

LOVE AND DYNAMITE

Proper Use of the Explosive Stopped Flood and Won a Wife.

By GEORGE ELMER COBB.

Evon Bruce, salesman, turned the corner of a vacant square with a high board fence around it on a keen run. It was to see a lithe form with a satchel in one hand run up a slanting support, grab the top of the beam and bolt over it out of view. Bruce proceeded to spot where the man he was pursuing had vanished. He looked through a crack in the fence and his good-natured face wrinkled into smiles and he chuckled.

Bruce had carelessly left his satchel on the sidewalk outside of a store. He made his purchase of some cigars, and came to the street again to see a man running away with the satchel. He had put after him to find him now in a somewhat sad plight.

The thief it seemed had scaled the fence to evade his pursuer. He had not, however, counted on what was before him. Some construction was meditated beyond the fence. Preparatory to the same a broad space had been covered with an asphalt cement. The fugitive had dashed across this, which was freshly laid. He had sunk in ankle deep. Mired as in a mass of mud, he had floundered about and managed to get back to the edge. Here he had hastily opened the satchel. One glance at its contents and he dropped it with a yell. Then he ran down the edge of the cemented space and disappeared.

It cost Bruce some time and labor to turn scale the fence and recover his stolen property. He did this in perfect good humor.

"Wonder what the fellow thought when he read the labels on those samples?" he laughed. "Not that it would have mattered much if he got away with them, for it seems that I have come on this dead burg on a fruitless errand. Biddle & Co., quarrymen, have burned out, eh? Won't start up for sixty days. No train out of here for three hours. Suppose I go out to where he lives, and see if I cannot get an order out of him for future delivery?"

No sooner said than done. It had been raining for nearly a week and the roads were almost impassable. Bruce had been told that the Biddle home was nearly three miles from town. The picturesque scenery, however, made up for the hard plodding. Just beyond the edge of a small stream running near a ravine he came upon a pretty country house. No one responded to continuous ringing of the door bell. Bruce was about to return townwards when he noticed the flutter of skirts near a pretty little cottage on the same lot.

It was pleasant to the tired journeyer to meet Miss Verona Biddle and know that her father would return within an hour. It grew pleasant still as she invited Bruce to rest on a comfortable porch seat, which she shared with him. She was bright and interesting, recognized him as a gentleman and quite enchanted him with her pretty ways.

"I was tidying up the cottage here, which my married brother and his family have occupied until today," she explained. "Papa has just driven them to the depot. It will be lonely for us, but brother's business called him to a new location."

It began to rain shortly, and they had to go into the house for shelter just as Mr. Biddle arrived and joined them. Bruce handed his business card to the bluff old quarryman.

"Dynamite, eh?" observed Mr. Biddle, reading the card. "Sorry I can't give you an order. I might have taken some for later use, but this big flood has done worse than the fire. I just got a wire in town telling me that the dyke up at the quarries has overflowed. If the dam goes, it's ruin for the whole plant up there."

It continued to rain. Bruce lingered another hour. Then he announced his intention of returning to town. Mr. Biddle went out and studied the heavy clouds.

"See here," he said, "I might drive you to town, but we would get drenched. Just make up your mind to stay with us overnight."

Bruce glanced at the trim figure and charming face of his hostess and made no demur. He held an umbrella over Verona while they ran for the larger house. Then the deft little housekeeper busied herself preparing supper.

They had just concluded the evening meal when there came a harsh rapid jangle at the telephone. Mr. Biddle answered the call. He instantly dropped the receiver and ran for his hat.

"It's come!" he announced in a tone of deep concern—"the dam has broken and the flood is on. Can you help me a bit, Mr. Bruce?"

"Why, surely," conceded Bruce promptly.

The young salesman knew little about floods as he assisted his host in getting some cattle from the lowland meadows into the stables. He knew a great deal more at the end of his labors, as Mr. Biddle told him of former inundations the section had experienced.

As they passed the little brook he had crossed on his way to the house, Bruce was fairly startled and his companion expressed renewed alarm. The formerly placid water was growing into torrent force.

"We must be ready for a dash to the highlands if this grows worse," advised his host. "I've been through this before."

"It is a question of the stream rising enough to reach the house!" inquired Bruce, with a speculative look in his eyes.

"Just that," was the positive response.

The young salesman returned to the house and took up his satchel. He had studied the contour of the surroundings and he knew his business.

Mr. Biddle and his daughter were standing on the porch wondering what had become of their guest. Ten minutes went by, then half an hour. The quarryman ever and anon took a lantern and went to the edge of the ravine. "What's that?" he called. "What's that?" he called. "What's that?" he called. "What's that?" he called. "What's that?" he called.

"Get the house locked up," he said urgently. "At the rate the water is rising, the next hour will see us surrounded, if not floating away."

"Oh! as bad as that, papa?" exclaimed Verona.

"Yes. I will hitch up at once and we will go over to your aunt's at High Ridge."

Crash!—a terrific explosion rattled the windows of the house. As father and daughter stood petrified with amazement, Bruce came into view bearing the empty satchel in one hand, a battery apparatus in the other.

"Look at your creek now," he spoke in something of a tone of triumph.

"You are a practical man," was the comment of Mr. Biddle, as he did look and was told what had caused the water to recede.

"I simply blew out the ravine wall," explained Bruce. "The dynamite did it. There's a vent now that may fill up the ravine, but you won't have any flood hereabouts."

So practical a man was Bruce, indeed, that Mr. Biddle offered him the superintendency of his plant when he started up again.

So sensible was Bruce, that he proposed to Verona within a month, married her in two, and the pretty cottage had new occupants.

Young Sanford Man Drowned At Drawbridge

Sudden Plunge Into Water Caused Cramps And Death

James Shepherd A Young Cigar Maker Of This City Another Victim St. Johns River

James Shepherd, the twenty year old son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Shepherd of this city lost his life by drowning in the St. Johns river Sunday. James and his brother-in-law, E. Leinhardt were on the drawbridge that spans the St. Johns near Monroe. They were seated on the side piers on opposite sides of the river and being about noon and very warm James laughingly remarked that he believed he would jump in with his clothes on and cool off. As the place was public he was obliged to keep on part of his clothes and knew that they would soon dry on him and the bath would prove very refreshing. He took off his shoes and hat and plunged into the stream swimming with the current, which at this place, on account of the bridge piers is rather strong. The cold water after contact with the young man's heated body must have given him cramps, for the first intimation that Leinhardt had of his trouble was when he started to swim back against the current and called for help. Leinhardt jumped into a boat and pulled for him at once, but Shepherd never came to the surface after the first cry for help. Leinhardt pulled off his clothes and dived for him at once, but the water at this point being directly in the channel and sweeping through the piers is very deep, probably about twenty feet and the work of rescue was difficult. The bridge tender going across the bridge a few minutes before for wood saw Shepherd on the pier and heard his cry for help and hurrying across the bridge saw nothing of him after the call which proved that he sank very quickly. The alarm was quickly spread and parties at once left the city on boats and an extra engine left the shops with men for the draw bridge. All afternoon the water was dragged by boats but the body was not recovered and will probably not be found till it floats to the surface. The supposition is that in his efforts to save himself the unfortunate young man grasped something on the bottom and with the superhuman strength of drowning people held on even in death. Even diving in the water is rendered difficult on account of the brackish water preventing the sight of objects and the divers are also handicapped by the depth and the current. James Shepherd was an exceptionally honest and industrious young man engaged in the cigar factory of J. J. Mauser for several years and having the confidence of his employer and the esteem of all who knew him. He grew up to manhood here and has always borne a good reputation, never losing a day from his labors and being a helpful and dutiful son to his parents. The sympathy of the community is extended to the grief stricken family in the loss of his son, who was just rounding manhood's estate and who has come to such an untimely end. The searching party dragged the river Sunday evening without result and early Monday morning resumed. They finally decided to pull up the telegraph cable that was strung across the river at the drawbridge and the body was found caught in the cable. It was brought to the undertaking parlors of T. J. Miller & Son and prepared for burial. The funeral occurred from the residence of his parents on Elm avenue today.

