$242,000 Construction Set Next Month

$2 Million Job Starts

By Harry I. Johnson
Stode Construction Company, of Cocoa Beach, is the apparent low bidder for construction of a quarter-million dollar project at Sanford Naval Air Station.

This is part of an expansion project which is estimated to total slightly more than $2 million. The Stode firm bid $242,290 for work on building a new hangar, shop and office structure on the base. The estimated cost of this was $337,000. The rigid frame, prefabricated steel structures will be built on the southwest end of the station's aircraft parking apron adjacent to the existing hangars.

This is the first of five construction projects to get under way at the base next year. Congress appropriated the money earlier this fall and work on the initial project is expected to start next month. Target completion dates are March for the shop and office building and July for the hangar.

The contract will be administered by the station's office in charge of construction, Lt. Cdr. T. J. Doyle, who represents the director of the Division of Bureau of Yards and Docks, Charleston, S. C. When this phase of the work is finished, it will be capable of housing a complete squadron. Other squadrons are expected here in the next several months as the base continues to grow.

Other projects approved and the amount estimated to complete them are: An aircraft parking area at a cost of $781,000. An aircraft maintenance hangar at a cost of $644,000. A facility for checking the power of jet engines at a cost of $117,000.

Just when work will start on the next four projects has not been determined but bidding is expected on some phases in the near future.

Wight Firm Closes After Half Century

One of Sanford's oldest business firms closed its doors today.

It was back in 1910 that the late Mr. and Mrs. Henry Wight founded the Wight Grocery Company, a wholesale firm, in a building located at the corner of Commercial and Palmetto Avenues just north of the present location of Hunt's Lincoln-Mercury Company.

Later the firm built the offices and warehouses which they have occupied for years at Fourth Street and Elm Avenue.

When Wight retired from the business his son, Fred Wight, managed the firm until he died in 1932 and Hal Wight, another son, directed the business until he died in 1945.

Hubert Pierce and Lyman Phillips managed the company until they formed a wholesale grocery firm of their own and Jim Higgins was head of the firm until 1951 when Ralph Wight II, who has managed the business since then, took over the company.

"It will take at least six months to close out the accounts receivable and liquidate the stocks," said Wight. He added, "We appreciate the patronage of all of our customers throughout the years."

25th Extension Will Be Opened

Seminole County Road Supt. J. C. Lavender said today that traffic would be permitted on the 25th Street extension starting sometime next week.

"We're completing the fill on some 100 feet in the middle of the extension from the old Lake Mary Road to Club Road in Loch Arbor," said Lavender. "When this is done," he added, "we'll open it to traffic for while to help compact it."

5 Americans At Mercy Of Savage Rebels

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI)—At least five Americans and several hundred other foreign hostages were reported at the mercy of savage rebels today in isolated jungle areas of the Congo.

Diehard rebels stiffened against government efforts to crush the last remnants of the leftist insurgency, and reports reaching here told of fierce fighting in and around Stanleyville.

A new launch date was not immediately set. The deadline for rocketing a probe to Mars this year is Dec. 9. After that date, the Space Agency would either have to cancel the shot or wait until Mars again moves into shooting range in December, 1966.

The first U. S. Mars shot failed shortly after launch Nov. 5 when the nose cone of the Mariner-3 spacecraft failed to jettison as planned and jammed the craft's vital solar panels.

An unprecedented around-the-clock effort by teams of scientists determined that the Mariner-3 failure was caused by the peeling apart of a fiberglass section of the shroud. A new metal cover was built and installed on Mariner-4.

Today's launch attempt was first set back two hours by a cable in the nose cone's separation mechanism that was not properly seated in a groove on the outside of the shroud.

Scientists finally decided that the cable would not affect the launch. A few minutes later, the spacecraft trouble developed and the shot was postponed.

Mariner-4 was programmed to swoop within 10,000 miles of the red planet next July 15. It is designed to snap 22 pictures during its brief glimpse of Mar and make important scientific measurements.

Two American missionaries — Dr. Paul Carlson, 36, of Culver City, Calif., and Phyllis Rine, 23, of Mount Vernon, Ohio — were among those pitilessly mowed down Tuesday by rebel gunfire in Stanleyville.

Dr. Joseph Tucker, 48, of Portland, Ore., a medical missionary, was beaten to death in Paulis with 20 other hostages hours before Belgian paratroopers arrived in U. S. Air Force planes Thursday and rescued more than 200 captives.

Dr. Andre De Gotte, a Belgian diplomat who survived the Paulis atrocities, said rebels bludgeoned Tucker and the 19 other victims to death and threw some of the bodies into a crocodile-infested river.

Longwood Postpones Hotel Liquor Permit

By Donna Kates
L. T. Hunt Jr., owner of Longwood Hotel, appeared Wednesday evening at a continued session of Longwood City Council to request renewal of liquor license for the hotel bar.

Hunt advised council that he could comply with city ordinances requiring that 30 rooms be available for rental and the dining room be open and able to serve 100 persons but that he preferred to wait to put the establishment in full operation until renovations being done on the building are completed.

He stated that $25,000 in improvements were planned and that if the bar could be opened

Mars Probe Postponed; No New Date

CAPE KENNEDY (UPI)—The United States today postponed an attempt to launch its second Mariner Mars probe because of troubles in the delicate picture-taking spacecraft.

A Space Agency spokesman said Mariner-4's problem, which cropped up one hour before launch, was not immediately known.

A new launch date was not immediately set. The deadline for rocketing a probe to Mars this year is Dec. 9. After that date, the Space Agency would either have to cancel the shot or wait until Mars again moves into shooting range in December, 1966.

Immediately it could be bringing in money to assist in the restoration work.

A motion was made by Councilman Carl Lommier, but lost for lack of a second, to defer action on the request until next Thursday's regular meeting of council.

LBJ Reluctant To Expand War

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson was reported today to be very reluctant to undertake any significant expansion of the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam.

Administration officials in touch with the Chief Executive warned against expecting any major new military moves as a result of the current high-level review of policy and strategy in the bitter battle against the Red Viet Cong.

Even a very limited expansion of military operations in South Viet Nam would mean a major increase in the number of U. S. military "advisers" are bogged down in a frustrating effort to help the South Vietnamese government destroy the guerrilla movement.

Soviets Claim U. S. Guilty Of Aggression

MOSCOW (UPI) — The Soviet Union today accused the United States of aggression in both the Congo and North Viet Nam.

It said it was ready to aid North Vietnam but did not offer help to the Congolese rebels.

Communist China, however, pledged "firm support" for the rebels in a broadcast heard in Tokyo. China, it said, "will never remain indifferent to the aggression committed by the U. S. and Belgian imperialists."

Protest rallies against the U. S.-Belgian rescue operation in the Congo were continuing, and the American, British and Belgian embassies were prepared for possible demonstrations.

Informed sources said a rally was planned for Moscow's Trade Union House which could turn into demonstrations outside the embassies. In the past, crowds have pelted the embassies with ink bottles and have broken windows.

Nowhere did the Soviet press describe the rebel killings of white hostages. The government newspaper Izvestia suggested that such reports were invented by the western press to justify the intervention.

The aggression charges in Viet Nam stemmed from a Nov. 18 air raid that North Viet Nam said U. S. planes conducted on its territory. The United States has denied this account.

Thanksgiving Holiday Toll Reaches 231

The accidental death toll moved to 231 today on the third day of the long Thanksgiving weekend.

Most of the deaths were the result of car accidents. The worst was a two-vehicle accident near Olanza, S. C., that killed eight persons, including six members of one family. No one lived through the accident.

The deaths of 18 and possibly 19 crewmen in the collision off the New Jersey coast of the Israeli luxury liner Shalom and the Norwegian tanker Dagali were not included in the toll.

The National Safety Council was not keeping a count for the 102-hour holiday period between 6 p. m. Wednesday and Sunday midnight, but it said 662 persons died in traffic accidents during a similar period last year.

The United Press International count at 9:30 a. m. showed 192 persons had died in traffic accidents.

New York led the nation with 18 traffic deaths, followed by Texas 13, Washington 10, and Indiana nine.

In South Dakota, Harlan T. Palmer, 38, secretary of the state Public Utilities Commission, was killed when his car was struck by a train to set an all-time toll of 249 for one year.

Taylor is in Washington for a high-level administration review of what to do next in South Viet Nam.

The Hanoi report said the alleged attack occurred Thursday against Con Co Island off the shores of the demilitarized zone at the 17th parallel.

It said the shelling started at midnight and continued for an hour. North Viet Nam said a protest had been sent to the International Control Commission.

The civil unrest here has had an effect on the progress of the war because of the fact that Vietnamese troops have been pulled in from field positions to enforce the martial law.

Still Thankful?

A church in Pennsylvania wanted to publicize its Thanksgiving Day service, so placed the following sign in front of the church:

"Thanksgiving services will be held in this church at 9 in the morning. The choir will render appropriate selections. There will be no sermons. Let us thank God for our blessings."

Yesterday, worship services were held in many places by people who were striving to express gratitude to God for the great number of blessings that He has bestowed upon us. The worship services, no doubt, took many forms (including sermons), but all were trying to basically say "thank you" to God.

How good it is to remember but what about December or even August? Will we continue to remember as the days, weeks and months wear on that we are to be grateful to God for giving us such a store of blessings?

I am not naive enough to believe that all people are thankful to God. Even when Jesus Christ walked the dusty roads of this world many showed no gratitude.

Casting for the Holy Cross Episcopal Church School's annual Christmas Pageant will begin Saturday when children from grades one through six are invited to attend a 9:30 a. m. meeting at the church.

Mrs. Phil Roache, director, advises that no lines of dialogue will have to be committed to memory and that costuming will be simple.

The pageant, Christ Story in Pantomime, will be presented in the church Dec. 27 with special music provided by the junior choir.

This Sunday at the church Advent Corporate Communion for men and boys is scheduled for 7 a. m. followed by breakfast and a program in the Parish House.

Pinecrest Sets Meeting For New Members

Pinecrest Baptist Church concluded an eight-day evangelistic crusade last Sunday morning with more than 300 persons attending the closing service.

Rev. William J. Guess, pastor, states that "response to the revival was most gratifying with visible results including nine professions of faith, 11 joining the church by letter, one answering the call to ministry and 11 rededications of life."

Rev. Guess has announced a special meeting of all new members for 6:15 p. m. this Sunday in his office. He will introduce elected department heads of the church and will lead in a discussion of its ministry, its program and its services.

A special gift book, "Your Life and Your Church," by Dr. James L. Sullivan, will be presented each new member attending this meeting.

Family Advent Fete Scheduled Sunday

Grace Methodist Church today announced final plans for its third annual Family Advent Festival Sunday from 3 until 6:30 p. m. The event is a church-wide project with representatives from all organizations of the church participating to help families prepare spiritually for Christmas.

The Children's Building will house the workshop and will be open from 3 to 5 p. m. Mrs. Russ Kitner and staff of 23 have gathered materials and will furnish instructions for decorations utilizing simple materials found around the home and yard.

From 5 to 5:30 there will be a "carol sing" led by Rev. John Hires in the courtyard, after which a simple supper will be served.

Each family is asked to bring their own sandwiches and the church will furnish beverage and dessert.

Concluding the program, a worship, entitled, "We Would See Jesus" will be held in the sanctuary. This is a pantomime of events in the life of Christ, and many members have been making costumes and rehearsing for this meaningful candlelight service.

Mrs. Robert Bennett directing the choir composed of Junior and Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship members. Mr. and Mrs. Bennett also will sing.

Members and friends of grace are invited to come and share in an afternoon of family fellowship and inspiration. Mrs. J. H. Powell and Mrs. C. E. Williams will be general chairmen.

A nursery will be provided.

200 Participate In Pinecrest Thanksgiving

Some 200 people participated in a special Thanksgiving service Wednesday evening at 5 o'clock in Pinecrest Baptist Church, Rev. William J. Guess, pastor, reported today.

The children's choirs of the church were featured with Mrs. Cameron Paulk, Minister of Music, in charge.

The Beginner Choir, with children ages four and five under the direction of Mrs. Carl Brorup, sang "Sing to God." "Thank You God Who Loves Me" and "When I'm Happy."

Mrs. Cameron Paulk directed the Primary Choir, children ages six through eight, in two anthems. "For the Fruit Upon the Tree," and "Thanksgiving Day Comes Once a Year."

The Junior Choir, boys and girls nine through 12, sang "I'm Goin' to Sing" with Mrs. William J. Guess directing.

In addition to the choirs, a Thanksgiving pageant was given with two pilgrims, Lisa Barker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ted Barker, and Perry Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Page Williams appearing in Pilgrim costume to sing "Come Ye Thankful People Come."

The scripture lesson was Hosea 2:1-9, and Rev. Guess gave the message. For the benediction the congregation stood and sang "Blessed Be the Tie That Binds."

Following the service 125 people enjoyed a turkey dinner planned and prepared by Mrs. Marvin Warfel.

Missionary Will Talk Here Sunday

HERE SUNDAY to open Week of Prayer and Offering for Foreign Missions at First Baptist Church will be Miss Helen Masters, Southern Baptist Missionary, serving at the Baptist Welfare Center in Nigeria, West Africa, who is pictured with two of the many Nigerian children benefitted by the Center.

Miss Helen Masters, Southern Baptist Missionary who serves at the Baptist Welfare Center in Nigeria, West Africa, will speak at First Baptist Church in Sanford Sunday evening.

Miss Masters, a native of Miami, holds a degree in nursing from the Southern Baptist Hospital in New Orleans, a bachelor of arts degree from Stetson University, and a master of religious education degree from the Baptist Theological Seminary in New Orleans.

Within a month after graduating from the Seminary in 1960, Miss Masters was appointed by the Foreign Missions Board to go to Africa. Fellow missionaries give glowing reports on the efficiency and effectiveness of her work and the church feels honored to have Miss Masters as its guest.

The Sunday evening service will mark the beginning of the churchwide Lottie Moon Week of Prayer and Offering for Foreign Missions. An hour of prayer will be observed from 10 until 11 on Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday mornings as well as on Wednesday evening at 7:45. For the latter service, the auxiliaries of the Woman's Missionary Union—Sunbeams, Girls' Auxiliary, and Young Woman's Auxiliary—will participate.

An invitation is extended to the public to attend these meetings. The morning meetings in the chapel are for women; those on Sunday and Wednesday evenings in the sanctuary are for both men and women.

On Friday, Dec. 4, the sanctuary will be open all day for individual prayer and meditation. Bibles and prayer-guide leaflets will be available.

The theme for the Week of Prayer is "Worship Christ the King." The purpose is to develop within the members of Baptist churches a renewed faith in the power of prayer, to inform people of the needs of the world for the gospel, and to inspire individuals to become involved personally in meeting these needs.

Goal for the First Baptist Church in Sanford is $3,000. For all of the churches in the Southern Baptist Convention it is 12,500,000, an increase of 15 per cent over 1963. Among the needs met by this fund are salaries for teachers, pastors and other church workers; publications; radio and television evangelism; higher education for the children of Southern Baptist workers on foreign fields; constructing, equipping, and maintaining churches, schools, hospitals, good will centers, and other buildings.

DeBary WSCS Program Set For Tuesday

The WSCS of DeBary Community Methodist Church will hold its Christmas Service luncheon meeting Tuesday in the church social hall beginning at 12:30 p. m.

The Christmas Story, in song and readings, will be featured with the program and a "money tree" will be set up with all donations going to help children of migrant workers in the state.

Next Friday and Saturday the WSCS and the churchmen's Club will sponsor a rummage sale to be held in the former A&P Store Building in Sanford. It is requested that donations of clothing and household items for this project be delivered to the church no later than Wednesday morning.

Arrangements for pickup of the donations may be made by contacting Harry Bell or Mrs. Charles Creasey. Sires and suggested prices, if noted on a slip of paper and pinned to the articles, would be of great help to those in charge of the sale.

Great Preaching 'Art' Falls, Magazines Say

Religion in America
By Louis Cassella
Christianity today believes this is the root cause of "arid preaching."

"Too often the minister is so little devoted to study of the Bible, and so far from being immersed in its thought-world, that he lives from hand to mouth in finding subjects. As each Sunday draws near, he has to scramble about for something to say."

