SR 434, Lake Mary I-4 Interchanges To Be Improved

By Michael Beha
Herald Staff Writer

Improvements are planned within the next five years to Interstate 4 interchanges at Lake Mary Boulevard and State Road 434, according to tentative state Department of Transportation work programs.

Bill McKelvy of DOT's DeLand district office said preliminary engineering work is scheduled to begin on the two interchanges later this year.

Right-of-way acquisition is scheduled for 1985-86. Construction on the Lake Mary Boulevard interchange will begin in 1986. The SR 434 work will begin in 1987.

"We have included projects that the need has been identified for some time but the money has not been available," McKelvy said.

McKelvy said the 5-cent federal gasoline tax and the new 2.7-cent state tax are responsible for the state having more money to fund projects that weren't on DOT's timetable.

Work on the Lake Mary interchange will cost about $6.6 million while the SR 434 work will cost about $7.2 million, McKelvy said.

County Engineer Bill Bush said "the news is kind of exciting."

He was surprised to learn of the state plans. Bush, Lake Mary Mayor Walter Soerenson, Traffic Engineer Gary Lester and County Planner Woody Price had met earlier this week to discuss possible methods of spurring state funding for the Lake Mary interchange.

The Lake Mary interchange work will expand the bridge over I-4 to four lanes, McKelvy said. Other improvements will be included, he said, to meet the needs of increased growth expected in the Lake Mary area.

About 14,000 vehicles use the interchange daily, according to county traffic estimates. But plans are in the works for construction of a shopping mall and a five-story office building at the interchange and a 4,300-unit housing development will be built to the west of I-4.

"The need is not as immediate at Lake Mary Boulevard but growth in that area is expected to explode," he said.

McKelvy said the SR 434 project will entail construction of six lanes on the interstate from State Road 436 in Altamonte Springs and construction of various ramps and turning lanes to expedite traffic flow through the interchange.

An average of 52,000 vehicles use the intersection daily, according to county estimates.

"The need for six-laning has been recognized for a long time," McKelvy said.

Bush said the DOT plans are good news for county officials who have been trying to deal with growth problems.

He said the announcement came as a surprise, much like news of state plans to build an overpass interchange at SR 436 and Red Bug Lake Road. That project is scheduled for construction in 1986.

Shuttle Lands At Edwards

EDWARDS AIR FORCE BASE, Calif. (UPI) — America's first spaceman and her four male crewmates, unable to wait out bad weather in Florida, flew Challenger to another flawless desert landing today instead of making the first descent to Cape Canaveral.

The 102-ton space shuttle glided to a smooth touchdown at 9:57 a.m. EDT on a 5-mile-long clay runway after circling the Earth two extra times because of the wave-off from the cloud-shrouded Kennedy Space Center.

Robert Crippen, Frederick Hauck, Sally Ride, John Fabian and Norman Thagard returned from six highly successful days in space. They brought back the first satellite retrieved from orbit.

"I say once more, what a way to come to California!" said Crippen, who made the trip two years ago in the shuttle Columbia.

The astronauts, wearing identical blue flight suits, stepped out of Challenger 44 minutes after touchdown and were in high spirits, smiling and waving.

As media buses returned from the landing strip viewing site just before 7 a.m. today, above, the fog that put an end to hopes for a Kennedy Space Center landing for the shuttle still swirled around the top of the Vehicle Assembly

Building. Below, a sign in the Launch Complex 39 press building expressed the prevailing mood at the cape after the local landing was scrubbed.

Gas Tax Cities Group Set To Speak Out On Revenue

By Donna Estes
Herald Staff Writer

The Council of Local Governments in Seminole County is not only interested in double taxation, it is also interested in how the county will share with the cities the revenues from a proposed 4-cent per gallon gas tax.

With the possibility the double taxation issue has been diffused as a result of a meeting of the council's special committee with county representatives Wednesday, it is no longer necessary to call a special meeting of the council on that issue, the chairman said today.

Altamonte Springs City Commissioner Lee Constantine, chairman, was standing by to call a special session if a meeting of the minds could not be reached.

Constantine said the council at its regular meeting July 6 at the Altamonte Springs City Hall will hear a report on the work of the double taxation committee from Sanford City Manager W.E. "Pete" Knowles, committee chairman.

The members will also discuss the county's special option gas tax and the basis of distributing a portion of the revenues from that tax to the cities. The council will hear a report from Knowles on the fate of the council's legislative package. The council endorsed some proposed legislation and opposed other items.

Noting the city representatives on the council may have something to say at that meeting about distribution of the dollars resulting from a gas tax, Constantine added that those few city officials who supported the tax will balk at any attempt by the county to use the revenues to supplement their regular transportation budget.

He said the county should not expect the cities to stand by and let the county's public hearing on July 26 on the tax proposal proposal pass by unnoticed.

"They will let their opinions be known," Constantine said.

Under the first formula for distribution of revenues from a 4-cent county option gas tax discussed by County Commissioner Sandra Glenn with some of the county's cities, she said the majority of the commissioners favored giving the cities the revenues from 1 cent of the tax with the money split according to population.

Mrs. Glenn had said the county expects to receive about $850,000 in revenue from each cent of tax. If the revenue from that 1 cent was split among the cities on the basis of population, that $850,000 would be allocated each year as follows: $214,000 each to Sanford and Altamonte Springs; $139,000, Casselberry; $110,000, Winter Springs; $94,000, Longwood; $28,000, Oviedo and $27,000 Lake Mary.

The majority of elected officials in five of the county's seven cities oppose the tax. And now the county commission is considering sharing the revenues from the gas tax with the cities on the basis of what each city has spent on transportation during the past five years, compared with the amount spent by the county for transportation during the same period.

Constantine said today it is obvious that since the county already receives the revenues from the state from 4 cents of state gas that it has far more dollars to spend for transportation than the cities have.

Meanwhile, Knowles has written Mrs. Glenn a letter reminding that the state law requires the county to work out a distribution formula for the gas tax proceeds with the cities.

In the letter he tells Mrs. Glenn that when she met with him on the gas tax, she was proposing a 3-cent tax, rather than the 4 cents now being considered and that she said the distribution of the receipts would be on the basis of 1 cent to the cities, 1 cent to the unincorporated areas and 1 cent to the county.

At the time of the discussion, Knowles says in the letter the Sanford City Commission had already endorsed a 3-cent tax.

Mood At KSC: Disappointment

By Diane Petryk
Herald Staff Writer

Like an undulating snake, bumper to bumper cars of media personnel wound their way in early morning darkness today across the NASA causeway onto Cape Canaveral. But when they got to their objective they failed to be charmed.

The space shuttle Challenger was not to land at Kennedy Space Center.

During the night, thousands of newspaper, television and radio reporters, photographers, cameramen and technicians of all sorts arrived at the space center's media accommodation building. The "snake" of entering cars broke up into a parking lot that overflowed available paved spaces adjacent to the center's mammoth Vehicle Assembly Building which, floodlit, dominated the night landscape with its sheer size and the dramatic American flag and NASA symbol painted on its exterior.

From the VAB area, otherwise known as Launch Complex 39, dozens of buses took the reporters to the prepared viewing area, within sight, but not too near, the special shuttle runway.

At 4 a.m. some photographers and news crews had already been there, with their equipment set up, for hours. Some were asleep on the damp grass at the edge of a roped off area, with their set-up tripods staking out choice positions from which to see and photograph the landing. Probably enough tripods were on the scene to line the entire 15,000-foot runway if viewing had been set up lengthwise.

TV network crews had no worries about staking out good viewing spots. NBC, ABC and CBS each had second-story high wooden platforms built on the site. Each as brightly floodlit as the next, they appeared as platforms of rival gods wishing to make pronouncements for the mortals below.

For media personnel interested in more earthly pursuits, shuttle souvenirs were being sold in the parking lot. A refreshment van offered bitter coffee — self-serve — and junk food snacks.

Most of the newspaper press amused themselves by watching television reporters get their lighting right and rehearse their probable spiels.

The Albuquerque woman truck driver who cut a record of her song "Ride, Sally Ride" handed out free samples of the 33-rpm version to radio reporters.

Train Kills Man

Rescue workers view the scene where a Sanford man was killed Thursday night when he was struck by a freight train near the Amtrak station in Sanford. Florida Highway Patrol officers said Charlie Grooms, 55, of 304 W. 13th St. was struck by the train at about 11:30 p.m. According to the FHP, Grooms was in a pickup truck on McCracken Avenue near the train station when the train hit the truck. Grooms then got out of the vehicle, fell down on the track and was run over by the train, an FHP spokesman said. The spokesman refused to comment on the unusual circumstances of the accident. He said Grooms' death is being investigated as an accident and as a homicide by the FHP. Sanford Fire Department officials said Grooms had apparently driven for an unknown reason. They said Grooms was dragged several hundred feet by the train. An autopsy was performed on Grooms' body early today but officials in the Seminole County Medical Examiner's office said they could not release any information about the results.

From Justice Department

Crooms Merger Answer Near

A response to the Seminole County School Board's plan to merge Seminole and Crooms high schools is expected by the U.S. Department of Justice within two weeks, according to a spokesman for the department.

Burtis Dougherty said the Justice Department's review of the plans to merge the two schools should be finished and a response made to the U.S. District Court.

The department reviews all attendance zone plans in the district as the result of a 1970 desegregation order in federal court.

The 1970 plan established Crooms as a ninth grade center for students in the Seminole High attendance zone. Crooms had previously been the county's black high school.

The board voted in May to merge the two schools and the Justice Department has been reviewing the plans to determine if it follows the intent of the desegregation order.

The department can either file a consent agreement or point out its objections to the court, said Burtis Dougherty, a Justice Department official.

If the department agrees that the plan is acceptable, the district will be permitted to proceed. If the plan is found to violate the agreement, the district and Justice Department would have to work out a consent agreement.

But a black group has entered the fray, seeking intervention from a U.S. District Court judge.

The black group, headed by Willie King, president of the county's chapter of the NAACP, claims the Justice Department does not represent the interests of the black community.

The group has asked the court to reverse the board's decision and keep Crooms open. — Michael Beha

Sanford Picked For Auto-Ferry Train Depot

Sanford has definitely been chosen as the Florida terminal for Amtrak's Auto-Ferry service, which is scheduled to begin sometime toward the end of October, AMTRAK spokesperson Sue Martin said today.

Amtrak has also secured the use of old Auto-Train terminal in Lorton, Va., for its Washington, D.C., to Sanford route carrying passengers and their automobiles.

Ms. Martin said early this afternoon that there are still details to be pinned down, but an announcement about the starting date, reservations, fares and the schedule is expected to be made after the middle of July.

NATION IN BRIEF

House Limits Tax Cut; Now It's Up To The Senate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Democrat-controlled House bowed to its leaders' call for fairness and agreed to limit the July 1 tax cut to a maximum of $720 per family, but if senators listen to their leaders, the limit won't pass.

The proposal, originated by House Speaker Thomas O'Neill, was approved Thursday in the House, 220-191.

Throughout the debate, scores of Democrats argued it was only fair for the rich, who they said were the main beneficiaries of the Reagan tax program, to bear part of the burden of reducing the deficit.

The bill now goes to the Senate where Republican leader Howard Baker of Tennessee has vowed to fight it. If it squeaks through the GOP-dominated Senate next week, Reagan says he will veto it and there do not appear to be enough votes to override a veto.

Giving Back The Dead

MONTAGUE, Texas (UPI) — A 46-year-old man who killed his mother in 1960 and claims to have slain another 100 women in the eight years since his release from jail told a judge he wants to keep helping authorities solve the crimes.

Henry Lee Lucas, a slight, unshaven former mental patient, was ordered held in lieu of $1 million bond on one murder count Thursday during a hearing before Judge Frank Douthitt.

Lucas' court-appointed attorney, Don Maxfield of Wichita Falls, has sought to have his client stop giving law officers sketches and descriptions of the 100 or more women he claims to have killed, but Lucas told Douthitt he wanted to help.

"I'm gonna give back the dead that I took," Lucas said at the hearing.

U.S. Built Secret Base

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The United States built a secret base in Egypt to meet any crisis in the Persian Gulf and stationed 100 men and $70.4 million worth of equipment at the isolated installation known as "Site Mike," congressional testimony and high-level sources disclose.

The inland clandestine base was kept secret from Congress because Egypt warned the United States that public disclosure would force it to be shut down, the sources said Thursday. They declined to furnish the precise location of the base because of its secret classification.

The Pentagon declined comment.

NATIONAL REPORT: A heat wave from New England to California today kept up the pressure on rivers across the West, turning record winter snows into summer flood disasters. A dam collapse sent a wall of water through four Utah towns, routing a thousand people from their homes. Tourist business worth millions of dollars dried up along the Arizona-California line as the flooding Colorado pushed into homes and resorts and swimming and boating were banned. Further south in Mexico, officials began evacuations in riverside areas inhabited by 22,000 people. Federal officials said pressure on giant dams would keep the lower Colorado River at flood levels all summer. An earthen dam at Delta, Utah, 100 miles southwest of Salt Lake City, collapsed Thursday afternoon, releasing a wall of water that raised the Sevier River from 8 feet to 25 feet in depth. It wiped out several bridges, among them two on the main highway between central Nevada and Salt Lake City, and the Union Pacific Railroad bridge north of Delta. A thousand people in the towns of Deseret, Hinckley, Oasis and Sherwood Shores grabbed their possessions and fled on less than two hours notice. Volunteers raced to the stricken towns with trucks and tractors to help carry away furniture and remove mobile homes in the path of the flood. No deaths or injuries were reported. Snowmelt pouring water into the Colorado and the huge reservoirs along it strained the giant Glen Canyon and Hoover dams, forcing authorities to release high levels of water that flooded desert resorts downstream along the Arizona-California line.

New Budget Calls For Higher Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congressional leaders expect President Reagan to make good on his threats to veto spending and tax bills now that Congress has passed a $859 billion 1984 budget calling for higher taxes and a slower defense buildup.

The president does not sign a budget resolution, since it basically is a guideline for Congress, but he can veto the spending and tax bills later that are based on the numbers in the resolution.

