HAL FREEMAN EXAMINES NEW-FOUND LONGWOOD TREASU

Longwood 'Expert', 18, Takes 'Bird's-Eye View' Mich.

By ELDA NICHOLS Herald Correspondent

Searching out dusty old records, files and pictures has become a compelling hobby for 18-year-old Hal Freeman of Longwood. Compiling a complete history of the City of Longwood is a labor of love for him - but it's also a lot of hard work. Hal has visited long-time residents of the city and listened carefully to their personal reminiscences.

"Writing the history of Longwood began when I was in the 11th grade at Lyman," he said. "We were told to do a term paper for history class, and it was then I decided to write about Longwood. My paper turned out to be about 10 typewritten pages, but I also discovered that there was no actual written history of the town."

Laughing, he added, "I always wanted to be an expert at something, so as this was a field with no competition, I figured here was my opportunity." Hal's book is titled, "Bird's-Eye View of Longwood," and is mostly a pictorial and documented account. He is working on the nanuscript daily. One aspect of the book is the railroad history of the area, with pictures of old depots and railroad lines that passed through Longwood. Said Hal: "People have been wonderful in offering their help. Mrs. Berta Searcy has shared old photos, documents and personal histories. She has allowed me to photo-copy any of her articles pertaining to early Longwood." Mrs. Searcy's recollections include her late husband's parents arriving in the area soon after the Civil War. Her father-in-law, John Neill Searcy, built the house where she still lives.

He also donated the original land for the Longwood Cemetery. Of Hal's undertaking, she said, "I think it's wonderful. It's really remarkable anyone as young as he, to be so interested in history." Mrs. Maxine McGrath, acting librarian at the Longwood Historical Library, is another who assisted Hal in gathering material for his book.

Public Airing For Cop Gripes?

If Sanford policemen have grievances - and they apparently have - according to Mayor Lee P. Moore, those gripes should be outlined at a public meeting before the entite city commission.

Moore is urging city commissioners to decide the best way to fulfill the city's commitment to solve long-standing police grievances. The commitment by the city commission was ma when city police abandoned efforts to unionize. Mayor Moore also suggested either a committee be appointed or he, personally, could work to resolve the grievances after they are aired at a commission meeting open to the public. The mayor said police might also consider creating their own grievance committee and suggested police might make up that committee with one officer from each

Although police discarded unionization efforts, Stephen Micciche, president of the Orange County Police Benevolent Association (OCPBA), is still trying to organize Sanford police, he said.

Micciche said he has not withdrawn a petition filed by his organization with the state's Public Employes Relations Committee (PERC) to unionize Sanford police. A Sept. 7 public hearing has been set by PERC to review the petition, according to Micciche.

"The procedures required by law of a public hearing by PERC to determine the will of the police department is necessary," Mayor Moore told city commissioners. He said the commission should be prepared to select a course of action after that hearing.

NATION IN BRIEF

Middlemen Get More

Farmers Less For Food

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Agriculture Department says that while farmers are getting less out of what consumers pay for food, the middlemen are getting quite a bit more than he used to. The department in an analysis made public Friday said a family of three will spend an average $1,945 this year for food produced on American farms, $50 more than for the same 65 items last year. But it said the farmers' share of that hypothetical family's spending was down by $4, while the middlemen's share increased $54. That's about the same jump the processors, wholesalers and retailers experienced from 1975 to 1976.

Carter Backs Lance Again

WASHINGTON (AP) - President Carter's confidence in Bert Lance has been undiminished by disclosure that the budget director pledged the same stock as collateral on two separate loans, according to Carter's spokesman. White House Press Secretary Jody Powell acknowledged, however, that how Lance acted and responded "is still a question that remains to be settled and will have to be dealt with." Meanwhile, an aide to Sen. Charles Percy, R-Ill., said the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee would add the latest disclosure about Lance's financial dealings on to its agenda when it conducts hearings next month.

Inferences Anger Nixon

WASHINGTON (AP) - Richard Nixon was reported as being angry and deeply hurt by inferences that he and Mrs. Nixon intentionally might have wanted to keep some of the gifts they received from foreign dignitaries while Nixon was president. An aide to the former president said in a telephone interview from San Clemente on Friday that Nixon and his family "never claimed, believed or hoped" to keep some of the $2 million in gifts they received.

EPA Studies Sterility Link

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Environmental Protection Agency says it has deep concern about a widely used chemical additive which may cause sterility among males. It is the second time this week that the federal government raised questions about a chemical which was linked with possible male sterility. The newest target is EDB - ethylene dibromide - found in wheat, fruits and gasoline.

WASHINGTON (AP) - Despite new controls and a drop in the number of participants. a government audit shows that $112 million in food stamps went to ineligible families during six months of last year.

