

Scuttlebut, Not Facts Fly On Welfare

The name of the new college in Seminole County will be called (hold your breaths) . . . Seminole County Junior College. This might be a bright day after all.

A CONVERSATION WITH STATE REP. MACK CLEVELAND JR.

Reporter: How about this fingerprinting of all school teachers?

Cleveland: I'm in favor of it.

Reporter: Yes, but doesn't it infringe on a person's constitutional right?

Cleveland: I don't think so. I think it will weed out the undesirable.

Reporter: Looks like an un-called for abuse to me.

Cleveland: Not if we can get rid of undesirables.

Reporters: We all have skeletons in our closets.

Cleveland: Depends on the size of the skeleton.

OUT-OF-THE-PAST DEPARTMENT — Last year the Mayfair Hotel in Sanford had its assessment raised $35,000 while property in Oviedo was dropped. At the last board of equalization hearing, commissioners lowered some of the assessments at the hotel overriding Tax Assessor Mary Earle Walker.

THOUGHT FOR THE DAY. You would think the land values in the Oviedo-Geneva-Chulucota area would go up because of the direct run to the coast instead of down . . . Values in Sanford keep climbing.

Members of the Westside Grammar School P-T-O are doing something about the condition of their school instead of just grumbling to School Board members. A special spaghetti dinner will be held at the school Friday night between 5 and 7 p. m. to raise money for needed school improvements.

We have another lawyer in town. Thomas A. Speer, son of George A. Speer Jr. passed his bar exam this week. Congratulations.

Why is it that with all these hundreds of youngsters in the City Recreation Dept.'s baseball leagues we can't get reports on the games, line scores, highlights?

Ooops! Dir. Jim Jernigan says the scores are at fault. . . Don't turn in the scorebooks or any reports . . .

Well, it's a good youth activity anyway — but more folks should be told about it . . . Through the columns of your favorite newspaper, the Herald, of course.

Pity the folks around the high school area — all that smoke from the woods and muck fire southeast of Loch Arbor section. . . Looked bad for some of those homes in its vicinity on Monday night.

C of C members riding from Langwood to Sanford passed an uncovered trash truck with scrap paper flying higher and yon . . . Mostly hither . . . Sign: $100 fine for throwing trash on the highway. . . Comment: "That man — if they catch him — plans to get his $100 worth — he's scattered the trash for a whole mile." . . . More comment: Yes, and went around gathering the stuff into a truck to be sure he'd have enough to get that "money's worth."

Judge Vernon Mize wants it understood that he didn't nod his head when I questioned him if he regretted ordering mandatory jail sentences for DWIs.

"I shook it" said the judge. . . Plan now to have a "look-see" at the Seminole High gridiron practice tussles on Friday night . . . You'll know more about how the Warriors are apt to shape up next fall . . . The coaches plan to size up about 70 hopefuls — and YOU may, too.

(This is the second article on the welfare services in Seminole County. Another will appear Thursday. The first of this series dealt with the County Welfare. This and the article to follow will concern the operations of the State Welfare office in Seminole County.)

There are rumors and rumors going the rounds in the county about the flagrant abuses of welfare funds, the lack of adequate field work done by the state welfare staff in Seminole County, the big checks and the number of them received by neighbors, "the woman that lives in the middle of the block," "the old man in the corner house," and so on, but when the chips are down and direct questions asked everybody backs off.

One lady told this paper about a woman that gets several state checks a month, lives in a very fine part of Sanford in a $15,000 house and "has it better now than she ever had it before. They sure eat high on the hog, now." But when asked for names and addresses, it was just what she heard from the neighbors, and there were no names and addresses forthcoming.

But, according to Mrs. Camilla Ray, the able and articulate director of the state welfare office in Seminole County, this sort of thing is the unhappy lot of any agency vested with the responsibility of authorizing the expenditure of state funds.

To get an overall picture of the modus operandi of state welfare program the questioner must read Title XXVIII, (28) of the Florida Statutes which outlines in detail the operation of the program.

The figures for the month of April this year show the local office authorized an expenditure of 67,087 for assistance in the four categories of Old Age Assistance, Aid to the Blind, Aid to the Disabled and Aid to Dependent Children. The average grant in each category was as follows: Old Age, $45.08; the Blind, $57.82; the Disabled, $55.37; and the grant per child under the ADC was $20.13.

With a total staff of only nine professionally trained social service workers, the 2,163 persons assisted meant that there was a case load of over 240 persons per worker. Those that complain about the lack of field work done "should try it sometime," as one of the staff put it.

The county is divided into separate beats, covered by the staff in their particular field of work. One detail that makes it difficult for the field personnel is the fact that they must own their own cars and are restricted as to the number of miles they can travel and get paid for their mileage. If a worker has used up her quota of miles for the day and at night has to make an emergency call in some far corner of the county, that is done at her own expense.

The technicalities involved in State Welfare administration are many and varied. One of the most troublesome is the fact that the state mails out checks and the money is spent at the discretion of the recipient.

This sometimes brings abuse down on the local office, but that is the only way the law prescribes for the operation.

There are teeth in the law, though, which outline a program of commitment which requires court action and takes time and money. Mrs. Ray feels that if she can keep the expenses down for the office the taxpayers are better off than if there is a continuing effort to have the elderly that tend to make ill-advised purchases committed to an institution on grounds of senility.

Another aspect of the law which guards the public is the liability of those giving false

Information in order to get on the relief roll. In this case the applicant or his guardian can be charged under the fraud statutes of the Florida law.

"Many people don't seem to realize that our operation is circumscribed by very strict regulations imposed by the legislation authorizing the welfare program," said Mrs. Ray. "But under the law we do everything we can to meet the needs of the indigent, and those that cannot help themselves. And we are glad to do it."

45 On Board Killed In Jetliner Disaster

CENTERVILLE, 10 w a (UPI)—A Continental Airlines jetliner disintegrated and crashed during a violent electrical storm Tuesday night. All 45 persons aboard were killed.

One of the 37 passengers aboard the Chicago-to-Los Angeles jet was found alive in the wreckage today, nearly eight hours after the crash. But he died an hour later in a hospital.

The big Boeing 707 plummeted from the stormy skies and its wreckage was scattered over a 25-mile area in southern Iowa and northern Missouri.

It was the first fatal crack-up in Continental's 23-year history, marring commercial aviation's most perfect safety record. It was the third crash of a 707 since they went into service in 1958.

