

Cleo Jeter And Bill Daugherty To Pitch Against St. Augustine Tonight

Manager Bill Friel Expected To Send Charley Kane And Cecil Hutson Against Sanford Aggregation

A double-header will be played with St. Augustine tonight, weather permitting. Cleo Jeter, who was placed on the active list yesterday afternoon, and Bill Daugherty will be Manager Whitely Campbell's pitching selections for tonight's contests. Rick Gillespie was placed on the suspended list to make way for Jeter's return. Sanford was rained out yesterday at St. Augustine and under ordinary circumstances the make-up game should be played in their ball park, but President Gray wired Frank Lamson, secretary of the Seminole club, and informed him that the game would have to be played here inasmuch as there are no more games scheduled here. The game was postponed because of rain.

Tonight's games mark the last appearance of St. Augustine in the local park, unless the teams should meet in the one open date, August 31.

Including tonight's twin-bill, the Seminoles must play six double-headers between now and the end of the season, then comes the All-Star game, and play-off series begin without one day off.

If tonight's games are rained out, there will be no possibility to make up all of the tilts, and at least one game will be unplayed. League rules state that "games must either be made up or forfeited by the team refusing to play unless there is no possibility of playing the games." If would be the case.

Cecil Hutson and Charley Kane are expected to be Manager Bill Friel's starting pitchers.

FROM THE PRESS BOX

by BILL BINGHAM

Less squabble was raised over the All-Star selections than this corner expected, indicating that the fans were in agreement on the matter. The final line-up correctly down to the bat-boy. We have no cause to object to the aggregation that was finally chosen because it is uniformly strong and will give Sanford a real battle. In fact the presence of the All-Star pitching staff of Hearn, Musial, Tomes, and Kennedy should make that outfit 3-2 to 3 favorites to top the contest.

However, we should like to know why Saddy Groat led Willie Skeen in the voting for center field and why Herb Bauer was nearly 200 ballots ahead of Andy Groat at first base. Skeen and Groat are both fast slycatchers, but Skeen packs much more power at bat. There is little difference in the batting averages of Bauer and Johnson, but Johnson can show up Bauer, or any other first baseman in the league, when it comes to snagging wild throws and scooping up low ones.

The only explanation we can offer is that the fans figured Sanford would be the team representative for the game and so did not bother to cast their ballots as if Daytona were in the lead.

The fans agreed with Whitely Campbell's selection of Sid Hudson as pitcher. He has pitched 100 games in the All-Star selection. Inasmuch as Whitely did his selection first, we'll have to give him the credit. The only position he missed was second base. He took hefty Hank Wrayton at that position instead of Larry Womack. "It's a good line-up," said Campbell. "They'll be tough to beat, but I think we can do it."

Miss Mall Whitely brought in some clippings from the Rochester, N. Y., papers, she received about Sid Hudson. One was an interview with Clark Griffith, owner of the Washington club. Speaking of Sid, Griffith says, "That boy is going to be one of the game's great pitchers. He's learning fast, he is. Yes, sir, he's a smart boy. There isn't a better fielding pitcher in the league, and believe me, his 6 feet 4 inches help him cover on bunts."

That is high praise coming from the Old Man, a pitcher who stayed in the majors for years with a "nothing" ball and control. Griffith has seen Lefty Grove, George Earnshaw, Carl Hubbell, and Ed Simmons like Babe Waddell, Pennock, Matthews, and his own, Walter Johnson, so if he chooses to call Hudson a "coming great" he probably knows whereof he speaks, although there is a long road ahead.

Ducky Harris, Washington manager, says, "Sid Hudson is the finest prospect I've had under

St. Louis Beats Sid Hudson By Score Of 6 To 3

WASHINGTON, Aug. 21.—(AP)—Elden Auker's submarine balls were too much for Washington yesterday and the Senators lost to St. Louis 6-3 for their fifth straight defeat.