The Agriculture Department report said that during the last six months of 1976 about 253,000 households-4.4 per cent of the total number in the program - received food stamps, although they were not entitled to

Rationing Plan On Standby

WASHINGTON (AP) - Energy Secretary James R. Schlesinger is giving his staff just over a month to prepare a stand-by gasoline rationing plan.

Schlesinger expects no crisis in supply, a spokesman said Friday. He pointed out that the emergency plan is required under a 1975 law and said that it is typical of Schlesinger's style of management.

Salt Overdose Kills Child

CLEVELAND (AP) - An overdose of salt has been blamed for the death of a 6-year-old boy, who "always salted his water, milk, pop, Koolaid and every other liquid," as well as his food, according to his foster parents. Cuyahoga County Deputy Coroner Charles S. Hirsch ruled Friday that Robert W. Ar-nold's death on Tuesday was a homicide because he died as a result of "something that should not have been done.

Facts in the case will be presented to a county grand jury Sept. 6.

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Sen. Richard Stone says he's got some serious questions about the Panama Canal treaty. But the Florida Democrat says he's keeping a pledge to President Carter to be openminded on the issue despite campaigning against giving up the waterway when he ran for the Senate. Stone said Carter reached him by telephone

Thursday in Pensacola to make sure he was keeping an open mind on the matter.

Education Push Underway

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - Education officials have unveiled a statewide campaign aimed at wiping out adult illiteracy in Florida. The goal is to aid the undereducated which officials say make up one third of the state's population.

The program is titled "Illiteracy. We can't afford it. It will try to substantially help educate the 632,000 adults in the state classified in 1975 as illiterate and the 2.5 million adults listed as under-educated, officials said. The program, starting next week, will feature television spots, films, billboards, posters and pamphlets.

Murder Case Gag Ordered

MIAMI (AP) - A Dade County circuit judge has issued a gag order to prevent attorneys from talking to the media about the cases of two juveniles accused of murdering an 83vear-old Miami Beach widow.

Circuit Judge Paul Baker imposed the gag order Friday after he heard two defense lawyers and a prosecutor take turns accusing each other of making prejudicial statements to the media.

Atty. Ellis Rubin filed motions last week saving he would use television-induced insanity as a defense for Ronald Zamora, 15, charged with first-degree murder in the June 4 slaying of Eleanor Haggart.

Battle Over duPont Estate

JACKSONVILLE (AP) - Trustees of the $2-billion Alfred I. duPont estate have filed two more suits challenging 89-year-old Ed Ball's control of the financial empire.

The suits, filed Friday by William B. Mills and Alfred duPont Dent, ask for an injuction against the sale of controlling stock in Florida National Bank to North Carolina's Duke Uni versity

The suits claim the terms of the sale are too low and would cause "irrepairable damage" to the estate.

Dent's suit said the proposed sale was the result of an exchange of letters between Duke President Terry Sanford and Ball.

Committee Probes Doctors

TALLAHASSEE (AP) — The House Ad Hoc Committee on Hospitalization Insurance will hold hearings next month and look into some complaints against doctors, says Chairman Don Hazelton, DWest Palm Beach. Hazelton, a candidate for insurance com missioner, said Friday that the committee will probe complaints that some doctors won't give itemized bills even though some insurance policies require it.

Campaign Fund Dispute

TALLAHASSEE (AP) - St. Petersburg financier Raleigh Greene says he may ask a court to clarify a state law that officials say prevents him from earning interest on his gubernatorial campaign funds. Elections Director Mary Singleton has twice ordered Greene to stop letting his bank borrow money from his campaign account in exchange for 51/2 per cent interest.

"Our lawyers do not read the law at all that way," Greene said. "It might well serve the public to find out just what the law is."

Greene has entered a "repurchase agreement" with Century First National Bank of St. Petersburg for $100,000 of the nearly $200,000 he has raised so far.

Gas Price Posting Minimal

TAMPA (AP) - The chairman of AAA Motor Clubs of Florida says major oil companies are not enthusiastic about posting the prices of all grades of gasoline at service stations around the state.

Ralph Peters, chairman of the motorists' association, said the organization is asking for truth in advertising and full disclosure to motorists before they turn into service stations.

Peters said telegrams were sent to 12 major firms July 12 asking them to push to have the prices of all grades posted by the Labor Day weekend, but only seven have responded.

Young Seeks Support

For Rhodesia Plan

LUSAKA, Zambia (AP) - Ambassador Andrew Young and British Foreign Secretary David Owen will seek support from black African leaders today for what the diplomats say is a "fair and reasonable" plan to bring black majority rule to Rhodesia. Black and white leaders in southern Africa already have criticized the latest U.S.-British plan because it reportedly would disband Rhodesian armed forces and disarm black nationalist guerrillas.

French Language Law Fought

QUEBEC, Canada (AP) - A federal constitutional challenge may be mounted against a controversial law passed by the Quebec legislature that makes French the official language of this province in eastern Canada. Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau opposed Bill 101, the Charter of the French Language, and promised to investigate the constitutionality of the legislation once it was passed. Such a study could lead to a court challenge of the bill, sources said.