The "Golden Jet" was cruising at 39,000 feet and was 25 minutes from a stop at Kansas City when it crashed.

The first clue to the plane's fate was two pieces of metal found on a highway by a passing motorist.

Seven hundred searchers followed a 10-mile trail of debris stretching across the Missouri border to the biggest piece of wreckage—the rear section of the fuselage.

Inside were the bodies of 41 of the victims. The three other bodies were found from 1 to 1 1/2 miles away.

The ground party heard a moan inside the fuselage and found Takehiko Nakano, a passenger, still alive.

Nakano, 27, a service engineer for Electronic Microscopes, had been in the United States about a year and a half. He worked out of Evanston, Ill., installing and servicing microscopes in a 19 state area.

Nakano was rushed from the tiny valley where the fuselage crashed to a hospital at Centerville, where he died.

The FBI sent its special "disaster squad" from Washington to examine the crash wreckage. Thomas J. Gearty, FBI agent in charge at Omaha, Neb., said "disaster squads" are not usually assigned to airline crashes unless the airline requests it.

FBI agent W. M. Felt said "no comment" when asked whether there were any indications that an unnatural factor could be involved in the crash.

REAR ADM. W. A. Stuart, commander Fleet Air Whidbey was at NAS Monday and Tuesday for a briefing of ASJ training facilities. Welcoming the admiral is Capt. J. M. Tully, commander Heavy Attack Wing One.

Court Refuses To Review Fire Suit

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Supreme Court today refused to review a damage suit in which a home owner in the town of North Bay Village near Miami, sought a claim against the city because an improperly equipped fire truck was sent to his burning house.

Milton Steinhardt said when his house caught fire May 13, 1960, the truck dispatched to the blaze did not have enough water in its tanks to fight the fire because the water had been used for watering lawns that afternoon.

Anti-Franco Forces Gain

MADRID (UPI)—Underground opposition groups called today for a united front of all anti-Franco groups in support of 80,000 workers out on strike.

Giants 'Unhappy' Over Golf Course Lease

The San Francisco Giant Organization is seeking strict control over the golf course during the Mayfair Hotel season, the Herald learned today.

City Manager W. E. Knowles reported that the Giants will ask the City during the next commission meeting for a proposed revision of the 99-year-old lease between the organization and the city.

Knowles said that the Giants are seeking a "more liberalized" lease agreement concerning regulating the play of golfers at the course during the hotel season.

Attorney for the National Exhibition Enterprises, Mack Cleveland Jr. reported today that the Giants are not satisfied with the language in the existing lease and "it is not completely clear."

"We just want to eliminate some of the vague innuendoes in the lease," Cleveland didn't elaborate.

Apparently some of the guests at the hotel are unhappy about waiting to tee off at the club. They feel they should have preference over some of the local golfers.

Higginbotham's Anger Up

City Commissioner Earl Higginbotham today said that the Giants have failed to live up to their part of the lease agreement with the city regarding the golf course.

Higginbotham, when learning of the Giants' planned move next Monday on asking for a lease revision, said that the organization promised they were going to make the clubhouse into a modern time facility. "This they have not done," he added.

But prosecutor Andre Gavalda also expressed hope at the end of a long final address to the special high tribunal trying Salan for treason that mercy would be shown to France's most-decorated soldier.

Presumably, he was referring to the possibility that President Charles de Gaulle would commute any death sentence.

New Williams Trial Asked

TALLAHASSEE (UPI)—The Supreme Court today ordered a new trial for James A. Williams, who was sentenced to the electric chair for killing a Pinellas County grocery store clerk.

Williams was found guilty, without recommendation of mercy, of killing Herman Kaplan during a holdup at the H & K Market in St. Petersburg.

FRANKLIN, Tex. (UPI)—A preliminary report by a pathologist indicated today that Henry H. Marshall, 62, the agriculture official who first began checking farm financier Billie Sol Estes' business deals, was murdered.

Dr. Joseph Jachimczyk, the pathologist who is directing the autopsy on Marshall's body, said it appears he was shot once in the back and four times from the front.

Manley Jones, a funeral director who had suspected murder instead of the official verdict of suicide when Marshall was found dead in a field last June 3, said there was evidence of other injuries.

"There were indications that there had been quite a struggle," Jones said. "This had not been brought to light. There were wounds like blows from something . . . there were indications of body and facial lesions."

"There is no doubt in my mind that Henry Marshall was murdered."

Carpenter's Split Countdown Begins

CAPE CANAVERAL (UPI)—Launch crews today completed the first phase of the split-countdown for astronaut Scott Carpenter's three-orbit space flight Thursday.

The space agency said the critical countdown will be resumed at 11:30 p. m. after a final "go-no go" conference by top technical experts this evening.

However, officials conceded that despite smooth-flowing technical preparations, smoke from forest and swamp fires in Florida "was thicker than we had expected" at the launch area this morning.

"A large forest fire across the Indian River from Cape Canaveral is almost directly upstream of the predicted wind" for the day of the shot, meaning the smoke will be blown directly toward Carpenter's launching pad, a spokesman said.

"Today, the pad could not be seen from the beach vantage points although it is normally within easy view. Officials said the smoke haze would probably not interfere with the high altitude tracking cameras if the same conditions prevail Thursday.

"We still have at least a 60-40 chance of getting the shot right off," one official said.

The first phase of the countdown started at 2 a. m. and was completed about 3 1/2 hours later. Sources said it amounted to a critical double-check to "make sure everything was in flight configuration — with every nozzle and switch set just right for the flight."

Carpenter will follow the space trail blazed by astronaut John H. Glenn Jr., last Feb. 20.

Foreign Aid Bill Faces Heavy Ax

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House Foreign Affairs Committee today voted a 20 per cent cut of $600 million in President Kennedy's "Alliance for Progress" aid program for Latin America.

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Kennedy's foreign aid bill, approved by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee with only modest cuts, today faced a heavier ax in the House.

The Senate group approved a $4,962,000,000 bill Tuesday by a vote of 14 to 3. This was the first time since the Kennedy program was requested for the fiscal year starting July 1.

The House Foreign Affairs Committee, working on the measure behind closed doors, was expected today to cut $600 million from the proposed $5 billion four-year authorization for Alliance for Progress Aid to Latin America.

However, the President would get the same amount he requested for the first year—$600 million, of which only $100 million could be used for development grants. The remainder would be set aside for loans to the 20 American republics.