Fancy Work Circle

Mrs. N. H. Garner entertained the Fancy Work Circle Thursday afternoon. The hours were pleasantly spent by the members of the circle and visitors in conversation while engaged with their pretty fancy work. Delicious pineapple cream and cake were served by the hostess whose guests were Mrs. J. D. Roberts, Mrs. J. J. Purdon, Mrs. A. E. Hill, Mrs. W. L. Miller, Mrs. T. S. Davis, Mrs. R. W. Hines, Mrs. L. G. Stringfellow, Mrs. H. L. J. C. McDaniel and Miss Cooper.

New Hotel for Coronado

That the bridge across the river between New Smyrna and Coronado is about to be sold and that the bridge deal will be followed by the building of a large up to date hotel on the beach, is the report given out during the past few days by what is considered a reliable source of information. It is said the papers have been made out transferring the bridge structure from the New Smyrna Bridge and Investment Company to local parties and

Commission Man Takes Life On Saturday Night

Made This City His Headquarters During The Vegetable Season. No Cause For Rash Act

The rumor that Earl Culbreath had committed suicide at Starks last Saturday was confirmed by a despatch received here, inquiring about his relatives, who were supposed to be residing here. Mr. Culbreath or "Curley," as he was familiarly known here has been making Sanford headquarters for the past six years and had many friends in this section. He represented several different commission firms and always carried a large share of the season's business. No reason for his rash act can be assigned by his friends here, as he was always in the best of spirits and only alcoholic dementia could have caused the young man to have committed suicide. The following from the Times-Union gives the particulars of the suicide: "Earl Culbreath, traveling representative of Miles & Co., commission merchants, New York, committed suicide this morning at the Commercial Hotel. Last night he was seen to be suffering from alcoholic mania, which was noted by several of his Starks friends, among them R. A. Weeks and W. L. Wall. Mr. Weeks saw him on the streets last night about 9 o'clock and noted his condition. He was at the time, however, able to take care of himself, and went to the hotel to retire. Afterward, about 11:30 o'clock, he appeared at the home of W. M. Wall, clearly under the influence of the mania. He was prevailed upon to go to the hotel and retire and nothing more was heard from him till the early morning hours when G. C. Lee, who had the room next to him, heard Culbreath talking deliriously. This was especially about 5 o'clock and the attempt to take his life must have been made then, for when Mr. Lee, at about 7 o'clock, entered Culbreath's room, he found him on the floor, wounded in several places both in the throat and chest by knife stabs, and over the floor a great mass of clotted blood, which had evidently lain there about two hours. Dr. J. C. Willis was immediately summoned and he was assisted by Dr. A. H. Freeman, but the combined efforts of the mania, from which Mr. Culbreath was suffering, and the loss of blood from the knife wounds rendered all their efforts useless and he expired at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon. Mr. Culbreath has been coming to Starks for several years and he had many friends and acquaintances here. His brother in Virginia was notified this morning by wire of his condition and attempts have been made to get in communication with his mother and wife, the latter of whom is said to be in Sanford. He is said to have left a note containing instructions to notify his brother and also a note for his mother."

Delightful Dance

"The Boys" of the Episcopal church were hosts of a delightful dance at the hospitable and charming home of Mr. and Mrs. S. O. Chase Thursday evening, complimentary to the members of St. Agnes Guild, to which a number of other guests were also invited. The splendid arrangement of the handsome rooms render them very adaptable to entertaining large numbers, or dancing very comfortably. For guests who did not dance cards were provided and several tables of five hundred were enjoyed. Refreshing punch was served during the evening, and later ice cream and cake.

Single Mosquitoes

The Sanford Herald asks: "Why do we have a single mosquito in Sanford?" I'm sure I don't know why. A mosquito who will remain single when he has so many opportunities for shuffling into the marriage seems to lack judgment, don't you think? Of course, it may be that the high cost of living has something to do with this system of celibacy; but from what I know of the festive singer two (or three or four) can live where one can exist. So far as my experience extends there is nothing that pleases a mosquito more than to emulate King Solomon with several hundred wives and twice as many lady friends; unless it be to crawl into a hammock taking the whole family along to feast on a juicy fat man too sleepy to remain awake.—Palm Beach County.

Joker in Green Fruit Law

Miami, June 23.—That the green fruit law which went into effect Wednesday is a huge joke and perfectly satisfactory to this section is the opinion freely expressed by prominent growers upon the street today. It is the contention of the growers generally that the "joker" of the law is in the alternative standard to the chemical test, that fruit shall be at least half colored. "I do not consider that we have any more green fruit law than we had before this one was passed," declared A. L. Hearn, a prominent grower and shipper of Gouletts, who last year was arrested for shipping green fruit, but later discharged. "I do not know of anybody in this county who wants or ever has wanted to ship grapefruit before it was at least half colored. The chemical

When The Waterways Convention Is Held In Jax

Other News Of Interest Collected From Various Sources For Busy Herald Readers

Florida, the meetingplace of the Atlantic Seaside Waterways Association in November, is getting much attention, numerous items of a waterways nature being in the bulletin of the organization for June. Already plans are being considered by the Jacksonville Board of Trade for the entertainment of the delegates and giving them generally a chance to inspect some of the principal waterways facilities the state possesses. It is likely that a number of parties to the convention will make extensive side trips over about the state where anything of interest to the organization is going on or contemplated. Among the side trips will be a junket on the St. Johns river to Sanford.

Grand Concert Free

This coming Friday night there will be given a fine concert of vocal and instrumental, with the pipe organ at the Congregational church. Sanford's leading popular singers and players will assist and Miss Sarah A. Baker, college organist at Stetson University will be a prime attraction. This lady alone is well worth the usual 50 cents admission price for the hearing, but notwithstanding her delightful renditions upon the pipe organ and a program of vocal and other instrumental, provided at a considerable cost and expense, the felicitous entertainment is to be free, except as the attendants find it a pleasure to drop a quarter or silver free will offering at the door as they enter or leave. The intent of the affair is to have an evening of thoroughly enjoyable music at the least expense other than what generous lovers of music may feel that they would like to do to help the cause and, incidentally encourage the Ladies' Aid in money that society is endeavoring to raise.

The Growers League

The work of organizing the Florida Growers and Shippers League has hardly begun, and yet Secretary B. L. Hamner has already started something that may materially reduce freight rates for the Florida growers with hardly a ripple or a stir, and without a fight or even a skirmish with the railroads. If he is successful it will not only get the rates of transportation right, but enable the Florida product to get to new fields that have been barely scratched heretofore.

Seventy Five Years Young

N. H. Fogg of Altamonte Springs sends us his photograph this week with the figures 1838-1913, which means that Mr. Fogg is just 75 years young. He celebrated his birthday at his lovely home at Altamonte last Friday. On this birthday his daughter, Mrs. J. M. Tracey of Jacksonville came home and with Mr. and Mrs. W. Osteen the entire family was at the old homestead and a happy family it was that gathered around the family table on that birthday. We hereby give Mr. Fogg a place of honor in the Seminole Pioneers Club and tender him our thanks for the photo. When we have attained the same degree we shall send him a photograph and hope it will disclose the features of as fine a gentleman as N. H. Fogg. He is the salt of the earth and the kind of men who not only lead clean, honorable, upright and honest lives, but by their example assist the rest of the common herd to do likewise. The name sounds cloudy, but the life of the man is clear sunshine and pure gold.

Notice to Farmers

Bring your mowers to us for repairs, as we carry a full line of repairs. Don't wait until you are ready to cut your hay. Bring them now and give us time to do the work. W. H. UNDERWOOD.