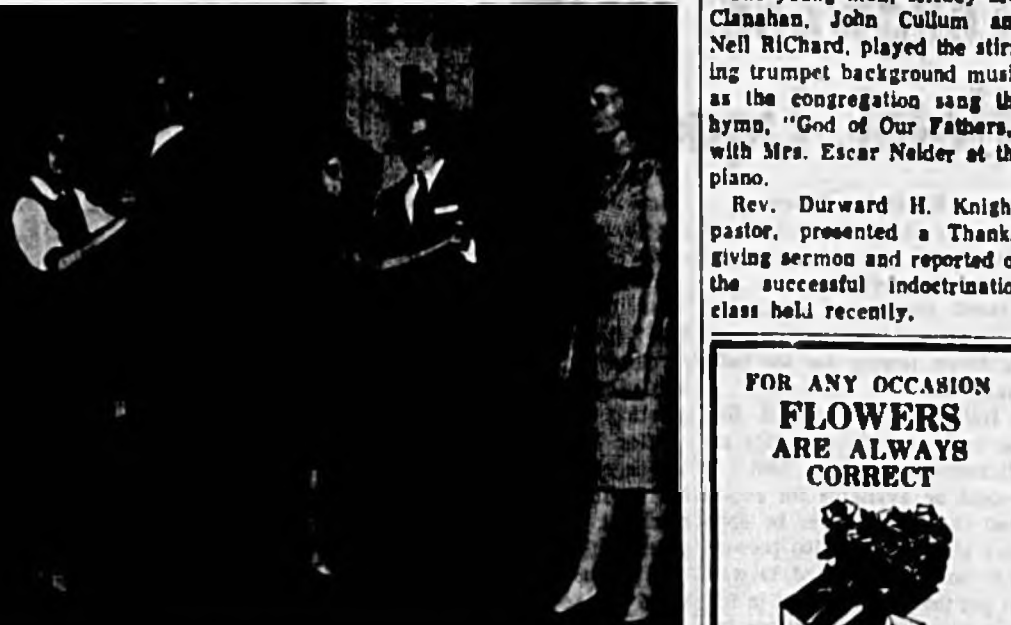

"Not every man who lives with the weekly task of delivering sermons can be, or needs to be, a professional, academic-robed theologian. Yet no deeply effective preacher can do without a 'pulpit theology.' As he speaks out of a broad yet solid theological understanding of the Scriptures, his sermons will breathe a sense of authority."

If the minister knows where he stands theologically, the man in the pew will grow in faith and doctrine. But when a man in the pulpit lacks a strong theology, his sermons will not build up his hearers in the faith."

That word "sloth" will raise some ministerial hackles. The average pastor puts in far more than a 40-hour week, and he takes it unkindly when someone accuses him of laziness in sermon preparation. The trouble is that he may be so busy doing other things that he has no time or energy left for the creative agony of writing first-rate sermons. When Saturday arrives, he locks himself in his study and in a spirit of desperation knocks out a sermon which will at least bridge the gap between the prayers and the offering. Unfortunately, that is often the only purpose it serves. But lack of time is not the sole cause, or even the chief cause, of poor performance, in the pulpit. A clergyman can't give a congregation what he hasn't got. If he is confused in his own beliefs, and has only a superficial knowledge of the Bible, both the confusion and

Rummage Sale Sponsored By Church Women

Light bulbs and tooth brushes being sold by members of the Bear Lake Methodist Church WSCS were distributed by Mrs. Jean Mueller ways and means chairman. Proceeds from the sales will be used to build kitchen cabinets in the new church building.

Members also planned to sponsor a rummage sale on Saturday, Dec. 12 at the Winter Park Fire Station and those attending were asked to begin collecting items for this project. Donations of articles from area residents wishing to aid the church group will be greatly appreciated.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Ruth Bowles in Forest City with Mrs. Margaret Brown, vice president, in charge due to absence of the president, Miss Virginia English, who is still a patient at Florida Sanitarium and Hospital. It was reported that gifts of flowers and a nightgown have been sent Miss English.

Mrs. Brown opened the meeting with prayer and Mrs. Leona Whipple, after reading from the Book of Psalms, gave a touching and inspiring talk on the mother's role in life.

It was reported that $29 had been made on the dinner recently served at the Men's Club meeting at the church.

Those attending were Mrs. Mueller, Mrs. Brown, Mrs. Ann Irwin, Mrs. Claudia Irwin, Mrs. Mickey Morgan, Mrs. Leona Whipple, Mrs. Nora Norris, Mrs. Marge Linton, Miss Phyllis M. Swisher and Mrs. Maryann Miles.

Next meeting will be the Christmas Party to be held at 8 p. m., Dec. 17, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. William Irwin, 912 Stella Ave., Apopka. Members are to bring a $1 item for the gift exchange.

Businessmen Pledge Unity, Co-operation

A declaration of co-operation and unity was made between spokesmen for downtown Sanford businessmen and those of the South Sanford business area.

"Let's just forget this phrase 'downtown Sanford,'" suggested Art Brown, one of a delegation of three South Sanford area men who met with B. L. Perkins Jr., head of the Sanford Merchants Association, E. C. Harper Jr. and Charlie Robinson to discuss wider community effort in Christmas decorating and civic beautification. The group was joined by John Kridler, executive manager of the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Representing the business interests in the south end of the city were Brown, George Mills and Bob Yentsch.

Brown said that the Christmas decorations committee headed by Mrs. Mona Bridges and Mrs. Lorraine Sulvich is planning to erect a lighted Christmas tree and a huge billboard-type sign near the "Y" junction of French Avenue and Park Avenue, which will spell out, "Sanford Wish—You A Merry Christmas."

The sign is to be done in fluorescent letters, lighted with "black light." Harper volunteered to supply and install the black lights for the committee.

Pleased with this idea, those representing the Merchants Association indicated that they would see that a matching sign was erected at the northern entrance to the city where French Avenue intersects Seminole Boulevard.

There were numerous suggestions for a change in the name of the merchants association so that it gives a clearer indication of the scope of the city's business area, and covers all business men rather than merchants.

"We're not all merchants—many of us are in services, but we are still Sanford businessmen," said Bob Yentsch.

Names suggested included such titles as "Greater Sanford Business Association," "Greater Sanford Board of Trade" and "Greater Sanford Board of Commerce."

Bonnie Werley Heads Homemakers Class

By Jane Casselberry
New officers of the Christian Homemakers Class assumed their duties at a meeting in Weaver Hall of Casselberry Community Methodist Church.

They are Mrs. Bonnie Werley, vice president; Mrs. Nanette Oakley, secretary; and Mrs. Mary Pyle, treasurer.

The group includes members of the two adult Sunday School classes taught by Mrs. Joanne Shea and Rev. Delmas Copeland.

Committee chairmen are Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Weyers and Mr. and Mrs. Altan Boone, membership and visitation; Mrs. Marge Deppen, welfare; Mrs. June Griffith, program; Mr. and Mrs. Don MacLeod, social; and Mrs. Leonard Casselberry, publicity.

The class is making plans to assist a family in need at Christmas with food, clothing, and gifts.

The class voted to send Christmas gifts of $10 to the Indian orphan it supports and $25 to the Huxlett family, missionaries supported by the class in Africa.

Mrs. Ruth Montgomery was in charge of the program and those present shared their thoughts on blessings for which they were most thankful.

Hostesses for the social hour which followed the meeting were Mrs. June Griffith and Mrs. Mary Pyle. Delightful refreshments of gingerbread topped with lemon sauce and whipped cream and coffee were served. The serving table was beautifully decorated with candles and a horn of plenty in the Thanksgiving motif.

No significant rises or declines were recorded in the various categories of the forest products market. Pulpwood income accounted for 71% of the total dollar volume, relatively unchanged since 1962. Wood naval stores, up about 1 per cent in volume, was second with a wholesale manufactured value of $52,250,000.

Lumber production, third in importance, dropped about 13 per cent to 300,000,000 board feet, but because of firmer markets fell back only 5 per cent in dollar volume to $19,354,000.

An invitation to the board of directors of the Merchants Association and city commissioners to meet with his group on Dec. 1 for further discussion of numerous suggestions and ideas made by representatives of both groups.

Juvenile Court Functions Told CYC Meeting

By Donna Estes
Juvenile Court Judge Vernon Mize was guest speaker at the meeting of the Catholic Youth Club at All Soul's Church social hall in Sanford. The program was sponsored by the Youth Activities Committee of St. Richard's Council 5357, Knights of Columbus, with Ralph Pezold in charge.

Judge Mize, in his talk to the approximate 60 young people attending, explained functions of the juvenile court, pointing out that offenders under 17 years come under his jurisdiction with persons older being tried before the adult courts.

He advised that records of juvenile hearings are not open to the public and that punishment for offenses range from probation to complete removal from parental authority.

He warned that a serious juvenile record may be felt in later life by including an offender from service in the armed forces, from some employment including classified government work and from the practice of law.

He commended the CYC for its church activities and stated that young people active in their churches rarely get into serious trouble.

A question and answer period followed.

Preceding his talk, the Club attended Mass and received a Corporate Communion. A light breakfast was served in the social hall.

Officers of the organization are Miss Peggy Nolte, president; Greg Heath, vice president and Miss Andrea Boggs, secretary-treasurer.

Labor Force Up

Charlie's Future Hangs By 'String'

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — a dinner coming up next week.

Charlie is a hamster whose appetite is sure to get him in trouble unless some pretty secretaries can have his job changed.

Halligan agreed that if the girls chip in to buy the lab another hamster, Charlie won't have to eat the test food. But it still hasn't been worked out in the negotiations whether the reprieve is permanent or whether, if Charlie's stand-in isn't so lucky, Charlie will be back on the firing line for the next job.

Charlie is the chief poison tester for the Florida Sheriff's Bureau crime laboratory. When all possible chemical analysis fails to determine whether suspected food is poisoned, Charlie gets the food for the final check.

So far, Charlie has been lucky enough to survive all his meals, and thus given the food a clean bill of health.

"He's been lucky up to now, but eventually he'll go," says lab chief Jim Halligan with clinical coldness.

But the secretaries in the office have taken to Charlie and are worried about his next big working date with

'Spice Of Life'

Competition, they say, is the spice of life. But duplication is not only worthless, it's expensive.

During the early twenties, civic minded Sanford area leaders established what then was known as the Sanford Board of Trade. A few years later it became the Seminole County Chamber of Commerce.

Aside from municipal and county governing boards, the Seminole chamber has been the most instrumental agency in the economic life of the county and — through the efforts of its members — has done more to bring Seminole where it is today than any other single group.

Because of this, the senior trade body primarily has been supported financially by the City of Sanford and the Board of County Commissioners, plus the membership fees of the business firms and professional people.

Because of the interest of so many individuals the Seminole chamber, down through the years, has had the best possible leadership available. Its list of past presidents, for example, would be difficult to distinguish from a list of Who's Who in the county's history of growth and development.

The agency has also been blessed with tremendous leadership on the part of its managers. The Herald can recall such men as Karl Lehman and Ed Higgins, each of whom worked as tirelessly and geared their lives to the organization's success just as John Krider does today.

But, now, we are all embarrassed. Into the civic life of this area has come the Sanford Chamber of Commerce. Undoubtedly its aims and objectives are commendable. But it is creating embarrassment to the business and professional people of this area who find it difficult to divide their loyalty and their financial support between two chambers.

It also has placed the City of Sanford in an embarrassing situation. Sanford's governing board has always given its support to the Seminole chamber. Now, the Sanford chamber wants the City's support. If the City Commission withholds its support of the Seminole chamber the senior trade body's very existence would be jeopardized. Too, without the City Commission's financial support the Sanford chamber cannot exist.

It's also a fact — proven by experience — that two chambers cannot operate successfully in one major area. And, in a county with the physical makeup of Seminole, this fact is particularly important.

It is apparent that there is no place for two chambers in the Sanford area.

On the other hand, this does not mean those who are interested primarily in the Sanford area cannot have an organization to carry out their objectives. It can be done if the leadership of the Sanford chamber will unite its forces with those of the Seminole chamber — as a division of the one major chamber, much in the same manner as has been accomplished with the Sanford Merchants Association.

Unity on this basis will provide coordination instead of duplication, a united front instead of competition.

The fact is — and it, to us, is as plain as can be — that two organizations cannot exist. If both have to depend upon divided loyalty they both will fail. If the two unite, under conditions acceptable to both, much can be accomplished toward a more effective program of progress.

It seems to us that the decision now lies in the hands of the board of directors of the Sanford chamber. Without financial support from the City it cannot exist. If it gets that support, the Seminole chamber cannot exist.

The Herald has no quarrel with what the Sanford chamber seeks to accomplish. But we do believe that experience, coupled with present circumstances, indicates that it can best be carried out on a unified front.

Bruce Blossat -- Ray Cromley Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) —

The game of diplomatic musical chairs, involving a change in several key ambassadorial posts, is on in earnest in the capital.

Our man in London, David K. E. Bruce, is moving toward retirement. Presently marked for this highly prized spot is George McGee, U.S. ambassador to West Germany and a close friend of President Johnson.

McGee is a Texas geologist who did diplomatic duty in the Truman administration and was called back to the firing line by his old friend and Oxford compatriot, Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

If any should argue that McGee is not ideally suited for dealings with Britain's new Labor government, it should be noted that he would be backed up by our new minister (second man) in London, Philip Kiser. Kiser's background includes study in Britain and duty here as an assistant secretary of labor for international affairs.

In the event the Bonn Spot opens up through transfer of McGee, the likeliest replacement is said to be William Tyler, now assistant secretary of state for European Affairs.

Ambassador Frederic Rehnardt in Italy should be coming home soon after long years abroad. He probably can command a reasonably high State Department post.

No one is clearly set for Rome. It might go to Llewellyn Thompson, who would like one more overseas assignment before retiring. But, as former U.S. ambassador to Russia, he is being leaned on heavily by the President and others for counsel on Soviet matters.

Another possibility is Stanley Marcus of the Dallas department store family. Also a presidential friend, he would be new to diplomacy, though he has been a government adviser.

The veteran careerist, Charles (Chip) Bohlen, ambassador to France, is expected to stay in Paris a while longer. Yet some sources describe him as tired and dispirited, this last through lack of progress in dealings with the old rascal, President Charles de Gaulle. He might get out before next summer.

U.S. ambassador Robert Woodward in Spain is another who is due to bow out. For this career man, retirement beckons. His successor evidently has not been settled upon.

A prospect is Chief of Protocol Angier Biddle Duke, who wants to leave his present duties and would like a good post in a Spanish-speaking country. He once served as ambassador to El Salvador. If Duke does not get Madrid, he might be given a top Latin-American assignment. Venezuela is one of the good openings.

All set for Duke's protocol job, of course, is Lloyd Hamill, friend of guess who, Texas migrant to California, often styled this year as "Lynlon's man in California."

Apparently a fixture at least until spring, when the new United Nations session is expected to run its course, is UN Ambassador Adlai Stevenson.

One source says Stevenson is viewed by some as an ideal man for London and would be hard to refuse if he gave the signal. But no one here reports any smoke wafting from the top of the UN building in New York.

Stevenson's UN spot largely regarded now as a rich plum, since it affords the occupant a great showcase from which to build national political status. Henry Cabot Lodge's 1960 jump to the GOP vice presidential nomination illustrates.

Stevenson has abandoned political ambition, but he is believed today to enjoy the UN post far more than he once did. Should he have a change of heart, there will be no lack of candidates for his important assignment.

Phil Newsom Says . . .

'Not One Kopek'

When the United Nations General Assembly opens its delayed session on Dec. 1, it will be faced almost at once with two important issues.

One will deal with the question of the admission of Red China, which the United States always has opposed adamantly.

The other is of more pressing immediate importance and deals with the Soviet Union's continuing insistence that it will pay "not one kopek" of its assessed share of the costs of the United Nations peace-keeping operations in the Congo and the Middle East.

That share amounts to $52.6 million and the United States is insisting that since the debt now is more than two years old the Soviet Union should lose its vote in the General Assembly under Article 19 of the UN charter.

France also has refused to pay its Congo assessment and becomes liable to Article 19's two-year limit on Jan. 1.

For their part, the Russians have said they will quit the United Nations if they lose their vote, and there the matter rests in stalemate.

It is rated the most serious crisis to face the United Nations since the death of former UN Secretary General Dag

Hammarstrand when only direct negotiations between the U.S. and the Soviet Union were able to break a deadlock on selection of his successor.

That compromise resulted in the appointment of U Thant, the Burmese diplomat who continues to hold the job.

Withdrawal of either the United States or the Soviet Union would end hope for the continued effectiveness of the world body.

The most hopeful signs are that both the U.S. and the Soviets reportedly have given assurances that they seek a solution, and that talks between the two may already have started. The talks are necessary if a crisis is to be averted.

On the question of Red China, the prospects seem to be that for this year the United States once more will be successful in barring Red Chinese membership, but for this year only.

France and Britain's new Labor government both are expected to vote for admission. Any new agreement reached by the Chinese and the Soviets also could result in heavier Soviet pressure to admit the Mao Tse Tung regime at the expense of the nationalists of Chiang Kai-shek.

By next year it is expected that enough of the underdeveloped nations also will swing to the Red Chinese side to change the balance.

The two issues face the United States and the Russians with major decisions. Each will have to decide on its own the continuing value of the world body.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Jerry's case illustrates the difference between Country Clubber families vs. those whose major recreation is centered in their local church. This case will infuriate a lot of readers but face the facts, especially if you are parents of children not yet through high school. As the Bible says, you cannot serve God and Mammon, so you must make a choice!

CASE U-441: Jerry L., aged 14, is the potential juvenile delinquent mentioned yesterday.

His parents gave him a weekly allowance of $10 and he had no chores, so he hatched up trouble largely to occupy his idle time.

"Idle hands are the devil's workshop," runs an ancient truism that is becoming more apparent every day in America.

As our work week shortens and more children are coddled by the "allowance" plan, we simply encourage more delinquency!

So Jerry's problem goes back to his parents. "Bad children usually have bad parents," is another adage that is pertinent right here.