Kennedy wanted an average of $600 million annually in the last three years of the authorization, but this figure would be dropped to $500 million with a requirement that all be used for repayable loans.

Senate Probers Check Lobbyist

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Senate investigators today delved into testimony about a mining company lobbyist who allegedly built an information pipeline high into the Eisenhower administration.

A Senate armed services subcommittee planned to explore further the activities of Wellwood H. Maxwell, lobbyist for the Calumet & Hecla Co., which made a reported $5.7 million in government stockpile transactions.

According to testimony Tuesday: Maxwell knew what was on the agenda of the Cabinet-level Defense Mobilization Board.

He was shown copies of internal government correspondence involving his Chicago-based company.

Classes utilize the most effective management methods currently being used by outstanding automobile dealerships. Mr. Brock said the Institute combines the latest teaching techniques with a wide variety of audio-visual equipment in all schools of the programs. Group participation in simulated selling or management situations is a primary part of each course.

Weapons Galore In De Gaulle Plot

PARIS (UPI) — Weapons found in the possession of the 15 Secret Army "commandos" who were planning to kill President Charles de Gaulle included a bazooka and a quantity of dynamite, police sources said today.

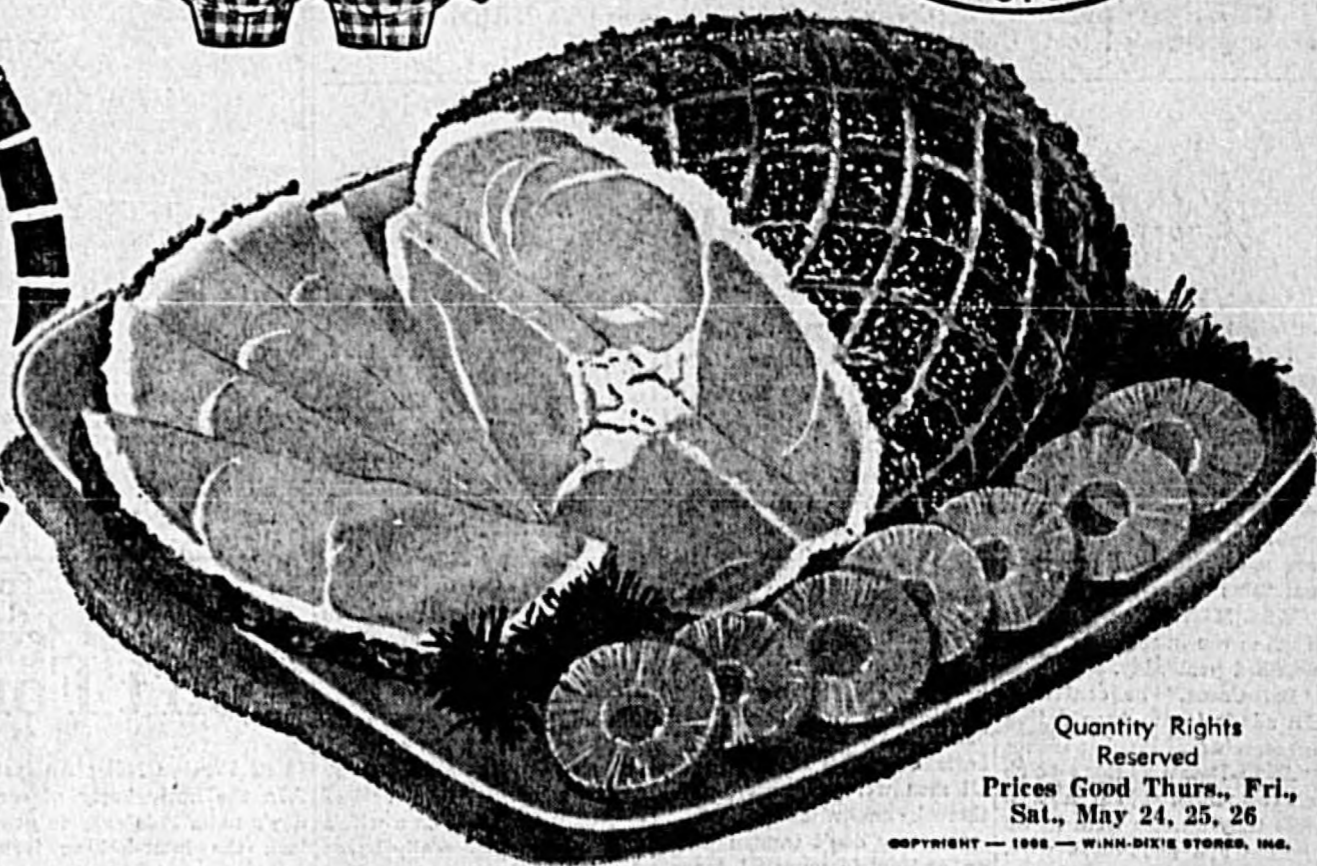

A rifle with a telescopic sight and a silencer, several revolvers, bazooka ammunition and other rockets, acid detonators for high explosive and plastic explosive of the type used by the OAS for its terror bombs also were found by security police in a Paris apartment rented by a member of the gang.

Library Needs 'A Must'

We in Sanford and Beninole County are fortunate to have such energetic and vital clubs and organizations in the area.

As soon as there is a need in the county, one organization or another comes forward with some needed help.

Take the case of the Business and Professional Women's Club a few months ago . . . There was a dire need for equipment for the county health unit — within a matter of months these women raised the necessary capital and the x-ray machine was installed.

We now have another problem that is close to our hearts and that is the need for more books in the Sanford Library.

Only a few thousands of dollars are appropriated to the city library from our governing body every year.

It looks like even less will be appropriated this coming fiscal year.

So what can we do to boost our library? Not much unless we get a community effort going to supplement the city budget.

We read with interest in the Martinsville, Va. paper that the professional and business club there, as well as other clubs have aided a new memorial library to the tune of $180,000. A massive campaign was started and thus far they have reached 40 percent of their goal.

Why can't we do it here?

We appeal to our local clubs and organizations to give it some careful consideration.

It is your library . . . If the city won't help then let's MAKE IT OUR PROJECT.

Dr. Crane's

Worry Clinic

Larry's story certainly is different from that of his wife Beth. He read both of them and then set as the impartial "jury." Larry is correct in saying most men don't propose marriage just to get a good cook, laundress and baby sitter. So wake up! And be sure you are not guilty of those sexual "sins of omission."

