much interest there may be on behalf of the city in accepting the old Hopper Academy building on Pine Avenue, and the Little Red School House, 319 Palmetto Ave., known more recently as Manna Havea.

Commissioner A.A. Mc. Clanahan questioned whether the city should take over the Hopper building.

"We did a study some time McClanahan said, "and found that place should have been condemned 10 years ago. it's in such bad structural shape. The city, however, can't condemn property owned by the school board, so we couldn't take any action." He said the Little Red School House was also in bad shape.

School Superintendent Bob Hughes responded by saying that there was a United Way funded organization showing interest in occupying the Little Red School House, and had offered to renovate the building. The organization, called TLC, or Temporary Living Center, presently operates a residential treatment center in Apopka. The organization is interested in finding'a headquarters for a day treatment center at which it can concentrate on counselling for mothers whose newborn children may be addicted to drugs ingested during pregnancy, as well as provide day care facilities for such babies, he said. TLC reportedly has already carmarked money to be used for the renovation of the building.

"We've had inquiries about both of these properties." Hughes said.

In making the initial presentation, Richard Wells, assistant superintendent for facilities and transportation for the school board, said the leasing of the buildings by the board would have many more restrictions attached than if the city had control. Wells said he believed it would be in the best interests of all concerned if the city had the properties.

Hughes said the question of selling has not been submitted for any school board meeting agenda, pending further study and information. The board would have to approve the sale to the city, which would be in the amount of $1, a token fee. before the matter can be brought up for discussion at a city commission meeting.

PACs generous in state campaigns

By JEFF SCHWEERS

United Press International

TALLAHASSEE - Special interest groups have given generously to Florida congressional candidates, especially if they are Republicans or incumbents. And business lobbyists are the most generous givers of all.

As of last week, PACs contributed a total of $2.27 million to Florida congressional campaigns, based on a UPI analysis using computerization of available PACs' reports on PAC gifts. About 81.6 percent of that money - $1.84 million - came from business interest groups.

Labor unions came in a far second, contributing $313,450 - 13.8 percent of the total PAC contributions to congressional candidates in Florida.

Republican incumbents got 53 percent of the money PACS have given to Florida congressional candidates.

Florida congressmen are divided on the election reforms issue, which place PACs at the center of the dispute. Some, like 42-year congressional veteran Charles Bennett, want them abolished. "I think they were designed to get at some evil." said Bennett, a Democrat from Jacksonville. But instead of correcting election and campaign abuses, he said it created "a paper chase making it impossible to run for office." Bennett is sponsoring a measure (HJ RES 10) to amend the U.S. Constitution so that Congress can impose limits on the amount of money spent on congressional campaigns. But other lawmakers from Florida, like Democrat Rep. Sam Gibbons of Tampa, say PACs provide greater public access to government.

Gibbons received $211,950 from PACs - more than any other Florida congressional candidate running for election in November. Business interests were particularly generous to Gibbons, giving him $201,000 more than any other Florida candidate received from a single interest group.

Only Florida Sens. Connic Mack and Bob Graham received more PAC money than Gibbons.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

Leary breaks losing streak

All it took for Tim Leary to anap his slump was two runs and a return to the Metrodome.

Leary pitched the New York Yankees to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins Thursday night for his first victory since a 120 May 23 shutout at the Metrodome. Leary, 4-12, broke an eight-game losing streak by scattering eight hits in 7 1-3 innings.

After Al Newman's second-inning RBI single Thursday, Leary retired 16 of the next 19 batters. He was replaced by Gred Cadaret after singles to Shane Mack and Kirby Puckett in the eighth. Cadaret induced Kent Hrbek to hit into an innin-ending double play.

Elsewhere in the AL, Detroit blanked Boston 1-0, Baltimore downed Chicago 4-1 and Milwaukee shut out Seattle 4-0.

Team Florida Joins Team Mississippi, Puget Sound and Team Colorado as the final four teams out of the 60 that started the tournament.

Team Florida is the only new team in the final four as the other three were in the finals last year. Florida has held its opponents to less than 50 points per game in the tournament, the only team to do so.

Team Florida will play Mississippt in a semifinal matchup starting at 11:30 a.m. (CDT) today. Mississippi beat Dallas 59-58 on a shot at the buzzer to advance to the semi's.

BORDEAUX, France - Italian Gianni Bugno sprinted to victory on the streets of Bordeaux, ending what had been for the most part had been a Sunday ride in the country during Thursday's stage of the Tour de France.

