

GOOD HAMBURG STEAK

HOMELY DISH MAY APPEAR IN MANY GUISES.

Some Recipes That Are a Great Improvement on Usual Way of Serving It—How Butchers Cheat the Housewife.

That plain but nourishing dish known as Hamburg steak may appear in various guises that are a great improvement on the usual way of serving it. A very nice dish with cakes and coffee for an autumn breakfast is prepared with about two-thirds of Hamburg steak and one-third of sausage. The sausage should be rich with sage and other seasonings. The dish tastes much like sausage, but without the greasy quality. Therefore persons with delicate digestions can partake of it when they might be forced to refrain from eating unadulterated sausage.

Another nice way of serving Hamburg steak is the following: Melt a cupful of powdered cracker crumbs with a little milk—enough to make a mixture of pudding-like consistency. Stir this through a pound of Hamburg steak and season the whole with pepper, salt and powdered sage. Two teaspoonfuls of the powdered sage will be about right. Some palates may like a little more and some less. After seasoning knead the mixture with the hands until all the ingredients have become properly amalgamated. Form it into a roll and slice the roll into cakes. Fry the cakes in very hot suet or butter. If the Hamburg steak seems to be lacking in fat it is well to add a little chopped suet when mixing the softened crumbs into it.

Probably more housewives are cheated through the medium of Hamburg steak than in any other way along the meat line. The best way to manage is to buy a piece of first class round steak and have it ground before one's own eyes; then one knows exactly what one is getting.

One of the interesting specimens at a recent food show was the Hamburg steak shown in the exhibit conducted by Uncle Sam's meat inspectors. The "Hamburg" looked fresh and healthy but their appearance was most deceiving. They were in reality old minced scraps of meat freshened and colored with a preserving liquid that comes especially for the purpose—a veritable invention of Satan. As butchers seem to have the power to elude the inspectors at times and as meat treated with this preparation is likely to deceive any one, it is best to avoid all Hamburg steak that has been previously chopped, unless the butchers' sense of honor is above suspicion, and even then it is just as well not trust to one's own opinion. It may be well to warn young housekeepers in particular against tempting "specials" in this line.

MAKESHIFTS FOR THE COOK

Tasty and Appetizing Dishes Easily Made From Various Kinds of Leftovers.

Canned tomato soup can masquerade as a delicious puree if it is mixed with half its bulk of cream or milk. Season highly and add the cream before the soup is seated, as it is less likely to curdle. For variety, barley or cut-up spaghetti can be added.

The mixture that is left in the bottom of the casserole after the meat has been removed can be utilized for another meal. And about half the quantity of water, cut up dice of potatoes and make dough balls, stewing the mixture until the potatoes are tender.

When making apple float try roasting the apples instead of stewing them. The pulp is removed from the skins and mixed with the whites of eggs.

Left-over spaghetti or macaroni is nice cooked in a baking dish with a cream sauce and shredded green and red peppers cut over the top. Sometimes cheese is added to the mixture, again bread crumbs.

Roman Meat Pie.

Butter a large pie dish and line with boiled macaroni. Cut up any good cold meat—veal, chicken, ham or tongue; make a layer of each kind in the dish, putting a white or brown sauce over each layer, and season to taste. Pour a layer of rich white sauce on top, sprinkle over some grated Parmesan cheese and finish with strips of boiled macaroni. Pour a little melted butter on top, sprinkle on some grated cheese and bake in a hot oven over a half hour or until a nice brown.

Dog Alpinist.

A bulldog called Bobby, belonging to the Marquis de Charette of Paris, is the first dog to gain mountaineering fame by ascending the summit of the Jungfrau. He was accompanied by master and mistress and two guides.—Berne Correspondence London Daily News.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

Punta Gorda is to have a new bank. The institution will be capitalized at $15,000.

Pensacola is to have a new twelve-story hotel. The structure will occupy a site 150x125 feet and will be erected by Chicago capitalists. It will take about eleven months to complete the work.

Lakeland is making plans to have a permanent auditorium erected by next year for the holding of the chautauqua. Heretofore this annual event has been held in a big tent. The amount wanted for this purpose is $15,000. There has already been subscribed $11,500.

Attorney General Park Trammell's opinion that the expense of registration prior to a primary election must be paid by the county will undoubtedly be sustained by the courts. It is not a party registration in the language of the statute, and all voters, irrespective of party affiliation, are entitled to register while the books are open.

A man by the name of J. R. Etchison of St. Joseph, Mo., was found in Tampa Saturday, after a search had been made for him over the country at the instance of Mrs. Etchison. His mind is practically a blank for the period of his absence from home, but his bank account has diminished a hundred thousand dollars. He left home to go to Excelsior Springs to take mud baths.

T. G. Lockwood reports a splendid yield of cabbage. He has in about 30 acres and they look fine. He has been shipping in piece lots for several days and on Wednesday sent out the first full car. Several weeks ago a buyer estimated that Mr. Lockwood would have 9,000 crates and offered him $1.40 per crate which would have been over $12,000 for the crop. Mr. Lockwood is now glad that he did not sell on the guess plan.—Bartow Record.

Martin Frost is experimenting with alfalfa and so far has secured sufficient encouragement to try greater strides in this new venture. He has established a small experiment station on one of his places and has produced eight weeks from seedling stalks that measure nearly twelve from the soil surface. The same measurement of this product takes elsewhere about seventeen weeks to grow to this size. Interest is much aroused and the outcome is being closely watched.—Danis Express.

A saloon keeper in West Palm Beach, so the papers there state, was arrested for keeping his saloon open on the day of a primary election. He was arrested, convicted and fined, from which conviction he appealed to the circuit court. In a decision handed down by that court the judge states that an election called by a political party, which means a primary is not an election in the contemplation of the statutes of Florida. The laws, therefore that require the closing of all saloons on an election day do not seem to apply where a primary, called by any political party is held.

Lyman Twins Are Farming

The Lyman Twins are playing a new role while they are waiting for the show season to open again. About a year ago they purchased a fine place near Forest City this county where they have an orange grove, truck farm and chicken ranch and here they hibernate for the season. Herbert and his wife (Patti Reed) come to Sanford often to do their shopping and they are enjoying the outdoor life immensely. They are great favorites with the Sanford people and every one looks upon them as old friends. Their place, Lymandale, is situated upon a beautiful lake and Mrs. Lyman is greatly in love with the simple life and the Twins are looking forward to the time when they can retire from the bright glare of the footlights to the more peaceful life of a Florida planter.

Military Opening

A cordial invitation is extended to the ladies of Sanford and vicinity to attend the spring military opening of Mrs. Overman Thursday and Friday, March 7 and 8, over Yowell's store.

UNDERWOOD FOR PRESIDENT

Friends Are Making Campaign For Favorite Son In Florida

Judge B. M. Allen of Birmingham and B. C. Abernathy of Orlando were in the city last Saturday in the interests of Hon. Oscar Underwood of Alabama, candidate for Democratic nominee for the Presidency of the United States. Judge Allen was a caller at The Herald office and spoke in glowing terms of his visit to Florida and the many expressions of loyalty he had received for his candidate. Judge Allen could not spend much time in Sanford, but met as many people as he could and pressed the claims of Mr. Underwood.

He stated that he was very desirous of forming an Underwood Club in Sanford and Orange county to push the candidacy of Mr. Underwood and that in the near future a more thorough canvass would be made for the county.

Oscar Underwood is very much in the public eye at present and the fact that he is a southern man will make a strong bid for the votes of the Florida people at present.

Ball Game Friday

Sanford High School team and DeLand High School team will battle for the supremacy at Holden Park next Friday afternoon. Both teams have been working hard and the boys expect to put up a good article of ball. Come out and help the boys.

TO CELEBRATE THE BRIDGE

Planning For A Grand Barbecue And Political Talkfest

The good people of the East End can always be counted upon to plan a barbecue or fish fry or a basket picnic during the campaign and The Herald suggests that they get together this year and let Geneva, Oviedo, Chuluota, Ft. Christinas, Longwood and other precincts in that vicinity join hands with Sanford at the opening of the Geneva bridge and make the occasion one that will be an epoch in the history of Orange County.

According to J. F. Melann who has the work in charge the steel drawbridge ought to be completed in April and about the 20th of that month would be a good date to hold a big meeting and commemorate the opening of the new bridge that will unite the Sanford section to the East End of Orange County. All the candidates would be there and the day could be made a great occasion where all of us could meet and eat and hear the candidates. The river is close by a fine camp ground could be located, stands erected and with fried fish, barbecued meat, chicken and other good things such as the East Orange people know how to prepare a grand day would result.

The Weather

During the past year there was nothing out of the ordinary in the weather—no climatic disturbances. All days were not perfect, but the few inclement days made us appreciate the good weather when it came to us again after a lapse of 24 or 36 hours.

While we are filled with thankfulness that our lot has fallen in such pleasant places, we earnestly pray for the time when every sufferer from ice and snowstorms, or from extreme heat and violent storms, will be able to enjoy our blessings with us. In Sanford it is happiness and not misery that loves company.

We sympathize with all those who long to be with us but cannot, we make all due allowance for others who are held back by ties of family and association, but we know that there are many who could come and yet, through ignorance of our ideal conditions, or from want of a little energy to break away from the surroundings they have become accustomed to, still continue to waste the best part of their lives in uncongenial surroundings.

Church Social

"Latesponte Farm," the home of Mrs. Ella Greenland, was the scene of much enjoyment last Thursday evening, when its ever hospitable doors were thrown open to the church goers of Moore's Station and their friends.

The house was lovely with its decorations of roses, wild violets and the traditional jasmine. Music and readings were the features of the evening, after which refreshments were served. The musicale, which was given to liquidate the church debt, was a success financially. Everyone had a pleasant evening and all are hoping it may happen some time again.

MORE IMPROVEMENTS

Sanford Will Have Busiest Season In History

BIG THINGS ARE CONTEMPLATED

More Buildings, Tourist Hotel New Steamship Line and Country Club On List

The season of 1912 promises more good things for Sanford than we have ever gained in the past.

Among them will be a large canning factory, a new tourist hotel, a new steamship line, a country club, a new building with the Y. M. C. A., as the prime factor and a number of other improvements in the way of buildings and residences.