Decorate on Fourth of July

It has been suggested by one of the ladies, who is not only interested in but is especially desirous that Sanford should present a fine appearance and make a good impression and instill feelings of pride in all of the residents of Seminole county who will come to join in our great jubilee on the Fourth of July, that all the people be requested to decorate their homes in some way at least on this occasion of our great national and local celebration. It will not only add to the brightness and general good cheer of the festive and happy day, but it will speak volumes of the unanimity and oneness of thought, purpose and inspiration of the people with that of the authorities of the city and newly appointed officers of Seminole county, in their desire and efforts to make our celebration a great and notable event and one to be remembered in the annals of the county. The gay bunting and flags displayed on all the private residences as well as on all public and business houses, with the inspiration of the manifest rejoicing of the citizens of the town permeating the atmosphere everywhere, will also be silent witnesses of the cordial welcome to all strangers and the visitors whom we have invited to spend the day with us, and partake of our hospitality, good cheer and happiness; and also to help us celebrate the occasion of the anniversary of our great country's freedom, and the birth of our new county, as well as the fact that in one month Seminole county will begin housekeeping for herself in Lucky Sanford.

Watermelon Party

Mrs. M. E. Jones and Miss Nellie Evans entertained a jolly party of young people on a delightful moonlight ride and watermelon party to the hospitable home of Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Chappell Thursday evening. Mr. Chappell came in with a large farm wagon and gathered up the merry party, who enjoyed the pleasant trip and had the time of their lives after reaching their destination. Music and interesting parlor games furnished the entertainment of the happy evening, which was concluded with a real feast of refreshing iced watermelons. Miss Margaret Davis assisted Misses Mary and Lucretia Chappell in caring for and entertaining their young guests. Those composing the party were Misses Fannie Reba Munson, Edna Chittenden, Helen Hand, Elizabeth Gaines, Ruth McDaniel, LeClaire Jones, Frances Chappell, Allan Jones, G. W. Spencer, J. D. Woodruff, Ralph Roumillat, Reginald Holly, Willie Brunley, W. Moore. Others present were Beth Woodruff, Miss Cooper, Martha Chappell, Ellen and Frank Chappell, Margaret Davis, Mrs. M. E. Killed Big Ratler

George Ballard, while coming across the Ginn place near the city last Friday discovered a large rattlesnake and succeeded in killing him. When stretched out the rattler measured seven feet and two inches and had the proverbial rattles and buttons. This is the first snake story of the season and we hope it will be the last, as the rattlers give the sportsmen the creeps every time they cross a field.

Shooting In Church

Tallahassee, Fla., June 23.—John Palmer, a prominent white man of Enon community, near here, is perhaps fatally wounded, and Nason Revells is in jail, awaiting the outcome of Palmer's wounds. Revells entered Enon church at the evening services last evening and opened fire on Palmer. He fired six shots, three of which took effect. Palmer was unarméd save for a pocket knife which he drew and with easy ease of his jabbing strength pursued Revells down the roadway until he fell exhausted. A number of men ran after the pair and ada, whence nearly all our supplies are drawn that are imported, are as high as they are in the United States, and the cost of living is not less than the cost of it in this country.

Moreover, the American forests have suffered enormous depletion in recent years and the outlook has become dark for cheap newspapers, something of as much consequence to the people themselves as it can be to the publishers.

The most elaborate study of the whole question, the study made by the Mann committee, shows that it is a fact, beyond clear that any duty would be virtually making a present of the paper interests.

Even with free paper there is no positive assurance that the price of it will be lowered to any extent, but it is the right thing to do, because any other price put on it when imported is a present to paper makers themselves, organized carefully and moving as a unit for their own interest.

The provision for free paper merely annexes Canada forests to our own country without charge to anybody. When the duty was lowered to a comfortable degree under the Payne law as compared to the Dingley law, the paper trust immediately advanced prices several dollars a ton, just to show that they could do it, even if there was a marked lessening of duty on paper.

The only reasonable thing that Congress can do is to put paper on the free list and thus to some extent free an industry from a handicap that is not justified by any disparity in cost of production between Canada and the United States.

SILLY TWADDLE

There was a strange oversight in the act organizing Seminole county to leave the new county entirely without officers for two months. From the reports there must be a state of anarchy prevailing there. A simple proviso in the act of organization would have cured the matter.—Tampa Times.

The man that wrote that has since gone for his vacation at Chhattahoochee. Provision was made for the new officers to take their place in August. The Governor has just appointed them and any simpleton knows that when county division takes place the old county officers have jurisdiction in the new county until the new officers take their seats. A man living in Hillsborough county to make this assertion should be examined by experts. Either he is seeing things, is non compos mentis or is just naturally foolish and there is no help for him.

The new county has had no disorder of any kind, there have been few cases in court, fewer arrests and peace has abounded. If it were not for the fact that a few people want to hold office we would not need any officers for several years to come.

SUPPORTING THE NEWSPAPER

Some member of the Fort Meade Board of Trade, with the admirable grace and tact that some people have on tap at all times, arose in meeting and criticised the Leader. Fort Meade's excellent newspaper, because, as he claimed, it did not boost the city sufficiently. In the same issue the official minutes of the Fort Meade City Council recites that the proposition of the Leader to print certain legal city notices was turned down and the notices ordered typewritten. The point of these incidences is in the application thereof. Every half hammered old woman in pants whose principal service to the town consists in pressing the brick of the sidewalks, is privileged to knock and criticize the newspaper and the other institutions that are doing things. And though natural and legitimate patronage is denied it by those who believe that economy should begin and end with printing expenditure, the newspaper must always be seething and boiling over with enthusiasm and boost and boom—yea and lie—for its community—but it never does enough to satisfy some carping souls.—Lakeland Telegram.

VALUE OF VACATION

The advantages of rest and change for the betterment and prolongation of life is not as generally appreciated as it should be, says the Tampa Tribune. It is true that it is quite common for the rich and well to do to take their annual vacation for the recreation of travel, the rest of the rural retreat, or the idleness or dissipation of fashionable resorts. It is also true that nowadays many of the toilers with brain and sinew get a brief periodical surcease from their annual round of drudgery, and that countless thousands of unremitting workers in the shops and in the homes long in vain for the rest which never comes, until it is a final rest. But a greater number of those who have vacations or who only dream of them have a poor conception of their real need and the best means of making the most of the period of cessation from their everyday work.

Many who take vacations do not get out of them the rest they need, or the benefits that might have accrued. They may have found pleasure and entertainment, but they have not found the rest and recreation that is adapted to their special needs. In other words, they have had a temporary change and some enjoyment but they have not had the rest which nature has demanded and they return to their accustomed labors with little zest for the work. Their chief need is rest, the rest that repairs the human machinery that has been strained. Too many seek the pleasure which tires and palls, or the dissipation which undermines, when they most need repose to lay while upon the shelf, as it were Mark Twain once said:

"When an acre of ground has produced long and well, we let it lie fallow and rest for a season; we take no man clear across the continent in the coach he started in—the coach is stabled somewhere on the plains and its heated interior is allowed to cool for a few days; when a razor has been long in use and refused to hold an edge, the barber lays it away for a few weeks and the edge comes back on its own accord. We betray thoughtful care upon inanimate objects, but none upon ourselves. What a robust nation, what a nation of thinkers we might be if we would only lay ourselves upon the shelf occasionally and renew our edges."

EFFICIENT CHARITY

An active campaign will be begun next week to collect money for the Associated Charities fund. Our readers are doubtless very familiar with the plan. This department, or bureau of the civic league has organized to conduct a systematic charity campaign. That is to say, the bureau has planned to centralize the work, by making periodical collections, and to distribute the funds through only one source.

This is considered to be an excellent plan, preventing promiscuous and ill-advised giving, and at the same time insuring the most efficient returns for the money that is contributed.

You, as a citizen of Orlando will be asked to contribute a sum annually to this cause. Your contribution will relieve you of the necessity for further contribution to charity for a year. It is believed to be on a plan that will appeal to all.—Orlando Reporter-Star.

DON'T JOKE A FOOL

If you would find out the sense of security or insecurity that encompasses a man, shoot a joke at him. His manner of reaction to it will proclaim the status of his own conscience.

Undoubtedly the more intelligent and the more HONEST man, the more joking he will stand. His position being firm, he has no fear.