His parents were engulfed in the present tendency to try to keep up with the social set of their community.

You can test your neighborhood by seeing how many people belong to the social set, as evidenced by bridge clubs, Country Clubs, etc., vs. those who are active members in local churches.

A few families in every community try to straddle the fence and stay in both sets, but this isn't very feasible.

For you haven't adequate time for both and you might as well face up to these facts, even though you resent me for bringing the spotlight upon them.

For you are either a Country Clubber (golf, liquor, cigars and poker partying type) or a stable moral anchor of your local church.

If you belong to the typical Country Clubber group, then your child is not as likely to have handled a newspaper route or to have earned his spending money by performing chores in the community.

There may be occasional exceptions, but the children of Country Clubbers may know how to dance the latest crazy twists, but not be able to bake a cake or operate a household on a budget.

It is morally an injustice to a child to put him on a family "dole" otherwise called a weekly allowance.

For "allowance" kids in high school tend to become "remittance" husbands or wives after marriage, who look to their in-laws for cash handouts to finance their new homes.

Teenagers who have earned their own money are thus far more resourceful.

They also have a better "bargain sense" for the act of saving a few pennies becomes a savorful game to them.

Country Clubbers' children don't appreciate bargains as much for their money has come too easily and without much hard work, callousness, sweat or diligence to duty.

The children of the Country Clubbers tend to float through college, aided by tutors or hired frat brothers who write their theses and even sit in for them at final exams.

If you want to be GOOD parents, then send for the 200-point "Rating Scales for Good Parents," enclosing a long stamped, return envelope, plus 20 cents.

It requires hard work to be a good parent and you can't slough off your parental duties by hiring tutors, governesses or asking Boy Scout leaders, YMCA secretaries, and Summer Camp directors to be your proxies!

Delinquency among our so-called "better class" or Country Clubber families is now notorious in America.

So choose between God or Mammon, as the Bible recommends

The Lighter Side

WASHINGTON (UPI) — I have heard people say that they like to live in the nation's capital because it gives them a sense of participating in history.

That may strike you as a rather ridiculous thing for anyone to say, but I understand what they mean. I get the same feeling myself on occasions.

My sense of historic participation is particularly sharp whenever I am witnessing a presentation ceremony at the Smithsonian Institution.

During the past few years, the Smithsonian has accepted for its collection such history-laden items as a World War II Jeep, a set of Burma Shave signs and the first silk purse ever made from a sow's ear. And I was there.

I was there again this week when the 114-year-old Levi Strauss & Co. of San Francisco rendered into the Smithsonian an historic pair of blue jeans. Or at least they were described as "historic" in the company's press release.

Frankly, I thought the term was used rather loosely. These weren't the blue jeans that Marie Antoinette wore to the guillotine, or that Hannibal wore crossing the Alps, or that Noah wore in the Ark.

In fact, this particular pair, which was made around 1935, never did anything very historic. Rather, it symbolized the part the blue jeans played in the winning of the West.

The company also presented the museum a pair of brown canvas pants (circa 1870), which were the first kind that old Levi Strauss made; a pair of brown duck pants, and a pair of 1964 blue jeans.

Together, they show the development of western style trousers, which in my opinion have been retrogressing. The brown ducks are more my style than the blue jeans.

But I realize I'm in the minority. As John C. Ewers, director of the Smithsonian's Museum of History and Technology, pointed out, blue jeans are an authentic American folk costume, worn by Indians as well as cowboys and by women as well as men.

I believe the record will show that it was about the time that women started wearing blue jeans that things began going downhill.

Levi's now are obtainable in effete eastern models that are preshrunk and have zippers. However, a company spokesman told me that westerners still prefer the original creation.

He also told me why Levi's have copper rivets on the pockets. They were added after the California gold rush so that the miners could carry around nuggets without splitting their seams.

And that's how the West was won.

Highlights

FRIDAY P. M.

10-11 p. m. NBC. "NBC Follies of 1965." (color) An entertaining, hour-long variety program, notable chiefly for its songs, dances and its abundance of talent. Steve Lawrence heads an all-star cast and he's never been in better voice or more charming. Juliet Prowse dances well, Allan Sherman is an affable clown. Jill St. John is a doll, the bitter End Singers enhance their cause and Nipsey Russell has some comedy spots. Actually, the comedy on the show is best used as a means of getting into the musical numbers. You should enjoy Steve's "What Is This Thing Called Love," "Cotton Fields," and "People" and his participation with Miss Prowse and Miss St. John on "Guys and Dolls," with Sherman and Miss St. John on "A Hymn to Him," with almost everyone on Allan Sherman's "Good Advice" and his clowning with Russell on "Open Up The Doghouse."

7:30-8:30 p. m. CBS. Rawhide. "The Backshooter." Rowdy tries to do a good turn for an outlaw who's befriended him and gets himself in a big mess. Everyone thinks he's shot the man in the back for the reward money, which, as regular viewers know, is just impossible. Clint Eastwood does his usual good job as Rowdy and he's helped out by Slim Pickens, no stranger to westerners, as a sheriff, and Louis Hayward, of all people, as the man dispensing the reward money.

8:30-9:30 p. m. CBS. The Entertainers. A vastly improved show this week if only for the absence of desperation rock 'n' roll bootlegs. Ailing Carol Burnett is seen in several pre-taped numbers and skits. Bob Newhart has a couple of comedy monologues, and there's a good dance interpretation of "Smoke Gets In Your Eyes" by Don Crichton. But the best spots on the show are musical, with John Davidson singing "All The Way." Caterina Valente doing "Love Walked In" and ebullient Tessie O'Shea doing her club act medley of "Two Ton Tessie" and "Sixpence."

8:30-9 p. m. ABC. The Addams Family meets the Vips. Very funny episode. A couple of visiting dignitaries from behind the Iron Curtain are unhappy with what they've been shown. They demand to see a typical American family and you can guess which one they choose at random. Plenty of laughs as they see the casual home life of the Addams clan and believe this sort of thing is duplicated across the country.

9:30-10 p. m. NBC. Jack Benny program "Jack Hires a Cook." Rochester demands and gets a week off after 20 years of loyal, uninterrupted service to Jack but his vacation is ruined when he picks up a paper and sees that Jack's advertising for domestic help. There are some funny bits as Don Wilson and Dennis Day concoct a scheme to insure Rochester's job and Jane Dulo gets some laughs as the new maid.

9:30-10:30 p. m. ABC. 12 O'Clock High "Interlude." The title tells the story. General Savage shows signs of tension so he's forced to take a furlough. Going to Scotland, he meets a WREN Lieutenant, and after a few stormy introductory sessions, their friendship blossoms. But, as in all good continuing TV series, it's another case of star-crossed lovers. It's a pleasure to see the human side of Savage for a change and Robert Lansing is better than usual in the role. Guest Star Dana Wynter brightens any TV show she visits and she's particularly wistful and appealing in this one.

Saturday P. M.
10-11 p. m. CBS. Gunsmoke. "Big Man, Big Target." Matt

sets involved in a domestic triangle, and, as all of these inevitably do on TV westerns, it leads to violence. A farmer is framed by his unfaithful wife and her lover and Matt arrests him. In the process, he's forced to arrest the other man on suspicion of murder, turning him into an enemy. Once again, Matt is almost gunned down, an innocent man dies and the show reaches its climax in a two-listed showdown with an unusual added element of danger injected for thrills. Good show, building nicely after a slow start. J. D. Cannon, as usual, turns in a nice performance as the villain.

4:30-5 p. m. ABC. ABC's Wide World of Sports. A special two-and-a-half-hour expanded edition devoted to the Canadian Professional Football Championship for the Grey Cup trophy. Curt Gowdy does play-by-play and Paul Christian color on this telecast from the Canadian National Exposition in Toronto. Continuing trends had not been decided at press time, with results waiting for the conclusion of the playoffs. Football fans are advised to note carefully the several sharp differences from American rules.

7:30-8:30 p. m. CBS. The Jackie Gleason Show. There's a little variation to the routine tonight with the featuring of night-club and TV comic Adam Keefe. Adam will do pantomime, sound effects, double-talk and mimic some of our more famous monsters. Jackie's monologue concerns the movies of yesterday and today. The rest of the show is the same as last week, and the week before that and the week before that, etc.

7:30-8:30 p. m. ABC. The Outer Limits. "The Inheritors." (Part II) Last week's eerie thriller is concluded in a somewhat let-down mystical way (lesser Ray Bradbury style) as the four ex-G.I.'s now possessed of superhuman intellects and powers complete their mysterious project, which turns out to be sort of a benevolent, interstellar Pied Piper affair. Moderately interesting and reasonably well played, it might have been a lot better. If you caught last week's, you won't want to miss it.

8:30-9 p. m. NBC. Kentucky Joneses. "Goodbye, Tiger." Cuts show, Ike falls out of a tree and bangs his head. When he hears Kentucky talking about a falling old dog on the phone, he's convinced he's not long for this world and prepares for his end, Oriental style. A corny situation, but thanks to Rickey Der, it plays well. The end is particularly amusing as Ike is faced with the prospect of telling the truth to his army of potential mourners.

9:11-25 p. m. NBC. Saturday Supercade. "STANLEY JUPIN Woman." (Color) This romantic comedy stars Gregory Peck and Lauren Bacall as two people who get married after a whirlwind courtship and find their life is complicated by their professions. Peck is a crusading sports writer, Lauren is one of New York's top fashion designers. Peck can't stand fashion shows; Lauren hates sports. The marriage is further complicated by Dolores Gray, who portrays Peck's former girl friend.

9:30-10:30 p. m. ABC. Holly wood Palace. Tony Martin's no fool. He's tonight's host and he insures the success of the hour by booking his wife Cyd Charisse as his number-one guest. Cyd is as lovely and agile as ever; Tony sings well and is thoroughly charming. To counteract this overabundance of charm, scribe Jack E. Leonard is on hand to bring things back to earth. Ted Lewis guests with some of his standard material and Johnny Puleo brings his harmonica antics to the show. The usual assortment of miscellaneous acts help make the time pass swiftly and entertainingly.

Sunday P. M.
6:30-7:30 p. m. NBC. Profiles In Courage. "The Thomas Hart Benton Story." An inspiring story. Senator Benton of Missouri puts his entire political career on the line by opposing the wishes of his advisers and constituents and standing against permitting slavery in the west. A good dramatic treatment and some very good playing from Brian Keith is fine as Benton; Carl Benton Reid as Calhoun; Russell Collins as Senator Foot; Geraldine McEwan, Lamont Johnson, Jason Wingreen and the others all do very well indeed.

11:30-12 a. m. ABC. Discovery '64. "What's Funny." In light of this season's wave of trashy and witless situation comedies, this is a pertinent half hour. This show examines a lot of what's funny stems from the inspiration of silent movies. You'll see film clips of Buster Keaton, Charlie Chaplin, Harry Gribbon, The Keystone Cops and Laurel & Hardy.

5-5:30 p. m. NBC. Wild Kingdom. "Cattail Country." (Color) Another good half-hour study of wildlife filmed in the U. S. and in Canada. Most interesting section deals with the herding, trapping and banding of wild ducks.

7:30-8 p. m. My Favorite Martian. Will our Martian ever get back home and in one piece? It seems doubtful, considering the trials he's put through on earth. In this frequently funny episode, his space ship falls into the clutches of a wilful little boy. And if the Martian can't beat little boys, week after week, there seems little hope for him. Todd Baron is the boy and Ray Watson continues to play the Martian in customary fashion.

7:30-8:30 p. m. NBC. Walt Disney Presents. "Toby Tyler." (Part two) (Color) Concluding episode in this saga aimed at children. In this one Toby gets into further misadventures with the circus, tries his skill as a trick horseback rider, runs away from the circus with a climp in hot pursuit and generally gets into and out of enough scrapes to keep the younger viewer glued to the set. Kevin Corcoran plays Toby, but the star of the show is Mr. Stubbs, the chimp.

7:30-8:30 p. m. ABC. Wagon Train. "The Richard Bloodgood Story." Guy Stockwell persists as a blind man determined to gun down Coop, whom he blames for his blindness and the death of his fiancée. Once this situation is set up, there's a lot of tension as you wonder how and when the showdown is going to take place. Robert Fuller (Coop) gets a chance to chew a bit of scenery in this one as the tensions of the situation catch up to him. And Frank McGrath (Wooster) gets a chance to play bumbling detective as he tries to learn the truth behind the feud.

8-9 p. m. CBS. The Ed Sullivan Show. Members of 1944 All-America football team are not the only stars on Ed's stage tonight. He also presents Ella Fitzgerald, Myron Coren and Gordon and Sheila MacRae. Also on hand will be the Oberkirchen Children's Choir from Germany; comedian Des O'Conner from England and Jorgen and Conny, a European balancing act.

8:30-10 p. m. NBC. "The World's Greatest Showman" (Color) (Rerun) Another typically extravagant Hollywood title. This is not about Barnum, but rather about Cecil B. De Mille. The show consists of 90 minutes of interesting tribute to the film producer noted for his lavish spectacles. There are scenes from many of his biggest movies and a lot of sulogizing from stars who worked for him. Movie buffs will love this.

8:30-9 p. m. ABC. Broadside. "Anne Bugs The Enemy." The enemy of course isn't the Japanese Empire, it's Commander Adrian. Gourmet Adrian has come up with a new recipe, cooking the goose of the Wave contingent and the only way the girls can find out how to combat him is to plant a tape recorder on his premises. This leads to some funny developments and there's a good slapstick scene as Anne (Kathy Nolan) tries to retrieve a damaging roll of tape from Adrian's (Edward Andrews) quarters under his nose.

9-11 p. m. ABC. Sunday Night Movie. "Solomon and Sheba." One of Hollywood's biggest biblical specials starring Yul Brynner, Gina Lollobrigida, George Sanders and Marisa Pavan. Gina is Sheba (naturally) and she tries to conquer Solomon to take over Israel. Having failed that she gets the king (Brynner) to fall in love with her. When she fails for him, her plans are stymied. Throughout the romancing, George Sanders, as Solomon's brother, is a thorn in the king's side. Lots of pageantry and the usual cast of thousands.

Missionary's Death Cited As Inspiration
By Frank L. Spencer
United Press International
"And at that time there was a great persecution against the church . . . therefore they went everywhere preaching the word." —Acts of the Apostles 8—
CHICAGO (UPI) — The church has always thrived in the midst of persecution and that's why Dr. Paul Carlson may be an even greater missionary in death than he was in life.

Rev. Harold Cook, of Moody Bible Institute, a non-denominational facility which has turned out 4,200 missionary-trained students in 78 years, says the martyrdom in the Congo "undoubtedly will strengthen the purpose of our young people in missionary training."

"Our people are prepared to die," he said.

In 1956, five missionaries died in Ecuador at the hands of the Aucas Indian tribe. In the months that followed dozens of persons committed their lives to missions. They said the martyr of the missionaries was the motivation.

Rev. Cook, chairman of the department of missions at Moody, said 17 Moody graduates have met violent death while spreading the gospel.

"Our students know of these," he said. "I never have heard of any being deterred."

The students know there is danger where they are going."

One of the institute's students Judson Clementes, 28, Lafayette, Ga., said, "If you have received the call of God nothing will keep you from the place where you're needed."

Clementes and his wife, Susan, a nurse from Little Falls, N. Y., plan to be in the Congo in the latter part of 1965.

Robert Gordon, 27, of Elgin, Ill., and his wife, Edyth, from South Bend, Ind., hope to be in the Congo in a matter of weeks.

"I feel that hundreds of boys and girls will be inspired by the things that have happened in the Congo," Gordon said. "My wife and I are very anxious to get there."

"I want to go back and I will go back as soon as there is a government that will let me," said Mrs. Virginia Michon, Canonsburg, Pa., who has been head nurse at the institute clinic since August. At that time she was evacuated.

"They forced me to leave in the middle of a smallpox epidemic," Mrs. Michon said. "The example of Dr. Carlson will inspire all of us."

"We are not afraid," Gordon said. "You see, our lives are not our own."

"But ye shall receive power that the Holy Ghost is come upon you; And ye shall be witnesses unto Me both in Jerusalem, and in all Judea, and in Samaria, and unto the uttermost part of the earth."

Thanksgiving Past, LBJ Takes It Easy

JOHNSON CITY, Tex. (UPI) — President Johnson relaxed with a no-appointments schedule at his LBJ Ranch today following a Thanksgiving that combined the traditional turkey and football with phone calls to Washington.

Johnson talked by phone with Defense Secretary Robert McNamara, Secretary of State Dean Rusk and Treasury Secretary Douglas Dillon before sitting down to a late turkey dinner Thursday.

The dinner was put off until early in the evening to give the Johnson girls, Lynda Bird and Luci, time to attend the Thanksgiving Day Texas football classic—the annual grudge match between the University of Texas and Texas A&M. Texas, Lynda Bird's old school, won 26-7.

Social Security Facts Outlined

"A little knowledge is always a dangerous thing. When it comes to social security, it can also be very costly," said Col. Byron R. Patton, manager of the Social Security Office in Orlando. He explained to The Herald that many people pick up just enough information to cause trouble. In many cases, it causes them to lose money.