The improvements now being made and contemplated on the St. Johns river are attracting the traffic people to the importance of the river trade and Sanford as the lead navigation. One new steamship line is already organized and will be put in operation in the early fall.

A new tourist hotel is also among the live topics of conversation and the same parties who expect to engineer this project will organize a country club with golf links and all the recreations for the tourist guests.

Harry Ward is imbued with the idea of a larger canning factory and will make extensive improvements and will handle tomatoes, beans and corn.

A number of buildings will be erected and a nice one contemplated is a Y. M. C. A. three story building, stock for which is subscribed in part by many northern visitors who winter here.

FOR UPPER ST. JOHNS

Chief Engineer Recommended The Expenditure of $10,000

There is much adverse criticism of the recent appropriations made for the St. Johns river wherein Jacksonville receives $300,000 and the upper St. Johns river only $10,000.

Congressman Clark has been instrumental in having the survey work and present dredging operations begun on the upper St. Johns river and of course cannot be held responsible for the chief engineer's report but surely it would seem out of all proportion for so much money to go to the seaport cities all the time and so little for the upper St. Johns, the great commercial highway for interior Florida.

Following is the comment of the engineer in charge of the work.

"As I have stated before, $300,000 will take care of the work of the dredges while the other appropriation of the civil service bill will carry all present contracts, or those authorized in the past.

"As regards the appropriation for the upper St. Johns we have an item of $10,000 which is exactly what the chief engineer estimated would be required, but $10,000 we proposed to use in working the dredge Florida at night was cut off. We shall have to be content with operating the Florida during the day only.

"The total appropriations recommended by the committee, will if the bill passes, insure the operation of the whole plant now in the St. Johns for the next year or until June 30, 1913. By that I mean that the equipment excepting the Florida, can be operated night and day."

At present the dredge boat is working on the river above Sanford and we now have a good channel from Sanford to Palatka. All last summer the dredge boat was engaged in cutting off the curves and angles of the river and cutting out the sand bars and with an additional amount we look for a revived interest in river shipping.

Small favors are thankfully received and the upper St. Johns river will eventually come into its own and Sanford will be the greatest commercial center in Florida.

Another Jacksonville Murder

Another black crime has been added to Jacksonville's long list making eight of the same kind in less than a year's time. The last was that of S. Silverstein, a grocer and the same motive, robbery. Silverstein was killed Saturday night in his store and his wife and two children so badly injured that they will die. The robber and murderer used an iron pipe and dealt his victims blows over the head until they were unconscious when he rifled the house at his leisure and made good his escape.

WILL SPEAK HERE

Marcus Fagg Will Lecture Here Next Friday Afternoon

On Friday afternoon at 3 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Henry Wight Mr. Marcus C. Fagg will speak to the Wednesday Club on the "Provision that Florida Makes for her Defective and Delinquent Classes." This is one of the regularly scheduled subjects for the civic study of the Wednesday Club, and Mr. Fagg is particularly well equipped for presenting the facts and needs pertaining to it. Mr. Fagg is state superintendent of the Children's Home Society and vice president of the Florida Conference of Charities and Corrections, and one of the best informed and most thoroughly efficient social workers in the south.

As this meeting will be of general interest, the Wednesday Club invites all who may wish to attend, whether club women or not.

Good Roads in Florida

The total mileage of roads in Florida is 17,579, of which there was improved in 1904 885.5 and in 1909 1,752.25, and in 1911 approximately 2,500.

During the period between 1904 and 1909 the per cent increase in good roads in Florida was 97 per cent.

In 1909 the per cent increase on new improved roads was 9.93 per cent, exceeded only by four other states. Oklahoma made the least improvement, 50 per cent.

CARNIVAL IS ON

First Street Presents A Busy Appearance And Much Noise

First street is some lively this week especially the east end of it for here the Moss & Murr's Big Shows have pitched their tents and a small midway is presented. The best effect cannot be produced as the attractions were forced to camp on all sides wherever a vacant space could be procured.

But they are here in force and the fine band discourse music daily and the free attractions are given on scheduled time and there is as much noise and confusion resultant as any one could desire.

The Wild West, Old Plantation and every other attraction under the sun, 16 big shows in all, and there is something doing all the time. Harry Six, the famous high diver has a spidery ladder that reaches the clouds and from this lofty perch he tries to kill himself every day and night by diving into a small tank of water. This free attraction is worth going miles to see.

On account of delay in the train part of the carnival has not arrived, several tents and side walls for the diving girls being on the way. This attraction is one of the best on the grounds and never fails to attract the crowds.

Former Sanford Residents

William Teaben of the Lenox Hotel of Jacksonville was in the city yesterday looking up old friends. He was in the hotel business in Sanford many years ago and his many friends were glad to see him again.

Another former Sanford citizen here is M. O. Markham of Atlanta. Mr. Markham is the son of Dr. Markham, who in the early days owned many valuable groves and city property in and around Sanford. Mr. Markham was prominently identified with the business interests of Sanford and vicinity and is glad to return for a short time and renew old acquaintances. His health is impaired at present and he hopes to remain here until until he is well enough to return to Atlanta.

The Men's Rally

Arrangements are being carried forward for the big Rally next Sunday night. One of the speakers of the evening will be Mr. Marcus Fagg, of Jacksonville, Superintendent of the Children's Home Society. He will speak on "The Necessity for a Public Conscience." Those who have heard Mr. Fagg know the treat in store for them.

While the service is advertised as especially for men, seats will be reserved for ladies and children and a most cordial invitation is extended to them to be present. As the rally will be held in one of the theatres it is believed that there will be room enough for all who will attend. Further details will be published in the next issue of the Herald.

NEWS OF THE WORLD

Items of Interest Gleaned From Various Sources

HAPPENINGS DURING THE WEEK

Here the Readers Will Find a Brief Historical Spring Fliewing For Hurried Readers

James Wilson, Secretary of Agriculture, today broke all records for continuous service in the Cabinet. He completed his fifteenth year.

Senator Joseph M. Dixon of Montana will be the man at the helm of the Roosevelt ship. Supposed he will be the sort of captain that depends upon the reading of the stars.

The suffragettes of London, under the leadership of Mrs. Emmeline Pankhurst, recently undertook a window smashing campaign, during which a great deal of property of tradespeople was destroyed.

The Oregon hotel of Greenwood, S. C., one of the best known in South Carolina, and the adjoining block of stores were completely destroyed by fire early this morning. The loss is estimated at $140,000, with perhaps half that amount in insurance.

Factories are closing all over the United Kingdom for lack of fuel, as a result of the strike of more than a million coal miners. It is estimated that 200,000 men besides the miners are idle. The number is increasing hourly. Railroads and steamships in many instances are paralyzed.

The liveliest of the tariff revision fights in the present session of congress will break this week when the Democratic free sugar bill and the income excise tax bill, which goes with it to make up the $50,000,000 a year that would be lost in sugar duties, probably will go through the house and to probable defeat in the senate.

President Taft has taken the initiative in a movement to bring the men of the country into touch with the government for advice and counsel in the administration of laws and the enactment of new statutes. Virtually the president proposes a national board of trade, broadly representative of the commercial and individual organizations, and of such character as the government may properly recognize by a charter from congress.

Demand For Celery

The demand for celery is very heavy. Assistant Sales Manager Deckman, of the Florida Citrus Exchange, says:

"There is a great call for celery from all over the country. We are even having inquiries from Texas, itself a celery raising State. From the big cities of the Middle West the call is constant and increasing.

The Eastern seaboard cities cannot get enough for present wants. There appears to be no hold over stock in storage anywhere in the country. The California crop was light, and has been badly damaged by frost. In fact, Florida seems to be it in the celery deal as well as in oranges.

"We are having no trouble at all in getting all orders we can fill for fancy celery, 6 dozen per crate and larger, at $3.50 for Manatee crates and $3.25 for the smaller size. Choice celery of smaller size, when rightly packed, sells for $2.75 and $3. The quality of the Florida celery this year is the best ever. Just now the shipments are light, owing to the cold weather, which interferes with the bleaching."—Florida Grower.

Gainesville Murder Mystery

Gainesville, March 4.—All those arrested in connection with the murder of Dr. Henry Spencer, including H. G. Welch, have been released, the jury not finding sufficient evidence against the men to warrant their retention.

The murder still remains as great a mystery as before. However, every effort is being made to run down the criminals, a large reward having been offered for the apprehension of the murderer or murderers.

Notice

Annual meeting of the Sanford Hospital Association members will be held at the office of M. F. Robinson, Room 10, Wellborne Block, Sanford, Fla., Tuesday, March 12th, 1912, at 8 p. m., for the election of officers and trustees for the ensuing year and any other business that may legally come before the meeting.

CURBSTONE GLEANINGS

A Budget of Opinion "Just Between You and Me"

EVEN THE GATE POST NOT IN IT

A Chief is Among Ye Taking Notes and Faith, He'll Prent 'Em"—So Says Saunterer.

¶ I don't see any excitement being raised around here over my plans about a country club. You people who expect to have a better town and more tourists need a tourist hotel and a country club and a better lake front more than I do and you will need it badly ere another year. This question should be discussed by the conservative business men and plans laid ere another season opens. Your are all dead willing to let other cities take what is rightfully yours and all because you are content to sit down and let everything good slide past you.

¶ Some mischievous small boys or small men procured a lot of small pox signs the other night and posted them in conspicuous places in the city, almost causing a riot. These little jokes may seem funny to the perpetrators but there is a state law that specifically covers this offense, and some of these gay spirits will find themselves working on the country roads for about one year. There is no joke about the punishment of this offense as the parties will find out before they are through with it.

¶ Almost has the last minute of grace expired for the payment of poll taxes—yet almost 75 per cent of the voters have neglected to thus qualify. Certainly there must be some strong reason for this apathy; some reason other than that the payment comes due a month earlier than usual.

Probably in the whole state there are not a dozen people who are ignorant of this change of date. The matter has been harped upon by candidates and screamed through the columns of the press until every one must know that in order to qualify as a voter the due poll tax must be paid on or before next Saturday night.

