Change The Federal Law

A few years ago some fellow with more sense than a lot of people gave him credit of having, remarked that the American people liked to be fooled...

During the year 1925 American people spent approximately two hundred and fifty million dollars for fake medicines or "pink pills," as Dr. Arthur J. Crump...

According to Dr. Crump the country is flooded with useless and often-times dangerous medicines guaranteed to cure, patch and fix every ill...

The fake medicine dealers are getting rich and the American people are responsible, Dr. Crump charges. The noted physician cites the example of a Chicago firm...

In connection with the medical association's campaign against the "pink pill" dealers, Dr. Crump points out that many people think the federal Pure Food and Drugs act is an all-sufficient safeguard against unscrupulous medicine peddlers...

But the law is helpless, the doctor says, to prevent a medicine dealer from advertising false claims in a newspaper or magazine. The law cannot compel him to disclose poison in his preparation...

Working under these handicaps the American Medical Association is seeking support in its campaign against fake medicine dealers by publicity of their methods. Obviously the "hatchet men" have been prospering because they have been supplying the people with what they want...

Dear Old Wall St. Europe, Asia, Africa Temporal Power Brennan's Balloon By ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE GOVERNMENT of Italy officially takes all temporal power from the Pope, outside the walls of the Vatican. But there is another power of which the Pope cannot be deprived by temporal government...

POLITICIANS are interested in Mr. George E. Brennan, Democratic boss of Chicago, who will run for the United States senate January 11, making an exception, will wander 300 miles from Japan adopted western ways as swiftly as wait and learn...

WALL STREET flurries don't hurt big people or big institutions. In the midst of the financial hysteria New York's National City Bank bought the People's Trust Company of Chicago more than sixteen millions.

As for little lambs, sweep overboard by the bear-raid, they will go to work now, and perhaps that will be better for them. Stock trading is in a very uninteresting, and generally to my mind, nothing to read wealth.

TOM SIMS SAYS

Some people are so unlucky enough to think there is such a thing as being unlucky. We always wish we were in some friend's place without knowing that then we would be out of place.

Fine thing about winter is a skinny girl doesn't have to explain why she can't go swimming because her head aches.

THE UNGRAMMATICAL

The most forceful part of a language consist in those words and phrases used by the uneducated. Correct speaking means uniform speaking. All cultured people talk alike. At least, they are called cultured in degree as they conform to a single standard of usage and pronunciation.

PROFITS KILL MERGER

LOUISVILLE COURIER-JOURNAL

The Interstate Commerce Commission has knocked out the Nickel Plate merger. The transportation plans were approved as in the public interest, but the financial structure in the plans, consideration, terms and conditions of acquisition were found not to be just and reasonable.

The commission's action is undoubtedly on the grounds of the huge profit which the Van Sweringen and their bankers sought to make in the deal. During the testimony before the commission, the minority interests in the Chesapeake & Ohio and the Ohio Valley interests sought to block the sale of the properties...

Financial arrangements for the consolidation were completed long ago and awaited the commission's sanction. Consideration of the terms was what so long deferred the commission's decision. There is a decided trend now in the commission toward curbing the profits of bankers at the expense of the railroad stockholders.

A MONROE CLAIM

INDIANAPOLIS NEWS

The hundred years ago the House of Representatives was engaged in debating a claim of President Monroe for reimbursement of money spent by him in public business.

What is more interesting is the fact that a President of the United States for Monroe's term of office did not expire until March 4, 1825, asked a year before, in a special message, for an investigation of his accounts with the Government.

What he sought was the appointment of a committee to inquire into the subject, offering to give the fullest information. Mr. Monroe reminded Congress that, during his long service, and in many capacities, he had had a control over the public moneys to a vast amount.

THE UNGRAMMATICAL

LEESBURG COMMERCIAL

A language grows from the bottom. All the best words that are rich and vital, strong with the very genuine of the idiom, poetical and ingenious, arise from what is called slang. These words, like everything now, are at first called naughty and highly improper; afterwards they become highly respectable.

For that matter, every language now extant was once a dialect and born in ignorance. French, Italian and Spanish are corrupted Latin. English is the dialect of slaves and robbers, now grown to include a huge jodge of every tongue.

On the contrary, the words of a Harvard professor and an instructor in the Nebraska State University might be duplicated of the same phonographic record. Education is a great advantage; to say otherwise would be heresy; but it is, except in rare cases, fatal to individuality.

The WOMAN'S DAY

By Allene Sumner

Upon My Word!
PETER PIPER stole a peck of pickled peppers—which is nothing to the mess in which baby Peter Salm, son of the erstwhile Mill-cent Rogers, daughter of the oil magnate, and the Count Ludwig Salm von Hoegstraten, finds himself! Detectives—standing guard while his dad jiggles him on his knee, his mother crying while waiting for him to come back from the daddy-jiggling, his countess-grandmother bawling, too!

It's trite to remark that all the gold in the world cannot buy a child its birthright to happiness, but trite remarks are oft true!

The installment plan will get you if you don't watch out! The Federal Reserve Board of Washington says that U. S. homes are mortgaged to the tune of $8,000,000,000, all because Mr. and Mrs. Smith must have overstuffed furniture, a car, a radio, a piano and music lessons for the offspring, and an electric washer for the laundress.

The Precious Child
MORE beautiful toys for children, even if their clothes are less luxurious and they are stunted on nurseries, is the slogan of a minimum curator in charge of an exhibition of ideal toys displayed by the Art Alliance of America! Childhood ideals of beauty persist for life, explain the artists. A grotesque doll may pervert the aesthetic sense whereas a Noah's Ark of chaste animal design may foster the love of beauty! Not a bad idea at all, I opine!

Your Club
HELP for an evening's discussion on "The Defective and Delinquent Classes" may be found in an outline program issued by the Missouri League of Women Voters, committee of Dependents, Defectives, and Delinquents.

About Books
YOUNG Martha Ostenso, author of the prize-winning novel, "Wild Geese," which abounds with English at its best, could not speak a word of English until five or six. She speaks of "lovely words" then found by her, like "pail" and "salon," and "high heels like "scratches" and "caks." Is your ear that sensitive to word differences?

"Wonder Women"
"SACRED COWS" in the flesh are the hobby of Miss Arnel Keeran of Texas, who raises purebred Brahms cattle on her ranch, her sacred cows sell for $300 to $500. Now the grizzled old ranchman raising scrub cows who laughed at her are trying to raise Brahms, too. Hindus will not eat the Brahms cow flesh. But American butchers cry for Miss Keeran's cows.

Another "society girl" gets her "big chance" on the stage. Elinor Patterson, 19-year-old daughter of Joseph Medill Patterson, publisher, plays the part of the nun in the famous "Miracle" Rosamund Pinchot, daughter of Amos Pinchot, it will be remembered got her "big chance" when she play first appeared! And they talk about "poor little rich girls!"

Chortle!
TIRED and achin' feet can be cured by makin' 'em bring in the wash and acein' what the young uns are up to now, says my Aunt Lizzie!

Famous husband losers of history include No. 1, the wife who bought his ties and shirts; No. 2, the wife who wouldn't let her husband go to the house for the boys; No. 3, the wife who gave him spending money; and No. 4, the wife who phoned him at the office all day long.

World O' Fashion
COATS one inch above skirt. Very mannish, tailored, pocketed, the labeled coats. Come-back of the lapel coat, strictly tailored coat and tight skirts with inverted front pleat.

Just A Word!
Even queens have tears! Queen Marie of Rumania, famed as the world's most beautiful queen, says she has wept so much over the erring ways of Prince Carol who renounced a throne for a morganatic live, that "no tears are left!"