Bugno posted an average time of a mere 22 mph, hardly stunning for the world's top professional riders, especially as there was barely a hill in sight.

Italian Claudio Chiappucci continued to wear the overall leader's yellow Jersey, five seconds ahead of Greg LeMond of the United States.

Reds having trouble all over

On a day when their former manager Pete Rose was sentenced to five months in fail for tax evasion and current manager Lou Pintella had problems of his own, the Cincinnati Reds came up short at Riverfront Stadium. After the Reds pulled to within a run in the sixth and loaded the bases, Billy Hatcher popped out to end the inning on the way to a 5-2 loss to Philadelphia Thursday night.

The Reds remain first in the NL West but off-field action has drawn more attention around Cincinnati. Rose was sentenced Thursday for income tax Invasion and Piniella has been mentioned for gambling by New York Yankees owner George Steinbrenner in his hearing with commissioner Fay Vincent. The commissioner has emphasized that Piniella is in no trouble.

In other NL action, New York pummeled Atlanta 6-2, St. Louis pounded San Diego 8-3 and Houston edged Montreal 4-3 in 11 innings.

On the court the Seminoles dropped the St. Luke's Catholic Church sixth grade team 51-47 as Reggie Carwise scored 21 points and grabbed 15 rebounds and Josh Greer (son of Ovledo High football assistant Paul Greer) adding 20 points.

Mark Ripken and Darren Rogers paced St. Lake's Catholic with 22 and 17 points, respec-

The first round of championship eliminations were not kind to the Seminoles as they dropped a 57-37 decision to the South Orlando Youth Sports Authority (SOYSA).

The Seminoles were only down two points at half time as the smaller Oviedo team played way over their heads against the much tailer Orlando team. But Orlando got its act together in the See Basketball, Page 2B

From staff reports

DELTONA - Jay Busse hit home runs in consecutive lunings to power Oviedo to a 26-1 blowout of DeLand in the District 14 Senior (14-15) All-Star Tournament championship game Thursday night at Busse launched a grand slam in the fourth inning and followed that with a three-run blast in the fifth. Winning pitcher Scott Hagge also hit a home run as Oviedo outhit DeLand 17-4.

Ovledo took a 12-1 lead after four innings. Normally, the game would have been stopped there by the 10 run mercy rule. But DeLand chose to exercise its option to keep playing and complete the game. Right after DeLand had made that decision, Oviedo exploded for 10 more runs in the top of the flith.

DeLand scored its run in the fourth inning.

Hagge worked six innings for the win, allowing all four DeLand hits and being touched for an unearned run. He also struck out seven. Mike Rugientus pitched the seventh inning, striking out one. Hagge and Rugienius did not walk a batter between them. Meanwhile, DeLand went through five pitchers.

Almost every player on the Oviedo roster contributed to the onslaught In one form or another. Busse led the way with a single, two runs scored and eight RBI to go with his ☐ See Seniors, Page 2B

SANFORD - This contest definitely did not live up to pre-game expectations.

Going into Thursday night, First Baptist Church and the McClanahan Law Offices A's were tied for the lead in the Sanford Recreation Department Thursday Night "C" Slowpitch Softball League with 2-0 records. The A's were averaging 11 runs and 24 hits per game while

In the Thursday's nightcap, Rhino Systems won its first game of the season, coming back from a 5-0 deficit to defeat Dunbar's 9-8.

The A's now stand alone atop the standings with a 3-0 record, followed by First Baptist (2-1) and Rhino Systems and Dunbar's (both 1-3). Next week's schedule has First Baptist playing Rhino Systems at 6:30 p.m. and the A's facing Dunbar's at 7:30 p.m.

The first game started like it was going to be the barnburner everyone expected as First Baptist put together three singles, a fielder's choice and an error to score two first-inning runs. But five hits, a fielder's choice and an error led to five A's runs in the bottom of the first and the rout was on.

The A's added 10 runs in the second and six runs in the third to take a 21-2 lead. First Baptist added two runs in the top of the fourth but it was not enough to keep the game from ending by the mercy rule.

The hitting of the A's was not the whole story. ☐ See Softball, Page 2B

Garrett at his best in seven-hit victory over Lake Mary

From staff reports

LAKE MARY - Oviedo righthander Darcy Garrett fired a complete game seven-hitter to lead the Lions past a flat Lake Mary Rams team, 6-2. in National Amateur Baseball Federation action Thursday night at Lake Mary High School.

'Garrett pitched his best game of the summer," said Oviedo Coach Ed Norton. "This win is a good one for us going into the fournament."