Yet the apathetic condition continues and few pay. Hardly one-third the voters of the state are yet qualified. Apparently no one worries about politics this year; there is so much "doing" in other lines that no one seems to care who "kicks their dawg crown!"

¶ The number of people now days trying to get riches without labor, something for nothing, fortunes in a day, are legion, and they are a mighty temptation to the industrious young man who cannot understand it. They behold the seeming ease and leisure that comes to them while they have it so hard. Horations of olden time was told he could have just as much ground as he could plow around with a yoke of oxen in one day. He hooked up the oxen to the plow and he cut a very large circle and plowed until he came to the same point where he started, and all that property was his. And I have to tell you today that just so much financial just so much moral, just so much spiritual possession you will have as you compass with your own industries, and just so much as from the morning of your life to the evening of your life you can plow around with your own hard work. "Go to the ant, thus sluggard; consider her ways and be wise." One of the worst cauldrons of death today is an indolent life. Thank God that you have to work.

¶ The teapot tempest over the carnival seems to have subsided and all is quiet along the St. Johns. The only weak point about the fuss and feathers was that the fuss was started twenty minutes late. The City Council granted the Moss & Marr people permission to come in under a certain license, having passed a resolution to that effect and published it in the paper several weeks ago. Nothing more was heard of it until last week when the people who objected raised a howl and tried to keep the carnival out.

I fully agree with the school board that the lots near the school building should not be used for show purposes because the children cannot attend to their studies while all the noise and confusion is going on in that proximity. The proper place for a carnival is at the end of First street where the present company is now located, and if they had been give permission to go to there at first there would not have been so much noise made about their coming. The city council could not go back on a bad bargain and was forced to stand pat on the matter. An ordinance is an ordinance and cannot be set aside by a resolution. The carnival is here and will not carry off the city when they go. A little noise and confusion now and then is good for the old town and if any one can get a little pleasure out of the carnival and they are willing to pay a reasonable license there is no good reason for keeping them out or any other attraction. Certainly the Moss & Marr people will leave some money here as well as taking out some and while I am against allowing every "cheap bunch" that comes along getting in for half price I am certainly for a good show that is willing to pay the price and will do the right thing as Moss & Marr expect to do. The city council will have a difficult time making discriminations in this regard but the easiest way out is to watch results this week, pass a new ordinance making the license right and then abide by the terms of the ordinance for all times. You can't build a fence around the town trying to keep your money at home. It has been my experience that the ones who howl loudest about keeping money at home are the first ones to send out for everything they need so let the band play and joy be unconfined.

Big Rally for Men

The Organization Committee of the Men's Religion and Forward Movement for Sanford is planning a big rally for the men to take place next Sunday night, March 10th. At a meeting of the committee on Thursday afternoon the preliminary arrangements were completed. All five of the churches were represented. Mr. B. F. Whitner was asked to extend an invitation to Archdeacon Weber, who is now in Jacksonville, to come and deliver an address. Mr. Marcus Fagg of the Children's Home Society is to be in Sanford that Sunday and Mr. Waldron was requested to arrange for an address from him at the men's rally. Mr. Waldron was also given charge of the advertising for the rally.

Mr. J. N. Whitner was appointed a committee to obtain the use of one of the theatres of the city. Messrs. J. R. Wildman, Brock and Polk were named a committee on music. Each church is asked to supply two ushers for the occasion. The intention is to complete the details of the meeting as rapidly as possible, that full announcement may be made next week, and to make this one of the biggest religious rallies for men ever held in the city.

Spencer's Body Found

Gainesville, Feb. 29.—(Special)—After a few hours' search today the prostrate body of Dr. H. C. Spencer, the well known physician who has been missing from his home since Monday night, was found in a lonely clump of woods near the edge of an old unused road about five miles south west of this city today.

The discovery was made by Sheriff Ramsey and was a most ghastly one, as the entire top of the head of the victim was blown off from the effect of a gun shot. The physician was lying on his back with outstretched arms and limbs, and when the body was turned over the blood oozed from his head.

Investigation showed that the victim had also been beaten about the head, presumably by the butt end of a gun. Coroner J. A. Carlisle was notified and went immediately to the scene, when a jury was formed and an inquest was held the verdict of the jury having not yet been rendered.

Express Co. Has No Rates

Washington, Feb. 28.—Rates of express companies are fixed arbitrarily, practically without reference, even to the first class rail freight rate.

In brief, that was the statement today of Joseph W. Zimmerman, general traffic manager of the Adams Express Company at the investigation by the Interstate Commerce Commission into express rates and methods.

"We make our rates regardless of what the freight is between the same points," said Mr. Zimmerman. "I suppose no man living knows how express rates originally were made or could say definitely how they are made now."

Further inquiry by Commissioner Lane developed the admission from Mr. Zimmerman that the various express companies leaned on one another in the fixing of rates to avoid warfare among them.

President Miller Replies

Sanford, Fla., March 1, 1912. Messrs. C. R. Walker, L. R. Phillips, B. F. Whitner, Jr., Members of Local School Board, Sanford, Fla.: Gentlemen—In reply to your protest under the date of Feb. 28th, against the Moss & Marr's Consolidated Shows exhibiting in the city for one week beginning March to hand, and in reply will say that I have personally seen all the members of the city council, and I find that there is not a majority of them in favor of rescinding the action of that body which was taken February 5th. The action was taken at that meeting, and was so stated in The Herald of the next issue, and was also done with the sanction of the city attorney. The members do not feel that after two weeks have passed, and nothing has been said until these people have had all their material and men on the grounds for more than a week, and have also advertised their shows for the above dates, that we have any right to make any demands on them to fulfill their engagement. I did not deem it necessary to call a special session of the council at an expense of $14 to the city to receive one negative vote. The majority of the council considers that the matter should have been taken up before these gentlemen had made all the arrangements for their exhibitions.

Respectfully yours,
THEO. J. MILLER,
Pres't of City Council.

Concert at High School Tuesday Night

The Metropolitan Concert Company of New York at the High School Auditorium next Wednesday night is without doubt the greatest musical organization which has ever visited our city. This company is not composed of one or two good artists and the rest merely pickups, but each of the four are firstclass artists and are all young persons with exquisite stage presence. The program for the concert will be made up mostly of a class of music to suit all tastes. Yet it will relieve the element of a high grade of music. The press notices the Metropolitan Company receive wherever they appear are most complimentary. Of Miss Gerwing, the violin virtuosity of the company, the Savannah News of Feb. 19th says: "Miss Gerwing was both youthful and pretty. She is one of the finest violinists ever heard here. She played with expression that brought out almost human notes from the violin."

It is to Prof. Perkins the music loving people of Sanford are in debt for bringing this famous organization to Sanford. Reserved seat tickets now on sale at Thrasher's store.

Lend A Hand Club

The members of the Lend a Hand Club are requested to meet at the residence of Mrs. Henry Wight promptly at 2, o'clock Friday afternoon, March 8th. Owing to the fact that Mr. Marcus Fagg, of Jacksonville will talk to the club at Mrs. Wight's residence about 3, o'clock, it is imperative that the members of the club meet promptly at 2, o'clock.

WHY?

Sanford Music Club

The Sanford Music Club held their regular meeting at the studio of Mrs. Fannie Munson Saturday afternoon. Mrs. Geo. L. Hoy, leader. The topic for study was the great composer Von Weber, and his compositions.

The minutes of the last meeting were read by Mrs. Hoy, as the secretary. Mrs. Ernest Tolar was unable to attend. Mrs. Martin the president, requested Miss Carrie Lovell, to act as secretary for the meeting.

A very entertaining program had been prepared by Mrs. Hoy, the first paper of which was given by Mrs. F. L. Woodruff, on the "Life and Works" of Von Weber. The second paper "His Personality and Influence," was prepared by Mrs. D. G. Wagner but was read by her daughter, Miss Maud Alice, as Mrs. Wagner was ill. Both of the fine papers were very much enjoyed.

Mrs. O. W. Brady and Miss Olive Hill, gave a delightful violin and piano selection, "Allegro" from Mozart Accompanied by Miss Florence Frank. Miss Mabel Bowler sang, "Spring has Come," "Semeramide" one of Rossini's fine piano duets was charmingly rendered by Mrs. D. L. Thrasher and Miss Florence Frank. The short discussion on Von Weber and his works, with an incidental comparison of Italian, French and German opera, was much enjoyed by the club, after the conclusion of the musical part of the program.

A fine attendance of the club and two visitors were present. After the calling of the roll by the secretary pro tem a new name was given for membership and after the announcement by the president of the concert to be given at the Auditorium of the School House by The Metropolitan Concert Company of N. Y., the club took up their chorus work with their leader Mrs. Geo. L. Hoy

Strong for Base Ball Team

Every one who has been approached on the question of a ball team for 1912 has evinced great interest and Ed Rourke states that he will be able to raise between $150 and $200 per month from now until the season opens, which will mean a good nucleus in the treasury for the manager to go right to work. The season of 1912 promises a bright outlook for a winning team and from all indications the people will have the pleasure of enjoying some fine games during the summer months. Mr. Rourke is making a thorough canvass of the city and expects every one who can do so to give a small sum each month.

Aviator Falls Again

Aviator King, in attempting to make a flight from the Fair Grounds yesterday afternoon, fell from a height of forty feet, and narrowly escaped fatal injury. He was picked up, unconscious and hurried to Dr. Christ's sanitarium. The plane was wrecked.

Mr. King remained in Orlando after the Fair for the purpose of giving a number of exhibition flights from the Fair Grounds, his intention being to charge admission to the grounds. He has been at work continuously since the Fair, repairing his plane which was considerably damaged as a result of a fall during the Fair exhibitions.—Reporter-Star.

Sewing Circle

The Sewing Circle was entertained by the Misses Crux and Brain at the residence of Mrs. W. T. Johns Thursday evening. The circle had a very pleasant social evening together in the enjoyment of their pretty fancy work. The sewing was laid aside later in the evening when the delicious refreshments were served. Misses Crux and Brain's guests were the Misses Emma and Estelle Beard, Mary and Carrie Ensminger, Lillian Gibson, Margaret Roberts, Miss Hood, Mesdames W. E. Hoosholder, J. C. Bennett, W. T. Johns.