Glass houses to cost 50 per cent less than frame houses are the latest promise of a patent filer who explains that his glass houses will also be more durable and sanitary. Frisney is obtained by painting the glass opaque. How the boys will love glass house neighborhoods in ball time!

Lake Mary News

A. J. Leger spent the week end in Tampa.

Mr. Delagall, representing the United Grocery Co. of Jacksonville made his usual call here Monday.

Benj. I. Warr of Massachusetts, is building a new home on Crystal Lake Avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Gorno Varnes and Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Brown, of Seville, visited friends and relatives here Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Morrill of Sunderland, Mass., are guests of Mr. and Mrs. John E. Ellis.

C. Bell Brown, of Hampton Falls, N. H., arrived in Lake Mary this week to spend some time at his home on Crystal Lake Ave.

A western millionaire's wife "throws" a "finger party," no evening gowns, no napkins, no silver on the table. Guests are reminded that "fingers were made before forks!"

Must be one of these "nouveau rich" feeling homesick for the old days and the old ways!

Woman Afar
Taxation of all men in Russia for an alimony fund to be used for all abandoned women and children is the bane of Madame Kolantay, Russian woman ambassador to Norway. The madame argues that support from such a general form would be less degrading to a woman's pride than direct support from a divorced husband.

New Homes For Old
How often do you really look at your home?
You might find some surprises!
One gets accustomed to one's home as one does to one's face. But folks who "drop in" see the stained wall paper, the chipped woodwork, the rust stain, and rusty evils.

Beauty experts advise a woman to really look at herself at least once a week, and take time off to remain hair, nails and skin.

The monthly look at one's house wouldn't be a bad idea! Then get busy!

Water colors will cover up that white scratch on the paint. You have a scrap of wall paper in the closet to match that spot on the paper. Put it on. Its newness will soon tone down the white.

Really shock yourself and family, and change the position of the furniture and pictures entirely. It'll freshen up your spirits!

What It's All About!
Life is like an inn where travelers stay.
Some only breakfast and away; Others to dinner stop, and are full fed; The oldest only sup and go to bed.

Mr. Ruprecht of the firm of Ruprecht & Co., Orlando, visited H. D. Durant Saturday. Mr. Ruprecht represents the Damings Marvel water system, and has installed several in this neighborhood.

Work on the new curtain drop for the stage of the auditorium in the school house is nearing completion. Mr. Clarence Priests is being congratulated on his success in raising funds for this attractive curtain, and also upon the fact that the advertising on same is subscribed for by Lake Mary business men only.

Members of the Presbyterian Church will regret to hear of the death of the wife of Rev. Albertson at Deland, who passed away last week after a lingering illness. Mrs. Albertson had endeared herself to many here on her work as Sunday School organizer, who tender their sympathy to him in his loss.

Rev. Erwin of Winter Park delivered a fine sermon at the Methodist church last Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

The attendance at the Presbyterian Sunday School last Sunday was forty-seven. A good number participated in the communion service at 7 p. m. Rev. Thompson, who is expected to succeed Rev. Bowering, is scheduled to preach next Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. The usual preaching service will also take place in the evening.

The March supper of the Ladies Aid of the Presbyterian church has been announced for Friday, March 12 at 6 o'clock. The committee in charge of this affair is Mrs. W. J. CONTINUOUS PERFORMANCE FROM 1 P. M. TO 11 P. M.

The sleeveless frock for daytime comes back to favor despite opposition. The sleeveless day frock undoubtedly is one of those fashions which is not to wear out. Now, of course, some of the best-dressed women are notable sports-clothes and some of their smartest costumes are those that they wear for the tennis court or golf course. And a number of details of the present-day mode may be traced directly to sports clothes—details that are as important now in non-sports clothes as those planned for tennis and golf.

Women tennis players came to the conclusion a few years ago that the best sort of sleeve for the court was no sleeve at all. Men tennis players might have agreed to this, but they lacked courage to appear on the courts with shirts from which the sleeves had been left out. The only way not to have your sleeve interfere with your game is not to wear one. The sleeveless frock for daytime is persisting despite the fact that six months ago there was a definite effort to put it out of favor. At some of the winter resorts this season the comment has been made that sleeveless frocks for daytime wear are not to be seen. The long sleeve has many friends.

In the meantime the younger women, they who wear what they want without very much regard for what has been preconceived in the minds of the dressmakers, have been going back to the sleeveless frock for daytime wear. And as usual they have considerable influence. Anyway, the sleeveless daytime frock is one of the things that will surely be in good repute for spring and summer. Some of the sleeveless frocks for spring and summer, made in crepe de chine or other soft fabrics, have collars of the Peter Pan variety with a little tie under the chin.

The sketch shows a frock worn by a smartly dressed woman at Palm Beach. It is of pistache green crepe de chine with pleated skirt trimmed with bands of white.

News From Various U. S. Stations

CHICAGO, Mar. 6.—Leaders of the Chicago Federation of Labor are making plans to secure a broadcasting station to represent their organization in this city.

As the government is not assigning any new wavelengths, the labor organization will probably buy one of the many broadcasting stations located here.

City, Mo., with a population of about 1300 sent more than 1500 telegrams. Yorktown, Ia., with a population of about 200, sent 600 telegrams.

Telegraph offices all over the country were swamped. In fact, the local office at Shenandoah did not have facilities to take care of the telegrams and operators, some located nearly 100 miles away, drove in with their telegrams rather than wait for a wire and spend a day and a half transmitting them by wire.

It has been estimated that there are 5,000,000 radio sets and 25,000,000 listeners in this country. Ac-ording to these figures, station KPNE, without rebroadcasting from any other station, received a telegraphic response from one per cent of the radio listening public.

This is made more unusual by the fact that the majority of radio sets now in use are to be found in the eastern and far western states, rather than in the Iowa district.

Henry Field, who operates the Iowa station, was announcer for this program. Field is one of the most popular announcers in the radio world and deserves considerable credit for being able to spread enough enthusiasm among listeners to have them deluge the station with telegrams.

Another handicap which KPNE had to overcome was Shenandoah, the town of its location, is so small that only one telegraph company has an office there.

Not only did the programs from this station get a stupendous response, but the number of musicians who appeared at the studio to take part in the prize contests showed that interest in that part of the program was not neglected. Station KPNE entertained 10,000 visitors during the record-making broadcast. The station received 22 birthday cakes and hundreds of other presents.

CAUSE OF FADING

If a listener is bothered by having the station programs fade, the cause may be with the aerial of the receiving set. If the antenna becomes loose and swings in the wind, it will often cause weak signals.

STATION GETS RESPONSE

at right angles. Where Theories Clash. Yet that is directly opposed to another theory also by an accomplished observer, that best reception results when the line connecting broadcast and receiver crosses the intervening isobars at right angles.

This is granted somewhat by the admission of Jensen that good reception may result, in such cases, provided there's no storm center between broadcaster and receiver. And Jidout, in his observations, corroborates this point.

Despite the difference of opinion among weather prophets, however, every fan can be his own radio forecaster. All he needs is the daily weather map issued beforehand by the U. S. Weather Bureau, and which can be obtained at low cost from the nearest weather station.

With this map, for the evening before you, you may fortify conditions of reception from various stations by following these rules:

1. If there's a low pressure, or storm, area between broadcaster and you, don't tune in—there'll be considerable static and fading.

2. If the line between broadcaster and you runs about parallel to the isobars—those wavy lines of equal pressure—tune in. Or if the line crosses the isobars at right angles, when there's no intervening low pressure, or storm, area, tune in. There'll be little or no static and fading.

