Desmond Endorses French In County Commission Race

By Paul C. Schaefer Herald Staff Writer

A defeated Republican Seminole County commission candidate said today he's endorsing the Democratic challenger of the man who beat him in the Republican primary.

Robert Deamond Jr., 28, R-Sanford, defeated in his Republican primary county commission bid by incumbent commission chairman Bob Sturm, 60, R-Lake Mary, told the Evening Herald "I will work in whatever capacity I can" in the campaign of Democratic commission candidate Bob French. 52, Casselberry.

I wish it was me (with the Republican nomination), but it isn't. Just because I Desmond said he talked with didn't win doesn't mean I still

They opposed the MTA referendum which was supported by Sturm, they oppose the 10 percent county tax hike tentatively approved by the county commission, and they are "concerned" about the $1,000 contributions made to Sturm's re-election campaign by area developers.

French agreed with the Desmond comments and said he is pleased to have a Republican on his bandwagon.

"The endorsement from a member of the other party can orily be a plus." French said. The Republican primary battle was "quite a campaign, and Bob (Desmond) pulled more votes than anybody thought he was Desmond, a county computer going to pull. A lot of that party services employee for two years was supporting Desmond and voicing dissatisfaction with what the incumbent has done," French said.

In the Sept. 2 primary, Sturm defeated Deamond 7.310 to 5.012, a 60-40 percent vote split.

"It seems strange that someone who said last week that he wants to reunite the party would now endorse a Democrat, Sturm said. Desmond made his comments about "reuniting the Republican party" to the Evening Herald last week, when he also said he would make another run for county commission in two years. He said then that he was not ready to endorse either Sturm or French.

Desmond said he wasn't presaured into endorsing French. See DESMOND, page 10A

City: Get Tough With Code Scofflaws

By Karen Talley Herald Staff Writer

Sanford commissioners have called for a get-tough policy concerning those who anub city laws.

But they also want the city's Code Enforcement Board to react with "compassion" when dealing with cases of hardship or extenuating circumstances.

Ordinance enforcement became a topic after code enforcement board members ited for city commission direction policies.

Tonight the emphasis is expected to be on enforcement rather than compassion when code board holds a violation hearing for an unlicensed rooming house at 500 Oak Ave. That's because the owner of the rooming house, known as the Florida Hotel, allegedly failed to take action to address violations that were first cited by the city three months ago.

The meeting will begin at 7:30 p.m. at city hall. Code enforcement members Bob McKee and Joyce Malone said they attended the city's Monday work session to seek commissioners' sentiments regarding overall code enforcement efforts.

They also saked about matters involving property owners who are victims of hardship or extenuating circumstances and how the city's code enforcement laws should be applied to

In "unique and unusual cases," the code board's course of action "isn't always cut-and-dried," McKee said.

The structure 'is really a dangerous place for people to be living."

Commissioners responded by saying cases should be judged on their individual merits, with stringent enforcement. fines applied in cases where property owners have demonstrated a lack of action on the cited violations. "Use a little Judgment, a little heart and the regulations you operate under," said Commissioner Dave Farr. "Look at situations on a case by case basis. Then use your judgment and sense and vote your convictions," said Mayor Bettye Smith.

Commissioners on Monday also reviewed code board ordinance amendments designed to streamline the enforcement review process. These revisions will be considered in a regular city commission meeting, commissioners said. However, regarding the Florida Hotel, application of the revisions will probably not be necessary. The structure was cited three months ago and is already well into the code enforcement process. with tonight's meeting possibly leading to the structure's being closed down. Commission discussion of the Florida Hotel had been put on Monday's work session agenda at the request of Commissioner John Mercer. And, because the 25 -room structure is unlicensed, the city could move for its closing until the cited violations are addressed.

Mercer, who has seen a fire inspection report on the rooming house, said the report indicatés to him the structure "is really a dangerous place for people to be

Sanford Fire Lt. Mike Hoening, who filed the report, concurs with Mercer.

When contacted, Hoening said second floor tenants at 500 Oak Ave. "don't appear to have a safe way to get out of the building" if a fire breaks out on the ground floor.

Should the code board come in with a recommended closing tonight, the matter would then come before city commissioners on Monday night, during their next regular meeting.

Commissioners indicated Monday they are not averse to supporting a possible code board call for the structure to be

Commissioners' action on Monday would involve calling upon city counsel to take the legal steps necessary for such a move, said City Manager Frank Faison.

When contacted by the Evening Herald, the structure's owner, Peggy Nestor, confirmed she purchased the hotel a year ago, but declined comment on matters related to tonight's code enforcement hearing.

Greer's 2-acre chemical storage dump in Sanford, with 3,264 barrels of chemical waste, was found by city officials in 1980 and removed in 1982.

Prosecutors were dismayed by the sentence and said they had hoped for a longer sentence to deter other polluters.

The 12 American and 10 Soviet children are members of Peace Child soundation, a Washington group that grew out of a U.N. disarmament campaign. They have been performing in a musical set in the year 2025 that tells the story of peace evolving between the two superpowers through the efforts of children.

Koch read a proclamation heralding this week as "Peace Child Week" then told the youngaters assembled in the rotunds: "This has nothing to do with the children, not the people in the Soviet Union, but I believe their government is the pits."

Hearing Set In Citizens' Suit Against Longwood

By Jane Casselberry

Herald Staff Writer A hearing is scheduled for 1:30 p.m. Wednesday before Circuit Judge Dominick Salft on a suit filed by a group of Longwood citizens against the city of Longwood seeking to halt construction on the new police facility. The suit claims the commission voted to build a police station and proceeded contrary to the city charter and state laws to borrow funds and build the building on property which it could only be used for park purposes as expressed in a deed from the Episcopal Diocese of Central Florida. The property was dedicated to the city in 1938.

An agreement signed last week between the city and the Episcopal Diocese to clear a cloud on part of the land on which the controversial police building is being built has only added fuel to the fire.

An amendment was filed Monday by attorney Gary Massey of Altamonte Springs on behalf of David Gunter and the group seeking to enjoin the city from carrying out the terms of the agreement, which calls for the city to pay the church $125,000 over four years and grants other concessions in order to quiet

The amendment calls adoption of the agreement "illegal and invalid." It charges the commission adopted the agreement on Sept. 8 without it being on the agenda, without public without what it says is a required 30-day public notice.

It states the agreement is conditional on City Administrator Ron Waller's being able to certify funds were available, but the funds must come from a bond issue, which must be approved by the circuit court and issued prior to their being funds.

The city has agreed to make a payment of $10,000 to the diocese on Sept. 23. It will then pay $40,000 on the date it closes on the bond issue or by Oct. 3, whichever comes first. The rest of the money will be paid off in three payments of $25,000 each on or before Dec. 15 of 1987, 1988, and 1989.

The suit states the city ad-input, and without discussion and ministrator could not certify these funds would be available in future years without knowing what budgets would be passed at that time. It also cites the fact the agreement was not brought in the form of a resolution or ordinance and that the commission was wrong in agreeing to pay $125,000 when the land had been appraised at $96,000.

The city was put in a bind after the suit was filed when Sun Bank held up closing on a $1 million loan for construction of the police station until the title could be cleared. Stopping construction would have meant paying the contractor H & R Builders $800 a day. Construction began in June and was about 20

Robertson Ready To Seek GOP Presidential Nomination

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Evangelist Pat Robertson says "the Lord's spirit" is leading him to seek the Republican presidential nomination but he needs more mundane support - money and manpower - before formally entering the race.

Robertson, head of the Christian Broadcasting Network and host of its talk show, "The 700 Club," has scheduled a closed-circuit nationwide television gala Wednesday in Washington to "clarify" his political ambitions.

But in a fund-raising letter not intended to reach supporters until Thursday, Robertson announces he "ready to go for it" and hopes to get millions of signatures on petitions — and checks.

"When at least 3 million registered voters sign petitions committing to pray, to work and to give toward a campaign effort, I will seek the nomination of the Republican Party as their candidate for the presidency of the United States,"

Texas Air To Buy People Express

People Express, the low-cost, low-fare airline that stunned competitors with its unprecedented growth on the wings of industry deregulation, succumbed to mounting financial difficulties and agreed to the takeover Monday, estimated to be worth $122.1 million to its shareholders.

The acquisition - combined with Texas Air's pending takeover of Eastern Airlines - would make the Houstonbased company the nation's largest airline, with United Airlines in second place.

Hotel Workers Strike Casinos

By United Press International

Maids, bellhops and other hotel workers walked off the job today in Atlantic City's first major casino strike, while a tentative settlement was reached to head off a threatened strike of 17 hotels in Washington, D.C.

At least 11,000 workers at seven hotel-casinos in the New Jersey resort city struck at midnight EDT Monday after Local 54 of the Hotel and Restaurant Employees union rejected a last-minute contract offer by the Atlantic City Casino Association, union officials said. The union is seeking higher wages.

In addition, workers for the bankrupt Atlantis Casino Hotel walked picket lines today in defiance of a court order barring strikes, a hotel spokesman said. Union officials could not be reached for comment on the Atlantis action.

Tax Vote Delayed To Next Week

WASHINGTON (UPI) - The House has delayed its vote on the compromise tax reform plan until next week at the earliest to give congressional aides more time to put the finishing touches on the sweeping legislation.

It had been expected that the massive bill to overhaul the nation's tax code would go to the House Noor this week.

Pajcic Returns Campaign Money, Could Face Substantial Fines

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) - Democratic gubernatorial candidate Steve Pajcic could face substantial fines for accepting illegal campaign contributions, even though he has returned more than $75,000 and apologized for the "misunderstanding."

Campaign spokeswoman Chris Gresock said a total of $75,680 was returned because it was collected between Aug. 29 and Sept. 2, primary day. State law bans campaign spending and fundraising on election day or five

Elections Supervisor Dorothy Glisson said she was also checking reports that some of the money came from supporters who had already reached the $3,000 limit for campaign contributions for a single election.