It is the same with criticism: a broad, intelligent, and above all an honest man, will withstand a criticism without a flinch, that a narrow man, and particularly a dishonest man will resent with all the fire of his composition.

Something less than a year ago we wrote an editorial, that contained no names, and was not intended as a criticism. But a man rose up in wrath over it and balled us out. The remark was made in the office at the time—that fellow must have something on his conscience; he is entirely too touchy to be healthy minded.

He no longer lives in Orlando, and the manner of his going was not altogether pleasing.

You know how it is in society. The person whose position is absolutely secure can do and say things that the person dangling on the fringe would not dare to do.

So, to come back to our subject. Be sure of your man before you crack a joke at his expense. The fool and the knave will resent it. And lion's skins are more prevalent as cloaks than we commonly suspect.—Reporter-Star.

If the plans of the transportation committee are carried out the trains running into Sanford on the Fourth will back down to the old depot with the crowds, thus saving the unnecessary expense of hack fare. As the people are our visitors for the day they will appreciate this courtesy on the part of the Sanford people and the Coast Line officials.

Old Time Friends

Friends of my earlier years, behold I greet you Across the void of time that rolls between...

Orlando Dammit, of Elmford, N. C., has just cause to change his name, from his own standpoint, but none from the point of view of public utility.

It is not a bit too early to begin making plans for vacation. Some of you will get a month, some two weeks, some only one, many only the regular holidays...

There are several things to consider in planning a vacation. You may need a real rest more than anything else, or complete change of air; you may like the sea better, or the woods, or the mountains...

The railroads and steamship lines print a lot of vacation literature that is yours for the asking. Many times you will find just the hint you need in this, and often you will be surprised to find how cheaply some little trip can be arranged.

There are summer camps that put you up for very little and where you can spend every moment in the open air, sleeping in a nicely appointed tent at night.

Or you can organize a little walking tour with a few friends. This sort of vacation is getting to be quite a fad with many girls. A route is planned out with all the stops carefully arranged beforehand, easy clothes and knapsacks are the rule, and joy is unconfined.

Whatever you decide to do, plan at least to be in the open air as much as possible, and to take healthful exercise. A girl who works hard all the year needs just as much of these as she can accumulate.

The question of who shall be poet laureate of England as the successor of Alfred Austin, seems to be of small concern to the world at large. Everyone knows who the leading poet of England is but everyone is aware of men who stand next to Kipling in fame and are entitled by the rules of the game to be considered.

One contemporary is eloquent over the poetic stature of Alfred Noyes and they who are familiar with Mr. Noyes' work regard him as one who is of extraordinary power in his art and that he is not only gaining in intellectual and moral force, but is also increasingly becoming known to the people.

Kipling has been the real poet laureate of England for a long time, but he does not need the money and it is doubtful if he will accept such a place with its limitations, for it is the duty of the poet laureate to eulogize a royal family and be poetical on all occasions of weddings, parades, funerals and so on.

William Watson cannot get past the Asquith family, who will probably never forget his touching verse, "The Woman with a Serpent's Tongue."

All agree that greatness is no more to be considered in a poet laureate than in the chief querry of the king or the black rod in Parliament, or any other of the perfunctory functionaries that prevail in Britain.

SEMINOLE WILL ENLARGE

New Smyrna Paper—States That our County Will be Square

That Seminole county, the new county created by an act of the legislature recently adjourned, is now laying plans to go before the legislature at its next session with a proposition to enlarge the county by taking a part of Volusia county, was an announcement brought out during an informal discussion held before the regular meeting of the board last Friday night.

The discussion brought out the further announcement, that the residents of Seminole county are so sure they will be able to get the proposition through the legislature, the commissioners of the new county are already filling and shelling roads on the Volusia county side of the St. Johns river, and are considering plans for a bridge to be built across the St. Johns.

The proposition is said to be to extend the present north line of the new county east into Volusia county almost to Oak Hill, but not far enough to reach the coast. This will take the towns of Enterprise, Osteen, Maytown, etc., into Seminole county, but will leave Oak Hill into Volusia county.

The proposed extension of boundary lines would make Seminole county almost square and it is claimed the people residing in the territory affected would be benefited as Sanford, the Seminole county seat, is more accessible than the county seats of the counties in which they are now located.—New Smyrna News.

New Bridge Across the Wekiwa Now Ready for Travel

Lake county and Seminole county are now joined with something more than mere friendship. The new bridge recently built by the aid of the two counties and principally through the efforts of the Zachary Bros., across the Wekiwa is now finished and ready for the transcounty travel that will flow that way now that the bridge will prove a great accommodation. The ancient ferry can now be abandoned and in a few years the road on each side of the Wekiwa will be paved with brick and this road will be the great thoroughfare for travel between Lake and Seminole counties.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State, Donald

The city council of Tampa has donated $500 toward the expense of operating the Florida Fanciers' Association poultry show, which is scheduled to be held there next December.

The Miami Metropolis complains that Indians visiting that city are frequently seen under the influence of liquor. Every effort should be made to learn where they get it, in which place Uncle Sam would place the guilty party where he would not supply any more "firewater" to the red man for some time to come.

One of the most deplorable tragedies to occur in West Florida in many years was that of late yesterday afternoon near Marianna, when Charlie Henderson, a prominent citizen of that place was shot and instantly killed by Deputy Sheriff Gregory of Gadsden county, the deputy mistaking Henderson for a negro fugitive who was being pursued by a posse composed of officers and citizens, of which the deceased was a member.

Capt. Sam Hope of Pinellas county who was a visitor in Tallahassee during the session of the legislature is the only known survivor of the legislature of 1867. He served on the Democratic side during several subsequent sessions in carpet bag days, when negroes filled half the house and Republicans were in the majority.

Genuine Maple Sugar Scarce.

There are few people outside the maple sugar making districts, says a writer in the Country Gentleman, who really know what the genuine article tastes like. The superior flavor thus spoken of is probably due in a degree to the same causes that make strawberries eaten off the vine and cherries consumed on the tree so delectable.

The One Thing That Counts. Bother persons, I know, estimate happiness by fine houses, gardens and parks—others by pictures, horses, money and various things wholly remote from their own speeches; but when I wish to ascertain the real felicity of any rational man, I always inquire whom he has to love.

Love at First Sight. Think of it! "No such thing as love at first sight!" Why, the idea is preposterous! Every man who was once a boy, and every woman who was once a girl, can testify by personal experience that there is such a thing as love at first sight, and even the recollection of it causes the oldest hearts to flutter again.

Here The Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Flowing For Hurried Readers

Roscoe, ten years old and Herbert Moore, nine years old, went to their deaths in a small boat Sunday afternoon in the whirlpool rapids at Niagara while hundreds of men watched helplessly from the shore. The boys were playing in a flat bottom scow a mile above the rapids when the rope holding the boat broke and they were carried out into the stream and drug over.

J. T. Hewell, a country merchant at Long Beach, near Dublin, Ga., and his wife were murdered early this morning after being called from their beds. Bloodhounds placed on the trail leads the posse to the cabin of three negroes, Smith Harris, Joe May and Henry Kitchens. These negroes were hurried to the jail and although a heavy guard was established a crowd outnumbering the guards formed outside the jail and demanded the surrender of the prisoners. Several armed citizens joined the forces outside the jail and began to storm the jail. Capture of the prisoners and their lynching was expected.

No denial case has been made by George W. Perkins regarding the statement published in papers the country over in which he is reported to have said, following a particularly hard grilling while on the stand in the government's suit to dissolve the International Harvester Corporation, that he believed he would be indicted and prosecuted for criminal violations of the Sherman anti-trust law. "I firmly believe that I am on my way to the penitentiary," said the head of the Harvester-Trust. "That is the policy of the American government toward industry. Mr. Jones of Canada, organized the Massey-Harris Company for the same purpose for which I organized the Harvester Company—to capture the foreign trade in harvester products—and he was knighted by the British government for his enterprise."