3. If you're right in the center of a low or a high pressure area, you'll get good local reception, but beware of distant stations. They'll come with accompanying static and fading.

4. Don't mind local rain or snow, if that's forecast for your district. For bad weather doesn't affect radio reception locally, except that it may point to unfavorable pressure distribution, and therefore poor DX reception.

Static Will Lag Behind. Don't expect good reception immediately after a storm or low pressure area has passed over your locality, for static has a tendency to lag behind a bit.

Summer reception, of course, is poorer than winter, although temperature, like local bad weather, doesn't influence reception except that it may point to unfavorable pressure distribution.

and therefore poor DX reception. Other factors, such as the earth's magnetic field, ionization of the atmosphere by the sun's rays, and so on, also play their part in affecting radio reception. But the few weather rules given here will help the fan make a fairly accurate forecast of radio receiving conditions.

Finances For Season Are Discussed At Meeting Of Baseball Club Last Night

A meeting of the Sanford Baseball Club was held last night at the courthouse and a report was submitted by President Vance Douglas on the results of the league meeting at Tampa last Wednesday, which he attended.

Mr. Douglas told the officers and directors of the local club of the spirit shown at the meeting and of the plans being made by other cities who are to be represented in the league this season. He stated that many of the cities had already raised many thousands of dollars with which to start the season and that the south was being looked upon as the class allowed in the league.

John Russell, member of the board of directors and one of the committee of three selected to secure a manager for the team this year, stated that the committee had been in communication with several men who are considered as likely candidates for the position but that no definite action had yet been taken.

Mr. Russell suggested to the club that steps be taken immediately for the proper financing of the club this season and after a short discussion of ways and means by which funds might be secured the meeting adjourned until called together again by the president.

It is believed that steps are to be taken for the immediate incorporation of the company and that a campaign will be put on here similar to the one being waged in Orlando. The plan calls for the sale of stock for the support of this club instead of the donation idea.

Heretofore, the club has always relied on donations from baseball fans for support during the season. Last year a small indebtedness was left at the end of the year.

With the increase in population and the interest aroused over the eight club circuit this year, it is believed that a good attendance will be recorded throughout the summer. The franchise of the local club is expected to be worth many thousands of dollars within the next two years.

Ping Pong And Horseshoe Pitching Become Popular With Palm Beach Tourists

BALM BEACH, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Palm Beach wants no new fangled sports. Polo is not popular here, neither is equestrianism. Instead both the young set and the old set are espousing ancient pastimes. The latter is pitching horseshoes and the younger generation is playing ping pong.

The table has been moved to a grassy spot adjoining the Royal Poinciana tennis courts and the enthusiasts have already started pitching and ponging.

They are deadly serious about it too. An entry fee was charged and loving cups will be awarded to the winners. The tournament already has assumed an international aspect with Alexander Pavlovsky representing Russia, Eric H. Broham representing Finland, and David Michare representing England.

Moreover, the winner of the tournament will challenge Manuel Alonzo, the Spanish tennis player to a fight to the finish. Alonzo is said to be one of the best ping pong artists in the world, defeating all comers with either his right or left hand. He arrived in Palm Beach today to play in the tennis tournament for the championship of Florida.

Some of the interested spectators of the preliminary ping pong matches were Miss Elizabeth Ryan and Miss Mary K. Browne, winner and runner up, respectively, in the woman's tennis tournament. They were invited to enter, but laughingly said they were afraid it would hurt their game of tennis.

Some of the men in the colony have been razzing the ping pongists. They say the young society should play baseball with the soft joddy ball. "Now they are playing ping pong. When will the knitting classes start?" they ask.

Welling To Meet Eddie Speaks Next Tuesday Night In The Armory Ring

The feature bout on next Tuesday night's fight card will bring a return of Joe Welling to the Armory for a 10-round go with Eddie Speaks, the latter being one of the best fighters in the light weight class available for a match with Welling, according to Henry Godale, local promoter.

Welling has been training ever since his arrival in Florida and is reported to be in much better shape than when he beat Young Wallace two weeks ago. At that time it was evident that Joe was badly out of condition.

John Maurer, who is handling Welling's affairs in this state announced yesterday that in all probability Welling would be signed to meet Rocky Kansas, legitimate holder of the championship, within the next few weeks. The bout is expected to be held in Tampa.

Godale announced yesterday that the ring had been changed at the local Armory to make it center with the building proper, and now the seats are to entirely encircle the ring. He stated that the first few rows would be reserved at $2 per seat and that the balance of the house would sell for $1.

Tanner Versus Johnson

In the semi-final of the Tuesday card, K. O. Tanner is to meet Carl Johnson in what should prove an interesting match. These boys fought here last week in the preliminaries and fought from bell to bell.

Godale has promised an all round good card, including the usual battle royal. He is trying to round up some new faces for the latter.

It is not known yet whether Al Irving will appear next week. The fans would like to see the Orlando boy every week, especially since he would show he made last Tuesday against Kid King.

Billiard Artist At Local Parlor

George Spears, cue artist at the straight rail game, gave an exhibition at the Seminole Billiard Parlors last night when he was matched with Harry Webb, whom he trimmed to the count of 200 to 15. Spears had a high run of 100.

Following the game he gave an exhibition of fancy cuts and tried also for new high run honors.

Spears is also on the program tonight for a match and for other interesting exhibitions.

OSLO INCREASES POWER

Owners of Oslo, Norway, broadcasting station are planning to increase the station's power to 20 or 25 k. w. Oslo is probably the only station which has its own name for call letters. Station OSLO operates on 168 meters wavelengths.

AVERAGE RADIO SET

Reports are to the effect that the Pirates appear to retain the batting power that put them on top of the heap last year.

Mississippi Team Is To Meet Citadel For S. I. A. A. Title

GREENVILLE, S. C., Mar. 6.—(AP)—With three tournament victories to its credit, the fast Mississippi College five faces Citadel tonight for the basketball championship of the S. I. A. A. This game will bring to a close the third annual basketball tournament of the association, being held at Textile Hall here.

The Lads From Mississippi

were the right to meet Citadel, when they downed the 1925 champions, Mercer University of Georgia 39 to 22 last night. Previously they put the Presbyterian College of South Carolina out of the running, 44 to 19, and eliminated Kentucky Wesleyan to the tune of 36-26.

The South Carolinians found Furman a tough nut to crack, the score standing 16 all at the end of the half. The superior shooting of Douglas proved too much in the last half and Citadel emerged the victor 36 to 26. A 37 to 19 victory over Newberry and a bye had carried Citadel to the semi-finals.

EDDIE PLANK DEAD

EDDIE PLANK, famous south-paw of other days, is dead as a result of a paralytic stroke.

Plank, by his great work for the Philadelphia Athletics, gained a place in baseball's hall of fame as one of the greatest left-handers of all-time.

He was one of the first college ball players to make good without having any previous professional experience. He came to the Athletics direct from Gettysburg College.

Gonnie Mack developed Babe Waddell as well as Eddie Plank. Gonnie once told me that he regarded Plank the more valuable of the two great pitchers.

Eddie Plank was one of the smartest pitchers I ever called balls and strikes for.

GREAT SOUTHWAY

PLANK, always a trail looking chap and a bundle of nerves, was just the type to finally succumb to a stroke of paralysis.

No pitcher in the history of the game ever kept the batter or umpire as much on edge as Plank. He always insisted that he had his stock in trade as far as the batter was concerned.

Getting his signals from the catcher, just off the rubber, he would invariably shake his head three or four times, although often the first signal given was the style ball pitched.