If the state Elections Commission determines the campaign willfully broke the contribution limits, the campaign would be liable for fines of $1,000 per contribution. It could also be forced to pay the state twice the amount received during the moratorium, Glisson said.
Glisson said voters might not know if the penalties are imposed until after the election.

Abducted American Reportedly Moved To Syrian Bekaa Valley

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — An American kidnapped in west Beirut last Friday has been moved to the Syrian-controlled Bekaa valley, a hotbed of Moslem fundamentalists and Palestinian guerrillas, a Christian radio station reported Monday.

The report from the Christian Voice of Lebanon radio came two days after a man purporting to speak for a suspected pro-Libyan group claimed responsibility for kidnapping Joseph James Cicippio, and another American, Frank Herbert Reed, selzed in separate incidents last week in Moslem west Beirut.

The Voice of Lebanon radio, a mouthpiece for the Christian Phalange Party loyal to President Amin Gemayel, said it received "exclusive" information that Cicippio was taken to the Bekaa valley.

The privately owned radio said last week that Reed, 53, of Malden, Mass., was also taken to the Bekaa in eastern Lebanon, 22 miles east of Beirut.

The Syrian-controlled Bekaa valley has been outside Lebanese government his holding all three and that it executed a

The Bekaa is a hotbed for Shiite Moslem fundamentalists and Palestinian guerrillas. It is believed that a Palestininan guerrilla faction headed by Abu Nidal, who broke from Palestine Liberation Organization Chairman Yasser Arafat years ago and has been blamed for numerous terrorist attacks, has bases in the Jekua. Abu Nidal purportedly has received Libyan support.

Du Pont To Bid For Presidency

Former Republican Gov. Pierre vice presidency or a Cabinet post du Pont IV, an heir to one of America's great family fortunes, will launch a long-shot bid for the presidency Wednesday.

Du Pont will become the first major-party candidate for president. Television evangelist Pat Robertson will announce Wednesday he is forming a committee to consider a bid for the GOP nomination.

Both trail far behind Vice President George Bush in all the polls for the Republican nomination.

Like most of those likely to run in 1988, the 51-year-old du Pont has made little secret of his presidential ambitions. His presidential campaign committee has been active for months and has raised $500,000.

Du Pont will make his announcement at noon in a hotel bearing the family name in the largest city of Delaware - a state dominated by the giant du Pont company.

But du Pont is hoping his future-oriented mix of conservative economics and moderate social philosophy will make him an attractive alternative to terms as governor.

custody of the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Daniloff's move was made at the same time Gannadi Zakharov, an accused Soviet spy arrested Aug. 23 in New York, was handed over to the Soviet ambassador there.

Daniloff, 51, was nearing the end of his 5 1/2-year tour in Moscow when he was arrested Aug. 30 on espionage charges after accepting a packet from a longtime aquaintance. Daniloff said he thought was giving him a farewell gift. The KGB said the package contained secret Soviet military information.

Daniloff and the U.S. government contend his arrest was in retaliation for the arrest of Zakharov and over the weekend, the Kremlin claimed Zakharov was framed by the FBI. The Soviet U.N. employee was arrested in a New York subway as he allegedly paid $1,000 to an FBI informant for classified information.

If convicted under U.S. law. Zakharov could face a maximum penalty of life imprisonment. If convicted under Soviet law. Daniloff could face death by firing squad.

The Kremlin has repeatedly tried to equate the two cases but the U.S. government has ruled out a straight swap, which has complicated negotia-

On Monday, Daniloff returned to the U.S. News & World Report office on Moscow's Leninisky Prospekt and was briefed by senior U.S. Embassy

"If there is any good news, it will come later in the week," Daniloff said. "Right now, I want to try and get back to normal and do a little work in the office.

I think it is time to lie low and let the diplomats resolve the case," he said.

Daniloff said he finally made telephone contact Monday morning with the KGB investigating officer handling his case. Under the terms of his release, he is to report daily to the KGB but was unable to make contact during the weekend.

If there is no resolution of the Daniloff case. Shuitz has promised to bring up the issue at his meeting with Shevardnadze, intended to lay the groundwork for a summit between President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev.

Senate Panel Hears Judge's Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) - House prosecutors at the impeachment trial of Judge Harry Claiborne argued Monday the Senate should oust him for disgracing the judiciary by cheating on his income taxes.

With Claiborne watching attentively, 12 senators began hearing evidence in the opening round of the first impeachment trial in 50 years.

Claiborne, whose refusal to quit the bench or give up his $78,700 annual salary infuriated Congress, is the first sitting federal judge imprisoned for crimes committed while in of-

"We certainly cannot permit a convicted felon to sit on the federal bench and make judgments about others," said Chairman Peter Rodino, D.N.J., of the House Judiciary Commit-

Claiborne, 69, chief judge of the U.S. District Court for Nevada, is the first federal judge to be impeached since Halsted Ritter of Florida in 1936, and his trial marks the first time a committee, instead of the full Senate, is hearing the evidence.

The House impeached Claiborne in July on four articles accusing him of willfully filing false tax returns, misbehavior and high crimes in office, and bringing disrepute upon the ju-

It is now up to the full Senate to remove him by a two-thirds vote after considering evidence gathered by the committee.

Claiborne, who began serving a two-year sentence for tax evasion May 16 at Maxwell Air Force Base in Alabama, was escorted to the trial by federal marshals.

The bespectacled judge sat rigidly between his lawyers. Oscar Goodman and former Sen. Howard Cannon, D.Nev. Goodman said Claiborne will testify in his own defense.

Nine House "managers" acting as prosecutors argued that Claiborne's jury conviction for failing to report nearly $107,000 on his income taxes is grounds enough for removal from office. They urged the senators to ignore as irrelevant Claiborne's allegations he was framed in a Justice Department vendetta.

"Those wild allegations and assertions were never proven ... and even if they were, (they) have no place in an impeachment proceeding." said Rep. Dan Glickman, D-Kan.

"The real issue is the tax fraud case, not the smoke that clouds most of Judge Claiborne's arguments," he said.

Goodman argued Claiborne never got a chance to prove there was a "feud" between the Las Vegas federal judges and the FBI's strike force that led to his conviction on tainted evidence obtained in a break-in at his Special Agent Joseph Yablonsky "set out to get Harry Claiborne's head on a silver platter," Goodman said.

He blamed tax accountants' errors for the omitted income on the tax returns, saying, "Only a fool would engage in activity that would be a red flag to a government that was stalking him."

Claiborne was convicted of failing to report legal fees of $18,740 received in 1979 and $87,911 in 1980 that he earned before going on the bench in

Joseph Wright, his longtime accountant, testified Claiborne told him he earned $22,332 in legal fees for 1979. But he actually he got $41,072.

House prosecutors charged that when Claiborne switched accountants in 1980 he did not report any fee income, and cashed the checks in casinos, leaving no record in his bank account. They said Claiborne is "a highly educated attorny and learned judge" who participated in criminal tax cases as a lawyer and judge.

Just Who Needs A Machine Gun?

The National Rifle Association, the pistolpacking lobby many Americans love to hate. is on the offensive once again. Flush with victory after Congress passed the McClure-Volkmer gun decontrol law last spring, the 3 million-member NRA is now back to clean up one final matter: it's taking aim at a ban on the sale of new machine guns.

A provision to ban the private purchase or sale of newly manufactured machine guns those not already registered with the federal government — was added to McClure-Volkmer in the final minute of House debate. The ban has the effect of limiting the number of machine guns in legal circulation to about 127,000.

The ban, sponsored by Rep. Larry Smith, D-Fla., does not apply to weapons made for law-enforcement agencies or the military, but it effectively ends machine gun production for private ownership. Under a 1934 law, citizens who want to buy a machine gun - primarily collectors and target practice enthusiasts must be photographed and fingerprinted, undergo a federal background check, obtain permission from local police and pay a $200 transfer tax. The law signed by President Reagan in May restricts such transactions to machine guns already registered with the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

"It's our position that legally registered machine guns are not a crime problem,' James A. Baker, an NRA spokesman told The Washington Post. He noted that most machine gun owners are affluent, politically active and "probably the most wellinvestigated gun owners in the country."

We have trouble understanding why anyone needs to own a fully automatic weapon. and we're happy to report that the police have the same problem: "The law enforcement community is going to resist repeal of this provision with all the force it can muster," Dan Rosenblatt of the International Association of Chiefs of Police told the Post.

So the NRA, which rivals the Tobacco Institute for unmitigated gall, has finally gone too far - right? Surely, no one would have the nerve to stand up on the House or Senate floor and argue for untrammeled trade in machine guns.

Don't bet on it. Any organization with $3,155,353 in PAC money to dispense - the NRA's total for 1986 - is rarely, if ever, going to be shot down.

An Absurd Act

What an abourd, haunting image: The 92-year-old man who was Hitler's personal secretary, sitting alone in West Berlin's Spandau Prison, watching "Dynasty" and "Dallas" on television and rereading "War and Peace." Rudolf Hess' other diversion. according to a German newspaper, is writing in his diary.

And what does this living relic of Nazism have to say? The world apparently will never know. "As soon as he has filled three volumes, they are taken from him and burned," the newspaper Bild said.

The report, if true, is mindboggling. Hess' written reflections might have shed new light on one of the most grotesque periods of human history, and perhaps even on the mind of Hitler himself. In his four decades in the prison, where he was sentenced for planning and waging aggressive war. Hess surely has had time to ponder his own role as one of the early theoreticians of the Third Reich. Even if his diaries amounted to little more than incoherent scribbling, they would have some historical interest.

How ironic that book-burning, which the Nazis employed in an effort to stamp out "impure" ideas, should now crase the thoughts of someone who might possibly contribute to public understanding of that frightful time.