The Browns hammered the sensational rookie, Sid Hudson, for 10 safeties.

Joe Grace knocked in ten first St. Louis runs in the third with a looping single and Harold Cliff pushed two more across with another. The Browns got two more in the sixth, one on a squeeze play and the other on Auker's double. Cliff batted in St. Louis' final run with a single in the seventh.

Miss Wingate Of St. Augustine Is Winner Of Pass

WINTER HAVEN, — A mere slip of a girl, Miss Kathleen Wingate of St. Augustine, out-flew all of the experts attached to the Florida State League and, as a result of her close study of the loop's players, she is today announced as the winner of a 1940-41 pass good for all the games throughout the circuit.

Miss Wingate, residing at 2 Masters Drive, was the first of the nearly 250 fans who sent in advance all-star team selections, to come within one of selecting the "dream team" chosen by the vote of all fans last weekend.

She correctly named every player on the squad and the position he would be chosen for, missing out only in the matter of bat-boy. She chose "Poke," the Saints' colorful colored bat-boy whereas the fans named Bill Hamner of Leesburg.

Miss Wingate's ballot was the 90th to be received by mail at the post office of the league secretary. Her pass for the rest of this season and all of next year is enroute to her from the office of League President Henry L. Gray.

One other fan, M. E. Troy, of Daytona Beach, correctly named all of the players and the bat-boy, with one exception, and would have won the pass because his entry was the fifth to be received.

However, Troy's mistake was in naming Groat instead of Hudson, who was chosen as center fielder. Troy placed Alabama Smith of Orlando in center.

Red Cross Awards Given Swimmers By Miss Morrison

Red Cross certificates were awarded to 24 beginners, four intermediates, and four swimmers, who successfully completed and passed all tests, Miss Eleanor Morrison, recreational director and Red Cross instructor, announced.

Classes, however, will continue through September with a change of time after school officially opens, according to the number of school children still registered who have not completed the beginners' tests, Miss Morrison stated.

Miss Morrison expressed the hope that members would come as often as convenient until school starts to get as much instruction as possible. She also said she hoped the ladies would not become "discouraged" as they were getting along nicely.

Beginners who passed all requirements were: Miss Doris McCull, Miss Nancy Williams, Miss Olive Chapman, Miss Olive Ann Adams, Miss Louise White, Mrs. C. D. Weston, Mrs. Victor White, Miss Mary Helen Tow, Miss Betty Sloan, Hollard, Bill Ludwig, A. M. Sloan, Jr., and Miss Betty Wathen.

Raid Casualties Are Believed More Than Is Announced

NEW YORK, Aug. 21.—(AP)—On a basis of mathematical probability advanced by the British themselves, it is possible—but rather unlikely—that in 12 days of bombing the citadel of England, German airplanes have taken a toll of from 48,000 to 57,000 casualties on the ground.

Censorship continues to veil the degree of the punishment meted out by the bombers of either England or Germany in terms of material damage or of casualties.

It probably is safe to assume that the wounded and killed number many more than the belligerents care to admit.

The probability curve presented here is subject to a large number of qualifying factors, and the totals are purely theoretical.

British air raid precaution books generally circulated among the population are generally likely to be struck for every ten of bombs dropped on targets in populated areas.

The number of planes, both bombers and protective fighters, employed by Germany in the intensive bombing operations which started Aug. 24, is subject to dispute, but an arbitrary average of 500 a day would appear to be conservative in light of the character of the attack.

The ratio of fighters to bombers has been roughly 3 to 2, producing a figure of 2000 bombers for the 12 days. Each of the

Birthday Greetings

August 22, 1940

Dear Sanford Herald:

This is your birthday. Whether you remember it or not, is doubtful, for you have been so busy during the 32 years of your life that milestones may mean little to you.