Col. Patton pointed out that some people think they need birth certificates to draw social security checks. Others think social security checks are figured on the last five years of work before retiring. Still others say they can't draw social security if they make over $1200.

"There's just enough truth in these things to cause trouble," said Colonel Patton. He explained that a birth certificate is not required to draw social security, but there must be some record of the person's age. The last five years of work under social security are considered in figuring the check, but they may or may not be used.

The monthly payment is based on an average of a number of years, after dropping out five of the lowest years. And, contrary to popular belief, it's possible to make well over $1200 in a year and still get some social security checks.

"These are just a few of the things folks don't understand about social security," said Colonel Patton. He suggested that the way to get the facts is to call or visit the social security office.

Kennedy Baby Dies Wednesday

Vickie Lynn Kennedy, 18-month-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie D. Kennedy, 2406 Cedar Avenue, died Wednesday night at Seminole Memorial Hospital following a short illness.

Born May 6, 1963, in Sanford, she is survived by her parents, a sister, Karen, and a brother, Gary; grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Wildt, of Sanford, and Mr. and Mrs. D. D. Kennedy, of Winter Garden.

Alabama Rolls Up Perfect Grid Season

Meets Texas New Year's In Orange Bowl

By Gary Kalk
UPI Sports Writer

Alabama completed a perfect college football season and now waits to see if Notre Dame can be dethroned as the No. 1 team in the nation.

The No. 1 Alabama team, Orange Bowl-bound, won its 10th consecutive game Thursday by defeating Auburn, 21-14, with the help of a recovery and some fumble by Steve Newman and a 107-yard kick-off return by Ray Ogden.

Notre Dame (9-0) winds up its campaign against Southern California Saturday.

Texas, Alabama's New Year's Day opponent, routed Texas A&M, 26-7, before a crowd of 65,000 at Austin, Tex., that included President Johnson's two daughters, Lynda and Luci.

Jerry Rhoads was assured of national passing records for season and career accuracy as he led Tulsa to a 21-7 triumph over Wichita. Rhoads completed 19 of 29 passes for 324 yards. He threw touchdown passes of 11 yards to Howard Twilley and 12 to Brent Roberts. He scored the other hurricane TD on an eight-yard heave.

Quarterback Dennis Haglan passed for three touchdowns in William and Mary's 25-13 posting of Richmond. He rushed Nandy Gienakamp on a 10-yarder, pitched 23 yards to Danny Mass and then seven to George Pearce.

Bob Schweikert and Sonny Ute rolled up 873 yards running and passing as Virginia Tech trounced Virginia Military, 25-12. Schweikert scored twice and passed for two other VPI touchdowns.

Colorado State University walloped wireless Texas Western, 35-8, with Jess Willis contributing two scores, one of an 83 yard gallop.

The East beat the West, 10-13, in the sixth annual Gem Bowl game at Erie, Pa., and Phoenix College swamped Oklahoma Military Academy, 41-13, to win the National Junior College Athletic Association football championship.

In Saturday's traditional closing games, Notre Dame is favored by 10 over Southern Cal, Navy by 7 over Army, Boston College 13 over Holy Cross, Florida 7 over Miami, Fla., TCU 1 over SMU, Rice 3 over Baylor, Tennessee 4 over Vanderbilt and Georgia-Georgia Tech, pick 'em.

Veterans Tied In Mexico Golf

MEXICO CITY (UPI) — Roberto De Vincenzo, of Argentina, and George Enudson, of Canada, two long-time veterans of international play, were tied for first place entering today's second round of the Mexico National golf tournament. Each shot a 67 Thursday.

Pro Draft Blows Hot For Top College QBs

NEW YORK (NEA) — A Y. A. Title who set down in the locker room the second half and couldn't remember anything for 15 minutes was the subject of New York Giants frustration. And over on the Pittsburgh side, Buddy Faylor was saying that he didn't really have very good quarterbacks, either.

So down in Tuscaloosa, Ala., and out in Berkeley, Calif., a couple of kids named Joe Namath and Craig Morton should have their tax accountants handy on Saturday morning when the pros sit down to draft their hirings of the future. They're what the Giants and Steelers and a half dozen other teams in the National Football League will be looking for—quarterbacks who make winners.

My hunch is that the Giants who expect (and might want) Title to retire, will go for Namath when they lead off the 1964 draft for the NFL because the Alabama pitcher is a winner and always has been. The factor militating against him is that the happy Hungarian from Beaver Falls, Pa.,

Trumble is the coach of the Montreal Alouettes. Since the Canadians generally don't get the top dollar boys, he can affect disinterest. Jim and Dan Rooney of the Steelers (who traded away their No. 1 choice) helped me compile a list of the top 10—the big hits in the college draft. It goes in this general order.

Morton, Buklus, Namath, back Tucker Fredericks of Auburn, back Gale Sayers of Kansas, flanker Fred Biletnikoff of Florida State, linebacker Glenn Resler of Penn State, flanker Larry Elkins of Baylor, guard Steve DeLong of Tennessee and halfback Donnie Anderson of Texas Tech.

Anderson is a "future," which means he has another year of college eligibility. But the Chicago Bears could afford to wait a year because, after the Giants choose, they get the next three draftees, thanks to trades with the Steelers and Redskins. They'll have a chance at Morton or Namath and likely Buklus, too.

Picking the most popular in this grab-bag is precarious because teams have desperate needs. Parker, for instance, feels most of the quarterbacks will be gone by the time Pittsburgh drafts, so he's looking for receivers.

A second tier of blue chip prospects includes: Ken Willard (North Carolina), Tom Myers (Northwestern), John Huarte and Jack Snow (Notre Dame), Roy Jefferson (Utah), Bob Schweikert (VPI), Harry Schuch (Memphis State), Tom Vaughan (Iowa State), Remi Prudhomme (LSU), Alphonse Dotson (Grambling), Vernon Biggs (Jackson State), Clarence Williams (Washington State).

Blue chips have a way of paying off.

has a reputation as a leaver, and the Giants already have had enough of that with their No. 1 choice last year, Joe Don Looney.

Morton might appeal to them as something more in their image, and besides the California passer stands an impressive 6-4 with an arm that has racked up every throwing record in the school's history.

Then there's a theory that you draft the best prospect regardless of position, and trade for a quarterback (like they once did with Title). A quick canvas of NFL teams dredges up four who might be available for the right price—Jim Niowski of Cleveland, John Brodie of San Francisco, Ron Vanderkolk of Minnesota, George Izo of Washington.

Their advantage is exposure to pro ball and instant utility, so you might go for a Dick Butkus (Illinois linebacker) to get one of them.

"If I were drafting from New York," said Jim Trimble, "I'd take Namath. He's a tough kid from the coal regions."

DELAND'S KENNY GILL, an outstanding Bulldog halfback, doesn't get anywhere on this attempted end sweep. He's stopped in Wednesday night's SHS-DeLand tilt by Al Boniface (12) and Bill Kuykendall (80).

Michigan Given Edge Over UCLA

By George C. Longford
UPI Sports Writer

NEW YORK (UPI) — Although the same two teams are expected to battle again for the major college basketball championship, Michigan is given a five-point edge over defending champion UCLA today in the United Press International pre-season ratings.

Michigan, collecting 19 first-place votes and 329 points, and UCLA, gathering 15 firsts and 225 points, stand far above the rest of field in the eyes of the 35 coaches on the rating board.

The Wolverines are expected to parlay added experience and All-America candidates Cassis Russell and Bill Buntin into an even better record than last year's 23-5 mark.

Army And Navy Coaches Battle

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (UPI) — Army Coach Paul Dietzel, who has referred to his counterpart at Navy as a "gimmick coach," was the object of a verbal broadside attack Thursday night during the Army-Navy rally at the Naval Academy.

Firing the first salvo at Dietzel, who has criticized Navy's annual use of uniform "trickery," was Navy Coach Wayne Hardin, himself.

Speaking from a platform adjacent to a two-story pile of lumber that later succumbed to a fiery torch, Hardin said of Dietzel, "I've never heard a man talk so much and win so little."

Hardin, holder of an unprecedented five straight wins over Army, including two against Dietzel-coached teams, also referred to the West Point mentor's constant harping on last year's 21-15 Navy victory, in which the game ended with Army on the Midties two-yard line.

Predicting another Navy victory Saturday, Hardin said, "It makes no difference whether we play 60 minutes or 80 minutes and one second."

A full slate of eleven games will get under way at 7:40 p. m. tonight.

Brazil Fighter To Defend Title

BOGOTA, Colombia (UPI) — Unbeaten Eder Joffe of Brazil attempts his eighth defense of the world bantamweight championship tonight against unbeaten Bernardo Caraballo of Colombia here at Campin Stadium.

A near-capacity crowd of 40,000 is expected.

Rampaging Hurricanes Face Gators

GAINESVILLE (UPI) — A rampaging Miami team that has won its last four football games will invade Florida Field Saturday to play a three-out-of-five series with the Gators.

The Hurricanes, led by sophomore quarterback Bob Biletnikoff, have recovered from a slow start to post a 4-4 record and pose a definite threat to the Gators.

Aided by two Vanderbilt fumbles, Biletnikoff scored an amazing three touchdowns in three minutes and 14 seconds last week as the Hurricanes rolled over the Commodores 25-17.

The Biletnikoff name is a familiar one to the Gators. His brother, Fred, caught a 58-yard touch-down pass against them last week in Florida State's 14-7 victory.

While Tom Shannon is expected to start at quarterback for Florida, Steve Spurrier is recovering fast from a leg bruise and is expected to see plenty of action.

The combination of Spurrier passing to lone nose end Charles Casey has been Florida's most effective weapon this season.

Irigo, Rafael Battle Tonight

Irigo and Rafael will be battling it out for first place in the win column when play starts at the Orlando-Seminole Fronton tonight. Both players are currently deadlocked with 20 victories each.

Rafael scored back to back wins in the fifth and sixth games last night to raise his season total to 20. Irigo has been on a winning streak, posted eight victories in the first three days of this week to put himself right up at the top.

Stetson Wins

WINTER PARK (UPI) — Stetson University has wrapped up the 1964 Florida Intercollegiate Conference soccer title even though second place Jacksonville still has one match to play.

When Stetson defeated Rollins 2-1 Saturday, the Hatters won their first FIC title in eight years. Second place Jacksonville downed Miami 2-1 at the same time, but cannot catch Stetson.

Stetson finished its season with a record of 5-2-1. Jacksonville is 4-3 with one game left with last place Rollins.

Sluggers Favored Over Ex-Champ

NEW YORK (UPI) — Slugger Jose Torres, of New York, is favored at 2-1 to whip ex-middleweight champion Carl (Hobo) Olson tonight at Madison Square Garden in their fight for a possible shot at the light heavyweight crown.

Seeking his eighth straight victory, the Puerto Rico-born Torres is favored because, at 28, he is eight years younger than Hawaii-born Olson, of San Francisco, and because he is the more explosive puncher.

That the winner may get a shot at Willie Pastrano's 175-pound title was stressed today by Garden matchmaker Teddy Brenner.

Teddy disclosed that Angelo Dundee, Pastrano's manager, had promised in writing for the champion to defend against the winner—if Pastrano keeps his title next Monday night in a defense against Terry Downes at Birmingham, England.

Thinking Out Loud

BY JULIAN STENSTROM

Seminole High football fans today were still talking about the passing attack the DeLand Bulldogs threw at the Tribe during the first half of Wednesday night's homecoming tilt at Sanford Memorial Stadium.

There's no doubt about it, Gary Breckneridge and his sticky fingered receivers put on a show that will be long remembered.

By the way, the DeLand club was so fired up for this one ball game that DeLand sports writers picked the Bulldogs to take the tilt, 21 to 19. That's cutting it pretty close, especially when both clubs had such accurate PAT booters as Eddie O'Quinn and Bill Kuykendall.

Did you notice that among Major Hoopie's predictions this week (see Tuesday's Herald) that he's picked Miami to upset Florida. Now that Steve Spurrier has been injured it may not rank as an upset choice, especially since Miami has come to life in their last three games.

We still believe Florida, however, will capture this one because they've got more depth than the Hurricanes. Also, this one is being played in Gainesville and that'll mean much to the Gators.

Back to the Seminoles, the locals will now prepare for their post season bowl appearance in Leesburg. This tilt is slated for Dec. 5, a Saturday night, and it should be played before a packed house.

By the way, if you desire advance tickets you're now advised that they'll be on sale starting Monday at the SHS main office. Student and reserved seat tickets are available, according to athletic director Fred Gauss.

Nobody can argue effectively against the selection of Ken Boyer, St. Louis Cardinal third baseman, as the National League's most valuable player during the past season. He got 14 of the 20 first place votes for 243 points. He more than his chief challenger for the award, Philadelphia's Johnny Callison who also had a great season.

An automobile is not a legal method of taking deer; however during the 1964-65 hunting season more than 100 vehicle accidents involving deer will occur in Florida. In addition to the sure damage to the vehicle, and usually the death of the deer, there is always the possibility of injury to the occupants of the vehicle.

Hunting season is the most dangerous time of the year for vehicle-deer collisions. Fawns born in early summer are now roaming more as they become less dependent upon the doe. Food conditions are changing and deer will be traveling longer distances from bedding to feeding areas. Late season

Comedy Trio Linked

A trio of comedy performers who have literally scooped off all of the whipped cream during the past several seasons are at it again.

Once more Doris Day, Rock Hudson and Tony Randall have parked their super-trailers that serve as on-the-set dressing rooms on a Universal sound stage, looking not unlike a fabulous circus just pulled into town. This time their springboard for best-selling comedy is a screen adaptation of "Send Me No Flowers," a Broadway stage comedy of a few seasons back. With Hudson and Miss Day teamed as husband and - wife for the first time — and Randall as their next-door neighbor — "Send Me No Flowers" draws its humor from a hypocondriac who, erroneously convinced he has only a few weeks to live, sets about finding a suitable mate for his widow-to-be. The comedy, in Technicolor, is now showing at the Seminole Cinema in Casselberry.

"All we ask is that it be as good as the boxoffice as their two former comedies," admit producers Harry Keller and Martin Melcher, facetiously.

Those pair of predecessors, "Pillow Talk" and "Lover Comes Back" did little more than roll up a reasonable — and astounding — $25,000,000 at the world boxoffice, with quite a few distant lands still to be heard from. Due to these remarkable hits, Doris Day and Rock Hudson have dominated the polls of top boxoffice stars for the past several years.

What's the secret of their success? "Excellent scripts, performed expertly," says director Norman Jewison. "Without the story, the situations, the pace and the correct attitudes, no comedian can score.

"But more than that, with these three performers, it's a chemistry rarely found on any stage, legitimate or sound. They have more than respect for each other. It's deep affection. They start with a simple situation and, by respecting and reacting to each other's professionalism, they build that simple situation into something zany, something weird and wonderful.

"And what's even more amazing, they do it without resorting to shock, out-and-out slapstick or blatant sex. There's always plenty of sex in their comedies, of course, but it's the cleanest sex invented."

...the greatest violence that man can do woman!

PAUL NEWMAN, LAURENCE HARVEY, CLARE BLOOM, EDWARD G. ROBINSON

COMING WED. DEC. 2 ONE DAY ONLY

THE BEST FILM OF THE YEAR!

Office Blonde Could Be A Sly Mata Hari

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The typical undercover agent, dramatic-type, as every spy novel fan or movie-goer knows, is young, beautiful and sophisticated.

Not so in real life—at least, not in the U. S. business world, where thieves who are on the payroll — from light-fingered clerks to dishonest executives—drain off $2 billion each year in cash and goods from their employers.

It is the average or even plain woman, the one least likely to attract attention — especially from men — who makes the best investigator.

So says Leonard S. Lowell, chairman of Dale Systems, Inc., of New York, a major business security organization.

The figure on annual thefts is a projection based on actual confessions by thieves and estimates by companies. It amounts to roughly $5 million a day, and for theft-prone businesses, like discount houses, it represents about three per cent of sales.

Dale uses women to work as fellow employees to detect business criminals or pose as shoppers to check on the honesty and efficiency of sales people.

"Women are naturally curious and observant," says Lowell, "and these qualities are essential for an effective undercover agent or shopper."

Out of a total force of 4,600, 75 per cent of Dale's "shoppers" and a great many of its operatives are women. Some are employed full-time, others part-time.

Yesterday one may have acted as a theater usher; today she may have "purchased" a new sports car; tomorrow she may hire a dance band or pose as a wealthy society matron.

One woman, a skilled sewing machine operator, was planted on the production line of a New England girls' factory to find why the company's inventory was shrinking. Before long she noticed that a few employees were taking girls into the rest room and emerging, not slimmer, but thicker around the middle.

Investigation revealed that they were regularly squeezing into three or four of the garments and wearing them home.

Another girl was placed in a theater lobby in St. Louis, ostensibly to give away free manufacturer's samples of candy to moviegoers. By making an accurate count of patrons, she was able to prove that the theater owner was falsifying attendance receipts. Film distributors, paid a percentage of the receipts, had been cheated regularly.