Legitimate Slang.
"The cats," "a perfect brick," "the gift of gab" and other such phrases have been given a clean bill of health as perfectly pure English and have been extended a welcoming hand into the Anglo-Saxon language by Mrs. Mary Green Conklin, Radcliffe student, author and playwright. Following is a partial list of the phrases Mrs. Conklin calls good slang: "The cats, bad lot, played out, go hang, jolly good, all in, buckle under, going to the dogs, at sea, go against the grain, pitch into, gift of gab, chip of the old block, terribly cut up, scrape acquaintance, had an affair, don't care a rap, white-washed, getting on fast, a perfect brick, made a hit. Mrs. Conklin declares that certain slang is not only permissible, but very acceptable, forceful and worth while. She insists that slang can uplift as well as debase a language. It is the vivid, typical slang of the street that keeps a language alive, in her opinion."

Beecher on Blindness.
It would be a dreadful thing to me to lose my sight, to see no more the faces of those I love, nor the sweet blue of heaven, nor the myriad stars that gem the sky, nor the dissolving clouds that pass over it, nor the battling ships upon the sea, nor the mountains with their changing lines of light and shade, nor the loveliness of flowers, nor the burnished mail of insects. But I should do as other blind men have done before me: I should take God's rod and staff for my guide and comfort, and wait patiently for death to bring better light to nobler eyes. O ye who are living in the darkness of sin! turn before it is too late to the light of holiness, else death will bring to you not recreation, but retribution. Earthly blindness can be borne, for it is but for a day; but who could bear to be blind through eternity?—Henry Ward Beecher.

Hen's Ample Vocabulary.
It is claimed that the common hen is not far behind the turkey in her vocabulary. Furthermore, she is said to be a much more fluent "talker" than the rooster. Her cackle is used for three different purposes, and each cackle is different from the other cackles. One she uses when seeking a nest, or when calling for her mate; one when she is frightened; and another, of a triumphant sort, as she flies from or to the nest.

Reason for Sea Burial.
Sea captains and sailors, from superstition founded upon good sense, do not like to carry dead bodies aboard their ships, burying at sea as soon as possible all who die. In old days one dead body infected with disease might mean the death and destruction of all men on the ship.

Architect of His Own Fortune.
Prof. Arminius Vambury, the world's most famous orientalist, who celebrated his eightieth birthday not long ago, was a tailor's apprentice as a lad, and received no education other than that he was able to pick up. His father was a poor Jew, and the boy had to work his way. At eighteen he had already mastered four European languages, in addition to Turkish, and then became a private teacher. His long life in the Orient gave him perfect command of many tongues. At Constantinople he was counselor to Sultan Abdul Hamid. He is one of the few who has written, cares little for wealth, but is said to be unusually susceptible to flattery. For years he has been professor of oriental languages at Budapest.

New Politics in Florida

Politics in Florida next year will be different from the usual brand seen in Florida in former years. The Bryan campaign has not been the usual corrupt practices act will revolutionize the game. There will be no more hired workers, no more 'card shovers' and it will not be permissible for any candidate or friends of any candidate to have any voters hauled to the polls.

All of the extraordinary activity on primary election days will be a thing of the past. The Bryan law abolished the second primary and established in lieu thereof a system of preferential voting. There will be just one primary in which electors will vote for their candidates of first and second choice. The man getting the most first and second choice votes will be nominated. This does away with all of the expense, turmoil and bitterness of the second primary.

The News is glad to see the second primary abolished. More than two years ago this paper advocated the abolition of the second primary and since then has kept up a consistent fight in favor of a preferential voting. The News was the first daily in Florida to speak out against the second primary and the Tampa Tribune was the next daily to take up the fight. Therefore, The News is very glad that the Bryan bill was passed. Pensacola News.

Rush the Papers

Washington, June 23.—Instructions went forth today from First Assistant Postmaster General Daniel C. Roper to all postmasters directing them to handle daily papers sent to subscribers through the mails with the utmost dispatch possible after disposition of first class matter.

"Many of these publications contain market quotations and other commercial data which are used frequently as the basis of the subscriber's daily business operations, and the value of this information is lost if it is unduly delayed in transit," explained Mr. Roper to the postmasters.

He directed that on receipt of mail at a postoffice, all sacks labeled "daily papers" should be distributed promptly and every effort made to effect their delivery on the first carrier trip after the receipt of the mail at the office, provided the delivery of first class mail was not delayed.

Money Scare Collapses

The demand for our foodstuffs by Europe will be so great this fall that payment therefor will go very far toward meeting the many demands for moving our crops, consequently there will be less money for our banks to supply; this will do much toward preventing the stringency so generally expected.

Now the money scare is broken, a good deal of call funds will be likely to go into time loans, owing to the wide difference between call and time money. This process will advance call money somewhat and correspondingly lower time money rates as a natural consequence. This will be a wholesome feature and a substantial gain to business interests generally.

The money scare can now be considered as collapsed, and the Secretary of the Treasury is entitled to the credit therefor through the moral effect of his suggestion to the banks to take out emergency currency whenever required to protect the needs of their dealers, thus showing that the new administration is in favor of aiding the business interests of the country and is against depression or panic conditions, for which I applaud them.

It is now quite evident that clearing house certificates will not be needed this fall as many have been predicting would be necessary. They will be superseded by the emergency currency. If occasion absolutely calls for it during the crop moving season, the cost of which will be 5 per cent for the first thirty days, 6 per cent for the second thirty days and 7 per cent for the third thirty days, averaging 6 per cent for three months' use, which will be ample to cover the crop moving period, or nearly so. HENRY CLEWS.

SEMINOLES SURRENDER

Untested Braves of Osceola Give Up To Dean Spencer

Miami, Fla., June 23.—Despite the fact that the Seminole Indians have never surrendered to the United States government and never have acknowledged it and always have been considered the same as a warring tribe and uncivilized, the government today began plans here to treat them as wards of the United States when Dean L. A. Spencer, commissioner of the government to the Florida Indians, started for the camps of the tribes to arrange to assist them with their fishing and alligator hunting in the Everglades and the rivers.

The Dean says that the Seminoles will be assisted and an attempt made to teach them sanitation, to send the young to school and to teach agriculture to the elders will be made.

A loan may be made if found necessary.

MRS. T. PICTON WARLOW

Will Be Guest of the Welfare Department Woman's Club

Much pleasure and interest attaches to the visit of Mrs. T. Picton Warlow, who will be the guest of the Welfare Department Thursday afternoon.

Mrs. Warlow, who comes from Orlando, is chairman of the Department of Civics of the State Federation of Women's Clubs and is well known throughout the state as one of the most efficient and well equipped of the state chairmen. She comes to the Welfare Department to impart knowledge and information along civic lines especially, but her visit will be of value and interest to every member of the Woman's Club, all of whom have been cordially invited to meet Mrs. Warlow.

Mrs. J. T. Fuller, president of the Orlando Civic League has been invited to accompany Mrs. Warlow, both of whom will receive a most cordial welcome from the Woman's Club.

All members of the club are earnestly requested to be present. The meeting will be called to order promptly at 3:30. There will be only a brief business period, followed by the introduction of Mrs. Warlow and Mrs. Fuller. The afternoon will close with a social hour.

The social hour of the program is in the hands of the committee on arrangements, Mrs. May Dickins and Mrs. W. A. Fitts, and the courtesies committee, Mrs. Neal and Mrs. Vorce.

Tampa Gets Rough Deal

Washington, D. C., June 23.—Secretary McAdoo, of the treasury department, settled all disputed questions in the south over the redistricting of the custom services and is now practically prepared to effectuate the sweeping customs reorganization of the country over on July 1.

Jacksonville will be the headquarters of the Florida district. While some treasury officials believed Tampa should be the headquarters of the district because the import business of that port is far greater than that of Jacksonville it has just been decided that under the plan of reorganization as sent to Congress by former President Taft it is imperative that Jacksonville be designated as the headquarters of the collector for Florida. To meet the requirements of the service, it is added, however, the collector will spend much of his time at Tampa.