CABE M-426; Larry G., aged 39, is the husband of Beth, described yesterday.

"Dr. Crane," he confessed, "I'll admit I have been dating my secretary."

"And Beth's bridge club gals all think I am a heel while they console Beth as an innocent and mistreated wife."

"But there are two sides to this problem. Beth is a splendid cook and housekeeper."

"And she has been an excellent mother to our children. But she is a dud as a sweetheart."

"She seems to think if she feeds me an extra 500 calories in apple pie and other dining room delicacies, that I should then snore contentedly till morning in my twin bed.

"But I'll be doggone if I am going to resign myself of senility at the youthful age of 39."

"Although I have tried to reason with her and coax her into being more romantic, she always protests 'I'm too tired!'"

"Well, Dr. Crane, I didn't marry Beth just to get a cook or laundress or even a nursemaid for my children."

"And I am sure most husbands marry because of their basic sweethearts. For if all men were eunuchs, would there be many marriages?"

"So why don't women wake up, at least in educated America and get wise to the facts of male psychology?"

"I still would prefer to have an affair with Beth in preference to my secretary—IF, she'd quit being so stodgy and maternal and fat!"

"But she'd rather sob out her pitiful tale of abuse and then get sympathy from her women's club members, than go on a diet and really solve the problem."

"Dr. Crane, I may be wrong but it's my guess that a lot of wives who consult your Marriage Counselors and psychiatrists, use you as an easy way out."

"They are too lazy to face the music and fight fire with fire."

"My wife often would protest at your frank cases showing wives how to prevent divorce and she'd say you didn't know what you were talking about."

"But now that she is scared lest I get a divorce, she runs to you in panic, for she basically realizes that you have been telling wives the truth all these years."

"I have read your column in the Phoenix Republic. In fact, I've often clipped it out and laid it beside her plate."

"She'd then get angry and argue that you didn't know the true psychology of women any more than I did."

"So why does she turn to you when the chips are down and she is panicky lest we get a divorce?"

"It's because she knew all along that you were correct but she hated to admit she was in error."

"And your stress on a wife's 'sins of omission' really burns them, for they want to feel 100% innocent of any marital mistakes in order to win the saccharine sympathy of all their girl friends."

"If fat wives would diet and tune in on an ardent husband's wave length so they would at least feign some ardor, I'll bet there would be less than 5% divorces in America, don't you agree?"

"Wives, send for the booklet 'How to Prevent Platonic Marriages,' enclosing a stamped return envelope, plus 20 cents. Larry is typical of men!"

(Always write to Dr. Crane in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long 4 cent, stamped addressed envelope and 20 cents to cover typing and printing costs when you send for one of his booklets.)

Phil Newsom Says . . .

Don't Forget British In Crisis

UPI Foreign News Analyst

In the hurly burly of each day's news it is easy to overlook the interlocking influences of seemingly widely separated events.

Thus, Great Britain's attitude toward Berlin can influence West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's feelings toward Britain's entry into the common market as desired both by Prime Minister Harold Macmillan's government and the United States.

At the moment, the United States and Britain exchange certain information on nuclear projects, a courtesy not afforded France by either nation and a constant source of irritation to Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

Last week, De Gaulle toured the French boudoirs, picking special emphasis on what he expects to be France's new role in the leadership of a third force standing between the Anglo-Saxons of the United States and Britain and the Russians.

The implication was that De Gaulle himself felt little enthusiasm toward Britain's entry into the continent through the common market and that his price might be high.

There was speculation that in the forthcoming meeting between De Gaulle and Macmillan, a part of the price might be British agreement to exchange nuclear information with France which presently is involved in the expensive business of developing its own nuclear force.

This in turn would involve revision of the United States' own defensive policies.

On the other hand, British failure to win entry into the common market also would upset Washington's plans for an Atlantic community joined instead of divided by the expanse of water in between.

Such an arrangement would see Britain joined with the six nations of the European Economic Community and the United States and Canada closely tied in through special trade and other agreements.

Taken together, the scope of this march of events was worldwide but only indirectly involved in the battle against communism.

De Gaulle, proclaiming a "Europe from the Atlantic to the Urals," spoke from a pin-nacle viewpoint of history.

So did Nikita Khrushchev when, confidently foreseeing an Allied split, he predicted, "We will bury you."

He recognized at the time that, "We dare not tempt them with weakness." United States defense forces were therefore built up.

The President also recognized realistically that co-operation with the Russians "will not be finished in the first 100 days, the first 1,000 days, nor in the lifetime of this administration, nor in our lifetime on this planet."

"But," he urged again, "Let us begin."

On the positive side, it is now pointed out that there is a new cultural exchange agreement with the Russians. Talks on co-operation in outer space have been started. The deadline on settlement of the Berlin crisis has been removed.

President Kennedy and Chairman Khrushchev agreed in their first and only meeting, in Vienna a year ago, that there should be a neutralist Laos under a coalition government of Communist, anti-Communist and neutralist elements.

This was presented as the only solution avoiding a war that the West could not win because the Laotian people did not have the will to fight for their own freedom.

(Recognition of the necessity for a cease-fire and creation of a coalition Laotian government was reaffirmed by Soviet Amb. Anatoly Dobrynin in a conference with Secretary Rusk on the same day President Kennedy announced the Thai buildup.)

Administration critics, remembering the futility of trying to set up a coalition government of Communists and Nationalists in mainland China after World War II, predicted there would be no better luck in Laos.

Still the administration went ahead on its policy. It even withdrew American aid for the loyalist government, the only anti-Communist element in Laos, to force it into a coalition it had fortitude enough to oppose.

One of the greatest mysteries in American policy toward Laos is that it had the Political Notebook

WASHINGTON (NEA) — President Kennedy's inaugural address appeal to the Soviet Union "to begin anew the quest for peace" is under serious challenge today as a result of Russian obstructions on nearly every front since January 1961.

In Laos, efforts to set up a neutralist government have been thwarted by repeated violations of a cease-fire agreement. Russia, Red China and North Viet Nam have used the period to supply and build up Pathet Lao forces for a drive to take over the whole country.

While there is still hope in high State Department and Pentagon circles that Laos may yet be saved, a setback there would be worse than any the Kennedy administration has sustained since Cuba. This would point up only too clearly the hopelessness of ever trying to co-operate with Communists.

Other examples include the southwest Pacific, where United States efforts to find a peaceful solution for the Netherlands-Indonesia dispute over western New Guinea is endangered by President Sukarno's appeal to Russia for arms.