You were born with the new Sanford. Your advent into the world preceded but a few months the paved streets, the fine school buildings and new churches, the immigration of many fine new people from practically every state in the Union. You at once began to advocate good roads, better living conditions, county development, improvement of the lake front and better government generally.

You have seen the farming industry grow from a few acres to one of the largest specialized farming operations in the country, requiring the biggest car icing plant in the world to furnish refrigeration for the immense crop of winter vegetables grown here each year. You have seen the development of this section into one of the highly intensified farming districts of America, with perhaps the most intelligent class of growers to be found anywhere, men who know soils, fertilization, insecticides, proper methods of cultivation, packing and marketing.

You have had your ups and downs, Sanford Herald, through the boom period and the depression years. However, you have been fortunate in having at your helm from your founder Bob Holly, to the present owners, the Dean Brothers, only high class, optimistic newspaper men. You have been a big factor in the building of a fine community made up of progressive, intelligent citizens.

May you live long and prosper.

W. M. HAYNES.

With Florida Editors

Though most of the Florida newspapers are apparently supporting President Roosevelt's re-election, comment among them on Willkie's acceptance is varied, ranging all the way from mild approval to the belief that he has pronounced the death knell of the Republican party.

The Tallahassee News-Democrat, for instance, takes the view that Willkie has won the first round, but that the first round is not the whole fight. "Roosevelt packs a tremendous wallop in each hand," it says, "and the battle is just beginning. Predictions would be extremely hazardous at this point, especially as to the final result throughout the country. We will make the guess that, although Willkie has gained strength among southern Democrats, Roosevelt will carry the solid south, almost if not quite intact."

The Ocala Star says that the Willkie speech was neither as good as Senator Vandenberg's, nor as bad as Senator Minton said. "Mr. Willkie expressed the courage of his convictions," the Star says, "the convictions of a liberal-minded democrat, telling the Republican party what he thinks it should do to retrieve its lost prestige to the country."

The Lakeland Star-Telegram adopts a wait-and-see attitude. "Republicans and Democrats will watch with equal interest to see whether Mr. Willkie will be able to hold public enthusiasm with his shaggy, rugged come-on-boys-let's-pull-the-country-together appeal. It is the kind of appeal that can generate a landslide or collapse abruptly. What Mr. Willkie says and does in following up yesterday's opening oratory had better be good, for the Roosevelt campaign charm will be turned on soon, and there'll be plenty of vote-getting tricks coming out of the bag."

The Tampa Tribune, while strongly supporting Roosevelt, sees some virtue in the Willkie speech. "Mr. Willkie's acceptance address was forthright, it was plain and unequivocal. It was courageous. And in spite of our belief in Mr. Roosevelt and the New Deal, we must say that his speech rang with conviction and sincerity. There was no comfort in the address for bitter-end enemies of the New Deal. The declaration of liberal faith which Mr. Willkie professed took in the whole scope of objectives which Mr. Roosevelt has long espoused. Where Mr. Willkie joined the issue was in a blunt accusation that the President and his administration didn't know how to accomplish the objectives they avowedly support."

The Tampa Times says that on the whole it was a thought-provoking and stimulating document. "It is not something that can be successfully pooh-poohed or tut-tutted. It shows that Wendell Willkie has an intellectual grasp of the grave questions before this country and the world and whether right or wrong in his diagnoses and proposed remedies, he is no mere partisan hack trying to trick the people out of votes, but an earnest seeker after the highest office in the gift of the country because he believes he is fitted to the task of 'making this nation strong!'"

The Daytona Beach News feels "comforted by the speech. Assured that come what may in November, there will be a strong man in the White House, one who will knuckle down to foreign autocrats," while the Fort Myers News-Press thinks he left the Republican platform's face pretty red, declaring that "if he caused the New Dealers to wince—and they're a tough lot if they didn't—he must have given Republican politicians the shudders."