The moment he stepped on the rubber he went through a series of "goat-getting" antics. The soft conditions never suited him. He would scratch around with his spikes like a wet hen. Then he would stoop over and smooth the ground he had torn up with his spikes.

After this he would hitch his trousers several times, expecting once or twice and then start to pitch.

It is easy to imagine the mental state of the batsman as Plank went through these mannerisms.

NEW YORK'S STREET RAN RED

well-to-do person might at small expense save himself from the discomforts and the dangers of a soldier's lot. There was a complaint that this rule worked against the poor. That in New York City, efforts were made to put in effect the operation of the law, there broke out a riot which for ferocity, for loss of life and for duration, is unparalleled in the history of this country. It occurred in the midst of the Civil War, when great battles were being fought, and, by subsequent contrast with the background of fraternal tions in the nation. Negroes were lynched indiscriminately, were hanged, kicked to death. The police fought gallantly to restore order but being overwhelmed by numbers, became powerless. Not until several regiments of troops had been rushed to the city to cope with the rioters and not until fully sions of the mob to fresh deeds of violence. Stores were closed; the business portions of the city deserted; the large works and factories emptied of men who had been sent home by their employers or were swept into the ranks of the marauding bands. The city cars, omnibuses, hacks, were unable to run, and remained under shelter. Every telegraph wire was cut, the posts torn up, the officers driven from their offices. The mayor, seeing that civil power was helpless to stem this tide, desired to call the military to his aid and place the city under martial law, but was opposed by the governor—a governor who but a few days before had pronounced the war a failure; and not only predicted, but encouraged this mob rule which was causing horror and crying beneath its heavy and ensanguined feet.

"This man, through almost two days of these awful scenes, remained at a quiet seaside retreat but a few miles from the city. Coming to it on the afternoon of the second day, instead of ordering cannon planted in the streets, giving these creatures opportunity to retire to their homes and, in event of refusal, blowing them there by powder and ball—he first went to the point where was collected the chiefest mob and proceeded to address them. Before him stood incendiaries, thieves, and murderers, who even then were seeking dwelling-houses and butchering powerlessness and inoffensive beings. These wretches he apostrophized as "My friends!" repeating the title again and again in the course of his harangue, assuring them that he was there as a proof of his friendship—which he had demonstrated by sending his adjutant-general to Washington to have the draft stopped; begging them to "wait for his return"; to separate now as good citizens, with the promise that they "might assemble again whenever they wished to do so," "meanwhile he would take care of their rights." This model speech was indignantly interrupted by tremendous cheering and frantic demonstrations of delight—one great fellow almost crushing the Governor in his enthusiastic embrace.

"His allies in newspaper offices attempted to throw the blame upon the loyal press and portion of the community. This was but a repetition of the cry raised by traitors in arms that the government, struggling for life in their deadly hold, was responsible for the war; if thou wouldst but consent to be murdered peaceably, there could be no strife."

Hundreds of them fell victims to the prejudices fostered by public opinion, incorporated in our statute-books, sanctioned by our laws, which here and there found legitimate outlets for their passions. (Copyright 1926 By The Robb Syndicate, Inc.) NEX WEER—How Nero Destroyed His Mother.

continued to exist and in some quarters to flourish, it is possible to realize the underlying causes for the great Draft Riot in 1863. There was this background of clandestine friendship for the Secession movement; on top of this came a tremendous wave of resentment against the provisions of the draft act which congress at Washington had enacted. The trouble with the draft act was that it exempted from its operations any man chosen for military service who would pay $300 for a substitute in his stead. Accordingly, a strife of which it was a part, became dwarfed in the popular imagination. That is why among the present-day generation there are so few, even among the well-informed, to whom the Draft Riot is anything more than a name and a legend. The uprising started on the 12th of July. It continued for nearly five days. More than fifty buildings were burned; hundreds of others were damaged and looted. The fury of the mob especially was directed against negroes, since the black race was a main bone of contention between the warring sec-

500 of the latter had been killed by the guns of the soldiers did the bloody carnival end. That distinguished writer and orator, Anna Elizabeth Dickinson, furnished us with a vivid picture of the Draft Riot. She was not so much concerned with the deaths or presenting individual narratives as with painting up on a larger canvas a panorama of the bloody event as a whole. From her story it is possible to get a vision of the horror as seen through the eyes of a brilliant and devoted woman Republican.

with demonic shrieks and yells while they waited for their prey to escape from some door or window, the merciless fire to their merciless hands. One of these, who was on the other side of the street, courageously stepped forward and telling them that they had utterly demolished all they came to seek, informed them that helpless women and little children were prowl down the street, and sought them to extinguish the flames and leave the ruined premises; to disperse, or at least to seek some other scene.

helpless and outraged race—acted upon these madmen; as water acts upon a rabid dog. Fleets of Rafts at Orphan's Expense "Late in the afternoon a crowd which could have numbered not less than ten thousand, the majority of whom were ragged, frowny, drunken women, gathered about the Orphan Asylum for Colored Children—a large and beautiful building and one of the most admirable and noble charities of the city. When it became evident from the menacing cries and groans of the multitude that danger, if not destruction, was meditated to the harmless and inoffensive inmates, a flag of truce appeared, and an appeal was made in their behalf by the principle, to every sentiment of humanity which these beings might possess—a vain appeal! Whatever human feeling had ever, if ever, filled these souls, was utterly drowned and washed away in the tide of rapine and blood in which they had been sleeping themselves. The few officers who stood guard over the doors and manfully faced these "demoniac" legions, were beaten down and flung to one side, helpless and stunned, whilst the vast crowd rushed in. All the articles upon which they could seize, beds, bedding, carpets, furniture, the very garments of the fleeing inmates, some of them torn from their persons as they sped and hurried off by the women and children who stood ready to receive the goods which their husbands, sons and fathers had won by their care. The little ones, many of them, assailed and beaten; all—orphans and care-takers—were poised to every indignity and every danger, driven on to the street—the building was fired.

The house was fired in a thousand places, and in less than two hours the walls crashed in—a mass of smoking, blackened ruins; whilst the children, wandering through the streets, a prey to everything save the superior indignity of man to agonize and torture his victims. "Frightful as the day had been, the night was yet more hideous; since to the horrors which were seen was added the greater horror of darkness, which might be committed in the darkness; or if they were seen, it was by the lurid glare of burning buildings, the red flames of which, flung upon the stained and brutal faces, the torn and tattered garments, of men and women who danced and howled around the scene of ruin they had caused—made the whole aspect of affairs seem more like a gathering of fiends rejoicing in Pandemonium than aught with which creatures of flesh and blood had to do.

Within NINETY DAYS — !

TWENTY-FOUR days are often required to make the journey from New York to Buenos Aires, Argentina. Five days are required to go from Tampa to Los Angeles—and about the same from New York to Liverpool. Even modern science and invention have not made it possible to accomplish these distances in faster time except by aeroplane. Northern "anti-Florida" propagandists would do well to remember that during the short period of ninety days, or just the length of time it would require to make only TWO round trips to Buenos Aires, there has been accomplished the gigantic task of making a way to, and the laying of the foundation for, a suburb-city complete in Tampa.

NINETY days ago Tampa Beach was an area across Hillsboro Bay, beautiful but covered with tropic growth. Since then the following has been accomplished: Seven hundred and fifty thousand dollars County Causeway is open to traffic; temporary bridge, costing Tampa Beach fifty thousand dollars, completed and accepted; two million cubic yards of earth pumped to make Tampa Beach shoreline ready for seawall; land cleared and eighteen thousand lineal feet of streets cut and graded, fourteen thousand feet already paved; forty-five thousand dollar Administration Building completed; two hundred foot dock within one week of completion—which are a few reasons for the public approval and demand for Tampa Beach property, as shown by—

THE MOUSE TELLS A STORY
The mouse had been over, as well as mine. "Dear me," remarked Hickydo, "I shall have to look in my index again and see what it says about kings and bluejays."
"Never mind, Hickydo. We're starting now," squeak I Paddyfoot.