Similarly, it is to Russia that India is reported looking for arms aid to build up its frontier forces.

American efforts to negotiate with the Russians on Berlin are received by West Germany's President Heinrich Lübke with the comment, "Let a thaw in the cold war begin in Soviet-ruled Germany." Intimating that the Western powers have already yielded enough or too much.

At Geneva, the talks on disarmament and a nuclear test ban go round in circles without getting anyplace.

Sixteen months ago, however, when the President took his oath of office, he was full of high hopes that this new approach to the Russians would bring results.

He recognized at the time that, "We dare not tempt support of Assistant Secretary of State for Southeast Asia, ex-Gov. Averell Harriman. As wartime ambassador to Moscow, he was one of the first Americans to recognize that co-operation and collaboration with the Communists were impossible.

The only explanation given for Harriman's support of the Kennedy policy on Laos was that the President wanted a peaceful solution of the Laotian problem. As his roving ambassador to Laos in 1961, Harriman gave it his best try.

Air Conditioned Schools Can Be Cheap Too

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Air-conditioned schools can be built as cheaply as ones without air conditioning, a State Department of Education official says.

Writing in the school bulletin, C. W. McGuffey, assistant director for school plant administration, said air conditioned schools could be built more compactly than those without. In the air conditioned school, glass area can be reduced, ceilings lowered, and much exterior wall eliminated, he said.

The first air conditioned public school in Florida was occupied less than a year and one half ago. Today, more than a dozen schools are either in use, under construction or on the drawing boards.

Optimistic!

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Administration officials were optimistic today that the Senate would accept a new compromise version of President Kennedy's plan to cut costly farm surpluses with tough crop controls.

Chickens were domesticated in southeastern Asia perhaps as recently as 1300 B.C., according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

The Everlasting Riddle

By Holmes Alexander

CAIRO, Egypt—We had an air alert upon my arrival in this ancient city of strife—not entirely a warlike exercise just for practice, either.

The best word among such objective observers as exist here is that a serious game of call-your-bluff is taking place between this country and Israel.

It is believed that the Egyptians have received from Russia some air-to-air rockets and some anti-aircraft weapons. In order to draw fire and find out for certain what President Nasser has wrangled from Khrushchev, the Israeli have flown several provocative flights across the Suez Canal and at least one unreported flight over this capital city.

The Egyptians have not yet opened fire, but from their viewpoint they have reason to be worried. Persons inside the United Arab Republic tell me that the Israeli fighter planes (French-made) can outgun the Egyptian planes (Russian-made). Although both sides claim to be non-aggressive and defensive, neither of the blood enemies would dare fall into an obviously inferior position.

This is pistol poker on a lesser scale than the game which the USA and USSR are playing, with their nuclear tests and weapons. But it is the same game just the same, where neither side can afford to be caught with the smaller hand.

Meanwhile, there exists an exchange of perhaps six or so letters between President Kennedy and Nasser, another matter that has earned little coverage back home. But the all-knowing press fraternity of Cairo believes that Mr. Kennedy is offering everything-but-weapons to Nasser in return for some unknown quid pro quo.

Chester Bowles, the Administration giveaway man, has been here. So has George McGovern of Food For Peace. There followed a White House economist who asked for a detailed bill of particulars which the Egyptian government is still working out.

President Nasser's political position in the Middle East is delicate and peculiar. He has tried, and largely succeeded, in bringing off the revolution, which will be 10 years old this summer, with a minimum of bloodshed.

This is unusual in Middle East revolutions. Nasser's biographer, Robert St. John, has some credible explanations. He says that Nasser was deeply affected by the loss of his mother when he was nine, and that he has always feared death both for others and for himself.

St. John adds that Nasser, who carries a forehead scar from British police brutality, is not so much against terror for humanitarian reasons as for pragmatic reasons. He knows that one assassination can mean ten in reprisals, or that ten can mean a hundred.

Nasser also hopes to prevent bloodshed because he feels that in national socialism he has found the touch stone of political organization in the Middle East. Nasser has not materially improved the lot of his countrymen's fast-breeding, fast-dying, life-of-misery existence—but he has carried out routine business, such as running the Suez Canal, better than anybody believed possible. And he may have found a negative, but libtable, shadowland between the warring powers of the Western World and Communism.

Since he equates the West with thousands of years of British, French and Roman imperialism under corrupt and submissive Egyptian monarchs and aristocrats, Nasser will never fully outlive his distrust of our side. But he tries for a fine distinction between the theory and practice of the Reds. He writes:

"Under no circumstances are we against Marxism. We are, however, opposed to taking instructions from foreign countries . . . the Egyptian Communist party received instructions from Sofia and it takes its instructions from Bulgaria. How can I trust such persons . . . ?"

Fear of death and fear of tyranny are in their natural setting here. The pyramids, however impressive and romantic, are repulsive heaps, built with the blood and toll of thousands, as superstitious hedges against the death of kings, queens and royal progeny.

The mosques and citadels of Cairo have risen only because a terrible power to extract unwilling power to be misused by the irresponsible mightly upon the defenseless many. Nasser is now trying, with what effectiveness remains in question, to put all this land and water to the services of a long-suffering people.

After centuries of torment and privation, they deserve a break—but this visitor has seen nothing yet to predict that Nasser can provide it.

By JACK TRIM
Boaters around the area have been invited to join in Saturday and Sunday when the "Ponce DeLeon Navy" will be commissioned at Ponce DeLeon Springs.

This fun will be part of a program of events on the first of what Lee Norwood of the Springs says will be the annual Ponce DeLeon Springs Boaters Festival.

The joint will be jumping from 4 p. m. Saturday until 8 a. m. Sunday and again from 8:30 a. m. until 3 p. m. Sunday.

All boat clubs and individual boaters in Central Florida have been asked to take part in the festival, which Norwood says has tried to include something for all members of the family.

The calendar:
Skin and scuba diving treasure hunt for adults, teenagers and pre-teens will be held at 4 p. m. Saturday.

Dinner at the snack bar and Old Sugar Mill Pancake House, 5 to 7 p. m.
Commissioning of the Ponce DeLeon Navy and awarding of rank ribbons—commodore for men, chief petty officer for women and seaman apprentice for children at 8 p. m.