The St. Petersburg Independent points out that however Willkie's speech may have sounded, he is not a New Dealer. "He takes his stand against its principles as firmly as in the preceding paragraphs he takes his stand in favor of its policies," and the Orlando Sentinel declares, "The Willkie speech from start to finish is a challenge to the New Deal and to the champion of the New Deal, and we don't believe that gauntlet can with political safety be left lying there. Only by squarely meeting the criticisms hurled by Mr. Willkie can the New Deal satisfy the minds of thoughtful people who may be wavering in their partisan stand."

Chickens Come Home To Roost

Within the last few days two well known men of international reputation have died, one at the age of 61, the other 61. Each was the product of the environment in which he was born. One developed out of that was the greatest industrial genius of his time, the other was the arch-conspirator.

Walter Chrysler, as well as Louis Chevrolet, was born a poor boy. Chrysler's first job was as a mechanic in a locomotive roundhouse. He rose to become one of the world's largest automobile concerns. Trotsky rose from a young propagandist against the Russian czarist government to the commissar of the Red Army.

As Trotsky died, so did he live. He was always plotting against someone else, so was always being plotted against him. As he, as the junior member of the firm of Lenin and Trotsky, overthrew the Czarist government, which in turn overthrew the Czarist government, so was Trotsky overthrown by the Czarist government.

He lived in the world of the Czarist government, and he died in the world of the Czarist government. He was always plotting against someone else, so was always being plotted against him. Both National headquarters that year were infested with scientific calculators who assisted the troops, weighted their reports and did all the other technical things that were supposed to make their totals stand up—and every one of them went away. Even the poll that inspired this summary left this year's important states with more than two hundred electoral votes at stake in the election race.

The only proper who made good was Chairman Farley, who voted neither on reading the manuscript on abstract inductions from public cross sections based on supposed sampling, but simply added up his reports from every state from the line in the ward book. He finally told the voters that Roosevelt would carry all states except Maine and Vermont. There is no necessity to suppose to the authors of the summary that they were not alive or to assume that they were actually in the returns. same political base in all probability, equally suspect! It is a political theory of long standing that to create an illusion of victory is a worth while expedient to attract the wavering vote. Hence the jubilant welcome by the Willkie folk of the recent poll, hence the most inveterate practice of claiming everything in advance of the election. If the score turns out well it may be pointed to with pride; if it goes awry, nothing has been lost.

So with a poll, with all the accompaniment of scientific terminology and technical sounding of precise methods, it is only a guess based on the prediction of opinion of a group of men in military uniforms, and a detachment of machine guns. The messenger will be accompanied by a group of men in military uniforms, and a detachment of machine guns.

The statistical instance is, of course, the Lincoln poll, which spent millions in its effort, working on a number of thought intricate. It was not so it bet on it and proceeded as they would an army in a laboratory—until it made a guess per an abstract induction to find the field of probability. The laboratory theory of right human nature, however, is different when it comes to the voters of all political parties. It is not a matter of abstract induction, but a matter of actual observation.

There is no necessity to suppose to the authors of the summary that they were not alive or to assume that they were actually in the returns. Savage Attack Proves Fatal To Trotsky

(Continued From Page One) again in a futile attempt to succeed. Nikolai Lenin, a strong proponent of the Union of Socialist Soviet Republics, after that to overthrow the governing group, headed by Joseph Stalin and through many years to overcome ill health and ward off attempts on his life by political foes. He did attain high place in the early days of the Soviet Union, but he fell from that eminence to become a homeless nomad, barred from Europe and Asia and forced early in 1937 to find haven with a disciple in Mexico. Second only to Nikolai Lenin when the bolsheviks seized power in 1917, he was the first commander of foreign affairs, the former war minister, revived Russia's war weary soldiery and built a military machine which held off Japanese attacks in Siberia, checked allied troops in Archangel, smashed White Russian armies on the east, south and west and carried the red flag to the gates of Moscow. Called in those days "the Napoleon of bolshevism" and "war lord of the soviet", his name constantly was coupled with Lenin's when the latter died in January, 1924. It seemed that the mantle of power would fall gracefully upon the shoulders of the junior member of the firm, always an individualist in communist party councils, he had made enemies. Besides he had not formally joined bolshevik wing faction, benches of Lenin since 1903, he rallied to Joseph Stalin, executive secretary of the communist party, stripped Trotsky of his offices, expelled him from the party late in 1927 and banished him and his chief political lieutenants. The span of his rise and fall was ten years.