The Senate and House Thursday adopted a compromise budget outline that, in addition to seeking higher taxes and slower defense growth, would pump more money than the president wants in non-defense domestic programs.

The spending plan projects a $179 billion deficit for the new fiscal year that begins Oct. 1. This year's deficit is estimated to be $208.6 billion.

—Defense spending would grow at a 5 percent real rate after accounting for inflation, rising from this year's level of $244.6 billion to $268.6 billion — a $24 billion increase. Reagan sought a 10 percent "real" increase or $280.2 billion, $11.6 billion more than the congressional budget plan.

—Non-defense domestic programs would get $22 billion more than Reagan wants, but $8.5 billion of that is for new recession-relief initiatives — such as mortgage foreclosure relief and a new jobs bill — that is in a reserve fund and would not be used unless Congress first authorizes the new programs.

Reagan's own 1984 budget proposal was rejected by Congress.

Congressional Power To Keep Agencies In Check Cut By Court

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A Supreme Court ruling telling Congress it may not use the legislative veto to eliminate federal regulations led to confusion on Capitol Hill over how far lawmakers may now go in limiting administration actions.

While no means in agreement, members of Congress and their lawyers said the ruling announced by the court Thursday could jeopardize Congress' power to block foreign arms sales, such as the hotly contested sale of Airborne Warning and Control System planes to Saudi Arabia, and the 1973 War Powers Act.

Constitution's provision for separation of powers, that prevents concentration of too much authority in one branch of government.

In settling the historic clash, the court sided with the administration and stripped Congress of the power to review, and nullify in some cases, administration actions. Instead, the court held, Congress must pass legislation or control spending to monitor Executive Branch actions.

Commenting on the ruling, Stanley Brand, lawyer for the House of Representatives, said, "Congress can no longer control the delegations it makes to executive agencies through this mechanism, and other such mechanisms are in serious doubt, including the war powers resolution, the budget control and impoundment act a virtually hundreds of others which are on the books."

The Vietnam-era War Powers Act allows Congress to force the president to recall troops sent abroad to participate in foreign hostilities short of a formal declaration of war.

Uncertainty over how the ruling affects such legislation led Sen. Charles Grassley, R-Iowa, chairman of a Senate Judiciary subcommittee, to immediately schedule hearings to assess the decision's impact.

The legislative veto enables Congress — acting through one or both houses — to nullify federal agency rules without passing legislation that must be signed by the president. It is written, in some form, into about 200 laws, involving energy, consumer product safety and labor issues.

Attorney General William French Smith said the Supreme Court's "strong and compelling" opinion means that "when Congress acts to legislate it must be through the affirmative votes of both Houses with the participation by the president through his approval or veto."

But, lamenting the "destructive scope" of the ruling, Justice Byron White dissented vigorously on grounds the ruling was the "death knell" for the laws with the veto provision, and scolded his colleagues for not leaving until later consideration of "the constitutionality of other congressional review statutes operating on such varied matters as war powers."

The Reagan administration had argued use of the veto provision was rewriting the Constitution to bypass the president's role and vesting all power in Congress.

Brand agreed that unless the high court takes some new cases to spell out what it means, White was right and the ruling was the "death knell" for the war powers act.

Six members of the high court found that congressional power to review executive branch actions violates the

Suspended SHS Dean Gets Teaching Job

A Seminole High School dean of students, suspended since March following her arrest on a shoplifting charge, has been assigned as a teacher at the district's Environmental Education Center near Winter Springs.

Jacqueline Champion Pearson, arrested in February for allegedly stealing $10 in merchandise from a grocery store in Sanford, was suspended with pay as dean of students at Seminole High.

She was spared jail and a fine and assigned to an alternative sentence program with the possibility of returning to school duties after completing the program.

Earlier this week, the School Board also approved the hiring of Dr. Hortense Evans, a district administrative trainee, as program director for a study of school-based management programs in Seminole County schools.

Mrs. Evans developed the district's application for $60,000 in state funds for the study. The study is designed to examine policies in the district and at the school level and map plans for implementation of a school-based management program (determining which school policies are best administered by individual schools and the district.)

The study is expected to continue until early in 1985.

The board also voted to approve a change order for General Roofing Inc. of Casselberry for work on Oviedo High School's roof.

Assistant Superintendent Benny Arnold had recommended not paying the $1,655 change order because it was turned in after the work had been done.

Greg Wallick, of GRI, told the board that an emergency condition arose when workers removed a portion of the school's roof. To keep the building watertight, work had to be done immediately, he said.

Arnold said Wallick had a problem with the architect on the project, the Cox Partnership.

But Cox's Steve Ashwell said his company was not part of the problem. He explained a sequence of events leading to the change order finally being submitted.

The board finally ruled that GRI was entitled to the money, voting 4-1 in favor of paying the extra money. Pat Telson cast the dissenting vote.

Automakers Report 71.4 Percent Sales Hike

DETROIT (UPI) — Cut-rate financing programs led domestic automakers to a 71.4 percent sales increase for mid-June, compared to a 1982 period that was one of the worst of the entire year.

Each of the companies Thursday reported a sales increase for the June 11-20 period and for the first 20 days of the month.

The automakers sold 203,423 cars during the middle 10 days, up 71.4 percent from 118,695 last year. The selling rate of 25,428 cars per day was the best since 1979.

The annual rate for the period was 7.3 million cars compared to 4.9 million during the period last year.

For the month, the automakers have sold 413,611 cars, up 41.5 percent from 292,341 in 1982. So far this year, 3,072,167 cars have been sold, up 10.7 percent from 2,775,835 last year.

Big Three sales alone for the period were up 73 percent. So far in June, the top three automakers' sales are up 41.1 percent. They are up 9.2 percent for the year to date.

Analysts credited the huge increase to low-interest financing programs and rebate plans which the firms did not offer at this time last year. They noted June was the worst month for the industry in 1982.

"A year ago, everybody dropped the incentives and the consumer rebelled," said independent analyst Arvid Jouppi. "We're measuring a euphoria versus a rebellion."

...Mood At Space Center: Disappointment

David Hartman, co-host of ABC's "Good Morning America" was on the scene with two young children — which embittered a lesser-known colleague who told NASA officials he was going to complain after "it had been drummed into us that no one under 16 would be allowed on the site."

Former astronaut Eugene Cernan, a member of the Gemini 9 and Apollo 10 and 17 missions, was on hand to comment for ABC.

On the bus from the vehicle assembly area to the landing strip viewing area, he was asked why they hadn't taken any women with them to the moon.

"We couldn't find any that were qualified," he said. "More likely," said his female companion from ABC, "they couldn't figure out how both sexes could go to the bathroom up there."

At about 8:30 a.m. cloud cover at the cape had failed to clear and optimism for a first Kennedy Space Center shuttle landing had disappeared.

It started to drizzle. At 6:35, NASA announced the landing would take place at Edwards Air Force Base in California.

Dampened in spirit as well as body, the hordes of somewhat sleepy media personnel, rebounded buses with the knowledge they had turned out in the middle of the night for a non-event.

Two members of a 3-man Japanese news team from Tokyo were nearly asleep at one of the long counter top desks.

Two reporters who entered the NASA photo display room were asked if they had photo badges. When they didn't know what photo badges were the woman behind the counter said: "Without one you can't look at the pictures and if you haven't got one you can't get one."

Some reporters, desperate for any type of story, were interviewing anyone who happened to be around who wasn't one of them — a foreign astronaut, the sister-in-law of an astronaut...

Some picked their way through NASA brochures. Some, who had flown in from California for the story, found out it was one of those days they should have stayed home.

...Cities To Discuss Gas Tax Revenue

"If the county does not now have a distribution formula, one should be worked out as required by the law," the Sanford city manager said, noting this has not been done with Sanford and perhaps none of the other cities to date.

Saying most of the communication from the county on the issue has been done via the news media, Knowles asked Mrs. Glenn if it might be well to come out with a definite idea and distribution formula.

Lake Mary Mayor Walter Sorenson agrees with the thrust of Knowles' letter that his city has not been approached with a proposal for distribution of the gasoline tax revenues. When she visited Lake Mary she asked the city officials whether they favored a 4-cent tax, stating that revenues from 1 cent would be split among the cities on the basis of population, Sorenson said.

Government Wants Draft Law In Place July 1

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The government wants the Supreme Court to help it put into effect on July 1 a new law denying federal financial aid to students who fail to register for military service.

In papers filed Thursday, government lawyers asked Justice Harry Blackmun to overturn an injunction against the law. Unless the injunction issued last week by a federal judge in Minnesota is set aside, Solicitor General Rex Lee said, it "irretrievably will deprive the United States of a ... valuable tool to promote maximum compliance" with draft registration.

Lee urged Blackmun to lift the injunction and let the law go into effect on schedule, giving the government time to appeal and defend the statute's constitutionality before the full Supreme Court.

"The irreparable harm to the government and the public interest from the district court's order far outweighs any injury from loss of assistance or benefits" that students may suffer, said Lee.

IN BRIEF

Education Improvement Bill Finally Passed

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — Senate President Curtis Peterson says the scaled down version of his "RAISE" bill that was to clear the Legislature today is a good start toward substantial improvement of the high schools.

The conference committee version of "RAISE", or "Raise Achievement in Secondary Education," was accepted by the Senate Thursday and was to be passed by the House today and forwarded to Gov. Bob Graham.

The legislation establishes tough, statewide high school graduation standards and new requirements to determine when a course is passed, puts a reading specialist in every high school, and creates summer math and science training programs for students and teachers.

It will cost about $10 million. Estimates of the price tag of earlier versions of the Peterson plan ranged as high as $300 million.

After months of agonizing debate, legislators decided finally to settle on a limited, low-cost "RAISE" bill and no tax increases, although Graham intends to call another special session next month to try once again to get better education funding, including teacher and faculty pay raises.

Senate Debates Water Bill

TALLAHASSEE (UPI) — The Senate today will take up a $117.5 million comprehensive water quality bill designed to protect Florida's fragile fresh water sources for future generations.

Because of Florida's unique geology, more than nine out of every 10 of its citizens depends upon groundwater for fresh water.

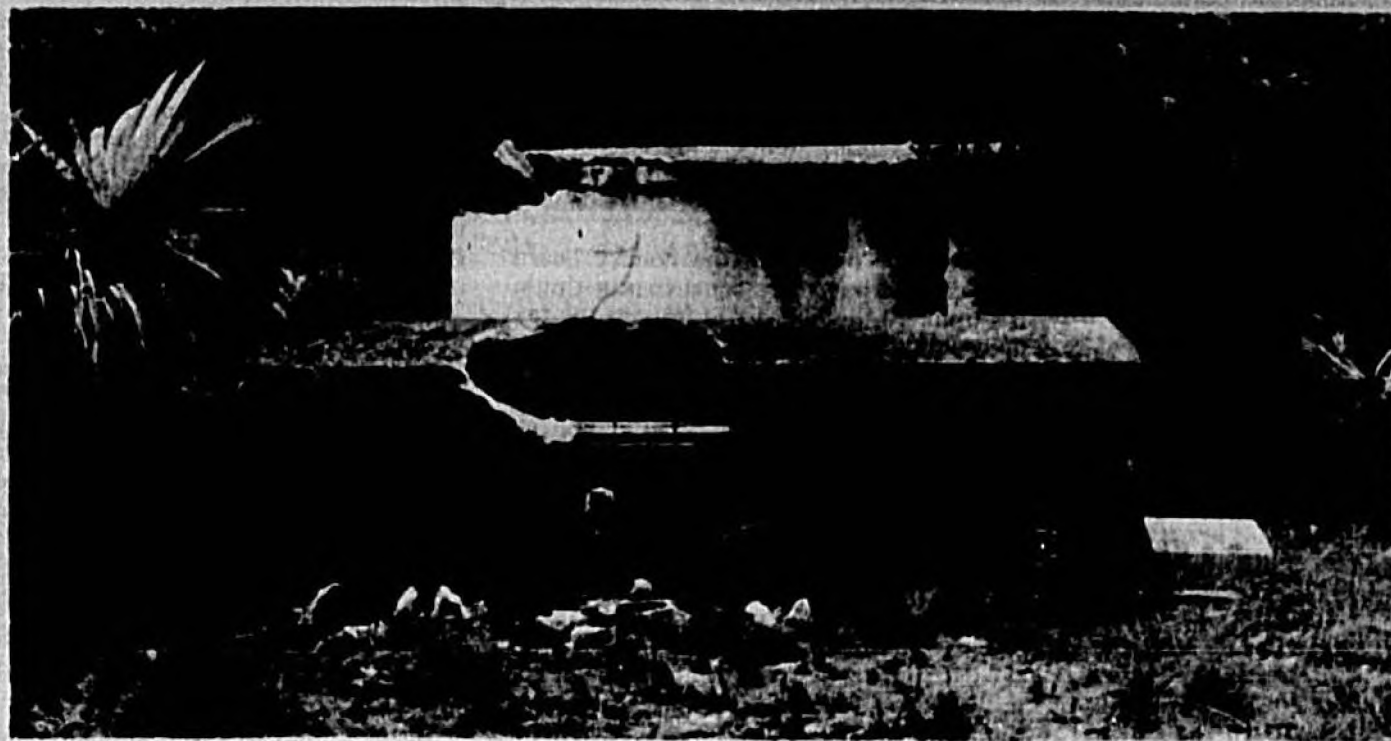

In its key provisions, the bill: — Provides $100 million to qualified cities and counties for sewage treatment facilities, replacing federal funding due to end in 16 months; — Gives state environmental scientists a say in the Department of Agriculture review process for new pesticides;

— Places additional restrictions on the future construction of septic tanks, particularly near lakes, streams and rivers and on soils without sufficient absorption;

— Creates a trust fund totaling $6.5 million the first year to help finance the cleaning up of hazardous wastes dumping sites;

— Begins the registration of every firm, large and small, that generates hazardous wastes in its manufacturing process;

— And imposes new regulation on petroleum storage tanks, above and below ground.

Sanford Man Faces 5 Years For Cattle Rustling

A Sanford man has been convicted in Seminole Circuit Court of cattle rustling.

John Benjamin Cross was one of six men arrested in March for allegedly stealing and slaughtering an 1,100-pound cow owned by Albert Clark of Osteen.