Dancing and singing for families will begin at 8:30 p. m. and there will be a mid-night swim.
There will be a non-sectarian worship service at 8:30 a. m. Sunday under Hangman's Oak and a fishing derby for the kids will start at 9:30 a. m.

Some athletic contests and a scuba diving exhibition will round out the morning and memberships in the St. Johns Anglers Congress will be awarded at lunch.

The "Falling Angels," DeLand's skydiving organization, will do some parachuting into the springs at 2 p. m.
Boat crews who missed the commissioning of the "navy" Saturday night will be issued rank ribbons at 3 p. m. Sunday.

Prizes will be awarded at the end of each event and the only charge for the festival is the regular 50 cent admission fee to the Springs for adults and 25 cents for children and this may be paid upon docking.

Anyone desiring overnight accommodations at the Inn may make reservations by calling Ponce DeLeon Springs, which has a special rate of only $3 per person.

There is one important note here for boaters—you can get into Ponce DeLeon Springs by boat without any difficulty by going in through Lake Woodruff, Norwood will send you a specially prepared chart of the area free if you request it. Just address inquiries to him at DeLeon Springs.

Four boatloads of Sanford Boat and Ski Club members are figuring on taking in the Sunday part of the festival and invite others to join them.
The Sanford club has limited its cruising activity so far this season because of low waters in scenic cruise areas, but expects to live up the river with some organized trips later.

"Right now, we're mostly meeting to pray for rain," one member of the club advised.

Three Guys Named Bob Pace Open Qualifying

By United Press International
Three guys named Bob—Shields of Quincy, Ill., Zimmerman of Dayton, Ohio, and Goets of Tulsa, Okla.—topped a field of 452 who passed first-round qualifying tests for the U. S. Open golf championship.

Shields led the more than 2,000 golfers shooting for the 452 berths on Monday when he carded a scintillating 65-66-129 at Springfield, Ill., while Zimmerman, a 31-year-old pro, shot a 68-68-183 at Cincinnati, Goets, a frequent performer on the pro tour, moved into the No. 3 spot Tuesday when he shot a 65-69-134 at Indianapolis to pace a field of 84 golfers at four sites who survived the first qualifying round.

It is estimated that falls account for about 37 per cent of the accidental deaths of farm people.

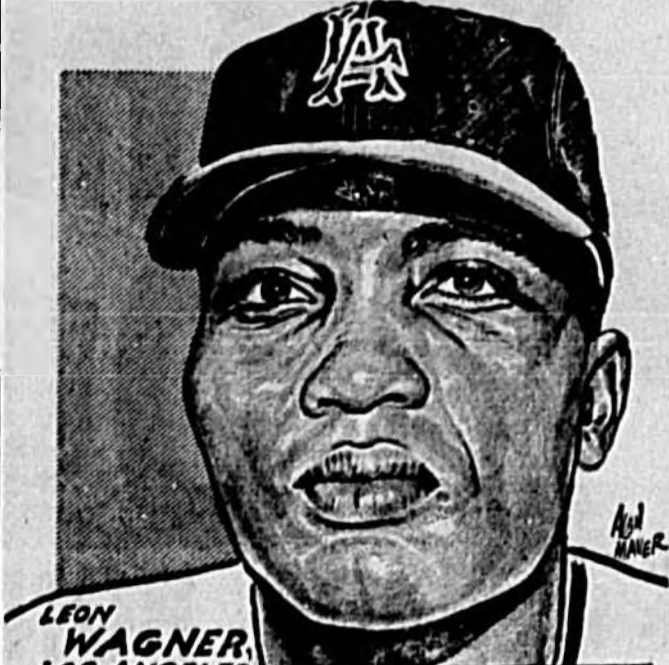

Crooms Captures State Baseball Title

At the beginning of the season it was predicted that this was Crooms' year, that the only obstacle prohibiting them from being state baseball champions was the time until the tournament itself. Well, the time for the state tournament started Friday afternoon, May 18, at Daytona, and the Panthers proved no body to be a bit too optimistic. They won the tournament and they did it the way champions do—with heads-up playing, but with heart as well.

Their opening game was Friday afternoon with Northwestern of Miami, whom they trounced 11-2. Northwestern, a supposedly highly ranked team, found themselves completely flabbergasted with Crooms' little right-hander Wesley Boston. Boston mized his pitches beautifully, allowing only one hit and striking out none. While he was doing this, Crooms deep led field, starting at three runs. Next came catcher Harry Boston, with two strikes against him also, Boston drove a 293 feet homer across the left field fence, driving in the tying and winning run. Although Crooms hitting in the game was scarce, pitcher Wesley Boston ne'er let up. The little workhouse pitched his heart out. It was his second win in as many days, and it would have been tragic to see him lose it.

After this hard-won victory, Crooms apparently found a new confidence. They had come from behind and eked out a seemingly impossible win. The only thing that kept them going was the heart and guts of a team that wanted desperately to win. It was evident that they believed nothing could stop them now. In the later afternoon, they met Middleton of Tampa, and with left-hander William Hartfield on the mound, they

Moore Proves Life-Saver To Red-Hot Minnesota

By United Press International
Ray Moore tells everyone he's 35, an out-and-out fib, but there's no getting around the fact that he's the man who is keeping those persistent Minnesota Twins moseying around the top of the American League.

The gray-haired, pipe-smoking Moore, closer to 40 than 35, has been pressed into relief in three of the Twins' last four games and has won two of them.

"Our rookies, like Rich Rollins and Bernie Allen, have done a tremendous job," says manager Sam Mele, "but Moore has been our real life-saver."

The veteran right-hander turned in another superb performance Tuesday night when he was credited with a 6-5 victory over the Washington Senators that moved the Twins into a virtual tie for first place with the New York Yankees.

Moore, who calls everyone else "Horse," centered out of the bullpen in the eighth inning with Washington runners on first and second and one out. He immediately induced Danny O'Connell and Chuck Cottier to pop up and then protected his one-run lead through the ninth.

Moore was Minnesota's fourth pitcher and actually came into the game with the Twins leading by one run. The official scorer awarded him the victory, his third of the season, because he felt Moore had been the most effective Minnesota hurler after starter Georges Maranda failed to survive the fifth.

The Twins broke a 2-2 tie in the third with a four-run rally highlighted by Bob Allison's two-run single. Lennie Green and Chuck Cottier hit

Higgins Paces C.P.O. Assault

By Ronnie Broadway

Billy Higgins collected a home run and a triple to pace the bat attack of C.P.O. as they romped over Kiwanis 9-0.
Steve Sawell and Mike Bowes also had triples for C.P.O. Higgins' home run came in the third inning and gave C.P.O. a 5-0 lead.