Yet his was a voice which misfortune could not still. From exile in Turkestan, Turkey, France, Sweden, Norway and Mexico, he carried on against the Stalin regime. He wrote, gave interviews and on occasion, made public addresses in Russian, French, German or English. Polyglot secretaries translated his fulminations into yet other languages. Meanwhile most of his fellow exiles had recanted and been readmitted to the soviet fold. That Trotsky retained a potent force was revealed when the Stalinites turned on his erstwhile adherents and, in the 1925-37 interval, obtained plot confessions from them and executed them in squads. At these political trials, in which defendants sealed their own doom by acknowledging sabotage, treason and murder schemes, he was named as the arch-conspirator and the Moscow government moved to have him extradited from Norway. That country would not surrender him to the certain death that awaited his return to Moscow, but it did find he had violated his status as a political refugee by interfering in the affairs of a nation with which his host was at peace. Allison, Van Ryn Lose In National Tennis Doubles

BROOKLINE, Mass., Aug. 22.—(AP)—A pair of two-time champions, Wilmer Allison and Johnny Van Ryn, whose logs total 20 years, gave the Longwood gallery something to cheer about Wednesday as favorites paraded in a nonstop contest into the quarter-finals of the National doubles tennis tournament.

Allison, now 36, and Van Ryn, two years younger, showed many flashes of the form that won their titles in 1932 and 1935 while trying unsuccessfully to turn back the clock against a pair of 19-year-old Californians, Jack Kramer and Ted Schroeder.

After a stirring struggle, which started with the Angles, Van Ryn taking the lead in decisive fashion, youth triumphed, but only because the balding Allison was further hampered by a pulled muscle in his right leg. The Californians' winning scores were 6-4, 6-3, 6-4, 9-7.

Top-seeded Frank Parker, of Beverly Hills, Calif., and Don McNeill, of Oklahoma City, gained the round of eight in three sets, 6-1, 6-10, 6-4, against William Talbot, of Cincinnati, and George Toley, of Los Angeles.

Second-seeded Bobby Riggs, of Chicago, and Wally Van Horst, of Los Angeles, polished off Robert Doherty, of Boston, and John Mahoney, of Jackson Heights, N. Y., 6-2, 6-2, 6-4, while G. Carter Mulry, of Coral Gables, and Henry Prusoff, of Seattle, ranked fourth in the draw, ousted Jim and Dwight Robinson, of Boston, 6-0, 6-2, 6-3.

Russell Bobbit, Atlanta, and Frank Gurnsey, Orlando, defeated Bryan Grant, Atlanta, and J. Gilbert Hall, Orange, N. J., 6-2, 7-5, 6-1.

Honor of being the first freshman ever to lead the National League in 3-batters is the prize within reach of Chet Ross, lead outfielder of the Boston Bees. At the clip he started, Chet looked likely to set an all-time senior circuit record for 3-way flow.

Chet Wilson, of the old Pirates, set a record of 36 in 1912, which has stood firm down through the years. Ross can still get there, although with the season half over. He has 16 home runs and 35 triples, but he is short of the halfway mark along the road. Ross switches to homers or doubles instead of his specialty, the crown may go to his leading rival, another freshman, Frankie Gasline, of the Pirates.

Army Officers Reject Third Of Volunteers

WASHINGTON, Aug. 22 —(AP)—Suppose your name comes up in the proposed draft lottery. What then?