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) - No one knows who started the rumor that Caracas will be destroyed by a tidal wave on Sunday, although some say it was men from Mars. The prediction first began circulating by word-ofmouth in May and has generated enough publicity to worry authorities in this city. nestled in a valley about 10 miles from the Caribbean Sea. Scientists, government leaders and churchmen say the forecast is totally absurd and have appealed to the public to ignore it. But airlines and bus companies say they are fully booked.

Police say Benoist, 20, son of a former Hackettstown councilman in this community of 12,000 in northwest New Jersey, walked along a railroad right of way with a .44-caliber rifle late Friday, picking off hikers, joggers and bikers.

Benoist lurked behind bushes near the railroad tracks and popped out to shoot his victims along the path, police said. Police received a report of shots fired at 5:36 p.m., but it took them nearly four hours to catch up with Benoist. At first they found three victims, all shot several times, behind an abandoned tannery adjacent to the railroad tracks. About 10 mintues later, the crew of a westbound ConRail train sighted three other victims, all riddled with bullets, alongside the track about a half-mile away in Mansfield Township.

Police from surrounding communities joined local and state police and canine units in a search for the killer.

Marines, Soviets Fight Blaze In Moscow Embassy

MOSCOW (AP) - "We gave it our all, but there wasn't any-thing we could do," said one of the U.S. Marines who fought side-by-side with Soviet firemen to douse a blaze that raged through the top three floors of the U.S. Embassy here. US sources said Soviet fire-fighters were not permitted on the building's 10th floor, which houses the defense attache's of-fices. One embassy official was heard to tell others: "Let it burn." ### The Teachers And The Talks

We are disappointed that, with only several days remaining before Seminole County schools reopen their doors, the ongoing negotiations between the Seminole Education Association and the Seminole County School Board have not reached a successful conclusion.

But, at the same time, we are gratified that both sides are acting rationally and keeping the doors open for continued talks and-hopefullyaccord.

Ernest Cowley, chief negotiator for the school board, has declared an impasse in the negotiations.

"We have made our final offer," he said, "and if they (teachers) cannot accept it we will go through impasse procedure." (This involves calling in an impartial third party-a "Special Master"-who recommends action to the board. The board then holds a public hearing and aims for a decision representing the best interests of the community and teachers).

Gene Grooms, executive director of the SEA. representing the teachers, remains hopeful.

"Rather than go to impasse procedure," he suggests, "we told the board we would like a few days to consider their last offer. Then we would get back with them."

The teachers have been offered an increase of $400 on their present base pay of $8,300. They originally had sought an increase of $700 to a base of $10,000. In addition, the rejected offer included a seven-hour workday for teachers, four paid holidays, and other benefits.

We are pleased that the discontent in Seminole County has not evolved into the name-calling, strike-threatening stage it has in some of the neighboring counties.

The prospects of any teacher strike here seem nil at this time. "If a Special Master is called in. there will not be a strike," Mr. Grooms has pledged.

This is a responsible, rational, reasonable attitude and we commend Mr. Grooms for it.

We urge the SEA and school board to continue talking thereby keeping in the forefront their major responsibility: the education and welfare of our

Leadership For FBI

It is hard to react other than positively to President Carter's choice to head the FBI. U.S. District Court Judge Frank M. Johnson of Montgomery, Ala., seems to fit well the obvious job description for an FBI director: that he be a man of integrity. experience and stature in his field, and administrative com-

Mr. Johnson has stood firmly on principle where others might have buckled - in civil rights confrontations with his old law school classmate, Gov. George Wallace. He has sat on the federal bench since 1955 and has come to enjoy high regard in the legal profession. His courtrooms, we understand are testaments to judicial discipline. In addition, Mr. Johnson is said to be tough in matters of criminal law - a necessary attitude to be taking to the FBI.

What impresses further about Mr. Johnson is his selection. which speaks well of President Carter. Mr. Johnson is a Republican and an Alabamian, and Mr. Carter doesn't need to insure the votes of Alabamians or Southerners. Nor does he need to irritate Democrats who believe in partisan appointments. Further, Mr. Johnson wasn't even on the final list of five candidates. Apparently, his name could not be expunged from the mind of either Mr. Carter or his attorney general, Griffin Bell, who twice this year had offered the job of deputy attorney general to Mr. Johnson.

Directing the FBI, of course, can be, probably will be, a hazardous enterprise. But on both objective and political criteria, Mr. Johnson seems a good choice and therefore equa to the task. We wish him well and hope he recovers from his recent surgery to begin fulfilling this most significant task.