Here's Some Quotes That You'll Want To Note

Every couple of years a man named Robert Byrne publishes a book of quotations with the number "637" in the title. The first was called "The 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said" followed by "The Other 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said" and now "The Third — and Possibly the Best - 637 Best Things Anybody Ever Said".

Now, please understand, Byrne lies. As does his publisher (Atheneum). The current volume is not the best of the lot, not even "possibly the best." At least one of the earlier ones was better. On the other hand, there are some very funny one-liners in this book.

For instance, there is philosophy: "The world is proof that God is a Committee." (Bob Stokes)
There is more philosophy: "I like life, it's something to do." (Ronnie Shakes) And more: "If I had my life to live over, I'd live over a delicatessen." (Unknown)

There is commerce: "Venu, vidi, Visa, (We came, we saw, we went shopping.)" (Jan

There is animal lore: "Cats are smarter than dogs. You can't get eight cats to pull a sled through anow." (Jeff Valdez)

There is bravado: "I should warn you that underneath these clothes I'm wearing boxer shorts and I know how to use them." (Robert

There is acute perception: "The difference between pornography and erotica is lighting." (Gloria Leonard)

There is national policy: "The trouble with unemployment is that the minute you wake up in the morning you are on the Job." (Slappy

There is hard-headed economics: "Why is there so much month left at the end of the money?" (Unknown)

And of course, there are economists: "Economists are people who work with numbers but who don't have the personality to be accountants." (Unknown)

There is commentary on life itself: "Old age is not for sissles." (Variously ascribed)

There is St. Augustine: "O Lord, help me to be pure, but not yet.'

There is gastromony: "The trouble with cating Italian food is that five or six days later you're hungry again," (George Miller)

There is sports: "If I ever needed a brain transplant, I'd choose a sportswriter because I'd want a brain that had never been used." (Norm Van Brocklin)

And more sports: "Golf is the most fun you can have without taking your clothes off." (Chi Chi Rodriguez)

There is even a commentary on lawyers: "Whatever their other contributions to our society, lawyers could be an important source of protein." (Guindon cartoon caption)

And law schools: "Law school is the opposite of sex. Even when it's good it's lousy." (Unknown)

There is the ultimate truth about fortune cookies: "Ignore previous cookie." (Message in fortune cookie)

There is politics: "Advertisements contain the only truths to be relied on in a newspaper." (Thomas Jefferson)

There are writers on writing: "There are three rules for writing a novel. Unfortunately, no one knows what they are." (W. Somerset Maugham)

Congress Discovers Drug Ills

By Robert Shepard WASHINGTON (UPI) - Congress of late has been getting high on drugs. Not from sniffing, injecting or swallowing illegal substances, but from acting as though the lawmakers finally are going to do something about the problem of drug abuse in this country.

This euphoria has been seen as both Senate and House members appointed task forces, held news conferences, introduced bills and began voting on proposals for a crackdown on the drug trade, aiming at everyone from producers to consumers.

Unfortunately there are skeptics, including a few members of Congress, who question whether this 'high' will last much beyond Nov. 4 - Election Day.

The problem of drug abuse has been around for a long time, but it was only this summer that Congress saw the light and decided it might be time to act. The inspiration for this was polls and other constituent soundings that showed. Americans consider drug abuse to be a major problem, possibly the No. 1 problem facing this country.

Like the good politicians they are. the lawmakers are responding. And you can be sure their voters will hear all about it during the election campaigns back home.

In the House, the leadership gathered togther an assortment of bills that had been languishing in several different committees and produced an omnibus anti-drug bill that was passed overwhelmingly following an excess of speech-

In some ways, that was the easy part. The hard part will come in trying to pass bills to pay for the $3 billion effort proposed in the House bill. Also difficult will be sticking with the issue and making sure the program is working.

Rep. Leon Panetta, D-Calif., one of the calmer members of the House, pointed out the pitfalls in the way Congress often approaches such high visibility problems as drug

"It disturbs me that we are treating the drug issue as we do so many lasues: an event triggers nationwide concern about a problem, three weeks of media coverage and magazine covers follow. quick drafting of legislation occurs followed by passage by the Congress and signature by the president, and then we forget the issue as we move on to another crisis."

Chilean Terror Reign

Rodrigo Andres Rojas De Negri, a 19-year-old student, was incinerated by Chilean security forces early in The widely publicized incident became something of an interna-tional affair, as the U.S. government strongly protested the Chilean gov- vi ernment's behavior in the matter. The victim, although a Chilean, had been a U.S. resident.

Such official brutality, though not always so spectacularly evidenced, is common in the Chile of President Gen. Augusto Pinochet.

Amnesty International, the worldwide human rights organization, has just released a report that goes into that subject in horrifying detail. It finds that coercion and indiscriminate attacks on civilians, systematic use of torture, abductions and political arrests all on the

"A typical arrest occurs at dawn," the report notes. "Heavily armed men and women force their way into the house, often threatening or hitting family members. If the person they want is not there. another family member may be taken for questioning."

There has been a noticeable increase in the intimidation of government opponents by clandestine forces, popularly termed "unknowns," Highly organized, well-financed and using vehicles without registration plates, they operate without restraint.

Four victims cited in the report were community workers for the Roman Catholic Church in Santiago, the capital. The report says, "The unidentified agents, sometimes hooded, warned them to stay away from the Christian groups and accused them of being communists. All were subjected to systematic 'intimidation through telephone and written threats.

The only real difference between the "unknowns" and the regular uniformed security forces is that there is no question as to the identity of the latter... They are equally abusive of the public.

Amnesty reports on one man, Maximo Baez Jaramillo, whom police beat with truncheons, kicked and dragged on the ground before throwing into a canal during the widespread unrest of September 1985. Another, Ubaldo de la Fuente Galdames, was forced to walk over burning car tires in his bare feet.

· According to Amnesty, the poblaciones, poor neighborhoods on the outskirts of cities, exist in an atmosphere of war. In one engagement, "Carolina Ortiz Herrera and Mabel Zuniga Zuniga, aged 5 and 7, were playing in the street with a group of children .... when a police car stopped at the end of the alleyway and opened fire. The two girls were seriously injured."

Torture is against Chilean law, but its systematic use by the military government is, according to Amnesty, "an open secret." Victims include political and human rights activists, trade unionists, community leaders and church workers, among others. The methods "almost invariably include electric shocks of the most sensitive parts of the body - ears, mouth, genitals, nipples, fingers anus - while the victim is tied to a metal grid."

What may be most horrifying about the Amnesty report is the observation that, in the face of the rising protest against the Chilean government's behavior, the scale of the abuses also continues to rise.

Cookie Craving Not Bad

UPI Science Writer

WASHINGTON (UPI) - It is 3 p.m., you have been trying to lose 50 pounds for some months now, you already had lunch and yet you have an uncontrollable craving for a snack - a cookie, a cracker, even lumpy oatmeal - but not protein.

Is there something wrong with you? Are you the undisciplined, weak-willed dieter you think you may be?

Probably not.

Scientists have found that some overweight people who crave carbohydrates apparently need them. Without them, they do not produce enough of a neurotransmitter known as scrotonin and they feel worse for it.

The same appears to be true for smokers, drinkers, people with an eating disorder called bullmia and addicts who are trying to kick the habit — and for people who suffer seasonal affective disorder, a tendency to suffer depression during winter months.

scientist in the department of applied biological sciences at Massachusetts Institute of Technology, said people who claimed they were unable to lose or keep weight off because of the irresistable carbohydrate craving were once assumed to be motivated by things other than hunger. In other words, they atc carbohydrates because they liked the taste or because these foods reminded them of happy events in the past.

They claimed they liked the way they felt after eating carbohydrates - a somewhat puzzling revelation. since in most people carbohydrate consumption leads to sluggishness unless accompanied or followed by a dose of protein.

Wurtman and colleagues showed. however, there is a link between carbohydrate consumption and production of scrotonin, a chemical that acts as a messenger in the brain and is involved in mood changes and other reactions. Starches and sugars increase the brain's uptake of tryptophan, a precursor of serotonin.

A high-protein diet causes a decrease in scrotonin, Wurtman said during a panel discussion at the recent convention of the American Psychological Association.

"There seems to be a difference between the brains of these two groups of people," she said later.

Congressional Clout Benefits D.C. Arts

Nine esteemed institutions of art and culture in Washington, D.C., have capitalized on nearness and dearness to form an unusual "pillow talk" lobby by putting congressmen's wives — and the wives of some prominent executive branch officials - on their boards of directors.

The results have been astonishing: At a time of drastic retrenchment by the National Endowment for the Humanities, these crafty few have seen their federal funding grow significantly while arts groups in the hinterlands have suffered steep cuts in grants from

Not only that, but $3.5 million of the money earmarked for the wives' pet artistic outlets didn't even require the bothersome competition for funds that less well-connected supplicants must endure. The House, deferring to the husbands of the patrons of the arts, set up a unique non-competitive endowment fund (The National Capital Arts and Cultural Affairs Program) tailored specifically for the nine Washington cultural organizations.

It may be unseemly to dredge up Byron's mocking couplet: "But — Oh! ye lords of ladies intellectual./Inform us truly, have they not henpeck'd you all?" Yet the nagging suspicion arises that the patrons' propinquity to power must have had something to do with it all. Consider:

The leader of the House culture vultures is Rep. Sidney Yates, D-III., chairman of the Appropriations subcommittee that oversees the Humanities Endowment budget. He got $2 million in non-competitive funding for the Nepotic Nine last year, and pushed through the current $3.5 million this year.

Yates' wife, Adeline, is a director of three of the recipients - the National Symphony Orchestra. Arena Stage and Corcoran Gallery of Art - and is a volunteer fund-raiser for another, the Capital Children's Museum.