One chance in three, you'll be turned down as physically unfit. That's been the recent proportion of rejection among volunteers, and U. S. army officials anticipate no lowering of standards for drafted men.

On a sample lot of 1,184 volunteers in May 206 or 23.1 per cent were rejected. Of those rejections, 27.23 per cent failed because of tooth A trouble, most have at least 12, properly located. Next biggest current cause of rejection is faulty eye-sight, failing of 19.24 per cent.

Minimum requirements: Eye height are 5 feet, 4 inches for weight, 130 pounds, and chest expansion, two inches. Just 13.29 per cent went out for these reasons. Poor hearing knocked out 10.49 per cent. Pronounced flat feet, toll, along with lesser causes of rejection including just plain facial ugliness.

Roosevelt Opposes Postponing Draft Until Next Year

Cites Need For New Additions To Man Power To Learn Use Of Equipment

Senate Completes Guard Legislation

Guardmen And Army Reserves Subject To Year's Duty

WASHINGTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—President Roosevelt said today he was personally and absolutely opposed to postponement of compulsory military training until next year.

The President told a press conference that new increments of man power were needed now to learn to use the modern fighting equipment that already is on hand.

To put off actual drafting of men, he said, would delay the whole defense program a year or two.

Roosevelt said Congress has been considering the subject since June 20 and is still talking about it. If the bill should not be enacted in the next couple of weeks he added, there was going to be a real delay in the defense program.

The Senate sent to the White House legislation authorizing the President to call the National Guard and Army reserves to active duty for any period of 12 consecutive months.

The chamber completed legislative action on the resolution by approving a bill to amend the National Guard and Army Reserve laws.

As finally enacted, the measure would make approximately 200,000 members of the Guard, Officers Reserve Corps, enlisted reserves and other units subject to active service anywhere within the western hemisphere or the Philippine Islands.

The legislation provides that any Guardsman or reserve under the rank of captain who has dependent support could not be called to active service until 30 days after he has been ordered into active service. Guard members under 18 years of age would be given honorable discharge.

Employment of those inducted into service would be required of employers, after their period of active service ended, with the provision that they should not be discharged without cause for one year.

U. S. Will Not Be Able To Buy Gold Soon, Says Expert

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Calif., Aug. 23.—(AP)—The United States will be unable to purchase and store the world's gold for the reason there will be no more gold to purchase, according to Dr. Franklin Eberole, former economic adviser to the treasury and professor of finance at Yale.

Dr. Eberole told the Fourth Annual Stanford Business conference here that there is only $27,000,000 of monetary gold in the world, and that more than $30,000,000 of this is held by the United States government.

He mentioned, he said, that it is the policy of the administration to purchase another $2,000,000,000 leaving only $5,000,000,000 in the hands of the world.

Eberole expressed his doubt the United States will be able to purchase more than this additional two billion for the reason that certain countries like England and France, who believe in a solid metal coin, will not let their gold be drained from them.

The United States has been purchasing gold faster than it can use it. The country's gold stock is being depleted. The world's gold is being hoarded in certain countries.

California leads the nation in the production of gold. It is estimated that the state produced $100,000,000 worth of gold in 1915.

The gold is being used for various purposes, including the purchase of foreign currencies and the payment of international debts.

National Guard Returns After War Maneuvers

Contingent Faces Call To Active Service On September 15

An Atlantic Coast Line engine pulled into Sanford this afternoon pulling a trainload of almost 150 National Guardsmen, healthy and browned after three weeks of maneuvers at Camp Beaufort, La.

The contingent was expected to arrive at 2:40 o'clock, according to railroad officials, but due to delays enroute the train didn't get in until 3:30 o'clock.

The Guardsmen made a short stop for breakfast in Albany early this morning.