The elevator was rising slowly up through the ground. Queer passengers got on and off as it made its trip up through the center of the earth again, and back to the place from which they had started.
One of them was no other than the Truffle Hunter, and Waldo, his pig.
"Well, well, well!" said the talkative Truffle Hunter. "I see we meet again. Waldo and I were out hunting for truffles and we dug deep down into the ground for a truffle that I suspected we ride home. Did you know that Cherry Bounce Hill had not bounced away once since the Blue Cherry was stolen? I always said to Waldo that I knew that crazy hill was bewitched and Waldo said to me that he thought—"
"Right here the elevator reached the top and everybody stepped off. "Good-bye," called Juke and Nancy as they picked up two of the baskets and rattled off on one of the motorcycles.
"Good-bye," called Hickydo and Nick as they picked up the other basket and rattled off on the other motorcycle.
"That old goose would talk the hours off a brass monkey!" said Juke. "We can't wait all day listening to him."
"Exactly when they reached the place in the road where the accident was. And he hadn't said a word to say. He had fumbled his wings and let them drop as soon as they gave him a basket of bugs.
On they rode until they reached the wizard's palace.

Railroads May Put Homeseekers Rate Back Into Effect

JACKSONVILLE, March 5.—Homeseekers' rates to Florida will be put in effect again this year, according to information received by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce from H. H. Richardson, of Jacksonville, chairman of the Homeseekers' Association Committee of the National Blue Children's Real Estate Board. The committee has been negotiating with the Southeastern Passenger Association relative to the special rates and has been notified that they will be granted effective April 6, and will continue until November.
The homeseekers' tickets will be sold the first and third Tuesday of each month and will apply from Cairo, Ill., Evansville, Ind., St. Louis, Cincinnati, Louisville, Memphis and Washington. The rate will be one fare plus $2 for the round trip and will be accorded parties of not less than five adults. Strangers will be allowed at all points in Florida desired. Persons taking advantage of the special rate must complete the return trip to their homes by midnight the twenty-first day after purchase of their tickets.

People Of Ontario Begin Search For 5 Missing People

LEAMINGTON, Ont., Mar. 5.—Two dozen farmers with ice shovels and sleds today began a systematic search of the 18-mile ice road between Leamington and Pelee Island in Lake Erie for James Phillips, his wife and their three children, Pauline, seven, Hazel, five, and Elmer, two, missing since Monday when they started from the island for the mainland in their automobile.
Although hope has been abandoned that the family has survived the days of exposure, the searchers hope to find some evidence as to the fate of the five. Mail carriers who make twice weekly trips to the island reported last night they saw no trace of the automobile along the route.
There is a 200-foot stretch of open water near the ice road 10 miles from the island and this was being dragged today. The Phillips family had visited relatives on the island Monday and started back across the ice late in the afternoon.
Officials at the Ford airport, Detroit, advised legal authorities today that international law prevents their sending planes to aid in the search.

STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

BY CHARLES P. STEWART
WASHINGTON, March 5.—When Congressman Fiorello H. LaGuardia of New York has something to say in the House of Representatives about aviation, he's listened to.
He was a fiercer himself with the American forces in the World War.
He won a major's rank, too, and a war cross and a knight commandership of the crown of Italy. LaGuardia doesn't go as far as to agree with Ex-Colonel Mitchell that armies and navies are obsolete, but he does say the airplane has revolutionized war.
"WHAT'S more," he added, "our army and navy heads know it, but they won't admit it, even to themselves."
Why not?
"Well," said the flying congressman, "in war time, what does a general do? Why, he commandeers a nice chateau, safely at the rear, and lives there in comfort, while others suffer all the hardships and take all the risks."
"It's fine to stand on the bridge of a big battleship and maneuver a splendid fleet.
"A man who's used to the champagne or the bathtub bridge can't afford to let himself realize that wars are fought now in the air."
BUT should the commander of an army or a fleet personally direct his forces from the air?
"If he wants to know what's going on," nodded LaGuardia. "That's where he can see the whole thing."
"As I've said, the plane has revolutionized war."
"NO, unless you can stop wars, which we ought to try our best to do," continued the congressman, "surface armies aren't obsolete. But an army, opposed to another one which controls the air, can't possibly advance."
"We still need ships, but the big battleship is obsolete. The Saratoga and Lexington, not yet finished, are obsolete already. Suppose, in war time, we lost one of them. We'd have lost half our carriers. (Not including the Langley, which is too slow to count.)
"Just so with the battleship. A single loss would cripple us too much."
LaGuardia sketched what he considers about the right air force for America, in times of peace.

New Submarine Will Undergo New Tests

NEW LONDON, Conn., Mar. 5.—Off Block Island, not many miles from the grave of the submarine S-51, which sank in collision last September, the Y-1, the largest of Uncle Sam's undersea vessels, today was to be submerged to the 200-foot level.
Three submarine experts are to study her performance during the dive and at that depth where the water pressure per square inch is 83.8 pounds, if the submersible passes the tests satisfactorily she will be accepted for active service with the fleet of first line submarines.
She carries a crew of seven officers and 84 men, is 341 feet long and 27.5 feet wide.
There are three miles of cherry trees bordering the driveway of Potomac Park, in Washington.

SUPREME COURT MANDAMUS RULE SOUGHT BY SUIT

Question as to Whether the State Board of Examiners Can Be Mandamused Is to Come From High Justices

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., Mar. 5.—(AP)—The Florida Supreme Court has been called upon to decide whether the State Board of Law Examiners can be mandamused. Briefs have been filed with the highest tribunal in the case of the State of Florida and Robert H. Anderson versus E. C. Love, judge of the second judicial district, and H. M. Shaw. Mr. Anderson is a member of the law board and Mr. Shaw is a Tampa attorney.

The litigation grew out of a writ of mandamus, issued by Judge Love to Mr. Shaw in which the law board was cited to show cause why the Tampa attorney should not be allowed to take the board's examination for the Florida bar, held here two weeks ago. The board, according to the briefs in the case, rejected Mr. Shaw's application for the examination on the ground that he had published a number of notes entitled "Shaw's Notes on the Constitution and Statutes of Florida." The publication was made under Mr. Shaw's name, as a Tampa attorney.

Mr. Shaw did not satisfactorily explain to the board why he had constituted himself as a Florida lawyer, the brief of the respondents states. It also seeks to show that Mr. Shaw was an attorney of North Carolina in good standing, that he had made application to the board in accordance with the requirements; that he produced affidavits as to character and a number of letters from reputable jurists, attesting to applicant's high character and standing, both as a man and as a lawyer, in North Carolina.

Refused Examination Counsel for Mr. Shaw also declared in the brief that before publishing the book he had sought the advice of the attorney general of Florida on just what he should do and not do, in order to become eligible for the examination, and that he had adhered strictly to the advice of the attorney general. After receiving the board's letter that he would not be given the examination, Mr. Shaw's brief continues, he came to Tallahassee to confer with the examiners. Mr. Anderson, the brief goes on, "in a very abrupt manner said that he would not hear him and that he would not take the examination." Judge Love was then notified to issue a writ of mandamus, requiring the board to permit Mr. Shaw to stand the examination the next day, or show cause why this had not been done. The writ was served upon the eight members of the board on the day the examination was held, the brief states, and P. D. Beall, a member of the board, requested Mr. Shaw to postpone the matter for a day; that the board, or some member of it, would then appear before Judge Love and that if after a hearing, the judge granted the peremptory writ of mandamus, the examination would be given.