The disadvantage of being too good-looking is illustrated by the experience of one girl, placed as a cashier in an appliance store in New York, where thefts were suspected. The manager made a pass, she resisted and he fired her on the spot. A less glamorous replacement was able to gather the required evidence without any trouble.

In one case, however, glamor was the necessary ingredient to bait the trap for the manager of a chain cosmetic store in Chicago, suspected of falsifying receipts and pocketing the difference.

Since he had a reputation as a Don Juan, an attractive blonde undercover agent was placed in the store. In a short time the manager was dating her and filling her shell-like ears with talk of how he relieved the company of its excess profits.

When patrons of a Los Angeles supermarket complained of being short-weighted on their meat, an agent was stationed near the meat department as the representative of a coffee company. As she dispensed free samples of coffee to the customers, she kept an eye on the butchers.

As it turned out, the employees of the department had pocketed some $13,000 in six months by selling meat on the side, then making up the inventory shortage by cheating the customers.

EDUCATIONAL NEW YORK (UPI) — The number of masters' degrees given by American colleges has increased strikingly within the last 25 years, according to Encyclopedia Americana.

Approximately 75,000 masters' degrees were granted in 1950, as compared to only 26,000 in 1920.

Velvet For Holiday Dances

A DRAMATIC FLOOR-LENGTH evening coat of richly glowing velvet with its own matching gown will score first among grand entrances at holiday formalis. Queenly coat (left) by Cameo in boulevard velvet has princess seaming and throat-framing collar. Matching gown has an Empire bodice, sparkling with bead embroidery. For less formal parties, crisp white cotton contrasts with the luminous softness of boulevard velvet in two short gowns by Bernelle. Pearls and rhinestones stud the embroidered lace bodice of the fitted sheath (center). Streamered faille sash makes a bright splash of color against brocade top (right) and open, box-plated velvet skirt.

Oviedo Garden Club Enjoys Informative Program On 'Landscaping Florida Homes'

By Evelyn Landy

The Oviedo Garden Club met at the home of Mrs. Lee Gary recently with Mrs. A. H. Ray Jr. as co-hostess. The Florida room, where the meeting was held, was decorated with a large arrangement of pink sweetheart roses and an arrangement of miniature white mums.

Chairman, Mrs. J. R. Battle, called the meeting to order and Mrs. Ray read a poem on gardening thoughts. As Mrs. Lynn Mosier, secretary, called each member's name she replied by naming a plant she would like to know how to grow and these plant problems will be discussed at the January meeting.

Cecil Tucker of Seminole County Agricultural Department gave the program on "Landscaping Florida Homes." He showed colored slides pertaining to the problems of landscaping in Florida and stressed that the two

Infant Attends University As 'People Watcher'

LAWRENCE, Kan. (UPI) — The youngest frequenter of the Hawks Nest snackbar of the Kansas Union at the University of Kansas is eight months old.

The infant "people watcher," David Morris Hull, seems to like it, his parents said.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter M. Hull, both graduate students, alternate their class schedules so that one of them can be with David all the time. Since they park a few blocks off campus, this involves quick switching of the child in the Union between classes.

"The expense of a full-day baby sitter is a factor, but the main reason we do this is that we don't want to give David up to a baby sitter. We want him with us whenever we can," Mrs. Hull explained.

Mrs. Hull is an assistant instructor in German. Hull teaches English to foreign students while he works toward a master's degree in linguistics.

Bridal Breakfast Fetes Miss Clark And Bridesmaids

Mrs. Anne E. Jones and her daughter, Miss Joan Jones, were hostesses recently to a charming bridesmaids breakfast at the Pancake House in Oviedo honoring Miss Regina Clark and her bridal attendants.

The hostesses presented the bride-elect with a gift of her chosen china, and she in turn, presented her attendants with gift mementoes.

A delicious breakfast was served to Mrs. K. W. Clark (mother of the honoree), Mrs. S. E. Parker (mother of the future groom), and the Misses Roy Wainwright, Chris Gordon, W. W. Tyre, Benjamin Wiggin, the hostesses and honoree.

Unable to attend was Miss Cheryl Hansen of Jacksonville, also a bridesmaid.

Oviedo Club Women Honor Faculty

By Evelyn Landy

School was honored at a dinner given by the Oviedo Women's Club Friday evening.

Delicious food of every kind was enjoyed by the guests.

Small sprigs of greenery and pyracantha decorated each table.

Greeting guests at the door were Mrs. Lynn Mosier, chairman of the Women's Club, Mrs. R. W. Estes was supper chairman.

An inspiring devotion was given by Rev. C. Y. Dawsey of the First Methodist Church in Oviedo.

It being Clyde Holder's birthday, everyone sang "Happy Birthday" to him.

Dr. D. L. Lynn, Veterinarian, from Orlando gave a most interesting and informative program. He showed slides of Russia and gave an interesting narration as the pictures were shown. Dr. Lynn was among a group of 45 men who visited Russia last year.

He told many interesting facts about the country. He said perhaps the three most important places to visit were: The mausoleum of Lenin, where he still lies in state and is covered by a glass enclosure, guarded by four soldiers; and hundreds of people pass by every day to view him. The Economic Achievement Park and the Kremlin were also listed.

Polyethylene plastic "glass" can be boiled in hot soap or detergent suds as a valuable asset to the sick room — or for general use when there is infectious illness in the family. The tumblers are made with a milk-white finish in various sizes.

Mrs. Bridges brought two lovely artificial flower arrangements which the members admired while she worked on two beautiful arrangements of chrysanthemums. After the arrangements were finished, Mrs. Bridges held a drawing for the flowers. Mrs. James L. Temple and Mrs. Sally Ferguson were the winners. The circle thanks Mrs. Bridges for her valuable time and lovely flowers.

Attending the meeting were Mrs. Linda McKee, LaMar Meredith, Barbara Dekle, Patrick Donahoe, Herschel Powell, Robert Johnson, Dewey Straughn, Sally Ferguson, Robert Conroy, Gilbert Edmonds, and Glenda Emerson.

CAMELLIA CIRCLE
The Camellia Circle met at the home of Mrs. Don Flamm for its October meeting. Mrs. Flamm, president, conducted the business session.

The members displayed the Christmas articles they had made for the Garden Club Bazaar.

A very interesting and informative horticulture report was given by Mrs. Tom McDonald. She urged the group to plant tulips this year. Names were drawn for secret plant pairs. Each member is to grow a plant to present to her plant pal at the end of the year.

Mrs. F. L. Woodruff III presented the program on Christmas decorations. Featured were wreaths and door swags. The first wreath demonstrated was made using a five-foot length of one-inch poultry wire. The wire was rolled and bent to form a circle. The holes in the wire were then filled in with podocarpus which had been submerged in water overnight. The wreath can now be flopped or left creep and decorated with Christmas balls, a pine cone, nuts, or Brazilian Pepper.

Another beautiful wreath can be made using plastic laundry or dry cleaning bags. Cut the wreath back out of heavy cardboard and punch holes in the cardboard very close together. Cut the bags into one-inch strips, pull apart and twist double, using wire or pipe cleaners to hold. Push the wire through the holes in board. The plastic strips can be clipped to create a short length of one-inch poultry wire. The wire was rolled and bent to form a circle. The holes in the wire were then filled in with podocarpus which had been submerged in water overnight. The wreath can now be flopped or left creep and decorated with Christmas balls, a pine cone, nuts, or Brazilian Pepper.

"Candid Chatter"

By Doris Williams
Society Editor

THANKSGIVING HOLIDAYS bring many of our students home for a sneak preview of Christmas vacation. To date, we haven't received too much on who will be where, when and with whom, so keep us posted, and we will relay the news gladly.

BONNIE GIELOW

In Bonnie, since a state of shock followed some time ago upon learning that the ravishing brunette beauty aspired to isolate herself in a class room with thirty some odd elementary, energetic eger beavers who were desirous of some book learnin' from this attractive "school marm."

We visualized bright lights, superb supper clubs, art studios, fashion fields, movies, dashing and debonaire Don Jans and all sorts of illusions of grandeur and glamour for Bonnie and would have wagged heavily that this elementary education bit would run its course, and she would change her major. Well we were wrong, but made a mistake once before also, and would still bet if Bonnie pursued a public eye career, would be a smashing hit. Oh, well, can't win 'em all.

Bonnie is now teaching as part of the educational training program, and will serve her internship in the Orange County Schools after the first of the year. Her letter revealed inward gratitude and self esteem in accomplishing a mission, which at times did not seem feasible. The challenge in executing her ambition has been stimulating and rewarding even with a few disappointments, which have been distasteful, but Bonnie has shown true colors.

To quote a portion of her letter, "Each day I realize how much I enjoy my work. Usually it is only when you can stand back and look at everything in perspective that you can see your accomplishments, but as for me I can see them in the midst of confusion. To see that sparkle or certain glow that comes only when the child understands what you have been trying to drill in his wee head, is worth all the frustration and hours spent in preparation."

So from all visible angles, it appears Bonnie is destined to become a dedicated educator. Just happen to know of some students and graduates in their "rip roaring twenties" who would eagerly await their turn in line to enroll in Miss Gielow's class. Sorry, men, afraid the Board of Education would frown on this practice.

At the time of this edition, Bonnie will be spending the holidays at home with her parents. She brought her "little sorority sister," Robbie Blake, home with her. This will be a delight to the college crowd since Robbie is well known in Sanford, having attended Seminole High when her father, Cdr. and Mrs. G. S. Blake, were stationed here. Robbie has pledged Bonnie's sorority, Alpha Delta Pi.

Anyway, Bonnie said to tell everyone hello so "Hello Everybody from Bonnie."

Suggest any future educators contact our well-informed Miss Gielow for some possible pointers on the rewards and benefits of choosing teaching as a career. Our young people who pursue this profession are well deserving and are to be commended for all their untiring efforts in sharing their knowledge for continued higher public education.

IT IS ALWAYS a pleasure to reveal honor accomplishments regarding Sanfordites. Mr. and Mrs. W. K. Roberts have plenty to crow about with daughter Lynn's scholastic achievements at Howey Academy. Lynn has been placed on the first nine-week marking period honor roll according to Dr. C. A. Vaughn Jr., Howey Academy headmaster.

Dr. Vaughn explained that grades are awarded on a numerical rather than letter basis at the Academy, and to attain the honor roll distinction, a student must maintain an overall average of .85 or above.

FAYE KARNES

So congratulations, Lynn, for a job well done, and we predict you will continue your college education at the same high level.

EARL MOORE, newest and youngest addition of the Herald Advertising Department, charged into the office recently, focused his eyes in the direction of the society department and in a clearly audible voice came up with "You almost just caused a major traffic catastrophe."

The society department, with feathers all ruffled at the accusation, thought, "You adorable dahlia doll — 'tis about time you were initiated into the club," and answered back with, "Back to your padded cell, pal, my frame has been parked behind this desk, and I haven't been near my car. People are constantly 'confusin' me with someone."

Friend Earl snaps back with, "Sugar, my eyes don't deceive me. Just saw two good lookin' blondes dressin' and undressin' in front of the office, and several cars almost piled up."

"Oh that!" The confusion was confusing. Had an appointment with a young lady to photograph her, so upon her arrival, asked if she had on her bathing suit, and she replied that she did under the mummy she was wearing.

So we satched outside to snap a picture in sunlight and assisted her in removing her mummy, on the sidewalk. A few car brakes did screech, but with good reason. This was not a tiger from a tank, but a stunning blonde in a leopard suit, which she filled out well.

The curvaceous young lady was Miss Faye Karnes, daughter of Lt. and Mrs. Allen O. Karnes, of Mirror Drive. Faye recently walked off with first place trophy in the Florida National Trials for water skiing at Del Ray Beach. This is quite an accomplishment since Faye has been a participant in the sport for only about six months.

Faye is a junior at Seminole High School, and devotes all her time to practice. She is a member of the Orlando and Winter Park Water Ski Association, and her instructor is Vick Gallia Sr., men's national champion, who has been an inspiration. Faye aspires to become a member of the navy of bathing beauties at Cypress Gardens, and explained this is quite a challenge since she is almost a novice.

Being a talented pianist, Faye realizes the advantages of education, and is a good student. When interrogated on marriage, etc., she snapped, "I don't even have time to date, to say the least of a 'steady' or 'marriage.'"

There is one factor for certain. Faye Karnes can always look back with the happy memory that she stopped traffic on the main street of Sanford.

As for you, Earl Moore . . . just how do you know two blondes were dressin' and undressin' on West First Street? Look homeward, Angell Your Anne, who is an attractive strawberry blonde, is quite an eye-fel herself.

DIXIE LANE, Gulf Beach Jamboree star, has a new record release in the Country Music Field. The record was released on the eve of the 38th birthday of the "Grand Ole Opra" and Country Music Nashville, Tenn.

Dixie is the former Miss Lorraine Masey, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Reggie Masey, 312 Chapman Avenue, Sanford. She is presently living at Fort Walton Beach, where she appears professionally as a country music singer on the Gulf Beach Jamboree and on all Jamboree shows throughout that area along with radio and TV appearances.

Sorry, boys, Dixie Lane is happily married to Alvin W. Gillyard, son of Mrs. Maud Gillyard, also of Sanford. Alvin is the leader of the "Country Kut-Ups" western swing band who backs Dixie on her recordings and personal appearances. The Gillyards have a son, Glenn.

Any record enthusiasts may contact Dixie's parents for further information regarding the recordings.

ELSEWHERE IN THE HERALD today, the Donald Grammas are congratulated on the opening of Seminole Lodge. The society section welcomes the Graham family, and feels confident after all the hustle and bustle of their grand opening they will find time to relax and enjoy the many activities in and around town and will be assets to our community.

Maria and Donald Graham have four children, who love it here already. Also Donald's mother, Mrs. Florence Graham, is another welcome newcomer. She will serve as receptionist, secretary and bookkeeper for the new home. So to the Donald Grammas—lots of success and a hearty welcome.

KATHERINE D U D A, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Duda, of Oviedo, and a 1961 graduate of Oviedo High School, assisted recently in the presentation of distinguished Military Student citations to 24 outstanding Army Cadets of the University of Florida.

Miss Duda, 20, is an Army ROTC Sweetheart at the University where she is a junior in the college of Business Administration and is a member of Kappa Alpha Theta Sorority.

As ROTC Sweetheart, she is one of 25 coeds who drill in uniform each week and serve as hostesses at social and ceremonial functions of the ROTC brigade.

Any of you gals who were ever ROTC sweethearts will appreciate the excitement Katherine is having. It is great sport marching with the military in the snappy uniforms, and being a sponsor at West Point is the greatest.

THE HOMECOMING GAME and alumni dance Wednesday

MR. AND MRS. DONALD GRAHAM, going over details for Seminole Lodge, look forward to being a part of our city. Sanford extends a congenial welcome. (See Candid Chatter).

DIXIE LANE, native Sanfordite and Gulf Beach Jamboree Star, has new record release. (See Candid Chatter).

MISS KATHERINE DUDA, ROTC Sweetheart at the University of Florida, shown at ceremonial function assisting in the presentations of distinguished military citations. (See Candid Chatter).

was a howling success. The girls were all decked out in their lovely homecoming outfits, and many were fortunate enough to sport corsages. All this crazy dance is murder; kept waiting for the combo to finish tuning up their instruments and start with the music. Thought at one time the dancers were praying for rain to the combo beat or then perhaps war was going to be declared, but was informed later this was music and modern dancing.

Anyhow they had a blast. Feel sure many will have to consult chiropractors or get out the liniment or something to soothe the aching bodies. If parents demanded that much physical dexterity from their offsprings, they would be candidates for capital punishment for being so heartless and cruel. Ouch, my aching back! Oh yes, we participated — we know—where were you?

First Methodist Church Class To Meet Monday

The Daughters of Wesley Sunday School Class of the First Methodist Church will meet Tuesday, December 2, at McKinley Hall for the annual Christmas party and business meeting.

All members are reminded of the exchange of gifts.

Mrs. M. B. Smith will serve as chairman of the hostesses.

Use low heat when frying bacon and pour off the grease as it melts to prevent curl.

Memorial Rites Conducted At Eastern Star Meeting

Members and visitors witnessed a very memorable memorial service for deceased members at Seminole Chapter No. 2 Order of Eastern Star. Before the roll call was read, Byron Leach sang "In the Garden." Mrs. Augusta Bibrey then read the roll for the deceased. Miss Anna Muir, Mrs. W. D. Causey, Mrs. W. A. Reynolds, Mrs. Byron Leach and Mrs. J. E. Blackman presented a blue, yellow, white, and red flowers and fern to the Associate Matron, Mrs. J. J. Nicholson Jr., which in turn attached them to a green wreath. Byron sang "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere" accompanied by Mrs. Jos. Leinhardt at the piano.

The coin collection for the evening was earmarked for the ESTAR loan fund to be used for scholarships for young men and women who want to train for religious work.

Mrs. Lucille B. Stone became affiliated with the local chapter at the meeting and was escorted to the west where she was welcomed by Mrs. L. E. Esten, Worthy Matron.

Out of town visitors were

Mrs. Regina J. King, Fort Lee, N. J.; Mrs. Dorothy E. Heath, Indian Orchard, Mass.; Mrs. Molly I. Salter, Orlando; Mrs. Sarah Epstenn, Maryland; Mrs. Margaret A. Heinluch, Balto, Md.