Lecture Tonight

Mrs. May Wood Symons of Girard, Kansas will address the people of Sanford and vicinity at the Congregational church tonight on Social Problems. Mrs. Symons is an eloquent speaker and presents her cause in a manner that is most convincing. The lecture tonight promises to be well attended and every one who wishes to hear about Socialism should attend. The admission fee of fifteen cents is charged to defray the travelling expenses of Mrs. Symons.

Made a Director

Hon. Forrest Lake has returned from Jacksonville where he attended a meeting of the Heard National Bank and was made a director in that great banking institution. Two other Orange county citizens were also made directors, Mayor Reynolds and Hon. M. D. Overstreet of Orlando.

The Heard National is building a fifteen story building and is one of the fastest growing institutions in the south.

L. A. Coggins at Sanford

Jacksonville, Fla. March 1.—L. A. Coggins, president of the M. O. Coggins Co., accompanied by Mrs. Coggins and S. Y. Free, the company's Florida sales manager returned from the East Coast this week and are now looking over the grounds at Sanford. Mr. Coggins has thoroughly enjoyed his trip in Florida and had the pleasure of meeting many of the most successful growers of fruit and vegetables.—Packer.

CARY D. LANDIS CANDIDATE FOR STATE ATTORNEY Seventh Judicial Circuit

To The Democratic Voters Of the 19th Senatorial District

The Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County has put the Senatorial claims in the proper light in the resolutions printed below. It will not endorse any candidate who must be voted for by you. In this the Committee is right. Endorsement of such candidates is your business exclusively. I ask your careful consideration and if you think I can best serve the district to renominate me.

Yours respectfully
LOUIS G. MASSEY

Resolutions of Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County

WHEREAS, on January 20, 1912, the Democratic Executive Committee of Osceola County, by resolution, called to the attention of the good Democrats of Orange County an alleged agreement or custom of dividing the Senatorship of the 19th District equally between the two counties, and expressed the belief that the patriots of Orange county democracy would not suffer this cause to be broken at the present time and then proceeded to endorse a candidate for Senator. Therefore, be it

RESOLVED, by the Democratic Executive Committee of Orange County, assembled February 17, 1912:

1. That this committee knows of no agreement or custom by any competent authority by which the terms of the senators from this district must be equally divided between Orange and Osceola counties. The equal term given to the last senator from Osceola county was because of the services and record of Senator C. A. Carson and, being personal to him, is not to be construed as an admission by the Orange County democracy that the senatorial terms are to alternate equally without regard to the merits of the candidates.
2. That in the opinion of this committee, the democratic voters of the 19th district should elect their senator according to their estimate of the fitness of the respective candidates.
3. That the democratic voters of the district will nominate a candidate for Senator in a primary held in this county regardless of place of residence under the auspices of this committee, which is the judge of the returns in this county. It would therefore, be improper for this committee, under such circumstances, to endorse any candidate.

Office in Herald Building Telephone No. 148

We wish the Kissimmee papers would get our name right.

The man who cannot pass the time away in Sanford this week ought to buy a Waterbury watch and give it to one of his friends.

Sanford promises to have a busy time this week with a medicine show, carnival and moving pictures and other attractions all going on at one time.

Sanford starts her baseball work today and what is more, those invincible celery growers intend to show all Florida what the national game really is—Miami Metropolis.

"Tampa Gets Lower Gas Rate" is the headline in the Tampa Tribune. "Gainesville Gets Lower Light Rate" is a headline in Gainesville Sun. What does Sanford get?

The high prices being paid for celery and lettuce are bringing new people to Sanford every day. This section can show the real goods. Other sections have not proved to be "just as good."

Orlando has just had all noses counted. There were 7,191. When I was over there they told me they always had 5,000 visitors. Third class in arithmetic please stand and tell me precisely the population of Orlando at normal tide.—Palm Beach County.

Hon. Arthur E. Donagan of Kissimmee, candidate for senator from Osceola and Orange counties will receive a good support in this section for two good reasons. He is qualified to hold the position and he is entitled to the office because Orange county has held the office for the full time limit and Osceola county should have it this time.

COLD STORAGE AGAIN The Herald again calls attention to the question of a cold storage plant to be erected in Sanford. The idea has never received serious consideration and the growers ought to think enough about their own business to look into the matter and give it a fair trial. The vegetable season is almost at its height and a few crates of celery and lettuce could be put on storage now and left for thirty or sixty days and then shipped north just to try out the feasibility of the idea. If it is good we can adopt it another year, if bad discard it.

DON'T DELAY THE GAME The Herald is not in favor of the state executive committee holding another meeting to change the date of the primary in order that a few dilatory voters can have thirty days longer to pay their poll tax. They have been importuned by the newspapers, by circulars, by personal officials and by word of mouth to pay their poll tax by March 9th, and if any of them have failed to do so they are not good citizens and have not the welfare of the nation at heart. If there is a voter today who cannot afford to pay his poll tax what good will thirty days' extension of time do him? At the end of thirty days he will be in the same financial condition, and the easiest way out is to marshal all the voters at once, make a canvass, tell the delinquents once more about the necessity of paying now, and then leave them to their fate. It is a poor man indeed who must wait thirty days longer to scrape up a dollar. Get over with the agony and save the candidates the unnecessary expense of a larger canvass. Pay your poll tax now and get it out of the way.

BEACHAM FOR CONGRESS Hon. Braxton Beacham is making a quiet, unostentatious campaign for Congressman at Large. He is not making any charges against his opponents and having a clean record is not forced to defend it. Claude L'Engle of Dixie and Albert Williamson of the Floridian, both of them candidates for Congress, are busy showing up the records of their opponents and are forced to acknowledge that Mr. Beacham is a successful business man and they know of no valid reason why he should not be elected to Congress. The worst they can say of him is that he has never served the people and they strain themselves trying to show what they have done and how much the people owe them.

Beacham makes the race from the common people's standpoint. He is not a lawyer, not an editor, not a politician. The people owe him nothing and he comes before them with the solid platform of Good Roads and Better Transportation Facilities for Florida. The people can easily digest the few facts inculcated in Beacham's platform. He needs no organ to play his songs of what he has accomplished. His success in life from a poor Georgia cracker to the pinnacle which he has attained stamps him a man of good business judgment and fully capable of handling the people's business at the nation's capital. He is fully capable of fighting the people's battles because he has always been one of them and has successfully fought his own.

While we all agree with the editors that they have proved themselves champions of the right we do not agree on the point that the state owes them an office for this work or that they could do any more for interior Florida than Beacham who wants good roads and more navigable streams and better transportation facilities.

A CITY'S MOST DEADLY PARASITE In Saturday's Evening Record was published a communication disclosing a most undesirable state of affairs in regard to the selling of real estate. Full proof was given that there are some people in the Ancient City—a very few, the Evening Record hopes—who do all possible to discourage investors and desirable citizens. Nearly every real estate man in the city has passed through the experience—practically closed a deal, and then lost it because the would-be purchaser has been told that the property wasn't worth anything and that the town is going to the everlasting bow-wow next week or sometime.

The few people to blame for this are the most deadly parasites that any city can have. Even as a parasite saps the life of a valuable fruit tree so does a person of character sap the life of a city, stunting and killing if permitted to go unchecked.

The man who knocks his home city to the would-be newcomer is the same one who howls against paying his taxes, who is always "agin' the government." State county or national, who might as well live at the north pole for all he is able to know that the sun is shining and that life is worth living in Florida and St. Augustine.

He is a deadly parasite. He is the king of pessimists. No one knows what happiness and joy of life is unless he is an optimist. Optimism is contagious. It is positive inoculation against pessimism. Optimists—boosters—are what St. Augustine needs. The more optimism, the more boosting—the greater and more prosperous will our city be.—St. Augustine Record

Missionary Society Meets The Missionary Society of the Presbyterian church held their regular meeting Monday afternoon at the residence of Mrs. O. B. Singletary. After the regular business had been attended to the election of officers followed. The members then enjoyed a social half hour together and the dainty refreshments served by the hostess.

For County Treasurer To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce myself a candidate for the office of County Treasurer. In asking your support in the coming primary election for this very important place, which is to be given to some one by the Democratic voters of this county, and if you can see your way clear to honor me with this place, I promise you that I will at all times and under all circumstances strictly guard your interests as far as lies in my power. Yours very truly, J. H. TERRY.

I am a candidate for the office of Treasurer of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912. Your support will be appreciated. F. MUR T. SULLIVAN.

For Sheriff James A. Kirkwood announces his candidacy for re-election to the office of Sheriff of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912.

I am a candidate for the office of Sheriff of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held April 30, 1912. Having served in the capacity of deputy sheriff of the county for a number of years and being familiar with the duties of the same I feel that I can leave the question of my ability entirely to the voters of Orange county. CHAS. M. HARR.

I wish to announce to the voters of Orange County, that I will be a candidate for the office of Sheriff for said county, subject to the primary to be held April 30th 1912. And pledge myself to carry out the law without fear or favor to any one, and special privileges to none. I respectfully ask your support. Respectfully, FRANCIS KAPPL.

For Tax Assessor I announce my candidacy for election to the office of Tax Assessor of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30th, 1912. ARTHUR BURN.

For County Solicitor To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce my candidacy for re-appointment to the office of county solicitor of Orange county, subject to the coming Democratic primary. Should I be so fortunate as to secure recommendation for re-appointment for another term of office, it will be my earnest endeavor at all times to perform the duties incumbent upon me, faithfully and fearlessly to the best of my ability. Wm. DeCote, County Solicitor.

To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Solicitor, subject to the action of the Democratic Primary and respectfully ask for your support. W. E. SMITH.

For Tax Collector I hereby announce myself as a candidate for re-election to the office of Tax Collector of Orange County, subject to the Democratic Primary. If elected I pledge to you my faithful service as I have endeavored to give in the past. W. E. MARTIN.

For County Judge I hereby announce my candidacy for re-election to the position of County Judge of Orange County, subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912. WILLIAM MARTIN.