WASHINGTON - Much as the founding fathers may have scorned the idea of kingship, an institution designed to increase the power of kings still operates, if far from smoothly, in the United States. WASHINGTON - If there is a bottom line to the whole Bert Lance affair, it is that F. Scott Fitzgerald was right: The rich are indeed different from you and me.

That may not qualify as the century's most shocking disclosure, but it's not exactly the message which Jimmy Carter has tried so hard to convey about his administration. And in embracing Lance so fervently, Carter may have jeopardized his own carefully cultivated political image as a man who shares the average American's anger at the special privilege of the wealthy. It is a safe bet that precious few of the voters who cast their ballots for Jimmy Carter last year ever got away with the kind of financial hijinks that Budget Director Lance indulged in as a Georgia bank owner.

Most people who make a habit of kiting checks find themselves in hot water rather quickly. But not Bert Lance, whose campaign accounts while he was running for governor of Georgia were overdrawn as much as $152,000 between January and June of 1974 - without a nickel's penalty.

Just being related to Lance was good enough. in fact. His wife's account at one of his banks was overdrawn by $110,000 at one point, and nine of his relatives accumulated overdrafts "in the $200,000 to $450,000 range" during one sevenmonth period

Borrowing huge sums of money was also a snap for banker Lance, who managed to wheedle millions of dollars in loans out of a whole slew of banks without putting up anything like collateral.

There's nothing to it, apparently, if you own a bank yourself and can toss a little business in the direction of those lending you the money. Or if you are widely known to be a very close friend of the next president of the U.S.

The Comptroller of the Currency, after scrutinizing the record of Lance's conduct as a banker, concluded that none of the information uncovered "to date" warrants a criminal prosecution, although he carefully added that some allegations have yet to be thoroughly investigated.

There are, for instance, still questions about Lance's personal and political uses of airplanes owned or leased by his old bank, the National Bank of Georgia. And questions about the purpose of, and payment for, at least five trips which Carter himself took in bank aircraft.

But never mind the fine print. Lance, Carter and the White House cheerleaders have chosen to view the comptroller's report as a vindication of the budget director. The president himself rushed to Lance's side, crying, "Bert, I'm proud

There will be further developments, no doubt. when Congress returns from its August recess and at least three House and Senate committees start raking over any glowing coals in the comptroller's report.

But don't count on major fireworks from Capitol Hill. The principal investigating panel is the Senate Governmental Affairs Committee, whose members last month tripped all over themselves in their haste to exonerate Lance of any wrongdoing - largely on the basis of his own Still - it could have been worse. In the days when J. Edgar Hoover was first putting the vests on his men, the things weighed 16 pounds each and were so awkward the men lost a good portion of their mobility, according to Jarrell.

But, as he said to me when I dropped the sweaty (yes, wives and mothers, the vest covering is washable) garment off after my week with what a coworker called my hair shirt, "would you rather be wet with perspiration - or with blood?"

changes of remarks during his trip to this country earlier this month, Julius Nyerere was praised by President Carter as a man demonstrably concerned about 'freedom." And "justice," a man pre-eminent in his commitment to the "hopes and purposes of free people," and a man who "holds the key to the future of peace and equality of treatment and opportunity and freedom in Africa as dearly and as closely as any person alive." Mr. Carter hailed the Tanzanian president as a "superb politician" who "recognizes that the structure of government can be used for beneficial purposes.

But, reviewing the record of President Nyerere and that of his government over the past decade and a half, one searches in vain for any factual data to substantiate Mr. Carter's vastly overblown rhetoric.

Nursing Homes

I have read a letter from one of your subscribers in which she complains about the unfortunate experiences she has had with the nursing homes in this area (she has tried three) and found them "no good" and "all alike."

Evidently Mrs. Smith has not heard of Lakeview Nursing Center in Sanford. Not only is Lakeview a haven for the sick and very old where kindness and loving care is the order of the day, but there are also senior citizens who voluntarily make Lakeview their "home away from home."

The administrators and nurses are a group of dedicated women and ever have the interest of the patient at heart. also the aides are pleasant and helpful. So, Mrs. Smith, nursing homes are not all "no good" nor "all alike." I know, for I am a patient at Lakeview.

Brown Didn't Survive Cut

Sanford lost a toehold in tonight's NFL exhibition at Orlando's Tangerine Bowl a couple of weeks ago when Dallas Brown was in the wave of early cuts from the squad.

- Brown, who went to Florida A&M after performing as an all-stater at Seminole High two years in a row, had his hopes high, but the level of competition was at the same plane. Promoter Bill Marcum made a superb
- assessment of the game when he speculated, "this isn't exactly a rematch of Super Bowl teams." How right he is, however NFL is NFL, and some of the most interesting aspects of pro football don't
- A always fall with the first place teams. Some 30,000 are expected for tonight's 8 o'clock kickoff so there are plenty of seats still available.
- It was smile at the birdie day for the Seminole High football team.
- Only a dozen or so varsity football players weren't smiling. And they weren't getting their pictures taken, either.
- Seems their hair was a problem. "They didn't get haircuts, and they aren't getting their pictures taken," said head coach Jerry Posey, taking a stand on the long locks a few of his players brought back from summer vacations.