Sens. Paul Laxalt. R-Nev., and

Ted Stevens, R-Alaska, are on the matching Senate subcommittee. Carol Laxalt is a director of Ford's Theater, another beneficiary of the special endowment. Ann Stevens is a director of Arena Stage and another recipient, the Washington Opera Society, while she and her husband have served on committees of the Folger Shakespeare Library, yet another anointed arts institution.

Ford's Theater also uses the direct approach. Rep. Joseph McDade. R-Pa., a subcommittee member, is vice president of the theater's board of trustees.

"What you're going to find," a candid official of Ford's Theater told our reporter David Davis. "is that organizations that have congressmen and senators on their boards use them for their names. We find that their wives have more time. They work their tails off for

In addition to those already mentioned, the nine Washington entities include the new National Building Museum and the Phillips Gallery.

Seven of the nine institutions get other, competitive funds from the humanities Endowment. From 1983 to 1985, federal funding for these seven rose 41 percent - about the same percentage that the grants to arts organizations nationwide have dropped.

Acting Endowment chairman John Agresto is not happy about the special "insider" funding. With the White House's blessing, he has tried to kill the special program. He points out that the favoritism is not just geographic but size-oriented as well: only applicants that spend at least $1 million a year are eligible to receive money from the special

This led Agresto to use a sardonic twist on the Bible in a letter to Yates: "Freezing out the smaller institutions seems to imply that those to whom much is already given, even more shall they re-

Unions Help Families Fulfill American Dream

By Ken Franckling UPI Feature Writer

BOSTON (UPI) - Elizabeth and Michael McGrath were so numbed by Boston's soaring real estate prices they didn't even bother looking for a home.

But on Aug. 1. they moved into a brand-new, two-bedroom brick rowhouse in their old South Boston neighborhood, proud homeowners who fulfilled their own American dream - with the help of two construction unions and City Hall. The Bricklayers and Laborers International unions joined forces with Mayor Raymond Flynn's office last year in a program to build affordable housing in Boston, where home prices have soared over the past two years to an average of $149,000 — the highest in the nation.

Under the innovative arrangement, the city supplies abandoned or surplus land for $1, on which the two unions are building brick one-, two-, and three-bedroom rowhouses. Their nonprofit development corporation hires construction firms employing union members.

Union pension funds are used as equity to borrow construction funds. The houses are being sold - by lottery - at prices about 40 percent below market rates to qualifying local families.

There were 500 qualifying applications for the first 18 units, which were built this year in South Boston and now have families living in them. Maximum household qualifying income ranges from $34,000 to $43,000 depending on number of family members.

Thomas McIntyre, Bricklayers' international vice president, said ground will be broken within the next nine months on 300 more units, including 80 townhouses in the old Charlestown Navy Yard. They will sell for $71,000 for a one-bedroom unit. $75,000 for two bedrooms, $78,000 for three bedrooms.

"Eventually, we hope to build in every single neighborhood in the city," McIntyre said. "In a city where housing costs have gone out of sight, we want to help people who were born in the neighborhoods stay in the neighborhoods.

"This is one of the ways of demonstrating that the unions can be a force for good in the communities. After all, we came from neighborhoods."

McGrath is a university custodian. His wife is a hairdresser. They have two young children - and a third on the way. They lived in an apartment in South Boston for seven years.

Mrs. McGrath said she heard about the housing program from a friend, filled out an application, and qualified for the drawing. "It was worth a shot," she said. "We were the last name to be picked from the barrel. We were really lucky.

"Everything has gotten so bad for people who live here. The rich people, lawyers and whatever. are coming in and buying the property. Some people can't even afford the rent anymore." Mrs. McGrath said. "It is so hard. You can't afford anything. Even with two incomes, you still

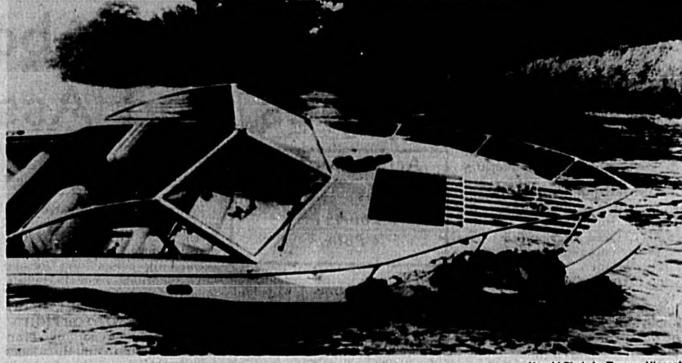

The key to success, McIntyre said, was cooperation from the city in expediting the bureaucratic process that goes into development.

"It's innovative, It's exciting, and it's a credit to Mayor Flynn, because when we went to him a year ago and said: 'We can build you affordable housing,' nobody believed it.

· "The land cost is zero, money costs are low. and there's no overhead. Everybody gets paid union wages. We do the whole business - from building to marketing." Meintyre said.

Unions throughout the country have been diversifying their pension funds in recent years to buy into the secondary mortgage market and invest in local job-producing projects, but officials at AFL-ClO headquarters in Washington, D.C., say the Boston project has taken that initiative one step farther.

"I really suspect it is the only one quite like it. The people in Boston have truly shown some imagination and initiative that others will certainly copy," said Murray Seeger, the AFL-ClO's director of information.

Hard Traveling For America's Poorest

Migrants Struggle In Farm Slump Worsened By Drought

By Loon Daniel UPI National Reporter

Migrant workers, America's poorest of the poor who harvest fruits and vegetables for the world's best-fed nation, are struggling to survive in a slumping farm economy worsened by labor camps are out of sight of most drought.

The estimated 5 million migrarits and their dependents make up the human stream that each year from spring to fall flows northward from Florida. Texas and California to the Canadian Hispanics and blacks comprise about 85 percent of the migrant labor force. It includes families as well as alcoholics recruited in the cities from missions and shelters for the homeless.

The migrant stream also has claimed some Americans expelled by economic circumstance from the middle class.

The drought that ravaged crops in southeastern states sharply reduced income for many migrants, who even in good times earn wages well below the poverty level.

The oil slump in southwestern states prompted more competition for jobs in the migrant stream, and an increasing number of illegal aliens from Mexico also competes for work in the nation's fields and orchards.

Advocates for migrants see irony in a U.S. government policy which, at the request of growers, still legally imports workers from Jamaica and Mexico to harvest crops.

Even as growers insisted these "guest workers" were essential, unemployed Americans fleeing the Southeast drought, the idled oil fields of Texas, Louisiana and Okiahoma and a sagging Southern textile industry joined the migrant hordes to travel far north in search of stoop-labor jobs.

Attention during the drought - and. earlier, when the agricultural economy plummeted - focused on the staggering losses of farm owners and highlighted grim accounts of foreclosures and suicides.

But, in both numbers and human terms, a worse farm crisis may be the seemingly insoluble plight of the migrants — a huge, virtually invisible and ever-mobile work force whose remote Americans.

It'li' a' trish' that in recent years largely has been ighored.

The story of the migrants in some important ways has changed little since the late Edward R. Murrow's "The Harvest of Shame," a definitive CBS television documentary aired a quarter-century ago.

For those who recently have slipped from the middle class into the migrant stream. It is a story of shattered American dreams.

As autumn approaches after hard traveling through a long, hot and dry summer, migrants still compete for scarce jobs digging potatoes and picking apples.

Apple picking ain't no work for me." said Willie Brown, who came all the way from Miami to try his hand at it on the outskirts of Winchester, Va., after he was laid off by a produce market.

idled by a drizzling rain at a labor camp operated by the Frederick County Fruit Growers Association in the Shenandoah Valley town that bills itself the world's apple capital. Brown spoke of his aspirations to middle-class security, a dream that for him is dying.

Brown, 52, a tall, angular man whose smile discloses a flashing gold tooth with a star imbedded in it, said he left Florida to come to northern Virginia to pick apples because "the Cubans took all the jobs blacks used to do."

Now the novice migrant, who has waited tables, belled-hopped in hotels and carried luggage at Miami Interna-tional Airport, says he is competing with Jamaicans his government imported to pick apples in Virginia.

Neither Brown nor the Jamaicans like the government-set $4.72 hourly rate, preferring the piece-work pay of past years.

They are skeptical of growers' claims that promised bonuses still will permit top pickers to earn as much as $100 per day.

Brown said his pay - $30 for his first day, cut short by rain - already has been docked for bruising some apples he picked. (2) Good Food

He had no complaints about the food at the camp, for which he pays $4 for a typical supper featuring roast beef, rice and collard greens.

The Jamaicans, housed in the same camp, eat separately, preferring such fare as curried stews made from goats purchased locally and butchered by their own cooks.

Housing in the camp where about 1,200 migrants and their dependents live in concrete-block buildings is supplied free by the growers.

As migrant camps go, the one at Winchester is pretty good. Small children are bused to a kidergarten in town. Public health nurses visit the camp regularly to test residents for such afflictions as tuberculosis. Food stamps are available for new arrivals who need them.

There are reams of federal and state regulations to protect the rights of migrants. In recent years, the Justice Department's Civil Rights Division has dusted off slavery and peonage laws dating from the 19th Century to crack down on growers and crew leaders who used threats and violence to force migrants to work.

Most migrant camps now are reasonably clean, if spartan, but these days they house an increasing number of people who never expected to be in them and want to leave.

Says Brown, who yearns for a steady job back home in Miami: "I thought there was good money in picking apples."

Both pickers and growers agree it requires a tough person to stand on a ladder and stretch for apples to drop in a pouch that, when filled, weighs 40

Colin Jackson, 40, a wiry Jamaican. comes to the United States to do it for two months each year to help feed his wife and six children back home.

Plucking apples quickly from the top of a heavily laden tree, Jackson said. "This is a good crop for the boss, but not for me.'