The Florida districts are as follows: Florida, including St. Mary's river north bank, Jacksonville, Tampa, Key West, Punta Gorda, Boca Grande, Miami, Pensacola, St. Andrews, St. Augustine, Fernandina, Cedar Keys, Port Inglis, Apalachicola, Carrabelle.

Million Dollar Home

Miami, June 24.—Construction work on the million dollar castle which Charles Deering will build on his 80-acre estate within the corporate limits of Miami will begin about Sept. 1, according to J. A. McDonald, supervisor of construction, who returned yesterday from New York where he spent three weeks in consultation with the architects who are preparing plans for the palace. Mr. Deering is now enroute home from Europe and as soon as he approves of the plans the work will begin.

CHICK BELL PLAYS HERO

Tries to Stop Runaway Mules and Breaks His Arm

Francis Bell, a wagon driver, who employed by the Grand Printing Co. had the misfortune to break his arm yesterday while trying to stop a pair of runaway mules. The mules were being driven by a negro and becoming frightened started to run and the negro in his fright dropped one of the lines. Chick seeing his predicament jumped into the wagon and attempted to grasp the line. The wagon going at full speed lurches to one side and Chick lost his balance falling out and breaking his arm at the wrist. The young man is really a hero and has the sympathy of the people in his misfortune, for there are not many boys or grown men that would attempt to climb in the wagon with a pair of runaway mules attached and assist in stopping them. Chick will be laid up for some time with his useless member and will be greatly missed by The Herald force where he has become a favorite and we hope to see him back at his post as soon as his arm is 'right again.

Audubon Prize Essays

Some time ago the executive committee of the Florida Audubon Society offered a first and second prize for the best essays, written by pupils of Florida high schools, on subjects connected with the work of the society. The subjects on which the essays were to be written were 1, The Economic Value of Birds to Farmers and Fruit Growers; 2, The Plumage Birds of Florida, including personal observations; 3, The Native Song Birds of Florida, including personal observations; 4, The History and Work of the Audubon Societies of the United States; 5, Bird and Game Reservations in the United States—Purpose, History, Fauna, Results, with personally drawn maps.

The first prize offered was $10.00 in cash, the second prize, a copy of Frank M. Chapman's "Hand-Book of Birds of Eastern North America."

Twelve essays were submitted by pupils in the high schools of Jacksonville, Daytona and Fort Myers.

The judges were Mrs. Prof. Hiram Powers of Rollins College, Y. S. Hayes of Winter Park, for many years a teacher in the Chicago public schools, and the Rev. Dr. J. Goodrich Litch, pastor of All Saints Episcopal Church, Winter Park.

These judges assigned the first prize to W. H. Cordner, Jr., and the second prize to Anna Chamberlain, both of the Duval High School, Jacksonville.

It is hoped that the Florida Audubon Society will be able to offer similar prizes next year, and that a still larger number of young people, representing many of the high schools of the state may participate in the contest.

The recent passage by the legislature of the Robin Protective bill, of the Hunters License bill, and of the Game and Fish Warden bill, indicate a greatly increasing interest in these matters is increasing throughout the state. These bills, if they become laws and are properly executed, will greatly forward the good work of protecting our birds, game and fish, and thus conserve the resources of the state.

WM. F. BLACKMAN, President.

TOMATO CROP GREAT SUCCESS

Everybody Made Money and Many Dollars put in Circulation

The tomato season which has just closed has been one of the most profitable for many years in Manatee county. Everybody who planted tomatoes this year made big money, and "the land of the Manatee" is feeling the good effects of this money being turned loose. The prices received from start to finish were satisfactory, especially the early prices, which ranged as high as $2.50 and $3.00 f. o. b.

A successful tomato or vegetable crop means more to the people of Manatee county than a successful orange crop, for it more evenly distributes the money, and the fact that there are a great many more people trucking than there are orange growers.

The success of the tomato crop this year has greatly encouraged the growers and already they are getting ready to plant heavy fall crops. Manatee Recorder.

New Way of Raising Money

A rather unusual, though ancient plan for raising money has been instituted at the Presbyterian church, and it is exciting some considerable interest among the people. Following the example of Jesus when the temple was in need of repair, money chests are placed at the doors of the church. Into these chests the people drop their free will offerings for the addition to the church.

Funeral of James Shepherd

TRIP TO LUCKY SANFORD

Party From St. Augustine Find Various Kinds of Roads

Frank J. Parker and Harry L. Brown returned yesterday afternoon from a trip by automobile to Sanford in Mr. Parker's Studebaker, No. 5119. They left St. Augustine at 8:30 Tuesday morning, making the run to Sanford by way of the John Anderson Highway, through DeLand and Daytona, and over the Daytona-DeLand route on down through DeLand and Orange City to Sanford. The actual running time was five hours and fifteen minutes and the distance 98 1/2 miles.

Once the Volusia county line is reached, travelling is excellent every foot of the way to Sanford. When the St. Johns county commissioners complete their plan for road improvement on the John Anderson Highway south of St. Augustine, Sanford will be considerably less than five hours distant from the Ancient City. As it is today there is good travelling for fifteen miles south of town to Morrison's farm house. Two miles further on at Pellicer creek there is deep sand, and from that point on through to Little Mulberry creek, a distance of ten miles, parts of the John Anderson Highway are almost impassable. Especially is this so from Burnt creek to Little Mulberry, a distance of four miles. If some provision could at once be made to temporarily pine-straw this section of the highway, all troubles of the automobile tourists would vanish.

The Moody boulevard, extending from Bunnell down to the Knox and Beade orange grove is encountered 31 miles south of the city, and while the boulevard is very rough in places, it is not by any means impassable. Pine straw has been put down at the Thirty-five Mile Post, extending on through to the Knox and Beade grove. The improved section of the John Anderson Highway from the Knox and Beade grove to Ormond, a distance of nine miles along the east bank of the Halifax river, is a splendid piece of work. The Volusia county gang has not quite completed this stretch, but it is promised work will be all finished before the new season begins.

The DeLand-Daytona road while somewhat uneven is all well surfaced, and affords easy traveling. The roads down through Volusia county alternate with shell, pine-straw and some saw dust, making travel a matter of real comfort and pleasure. There is a good ferry service across the head of the St. Johns river at the lower end of Lake Monroe, close to the Atlantic Coast line. From the lower end of the river in the new Seminole county, there are two miles of sandy road, which will soon be bridged from the ferry landing at Monroe right into Sanford. The distance from St. Augustine to Sanford by the John Anderson Highway is, as stated, approximately ninety-eight miles.

The St. Augustine visitors left Sanford at 6 o'clock yesterday morning, traveling on back to DeLand, but instead of going over the Daytona road, what is known as the inland route is followed, through DeLeon Springs, Barberville, Pierson, Seville, Crescent City, Pomona, Satsuma, San Mateo, East Palatka and Hastings. This route is far prettier than is the East Coast route, because the roads wind in and out through thousands of acres of orange groves that are in splendid condition and heavily laden with the green fruit of the new crop. An interesting sight is the enormous acreage put out by the United States government in camphor trees at Satsuma Heights. For more than three miles the highway winds through these camphor plantations, as far as the eye can see, on every side, up hill and down dale, extend field after field of young camphor trees. To an utter stranger this inland route offers many difficulties, because the road is not posted, and the traveler has to very often take a chance on following the right direction. Then there are stretches of very heavy sand, especially at the upper end of Volusia county, and the lower end of Putnam county, but the information was given by road gangs at work that these uncompleted sections will be paved with shell within a year.

The distance from Sanford to St. Augustine over this route is exactly one hundred and five miles, or approximately seven miles longer than by Daytona. Another reason the return trip consumed considerable more time than the trip down was that while the roads are as a rule in very good condition, they are not straight, and it is impossible to make rapid headway.