Basically, it was a matter of hair today, gone tomorrow. The stranglehold coaches have over athletes is one which is nearly unparalleled in today's society. The athlete who bucks the coach's orders is only asking for it, whether it be extra grass drills or a permanent spot on the second team.

The other noteworthy item out of picture day was the moment the offensive unit lined up for the birdie and a name from the past - Tim Raines - slipped into the picture. Tim was walking acorss the field to say hello to some old acquaintances.

The star of the last two Seminole teams graduated last May and signed a professional baseball contract with the Montreal Expos organization. Tim spent the summer in Sarasota, playing in the Gulf Coast his bomb. Rookie League.

"I finished with a .280 batting average," said Raines, who was among the league leaders in stolen bases. Raines, who played second base, was hitting draws) but in gaining it he had standing there bombing each over.300 until the last week of the season.

The most encouraging part of the summer was that Expos invited him to play in the Winter Instructional League. "That's what I need at this point - experience," he said. "And there will be a lot of Double A and Triple-A players in that league."

Well, Since You Asked ...

Q. A recent pro football roundup stated that Joe Gilliam did not play last year "because of a drug habit." I teach drug and alcohol abuse and would like to know more about this first string quarterback losing his position to a drug addiction. - James Allen, Mill Valley, Calif.

Gilliam's problems date back to his tenure with the Pittsburgh Steelers, for whom he played four years and at one time had supplanted Terry Bradshaw as the regular quarterback. He got into trouble during his final off-season in his home town of Nashville, on a possession charge, and was waived to the New Orleans Saints in June 1976. A month later that club released him because, and this is no secret, he was on hard drugs. Now a year later, he seems to have licked the habit and has been doing fine as a quarterback with the Saints. At 26, he still has the talent to be a spectacular field general if he keeps clean, though Archie Manning will likely be the New Orleans starter.

Q. How does the referee on the field know when the commercial is over during one of those TV timeouts that so frequently interrupt pro football games? -Steve R., Philadelphia, Pa. If you look closely, you'll always see a guy in street clothes standing around the 30-yard line of the home team, hooked into a long cord, generally wearing a red wool hat. During the timeout, his right hand is clasped to his left shoulder. When the hand comes down, the referee knows the commercial is off the air and signals the ball back in play.

Q. How many blacks are in the Pro Football Hall of Fame, an who was the first? -R.T. Zanesville, O.

With the recent addition of running back Gale Sayers and guard Bill Willis, there are now 12 blacks represented in the shrine at Canton, O. The first of that race to be elected was the late and loss, 4-2. great Emlen Tunnell, a defensive back with the New York Giants. He was in the class of '67. A notable omission now, to my way of thinking, is John Henry Johnson, a 15-year pro (the first two in Canada) who has more impressive statistics than many of the running backs already in.

Q. If a batter hits a foul ball, can the opposing team go up in the stands and catch it? I say that all baseball is played on the field, not off. - C.F. ,(Cub Fan), Chicago, III.

A fielder can catch a ball and fall into the stands or the dugout and the batter will be out. But, unless he's an acrobat, it's unlikely he'll get up into the stands before the catch - and in any event it still wouldn't be a legal catch.

Q. Who do you say would win if you took the World Series champions and the All-Star winners of the same season and had them play a game? -J. Zahn, Springfield, Mo. Pretty nebulous question, although they used to practice that

Darlene May Refs A Men's Cage Game

SOFIA, Bulgaria (AP) - Darlene May of Los Angeles made basketball history Friday as the first woman to referee a men's international basketball game. American men's and women's basketball teams shoot for their own spot in basketball's record books today, the final day of competition at the World University Games. Although U.S. men's basketball teams have long dominated world tournaments, American women have never won a major international title. Victories by both would be a rare gold medal The U.S. men rolled over Czechoslovakia 85-69 and the U.S. women upset Bulgaria 87-84 Friday to reach the finals against teams from the Soviet Union The Soviet men edged Canada 73-68 to set up a rematch with the U.S. team that beat them in the semifinal round of the 31-nation tournament. The Soviet women stayed undefeated by routing Cuba 93-45. They beat the U.S. women earlier this week. American swimmer Bonnie Glasgow celebrated her 18th birthday Friday by winning her third gold medal of the student games in the women's 200-meter medley.

Although Miss May's officiating of the men's consolation round basketball match between Italy and France didn't earn her a medal, it was perhaps the most remarkable female performance

Last week, the brunette ended an all-male monopoly on refreeing at major amateur basketball competitions by calling the fouls in a women's game. Some doubted that she could contend with male players, but on Friday she dispelled all skepticism. Sharing officiating with a Danish man, Miss May immediately established her authority over both male teams. The 5-foot-7 woman started the game by tossing up the ball at the opening jump, and less than a minute later she whistled down a Italian player for fouling a Frenchman under his own basket.