Hostesses for the refreshment period which followed the meeting were Mrs. Irving Pryor, chairman, Mrs. Sarah Epstenn, Mrs. Doris Stein, and Mrs. Erna Kirshner.

The dining room was centered with a table holding a Thanksgiving arrangement featuring a large cornucopia filled with fruits. A round pumpkin candle was surrounded by two small cornucopias and a large yellow honeycomb hay stack on a pale yellow tulle cloth.

Other tables held pine cone turkeys and pine needles hay stacks. Refreshments of dips and crackers, cookies and spiced punch were served by the committee.

Anti-American Demonstrations World-Wide

By United Press
 Mobs of African Nationalists and Communists attacked American property in Czechoslovakia, Bulgaria, Kenya and the United Arab Republic in violent demonstrations Thursday against the U. S.-Belgian rescue mission in the Congo.

In Florence, Italy, more than 20 sign-carrying Africans picketed both the U. S. and British legations. Britain also assisted the rescue mission by Belgian paratroopers.

Brussels saw a counter-demonstration in favor of the mission. About 200 Belgians, mostly students, smashed windows in the Algerian Embassy before a strong police force drove them away.

The students chanted anti-Communist slogans and carried signs reading, "All Communists to Moscow" and "Long Live the Paratroopers."

By far the worst demonstration occurred in Cairo, where a screaming mob set fire to the John F. Kennedy Library within the U. S. Embassy compound and gutted it. Damage was estimated at $250,000.

Forty Africans were arrested by Egyptian police who rushed to the scene and battled the rioters. At least one policeman and several of the demonstrators were injured. In addition, several firemen were injured extinguishing the blaze.

The mob shouted "hands off the Congo" and "down with American imperialism."

Reports said the library was set afire in a well-planned operation. The shouting demonstrators charged past a few U. S. Marines and regular Egyptian police guard to spread flammable material in the library building. No Americans were reported injured.

More than 27,000 books, some of them rare, were destroyed. U. S. Ambassador Lucius D. Battle described the ruined building as "one of the oldest institutions of its kind we have abroad."

Reports reaching Vienna said African students attacked the American, Belgian and

Six Men Unaccounted In Collision Of Ships

NEW YORK (UPI)—The Coast Guard doggedly continued its search today for six men still unaccounted for in the liner-tanker collision in the fog-shrouded Atlantic off the New Jersey coast which claimed the lives of 13 other men.

The six were members of the 43-man crew of the ill-fated Norwegian tanker Stolt Dagall which was ripped in two early Thursday by the new $20 million Israeli luxury liner Shalom crowded with merry-making passengers embarked on a Thanksgiving cruise. A Coast Guard spokesman called the accident a "major maritime disaster."

The remaining 24 tanker crewmen were picked up in an early dawn mammoth rescue operation by helicopters and boats directed by the U. S. Coast Guard.

Mrs. Marge Postalleo, Haifa, Israel, a crew member, was removed from the Shalom by helicopter to the Army hospital at Fort Dix, N. J., suffering from bruised ribs and internal bleeding. She was injured by the slamming of a watertight door at the time of impact. None other of the 616 passengers and 460 crewmen aboard the Shalom was reported hurt.

The stern half of the 12,723-ton tanker sank only minutes after the impact. The bow end, which had been a precarious haven for Capt. Kristian Bendiksen and nine of his crew until they were rescued, was still afloat today.

A tug was standing by the bow, to tow it to port if possible. Somewhere not far off the 95-foot Coast Guard cutter "Cape Strait" prowled in the area using its huge spotlights in an attempt to find any signs of the missing men.

British embassies in Prague, Czechoslovakia, windows were stoned and cars damaged. The Belgian ambassador lodged a protest with the Czech government.

The official Czech News Agency CTK said the demonstrations followed a Congo protest meeting by more than 300 African, Asian and Latin American students in the capital.

Later U. S. Ambassador Outerbridge Horsey received an official apology for the incident from Communist authorities. The Czechs said they would pay for the damage incurred.

Wintry Outburst Grips North

By United Press
 A fresh wintry outburst gripped the Northern Plains in heavy snow and icy winds today from the Northern Rockies to Minnesota. Hazardous driving warnings were sent out from eastern Montana to Minnesota. Cattlemen were also alerted.

Near blizzard conditions existed in eastern Montana, northern South Dakota and North Dakota as the snow was whipped along by winds gusting up to 60 miles per hour. Highway crews were called from their Thanksgiving dinners as snow continued to fall. Temperatures approached zero today and more snow was expected.

Snow piled up six inches in six hours at Minot, N. D. Flurries were reported in upper Michigan, the Central Rockies and portions of the mountain region.

Rain fell in northern New England and in the central and northern Pacific Coast in amounts less than a quarter of an inch. Federal investigators were trying to determine the cause of the crash of a private plane at Millville, N. J., that killed an aircraft executive, his wife, infant daughter and two family servants. It crashed Thursday shortly after taking off in a violent rainstorm.

Lake Monroe Jottings

Mrs. E. L. Johnson
 Well, I know that everyone had a wonderful Thanksgiving day. Now Mother can start planning for the Christmas Day menu. That day isn't so far away now. We here in the Johnson household are kind of anxious for it to get here because we will see our small granddaughters, Cindy, Carol and Barbie Hudson. They and daughter, Shirley, and son-in-law, Don, are coming down from Fredericktown, Mo. . . . L. C. and Pauline Hobby and daughters spent last weekend in Moultrie, Ga., where they attended a family reunion. Pauline says there were 59 there. Don't you know there were a lot of old memories relived at that time. I bet some one could write a book on just such a subject. . . . Mrs. Carl Anderson has returned home from a short trip to Marietta, Ga., where she attended the wedding of her niece. She says the bride was truly beautiful. . . . A very Happy Birthday to Steve Swaggerty and our son Bob who are almost at the voting age now. Steve and Bob both claim Nov. 21 as their birthday. . . . The Carl Andersons of Lake Markham Road had as their guests for the weekend Carl's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. B. Anderson, of Columbus, Ga. Carl's brother, Golden, drove them down. . . . Charlie Carlson, son of Gladys and Charles Carlson left Tuesday morning for Ft. Jackson, S. C., for National Guard training. Charlie is a very fine artist. Did you see his paintings in the recent Legion Fair? They were very good. . . . 4-H girls and boys, don't forget the Christmas parade next week. Those that are going to march be sure to get there in plenty of time to find your unit. . . . Had a wonderful evening in Melbourne last Saturday with the High School Band. They put on a wonderful performance at band clinic. This Saturday Lynn Giles and I will take them and director Ernest Cowley to Ocala where they will march in the annual Christmas parade there that night. The next day we will see the sights of Silver Springs and Six Gun Territory. So we are looking forward to a wonderful weekend. . . . The following Saturday they will march in the DeLand Parade and from there we will go to Leesburg for the Elks Bowl game. Our own high school football team will participate. Hope all injured players are well and able to play. Have been keeping tabs on our player out this way, Bernie Barbour, and the doctor says that he is much improved. Very glad to hear that. . . . Mr. and Mrs. Ed Smith of Orange Blvd. have as Thanksgiving guests their former neighbors of Hialeah, Fla., Mr. and Mrs. Carl Phitts. They will stay over the weekend. The Smiths were also next door neighbors of my brother, George Grow, in Hialeah. . . . Our thought this week: In life it is just as important to forget some things as it is to remember others. So don't forget to remember and always remember to forget.

We'll Pay You $5 JUST FOR LOOKING

(And You Don't Even Have To Buy From Us!)

You may think there's a string attached to this. As usual, you're right. You only get the $5 if you are a bona fide car buyer.

How do we know if you're bona fide? Easy. If you come in and let our salesman show you our cars, and then buy a new car from any dealer between the time you see our salesman and January 1, 1965, bring the car, your sales invoice, and our salesman's card in and we'll hand you $5.

It's not because we're generous. It's just that if you are about to buy a car, it's worth $5 to us for a chance to talk to you. We're confident that we can fill your need, somewhere between a Corvair and a Cadillac.

And of course you get the $5 when you buy from us. Just ask for it.

Seminole Lodge Located In 'Friendly Town'

ADMINISTRATOR AND OWNER, Donald Graham looks pensive as he goes over final planning stages of the new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home which he and his wife are opening here, December 1st. The public is invited to see the new home at the Open House slated for Sunday.

MRS. FLORENCE GRAHAM, mother of Donald Graham, owner and administrator of the Seminole Lodge, will serve as receptionist, secretary and bookkeeper of the new home which opens December 1st on Bay Ave., near the hospital.

Nursing Home Situated Near Hospital

The location of the new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home in Sanford was a very careful selection on the part of the owner-operators, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham.

"I traveled from Maine to Texas looking for the best spot to build a new nursing home and was seriously considering Texas, until I came to Central Florida. Then I knew this was 'it'," said Administrator Donald Graham.

"We chose Sanford because it is such a warm, friendly town with scenic beauty and lovely natural surroundings. We chose this particular site because it is near the hospital, physicians and dentists who will be close by when needed," he added.

"We also considered the best place to raise our four children and selected Sanford as a place where they would feel at home and become a part of the community and school life," he noted.

The Grahams owned and operated a nursing home in Meadville, Pennsylvania for eight years, but soon found themselves at capacity with no room to expand, and having always wanted to move South, they began to seek a likely site to build a new home in a warmer climate.

Mrs. Graham, who is a graduate of Spencer Hospital School of Nursing in Pennsylvania, said that she had "always been interested in older people and sympathetic to their problems."

"If I had my way, I would just love to take care of all of them for free, but under the stringent nursing home building codes, this is, of course, impossible," she explained.

The new Seminole Lodge has 88 beds, with room to expand to 100 as the need arises. It is comprised of 9,700 square feet of floor space and valued at $100,000, sitting on the front of a two acre tract of land on Bay Ave., between Second and Fourth St.

MRS. MARIA GRAHAM, RN, owner and operator of the Seminole Lodge Nursing Home sits at the nursing station in the central room of the home as she plans for the care and comfort of the residents of the home.

Television Sets Amply Provided

Television viewing occupies a great part of the day for patients in a nursing home and the Seminole Lodge Nursing Home, opening here December 1 has made some special preparations along these lines for the care and comfort of their residents.

The community television set in the living room will have individual plug in earphones for hard-of-hearing residents, so that they may turn the sound up as loud as they need it, yet not disturb those around them.

In the bedrooms, where there are also television sets mounted on the walls, each resident has hand controls at his bedside, that include earphones for individual listening that will not disturb the room mate.

PTO Project Is Success

By Mrs. E. L. Johnson

The recent book fair and spaghetti supper sponsored by the Lake Monroe Elementary PTO has been reported a "complete success" by the chairman, Mrs. Dotty Bellise.

Mrs. Bellise has publicly expressed the PTO's appreciation to local food stores making donations; to Mrs. Lorraine Graham of the TB Association for showing a movie and to Richard Boyd for making and distributing posters. Proceeds from the event will help furnish the school library.

U. S. Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, recuperating at his DeBary home from a back fracture, said today the doctors expect he will be able to be out of his brace "in about a month."

The Senator suffered the "small fracture" in a fall some weeks ago and decided to recover at his DeBary residence. He said X-rays taken yesterday indicate the injury is "definitely on the mend."

He has suspended all his official functions pending his recovery, Dirksen told The Herald this morning.

Every Facility For 24-Hour Care Given By Seminole Lodge

MRS. LETHA SCOTT, RN, examines the hydraulic hoist which she and other nurses will use to lift patients safely in and out of a water therapy. The machine can also be used in other rooms, since it is movable. Not shown in the photograph is the canvas seat and back where patients will sit in comfort as they are assisted in or out of the tub. (Herald Photo)

All Features Provided For Continued Care

The new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home has incorporated every facility for emergency care, as well as the routine 24 hour daily care of their residents.

All rooms are equipped with bells and lights which are connected to the nurses' station where registered nurses are on duty around the clock.

There are special buzzers especially designed for stroke patients who may have suffered various degrees of paralysis. These "soft touch" buzzers are encased in a plastic packet and can be activated by the pressure of the hand, arm or leg, or even by the head or chin.

The call lights cannot be shut off at the nurses station, but must be cut off only in the patient's room, so that there is no danger that a patient's call may not be answered. Call buttons are located in the bathrooms as well as in the rooms. Convenient hand-rails run along all the walls, halls and bath.

In the therapy bathroom, a portable sling hoist is ready to lift patients into the tub and out and can also be used to lift heavy patients into bed if need be.

There are large shower rooms where a wheel-chair patient may be rolled right in, wheelchair and all, for a shower.

Special features provide all kinds of care for the aged including convalescent care, intensive care, incontinence care, restorative care, hand feeding as well as day care and short term care.

To provide for mental, emotional and spiritual balance, the Seminole Lodge has an extensive program of planned recreation, occupational projects, religious services and dietary planning.

A special feature is located at all the outside doors. Here, when the door is opened from the inside, a bright light comes on, and from the speaker overhead, the resident hears the inquiring voice of the nurse, who will find out who is going out, where and why.

Facilities are available for personal laundry, beauty treatments and haircuts.

In the doctor's treatment room are emergency equipment supplies including a drainage pump, suction machine, inhalator, and examination tables and equipment.

In the preparation room connected to the nurses station are a refrigerator, sterilizer, cupboards and preparation tables and sinks.

Another intensive care feature, of which many residents of the nursing home may never be aware, is an electronic, invisible bed rail.

This device which fits all around the edge of the bed under the mattress, warns the nurse when a patient who has been ordered on complete bed rest, is getting out of bed.

Summoned by the electronic signal, the patient who decides he doesn't want to stay in bed, no matter what the doctor ordered, will suddenly find the nurse at his side before he can get very far, or fall and hurt himself.

This "invisible bed-rail" is a boon to the nurse, and prevents the patient from feeling "fenced in" by conventional bed-rails.

In his trip into outer space, Major Gagarin, Russian cosmonaut, attained a speed of about 18,000 miles per hour.

MRS. JOSEPHINE POFF, nurse's aide checks out the signal system in the nurses station which connects with all rooms in the Seminole Lodge Nursing Home. Mrs. Poff will be one of five aides who will assist in caring for residents of the home. (Herald Photo)

Open House Set

Sunday the public is invited to visit the new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home located on Bay Avenue, between Second and Fourth Street, which is scheduled to open on Dec. 1.

Owners of the attractive new home are Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham, both of whom will take an active part in the operation of the facility.

Graham will function as administrator and Mrs. Graham who is a registered nurse, specializing in geriatrics, will head the staff of four full-time nurses and several nurses aides.

Mrs. Florence Graham, mother of Graham will serve as a combination receptionist-bookkeeper and secretary for the new home.

The other nurses are Mrs. Marion Reback and Mrs. Letha Scott. There also will be a male orderly.

Mrs. Anna Yeager will be in charge of the kitchen and dining room facilities.

Five nurses aides will share the nursing duties. Patients may be visited by their own physicians or if they are new in the community, by local doctors, working in co-operation with the staff of the home.

Nursing Home Opens Dec. 1

The Seminole Lodge Nursing Home will begin operation Dec. 1 with 35 beds, with room to expand and convert to 100 beds as necessary.

There are at present three private rooms, eight two-bed rooms and four four-bed wards.

These four-bed wards are really two rooms, with a connecting bathroom and closet and vanity facilities separating the bedroom areas.

The two-bed rooms have their own bath and the single rooms have a private bath.

All rooms are decorated in eye-pleasing pastel colors, with harmonizing drapes, bedspreads and accessories.

Comfortable chairs, spacious closets, large, roomy drawers, well-lighted mirrors add to the comfort and convenience of the residents.

There is also an isolation room with private bath and other facilities for patients who may contact a communicable disease or need absolute quiet and rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham, owners and operators of the rest home, noted that this room would probably be used only in emergencies until the patient could be admitted to the hospital.

The spacious central living room is furnished with comfortably arranged chairs, lamps and tables and a communal television set with individual earphones for louder sound needed by hard-of-hearing residents.

Color Contributes To Overall Theme Of Seminole Lodge

Bedrooms Vary With Pastels For Highlight

The new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home, which is slated for opening Dec. 1 is attractively decorated throughout, with the use of color contributing greatly to the over-all theme.

Owners and operators, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Graham explained that besides adding beauty and comfort, color does much to enhance the well-being of the residents in a subtle way.

"We have found that certain colors seem to help cheer-up a depressed patient, while other colors tend to soothe an irritable one," they said.

The bedrooms of the home have been done in varying pastel colors of pink, blue, yellow, green, lavender, and peach. Attractive coordinated draperies and bedspreads accent basic color of the walls of the room, adding color-keyed highlights which the viewer is sure to find attractive and "homey."

"We want our residents to be as happy as possible. One may be happy in a warm, sunny, yellow-toned room where another may prefer the quieter, more restful atmosphere in a cooler-toned green room," said Mrs. Graham.

"Almost every lady who has visited us is delighted with the lavender rooms, which held no appeal for the gentlemen, who like other colors better," added Graham.