Sanford has improved wonderfully during the last two or three years, and now added impetus has been given by the formation of Seminole county with Sanford as the county seat. The progressive spirit of its citizens is shown in miles of paved streets, electric lights, good schools and all other modern comforts that go to make a city worth while as a place of residence. A whole lot of credit is properly given by Sanford to Editor Robert J. Holly who, through the columns of The Sanford Herald, never fails to tell the outside world why "lucky" Sanford is already one of the best towns in Florida and that it is growing by leaps and bounds. Sanford On The Fourth Will Entertain Big Crowd

Many People Will Visit The Capital Of Seminole

Committees Are Hard At Work Preparing Fine Program For That Day

That Sanford will be a gathering place for the clans on the great and glorious Fourth is very evident to any one noting the preparations being made by the various committees and the many letters being received every day from various parts of the state, accepting the invitation to be present at the festivities.

Every city, town and hamlet in the state expects to have a celebration of some sort on the Fourth and this will detract in a measure from Sanford, but there will be enough left to make a large gathering and the Seminole county celebration will be one long to be remembered. The committees have decided to make it a real old fashioned Fourth and the visitors are requested to dispense with their best bid and tucker and come in every day garments, come prepared to be home folks and give yourself up to enjoyment only, with no thought for your personal appearance. It is a good old summer time and the weather is usually warm enough at this time to take the front out of the ground. However in Sanford there is plenty of shade and our many beautiful parks will afford the visitors ample protection from the sun. The exercises will be in one of the parks and the big fish fry will be in another park and the day will be given over to quiet amusements that will afford pleasure instead of being tiresome.

The parades and orations and public exercises and games will please both old and young alike and the ball game and minstrel show at night will wind up a full day.

Excursion rates will be given on all railroads and Sanford will extend the glad hand to the world on the day that we celebrate. Part of the program is given in another page of this paper and only contains a brief mention of the many good things that will be dished up for the delight of the visitors.

Come to Sanford on the Fourth and get acquainted with the folks that live in Seminole county.

prompt pay, fair pay, slow pay or no pay. It tells the merchant to whom to extend credit.

Every man's credit record is of vital importance to him, and this system places every one in his true light. The man who pays his bills promptly is given credit as he deserves, and those who don't pay at all are placed where they belong.

This system is in operation in practically every state and city of any importance east of Mississippi and in a few years the entire United States will be covered.

Organizations in Florida have been formed in the following cities to date and are producing great results in each one: Jacksonville, St. Augustine, Palatka, Sanford, Orlando, Kissimmee, Lakeland, Plant City, Bartow, Ft. Myers, Punta Gorda, Dade City, St. Petersburg, Ocala, Gainesville, Starke, Green Cove Springs, Hastings, Daytona, New Smyrna, DeLand, Titusville, Cocoa, Ft. Pierce, West Palm Beach, Ft. Lauderdale and Miami, and over 4,000 business men, so far, in Florida are cooperating in this movement.

If a man leaves Sanford owing money and moves to any of the above towns he will go on record before the merchants there and won't be able to obtain credit there until he pays the debts he left behind.

The Guide for this district is ready to go to press now, and Mr. Whelpley urges all the merchants who have not sent in their ratings to do so at once.

He will be in town for several days and will be glad to give his assistance in this matter to any merchant who has not already sent his ratings in.

The Guide for the Jacksonville district, containing over 50,000 ratings has already been delivered and the Sanford Guide will be delivered next.

Practically every business man of Sanford is a member and before Mr. Whelpley leaves town he expects to see those who are not members and urge them to cooperate with the other merchants in this movement.

A special meeting of the Business Men's Association will probably be held within the next few days and every member should be present if they possibly can, as there are some very important matters to be discussed.

Fight for Painter's Body

Baltimore, Md., June 26. Coroner C. D. Abbott and former Judge A. J. Stewart of Jacksonville, the latter personal representative of the family of the late E. O. Painter, the fertilizer manufacturer who lost his life in the St. Johns river recently at Jacksonville, arrived here yesterday to take part in the three-cornered legal contest for the possession of the viscera of the dead man.

The third party to the struggle is the United States Fidelity and Guaranty Company of Baltimore, which issued an accident policy for $20,000 to Painter. The contending factions will meet later in the circuit court here when the bonding company will demand that the organs be placed in the hands of a receiver on the ground that the chemist's analysis has not been completed. The company wants an independent examination made.

Judge Stewart will contend that the analysis has been finished, no trace of poison found and that the organs should be given to the family. Coroner Abbott will demand that the organs be turned over to him, on the theory that the body of the deceased, heart, kidneys, stomach and all, are his property until his official verdict is given.

The coroner brought a deputy sheriff with him armed with the authority of the state of Florida to seize the organs.

Painter carried life insurance for more than $1,100,000 at the time of his death.

Under the theory that he might have taken poison before falling into the water, Coroner Abbott sent his viscera to a Baltimore chemist for analysis. The chemist recently reported that while he found no trace of poison, his examination did not show that there was hardening of the arteries.

Credit Man in Sanford

A. M. Whelpley, representative of the Merchants' Mercantile Agency of Pittsburgh, Pa., publishers of the Credit Experience Guide and organizers of Business Men's Associations for the purpose of protecting merchants, professional men and other business men against poor pay customers, is in Sanford on business pertaining to the local organization, which was formed here a few months ago.

This business is of great benefit to every one, as it tells how each individual pays, not one or two accounts, but every account he carries, and whether he is

The Unspeakable Crime Attempted In Sanford

Black Brute Thwarted In Purpose By Plucky Girl

Bold Attempt In Heart Of City And Assailant Escapes In The Darkness

The unspeakable crime was attempted in this city on Tuesday night at a residence on Park avenue. The law prevents giving names in cases of this kind and The Herald does not wish to play up the case to the galleries, except to give warning to other communities and in case the brute is not apprehended here he can be found in some other locality by the meagre description. The lady is employed in a boarding house and had a separate room from the main building in which she was sleeping when the black brute stole upon her.

Being aroused by his grasping her by the throat the lady by superhuman efforts threw him off and screamed for help. The family residing next door were aroused and joined in screams for help and several men responded immediately. The assailant had fled but the lady gave a good description of him at least as good as was possible in the dark and said that he was of slender build, smooth face and soft hands and that she was sure he was a young negro. In her efforts to free herself she grabbed him in the mouth and had one of her fingers bitten severely and the black brute is probably wearing a scratched face and lacerated mouth, at least he bears marks of the lady's fingers. As soon as the men had rushed to the scene, assisted by the officers they joined in pursuit, but the negro ~~was~~ escaped and his steps were heard by several neighbors as he fled toward Sanford avenue. Several suspects have been apprehended and that the guilty one will be caught is a certainty. When he is caught it would be well for the officers to get him away at once, because the Sanford people while law abiding in other cases will not trifle with the perpetrator of this attempted assault.

The victim is badly bruised and bears the marks of his choking on her throat and is almost prostrated by the affair, but is being congratulated on her narrow escape and plucky fight against this unprincipled and cowardly brute of a negro and the citizens of Sanford should purchase and give some good bloodhounds, for while this is the first case of this kind in this section in many years there are always times when the hounds are needed, and when they are needed would more than pay for their selves in one case.

Book Lovers Club

Mrs. Milton Hoppin, very charmingly entertained the Book Lovers' Club Wednesday afternoon.

A very interesting "Object Lesson Contest" was arranged by the hostess, with which to test the quick perception and cleverness of her guests. A number of familiar objects were placed on a table which were answers to the questions asked in the contest, but which required the quick association of ideas which the question suggested. Several ladies answered all the questions correctly, but Mrs. Geo. Fox Jr. gave her answers first which won for her the lovely prize, a hand painted plate.

After the pleasant contest several delightful vocal selections were charmingly sung by Miss Gaines, accompanied by Mrs. Ernest Tolar.

The members of the club and visitors present were Mrs. Henry McLain, Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, Mrs. Fred Williams, Mrs. Ernest Tolar, Mrs. J. C. Bennett, Mrs. Geo. Fox, Jr., Mrs. J. C. Brady, visitors—Mrs. B. T. Gaines, Mrs. McKinnon, Miss Mary Gaines.