C.B. Ashby, who as executive director of the Frederick County Fruit Growers Association speaks for the 'bosses" and runs their labor camp. defends the importation of Jamaicans to pick Virginia apples.

There are not enough domestic workers to harvest the crop." he insisted, disputing claims of migrant advocates who insist there would be if the growers paid fair wages and improved the working conditions.

Ashby said growers would prefer to hire domestic workers because it would be cheaper than paying to transport the Jamaicans and provide them free Eugene Schultz, job service manager for the Winchester office of the Virginia Employment Commission, said he often is asked why people on welfare cannot pick the apples.

"Not everybody is interested or qualified," he explained. "An unemployed steelworker in Pennsylvania might not want to leave home to pick apples. It's a question of job match.'

Twenty miles to the north, at Martinsburg, W.Va., a state chronically afflicted with high unemployment. Garry Geffert, a lawyer and advocate for migrants, blamed the growers.

"There would be plenty of domestic workers to pick apples if wages and working conditions were better," said Geffert, employed by the federally funded Legal Services Plan., Inc., which often clashes with growers in the courts on behalf of migrants.

Geffert and other Legal Services attorneys, whose activities have been sharply curtailed by Reagan administration budget cuts, charge that growers and the Department of Labor conspire to keep migrant wages low.

They also say the department and the growers skirt the law that is supposed to prohibit importing foreign workers if there are domestic workers to do the jobs.

Some growers call Legal Services "federally financed harassment", and say the program, which provides legal aid to the poor, should be abolished.

Just about everyone agrees that Jamaicans, who have a virtual monopoly on sugar-cane harvesting in Florida, are the best apple pickers.

"I'll take the Jamaicans any time." said crew boss Charles Shifflett from the seat of the tractor he uses to shift apple bins in an orchard. "You don't have no problem with them. They work hard. They seem to be content."

Asked why local people do not pick apples. Shifflett said. "Because there's too much welfare."

Julia Hartman, a nurse from the Shenandoah Migrant Health Clinic, was at the Winchester camp to track down migrants whose skin tests for tuberculosis had proved positive.

Pointing at a list of names on her clipboard, Hartman said, "Some of them just left and we can't locate

More Illness

Hartman said she rarely sees malnutrition in the camps she visits. explaining that the federal WIC program provides needy women, infants and children with milk, cheese, eggs. cereals and fruit juices.

Still, the average life span for a migrant is 49 years, compared to 72 for other Americans. They are afflicted in great numbers with tuberculosis, influenza, pneumonia and respiratory disorders.

Despite federal and state regulation of pesticides, many migrants still are poisoned in the fields where they work.

The Migrant Legal Action Program. based in Washington, D.C., says the median family income for a migrant family of six — often with children working — is $3,900 per year.

MARTINEZ, Calif. (UPI) - filming usually breaks up To crack down on teenage drinking. Contra Costa County sheriff's deputies are making videotapes of teenagers at private parties to show to their parents.

The practice was started two weeks ago after it took eight officers more than an hour to control a fight that broke at a party of 300 youths. Danville Police Chief Ken Sandy said.

Scientists Gather To Study Emotions

CHICAGO (UPI) - Scientists from far afield - biologists, neurologists. psychiatrists and psychologists among them gather this week for what are expected to be stormy meetings on what makes people feel emotions.

This group of people getting together is an accomplishment in itself," said Dr. Bennett Leventhal, director of the three-day symposium beginning today. "If we can't get them to agree, maybe we can just get them to agree on how to approach the problem or what the problem is.

The problem is emotions are tricky, the questions even trickier.

• If man is injected with a drug that makes him look anxious and makes his body feel anxious, is he really anxious? • Is happiness to be found in the heart, the soul or the frontal lobes of the brain?

Why do babies smile, besides gas? These questions, more scientifically formulated, will occupy the unusual gathering of professionals, who meet for the first time to discuss the "Psychological and

Biological Processes in the Development of The symposium, sponsored by the Harris Center for Developmental Studies at the University of Chicago, also will tackle tough questions about how mothers and their babies communicate emotions, how people become hopelessly depressed and how people become fully developed emotionally.

The answers are by no means obvious. "When you say emotion, people say, 'Oh, I know what that is; I know all about that,' but the fact is it's something that is so pervasive and it's something we know remarkably little about." said Leventhal, a professor of psychiatry and pediatrics.

"We know nothing or very little about what really causes emotions or how children acquire them or how people learn to manage them," Leventhal said. "And these are very important parts of people's lives and they have important social implications as well."

One interesting problem, Leventhal said. is determining the site of emotions. Biologists and psychologists disagree along fairly predictable lines — the brain vs. the mind - but agree there may be actual places in the brain where emotions reside.

Scientists believe that the right-front portion of the brain, the lobes, may be a governing force in emotion. Leventhal said:

but when specific emotions are being discussed, the matter can get quickly complicated.

"If the activity in the left-anterior region of the cortex is high, that is compared to the right-anterior cortex, you have a positive mood state," he said. "That's happiness." The symposium also will focus on infants and children, how they acquire emotions and how they learn to deal with their feelings - a particularly difficult question to study, particularly with infants, since a researcher cannot simply ask a baby what

"Infants can distinguish more than just happiness and sadness and they clearly display these emotions," Leventhal said. "But how do you know what it means when a 3-week-old baby smiles? They may be smiling because they're happy, or they might, as so many grandmothers say, be smiling because they have gas."

These are basic questions, Leventhal acknowledged, but those are all the scientists are prepared to discuss now.

"I hope we're not going to bring up love." he said. "That will get us in too much trouble."

Consistency, Togetherness Win For Howell

Consistency and togetherness is what most successful high school teams need to have to be competitive. The Lake Howell girls cross country team has found these two contributers and it has definitely been a factor for their success over the last three years.

The mainstay of the Lady Silver Hawks team this year is a trio of runners which has been together for a while. Seniors Lisa Samocki, plus twins Martha and Mary Fonseca, have put in four hard years of work for coach Tom Hammontree.

"We have a neat support system," Hammontree said. "They all support one another. even on the junior varsity they're together. You have to be willing to help each other, and they have been good with doing

Hammontree and his troops took another step to what looks to be another superb season Saturday by convincingly winning the Lake Mary Opener. The Lady Silver Hawks accumulated 24 points in the meet, beating second place finisher Father Lopez which finished with 78 in a sport where the lowest score

Lake Howell complements its three seniors with one junior two sophomores and a freshman. The youth is gaining experience and the seniors have so far set the example Hammontree wants from them

"I told them if they don't want to win they should ask themselves why they're here," Hammontree said. "All the girls this year and so far things have fallen in place. It's still to early too tell how good we can be."

Another set of twins have taken to the Lady Silver Hawks running corps, giving Ham-montree a building block for the future. Sophomores Jenny and Tammy Bolt have both figured Lake Howell. Junior Bonnie Oliver has also contributed greatly as freshman Michelle Lee figures to be a promising runner for the future as she was the first freshman to cross the line at the opener. One runner who has made her mark this season is veteran Martha Fonseca who is undefeated this year in both races she has run this year. Fonseca who has been running behind Samocki her entire high school career has come on to take up the slack as Samocki is coming off a leg injury from last track scason. Samocki, though, has held her own in both races and looked to be on a healthy comeback after a severe leg injury.

Samocki has finished second in the two races she has run this year and looks to be getting stronger with each meet.

Lake Howell is also looking for the help of their middle runners who are constantly in the upper portions of the race. Mary Fonseca has been tailing both Samocki and sister for most of her career and has been a key factor for the success of the Lady Silver Hawks. Thursday at the Edgewater Invitational to be held at the the top-ranked team in the state.

Fonseca will also be seriously challenged by Winter Park's Kim Bovis the top-ranked runner in the state. Lake Howell looks to be the best Seminole County threat in the meet as it is ranked third in the state. Lake Howell has won every meet possible over the past three years except the state title which Hammontree and team hope to change this year. "The girls want to win," Hammontree said. "And they put a lot of pride into what they're doing. If there's a difference from last year, that's it. Not that they didn't want to win last year, but they sometimes had a tendency to take it for granted. After what happened last year, they don't take things for granted anymore. Every week is a new proving ground. Our goal is to be consistent."

Chaplain: Pray, Forgive Lopez Killer

MIAMI (UPI) - Mourners attending the funeral service of Pablo Lopez, the Florida State offensive lineman shot to death outside a fraternity party, were asked to pray for Lopez's killer and forgive him.

Byron Johnson, 20, a non-student who lives near the FSU campus in Tallahassee, was arrested and charged with first-degree murder shortly after the shooting early Saturday morning.

'I'm going to ask you to do something very difficult." said University of Miami chaplain Rev. Leo Armbrust, speaking at the bilingual service

Monday. "I'm going to ask you to pray for the man who killed Pablo and ask you to forgive him."

Tammy Bolt have both figured heavily in the early going for Mosure, Blanton Look For Way To Bolster Offensive Line

By Scott Sander Herald Sports Writer

Now that all of the Seminole Athletic Conference football teams have one game under their belts, the coaches have an idea about the team's strengths and weaknesses. They know what areas they have to improve or maintain. Some of the coaches were happy with their teams opening performances while other were not. Lake Mary, Lyman, Ovledo and Lake Howell all posted victories while Seminole and Lake Brantley came up on the wrong side of the scoreboard. Here's a review of Friday's action:

• Seminole coach Dave Mosure had mixed emotions. He was disturbed about the Seminole's punt coverage, which allowed No.-3 ranked (3A) Titusville Astronaut to get back in the game and eventually pull out a 16-7 victory.

"We had several guys that had a chance to bring him (Joe Britt) down." Mosure said about a 65-yard punt return which pulled the War Eagles early in the third quarter. "It was just sloppy open-field tackling.