I hereby announce myself a candidate for re-appointment to the office of Judge of the Criminal Court of Orange County subject to the action of the Democratic Primary. I. PATRICK WARLOW.

For State Attorney To the Democratic Voters of the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Florida: I hereby announce that I am a candidate for re-appointment as State Attorney for the Seventh Judicial Circuit of Florida, subject to the action of the Democratic primary in April, 1912. You have honored me with this office and I have endeavored to deserve your confidence in me by doing my duty to the best of my ability. If reappointed, I pledge you to do all in my power to uphold and order in our circuit, with prejudice to none and with fairness to all. Thanking you for past kindness, I respectfully ask your support again. JOHN C. JONES, State Attorney.

For Superintendent of Public Instruction To the Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce that I am a candidate for the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction to succeed myself, subject to the action of the approaching Democratic primary. I feel that I am peculiarly fitted for this office by educational qualification, and by experience in management of similar and large schools, and in dealing with teachers, by natural temperament and love for the work and by familiarity with the details and the general demands of the office acquired during my present incumbency. If elected to the office the educational interests of the county will be upon my heart, and I will endeavor in every way to be faithful to the trust imposed. J. F. McKNOWN.

For Clerk Circuit Court I announce my candidacy for the position of Clerk of the Circuit Court of Orange county subject to the decision of the Democratic primary to be held on April 30, 1912. Having served the county in this capacity for a number of years I again ask for the suffrage of the people. My past record is my best recommendation. B. M. ROBINSON.

For State Legislature I will be a candidate for re-election to the State Legislature from Orange county, subject to the decision of the Democratic primary held April 30th. Having served the people of the county for one term in this office gives me the benefit of experience as a legislator and the knowledge acquired by this service gives me a better opportunity to work for my constituency during another term in the Legislature. FREDERICK LARK.

To the Democratic Voters of Orange County: I hereby announce that I am a candidate before the approaching primary for member of the Legislature from this county. If elected I will represent you ably and honestly and will endeavor to return to you a record that will meet with your hearty approval. Respectfully, GEORGE T. J. J.

For Representative in the Legislature of the state of Florida, for Orange county. SAMUEL A. ROBINSON.

For County Commissioner I will be a candidate for re-election to the office of County Commissioner of Orange County subject to the decision of the Democratic Primary held April 30th, 1912. FRANK WENGER.

Fortunate Pribiloff Islanders. A curious and interesting people are the Pribiloff Islanders in Bering sea. When the United States government took over the islands, along with Alaska the Russian colonists became in a measure wards of the nation, but they have remained true to the influence to which they were first subjected, and in some respects are today more Russian than American at heart. All of them are members of the Russian church, and all of them have Russian names, selected for the most part from among the nobility. The United States government has in this instance been a faithful guardian of a primitive people. The result is that today they are the most highly civilized best clothed, best fed, and most healthy of all the natives of Alaska.

Home Influence on Writing. Environment has been held responsible for many human frailties, but it is only lately that it has had to shoulder the blame for poor handwriting. "Even more than temperament and copy books environment influences a child's handwriting," said a handwriting expert. "If he sees a fashionable writing or a clear business hand on tables and desks at home he will imitate that unconsciously. If only an uneducated scrawl meets him there, he, too, will scrawl, let his instruction at school be ever so thorough."

Friday Dickens' Lucky Day. Charles Dickens was not one of those who are superstitious concerning Friday. It was on Friday that many of the good things came to him, and it was on that day that he entered upon, paid the price and took possession of Gads Hill, the one thing he cherished more than all of his other possessions. It was Gads Hill that he had gazed upon when a wee bit of a boy, with a hope then giving little signs of fruition, that he might live to own it some day; and it was Gads Hill whose walls he covered with mirrors in almost Oriental magnificence.—Boston Record.

The Kidnaped King

NARRATIVE OF
CAPTAIN ADAMS
"Detective-Diplomat"

By H. M. EGBERT

(Copyright, by W. G. Chapman.)
NOW have to recount one of the most extraordinary of all the episodes that occurred during my work as courier to his majesty, King Edward the Seventh. This was the event of that fearful week of suspense and anguish in the spring of 1909, when his majesty was supposed to be at Biarritz, in Spain, recuperating after the English winter.

Needless to say, he was not in Biarritz then. He was, as a matter of fact—but let my story speak for itself.

At this period the relations existing between Great Britain and Germany were strained to the utmost. It was an open secret, among that small body of citizens of both countries that does not take its news from the papers, that war between the two states was imminent, and that it was to be declared by England. In fact, his majesty, believing that the increase in the German armaments was a direct menace to England, had resolved to begin hostilities before Easter.

I was then living in chambers in Half Moon street, Piccadilly. I had not been requisitioned by the government for several weeks, but I waited for a summons, and as the affair grew more serious and the prospects of peace darker, I knew that I might at any moment find myself called upon for immediate service upon some delicate mission. I was not surprised, therefore, when a royal landau appeared at the door of my house one morning and a cockaded footman, ascending the stairs, requested my instant presence before Prince George of Wales at Buckingham palace, where he was residing, having come up for Easter from White house, his suburban lodge at Richmond.

I was driven to the palace with all possible speed. Although I always discounted my experiences in advance, I was not prepared to find Prince George, usually the most immaculate of men, seated before an open grate fire in the library of his apartment, wrapped in a dressing gown, his eyes red, his hair disordered, while the table in front of him was heaped with cigar butts. At his side stood the king's secretary, the genial and garrulous Lord Knowles. The poor old gentleman was completely disconcerted and, sunk into a chair much too big for him, seemed like a feeble, elderly man.

When I entered the prince sprang to his feet and greeted me warmly, with self-possession. "Sit down, Captain Adams!" he began. "This is the most terrible business—" But he was interrupted by the entrance of a uniformed attendant.

"His excellency the German ambassador requests instant audience," he said, saluting.

"Tell him to go to the devil," cried Prince George heartily.

"His excellency the German ambassador demands instant audience, in the absence of the de facto head of the state," the attendant repeated mechanically.

I understand that, in accordance with diplomatic privileges, the ambassador was within his rights. The prince recognized this too. Hastily he threw off his dressing gown and robed himself in his frock coat. A moment later the ambassador was claiming audience.

"I hope the occasion justifies your demanding audience at this early hour," said the prince irritably.

"Yes, sir," the ambassador answered. "I am instructed by my government to ask your intentions in concentrating a large naval force in the German ocean."

"If you mean the North sea," the prince replied, "I must refer you to the king, my father."

"Ah, but where is the king?" asked the ambassador, smiling.

"You know!" shouted the prince, losing patience. "You have made a treacherous attack upon the person of my sovereign in time of peace, to hold him hostage. Do you think you will thus prevent the just anger of an outraged people?"

I saw the ambassador's face turn purple.

"Yes, I am not ignorant of what has occurred," he answered. "I shall report your accusation to my government. And with regard to the fleet in the German ocean—"

"Our fleet will sail up and down the North sea and wherever it chooses," Prince George shouted. Lord Knowles, alarmed, arose and came toddling up between the two men, but the ambassador, with a low bow, withdrew through the doorway. The prince sat down and mopped his brow.

"Now, Captain Adams," he said presently, "there is no time to lose. Let me acquaint you with the facts. Yesterday afternoon his majesty, my father, was strolling in the grounds of White house, Richmond, where I reside. He had motored down and, dismissing his suite, had wandered among the ornamental shrubberies until he was lost to sight. Suddenly the gentlemen in waiting were astonished to see a large dirigible gas balloon approaching from the east, swoop downward from the skies with astonishing celerity and come to a halt some three hundred yards away, just where his majesty was strolling. For a moment they were paralyzed with astonishment; then they heard the king's voice and ran to his aid. As they neared the spot the balloon rose suddenly into the air, carrying with it the king, whose form and features were plainly visible. The other man in the basket was seen to be detaining him; the balloon shot upward into the skies and, before anything could be done, was nothing but a blur in the distance. In short, my father was kidnaped."

"But the motive?" I interjected.

"That, Captain Adams, is known to us. The instrument is none other than the mysterious German machine which has been frightening all England at night by its mysterious journeyings. The German government undoubtedly obtained information of our plans in connection with them, and, by kidnaping our sovereign, to hold him as a hostage for peace."

"And you have heard nothing more?" I asked.

"On the contrary," answered Prince George, "though, fortunately, the public believes that his majesty has departed for Biarritz, confidential requests for information as to the whereabouts of the balloon have been sent out to all the counties and to ships at sea. The miscreant was seen above the town of Ipswich, late last evening, flying low and burning red lights—doubtless as a signal to German vessels at sea. Now it is morally certain that he is making for the German coast, and yet, had he crossed the North sea, he would have been sighted by our patrol boats, which are strung out all along the English coast, from the Tyne to Southend, while the whole heavens are lit up by searchlights. No, the German seems to have disappeared into space. And yet, had he come to earth, he would have been discovered. I cannot make it out."

"I can tell you why he has not yet crossed the North sea," I interposed. "Doubtless his gas bag will not need replenishing for several days—with the new material almost all leakage can be prevented. And so he is sailing in the upper air, waiting for a chance to cross to Germany."

"A chance?" he cried.

"Yes. No dirigible made could face the easterly gale that has been blowing this last 24 hours."

"True," cried the prince, leaping to his feet. "Then what can we do?"

"We can go in pursuit of him," I answered.

"If we had but an aeroplane, which could be free from restraints of wind, we could run him to earth within a day. Reports will be coming in—but has the government no machine?"

The prince touched a bell. "Ask Mr. Haldane to come here immediately," he told the page who answered.

Mr. Haldane, the war minister, had been in attendance at the palace for the past week. He came in promptly, rubbing his hands nervously, a nervous look upon his sleek, comfortable features. He nodded to me frigidly; since I had been attached to his majesty's relations between us had been but frigid. He deemed me to be a common spy, I believe.

"Where is the army war aeroplane?" asked the prince.

"In care of the aero expert at Aldershot," the war secretary answered.

"Captain Adams," said the prince, turning to me, "I place you in charge of this affair. Do anything you think fit. The balloon is at your disposal."

"Pardon me," interposed the war minister, not too suavely, "but I think—"

"Haldane, give Captain Adams your authorization," interrupted the prince.