The Lions' win was a sweet one as Oviedo combined timely bitting with the blundering infield play of the Rams to make the most of six singles

Garrett opened the third with a single off Rain starter Mike Merthic and was safe at second on a steal attempt when Ram second baseman Chris Barfield dropped the throw. Chris Huff bunted Garrett to third before Miguel Rodriques scored Garrett with a sacrifice fly to right.

While Garrett blanked Lake Mary through the fifth. Oviedo scored five runs over the final two innings to close out the victory. Singles by Rodriques and Rufus Boykin along with three walks and an errant pickoff throw by Merthic led to two runs in the sixth.

In the seventh, the Lions railied for three runs. Bubba Fore reached on an error and moved to second on a walk to Edgar Aviles before pinch-hitter Mark Bellhorn singled to right to load the bases. A passed ball and a wild pitch plated two runs and moved Bellhorn to third, Rodriques then shot a single to left to score Bellhorn for Oytedo's final run.

the second. T.J. Hamilton singled with one out. moved to third on Neil James' double and scored and Dana Dearth's ground out.

Chris Haney scored Lake Mary's second run in the seventh inning when his fly ball was lost inthe lights and went for a triple.

DELTONA - Philip Hart, formerly of Sanford, lives up to his definitive name.

The name Philip means horse lover." he said. A friend of Hart's, who writes books, told im about the name. Hart owne and operates Bed 'N' Bridle, an operation with clean, quality horses for hire.

iders have an opportunity to does over 15,000 acres of lush steal trails inhabited by federally protected baid engles. According to Hart, the eagles can be observed nesting and soaring over the tree tops at any time of day. The trails also border eleven lakes that add an element of mystique as the shimmering silver water reflects the sun in the midst of a lively green forest and varigated flora. A pristine setting unspoiled by habitation or roadways which adds to the safety of horse and Hart, his wife Claudia, and their two children, Philip II (P.J.), age 2, and Lyreric, age 1, live in an attractive house on the property near the barn. They have an extended yard that slopes downward and into the lake. The yard and paddocks are used for private parties reserved by customers who pay 890 per hour for a two-hour party in-cluding horses. Catered parties depend on the customer's needs and are discussed to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Claudia works full time away from home while the children's grandmothers take turns caring for them. Hart spends seven days a week running the one-man operation. This man looks as comfortable behind a desk in his barn office as he does beside a home. He displays an obvious affinity for considered to be top world the animals and speaks with bloodline quarter horses. Bed 'N'

"My dad was a veterinarian and I have four years of veterinary knowledge. I can vet homes," Hart says. Bed 'N' Bridle accepts boarders and has several presently on the premises, each with their own private stall. Hart also sells his own horses and acts as an agent for others. One horse in particular, a two-year old filly named An Unique Cowgirl, is a registered quarter horse and is being offered for sale at $25,000. Cowgirl is sired by Obvious Cowboy. Both filly and sire are Bridle is the home of An Unique Cowgiri.

The boarders and the privately owned horses for sale are not rented out. However, Hart has five horses that he does rent for $15 an hour.

Hart explains the care of each horse when the rider returns with it to the barn.

"After a ride each horse is untacked and bathed by hosing it down. This helps to cool him off and also keeps him clean. I check for ticks and blemishes on every horse after every ride," he says. "If I take care of my horses then they will take care of me."

Hart is proud of his homes. "I don't have hacks here. Hacks are broken-down old horses that have been typical of riding stables where the owners don't care about their animals and they work them to death," he ays. "My horses are well cared for and are in the $500 to $2500 range. I spend that much for them and take good care of them. If a rider abuses one of my animals, they are escorted off the property and will never rent from me again. Abuse is my primary concern." Claudia appreciates her husband's struggle to attain the quality service, horses, barn and business that he is building. "Phil wants to offer the best and sometimes he gives too much, but it's his dream and he is making it work with lots of time, sweat and effort. He puts forth the same effort in everything he does," she says.

Hart was a construction worker who used the jobs in building as a stepping stone to pave the financial way into the stable business. "When I started this business three years ago. I bought ope horse and after two months of earned enough to purchase another one, and then periodically added more. I'm constantic upgrading to offer quality serv: ice," he says. What Hart sees for the future is a riding club, shows, lessons in English, Western and Dressage as well as training. He is in a position now to present everything for the horse includ: ing new Dakota horse trailers. gooseneck and heavy duty in aff sizes and reasonably priced. His next logical step up the business ladder would be everything for the rider such as boots. breeches, shirts, hats, etc. For, now, Hart has fun doing what he does so well. One would think upon observing him working in his been that he actually communes with the horses. They, like him and he obviously like

Two paper tigers still fight for same old bone

DEAR ABBY: My husband been married for nearly five years. It's the second marriage for both of us; our spouses died.