Mosure said he wasn't too pleased with his offense either. Dwayn Willis led the ball carriers with 37 yards on 11 tries. Ed Banks lumbered for 23 yards on just three attempts. Curtis Rudolph could manager Seminole returns to Draa Field to play Titusville High Thursday at 7:30 p.m. The game was changed from Friday due to a scheduling conflict.

• Lake Mary coach Harry Nelson and his Rams upset the No.5-ranked Apopka Blue Darters, 19-7. Nelson said that he was very satisfied with the victory but was not terribly happy with the Rams performance.

"Anytime you beat a team with a reputation like Apopka's you have got to be happy," Nelson said. "But we didn't play nearly close to our potential. We were not the well-olled machine that we need to be."

Nelson said the kicking game is one element of a football that is sometimes taken for granted. It is an area that the veteran mentor emphasizes. Once again it paid dividends Friday.

1. John Curry returned the opening kickoff 99 yards for a touchdown.

2. A fumble on the ensuing kickoff gave Lake Mary great field position that it capitalized for a second TD.

"The kicking game makes the difference in a great deal of games," Nelson said. "A lot of people take the kicking game and specialty teams for granted — I'm not one of

Nelson credited a stingy Ram defense for the win. "This defense looks as good as any defense that I have ever coached." he said. "It really shut Apopka down."

With some excellent all-around talent returning, a vastly improved setter and some added offensive punch, Lake Mary High volleyball coach Cindy Henry is looking forward to one of her best scasons ever.

"This is the most balanced team we've had for a while," Henry said. "At first, it was the Glass Towers (6.2 twins Laura and Peggy Glass), then we were the Milwee Midgets. Now we've got some big girls for hitting and if we want to put up a bigger block. We've got a large span on size with two players 5-10 or taller, several 5-8 and some of the smaller and is good at the net." Henry said. "She would be our big power more than anyone this year."

If Henry can get consistency from the big people, she feels her squad can be competitive in the Seminole Athletic Conference.

"If everyone stays healty we'll be someone to contend with," Henry said. "I think we'll surprise some people."

Lake Mary opens the season Wednesday night at home against Winter Park. The match begins with juntor varsity at 4 followed by varsity at 5. The Lady Rams open play in the SAC on Tuesday. Sept. 30 at Lake Brantley.

The top returning player for the Lady Rams is senior Angle Capps who Henry says is the best all-around player on the team and one of the best in Seminole County. Another returning player Henry Capps is counting on is junior Lora Splatt.

Henry said the biggest improvement in the team is in the setting department where sophomore Marey Lazar will be the starter. Henry said Lazar, the setter on last year's junior varsity team, "has nice hands and is starting to run the team well. We'll run a 5-1 with her in there and she'll be the key to the hitters looking good."

While Capps and Splatt will be counted on to do some hitting. Henry is also looking for strength at the net from senior Marcy Dalziel, juntor Gina Dawson and senior Dina Mulholand. Defensively, Henry said junior Val Smith is one of the top players. Also on the Lake Mary varsity squad are sentor Christine Santulli, junior Karin King, a transfer from Lake Howell, and juniors Marnle Frey and Brooke Taylor.

DeLand Impairs Howell Opener

By Chris Fister Herald Sports Writer

Good serve receiving and good passing is the key to getting the offensive attack going. Lake Howell's Lady Silver Hawks did both well Monday night, but could not get the attack part of the offense going as the Lady Hawks dropped a 15-1, 15-11 decision to DeLand's Lady Bulldogs at DeLand High.

It was the season opener for Lake Howell while DeLand ran its record to 3-0. The Lady Silver Hawks return to action Wednesday at Apopka.

"Offensively, we never got going in the first game," Lake Howell coach Jo-Luciano said.

After blitzing Lake Howell in game one, the Lady Bulldogs ran up a 10-4 lead in the second game. Kelly Dean then came on and served four straight points to get the Lady Hawks back in the game, 10-8. Lake Howell came within one point before DeLand pulled away.

Luciano said leading the play in the back row for the Hawks were sentors Montca Schneider and Jaudon Jonas and Juntor Susan Hayden.

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Joe Montana, the star quarterback who led the San Francisco 49ers to two Super Bowl victories, may be back in 1987 after most likely missing the rest of this season.

Montana underwent two hours of surgery Monday to remove a disc in his lower back that was pressing against the sciatic nerve. Doctors said there was less damage than anticipated in the area and did not have to fuse Montana's back.

"Simply put, the operation went well," said the team of doctors headed by Dr. Art White in a prepared statement. "He is doing well and should be hospitalized about seven days."

The news gratified 49ers Coach Bill Walsh, who said during halftim of the telecast of Monday night's game between Pittsburgh and Denver the estimated recovery period is 12-14 weeks.

"Joe came through the opera-

As for the near future, Walsh said the 49ers would adapt their game plan to make the most of backup Jeff Kemp's talents.

"We'll do what we have to to move the ball to score." he said. "The emphasis with Jeff will be more down the field and we'll emphasize the running game."

Kemp started against the Rams Sunday. After throwing two early interceptions, he rallied the 49ers, who lost 16-13 on a last-second field goal. Kemp completed 19 of 24 passes for 252 yards and one touchdown.

Walsh said the team also had held some preliminary talks with Houston over the rights to un-

TAMPA (UPI) - Coach Leeman Bennett of the Tampa Bay Buccaneers said Monday he is considering changing quarterbacks. The Buccaneers, 0-2, have lost 40 of their last 50 games and Bennett's overall Tampa Bay record dropped to 2-16 with Sunday's 23-10 home loss to Minnesota. Quarterback Steve DeBerg, who has thrown nine interceptions, is nursing a swollen right elbow and will not throw in practice before the end of the week.

'We're contemplating some changes, but right now I'm not ready to say them publicly," said Bennett. "I don't think we've done a good job of playing or a good job of coaching, myself included. If we were 10-6

Bennett said DeBerg's elbow injury; "further clouds the (quarterback) issue, and indicated he was considering a switch to second-year pro Steve Young even if DeBerg were physically ready. Young started the final five games of 1985 but was beaten out of the No. 1 job by DeBerg midway through nesota and we've got to become the type of team that plays with consistency," said Bennett, whose club takes a 19-game road losing streak into Sunday's game against the 1-1 Detroit Lions.

"I see (Minnesota quarterback) Tommy Kramer go 9 for 21 and to me he didn't do too much with the offense ... except win. We've tried it all. We tried deep passes in the first game (31-7 loss to San Francisco) and we threw short this week and the bottom line is still the same."

Elway Guides Win, Unhappy With Refs

PITTSBURGH (UPI) - Denver quarterback John Elway, who guided a 21-10 victory over the Pittsburgh Pirates Monday night, said the Broncos were about an inch away from a big play all night.

According to the television replays, the officials were about 72 inches away from the right call on the Broncoa' biggest trick play of the night.

The Broncos were able to win despite the fact that their biggest trick play of the night, a 79-yard, flea-flicker touchdown pass from Gerald Willhite to Steve Sewell, was disallowed. The officials ruled — erroneously according to replays — that the flea-flicker was an illegal second forward

"I couldn't believe the call," said Elway, who led the Broncos to their first Monday night road triumph by throwing for 235 yards and three touchdowns.

The 34-yard TD pass Elway threw to Sewell while the Steelers ganged up on Sammy Winder faking a dive play late in the second quarter was sufficient to put Denver's record at 2-0 and in a tie with Seattle for the early lead in the AFC West. That TD gave the Broncos what proved to be an insurmountable 14-3 lead.

"In a game like this, we have to get some big plays to win," Elway said. "Because they [the Steelers) bring the house after you time after time, it's hard to make big plays. We were about an inch away all night long."

The replays, shown several times after the Broncos complained, clearly showed that the play started with Elway throwing a lateral at least two yards back to Willhite.

The officials, quizzed later by a pool reporter, said they saw it as over the Los Angeles Raiders.

a forward pass and did not ask the new member of their crew the replay observer, Paul Trepinski — for his opinion. He. in turn, did not signal any objection to their call, and Trepinski was not available after the game to explain why he didn't intercede.

Denver Coach Dan Reeves eventually persuaded the officials to look at the replay. But by that time, the teams already had run another play, making a reversal of the ruling illegal.

"I think the replay is good," Reeves said, "but it's new, and we'll have problems with it. It will get better.'

Reeves, unhappy with the Denver defense in a 38-36 season-opening victory over the Los Angeles Raiders, said he thought the unit showed marked improvement against Pittsburgh.

Skins Lose Kaufman, Bryant Set For Scope

WASHINGTON (UPI) -Washington Redskins starting linebacker Mel Kaufman will be lost for the season with a torn Achilles tendon and running back Kelvin Bryant was scheduled for arthroscopic knee surgery Monday and will be sidelined for an unspecified period.

Mattingly Tomahawks Orioles, 5-3

Don Mattingly probably fouled up a few acouting reports Monday night.

Scouts now will have to add this to Mattingly's report: Can hit balls over his fiend, with power.

Mattingly, dangerous enough on pitches thrown in or around the strike zone, belted a high fastball for a game-winning. three-run homer off Don Aase in the seventh inning to lead the New York Yankees to a 5-3 victory over the Baltimore Ortoles.

"Aase didn't throw him a strike and got beat," Orioles Manager Earl Weaver said. "He did the right thing, but as usual it didn't turn out that way. Nine times out of 10 a batter swinging at that pitch would pop it up. Mattingly can really hit, he's a player.

"Nobody had a better year than him (in 1985) other than God the Father, God the Son and God the Holy Spirit."

With the Yankees trailing 3-2, Wayne Tolleson led off the seventh with a single and pinch hitter Claudell Washington. walked. Mike Boddicker, 14-11, struck out Bryan Little then was replaced by Aase, who retired Rickey Henderson on a fly to center. Mattingly then homered on a 2-1 pitch.