Cross was arrested March 21 along with his brother Lee Cross, 44; Lee's son Steven Cross, 23; Paul Davis, 51; Lester Warren, 47 and Kenneth Barrett, 22.

Seminole County sheriff's deputies arrested the men after one of their wives notified deputies that the men had not returned from a boat trip.

The men were observed taking their boats out of Lake Jessup at a boat ramp along State Road 46. Deputies arrested the men after they saw the carcass of the cow in one of the boats.

Several hours later, deputies went to an area of the lake known as Grass Island where Warren had a camp. A hatchet and the cow's head were found nearby, deputies said.

John Cross testified in the three-day trial that the men and his son had taken the boats to the island to test a new motor. When Cross and his brother Lee were in the boat they saw the cow floundering in tall weeds.

Cross said he shot near the cow trying to scare it. When the cow didn't react, he said, the men felt she would drown. Lee Cross then shot the cow three times, killing it.

The men said they pulled the cow back to the island and butchered it, he said. They planned to take the animal to the sheriff's department, he said.

Cross is the first of the men to face trial. He was remanded to the Seminole County jail by Judge Robert McGregor until a July 21 sentencing hearing.

The grand theft conviction carries a maximum five-year prison sentence.

CALLER PERSISTS

A caller or callers using the same mode of operation continue to harass Seminole County residents.

The caller will usually call a housewife when her husband is not home and tell her the home's phone has been tapped and she will not be able to call out. He then tells her to put valuables in a bag and set them outside the home and no one will be hurt. Over a dozen such incidents have been reported to the Seminole County Sheriff's Department in recent weeks. It is unknown if any of such extortion attempts were successful in the area. The ones reported to police were not.

On Monday between 2 and 3 p.m., a man called homes on West Hornbeam Lane in west Seminole and Dorado Court in Apopka.

The caller to the Hornbeam Lane residence at first stated he was a telephone repairman and asked the victim if she could get a dial tone. When she said she could not he stated: "This is a simple robbery. If you cooperate no one will be hurt, especially your children."

The caller then instructed the woman to put her valuables in a bag and place them on the front porch. At that point, a sheriff's report said, the woman went to a neighbor's house and summoned deputies.

To the 26-year-old housewife who answered the phone on Dorado Court, a caller also stated that it was a

"simple robbery".

"We are outside your house and the phone is tapped," he said.

The woman was then told to get a bag and empty the contents of her purse into it, then to take off her clothing and put it into the bag and place the bag outside.

At that point, she too ran to a neighbor's house to call police.

WALLET SNATCHED

Carol J. Webb, 41, of 1904 Cedar Ave., Sanford, was shopping Tuesday at Pantry Pride, 2944 U.S. Highway 17-92, about 7 p.m. when someone stole her wallet from her purse, police report. The wallet contained $55 in cash, an unassigned money order in the amount of $29.13 and personal papers.

According to the Central Florida Crimewatch Program, Inc., the purse or wallet snatch is one of the most common crimes, committed many times each day.

One of the most common versions is the "distract and snatch" method.

For instance: You are shopping in a grocery store. Your purse is resting in the baby seat of the grocery cart. Someone comes up and engages you in conversation. This is a pretty common scene.

Then, sadly, according to Crimewatch spokesmen, another scene almost as common occurs when you get to the checkout counter and discover your wallet, along with your money and credit cards, is missing.

Where could it have gone? Did you leave it home? Did you leave it in the car? Probably not. You left it unattended in the grocery cart. And while you were discussing the high price of peanut butter with that nice lady, her accomplice snatched it.

Crimewatch spokesmen advise you watch your purse at all times, leave your credit cards at home if you don't need them and be aware.

And if you have any information on persons committing this type of crime or any unsolved felony in the central Florida area, call Crimewatch in Orlando at 849-2482. You will remain anonymous and may be eligible for a reward up to $1,000.

Pope Prays His Visit Will Help His Poland

VATICAN CITY (UPI) — Flying home after an "unforgettable" eight days in Poland, Pope John Paul II offered prayers that his trip will improve social conditions and church-state relations in the homeland.

In Poland, there were reports martial law may be lifted next month but the pontiff only waved to well-wishers on his arrival at Rome's Leonardo da Vinci Airport late Thursday and strode through the airport without making a statement.

John Paul ended his second visit to Poland since becoming pope by meeting Thursday with former Solidarity union leader Lech Walesa in a mountain retreat near the Czechoslovak border and renewing his pledge to "stand by every working man."

What the pope and Walesa said to each other is unknown. Neither issued a statement after their meeting.

Britons To Debate Revival Of Hanging

LONDON (UPI) — Parliament will debate whether to bring the gallows back to life in Britain, 13 months after a proposal to revive the death penalty was rejected.

Leon Brittan, newly appointed home secretary for Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher, told Parliament Thursday the government would allow time for a debate because of fresh public concern on the issue.

Some rank-and-file Conservative politicians said they wanted the debate held before the summer recess.

Since Mrs. Thatcher's landslide election victory June 9, there has been a growing clamor for debate from the faction in the Conservative party that wants hanging revived. The faction believes the big Conservative majority in Parliament will mean a return of the death penalty. Opinion within the party, however, is sharply divided.

Britain's last executions — of Gwyn Evans and Peter Allen for murder — were carried out in 1964. Parliament stopped the death penalty for an experimental five years in 1965 and abolished it in 1969.

Motions to reintroduce capital punishment have been decisively defeated four times since abolition. Political observers said the call for a quick debate suggested the death penalty would be rejected again, although the vote could be very close. The hanging lobby will not have time to mount a popular campaign and the vote would be held before the annual party conference in October when hanging invariably draws impassioned support from grassroots party members, the observers said.

Brittan said the debate will be on a "free vote."

It Is Your Move Now, Yuri

President Reagan recently sent his strategic arms negotiators back to Geneva with a new proposal designed as much to appease his critics on Capitol Hill as to entice the Soviets into serious negotiations.

Mr. Reagan's new arms reduction offer constitutes an undeniable retreat from his initial proposal put before the Soviets last year. That formula would have required very substantial reductions in the nuclear arsenals of both sides; a proposal the Soviets rejected almost immediately because it would have compelled them to surrender much of the advantage they now enjoy in heavy, land-based missiles.

The price Mr. Reagan has since paid for persuading Congress to approve additional funds for development of the MX, a partial counter to the 688 Soviet SS-18 and SS-19 missiles, was an implicit commitment to a more "flexible" — read, conciliatory — arms control approach in Geneva.

The new U.S. proposal is the mixed fruit of that promise. It dropped the prior insistence on limiting both sides to no more than 850 deployed, intercontinental-range nuclear missiles. The new proposed limit has not been disclosed, but it is reported to be about 1,200 missiles.

More importantly perhaps, the revised formula backs away from the Reagan administration's previous position that true strategic equality required more than just equal numbers of missiles, or even warheads. Because Soviet missiles and warheads tend to be larger and heavier than their U.S. counterparts, the Soviet Union holds a 3-1 edge in the aggregate destructive power of its missile force.

Reducing this crushing Soviet advantage in missile throw-weight was a crucial objective of the administration's original proposal. Now, throw-weight has been pushed to the periphery in the interests of a more "flexible" approach. And the higher numerical limits for deployed missiles should be more to Moscow's liking because the Soviets are clearly determined to retain the full strength of their huge land-based ICBM force.

Even so, the initial Soviet response to Mr. Reagan's latest offer could hardly be called encouraging. Tass, the Soviet government's official news agency, described the new formula as just another attempt "at gaining military superiority and pressing the Soviet Union into unilateral disarmament."

That sort of rhetoric publicly lambasting the new U.S. proposal only hours after it was announced suggests that the Soviets are not very interested in reaching an equitable, verifiable accord that would effect even modest reductions in strategic arms. Instead, Moscow is standing fast to the only counterproposal it has ever put on the table in Geneva: A rehash of the discredited 1979 SALT II treaty modified to give the Soviets even more of a strategic nuclear advantage.

To date, the so-called START (for Strategic Arms Reduction Talks) have followed a course uncannily parallel to the U.S.-Soviet negotiations on intermediate-range missiles in Europe. In both cases, the Reagan administration began by offering arms reductions that would yield approximate nuclear parity with far fewer weapons on each side. In both cases, the Soviets summarily rejected the offer. And in both cases, the administration then reacted to pressure from Congress, nervous European allies, or even the nuclear freeze movement by substituting new proposals intended to be less objectionable to Moscow.

The Soviets, under no comparable pressure to make concessions, are obviously hoping that a continuing hard line at the bargaining table will force the Reagan administration to retreat even further. The Soviets know that Mr. Reagan must preserve some degree of bipartisan support at home for his arms control initiatives. And he must preserve a measure of NATO solidarity for the U.S. position on intermediate-range missiles in Europe.

But at some point — and we think that point is not very far away — this process of making politically inspired concessions becomes destructive of any hopes for real arms control achievements. If the Soviets continue to resist any serious negotiations, it will be time for the Reagan administration to demonstrate that it too knows how to wait.

There's a lot of talk going on in the county about the possibility that the Seminole County Commission will impose a 4-cent gasoline tax.

But just talking to one another won't do any good. The people must convey their feelings either pro or con to the county commissioners themselves.

That's the only way the county board will know what their constituents think. It's unlikely the board will impose the tax if the majority of the people say they are opposed.

Elected officials have a way of reacting to united voices which make it clear what the public desire is. And if no advice is forthcoming from the public they can only act according to their own personal beliefs and the information given them by their staff personnel.

County Commission Chairman Sandra Glenn, after going to the officials of all seven county cities concerning the gas tax proposal, said she was disappointed that the city officials had not called public hearings to officially get the views of their residents.

Officials in six of the seven cities, meanwhile, felt that from the telephone calls they had received from constituents and conversations on the streets, that the message was clear the people want no more taxes for any reason.

Perhaps the city officials were right and perhaps they were wrong. In any event, the county has set a public hearing for 7 p.m. July 28 to hear comments on a 4-cent gas tax. And that is when persons who are interested should make their feelings known.

At a recent Sanford City Commission meeting, City Manager W. E. "Pete" Knowles handed out plaudits to several members of Seminole County's Legislative Delegation, which he felt has done an outstanding job of looking out for the cities during the most recent legislative session.

He pointed to Sens. Tom Jennings and Richard Langley in the Senate. He said Miss Jennings has kept in touch with his office about various matters concerning cities and been very supportive.

He was high in his praise for Langley, who he said was willing to mount a drive to override a gubernatorial veto of a piece of Sanford legislation correcting the legal description of the Monroe lakebottom, even though such an effort would require a two-thirds vote to be successful. Langley, recently named second most effective debater in the Senate by his colleagues, was confident he could handle that.

Knowles talked about State Reps. Carl Selph and Bobby Brantley, especially about Selph's watching a proposal that would have allowed consolidation of cities with only one vote. The legislation, fostered in Volusia County, would have permitted larger cities to swallow smaller ones without giving the small cities a real chance to defend themselves. Sanford and Lake Mary both opposed the legislation and Selph pledged to fight it if it came up for action in the House. Selph also was instrumental in the passage of legislation that will continue the exemption for the cities and county government from state gasoline taxes.

Brantley worked personally to arrange a compromise with the governor's office through the state Department of Natural Resources on the Sanford lakebottom legislation.

Knowles personally worked with these legislators and wanted everyone to know they have done a superb job representing the city of Sanford.

Shoulders Now Can All Shine

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The female fashion news this season includes the tidings that bare shoulders are making a comeback.

It's a matter, apparently, of designers creating garments with oblique necklines.

Whereas necklines once plunged forward, exposing vast amounts of cleavage to the naked eye, now they sort of veer off to the side.

The veer neckline, like the V-neckline, permits much more than the neck to slide through. But there the similarity ends. This summer it's the shoulder's turn to shine.

There is enough room in many of this summer's necklines for an entire shoulder to emerge — sunburned bra strap and all. As to what this might bode for the economy, I am not prepared to say.

The stock market, Wall Street historians tell us, tends to take its cue from hemlines. The Dow Jones averages traditionally go up when skirts are short, and fall during periods of relative modesty.

I, however, have never seen a comparable analysis done with necklines. So I can't say whether the bare shoulder phenomenon reflects the employment outlook, interest rates, or what.

Purely from a spectator's, as opposed to an investor's, standpoint, it is better to have necklines going sideways than dropping to the rear.

I can remember a time when backless garments were all the rage, and I can tell you they didn't do much toward enhancing a person's faith in the human spinal column.

As we discovered that season, vertebrae are even more individualistic than bellybuttons. Some protrude. Others recess. Many list either to port or starboard.

Or both.

Often at the same time.

As for the scapulae that flank the upper part of the spinal column ... well, words fail me. Let me just say that identical shoulder blades are extremely rare, even on the same back.

It is true the most famous pinup photo of World War II featured Betty Grable densely packed into a backless swim suit, but she was a rule-proving exception.

The popularity of her pose stemmed in large measure from the novel fact that Miss Grable had symmetrical vertebrae and matching scapulae.

Generally, however, anytime there is a neckline spacious enough to accommodate more than one part of the body, it is better to have it slide over one shoulder than to take a direct dorsal drop.

What then, precisely, is a shoulder? Anatomical specialists tell us a shoulder consists primarily of the clavicle, or collarbone, and the deltoid muscle.

Did SEC Block Oil Firm Probe?

WASHINGTON — Two House committees are investigating charges that John Fedders, the Securities and Exchange Commission's enforcement chief, blocked an inquiry into questionable payments to foreign officials by the Ashland Oil Co.

According to Capitol Hill sources, SEC investigators received detailed information more than two years ago that Ashland — at the behest of its then-chairman, Orin Atkins — was paying millions of dollars to officials close to the Sultan of Oman. But the commission sat on the information because Fedders told his enforcement chief not to investigate the payments.

My associate Indy Badhrar has obtained internal company documents that suggest the payments were intended to persuade the sultan to sell crude oil to Ashland at favorable prices. Payments to foreign officials in return for business favors are explicitly forbidden by law.

Democrats Frustrated

By Patricia Kosa

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A revolt is brewing among Capitol Hill Democrats over the MX, and the issue may erupt into open rebellion during the next crucial vote on the giant nuclear weapon.