We both enjoy reading the morning newspaper at breakfast. like the front section, so we each read our favorite section first.

When he gets through reading the sports section, he thinks I should hand over the front section whether I'm finished with it or not.

if I don't stop whatever I'm reading and hand over the paper, he becomes trate and pouts like a child - then he leaves the table in anger and doesn't speak a civil word to me for hours.

I've heard you can't teach an old dog new tricks - or am I the "old dog" who needs to be retrained? I told him I was going to write to you and he said, "Go ahead and write.

By the way, this is the only thing we've ever fought about.

TWO OLD DOGS

DEAR "DOGS": The solution is obvious: On the next giftgiving occasion - Christmas. his birthday, your anniversary. whichever comes first — buy him a subscription to this newspaper. This solution is also ideal for the spouses of scissor-happy folks who have the habit of clipping coupons, ads, puzzles. articles, columns, etc., out of the newspaper before other members of the family have had a chance to read it. It's cheaper than medication for high blood pressure or ulcers. Or a divorce.

DEAR ABBY: This is in response to the letter written by the post office clerk who complained about employees who use their employer's postage meter for their personal correspondence. I think he's been licking too much stamp glue.

I work in a small office (15 people), and we all use the postage meter for our personal mall. However, right next to the meter there's a postage scale and a container in which to deposit the money for the stamps we've purchased. Yes. Abby, we pay for every postage stamp we use. We're on the honor system here, and in the five years I've been working in this office, there have been no complaints.

We also use the same system for the snacks for sale in the lunchroom. (No vending machines. We go to the supermarket and buy them.) If For a personal, unpublished anything, our money box usually comes out ahead.

This may not be typical of all offices, but that's the way we do it here. You may use my name.

KIRSTEN IN LANSDALE, PA. DEAR KIRSTEN: Many others wrote to plotest the accusation that all employees who use their employers' postage meter for their personal mail are pennyante thieves. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: Shame on that postal clerk who assumed that the person who mailed 100 wedding invitations stamped by postage meter was stealing from her boss. For crying out loud, didn't it ofcur to that postal clerk that it might save a lot of time and saliva to run 100 envelopes through a postal meter instead of licking 100 postage stamps?

Why do some people always assume the worst? BURNED UP IN DETROIT DEAR BURNED UP: In answer to your question. I quote an old French saying: "Nobody looks under a bed unless he himself has once hidden there." Case closed. DEAR ABBY: I'm in my late 60s and profoundly deaf, but that is not the worst problem. I have a severe case of tinnitus. which is a chronic ringing sensation in my ears. My case is unbelievable. The sound might be compared to a bad LSD trip without the psychedelic visions.

They last sometimes as long as

You like most people, will probably think I'm a nutcase. I hear music or singing, or both the same compositions over and over. Would you be good enough to consult one of your authorities to verify the fact that I am not crazy? I believe that would be an otorhinolaryngologist. This small town does not have such a specialist. Hoping you can help

Freedom in Christ

A lovely young woman with a baity in her areas and a slightly older child frenetically taking the office apart and pulling at his souther's dress, had only a few measurests to talk because whe was picking up her third child from the pre-school when she hich she had not had time to which she had not had time to properly fix that morning, and for her dress which was clean when she left home, but now showed traces of milk and juice and two or three shades of haby lead. We had already discussed what she came to see me about and she was readjusting one child on her hip, pacifying the other to heep it from winning, and niciting up acatiered toys and picking up scattered toys and debris from the visit. "Wow!," she said. "When I think that four or five years ago I was dying to get married and move out of my parents' house in order to be free, it almost blows edom to relative, toti't It? The teenager desires the dom of the adult and the wit remembers the freedom of the teenager. The poor long for the freedom of the rich and the ream of the freedom of the poor. How we look at our lives pends on where we stand, and makes freedom very hard to

But the New Testament is never confused about freedom. The biblical view is that freedom - genuine personal freedom consists of knowing that we are the children of God and then living joyfully out of that knowledge. The internal presence of the Almighty will lead us toward the paths of righteous living ends and will allow us to perience the peace of mind d soul that only Christ can

Real freedom is not being able to do anything we choose. It isn't even the freedom to remake the world the way we would like it to be. Real freedom is "forgiveness and restitution, the freedom of acceptance and renewal, the freedom to be who we are in joy and peace and love."