While the Guardsmen were in Louisiana for the war games, Congress had almost completed legislation on the National Guard Mobilization Bill, which would empower President Roosevelt to call the Guard into active service and send them anywhere in the western hemisphere and to possessions and territories of the United States, including the Philippine Islands.

Company commanders at Camp Beaufort were issued orders earlier this week requesting them to have their men ready for service by Sept. 15. The Sanford company, as well as units in the 13 Third Army Area, are included in the order.

Men with families and dependents will be exempted from this order however. They will be permitted to remain in the National Guard if they so desire.

Spin Parachute Is Insurance For Pilots

HOUSTON, Aug. 23.—(AP)—The spin parachute, sort of an insurance policy for test pilots, has made its appearance at the National Guard airport here.

Taking new ships on trial spins for the army is a rigorous business, so the air corps has developed the spin chute to cut down the chances in test pilots.

When the parachute is 5 by 7 inches. When the rip cord is pulled, it blossoms out into a 2-foot circle. It is attached to the tail assembly of the plane.

In case of a flat spin, when the plane leaves a vertical position and starts whirling flatly—a falling wheel circling down—the pilot finds it almost impossible to bring the ship under control.

This is where the spin chute comes in. It is a small parachute which opens automatically when the pilot pulls the rip cord, and it opens up, although the plane is still in a steep climb. It is designed to hit the control surfaces of the plane and bring it back to a normal position.

Papworth Is Reelected To Head Market

Advisory Committee Decides To Make Minor Changes In Setup Of Market

H. M. Papworth, who helped organize the Sanford State Farmers' Market almost six years ago and who has carried it since that time, was re-elected chairman of the advisory board for another year at a meeting last night at the market.

Charles Dunn, Sr. was named vice chairman and H. J. Lehman was re-elected secretary treasurer and manager.

It was decided to move a large shed built several years ago to the citrus packing house where it will be used for coloring rooms and a storage place for crates.

Offices of the Western Union and Postal Telegraph branches will be moved to a more central location for the increased convenience of farmers, who receive and send many orders by telegraph for shipment of produce. The branches will be operated as usual by market employees.

Much of the business of the market is carried on at night, and to give a better light to carry on this work, advisors decided last night to change the electric wiring system. Six lights, which formerly were placed directly over the partitions, will be moved so that each stall will have a light in the center. The Farmers' Market usually remains open until midnight, and sometimes all night.

Mr. Lehman said today that many requests for stalls have been received by the market and those on hand will be accepted at the next meeting of the board Sept. 3. Other applications will be acted upon as they are received.

The advisory board also voted to equip colored employees of the market with large buttons so farmers can tell who is working on the platform. Those who are not working on the platform will wear a loading platform, and wait for farmers to call them to help do packing or other work. This plan will eliminate some of the friction at the loading platform, Mr. Lehman explained.

Board members present at last night's meeting were: Mr. Papworth, Mr. Lehman, H. J. Lehman, Haines, John Meach, William A. Leffler and Henry Nickel. Others who were unable to be present were Gus Schmah, C. R. Dawson, Charles Lee and Ralph B. Wight.

Passenger Boat Plan Discussed In Jacksonville

Higgins Says Project Will Need Cooperation To Complete

Sanford's four-man delegation returned from Jacksonville Thursday after a conference on the possibility of resuming passenger boat service on the St. Johns River and Edward B. Higgins, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, said today the project can be worked out, but it will take the combined cooperation of all the cities on the route—and all the people who would be benefited by this additional attraction in central Florida.

Mayor Walter S. Coleman, G. D. Workman, and John Hintersmeyer were other members of the Sanford contingent who attended the conference.

With representatives from Palatka and Deland also present, the party had luncheon with Capt. S. E. Bairy aboard the yacht Chertio, after which the business meeting was held.

Capt. Bairy said the boat which he contemplates using if the plan goes through is capable of carrying 165 passengers, and will have a sleeping capacity of 20 or 25. Facilities to serve light lunches will also be available.