Two recent events indicate the depth of frustration among opponents with the refusal by the party leadership to take a position on the MX.

Democrats expressed their concern at a 2 1/2-hour party caucus June 14, called on a petition signed by 112 members and circulated by a freshman from California.

The issue: why the House leadership broke with the majority of Democrats and supported President Reagan in a critical MX vote last month.

The second event occurred barely an hour later at an anti-MX rally on the Capitol steps, when both Sens. Edward Kennedy, D-Mass., and Gary Hart, D-Colo., chastised those who endorsed MX.

"Any Democrat who thinks we can purchase peace by voting for MX ought to be ashamed of himself," Kennedy declared.

Democrats, who consider themselves the party of arms control, last month forced Reagan to adopt a more flexible arms control policy as part of the deal for deploying 100 of the 10-warhead weapons in existing Minuteman missile silos.

Reps. Les Aspin, D-Wis., Norman Dicks, D-Wash., and Albert Gore Jr., D-Tenn., led a group of moderate Democrats who obtained a written agreement from Reagan to seriously seek arms control. The president wrote a similar letter to several similarly concerned senators.

In return, the House and Senate voted to release $625 million in engineering and flight-testing funds that had been "fenced" in the 1983 budget.

But now some Democrats are beginning to feel as if they've been stymied — both by the leadership and by the moderates who led the turnaround from December, when both houses had put the skids on MX.

And both Aspin and Dicks have indicated they will re-evaluate their positions if Reagan does not moderate his position on arms control beyond the sketchy outlines he provided for the new round of Strategic Arms Limitation Talks in Geneva.

It fell to a freshman, Jim Bates of California, to circulate the petition that convened the caucus.

"If we weren't going to take a position on defense as a party, I wanted to know why," he said.

"As a freshman, I'm not accustomed to questioning the leadership. But in this case, we were frustrated and disappointed, and felt we had to question them ... It seemed as though they were out of step with the party on this issue."

Other sources said seven or eight Democrats who voted to release MX research funds last month will switch their positions on a vote scheduled in mid-July to authorize production funds for 27 missiles.

At least 25 or 30 of the 91 Democrats who joined 148 Republicans in the May vote would be needed to turn MX around yet again.

Aspin, formerly an MX opponent, warned rejection of the missile program by Democrats would rob the party of an opportunity to use it as a key campaign issue next year.

"If we give him this, then it's up to the president to get an arms control agreement and we can hold him accountable," Aspin said.

Among the prominent party members who supported the MX last month were Democratic leader James Wright Jr., D-Texas, and whip Thomas Foley, D-Wash.

Smoking Causes Disease

By Sharon Rutenberg

CHICAGO (UPI) — Another health hazard has been linked to smoking — gum disease, researchers report in the Journal of the American Dental Association.

"The adverse effects of smoking on the general health of the population have been well documented," said Amid I. Ismail of the University of Michigan dental public health program.

Smoking also has been linked to lung cancer, emphysema, cardiovascular diseases, peptic ulcers and fetal development.

"The public should be aware that an additional health hazard — gum disease — has now been clearly associated with smoking," Ismail said.

"This study doesn't prove that smoking causes gum disease but the evidence leans strongly in that direction," he said. "Even smokers with good dental hygiene habits have significantly poorer periodontal (gum) health than non-smokers and past smokers."

The National Center for Health Statistics provided data for the study, a comparison of smoking and dental histories of a representative sample of the United States population from 1971 to 1974.

Ismail and co-authors Brian A. Burt and Stephen A. Eklund studied the association between periodontal health and the reported use of different types of tobacco products, the number of cigarettes smoked per day and the duration of cigarette smoking.

Results indicated the gums of people who smoke are in poorer condition than the gums of people who never smoked or who quit smoking, the researchers said.

"Because our data came from the largest and most representative survey on the relationship between smoking and periodontal diseases yet reported, we believe the results can be safely generalized to the entire U.S. population," they said.

"The association between poorer levels of periodontal health and smoking remained even after accounting for age, sex, race, oral hygiene, socio-economic status and frequency of daily toothbrushing variables."

The incidence of gum disease did not increase with the number of years a person had smoked.

People who had smoked 15 years or more had less healthy gums than individuals who had smoked a shorter period of time because they tended to be older — and the risk of gum disease increases with age.

In addition, the number of cigarettes smoked per day did not seem to matter. The gums of those who smoked a pack or less daily were no healthier than the gums of those who smoked more than a pack per day.

"No definite conclusion can be reached on whether cigarette smoking is more strongly associated with periodontal diseases than are cigars and pipe smoking," the researchers said.

Tips On Beneficial Insects, Lawn Mower Safety

Summertime and increased insect populations are almost synonymous. Some insects appear in large numbers but not all of them are destructive. One such insect which brings a rash of worried calls or visits to our Extension office this time of the year is the psocid (pronounced with a silent "p").

The adult psocids are brownish-black in color and approximately 1/4 inch in length. They have brownish wings with white markings and these wings extend well beyond the body. Nymphs vary in size depending on their age and look like the adult except that they are wingless. The females lay their small, white eggs in clusters on leaves, branches or trunks of the trees. Both adults and nymphs are gregarious and remain together. As a protective measure, they spin a silken web, with a silvery sheen, on the trunks, and large limbs of the tree and live under it. Usually this web is noticed first, since it may cover most of the tree.

These insects are not damaging pests even though they live on the trunks of many types of trees. They feed on lichens, fungi and dead animal and plant matter.

No chemical controls are recommended for this insect since it does no harm and can actually be beneficial by cleaning the tree bark. If control is desired, any one of several insecticides will kill them. Spraying the tree with a strong stream from a garden hose will remove the web.

Shifting to another summertime subject, this is a good time to comment on lawn mower safety. Particularly since children are out of school and frequently take over lawn mowing chores.

Last year 77,000 persons visited emergency rooms for treatment of injuries from power lawn mowers. Some of these injuries included loss of toes and feet and even fingers and arms. Several deaths resulted from flying objects thrown out by the blades.

Statistics indicate that 50% of all lawn mower injuries result from contact with the rotary blade. Now all new rotary mowers have certain safety features to protect the operator, a blade clutch, safety starter and a deck which provides more protection from the blade.

But until you purchase a new mower, here are some safety tips to follow to prevent lawn mower accidents.

Begin by replacing all the safety shields and devices which were removed because they were bothersome. Be certain that Johnnie or Susie is big enough, mature enough and thoroughly trained before using the lawn mower. Dig out the operator's manual and review safety recommendations.

Take the time to inspect the area to be mowed to be certain all dangerous debris has been removed. Never make adjustments to the mower when the engine is running. Make sure children and bystanders are away-far-away from the area to be mowed. This is no time for the children to be helping Dad.

Mow slopes laterally, never up and down. Never mow backwards; one step and your foot will be under the mower. Never mow wet grass. Wear sturdy leather shoes to protect feet.

Following these suggestions could save much grief and pain.

All Seminole County Agricultural Extension Services programs are open to all regardless of race, color, sex or national origin.

Doris Thomas Retires From Teaching After 34 Years

Dedication, love for youth and faith came through on the first day of the teaching career of Mrs. Doris Austin Thomas, physical education teacher at Crooms Academy and South Seminole Middle School, Casselberry, some 34 years ago.

Mrs. Thomas remembers that first day she entered Crooms Academy as an instructor. She was welcomed by some and amazed by others. The reason, she says, is that some students thought she was too young to be teaching and all of the others were older and as a result, she was treated by some as just another student.

During her 19 years at Crooms Academy Mrs. Thomas had the honor of getting the inspiration that Dr. J.N. Crooms and Mrs. W.R. Crooms gave to those teachers or students there.

Mrs. Thomas coached girls' basketball, taught science and was the sponsor of the First Tri-Hi-Y Club at Crooms.

Mrs. Thomas has been able for 15 years to meet and accept many challenges of teaching in an integrated school and did make the adjustment to South Seminole Middle School. She says she feels the smooth transition is due to the two most wonderful people in the world, her aunt, Dr. Evelyn W. Sharp, and her husband Bob.

Most memorable and cherished by Mrs. Thomas are the years of her career at Crooms, helping, she says, to mold the lives and future of so many Sanford Blacks. The sincerity and cooperation of the parents, students and community, these moments, she says she will cherish for a lifetime.

While at South Seminole Middle School, Mrs. Thomas served as physical education instructor and chairman of the department.

The P.E. Department and faculty treated Mrs. Thomas to a surprise luncheon last week when about 80 co-workers, family and friends joined in the tribute to honor Mrs. Thomas, formerly of DeLand.

She attended Volusia County schools, graduated from Euclid High and continued her education at Florida A and M College, Tallahassee.

Mrs. Thomas' plans are to turn off the alarm, take one day of life at a time and enjoy her husband, Bob, of 32 years and her daughter, Monica.

Congratulations to Dr. Stephen C. Wright who received the Ph.D in English from Indiana University of Pennsylvania at the May Commencement.

Dr. Wright has taught English and Black American History at Seminole Community College since 1972. Recently Dr. Wright had his first book of poetry published, "First Statement."

Group Attends Retreat

Brenda Teaster, Chrissy Starkey, Louanne Simpkins and Sula Childers accompanied their leader, Shelia Starkey, to a district retreat for Missionettes this week. The group left early Wednesday morning for the Assembly of God's Camp Aflala near Lakeland and returned late Thursday afternoon.

Kim Nunnery, Sue DeWitt, and I also drove to the retreat with Mrs. Starkey to work in various departments of the retreat which saw over 400 girls in attendance.

Approximately 75 citizens from Geneva patiently awaited "their turn" last Monday evening at the Board of Adjustments meeting at the Seminole County Courthouse.

Little did most of them know that the issue concerning them would be last on the heavy agenda and that it would be well after midnight when Southern Pacific Communication Company's second petition in four months to build a microwave tower in the community would be considered.

The telecommunication firm's first request was for an adjustment to zoning on Snow Hill Road. This request was denied and is now under appeal to the county commission.

The property in question Monday evening was South of Highway 46 on Old State Road 13. After waiting over five hours, Geneva citizens were given about 20 minutes by Roger Perra, chairman of the board, in which to voice their opposition.

Everyone present, however, who opposed the construction of "an electronic communications facility including tower 180 feet with antennae" was requested to register his signature before leaving the meeting that ended in a 3 to 1 decision to deny the petition for rezoning. Mike Hattaway cast the lone vote against the motion to deny the request.

If you are interested in further information about meetings on the appeals, please contact the president of the Geneva Citizens Association, Arnold Gottlieb, 3495094.

Readers: Letter Lacks Respect

DEAR ABBY: What's the matter with you? Are you on vacation? I can't believe you wrote that a answer to "The Johnsons," who were hurt because their son consistently addressed his letters to "The Johnsons" instead of to "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson." They thought it showed a lack of respect and asked you if they were wrong to feel that way.

Instead of answering their question, you chastised them for complaining about such a petty problem! Then you went on to tell them that your mail that day included some really serious tragedies, such as an elderly couple who are now raising four grandchildren (all under 10) whose parents perished in a hotel fire away from home, a 12-year-old who was pregnant, and a 24-year-old woman who, after three miscarriages, finally had a healthy infant who became a victim of crib death, etc.

Then you closed, imploring "The Johnsons" to thank God that they had a son who is able to write, and cared enough to do so!

I enjoy your column, Abby, but this time your answer lacked your usual sensitivity and understanding. I think you owe "the Johnsons" an apology.

AN EDITOR IN OHIO

DEAR EDITOR: The Johnson letter and my insensitive reply unleashed an unexpected blizzard of mail, pro and con — mostly con. But you're right, I do owe Mr. and Mrs. Johnson an apology, and I hope they will forgive me. Read on:

DEAR ABBY: I think you erred in your response to "The Johnsons," who objected to the manner of address on their son's letters.

Respect is a social modality in and of itself, and should not depend on the misfortunes of others, or proper appreciation that a son cared enough to write. His manner of addressing his parents was in my opinion disrespectful.

THE REV. ROBERT G. EPPLER, LOUVILLE, KY.
DEAR ABBY: Shame on you for chewing out the Johnsons when they sought your help for what you consider to be a problem of relatively minor importance. They simply asked whether or not their son was showing them the respect due parents when he addressed their letters to "The Johnsons" instead of to "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson."

As an advice columnist you are expected to handle all problems, big and small, with equal compassion and understanding.

Had I been in your shoes I would have responded thusly:

"Dear Mr. and Mrs. Johnson: I agree, your son's manner of addressing you is disrespectful. Why not write him a little note pointing out his thoughtlessness? Assure him that you love him, nonetheless, but would appreciate it greatly if in the future he would address you as 'Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.'"

We are never too old to learn, Abby. Even you.

A GRANDMOTHER IN OREGON
DEAR GRANDMOTHER: Thank you. However, I did get several letters in support of my stand. For example:

DEAR ABBY: Wonderful! Wonderful! The best letter you've written yet, and I've been following you for years. Which one? The one to "The Johnsons," who thought their son was disrespectful in addressing his letters to "The Johnsons" instead of to "Mr. and Mrs. Johnson."

For years I've wondered how you could contain yourself when readers presented you with such trivial problems (what color do I wear, should I give cash gifts, etc.) despite the serious horrors of the modern world.

I am a professional social scientist who thinks that most of your crisp responses cut through much of the ponderous published marlarky on human behavior. Just one thing: You really lose with those god-awful puns!

Rain Delays

The only baseball being played Thursday in Sanford and Eustis was on home television games.

Add to that both Major teams from Altamonte. The Indians were rained out at DeLand against Maitland and the Astros were washed away at Rolling Hills against Apopka.

The Junior League's second game is rescheduled for tonight at 7 with Rotary holding a 1-0 lead in the best of three series over Knights of Columbus.

Meanwhile, weather permitting, the Oviedo Giants are looking for revenge against the Eustis Rangers in the Top Team Tournament in Eustis at 7:30.

The Junior League game was called off about an hour before starting time.

Most of the people at Eustis Thursday night just stood around waiting for the game to either start or be called off.