David Golloher was the winning pitcher while Ernie Baumeister suffered the loss. Other Junior League action saw Rotary down Lake Mary 8-5. Ralph Stumpf was the winning hurler and Tillis was the loser.

In Sanford Little League action, Yowell defeated Chase 9-4 as Benarik pitched a one-hitter for the winners. He also struck out 12 men in the winning effort. Maples was the losing pitcher.

Navy opened up a 7-0 lead in the first inning to bomb Florida State Bank with a 16 hit attack to coast to a 20-4 win. Rich held the Bankers to only one hit. Paulina was the loser. The game was called in the fourth inning.

Hemphill Motors picked up two victories in the City Softball loop by downing Nazarene 19-8 and Florida State Bank 14-9. In the first game the Hemphill team collected 25 hits off losing pitcher Etridge. Butler took the victory with the help of home runs by Stafford, Heach, and Yourshaw of the Hemphill team. Spivey homered for Nazarene. Butler once again took the victory in the Florida State game. Despite 16 hits by the Bankers to 11 for Hemphill, the Hemphill men came up with five runs in the final inning to clinch the win. Stafford and Heach once again homered for Hemphill, along with Butler. Freese and Underwood homered for Florida State. Nelson took the loss for the Bankers.

Other softball action saw Nazarene down First Methodist 10-17 with Etridge getting the win. Murrie was the losing pitcher. The Methodists picked up 11 runs in the final inning but this was not the amount needed. Carter, Etridge, Spivey, and Davis homered for Nazarene. There were a round trippers for the Methodists.

Council Asks Support In Foster Home Drive

Area Civic Clubs Aid Asked

Letters were mailed this week by Bill Thomas, president of the Juvenile Council, to the heads of all civic clubs, service organizations and social groups asking their support of the proposed plan to establish a foster home program for dependent children in Seminole County.

This plan is one that is presently in effect in some 20 counties throughout the state, and provides for emergency shelter care and long term foster care through funds appropriated by the County to the State Department of Public Welfare.

"This is a cooperative type program wherein the state provides the necessary social workers and their salaries and administrative expenses incidental to the program," Thomas said.

"Under this program the County would appropriate a lump sum yearly to provide for the actual care of children while they are in the foster home," he added.

"It is estimated that about $15,000 a year would be needed, based on the amounts being spent in other counties similar in population to Seminole County," Thomas said.

These funds would be used to provide foster home care for children in Seminole County who should not remain in their homes because of abuse or neglect, abandonment or because of incarceration or mental or physical illness on the part of one or both parents.

The Board of Directors of the Juvenile Council recently voted to offer the County Commission $1,000 toward the necessary appropriation for the foster home program.

The foster home program was proposed to the commission last year, but the request for funds to operate such a program was denied. The request will be made again this year, when the Commission holds their budget hearings in July.

Strong support for the program has already been promised by many of the larger civic clubs and organizations in the county.

Band Students, Majorettes Receive Yearly SHS Awards

Miss Joan Jones was named head majorette and annual Band Banquet and Concert held at Seminole High School Monday with over 250 students and parents in attendance.

Miss Jones was also awarded the trophy for having made the most outstanding progress in twirling. Ruthi Carlton, this year's head majorette, won the trophy for the school's most outstanding twirler.

Doug Griffith, cornetist, was named outstanding musician and Elmer Ewenel as the student making the most progress in music.

Bandmaster Ernest Cowley conducted the awards ceremonies and introduced the guests at the banquet, assisted by Jim Hunt, president of the Band Parents Assn.

Band Honors Announced At Final Concert

Bandmaster Ernest Cowley, speaking to the audience at the Seminole High Band Concert Monday said that the band was unique in the results of the state contest.

Results showed that out of 130 bands which competed the seven Seminole Band soloists were the only ones to take Superior ratings for every number they entered. No other school showed this 100 percent record, Cowley said.

The final concert by the entire band followed the annual banquet held at the school. Highlights of the presentation was the cornet solo by Norman Leach which won a Superior for him at State contest, entitled, "From the Shores of the Mighty Pacific."

Adult guest conductors included Peter Bukur, Junior High School Bandmaster and Intern Ray Lee Jr. from Stetson. Student conductors included band officers Sarah Priest, Jeanne Markham, Clyde Cline and Billy Bower.

ACL Plans To Buy New Cars

Atlantic Coast Line Railroad will add 300 new freight cars to its fleet, at a cost in excess of $45 million, it was announced today by W. Thomas Rice, ACL president.

The new cars will be of 70-ton capacity, with bodies structurally designed to handle heavy loads.

Rice said that they are of advanced design to provide maximum protection to contents. They will be equipped with long travel, sliding sill cushioning devices and damage free loaders.

"They will have roller bearings, which we have found to be the answer to the hot box problem," the railroad executive said. He pointed out that for many years Coast Line has had the largest fleet of roller bearing equipped freight cars in the world.

Commenting further, he said that the addition of these 300 cars to Coast Line's freight car fleet will greatly aid in supplying the ever increasing need for first-class freight equipment.

Delivery will begin in August.

Suit Filed Against Carter

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Jim Fair of Tampa filed a suit Monday asking the Supreme Court to remove Jerry Carter's name from the May 29 primary ballot as a candidate for re-election to the State Public Utilities Commission.

The secretary of state's office said ballots had been printed in most counties and absentee voting is already underway, so it probably would be impossible to remove Carter's name even if Fair's suit were successful.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: Two weeks ago I invited five girls, with whom I work, to my home for a barbecue supper. They all accepted, and arrived at 6:30 on the dot. I worked hard to prepare everything in advance—with all the trimmings. My house was spotless, and I was looking forward to a lovely evening. One girl bolted her supper, and left at 7, saying she had to play softball with her daughter. Another left at 7:30 to go bowling. The third girl left at 7:45 because she had a date with her fiance. The other two seemed embarrassed. Knowing they liked to sing, I opened the piano and tried to rescue the evening by playing while they sang. Very red-faced, one said her husband asked her not to stay late, so she left at 8:05, and the other one had to drive her home. My husband said not to let it bother me. Am I overly sensitive? HURT

DEAR MONTANA: Get rid of Bertha. One mule in the family is enough.