The Italian team, one of Europe's best amateur squads, won the Miss May was the first American woman to be sanctioned by the International Basketball Federation to officiate at the international level. She earned the classification in 1975 but didn't have a chance to show her ability until this tournament. In addition to refereeing, Miss May is head women's basketball

Chiefs Risk High, Not Playing Badly

By The Associated Press scrambled. At least that's Kan- "We are playing champion Sometimes it pays to risk the sas City Coach Paul Wiggin's ship caliber teams in the prechance of getting your brains philosophy.

----- Charting The Pros ------

One goal tugs persistently at the minds of owner Carroll Rosenbloom, Coach Chuck Knox-to carry the Rams past the hurdle of a conference title and into a Super Bowl. The talent ingredients have been there, with the one exception of quarterback. Joe Willie Namath may be the answer to that void. Otherwise, this is a poised, winning, confident football team.

OFFENSE

Quarterback: Pat Haden, the Rhodes scholar, is a control, grind-it-out type of leader. Do you win with him? No, you go to a Joe Willie Namath, hoping he's still got some of that old fire left. Rating-B

Receiving: Assuming that Harold Jackson signs, the long ball threat remains intact, with Ron Jessie on the other side and a new dimension added with the presence of Charles Young at tight end. All are all-pro caliber. Rookie Billy Waddy could surprise. Rating-A-

Running: The teaming of John Cappelletti with Lawrence McCutcheon worked out beautifully and shapes as one of the great combines in football. McCutcheon's always good for 1,000 yards. There's lots of talent behind them, too, such as Jim Bertelsen. Rating-A-

Offensive Line: Gradual revamping now leaves Tom Mack as only holdover with considerable mileage, though John Williams and Rich Saul are well-seasoned, too. Doug France, Dennis Harrah round out unit that blends youth with experience. Rating-B+

DEFENSE

Defensive Line: Even the retirement of Merlin Olsen won't affect ability of Rams to stop rush and put pressure on passer. Ends Jack Youngblood, Fred Dryer are most active around. Larry Brooks is under-rated tackle; now joined by young Mike Fanning. Rating-B+ Linebackers: One change was forced last year. Injury to Rick Kay on left side introduced Jim Youngblood as starter. Middle still belongs to Jack (Hacksaw) Reynolds, with Isiah

Robertson on all-pro lists as right backer. Kevin McLain is improving. Rating-B Secondary: Once regarded as weak link on Rams, this department is fast approaching top caliber. Monte Jackson at one corner could be best in league. Rod Perry's right with him. Dave Elmendorf is vet safety. Nolan Cromwell could break in as rookie. Rating-B+ Kicking, Special Teams: If there's any area of inconsistency on Rams, this is it. Rusty Jackson as the punter and Tom Dempsey as the place-kicker tend to be erratic. Former USC booter Glen Walker could challenge. Cullen Bryant is big return man. Rating-B-

PREDICTION

Nothing will satisfy this organization but a Super Bowl victory. For the four years of Chuck Knox regime, they've been on the brink of breaking through. Maybe Namath at quarterback will give them the extra dimension. I feel they're cinch to top NFC West.

Tumor Removed From Sayers

CARBONDALE, III. (AP) -

Former Chicago football great Gale Sayers, famous for his friendship with cancer victim Brian Piccolo as well as his prowess as a Bears' running back, says a benign tumor was removed from his chest several weeks ago.

Sayers, 34, who recently was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame, said Friday that he underwent chest surgery at Resurrection Hospital in Chi-

The growth was "a recurring olem, but it's over with and there's nothing more I can say. I feel fine," said Sayers, now athletic director at Southern Illipois University.

He said he did not know how large the tumor was, but it was "large enough that it had to be taken out."

In a recent interview, Sayers said his mother died of cancer. Sayers retired six years ago from the Bears because of knee injuries. Masters Scratch Formed

A "Masters Scratch League" is being formed at Bowl America. This mixed league will bowl Sunday nights at 9 and the starting date is Sept. 18. There will be an organizational meeting on Sept. 11, at 8:30 p.m. Teams will consist of four members and there will be at least 12 teams in the league.

Number of games will be four and point total per night 25. This format is very different as the first game (singles) with one point per bowler plus one point for the team. The second game is doubles, two points per double and one point for team. The third game will be team points only. The fourth game, doubles, two points per double and one for team.

The total series is one point for bowler plus one for the team. Thus making a 25 point total for the night. Also it will be a split season. For more information, there are mineographed sheets for those interested.