Within a short time thereafter, the brief states, Mr. Anderson applied to the Supreme Court and secured a rule to show cause why a writ of prohibition should not be issued restraining him from proceeding with the mandamus.

BLANTON WRONG, SAYS ABE BALTIMORE, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Abe Ullman, who runs a sea food place, says Blanton of Texas, was all wrong in naming his establishment as one of 400 open saloons here. Abe insists he has kept a vow made at his wife's death bed not to violate the law.

STRONG POLICEMEN BLUSH PHILADELPHIA, March 5.—(AP)—Chivalrous blushing policemen guarded the Omega sorority here all night after they had forced the door with pistols drawn and found 15 girls in silk pajamas and other dainty things huddled in the front hall terrorized over a burglary that caused them to phone the police.

Railroad Employee In Hospital After Being Beaten By 5 Unidentified Men

JACKSONVILLE, Fla., March 5.—(AP)—M. J. McGraw, 65-year-old master mechanic at the local yards of the Seaboard Air Line, is in a hospital here as the result of a beating given him last night when he was kidnaped from his home. He was found this morning in a semi-conscious condition lying in a weeded field near Hilliard, Nassau county. Investigation has been started by Fred King, county detective. Detectives of the city failed to discover any enemies of Mr. McGraw upon investigating the case. An agent of the Seaboard Air Line is also aiding in the investigation. They could attribute no motive for the kidnaping. According to members of Mr. McGraw's family, he was called to the door of his residence last night and when a noise was heard Mrs. McGraw followed to find five men carrying her husband to a seaman parked in front of the house. Mrs. McGraw screamed and was ordered to "keep quiet" but she attracted the attention of neighbors who came to the scene and saw her clinging to her husband as the men pulled him away. Witnesses stated that the men used pistols to prevent any interference with their plans and that they were about 10 minutes in completing their task. They drove off with Mrs. McGraw holding onto the door of the car and when about a block away one of the men threw her to the home of a physician for treatment for bruises and a sprained shoulder. The daughter of Mr. McGraw looked for the license number of the car but it had been removed, she said.

Florida Papers Are Not Given Credit In Lineage Published

JACKSONVILLE, March 6.—Southern newspapers in their advertisements in trade publications are omitting Florida newspapers in tables showing advertising lineage carried during 1925 because the Florida publications are far out in front. The Birmingham News, in a full page ad published last week in The Editor and Publisher, claims that it carried last year a greater lineage of local advertising than any other newspaper in the South and cites the records of the larger publications to prove it. The News however, explains that "Florida newspapers are excluded owing to abnormal conditions, real estate advertising comprising the greater portion of the total volume carried by them." The News, according to the statistics, did carry the greatest lineage of local advertising published by any newspaper in the South during 1925—outside of Florida.

Bankers Are Asked To Keep Names Off Projects In State

JACKSONVILLE, March 6.—Directors of the Central National Bank of St. Petersburg, have adopted a resolution which the Florida State Chamber of Commerce declares might result in the saving of hundreds of thousands of dollars to the general public if adopted by banks generally throughout the state. The resolution points out that new stock promotions and other organizations invariably solicit the co-operation and subscriptions of persons with banking connections in order to use their names in procuring additional stock subscriptions or for moral effect in selling stock.

The declaration is made that it is not wise for any officer, employee, or director of the institution to become connected with or join in any newly organized company or corporation which intends to offer stock, or securities to the public without thoroughly investigating every detail and the person and character of the project. The Board gives its approval at a formal meeting. The resolution further declares that any officer, employee or director who forms such a connection without approval of the board automatically resigns his position with the bank.

BRITISH TAKE TO SLANG NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Some British correspondents who have been writing about the Catholic case relate that there is a new slang phrase in London—"a moral turp", meaning a gay bird or something such.

NEW YORK

NEW YORK, March 6.—Thanks to the wreckers and the padlockers, New York fast is being stripped of its most colorful and famed spots. If you would see the Manhattan that was, make haste. Else you will be greeted by—"Oh yes, this is the place where..." And if you have wandered the New York byways, and in these wanderings have been intrigued by a certain spot—then make double haste. For even as your train rushes across the nation the hand of the wrecker may be upon it. Already the finest of the midtown Fifth Avenue mansions are making way for huge apartment buildings. The historic eating places boast a handful of survivors, thanks to prohibition and the fact that humans now seem to prefer diversion to good food.

AND now the Saracenic minarets of Temple Emanu El, which bring a breath of the Orient to the very heart of the Fifth Avenue shopping belt, are to disappear. Here, above all other spots in New York, was a haunting echo from an older world sounded in a rushing and bustling new world hemmed in by a rising skyline; by steel and stone monuments to merchandising; by the fantastic effects of modern architecture, this exotic thing of mosaic and flagreed stone has often seemed to me a symbol—yes, even a sort of warning to the speeding horde that there are civilizations old as time itself, and these have risen and crumbled. On warm, lazy afternoons I have closed my eyes and found it easy to imagine some colorful muzzin of the desert crying out to the faithful. And its voice, if it could speak, I am sure would say: "Why all this rush...stop...stop, and ponder where all this is leading you, are you so important...is all this hurry and scurry important...contemplate just a little...I am a symbol of civilizations of an old, old world...take my counsel. But, of course, they will not. The voice of Manhattan answers: "I am ruthless, what is tradition to me...I am youth that ties quickly of old toys...nothing is sacred to me...I would tear down that which can never be replaced...your old world reliques...shrines...not I...the castles of the rich and the temples of the ages, they are all one to me. I am a new day and it is only for this that I care...all else is sentimentalism...I have no patience with sentimentalism...landmarks, man-made things...they are in my way...don't preach...I haven't time to listen...I must be on my way...tearing and wrecking and building and tearing and wrecking and building. And, even as I shed a tear for the passing of a fond spot, I am ruthless, this exquisite gesture of sacrilege and abandon that makes New York.

MISS AMERICAN GIRL NEW YORK, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Max D'Amunzio, who helped capture the heart of Miss Ruth Gilmore, daughter of Frank Gilmore, secretary of the Actors Equity Association. They are to be married in Florence in June.

ANCIENT USED ROUGE PHILADELPHIA, Mar. 6.—(AP)—Rouge used by the women of Carthage, 3,000 years ago is just as good for its purpose now. Some of it was found by the expedition of Count Byron De Prokop and tried by a woman in the party.

office of the Exchequer Churchill has not allowed the idea to drop and has, with the aid of a commission, been making exhaustive investigation.

As a result a memorandum dealing with the aspects and possibilities of such a tax has been presented to the cabinet for consideration.

It is estimated that a betting contest might easily produce $12,000,000 yearly, and the chancellor is loath to allow such a sum to escape him.

It is understood that Premier Baldwin and the other ministers are yet to be converted to the idea of such a tax, which might offend the moral feelings of the country. Mr. Churchill, however, may attempt to introduce the tax next year.

England has been baking in prematurely springlike weather, which is most welcome to all sports enthusiasts and the Oxford and Cambridge crews have been practicing on the Thames for their annual race.

The race is still a month ahead so it is too early for any useful comparison between the two crews. Oxford has the heavier boat, suitable for the rough water such as last year's.

They are also experimenting with new ideas in training diets, the men receiving less meat and more fruit. All meats except beef and mutton, together with soup and cake, have been banished from the list, and only small allowances of alcoholic drinks are permitted.