"I cannot," said the war minister doggedly. "I am responsible to parliament—"

"Good God! Is this a time to talk of parliament?" cried the prince, losing his temper. Then he sprang toward me. "By heaven, I'll go with you," he cried. "I'll see if they'll refuse to carry out my orders! Knowles! Knowles! Wake up, man. Please have my touring car brought round to the front of the palace in 15 minutes. I want a portmanteau packed. Hurry! Hurry!"

Punctually a quarter of an hour later we were spinning out of the palace yard, amid the cheers of the few who had assembled around the gates, and were taking the quickest cut for Aldershot, the chief military encampment. Mounted police sprang forward and drew back discreetly at sight of the prince's arms upon the vehicle. In ten minutes we were speeding through the heart of leafy Surrey. In less than an hour and a half we came in sight of the military encampment and were slackening speed before the headquarters of General French, the commander-in-chief, who had been advised by telegraph of our approach. He was waiting to welcome us and, having greeted the prince, put a telegram into his hands. It was from Chester. The balloon had been seen, apparently blown out of her course before the strong wind, but now the gale was slackening and she was beating up eastward.

"We can catch him yet if the aeroplane is working," said Prince George. General French was acquainted with the facts. He nodded.

"If," he said, "But can you steer it? Captain Cody, the American who has it in care, is on leave. He is hurrying back from the continent, but cannot return until tomorrow. Who can drive it?"

"His assistant?" cried the prince. "He's had none since Peake left last week."

"Who the devil's Peake?" cried the prince.

"A damned Yankee," cried the general, nettled. "A Yankee assistant of Captain Cody, and the only other man who could drive the thing. He pestered us for six months to buy a new machine of his invention. When we refused to look at it he ended by threatening. He swore he'd teach the war office of England a lesson they'd never forget for not giving his new dirigible a trial. He said it was ten times as good as the aeroplane here that Cody's developing. Said the dirigible could outrace and outlast the aeroplane any time. We didn't want to lose him, but he got too violent, and he was discharged last week and went away, taking his machine with him and threatening vengeance."

"Let me try to drive the aeroplane," I urged.

"Impossible," said General French gravely.

"But damn it, man, we've got to catch the German before he reaches the east coast!"

"Too much at stake," the general answered. "It would take weeks to learn the mechanism. The machine would be smashed to atoms, even if she rose at all, and—"

He stopped short. There was a thunder of hoofs behind us and, as we turned our heads, we saw a man spring from the back of a swiftly-galloping horse and fall at our feet.

"Cody, by heaven!" the general cried. "How did you make the passage? There was no boat; you're the devil!"

"I borrowed Farman's aero in Paris and ran her over to Dover," he answered. "Then train and race horse. Never mind. Can I sleep, or do you want me?"

"Take out the machine," yelled the general, clasping his hand. "Here! get a bite to eat first and I'll tell you."

"Tell him all, general," said the prince. He turned to me. "You will accompany Captain Cody?"

I took out my watch.

"It's ten minutes past two," I answered. "The dirigible should be beating over the midlands. The wind is dropping. Sir, if the skies do not cloud I can pledge my word to you he shall never reach Germany."

"But how will you find him?" the prince asked.

"One can see half across England at an altitude well within our limits," I reminded him.

"Good!" cried the prince enthusiastically.

"I want two rifles, cartridges and a week's rations for two men," I said to General French, who had returned and was directing the removal of the aeroplane from her shed. A couple of soldiers were wheeling her out along a rail. She rocked and tipped—a slender, graceful thing, apparently land-bound, like some swan upon earth, longing to spread her broad wings in the empyrean.

At an order from the general rifles, rations and cartridges were placed within the box. Captain Cody returned, wiping his mouth. He was dressed in a buffalo robe and staggering behind him under the weight of another came an orderly.

"You'll be glad of this up above," he said. "It's colder than sin." He looked in the tank. "Gasoline for seven hours," he said. "By thunder, we must fill up again if he leads us anything of a chase. Get in, comrade."

I had never entered an aeroplane before; I had not even been up in a balloon. I confess a thrill of fear ran through me. But I strapped on a bandolier full of cartridges and entered the narrow framework, to take my seat upon the narrow space allotted to me. Just then a man came running with a telegraphic dispatch. It was addressed to General French, but the prince tore it open. "Huntingdon, he read. 'Dirigible sighted, two thousand up. Heading northeast. Gale increasing.' By thunder, general, we'll get him yet." Suddenly his face grew grave. "Captain Adams," he said, "you will be careful of your cartridges?"

BIG RALLY FOR MEN

NEXT SUNDAY NIGHT

I understood. "I will not shoot unless in the utmost extremity," I answered. I knew that he was thinking of his father. But a more serious danger he had not thought of. What if, hard pressed, the German should throw his companion overboard, as so much ballast, and fly to safety? Well, though the chance was slim, we could but do our utmost. And a few bullets through the gas bag should bring the great dirigible slowly to earth.

My musings were interrupted by a rush of wind. Could it be possible that we were away? The earth seemed to rush downward. The camp grew rapidly remote. We tipped and swung on every vagrant breeze, but gradually ascended until the strong gale from the east caught us and sent us spinning northward. The sensation was distinctly one of fear at first, but this was soon lost in wonder. And now I realized indeed how it would have been impossible for me, unaided, even to have launched the machine into space. Captain Cody, at my side, rode her like a yacht or a blesie, or perhaps a combination of these, rising and falling upon the eddies of the wind. Under us a dark shadow began to spread.

"Fog!" cried the captain, pointing downward. "London. We must rise higher."

Up, up, up we went until the aneroid registered 2,000 feet. We were scudding in the void, a furious wind from the east sustaining and lifting us.

"Even we could never face that gale," said Cody. "He will not try in his gas bag. He will put about and make for the Yorkshire moors. And on the Humber we overhaul him."

He seemed to speak prophetically. London was left behind us. Far below towns and villages were spread out in endless panorama. And still we were far short of our destination. The day began to close in.

Finally our gasoline all but exhausted, we came to earth in a disheartened state of mind, to find that we were on the outskirts of Lincoln. We filled up in the garage of a village, while gaping rustics stood surrounding us in awe. A guard was placed round the machine and a telegram sent to Aldershot.

"There's one consolation," said Cody as he paced the corridor of the restlessly, "he can't have made head way against that wind."

An hour later an answer was received from headquarters. It read:

"Dirigible sighted Lancashire, bearing north. Apparently abandoned hope cross North Sea. Follow!"

Ten minutes later we were in our seats again and speeding northward through the darkness. I need say nothing of that night. It seems like a horrible dream now—the flight through the darkness, the sudden squall that struck us in the lake country and sent us hurtling downward for a thousand feet before Cody regained control; the halt, to find ourselves at Appleton; the answer to our telegram at seven in the morning, desperately late, telling us to hasten northward. We would overhaul him in Scotland; he had been sighted in Argyll.

What was his purpose in this apparently desperate flight northward? And how could the King, an elderly man, endure his cramped quarters in that narrow car, exposed to the inclement weather of early April? With brimful tanks and empty hearts we pursued our desolate way northward, ever northward. Now we had reached the barren wastes of South Scotland. And then, suddenly, my heart leaped. I clasped Cody by the arm and pointed. Far north of us a tiny speck was beating eastward against the gales.

Cody shouted and I cried back at him in ecstasy. I reached backward and slung the rifle to my arm. I opened the breech and inserted a clip of cartridges. And we beat our way onward.

Now the dirigible evidently perceived us and guessed who we were, for we saw it cease suddenly its attempted eastward flight and head northward again. We ran at full speed. I heard the motor plunging frantically behind us; in front the icy blasts nipped our faces. But, though we dipped and swung to every breeze, in front, almost immobile to appearance in its steady flight, the dirigible ran northward.

By noon we had gained little, if at all. Cody turned to me. "I'm going to drop," he said. "There's a south wind, a cross-current, 500 feet below. See those geese riding in it?"

I looked down. Under us, riding easily upon the wind a V-shaped flock of large birds were bearing steadily south. Cody depressed the steering plane. We sank with fearful suddenness. Then—we seemed to leap forward. In ten minutes our gain was evident. The dirigible was not more than a mile ahead and rapidly increasing. She seemed in terror, began to swing aimlessly hither and thither. Five minutes more! Cody whooped exultantly. Then

The motor which had whirred like an electric fan, chugged loudly and irregularly. We seemed to stop, hung poised, swooped downward. The motor had ceased. We rushed down—or rather the earth seemed to leap up at us. Cody raised the steering gear. That saved us, he gulped her gently to the ground. Near to stood a little village of stone, ringing a low hill.

"Gasoline exhausted," yelled Cody, pointing to the dirigible, now rapidly lessening in the north. "No chance—get gasoline here. She'll burn off great soot." We ran panting toward the village. Five minutes later we were at the door of the inn, an excited crowd around us.

"Oil," gasped Cody. "Paraffin, any quantity?"

"We've no paraffin," cried the innkeeper. "We burn coals tonight. Ye'll no find paraffin north o' Glasgow. Except a little gasoline for the motor cars. Now if ye had wanted that—"

That saved us. Half an hour after the disaster our tanks were filled and we were away. And in the distance, a little speck still hung between heaven and earth.

But this time there could be no escape. Little by little we drew nearer. Now, through my glasses, I could make out the ear, long and low—and a figure that reclined in it and another that leaned back at us and shook its fist in impotent defiance. I unslung my rifle.

"Fifteen hundred," cried Cody. "Aim high for the bag."

I fired. I saw the fugitive raise rifle to shoulder too. And something hissed overhead and a splinter fell from the wooden frame of the aeroplane.

"Thirteen," cried Cody. Suddenly the dirigible changed tactics. She swung in a wide circle and came directly toward us. This was madness—gas against steel. I fired four times; I saw the dirigible falter, hover, poised, and begin slowly to subside. Her bag was pierced in several places. I dared fire no more, for fear of sending her in collapse to the ground with her precious burden.