Johnson-Townsend

Wednesday evening after prayer meeting at the Methodist parsonage of this city Miss Bertie Townsend of this city and Mr. Robt. Z. Johnson of Port Tampa, Fla., were married by Rev. H. T. Gaines, in the presence of a few friends of the contracting parties.

The bride is a sister to Mrs. O. B. Singletary of this city and has made her home here for the greater part of her life and has a host of friends who wish her well on life's journey. The groom is an employee of the Atlantic Coast Line, with headquarters in Port Tampa. The young couple will make their future home in Port Tampa after a short honeymoon trip.

French Avenue Will Be Finished To Ninth Street

Aldermen Are Heartily In Favor Of Putting Down Brick On All Cross Streets

The present city council is determined to give Sanford a brick paved city and are lending all their efforts in this direction. But few people realize what the members of the city council have contended with during their two years' term of office and how many sidewalks and streets they have succeeded in making with a depleted treasury.

The latest bit of paving after Ninth street is French avenue, Fifth street and Seventh street, and they now propose to pave the intervening stretch of road between Seventh and Ninth streets on French, making an unbroken line of paved street on French from First to Ninth. When this is completed and Park avenue is paved from Tenth street to Hughes avenue by the special road district and Union avenue and Celery avenue is paved, Sanford will be the best paved city in the state and for an interior city will have more miles than any other city in Florida.

The present board of aldermen have been working early and late to better the conditions and the fact that so much paving has been done shows that they realize what it means to the city.

Entre Nous Bridge Club

Miss Mabel Bowler was hostess of the Entre Nous Bridge Club Wednesday afternoon. Two tables of bridge were played, one of which was a guest table. The club prize, a handsome deck of cards was won by Mrs. C. M. Vance. Mrs. L. A. Bode won the guest prize, also a handsome deck of cards.

After the conclusion of the games of cards delicious ice cream and cake were served by the hostess.

The guests were Mrs. C. M. Vance, Mrs. W. R. Anno, Mrs. W. D. Holden, Mrs. A. P. Connelly, Mrs. Gus Barnes, Mrs. B. W. Harlow, Mrs. L. A. Noll.

New Grocery Firm

A deal was closed recently where R. G. Stockton of this city transfers his grocery stock to Mr. S. A. Irwin and Mr. Frank Giles, both well known business men of this city.

The new firm under the name of Irwin & Giles have leased the store room in the DeForest building, formerly occupied by W. L. Morgan and which has recently been painted and put in first class shape and expect to inaugurate the best grocery store in the city.

Mr. S. A. Irwin has been with the firm of D. A. Caldwell & Sons for several years and is a salesman of exceptional ability and is also experienced in the grocery business. Mr. Frank Giles is a former employee of Mr. Stockton and has been with L. P. McCuller for the past year as salesman. Both these gentlemen have a host of friends in and about the city and their success in their new venture is assured.

Mr. Stockton has not as yet made any definite plans for the future but expects to stay in Sanford.

Rest Room for July Fourth

The Welfare Dept. of the Woman's Club will establish a "Rest Room" for the comfort of the many women and children who will visit our town July 4th. Thus they will have a part in making the celebration a pleasure to all. Either McCuller's old store or the store in the block opposite will be made an attractive resting place with its couches and comfortable chairs. The babies will not be forgotten either, for cribs will be provided and a means to heat their milk. Everything that can be done for the comfort of our visitors will be done and a cordial welcome awaits them from the committee. The members of the department are enthusiastic over this opportunity of giving tangible proof of their interest and usefulness to the community. The rest room will be entirely free and a most cordial welcome is extended to all the ladies and children who visit Sanford on this occasion to make use of it.

Notice

The Social Service meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church will be held at the residence of Mrs. M. A. Elliot on Sanford Heights next Tuesday afternoon, July 1st, at 3:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present and visitors will be heartily welcomed.

The Social Service meeting of the Woman's Missionary Society of the Methodist church will be held at the residence of Mrs. M. A. Elliot on Sanford Heights next Tuesday afternoon, July 1st, at 3:30 o'clock. All members are urged to be present and visitors will be heartily welcomed.

Refreshment fruit punch was served during the evening and later ice cream and cake were enjoyed.

The evening was delightfully spent, with possibly one exception; in some way, the cards may have been mixed, as Rev. Arthur S. Peck, unfortunately, did not succeed in finding the lady, on whose card was written the other half of the name of the fruit that was written on his card. Should the young ladies of the Guild invite Mr. Peck to join them in hunting "Rasp-berries" on another occasion they will take great pleasure in directing him just where to look for his "Berry".

The hostesses and guests on the very pleasant occasion were Misses Charlotte Hand, Mabel Harol, Linda Connelly, Jessie Stinson, Essie Purdon, Margaret Wright, Louise Sheppard, Joie Stinson, Gertrude Brown, Mabel Cowan, Genie Wicker, Zoe Munson, Ada Dickson, Mildred Dickson, Sadie Williams, Susie Brown, Helen Rowland, Annie McDermaid, Daisy Helts, Gladys Morris, Mr. and Mrs. Paul Biggers, Mrs. Houser, Mrs. Perry Fields, Miss Bennett, Mr. and Mrs. Mannes, Messrs. Eugene Roumillat, Archie Betts, Edward Lane, Raymond Key, Karl Roumillat, Roy Hittendon, Frank Campbell, Osborne Herndon, Geo. Brown, Pope Wicker, Henry Purdon, Randall Chase, Billie Hill, Wallace Crosby, Staton F. Field, Ralph Wight, Harry Phillips, Rev. A. S. Peck, Dr. and Mrs. Robson.

The sidewalk from Tenth street to Hughes avenue on Park avenue has been condemned and will be paved this fall as soon as some other paving in the city has been accomplished. Most of the property owners along the avenue have signified their intention of putting down sidewalks without waiting to be forced and this sidewalk paved street street lights and other improvements will place Sanford Heights in the first class class.

Our Own Valuation

Again our people are reminded that they can very materially assist the committees who have all the preparations in hand for the Fourth of July celebration in making the event a great and satisfactory one, as well as pleasing success, by tastefully decorating their homes and putting their yards and premises in a clean, neat and attractive condition.

We want to show the citizens of Seminole county, who probably will see the county seat of the new county for the first time, when they come to help Sanford rejoice over the recent great victory and also spy out the land—in other words they will come to take stock of one of Seminole's greatest assets—her capital. We want to captivate their interest, pleasure and pride in the general appearance of the homes, business places, public buildings and the very important appearance of city, good people, property and happiness of the people and the wide awake, up to date, progressive spirit and appearance of "Lucky Sanford".

We want every one of our guests from the new county especially to return to their homes with the feeling that they and the new county are lucky indeed in having Sanford and all that she stands for, the county seat of Seminole county.

We want to encourage them to feel the same interest and pride in Sanford that her citizens feel, and that desire can only be accomplished by all the people working for the elimination of soil, and the upbuilding of the town we all love so much.

Let's go to work with heart and will and make Sanford shine and sparkle in her cleanliness, neatness and progressiveness like a new dollar. Let us show to our visitors that we are all so glad to have them with us that we have exerted every effort to have our homes and city in such perfect order and condition as to accentuate our welcome and pleasure in their presence on the Fourth. If the spirit of determination to do our level best for the betterment and uplift of our community, seasoned with unconquerable pride animate the hearts, minds and hands of every citizen, all the waste places around and in Sanford will soon blossom "like a rose," and we will all feel that we are "lucky" that we live in Sanford.

As we value and respect ourselves and our belongings, so will others value us.

Missionary Meeting

The Woman's Missionary Society of the Baptist church had a pleasant and profitable meeting last Monday evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Biggers on Third street. A good attendance of the ladies were present. Mrs. W. C. DeCoursey was leader of the devotional exercises. In the absence of Miss Minnie Stewart, the president conducted the evening's topic, that of medical missions. Several current missionary events were given by members, a phase of the monthly exercises which is growing in interest. Refreshments were served by the hostess and a social half hour enjoyed by all.

Bring the family for an All-day picnic at Woodland Park.