Americans living here have been slow to adopt the English custom of having a cup of tea before getting out of bed in the morning and on this account, London hotels have decided to serve American guests with a substitute of a glass of orange or grape juice.

The new idea is to be tried out on the spring and summer visitors from the United States and if not successful, the hotel will try the plan of giving grape fruit, or oranges or any fruits the guests may desire.

Working on the assumption that "winning is believing," the conservative party has arranged a series of films to be taken of cabinet ministers in action or legislating. These will be shown throughout the constituencies at conservative meetings and will form part of a program of "pictures with a moral."

Lectures will be arranged in connection with the film and in country districts where no hall is available a travelling cinema projector will be used.

Winston Churchill and Sir William Joynson-Hicks have already been filmed at work and will "star" in the first of the films to be shown.

Red was the predominant color at the church wedding in London of Lady Ursula Blackwood to A.

S. N. Horne. The bride, given away by her stepfather, Lord Howe, wore her Paris look—sleeves of deep red tulle, and hat to match while Lady Doris wore red velvet and carried a bunch of snowdrops. Lady Curzon of Kedleston, in mauve and blue, and among the guests.

Lord Rothermel has purchased for 1,552,000 pounds ($7,517,500) the 14 acres site of a lunatic asylum known as the Royal Bethlehem hospital in South London, which he will turn over to the public as a permanent memorial to his wife. The asylum is being removed to Addington in Surrey. It was a corruption of the title Bethlehem which gave rise to the common term "Bedlam" as meaning a madhouse.

The hoped-for British trade revival seems to have received stimulus from the British Industries Fair, held at London and Birmingham. Orders to the extent of 5,000,000 pounds were booked and 50,000 buyers of all nationalities looked over the exhibits. Not only are prospective orders being placed to the extent of many millions more, the personal interest shown by the king and prince of Wales greatly helped the enterprise.

PARIS LETTER

PARIS, March 6. — One of the most remarkable collections of love letters on record—more than 6,000 of them—written by the former actress, Juliette Drouot to Victor Hugo between 1833 and 1882, brought less than $700 when put up at auction recently.

This actress, whom Hugo loved, retired from the stage and lived a life of seclusion for 50 years. Almost every day during that period she wrote the noted author a letter, as he had asked her to do, although they were seeing each other regularly as well, and this collection, an average of some 200 letters a year, was carefully preserved at the express wish of Hugo himself.

Victor Hugo spoke of these letters in one of his letters to Juliette, in which he said: "Our life is there, recorded day by day, thought by thought. Every dream of mine, every suffering is there. These letters are so many charming little mirrors, each one of which reflects a view of the splendid soul."

Gustave Simon, who, as executor of Victor Hugo's will and personal friend of Juliette, who ought to know, says that the letters will disappoint anyone in search of a thrill, as they are nothing but a collection of empty phrases, "full of adulation and adoration, far from giving that reflection of the inner life of the lovers," that the sale catalog promised. The collection might have realized a higher price had not a Paris book-seller notified the auctioneer as soon as it was put up that he owned the copyright and so the purchaser could only obtain material possession, but could not publish any of the letters.

"History will forget the war debt discussions between France and the United States and will remember only the crusade fought in common by the two nations who other, being honest nations, made up of honest people," former Ambassador Jusserand said in a speech this week at Lyons.

Recalling his long stay in the United States where he was accredited as ambassador under five administrations, M. Jusserand paid tribute to the American character, as "very practical and very generous. He scrupulously refrained from any form of propaganda during the war, relying, and not in vain, on France's just cause and America's good sense."

He gave numerous examples of American enthusiasm, affection and generosity toward France, and American appreciation of the cool valor of the French soldiers, a common trait of the two races, he said, was gaiety in the midst of peril.

A set of enterprising Paris crooks got the jump on Finance Minister Doumer recently with the announcement of the introduction of a bill in Parliament putting a tax on wireless receiving sets. Taking time by the forelock, these unscrupulous but ingenious persons, armed with books of official-looking receipts, began calling at the homes with wireless aerial terminals on the roof or in the yard, betraying the presence of wireless sets, and collecting as large a tax as they thought the householder would stand for.

The prefecture of police was obliged to broadcast a warning against these individuals, reminding the public that the bill instituting the tax had not yet been passed.

Two hundred deputies have signed a letter petitioning M. Dal Piaz, president of the French line, to christen the new boat being built for the company at St. Nazaire, "La Paix," which is translated "The Peace."

The company has not yet announced its decision but is reported to be hesitating between "Versailles" and "Verdun." The liner is intended to establish a new record for luxury in the transatlantic service.

The newly elected president of the Fat Men's Club of Paris is almost doubly qualified as he weighs 192 kilograms (over 422 pounds) while the qualifying limit for membership is about 220 pounds. M. Paul Satty was on active service throughout the war, though not in the trenches, for his weight then of 343 pounds disqualified him. He can still jump onto an auto bus if it has started before he has reached it, and is an active bicyclist, not on ready-made machines out of stock, but a specially constructed machine which is on the "bicycle built for two style."

Shingling has become popular for little girls as well as for those of larger growth among Paris' feminine population and thereby have come complications at nuptial and other church functions.

Paris has its traditions, and one of them says that small girl attendants on the bride at weddings must wear curls. Consequently, fond papas are today treated to the sight of madame arranging false curls on the head of mademoiselle, construction to shingling, and shorn locks are looked upon with little favor in communion classes.

Houghton Interview Given Over Telephone During 1st Trans-Ocean Conversation

NEW YORK, Mar. 8.—(AP)—New York and London have had a telephone conversation, across the seas, as clear and as original as across the town talk.

Newspaper men gathered in the American Telephone Telegraph offices in New York, talked almost four hours yesterday by wireless telephone with a group at the general postoffice in London. And experiments carried on for weeks past were crowned with success on the fifth anniversary of the day of Alexander Graham Bell obtained the patent for his first telephone.

Over 2,500,000 miles of land area by wire and radio, there was conversation about current news and the weather, and jokes about prohibition and short skirts.

A reporter for the Herald, the British news agency, gave a reporter for the Associated Press an interview with Ambassador Houghton, who has just sailed from Southampton.

It was the first trans-Atlantic news dispatch, transmitted that way. In the interview Ambassador Houghton denied rumors that he was returning to take Secretary Kellogg's place in the department of state.

Every member of each group heard each conversation. Each reporter had ear phones. Each was in the speaker's booth.

From London voices were carried twenty miles by wire to a new broadcasting station at Rugby, Atlantic to a receiving station at Hinton, Me. Thence they came by wire 660 miles to the A. T. and T. offices.

JUDGE FAILS TO NEW SHIPPING ISSUE CITATION COMPANY IS TO AGAINST PAPER AID SANFORD

Contempt Charge Is Withheld Following Conference Between Judge White and Louisiana Paper's Lawyers

Official Action May Come Following Trial

State Resumes Its Case With Pearson On Witness Stand; Deputy Sheriff Is Recalled

BAY ST. LOUIS, Miss., Mar. 8.—(AP)—No citation for Judge Walter A. White, against newspaper reporters today.

This announcement was made this morning by attorneys for the New Orleans newspaper after a conference between the presiding judge and the lawyers representing these newspapers, have been in circulation in Hancock County.

It was understood that any official action Judge White takes on disregard of his order to newsmen is not to be published in the Hancock county newspaper. The trial was being held in Hancock county, which came after the trial has been finished.

Attorneys conferring with Judge White were State Senator Carl Marshall, A. B. Russell and Walter J. Cox, all of Bay St. Louis.