Organizational meetings coming up this week are scheduled as follows: Monday, McDonald's at 6:30 p.m., Washday Dropouts at 1 p.m., and Barbour Bros. ## Snakes Charm Gordon Family

By JEAN PATTESON OURSELVES Editor

Most people choose pupples or kittens. But when it comes to family pets, the Gordons go for boa constrictors, garter snakes, rat snakes, tarantulas. . . . "A pet is a pet is a pet - to whoever pets it," shrugs Mrs. June

Gordon, who has tolerated her son, Alex's snake collection for about four years now in their Idyllwilde home. "It really doesn't matter what the pet is - the fact that kids are caring for it teaches them respect for all living creatures."

continued Mrs. Gordon. "But," she added, "I won't allow any poisonous snakes in the ouse. And the boys may have told you, I don't exactly enjoy it when one of the snakes gets loose in the house." Alex did mention this fact. "The trouble is, she always seems to be the one to find the snake. Like when my red rat snake got sout. Morn found it. She stepped on it in the dark in the bathroom one night."

But life with the slithery reptiles isn't always this traumatic, Alex insists. For the most part, his snakes lie curled up in their glass aquarium cages, digesting last week's meal of mice. frogs or lizards.

They get their exercise when Alex lifts them from their cages and allows them to twine up his arms, across his shoulders, around his neck ....

"This is Bridgett," he introduces the gold and chocolate boa - constrictor cuddled contentedly in the crook of his arm. Snakes are cold blooded animals; they enjoy cozing up to their warm blooded owners, he explained.

Alex displays tenderness, pride and enthusiasm when discussing his snakes. And he is as quick as a cobra to strike out in their defense should anyone utter an "ugh!" or "yuk!" "When people see a snake, they automatically think it's dangerous, slimy, horrible. Just about everyone has a phobia about snakes .

"If only they knew," sighed the young snake keeper. "Feel," he offered, and thrust Bridgett forward. "She's dry, cool, gentle.' And she was. In fact, the clinging sensation of a snake twining around one's arm is almost pleasant, if your courage can hold out long enough to experience it. In a way, Alex is as unusual as his choice of pets. The Seminole High School student first got interested in snakes about four years ago. "When I see something other people don't like, I say, 'Hey, that's neat!' I give it a try and it often turns out really to be neat," he explained.

He used to collect coins. But then he watched one day as a friend caught a garter snake. "It looked a lot more exciting than coins," concluded Alex. So he started catching a few for himself. Pretty soon, the word got round, and people started bringing him snakes they had caught. He still welcomes such donations. He read all he could about snakes - the colors, identification marks, what they eat, where they live. And after sharing a bedroom with them tor several months, he began to recognize differences in the dispositions of the various types of snakes, as well as individual personality traits.

Garter snakes are generally mean, he says, whereas red or yellow rat snakes, hognose snakes and green snakes are friendlier. Boas make excellent pets because they tend to be sluggish and slow moving - the Central American variety, that is. Beware the South American boa constrictor: he's a terror! Alex's boa is just about a year old, and not quite two feet in length. His friend, Rex Leach of Satsuma Drive, Sanford, also has a boa, Bernice by name. She's four years old and a lot longer, thicker and stronger. The snakes can grow up to eight or ten feet in length and in captivity have been known to live as long as 23 years.

Once one has been around the snakes a while, one starts to sympathize with Eve and her Garden of Eden dilemma: snakes really are fascinating creatures and have a strange way of worming themselves into one's affections. "There're so many things peope don't know about snakes. And so many crazy stories," said Alex. "Like why they flick their tongues. It doesn't mean they're looking for someone to attack." scoffed the youngster. "That's just the way they smell and

The forked tongue picks up tiny chemical pa and then thrusts up into two holes in the front of the mouth called Jacobson's organs, which translate the chemicals into taste and Snakes "hear" by sensing vibrations on the ground, said Alex, which is one reason why they are so difficult to catch. They 'feel' you coming long before you are close enough to grab them. Alex and Rex have a word or two of advice for anyone planning to hunt snakes. "Know the difference between the poisonous and non-poisonous ones," is the vital first rule. "Red on yellow, kill a fellow; Red on black, friend of Jack," is the rhyme the boys use to remember the different markings on the deadly coral snake and harmless king snake.

Have a container which closes tightly to hold newly caught snakes, they advise, and always hunt with a companion in case someone does get bitten by a poisonous snake. If this happens, don't cut the wound and don't apply a tourniquet, say the boys. Neither treatment is effective. Just have the victim lie as quietly and still as possible while his companion summons help to get him to the hospital as fast as possible. Snakes are easy pets to care for. "Make sure the cage is big enough and don't put too many snakes in one cage," advises

Generally, snakes only need to be fed once a week. Alex's younger brother, Phillip, breeds the small white mice which they feed to the boa, and the boys hunt frogs, lizards and grasshoppers for the others. And snakes are clean, quiet and just as likely to discourage burglars as a fierce watchdog! The most common ailment of a snake in captivity is mouth rot. "The inside of the mouth turns black and then gets kind of cottony," Alex explained. "You can treat it by gently scraping 'When people see a snake, they out the mouth and then dabbing on Listerine or some other mouthwash to kill the germs."