At Chicago, Urbano Lugo, making his first start of the season, threw a three-hit shutout for 6 2-3 innings and Ruppert Jones had a two-run sacrifice fly in a five-run seventh-inning to lead the Angels. Donnie Moore pitched the final 1 2-3 innings to earn his 19th save. Jose DeLeon fell to 3-5. Indians 4, Twiss 0

At Cleveland, Tony Bernazard belted a solo homer to back knuckleballer Tom Candiotti's seven-hit pitching to help the Indians earn their fourth straight victory, Candiotti, 14-11, hurled his league-leading 14th complete game. He is 12-2 in his compiete-game efforts. Frank Viola, 14-12, took the loss.

Tony Gywnn leads the N.L. batting average race with a 330 mark. Sax and Gywnn had Monday off. A year ago, Raines singled and doubled and scored twice to push his average to 312.

On Mets' Champagne

United Press International Champagne, like the collective ego of the New York Mets, can be bruised.

Cardinals Keep Cork

As long as the Mets delay clinching the National League East division title, they'd best be careful transporting the six cases of extra dry champagne they've flown from New York to Philadelphia to St. Louis.

A better plan - for the champagne if not Mets fans would of course be to drink it in St. Louis rather than sending it back to New York.

The Meta dropped their fourth straight away from home and sixth in seven games Monday night when the St. Louis Cardinals held on for a 1-0 triumph in 13 innings. That loss coupled with second-place Philadelphia's 5-0 victory over Pittsburgh kept New York's magic number for clinching the National League East at two.

New York could have clinched with even one victory in three weekend games at Philadelphia. Instead, they lost three in a row to keep their magic number stalled at two.

'We're not a bad ballclub because we lost four games in a row." said Roger McDowell, who walked in pinch hitter Curt Ford with the bases loaded in the 13th to fall 13-9. "We're 20 (actually 18) games ahead. We're as good as we think we are.' Willie McGee who celebrated with the Cardinals when they won the NL East over New York last year, offered some advice to the Mets. "They go home after this (Tuesday night's game), let them clinch at Shea." McGee said. 'It's much better to do it at home than on the road." Actually a New York triumph coupled with a Philadelphia defeat would allow the Mets to clinch tonight. No matter, the clinching will come. What is of Immediate concern to the Mets is their losing streak. "The key is to turn this around, not just win one game," sald New York's Ray Knight. "We need to get a winning streak going into the playoffs." McGee drew a leadoff walk in the 13th and was sacrificed to second by Andy Van Slyke. McGee moved to third on an infield single by John Morris and Terry Pendleton Walked on lou pitches to load the bases. Ford. batting for winning pitcher Todd Worrell, 9-10, ran the count to 3.2 before taking an inside pitch that was called ball four by home plate umpire Billy Williams.

'it wasn't anything I could hit." said Ford. "It wasn't close, It was a ball."

St. Louis Manager Whitey Herzog said he did not know if the pitch was a ball or strike.

"It was kind of close to take."

Phillies 5, Pirates 0

At Philadelphia, John Russell drove in four runs and Don Carman pitched a four-hitter, pacing the Phillies to their fourth straight triumph. Carman, 9.5; struck out four and walked one in his first career shutout. Piti taburgh's Rick Rhoden fell to 15.9. Mike Schmidt hit his 36th homer of the season and 494th lifetime, moving past Lou Gehrig into 14th place on the all-time

Cubs 7, Expos 3

At Montreal, Chico Walker went 4 for 5, scored twice and drove in a run to pace Chicago. Jamie Moyer, 6-4, pitched five innings for the victory with Scott Sanderson finishing for his first save. Sergio Valdez, 0-2, took the loss. Casselberry's David Martinez didn't play.

Tim Raines singled twice in three trips to raise his average to .328. Raines is tied with Steve Sax and trails Tony Gwynr (.330) in the race for the N.L. batting title. Neither Sax nor Gywnn played Monday.

SGA's Kopp Qualifies For Section

Behind 10th place performances on the vault and uneven parallel bars, Sanford Gymnastics Association representative Jenny Kopp compiled an all-around score of 31.10 to qualify for the Class III Sectional Meet in November.

Kopp, along with five other SGA gymnasts, competed in the Class III Qualifying Meet this past weekend in Gainesville. Kopp, in the 12-14 age group. scored an 8.75 on the uneven bars and an 8.65 on the vault to go along with a 5.85 on the balance beam and 7.85 on floor exercise.

A score of 29.0 qualifies for the sectionals while a 33.0 is good for a berth in December's Class III State Meet. The next qualifying meet is the weekend of Oct. 18-19 at the Walsie Ward Girls Club In Orlando.

Also competing in the 12-14 age division for the SGA this past weekend were Sherri Ziegler (25.25 all-around) and Brenda Bressner (25.35).

Three gymnasts in the 9-11 age group came close to qualifying for sectional and could reach that goal with improvement at the next meet.

Letter, Purportedly From Hostage, Berates Reagan For Inaction

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) - A letter purportedly written by American hostage David Jacobsen and released today with a statement from Islamic Jihad urges former hostages to pressure President Reagan to negotiate the release of remaining American captives.

A three-page handwritten letter in broken English, signed with Jacobsen's name, was delivered to a Western news agency in Beirut, along with a statement from the Islamic Jihad group and a Polaroid photograph of

The letter, incoherent in parts, harshly criticized the U.S. government for its handling of the hostage issue.

It called on former hostages Benjamin Weir, Lawrence Jenco and Jeremy Levin, as well as Peggy Say, the sister of hostage Terry Anderson, to "continue their efforts ... because you are our only hope and you know our suffering very much.

The three former hostages and Say issued an appeal Saturday to the Reagan administration to negotiate the release of the three Americans in Lebanon as they did with U.S. journalist Nicholas Daniloff.

Aquino Begins Economic Mission

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Philippine President Corazon Aquino meets today with U.S. officials and financiers in the first effort of her nine-day mission to secure American aid for the economic crisis plaguing her fledgling democracy.

Aquino arrived in the nation's capital in grand style Monday night, landing near the Washington Monument aboard a military helicopter as more than 3,000 people cheered her with banners, colored lights and chants of "Cory! Cory!"

She was welcomed by Secretary of State George Shultz and whisked away in a motorcade. Her four-day Washington business schedule was to begin today in meetings with International Monetary Fund and World Bank officials.

Aquino will meet President Reagan for the first time Wednesday and address a joint session of Congress Thursday. She then travels to New York and Boston for talks with creditor banks and business executives in hopes of luring new investment and easing repayment terms on a $26.3 billion foreign debt.

Bomb-Scare Sweeps Paris

PARIS (UPI) - Armed police were stationed at virtually every street corner, in train stations and airports and at cinemas and department stores today in a bid to end a wave of bombings that has killed three and wounded 112.

Customs officers began requiring foreigners, except those from the European Community and Switzerland, to obtain visas to enter France. Hundreds of soldiers were stationed at airports and border checkpoints, closely checking identifications.

Armed police posted at crowded public places searched shoulder begs and — in some cases — people, in an attempt to prevent terrorists from planting another bomb.

Four bombs have been set off in crowded public places since Sept. 8, killing three people and wounding 112. The latest went off Monday at a drivers license bureau in the heart of Paris' police headquarters, killing one person and injuring 51 people — two seriously.

Peres Pitches Peace Conference

WASHINGTON (UPI) - Israeli Prime Minister Shimon Peres has won U.S. support for an multinational peace conference on the Middle East, but only under conditions that weigh against such a breakthrough in the near future.

Peres, in discussions Monday with U.S. officials. promoted the idea of a peace conference in a final stab at maintaining diplomatic momentum in the Middle East before he leaves office next month as part of a power-sharing arrangement.

Down to his last few weeks as prime minister, Peres, who is due to switch jobs with harder-line Foreign Minister Yitzhak Shamir, was winding up his official meetings on a hopeful note but with little concrete evidence of progress.

Chernobyl Entombment On Time

MOSCOW (UPI) — Work to entomb the Chernobyl nuclear reactor destroyed by an explosion and fire last April will be completed on schedule in late September or early October, a Soviet official said.

Gennady Vedernikov, deputy chairman of the Soviet Council of Ministers and head of the government commission in charge of the cleanup, said on Soviet television Monday night that some 209,000 cubic yards of concrete have been used to bury the reactor.

The Soviets had set an October deadline for completing the entombment. Work had fallen somewhat behind because of several factors, including a shortage of concrete. Vedernikov, however, said Monday night that the job would be done on schedule - by the end of this month or early next month.

In another development, the newspaper Izvestia said Monday that the tens of thousands of people evacuated from around the destroyed reactor are being tested for radioactive cesium.

Libyan Tells Of Gadhafi Plot

LONDON (UPI) — A heavily disguised Libyan told a London court he betrayed Libyan leader Moammar Gadhafi and the Abu Nidal Palestinian guerrilla group last year to foil a plot to amuggle grenades through Heathrow Airport.

The Libyan testified Monday in London's Old Bailey courthouse at the trial of Nasser Mohamed, 28, an Iraqi-born student, and Rasmi Awad, 43, a Jordanian doctor. The two are accused of being members or supporters of the Abu Nidal group and of conspiring to carry out bombings last August and September. Both have denied the charges.

Their trial, expected to last two weeks, was to continue today.

In addition to tonight's hearing, which will focus on the violations cited by city building inspectors in June and hotel's failure to comply with city offstreet parking requirements, in October the Florida Hotel will again come before the code board for a hearing on 11 safety deficiencies a Sanford Fire department inspector found during an Aug. 28 visit.

Violations set for hearing tonight and those cited by Hoening were found through inspections the city commission called last spring in the downtown residential area that was redistricted from multi-family to single family residential through a 1983 ordinance. The ordinance gave owners of multi-family dwellings until October, 1985 to comply with instalations of parking and safety requirements.