We were right over them when he fired again. We were some 1,500 feet up, and 200 above the slowly sinking dirigible. I heard Cody give a cry, looked round, saw the blood spurt from his sleeve and his right arm fall from the steering gear. An instant later a breeze struck us and tipped us. The aeroplane wheeled, swung like a condor that is caught by an unexpected breeze, and suddenly rushed earthward at a furious speed. I saw a mocking face that peered out at me from the dirigible as we swooped past, and fired my last cartridge at it. The ground swept up toward us—and stayed! Cody had caught the steering gear with his uninjured hand.

Five minutes later we stood on the solid ground and watched the dirigible, like a wounded bird, drop gently earthward. From the tent silk the gas was escaping slowly. We caught the guy rope and pulled her down like a floating feather. There, within, lay the king, in the bottom of the car. But it was not for him that Cody cried, but at sight of the wounded man beside him who clung desperately to the car rim.

"Peake!" he shouted. "Yes, Peake," he answered, staggering where he stood. "I told 'em I'd teach the war office a lesson they'd never forget for not looking at my machine!"

"Well, Peake," said Cody, "you've tried her against mine and lost out with her."

Peake stepped out like a drunken man. His face was ashen.

"W-w-wouldn't have lost it—I'd had as light a passenger as you," he answered, and fell fainting at our feet.

There were many who would have brought Peake to trial for his adventure, and it was thought for long that he was, in fact, a German agent. But it seemed to me that the German ambassador had actually known nothing of the kidnapping until told by confederates among King Edward's suite, and that, learning his country was suspected, he had shrewdly refused to deny his share in the conspiracy, thereby actually gaining his object in postponing the declaration of war. Before his majesty could be removed to London assurances had been given and received by Germany, and the disaster was averted. But when I think how a half-crazy American saved the peace of Europe I often wonder whether he should not have been rewarded instead of shipped out of the country as a criminal lunatic.

For State Senator—Arthur E. Donegan

I have served the people of my county at various times as deputy tax collector, deputy clerk of the circuit court, member of the state executive committee and clerk of the circuit court, and I have discharged the duties of each office I have held in a manner which I trust has met with the hearty endorsement of my people, and if elected as your state senator, I will use my best efforts to promote such legislation as is needed by the people and the varied interests in this senatorial district.

In asking you to elect me as state senator I believe that I know the needs in a legislative way of this district as well, perhaps, as anyone in the district, and I believe I can represent you in the state senate in a manner that will be entirely satisfactory to you.

Book Lovers Club
The Book Lovers' Club was entertained by Mrs. Fred Williams Thursday afternoon. A very interesting magazine contest was prepared by Mrs. Williams for the entertainment of her guests. A list of the names of persons, places and objects suggestive of the names of several well known and popular magazines of the day were distributed. The object of the contest was to ascertain which member of the club could give the largest number of magazines the names of which were suggested by the list of names given them by the hostess. Mrs. Geo. Fox, Jr., was the fortunate winner of the contest and also the prize, a handsome silver teaspoon. The consolation prize a bunch of lovely roses was received by Mrs. H. Ward. After the contest was over, a delicious salad course was served, followed by refreshing orange punch, served in orange cups, with dainty cakes. Mrs. J. O. Jackard, Mrs. F. F. Dutton, Mrs. W. T. Fields were Mrs. Williams specially invited guests to meet with the club, the members of which who were present were Mesdames Chas. H. Dingee, R. J. Holly, F. L. Woodruff, H. McLaulin, Ernest Tolar, Geo. Fox, Jr., H. Ward, Luke.

Ball Association Dance
Quite a good crowd attended the dance given in the city hall Monday evening, under the auspices of the Ball Association. Everything conspired to make it an enjoyable occasion. The management of the dances was all that could be desired, the floor in good condition for dancing and the music furnished by the Carnival Italian Band was charming and delightfully inspiring. A variety of delicious cakes and ice cream, for the refreshment of the dancers, was on sale during the evening.

Black and White vs. White and Black.
For many years a large department store has spent thousands of dollars on placards with which almost every article of merchandise is ticketed throughout the store, and only within a short time did they realize the amount of money that was being wasted in using the white cardboard with black lettering.

These white cards soon became soiled and shop worn if allowed to remain in place any length of time. The cards which are handled by customers in bins, trays, etc., are even more so. By substituting the black cardboard with white lettering this store has overcome this difficulty to a very great extent. The show cards are always clean, fresh and bright-looking and they last many times as long, saving the firm several hundred dollars in the course of a year.—Business.

"Grandfather" Clock 200 Years Old.
A remarkable hand made clock is in the possession of the Swedish Lutheran Orphanage at Avon, Mass. It is one of the old "grandfather" type and consists of 13,000 pieces. It was made about 200 years ago by Henry Haven and is still running. The works are of wood, the case a handsome check-board of inlay work, the material mahogany and white boxwood. Henry Haven was several years completing it. Two heavy weights and two bob weights are the only metal in the works. The clock was in the possession of the Blanchese estate of Avon for generations. When the property was sold for a Swedish orphanage the clock went with other furniture to the new owner.

Big Trade in Frozen Meat.
Argentina supplies 90 per cent. of the frozen beef and frozen mutton consumed in Sheffield, England. Australia and New Zealand provide the remainder. Its use is constantly increasing. Frozen meat is never sawed, but it chopped with a cleaver. The retailers receive the meat in quarters which they chop into angular blocks, from which the quantities desired by customers are cut. These blocks afford material for fine window displays, and the windows of frozen-meat shops are generally piled high with all sizes and shapes of solid red beef.

An Absolutely Free Show.
Aviation is the small boy's delight. He can sit on a fence and watch the show for nothing; nor does he have to carry water for the elephant.

Words Modernized.
The thimble was originally known as a thumb bell. "Variat" is the same word as "vase" and each is an offshoot of the feudal "vassal."

Finland Appeals to Tourist.
Finland, with its thousand lakes, is now considered attractive enough to be on the general tourist's list.

IN SANFORD—Life is Worth Living

SANFORD, FLORIDA, FRIDAY, MARCH 5, 1912

Volume IV

ALL AROUND FLORIDA

The General News of The Land of Flowers.

CULLED FROM THE STATE PRESS

An Epitome of the Week's Most Important Happenings in the State's Domain.

Tallahassee is now busy laying water mains, grading the streets and otherwise preparing for the mile or more of vitrified paving that is to be done there.

News comes from Lakeland now that strawberry shipments are going forward heavily now and splendid prices are being obtained. Prices received in the northern markets vary between 50 and 75 cents, which is fine for this time of year.

A $25,000 monument is to be erected in one of the parks in Jacksonville as Florida's tribute to the heroism and sacrifices made by the women of the Confederacy. When completed this monument is to be the handsomest of its kind south of the St. Johns and Dixon line. In a short time the design of the monument will be placed on exhibition in Jacksonville.

The University of Florida base ball team won Tuesday's game from Rollins College at Winter Park by a score of 4 to 1. Shaw and Terry were the battery for Florida, Pratt and Pike for Rollins. The Florida boys have played four games since leaving Gainesville last week—two with Stetson and two with Rollins—and the honors were divided, the men under Coach McLeod winning one game from each of the opposing teams.

Base Ball Dope

There has been no little activity in the camp of the local base ball management during the last two weeks, and before very long we will see Mr. Lam and Miss Rooster perched in the grandstand hot house and happy.

And speaking of the grand stand, Pres. Spencer and Manager Stevens tell us that they want to build a new one, larger and more comfortable, and that all they require is the financial support of the local base ball enthusiasts. This is only one of the many contemplated improvements, all of which depend entirely on the public.

The object of the management is to make up the team of as many local ball players as can make good, thereby increasing the interest by having Sanford boys representing Sanford and to a large degree getting away from the professionalism as far as our home talent will permit. Quite a few local future greats have asked for a try out and as soon as the diamond is sufficiently dry, Father Wallace will have his volunteer crew out and putting them through their paces.

The Herald has its ear close to the ground and will give its readers the news, hot off the bat and in a big league style.

P. S. No Diamond Dust today. Wet grounds.

Orlando Man Missing

Orlando, March 5.—John McQuarters, one of the city mail carriers, left home on Sunday telling his wife he was going to Sanford and has not been seen or heard from since that time.

He did not notify Postmaster O'Neil that he was going and the service has been crippled somewhat by his absence and no information as to his whereabouts has come to his wife or parents, who live in this vicinity. His wife reports that he has been somewhat dissatisfied with his job and has been more or less despondent at times.

It is also reported that he has been reading a great number of Socialist books and papers of late.

His family does not, up to this time, fear that he has met with any accident, but are greatly troubled and uneasy about him. His friends at Sanford report that he has not been seen by them. The anxiety of his friends will increase as time goes by and no word comes from him.

The Wednesday Club

The Wednesday Club are invited to meet at the studio of Mrs. Munson Wednesday afternoon, Mar. 13th, promptly at 3 o'clock. Mrs. Munson will give her paper on "Scandinavian Music" with "Illustrative Music Selections." She respectfully urges the members of the club to be there promptly at 3 o'clock, as she desires to begin her program at that hour.

A NERVOUS THIEF

Smashes Window Of Palmer & Seig And Steals Clothing

Palmer & Seig have such a good brand of clothing that a party of parties unknown broke the large plate glass window in their store on Tuesday night and extracted three suits of clothes, two shirts and a belt. The act was a very nervous one as the store is in the heart of the city and the window was smashed by a large bolt being thrown against it. The beat of the policemen had evidently been closely watched and when they went to meet the train as is their custom the thief had a clear field for his operations. The act was evidently accomplished during the heavy downpour of rain as people living in the vicinity of the store although awake heard nothing of the noise that the following glass must have made. The party evidently needed clothing badly to execute such a bold stroke this class of work usually being done in a jewelry window or some business where the robbery would fully compensate the thief for the risk.

Big Rally Sunday Night

No pains are being spared to make a success of the big rally for men next Sunday night. The organization committee in charge of the big meeting represents the five Protestant churches of Sanford under the Men's Religion and Forward Movement. All the congregations of the city will unite in the one meeting at the theatre.