In the spacious central section of the home, colorful planters, filled with green plants and shrubbery form dividing lines between the visitors reception and waiting room, the resident's living room and the dining room.

This section has also been arranged so that folding shutters can be pulled forward to divide the living and dining room areas into sections.

This division is especially effective for the dining room area, where residents may, on holiday or other occasions, like to entertain members of their family or a fraternal group. Attractive draw drapes, wood paneling and wide windows form the boundaries of the social area.

Troop 341 Gets Camp Award

By Jane Caselberry
Boy Scout Troop 341 of Caselberry received the award for the second most outstanding unit attending the Wekiwa District Fall Camporee at Camp Howard last weekend.

Thirty-one scouts and three leaders from the troop, which is sponsored by the Caselberry Community Methodist Church, participated. Leaders were Scoutmaster W. T. Daniel Jr.; Committeemen Fred Steedler Sr. and Leonard Caselberry.

In line with the theme, "Our Proud Heritage", each unit was supposed to build their campsite around the motif suggested by a town important to the history of our country.

Troop 341 chose Andersonville, the notorious Confederate Prison for prisoners of war with appropriate signs over the gate and on each tent. They even had a cemetery for the unlucky ones. The history of Andersonville was familiar to many of the boys as it was included on the itinerary of a scout trip taken several years ago by members of the troop.

Other points were earned by the troop by participation in scouting activities at various stations on a trail.

Another highlight for the troop was the impressive council fire Saturday night at which the Order of the Arrow, Kaliga Chapter, held a tapping out ceremony at which Scouts Walter Blatline and Steve Nizary and Committeemen Steedler were chosen.

Too Risky
Charles A. Lindbergh's mascot was a kitten named "Fatsy." Lindbergh refused to take it on his pioneering transatlantic flight in 1927 because he felt it would be "too dangerous a journey to risk the cat's life."

OPEN HOUSE will be held Sunday at the new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home on Bay Avenue, between Second and Fourth Streets near the hospital. This view shows the long, low building which encompasses 9,700 square feet of floor space. The home now has 25 beds, and there is plenty of room on the spacious grounds to provide for expansion as the need arises. Appraisal value of the home has been set at $180,000. (Herald Photo)

TREATMENT ROOM at the Seminole Lodge contains equipment necessary for physical examination or emergency care, including suction pump, inhalator, drainage pump, scales and other equipment.

MRS. ANNA M. YEAGER, shown here at the door of the stainless steel refrigerator will be in charge of the kitchen facilities at the Seminole Lodge when it opens on December 1st.

Therapy Room Featured

Many of the special features incorporated in the building of the new Seminole Lodge Nursing Home which opens Dec. 1 are items which are used in therapy for the aging residents.

In a special therapy room may be found such specially-designed exercise equipment as the "shoulder wheel."

This wheel is about the size of a wagon wheel, with a handle in the middle, which is controlled by tension springs. It is particularly used for stroke patients who have suffered partial paralysis of one side of the body.

The handle of the wheel can be adjusted to rotate in small circles, with a minimum of tension, so that it turns easily at first. As the patient progresses in the exercise, and his weakened arm becomes stronger, the tension can be increased to make it a little harder to turn.

The handle can also be extended along the center bar to make the arm move in wider circles, as the patient becomes able to move his arm a little higher and a little higher.

Other items of exercise equipment which helps to restore muscle tone, reach, grasp and leverage include parallel bars, walk-up steps, exercise pulleys, hip rotators, finger boards and other small items.

The room also contains a work table and equipment and materials for arts and crafts activities. A large storeroom adjacent to the therapy and exercise room serves to store equipment not in use and convert the entire room to a hobby room if desired.

Also available for the needs of patients are walkers, wheelchairs, crutches and canes.

Gift Coupons Are Ideal

WHO SAYS A GIFT must be a luxury? Whether you buy it for yourself or someone else it can be practical, too. Witness wool-suede pullover with bulky knit cuffs and collar to match; the dual purpose Swiss watch which snaps open to sit tall on desk or night table; valet seat which encourages ordered abandon.

By Jerry Sheehan
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
NEW YORK — (NEA) — The advantages of a gift certificate for the holidays, birthdays or any other time is that: You do not burden the recipient of the present with a tie or sweater that he would not wear to pay off an election bet. You do not burden yourself by chasing around stores to discover "just the thing" for the relative or friend. You do not tip your hand by asking over the phone, "Say Jim, what's your glove size?" The clear virtue of a gift certificate, as the American Institute of Men's and Boys' Wear points out, is that your friend can amble off to the specified men's store at his leisure, and can select not only his favorite style and colors, but also be assured of getting the proper fit. If he is all set on garments or hats he can pick up accessories to his taste. None of which is to imply that there is anything un-American about selecting a gift, wrapping it up and sending it off. The certificate simply permits easy, and safe, shopping. How to go about it? Herewith, some advice from the American Institute: If the recipient lives in the same town, it's easy. Merely drop by your local men's store or send a check and the store will make out the certificate up to that amount and fire it off to the lucky guy. If the intended beneficiary lives in another city the job is more complicated — but only very slightly more so. Chances are that a major men's store will have a branch there, and they will be only too delighted to receive your money for this worthy cause. Or, says the institute, national credit card clubs can supply you with the names and addresses of merchants in any part of the country. A quick phone call to American Express, Diner's Club, Carte Blanche or others probably will do the trick. Instant shopping, you might call it.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: My sister's employer died recently and he left her $250,000, thereby disgracing our whole family. She went to work for him when she was 22 and was his loyal employe for 31 years. She was well paid, but her work always came first, and although she was the prettiest girl in town, she never married. She was a good Christian woman, Abby, and there never was a breath of scandal about her. When her employer died and it was learned that he had left half his estate to his wife and the other half to my sister, you can imagine what the gossips had to say! My sister had social security and a retirement policy, so she didn't need the fortune he left her at the expense of her reputation. How can we clear her of the suspicion that was cast on her good name?

NO CITY, PLEASE
DEAR ABBY: I am 15 years old and a little on the chubby side. Everything I touch, I shiver drop, break, or spill. I bump into doors and people and other things. My mother thinks it is because my bangs are always in my eyes and I can't see. My father says my coordination is off. What is the matter with me?

DEAR ABBY: My husband never misses your column, so you would be doing me a great favor if you printed what you think of a husband who asks other women to select his wife's Christmas gift for him. After 15 years of selecting my gifts personally, he turned to other women to make his selection for him. I'd be satisfied with a single hankie as long as I knew he chose it for me himself.

SENeca FALLS
DEAR ABBY: I hope you won't feel shortchanged if your husband presents you with a personally-selected single hankie this Christmas because I am printing your letter along with your wish. Merry Christmas!

DEAR CLUMSY: Many girls (and boys, too) your age have the same problem and for the same combination of reasons. Practice poise. Try to move more gracefully and be aware of what you are doing every moment. It will soon become part of your natural behavior. Try it. It really works.

Christmas Gets Earlier

Word is out that the retailers are going to rush the Christmas buying season even more this year. Are you ready with your gift plans? Here are some tips to give you a head start, too. Early shopping can save you money. You have a wider selection of merchandise and can take advantage of Thanksgiving sales. This is a particularly good time to buy kitchen appliances, furniture, television and soft goods such as blankets.

You may have time to replace the item and save someone disappointment. To avoid confusion print your name and address plainly when sending in an order. Make use of department and specialty store ads for your Christmas shopping. Order by mail and telephone and again do this early to insure delivery in time for Christmas. The keys to effective gift shopping are: (1) Make a shopping list; (2) route your shopping trip; (3) shop alone; (4) avoid store rush hours; (5) and pay cash.

color and style preferences, price range, brand preferences, if you shop for teenagers, remember they are extremely brand conscious—a fact that many surveys support and you will find out when you give them "X" instead of "Y" brand. Early morning shopping is best in suburban shopping centers but time your trip to the city to avoid the morning and evening commuter's rush. If you can pay cash you save money on service or interest charges on charge accounts. If you decide to use the lay-away plan and have to cancel the purchase, can you get your deposit back or do you lose it? Ask about this before you commit yourself to a lay-away.

All Play And No Work?

DEAR MRS LIGHT: When I was a girl, math was never called fun. No child was insulted by this ally hypocrisy. We weren't enthusiastically told to jump with geometry, fiddle with physics, leap with logarithms and dance about decimals. The books weren't brightly colored, full of pictures, diluted in content, or otherwise full of the "hard-sell" which all cheats need. Girls in particular were frankly expected to hate math and hate snakes, and most of us did. However, I later killed rattlesnakes to save my babies, and at the time I got 100 in algebra because I knew if I didn't average out the flunk marks, I would have to repeat the subject. And let me tell you, logarithms might never have been used, but the early idea that I couldn't get out of a hard chore, burned into my brain, was the most useful lesson I ever had! People seemed to respect children more than they do now, and also understood them better. Kids don't like to play all the time; they really like to work. But they do need appreciation, sympathy and merriment when they work rather than meanies telling them that their work is really play, and the only way it can possibly be done is to "enjoy" it and have "motivation" for it. Please do let's have less hypocrisy, and teachers who realize work is something better than mere "fun." Work is climbing a mountain before you get to the top of it; and as a rule, the higher the mountain, the better the view, and the deeper your enjoyment after you climb.—OLD-TIMER

ANSWER: I wish space permitted a full reprint of this letter and the others you've written. In my grade book, your essays on education rate an "A."
However, I do think you may be somewhat taken in by propaganda about modern education. While most teachers try to make schoolwork interesting, they don't pretend that it's undiluted "fun." They know that "all play and no work makes Jack a dull boy" as well as the reverse. Visit your son's class sometime, unannounced!
Please send your school problems to Susan Light in care of The Sanford Herald. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Jacoby On Bridge By Oswald Jacoby

The bidding in the box is that used by the Australian team getting to six clubs in the World Bridge Olympiad. I don't know what system they were using except that I assume that a one no-trump response to a club opening shows a very big hand. If Bob Hamman of the United States had opened a heart, the slam would have been set in less time than it takes a kangaroo to jump, but Bob opened the jack of diamonds and South was in business. He entered dummy with a spade and discarded his two hearts on the king and queen of diamonds. Then all he had to do to make the hand was to guard against all three clubs in his capabilities. In fact, he explained later on that he had planned to do that, but Bob made a really brilliant false-card play that caused South to go wrong. Bob had opened the jack of diamonds, it dropped the ten on the king and the nine on the queen. This set up dummy's eight spot, but Bob had come to the conclusion that South had his ace hand for his bidding and that he would have no need for a further discard on the eight of diamonds. The falsecard convinced South that Bob was out of diamonds. Hence, it was up to South to bang down dummy's ace of clubs. He did that and the slam had bounced out of the pocket.

Room To Be Human

By Mrs. Muriel Lawrence
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR MRS. LAWRENCE: Our 6-year-old boy is nearly 11 years younger than our next child and is really the "baby" of the family. I guess we have all spoiled him. He is a whiner. He doesn't exactly cry if he doesn't get his way, but keeps after you begging for it in a half-crying, complaining voice. His big brother and sister have begun to call him a "crybaby" and so does another boy who lives on our street. As a small child, he was sickly and . . .

Were you ashamed of this resistance? If you were, it may account for your inability to resist your child's whining with a firm and unyielding, "No!" If we have been ashamed of our resistance to a child's demand to be born, it is easy for us to feel shame at resisting any of his later demands. We indulge his every wish to appease our own sense of wickedness. We feel that we've cheated him by resenting his existence. We try to make the cheat up, to him by giving him his way in everything. Then comes the day when we are compelled to deny him his way. He feels himself outrageously injured—and begins to whine in protest. He's sure, you see, that we'll come through with a yes if he whines long and complainingly enough. And he's right. We will give in so long as we cannot face our shame at not wanting him. We can't maintain a firm and unyielding no to his wish to play outside in the rain because the no we felt toward his birth still reproaches us with our unwelcoming and "unloving" meanness toward him. If your inability to give this child a firm and unyielding no does derive from shame of not wanting him, it's not going to help one bit to tell you to give it to him. First, we have to see how cruel is the shame. We have to see that it isn't wicked at all to look forward to freedom from mothering babies and to feel disappointed and resentful at our new pregnancy's denial of it. We have to see that our resentment, though not a maternal feeling, was a most understandable human one. We have to begin to make room for the human in us as well as the mother in us.

We The Women: By Ruth Millett

It's a simple thing for a husband to know when his wife has been shopping and is afraid he won't approve of her purchase or the amount it cost. The signals always read like this: She's happy and excited and she doesn't even mention that he is late to dinner, even though she has prepared his favorite meal. She doesn't mention that the lawn needs mowing or that the children have been little demons all day or ask him if he remembered to do the errand roughhouse with the kids, tell his wife how pretty she looks, exclaim that something smells mighty good, even if his wife is cooking food he can't abide. It'll be the life of the party at dinner. There'll be no talk of what a rough day he has had at the office. He may even suggest a movie before he gets around to saying something sheepishly: "Guess what I bought today?" No one fools anyone. Yet the pattern never changes. And each partner thinks he has successfully put one over on the other.

that seemed so important when it was entrusted to him that morning. However long it takes her to work around to bringing forth her purchase—her husband isn't surprised when it appears. After all, he's gone through the same routine time and time again. What he doesn't know, perhaps, is that his wife is just as aware of what is going on when he comes home after having bought new golf clubs, a new gun when he already has a rack of guns, or a new power tool for his workshop. He'll come in whistling,

Balloon For Baby's Head?

By Polly Cramer
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
DEAR POLLY—Try inflating a penny balloon to the size of baby's head and use it as a form for drying his wool bonnets after they are washed. When dry they are smooth and "blocked" to size and can even be made "grow" a little as baby does.—MRS. C. C.
DEAR POLLY—I have found that dusting at different times of the day instead of always in the morning keeps a house inspection perfect. Afternoon light sometimes shows up a wisp of dust that would have been invisible earlier and evening lamp light points bright fingers into unlikely places, usually finding a cobweb or two.—DOROTHY.
GIRLS—And don't forget that glaring sunlight will really show up the grime on those streaked windows.—POLLY.
DEAR POLLY—I am always looking for new uses for things I no longer use and may have put away. I have just finished redecorating my daughter's bedroom and found a use for a bunk bed ladder that my son no longer used. My daughter's bed did not have a headboard so I fastened the ladder horizontally, on the wall above my daughter's bed to make a good looking headboard.—VELMA.

DEAR POLLY—Why doesn't someone start a "parcel sitting" service? In every neighborhood there are some elderly or partially disabled people or mothers who are tied down at home with small children. Then, too, there are working people who are seldom home to receive parcels and the dry cleaning and so on and then the working folks could pick them up after work. Again when services are required like furnace or television repairs, plumbing and so on, the "parcel sitters" could have a house key to let the workmen in and stay in the house while the work is done.—MARGARET.

GIRLS—The more I think about the "parcel sitting" idea the better it sounds. Retired folks could work up a nice little business that would bring in some cash for extras while they are doing a real service for their neighbors. Cards could be distributed throughout the neighborhood telling what services are offered and for how much.—POLLY.

Fashion's Underworld

By Helen Hennessy
Newspaper Enterprise Women's Editor
The biggest fashion news today lies undercover. But if you haven't got a good figure, forget it. The new foundations (if they can be called that) won't do a thing for you. Women want easy fit and no restraint. They clamor to climb out of their boned and wire cages. With the new underpinnings, some can. But can you imagine a size 40 slithering around in a garment called, "The Body Stocking"? This "Barely There" number (that was its original name) is the closest thing around to a second skin. Made of stretch nylon, it only weighs half an ounce. It's flesh-toned, but opaque. It won't hide even the tiniest bulge. But if you're in good shape anyway, it's great to wear under the transparent clothes so big in the news these days. Newest on the almost invisible fashion front is the "No Bra" bra. This, too, is for the trimly built and 38 Cs are about as welcome as basket parties in the automat. Made of stretchable, sheer nylon, it is so light that you would have to pile 20 on a postal scale before it would register one ounce. The bra (?) was the brainchild of Exquisite Form. At their request, it was designed by Rudi Gernreich whose popular swimsuit sent bra manufacturers running for their tranquilizers. Afraid that the bare-top trend would ruin the bra business, this enterprising firm got the pioneer of that trend to design a bra so transparent that it would appeal even to the "go native" set. There is no trimming on this bra. In fact, Gernreich made a rather obvious point when he said that there was little need to put ornamentation on a bra to make it look feminine when, by its very nature, it couldn't possibly be masculine. Wonder how he ever thought up that one? To make sure that anyone who isn't a slyph doesn't go away mad, there's undercover news for her, too. It's a far cry from the bare-trend, but a good bit more useful. It's the slip with sleeves. Available now in nylon tricot, it will be here for spring in nylon taffeta. This slip is actually a dress liner and it does for unlined dresses what a full lining does for more expensive clothes — makes them hang better and hold their shape. So you see, in this best of all possible worlds of lingerie, there's something for everyone regardless of shape or size. Chit Chat "Is it true that it's no longer taboo for redheads to wear such colors as pink and orange? I have red hair. It's not Auburn or strawberry blonde. It's just plain red. But I am sick of wearing greens and browns and afraid to try any hot colors even though my friends say they are now chic for redheads."—Julia. Dear Julia—Pink and orange can be most dramatic on a girl with red hair. Don't be afraid to try them. Just be careful to select a pink that doesn't have overtones of purple, such as fuchsia. Orange, from bright to rust, is always a good choice. Please send your fashion problems to Helen Hennessy in care of this paper. While she cannot answer each letter personally, letters of general interest will be answered in this column.