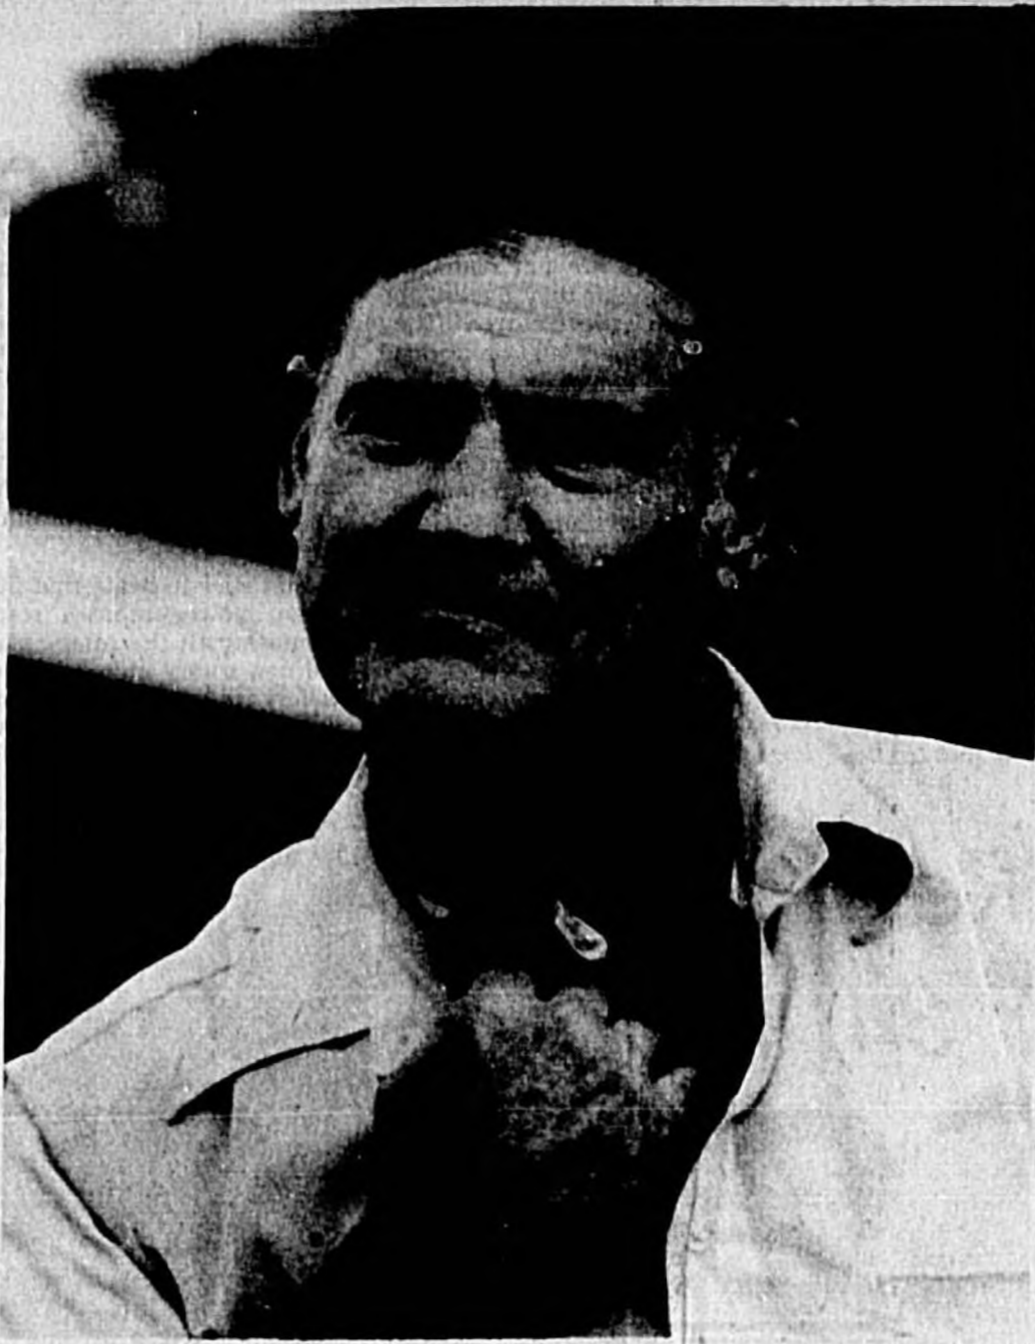

For instance, when I was in Little League (it was called Dixie League then), there were a lot of things you could do during a rain delay.

because he did head-first slides into the mud. The last time he did it he won the contest but he was grounded for a week because his mother had to use hand grenades to get the stains out.

When we got through with sliding practice it was always fun to see how many of the players could squeeze into the Winnebago (one of the parents on the team usually had one).

Well, Little League was one thing, but when you get to high school its wise to be conservative during rain delays.

So, we still wound up going to St. Petersburg because the rain hadn't reached there yet. But the rain followed us to St. Pete and the game was delayed about 15 minutes after we got there.

USFL Pursues Bowden Through Graves

JACKSONVILLE (UPI) — Ray Graves, former University of Florida football coach and athletic director, is handling negotiations with Florida State coach Bobby Bowden for Fred Bullard, owner of Jacksonville's new USFL franchise.

Bullard said Thursday he had been in contact with Bowden during the past week "through an intermediary," who he identified as Graves.

Bowden, who has coached the Seminoles for eight years, heads the list of candidates Bullard is considering as head coach for his yet unnamed USFL team.

Bowden's son, Terry, a coach at Salem (Va.) College, and his attorney, Ken Van Assenderp, of Tallahassee, meanwhile, told the Florida Times-Union that Bowden may be interested in the Jacksonville job for financial security reasons.

Football

"I know he's worried about his financial situation," said Terry Bowden. "People don't understand that. They think Bobby Bowden is very wealthy.

Van Assenderp said Bowden divested himself of land holdings at Petit Bois Island, Miss., and St. George Island, southwest of Tallahassee.

"He was very upset at the publicity surrounding those two deals," Van Assenderp said. "He didn't want his great name, the university's great name, connected with the implication that anything was wrong with those deals."

Bowden receives a salary of $125,000 a year from FSU and is allowed to generate outside revenue through his own corporation, Sideline Ventures Inc.

Bullard has indicated he could dip into his $100 million construction business to find enough to lure Bowden to Jacksonville.

The FSU coach is under contract and Bullard may have to buy out the remaining years on that contract if he decides that Bowden is the man he wants.

Another attraction for Bowden in pro coaching is the lighter work load. In the pros, he would not have to spend as much time on the road recruiting and speaking to booster clubs in the offseason.

Connors Continues Bid Against Swede

WIMBLEDON, England (UPI) — Defending champion Jimmy Connors continues his bid for a third men's singles crown Friday when he faces Sweden's Henrik Sundstrom and Chris Evert Lloyd, chasing the final leg of the Grand Slam, meets Kathy Jordan in the feature matches at the $1.4 million Wimbledon tennis championships.

South Africa's Kevin Curren, the No. 12 seed, plays unseeded Rodney Harmon of the United States in the opening match on center court.

The seven surviving seeds in the lower half of the women's draw all will be in action Friday. The forecasts call for continued good weather, which has attracted more than 125,000 spectators to the tournament in the first four days.

Third-seeded American Andrea Jaeger plays Susan Leo of Australia; seventh-seeded Australian Wendy Turnbull plays Wendy White of the U.S.

Two teenage seeds, 17-year-old Andrea Temesvari of Hungary and 16-year-old Kathy Rinaldi of the U.S., play 15-year-old Carling Bassett of Canada and the more experienced Betsy Nagelsen, respectively.

The crowd has adopted a new favorite this week — 24-year-old Nduka Odizor of Nigeria, who defeated fourth-seed Guillermo Vilas of Argentina in five sets on the first day and followed (1)-1 with a victory Wednesday over American Peter Fleming.

Odizor will meet French teenager Loic Courteau, another surprise third round survivor.

Despite recent comments that he would change his "bad boy" image, John McEnroe's victory over Florin Segarceanu or Romania will be remembered more for his arguments with the umpire and referee than for the efforts he demonstrated in the four-set triumph.

Jimmy Connors slashes a forehand. Connors is gunning for his third Wimbledon title this week.

abuse, a levy officials later rescinded, McEnroe justified his actions.

"Anything I've done today I had a perfect right to do," he said. "They agreed with me when they came on to the court. How can I be blamed when they came back and rescinded (the umpire's) mistake?"

"Players have emotions, they are not robots. If they want everyone to be robots, not have personalities and don't question the calls, then that's fine. But don't blame me for the way the rules have been written."

McEnroe said he would consider pulling out of a tournament if poor calls continued to be in evidence.

"If they (the officials) are going to keep on making mistakes, I don't see why I should keep on playing," McEnroe said.

"However, I'm not going to make a martyr of myself at this state of my career. I don't want to lose because of bad decisions. I want to lose because the other guy is better than me."

American Hank Pfister was another player in trouble — and it earned him a $500 fine. As in most of the flareups which end in protracted discussions between players and officials, this one was no exception.

Pfister received a penalty point for racket abuse and argued through a time violation which cost him a game and ultimately a set.

NHL Adopts Overtime

QUEBEC CITY (UPI) — National Hockey League fans traditionally have regarded ties with disdain.

No, not the neckwear that complements a suit. NHL devices have nothing against those ties — it's the 2-2, 3-3 and similarly deadlocked scores that have irked many a crowd.

But the NHL's Board of Governors has determined a way teams may exchange unwanted ties for something better — victories.

"I am pleased to announce that effective next season we will have a five-minute sudden death overtime in the event that a game concludes in a tie," NHL president John Ziegler said Thursday at the conclusion of the Board of Governors meeting.

Ziegler said the move was made to make the game more appealing to fans. Last season, 15 percent of the games in the NHL schedule were ties.

Beginning next season, the games will go immediately into an overtime period with play stopped only long enough to allow teams to change ends of the ice. Should the overtime fail to decide a winner, the game would remain an official tie.

Teams which win in overtime will receive the usual two points but a proposal to award one point to the overtime loser was rejected.

Ziegler said the board, which voted down overtime by three votes last year, was swayed by a strong presentation from Quebec Nordiques' president Marcel Aubut, who cited hockey overtime — already used in playoff games — as one of the most exciting features in sport.

The way to overtime was actually paved last year when the NHL Players Association agreed to drop its opposition in exchange for larger training camp allowances and increased per diems.

"That was part of our collective agreement with the league," said Sam Simpson, director of operations for the NHL. "The players were divided about 50-50 on the issue. It basically boiled down to the shooters liking it and the defensemen and goaltenders opposing it."

"But there is no doubt that some teams in the league need it to get some excitement into the games — like the Pittsburghs and the Hartfordes."

Aubut said the board approved the overtime proposal by a 14-5 margin. He said crucial support came from the Toronto Maple Leafs and New York Islanders, both of whom had previously opposed overtime because it would require purchase of additional television time.

Tim Steals 3 More Bases As Montreal Widens Lead

MONTRIAL — The Raines continued to rage here, too. Tim Raines, that is. The ex-Seminole High standout rapped three hits, stole three bases and drove in one run as the Montreal Expos extended their National League East lead to 2 1/2 games with a 4-3 victory over Philadelphia Thursday night.

N.L. Baseball

The three hits lifted Tim's batting average to .280. The three steals gave him 30 for the year, tops in the N.L. and just three behind the A.L. leader Julio Cruz.

For the year, Raines has played in 62 games, batted 250 times with 51 runs and 70 hits. He has 10 doubles, five triples and four home runs. Raines has driven in 31 runs and has seven game-winning RBI. His 30 steals have come in 35 attempts. Defensively, he has committed just one error.

Despite the Expos current hot streak, manager Bill Virdon wasn't about to declare the race over.

"There's a long way to go until October," said Virdon, whose Expos defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 4-3 Thursday for their fourth win in five games over their NL East rivals. "There are a lot of good clubs in our division. We have to play them one at a time."

Al Oliver cracked a two-run single in the first inning and Raines added his RBI double in the second inning.

"I'm not concerned how far we are ahead of St. Louis," Virdon said. "I'm just concerned with playing well. We're getting hitting, pitching and defense and if everything falls into place and the other team makes mistakes, you can take advantage and that usually leads to streaks."

The win was the Expos eighth in their last 11 games. Oliver, who went 3 for 4 at the plate, is happy that he's keeping pace with last season, when he led the National League in hitting.

"I'm at the same pace as I was last year at this time where my batting average is concerned," the Montreal first baseman said. "My RBI are not as high as they were at this same time last season, but I'm confident that by the end of the year I'll knock in 90 runs. The main thing is to be part of a team which I believe is made of world championship calibre."

Oliver's first-inning two-run single gave the Expos a 2-0 lead that they never relinquished. Starter Bill Gullickson worked five innings, giving up three hits as he raised his record to 7-8.

But the Montreal right-hander was not sure he should have been taken out of the game in the sixth.

"I just wanted a guy and the other guy hit a rope off the wall. I didn't give up many hits, but I guess I just ran out of gas," Gullickson said. "We increased our lead. I guess that's what counts."

Relievers Bryn Smith and Jeff Reardon finished the game. Reardon worked the final inning and earned his 11th save.

Phillies rookie Charlie Hudson was tagged with the loss, dropping his record to 1-2.

Holy Cross Wins Again

Holy Cross Episcopal won its third Sanford Men's Church League Championship in the last five years this past weekend with a 3-0 victory over First Presbyterian.

The first game of the tourney was between First Presbyterian and Church of God.

Holy Cross eliminated New Mt. Calvary and went on to play Church of God.

Holy Cross then went up against First Presbyterian in its third and fourth games of the tourney.

Also preserving the shutout for Holy Cross was the excellent infield play of Dick Mamele.

In the fourth and final game, Holy Cross scored once in the first inning and added two runs in the fourth and cruised to a 3-0 victory.

First Presbyterian hit several long shots to the outfield of Holy Cross only to remain scoreless thanks to the outstanding defensive play of Jay Oxford, Robert Jones, Steve Coover and Jack Eltonhead.

Other players instrumental in Holy Cross's championship drive were Rick Dunn, Jim Van Looven, Bob O'Neill, Andy Brewer and coach Tom Sheibenberger.