Like the young mother in the pastor's office. She wasn't free by some people's definition, as complete unrestraint. She had three children to keep up with, diapers to change, meals to prepare, and a house to clean.

But because she was free in Christ she could choose to be a good mother and to enjoy her role in life. She could pray. "God, make me the best mother and wife I can be right here in my very own circumstances."
And you can bet she felt good

When the dishes were done and the children were put to bed at night and she sat down on the sofa and kicked the shoes off her swollen feet and looked over at her husband sitting beside her, she could say. "I am glad to be who I am and to have the kind of burdens I have. My life has meaning and I am grateful to be

Free to be me - whether I am a parent with children or a single person. a public servant or a private citizen, a pastor in the pulpit or a parishioner in the pew — that is my definition of real freedom. I thank God for it.

Church-state ruling criticized

By BAYID E. AND

United Press International

Dean Kelley, the National Council of Churches' expert on church-state law, is not given to exaggeration. Nor, when he takes a long look at court rulings and decisions, is he much of an

But Kelley and other experts, lawyers and religious officials are alarmed by the major church-state ruling handed down by the Supreme Court in its 1989-90 term.

How upaet in Kelley? Well, he calls the ruling the Dred Scott case of the Bill of Rights free erercise clause. In Dred Scott, the court, in 1857, said blacks were "so far inferior, that they had no rights which the white man was bound to respect." On the surface, the case that has Kelley using terms like "gutted the First Amendment" does not appear likely to offend or worry many people because it involves an unpopular and minority religious practice.

In the ruling, the Supreme Court upheld the denial of unemployment compensation to two drug counselors in Oregon after they were fired for having used peyote — an illegal drug — in a ritual ceremony of the Native American Church, upholding a criminal law that prohibited a religious practice.

But Kelley said in its ruling, the court argued that the free exercise clause of the First Amendment, which says Congress "shall make no law ... prohibiting the free exercise" of religion, does not excuse violations of the criminal law.

Prostatic cancer may limit sex life

74-year-old husband is healthy, despite the fact he had one kidney removed six years ago because of cancer. Now his urologist has diagnosed prostatic cancer that requires immediate attention. We know our sex life will be modified because of his newest problem, and this is a major concern to us. Should we opi for surgery or radium

DEAR READER: The answer depends on whether the prostatic cancer has spread and how malignant the tumor is. Follow the urologist's advice. In general, surgery is used for local, limited malignancies, while radiation or radium therapy is appropriate if the tumor has metastasized (spread to surrounding tissues), making sur-gery technically more difficult and less likely to be curative.

In either case, your husband will probably be advised to take medicine (such as female hormones) to retard the tumor's growth or prevent its recurrence. This, as well as other treatments for this condition, will certainly affect his sexual interest and performance. Therefore, given the options, he will undoubtedly experience a marked modification of sexual activity.

Although intercourse may become impossible after treat-ment for prostatic cancer, your husband will still be able to pleasure you by other means.

DEAR DR. GOTT: While traveling in Britain recently, i learned that due to the AIDS epidemic, a law has been enacted prohibiting barbers from using the old-fashioned straight razor on their customers. Instead, a one-time disposable must be used. Speaking as one who has, on occasion, been nicked in the barber's chair. I'm curious as to why a similar law hasn't been established in the United States.

DEAR READER: About the only positive thing that can be said about the human immunodeficiency virus is that it is easily killed outside the body by most antiseptic solutions (especially those containing chlorine) and by heating (such as boiling). Although the issue you raised has theoretical implica-tions, most practicing barbers carefully clean their razors between customers. If they don't, they should.

In order for you to contract AIDS infection from a straight razor, you would have to be nicked by the same uncleaned razor with which the barber had just nicked an AIDS patient.

This scenario is highly unlikely

You win the jack, and a quick count of tricks gives you eight — not enough. It's obvious that you will have to go after the diamond suit to develop a ninth trick. Because your spade king is still guarded, it will be fine to give up a trick to West, but disastrous to allow East to win a trick. So figure it out. The right play is to lead diamonds twice from your hand up to dummy. So you lead a diamond at trick two. When West plays low, you go up with the king in dummy.

(If West goes up with the queen, another diamond. West now has to play the queen and you let him have the trick. Since you can give up a trick to West, the safe hand, you are able to make the contract. Of course, if West played another low diamond on your second lead of the suit, you would go right up with dummy's ace. Your hope then would be that West held the third diamond. If East held three diamonds to the queen, he would have to come on lead and defeat you by returning a spade.