Mr. Marcus C. Fagg of Jacksonville, state superintendent of the Children's Home Society of Florida, will be the leading speaker taking for his subject, "The Need of a Social Conscience." Five minute addresses will follow from Messrs. D. I. Thrasher, B. I. Whitney, S. J. Perkins, A. R. Chappell and G. B. Waldron. Music will be furnished by a men's choir, aided by an orchestra of eight pieces. Mr. C. Walker will preside.

While the meeting is designated as a Men's Rally, a most cordial invitation is extended to the women and children. Every body is welcome. At the theatre next Sunday night at 7:30.

Helping Hand Society

The members of the Helping Hand Society of the Baptist church held their regular meeting at the home of Miss Martha Fox Tuesday evening. A very fine attendance of the society was present with water conditions.

The guests were entertained with a delightful musical program consisting of vocal and instrumental selections followed by a musical contest. A pretty little music story was told with the exception of blanks to be supplied with appropriate musical terms. The prize, a pretty little letter opener, was won by Miss Ruth Stewart who had the largest number of correctly filled in blanks.

The charming young hostess served a delicious fruit salad, sandwiches and coffee.

Harry On The Job

The Herald takes pleasure in announcing to its readers that Harry Earnest will again handle the base ball dope for this paper during the season. There is no better or more fluent writer or a man who more thoroughly understands the national game than Harry, and his whole souled desire to assist by giving the team plenty of publicity is appreciated by the management. He will have entire charge of the sporting page and whatever he says will go. If you don't agree with him tell your troubles to Harry.

Fine Display of Photos

W. H. Leigh the photographer who is making extensive improvements in the old Ensminger studio has a display in the window of his place that is attracting most favorable comment. The photos and crayons show the touch of an artist's hand and if Mr. Leigh can produce this grade of work in his new studio he will get a large patronage. He expects to open his studio in a few weeks and will have most elegant quarters.

West Side Meeting

The regular meeting of the West Side Improvement Society was held at the Robbins Nest yesterday at 3 p. m. After the regular business was transacted plans were proposed for improvements. A social half hour was spent. Meeting adjourned to meet again the first Thursday in April.

Editor of Reporter Star Makes Trip Through the Mud

THROWS ROQUETS AT SANFORD

Cities of Sanford And Orlando Are All Right But Separated By "Gulf of Mud"

A Reporter-Star man visited Sanford today, and while not surprised, was delighted to see the growth, hustle and prosperity of our neighboring city.

Vegetables, especially celery are on the move and fine prices are being realized. One grower having shipped and received his pay for the crop of ten acres amounting to over twenty thousand dollars. Others have been equally fortunate, and as the celery is being moved, acres and acres are being gotten into shape for other crops to follow.

All available space at the hotels is taken and as soon as rooms are vacated others drop in to fill them. While never before catering to the tourist, Sanford thinks if one not to be disappointed, and an immense hotel is promised before next season opens. With miles of paved streets, as little water as can be found anywhere, an abundance of the finest vegetables grown to be had at all seasons, and beautiful Lake Monroe and the St. Johns on which thousands have entered the Land of Flowers this season, there is no reason in the world why Sanford should not prove to be one of the popular winter resorts of the State, especially with such boosters as Editor Holly of the Herald, who never tires of singing the praises of the Celery City.

And Holly is the only booster to be found in "Lucky Sanford." Every man you meet has something to say of a highly complimentary nature, every bit of which is true.

But Holland the garage man, and distributor of the Overland, one of the best automobiles brought to this section, tells of the great demand for cars, an indication of the prosperity of the section while Hand Brothers, the liverymen, care keep in rigs and saddle horses, the demand from tourists and prospectors being so great.

But between Sanford and Orlando there is a great gulf about as rough a stretch of road as one cares to encounter, each way, in the present season. A dirt road was encountered on this popular highway, which innumerable loaded wagons were passing, all laboring through the mud, consuming double the time that should be taken to say nothing of the wear and tear on engines and teams.

This stretch of road should be of brick or some other material that will stand the wear and tear as the saving on vehicles alone in a few years would far exceed the cost to the county. Not that brick is needed anywhere on this stretch, then, as many other parts of the county, but a thorough fare used to the extent of this connecting the two principal cities of the county and passing through a number of hamlets and villages should be of a material that will stand to an extent the great strain put upon it. While brick roads all over the county will mean millions of wealth to the county, that section between Orlando and Sanford should be kept in condition to accommodate the heavy traffic, which has increased four fold in the last three years and will be ten times as heavy in the next three.—Reporter Star.

Called Out Department

An alarm of fire Wednesday night brought out the auto fire truck on the run and they tore up First street in a way to frighten the oldest inhabitant. The alarm proved to be a small blaze on Sanford avenue that was extinguished before the truck arrived.

Bears In The City

Several "Wops" and cinnamon bears were in the city on Wednesday and made much noise and several runaways. The bears were a trifle dirtier than the "Wops" dogs.

TO THE VOTERS

Tomorrow (Saturday) is your last call to pay your poll taxes in order to vote in the spring primaries. It is up to you now to pay your poll tax and see that your friends do the same. The Sanford people can pay their poll tax at the office of the Marks Real Estate Agency and save time, but pay and pay now. This is the last call.

CELERY AVENUE BRIDGE ASSURED

Steel Drawbridge At East Coast Ferry Will Be Built

From developments here today it would seem that a bridge over the St. Johns river at East Coast Ferry, providing the citizens of Orange county a direct route to the coast is assured.

A company of Volusia county citizens from the New Smyrna district motored over to Orlando this morning and called on the Orange county commissioners in session today, and made a proposition to furnish half the funds for building the bridge, if Orange county would furnish the other half.

The visitors came on behalf of the people of the southern section of Volusia county, who are anxious to boom this route to the coast in preference to the northern route through DeLand.

The Orange county commissioners were disposed to entertain the proposition favorably and instructed the commissioners clerk to secure specifications from bridge builders for submission to the War Department, this detail being necessary before a bridge can be constructed across a navigable stream.

The visitors from Volusia were W. H. Newell, mayor of New Smyrna, W. P. Wilkinson, county commissioner of the New Smyrna district, Messrs. J. H. Hubbard, R. S. Sheldon, R. H. E. Roper, Oscar Lyons and Whitney Hibbard.

The fact that the question of the construction of this bridge has been virtually settled by the visit of this delegation today will be gratifying news to the citizens of this county, and especially the motorists, who have long complained of the hardship of the indirect roads to the coast.

The more tourists that have come into Orange county, the more insistent has been the demand not only for a bridge at East Coast Ferry but for an improved highway thence to New Smyrna.

The authorities of Volusia county have insisted upon ignoring the demands of the southern section of the county in favor of a highway leading through DeLand, for the reason that the northern half of the county being more populous has exerted the most influence.

There has been a movement on foot for quite a while in the New Smyrna district to build the bridge independently of county aid, and that movement has now crystallized into a subscription fund which the visitors here today assured the local commissioners will be ample for all purposes.—Reporter Star.

To Eliminate Mosquitoes

The East Coast country is now in the midst of a campaign for the elimination of the mosquito from Key West to Jacksonville the call is going for the U. S. Marine Hospital corps to duplicate their work in Cuba and Panama.

The East Coast Railroad from President down are enthusiastic and the Pompano board of trade is working to the desired end.

The Shelter Sanatorium is the storm center of the movement and Congressman Frank Clark its titular head.

Elk's House Warming

The Sanford Elks threw wide their hospitable doors Tuesday evening to their families and friends and were the gracious hosts of a delightful house warming and pleasant entertainment. The pleasure of the dance was enjoyed by a large number of the guests. The hospitality of the Elks was very much enjoyed and the evening in every respect was a charming success. A delicious chicken salad course was served.

THE CELERY MOVEMENT

Continues To Bring The Highest Record Prices

OUR GROWERS ARE SELLING HERE

High Prices Are Causing Whole Country To Sit Up And Take Notice Of Us

Thirty-five cars of celery will go forward this week and about fifteen of lettuce. The price of celery remains firm at $3.00 per crate, although several sales are reported that brought $3.25 and $3.50 per crate f. o. b., Sanford.

The entire shipment of celery and lettuce this week will total over $40,000 for the week or about $10,000 more than last week.

Lettuce market is slightly off today and the price per crate will likely go to $1.50 on account of the heavy shipments now leaving other sections of the state but the growers predict that the price will hover around the $1.25 mark during the season and they will be well satisfied if it does not go below the dollar mark.

Some prices this week on celery sound like fairy tales but the figures spell the truth. One of these is the sale of celery by the Colbert Bros. on the West Side where they stand good to receive about $4000 from less than one and one half acres, a price which if the stuff runs as high as reported is certainly a record in the quick fortunes made here.

The prices here this week and the many buyers and visitors look like a rush to the gold field.

Opens His Bible Class

Those who attended the opening session of Professor Maris' Bible Class at the Congregational church last Sunday morning were delighted with his methods. There were about twenty-five present and others have promised to attend. Professor Maris began with the opening words of John's Gospel and so unfolded the subject that the class at once became deeply interested. The class meets at ten in the Peoples church every Sunday morning. A cordial invitation is extended to the public. The Professor has been used to having large classes and there is room for all.

At the morning service Mr. Waldron will attempt to answer the question "Who is my Neighbor?"

Metropolitan Concert Company

It is the generally expressed opinion of those who attended the fine concert given by the Metropolitan Concert Co. at the auditorium of the High School Wednesday evening that was by far the best musical entertainment given by any company in Sanford for a long time. The selections were all fine and perfectly rendered and thoroughly enjoyed by all whose privilege it was to hear them.

Invasion of Candidates

Sanford was honored yesterday by the visit of a bunch of candidates from Orlando among them being B. M. Robinson, Judge Martin, W. E. Martin, Arthur Butts and Phil Slemmons. With the exception of the latter none of these gentlemen have any opposition and they did not wear that worried look that goes with the usually harassed candidate.

Mr. Fagg In Sanford

Mr. Marcus C. Fagg of Jacksonville, who is to be the chief speaker Sunday night at the Men's Rally will speak Sunday morning in the Presbyterian church. His subject in the morning will be the work of the Children's Home Society in Florida. Mr. Fagg spoke at the home of Mrs. Henry Wight this afternoon before a large gathering of ladies. He is the guest of Mrs. Wight, while in the city.