Kittle's Rip Lifts Sox From Rubble; Padres Pin 4th Loss On Dodgers

United Press International With Ron Kittle continuing to knock down fences, the Chicago White Sox are slowly rising from the rubble.

Kittle became the first American Leaguer to drive in 50 runs this season, clubbing his 16th homer with a man on and hitting a sacrifice fly Thursday to help the White Sox over the .500 mark with an 8-6 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

The White Sox' victory, their fifth in a row and ninth in 11 games, enabled them to go over .500 for the first time this season.

"Right now, I have a problem of finding consistency in my hitting. And because I am still a rookie, I have a lot of things to prove. As far as I'm concerned, it is my personal goals that are the most important thing to me at this point."

Kittle's homer came off Bobby Castillo in the third inning and capped a three-run outburst.

Earlier in the inning, Greg Luzinski was credited with his ninth homer when center fielder Rusty Kuntz failed to hold on to Luzinski's shot that fell off his glove into the bullpen.

The Twins hit four home runs off high-priced free agent Floyd Bannister, who won his first game in his last seven starts.

In six previous starts, Bannister picked up four losses and two no-decisions, despite compiling a 2.43 earned run average.

two-run homer and Ellis Valentine added a solo shot to power California behind the six-hit pitching of Ken Forsch.

At Boston, Andre Thornton and Gorman Thomas hit back-to-back, first-inning homers, giving Cleveland its fourth victory in its last five games.

At Seattle, Cliff Johnson and Lloyd Moseby delivered RBI singles in the eighth to extend the Mariners' losing streak to seven games.

NL West standings. But now things are starting to fall into place for the Padres, a club many thought would be a contender in the division this season.

Led by pitcher Dave Dravecky and Alan Wiggins, the Padres took a 7-5 decision over the Dodgers Thursday to complete a sweep of their four-game series at Los Angeles.

Wiggins doubled in two runs to climax a three-run rally in the seventh inning and Dravecky notched his 11th victory as the Padres won their sixth straight game.

Dravecky scattered eight hits over six innings to become the first major league pitcher to win 11 games this season. He bested Dodger ace Fernando Valenzuela, 8-4, in the process.

"I don't know about winning 20 games," the 26-year-old Dravecky said. "I'm taking them one at a time and hoping for the best. And no, I haven't thought about the All-Star game. I just keep trying to play ball and keep the ball in play. As far as winning 11 games, I don't have any secret. I just keep throwing strikes and the eight guys behind me are doing a real good job, both offensively and defensively."

"I'm really at a loss for words about winning 11 so early. I don't know what to say, but it feels real good."

The loss was the fourth in a row for the Dodgers, their longest losing streak of the season.

Ex-Dodger Steve Garvey and Garry Templeton homered for the Padres while Ron Roenicke hit a pair of homers for the Dodgers.

Mets 7, Cardinals 5 At New York, Hubie Brooks drove in four runs, including a tie-breaking three-run homer in the fourth inning, to power the Mets to victory.

Pirates 5, Cubs 2 At Pittsburgh, Tony Pena went 4-for-4 and drove in a run to support the five-hit pitching of Larry McWilliams and help the Pirates complete a five-game sweep.

McWilliams, 8-5, walked two and struck out five in posting his fourth complete game. Keith Moreland hit a two-run homer for Chicago.

Sargent Bilko Has Dogs Standing At Attention

By Happy Ison Special To Evening Herald

If you are younger than 35, the name Phil Silvers may not mean much to you. It has never been my pleasure to meet the man, but I have enjoyed his motion pictures, the work he has done on stage and best of all his television shows.

Well, sport fans of greyhound racing, Sargent Bilko lives again. He can't speak, but has four lovely legs, weighs 73 pounds, brindle in color and is only 20 months old.

He broke his Maiden here at Super Seminole on May 3, winning by five lengths. On May 6 he ran again, and was bet down to twenty cents on the dollar. He ran third. He was bumped in the first turn and just lost too much ground. He won his D race in the Matinee card May 11th. Five days later, in another matinee card he won in C. He beat the field by 11 lengths.

That brings us to June 15. The Ponca Perfect-Baton Rouge offspring showed his true grit and heart in this race. He drew the one hole. So far Bilko has won out of holes 6-7-2-5-2-8. Having won 5 in a row he was the betting favorite even though he prefers to be outside when he runs.

When the box opened, it seemed like the greyhounds jetted out of the box. Blushing Spirit on top, followed closely by Wyldy Angela and More Tax Graham.

Dog Racing

motion you could not find Bilko in the picture frame. He was five to eight lengths back of seven other dogs passing the finish line the first time.

On the curve coming home Bilko leaned in toward the rail and the 73-pound Mountain Gourmet backed off and Sargent Bilko soon overtook More Tax Graham who had run out of gas.

close to the rail and Wyldy Angela next to her, Bilko tried to drive through. It was not to be. With no room to run, he pulled outside and off strided himself a bit.

Wyldy Angela seemed like a sure winner at 10-1 with four lengths to go. Never have I seen a greyhound move so fast in such a short space.

Asked later in the evening about the race she said, "It has been four or five years since I have seen a race as good as Bilko's win."

An overheard comment made this writer blink his eyes when someone muttered that he'd give Steve Merlock $10,000 right now for that pup even if he never raced another race.

One final word about Sargent Bilko. He won Saturday night to make it seven straight wins. He also ran his best time in a 5/16 winning the race in 30.97. Can he win eight, nine or even 10 straight races? The odds are against it but only time will tell.

Basketball Class And AAU Money

Finding an adequate place to play basketball has sometimes been a problem in Seminole County. When you play outside, there is often a net torn to shreds, or not a net at all. More often, the court is crowded.

Finding a place to play indoors is worse. They always throw that old insurance line at you, tell you the janitor costs $5 an hour, or some other lame excuse to keep you away.

Well, Joe Sterling and Bill Payne have a solution for you. The Seminole Community College athletic director and coach respectively will offer a basketball class beginning July 6 and running for eight weeks from 8 p.m. to 9:45 p.m. every Monday and Wednesday.

And, don't worry about Payne trying to lay any defensive stance on you either, that's not one of his better areas. These sessions are just for fun, the run up-and-down-the-court type. You have to be 16 years old to enter. The class costs $16 for credit, and $10 if you just want to play. Call 323-1450 for info...

Speaking of money, Seminole basketball coach Ron Merthie and his 12 and under AAU girls have earned a trip to Kansas City, Mo. to play for the national championship. The group needs some funds to cover their traveling expenses. They're renting a van for the trip.

The girls are leaving June 30 for their July 2 game. Players include Angel Bass, Nichole Mitchell, Virginia Miller, Terry White, Tuwana Wynn, Aretha Riggins, Sherri Stephens and Leticia Strickland. Merthie and assistant coach Sabrina Melton will accompany the girls.

If you would like to help the young ladies (finance this worthwhile trip, call Merthie at 322-7997...

Lake Mary soccer coach Larry McCorkle still has plenty of openings for his under 12 camp for July 11-15 and for the over 12 camp for July 18-22. Call McCorkle at 831-2239...

If you're interested in your son or daughter learning how to play baseball correctly, University of Central Florida coach Jay Bergman has a good camp which is running several seasons through Aug. 5. Bergman formerly coached at SCC and Florida. One of his best was former Raider Larry Parrish who is having a fine year with the Texas Rangers. Call Bergman at 275-2381 or 275-2356...

Another ex-SCC baseball player, didn't do too shabbily when he stepped up a rank to the Southeastern Conference this year at Mississippi State. Former Lyman standout Bob Parker was named to the All-SEC First Team as a shortstop. MSU had an excellent team which was ranked in the Top 20 most of the year. It had the misfortune of running into Alabama in the conference and Texas in the regional tournament. Alabama finished second in the nation while the Longhorns won it all.

Once and a while I make a mistake. Go ahead, pick up your paper and continue reading. I know it's startling news. Well, it seems that I had Ronald "Lefty" Renaud fighting in World War II the other day. It seems, however, he was only four years old at the time. Sorry, Lefty. I know you were a precocious youth, but not that precocious. And the next time you come down to the office, don't bring your gun, bring your Grecian Formula...

It's Time To Recognize Outstanding Senior Citizens

The Florida Council on Aging, in cooperation with Kroger/SuperX Drug Stores, has announced plans for the annual Senior Citizen Community Service Awards to recognize outstanding contributions made by, or in behalf of, the state's elderly.

This year, the awards have been expanded to include new categories in addition to those of "Super Senior", Service to Seniors and Media awards, which will continue. New categories include Community Star Award, Special Merit Award, and the "Hall of Fame."

Nominations for all of the award categories with the exception of the "Hall of Fame" may be submitted by any individual as long as the party being nominated meets the eligibility criteria. The "Hall of Fame" nominations must be submitted by a member of the Florida Council on Aging, but members may take recommendations from non-members.

Nominations must be received by July 11. Nominations must be attached to an official FLOA nomination ballot which can be secured by contacting the Florida Council on Aging at (904)488-8237 or from the Casselberry Senior Center, 200 N. Triplet Drive, Casselberry.

Completed nominations should be submitted to the Florida Council on Aging Awards Committee, in care of 1400-02 Jackson St., Fort Myers, FL 33901.

All of the nominees must meet certain general requirements. The individual or organization nominated must have made a contribution of a distinguishing nature, motivated by unselfish interest.

Each award has a specific type of recipient in mind by the nature of the award. The "Super Senior Award", won by Sanford's Sam Kaminsky two years ago, seeks to recognize an outstanding contribution made by an individual 60 years of age and older who is not a paid staff member of a senior service organization. The "Service to Senior Award" is intended to recognize the outstanding contribution made by a senior service organization. The Media Award recognizes a feature or news story or stories that promotes ideas of aging.

The Community Star Award seeks to recognize the outstanding achievement of a non-senior service organization on behalf of Florida's elderly. The award Special Merit Award is designed to show appreciation for an outstanding effort made by a paid staff member of a senior service organization.

The final category, "Hall of Fame," has been developed to recognize continuous and outstanding contributions that have had statewide impact. A nominee must have made a consistent effort on behalf of the elderly for 10 years or more to be considered.

Nominations received by the awards committee will be reviewed and selections made prior to the Awards Breakfast on Sept. 14 in Tampa during the Fall meeting of the Florida Council on Aging.

What The Day Will Bring...

YOUR BIRTHDAY JUNE 25, 1983 Don't let it upset you this coming year if things you are going after are not achieved on your initial try. Adversity strengthens your character and you'll eventually be victorious.
CANCER (June 21-July 22) You're a good problem solver today, especially in matters where a family member may have gotten off-track. Under your guidance, failure becomes success. Order now: The NEW Matchmaker wheel and booklet which reveals romantic compatibilities for all signs, tells how to get along with others, finds rising signs, hidden qualities, plus more. Mail $2 to Astro-Graph, Box 489, Radio City Station, N.Y. 10019. Send an additional $1 for your Cancer predictions for the year ahead. Be sure to give your zodiac sign.
LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Because you are adaptable today, you should be able to fit in with case even in an unfamiliar group. Those who can't may eye you with envy.
VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Don't let timidity or uncertainty hold you back from going after important goals today. You'll do surprisingly well under challenging conditions.
LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) There's a possibility you might become involved in an incident today where you'll be tempted to respond to pettiness in a petty manner. Don't!
SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) In your commercial dealings today bargain from strength, not from weakness. If you believe yourself to be strong, you'll convince the other guy.
SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) It would be a mistake today to behave poorly to someone because you think you might be treated similarly. Give this person a chance.
CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Performance, not appearance, is what will impress others today. When you do your very best, you'll win their admiration.
AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A wily antagonist might try to put you down in front of mutual friends today. Don't let this disturb you. They'll see through his shenanigans.
PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Small opportunities shouldn't be ignored today. What appears to have little surface value could lead to something bigger.
ARIES (March 21-April 19) Sincerity serves a helpful purpose today. Evasion offers no benefits. Say what needs to be said if another asks you for advice.
TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Someone who usually succeeds with crafty tactics might try to pull something over on you today. If you're alert you'll circumvent his schemes.
GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Your greatest asset today is your ability to arouse the spirit of cooperation. You can turn loners into helpful teammates.

DEAR DR. LAMB—I am 24 and have a duodenal ulcer that bleeds. When I was 16 the doctors did an upper gastrointestinal series and said I had an ulcer. It didn't bother me much then. Later I would have trouble when I would drink. I would throw up and have really bad pain below my diaphragm. I went to the emergency room and they would give me a shot that relaxed me. I would sleep and be OK the next day.

Six months ago when I went to the emergency room they had me come back the next day and an upper gastrointestinal showed the ulcer. They put me on Tagamet. So I stopped drinking. Then I started drinking again and ended up in the emergency room. They admitted me and pumped my stomach. A gastroscopy showed I have a bleeding ulcer in the valve that goes between the outlet of the stomach and the small intestine. I followed the program but then slipped back into drinking and got sick. I'm a bartender and it's hard not to drink.

I wondered if Tagamet will heal my ulcer or if I am stuck with it. Also what kind of surgery is available? I feel I am too young to have this problem always. DEAR READER—Your letter reminds me of the old truth that we are our own worst enemy. You know full well that your lifestyle is your problem and you seem to be unwilling to do anything constructive about it except temporarily. You will even subject yourself to surgery rather than do the obvious. The obvious is to stop drinking and never touch the stuff again as long as you live. That may not be as long as it should be if you don't heed nature's warning. As far as I am concerned, the most important things an ulcer patient can do are stop smoking, stop coffee (including the decaffeinated brands), stop tea, avoid colas and never drink any alcoholic beverages. If you don't do that you cannot expect good results with or without medicines.

You should seriously consider changing your profession. If you can't tend bar and not drink, you should stop tending bar. There is a lot more to your own management of an ulcer you need to read and heed in The Health Letter 15-10, Understanding Ulcers and Acidity, which I am sending you.

DEAR DR. LAMB—Is there any cure for eczema? What foods aggravate it? Mine started in my hairline. The medicine I took then helped. Then when it came back another dermatologist said it was eczema. He gave me Prednisone and Aristocort Cream, which helps. Now I am breaking out on my neck and shoulders. I followed his instructions fully but I keep itching.