DEAR ABBY: I have looked in every cook book I could lay my hands on and I cannot find a recipe for plain old-fashioned butterscotch pudding. Doesn't a recipe exist? Don't tell me to make vanilla pudding and substitute brown sugar for white, because I've tried it and it doesn't work. And don't recommend that packaged powder stuff you add milk to. I want the kind my mother use to make from scratch. Can you help me? CRAVES BUTTERSCOTCH PUDDING

DEAR CRAVES: You need an old-fashioned cook book and I don't have one. If any of my readers has a recipe for butterscotch pudding (made from scratch) please send it to me as I am itching to help my reader. (And I'd like to try it myself.)

DEAR ABBY: What have you got against the cigaret industry anyway? C. W.

DEAR C. W.: I have nothing against the cigaret industry. But I have plenty against the big-name athletes who tell our young people how "mild," "satisfying" and "refreshing" a cigaret is. I think we should take up a collection for athletic stars who are so hungry for money that, for a few extra bucks, they will encourage young people to smoke, knowing that it undermines their health.

DEAR HURT: I have heard of one lemon in an office, but you must work in a grove. Your husband is right. Don't let it bother you. And don't bother to invite them again, either.

DEAR ABBY: I have a five-year-old mule named Bertha. She is a devoted animal and very affectionate. She follows me everywhere, nudges and pushes with her head and slobbers on my clothing. This makes my wife very angry. She says that either Bertha goes, or she does. Bertha is my best mule and brings in $635 a year. What should I do? MONTANA

Candy Childs Hostess At Twist Party

Miss Candy Childs was hostess for an outdoor twist party recently at her home, 102 Tangerine Drive, Ravenna Park.

Talented David Littleton was master of ceremonies and kept the discs spinning. Although only 16 years old, David has the poise and ability of a professional disc jockey. He dedicated one of the records, "You Ain't Nothing But A Hound Dog," to an uninvited guest hanging over the fence. The guest was "Patches," a friendly dog belonging to an attractive young lady next door.

The party almost had an early ending when Candy's mother insisted on playing an old record dug out of the closet. The guests all "bunny-hopped" down the driveway and into the street, but a quick change of records brought them all back.

Winner of the mashed potato contest was Georgia Carol Littleton and her partner, Jimmie Oxford.

Other guests enjoying the evening were Mary Klay, Susan Meeks, Linda Little, Richard Cohen, Gail Vaughn, Rob Besserer, Zeldia Spencer, Leroy Nopper, Janice Rahn, Ira Abramson, Patricia Gustavson, Janice Gainey and Chrissy Shadden.

Highlights TV Time Previews

7:30-8:30 p. m. NBC. Wagon Train. "The Frank Carter Story" It shouldn't be difficult to guess who the would-be killer is in this episode, but good characterizations will hold your interest. In his strongest part as Duke Shannon, Scott Miller assumes the identity of a missing son to keep a mother (Frances Reid) from going insane. He also fools the missing man's half-brother (Albert Salmi), but there's a mysterious sniper intent on killing Duke, either for his true or faked identity. Best acting honors go to Salmi, who is the plot's central figure.

8-8:30 p. m. CBS. Window on Main Street. Evidence that our Cameron Brooks (Robert Young) has more than casual affection for Miss Wyckoff (Loretta Young) is shown in this segment. Our new school teacher has a summer vacation and Brooks is not pleased when she decides to take a temporary job in New York. Pleasantly warm with underplayed humor.

8:30-9:30 p. m. CBS. Checkmate. "Will the Real Killer Please Stand Up?" The plot is an old one. Three brothers are about to receive equal shares of their deceased father's fortune, and stand to gain more if one of the three dies. It's rather suspenseful, with the action taking place on a moving train as our Checkmate hero (Anthony George, Sebastian Cabot and Doug McClure) try to stop a killing before the will is read. The prime suspect is one of the three brothers (Milton Selzer, Stefan Schnabel and Daniel Ocko), but there's a sister (Uka Windish) who could profit from a killing.

9-10 p. m. NBC. The Perry Como Show. Actress Anne Bancroft pays Perry a return call, again displaying her somewhat considerable vocal talents. Michigan is honored as state of the week. Don Adams, Kaye Ballard, Sandy Stewart, Jack Duffy and Paul Lynde are featured.

9:30-10 p. m. CBS. The Dick Van Dyke Show. (Rerun) Repeats of this show are as enjoyable as the original viewing. Tonight's chaos is caused by an out-of-town trip Rob must make, preventing him from seeing Ritchie in his school play. Rob is as popular as a case of measles with Laura and his son, Mary Tyler Moore. Larry Mathews, Peter Onorati and Rose Marie are featured.

School Boards Told Not To Delay Purchases

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The State Milk Commission notified county school boards today that by delaying purchases of school milk as long as possible in coming months they might save some money.

The commission has appealed a circuit court ruling throwing out the commission's set minimum prices on milk used in school contracts.

A circuit court judge ruled the commission could not force distributors to base their bid prices on the purchase of Class One fluid milk, which sells for 61 cents a gallon. Normally, milk purchased from producers for school contracts is paid for at considerable less than the 61 cent price.

Producers, who seek to keep their school contract milk prices up, have been urging the boards to take immediate steps to call for milk bids, which would assure them Class One prices.

But the commission said it was the agency's duty to inform the various county boards that a delay of some months in calling for milk bids could save money. The case has been appealed to the appellate court, and if the commission loses the appeal, distributors will be able to pay lower prices than the 61 cent a gallon minimum.

The commission said it did not recommend that the boards delay in calling for bids.

"That's their the board's business," said Chairman Charles O. Andrews. But it said it wanted the boards to know the status of the case to enable them to make their own decisions concerning new milk purchases.

Central Florida Square Dancers Meet Saturday

The annual election dance meeting of the Central Florida Square Dancers Assn. is scheduled to take place in Sanford Saturday night. Association President Harold Jenkins announced today.

The association is composed of 26 square dance clubs in nine counties and between 300 and 400 persons are expected to join the dance at the Civic Center at 8 p.m. They will be welcomed by Sanford Mayor J. H. Crapps and master of ceremonies for the occasion will be Caller Joe Curtis.

Jenkins also announced the National Square Dance convention which is slated for June 14 through 16 in Miami, with registrations already in from all over the United States, Europe, Alaska and Japan. More than 20,000 square dancers are expected and there will be a delegation from the Central Florida group.

First winter Olympic games ever held were staged at Chamonix, France, in 1924.