Rise Stevens Is Manager

By Joan Crosby
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.
Rise Stevens, executive, is not fully divorced from opera. Stevens, Metropolitan Opera star and recording artist (her latest is the RCA Victor release of Strauss' "Die Fledermaus"). And this, she fully expects, will prove troublesome. Miss Stevens, relaxed in the comfortable beige living room of her New York apartment, smiled, thinking of her new position as general manager of the National Company of the Metropolitan Opera, and said: "I would like to be a general manager on the side of the artist. I will think first of the artist, and then of the business part. This could be very troublesome."

The mezzo-soprano, the first woman to head an American opera company, says she is determined to find and build some opera stars of the future. In order to select the 150 people who will be regular members of the company she and her assistants have listened to more than 800 ambitious young singers. Your opera will be in the company's repertory to start, although this will probably be augmented. "Carmen" will be sung in French and English and "La Traviata" in Italian and English. "We will seek the company to learn the opera in both languages. Also, we will be a true repertory company. A soprano who sings Carmen one night may sing Mercedes in the production the next time it is performed." Miss Stevens, who has sung more than 40 roles with the Met, spent part of this last summer starring in Rodgers and Hammerstein's "The King and I" at the Music Theater of Lincoln Center. (This fine production has also been released as an RCA Victor album.) For the first time in her life, Rise Stevens found herself singing eight performances a week. It proved a strain. "My voice held out all right," she laughed. "But my feet hurt."

is the record company that is a hobby for Dr. Edward T. Salvato Jr., a dentist who likes Russian opera. There was so little variety available in this country, Dr. Salvato acquired Bolshoi tapes and now releases his own records, complete with libretto he translates. "The Demon" deserves to be better known. That Fair Lady—The movie release of "My Fair Lady" has inspired so many recordings of the Lerner-Loewe score we may all be My Fair Ladies to death. But it's a pleasant way to go. Columbia has released the movie sound track. It sounds like the Broadway sound track except that Marnie Nixon sings Liza's songs instead of Julie Andrews. Miss Nixon has a nice voice, and she does well, even if her Cockney sounds a bit too refined. "Andy Williams—The Great Songs From My Fair Lady (and Other Broadway Hits)" (Columbia) finds Andy in fine voice. Jars Jars and his quartet "Andre Previn and His Quartet—My Fair Lady" (Columbia). High classical—"Brahms Concerto No. 1 in D Minor" with Van Cliburn and Erich Leinsdorf and the Boston Symphony (RCA Victor); "Bethoven's Wellington's Victory" Antal Dorati conducting the London Symphony (plus 18th century cannon and flintlock muskets which stud the score) (Mercury); "Prokofiev's Violin Concerto No. 1 and Piano Concerto No. 5" with violinist Eric Friedman and pianist Lorin Hollander and Erich Leinsdorf and the Boston Symphony (RCA Victor).

Far too many after-forty women do not use face powder properly. They write that they do not know how to apply face powder and they do not know how to select the most flattering shades. Here are some timely powder pointers. If your skin is dry and it is almost sure to be (after-forty complaint!), use a light film of cosmetic oil as a base for your powder. The cosmetic oil disappears quickly, leaving your skin soft and ready for a smooth make up. Use cream rouge if you need a touch of color, or touch your lipstick to your cheeks. Put three little dots on each cheek whether you use rouge or lipstick for cheek coloring. Blend with the fingertips. Dry skin receives cream rouge, or lipstick as rouge, very easily and it gives a nice effect. When choosing face powder, select a good blend and don't think too much about the fragrance. It is color, and texture, that is all important. If your skin is pale, select a powder which gives a bit of glow, although it should be almost a match to your own skin tone. Today there are a number of blending powders which can give you more color when you have need of it. If your skin is flushed or florid try a pale color without any pink; and if you have this type of complexion, do not wear rouge or bright colors next to the face. Face powder is not to be used as a cover-up. It is both protective and beautifying, and your skin has need of both elements. For evening a pale lavender is very attractive and gives a brightness and tone to the average skin. Also, when used over a film of powder matching your skin tone exactly, it gives extra beauty. Always use a fresh puff and wash powder puffs before they get soiled. A large bit of absorbent cotton also makes a smooth puff. Every now and then stir your powder with a silver spoon or an ivory mustard spoon. Powder "bogs down" and gets heavy, so keep it fresh and "stirred up." Use a small brush to remove powder from brows and eyelashes. Monday — "Dear Edyth Thornton McLeod"

We Won!

Garry and I won first prize last Saturday! It was the young people's Olds Tyme costume party at the church, and we had a wonderful time.

I go to almost everything the club puts on, and of course there are lots of activities besides parties and dances. We visit hospitals, we collect and repair toys for underprivileged children, and we help with various church events. We have regular religious discussion groups that often get me so interested I continue the discussion around the family dinner table all week long! Mom and Dad don't mind, though. They think it's good for me to be mixing with other young Christians, and they never worry when I'm over at the club.

Your own church offers many enjoyable and worthwhile activities for Christians of every age. Why not join? You'll be warmly welcomed.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL - ALL FOR THE CHURCH
 The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and read your Bible daily.

Designed not only to help humes sufferers but also to have dollars for business and industry, the Central Florida Council on Alcoholism will be organized at 7:30 tonight at the American Red Cross building, 3401 East Central Avenue, Orlando.

Jim Crowe informs us the shad are running in the St. Johns again. Several good catches reported last week.

M. T. Dixon, Florida's director of veterans affairs, says that the liberalization of the veterans' pension law, which goes into effect Jan. 1, will increase most pension rates for veterans of WW I, WW II and the Korean conflict, and widows and children, by approximately seven per cent.

Remember the Judy Kinnard Fund. Send your contributions to Box 543. This is the little Geneva girl who was struck by a hit-and-run driver a few weeks ago and now lies in the hospital with a broken back and other injuries. The Lions Club kicked off the fund with a $100 contribution.

The DeLand High football rosters didn't take too kindly to the burning of the bulldog at the stake during the Seminoles Band half-time show. Under cover of darkness, (field lights were turned out) several DeLand rosters ran out on the field and attempted to "save" the dog effigy, but were thwarted by a band official.

QUESTION: Why were barricades not put up on First Street Wednesday afternoon during the Seminoles High School parade? Some drivers insisted on driving down the street in the middle of the parade — a dangerous thing to do and disconnecting to the parade. We didn't see any city police around from where we were standing (Oak and First). What happened?

Reports from Ocala indicate that one of the most colorful entries in that city's Christmas Parade last Saturday was the Seminoles High School Band. The local group also participated in last week's Santa Claus parade in Orlando. In between these performances the band also appeared at the Seminoles-DeLand football game last Wednesday. It must have been quite a week for Ernie Cowley and his aggregation.

"That's the kind of a holiday we like," chorused deputies this morning when asked how things went Thursday. They said the only out of the ordinary report they received was of a stolen car. The woman called back a little later, saying her hubby had the car.

Sometimes you can jump to conclusions. An out-of-state car was seen being parked on First Street this morning — and the driver walked away. He went as far as French Avenue and then turned south. The witness told police of his suspicions. As police arrived, the man was seen returning — carrying a gasoline can. He'd run out of gas.

Next it's the Santa Claus arrival during the giant Christmas parade next Wednesday. And from then on things will be popping, what with shopping, parties and the like.

That washing machine and dryer they've been wanting at Sanford Junior High for the gymnasium has been approved by the school board. Seems like they've been talking about these two items for months. Glad it's over!

Freezing Weather Due Tonight

Vegetable, Citrus Crops In No Danger

LAKELAND (UPI) — Sub-freezing weather will push into Florida as far south as Orlando tonight but forecasters said there would be little or no frost.

There appeared to be no danger to citrus in Central Florida nor to vegetable crops in the southern half of the state.

Weathermen said temperatures would range from cold to rather cool throughout the whole state Tuesday but Florida should begin warming up Tuesday night.

The thermometer will plunge tonight as low as 24 to 30 degrees in the Northwest Florida panhandle and 25 to 30 degrees in the Suwannee and north portion of the Gainesville districts.

Temperatures may dip as low as 26 degrees in the 40s around Lake Okechobee and 30s in the Lower East Coast districts.

Brisk northerly winds should keep frost from forming despite freezing temperatures in the upper half of the state, forecasters said.

As the Federal-State Frost Warning Service at Lakeland issued its freeze warnings, the Miami Weather Bureau closed down the 1964 hurricane season today with its final summary of the tropical Atlantic and Caribbean Sea areas. There were no signs of tropical storms on the horizon, the final report stated.

Cold air dropped the temperature far below zero in the Northern Plains and chilled much of the East today. Snow fell in the East, too, and heavy rain drenched the Northwest.

The temperature was 26 below at Aberdeen, S. D., and seven below at St. Paul, Minn., early today. The mercury plunged Sunday to 23 below at Havre, Mont., and 29 below at Hismarck, N. D. Hazardous driving warnings were in effect for Maryland and West Virginia, with up to three inches of snow expected. Snow fell from the Ohio Valley to the middle Mississippi Valley, with three inches on the ground at Springfield, Ill.

A reading of 12 in Des Moines, Iowa, Sunday was only one degree above the record low set in 1925. Four inches of snow fell Sunday at Lamoni, Iowa, and West Point, Neb.

Two funnel clouds were spotted in the Miami area Sunday.

Woman Slain At N. Miami

NORTH MIAMI BEACH (UPI) — The nude, badly beaten body of a 50-year-old West New York (N. J.) widow was discovered by police late Sunday when they broke through the door of her winter home here.

Police said the victim was identified Monday as Julia Berger. Her body was found on a bed in the beach home. A wire coat hanger had been twisted around her neck, an official said.

Officer Dies

LANSING, Mich. (UPI) — Army Capt. Joseph G. Caldwell, 27, of Miami, Fla., quarterback of the 1960 West Point football team, died last night in St. Lawrence Hospital of injuries suffered in a two-car collision.

Assault Charged

A man identified as David Butler was charged with assault with a deadly weapon after a cutting incident at the Goldboro Bar. Police said the victim is Bertha Mae Arnold, of West 11th Street,

Hospital Bids To Be Opened December 22

Seminole Memorial Hospital Administrator Bob Besserer announced that bids for the $1 million 60-bed expansion program will be opened at 7 p. m. Dec. 22.

Besserer and Sanford architect John Burton IV conferred with officials of the Housing and Home Finance Administration in Atlanta last week when plans and specifications for the new wing were approved by the federal agency.

Besserer, during an informal press conference Saturday afternoon, said that the 60-bed addition, the third expansion program since the hospital was opened, would bring the number of beds available to patients to 200, give or take five either way.

"Our architect," said Besserer, "was highly complimented when HIFA authorities told us that Burton's plans and specifications were some of the best they had examined."

Besserer stated that he expected construction of the new wing to begin right after the first of the year.

Rebels Shoot Down Airliner

LEOPOLDVILLE, The Congo (UPI) — A chartered Belgian airliner Sunday night crashed and burned during a rebel-held territory. New reports were received that there were conflicting reports of the death toll.

In Brussels, the Belgian government institute for Information and Documentation (INBEL), said the plane was shot down by rebel gunfire and that 44 persons were believed to have been killed.

Reports received here said seven crew members and passengers aboard the four-engine DC4 were killed. Other sources said 33 persons were killed and seven injured.

The plane had transported ammunition and supplies to Congolese army troops in Stanleyville. It was owned by the Belgian International Air Service (BIAS) and chartered by the Congolese government.

The plane crash report came as hopes dimmed for saving more than 500 white hostages in rebel-held territory. New reports were received that the American airliner may be shot down.

Rebels stiffened against desperate efforts by outnumbered Congolese Army troops and white mercenaries to crush the rebellion.

Reports from fighting areas were scant, but the rebels were reportedly to control almost one-sixth of the country — an area about as large as the state of Texas.

"With the withdrawal of the Belgian paratroops and the Congolese Army bogged down on all fronts, the chances of survival for many of the whites are seriously compromised to say the least," one military observer said.

Nearly 2,000 hostages were rescued last week in two spectacular missions carried out by the Belgian paratroops jumping from U. S. Air Force planes. The troops left the Congo Sunday en route back to Brussels.

Prison Hostages Freed Unharm

PETROS, Tenn. (UPI) — Around 135 convicts, armed with dynamite, revolted in a mine shaft and held three foremen as hostages for 12 hours until prison authorities agreed to hear their grievances on mailing privileges.

The foremen were released unharm shortly after midnight and the prisoners returned to their cells in the Brushy Mountain State Prison.

Explosion Victim Reported 'Fair'

Russell Falmadge, 22, of 311 Granada Court, severely burned Nov. 19 when a cooker exploded at the HLH Plant, was reported in fair condition today at Seminole Memorial Hospital.

Falmadge suffered second and third degree burns over 40 per cent of his body when the boiler exploded, officials said today.

'New Evidence' In Baker Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — GOP member of the Senate rules committee dropped hints today of new evidence which could expand the Bobby Baker investigation when it opens again Tuesday.

There were indications that the new evidence involved the alleged use of "party girls" by government and industry officials in Washington — an angle the committee refused to explore in its previous investigation last July.

Full Calendar Faces LBJ As Vacation Ends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Johnson returned to his White House desk today with a full range of problems — both foreign and domestic — bidding for his attention.

Uppermost on his agenda was a full-scale review of U. S. strategy in the anti-Communist war in South Viet Nam, one of a long series of such sessions.

No less urgent, however, were the problems of the NATO Alliance and the future of the American-sponsored Multilateral Nuclear Force (MLF).

British Prime Minister Harold Wilson arrives in Washington next week for talks on these subjects.

The Chief Executive, who returned Sunday night from an 11-day working vacation at his Texas ranch, confers with Ambassador Maxwell D. Taylor Tuesday on Viet Nam.

In advance of the session, Johnson put a damper on speculation about any expansion of the three-year-old U. S. military effort in South Viet Nam. He told a Saturday news conference that such speculation was "premature" and that he expected no dramatic announcement after the Taylor meeting.

In recent days, administration officials have become more guarded over the degree of speculation that a decision to "extend the war" might be imminent.

They gave assurances that there was no "crisis" atmosphere, and that Johnson was approaching the problem with a spirit of caution.

There is said to be no intention in Washington to abandon the basic policy of seeking solutions which avoid a major war.

This would rule out any decision for large-scale invasion of North Viet Nam or bombing of major industrial targets deep in that country.

Pope Prepares For India Visit

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — The Vatican announced today that Pope Paul VI will stop briefly in Beirut, Lebanon, Wednesday during his flight to the Eucharistic Congress in Bombay, India.

Pope Paul used his blessing to the crowds in St. Peter's Square Sunday to ask for prayers that his trip to the Congress be seen as purely devotional.

The 28th Congress of the Roman Catholic Church got down to work today with anticipation mounting over the Pope's impending visit.

Daylong study sessions were mapped out for Catholic prelates and priests and visitors to discuss problems ranging from worldwide activities of the church to local Asian famine.

Russell, chairman of the influential Senate Armed Services Committee, told newsmen "we either have got to get out or take some action to help the Vietnamese. They won't help themselves."

Yuletide Parade 'Greatest Ever'

What is expected to be the largest Christmas parade in Sanford history will begin here Wednesday at 3:30 p. m. More than 110 units will participate in it.

Wayne Albert, parade chairman, reports this year's event will be "the longest, finest and most beautiful parade ever staged in Sanford."

The Shrine Club fun unit will be a highlight of the event as it performs with its zany antics, Albert said.

Santa Claus will be riding atop one of the Sanford-Seminole Jaycee floats.

The theme of the parade is "My Christmas Dream" and the two boys who submitted the winning theme will be given a special spot in the parade. The winners are Scotty Fuller, 6, and Dicky Dear, 9.

Marching bands from schools throughout Central Florida will participate. The parade will be led by the Seminole High School band.

This is the 15 annual parade staged by the Jaycees and it is expected to draw one of the largest crowds in Sanford history, Albert said this morning.

Traffic Toll Hits 539 In Nation

By United Press
The nation's traffic toll for the Thanksgiving weekend fell far short of the toll for a similar period last year.

The United Press International count at 8:30 a. m. showed that 539 persons had died in traffic accidents during the holiday period.

The breakdown: Traffic, 532; fires, 45; planes, 21, and miscellaneous, 108, for a total of 706.

Seventeen persons died on Florida's roads during the long Thanksgiving holiday weekend, the Florida Highway Patrol said Monday.

New York led the nation with 48 traffic deaths, followed by Texas 40, California 34, Illinois 25 and Michigan and Pennsylvania 21 each. Montana and Wyoming were the only states with no reported accidental deaths of any kind.

The holiday began at 6 p. m. Wednesday and continued until midnight Sunday. The National Safety Council said that for a similar 102-hour period last November 662 persons died.