DEAR READER—Eczema is not really a diagnosis but a term to describe reddening and other inflammatory changes of the skin. The term is not specific. You could have seborrheic dermatitis or even psoriasis. While steroids are very effective in some such skin disorders, it is important to match the right steroid with the right disorder.

You should go back to your dermatologist so he can see how you are doing. He may want to change your treatment on the basis of what he sees now.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Bridge hand layout showing North-South and West-East cards and a vulnerable dealer.

By Oswald Jacoby and James Jacoby All events at a national tournament aren't for national championships. There are regular side games for ordinary players in attendance. Here is a hand played by Thelma Taft of Lake Stevens, Wash. Thelma found herself as declarer at four hearts with a hand best seen as a refuge for an event for indigent bridge players.

Still, the dummy looked adequate and Thelma had hopes of making four. She not only made four, but with a little bit of help from East she came in with two overtricks.

East won the first trick with the spade king and continued with the ace which was ruffed in dummy.

Thelma took one high heart, noted the 4-0 trump break and led dummy's king of diamonds. East ducked. A low diamond was ducked also and she was in her own hand with the jack. Now came a proven heart finesse.

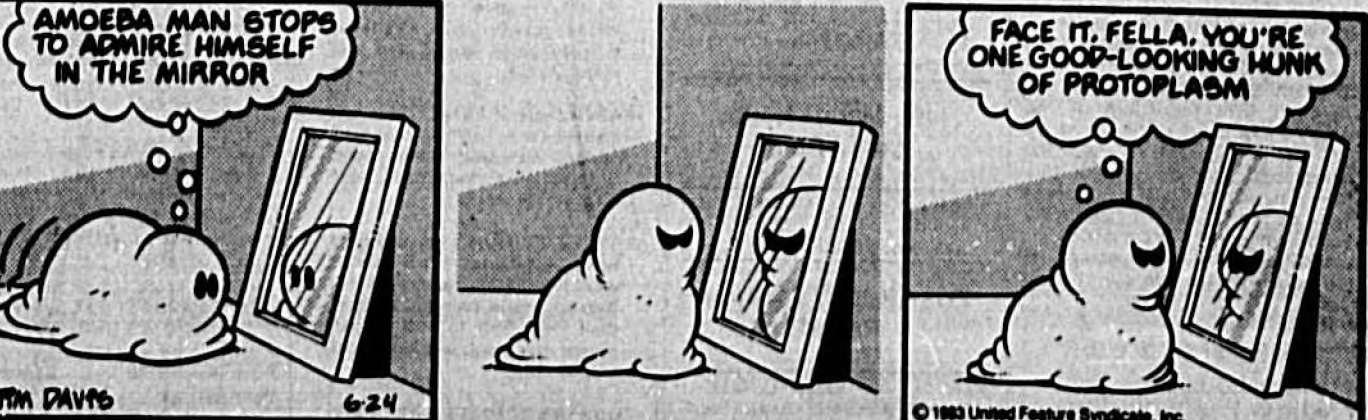

The ace, king and queen of clubs were cashed next and her own last diamond was discarded.

Now all Thelma had to do was ruff dummy's third diamond, take another trump finesse, pull trumps and claim.

Ms. Taft reported this hand to Henry Francis and asked what he thought of the play. Henry plagiarized the late P. Hal Sims by saying, "Angels could do no more."

Beer

A Saga
Of Suds

Beer. Paul Newman loves it, many doctors recommend it for heart ailments and insomnia, and it's the favorite drink of Central Florida's good ol' boys...and girls. There's a keg full of information on the frothy concoction inside on page 2.

The Foamy Drink That Flaunts Its Gusto

By Britt Smith
Herald Staff Writer

It's the Wild West, Billy Carter, and Clydesdales all wrapped up in one bright, aluminum can.

Beer — the universal drink of the Common Man. And the common man and woman in Florida drank a river of it last year; 114,600,876 cases to be precise, which figures out to about 11 cases (284 cans) for every man, woman, and child in the state. And the trend is growing. Over the past five years, consumption has risen roughly 13 percent. (Those figures courtesy of Buddy Gridley of the Beer Industry of Florida).

This tasty fermented brew has inspired songs, legends, fist fights, more than a few pot bellies, and even something bordering on mystical loyalty. It's one of Seminole Countians favorite props for practically any leisure time activity one can imagine — ball games, picnics, fishing, camping, a day at the beach, or just lounging around the pool.

"There's nothing like a nice, cold beer when I'm good and thirsty," says Sam Weech from a barstool in a popular watering hole on the banks of Lake Monroe in Sanford. "Especially on Sunday morning: that first beer is like...well, so good I don't know how to put it."

The Florida Revenue Department knows how to put it. Into dollars and cents. The state collected a whopping $137,312,404 in beer taxes last year.

And the favorite brand of Sunshine State suds suckers? Budweiser, far and away. Miller came in a distant second.

Now those might not make your personal list of Top 10 beers, but not to worry, there are several hundred other brands in the world from which to choose.

What makes the fellow sitting next to you at the bar swill Olde Frothingslosh while you guzzle a Molson's depends on a highly subjective and complex phenomenon called taste.

A group of self-professed experts on the subject, Seminole Community College students enjoying a few cold beers at a pub near the campus, cite factors like "weather," "how thirsty you are," and "what you're eating" that affect beer drinkers' tastebuds.

But some authorities claim all it takes is good advertising.

A classic study conducted in 1962 by the Institute of Design Analysis revealed that the average beer drinker: a) can't distinguish between brands when given unmarked glasses of beer, and b) changes his evaluation once the brand is identified to him.

As a result of such studies, "more money is spent on marketing and packaging than on the actual product. Non-discriminating palates now accept some of the least distinguished beer in the world," writes Michael A. Weiner, author of The Tasters Guide To Beer (Macmillan Publishing Co. Inc., 1977).

Instead of concentrating on quality to sell their products, advertisers rely on statistics that show who drinks beer, Weiner claims. For example, 63 percent of all beer drinkers are men, the remaining 37 percent (naturally) are women and all like cool, colorful, refreshing-looking labels wrapped around their favorite brew.

Just who are these gullible suds sippers? Dr. Peter Bennett, a professor of marketing at Penn State University, paints this picture of John Q beer lover: "A dreamer, a wisher, a modified Walter Mitty who's a risk-taker and pleasure-seeker, at least in fantasy. He's a sports nut because he's a hero worshipper, but he rarely participates because he's a slob; he drinks too much beer. He's probably a male chauvaunist pig and not the type who attends church regularly or works for charity."

One well-known brewery, Bennett says, used that profile to build a successful ad campaign around men who supposedly live their lives with "gusto." Sound familiar?

To Bennett's list of descriptive adjectives, Altamonte Springs bar owner Ed Liden adds covetous. "They want beer they can't easily get," he says,

Who says the average beer drinker is some fat, macho slob just off the farm or the assembly line? These young women enjoying their favorite brew at a Sanford bar prove it just ain't so. Hey, barkeep, how about setting up another round!

referring to Coors, 'Colorado Kool Aid,' which was once carted clandestinely into this state by the carload.

Before Coors finally came to Seminole County and the rest of Florida, great hordes of bootleggers were finding their western sojourns quite profitable as they demanded and got upwards of $1.50 for a single can of Coors.

It's practically the same story with foreign beers except that many of these are readily available to the American beer drinker. Imports account for only about 3 percent of the total beer sold in this country, but says Liden, "people like it because it's different."

"What can you say? Imports are just better beers. American beers on the whole are good, but more time and care is taken with imports," he says. "The main attraction is the fact that they're a relatively new item, different taste and name."

Different is right. There are some obscure brands in the brew biz that could drive any Madison Avenue man to drink. Just try Brahma Chopp from Brazil, Uncle Ben's Malt Liquor from Canada, or Takara Masamune Sake from Japan.

But American beers are no slouches when it comes to monikers: sample Olde Frothingslosh, Chippewa Pride, or Vat 7 Draft, for instance.

The number one selling import, according to the American Beer Association, is a Dutch brew — Heineken — but most beers imported into the U.S. are from Germany. However, don't let some foreign-sounding name fool you.

Lowenbrau is a German beer, but the kind you buy at the supermarket is brewed and bottled by the truly domestic Miller Brewing Co. It's the same with Tuborg, brewed by Carling; and Andeker, brewed by Pabst.

Although most of us know what beer we like to drink, we really don't know what we're drinking. To the layman, the difference between 'lager' and 'stout' is as mysterious as marine benthic dynamics or the true relationship between love and sex.

Most people use the term "beer" to refer to all fermented malt beverages, but there are various types with different strengths, although most domestic varieties average about 3.5 percent alcohol by weight.

To beer aficionados, the brewing process is as complex and subtle as the wiring of a Polaris missile. To suggest otherwise is to be subjected to a wry smile and haughty shrug which signal the world that you are a mere commoner whose soul is composed largely of mud.

Nevertheless, here is a simplified breakdown of the types of beers available:

—Lager: This is the most popular variety of beer in America. It's an amber, light-bodied beer which has been stored or aged for up to three months. (In their unbridled haste to get their wares to a thirsty public, some domestic brewers fudge on this process, aging their beers for as little as one week). Most of the lagers made in this country use corn or rice as the main ingredient while in Europe, where the art of brewing is still revered, the use of anything but malt is not only considered sinful, it's illegal. There are both light and dark lagers.

—Ale: This is brewed from almost the same ingredients as lager, but is more full-bodied and slightly hoppy, or bitter tasting. It also has more alcohol. Ballentine's Ale is probably the best known domestic offering.

—Bock: It's somewhere between dark beer and pale ale. It's heavier and sweeter than lagers.

—Porter and stout: These are typically British brews and are fermented like ales. The color varies from light to dark with each type. However, porter is generally lighter in color and lower in alcohol content than stout. Stout is a more bitter, heavy, rich, and creamy-headed brew. Probably the most well-known stout is Guinness from Ireland.

—Malt liquor: This is lighter than ale, but often more bitter than beer with a somewhat higher alcohol content.

What makes any of these 'good' depends on several variables such as the ingredients and process used. In the 1500s, any Bavarian beer maker caught selling what was considered to be bad

Donna Mills: Victim To Vixen

By Peter Meade

It may be considered blasphemy, but not everyone watches "Hill Street Blues" every Thursday night.

One of the reasons some people watch CBS at 10 p.m. is Donna Mills. Her "Knots Landing" character, Abby Cunningham, gives no quarter when it comes to comparisons to any of TV's popular current breed of scheming, double-dealing, win-at-all-costs females.

But Miss Mills wasn't always the sexiest seducer on television. During her three-year stint on daytime's "Love is a Many Splendored Thing" she was splendidly playing a nun. Next it was on to TV movies — 21 in all — and then guest starring roles on numerous series before landing on "Knots."

"The series has given me exposure," says Miss Mills. Part of the exposure has been hers, during torrid love scenes with co-star Ted Shackelford.

"Before I was always the victim. It's much more fun to play a character who makes things happen."

She is convincing and other people seem to think so also. Even when she is not playing Abby, just walking into a room causes wives to grab for their husbands' arms and head for supposed safety. Miss Mills links much of her performance to theories learned from another of TV's varsity villains, Larry Hagman of "Dallas."

"What I try to do with Abby," she explains, "is the same thing Larry does with J.R. — have fun with the character, so people will not be hateful of her."

Miss Mills has worked with Hagman before they became their current characters. They starred together in a 1971 series called "The Good Life."

She likes to have more control in her work, and this led to the formation of her production company, called

Donna Mills

Bonaparte Productions. It was named after her German Shepherd, not the famous Frenchman.

"I don't like playing weak women," she admits, "but I want the goodness of other characters. Acting means always waiting for someone else and I want to be in control."

Abby Cunningham would be proud of Donna Mills.

Modest Proposal: Nostalgia Channel

By Andrew J. Edelstein
If cable can support the Nashville Network, a Weather Channel or even three all-movie services, why not a channel that shows nothing but vintage TV programs?

David McCallum (l.) and Robert Vaughn from "The Man from U.N.C.L.E."

Considering the quality of current network fare, this proposal isn't as farfetched as you might think. As it stands now, two major cable outlets — Superstation WTBS and CBN Cable — gear a large block of their programming to classic reruns. One independent UHF station, WDRB-TV in Louisville, has doubled its ratings in recent years by packaging more than 125 hours of old shows during local sweeps. Obviously, the old shows have appeal — and CBN's late-night programming proves that it's not just kids who are watching these shows.

The market is there — especially as the baby boom generation grows older. They'd rather see "Mission Impossible" than "The A-Team," "I Love Lucy" than "Three's Company."

How would this channel — let's call it the Nostalgia Channel (TNC) — operate? It doesn't have to be a 24-hour service; it could work like the Nashville Network, with blocks of programming that are repeated during the day.

Each night of the week, for instance, would have a different theme. Monday night is spy night — during prime-time, we'd have "The Man from U.N.C.L.E.," "Secret Agent," "I Spy" and "The Avengers." Maybe throw in "Get Smart" for comedic relief.

On Tuesdays, how about rural sitcom night? In succession, we'd see "The Beverly Hillbillies." "The Real McCoys," "Petticoat Junction," "The Andy Griffith Show" and "Gomer Pyle."

And so on through the week: Cop night. Variety night. Supernatural night (with everything ranging from "The Twilight Zone" and "Outer Limits" to "Bewitched" and "My Favorite Martian"). Movie night. Western night.

You could break up the fare with an "Entertainment Tonight"-styled show, a "Whatever happened to?" or maybe a "TV's greatest commercials" show, which has proven so popular for NBC. During some morning blocks, TNC might even show old quiz shows (what a pleasure to see Bud Collyer or a crew-cut Allen Ludden again), or a TV trivia quiz show or even classic cartoons.

These shows are available from syndicators. Would people get tired of watching them after the rerun cycle is exhausted? Well, the same 39 episodes of "The Honeymooners" have been airing in reruns for more than 25 years and people aren't tired of them yet!

...Beer

beer was either beaten, banished, or killed.

That tradition lives on even today, albeit with considerably more tolerance. Any brewmaster creating a true brew would sooner drown himself in a pail of Pepsi than use inferior ingredients, chemical additives, or short-cut techniques.