Today's hearing issued an order before Favre went to trial that newsmen were to be recalled to court if they were to publish the testimony of the Favre case now being tried in Hancock county, which came after the trial has been finished.

Controversy Over Estate Left By "Wolf Of LaSalle Street" Still In Progress

CHICAGO, March 8.—(AP)—The controversy over whether John W. Worthington, the "Wolf of LaSalle Street" left an estate of $3,000,000 or merely $250,000, continued today. Alice Worthington, daughter of the confidence man who died in the Atlantic postoffice last Tuesday, maintained that the entire estate was valued at the smaller sum and that she possessed a will leaving it all to her.

This assertion was countered by Robert L. Cohan, an attorney, who represented Worthington when he entered Chicago from Mexico last October. He produced a mass of papers purporting to be revocations of wills, blank checks to be filled on half a dozen European banks, confidential correspondence before and after "the Wolf" was sent to prison, and bank statements from abroad showing billions of German and Austrian marks, Italian lire and Austrian kronen on deposit to the credit of Johnson Whitehouse Worthington. Cohan declared he was left $250,000.

He explained that he drew up the will when Worthington returned to Chicago last October, that there were no witnesses because of the fear that Worthington would be arrested if his presence here was known. Worthington had more than $600,000 in stocks, bonds and negotiable papers piled on his bed at the time, Cohan related, but he said he did not know what became of the securities.

Among the documents held by Cohan is a paper purporting to be a revocation of all previous wills and codicils. It is dated Los Angeles, October 25, 1924, and is witnessed by Henry P. Leavitt and Alva E. Harshman.

BRIAND WILL BE URGED TO FORM NEW MINISTRY

Invitation Thought To Have Been Outcome Of Meeting Between Doumergue, Herriot

Socialist Leader Regrets Downfall

Herriot Mentioned For Premiership Should Briand Not Accept

PARIS, Mar. 8.—(AP)—Determined efforts will be made to induce Aristide Briand to form another ministry to succeed the one defeated in the Chamber of Deputies early Saturday on proposals of taxes. It is understood, was the outcome of conversations between M. Herriot, president of the left wing in the chamber, and President Doumergue.

M. Herriot does not disguise his regret over the defeat of M. Briand, which he says he would have done his utmost to prevent had he been in the chamber.

It is being pointed out in political circles that M. Briand must retain the portfolio of foreign minister. His departure from the helm of France's foreign policy, it is generally admitted, would diminish France's weight on international councils and notably make her delegates' position at the League council meeting in Geneva difficult.

There does not appear much chance of inducing M. Briand to reconsider his decision to resign. For to do so he would have to face the prospect of a coalition ministry, leaning more to the right than that of M. Briand and headed either by Joseph Caillaux, M. Monis or M. Poincaré.

Socialist Dictatorship Favored

GENEVA, Mar. 8.—(AP)—A special committee of public opinion based on the parliamentary system but "showing its back" would not be displeasing if it forced M. Paul Boncour to declare in an interview with a Swiss newspaper that a dictatorship would be less risky and more logical than a dictatorship by a single man, the French statesman said. Nevertheless, he was convinced that a less drastic remedy could be found in the constitution itself for history provides that France always tends to meet any crisis by destroying its incumbent Bonaparte.

M. Paul Boncour contemplated the parliamentary commissions to the commission of the French republic and the convention of that "Magnificent period in French history which I admire more and more," but said that bills drafted by specialists in the commissions were destroyed by an incompetent parliament which had lost the confidence of the country.

When questioned concerning the idea in France, he admitted that important centers of Communism existed there. He did not think, however, that Communism would be dangerous to France at the present moment.

CHICAGO, Mar. 8.—(AP)—March, shaking a lamine snow showers snow over a wide area in the central west over the week end, and then moved east for a repetition of the heavy snowfall.

One thousand persons marooned in Milwaukee, Wis., were unable to return Saturday night, were unable to return to their homes today.

The unexpected guests caused a severe strain on the Milwaukee winter shelter, which is a public building of the small town was utilized to quarter them.

In Chicago snow flurries fell throughout Sunday, the mercury dropping to 10 degrees above zero at midnight. A rise of at least 15 degrees was in prospect, however for today.

Texan Identified With "Work In Many Cities For 20 Years; Local Chapter Plans Big Membership Campaign"

C. D. Wolf, of Hunt county, Texas, has arrived in the city to take charge of the Seminole County Young Men's Christian Association which was recently formed in this city and for which Mr. Wolf was elected as General Secretary.

Mr. Wolf expressed his pleasure at being here, during an interview with a representative of The Herald, and stated that every effort would be made to shape plans for immediate activities of the Y. M. C. A. in this county.

He has been in "work" for the past 20 years, most of the time in city and county work combined, and has served the organization in many of the heavy duties during that time.

It is expected that a meeting of the Seminole County organization will be called for this week, at which time Mr. Wolf will assume the duties and outline plans for the future.

The organization expects to maintain headquarters in Sanford, with branches in every community within the county. Activities embracing all sections are to be featured by both organizations in this city and in the other towns of the county.

The old City Hall building has been offered the Y. M. C. A. for their temporary home and the offer will probably be accepted, according to officials of the organization, who are planning to build a new home sometime in the future.

Mayor Forrest Lake and City Planning Board Heretofore Favor Municipal Measure; Officials Preparing Data

Intimation that the city of Sanford may soon build a swimming pool somewhere within the city limits, to be operated by the municipality for the benefit of all citizens of the county, was made today by Mayor Forrest Lake.

It is believed that a great number of citizens would be attracted to the pool during the summer months and that it could be built with the least possible expense, owing to the fact that the water supply could be derived through the St. Johns river, a municipal standing as a freight route," he added, "and the formation of this company represents the first big step into the ground we can get into the advantages of the economical and quick delivery of any material desired by any inland Florida city."

The commission of this new swimming pool is a time part of the city's program, Mr. Lake continued, "for traffic experts concur in the belief that the next few months will witness a substantial increase in rail freight rates."

Officers of the new organization are as follows: president, Captain A. F. Davison, formerly general manager of the marine department of the United Fruit Company, who was also in charge of operations of the United States Shipping Board Emergency Fleet Corporation; vice-president and treasurer, William J. O'Toole, formerly connected with the maritime activities in New York and Boston; general manager, L. Van Middlenorth, who was identified with Captain Davison in his work with the United Fruit Co. and the U. S. E. F. Co.; traffic manager, M. V. Rodney, former traffic manager of the United Fruit Company.

The firm plans to operate on a large scale, Mr. Pearson announced, and a special freight canvasser will begin his rounds of central Florida within the next few days.

The success of the first excursion trip of the Lake Monroe Transportation Company held last Sunday has led officials of the newly organized concern to inaugurate similar pleasure trips every few days, including Sundays, according to E. L. Markell, secretary of the company who today made public plans for the commencement of moonlight excursion trips within the near future.

"That the Lake Monroe Transportation Company is supplying a long felt need in Sanford tourists is proven by the many who have applied for tickets on the first excursion given last Sunday afternoon," Mr. Markell said.

"Hitherto no facilities have existed for the transient to enjoy the scenery lining the banks of the river and lake," Mr. Markell added, "but that difficulty has been removed with the maiden voyage of this company's first cruiser, and so many have exhibited a desire to enjoy these excursions that we are planning to commence two every afternoon, beginning at 2 and 4 o'clock."

The trip aboard the "Wakala," well appointed excursion boat accommodating 50 passengers, will include a stop at Eastprairie and a run to the mouth of the Wakala river, Mr. Markell said.