Although a detail of schedules was not worked out, the yacht captain believes the run can be made between Sanford and Jacksonville in 12 hours.

Mr. Higgins was asked to make a contact with hotel men and others interested in Orlando and have them send a delegation to the next meeting of the group, which will be held Thursday in Jacksonville. It was also decided to try to get a representative from Green Cove Springs.

Discussing the resumption of passenger service on the St. Johns River after a lapse of over 15 years, Mr. Higgins said today that "if this route is properly advertised, there is no doubt that thousands of people will include it in their trips to Florida, as the river is one of the outstanding natural attractions of the state."

Mr. Higgins is of the opinion that this project is a "wonderful opportunity for Sanford to get the benefit of a concerted effort to develop the St. Johns River, the Nile of America."

He added that Sanford Florida has to develop every possible attraction if it expects to get its share of the tourist business in competition with the extensively advertised resorts of the east and west coasts.

When Guy C. Caldwell, American initiator of the talk, visited the sea at Turkey, Robinson, Florida, he said he was very impressed.

Nazi Planes Bomb London, Six Are Killed

Englishmen Open Up Long Range Guns And Fire Rounds On French Coast

Dover Residents Evacuate Town

English Pilots Raid Western Germany "Without Effect"

Nazi warplanes dropped bombs today on three densely populated London suburbs and inflicted a toll of six known killed in attacks of mounting violence elsewhere in England and Scotland.

London reported that British long range guns had fired a few rounds across the Channel in way of a retort to the German "Big Bertha" shells.

British convoys yesterday in the Straits of Dover and raised cross Channel projectiles on Dover.

British spokesmen discounted the Nazis' new mode of attack, declaring the big German cannon would not make over-usable from a military standpoint.

Civilian residents of the Channel "Hell's corner" town began fleeing, however.

Heavy property damage was reported in a pre-dawn assault on the London area, the capital's first night raid of the war.

Including two empty movie theaters, a bank store and many other buildings. Few casualties were reported.

British bombers countered with raids over western Germany, the Nazis' high command acknowledged, but a number of civilians injured.

The rising sun brought news of German bombers ranging over the island kingdom, attacking the northern coast where a large store was wrecked by a direct bomb hit, a hotel was damaged and patrons of a cafe were trapped under debris when a bomb struck the building.

An Italian threat to invade Greece or the British occupy any Greek islands was reported in a dispatch from Rome.

About 6:30 P. M. the German planes suddenly veered into action over Boulogne to Calais with tremendous gales.

The flags of the guns could be seen plainly by British crowds, and the English cliffs for their huge "how" this far in the war that has brought some of its worst fury to the "hell's corner" in Kent and the Straits of Dover.

Even before the 1:00 o'clock bombardment began British bombers were blasting the position of the long-range guns on the French coast along a stretch containing possible jumping off points for the Nazis' threatened invasion of the British Isles.

Shortly after midnight great flares and fleeting ribbons of tracer bullets from machine gun fire could be seen and a great glow extended on from the waterline along the French coast.

Eye witnesses on the coast told of seeing British planes bombing Calais "for all they're worth," 22 miles across the channel from Dover.

"It looks as if our bombers have done the job because the German guns have gone silent," one Briton reported, but a half hour later the "big Bertha" opened up again, sending over five shells in two minutes.

What appeared to be parachute flares dropped by British bombers to light their targets were seen over the French coast and searchlights swayed and crisscrossed in the sky.

All along the French coast from Boulogne to Calais anti-aircraft guns of the Germans were in action.

On the coast of the Dover straits, hours after the bombardment of German bombers—one of 15 and the other of seven—attempted to drive inland but they were fierce air battles in which they lost three and perhaps four planes. It was reported.

Knots of Britons on the Dover cliffs cheered as two Nazi bombers went down with smoke pouring from them after encountering a stiff anti-aircraft barrage and (Continued on Page Three)