Many American producers, however, aren't so fussy. Most domestic beers are pasteurized which makes them easier to ship and store, but which, some say, also kills some of their hoppy flavor.

Only brewers in Germany, Switzerland, and Luxembourg are forbidden by law from using anything but barley, malt, hops, water and yeast in their beers. Some of the additives found in most domestic brews include gum arabic to stabilize foamy heads, enzymes to speed up the conversion of starch to sugar during the malting process, and such things as acetic acid, isoamyl butyrate, and tartaric acid for flavoring and coloring.

On the brighter side, beer contains no fat and is high in vitamin B. Although there's about 144 calories in 12 ounces of regular brew, that's less than one candy bar or glass of milk. And with the newer "lite" beers, you're even better off.

Medically, some doctors have recommended beer to help patients curb their salt intake, relieve insomnia, or ease the strain on a faulty heart.

Mesopotamians, history tells us, invented beer around 2,000 B.C. They undoubtedly had no idea how popular their frothy concoction would become. From temple offerings to a round of draft at the Dew Drop Bar and Grill, beer's here.

Longwood Tea Room, Runcible Spoon, Serves Country Inn Dinners Fridays

This summer you don't have to go to the mountains to get a delicious family style dinner like those served at the inns. Now, just such a meal is available at The Runcible Spoon Tea Room at Browser's Barn in Longwood's historic district. The meal starts with a relish and salad tray which is waiting for you at table. Also waiting are butter and honey for the hot biscuits from the oven. You may choose chicken and puffy dumplings, ham steak or meatloaf as your main course. Then come the bowls of fresh vegetables, mashed potatoes, and stewed apples. Some of the vegetables served are grown right at Browser's Barn. Others are purchased on Friday mornings when the Cook does her daily shopping, choosing the best and freshest foods available to serve that evening. Friday afternoons are devoted to the preparation and cooking, which is timed to come to you right from the pot. A different fresh homemade dessert is served each Friday night. Examples are red velvet cake, cherry crunch with ice cream, apple pie or other favorite pies featured in the luncheon menu Tuesdays through Saturdays. Baking is done daily in the tea room kitchen. Coffee or tea is included in the price of the meal, which is $6.90 plus tax per person. Children under 12 are served for $3.55 plus tax; under three share from the table at no cost and get ice cream for dessert. Reservations are requested by noon Friday. Telephone is 831-4661. The Runcible Spoon Tea Room is open 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday. Lunch is served 11 to 2:30, snacks and desserts before and after lunch. The current summer menu features cold cucumber soup and borsch; fresh green salads, fruit salads; a variety of sandwiches served with vegetable garnish or chips; and special homemade desserts. Particularly popular is old fashioned lemon meringue pie. Browser's Bran and the tea room are located at 150 West Jessup Avenue, one block north of the Longwood Post Office on County Road 427.

Victor French Fumes; Fred Silverman Returns

By Peter Meade

Ted Danson

Billy Moses, who plays Cole Gioberti on CBS' "Falcon Crest," says, "I don't think I'll hit my stride and come into my own until I'm 32." Moses is giving himself nine more years to continue picking up the knowledge of his craft. He is keeping a notebook, started during the filming of "The Vintage Years," the pilot for "Falcon Crest." As part of the learning process Moses plans on directing some of the series' episodes within five years. He has already submitted a script for the series, written under a pseudonym with a partner, to the producer.

In addition to "Cheers" that isn't enough she's a Far-being renewed for a second season. Ted Danson is back in those provocative Aramis cologne commercials. He recently filmed three more in Los Angeles with actress Kim Terry. "They're a hoot to do," he says. But that doesn't necessarily mean he wears the stuff.

Remember Fred Silverman? He put NBC in its place — as the No. 3 network before Grant Tinker took over. He has returned to NBC, well, sort of, anyway. Silverman is the executive producer of a half-hour comedy that will be in NBC's 1983-1984 Thursday night lineup. It's called "We Got It Made."

From where this viewer sits, it's a dubious title. It's a kind of reverse "Three's Company" with two guys living with one female, who happens to be their housekeeper. She (Teri Coppley) also happens to be beautiful and blonde. And if rah Fawcett clone who acts like a graduate of the Heather Thomas school of acting. With all this going for it, the show will probably be a hit.

Don't invite Victor French and NBC President Grant Tinker to the same hot tub. French is quite angry with NBC's decision to dump his series, "Little House," because of poor ratings. The bearded actor is currently rounding up support from all directions and wants outraged viewers to write Tinker, at NBC, 3000 West Alameda, Burbank, CA 91523.

John Meschitta admits he is talking "only" 450 words per minute in those Federal Express commercials. His top speed — supposedly the world's fastest — is 543 wpm, but, he says, "it's hard to talk that fast without moving something other than your mouth," and the commercial requires that he sit still.

The Man Behind 'Return Of The Jedi'

By Dick Kleiner
HOLLYWOOD (NEA) — Richard Marquand is the Welshman who directed the new "Star Wars" film, "Return of the Jedi." He is a little upset at himself, in retrospect, because he found himself talking to things that don't exist. That's how it is, apparently. If you work on a picture like that, a picture full of Ewoks and Hutts and robots and all sorts of animated nuts and bolts and fur and fuzz. "Take Jabba the Hutt," says Marquand. "The thing is 12 feet long. There are three men inside this ghastly slug, making it move and there are others making his eyes work. And I found myself yelling at that ghastly slug, 'Come on, blink your eyes.' I would say, as though it could understand." But Marquand thinks that's the only way a director can do a creditable job working with things, rather than with actors. "You have to talk to all of those creatures," he says, "as though they were actors, as though they were people. You have to talk to them in the basic language. Because you have to bear one thing in mind all the time — everything has to end up on the screen looking as real as possible. "The only way to make it look real is if you, as the director, think that it truly is real." So he yelled at 12-foot-long slug and he worked with midjets inside of Ewok costumes and he told robots what to do. "My biggest problem was R2D2," Marquand says. "I don't mean the actor inside the outfit, but the character itself. He drives everyone crazy. We would rehearse and everything would be fine. But when we did the shot, anything and everything might happen." Marquand devised a trick for working with R2D2 and all the other non-human characters in the film. He would shoot the scene cheaply, first, with "Star Wars" toys. It was a means whereby he could see how the scene would work. "It was a way," he says, "for me to get the shot timed out, to see how things would go. I would shoot it and see what happened, and figure out from that how to cut back and forth." Ordinarily, productions use a technique called "story boards" to do that. They are drawings of the finished shot, but Marquand's system went a step beyond the story board. He feels strongly that because of the public's enthusiasm for all of the creations in "Return Of the Jedi" — the new creatures and the old familiar ones — they forget there is a solid story beneath all the creative trappings. "What we have in 'Return of the Jedi,'" Marquand says, "is a rich, highly emotional story set in the galaxy. 'Star Wars' imitators have used similar hardware to ours, but not the heart. I think if you have a really good story, it doesn't matter if you set it on horseback or in outer space. I find the practical business of spaceships not particularly interesting — but the man who is inside that spaceship is interesting."

Warning: This Commercial Could Be Hazardous To Kids

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Two groups trying to give parents a chance to shut off the television before their children see some commercials are asking the Federal Communications Commission to require warning signals before ads.

Supporters say a signal broadcast before and after commercials during children's programming would pave the way for development of a device that would automatically block out the commercials.

The shut-off device would be voluntarily bought and installed, according to Action Children's Television, a 20,000-member group advocating improved children's television programs, and a California law firm, Public Advocates Inc., which prepared the filing before the commission on behalf of a group of parents.

According to a petition the groups presented earlier this week to the FCC, the proposed rule "does not involve government restriction of advertiser's First Amendment rights, nor ... interference in the content of children's television advertising."

The petition also said it would not restrict advertising time or the public's right to receive information.

Peggy Charren, president of the children's television group, said the FCC and the Federal Trade Commission had shown concern about the possible harmful effects of advertising on children.

After studying the issue for three years, however, the FTC decided in March 1981 not to issue any regulations.

"We designed this solution that gives parents the option of exercising their responsibilities. It also fits in with the Reagan administration's deregulation postures," Ms. Charren said. "It is a free choice."

NBC Boasts A Strong Fall TV Lineup

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Hoping to climb out of its No. 3 position, NBC has the most attractive new prime time programming by far for next fall with something for everyone — six drama series, three comedies, squads of macho good guys and blondes, blondes, blondes.

And on Sunday nights, the network has decided to fight fire with fire by putting NBC news correspondent Lloyd Dobyns up against CBS' crowd-grabbing "60 Minutes" with his own new news magazine, "Monitor."

One of the hour-long drama series that looks like a sure winner is "Yellow Rose," starring the charismatic and extremely handsome Sam Elliott as a modern Texas cowboy. This character is so macho he's served time for murder and gained fame riding rodeo while in prison for seven years.

But underneath all of that animal vigor is a heart of gold and a sense of justice. Though the mystery of this hunk's past doesn't come out completely in the first episode, viewers learn through dialogue that the killing just might be forgivable when all the facts are known.

The woman whose life the cowboy rides into is Cybill Shepherd, who plays Colleen Champion, a young woman who inherited a 200,000-acre ranch cattle ranch from her elderly husband.

Viewers who have seen Miss Shepherd's work in such box office blunders as "Daisy Miller" and "At Long Last Love" will be surprised at the believable job she does in this role and the ease with which she handles talking Texas.

The program, which will air 10-11 p.m. Saturdays against CBS' "Saturday Night at the Movies" and ABC's popular "Fantasy Island," also stars Susan Anspach, David Soul and Edward Albert.

Another of the hour-long dramas, "For Love and Honor," could shape into a "Hill Street Blues Goes Army."

If the story of the "lives, loves and adventures" of a battalion of the 88th Airborne Division paratroopers in peacetime lacks some credibility, it would be in the female casting. All of the women in this army look like Vogue magazine models. For instance there's Shelley Smith, who plays a captain, and Rachel Ticotin, the only woman new recruit.

But the series comes from David Gerber, known for such true-to-life dramas as "Police Story" and "Medical Story," so there seems to be little danger of too many shots of ingenious training for combat by jogging around the camp in light T-shirts.

The male cast includes TV veteran Cliff Potts, film and television star Yaphet Kotto and Gary Grubbs.

"For Love and Honor" stacks up Friday nights at 10 p.m. against CBS'

"Falcon Crest" and ABC's "Matt Houston." Who said life was easy?

The comedy that television critics previewing NBC's new offerings were most curious about was not available for viewing. "Mr. Smith," the story of an orangutan who ends up after a lab experiment in Washington with an IQ of 256 and a job as a government consultant.

ABC Movie Handles Incest Subject Well

By Julianne Hastings
UPI TV Reporter

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — ABC has taken up the challenge of dealing with incest for prime time viewing.

It is not the kind of subject a family might want to sit down after dinner in the den and watch a movie about, but the result of ABC's effort is a tasteful, enlightening and beautifully acted drama that shows what good actors with solid scripts can do with television.

"Something About Amelia," one of several fine movies made for the "ABC Theater" series, is the story of a middle-class family plunged into a nightmare when their 13-year-old daughter finally breaks down and tells her teacher that her father has "been messing around with me."

The script by William Hanley and put together with technical adviser Stan J. Katz of the Children's Institute International in Los Angeles, never shows the daughter (Roxana Zal) involved with her father (Ted Danson). Executive producer Leonard Goldberg said it never occurred to the production staff to include such scenes, explaining that they were doing the story of the discovery, the crisis and how it was handled.

The two-hour movie opens with the warning: "The following program deals with incest and its painful consequences. It focuses on awareness, communication and treatment for affected parents and children. The family is encouraged to view together. However, due to sensitive subject matter, parental discretion is advised."

Goldberg said the idea behind making the program was to bring the subject "into the light and show everyone the emotions involved."

"We know this is going to reach a huge audience and the purpose is to expose the subject with positive treatment," he said.

When the program is aired — probably in the fall — ABC plans to set up some kind of hotline service through local community centers, although firm plans still have not been made.

Katz said incest is a form of child abuse that should be dealt with for the sake of the father as well as the child. In the movie, a psychiatrist tells the mother (Glenn Close) that sex has little to do with incest. The fathers need warmth, comfort, love, help.

Miss Close gives a memorable performance as the woman who at first tries to convince herself that her daughter is lying and later is torn between the emotions of jealousy — "he wanted her more than me" — and love for her husband and daughter.

Steven Bennett, the character played by Danson, is able to stay out of jail when he admits he has been having intercourse with his daughter for two years. Instead of being charged with rape in criminal court, the matter is dealt with in family court.

Bennett is forced to move out of his home and the entire family (there also is a younger daughter who is told the truth about what is happening) is given counseling, including group sessions with adults dealing with the same problem.

At the end of the movie, it is not clear whether the Bennetts will be able to save their marriage but there seems to be hope. The daughter and father also are brought together at an emotionally gripping counseling session, and it is apparent that the child still has love for the father that abused her.

"Real life is not as hopeful," Katz admitted. More often, he said, "Amelia ends up in therapy 10 years later and never is able to have a healthy relationship with a man."

Among other movies ABC has lined up for its 1983-84 season is "Street Car Named Desire," starring Treat Williams as Stanley Kowalski, Ann-Margret as Blanche DuBois and Beverly D'Angelo as Stella.

Stu Samuels, vice president of novels, limited series and motion pictures for television, ABC Entertainment, said his network's "Street Car" follows the Tennessee Williams play text more closely than the 1952 movie.

There also is "The Dollmaker," starring Jane Fonda as a mountain woman struggling to survive when she moves to Detroit with her husband and five children during World War II, and "The Mystic Warrior," an action-packed drama about a young Indian who takes over as head of his tribe and must face the impending encroachment of the white man.

Robert Mitchum will star in "Casa Grande," the true story of Gary Tyson's escape from the Arizona state penitentiary with the help of his three teenage sons and the massive manhunt that followed.

ABC also is working on a story about the life of actor Ernie Kovacs that will reveal to many for the first time that Kovacs' child was kidnapped by his first wife. The script is being written with the assistance of Kovacs' widow Edie Adams.