Internal parasites and skin mites may also cause problems. The joys of snake keeping seem finally to be catching on among many of his peers, says Alex. He recommends starting out with a hognose or rat snake, and graduating to the more exotic boa constrictor once you have a little experience handling

A young boa costs around $50, he warns, and most snakes purchased in a pet shop sell for about $20 a foot. For this reason. catching your own pet snake can mean a considerable savings. As for the tarantula - Tula by name - who was part of the

But while Tula was an interesting conversation piece, she was never as lovable as Bridgett, said Alex. He doubts whether any pet could be.

Harsh words from the King of the Cowboys. but mild compared to indictments by some educators and psychologists who have found that 78 per cent of TV-watching families engage in no conversation at all except during commercials.

Another survey reveals that 73 per cent of parents feel that their children have learned some good things from television. However, many are concerned with the violence in programming and 25 per cent feel that the "gimme" syndrome created by hard sell TV advertising is a nagging problem.

Children have even stronger feelings. More than two-thirds say they argue about TV frequently with their parents and over half complain about having TV privileges withheld for disciplinary reasons.

Unionization Efforts On?

By DONNA ESTER Herald Staff Writer

The 6.4 per cent cost-of-living pay raise tentatively granted to Sanford police for the budget year beginning Oct. 1 may be a dead issue and discussion of police grievances are on "hold." At least that was the indication from Sanford City Manager W E. Knowles, who warned city commissioners today not to discuss police department grievances or salaries because the unionization move in the police department is apparently "on

Along with a memo to city commissioners, Knowles wrote to the city's special labor attorney, David Kornreich, of Miami, seeking advice on the city's next move. And he advised city commissioners that the Orange County Police Benevolent Association (OCPBA) - which has been seeking recognition as the police department's bargaining agent - has not withdrawn its petition to the state's Public Employes Relations Commission (PERC) for recognition, a hearing and an election

Despite the reported 26 to 9 vote of the police officers, both members and non-members of the OCPBA, two weeks ago Knowles said in a memo to the city commission it "appears the union is planning to give the city a workout and force the issue all the way regardless of what the men expressed in their vote." Currently, a hearing by the state's PERC is scheduled for Sept. 7 and Knowles said in addition to the hearing, a PERC-supervised election will have to be held and "all of this could take several months." The city is scheduling public hearings on the 1978 budget for mid-September.

The two-week custody battle over the seven-year-old daughter of a man accused of murdering his infant son was back in court today and the girl was returned to her parents, court officials said at Sanford.

They reported Circuit Judge Tom Waddell Jr. ordered Beth Ann Clicquennoi released from custody of the state Division of Family Services (DFS) to her parents. Mr. and Mrs. Brian Raymond Clicquennoi, in a juvenile court hearing.

Someone Saturday afternoon took the little girl from her mother as her father was posting $10,500 bond and being Clicquennoi, 34, has pleaded innocent and is scheduled for trial Sept. 19 on second-degree murder and possession of a sawed-off shotgun charges in connection with the Aug. 13 slaying of his six-monthold son, Vincent, at the family's trailer home of Pineway Drive, south of Sanford.

were plotting to steal Elvis Presley's body and hold it for ransom were arrested early today outside the cemetery where the rock 'n' roll singer is entombed. The Memphis Commercial Appeal reported that the men were carrying explosives with which they planned to blast open the mausoleum containing the body. Police would not comment on that report.

Lt. S.T. McCochren of the homicide squad said in a statement that police had received confidential information several days ago that a group of persons planned to break into Presley's mausoleum at Forest Hills Cemetery, take the body and hold it for ransom.

Officers from the department's tactical unit staked out the suburban Memphis graveyard. On Saturday, Mc-Cochren said, suspects were seen in the area of the cemetery, located on Elvis Presley Boulevard. He said the men were apparently making a trial run.

At 12:21 a.m. today, he said, officers arrested three men in a car near the Forest Hills gates and took a fourth man into custody outside the cemetery. McCochren declined to say whether any of the four entered the cemetery or when they would be arraigned. He said they might be charged later today.

The homicide department is handling the case because the investigation has to do with removal of a body, he said. Deputy Chief John Molnar said the men were arrested for investigation of attempted burglary.

The Commercial Appeal, reporting that explosives were confiscated during the arrests, said a cemetery employe had told the newspaper that the suspects planned to blast open the mausoleum. The newspaper said police reported the quantity of explosives found did not appear sufficient to gain access to the tomb's interior.

Molnar said that as far as he knew no extortion threat was made. Presley, who was 42, was entombed Aug. 18, two days after his death from a heart attack.