Commissioners' call for the inspections was made to determine whether mulit-family property owners had met the ordinance's October, 1985. deadline for the required parking and safety installations.

The hotel was first before the code enforcement board on July 8, for a hearing on the building and parking deficiencies. The board reviewed the cited deliciencies, but granted a 45 day stay on action in response to a letter Mrs. Nestor presented from a historic consultant who she said is seeking a National Registry of Historic Places entry for the 100 year old structure.

The consultant's letter asked the board to allow the building to remain as is while he compiled structural data that was hoped to secure the home's historic designation.

The grace period has expired, and Mrs. Nestor has falled to document that she is actively seeking the historic designation, according to comments made Monday.

At the same time, Mrs. Nestor has not moved toward correcting the cited building deficiencies. propmting tonight's code board hearing.

Both McKee and Mrs. Malone would have "little patience" should she request that the because of safety reasons. deficiencies be allowed to remain through an extension of the 45-day grace period.

NEW YORK (UPI) - The new Miss America remained closemouthed on such issues as women's rights because "I don't think we need that kind of controversy." but revealed to the nation the three numbers pageant officials kept secret: 35-22-35.

The curvaceous beauty queen, Kellye Cash. 21, of Memphis, Tenn., ended the only mystery of her pageant victory at a Manhattan news conference Monday.

But new questions surfaced when a contest loser in Florida grumbled that Cash, the grandniece of country singer Johnny Cash, was not liked by other competitors.

"Honey, between you and me, that girl was the leastliked girl around," Miss Florida Molly Pesce told reporters. "She acted like she knew she was going to win."

Peace, 23, also criticized Cash's choice of gifts for her fellow beauty queens.

"About half of us went around giving everybody mementos from our states. I didn't because I didn't know about it, but you know what she gave us all? Autographed pictures of herself. Can you imagine?" Pesce said.

Cash declined to comment on Pesce's statements, but her chaperone, Ellie Ross, asserted the former Miss Tennessee "was very well liked and a real crowd pleaser."

"She did pass out her picture but also some of the other state girls did too," Ross sald. ''It's a common practice."

Cash wore a white knit skirt. patterned sweater and a single strand of pearls to the traditional Monday news conference that follows the Saturday night pageant in Atlantic City.

Woman Unsure Where To Go For Confidential AIDS Test

27-year-old woman engaged to marry a fine man. I just received a telephone call from the man I went with three years ago. We were lovers for nearly two years. He told me that he was advised by his doctor to inform me that he is bisexual, and had several male lovers during our rela-tionship. He said he has been tested for AIDS and the results are positive! He told me not to panie - that it didn't mean he has AIDS: it means he has been exposed to the virus, and I should be tested.

Abby, I am terrifled! I'm too embarrassed to ask my doctor the title of the booklet my son for such a test. There are absolutely no secrets in that office, and I don't want anyone to know I requested a blood test for AIDS.

Must I tell my flance? We have been intimate, and I suppose he should be tested, too. Please, please help me. I can't eat. I can't sleep. I am ...

DEAR TERRIFIED: Your flance must be told, and you both should be tested. Please don't panie. It's true: A positive result does not mean you have AIDS: it means you have been exposed to the virus and you could transmit it through unsafe sex practices.

DEAR ABBY: Mary (not her real name) and I have been living together for 10 years. I'm on friendly terms with her parents. Last month they invited us to their 40th wedding anniversary dinner to be held at a fancy place. They said all the men would have to wear suits and ties. # Smoking Cessation Course Announced

As more employers mandate no smoking in work sites, smoking becomes an economic as well as a health issue. In response to this need, Central Florida Regional Hospital is offering a free introductory session to their Smoking Cessation Course Sept. 22 or 23 from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

A practical, realistic approach to quitting is emphasized rather than the use of "scare tactics," although deaths caused by smoking are frightening. Instructors help smokers understand why they smoke and give participants strategies to use based on these reasons. The program also explores ways to overcome side effects they might encounter when they first quit and how to combat the temptation to begin again once they have actually quit.

The main course will be held from 7:30 to 9 p.m. Sept. 29, 30, Oct. 6 and 13 from 7:30 to 8:30

Trial Opens On Water

Into Motor Fuel Claim (UPI) - Jury selection began Monday in the federal fraud trial of a self-styled inventor who claims he can turn water into motor fuel.

Famed criminal lawyer F. Lee Bailey prepared to face off against federal prosecutors in U.S. District Judge James Paine's courtroom in West Palm Beach in the case involving Ronald Albert Lasteed of England.

Court records show that Lasteed contends he invented a way to turn water into a fuel substitute. The government claims that the reputed substitute does not do what Lasteed says it does.

A 1984 fraud and conspiracy indictment alleges Lasteed and two colleagues tried to extricate a $10 million investment from a Al Hill Jr. The indictment says Lasteed claimed the substitute could all but fill the world's need for gasoline, could be made at a cost no more than five cents a gallon, and would cause little or no pollu-

A 1984 trial in Dallas, Texas, was declared a mistrial. But FBI Special Agent Al Berry said codefendant Joseph Shea Peeples of Houston, Texas, a businessman in the alleged scheme. was convicted in Dallas of wire fraud and received a 10-year prison sentence.

The invention reportedly involves a mixture of ''restructured" water and chemicals that Lasteed claims enables the water to combine with gasoline in an emulsion. He claims, the product, called lonagen, is developed from the after-product left at the bottom of a garbage-burning lurnace.

Hill, the nephew of Texas oilman Nelson Bunker Hunt, drove a Jaguar sports car allegedly fueled with lonagen. He almost made a $500,000 down payment on a $10 milion investment in the product.

"I thought it was an extremely good in-vestment in what appears to be the future of this world, because it is going to have the energy to operate," Hill has said.

George Keyworth, a former science adviser to President Reagan. also drove a Jaguar allegedly fueled with lonagen and has said the ride was fine. But he wanted to know details about the product, such as how was ordinary water converted into the reputed Juci aubstitute.

Keyworth obtained a ample of the product and, concealing it, took it to two laboratories for testing.

''There is no emulsifier which will do what Lasteed says it will do," said Assistant U.S. Attorney David Lewis, who is based in Dallas and will help try the case in West Palm Beach.

Bailey represented Lasteed at the Dallas trial. The Fort Lauderdale News and Sun-Sentinel reported that according to court records. Bailey has waived his fee.

Mexican Minister Accused Of Drugs

SAN DIEGO (UPI) -Mexico's defense minister, who is the head of his country's drug eradication campaign, has been linked to drug traffickers by American law enforcement officers, The San Diego Union said Monday.

American authorities investigating the murder of Drug Enforcement Administration Agent Enrique Camarena Salazar believe Gen. Juan Arevalo-Guardogui is among at least 45 politicians and law enforcement officials with ties to drug traffickers. The Union said.

"The agents investigating Camarena's death have compiled the most extensive. detailed report on Mexican corruption in history, as far as I know,"

Endometriosis And Female Fertility

was diagnosed as having endometriosis. The gynecologist told her there were worse things in life than not being able to have kids. What exactly is endometriosis, and how does it affect fertility?

DEAR READER - Endometriosis is a disorder that has been estimated to affect 15 percent of women. It consists of an area of uterine lining that grows outside the uterus. These endometrial "islands" can be found on the uterine surface and elsewhere in the reproductive tract, as well as in scars, the bowel wall, the lung and even the brain. No one knows what causes this abnormality.

The symptoms depend on which organ is involved, because endometrial tissue outside the uterus follows the same bleeding cycle as endometrium within the uterine cavity: monthly pain, abdominal soreness, intestinal blockage and infertility often occur. As the misplaced endometrium bleeds month after month, it causes cysts that may have to be surgically removed.

With time, women may outgrow endometriosis. Pregnancy seems to correct the problem in some women; in others, the use of birth-control pills may alleviate the symptoms. In its mildest form, it can cause excessive menstrual cramps and heavy monthly periods.

I think it would be difficult to judge whether a young woman like your daughter is infertile because of endometriosis. She might respond to treatment with contraceptive pills, or she might be helped by surgical removal of the out-of-place tissue. In any case, I believe that she needs a second opinion. There may be worse things in life than not being able to become pregnant, but it seems to me that such a comment by a gynecologist is very insensitive.

DEAR DR. GOTT — I have had a tubal pregnancy and a miscarriage within a year of each other. My doctor says my next pregnancy has a 75 percent chance of being another tubal. I'm 21

DEAR DR. GOTT — Four and would like to know what years ago, my daughter, then 21. could have caused these problems.

DEAR READER - There is no single cause for tubal pregnancy. Some women seem to be particularly prone to this condition. I think that you should ask your gynecologist/obstetrician about the possible causes in your case.

demon on percentages in the play, this deal is just for you. How would you play three notrump?

South thought he knew the answer. He took the first heart with the king in his hand, cashed the K-Q of diamonds and then played a low spade. The defenders quickly continued hearts. When the ace of diamonds failed to bring down both remaining diamonds, declarer tried the A-K of spades. That suit also failed to break, and the game contract now

If the diamond suit in dummy had been stronger, like A-10-9-8, anyone would know that declarer should overtake the second honor with dummy's ace you consider yourself a and force out the jack. That would guarantee the contract. But even with the actual holding, that is still the best play. It is true that you give up some overtricks when diamonds are split 3-3. It is also true that when diamonds are divided 4-2, it is likely that either the jack or the 10 will be doubleton. You will also win on some occasions when the jack or 10 is singleton in an opponent's hand.

What if you overtake the second diamond in dummy and neither the jack nor the 10 has appeared? At this point, those two remaining cards should be split 52 percent of the time, so it's still best to continue with the third round of diamonds.
